How's that? Vino musico

Q. What is the music played on the commercial for Ernest & Julio Gallo wine?

A. The music on the commercial is a special arrangement done for Ernest & Julio Gallo by the composer Yangelis, said Roberta Rostamily, who works in consumer relations for the winery. She said the tune was based on an original Vangelis composition called "Hymne," which is available on his album titled "Opera Sauvage."

Committee against year change

SAN FRANCISCO - To members of the Committee Against the End of the Month, 1986 was a pretty good year, so why change?

'Just say no to 1987,'' chanted nine committee members who marched outside City Hall on Tuesday in a bid to keep 1986 around a while longer. "Now forever!

"There's just no use in having 1987," said a young man who identified himself as Time Immortal. "That's why I'm here. I am appalled at this senseless progression of time, as the senselessness of sense.

"Time is not just chewing gum," pointed out a man who gave his name as Rigo. "You don't just throw it away.

The committee, joined by a dog named Tai, carried signs emblazoned with such slogans as "I was having a good time," and "Save 1986 Before It's Too Late." Tai's placard simply read, "No."

A cotton compress on the north side of town was consumed in flame after burning weeds ignited bales of the crop waiting to be compressed that February.

Fanned by 70-mile-an-hour winds, the flaming compress became a blast furnace that threatened nearby structures, Cottongame said

Cottongame fought the blaze until he was overcome by the pain in his eyes.

Search continues for missing area pilot

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

No clues have been found yet in the search for Hoover Hu of Borger and Big Spring, whose aircraft has been overdue since Dec. 20, according to Col. Pete Minden, director of emergency services for the Texas Civil Air Patrol.

Volunteer searchers are coverng an area of about 250,000 square miles in the Texas panhandle, West Texas and New Mexico, he said. Tuesday, 76 people and 12 aircraft aircraft were used

The search for Hu began after an by the San Antonio flight plan service of the Federal Aviation Administration, he said, adding that the CAP wasn't aware he was missing before that clocked 64 hours in the search, he for Big Spring Dec. 20, but never and passengers. It is not known said. Wednesday figures weren't arrived. Borger is about 45 miles available, but he said at least 15 north-northeast of Amarillo,

Hu was reported missing Dec. 28 by his wife, Lorrie Hsu, who told the FAA that the man left Borger

> "It's not something we treat lightly," he said.

Hu is said to have been piloting a Cesna 172 aircraft. He reportedly left Borger at approximately 10:45 p.m. Dec. 20.

Minden estimates this is the 10th missing or overdue aircraft case to which the Texas Civil Air Patrol has responded this year.

The CAP responded to 192 missions in 1985, he said, including supplies, natural or man-made disasters, missing hunters, or 'anything where a life is at stake."

The CAP, a volunteer organization, is composed of 85 units in Texas and includes about 1,700 adults and 800-900 younger members, or cadets, he said.

New tax law takes effect

By JIM LUTHER AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON - A far-reaching new tax law begins affecting the paychecks of American workers today, boosting exemptions and cutting rates while reducing or eliminating several favorite

The law, which will shift $1200 billion in taxes from individuals to corporations over five years, is the most thorough overhaul of the federal income tax in at least 33

Individual income taxes will drop by an average of 2.2 percent in 1987, and when the rate reductions are fully effective a year from now, the tax cuts will average 6.1 percent. In both cases, there are losers as well: About 18.5 percent of all taxpayers will pay more this year and 15.5 percent will face tax increases in 1988 and beyond.

For typical taxpayers, none of the changes will affect 1986 tax returns, which are due by April 15. However, the law requires all workers to file new W-4 forms by Oct. 1, instructing their employers how much tax to withhold from each paycheck. The Internal Revenue Service cautions that delaying that chore too long could result in too little tax being withheld, and that could mean a Effective with the new year, the 50 percent maximum individual tax rate drops to 38.5 percent. It will fall to 33 percent in 1988.

The old system of 14 brackets for couples and 15 for single people will be cut to five for 1987. There will be three brackets in 1988 and later years, when three-quarters of all workers will pay a flat rate of 15

Sharply increased personal exemptions and higher standard deductions mean that a fourmember family will be able to make $11,360 this year before paying any income tax, compared with $7,990 in 1986. A single person may earn $4,440, up from $3,560, before incurring income taxes.

Those changes will end the income-tax liability of an estimated 6 million working poor. Other parts of the new law will make it tougher for upper-income investors to avoid the tax collector through the judicious use of deductions. On the other hand, millions of families lose the benefits of deductions for two-earner couples, sales taxes and, gradually, consumer interest. Writeoffs are reduced for medical expenses and such miscellaneous deductions as union dues. Deductions for Individual Retirement Accounts are limited for middle- and upper-income earners, and capital gains will be taxed as ordinary income.

The new law makes major changes in a tax system long decried as overly complex and unfair. It does little to simplify, although the number of people itemizing deductions is expected to drop by about 13 million. It seeks to improve fairness by requiring that people with similar earnings and circumstances pay about the same amount of tax and that any corporation reporting a profit pay

By eliminating or cutting some specific tax advantages, the law reduces the importance of tax consequences as a factor in business TAX LAW page 2A

Texans, others pause to contemplate peace

By The Associated Press

Texans were among thousands of people who gathered in cities across the nation. Wednesday to meditate, sing-and cheer for peace in an observance that coincided with the final day of the United Nations' International Year of Peace.

More than 400 million people in 75 countries were expected to participate in World Peace Day in an hour-long vigil, said Ruth Larkin of the Quatrus Foundation, a nonprofit spiritual awareness center in Austin that acts as census keeper for a loose network of participants. Hundreds of Houstonians did their part, many of them getting up early to attend the 6 a.m. CST program at Jesse H. Jones Hall in downtown Houston, said Larry G. Patton, a co-founder of Houston's Center for Civic Transformation.

Events honoring the hour were also planned in El Paso, Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas and San Antonio.

Kingdome in Seattle, McNichols Sports Arena in Denver for the peace vigil, which began worldwide at noon GMT or 7 a.m.

