More snow is forecast for tonight with a travelers advisory still in effect. Increasing cloudiness is expected tonight and Tuesday. The highs Tuesday are expected to reach into the 30s.

Lighter Side

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — A 37-year-old man was charged with aggravated robbery after he allegedly held up a savings and loan using a package of hot dogs.

Murshin A. Rahman, 37, of University Heights, was held without bond pending an appearance Tuesday in Municipal Court.

According to police, a man took a cab to a branch of Broadview Savings and Loan on Saturday and told the driver to wait while he went inside.

The man told a teller that the brown leather attache case he was holding contained a bomb, authorities said. The teller gave him an estimated $2,400, police said.

The man got back into the cab, and police pulled it over minutes later. But when members of the bomb squad went to dismantle the bomb, they found hot dogs wrapped in foil, with wires leading to a wad of putty, said Detective Paul Bell.

Storm disrupts utilities, motorists

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Residents revised plans, Big Spring police were kept busy responding to accidents, and utility crews were repairing service lines disrupted by cold, ice and snow that covered the area during the weekend.

Students at Big Spring and Forsan public schools got a break from classes today as teacher inservice sessions were scheduled. Forsan classes resume Tuesday, and Big Spring students return Wednesday.

Coahoma public schools and Howard College conducted classes as usual today. Howard College evening classes also are scheduled, a college spokeswoman said this morning.

But the college's basketball games scheduled tonight have been postponed indefinitely. The Hawk Queens were to play at 6 p.m. and the Hawks at 8 p.m. against South Plains Junior College at Levelland.

A Coahoma High School basketball game, postponed Friday, was canceled altogether Saturday.

Four water lines have been under repair since breaks began occurring about 3 or 4 p.m. Sunday, said Public Works Director Tom Decell.

The breaks are in an eight-inch pipe at Fourth and Runnels Streets, a six-inch pipe at Kentucky Way and Birdwell Lane, an eight-inch pipe on 18th Street between Gregg and Lancaster Streets, and a six-inch pipe at 16th and Young Streets, he said.

It was not known how many customers were effected by the water line malfunctions, he said.

Decell cited the cold weather as a cause for the breaks. He said severe temperatures cause the ground to contract and expand, damaging the metal pipes.

Silver Hills residents were without electric power for about 2½ hours Saturday night, according to Jan Hansen, administrative assistant at Texas Electric Service Co.

A portion of a power line was down because of ice, she said, adding that the outage effected about 51 customers.

Two people were reported injured in two accidents Sunday.

Carroll Dewey Pyle, 56, of Sherman, was treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center after suffering injuries when his tractor collided with a trailer.

The accident occurred on Interstate 20 at the Refinery Road overpass at 6:28 a.m. Sunday, police reports state.

Pyle, driving a tractor east on the highway, lost control on the icy road, the report said. As his vehicle slid across the median, it jackknifed, striking the trailer rig driven by Leland Gustav Nottmeier, 47, of West Covina, Calif.

A Big Spring passenger was injured in a three-car accident at 5:25 p.m. Sunday at 2200 Gregg St. Sophia Garcia, 41, P.O. Box 339, was reported injured but refused medical treatment, according to police reports.

She was a passenger in a maroon Chevrolet Malibu driven by Rosendo Montes Garcia, 48, Knott Route Box 56.

The accident occurred when Garcia and 35-year-old Jose Roberts Delgado Jr., 1309 Lamar Ave., driving a red Ford Granada, were stopped in the left lane, facing north, in the 2200 block of Gregg St.

Delgado was waiting to turn left, and Garcia was stopped behind

Juries to rule in two local death cases

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Juries named today in 118th District Court will be making decisions on a March committing involuntary manslaughter case and whether a mental hospital patient is competent to stand trial.

District Attorney Rick Hamby told 48 persons in his opening remarks that David Ray Waymon, 22, 704 E. Third St., was scheduled to plead guilty Tuesday to killing a man with his vehicle when driving while intoxicated. Killed in the case was Joe Harold Roundtree, 27, who resided at Sterling City Route Box T27B.

Another jury was being selected today to determine whether L.H. Williams, 68, should remain at Rusk State Hospital or stand trial for murder. The former foster care patient from the Big Spring Veterans Administration Center is charged with bludgeoning death of his 66-year-old roommate, William H. Jewell, on April 8.

Roundtree died on March 8 after a motorcycle he was driving was struck from behind by a pickup driven by Waymon.

The accident occurred at a red light in the 300 block of West Fourth Street, police reports say.

In addition to Roundtree's death, three other motorcycle riders were severely injured as a result of the accident.

Injured were George Micheal Kennedy, Sterling City Route Box 22; Stephanie Poiney Rodriguez of Lubbock; and Gary Richard Barth, 2521 Fairchild Dr.

Wayne Basden is Waymon's attorney.

The case initially was set for trial last month, but both Basden and District Attorney Rick Hamby agreed to postpone it because Basden was ill.

In a matter unrelated to this morning's proceedings, District Attorney Rick Hamby said Preston Crawford, 3606 Calvin St., would stand trial Feb. 16 for the voluntary manslaughter death of 19-year-old Jimmy Yanez in November 1985.

Texas prisons reopen after releases

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The nation's second-largest prison system opened its gates to new convicts today after an unusual release of inmates over the weekend brought the prisoner population under a court-ordered ceiling.

"We are open for business and will be receiving new admissions from all counties," Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said today.

The prison system closed its doors to new inmates Friday after exceeding the population limit.

An official population count for the 26-unit prison system was not immediately available, although officials believed they had a 163-inmate cushion going into today.

Another 21 inmates were scheduled for release today, Brown said. Prison officials expected about 80 new inmates to arrive in Huntsville for processing from around the state today.

Eighty prisoners were released on parole Saturday and another 135 were freed on Sunday.

"Normally we don't release prisoners on weekends but it has been done in the past," Brown said.

The Texas prison system stopped accepting new inmates Friday when it registered 38,414 prisoners, or 95.99 percent of its capacity, as of midnight Thursday, 38 over the

Inauguration takes spotlight Tuesday

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas gets a new chief executive and state House members get their committee assignments this week as the 70th Legislature enters the second week of its 140-day session.

Gov.-elect Bill Clements takes the oath of office Tuesday at noon on a special platform constructed on the south steps of the Capitol. The day begins with a 10 a.m. prayer service at the First United Methodist Church near the Capitol.

The oath of office will be administered by Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice John Hill. Clements, a Republican, defeated Democrat Hill in the 1978 gubernatorial race.

Democrat Mark White unseated Clements in 1982, but Clements returned to beat White last year.

A barbecue lunch, afternoon parade and evening of balls will come after the inauguration ceremony.

On the House side this week, Speaker Gib Lewis will complete the task of dividing the 150 members into 34 committees. He has said he hoped to have the committees set by Thursday.

Observers are curious to see who is assigned to the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee. In the last session, Lewis packed the panel with members who opposed tax increases.

But during last summer's special sessions, when Lewis decided a tax bill was needed, the committee blocked the speaker's efforts. Lewis yanked the bill from ways and means and sent it to a committee that advanced it to the floor.

The speaker has said he knows of no reason to replace either Ways and Means Chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, or Appropriations Chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby handed out committee assignments for the 31 senators when the Legislature convened last Tuesday.

Dollar takes a dive

A money dealer yells and points his finger as the U.S. dollar slid to a record low in trading today in Tokyo. The dollar broke the 150-yen level for the first time since the late 1940s, dropping to 149.98 yen in the morning exchange market. Currency traders attributed the dollar's plunge to speculation that the U.S. government wanted a lower dollar to narrow the huge U.S. trade deficit. Meanwhile gold bullion climbed through the $420 barrier.

Suspect faces third murder charge

VAN HORN (AP) — A West Texas sheriff says a man being held in his jail on murder charges was stopped by police in Nashville, Tenn., after escaping from a Michigan psychiatric hospital.

William Scott Day, 35, faced two murder charges in Texas, and police in Marianna, Fla., said Saturday they plan to charge him in a third slaying.

In Nashville, Police Chief Joe Casey said Day, who is being held in the Culberson County Jail at Van Horn, is wanted in the Dec. 9 slaying of Mary Catherine Strobel.

"He says there are several more of his victims out there, and I believe him," said Culberson County Sheriff Richard Upchurch. "But as far as we know, Mrs. Strobel was the very first. It all began in Nashville."

Upchurch said Day, who escaped from Michigan authorities Dec. 4, arrived in Nashville during the second week in December on a bus from Louisville, where he parted ways with Thomas Fortunato, 36. Fortunato, an employee at the Ypsilanti, Mich., Center for Forensic Psychiatry, is charged with helping Day escape in a laundry cart.

While in Tennessee, Day had two brushes with the law, said Upchurch.

On Dec. 9, Mrs. Strobel was approached by Day near a department store.

"She was robbed, and then he took her for a ride," said Upchurch. "They rode for a long, long time. She was alive for some of that. For some of it, she definitely wasn't."

About 4 p.m., a Metro police officer stopped Day as he sped through a school zone. Day was cited for speeding and driving without a license.

"You have to understand that this was an officer stopping a car for which there was no search, no APB, none of that," said Upchurch. "It was just another of countless stops."

Police also believe Day later may have been involved in a market robbery in Franklin, south of Nashville.

"What he did then was just to get back on the interstate and drive to the bus station," said

Upchurch.

"For the last month, this man has literally lived on Greyhound buses," Upchurch said.

Meanwhile, Capt. Charles Morris and Gary Sullivan of the Marianna, Fla., Police Department told the Jackson County Florida that Day allegedly was responsible for the stabbing death of jewelry store owner Evan Johnson, 55.

Johnson's Jan. 2 killing was Marianna's first murder in three years.

The officers said Day would be charged as soon as they could get paperwork to the state attorney.

Morris and Sullivan, who recently returned from Texas where Day is in custody, also said during a news conference that the knife Day used to kill Johnson was used to commit a murder in Mobile, Ala.

