Ruling could cost Texas millions

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) - The state of Texas could be forced to pay millions of dollars because of a court ruling that certain aliens are eligible for unemployment

In the case of a laid-off sawmill worker, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ruled that aliens "permanently residing in the United States" cannot be denied benefits if they are otherwise qualified to receive them.

Thousands of aliens may be covered by the ruling, stemming from a 1983 complaint filed by Fidel B. Ibarra Jr. of Mexico.

Ibarra was denied unemployment compensation after being laid off from his sawmill job in 1983. A caseworker told Ibarra that he had no right to compensation

The father of nine asked a priest for help, and the priest directed him to East Texas Legal Services Inc. in Nacogdoches.

Ibarra sued the Texas Employment Commission, and recently agreed to a settlement giving certain aliens until April 27 to resubmit once-rejected claims.

Cubans, Haitians, refugees, political-asylum applicants from Central America and other aliens who were denied Texas unemployment benefits from 1983 to 1986 may be included, according to court records and officials involved

City studies fund for flood damage

Big Spring City Council may need to allocate $150,000 to speed the state's grant to repair Comanche Lake Dam and Goliad Street, damaged in the Aug. 30 flood, City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

Allocating the local funds is "just part of the process," Wofford said. adding that he doesn't believe any doubt exists that the city will receive the money.

However, he said, the city's request for state funds - before indicating how city funds will be allocated for the job — may be delaying the grant money.

A letter to Mayor Cotton Mize from Gov. Mark White stated the city would recieve a $650,000 grant for the repairs.

Mize said when the grant was announced in October that he hoped repairs could begin by the first of

Although officials have no idea what repairs to the dam will cost, Wofford said he believes the amount will not exceed $800,000. Officials don't yet know if the Council is expected to allocate the $150,000 at its next regular meeting, scheduled Jan. 6, he said. A breech in the dam during uncommonly heavy rains Aug. 30 released approximately two-thirds of the lake's water, which flooded nearby low-lying areas. The Red Cross has estimated that 68 homes were damaged in the flood, and a Big Spring woman drowned when flood waters swept her vehicle from Birdwell Lane.

Fog slows thousands of year-end travelers

Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Fog shrouded Atlanta's busy international airport for a second day today, delaying flights and stranding thousands of passengers heading home after the Christmas weekend.

Delays of as long as five hours Sunday at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport snarled airline traffic throughout the Southeast.

'We have the same fog, the same delays," airport spokesman John Braden said today.

Forecasters predicted today's fog would lift by mid-day, but Braden said the delays could last all day. "Yesterday it was midnight before they (the delays) were cleared away, and it probably will be today as well.'

Virtually all of Sunday's 2,000-plus flights to and from Hartsfield were delayed, said opera-"There was the alienation, the He said he was prepared for feeling I don't belong, the anxiety tions supervisor David Martin.

postponements of Atlanta-bound flights affected an estimated 70,000 travelers, officials estimated. Delta Air Lines spokesman Bill Jackson said fewer passengers would be affected today because Sunday's flights were fuller, although less than half of Delta's flights were getting through this

Jackson estimated that hundreds of Delta passengers spent the night in hotels after their flights were canceled. "We did everything we could to get people out late last night, but we did have some holdovers," he said.

"I have seen fog and delays in 1986 but so far this year I have not seen fog so thick as it was early today (Sunday) or as many aircraft backed up and waiting on a gate to unload," Martin said.

In one terrible moment last January, seven Americans, one of them a dedicated schoolteacher, perished in a plume of flame high in the Florida sky. The image so stung the American consciousness that 11 months later it still is rated the top story of 1986 in a year-end Associated Press poll.

The ill-fated Challenger flight was far and away the No. 1 choice on a list of the top 10 stories of the year as selected by Associated Press member editors and broadcasters.

It topped more recent developments in a year that saw American jets bomb Libya, a Soviet nuclear reactor explosion, dictators overthrown, an American-Soviet summit and a still-developing story of intrigue and secrecy involving U.S. sales of arms to an avowed enemy and diversion of funds to Nicaraguan

The Iranian arms deal that involved Israel and the manipulation of millions of dollars and cast shadows on the Oval Office rated second in the poll of the top headlines of the year.

Third was the Chernobyl nuclear disaster that killed 31 and spread a pall of radioactivity over Europe. It reinforced lingering nuclear fears with reports that thousands more might suffer radiation effects in the future.

Fourth was the bombing of Libya by U.S. jets to punish that nation for its alleged sponsorship of terrorism.

In fifth place was the ouster of Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos and the assumption of power by Corazon Aquino, after a peaceful uprising that followed a highly suspect election.

Council plans to let pact on golf sprinklers

City Council has called a special meeting for noon Tuesday to award bids for a sprinkler system for the Comanche Trail Park golf course.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the city should award the bids before the next regular Council meeting in order to begin installing the system.

Because of the potential for severe weather limiting days on which the work can be done, the city wants to allow as much time as possible for the work, he said. Officials hope the sprinkler system can be installed in time for the peak golf season this summer, he

Two Brownwood residents were killed in separate accidents.

Lois Coston Guthrie, 78, of Brownwood was pronounced dead about 2 p.m. Sunday after her car ran off the road and struck a tree 11 miles west of Gatesville in Coryell County, the DPS said.

Moses Perez, 19, of Brownwood died Saturday morning in a one-car accident on U.S. Highway 385, three miles south of Crane. Perez was driving to a relative's 25th wedding anniversary when he lost control of his car, said DPS trooper Joe Munoz.

Danny Martinez, 17, of San Antonio, was killed when the car he was driving slammed into a guard rail on Interstate 10 in San Antonio around 11:30 p.m. Saturday. Police said he was thrown from the car, which then landed on top

At least three others died in accidents Saturday.

Debra Ann Lopez, 14, of Raymondville died in a two-car accident at U.S. Highway 77 and a farm to market road shortly before 8 p.m. Saturday near Raymondville, the DPS said. Three others were injured and one was hospitalized.

Robert A. Senerchia, 30, of San Antonio died at 3 a.m. when his car veered into a car dealership in San Antonio and struck two new cars. Carlos Beltran, 9, of San Antonio died at about 5 p.m. Saturday when he was struck by two vehicles while crossing Interstate 10 in San Antonio, authorities said.