The idea for the world peace event came from author John Randolph Price, in his 1984 book "The Planetary Commission." Price is associated with the Quartus Foundation, a non-profit spiritual awareness center at Austin. Texas, that kept track of the informal network of organizations celebrating

Lary G. Patton, a co-founder of Houston's Center for Civic Transformation, said he also spoke in a live radio broadcast to Moscow that involved participants in eight

Eric Broach, 15, of Houston took part in a conference telephone call that included youngsters from East Germany, South Africa, Poland, Argentina, Japan, Jordan, Northern Ireland, Israel and Australia

All the messages included a hope for peace and a desire to understand each other better, Patton said. Events also were held in other Texas cities.

Nearly 6,000 gathered in Denver for an hour-long ceremony that included 20 minutes of silent meditation, a candle lighting ceremony and a hand-clapping, sing-along hootenanny with "Amazing Grace" as the rousing finale.

"Just visualize people all over the earth doing this - I think it spreads," said Shirley. Kazlaskia of Aurora, Colo.

People in two dozen cities across Washington state participated, according to Gib Curry, artistic director for the Seattle event, where 6,000 turned out.

'We came here just to say we stand for peace," said Terri Pollard, who attended the Seattle observance. "It helps people realize there is movement to peace, although nothing marvelous is going to happen at this Some 2,500 people turned out in Kansas

"We get together to cheer sports, we cheer the Royals, we cheer the Chiefs. Why can't we cheer something like this?" said Sister Mildred Berdelle, a teacher at Bishop Miege

Hundreds of people went to about 40 public gathering spots in California, including Sausalito Presbyterian Church, organizers

Johanna Harstad, an organizer of the Minneapolis meeting attended by an estimated 7,000, said the observance was non-political and non-religious and that organizers had "no preconceived notions of how peace will

"It definitely had a positive effect, and we hope that what leaders of the different religions - a Catholic priest, an Episcopal minister, a rabbi and a Quaker elder - said about peace will come true, that war and terrorism will end in this world " said the Rev. John Salunek of the Unity Church of Christ in Philadelphia.

Tax law

Continued from page 1A and investor decision-making. On the other hand, there is wide agreement among economists that by sharply boosting taxes on corporations, the law is likely to slow shortterm economic growth and worsen the nation's trade deficit.

Here are some of the major changes. Unless noted otherwise, they are effective for all of 1987.

The personal exemption, which was $1,080 in 1986, rises to $1,900 in 1987 year and $2,000 by 1989.

-The standard deductions, used by those who do not itemize, rise slightly, to $2,540 for singles and $3,760 for couples, in 1987 and will go up significantly in 1988 - to $3,000 for singles and $5,000 for

The special deduction of up to $3,000 for two-earner couples, which offset part of the "marriage penalty," disappears, along with the income-averaging benefit for all taxpavers

-The deduction for state and local sales taxes dies; other taxes remain deductible.

—Only 65 percent of consumer interest incurred in 1987 will be deductible; starting in 1990 none will be deductible. Mortgage interest on two homes generally remains deductible.

—Only medical expenses exceeding 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income will be deductible. The old law had a 5 percent threshold.

charitable contributions by those who do not itemize is repealed.

-Workers who are covered by company pensions and whose income exceeds $35,000 ($50,000 for a counle) are no longer eligible to deduct contributions to an IRA. Singles between $25,000 and $35,000 and couples between $40,000 and $50,000 may take a reduced deduction. Any worker not under a company plan may continue qualifying for a full IRA deduction. The special reduced tax rate for capital gains — profits from the sale of assets owned more than six months — is repealed, although the top rate on those gains will be held to 28 percent in 1987.

-Tax benefits of shifting income The special deduction for from parents to children are reduced considerably. By April 15, 1988, every child 5 and older must have a Social Security number.

—The full deduction for businessrelated meals and entertainment drops to 80 percent.

-Tax-shelter opportunities are reduced considerably. In general, losses from partnership investments may not be used to offset wages and other income. A $25,000 offset is still available for most people actively involved in managing real estate.

-Depreciation periods for real estate are lengthened considerably, and those for most machinery and other personal property generally are shortened. On July 1 the top corporate tax rate, now 46 percent, drops to 34 percent.

Farm prices down from 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prices from its November level. Higher farmers got for raw products in prices for cotton, strawberries, December were an average of 2.4 percent below what they were last December and ended 1986 with a 5.5 percent decline from a year ago, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Department officials say the nation's farm income has generally stabilized and could show "moderate growth" in 1987. The slide in farmland values is expected to continue, however, further eroding assets and reducing the borrowing power of farmers.

The report said lower prices for oranges, tomatoes, broilers, cattle, hogs and turkeys contributed most to the decline in the price index corn and lettuce helped soften the drop for the other commodities.

No new figures were reported to show what happened to prices paid by farmers to meet expenses. The most recent average computed in October showed farm expenses running 0.6 percent below yearearlier levels.

The index is revised only once every three months because of a cutback in funds. Meanwhile, the October "prices paid" figures were carried forward through November and December, with the next revision scheduled in

Changes in grain prices were mixed in December, the report said. Prices for beef cattle and hogs were down, but calf prices were higher during the month. According to the preliminary December figures, based mostly on mid-month averages, prices of crops declined an average of 2.9 percent from November and were down 16 percent from December

Cotton prices at the farm rose an average of 4.5 percent from November and also were up 4.5 percent from December 1985.

Prices for feed grain and hay averaged 1.3 percent higher than in November but still were down 29 percent from a year earlier.

The price index for livestock and livestock products was down 2.8 percent from November but averaged 2.9 percent higher than in December 1985.

LOS ANGELES - A pilot who strayed into restricted airspace just before two other planes collided, killing 82 people, should not be prosecuted by city officials, a Federal Aviation Administration attorney says

E. Tazwell Ellett, the FAA's chief counsel in Washington, also notified Los Angeles City Attorney James Hahn that the agency will not make controller Walter White, who was on duty at the time of the Aug. 31 disaster, available for interviews by city prosecutors investigating the accident.

The FAA also issued a formal order suspending for 120 days the license of the errant pilot, Roland P.V. Furman. Furman's attorney plans an appeal, and the pilot may continue flying while the appeal is pending.

Hahn armounced several weeks ago that his office was starting a criminal investigation into whether Furman violated a state law prohibiting careless and reckless flying.

