20 jobs available at prison camp

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

At a time when the West Texas oil patch is suffering from high unemployment as a result of the slump in the oil and agricultural industries, the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp has announced approximately 20 jobs are available. Superintendent Anthony Belaski announced this morning that the prison camp has openings for corpositions, and for physician and recreational assistants.

Belaski explained that the prison camp has been operating with a base of 110 employees, but recently received approval to add 15 fulltime permanent positions and one full-time temporary job.

The temporary job will last for a couple of years, he added.

The age requirement, however, appears to be one of the biggest problem in filling some of the positions, according to Personnel Officer Shirley Secrease.

Businesses, citizens sue city for $1.7 million

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Residents and businesses seeking $1.7 million for damages suffered during the Aug. 30 floods have filed a lawsuit in 118th District Court against the City of Big Spring Extraordinarily heavy rains on that date resulted in a breach in Comanche Lake Dam, flooding nearby homes and businesses. Debris buildup in the Big Spring Draw storm sewer system contributed to the flood, the suit states.

The plaintiffs are seeking Monmouth St. $1,751,221 in damages, including $1,611,521 in business and property loss and $139,700 for mental anguish.

In addition to The Spring City Do-It Center, Highland Pontiac-Datsun, Sunrison Homes, Southwestern A-1 Pest Control. BKWT, Inc., six individuals are listed as plaintiffs. They are: Leonard R. and Laurie Brooks, (no address); Marvin and Cleta Britton, 2300 Marshall Drive; and Charles and Bonita Hicks, 1301

The suit filed Jan. 6 accuses the city of negligence on 10 points, including "maintaining a nuisance known as Comanche Lake Dam and Spillway" and failing to redesign the lake and spillway to comply with Texas Water Commission requirements. The commission inspected the dam Sept. 27, 1979, and March 5, 1986. An inspection report states that the dam and spillway are "hydraulically inadequate and considered unsafe," and that spillway could result in loss of life.

The report states that the dam's deficiencies "can be easily controlled by establishment of a regular maintenance and inspection program. Some type of downstream warning plan should be developed. The effects of the seepage on the dam's stability should be investigated."

The lawsuit states that the city failed to develop an inspection and maintenance program for the dam, failed to establish a plan for warn-failure of the embankment and ing downstream residents and businesses in case of flood, and failed to warn them on the night the flood occurred.

The suit states the city failed to maintain the Big Spring Draw storm sewer system and failed to update and properly map the flood

City Manager Mack Wofford said he doesn't feel free to answer allegations on pending litigation.

He said city attorneys have 20 days to file an answer to the suit, CITY SUIT page 2A

2,157 enroll at college for spring

If pre-registration figures are indicative, Howard College could continue one of its best enrollments in several years, Dr. Cheri Sparks, vice president for student life said this morning.

This year, Howard's enrollment stands at about 2,157 - including area centers and continuing education students, Sparks said.

During pre-registration in December, 175 students filed paperwork for spring classes - 84 more than last year, said Lisa Fort, executive secretary to Sparks and the college president.

In Spring 1986 the student population was 2,220. Fall 1986 totals were 2,188, according to the registrar's office. Both totals include area centers and continuing education students

Two reasons college officials expect increased enrollment this January are the number of inquiries and the depressed economy, Sparks said.

She explained that a considerable number of young people have returned, or decided to attend college locally because they can't afford to go elsewhere, Sparks

Registration is scheduled Jan: 15 to 26, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the East Room of the Coliseum.

Crimestoppers award informant $1,000 for help

Big Spring Crimestoppers officials Wednesday awarded $1,000 to a confidential informant who provided information leading to 16 narcotics arrests and the recovery of $44,000 in illegal drugs, and paid a $200 reward for information leading to the recovery of $1,000 in stolen merchandise.

Crimestoppers information allowed the Big Spring Police Department, the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration and outside agents to conduct an undercover investigation of narcotics trafficking in Big Spring from February through November, 1986, according to Police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

When the investigation was finished, approximately $44,000 in illegal drugs had been seized or purchased, including LSD, cocaine, amphetamines and heroin, he said

Approximately 4,000 doses of LSD were seized in Midland, and investigators stated that nearly every type of known drug was either offered for sale, purchased or seized during the sting, Edwards

Also seized during the operation were a customized Dodge van and a customized "bigfoot" Chevrolet pickup. The two were valued at $60,000.

Of 21 suspects, 16 have been arrested and two have pleaded guilty or were convicted and sentenced, he said. Offender Guy Seely was convicted in September of possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance, Edwards said. He was sentenced to 10 years in prison, but the sentence was reduced to five years probation.

During the investigation, an officer purchased an explosive device from one of the suspects, Edwards said. The device, which had been kept in a residential neighborhood, consisted of a stick of dynamite laced with a detonation cord and a fuse, he said.

A $200 reward was paid to a confidential informant who provided information that led to the recovery of approximately $1,000 in stolen goods.

On May 14, Deputy George Quintero of the Howard County Sheriff's Department received the information that a vacant house at 1414 W. Second St. was being used to store stolen goods.

Recovered were several cases of beer and other consumable goods that were identified as stolen from Betty Lou's Cafe and Lounge May town's 35 water wells are contaminated with leaded and unleaded gasoline and may pose a long-term threat to those who drink it, Texas Water Commission officials say.

Texas town's water polluted with gas

Ken Kruger, TWC district manager in San Angelo, said Wednesday the water does not contain toxic amounts of gasoline, but does contain cancer-causing chemicals. The community is in Nolan County, about 30 miles southeast of Colorado City.

Krueger said he found large amounts of two cancer-causing chemicals, benzene and toluene, in four wells.

"We couldn't even drink coffee made with the Water commission officials began testing the wells in this town of 75 people during June 1986 after resident Nell Hill complained her water smelled like gasoline, Krueger said. Railroad Commission officials tested the water in the summer of 1985, but did not find gasoline or other chemicals, Ms. Hill said. One family will be tested for lead poisoning, but Krueger said he doubts any will be found because the gasoline contains small amounts of Water commission investigators plan to check underground gas tanks at several of the community's businesses to find the source of the gasoline, Krueger said.

If the gasoline source is found and shut off, water commission workers will clean the water by placing a bacteria in the wells that can break down and digest gasoline, Krueger said. After the bacteria breaks down the gasoline, chlorine will be added to kill the bacteria, he

Meanwhile, residents with uncontaminated wells have been sharing their water, "but I'm not sure how much longer we'll be able to because it's spreading," Tally said.

Big Springers in the south and eastern parts of town may have arrived late for work this morning as clocks stopped due to an early morning power failure.

The problem occurred when an insulator failed at 12th and Scurry Streets at 1:49 a.m., causing two feeders to fail, according to Jan Hansen, administrative assistant at Texas Electric Service Co.

Senator proposes reforms

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Since criminals won't quit their antics just because prisons are overcrowded. Sen. Buster Brown, R-Lake Jackson, said Wednesday he is proposing several criminal justice reforms.

Several planks filed for review in the 1987 Texas Legislature are designed to stop the "revolving door" at the Texas Department of Corrections, said Brown, a former prosecutor.