They provided no other details of the Alabama killing other than to say that Day told them he threw the knife from a bus window while traveling near Mobile.

Weather

Forecast

West Texas - Travelers' advisory for snowpacked roadways Panhandle and South Plains is in effect tonight. Increasing clouds tonight, becoming cloudy and colder on Tuesday. A chance of snow tonight and Tuesday arewide. Lows tonight will be in the middle teens in the Panhandle to middle 20s in the Concho Valley, except lower 30s in the Big Bend lowlands. Highs Tuesday will be near 20 in the Panhandle, middle 20s in the South Plains, lower 30s in the Permian Basin to upper 30s in the far west.

State

More snow was forecast for West Texas even before authorities finished clearing snow and ice off the streets and highways following the weekend snow storm.

A travelers' advisory was in effect today for the Panhandle, South Plains, Permian Basin, the mountains of Southwest Texas and in extreme western portions of North Texas because of icy and snow-covered highways.

Forecasts called for some possible isolated snow flurries in the Panhandle late today and for a chance of snow over much of West Texas tonight and Tuesday.

Skies clear over most of the state during the night, sending temperatures plunging below freezing as far south as Houston, where the mercury dipped to 30 before dawn.

Sheriff's log

Two freed after serving DWI charges

Howard County sheriff's deputies released two persons from county jail this weekend who had served time for driving while intoxicated judgments.

Jerry Mack Clark, 37, of Midland, served jail time ordered by Kirby because he violated the terms of his probation on a driving while intoxicated misdemeanor judgment.

Paul R. Garcia, 37, of Midland, was released Sunday night after pleading guilty Friday in 118 District Court to a felony DWI charge. Judge Gregg sentenced him to 10 days in county jail.

Police beat New pickup stolen from Brock Ford

A 1987 Ford pickup, colored light blue over dark blue, was stolen from Bob Brock Ford, 500 W. Fourth St., between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The truck was valued at $20,156.

Elvira Olaque, 207 E. 19th St., told police that someone stole the battery from her gold Chevrolet pickup between Friday and Saturday nights.

Kenneth Hart, 407 N.E. 11th St., no age listed, was arrested at the 902 Willia St. 7-Eleven early Sunday morning for theft under $20.

Gary Mauro to speak to realtors

State Land Commissioner Gary Mauro will speak at the Big Spring Area Board of Realtors annual banquet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Big Spring Country Club.

Janelle Britton, board president, will preside over the program.

Mauro took office in 1983 as the 28th Commissioner of the General Land Office. He was born in Bryan and later moved to Waco, where he graduated from high school.

Mauro graduated from Texas A&M University and the University of Texas Law School.

He was named one of the five outstanding young Texans by the Texas Jaycees, received the City of Peace award from the State of Israel Bonds organization, and the President's award from the Nature Conservancy.

He was named one of the 25 Rising Stars of Texas Business by Texas Business magazine in 1980.

Two people were killed in a head-on collision six miles north of Coleman on U.S. Highway 84 at 7:45 p.m. Sunday, a Coleman police officer reported. Three more people were killed in a four-vehicle accident at the intersection of U.S. Highway 67 and Farm-to-Market 2131, a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper reported.

Traffic accidents resulting from hazardous roadways were blamed for at least five other deaths, the Department of Public Safety said. Mail service in Odessa, Midland and Big Spring was halted because postal officials could not guarantee the safety of their employees.

Amarillo reported eight inches of snow on the ground, while five inches were noted at Lubbock. At least three inches had fallen at El Paso, while two inches of snowfall blanketed Wichita Falls, Dalhart, Abilene and San Angelo, the National Weather Service said.

Abilene area bus stations closed Saturday, and remained closed Sunday, forcing passengers to seek shelter at the Abilene Civic Center.

American Red Cross volunteer Golda Harris said Sunday that about 150 people had been in and out of the shelter since Saturday afternoon.

Several churches in Eastland and Callahan counties opened their doors Saturday night to dozens of stranded travelers.

Heavy snow in Lubbock forced cancelation of classes, delays in bus service and early closings of Lubbock area businesses. Texas Tech officials delayed Monday's scheduled opening of spring semester classes until Tuesday because of hazardous driving conditions on the highways.

The Amarillo airport opened partially Sunday, allowing some stranded passengers to leave, said American Airlines spokeswoman Diana Perryman. However, some flights were canceled, she said.

A third vehicle, driver unknown, failed to stop on the "extremely slick," icy road, police reports said. The third vehicle struck Garcia's car, causing it to strike Delgado's car.

The third driver left the scene, but police determined by the license number that the vehicle was a 1977 brown Mercury Cougar owned by Ramiro Garza of Colorado City, according to police reports.

Police responded Saturday and Sunday to 12 other city accidents in which no one was reported injured.

The weather forecast tonight calls for a low in the mid teens and the possibility of more snow tonight and Tuesday. A traveler's advisory is in effect because of icy road conditions. Tuesday's high is expected to be in the lower 30s.

Prisons

limit of 38,376. As part of a prison reform order, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ordered that steps be taken to reduce crowding. The Legislature passed a law setting the 96 percent capacity limit in 1983.

In 1982, the prisons closed for a week because of crowding. Interim prison director Jim Lynaugh said the prison system may initiate an admissions system to strictly regulate the number of convicts the largest counties send.

Lynaugh said the department may continue the controlled admission policy for the 20 most populous counties until April. Brown said a similar plan was put into effect during the 1982 crowding crisis.

The Justice Department has issued a contempt order against the corrections department, saying the agency failed to comply with agreements made in 1980 to improve inmates' living conditions and staffing in the prisons.

The judge gave the prison system until March 31 to meet the standards or risk fines of up to $800,500 a day. The prison board plans to appeal Justice's contempt order.

New Orleans prime site for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Orleans, the city of Mardi Gras, has the inside track to host the 1988 Republican National Convention. Selection of the Louisiana city by the Republicans will force the Democrats to look elsewhere for a place to nominate their next presidential candidate.

The Republican Party's site selection committee will announce its choice Tuesday for a convention city.

"I believe New Orleans will be selected," said committee member Hillard Selck Jr., of Missouri, a leading backer of Kansas City, one of the two other finalists. Atlanta was the third city.

A Republican decision to go to New Orleans meant that Atlanta and Houston were the frontrunners for the Democratic convention.

The 192-member RNC will meet on Friday to ratify the recommendation of the selection committee.

Meanwhile, the Democrats' selection committee was touring New Orleans and the chairman of the panel said, "The city seems to fit our needs nicely."

Democratic Club to meet

The Howard County Democratic Club will install officers at a 7 p.m. meeting Thursday in the district courtroom at the Howard County Courthouse.

Officers for 1987 are: Jane Ray, president; Larry Shaw, vice president; Nancy Fulgham, secretary-treasurer.

The club will begin meeting on the fourth Thursday of the month, instead of Tuesday, the former meeting day.

New members will be accepted and refreshments served at the Thursday meeting.

Suspect extradited

Americans held hostage aboard a TWA jetliner in 1985 praised the U.S. decision to extradite from West Germany a man suspected in the hijacking, but some regretted that the death penalty had to be waived to get him.

Many of the former hostages said they would be willing to testify against Mohammad Ali Hamadi despite fear that a trial could generate more terrorist acts by his associates.

"I certainly think he deserves the death penalty," said Jimmie Dell Palmer, 50, of Little Rock, Ark. "I am certainly disappointed we have taken this route to get him back, but if that's the only way to get him to the United States, we don't have much choice."

The Justice Department announced Sunday it would not seek the death penalty against Hamadi, clearing the way for him to be sent to the United States. West Germany has no death penalty and its laws bar extradition of people who would face execution.

Jury: Killer unknown

SOMERVILLE, N.J. — An avowed revolutionary was convicted in the slaying of a state trooper, but the identity of the actual killer was left in doubt as prosecutors failed to prove that a co-defendant was the triggerman.

Both sides claimed partial victory after the jury Sunday declined to conclude that either defendant pumped nine bullets into the highly decorated trooper, and a mistrial was declared for one defendant.

The jury convicted Thomas W. Manning of felony murder, which is homicide during commission of a felony, but acquitted him of the separate charge of murder. The two felonies he was found guilty of were robbery and escape.

Superior Court Judge Michael Imbriani declared a mistrial for Manning's compatriot, Richard C. Williams, after the jury, which deliberated for 45 hours over five days, said it was deadlocked in regard to him.

Audits unsuccessful

WASHINGTON — Federal requirements that utilities must offer energy audits to their customers — a major conservation initiative of the late 1970s — do not seem to have saved much energy, congressional investigators say.

It is possible that more energy was spent doing the audits than was saved, according to the analyst in charge of a report from the General Accounting Office.

Few homeowners participated. Those who did probably cut their household energy use by 4 percent at most, and that estimate is highly uncertain, said a GAO report dated Dec. 30 and distributed this week.

The nation's nearly 87 million households account for about a fifth of all energy consumed, and that does not count gasoline for their cars.

"Nationally, however, the ... program does not appear to have substantially reduced energy consumption."

Ku Klux Klansmen and others are escorted Saturday by riot equipped duty sheriffs near Cumming, Ga., as they watched a march titled the "brotherhood anti-intimidation march." Martin Luther King Day comes at a time of intensify in civil rights following an attack on black youths in a white New York neighborhood.

King day

Civil rights leaders march

Federal and many state workers got the day off today as Americans observed Martin Luther King Day, their memories of the slain civil rights leader stirred by recent outbreaks of racial violence in the North and South.

"We cannot just remember the dream and the dreamer, we must implement the dream," the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson said Sunday in New York, urging listeners to march to protest an attack by a white mob Dec. 20 that left a black man dead.

Civil rights leaders in Georgia on Sunday said they would march again through an all-white county where a biracial brotherhood march Saturday was met by rock- and bottle-wielding protesters, including members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Today is a holiday for federal workers around the country, and for employees of the District of Columbia and most of the 40 states that have a public holiday for King. Some states honor King on his birthday, Jan. 15.