Peace vigil observed

Thousands of people gathered in cities across the nation Wednesday to meditate, sing and cheer for peace in an observance that coincided with the final day of the United Nations' International Year of Peace.

Americans gathered in the Kingdome in Seattle, McNichols Sports Arena in Denver, the Minneapolis Auditorium and Jones Hall in Houston, among others, for the peace vigil, which began worldwide at noon GMT or 7 a.m.

The idea for the world peace event came from author John Randolph Price, in his 1984 book "The Planetary Commission." Price is associated with the Quartus Foundation, a non-profit spiritual awareness center at Austin, Texas, that kept track of the informal network of organizations celebrating the

SAN FRANCISCO - Undeterred by the holiday breakdown in communications between their nations' leaders, groups of private citizens gathered at parties in San Francisco and Moscow on Wednesday to exchange New Year's greetings over a video hook-up.

"We've got ourselves an international party here," said organizer Joel Schatz of San FranciscoMoscow Teleport, which co-sponsored the TV-telephone hookup.

More than 100 guests were invited to drink champagne and munch on hors d'oeuvres in a San Francisco office building-turned-night club, including artists, philosophers and scientists. On the other side of the world and 11 hours ahead, Muscovites gathered at a discotheque in Gorky Park and in front of an 80-foot-by-50-foot outdoor video screen on the Kalinin Prospekt thoroughfare.

Protest Blood splattered on White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 24-year-old anti-nuclear protester was arrested Wednesday after he entered the White House with a tour group and then splattered what other protesters claimed was human blood on the mansion's front pillars, the Secret Service said.

Four other members of the same protest group, the Atlantic Life Community, were arrested while staging a demonstration along Pennsylvania Avenue just outside the White House grounds, according to U.S. Park

A Secret Service spokesman, Bill Corbett, identified the protester arrested inside the White House grounds as Philip Joseph of Washington. He said Joseph was charged with malicious destruction of government property. Secret Service agents lifted him by his feet and shoulders to carry him away from the presidential

Joseph gained access to the mansion by joining the regular White House tour, Corbett said. The prank left large red splotches several feet up on two of four pillars on the building's north portico. President Reagan was in California for the holidays at the time of the protests. Members of the group, which had staged a similar demonstration Monday at the Pentagon, said the red liquid hurled against the White House pillars was human blood donated by members of the organization. Placards carried by the protesters attacked the Strategic Defense Initiative, deployment of Trident missile-carrying submarines, the Reagan administration's decision to go beyond the limits of the SALT II nuclear arms treaty, and U.S. policies toward Central America and South Africa.

The Rev. Philip Berrigan, a veteran anti-war activist, said "the world has been set on its ear" by the scandal over secret U.S. arms shipments to Iran and the funneling of money from those sales to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

"Its policies have been absolutely gross," Berrigan said about the administration. "They have escalated the nuclear arms race to a horrifying degree.'

Park Police identified the four other protesters ar rested as Scott Galindez, 21, of Lackawanna, N.Y.; Andres Thomas, 27, of Washington; Ellen Thomas, 37, of Washington, and Sunshine Appleby, 42, of Baltimore. They were charged under a provision that bars stationary signs immediately in front of the White House. In Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, a 56-year-old astrophysicist, Charles Hyder, marked the 100th day of his fast to protest the administration's nuclear arms programs. Hyder, who formerly worked as a researcher with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Hyder said his weight has dropped from 300 pounds when he began his fast on Sept. 23 to between 180 and 190 pounds now.

When asked whether he was wavering at all in his determination to continue the fast, Hyder responded, "No. I feel better as time goes on. I feel truly blissful and ecstatic in this. It's clearly mine to do and my pure expression of myself."

50 may be dead in fire

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico - Fire raged through the packed DuPont Plaza luxury hotel in San Juan's main tourist district Wednesday, and officials said they believed at least 50 people were killed and dozens more injured.

Helicopters plucked tourists from the top floor of the 450-room hotel, which reportedly was wracked by three explosions before the blaze began. Others were trapped inside the hotel, which is located in the main Condado

The DuPont Plaza, the former Sheraton Hotel, is one of the largest tourist hotels in Puerto Rico.

One witness said he counted at least 11 bodies, and a hospital said it had sent over 30 body bags

District Attorney Frederico Quinones said victims were not identified immediately

Fire Chief Francisco Ortiz Soto said the cause of the fire was not known, but there were unconfirmed reports that explosions touched off the blaze near the casino on the mezzanine of the 21-story hotel, which formerly was the Sheraton.

The fire chief said at least 50 were believed dead on the second floor of the hotel. "They were under the tables," he said.

Hotel employees said the hotel was full during the height of the winter tourist season.

MOSCOW - Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told his people Wednesday they must work much harder in 1987 to overcome economic stagnation. He also offered "a hand of friendship" to all nations that seek disarmament

In separate remarks, Gorbachev spoke of the overriding need for Americans and Soviets to learn how to "live in peace on this tiny and very fragile planet.'

Wearing a bluesuit and dark tie, Gorbachev addressed the Soviet nation for 812 minutes on television on New Year's Eve shortly before midnight. After he had finished, the television showed the Kremlin chimes ringing in the New Year and played the national anthem.

The Communist Party newspaper, the People's Daily, also warned Peking residents to be especially vigilant against "bad elements" who want to use the capital as a springboard for causing nationwide chaos.

Despite increasingly sharp warnings from the government, students in Peking have continued this week to demonstrate and put up posters calling for more democracy, press freedom and fewer bureaucratic controls on their lives. Student demonstrations also have taken place in at least nine other cities, including Shanghai, in the past month.

Competition name of game

Competitiveness. That's the buzzword for the new year as Democrats, firmly in control of Congress for the first time in Ronald Reagan's presidency, seek to address the trade deficit without falling victim to Republican charges of protectionism.

Their sense of urgency is being fueled not only by the deficit itself — likely to hit $170 billion in 1986 — but by a feeling that American companies have been losing their traditional competitive edge to foreign firms.

Republicans also are beginning to push the idea. President Reagan reportedly is going to highlight the need to sharpen America's industrial competitiveness in his State of the Union message this month.