The proposals are bound to be controversial.

By their nature, the bills would make it harder to limit the prison population and force lawmakers, who begin meeting next week, to consider more

However, federal contempt of court proceedings regarding unmet prison reform orders also may require legislators to take out the state checkbook. Regarding his crime package, Brown said, "If that means adobligations and house those prisoners." A tax hike may be necessary to pay for more prisons if money can't otherwise be squeezed from the state budget, he said. Brown's reform proposals include repealing the early tightening prison furlough pro-

for criminals to win new trials and easier for prosecutors to offer evidence. His other bills include limiting the Speedy Trial Act, requiring inmates to make reimbursement for damage to state prison property, and making it man-

Crime Stopper programs. Another proposal would require persons convicted of indecency with a child involving sexual contact to serve a mandatory one-third of their sentence or 20 years, whichever is less. But the offender could not serve less than two years in prison, a Brown aide said.

"I was drawn both ways," he said. "I felt like it was my child and I treated Mary like I did when she was pregnant with my other two children. On the other hand I knew this wasn't my daughter."

Whitehead said after the baby was born, he and his wife became immediately attached to the child, and named her Sara Elizabeth Whitehead.

Court grants delay

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee has won a round in its fight to keep a $3 billion federal nuclear waste dump out of the state, the state attorney general said.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati on Wednesday gave the state 30 days to petition the U.S. Supreme Court, said Attorney General Mike Cody.

The ruling forbids the Energy Department from acting to establish the dump until the high court can determine whether it will hear the case, Cody said. He said he would meet the

Africans protest rascist letter

PEKING (AP) — More than 200 students, mostly Africans, staged a noisy, 12-mile march through Peking today to protest a letter containing racial slurs and demand that Chinese officials guarantee their safety.

Hundreds of police followed the marchers, shouting through megaphones that the students should "understand the consequences" of their action. However, no arrests or clashes were reported. School officials and the All-China Students Federation also tried to dissuade the students from marching and read them a recently announced set of regulations banning street protests that do not have prior police approval. The protesters, who shouted "Africa" and raised their fists, caused a traffic jam during their march their safety and dignity were safeguarded. Harkett later re-emerged to say he had asked China's State Education Commission to arrange a meeting with student representatives, and that commission officials had promised to reply soon.

The African students were upset about a letter written in English and circulated among foreign students in Peking. The marchers said it complained about African students' manners and behavior, particularly toward Chinese women, and was signed "The Student Association."

African embassies received copies of the letter this week and were "severely" affected by it, Harkett said. The students expressed anger over the African diplomats' failure to warn them about the letter.

The students said they planned to meet later today at Qinghua University to consider further action.

The demonstrators then marched to the Congo Embassy to protest alleged barring of some students from participating in the march. Some students scuffled briefly with a Congan diplomat, but there were no

The protesters said they saw copies of the controversial letter Tuesday, the same day a Sudanese student was beaten by a Chinese student at the Peking Hotel.

Students told The Associated Press the letter said China was becoming an advanced country, but that did not mean it would feed "uncultured Africans." They said the letter, which was ungrammatical in places, called for "correction" of African students' behavior.

Papers carry ANC ads

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Several newspapers today ran full-page advertisements marking the 75th anniversary of the founding of the outlawed African National Congress guerrilla group and calling on the government to legalize the group.

Police said they received complaints and would investigate whether laws were violated by publishing the ads, placed by several antiapartheid and church groups.

The Star newspaper in Johannesburg said the same ad appeared in 22 papers nationwide. It was not carried, among others, by Afrikaans-language newspapers and the progovernment English-language paper The

Libya denies attack

PARIS — Libya today denied its warplanes attacked a Chadian government post, but France affirmed the raid took place and said it would continue to respond to Libyan attacks with "firm ripostes."

French Premier Jacque Chirac's office said Libyan planes Wednesday attacked Kouba-Oulanga, 40 miles south of the 16th parallel that divides southern Chad, controlled by the government of Chad President Hissene Habre, from the rebel-held north.

Ninety minutes earlier, France raided Libyan installations in northern Chad in retaliation for another Libyan air raid Saturday. France said it was trying to demonstrate its might and head off an escalation of the conflict. Chad, Libya's southern neighbor, is a former French colony.

There were no reports of casualties in either of the raids Wednesday.

Changes prompt riots

MOSCOW - In an unusual display of candor, the official media has acknowledged strong opposition to changes in the Communist Party hierarchy in Kazakhstan, where there were riots last month after the local party boss was fired.

The party newspaper Pravda complained Wednesday of what it called a history of nepotism, cronyism and corruption in the Central Asian state, where the Kremlin has been seeking changes in the power structure of former party chief Dinmukhamed A.

Kunaev, a Kazakh, was removed from his party post and replaced with a Russian, Gennady V. Kolbin. Rioting followed on Dec. 17-18 in Alma Ata, the capital, and the official press said cars and a grocery store were burned and windows smashed before calm was restored.

Scandal harms NATO alliance

One of the most disturbing consequences of the Iran-Contra scandal is the damage it has done to America's leadership of the Western alliance. West Europeans are even more barshly critical of Ronald Reagan's dealings with Iran and of his presidency in general, than are Americans.

As a result, the harmful repercussions for the president's ability to govern at home are magnified among the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, whose voters have been less supportive of Mr. Reagan's leadership from the start.

An opinion survey for The Economist of London shows that only 26 percent of Britons and 22 percent of West Germans approve of Mr. Reagan's handling of his job.

By comparison, the president's approval rating in this country remains around 50 percent, down considerably from the nearly 75 percent support he enjoyed before the crisis erupted.

West Europeans agree overwhelmingly that America's influence in the world has diminished because of the president's crippled position.

Asked whether the arms deals with Iran and Nicaragua "have damaged the credibility of the United States as the leader of the Western alliance," 73 percent of Britons and 84 percent of West Germans responded affirmatively.

The crack in NATO caused by Mr. Reagan's weakened role is welcome news to Mikhail Gorbachev, inasmuch as the Kremlin leader has spent most of the last two years trying to drive a wedge in the West's military alliance.

The principal goal of Mr. Gorbachev's wooing of Western public opinion is to pressure the White House to abandon the Strategic Defense Initiative, Mr. Reagan's plan to erect a shield against ballistic-missile attack.

In this regard, the Kremlin will find plenty of cause for cheer in the post-Iran sentiment among America's chief allies: 68 percent of Germans and 41 percent of Britons oppose SDI. In this country, 50 percent of voters support it.

These findings should be sobering to those who take delight in the president's misery over the Iran-Contra debacle. Notwithstanding the horrendous mistakes the administration has made, a president rendered impotent by a scandal at home produces a leadership vacuum abroad that Moscow is only too eager to fill.

'Progressive old fogey' gives opinion

Since opinions seem to be what is becoming the thing, I want to give

It is my opinion that the prodrink referendum which won by an overwhelming margin of 2-1. It is also my opinion that the ultimate objective is to make Big Spring a community of old fogeys who have outgrown their fun-loving days and want everybody else to join them in the celebration of their unableness.

