How's that? Your W-2

Q. When should I receive my W-2 form?

A. Jan. 31 is the deadline for receipt of your W-2 form from your employer, said Sandy Smith with the Steve Sloan CPA accounting firm. If you've not received it by then, contact your employer. If that is not successful, a substitute form based on estimated figures can be used with IRS assistance.

Electricity costs cut

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Public Utility Commission gave TU Electric customers a double dose of good news on Wednesday by approving a $55.6 million refund of fuel overcharges and a 3.7 percent decrease in monthly fuel charges.

Utility officials said the refund will be made through a credit to February bills, with residential customers who use 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity receiving refunds averaging $8.

The monthly decrease in fuel charges will result in an annual decrease of about $30 for the average residential customer, company officials said.

The rate reduction and refund were caused by decreasing fuel costs, according to the utility.

In March, the company reduced the fuel charge by about 5 percent, and with the newly approved reduction that will reach almost 9 percent in less than a year.

Company officials also noted that the lower fuel prices led TU Electric to refund $140 million in May, $64.8 million in October and $58.4 million in December.

Most of the fuel price drops are due to lower prices for natural gas, which provides the fuel for about half the electricity generated by Texas Utilities.

Earlier this month, Texas Utilities announced that the new name for all its companies, including Dallas Power & Light, Texas Power & Light and Texas Electric Service Co., will be TU Electric.

City refuses flood damage liability

By SPENCER SANDOW

Staff Writer

An "unfortunate incident" for which Big Spring was not responsible.

That is how the city's attorney has answered a $1.7 million lawsuit filed by businesses and citizens seeking damages from late August flooding.

The City of Big Spring is not responsible for the breach in Comanche Lake Dam that resulted in the flooding and damages, attorney Terry Rhoads is contending.

Rhoads' response answered a lawsuit filed against the city by five businesses and six citizens. The city's answer to the lawsuit was filed in 118th District Court Jan. 15, court records show. Rhoads is an attorney with Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe & Dawson of Midland.

Rhoads said it is too soon to know if the suit will be settled out of court. He said the two opposing factions must meet to review the evidence in the case.

The residents and businesses involved in the lawsuit contend the city was negligent in not complying with Texas Water Commission requirements for the dam. They are seeking $1.7 million for damages suffered during the floods Aug. 30.

The suit filed Jan. 6 accuses the city of negligence on 10 points, including "maintaining a nuisance known as Comanche Lake Dam and Spillway."

The Commission inspected the dam Sept. 27, 1979, and March 5, 1986. An inspection report states that the dam and spillway are "hydraulically inadequate and considered unsafe" and that failure of the embankment and spillway could result in loss of life.

The report states that the dam's deficiencies "can be easily controlled by establishment of a regular maintenance and inspection program. Some type of downstream warning plan should be developed. The effects of seepage on the dam's stability should be investigated."

The lawsuit states that the city failed to develop an inspection and maintenance program for the dam, failed to establish a plan for warning downstream residents and businesses in case of flood, and failed to warn them on the night the flood occurred.

The suit states that the city failed to maintain the Big Spring Draw storm sewer system and failed to update and properly map the flood plain.

The breach in the dam, which flooded the nearby area, occurred after extraordinarily heavy rains. Debris buildup in the Big Spring Draw contributed to the flood, the suit states.

The plaintiffs are seeking $1,751,221 in County to accept payment of property tax until Feb. 2

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer

Howard County's tax paying residents can look to the calendar for a one-day reprieve.

Although state property taxes for 1986 become delinquent on Feb. 1, Howard County tax assessor and collector Dorothy Moore will accept payments through the mail that are postmarked Monday Feb. 2.

"They will have an extension to 5 p.m. Monday to pay without penalty," Moore said this morning.

The extension is being granted because the deadline falls on a weekend day and the courthouse office is closed on the weekends, Moore said.

The tax collection and assessing office has collected approximately $5 1/2-million through January. This moves the total collection balance to a little over $8 million, Moore said.

The tax roll indicates that about $14 million total is the amount to be collected for Howard County, Big Spring Independent School District, City of Big Spring, Howard County Water Improvement District, City of Forsan and City of Coahoma tax entities, Moore said.