Competitiveness, of course, means different things to different people. For those within the administration pushing the issue, it means a stronger emphasis on education, looser antitrust rules and a greater commitment to research and

Some administration officials also would include retraining and possibly adjustment assistance for workers who lose their jobs as a result of the restructuring needed to make smokestack industries competitive in world markets.

The Democrats support many of the same goals. A report issued recently by an eight-member task force of Senate Democrats emphasized expanded technology research and new education initiatives.

Specific recommendations range from establishing new graduate fellowships in science and engineering, to expanding funds for computer instruction in schools, to full implementation of a computerized federal job bank

The two parties differ over just what the government's role should be in helping restore this country's ability to compete. Democratic Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona carries the discussion a step further. Competitiveness, he points out, depends on productivity. And productivity requires changes in the way the United States does business.

Babbitt calls for greater profit sharing between management and workers and an end to the traditional adversarial relationship between labor and management. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, the Texas Democrat who takes over as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicts that trade "will be the first major legislation that we'll work on." Speaker of the House Jim Wright expresses similar intentions.

Their attention to the issue is welcome, though it must be tempered by Gov. Babbitt's call for more basic changes. His observations should serve as a reminder that legislation can go only so far to increase American competitiveness

Much depends on changing attitudes and breaking old habits. That could take a while.

Somebody needs to legislate morality in Big Spring. And, the funny part in all this is, we haven't heard a word from the Big Spring churches or pastors Boy, the one we had at home didn't have a long rod if you misbehaved in church or anywhere else. He did have a big voice and morality, and when he spoke the whole town listened and didn't dare do anything wrong. He baptized and married us, and people know where they stood.

I wonder if he would be sobered up if he killed someone on the road. My sister was killed on the road.

Why not just get the taverns out of town instead of closing at 12. Just close, period.

Vietnamese gangs infiltrate underworld in Down Under

and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The export of criminal techniques from Australia to the United States began in Gold Rush days, when the "Sydney Ducks" were running wild on San Francisco's Barbary Coast. The favor was returned in recent years as motorcycle gangs modeled after the Pagans and Hell's Angels have spread death and drugs across the Australian

Now we've learned that Vietnamese gangs similar to those operating in U.S. cities have been infiltrating the underworld Down Under. Details of their operations are contained in an internal report prepared by police officials in Victoria, the populous state on the southeast corner of Australia. Our associate Donald Goldberg has a commot the report.

The problem has caused growing oncern among Australian authorities. There are 86,000 Vietnamese in the country now, and 80,000 more waiting to immigrate.

The report — based on a police investigation called "Operation Bao Ve" (loosely translated as extortion) — describes Vietnamese gang activities dating back to 1982. The first major incident occurred in the summer of that year, when a hotel manager was stabbed by gang members trying to kidnap two sisters from their room.

The record over the next few vears included hit-and-run shootings, armed robberies and assassinations. By 1985, it was clear that many local merchants were paying extortion to finance arrested gang members' costly legal fees.

The authorities' first big break came in August of last year, when a courageous Vietnamese shopkeeper told police that gangsters were demanding protection money from her. That opened the floodgates, and other merchants began to come forward.

Two suspects were soon in custody, charged with blackmail, armed robbery and other crimes. smashed and other acts of intimidation discouraged the witnesses

Eventually, the police were able to identify three main Vietnamese gangs and their splinter groups in eastern Australia, One pice of information was particularly alarming: Four Vietnamese men tried to purchase military uniforms and insignia. When asked what the material would be used for, one gang member replied that it was for the operation of a training

"Investigations thus far have brought to light a definite and identifiable hierarchy or structure within these individual gangs and also between the gangs," the Victoria report states. "The more senior a gang member becomes, the less actual direct involvement with gang activities occurs."

In a typical operation, teenage gang members of 15 or 16 actually threaten shopkeepers, while their older colleagues wait nearby to add weight to the intimidation. The younger gang members also vandalize stores of uncooperative merchants.

"It is apparent, however," the report continues, "that the offenses involving physical violence, i.e. murder and serious assaults, are performed by the more senior members. The reason for this is to maintain a high level of personal esteem with their followers.

The report sums up the situation this way: "It can be seen from the history of the vietnamese gangs in Victoria and their associated involvement in criminal activities, coupled with a reluctance of victims to cooperate with authorities. that the task of policing these gangs is an extremely daunting one. The problems we are currently facing are language and culture, puter chip — the 80386 — will have a much bigger world market if, as expected, Congress approves new export regulations governing the sale of technology, according to a recent issue of "Infoworld."

The 80386, which is expected to become the new standard in personal computer chips, has a performance level that is too high for export to any but our NATO allies.

It has such a high performance measure that it can't be sold to about 70 other "free world" countries, which are limited to lower capacity chips. The new regulations would raise the permissible performance level for exports to

The intent of restricting export of high-performance computer chips is to keep them from finding their way to Soviet Bloc countries. Because of the new regulations, our sources say, the super-chips sold to the 70 countries — or even to the NATO allies — might eventually end up in Moscow.

Chamber reviews ideas

column provided by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Board of Directors of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the 1987 committee chairmen have been planning a 1987 action program that includes some new ideas and projects. One of those ideas is to initiate Business After Hours mixer-type meetings These informal gatherings would be scheduled simply to allow chamber members to mingle, share ideas, strengthen business relationships and general new business contacts and prospects. The plans calls for a chamber member to host the meeting, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on a weekday. Admission would be by business card only, and members would be invited to distribute cards and brochures Another idea is to reactivate the major employers' meetings on a quarterly basis. They provide participants a chance to share ideas that will improve business opportunities in the community.

Many times, ideas from such meetings can identify products that could be made in Big Spring, thereby helping to generate industrial prospect ideas.

Another idea, which may seem novel to Big Spring, is developing a program through which the chamber could act as a clearinghouse for information about merchandise and services offered here. These probably would be specialty items that might be hard to located, or services not commonly offered in some communities. The Chemical People Committee, which concentrates its efforts on the use and abuse of drugs in the community, is showing renewed support and enthusiasm for 1987. This committee has proposed a teen court operation for Big Spring. The court would work in conjuction with local law enforcement officials to stop the drug problems in the younger population.