To say that all the elderly share the same feelings would be erroneous on my part. This letter is directed at that faction that continuously works underground so that people see it their way, which in their minds is the only way.

The concern for the Big Spring community is at the very least exaggerated and hypocritical. Such is the concern that they would risk members of their community on the roads going or coming back from another city to seek entertainment we will not offer them.

Any time something comes up where change will be made, you hear "I've looked into Midland and Odessa and they are doing this and it seems to work." Now I ask, what baptist element is in fact are these two cities doing to retaliating over the liquor-by-the- remedy such a dilemma? Don't we want to do a study and comparison?

I'll tell you what they do. They attempt to keep their tax dollars in their cities to assure their cities flourish, and they give their citizens a choice!

It is also my opinion that we take it to the polls as a referendum. Let the people decide. This thing about the city making laws at their whims is old hat. Older than that is the fact we allow them to!

And, citizens, if they have the power to do that, then I say repealing is also a great power. I for one intend to do my very best to see they don't do it to us again!

All this from an old fogev with a progressive mind, not regressive. CHON MARQUEZ

Heavy American industry approaches its sunset

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON - President Reagan won re-election on the cheerful theme, "It's morning again in America." But two years later, his own Commerce Department experts are predicting an early sunset for the heavy industries that once characterized America's economic success

The administration's policies helped immeasurably by the drastic drop in oil prices - have slashed the ruinous interest and inflation rates of the Carter years and have trimmed unemployment back to where it was before the Reagan recession of 1982. But there are still significant pockets of misery left over from the recession

Few industries were hit as hard by the recession as steel, and few have made so little progress trying to pull out of it. Steel mill shutdowns have turned many oncethriving communities in the Rust Belt into ghost towns.

Unfortunately, the steel industry has nothing to look forward to in the new year but more hard times, according to a draft copy of the Commerce Department's "Industrial Outlook for 1987," obtained by our associate Michael Binstein.

'The adverse trends currently buffeting the steel industry are likely to continue to keep steel consumption from rising much above current levels," the report warns. In fact, it predicts a decline in U.S. steel production, from 70 million tons in 1986 to 68 million this year.

A big part of the problem is that steel's customers have been moving their plants out of the country to achieve lower production costs. The report warns: "Steel consumers that have moved offshore are not expected to close recently established overseas plants and reopen shut facilities here.

Steel is also suffering from the revolution sweeping through its best customer: the auto industry. Detroit is rapidly replacing steel doors, fenders and bumpers with fiberglass and other plastics.

The auto industry itself, of

course, is in a precarious position, though it has mounted a comeback from the recession that nearly sank it. The Commerce Department experts predict that sales of new American cars will fall this year: foreign cars accounted for 3 million of the 11 million auto sales in 1986.

the persistent move of the Japanese moanufacturers toward producing larger, luxury models and the continued introduction of vehicles from countries new to the U.S. market will pressure domestic manufacturers to be more competitive," the report states.

Look for models from Australia, Brazil, Romania and possibly Taiwan to join the many import lines already available in U.S. showrooms. "Domestic automobile manufacturers will continue to face the most challenging and competitive period in their history,' the report warns.

Even in the new growth industries of computers and information services, where U.S. technology has been leading the pack, foreign competition threatens America's front-runner position.

In 1987 the American computer industry may show its first foreign trade deficit, thanks to sluggish exports and the rapid growth of rival products from overseas

Imported printers and terminals could capture 30 percent of the U.S. market this year, the Commerce report estimates. Still, the industry should show an overall growth rate of 2.6 percent in 1987, including a 25 percent jump in the software end. Information services is another growth industry, expected to increase by about 12 percent this year. Here again, though, the specter of foreign competition is 'The transfer of data-entry operations to low-wage countries might become a major issue for the data-processing industry during the next five years," the report warns. "Performance of certain types of data-entry work in the Caribbean or other regions where labor rates are extremely low is now cost-effective. FLEECHERS AND GOUGERS:

Why does a hearse horse snicker hauling a lawyer away?" Carl Sandburg asked. One answer is suggested in a recent report by the Health and Human Services Department inspector general, who found lawyers charging as much as $500 an hour for handling routine Social Security claims.

The inspector general found that administrative law judges often rubberstamp the fees claimed by attorneys without checking to see if they're reasonable. The fee is subtracted from the claimant's monetary award.

"In one case," the inspector general reported, "a 52-year-old man with severe back pain was awarded past-due benefits of $10,887. The judge authorized the attorney's fee of $2,772, which was taken from the award.

The inspector general's investigators determined that the lawyer had spent exactly 7½ hours on the case - an hourly rate of

The worst case the inspector general came across was that of an attorney who charged a Social Security claimant $3,000 for six hours' work - "an hourly equivalent of $500," the inspector general noted.

Because filing claims with the Social Security Administration is "non-adversarial" work, the report concluded, lawyers should charge no more than $75 an hour for such cases

Guest columnist New Year's predictions

By ERIC GERBE The Houston Post

by Sufi Sales

As usual, Houston's foremost mystic and soothsayer, Sufi Sales, had changed locations since my last visit. He moves around a lot to keep in touch with the spiritual vibrations and keep the bunco squad happy.

I found the small brown man in the big plaid turban holding forth in an abandoned fireworks stand on Hempstead Highway. A Porta-Sign out front said, After-Christmas Clearance! Readings half-price! All-Knowing! All-Seeing! All Credit Cards!

'Ah, greetings,' Sufi told me as I entered. The place smelled of in-cense and beer, and his scratchy stereo was playing, "Do You See What I See?" Sufi smiled. "I am knowing you vould come.

"I know, I know. "To be obtaining my predictions for 1987. But, vait," the mystic said, staring into my face. "Sufi sees the camel of doubt has left its droppings across your features.

'Your predictions last year weren't so hot, O Myopic One. Remember you said Reagan would step down in 1986?

Sufi shook his head, making his plaid turban wiggle. "No, no. Vhat Sufi said vas Mr. President Reagan vould step down ... and then up and then down and then up. In your language, it is called walking,

"You said the Oilers would be in the Super Bowl.'

The turban wiggled once more. "Still you are mishearing Sufi. What Sufi vas saying vas, 'Vould not it be super if the Oilers learned to bowl!' The Oilers in the Super Bowl? Ohmygollygee! Sufi is mystic, not miracle worker.

What about this one - comedienne Joan Rivers will die in '86? Sufi's bloodshot eyes widened in surprise. "Goodness me! Have you not seen the ratings on her talk show?"

"OK." I said. "But I hope your '87 predictions are more specific, O Evasive One.

Obediently, Sufi bowed his head. He began chanting his mantra, ghaveanicedhai, ghaveanicedhai, and his eyes rolled back "In 1987, I see ... a revival of interest in the song 'North to Alaska.' especially around the White House I see South Africa's President P.W. That's great news," I said. "Fish oil, that is," Sufi continued, taking another slug of prophet's elixir. "I see ... the guys who've been rubbing minoxidil into their bald heads suddenly sprouting new hair — all over their hands ... I see Geraldo Rivera doing a TV expose revealing that Pee-Wee Herman is really an adult ... I heard an engine start and jumped up. I saw my heap heading down Hempstead. &(NU)%!!! and &%$!"