Texas ties inspire newsman to write play

DALLAS (AP) — "It's a whole new game for me," says Jim Lehrer with the right touch of happy pride in his anchorman's voice. 'And I've had so much fun."

The "whole new game" for the newscaster, one-half of the MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour team, is the theater game. The 52-yearold television journalist and former Dallas newsman is having his first play produced in New York by Playwrights Preview Productions, which specializes in developing and producing "talented unknown American playwrights.

Lehrer is not exactly "unknown," except perhaps as a playwright, but his "seriocomic" "Chili Queen" had a workshop production this month at the Hartley House on 46th Street. And although The New York Times normally does not review workshops, "Chili Queen" received a "fair" review by Stephen Holden.

"I was in Dallas for the (1984) Republican convention," recalls Lehrer, "when I took a break by driving out to Emory, which is just between Greenville and Mineola.' Lehrer is familiar with the Dallas area because, although he was born in Kansas, he was reared in Texas and in 1959 became a reporter for the Dallas Morning

He later went to work for the Dallas Times Herald as a political columnist and, in 1968, became the newspaper's city editor. Lehrer also was seen on Channel 13's acclaimed "Newsroom" in the early

In Emory, Lehrer pulled into a Dairy Queen on U.S. Highway 69 and witnessed the incident that would inspire "Chili Queen. Lehrer saw "a waitress in her late 40s ... being yelled at by a man in his early 20s." The argument concerned whether the man had given the waitress a $20 bill or a $10 bill, and both sides were escalating their loud demands for the managers and sheriffs to intervene. Lehrer bought an icecream sandwich and fled.

But that incident stuck with him. "That night, it so happened, I had dinner with (his friend and NBC reporter) Roger Mudd, and I told him the story." Lehrer had rediscovered his love for writing fiction in December 1983 when a heart attack and double byass surgery had given him a threemonth-long layoff. He eventually wrote two plays that were produced at the Eudora Welty New Plays Series in Jackson, Miss. "Chili Queen" would be his third and so far most successful effort.

In "Chili Queen," the original quarrel over change for a 20 develops into a farcical but potentially tragic "hostage situation" when a gun is pulled by the customer, played by Robert J. Porter, a Texas native and star of NBC's "Another World."

The news media learn of the small-town crisis, and a reporter for the Dallas Morning News is the first to contact the hostage waitress: He just calls her up.

Panhandle and South Plains slipped below freezing. Dense fog had formed across the South Plains - prompting a travelers' advisory to be posted because of reduced visibility and the possible formation of ice on bridges and overpasses.

While fog blanketed the South Plains and clouds covered the Trans-

Pecos and Edwards Plateau areas, the Panhandle was clear. Light breezes and widespread cloudiness covered most of North and South Texas along with patches of dense fog. Some of the fog across North Texas had become locally dense, reducing the visibility to near zero in the Wichita Falls area.

Rain, drizzle, and scattered showers dotted the lower valley, south and South Central Texas along with isolated thunderstorms in the lower Rio Grande Valley area.

Temperature extremes overnight ranged from 28 degrees at Amarillo to 62 at Brownsville. Readings were generally in the 30s and 40s except in extreme South Texas, where temperatures were in the

The National Weather Service said skies should be partly cloudy through Tuesday with occasional rain and drizzle in South Texas.

Nation

Fog sharply limited visibility today in the Southeast and the southern Plains, while rain and freezing rain accompanied by strong winds fell in the Pacific Northwest.

Travelers advisories for dense fog were issued for northern Georgia, Alabama, the western Florida Panhandle, extreme northwest Arkansas and much of Oklahoma. Visibility was less than a quarter-mile in much of the region. Zero visibility was reported at Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta.

The fog delayed flights at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport by as much as five hours on Sunday.

Dense fog also developed over parts of the central Plateau and a travelers advisory was in effect over northeast Nevada.

Rain fell across the northern Pacific Coast with freezing rain and snow falling over parts of the northern Plateau. Gale warnings were issued along the Washington and Oregon coasts.

Rainshowers were scattered today over south Texas and southeast Florida

Heavier rainfall during the six hours ending at 1 a.m. EST included a half-inch in Portland and Astoria, Ore., and a quarter-inch in Salem, Ore.

There were scattered snowshowers over northern Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Today's forecast called for rain with snow in the mountains over western sections of Washington and Oregon and northern California. Scattered freezing rain, sleet and snow was expected across eastern sections of Washington and Oregon, northern Idaho and northwest Montana. Snowshowers should spread across the northern Great Lakes. Scattered showers and thunderstorms should dot central and southern sections of Florida and Texas. Winds should be strong and gusty along the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies.

Most of the nation should have high temperatures in the 40s and 50s Highs should be in the 20s over northeast Minnesota and northern Maine. Readings should be in the 30s across the valleys of western Montana, the Colorado and Wyoming Rockies and northern Utah. Temperatures in the 60s and 70s should reach across southern parts of California and Arizona, over extreme south Texas and most of Florida Temperatures around the nation at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 6

Three shot at reception

HOUSTON — An argument among wedding guests at a Chinatown restaurant erupted in gunfire that ended with three people dead, police said.

Police were unsure late Sunday what sparked the shootout Saturday night outside the Yit Ing Ho restaurant, said Sgt. Bill Stephens. "They were all friends who were at the wedding together," Stephens said.

An argument apparently broke out during the reception over something that had happened at least a week earlier and the shooting began, he said.

Minh Da Le, 35, fled the shooting but collapsed and died a half-block away, said Lt. B.J. Beck. Le Loi was shot in front of the restaurant and died of head wounds at Ben Taub Hospital. Than Van Ngyun, 31, was driven by a family member to Jefferson Davis Hospital, and was transferred to Ben Taub, where he died.

EPA considers standard

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency, in considering a new air pollution standard to protect asthmatics, may be opening the way for a back-door program to control acid rain, say industry and government experts.

The new hourly standard would be aimed at controlling short bursts — five minutes to 10 minutes - of sulfur dioxide from smokestacks. Current standards are based on averages over longer periods — three hours, a day and a year.

Sulphur dioxide, converted in the atmosphere to sulphuric acid and other compounds, contributes to acid rain, which environmentalists say kills aquatic and plant

In high concentrations in the air, sulfur dioxide can make breathing more difficult. Asthmatics are hit first, particularly those that exercise outside.