Harland Narem, local Servicemaster dealer, has suggested promoting Big Spring as "Home of the world's best longhorn beef." The city already has the world's largest collection of Texas longhorns in the Heritage Museum, and the idea could develop into a great promotional plan. One way to approach the idea would be to make Big Spring the place to come to get such items as longhorn steaks, burger, chili, and fajitas at local restaurants. The possibilities may be endless and the idea could just what the city needs to draw travelers off Interstate 20 and Highway 87. Many people already contacted about the idea think it's a good one.

A continuing program that has been successful is the Athletic Commitee's work to attract playoff games to Big Spring - both football and basketball.

The city served as host this year for the football playoff game bet ween Regan County (Big Lake) and Anson. That game brought about 1700 football fans and visitors to the community. We know those visitors had at least one meal here and some stayed overnight. That means lots of dollars were brought into our community that weekend as a result of the committee's efforts.

Another successful effort is the Transportation Committee's Highway 87 expansion plan. Under the leadership of Arnold Marshall, the committee was represented at the recent annual meeting of the Highway 87 Improvement Association. Attending were Joe Pickle, Jerry Worthy and LeRoy Tillery.

The speaker was the new state engineer-director, Raymond Stotzer, an old friend and former college classmate of Hayes Stripl-The Convention and Visitors

Bureau continues to develop more active and effective promotional tools. Among the bureau's new promotional items are a four-color brochure, a new city may, an expanded quarterly calendar of events and a new history brochure that lists points of interest. These are some of the new ideas and continuing programs the chamber works on annually. The chamber has 27 active committees, all working toward the same goal the improvement and betterment of Big Spring.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago I left my wife and five teen-agers to marry my secretary, with whom I'd been having an affair. I felt I couldn't live without her. When my wife found out about us, she went to pieces. We were divorced. My wife went to work and did a good job of bringing up our children. I gave her the house and part of my retirement

I am fairly happy in my second marriage, but I'm beginning to see things in a different light. It hit me when I was recently a guest at our eldest son's wedding. That's all I was — a guest. I am no longer considered part of the family. My first wife knew everyone present, and she was showered with affection. She has remarried, and her husband has been warmly accepted into the circle that was once ours. They gave the rehearsal dinner and sat next to my son and his bride. Near them sat our other children and their sweethearts.

I was proud to have a young, beautiful wife at my side, but it didn't make up for the pain when I realized that my children no longer loved me as they once did. They treated me with courtesy but there was no real caring.

I miss my family, especially around the holidays. I know now my second wife will never really be accepted, as she was the reason I left my wife and family.

I'm writing in the hope that

Dorothy Davis proudly sits amidst her artwork in her stocking room at her home in Corpus Christi. The room has furniture upholstered in old pantyhose which Davis stretched into tight little tubes and sewed into artful arrangements creating a unique environment for the artist.

Folk art triumphs over anger

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) -Dorothy Davis' story is a story about the triumph of art over anger

A decade and a half ago, Mrs Davis said, she got very angry at her husband, Oliver, as wives will get angry at their husbands on occasion. But instead of taking her wrath out on Oliver, she began directing it elsewhere.

"When I feel angry, I just take it out on creating beautiful things," is the way she put it. "And when I create something beautiful I can look back on it and see something beautiful I created out of the anger I had. And that makes me feel

For starters, Mrs. Davis did one roomful of walls up in swatches of pink, brown, yellow, green, chartreuse, black, gold and white cloth. Later, a good big batch of old neckties came into her possession. She used them to upholster two chairs, one couch, a dresser and an end table

She did another room — referred to as The Stocking Room — up in old pantyhose. Furniture is upnoistered with them, parts of the walls are covered with them. There are dozens and dozens of pairs of pantyhose in all, which Mrs. Davis stretched into tight little tubes and sewed into artful arrangements.

Other rooms are non-theme havens. In one, the brass slides of old trombones are employed as curtain rods. In another, a fireplace is decorated with an assortment of old buttons Mrs. Davis found and some little blue rocks she had left over after a fishbowl-landscaping project.

assist you.

In yet another room, scraps from heart"). a female impersonator's prizewinning dress adorn the headboard of a bed.

Mrs. Davis has a catholic assortment of friends who donate things for the cause of her art. Among them is the female impersonator, who once won a $500 prize in a barroom drag competition while wearing an intact version of the dress scraps that now adorn the Davis headboard.

Other frequent contributors are members of Mrs. Davis' church, the Pentecostal Church of God in Christ. All those neckties were the beguest of a widowed churchmember whose husband, Mrs. Davis said, "was a man who truly loved neckties.

In recent years, Mrs. Davis' energies have begun to spill over into sculpture. One creation -features a couple of bejeweled and painted-up raccoon bones that reside in a sandbox near a turkeybone tree. An accompanying notecard bears Mrs. Davis' written description of the scene: "Lying in the sun, basting in the heat, each en ying the other's jewels. So shallow-minded. They should concentrate on 'Worry about who you are, not what you have.' "The title of the piece is "Two Coon Bone Bitches.

A work in progress consists of two clay figures which Mrs. Davis said represent "my opinion of man." Among prominent features are the tines of a dinner fork protruding from a mouth (to represent "a forked tongue," Mrs. Davis said) and a rock implanted in one

There is more, much more, in the Davis house at 1608 Van Loan. Quite a lot of the contents are scheduled to take a little trip across town next year, to the Art Museum of South Texas.

Sometime around the middle of 1987, museum director Ric Collier plans to recreate the Stocking Room, the Necktie Room and other rooms in Dorothy Davis' amazing house at the museum.

The show has the makings of an exhibit that could bring Mrs. Davis to prominence as a folk artist of great note. Her career may well come to parallel that of Willard 'The Texas Kid" Watson, who filled the yard of his Dallas home with assemblages of junk that were regarded for years as mere curiosities. More recently, they have been given their due. Some of Watson's work was on exhibit at the Dallas Museum of Art this past

There are many sides to the life of Dorothy Davis. Over the years, she and her husband have taken in large numbers of foster children. Mrs. Davis said she has lost exact count of how many. These and other aspects of her life have been documented in a half-hour film, titled "Dorothy Davis," which was made two years ago by the Southwest Alternative Media Project in cooperation with the Art Museum of South Texas.