Sufi smiled serenely. "I am knowing you vould say that."

About six hours later, he woke up and dialed again. Same number, same woman. This time, they talked for half an hour.

There was something about her that really interested me," Luczak said, "but like a boob, I didn't get her phone number."

He would have to wait for the next phone bill.

That was August. Five months and hundreds of dollars in phone bills later, Luczak and Connie Powers, the right woman in the Powers decided to do something wrong place at the right time, plan to be married

Consider the odds against that happening: First, Luczak had to dial the same wrong number twice. Second, Powers had to be at her home in Potter Place on a day she normally works.

'If you can believe in fate," Luczak said, "this is about the weirdest case of it I've seen."

Luczak had been trying to call National Survival Games Inc. in New London when he reached Powers by mistake. She liked his voice. He had an accent, almost Southern. After his first call, the voice stayed with her. "Gee," she thought, "I kind of wish I had known that person."

She went out for a while, came back, and started out again when the phone rang. It was him. "We're practically old friends now," she told him.

They talked about where they lived and their jobs. Powers, 35, works with autistic children at the Spaulding Youth Center in Northfield. Luczak, 34, works for the On-Line Computer Library Center in Columbus, Ohio.

ever cautious, she put only her first name on the return address

Several weeks later, after his phone bill arrived — including her number - Luczak called to thank Powers. He offered to reimburse her for the postage. She declined.

They talked for an hour. She liked his sense of humor. They had much in common. Both had been married and divorced. Neither smoke. Both like the outdoors. Both enjoy sports.

A week or two later, Luczak called again. They talked for two hours. A third conversation lasted three hours. Eventually, they talked for five hours. "When you talk to somebody on the phone for five hours," Luczak said, "believe me, you get to know them.

At the beginning of November, out of character. "What are you doing this weekend?" she asked. She remembered his response. "You aren't ... You wouldn't. Yes you would. You're flying out here, aren't you?'

For the first time in their relationship, she started getting nervous. Talking on the phone involved no risk, no chance of rejection. This was like the final frontier."

They had told each other things "really detailed, personal things" - that they had told nobody else. But they had never seen so much as a picture of one Just before Powers announced her plans to visit, Luczak mailed her a passport photo. She felt obligated to send one back of herself. It took three packs of Polaroid film and a bottle of wine before she settled on the right one. When she arrived at the airport in Ohio, she expected to see him wearing the red bandanna she had sent him, but he was nowhere in sight. Just as she turned around, he came up behind her and said, "Ambush!"

Dec. 6, Luczak called Powers 13 times from work and 26 times from home. His combined phone bill came to $277.67. "This isn't even 30 days, man."

Luczak and Powers decided to spend Christmas together in New Hampshire. During his stay, Powers introduced Luczak to her 8-year-old daughter, her parents and her coworkers. He handled it well. Luczak had talked about marrying Powers even before they met. She took it in stride. "Anybody who has gone through a divorce, even under the best circumstances, gives serious consideration to any attempt at marriage again.'

when he raised the issue again on Christmas Day. He wanted to have a job lined up here before quitting in Ohio and moving to New Hampshire.

After Christmas, Powers drove back to Ohio with Luczak. Suddenly, he felt out of place. He wanted to quit and head back to New Hampshire with Powers. From work, he called her at his apartment. Would she marry him - job or no job?. She said yes - on the phone, of gious service as an obligation which is not called for upon the pages of the New Testament for every part of worship is either commanded or not, if commanded (in the New Testament), we are obligated to obey, if not, it is in fact prohibited by the Lord Jesus Christ. Different churches are commended (in the New Testament) for deleting and excluding corruptions and error from their midst. They tried, detected and "hated" certain views and practices (cf Revelation chapter 2 and 3) which were not based upon what God has given, and those tests and trials were not based upon some creed or church discipline, but rather the pattern of the New Testament. The Bible says, "Whosoever transgresses and abides not in the doctrine of Christ, does not have God. He that abides in the doctrine of Christ, he has both the Father and the Son." 2 John 9-11

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago, when our two children were small, my husband had an affair with "Maggie," a girl who hung around his place of employment. Maggie knew Denny was married, but she didn't care. When I found out about it, I confronted Denny and he broke it off. Soon after that, Maggie told Denny she was pregnant with his child. About a year later we heard she had a son and got married, and that was the last we heard of her until four years ago when she called our house and told me that Buddy, her 8-year-old son, wanted to meet his "real" father. Denny wasn't home, so she left her phone number. When Denny got home, I told him about it, but he didn't seem too interested in meeting the boy, so we just forgot about it.

Now, four years later, maggie's husband called and repeated the request: "Buddy wants to meet his real father." Denny still isn't interested. I have forgiven Denny for this affair, and we are happier now than we have ever been. Our children are 16 and 17 and we've told all about this situation. They say they just want to be left alone. Denny and I have decided to put off meeting Buddy until he's 18, and if he still wants to meet his real father, he can come around on his own. Until then we don't want any involvement. Any advice?

BIG DILEMMA DEAR DILEMMA: Your apparent lack of interest in Buddy is obvious, but I advise you to consult a lawyer to discuss your legal obligation to the boy. You've already made it clear to all concerned that you want no "involvement" with Buddy, who surely must feel the pain of your rejection, I urge you to face whatever responsibilities you have now. Postponing it will not make them disappear.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is the greediest person I've ever laid my eyes on. Whenever we are invited to a function, he eats like there's no tomorrow. I hate to go to any kind of buffet with him. He piles up his plate with so much food, some of it falls on the floor! My friends don't like to have him over for this reason, and I hate to invite him to my house for dinner.

He feels no shame when others laugh at him for being such a pig. It's really nauseating to watch him stuff his face. He eats as though he hadn't eaten for a week. I am not exaggerating.

He is not overweight, and he's a very attractive and loving person when he's not eating. Is there some way I can get him to eat like a normal person?

I have told him over and over again how embarrassed I am to eat with him, but it hasn't done any

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a terrible problem: my nose. It has a bump on it and it's way too wide. Everyone says I'd be really pretty if I didn't have this awful nose. I've talked to my mom about it and she says I'll have to wait until I stop growing. Abby, I'm only 13! I can't go on being miserable until I'm an adult. I want to have a happy teenage life. Isn't there any way a 13-year-old girl can get her nose fixed while she's young enough to enjoy it?

It's really terrible to have your friends call you "Honker." I've been able to laugh, but I'm falling apart inside. Please help me. I can't wait any longer.

HONKER' IN TEXAS DEAR HONKER: Your mothers is right. No surgeon will "fix" your nose until you have reached your full growth. Please be patient, pretty girl, and in about four years you'll win by a nose.

"I brought you here to tell the court that I'm guilty and only want to go back to my country," Abou-Kassem told U.S. Magistrate Alex McGlinchey.

The decision to file the federal charges was made in consultation with the airport's Department of Public Safety and other local officials, Collins said.