Agency studies suggest that the rule change would benefit only 6 to 11 percent of asthmatics, who constitute about 4 percent of the population.

Train tragedy

High wind warning came too late

TOKYO (AP) — Railroad officials said today that a warning of high winds was issued just as six cars of an excursion train plunged from a narrow bridge, apparently swept off by the wind. The crash killed six people and injured six others.

The cars, with four crewmen inside, fell 135 feet Sunday onto a crabmeat processing plant and a house near Hamasaka on the Japan Sea coast 300 miles west of Tokyo. The train had just let off its 180 passengers so they could buy local seafood.

Toshiji Shiihara of Japanese National Railways headquarters in Tokyo said signal controllers reported the train already had passed a green signal before the bridge when the controllers monitored a red light and buzzer warning for high winds. He said they saw the light at 1:25 p.m. — about the same time as the crash.

He said railway officials were checking train movement records to confirm that account.

An official of the railways' Fukuchiyama Railway Management Bureau in Kyoto, which oversees operations on the line involved, said the bureau orders a halt to rail traffic across the 1,020-foot-long bridge when winds exceed about 55 mph. The bridge stretches between two hills. The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the warning light and alarm for 55 mph winds at the bridge went off at 1:10 p.m. and 1:25 p.m. in Kyoto. Takumi said the excursion train's motorman, 39-year-old Yuji Kuniya, told police he proceeded on to the bridge after seeing a green signal light. When his diesel engine car suddenly stopped on the bridge, he looked back and saw no train cars behind him, Takumi

Iran talks begin again

THE HAGUE, Netherlands - Iranian and U.S. officials meet today for the third round of talks on the return of $506 million to Iran, which has linked the funds to possible intercession on behalf of American hostages in Lebanon

The United States has agreed in principle to return the money plus interest, but the two sides still need to work out details, such as the wording of an Iranian pledge that it will make no further demands once the case is closed.

The money is being held by the New York Federal Reserve Bank in an escrow account known as "Account One." The money represents Iran's overpayment of loans made by a banking syndicate.

The Iran-U.S. Tribunal, a Netherlandsbased claims court that has been disentangling the two countries' financial relations since 1981, has offered to arbitrate the issue, but both sides instead opted for a third round of

Firefighters too late

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, West Germany — Firefighters were en route to an Alps resort hotel after receiving word of a gas leak but could not arrive in time to prevent the devastating explosion that killed seven people, local officials said.

Bavarian state police spokesman Max Koegl said Sunday that investigators determined the explosion was caused by a defective pipe linked to a six-ton liquid gas tank used to heat part of the hotel.

Koegl said officials of the Technical Inspection Service, the nation's highly respected safety watchdog agency, checked the tank only a week before Saturday's explosion.

"But the pipe itself was not examined," Koegl said. He said an expert commission of the Bavarian state police was formed to investigate the blast, which heavily damaged one of the poshest hotels in this renowned Alpine resort community about 60 miles southwest of Munich.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state.

School aid distribution may be hurt

Educators planning for the new year might want to mark Jan. 20 on their calendars, for on that date a trial will begin in Austin that could affect the way state aid is distributed to every public school

Basically, 67 school districts have filed a lawsuit because they feel that a 1984 law which was supposed to help equalize state aid throughout Texas has not done that. On the other side of the dispute is the state of Texas and 48 school districts that maintain that state aid is being distributed fairly.

This boils down to a battle between "property-rich" districts and "property-poor" districts.

Although we want every child in Texas to receive a first-class education, we would hate to see this lawsuit turn the aid distribution formula on its head.

The state should strive to raise the level of education in poorer districts, but it should not be at the expense of the wealthier districts. In other words, we should bring the bottom up — not bring the top down.

High tax or low, that is the question

Is Texas a low-tax state? Or a high-tax state? The Lord only knows.

Consider the thoughts of Dr. William Cunningham, president of the University of Texas

It is a "myth" that Texas is a high-tax state, Cunningham said, producing a 1984 Census Bureau report that showed only Tennessee and Florida with lower per capita taxes. But Cunningham conceded his figures were out of date....

Still, Cunningham said, the figures probably aren't much out of line since other states also have increased taxes

But, according to Tax Foundation statistics, Texas has the ninthhighest sales tax among the 50 states, the seventh-highest gasoline tax and the 13th-highest cigarette tax. So maybe it's a hightax state.

As nearly as we can tell, nobody really knows for certain. Amarillo Daily News

WASHINGTON — Many of the millions of steel bolts that hold America's bridges and skycrapers together may be dangerously brittle or stretching loose because they are counterfeits made by Asian manufacturers

The counterfeits are substandard steel and alloy bolts made to look like the genuine article, right down to the head markings used by the industry to identify the various grades. Engineers adn federal investigators have discovered several cases of below-par bolts in construction projects across the country since the scam was discovered last summer.

The workhorse of industrial fasteners is the A325, a high-quality bolt that has been counterfeited by factories in Japan, Taiwan and South Korea. Our associate Stewart Harris has documented four instances of substandard Imported bolts on a highway guard rail broke when a car slammed into it, according to Bill Windt, president of Texas Bolt, a Houston company that is one of the largest domestic manufacturers of A325s. Testing in Texas Bolt's laboratory found that the imported bolts weakened considerably when dipped into molten galvanizing solution — a standard weatherproofing process that involves subjecting the bolts to temperatures of 840 degrees to 860 degrees. The dipping will turn a bogus low-carbon born bolt brittle on the outside and soft on the inside, and it'll stretch and break under stress.

'That guard rail should have pushed the car off," Windt said. With counterfeit bolts, it just went right through. A drawbridge of PGA Boulevard over the Intercoastal Waterway in West Palm Beach, Fla., began emitting strange noises when it was raised and lowered. In tests of two bolts on the 7-year-old bridge, one was found to contain only about half as much carbon as required by the industry standard. State officials are testing additional bolts on the bridge and a 6-month-old bridge nearly will also be examined.

 A Texas company building an offshore oil rig in Japan had to replace Japanese-made A325s that failed during a test erection of the platform. Donald Branham, president of the company, told Engineering News Record the bolts were replaced with Americanmade A325s.