Events scheduled for the day included the ringing of bells in state capitol buildings, churches and schools across the nation, a ceremony at the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, and marches in King's native Atlanta.

Financial markets stayed open, but schools, banks and government offices in some states were closed. King, a Baptist preacher awarded the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize for his leadership of the civil rights movement, was born in 1929. He was shot to death by a sniper in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968. On Sunday, a Milwaukee postal station was named in King's honor and a bronze sculpture of him was unveiled outside. In Birmingham, Ala., about 250 people Sunday night took part in a candlelight march.

Memories of King were stirred Saturday when a group of civil rights marchers on a "brotherhood anti-intimidation" walk through an all-white Georgia county were pelted with rocks and bottles. Eight people were arrested and several marchers were injured.

Civil rights leaders vowed Sunday to march again some day through the county, where blacks were terrorized and driven out in 1912.

"We feel very strongly about the right to march a non-violent march, as we did throughout the '60s. We have a right to march without being beaten up," said Coretta Scott King, the slain civil rights leader's widow.

Today's events called for a wreath-laying at King's tomb in Atlanta, after which Mrs. King was to bestow the Martin Luther King Jr. Nonviolent Peace Prize on Philippine President Corason Aquino. A representative was to accept for her.

Two of King's lieutenants, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, former head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Rev. Hosea Williams, an Atlanta councilman, were to lead an afternoon parade followed by a march led by the King family.

Officials uncertain

BONN, West Germany — Officials said it was not clear if the kidnapping of a West German businessman in Beirut was aimed at forcing Bonn to release a Lebanese man accused of hijacking a TWA jetliner in 1985.

Two West German newspapers Sunday quoted unnamed government officials as saying they feared the two cases were linked.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Reinhard Betzuege said the kidnapers have not identified themselves or made demands. "It could be a criminal act, or someone looking for ransom money," Betzuege said.

Ministry officials said Rudolf Cordes, 53, was kidnapped Saturday evening after arriving in Beirut from Frankfurt.

Cordes is the Beirut manager for Hoechst AG, one of West Germany's largest chemical companies. He is based in Frankfurt and travels frequently to Lebanon on business, a company official said Sunday.

Critics blasts Cordero

QUITO, Ecuador — Opposition leaders on Saturday harshly criticized President Leon Febres Cordero, who gained his freedom from rebel paratroopers holding him hostage by ordering the release of a jailed mutinous general.

Former President Osvaldo Hurtado, who handed power to Febres Cordero in August 1984, called for the 55-year-old president's resignation.

Gen. Frank Vargas Pazzos, the former air force commander whose release Friday night ended Febres Cordero's 11-hour captivity, remained secluded at an air base outside Guayaquil. Rene Vargas Pazzos, his brother and a member of Congress, said the general probably would go to Quito "to inform the people of his future activity."

Conference adopts plan

LONDON (AP) — Faced with increasing censorship and attacks on journalists, news media representatives from 34 countries pledged to set up a hot line for threatened journalists and a legal defense fund to fight press restrictions.

More than 125 editors, publishers and journalists ended the first international conference on combating censorship Sunday with a vow to triumph over "those seeking to blind the world to what is happening in it."

After listening to first-hand accounts of censorship in Africa, Latin America, Asia and the Soviet Union, the delegates adopted a declaration that expressed opposition to any interference with the content or free flow of news.

They called for intensified publicity about censorship, a "censorship hot line" to help journalists targeted by censors; a fund to pay for legal challenges to censorship laws and an "early warning system" to spot restrictive laws.

Mexican diet pills unhealthy

CORPUS CHRISTI — Medical experts are concerned about the growing popularity of relatively new kinds of Mexican diet pills they say can cause nervous breakdowns or even death.

Officials at the state health department say they suspect that three deaths in the state are connected with the diet pills, which are sold under the brand names Redotex, Ponderex and Moduretic, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times reported.

The pills, which are taken in combination under the diet plans, can trigger schizophrenia and depression in people prone to those mental illnesses, said Dr. Lawrence Taylor, a psychiatrist and medical director of the Corpus Christi Drug Abuse Council.

Ponderex contains fenfluramine, a controlled substance similar to "speed," an amphetamine that is illegal in the United States, state health officials say. Ponderex and the other brands also contain laxatives, diuretics, depressants, stimulants and a thyroid-type hormone.

Taylor says he is treating 14 patients whose schizophrenia and mental depression were triggered by the pills.

He said the diet pills create a chemical imbalance that in turn induces chemical stress.

"It's a case of these type of people should not be messing with anything," said Taylor. "There's no question you can't fool around with the body and get away with it."

The pills are easily available, Taylor said. "They're going down there to pick them up. They think they're getting some good drugs, but they're not."

Taking the pills can result in both physical and mental harmful effects, said Ernest Haynes, consulting pharmacist with the food and drug division of the Texas Health Department.

Although there are state and federal laws forbidding possession or transport of fenfluramine, two federal agencies have permissive, conflicting policies that allow Ponderex to be imported from Mexico.

The Federal Drug Administration prohibits the use of fenfluramine without a prescription from a U.S. physician, said Jim Jones, supervising investigator in Houston for the FDA.

But agents at the U.S.-Mexico border allow all diet pills, including Ponderex, to be imported if they are accompanied by a prescription from either a U.S. or Mexican physician, said James Pursler, chief U.S. Customs inspector at the Laredo border station.

Taylor said some people can take the drugs for years with no apparent adverse mental effects.

Communists expel intellectuals

PEKING (AP) — The Communist Party has expelled the most prominent of a group of intellectuals accused of inciting student protests and spreading Western liberal ideas, the official Xinhua News Agency said today.

Premier Zhao Ziyang meanwhile was quoted as saying China's commitment to reform and increased international contacts has not been shaken by its leadership change last week, in which Zhao replaced the disgraced Hu Yaobang as party chief.

Hu also was an apparent victim of the current campaign against Western liberal ideas because he had defended intellectuals with unorthodox views.

Xinhua today quoted Zhao as assuring intellectuals they will not be victimized in the campaign.

But in a later dispatch, the agency said Fang Lizhi, an astrophysicist who was fired last week as vice president of the China Science and Technology University in Hefei, was expelled from the party because he "attempted to incite intellectuals against the party and students to make trouble."

Xinhua said Fang incited people to change the true colors of the party and claimed Marxism no longer has meaning as a science. The agency quoted Fang as saying that "if judged from the point of view of the socialist system, what we have done over the past three decades is nothing but failure."

The China Science and Technology University in Hefei, the capital of eastern Anhui province, was the scene Dec. 5 of the first of a series of pro-democracy student demonstrations that eventually spread to at least 11 cities. The demonstrators praised Fang for supporting greater democracy.

He was the second intellectual known to have been purged from the party in the crackdown on liberalism that followed the demonstrations. Xinhua said last week that Shanghai writer Wang Ruowang was expelled from the party.

Chinese sources say well-known investigative journalist Liu Binyan also has been expelled, but there has been no official word.

There have been reports that other individuals are being criticized for "bourgeois liberalism," or anti-party, anti-socialist attitudes.

Hu resigned Friday. He reportedly was forced out because top leader Deng Xiaoping was unhappy with his handling of the student protests and his failure to crack down on intellectuals critical of the party.

The party Politburo appointed the 67-year-old Zhao as acting general secretary of the 44-million member party, pending ratification by the larger Central Committee.

Xinhua today quoted Zhao as saying that intellectuals, who have borne the brunt of ideological campaigns in the past, will not be mistreated in the current campaign.

"We will not change our policy of respecting knowledge, treasuring talented people and giving full play to the enthusiasm and creativeness of intellectuals in socialist construction," he was quoted as saying.

During the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution, leftists incited by Mao purged and persecuted millions of people for ideological impurities. Torture and killings were widespread. Intellectuals were among the worst sufferers.

Xinhua said Zhao made the comments Sunday at a meeting with the secretary of the Hungarian Socialist Workers Party, Ferenc Havasi.

Opinion

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state.

Some advice given to Clements

Tongues tucked only partially in our cheeks, we can offer Gov.-elect Bill Clements some broad advice for his second stint in Austin. First, we think Clements should study closely how outgoing Gov. Mark White went awry. Texans have never been long on liking to be fibbed to, and while White may not have known beforehand that he would deviate from many of his campaign promises, the days of wholesale forgiveness in Texas appear to be over.

Clements knows all too well what White's tactics were. Clements even borrowed one or two of White's techniques in his re-run for the governor's chair.

For example, Clements' disappearing trick with a much-touted plan of his pull Texas out of the depth of an oil-pricing pit comes to mind.

It's never too late for honesty, but the earlier the better. Odessa American

TDS shouldn't pass its problems

It is not enough for the Texas Department of Corrections simply to refuse to accept any new prisoners in order to obey a federal judge's order to eliminate overcrowding.

Prison officials also need to put some additional, temporary state facilities into service for minimum-risk inmates — with the court's permission — in order to avoid overwhelming the jails operated by county governments.

The state is building new prisons, but the TDC's plan to use old military barracks for a temporary prison was rejected last year by Judge (William Wayne) Justice.

It would be worthwhile for the TDC to try again to get permission to remodel the facilities to make them available for low-risk prisoners.

Closing the gates at Texas prisons will quickly overcrowd county jails in Dallas and other urban centers.

It is not fair for the TDC to pass its problem to local governments. Dallas Times Herald

Contempt order fine 'ludicrous'

Federal Judge William Wayne Justice has again smacked the state of Texas with his gavel of authority, finding them in contempt of court for failing to comply with his court-ordered prison reforms.

He has given the state until March 31 to clear up numerous problems, or face the possibility of fines totaling over $800,000 per day, beginning April 1. It is appropriate that the fines are set to begin on that day, since the amount of the fine certainly resembles an April Fool's joke.