Abou-Kassem was charged Tuesday with aggravated kidnapping and making a terroristic the boy was voluntarily released alive and in a safe place, Collins said.

Abou-Kassem was transferred from Lew Ster-Solah Kassem Abou-Kassem, 26, of Fort rett Justice Center in Dallas to Tarrant County Jail Wednesday.

The charges stem from an eight-hour ordeal that began when a man walked into the Delta Air Lines terminal Monday, took the youth at gunpoint from a ticket counter and threatened to kill him if not flown to the Middle East.

Abou-Kassem's brother told the Dallas Morning News in an interview from Damascus, Syria that his brother was jailed in the country on drug charges but was released because of men-

Hosni Abou-Kassem said he and another brother are the only two of the family of nine children living in Syria. Abou-Kassem's father, Kassem Abou-Kassem, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Wednesday he did not learn his son had been arrested until he saw newscasts. He said previous attempts to get his son to undergo psychiatric treatment failed, the newspaper said.

Abou-Kassem had told authorities he had no relatives in the area and stowed away on a ship in Algiers that he thought was bound for France, but wound up in Houston by mistake.

Tom Sheehan, chief of the DFW airport Department of Public Safety said Wednesday that authorities found a 1984 Ford pickup truck Tuesday illegally parked near the Delta terminal where the hostage taking occurred.

eyes of America will be on Texas to see how a contempt order against the state's prison system will be resolved, said a spokeswoman for a national organization that monitors prison lawsuits.

The contempt citation, issued by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice on Monday, is "an extraordinary significant decision," said Elizabeth Alexander, staff lawyer for the Na-profit group that monitors prison reform lawsuits for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Texas could be fined up to $24 million a month for failing to meet a schedule of courtordered improvements. Justice gave the Texas Department of Corrections until March 31 to purge itself of contempt on a number of reform issues in a class-action lawsuit filed initially by former inmate David Ruiz

Shootout victims are stable

MONAHANS (AP) — A man who wounded three police officers and a teenager in a shootout at a mobile home remained in critical condition today at an Odessa hospital.

The officers and the teenage boy he wounded were in stable condition at hospital in Monahans and Odessa, authorities said.

W.D. Smith, 59, was suffering from internal bleeding and tear gas poisoning after four officers stormed the mobile home, using a concussion grenade and tear gas after the man held a small army of law enforcement officers at bay.

Smith was being treated at Medical Center in Hospital in Odessa.

He was apprehended Tuesday after the officers stormed the trailer.

No charges have been filed.

Growers plan cooperative to set prices

HARLINGEN (AP) - Rio Grande Valley produce growers are forming a cooperative to set prices and control supply because they say another unprofitable year could snuff them out of business.

"This could mean the life or death of the vegetable industry in the Valley," says Steve Johnson, communications director for the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Association.

"We have excellent crops down here. We have the best cabbage grown anywhere, excellent celery, beautiful broccoli, and cauliflower you can't beat. But these guys aren't making any money," he said. "We've just been run into the ground. The vegetable people are saying if we have another year like last year, it could spell the end of the individual farmer."

Incorporation papers for the cooperative were delivered to the secretary of state in Austin this week and await approval, Johnson

Hollywood computer aids astronomers

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A supercomputer that creates special effects for science fiction that after the massive star exploded in a huge, movies helped make the best picture yet of a spherical shell of hydrogen gas, the shell was real exploding star, showing how the supernova burst into a fireball 65 trillion miles across.

The image, taken by the world's largest radio telescope and enhanced by a Cray supercomputer at Digital Productions in Los Angeles, provides "new insight into how stars explode," astrophysicist Robert Braun said Tuesday.

"It's the most detailed look yet at the debris of a stellar explosion," Braun, of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory near Socorro, N.M., said during the American Astronomical Society's annual meeting.

"It's the most detailed radio image yet made anywhere of any object."

The picture of supernova Cassiopeia A shows mottled by bumps and holes as denser blobs of heavier gases punctured it from within, he said.

The huge fireball of hot gas created by Cassiopeia A's explosion measures roughly 65 trillion miles across, or nearly 10,000 times the diameter of our solar system, Braun said.

Even before they become supernovas, such stars are 10 to 20 times the size of our sun, he

The supercomputer that enhanced the picture also produced special effects for the movies "2010: The Year We Make Contact" and "The Last Starfighter" and rock videos such as Mick Jagger's "Hard Woman," said Larry Yaeger, software systems vice president at Digital Productions, now a unit of Omnibus Simulation.

The picture is so detailed because it depicts a relatively nearby supernova and was taken by the world's largest permanent radio telescope, the Very Large Array near Socorro, said Steve Maran, a senior scientist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Cray X-MP22 supercomputer took a halfhour to process the enhanced picture, while a more typical computer would have required two weeks, Yaeger and Braun said. Such supercomputers cost $6 million to $9 million, Yaeger said.

Astronomers discover largest structures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) -Scientists astonished by the discovery of the largest structures seen in the universe say they are having nightmares trying to explain the "incredibly unusual" glowing blue arches in space.

"It looks like God created something like a long (curving) rope, cut it into simple pieces, took out all the complexities and plopped it up into the sky," said

Stanford University astronomy chairman Vahe Petrosian.

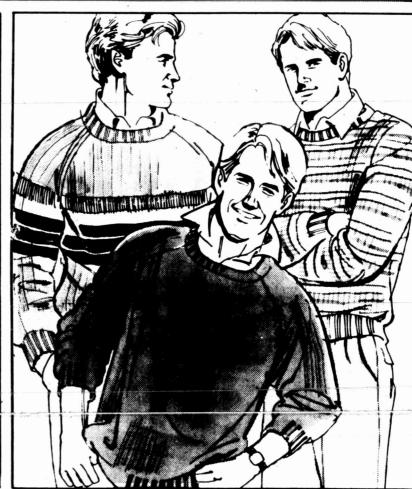

Petrosian and Roger Lynds of the Kitt Peak National Observatory in Arizona announced the discovery of the three concave arcs Wednesday at the American Astronomical Society's annual meeting.

The arcs are estimated to be 1.9 million trillion miles long, said Lynds.

By EDDIE CURRAN Staff Writer

The parade of football high school all-star teams continues into the new year with squads named in the past week from the San Angelo Standard-Times.

Two Steers and one Buffalo were tabbed to the All-West Texas Super Team that encompasses divisions A through 5A. Big Spring senior defensive tackle Jay Burcham, who had a big year after recovering from a broken hand, was named to the defensive line.

Teammate Brian Mayfield punted so high and so far that it was all opposing return men could do to get themselves under the ball and catch it. For those boomers, Mayfield was named the punter.

The San Angelo paper wisely added four "utility" positions to their team in order to recognize those deserving all around players who somehow wouldn't otherwise have made the team. No one will argue with the selection of Forsan's Wayne Wright as an all-star. The incredible thing about Wright was that he gained all those yards and made all those tackles without resting. He did it the old fashion way - playing both ways.

Wright and three other Buffaloes made the 2A squad. Tight end Lee Morris, offensive tackle Mike Averette and defensive tackle Stacey Munoz also made the team.