The office projected one-half of the total would be collected this month. That, Moore said, would increase total collections to approximately 80 percent.

According to a news release from the Texas Real Estate Research Center in College Station, property owners are responsible for payments even if they did not receive a bill from a taxing jurisdiction.

"The constitution quite clearly makes it the responsibility of the property owner to pay those taxes," said Dr. Charles Gilliland, associate research economist with the center.

"Even if the property owner did not receive a bill from a taxing jurisdiction, the property owner is still responsible for the penalty and interest payment after the Feb. 1 date," he added.

Challenger

America mourns the tragedy

Bruce Jarvis, father of astronaut Greg Jarvis, mourns his son's death at an Astronauts' Memorial in Orlando Wednesday, the first anniversary of the space shuttle Challenger's disaster. Jarvis was one of the seven astronauts who perished in the shuttle accident.

By The Associated Press

Schoolchildren fired rockets, balloons were sent aloft and monuments were dedicated as the nation set aside time to remember the seven Challenger astronauts on the anniversary of their death.

Seven chimes rang at Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., which is in charge of developing the propulsion systems for the nation's space efforts. The accident "is a black eye you never get over," said Judson Lovingood, associate director for propulsion.

Thousands of workers at the nine other National Aeronautics and Space Administration centers on Wednesday also observed 73 seconds of silence, the length of Challenger's final flight, at 11:38 a.m., the time the shuttle roared off an icicle-draped launch pad at Cape Canaveral.

Killed in the space shuttle accident were Cmdr. Dick Scobee, Pilot Michael Smith, schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe and crew members Judy Resnik, Ronald McNair, Ellison Onizuka and Greg Jarvis.

President Reagan, in taped remarks played at NASA centers, said Mrs. McAuliffe and her fellow astronauts taught a "lesson of courage, spirit and love to America's children, and now it is for all of us to learn the lesson from them."

Seven students released seven silver balloons at Framingham (Mass.) State College, where Mrs. McAuliffe earned her undergraduate degree in 1970. Carolla Haglund, a former instructor of Mrs. McAuliffe's, said, "She did not want that jaunt for personal satisfaction. Throughout those days, weeks and months of training, she kept putting forth the idea of the ultimate field trip, a way to help others learn along with her."

Also at the ceremony was Mrs. McAuliffe's brother, Chris Corrigan, who said it was time to end such observances. "This is all right," Corrigan said, but "enough is enough."

Fourth-graders at Hughes Elementary School in West Seattle, Wash., launched 30-inch-long model rockets. "My dream is that I hope they have a safe trip up and a safe trip back," said 9-year-old Derrick Hall.

Stephanie Smith, a seventh-grader at Rockford, Ill., summed the thoughts of many schoolchildren in saying: "I imagine some day I will tell my children about Christa McAuliffe and the day she died, just like my parents tell us what they were doing the day John F. Kennedy died."

Scobee's former school in Auburn, Wash., renamed Dick Scobee Elementary, conducted a memorial in which pupils read poems and short stories and sang songs dedicated to Scobee.

Seven balloons were released at a private ceremony at Concord (N.H.) High School, where

Funds sought for fire victim

An account to benefit fire victim Art Arvieu has been opened by Howard County Jaycees. His house was partially destroyed by a Saturday night fire.

The account was opened at the Spring City Do-It Center with an initial deposit of $492, Jaycee President Darrell Ash said.

The funds will be used to help Arvieu purchase materials to rebuild the damaged portion of his bathroom and bedrooms. He presently is living with his mother in a one-bedroom house, Ash said.

"We're not giving him money. We opened the account at Do-It so he could buy materials," Ash said concerning Monday night's Jaycee board of directors meeting.

According to Big Spring fire department reports, the fire started at 9:47 p.m. at 810

Creighton St. The fire appears to have been started by a bathroom heater and caused approximately $10,000 damage.

"He (Arvieu) didn't have any insurance," Ash said concerning the Jaycees' community service contribution.

The Jaycees are a service organization that undertakes local projects to enhance the communi-

Kindergarten staff takes CPR course

By LINDA E. HAYES

The parents of nearly 400 Big Spring kindergarten students can rest easier these days when they send their children to school, John Slaten says.