It may be, then, that Dorothy Davis has succeeded in helping to fashion some beautiful lives along figure at chest level ("stony with some impressive art.

Burning feet treatment is iffy

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you discuss erythromelalgia? My daughter, age 48, has been told she has this. After consulting his books, her doctor said no cure has been found. She even wrote to a big clinic and they couldn't help. She has had this for several years, but the last three or four years it's gotten worse. What is your opinion? -F.D.

The treatment of erythromelalgia has not been exactly a smashing success story:

It is, as your daughter has undoubtedly told you, a redness and burning of the feet and hands. It usually comes on with either standing, exercise, or exposure to heat itself. That doesn't leave much room for relief. A common story is for the paint to appear when the person goes to bed and puts his feet under the covers.

As you can surmise, no cause for problem has been found. In a few instances, diseases like polycythemia (excess red blood cells) or thrombocythemia (a platelet problem) may lie behind the symptoms.

The treatment is almost embarrassingly simple to relate. Most of it is instinctive, such as keeping the hands and feet cool by not covering them at night and wearing opentoed shoes or sandals during the day. Aspirin has helped some. And the drug, methysergide, might be both asking about.

If your daughter has had this as long as you say, she probably knows more about treatment than I or her own doctor knew. If she has any other hints, why doesn't she write and pass them along?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am under treatment for a painful tailbone problem. My doctor says to get a soft cushion to relieve stress on it. No cushion helps. The pain is excruciating. Aren't there special cushions you can buy? Do you have material on such back problems? — Mrs. P.Y.

You should be able to locate a suitable cushion. Is there a medical supply store near you? Try these. I can pass along a way to make your own (gleaned from a recent journal). You're welcome to it.

You use a sheet of thick (three inches at least) foam rubber. Pattern it to fit over the seat and chair back. Then cut out an opening over the sensitive area, where the tailbone rests. The surrounding foam rubber should support the buttock generally while the opening permits relief of pressure on the bone itself. Such problems are discussed in the booklet "Backache and Spine Problems." Other readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope and one dollar.

Case involving charities to be appealed

EL PASO (AP) — City Council voted Tuesday to appeal a judge's ruling that an ordinance requiring organizations to tell donors how much of their contributions will actually go to charity is unconstitutional.

State District Judge Edward Marquez sided with the El Paso Jaycees, who had objected to that requirement, a key provision in the city's Charitable Solicitation Ordinance.

The Jaycees and the professional fundraising company they hired, Garbino and Johns of Texas, argued that making the disclosure would hamper their efforts to raise money for the Jaycees' annual children's film

In its 1985 festival campaign, Garbino and Johns raised $70,780, of which $16,784, or 23.7 percent, went directly to the Jaycees. The remaining $53,996, or 76.3 percent, went to pay the company's fees and expenses.

About 75 percent of the money raised in the 1986 campaign would also go toward fundraising expenses, the Jaycees said.

Last January, the city went to court to halt the Jaycees' fund-raising drive and seek a ruling on the legality of the provision.

Texas Attorney General Jim Maddox joined the city, saying the disclosure provision is necessary to protect consumers from unscrupulous fund-raising activities.

The state also contended that "a high fundraising fee betrays the expectations of donors who believe their contribution will primarily be used to benefit the charitable purpose.'

There is an element of deception when only a small fraction of the money raised goes to charity, the state's case stated, adding that the Jaycees allegedly engaged in a number of "false, misleading or deceptive acts."

The Jaycees denied that their fund-raising efforts were misleading or deceptive and cited the testimony of Kerry Ellison, a member of the city's Charitable Solicitation Commission, who said the disclosure requirement is confusing.

Ellison also said he thought at first that 75 percent of the money raised would leave El Paso, when in fact most of it would remain in the city in expenses and wages paid to telephone solicitors.

Shuttle crew's last words epitaph for year: 'Uh-Oh'

By ROBERT BARR Associated Press Writer

"Uh-oh."

Those were the last words recorded from the crew of space shuttle Challenger. It was 73 seconds into the flight, and pilot Michael J. Smith had noticed something.

An instant later the rocket blew apart, leaving a jagged "Y" of vapor trials against the deep blue Florida sky.

Perhaps that was the thought, if not the phrase, at the Chernobyl nuclear plant just before a hydrogen explosion shattered the No. 4 reactor.

Our peril from our own inventions was hauntingly evident in 1986. The dangers had been too often forgotten — shuttle flights had become so routine that congressmen went along - and the greatest danger proved to be the human factor.

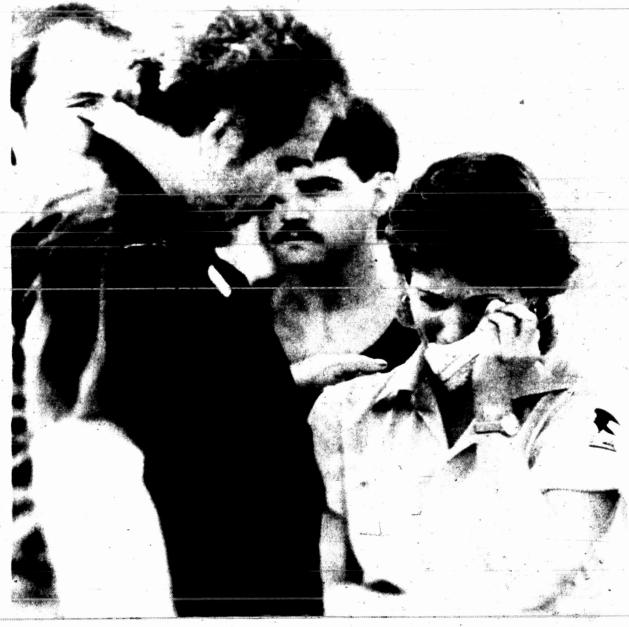

Machines weren't the whole story. Thousands died from an earthquake in El Salvador and a poison gas cloud in Cameroon; hundreds of people around the world were slain by terrorists, and 14 people were gunned down in the post office in Edmond, Okla. Democrats regained control of Congress, and the White House became tangled in a strange plan to ship arms to Iran and money to Nicaraguan rebels.