Fining the state what amounts to $24 million per month is absolutely ludicrous, and to expect them to pay such a fine is insane. The Lufkin Daily News

Says container legislation overdue

State Rep. Lena Guerrero's prefiling of House Bill 210, which would require a minimum 5-cent deposit on beer, soft drink and certain other beverage containers, is a step in the right direction.

The container deposit legislation, co-sponsored by Guerrero, D-Austin, and Rep. Terral Smith, R-Austin, is designed to provide a monetary incentive for returning beverage containers to grocery stores or recycling centers.

...(It) would also include a minimum 5-cent deposit on plastic and metal soft drink containers. It would ban detachable pulltabs on cans, and non-biodegradable six-pack holders.

Nine states have adopted container deposit laws and have achieved major reductions in litter.

It's high time Texas adopted container legislation, too. The Houston Post

Lawmakers get 'even worse' news

Do you know those jokes that begin, "I've got some good news and some bad news"? Well, here's one for the Texas Legislature, but it should be reworded, "I've got some bad news and some even worse news."

The bad news is that when the Texas Legislature convened its 70th session, the state's deficit was estimated at $5.8 billion. That's pretty depressing, but at least Texans had known for some time that this fiscal crisis awaited them.

"even worse" news in the form of a report from State Comptroller Bob Bullock which forecasted the state's first decrease in revenue collections in 30 years, a drop of about 2.9 percent.

At this point, no one knows how the state can even up its revenues and expenses, but this latest twist in the budget crisis makes it even less likely that Gov.-elect Bill Clements will be able to keep his campaign promise of no tax increase. Port Arthur News

State highways need funding bill

State road programs are beginning to suffer because the 99th Congress couldn't produce a "clean" highway funding bill. The new 100th Congress should do it promptly.

A $13.1 billion authorization measure died last year when some members of Congress saddled it with extraneous provisions, the most controversial of which was an amendment to repeal the national 55 mile-per-hour speed limit. The bill's demise left the states with no new highway money for fiscal 1987, which began Oct. 1.

Unless Congress approves a funding bill this month or next, billions of dollars worth of construction will have to be postponed and tens of thousands of jobs could be lost. San Antonio Express-News

Readers invited to vote if the press has been fair

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — President Reagan appears to have weathered the Iran storm, so far, without losing the trust and confidence of the majority of informed Americans.

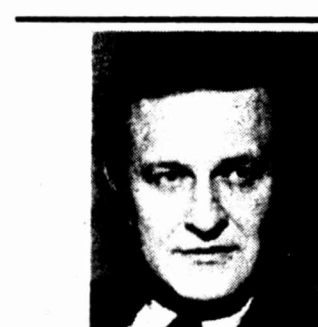

This is the verdict of the Peoples Poll, which was conducted under the supervision of the respected Washington pollster, Dr. Vincent J. Breglio of Research/Strategy/Management Inc. Next question: Has the media been fair to President Reagan? We'll explain later in this report how you can participate.

We establish the Peoples Poll to give Americans the opportunity to register their opinions on national issues. Other polls constantly tell us what we think and how we feel, based on the tiniest of samplings. Our purpose is to give people a chance to participate directly in establishing public opinion.

We invited readers to tell us whether they thought President Reagan's secret dealings with Iran were justified. The results heavily favored the president, with 25,204 agreeing and 15,811 disagreeing.

Similar findings have been reported by the president's private pollster, Richard Wirthlin, who watched Reagan's approval rating fall after the Iran revelations, then rebound above 50 percent.

Breglio directed the Peoples Poll and analyzed the results — which, he said, do not necessarily present a microcosm of how all Americans feel. But the poll accurately reflects the views of reading, thinking, participating Americans — the people most likely to join in the public dialogue and participate in the democratic process, Breglio explained.

Jack Anderson

If you want to take part, the Peoples Poll will next consider whether the media has been fair to President Reagan. For six years, the president has floated placidly above the squalls that reporters stirred up, secure in the esteem of a large majority of Americans.

Reporters swooped down on the usual scandals and tried to keep them reverberating until they became stuck in the public mind. But Reagan projected a sincere, engaging, relaxed, father-figure image that made him relatively immune from the press scourging that had illuminated the mishaps of his predecessors.

Now the Iran scandal has cracked the shell of immunity that has surrounded Reagan, causing a seeping erosion that is diminishing his standing. But there are two edges to the sword wielded by the media:

(1) The media contends that government will not reform itself, that wrongdoing must be exposed until the public furor forces politicians to clean house. (2) The White House claims that the Iran carnage not only is hurting the president but the nation. The White House also believes that the press coverage has been unfair.

What do you think? In a democracy, your opinion is important and will help shape national attitudes. If you believe the press generally has been fair and responsible, simply dial 1-900-210-3280. If you think the press has been unfair and irresponsible, dial 1-900-210-3284.

The telephone company will bill you 50 cents for the call. Or just write the telephone number of your choice on a postal card and mail it to Peoples Poll, P.O. Box 2300, Washington, D.C. 20013. If you wish to elaborate, we will welcome a letter explaining your views.

COVERUP ON CASEY?: Did CIA Director William Casey's chief aides not notice that their boss was ailing in the days before he suffered a seizure and was operated on for a malignant brain tumor — or did they just pretend not to notice?

On Dec. 11, Casey attended a memorial service in Philadelphia for a former colleague who died in the Beirut embassy bombing in 1983.

Some who were there said Casey looked really dreadful and, while never a polished public speaker, he seemed incoherent in his prepared remarks.

Yet when questioned about the director's appearance, Casey's aides said he was still as sharp as ever. He collapsed days later.

Cynical way to raise pay of Congress

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN
When a federal commission recommended that assorted government officials, including members of Congress, get a raise in pay amounting in some cases to more than 80 percent, public enthusiasm for the idea was not exactly boundless. But the scandal is not in the money; it's in the method. The entire scheme is rigged to allow members of Congress to get a raise without the inconvenience of ever voting for a raise.

The cash, of course, is distracting. Under the commission's plan, lawmakers would have seen their annual salaries rise from $77,400 to $135,000; federal judges and high-level career executive branch officials would have gotten similar boosts. This week, the President cut the amounts considerably for everyone involved. Members of Congress would get $89,500.

In Congress' ingenuity, Reagan's decision is the last word, unless both houses vote to overturn it. Any public fury at the expenditures, Congress hopes, will be directed at the commission or the President.

That presumes the public is too dense to see what's going on. Unfortunately for Congress, the average citizen may recall that congressional pay used to be set by a vote of Congress, which then could be held accountable for any excessive generosity to itself in the next election.

Resentful of the public's intractable tendency to hold members responsible for their votes, the lawmakers in 1967 tried to shift responsibility to the President. It required that he would propose levels of pay, though Congress still had to approve any change. In 1985, trying to put still more distance between themselves and any blame, the members provided that, if Congress simply did nothing, the President's recommendation would become law.

The point is to allow the newly enriched congressman, confronted by angry voters, to assume a pose of perfect innocence: "Pay raise? I never voted for a pay raise!" This isn't quite what the authors of the Constitution envisioned. They decided that Congress could be trusted with the task as long as its access to the public till was checked by the obligation to answer to the electorate.

The problem is that getting public approval for a pay raise is so infernally hard. Sensibly or not, the typical voter has no patience with lawmakers who insist that a salary more than triple the nation's median household income is insufficient for work that most members have spent huge sums of time, money and energy to obtain.

The Marbury Foundation for Law and Fiscal Responsibility, one of several Washington groups that plan to sue to block any pay raise, thinks the framers' intent that Congress set its own pay is clear enough to invalidate this roundabout method.

Unfortunately, the courts aren't likely to agree. Whatever the framers meant, the phrase they actually used in the Constitution — that congressional pay shall be "ascertained by law" — is elastic enough to cover almost any procedure.

Constitutionality aside, though, this is an outrageous way to set congressional salaries. It reflects two contradictory beliefs: that those salaries are obviously far lower than they should be and that the public is incapable of grasping the obvious.

But if the case for higher pay is as strong as the pay commission claims, it should not be beyond the persuasive powers of members of Congress to defuse any public hostility.

Congress may find that as the truth seeps out, voters will be as incensed by this cynical subterfuge as they are by the dollars involved. In establishing procedures for pay raises, just as in enacting pay raises, it's not smart to defy the people.

Paralyzed woman competes in pageant

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A wheelchair-bound woman who danced and modeled a swimsuit and nightgown in a local beauty pageant says she it was a rewarding experience even though she lost.

"I've had a really good time here and I think that we've realized that there are more important things than winning," said Maria Serrao, 23. "We all feel pretty good about ourselves right now. I think that's the most important thing."

The title of Miss Solano went to 18-year-old Terri Zorn of Suisun City, who won out over 21 other contestants Sunday night.

Miss Serrao, paralyzed in a car accident when she was 5 years old, was the first wheelchair-bound woman to enter a local beauty contest leading to the Miss USA and Miss Universe pageants.

The movie and TV actress participated in the program's opening production, swinging her arms and spinning her wheelchair in a dance number that featured the contestants in a Las Vegas-style chorus line in feather headdresses and sequined costumes.

Miss Serrao received enthusiastic applause during the number, and in the evening gown and swimsuit competitions.

"If somebody looks to me as an inspiration, that's great," she said. "People can do a lot of things they think they can't. If I could be a role model for someone to help overcome their obstacles, then I'd feel good."

Former in-laws' legal ties are binding in eyes of IRS

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you indicated that when a child ends a marriage, the legal relationship between the parent and the child's spouse ends.

I take issue with this and believe the rule to be that these spouses continue to be daughters-in-law or sons-in-law.

For one thing, the relationship is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service. Suppose, for instance, I am providing over one-half of the support for a daughter-in-law. I can claim her as an exemption because a relationship exists. The regulations provide, I believe, that the relationship once existing is not destroyed for income tax purposes by divorce or by the death of a spouse.