The Kindergarten Center principal was recently involved, along with his 25-member staff, in receiving instruction on the use of Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), said Glenda Low, L.V.N., of the school.

The reason for the course, she said, "was to make the school safer for the children."

Low, who earned her CPR certification through the American Red Cross, was certified as an instructor for the emergency health care procedure earlier this month.

Her talents were put to quick use by the school system.

The eight-hour course was administered to the staff on Jan. 19 and 20, she said. The only fees are for books, and also certification cards upon successful completion.

Everyone at the school was willing to learn CPR, Low said. She noted that the entire staff had successfully completed the course.

The course consists of a written examination and a "hands-on" test with a mannequin, allowing students to practice the theories they've studied. Among the procedures taught were mouth-to-mouth breathing techniques.

Low explained that CPR is used when the heart has stopped beating.

"The course is not hard to learn... it is a step-by-step learning process," Low said. "It is designed for the layperson."

Re-certification on an annual basis is required, she said. It is possible to cause internal damage, Slaten cautioned, when individuals without appropriate training attempt to make use of CPR techniques.

"We feel it is important to make parents feel at ease while their children are at school, and to be prepared for an emergency situation if it occurs," he said.

Slaten said, "It is a good idea for everyone to learn CPR — you never know when you may need to use it."

He said that there are frequent occasions when youngsters of kindergarten age put foreign objects in their mouths, as well as noting the possibility of choking on food.

Slaten is in his first year as a principal in the Big Spring system, having moved here from the Northwest Independent School District near Dallas.

Low served as the nurse for the Head Start program for four years before moving to the Kindergarten Center when it

By Associated Press Bills to cut Contra aid

WASHINGTON — Despite President Reagan's appeals for more aid to Nicaragua's Contra rebels, both the Senate and the House are considering bills to cut off the $40 million not yet spent from the current aid package.

"We made a deal with the devil. We sold arms and ammunition to the Ayatollah," said Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., who argued for a cutoff of already approved Contra military aid at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on the issue.

"We offer this legislation in the hope that, from the rubble left by this administration's policy, we can generate a new beginning," Dodd said at Wednesday's session on a bill to suspend the unspent $40 million of the $100 million aid package Congress approved last year.

Trade accord reached

WASHINGTON — The United States and the 12-nation European Community reached a tentative compromise today in a "yuppie trade war" that had threatened to boost prices on imported wines, liquors, meats, cheeses and vegetables, officials said.

Willy de Clercq, the European Community's chief negotiator, announced the tentative, four-year agreement in Brussels, Belgium. The accord, which still must be approved by representatives of the 12 member governments, would provide compensation to the United States for about $400 million in lost U.S. grain sales to Spain.

The compromise was reached after nearly 24 hours of intensive trans-Atlantic telephone negotiations.

Negotiators had been working against a deadline of 12:01 a.m. EST on Friday. U.S. Customs officials had been ordered to begin collecting the tariffs on all shipments once the deadline passed, according to Roger Bolton, a spokesman for U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter.

Playboy not 'obscene'

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Edwin Meese III, whose pornography commission was cited by a judge for efforts to discourage the sale of Playboy and Penthouse, says he has read both magazines and does not consider them obscene.

In remarks after a recent speech to law clerks of federal court judges, Meese acknowledged that he once had occasion to read Playboy and Penthouse.

The attorney general, whose statements at the private session were recounted by sources familiar with his remarks, also said that as a youth he read magazines that were then considered pornographic but by today's standards would seem quite tame.

Lebanon

Kidnappers threaten to kill four

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An underground group today threatened to kill three American hostages and one Indian hostage if U.S. forces attack Lebanon.

The threat came in a handwritten Arabic statement from Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine that was delivered to the Beirut office of a Western news agency. The previous of a Western news agency issued a statement Wednesday claiming it kidnapped the four teachers.

The statement issued today was accompanied by a photograph of hostage Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City. The photograph showed Polhill with two sub-machine guns pointed at his head.

Today's statement said: "After it was ascertained for us that the United States harbors the intention to attack Lebanon with the help of other Western nations, the Islamic Jihad Organization for the Liberation of Palestine declares it will execute the four American hostages as an initial countermeasure upon the occurrence of this aggression. Other operations will follow in adequate places."

The Indian hostage is a resident in the United States but not a U.S. citizen.