 About 4,000 bolts on a steelframed garage being built for the town of Beachwood, Ohio, had to be replaced because they were stretching when workers tightened them to specifications. Laboratory tests howed that four out of five bolts failed to meet the tensilestrength standard for A325s

The reason for making inferior steel bolts is to cut costs. Not only is the harder bolt expensive, but the wear and tear onthe manufacturer's machine tools is obviously less severe when they're cutting softer steel. In addition, the tempering process for lower-counterfeiters has forced many U.S. bolt makers and distributors out of business. Those that have managed to survive are hoping for a federal regulatory crackdown on the substandard imports.

Last summer, Tommy Grant, a Houston-based distributor, and the Industrial Fastener Institute in Cleveland alerted federal officials to the presence of counterfeit bolts in government supply channels. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., has been investigating the dangerous fraud, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is checking power plants for counterfeit bolts that could fail under high heat or stress. Alexander Haig, who came to public consciousness as a jargonspouting vessel of bad temper while in the Nixon White House and the Reagan Cabinet, has cultivated a durable smile, an ability to speak without using nouns as verbs, and an air of bottomless patience in the presence of journalists. On this evidence, ignore his protests that he has not yet decided whether to run for President. Haig, who has been preparing for a race for months and plans to announce his decision early next year, can't be entirely displeased by the arms scandal now plaguing the Reagan administration. He may have noticed that national crises tend to elevate to the White House candidates who are markedly different from their predecessors.

Thus Watergate, perpetrated by a president infamous for his cunning, gave us Jimmy Carter, who ostentatiously lacked cunning. The seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, which came to symbolize American weakness, helped to elect Ronald Reagan, who vowed to restore our might.

Haig may figure that a scandal demonstrating ineptitude in foreign relations will help a candidate who has been an aide to Henry Kissinger, chief of staff to a president noted for mastery of global affairs and secretary of State. Certainly this imbroglio will serve as a caution to voters. The next president, whatever his other flaws, probably won't be one inclined to know too little and delegate too much

Americans will recall Haig's tenure in Reagan's Cabinet as brief and tempestuous, punctuated by frequent public clashes with other administration officials. That isn't necessarily to his discredit. In fact, a proven inability to work with the sort of people who produced this mess might be an asset with voters. Though he doesn't quite gloat over the scandal, Haig does say, "I wrote a book about this."

His 1984 memoir, "Caveat," bristled at the interference of others in the tasks Haig thought were properly reserved for the State Department. Reagan's failures in foreign affairs, he wrote, lay "in an absence of discipline on the part of some of his advisers; there is no adequate structure to enforce disciplie on the system." Contemplating the adventures of Olive North, George Shultz must nod in agreement.

But American campaigns are usually dominated by domestic issues, except in wartime, and on domestic issues this former fourstar general is a blank slate. He argues that most people now realize that our domestic problems have an international dimension.

Republicans who love Reagan's blasts at big government, though, will find Haig uninspiring. To someone who has spent most of his life in uniform and in Washington Haig has had a job in every administration going back to Kennedy's - the rhetoric of antistatism doesn't come naturally.

In fact, he may raise conservative hackles by saying things like this: "I'm not one of those conservatives who think government doesn't have a responsibility for anything. Government has a major responsibility for most things. Haig wants spending cuts to reduce the deficit but grudgingly concedes it may require new revenues read higher taxes

If this makes him less conservative than Reagan, he seems to say, then so be it. When Republicans stress doctrinal purity, Haig insists, they lose; when they reach out to Democrats and independents, they win. But a party that has twice won decisively with a true believer at the head of the ticket won't be eager to consider moderation.

Haig will be bucking history in other ways too. He noted in his book that "the office of Secretary of State could hardly be described as a path leading to the

Teen-ager's foresight allows others to lead better lives

DEAR ABBY: Terry, my 15-year-old son, was killed by his best friend who was playing with a gun they did not know was loaded. We realize it was an accident, and both our families are heartbroken, but that is not what this letter is Terry had just received his learner's permit. A while ago, while looking at my driver's license, he noticed "Organ Donor" marked on it, and asked what it meant. I explained it, and added if he wanted to donate his organs when he got his permanent license, he could mark it on his own driver's license. I said, "You can think about it, and decide when the time comes." He replied, "I don't need to think about it; I've already decided that that is what I want to do! It will make me feel good to know that should I die in an accident, my organs will go to someone who can use them.

At the time, services for the older adolescent and young adult were virtually non-existent. This situation exists today with a few exceptions. yet, learning disabilities are a lifelong, handicapping condition and, without services, they prevent those with the condition from exercising an inherent right — that of independent living. These children, as adults, become consumers of society rather than providers - a needless waste of human resources

There is hope. A program started iust three years ago for young adults with learning disabilities is proving to be highly successful. Over 90 percent who finish move on into independent living

Medicine is not precise

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The results of a recent routine Pap test came back as "suspicious of malignant cells." The test was redone a month later and the results were the same. Shortly after that, the doctor got some samples and the lab report came back normal. Six months have passed since then, and another Pap test came back normal. What caused the reading of "suspicion of malignant cells" Should I be concerned? I am 57 and went through menopause 10 years ago. - N.R.Z.

Your letter brought to mind an experience I had when I was an intern. I examined a young man who complained of lower rightside pain. I suspected appendicitis. I called an experienced surgeon for his opinion. He examined the young man and looked gravely at the lab reports. I waited in anticipation of confirmation of my brilliant conclusion. He looked at me and said: "I've been at this for 35 years now, and I still cannot be sure.'

I admired his honesty and have remembered his words to this day. The same thing happened with your Pap smears.

The experienced pathologist who looked at your Pap smear could not say "for sure" if what he saw were changes indicative of cancer, no matter how many he had looked at in the past. They might have been caused by inflammation of the genital tract. Your doctor took another sample. It, too, was abnormal, but still not diagnostic of

In such situations, the doctor often does the colposcopy you probably had. In that, he looks directly into the cervix and vagina with a lighted instrument. He then took a biopsy of the suspicious area. This is much more revealing than the smear. The results were negative. You should not be concerned

I took this long, roundabout way to answer you, because I wanted to make a point so often missed by patients. Much as we would like to think otherwise. In truth it is the exception to the rule to be able to give answers in medicine with unflinching certainty. For medicine is not the precise science we would like it to be.