America still knew how to party, though, and kept it up through a long weekend honoring the newly repaired Statue of Liberty. The restoration was a model for recognizing problems, finding solutions, getting them done.

There was much to set right. The defect that killed the seven aboard Challenger was a seal in the booster rocket that had been troublesome for a long time, especially in cold weather. Challenger was launched after a rare icy night.

That was the last mistake, but the chain of error started in 1973 from the simple impulse to save money, an investigative committee concluded.

"The space shuttle's solid rocket booster problem began with the faulty design of its joint and increased as both NASA and contractor management first failed to recognize it as a problem, then failed to fix it and finally treated it as an acceptable flight risk," said the committee headed by former Chernobyl and of Three Mile Secretary of State William

"The defect of the system was that the designers did not foresee the awkward and silly actions by the operators," said Valery A. Legasov, Soviet representative to an international conference on the disaster.

But it was more complicated than that, and the Soviets shut down similar reactors for modifications.

Within days, he reassigned Vice Adm. John Poindexter, his National Security Adviser, and sacked Poindexter's aide, Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, who was accused of engineering the Iran-Contra connection. Congress geared up to investigate.

The bombing of a West German discotheque frequented by U.S. soldiers provoked a U.S. air strike against Libya. The administration said it had evidence that Col. Moammar Gadnati's government was involved in the discotheque attack.

'You've had it, pal,' Secretary of State George Shultz said in a most undiplomatic warning to the Libyan leader.

But Libya, too, became an embarrassment for Reagan. The administration was caught plotting a campaign of "disinformation" about Gadhafi. State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb resigned

USC after Citrus upset

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The University of Southern California hopes to present Coach Ted Tollner with a victory in his final game Thursday as the Trojans meet 10thranked Auburn in the Florida Citrus Bowl that kicks off five New Year's Day games.

The kickoff is scheduled for 12:12 p.m. EST in the nationallytelevised contest which will be played for the first time on New Year's Day. It marks the first time Auburn and Southern California have met on the football field.

Tollner, 46, was fired by school officials after the Trojans fell to 7-4 after losing their final two games of the season to longtime rivals UCLA and Notre Dame.

Despite the turmoil surrounding Tollner, he and his players said Wednesday they had prepared norhally for Auburn.

Auburn, 9-2, comes into the game as the favorite, but Coach Pat Dve is concerned about the emotional level at which Southern Cal may play.

Because of the two late-season losses, Tollner did send his team through some contact drills this week. Auburn refrained from hitting during its workouts this week. While Southern Cal is concerned about Auburn's potent running game, the Trojans are confident in their own offense.

'We think we can score," said quarterback Rodney Peete, who became the first sophomore in school history to pass for over 2,000 vards in a season. "The 37 points we got against Notre Dame gives us a lot of confidence.

Southern Cal averaged 23.4 points a game this season while Auburn scored at a 34.5,clip.

Senior Tiger tailback Brent Fullwood rushed for 1,391 yards during the season to spark the offense.

Auburn lost by a total of five points to Florida and Georgia and in its only other close game of the season the Tigers beat archrival Alabama 21-17

'86 was a good year

The first six months of '86 in the world of sports in Big Spring was recapped Wednesday; let's continue along memory lane and finish out the year.

I know the subject has already been addressed, but football led the JULY happenings. Three area gridders inked agreements to play college football. The Coahoma duo of running back Dale Hodnett and cornerback Darrell Abregg signed on with Sul Ross State University. Sul Ross also signed Stanton linebacker Michael Holt.

The next big news was when Howard Coach Larry Brown served as assistant coach for the South team at the U.S. Olympic Festival in Houston. The South finished in Closing out the Little League scene, the Odessa Jim Parker All-Stars defeated the Big Spring American League All-Stars 7-3 to win the District III Little League Tournament.

In boxing news, Big Spring 132-pounder, Jamie Baldwin, won the silver medal in the Florida Sunshine Games. He was decisioned in the title bout by Korean Lin Haeng Bon Rate, the '84 Olympic bronze medalist.

With the exception of girls, softball, AUGUST was a relatively quiet month for area sports.

In girls' softball action, the Big Spring United Girls Softball Association Division I, II and IV All-Stars won the regional tournament in Andrews, advancing to the nationals in Andrews.

The UGSA All-Stars put themselves on the national map as Divisions I, II and IV all finished second in the nationals.

Grady distance star Shanna Hale closed out the news in July when she signed a track scholarship with Pan American University.

SEPTEMBER brought football and everyone was anxious to see how the Steers would do in their new district.

In the season opener at Memorial Stadium, the Steers survived eight fumbles and over 100 yards in penalities to '86 page 3B defeat El Paso Riverside 21-12.

One week later, the Steers suffered their only regular season setback, a 56-6 drubbing by Lubbock Estacado at Memorial Stadium. Estacado racked up over 400 yards on offense and returned three punts for scores.

Local hoop fans got a taste of the run-and-gun style of the National Basketball Association on Sept. 23. Thanks to the efforts of HC coach Larry Brown and the Park Inn, the NBA Shootout came to Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Behind Derrick Gervin's 47 points, the White team defeated the Reds, 196-180. Allan Leavell scored 45 points for the White team.

On Sept. 28, former Big Spring star and former All-Pro quarterback Charley Johnson was inducted into the Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame.

Local semi-pro baseball team, the Big Spring Red Sox, closed out baseball season on a good note for the area. Coach Bill Diaz's team won the Central Texas League crown by downing the San Angelo Brewers 10-4 in the championship game of the two-of-three series.

The Red Sox ended the season with a 38-6 mark, and a pair of that team's players earned honors: Adam Yanez was tabbed the MVP and Ron Finnell got the Best Hitter

The month of OCTOBER began with some golfing news. Ron Broadrick shot a 36-hole 146 to win his third straight Big Spring City Golf Championship.

Basketball season got underway as the Howard College Hawk-Queens began by taking a 54-48 win over Temple in the McLennan Classic.

The HC Hawks began NOVEMBER by winning their season opener, 95-90 over Garden City, Kansas in the Midland College Chapparal Classic.