Four Steers were named 4A all-stars. In addition to Burcham and Mayfield, they were offensive tackle Matt Burrow and running back Phillip Mathews. Two Colorado City Wolves, offensive tackle Derek Ramsey and punter Reggie Gardner, made the 3A squad: It was the second consecutive year Gardner made the squad as punter.

Does it seem you're on a never ending quest to improve your not-so-body beautiful? Does it seem those rolls just won't melt away, no matter how many miserable lunches you spend holding your nose and digging into the cottage cheese?

If you said yes and yes, then quite possibly the Big Spring YMCA has something for you. The "Y" has three new programs designed to sculpt your body, give you a new direction, and keep you young at heart.

In Body Sculpture, women will learn how to strengthen and tone their muscles. The six week program begins Jan. 29, and costs $25 for non-members and $20 for members. But don't get too strong ladies. You don't want to frighten

New Directions, a ten week program that begins Tuesday, is "not a diet. Rather, it is a lifestyle approach to managing your weight. It will give your new directions in your life," according to a handout from the "Y". The program is designed to teach you the right foods to eat to make you feel better. Remember, you are what you eat you pizza-faced chicken wing.

Young at Heart is a mild water aerobics class designed to give you: a healthier heart, more energy, increased flexibility, lower blood pressure, less stress and less tension. I think most any doctor would agree that all of the above will make you a healthier, happier person.

Local golfer Bob Parks surprised himself and his three partners Sunday when he smacked his tee shot off the 194-yard, par three third hole at the Big Spring Country Club. It seems Parks' shot hit the green, bounced twice, and fell snugly into the hole.

Don Osborne, Ted Gross and Jack Fletcher witnessed Parks' first hole-in-one. Parks, playing the long tees, used a five iron. He said he shot a 78 for the round, which is around average for him. Parks said he followed his eagle one with a few double bogeys, but who's complaining?

On Sunday, the Western Sportsman Club had their monthly high powered rifle match. The riflemen shot ten rounds at 100 yards without a sling while standing, and ten rounds at 200 yards sitting without a sling.

Doyle McClain of Big Spring scored a 167-1X out of a possible 200-20X, and was the match winner. Billy Bates of Coahoma scored a 161-2X out of 200-20X to win the first master, and Ted Harris shot a 139-0X out of 200-20X for the marksman award. The club is located on Hwy. 176 about ten miles west of Big Spring. Future matches will be on the first Sunday of each month.

The second annual Sports Medicine Seminar at Midland College has been scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 14. The seminar is primarily for doctors, trainers, coaches and therapists interested in the concept of a "sports medicine

The advance registration fee is $25, and must be received by Midland College by Jan. 30. The fee includes workshop and lunch. Additional information can be had by contacting the Midland College Continuing Education Department at the Administration Building; or by calling 685-4518.

It didn't take long for the jokesters and fair-hearted fans to take advantage of the poor Dallas Cowboys. Someone dropped a runoff of next year's Cowboys schedule on my desk, and the Cowboys' foes include: Girl Scout Troop 679, North Dallas Jr. High, the Spanish-American War Vets, and the Van Horn Boy's Choir. The other teams couldn't be printed because of their insensitivity to the handicapped.

Included with the schedule were several rule changes for next year. Among them: when playing the Blind Academy the Cowboys must not hide the ball under their jerseys; the Cowbovs will be awarded a first down with each gain of three yards; and the Cowboys will be allowed 14 men on the field at all times.

At the bottom of the schedule is this wonderful thought: "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game."

It's a good thing for Howard College Hawk-Queens' opponents that the three-point goal wasn't installed for women this season. Because if it was, Terri Powell would be bombing a lot of teams right out of the gym.

The Howard sophomore guard possesses one of the most deadly outside shots around. She and her teammates will get the second half of the season underway when they battle highly-touted Central Arizona at 6 p.m. tonight in the opening round of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce Tournament of Champions.

It will be a stern test for coach Don Stevens' troops, who sport a ranked number seven in the nation.

For the Queens to have a chance at knocking off Central Arizona, Powell will have to be in her best form, which she usually is. The Channing native and All-Western Junior College Athletic Conference player comes into the contest as Howard's leading scorer, averaging 14.1 points per game.

She's making 43 percent of her shots from the floor, which is not too shabby considering most of her shots come from the 17-20 foot range. The 5-7 Powell makes no bones about the fact she wishes the National Junior College Athletic Association had made the 19 foot, nine inch perimeter a three-point goal for women. "I wish we had the three-point goal and so do alot of the other girls in the conference I've talked to," she said. "I think I've made a few three-pointers this season," she said modestly.

"The three-point goal keeps the game interesting. You always have a chance to get back into the game if you make some three-pointers.'

If the three-point goal was in effect, the Queens could very well be 15-2 instead of 12-5, because three of their losses were by margins of two points, and two games by three points. "It would definitely make a lot of difference if we had the threepoint goal," said coach Stevens. "With Terri's shooting touch, it has cost us some points over the course. of the year," he said of the player that he labels "the best outside shooter" he's ever had.

practice.

Powell says she acquired her great outside shooting range by playing many versions of the shooting game of of h-o-r-s-e with her high school coach Dale Blaut. "He was a very good shooter and we got into into some long games. Once I could make it from one range consistently, I would move out more. It just takes a lot of

Stevens terms Powell a "quiet leader" and Powell says she just tries to "keep the girls together. I don't put any pressure on myself to be a leader — that way you don't have any fun. Really, on this team, everyone helps each other out."

The Queens will need something extra against Central Arizona since they will be without two of their post players.

Carolyn Willandt, a 6-0 starter, was in a car accident over the holidays at her home in Virgina Beach, Va. She suffered 42 stiches to her face and will be out indefinitely.

Reserve post player Sophia Ish, another six-footer, had a death in the family and will miss the tournament.

This might prompt Stevens to use a four-guard offense at times, since the only remaing inside players are Stefanie Massie, Leslie Carter and Chandra Todd. But for openers, Stevens says he will go with Massie and Carter down low and Powell, Pam Franklin and Trena Jackson out front. "We have a much shorter Howard College lineup, but thank goodness we have a versatile team," he said.

With such a short lineup, it's a Players good bet Stevens will call on his Powell

Steers Stampede

By BOYCE PAXTON Steers basketball coach

This week is one of the key weeks of our season. The team has been successful for the first half of the week with the win over a tough Snyder team.

The biggest test of district play to date is before us with Friday's game against Lamesa. Some interesting facts about Lamesa include: They haven't lost a district ballgame in three years and they haven't lost at its home gym in almost three years. Lamesa has a very strong tradition in basketball. We acknowledge those facts not in fear but as a challenge. We look forward to the challenge, and the game with great anticipation, and are eager and happy to be in this position.

The team has been playing well together in several games since the holidays. We have had four to five players in double figures each game. Our philosophy is that the other team might stop one of us but they can't stop all of us. We want balanced scoring.