Governor race expensive

DALLAS — At $6 to $8 per vote, the November gubernatorial election was the most expensive in Texas history, according to an analysis by The Dallas Morning News.

The state's economic woes didn't stop Texas politicians from raising record amounts of money for their campaigns, including a governor's race that cost more than $25 million.

Gov. Mark White spent nearly $8 for each vote he received in his losing campaign, while Gov.-elect Bill Clements spent $6 per vote, the News reported

Meanwhile, state Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas in his successful bid for the state Supreme Court spent about $1.6 million, almost enough to operate the court for an entire year.

White reported raising $12.3 million through November for his campaign. Clements reported $11.1 million raised through November, and his aides say he raised $2.4 million more in December at a fund-raiser in Houston

In 1982, the Texas governor's race cost a record total of $24.1 million.

LAS CRUCES, N.M. — New Mexico State Police and Amarillo police are investigating the death of a 3-month-old girl whose body was found buried near the Organ Mountains northeast of here.

State police found the body about 10:45 p.m. Saturday by following directions provided by her parents to Amarillo police. The parents told police they had buried the baby in the New Mexico desert.

The body was discovered in an arroyo near "A" Mountain, state police said. The cause of death has not been determined. The body was sent to Albuguerque for an autopsy.

The body of Flocheri Donfayi Chalmers was found on a bed the two children had been sleeping in. Her brother was found underneath the bed, and officials said he apparently slipped off the side of the bed in an attempt to escape the heat and flames.

The boy was listed in critical condition Sunday in Parkland Memorial Hospital's burn unit with thirddegree burns over 40 percent of his body, a hospital spokesman said.

AUSTIN — A Texas state flag is flying on the South Pole in honor of the 150th birthday of the Lone Star State.

A group of Texans, including Dave Honea of Austin, were working at McMurdo Sound in Antarctica and decided to celebrate the occasion by planting a Sesquicentennial flag at the South Pole, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

After a Thanksgiving dinner, Nelson and Honea braved a wind chill factor of minus 60 degrees to plant the flag.

Woman says promised free funeral

DALLAS — The Mexican consul says it is investigating a woman's claim that a hospital reneged on a promise to provide a free funeral if she gave her consent for donation of her husband's heart and other Officials of Methodist Medical Center in Dallas deny such an offer was made. Offering an inducement of value in return for receiving donated organs is a violation of state and federal laws governing transplants.

Friends and co-workers of Raul Alvarado, a 30-year-old piano refinisher in Mesquite, eventually had to raise $750 among themselves to pay for the burial expenses. "It not only has legal implications, it has moral implications," said Oliver Farres, the Mexican consul in Dallas. "It is only one more of the many schemes used to exploit the fears and the language barrier of the undocumented (aliens). Alvarado, a U.S. resident for 15 years, was diagnosed as clinically brain dead from head injuries suffered in a Nov. 16 car accident.

His wife, Rosalia Alvarado, 23, who had arrived from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, said a hospital chaplain told her through an interpreter that a donor heart was urgently needed, and said a free funeral would be arranged if she signed an organ donor release.

She signed the consent form six hours later after the chaplain approached her about the urgency of the situation five times, she said Seven hours later, surgeons removed the heart, liver and kidneys from her husband.

Mrs. Alvarado, who has no insurance and faces medical bills totaling $13,812, said the hospital reneged on its promise.

In an internal hospital memorandum, the chaplain said he told the Alvarado family that charitable groups and churches sometimes arranged low-cost or free funerals for poor clients. But he denied ever promising free service, The Dallas Morning News reported.

In the memorandum, only part of which the hospital released, the chaplain said that when he contacted Gonzalez Funeral Home, a funeral director agreed to provide free service.

Albert Gonzalez Jr. said his brief discussion with the chaplain on Nov. 17 concerned funeral prices, not free service.

Kansas City Chiefs running back Larry Moriarty (32) is stopped by the New York Jets Bobby Humphrey (48) and other Jets in the first quarter Sunday at Giants Stadium, EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The slow death of a five-week losing streak has been forgotten, or at least placed in the distant past.

For the New York Jets, all it took was one victory to rekindle their spirits and make them feel like a genuine championship contender, not an embarrassment to themselves and the NFL playoff qualification system. That the victory came in the AFC wild-card game and the Jets offense and defense came to life was all the more gratifying.

"It was a typical example of what you can do if you stick together," wide receiver Wesley Walker said following Sunday's 35-15 demolition of the Kansas City Chiefs, which ended the five-game slide that had forced the Jets to back into the playoffs with a 10-6 record.

What Jets Coach Joe Walton and defensive coordinator Bud Carson learned from the immediate past was that change was in order. Walton replaced slumping Ken O'Brien at quarterback with nine-year veteran Pat Ryan, a steady backup who led the Jets to a victory over New England and a 13-0 lead in a win over Denver this year. Carson opted for a more aggressive defense.

Those moves worked sensationally

Ryan threw for three touchdowns, got the wide receivers more involved in the offense than in any game during the slide, and even ran for 24 yards on a fourth-and-6 quarterback draw in the first period. Two plays later, Freeman McNeil got the first of his two scores and the Jets were ahead to stay.

Ryan completed 16 of 23 passes for 153 yards and hit McNeil on a 1-yard TD flare pass, Al Toon with an 11-yard score and Billy Griggs, who made his first pro reception, for a 6-yard touchdown.

"We played the type of football we need to play the rest of the playoffs," Ryan said.

That goes for the defense too. While the attack was

That goes for the defense too. While the attack was stumbling to only 61 points during the losing streak, the defense was allowing 183. Just last week, Cincinnati's Boomer Esiason threw five TD passes.

The Chiefs have the lowest-ranked offense in the league, and the Jets weren't about to sit back and let Kansas City dictate the pace of the game, even though the Chiefs drove 67 yards in nine plays with their first possession to go ahead 6-0.

"They sure didn't look like a team that lost five in a row," Chiefs quarterback Todd Blackledge said. Blackledge completed 12 of 21 passes for 80 yards with two interceptions, one of which was run 21 yards for a touchdown by linebacker Kevin McArthur on the first play of the second half.

"That was definitely the key play," Blackledge said. "It made it almost impossible to get the momentum back."