The Big Spring cross country teams grabbed the headlines in November. The girls won the District 2-4A cross country meet. The boys finished second and both teams qualified to go on to the regional meet in Lubbock.

The biggest news of the year occured seven days into the month. The Big Spring Steers clinched their first district football championship in 33 years when they defeated the Snyder Tigers 27-17 in Snyder.

Back to the thinciags. Senior Mario Gonzales and sophomore Manuela Bernal both qualified for the state cross country meet in Georgetown with strong performances at the regionals. Gonzales finished third and Bernal finished 10th.

The Steers' football team defeated Andrews 27-0 in the final regular season game at Memorial Stadium. Big Spring closed the regular season 9-1, and 8-0 in district play. The Steers were ranked eighth in the state by the Harris Poll and tenth by the Associated Press.

At the state cross crountry meet Mario Gonzales finished 18th and Manuela Bernal finished 35th.

The Forsan Buffaloes was the only other football team to qualify for the state playoffs. They won District 6-AA with a 4-0-1 record and finished the regular season with a 9-0-1

First-year coach Elaine Stone's Lady Steers' volleyball team finished the season with a 9-17 overall mark and 5-11

On November 21, Forsan's season came to an end as the Buffaloes were defeated 16-6 by Goldthwaite in the area playoffs in Abilene.

One night later in Lubbock, the Steers' season ended when they were defeated 26-17 by Hereford in bi-district

On the same night the Steers were defeated by Hereford, the Big Spring Lady Steers' basketball team dropped a 56-44 decision to Lubbock Coronado in the finals of the Spring City Invitational. Senior Teresa Pruitt was named to the All-Tournament team.

The 2-4A All-District volleyball teams were released and junior spiker Katrina Thompson was named to the Fill team and senior middle blocker Sheri Myrick made the Honorable Mention team.

The 2-4A All-District football team was dominated by Big Spring and runner-up Sweetwater. Steers' Coach Quinn Eudy was named Coach of the Year and five Steers were named to the first teams. They were halfback Phillip Mathews, safety Brian Mayfield, offensive tackle Matt Burrow, defensive tackle Jay Burcham and noseguard Todd Coker.

DECEMBER began with gymnastics news. The Big Spring Sidewinders' boys gymnastics team ventured east and won the team championship at the Dallas Metroplex Invitational. Corey McAdams was the overall champion.

The annual Crossroads Country Football Honor Roll was released and Big Spring and Forsan dominated the teams. Steers' coach Quinn Eudy was named Coach of the Year while Forsan running back Wayne Wright was tabbed Offensive Player of the Year and Big Spring defensive end Deeg Young was Defensive Player of the Year.

Area players reaped more football honors. Eudy was named South Plains Coach of the Year by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Making the All-South Plains Team was Forsan linemen Stacy Munoz and Mike Averette, along with quarterback Brant Nichols.

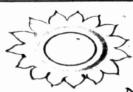

Making the squad from Big Spring was punter Brian Mayfield and defensive tackle Jay Burcham. Klondike wide receiver Nicky Hill made the squad, as well as Sands running back Jay Fryar.

Coming to the end of the year, local bull rider Wacey Cathey finished sixth in the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, when he won $30,450 in the two-week competition.

All local basketball teams finished the Christmas break with winning records. The Big Spring Lady Steers were 12-1 overall and 4-0 in district play at the time of the break. The Big Spring Steers were 9-7 overall and 2-0 in league play at the break.

The Hawk-Queens finished the first half of the season with a 12-5 overall mark and 2-2 conference record. The HC Hawks were 8-7 and 2-2 in conference play.

So there you have it, the full recap of '86. It was a good year, one worthy of a backward glance.

It was a year of both delight and despair. And, even in the deaths of Bias and Rogers, people sought

"Tragically, in death, Don Rogers may have made more of a contribution to society than he could have on the playing field," said owner Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns, for whom Rogers played. "Let's hope his passing serves as a warning to those who want to try, or have used, drugs.

Rogers, a free safety, died of a massive cocaine overdose on June 27, the day before he was to have been married. He was 23. Bias, an All-American forward at Maryland, died of cocaine intoxication on June 19, two days after the Boston Celtics made him their top pick in the NBA draft. He was 22.

"There's so much hurt in it," Maryland vice chancellor Drury Bagwell said. "It's as if you were in the process of burying your brother and people start asking about his use of drugs and his sex life and what about your great uncle Horace who stole that horse.'

Shoemaker was 54 when he became the oldest man to win a Kentucky Derby, on May 3 riding a colt named Ferdinand for 73-yearold trainer Charlie Whittingham. One month later, trainer Woody Stephens won his fifth straight Belmont Stakes, at 72.

It may have been April 13, but Nicklaus called it "the December of my career" when he won the Masters at 46. The victory was Nicklaus' 18th in a major golf tournament and a record-setting sixth in the Masters.

"I'm not the player I was 10 or 15 years ago," Nicklaus said, "but I can still play a little bit at times." Floyd was 43 on June 16 when he became the oldest golfer to win the U.S. Open, and Allison, at 48,

Like Big Spring, Forsan football found good fortune in 1986. The Buffaloes won

April 25 found yet another storm passing by Big Spring, with total yearly rainfall less than three inches below normal — to that point.

A LOOK BACK

1986 was Texas' Sesquicentennial year, and area residents celebrated along with the rest of the state. Coahoma Elementary students present one of many -school skits performed during the observance of the state's 150th anniversary of independence.

Meadowlark Lemon brought his Shooting Stars into town last March, while NBA players were nooping for Big Spring fans September 24.

The Big Spring High School marching band members tooted their way through district and regional competition, earning a trip to Austin for state performance.

Massive rainsforms and subsequent flooding in August created hardships for many residents. However, some found ways to make the best of the situation. In this case, a leap from a car into the newly-created "Lake Third Street."

On the morning of April 19, a devastating tornado struck Sweetwater, damaging more than 800 homes; the storm claimed one life.

The year 1986 was one of happiness and heartbreak for residents of the Crossroads Country. Worry over water problems could fade to wonder over the Steers' winning another football game.

The past year might best be described as "expect the unexpected."