Based on this and the lack of any other legal authority, I suggest that the legal relationship continues. "Wondering," the lady who wrote you about this, will no doubt be relieved to get all of her relatives back!

GEORGE E. MCINTOSH, ATTORNEY, MOUNT VERNON, WASH.

DEAR MR. MCINTOSH: "Wondering" will undoubtedly be about as "relieved" to get all her in-laws back as you (or I) would. I can readily understand that some in-laws do need financial protection under the law, but these days when marriages stand a 50-50 chance of ending in divorce, law or no law, the in-law who is out can properly be referred to as a "former" in-law.

How do you like them apples, Mr. McIntosh? (Forgive me, the juicy tie-in was too appealing.)

DEAR ABBY: I had my entire family over for Christmas dinner again this year. I've had it here for years because I have the largest house. Everyone brings an appetizer or a side dish, and I cook the turkey.

Well, everything went great until it came time to do the dishes and clean up. Abby, no one moved — except to the couches and chairs. I did dishes for 16 people!

Someone said, "Why don't you sit down for a while?" My response, "I'd love to if only someone would give me a hand in the kitchen." Nobody offered, so I went ahead and did it myself. When I finished, I was exhausted.

This is not the first time they have done this to me. Am I being unfair to expect their help?

DISHPAN HANDS IN MASS. DEAR DISH: You are not being unfair to expect their help, but you are being foolish to depend on volunteers. Draft as many hands as you need, saying, "Many hands make light work," or however that corny (but effective) phrase goes, but whatever you do — don't go it alone next year.

DEAR READERS: Today we pay tribute to a great American, Martin Luther King Jr. His words of wisdom are even more meaningful today than they were 20 years ago, when he said, "One day somebody should remind us that, even though there may be political and ideological differences between us, the Vietnamese are our brothers, the Russians are our brothers, the Chinese are our brothers; and one day we've got to sit down together at the table of brotherhood."

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

TRY MEXICO
Mexico offers multiple layers of cultural interest to go with her world-reknown beauty. Her ancestry goes back to the ancient peoples of Mesoamerica — the Maya, the Toltecs, and the Aztecs. These American natives built grand ceremonial cities that still delight travelers all over Mexico from the Yucatan jungle to the heart of old Mexico City. Mexico's colonial heritage includes dozens of picture-postcard towns built around plazas with fountains and bandstands. Many offer superb churches whose golden interiors are lined with priceless artwork. Here, also, artisans adapt traditional gold, silver, ceramic, and cloth craft to today's uses. Lastly, Mexico is a modern hostess. She offers tranquil charm on her Caribbean coastline, as well as sophisticated Pacific pleasures. Best of all, she is close.
Close or far, around the corner or around the world, for business, pleasure or emergency travel, BIG SPRING TRAVEL, 608 Scurry, are the travel professionals who have the right "ticket" for your travel needs. RECENT STUDIES IN HEARING CORRECTION STUDIES BY MANY INDIVIDUALS IN THE HEARING AID FIELD INDICATE THAT FOR CERTAIN INDIVIDUALS THERE MAY BE A SIGNIFICANT BENEFIT IN HEARING BY WEARING BINAURAL (Both Ears) HEARING INSTRUMENTS. THE ADVANTAGES FOR THESE ARE:
1. BETTER LOCATION OF SOUND (The hard of hearing person can better tell where a sound is coming from.)
2. AIDS DO NOT HAVE TO BE TURNED UP AS LOUD TO HEAR WITH (One aid may have to do the work of two ears.) Two aids can make aids sound better. Quieter, especially in a loud or noisy environment.
3. MOST IMPORTANT! IMPROVED ABILITY TO UNDERSTAND WHAT YOU HEAR! (Especially in Noisy Situations) One Ear can pick up the voice you want to hear while the other picks up sounds you may not want to hear instead of all voices and sounds going to one aid!

Lady Bird to donate $1 million

AUSTIN — Lady Bird Johnson, widow of former President Lyndon Baines Johnson, has stipulated that $1 million from her estate be given to the National Wildflower Research Center.

"I have been blessed with God's bounty, and it gives me great joy to put it back into God's green earth. I have stipulated in my will that $1 million be set aside for the use of the National Wildflower Research Center," she said.

Mrs. Johnson's comments were included in remarks prepared for a speech in San Antonio today, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Mrs. Johnson, 74, helped establish the center by donating 60 acres of land east of Austin and $125,000 in 1982.

"It is hard for me to believe that four years have passed since we first gathered to launch the National Wildflower Research Center," she said.

Since its establishment, the non-profit organization has researched planting and maintenance techniques for wildflowers and has become a national clearinghouse on wildflower information. Last year, the center received 21,000 requests for information, Mrs. Johnson said.

Victim of accident found safe

AUSTIN — An Austin area man who had been the object of an intensive search after a car he was driving plunged into Town Lake was found alive in an Austin hospital, police say.

Divers had searched the cold, rushing waters during the day Saturday and returned on Sunday afternoon when police received word that the man was alive and being treated for apparently minor injuries.

Ted Delepinay, 48, checked himself into Seton Medical Center Sunday afternoon after he complained of an undisclosed seizure disorder and minor injuries suffered in the Saturday morning accident, police said. He was in good condition late Sunday, officials said.

The frantic search, that led to the discovery of two other vehicles in the cold, murky water, began after witnesses saw a car plunge into the lake from an Interstate 35 frontage road early Saturday morning.

Delepinay, a resident of Coupland, about 35 miles northeast of Austin, told authorities he was able to climb out of the car before it submerged. He said he swam to shore, walked to a nearby service station and called his wife to come and take him home. He was hospitalized Sunday after complaining of injuries he apparently suffered when the car hit the water.

Principal teaches Bible classes

HOUSTON — A middle school principal held weekend Bible classes despite protests from teachers' union representatives and the American Civil Liberties union.

The controversy started when Principal W.B. Johnson proposed the Bible classes in a Jan. 7 letter to parents of Fleming Middle School students saying the classes were aimed at combating behavior problems.

The letters came under fire from both the American Civil Liberties union and teachers' union representatives who said the official-looking letter had the effect of coercing parents and students to attend. His letter, which proposed the classes as a means of behavior control was written on school stationery.

Despite the controversy, parents

Saturday who braved thunderstorms to attend the two-hour session said they were grateful to Johnson for what they described as his efforts to teach their children.

Johnson said Saturday he will not issue invitations through his school like he did for Saturday's classes. In his first class at a southeast Houston Baptist church, Fleming told the 50 adults and children in attendance to "realize our support system is God, the Heavenly Father."

Complying with an order from Houston School Superintendent Joan Raymond that the school disassociate itself from the religious sessions, Johnson emphasized at the outset that the district did not require attendance at the classes.

Voters reject recent gambling proposal

GALVESTON — Voters on Saturday rejected by a 3-to-2 margin a proposal to bring gambling back to this Gulf Coast city where casinos flourished until they were shut down three decades ago.

The vote was 4,891 for gambling and 7,301 against in an unusually heavy turnout — more than 40 percent of the city's 28,442 registered voters, city officials said.

It was the second time in three years that casino gambling has been turned down in Galveston. It was rejected by a 2-to-1 margin on Jan. 20, 1984.

The referendum was only a straw vote — a legislator had indicated he would introduce a bill in the Texas Legislature to legalize casino gambling in the city if residents gave decisive approval to the proposal.

Another city election would have been required if the Legislature approved the proposal.

Galveston, which is 50 miles southeast of Houston, had a reputation as a wide-open gambling and prostitution mecca from about 1925 until the mid-1950s. Texas Attorney General Will Wilson led a team of law enforcement authorities who closed the casinos for good.

Many of Galveston's hotel operators were behind the proposal to legalize gambling. Motel and hotel rooms are booked up only in the summer months when tourists flock to the ocean-side city.

Mayor Jan Coggeshall had predicted the proposition would fail, but said she expected the margin to be closer this time.

"After all, the economy here is worse than it was three years ago," Ms. Coggeshall said.

She said Galveston's economy mirrors the problems of neighboring Houston, with both suffering declines in real estate and energy, particularly offshore drilling.

Unemployment has been in the 10 percent to 11 percent range, and is worse than in 1984 when the issue last went before voters. Proponents had said legalized gambling would mean more jobs to Galveston 65,000 residents.

Also Saturday, voters changed the city charter to require that any City Council decision to adopt a mass transit system or to grant a garbage contract must be approved by voters.

Conner proves Kiwis not magic

Stars and Stripes whips New Zealand for right to face Aussies

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer
FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) — Stars & Stripes, the yacht skipper Dennis Conner hopes to sail to an America's Cup victory, returned to shore today to a trumpeter playing "God Bless America" in celebration of its elimination of New Zealand.

And Conner, who lost the Cup four years ago, felt he had been blessed with some luck when New Zealand hit a buoy just as it was threatening to overtake his San Diego-based 12-meter one turn from the finish.

"It was a bit of relief," he said following a one-minute, 29-second victory that put Stars & Stripes into the finals against an Australian defender.

"They are a very scrappy bunch," Conner said of the Kiwis, who entered the best-of-seven series under skipper Chris Dickson with one just loss in the three-month-long challenger series.

The victory by Stars & Stripes, which won four of five races against New Zealand, puts Conner in the finals for the third time. He defended the Cup aboard Freedom in 1980 and lost it at the helm of Liberty in 1983.

Dickson said the reversal of his yacht's fortunes was the result of "thirteen years beating thirteen months of experience."

"We had a fast boat, and still have a fast boat, but the better boat won," said the skipper of the controversial fiberglass yacht that entered the finals with a record of 37-1.

Stars & Stripes will open the final series Jan. 31. Its probable opponent is Kookaburra III, which overcame a broken backstay on the fifth leg of its race to defeat Australia IV by one minute, 13 seconds to move within a victory of a showdown with Stars & Stripes. Kookaburra III leads the best-of-nine defender finals 4-0.

Both Australian boats flew protest flags, however.