Several players have turned in five games of late. Brian Mayfield has improved greatly on defense as well as becoming very dependable for all around games - scoring, rebounding, assists, and blocked shots. Charles Young continues to have a hot hand shooting and making 47% of the field goals and 76% of his free throws. Cedric Banks has provided a spark with inspired play, scoring and hustle each game. He has many big plays and rebounds to his credit.' Sidney Parker has been a strong force inside on the boards and is averaging in double figures. Shawn Shellman plays very sticky defense and runs the fast break very well. Chris Lopez provides a quick scoring threat for us and Steve Gill has improved in all areas of his game. Steve hustles on defense and hits the floor for loose balls. Tyronne Foster and Randy Odom have provided good play off the bench. Dwayne Anderson has fought the flu bug for several weeks and is getting back in form.

This district race is shaping up. Each game we play has us facing a stronger opponent. Lamesa and Andrews are both undefeated in district play along with our Steers. Some big showdowns are in store in the next week or two. The Steers have improved but most continue to do so every game. Team effort, togetherness, hard work and hustle are the keys. Big Spring's assests are quickness, speed, and defense. We try to exploit those assets as much as possible.

Fan support has improved greatly in our last three games and is greatly appreciated by the team. We are trying to be a team and a program this community can take pride in and support. We need a lot of that support in Lamesa Friday night at 7:30. See you at

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Brian Mayfield has been selected as Player of the Week for his efforts in the last 4-5 games. He is averaging 19.0 points a game in district play as well as 4 assists, 10 rebounds, and 6 blocked shots per game. Brian is a junior and is the son of Gary and Sandy Mayfield.

Houston may have new AD

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Rudy Davalos will become the next athletic director at the University of Houston if a search committee's recommendation is approved, the San Antonio Light reported today.

The newspaper said a source close to the five-man search committee said Wednesday that Davalos has been officially recommended to school President Dr. Richard Van Horn and the board of regents.

The source said Davalos has been officially recommended to Van Horn over former UH baseball coach Rolan Walton, who was one of two final candidates for the job along with

Action on the recommendation could be taken as early as Friday when Van Horn returns from the NCAA convention in San Diego, the source said.

Crimson Tide ends Kentucky win streak

By The Associated Press Alabama forward Jim, Farmer has the recipe that ruined No. 9 Kentucky's home cooking.

'You got to do a lot of things well to win here," Farmer said of Rupp Arena, the 23,000-seat building the Wildcats call home and where they had won 24 consecutive games. "You've got to shoot well, play good defense and keep the crowd out of the game, and we did that." Farmer scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half to lift Alabama to a 69-55 Southeastern Conference victory Wednesday night.

No. 16 Georgetown 60, No. 10 St. John's 46 Both teams were coming off Big East Conference Josses, but Georgetown rebounded to beat the Redmen for the first time at home since the 1981-82 season. 'We were hurt and embarrassed against Seton Hall," Georgetown senior Reggie Williams said of the Hoyas' 74-53 loss at home. Williams was held to a season-low seven points by Seton Hall but he scored 16 against St. John's, which lost at Villanova on Sunday.

The Hoyas, 10-1 and 1-1, broke open a 30-30 tie with an 10-0 run and they were never headed. Ronnie Highsmith scored six points in the run and Perry McDonald, who scored all 12 of his points in the second half, had the other four.

"It was important that we bounce back after what Seton Hall did to us," McDonald said. "We can't afford to lose like that at home.

St. John's, 9-2 and 1-2, was led by Willie Glass' 16 points. No. 13 Auburn 62, Georgia 58

Undermanned Georgia almost pulled off the Southeastern Conference upset.

The Bulldogs, 8-5 and 1-3, lost center David Dunn to an injury and leading scorer Toney Mack and Patrick Hamilton, considered the top defensive player, were declared academically ineligible earlier in the week. Georgia forced the overtime when Milt Blakely hit a 20-footer at the buzzer. But Aundrae Davis' 3-pointer broke a 53-53 tie and the Tigers, 8-2 and 1-1, were never in that we would come down her and get blown out," Georgia Coach Hugh Durham said. "But that was not the case. I am proud of this team for the way they regrouped and hung together after all the distractions. No. 17 Duke 93, St. Joseph's 83

Duke extended its winning streak to 10 games, as substitutes from last year's national runner-up team continue to contribute.

Sophomore guard Quin Snyder scored 17 points and handed out seven assists, while Danny Ferry added 15 points, eight assists and six rebounds.

But the biggest contribution, figuratively and literally, for the Blue Devils, 11-1, came from 7-foot-2 Marty Nessley.

Nessley scored nine of his 10 points in the second half, including two free throws and a follow shot with 6:46 remaining that gave Duke a cushion to hold off the Hawks, 6-3, down the stretch.

"Tonight we played a Top 10 team," St. Joseph's Coach Jim Boyle said of the team that lost to Louisville in the championship game last year and graduated four starters. "I thought our effort was spirited, and that we played up to our expectations for about 35 minutes. But Duke is so well drilled and alert that when we had defensive lapses, they just clocked us.' No. 20 Clemson 73 No. 18 North Carolina State 69

Clemson remained one of five unbeaten Division I teams with a victory in their Atlantic Coast Conference opener. The Tigers, 12-0, were led by center Horace Grant's 17 points and 15 rebounds. Grant and teammate Grayson Marshall, who was ejected with 9:07 left for throwing a punch, did not start because of a curfew violation.

Clemson led by as many as 16 in the second half. But the Wolfpack, 9-3 and 1-1, rallied behind the 3-point shooting of Kenny Drummond, who finished with 28 points.

Drummond's 3-pointer with 34 seconds left cut the lead to 71-69 but sophomore forward Jerry Pryor made two free throws to seal the victory.

Other Games

Tom Sheehey's 16 points led Virginia to a 66-50 victory over Missouri; Andrew Moten and Vernon Maxwell scored 24 each as Florida blasted Mississippi State 100-56; Pervis Ellison's 18 points led Louisville to a 73-64 road vic-

Crimson Tide ends Kentucky win streak

By The Associated Press Alabama forward Jim, Farmer has the recipe that ruined No. 9 Kentucky's home cooking.

"You got to do a lot of things well to win here," Farmer said of Rupp Arena, the 23,000-seat building the Wildcats call home and where they had won 24 consecutive games. "You've got to shoot well, play good defense and keep the crowd out of the game, and we did that."

Farmer scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half to lift Alabama to a 69-55 Southeastern Conference victory Wednesday night.

No. 16 Georgetown 60, No. 10 St. John's 46

Both teams were coming off Big. East Conference losses, but Georgetown rebounded to beat the Redmen for the first time at home since the 1981-82 season.

'We were hurt and embarrassed against Seton Hall," Georgetown senior Reggie Williams said of the Hoyas' 74-53 loss at home. Williams was held to a season-low seven points by Seton Hall but he scored 16 against St. John's, which lost at Villanova on Sunday.

The Hoyas, 10-1 and 1-1, broke open a 30-30 tie with an 10-0 run and they were never headed. Ronnie Highsmith scored six points in the run and Perry McDonald, who scored all 12 of his points in the second half, had the other four.