"We felt right there the game was ours," McArthur said.

Carson, fired in 1984 as Kansas City's defensive coordinator, opted for an attack-oriented defense

"We never did figure out what was going on," end Barry Bennett said. "We never did spot what was wrong. Bud just said to go out and play hard and if we were going to lose, we were going to lose going tremendously hard.

"The emotion you saw out there came from the last five weeks of having our noses rubbed into it and hearing everyone saying we didn't deserve to be here"

Early in Sunday's game, the Jets didn't look any different from the stumbling bunch which barely made the playoffs. The Chiefs, in their first postseason action since losing to Miami in the longest game in NFL history in 1971, marched to Jeff Smith's 1-yard touchdown.

But Nick Lowery, who had made 123 consecutive extra points, missed when Tom Baugh's snap was Ryan brought New York right back with a 75-yard drive that included his key run. He also guided the Jets on 47- and 62-yard scoring marches, the first set up when Harry Hamilton and Bob Crable combined to jar the ball from Larry Moriarty and Kyle Clifton recovered it.

The other drive ended with Toon's touchdown, his first scoring reception since the 10th week of the season

Kansas City, which won its last three games to qualify for the playoffs at 10-6, got its other points on a blocked punt and a safety. Albert Lewis blocked his fourth punt of the season and recovered the ball in the end zone 14 seconds into the fourth quarter.

McNeil rushed for 135 yards for the Jets, who had lost both of their previous wild-card outings (in 1981 and 1985) and hadn't won a home playoff game since 1968, when the Jets went on to win the Super Bowl.

In November, the Jets were 10-1 and looked like they were going to their second Super Bowl. Now they are considered a rank outsider. But Sunday's victory restored their confidence.

Washington took advantage of six Los Angeles turnovers Sunday to register a 19-7 victory over the Rams in the first round of the NFC playoffs. Using four field goals by Atkinson, who was signed two weeks ago, the Redskins earned a shot at the defending champion Chicago Bears in Saturday's NFC semifinal game.

When Washington takes more than it gives away, the Redskins are virtually unbeatable. Since 1982, the Redskins are 47-1 in games in which they finish with a positive turnover ratio, and only 7-14 when the

The Rams' Eric Dickerson rushed for 158 yards, but Washington made good use of the All-Pro running back's three fumbles. The Redskins converted the first into Atkinson's first field goal, and stopped a possible Los Angeles scoring drive in the second quarter by recovering another Dickerson fumble at the Redskin 9-yard line.

Following the Rams' third fumble of the first half, by tight end David Hill, Washington consumed 8½ minutes in a 14-play, 53-yard drive and took a 13-0

Atkinson kicked field goals of 25, 20, 38, and 19 yards, one in every quarter. The University of Maryland product was working as a mortagage banker in Annapolis, Md., two weeks ago when the Redskins asked him to take over for an erratic Max

Zendejas.

"I've played eight games in this league, but I feel like a veteran because I've been cut by four teams," said Atkinson, who tied a team record for field goals in a playoff game.

After Atkinson's first three-pointer, the Redskins drove 60 yards on their next possession for a 10-0 lead. The march was kept alive by a third-down pass interference call against Rams All-Pro cornerback LeRoy Irvin, who was then called for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Instead of punting, Washington instead was presented with a first down on the Ram 28, and five plays later Kelvin Bryant caught a 14-yard touchdown toss from Jay Schroeder.

The Rams got their only score early in the fourth quarter. Three plays after Dickerson ripped off a 65-yard run, rookie quarterback Jim Everett threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Kevin House.

Any chance Los Angeles had ended on its following possession when Dickerson fumbled on a fourth-down run at the Washington 39 with eight minutes left. The Rams' final two drives of the game also ended in turnovers.

"The good news is that we won," said Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs. "The bad news is we have to go play Chicago."

The victory improved the Redskins' record to 13-4.

Los Angeles ended its season 10-7 after a third straight loss.

"We shut the door on ourselves," said Los Angeles Guard Dennis Harrah.

Giants head All-Pro squad

By The Associated Press
Dan Marino, who approached the nearly unapproachable passing records he established two years ago for the Miami Dolphins, heads The Associated Press' All-Pro football team.

Despite Miami's 8-8 record, Marino threw for 4,747 yards and 44 touchdowns. The yardage total is the third-highest in NFL history and the 44 scoring passes ranks second only to the 48 he threw in 1984, when he also set the yardage record of 5,084.

The New York Giants, who at 14-2 tied the defending NFL champion Chicago Bears for the best record in the league, had four players on the first team and three on the second. The Bears and the Los Angeles Rams each placed three on the first team and the Bears had five others on the second team.

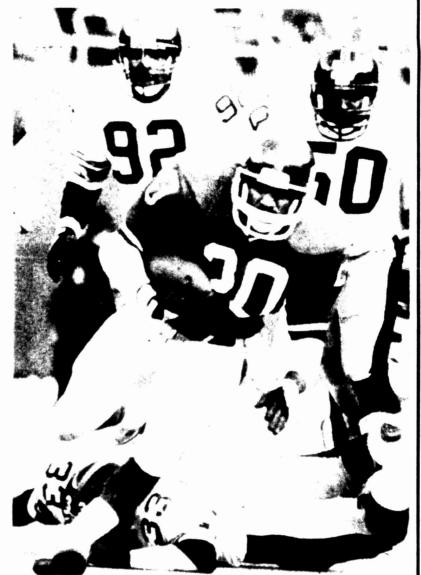

Marino was on the team for the third straight year and the Rams' Eric Dickerson, who joined the Giants' Joe Morris at running back, was named to the team for the fourth straight year. Dickerson led the league in rushing with 1,821 yards and Morris was second with 1,516.

Giant linebacker Lawrence Taylor made the team for the sixth time in six seasons in the league.

The offensive team consists of San Francisco's Jerry Rice and the New York Jets' Al Toon at wide receiver, the Giants' Mark Bavaro at tight end, Jim Covert of the Bears and Anthony Munoz of Cincinnati at tackle, Bill Fralic of Atlanta and Dennis Harrah of the Rams at guard, Dwight Stephenson of Miami at center, and the backfield of Marino, Dickerson and Morris.