Another Kookaburra III victory would bring to an end the hopes of Australia IV's syndicate for a successful defense of sailing's oldest prize. Headed by Alan Bond, the syndicate ended 132 years of American domination of the event when Australia II came from a 3-1 deficit to beat Liberty in 1983.

The 44-year-old Conner and his crew staged a typical locker room celebration, pouring champagne over each other as they whooped it up aboard Stars & Stripes. Wives and girl friends, standing out in stars and stripes rugby shirts of red, white and blue, also were doused.

Stars & Stripes led by 36 seconds after the sixth leg of the eight-leg, 24.5-mile race in the Indian Ocean. But the next leg was downwind and New Zealand was close enough to steal the powerful breeze from the leader.

Dickson steered his boat into position to cause the spinnaker on Stars & Stripes to flutter toward the end of the seventh leg. Conner's lead was cut to just nine seconds as Dickson appeared ready to round the buoy.

But New Zealand banged into the mark. That required the boat to re-round the mark, costing it all the ground it had gained on that downwind run.

By the time New Zealand could get around the mark again, it was behind by 39 seconds and Conner was home free.

Stars & Stripes had lost the start by one second, but charged to a 42-second advantage on the first beat to windward. But on the second beat, a powerful 28-knot wind ripped Conner's genoa and New Zealand cut the margin to 14 seconds by the end of that leg.

It was down to eight seconds after the first reach, but back up to 16 seconds at the next rounding as New Zealand had problems attempting to change a spinnaker.

In the defenders' race, Kookaburra III's lead was just six seconds after the second leg. Then it boosted the advantage to 53 seconds on the third leg, heading into the wind, and it never dropped below 50 seconds at any of the remaining marks.

Angry Ditka says no more after '87

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the Chicago Bears is denying reports that head Coach Mike Ditka has vowed to quit the team after the 1987 season.

Bears President Michael McCaskey said Sunday he had not been told of any such deadline by Ditka, according to Brian Harlan, a Bears spokesman.

Harlan quoted McCaskey as saying Ditka had not resigned. Ditka reportedly was on vacation and not available for comment.

The Boston Sunday Globe reported that Ditka had told his bosses he would leave after the remaining year on his contract is over due to a dispute over the NFL team's firing last week of General Manager Jerry Vainisi.

The newspaper said Ditka told McCaskey of his intentions after McCaskey refused to rehire Vainisi.

"Then this season is my last," Ditka is reported as saying. "Don't even bother to ask me about signing an extension of my contract, because I won't do it."

After the conversation, Ditka reportedly told his assistant coaches that 1987 would be his last season with the Bears and they were free to start looking for new jobs immediately.

The Globe said Ditka was "fuming" because Vainisi is his best friend and Ditka's strongest ally in Chicago's front office.

"Ditka and Jerry are best of friends," according to an unidentified source quoted by the newspaper. "When the 'big four' (Ditka, McCaskey, Vainisi and personnel director Bill Tobin) got together, Jerry usually backed Ditka. This is what happened with (Doug) Flutie, and McCaskey didn't like it. It happened three or four times, and McCaskey wasn't happy about it."

McCaskey said he dismissed Vainisi because of "philosophical differences." He said Vainisi is still a consultant.

Vainisi, however, still considers himself the team's general manager and has two years left on the contract given to him by George Halas in 1983.

"Jerry's lawyer told him to keep on going to the office and doing his job," the source said. "So that is what he is going to do. The whole thing is a mess."

Richardson may take hiatus for daughter

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles says basketball coach Nolan Richardson has the option of taking a paid leave of absence during the illness of Richardson's daughter, Yvonne. Meanwhile, the youngster was reported hospitalized Sunday at Tulsa, Okla., after she began hemorrhaging because of her leukemia.

A spokesman at St. Francis Hospital told a reporter for the Tulsa World that the family had requested that Yvonne's condition not be released.

"She's doing a little better," Mrs. Richardson said from her daughter's hospital room. "They've given her platelets to stop the bleeding. We might be able to take her home. We don't know yet."

A Bird'll whip a Rocket most every time

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird is the Boston Celtics' top gunner, but he likes to see everybody get into the scoring act "because it means a lot of people are involved."

So, with Bird leading the way with 32 points, everyone except inconsistent Fred Roberts joined in the fun Sunday as the Celtics streaked to a 122-99 NBA victory over the Houston Rockets.

"We played in the wrong building against the wrong team with the wrong plays," Houston Coach Bill Fitch said. "If you're not having a good day, they're certainly not going to help you."

Bird, who scored six points on his first 3-pointers since Jan. 2, grabbed 9 rebounds, earned 9 assists and had 5 steals. He credited the Boston defense for the rout in the Celtics' first meeting with Houston since they won their 16th NBA championship last June in a showdown with the Rockets.

"I thought we played great defense," Bird said. "Even when we doubled down low we had guys moving in and picking off their passes."

"But this is just another win during the season. It's tough to play noon games and it's hard to evaluate a team when you see them for the first time. So today we'll just take the win."

Kevin McHale had 19 points, Robert Parish 18 and Dennis Johnson 14 as the Celtics rode two decisive spurts to their fourth victory in a row, 11th in the last 12 games and 17th in 18 Boston Garden appearances this season.

"Defense was the key," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said. "We have not been playing well the last couple of games and Houston has been blowing people away, so this was a very important game."

"This was not easy at all. We had to work our butts off on the defensive end to cover (Akeem) Olajuwon and (Ralph) Sampson because they can kill."

Olajuwon and guard Robert Reid led the Rockets with 20 points each and Steve Harris, also a guard, had 18. However, Sampson hit on only 1 of 8 field goal attempts and finished with 6 points.

"We just didn't come out and play strong," Sampson said. "I guess it was just a bad game."

Boston Celtics' forward Larry Bird starts to fall after battling Houston Rockets' Akeem Olajuwon and Rodney McRay in the fourth quarter of the Celtics 122-99 win Sunday in Boston.

Because of the runaway, the Celtics went to their bench early in the fourth period and McHale failed to reach 20 points for only the second time in 37 games this season.

While Boston improved its record to 27-10, Houston lost for the first time since guards Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins were banned last Tuesday for cocaine use.

Cedric Maxwell, who helped the Celtics to two NBA championships in eight years with the club, made his Houston debut, scoring five points. He was acquired from the Los Angeles Clippers on Friday.

Milwaukee 100, Atlanta 91

John Lucas, given one last chance to play in the NBA, wasted no time taking advantage of it.

Lucas, signed by Milwaukee on Saturday after 10 months away from the NBA because of cocaine addiction, played a key role Sunday in the Bucks' 100-91 victory over Central Division-leading Atlanta. He had 12 points, a team-high seven assists and hit a three-pointer with 1:50 left to put Milwaukee ahead to stay.

NASCAR Drivers of Year

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dale Earnhardt and Tim Richmond were named Drivers of the Year by the National Motorsport Press Association Saturday.

It is the first time in the history of the association that two drivers received the honor. Earnhardt was NASCAR's 1986 Winston Cup champion, and Richmond the circuit's winningest driver last year.

German sets jump mark

SIMMERATH, West Germany (AP) — West Germany's Carlo Thraenhardt set a world indoor high jump best of 7 feet, 10 1/2 inches Friday at a five-nation international track and field meet.

Thraenhardt's jump broke the previous mark of 7-10, set by Dietmar Mogenburg of West Germany last Feb. 24. The world outdoor record is 7-10 3/4, held by Igor Palkin of the Soviet Union.

French woman wins

PFRONTEN, West Germany (AP) — Catherine Quittet of France won a women's super giant slalom ski race Saturday for her first-ever World Cup victory.

Quittet clocked one minute, 17.40 seconds to finish more than a half-second ahead of West Germany's Traudl Haecher, who was timed in 1:17.92.

Cowboys spent most on Collier

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) —

Salary figures compiled by the NFL Players Association show Dallas Cowboys' quarterback Danny White had the club's highest base salary, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Sunday.

Herschel Walker was the highest paid player on the team and reserve quarterback Reggie Collier may have made more money than any other player in a Cowboys uniform last fall, according to the report.

The figures are released to the union to aid players and their agents in bargaining. A copy of the report obtained by the Star-Telegram indicates White received $605,000 for the 1986 season.

Tony Dorsett and Randy White followed, with each receiving $450,000 in 1986. All three players received additional funds in real estate investments and annuities that put their earnings closer to $750,000 for the year.

Fourth on the 1986 salary list, at $400,000, was Walker. However, overall, the first-year NFL running back is the highest-paid Dallas player because of a five-year, $4 million contract he signed last year.

Along with his salary, Walker pocketed a $400,000 signing bonus, bringing his earnings for the year to $800,000. Next season his salary goes to $500,000 and peaks at $1 million for the 1990 season.

Collier, like Walker a refugee from the USFL, signed a $2.44 million contract with the Cowboys last May. He received a $750,000 signing bonus, $100,000 of which was used to buy out the remainder of his contract with the Orlando Renegades.

Collier also received an unspecified loan from the Cowboys. He has until 1989 to pay off the loan. Collier also received $250,000 in base salary.

Depending on his annuities, deferred compensation and the loan, the Cowboys apparently spent between $900,000 and $1 million to sign Collier for the 1986 season, the newspaper said.

Wide receiver Mike Sherrard, the club's No. 1 draft pick, received a $525,000 signing bonus and a $156,000 salary. In all, Sherrard pulled down $681,000 for his first year in the NFL, the Star-Telegram reported.

Sherrard's four-year contract will allow him to make $275,000 in his final year and $25,000 in bonuses for every year he makes the team. That brings his total package to $1.45 million.

Tight end Doug Cosbie signed a four-year contract worth $2.17 million, including a $650,000 signing bonus. Cosbie will receive $500,000 of the bonus in deferred payments between 1991 and 2011.

Ref's chat with Musburger stirs controversy

By DICK JOYCE
AP Basketball Writer

"They'd been No. 1 long enough," was the message from Oklahoma's Darryl Kennedy after his jump shot with 12 seconds left beat top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas.