"It was important that we bounce back after what Seton Hall did to us," McDonald said. "We ean't afford to lose like that at home.

St. John's, 9-2 and 1-2, was led by Willie Glass' 16 points.

No. 13 Auburn 62, Georgia 58 Undermanned Georgia almost pulled off the Southeastern Conference upset.

The Bulldogs, 8-5 and 1-3, lost center David Dunn to an injury and leading scorer Toney Mack and Patrick Hamilton, considered the top defensive player, were declared academically ineligible earlier in the week

Georgia forced the overtime when Milt Blakely hit a 20-footer at the buzzer. But Aundrae Davis' 3-pointer broke a 53-53 tie and the Tigers, 8-2 and 1-1, were never headed.

Jeff Moore led the Tigers with 16 points, while Frank Ford had 14 and Davis 11. Dennis Williams had 16 points for Georgia, while Willie Anderson added 15.

"I know people thought coming in that we would come down her and get blown out," Georgia Coach Hugh Durham said. "But that was not the case. I am proud of this team for the way they regrouped and hung together after all the distractions.

No. 17 Duke 93, St. Joseph's 83 Duke extended its winning streak to 10 games, as substitutes from last year's national runner-up team continue to contribute.

Sophomore guard Quin Snyder scored 17 points and handed out seven assists, while Danny Ferry added 15 points, eight assists and six rebounds.

But the biggest contribution, figuratively and literally, for the Blue Devils, 11-1, came from 7-foot-2 Marty Nessley.

Nessley scored nine of his 10 points in the second half, including two free throws and a follow shot with 6:46 remaining that gave Duke a cushion to hold off the Hawks, 6-3, down the stretch.

"Tonight we played a Top 10 team," St. Joseph's Coach Jim Boyle said of the team that lost to Louisville in the championship game last year and graduated four starters. "I thought our effort was spirited, and that we played up to our expectations for about 35 minutes. But Duke is so well drilled and alert that when we had defensive lapses, they just clocked us.' No. 20 Clemson 73 No. 18 North Carolina State 69

Clemson remained one of five unbeaten Division I teams with a victory in their Atlantic Coast Conference opener. The Tigers, 12-0, were led by center Horace Grant's 17 points and 15 rebounds. Grant and teammate Grayson Marshall, who was ejected with 9:07 left for throwing a punch, did not start because of a curfew violation.

Clemson led by as many as 16 in the second half. But the Wolfpack, 9-3 and 1-1, rallied behind the 3-point shooting of Kenny Drummond, who finished with 28 points.

Drummond's 3-pointer with 34 seconds left cut the lead to 71-69 but sophomore forward Jerry Pryor made two free throws to seal the

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 9, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today is very good for meeting with those who have the power to grant you any materialistic favors. Don't forget to relax and unwind after a tense day.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with bankers how best to invest your holdings. After a lot of studying, don't be careless.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact your most prominent friends and gain their assistance where a personal matter is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show more gentility with your mate. An important person can be very supportive of you today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Seek the assistance of those in positions of power to help you gain some personal aims.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy on credit and business affairs. Stop hiding your fine personality. Keep away from expensive pleasures.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Dig into new interests that can make life more interesting and profitable for you. Be diplomatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go after some strong desires with your pal and they can be realized with relative ease. Relax tonight. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get together with a partner and accomplish just about anything. Extend your activities. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can add to your income by taking on an second job. Have a talk with co-workers and understand each other.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your finest talents to the attention of influential people. They can point you in the right direction.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Converse with kin and come to a better understanding over finances. Be happy with friends tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get in touch with those who can best assist you in gaining your fondest ambitions. Be careful in travel.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will catch the attention of prominent persons because of the excellent advanced ideas your progeny can grasp. Give a thorough education and add psychology to help this one in comprehending human nature. Your progeny will benefit from a proper diet.

Congressman investigating sanctuary break-ins

By MARYANN MROWCA Associated Press Writer

BOSTON - A congressman investigating more than 40 break-ins since 1984 at churches and offices of opponents of the Reagan administration's Central American policy says the incidents "are not common burglaries."

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights, said Tuesday that the panel had begun a preliminary investigation into the break-ins and may hold public hearings this spring.

"We just don't know who's been doing it except there's just too much of a pattern for it to be accidental. These are not common burglaries," he said.

Some sanctuary activists, who provide aid and haven for refugees from El Salvador and Guatemala, say they suspect that federal immigration officials are involved in the burglaries. A government spokesman denied the charge.

The sanctuary movement includes about 250 U.S. churches and synagogues.

The latest of the more than 40 break-ins cited by Edwards occurred at a Boston church last weekend. In virtually all the cases, files were rifled and stolen while valuables were left untouched.

Edwards said he had no evidence that any government group or official was involved, but that he was concerned because the FBI had decided not to investigate.

The FBI has said it does not have jurisdiction in the cases, many of which were investigated by local authorities.

The Center for Constitutional Rights, a Washington, D.C.-based civil rights organization, has documented more than 50 incidents of what it calls political harassment since late 1983, including 43 involving sanctuary groups or groups opposed to the Central American policies, said spokesman David Lerner.

Other break-ins have been reported in Cambridge, Washington, D.C., Tucson, Ariz., San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York, Lerner said.

The government has prosecuted several sanctuary activists for aiding illegal aliens. Sixteen people were indicted as the result of Immigration and Naturalization Service investigations; eight were convicted in May and the rest either pleaded guilty to reduced charges or had charges dropped.

Sanctuary supporters say the aliens are political refugees, but federal officials have said they consider the immigrants economic refugees.

The latest incident, a break-in at the Arlington Street Church in downtown Boston, followed the pattern of the others. "They smashed all the locks and went into every file drawer," said the Rev. Victor Carpenter, senior minister of the 325-member Unitarian-Universalist church. "They stole nothing. They rifled the files. The sanctuary file itself was taken."

The break-in came less than 12 hours before Carpenter planned to deliver a sermon titled "Why We Declared Ourselves a Public Sanctuary," which had been advertised on bulletin boards.

The church board of directors voted last month to make the parish a sanctuary, but has housed no refugees yet.

"It is our belief that they wanted to send a message not only to us but to other churches," Carpenter said of the breakin, which is being investigated by Boston

TSTA: more input from teachers

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas State Teachers Association said Wednesday the state must treat its public school teachers better or the state's best teachers will be driven out of the classroom.

"The time has come in Texas to stop doing things to teachers and to start to do things with them," TSTA President Charles Beard Jr. told a news conference Wednesday.

Beard said the TSTA position on teacher appraisal will be presented to the State Board of Education at its meeting this weekend.

He said the TSTA is recommending, among other things, that the board carry out a series of hearings to gather teacher input on the new teacher appraisal system that began this fall.

Beard also recommended that a panel of teachers be named, either by the governor or the board, to make recommendations to the Legislature on changes in the Texas Teacher Appraisal System.

"Unless the problems with the appraisal system are corrected, and soon, the appraisal system will not result in the improvement of instruction being delivered to our school children, as intended, but will be another reason to impel our best teachers out of the classroom and into other professions," said Beard, a Beaumont teacher.