The defense includes Dexter Manley of Washington and Rulon Jones of Denver at end, Reggie White of Philadelphia at tackle, Bill Pickel of the Los Angeles Raiders at nose tackle, Taylor and Chicago's Wilber Marshall at outside linebacker, Mike Singletary of Chicago and Karl Mecklenburg of Denver at inside linebacker, Hanford Dixon of Cleveland and LeRoy Irvin of the Rams at cornerback, and Deron Cherry of Kansas City and Ronnie Lott of San Francisco at safety.

It's SEC vs. Big 10 in Liberty Bowl

Two 6-5 teams trying to end season on winning note

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee and Minnesota, teams which have struggled for respectabilty, have the opportunity to write a positive ending to their seasons tonight in the 28th annual Liberty Bowl football game.

Tennessee, the 1985 Southeastern Conference champion and a victor over Miami in the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1, entered the 1986 campaign with high hopes.

After staggering to a 2-5 start, the Vols won their final four games to earn their bowl invitation.

"We were on the way to having a disasterous season," Tennessee linebacker Dale Jones said. "Going to a bowl game gives us the chance to be half-respectable."

For Minnesota, which also carries a 6-5 record, the Liberty Bowl is an opportunity to emphasize the progress made by the Gophers in the past four years.

After records of 1-10 and 4-7, Min-

After records of 1-10 and 4-7, Minnesota was 7-5 in 1985, including a defeat of Clemson in the Independence Bowl.

Minnesota finished strongly in 1986, defeating Wisconsin and handing Michigan its only loss of the year before losing to Iowa on a lastsecond field goal.

"Everybody has confidence in each other," Gopher quarterback Rickey Foggie said. "We are finally getting the right chemistry after a rough start."

Memphis, Tennessee Dec 29 8 p.m. EST Tennessee

The game appears to boil down to a battle between a Gopher running game spearheaded by Foggie and freshman tailback Dartell Thompson and the passing arm of Tennessee quarterback Jeff Francis.

First-year Minnesota Coach
John Gudekunst said both he and Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors may spend the evening pacing the sidelines and adding up points.

"Tennessee's strengths match our weaknesses, and our strengths match their weaknesses," Gudekunst said. "Their passing game will give our defense trouble and Tennessee's defense has had problems with the running game, and we run the ball well."

The Gophers averaged 22 points a game and were held under 20 points on only two occasions, a 19-17 victory over Indiana and a 33-0 loss to Ohio State.

Foggie, a junior, already is Minnesota's career total offense leader with 5,118 yards. Thompson led the Big Ten in rushing as a freshman with a school-record 1,240 yards and rushed for more than 100 yards in six games.

The Vols hope to counter with the talents of Francis, who matured greatly during the season's second half.

Francis led the Southeastern Conference in completion percentage, hitting 150 of 233 attempts for 64.4 percent and nine touchdowns.

He has several talented targets, including wide receivers Joey Clinkscales and Anthony Miller.

Minnesota free safety Donoyan

Minnesota free safety Donovan Small, the defensive player of the game in last year's Independence Bowl victory, said a Gopher victory is assured if Francis and his receivers can be stymied.

The Volunteer offense isn't necessarily one-dimensional, however.

Tennessee is making its fourth consecutive bowl appearance. The Vols have been to 28 bowl games, including two previous Libery Bowl victories — 14-13 over Arkansas in 1971 and 7-3 over Maryland in 1974

No. 19 NC State falls to Division II school

By The Associated Press Everyone knows there's a balance in college basketball this season, but Tampa beating North Carolina State?

A Division II team defeating an Atlantic Coast Conference team? Unheard of. And that wasn't the only surprise over the weekend, as Loyola of Chicago stopped No. 16 Illinois.

Of course, you could make an excuse for 19th-ranked N.C. State's 67-62 setback. After all, its coach, Jim Valvano, remained home with a viral infection in the road loss to Tampa, which lost earlier to Louisville and Purdue this season.

The outcome didn't make Valvano feel any better.

John Jones, a 6-foot-4 senior guard, led the Spartans with 30 points, including a field goal and two free throws in the last 33 seconds that clinched it.

N.C. State shot only 27 percent from the field and committed 23 turnovers in dropping to 7-2. Tampa is 9-2.

TCU topped Oklahoma 95-82, Loyola beat Illinois 83-82 and California nipped Florida, last week's No. 20, 83-80. Oklahoma was No. 6 and Illinois No. 9 last

Horned Frogs upset Sooners

By The Associated Press Texas Christian started out as the preseason favorite to capture the Southwest Conference basketball title and Saturday's stunning upset of sixth-ranked Oklahoma did nothing to scuttle the prediction.

Jim Killingsworth's "Killer Frogs'' routed Oklahoma 95-82 in the finals of the All-College Classic in Oklahoma City, ending the Sooners' three year domination of the tournament.

Oklahoma's only loss had been to top-ranked Nevada-Los Vegas on the road.

"It's always good to close out the preseason on an unbeat note and I hope it gives us a hell of a lot of momentum going into the conference," Killingsworth said. "It was a big win for our program."

TCU, 9-3, had not beaten Oklahoma in six previous tries. It was the Horned Frogs' first tournament victory in 19 years.

The Frogs opened their season with a victory over LSU in Baton Rouge and recently defeated Big Ten power Michigan State in Fort Worth.

"We shot the ball great," said Killingsworth. "Jamie Dixon was Dixon hit four three-point shots and scored 28 points to earn honors as the tournament's most valuable player. TCU's 1-3-1 matchup zone confused the Sooners, who had averaged over 100 points per game. "We played good, solid defense," said Killingsworth.

TCU was the first non-Oklahoma team to win the Classic since Lamar pulled the trick in 1981.

The Los Angeles Lakers won their fourth straight Sunday night by holding the 76ers to their lowest point total of the season, beating Philadelphia 111-85.

The 76ers were held to 11 points in the second quarter and went scoreless for 3 minutes, 37 seconds in the third quarter as the Lakers broke the game open and handed Philadelphia its eighth loss in the last 11 games.

"It's so many things that are hurting us — the inconsistency, lack of concentration, and our ability to knock down shots with any regularity," Philadelphia Coach Matt Goukas said. "We have defensive lapses, we don't pass the ball well, and these things surface just about every night."