While Saturday's loss may knock the Runnin' Rebels out of the nation's top spot, the No. 16 Sooners' 89-88 victory at Norman, Okla., also stirred more controversy over the three-point goal and involved the CBS broadcasting crew.

A disputed shot by Nevada-Las Vegas' Gary Graham just before halftime apparently cost the Rebels one point, according to one of the TV replays.

Officials ruled Graham's goal a two-pointer — instead of a three-pointer from beyond the 19-foot, 9-inch range as UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian claimed. That left the game tied at halftime at 48.

A horn was blown from the stands just as Graham launched his shot, causing confusion and prompting officials to look at the replay to determine whether the shot had been taken before time expired.

The NCAA allows use of TV replays to correct the game clock, but not to correct "judgment" calls. The replay rule went into the books after last season's clock malfunction in an NCAA tournament game allowed Kansas more time to pull out a victory over Michigan State.

But a story in the Los Angeles Times quoted one of the officials as telling CBS broadcaster Brent Musburger: "We're also trying to determine if the player shot from behind the three-point line."

Musburger replied, "Our replay is inconclusive."

"If you say it is inconclusive, then the basket remains a two-pointer," the Times quoted the official as telling Musburger.

However, after the officials left for the locker room, CBS came up with a replay from a different angle, apparently showing the goal was indeed a three-pointer. CBS commentator Billy Packer said it should have been called a three-pointer.

"What should we do?" Musburger said on the air. "Should we get the officials back here?"

Official Rick Wolkow denied that he or any other official attempted to use the replay to determine whether Graham's shot was a three-pointer.

"We looked at the replay to North Carolina's super freshman J.R. Reid takes a rebound away from two North Carolina State players during the Tar Heels' 96-78 win over the Wolfpack. Reid led all scorers with 31 points.

determine whether any time was left in the half," Wolkow said. "We can only use the instant replay for time."

"We made the decision of two (points) on the court. I and the other official (Mike Tanco) came together and the decision was made."

After Kennedy's final basket, Nevada-Las Vegas' Armon Gilliam missed a jump shot and Jarvis Basnight missed a tip-in try.

Tarkanian, whose team won its first 15 games, said the controversial call "had nothing to do" with outcome. "I told them (officials) to watch the replay. It's clear it was a three-point play but there's nothing

I can do about it."

"I think we should be No. 1 or leave Vegas there," said Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs, whose Sooners are now 12-3.

Harvey Grant had 23 points and 16 rebounds for Oklahoma, while Gilliam scored 23 points for Nevada-Las Vegas.

No. 5 Syracuse also fell from the unbeaten ranks, losing 91-88 at Michigan on Sunday. That left only No. 2 Iowa, which was idle this weekend, DePaul and Clemson as the only undefeated Division I teams.

No. 3 North Carolina 96, N.C. State 78
J.R. Reid tied Mike O'Koren's

10-year-old school mark for points by a freshman by scoring 31 on 13-of-14 shooting from the field. He also grabbed 13 rebounds.

Kenny Smith added 22 points and Joe Wolf 20 in the Tar Heels' 13th straight win. North Carolina raised its Atlantic Coast Conference mark to 5-0 and its overall mark to 15-1. Bennie Bolton's 22 points topped N.C. State, 11-4 overall and 3-2 in the ACC.

No. 4 Indiana 95 Northwestern 43
Led by Daryl Thomas' 18 points, Indiana won its 11th straight, scoring 20 straight points in the first half to turn the game into a rout.

The Hoosiers, 14-1, raised their Big Ten record to 5-0.

Northwestern, 5-11 and 0-6, dropped its ninth consecutive game.

Michigan 91, No. 5 Syracuse 88
Gary Grant and Garde Thompson scored 23 points each and Michigan held off a late Syracuse charge.

Thompson's three-point basket with 2:26 remaining gave the Wolverines an 86-77 advantage, but Syracuse, 15-1, scored six points in 29 seconds to get within three with 1:57 remaining. A pair of free throws by Rony Seikaly, who scored 25 points, got Syracuse within two with 1:15 left, but the Orangemen got no closer despite two Michigan turnovers.

Grant scored 17 of his points in the second half.

No. 6 Purdue 88, Louisville 73
Doug Lee scored 23 points and Todd Mitchell added 22 as Purdue improved to 14-1, its best start in 49 years.

The Boilermakers, trailing by eight points in the first half, rallied to a 40-38 lead at halftime. The Cardinals trailed by three in the second half before Troy Lewis scored five straight points to start a 19-6 streak that gave Purdue an 81-65 lead.

No. 7 DePaul 81, South Florida 55
Kevin Edwards scored 18 points and Rod Strickland and Dallas Comegys 14 apiece for DePaul, 14-0. Darrell Coleman's 16 points paced South Florida, 6-7.

No. 8 Illinois 80, Minnesota 58
Illinois, 13-3, boosted its Big Ten mark to 5-1 behind Ken Norman, who scored 27 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, and Doug Altenberger, who had 18 points. Minnesota, 9-6 and 2-3, got 16 points from Terrence Woods.

Seton Hall 66, No. 9 Georgetown 65
Seton Hall upset Georgetown for the second time in two weeks, but this time it wasn't a 21-point laugher. The Pirates got 22 points from Mark Bryant, including two decisive free throws with 22 seconds left.

Reggie Williams' 28 points led the Hoyas, who are 12-2 overall and 3-2 in the Big East.

Vanderbilt 91, No. 10 Auburn 75
Freshman Scott Draud scored 23 points and Will Perdue added 22 in leading Vanderbilt to a Southeastern Conference upset. The Commodores advanced to 11-6 overall and 3-3 in the SEC, while Auburn fell to 10-3 and 3-2.

The Commodores hit 16 of 20 free throws over the last 8½ minutes to hold off a Tiger rally.

No. 11 Temple 70, St. Joseph's 69
Tim Perry and Mike Vreesvsk

each had 18 points as Temple survived a six-minute scoreless stretch against St. Joseph's.

Temple, 16-2, took a 70-62 lead on a jump shot by Nate Blackwell with 5:58 to play. While the Owls failed to score again, the Hawks scored six straight points, pulling within 70-68 on a jumper by Rodney Blake with 3:18 to play. Blake scored the last point of the game on a free throw with three seconds to go, but he missed the second attempt.

No. 12 Clemson 72, Maryland 64
Guards Michael Tait and Michael Brown each scored 16 points as Clemson raised its record to 16-0 overall and 3-0 in the ACC. It's the best start ever for the Tigers in the ACC.

Steve Hood, a freshman, scored 20 points for Maryland, 3-6 and 0-5. No. 13 St. John's 69, Connecticut 54
St. John's, 12-2, raised its Big East record to 3-2 behind Shelton Jones' 18 points and Mark Jackson's 15, while Connecticut's Phil Robinson was held to five points before fouling out. Phil Gamble led the Huskies, 6-8 and 1-4, with 16 points.

No. 14 Duke 69, Wake Forest 49
Duke, paced by Danny Ferry's 17 points, handed Wake Forest its 21st consecutive ACC loss. The Blue Devils are 13-2 and 3-1 while the Demon Deacons dropped to 8-5 and 0-4.

Freshman Robert Brickey added 12 for Duke. Sam Ivy led Wake Forest with 18 points.

No. 15 Alabama 71, Mississippi 62
Alabama posted its SEC triumph behind Jim Farmer's 24 points, while Terry Conner and Derrick McKey had 15 points apiece. The Crimson Tide is now 13-2 and 6-0. Rod Barnes' 19 points topped Mississippi, 8-6 and 1-6.

No. 18 Pittsburgh 112, Chicago St. 70

Sophomore Demetreus Gore scored 22 points and Jerome Lane grabbed 19 rebounds for Pittsburgh, 13-3. Tyrone Dowd scored 17 points for Chicago State, 8-7.

No. 19 Navy 96, American 60
David Robinson scored 31 points and had 12 rebounds and Cliff Rees added 21 points in Navy's Colonial Athletic Association triumph.

American's Frank Ross, who had been averaging 24.9 points, was limited to 12 points. Navy is 11-3 and 5-1 to American's 6-6 and 2-3.

No. 20 Kansas 82, Miami, Fla. 47
Danny Manning's 19 points and 12 rebounds paced Kansas, 10-5, to its 41st straight win at home. Tito Horford and Dennis Burns each had 13 points for Miami, 8-8.

Pavin's putt clinches Hope

Langer smiles as friend rolls in 20-footer to beat him

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) — Upon returning to earth after a soaring victory leap, Corey Pavin listed a fortunate pairing and a tip from his caddy as key factors in his one-shot triumph in the Bob Hope Classic.

"It was a lot of fun out there. A nice little Sunday game. We're friends, and we happened to be playing together," Pavin said of Bernhard Langer, the West German who was beaten by Pavin's decisive birdie putt on the 90th hole.

"And I think that made it easier for me, easier for me to win," Pavin said. "I'm a little more relaxed playing with someone I like. It's easy to be relaxed playing with a friend."

"If it's someone I don't know, or someone I've had problems with in the past, I think I tend to try too hard, to maybe take chances I shouldn't, things like that."

There was little doubt of the friendship of the two central figures as they played the closing holes Sunday on the controversial PGA West course.

Tied for the lead, with $65,000

(the difference between the winner's $162,000 and the runnerup check) at stake, Pavin and Langer draped their arms over each other's shoulders on the march up the 18th fairway and, when the gallery began to cheer, lifted their clasped hands in a joint salute.

"Let's make it an exciting finish," Pavin said as they neared the green and separated to mark their balls. Langer eventually missed a difficult 30-foot birdie attempt and Pavin rolled in the winner from about 20 feet.

Then he went leaping high in the air in sheer joy, and Langer smiled broadly at the antics.

"At other times, I've been disappointed when I felt I had lost the tournament with a bad shot or a bogey or a mistake. But I don't feel that way today," Langer said. "I don't feel I lost the golf tournament. It's just that someone played better than I did."

"Corey was just outstanding. To shoot a 67 on this golf course is incredible," Langer said.

It was the best round of the week on the PGA West course that was being played in this tournament for the first time. It finished off Pavin's 90-hole total of 341, 19 under par, and provided his fifth victory in four years on the PGA Tour.

The round also served as a climax to a rally that was touched off by a tip from Pavin's caddy.

"He told me I was opening the putter (blade) just a little," Pavin said. "I worked very hard on it. It felt a little strange at first, but Friday, something clicked."

From that point on, he did not make a bogey and played the last 54 holes of the tournament 18 under par.

Langer simply couldn't match it. He had a final-round 70 and finished one back of Pavin at 342.

Mark Calcavecchia finished third for the second week in a row. He matched par 72 over the final 18 holes, despite hitting two balls in the water, and finished at 345.

South African David Frost and Andy Bean were next at 348 and were the only others with eight shots of the lead. Frost had a 68 and Bean a 70.

PRO HOOPS

"When you've played for 10 years in this league, you know what to do on the court," Lucas said of his success despite the long layoff. "I've been playing every day and I'm near basketball shape."

"It's incredible how he can walk right off the street and play a game like that," Bucks Coach Don Nelson said. "He really adds something to our team."

The 6-foot-3 guard, who came forward twice for treatment under the NBA's drug program, would be banned for life if he tests positive for drug use again. He was treated two other times for drug problems before the program took effect in September, 1983.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston defeated Houston 122-99; the Los Angeles Lakers beat Washington 115-101, and Golden State whipped Portland 116-103.

Lucas said he knew only three of Milwaukee's plays, but did well because "this is probably the smartest team I've played with. I was able to run the offense today because I've been watching Jack Sikma and Terry Cummings play for years."

Lucas' three-pointer with 1:50 left gave Milwaukee a 92-89 lead. Sikma, who had 18 points and 15 rebounds, made it 95-91 with 39 seconds remaining.

"We blended together well and I was accepted by the other players," Lucas said. "That was never a problem for me. The question always has been my longevity and I'm sure some of them still question that and that's the way it should be."

Atlanta used 10-2 and 11-6 runs to grab a 69-53 lead in the third quarter, but with Lucas in the game, the Bucks rallied with a 15-2 surge to cut the deficit to 71-68 going into the fourth quarter.

Ricky Pierce led the Bucks with 20 points, while Mike McGee had 24 for Atlanta. Dominique Wilkins, who missed part of the game with a knee injury, was held to 18.

Lakers 115, Bulls 101
Magic Johnson went 6 for 6 in the fourth quarter as Los Angeles outscored Washington 32-20 in the final 12 minutes to beat Washington.

Johnson, 5 for 16 in the first three quarters, scored 11 of his 26 points in the first six minutes of the final period. He scored seven points as the Lakers opened the fourth period with a 12-4 streak to go ahead 99-89. After four points by Washington's John Williams, Johnson made two more baskets to make it 103-93 with 6:05 remaining.

James Worthy had 20 points for the Lakers, who have the best record in the NBA at 29-8 and the best road record at 11-7. Jeff Malone scored 27 and Moses Malone 21 for the Bulls.

Warriors 116, Blazers 103
Golden State won at Portland for the first time since Dec. 8, 1981 as Joe Barry Carroll scored 36 points and Eric Floyd added 33 points and 10 assists.

The Trail Blazers led by as many as 12 points in the third quarter, but Rod Higgins had six points and Chris Mullin four during a 22-8 streak in the closing minutes of the third quarter and the opening of the fourth that put the Warriors ahead 93-89 with 7:32 to play.

Carroll later scored six points during an 8-2 run that gave Golden State a 106-100 advantage with 1:44 to play.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 29 points to lead Portland, which hit just six of 25 field-goal attempts in the fourth quarter.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"MY TEACHER SAID I WAS 'UNKEMPT.' WILL YOU GET ME KEMPTED TOMORROW?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Doesn't it have a pretty lawn?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 20, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Wind up some of the specific items that have been requiring your attention. Be thoughtful and considerate of other persons. Don't give in to angry thoughts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle the usual routines today. Be careful in outside affairs so that you maintain your poise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make plans for recreation in the near future. Be more cooperative instead of argumentative with co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your home running smoothly in the morning, but be careful not to overspend for entertainment tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get busy at vital communications. Turn to persons who can help to bring more order into your home.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Financial affairs can be handled wisely. Take care that you drive carefully, especially in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can easily gain the things you want the most. You can't rely on a financial wizard, so don't be disappointed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You know exactly how to gain a wish tonight. Don't be too forceful with others in making headway.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It would be wise to follow the advice of a good friend in order to gain a personal aim. Don't break promises.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to handle civic duties during your spare time. Avoid a noisy group of friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do something about the new ideas that assail you. Take no risks with your credit or good name.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do something thoughtful for your mate. Don't get fooled by any new contacts you've made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try not to upset your mate and make every effort to maintain peace. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do very well at studies and will have the ability to set up a plan and carry through with it successfully. Teach this one the importance of cooperation. Sports are good for building up the health and energy in life. This book worm will be a stickler for neatness.

Oral Roberts gets money-or-death ultimatum

By GIL BROYLES
Associated Press Writer

TULSA, Okla. — Oral Roberts was the object of jokes in 1980 when he based a fund-raising campaign on a vision of a 900-foot-tall Jesus.

Four years later, the evangelist's ministry asked for donations while offering a 7-inch-tall replica of an angel Roberts said visited him.

This year, with his following dropping off, his City of Faith Medical Center unable to fill its beds and the university named after him struggling, Roberts told viewers he will die in March unless he raises $4.5 million for medical missionary scholarships.

A spokeswoman says the evangelist means what he says and that his supporters have no reason to question his methods.

Roberts said God gave him the ultimatum in March, warning that he had to raise a total of $8 million or "I'm going to call you home in one year." The money, $3.5 million of which already had been raised, is to allow Oral Roberts University medical students to graduate debt-free and become missionaries.

Roberts' latest appeal has been criticized by some religious leaders and a few of the 200 television stations that broadcast his program. One station said it would not run Roberts' message, while others said they will screen programs for such appeals before broadcasting them.

"The danger is not so much in the way funds are raised, but in that it can lead people to believe in a God that is manipulative," said the Rev. Kent Ingram of the Boston

Avenue Methodist Church, where Roberts is a registered member. "He may not mean that, but that's what frightens me."

The ministry said $1.6 million in cash and pledges poured in within two weeks of Roberts' remarks Jan. 4.

Roberts rarely grants interviews and has been out of state since he reported his conversation with God.

Jan Dargatz, the ministry's vice president for creative development, said she believes the goal will be reached and that Roberts will live.

"He firmly believes that this is a mandate of God on his life, something that he must do. This is his next project for God, and his life is on the line about it. It's not atypical for him to do this," Dargatz said.

Last year, he gave employees prizes for bringing patients and offered free airline tickets to followers who would fly to Tulsa for medical treatment.

Ms. Dargatz said the hospital broke even last month. "We feel like we have that ship righted," she said.

Income has also been dropping. The Tulsa Tribune reported last year that Roberts received $58 million in contributions in fiscal 1985, a drop of nearly $30 million from five years before.

In 1980, as funds for completing the City of Faith lagged, Roberts told followers he had had a vision of a 900-foot Jesus standing above the hospital and lifting it with his hands.

Bush says Reagan acted properly

DALLAS — Vice President George Bush Sunday defended President Reagan's handling of the Iran arms sale affair, saying the public should wait until the facts are known before passing judgment.

Bush said the fundamental ethics of the affair show Reagan acted properly.

"People can differ on the president's policy on Iran," he said. "But the fundamental ethics involved can best be summarized by what the president did once he was told about the diversion of funds. The alleged diversion of funds I might add."

The American people will make their judgments based on facts and not hearsay, Bush said, speaking to about 5,000 delegates at the annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders.

"I'd add judgment should be made on the facts, not on the charges and the countercharges," he said. "Not on the on-upmanship of politics, on the facts themselves."

Bush said Reagan took personal responsibility for the consequences of the policy from the start.

"He has taken numerous steps to get all the facts out," Bush said. "And secondly, when all the facts are known, the president is determined to make whatever changes are necessary to ensure the integrity of our policies and process."

Bush said recent scandals of insider trading on Wall Street and other instances of corporate wrongdoing indicate the country may be facing an ethical crisis.

Public officials could do more to promote respect for ethical conduct, Bush said. He called for the nation's school children to receive an education in ethics.

"There are times we must remind ourselves of what we represent," he said. "We are going through such a period, we need to re-state some of our basic beliefs as a people, we need to ask ourselves if we are upholding the ethics necessary for the education of our children."

"I don't think those of us in government have spoken up frequently or emphatically enough on the special obligations of public service," he said.

After the speech, Bush and his wife, Barbara, returned to Washington.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, and U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., addressed the convention Saturday. Both expressed strong support for the president's handling of the arms affair and said the White House has been forthcoming with details.

Houston AIDS cases rise in '86

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of deaths and cases from acquired immune deficiency syndrome in Houston increased in 1986, a health official said.

AIDS deaths in the city increased 46 percent, from 198 in 1985 to 290 last year, said Gordon Reeve, chief of the Houston Health Department's bureau of epidemiology. The number of cases increased 26 percent during that period, from 318 to 401, he said.

Houston ranks fourth in the nation in AIDS cases, accounting for 995 of the 29,435 cases now recorded by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, officials said. Of that total number, only 367 with the deadly disease are still alive.

New York City ranks first in the United States with 8,503 diagnosed cases of AIDS, followed by San Francisco with 2,913 and Los Angeles with 2,534.

In Houston, about 94 percent of the cases are among homosexual and bisexual men. In the New York City area, about 35 percent of the cases are among intravenous drug users, officials say.