"He was just taking charge in every area, playing defense on 'Doc' (Julius Erving), making steals and getting rebounds. He looks like he's having tremendous fun.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 30, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Some very surprising and unexpected conditions can arise that are apt to throw you off balance. Wind up practical arrangements and think out the future sensibly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be careful not to lose your temper. Tonight you can make big headway in your activities. Don't waste any time. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try not to argue with one who is discontented. Get into important matters and handle them wisely. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to give an outsider a piece of your mind, but this would only make matters worse, so be tactful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Work may not go well today. Attend a social event you have been looking forward to. Dress nicely.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at career affairs and forego making plans for pleasure at this time. Take no risks today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid a possible argument at home. Enjoy the company of your friends. Strive for perfection today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to to Oct. 22) If you get an unpleasant message, don't let it bother you. Tonight is fine for entertaining practical individuals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to commit yourself to anything too risky or expensive. Get busy and handle your communications.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do not show others that you are upset. Instead, keep working on a practical level.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do not worry about what cannot be helped. Busy yourself with improving personal matters. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk a problem over with one you love and get the right advice. Don't bother a very busy friend. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A devoted friend can assist you with something important. Don't disturb an influential person today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will very early in life do unusual and incomprehensible things and should be taken in hand and taught to be more conventional. One who would do well in business and should have the education slanted along such lines for best results, whether male or female.

Odessa woman provides meals to the needy

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Adela Uranga's God has stepped forward at various times in the last five years times when she wondered how she could feed all who come to Progressive Park hoping for a bite to eat.

She recalls a Christmas when she, family members and friends were serving a holiday dinner with all the trimmings at the downtown park across from Women's and Children's Hospital

Looking at what seemed an endless line of hungry faces and fearing the turkey wouldn't stretch, Mrs. Uranga said she called on Jesus for help.

"I just thought, 'Multiply, please, like you always do,'" she said. At that moment, Mrs. Uranga, who

Odessans affectionately have dubbed "The Sandwich Lady," spled a man carrying a large electric roaster. "And there's another man with another roaster," she

The men left before she examined the contents - sliced smoked turkey, ham and corn on the cob. "I said, 'Jesus, you're too much,' " Mrs.

Uranga said. More recent benefactors, the Grandview Cinema and manager Hal Berry specifically, offer further proof to Mrs.

Uranga of a higher being's hand. Theater owners in August allowed Berry to pay for Mrs. Uranga's $475 shopping spree at a wholesale grocery and to give her a $500 check for perishable foods.

In November the movie house donated all proceeds, including those from the snack bar, from two showings of "Nothing in Common.

In the compact, tidy living room of Mrs Uranga's home, a print of Jesus looks down frm one wall; beneath it, gold thread on a green needlepoint canvas spells out, "Jesus is Lord." Two versions of the Bible are settled on the coffee table corner.

The petite woman whose looks belie her 72 years — sometimes clasping her hands under her chin in thought as she sat on the edge of her sofa — traced the beginnings of her feeding project from October 1981.

Her daily route to the post office where she rented a box took her past the Texas Employment Commission, she said.

"Everyday I would see the people there, but in 1981 there were even more people, Mrs. Uranga said. "They thought that in Odessa there was a boom.

"I felt sorry for them. These young people, these young boys, I thought, 'What a way to start life.

"One day I said, 'What can I do for them? ... I thought, 'Well, only one day, one time, I'm going to come and give them a gift — some sandwiches for them at least,' " she said.

When Mrs. Uranga drove to the TEC office, three men approached the car thinking she was looking for day laborers.

She said she had brought food. After one said they had no money, she explained she intended to give them the sandwiches.

One replied he hadn't eaten in four days But the tinted window of the employment office had hidden the number of people inside, Mrs. Uranga said.

"They started coming outside," she said. "Three of them came at the last. I didn't have any more sandwiches...It was so sad. I said, 'Why did I come if I didn't bring enough?

"I left thinking, 'Jesus, you fed 5,000 people, and I cannot feed these few' That's what made me come the next day - because I didn't have enough.

Stopping at a nearby bakery outlet, Mrs. Uranga revealed her charitable act when an employee asked why she - a widow who lives alone - was buying five loaves of day-old bread.

Report says Texas draws dairy farmers

STEPHENVILLE, Texas (AP) Industry officials say several farmers have moved to Erath County during the last four years, drawn by the lack of state regulation of the dairy industry and higher milk prices.

Joe Borges, a former Stephenville dairy farmer, said about 20 dairies have moved to the Stephenville and Dublin area since 1982 from states in which milking cows is more expensive.

The dairy immigration has increased in the past year, said Matt Driscoll, an Erath County dairy farmer.

Borges said a dairy farmer from Holland, Diebe DeVries has opened up a Stephenville dairy because producing milk is expensive in Holland and the country has a milk

"They look for a place with high demand like Texas," Borges said. Driscoll said Texas dairies meet about 80 percent of the state's demand for milk said. The American Milk Producers group brings in milk from states with a milk surplus, he said.

But if dairies continue to move into Texas, the milk shortage in Texas will become a surplus and the influx of dairies could stop, farmers say.

"If we see the growth we have now continue, things will get tight," said Driscoll. "I think the deficit problem will fill up pretty quick. The state can not stand many more 500-1,000 cow dairies opening up."

A milk surplus could show up as early as the summer of 1987, because milk demand drops in the summer, he said.

John Cowan, regional manager for American Milk Producers, Inc., said in Arizona and California either the state or a dairy association sells the right to produce milk. The owners of newly-built dairies are given a production limit when they buy the production right, which is called a base.

Dairy farmers who start an average-sized dairy in Arizona must pay about $900,000 for the right to produce milk, he said. Borges said farmers who want to sell more milk than their base allows must pay extra fees.

However, in Texas, dairy owners do not need to own a base to start selling milk or sell more milk, Cowan said.

Borges said there is not enough milk for the demand about 90 percent of the time. Because of the low domestic supply and the high demand, the price of milk is higher in Texas, he said.

Erath County's mild climate and low land prices will also attract California and Arizona dairy farmers, Cowan said.

An Arizona couple, Daniel and Susan Viss, had the Southwest's largest milk tank installed in Dublin Dec. 10. Construction of their "Grand Canyon Dairy" will be completed in several months, Mrs. Viss said.