The Pentagon announced earlier this week it had postponed indefinitely the departure for home from the Mediterranean of the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy and her 11-ship battle group. Another carrier, the USS Nimitz, which had been scheduled to relieve the Kennedy, is also operating in the Mediterranean.

The Pentagon gave no reason for the change in plans. But informed sources who requested anonymity said the Reagan administration decided it should keep two carriers in the Mediterranean in light of the wave of hostage-taking in Lebanon.

Angry students from Beirut University College, where the four were teachers, burned tires and blocked traffic in west Beirut today to protest the abductions, which took place Saturday at the school.

The Wednesday statement said the four were taken because they were carrying out "American intrigues."

The Anglican Church, meanwhile, received assurances that envoy Terry Waite is safe and continuing his mission to win freedom for hostages. But Waite's wife and other close relatives said they remain concerned about his safety because of his absence and prolonged failure to contact relatives or church officials.

Also Wednesday, the U.S. State Department announced restrictions on travel to Lebanon to force U.S. citizens to leave the country. The estimated 1,500 U.S. citizens in Lebanon will be given 30 days to leave before their passports become invalid.

Conditions in Lebanon have become so chaotic, with the abduction of 11 foreigners in the past two weeks, that no Americans can be considered safe in Lebanon, the U.S.

government said.

Of 26 foreigners missing in Lebanon, eight are Americans. One of them, Associated Press chief Middle East correspondent Terry A. Anderson, has been held nearly two years.

In a statement from London, the Church of England said late Wednesday that it had been reassured about Waite's well-being by leaders of the Druse community in Beirut who spoke with representatives of the Shiite community.

By Associated Press Rebels end seizure

MANILA, Philippines — The government said today it thwarted plans by deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos to return from his Hawaiian exile, and about 200 mutinous soldiers ended a rebellion they apparently staged to aid his return.

In an address broadcast live on government television, President Corazon Aquino said the mutineers' 61-hour seizure of a broadcast center was part of an attempted coup designed to block approval of her proposed constitution. She called the new charter "essential to the preservation of democracy in the Philippines."

"Here was a clear attempt to disrupt the first principle of democracy, which is civilian supremacy, by those specially charged with its preservation," she said in the speech 45 minutes after the rebellion ended.

Hall to undergo tests

MIAMI — Self-styled soldier of fortune Sam Nesley Hall says he has given up his anti-communist commando activities because his imprisonment by the leftist Nicaraguan government on spying charges has blown his cover.

Hall returned Wednesday to the United States after spending 49 days in a Nicaraguan jail. Sandinista officials said they released him because he was mentally unstable and a suicide risk.

Hall voluntarily checked into a Veterans Administration hospital here, said lawyer Gary Froelich, a hometown friend who accompanied him on the flight. "We are also concerned about the claims made by the Nicaraguan government."

"It is in the best interest of Sam to have an immediate, complete and thorough medical and psychological examination."

Poland talks to begin

WARSAW, Poland — A senior U.S. official arrived Wednesday for talks he said would help determine whether the United States will lift economic sanctions against Poland.

Deputy Secretary of State John Whitehead said the United States still had questions about Poland's human rights record, whether all political prisoners have been released and whether the government was trying to achieve a dialogue with society.

"We have started a process, a step by step process, of improving our relations between the two governments, and I hope that my visit here is a further step in that process," Whitehead said in an interview at Warsaw's military airport.

Whitehead, the State Department's second-ranking officer, is the most senior U.S. official to visit Poland since 1981 when the government of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski imposed martial law and crushed Solidarity, Eastern Europe's first free trade union.

Two advertisers still back 'Amerika' series

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC, with a fresh commitment from two advertisers, says its miniseries "Amerika" is on track regardless of economic pressure and loss of Chrysler as a sponsor, reportedly at a cost of $5 million.

General Foods Corp. and Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. said Wednesday they were standing by plans to advertise on the 14½-hour program that depicts a Soviet takeover of the United States.

Chrysler Corp., the single largest sponsor of the week-long miniseries, scheduled for next month, said Tuesday it would pull its ads because it felt the program didn't mesh with its commercial theme "The Pride Is Back — Born in America."

The miniseries deals with life in the United States after a Soviet takeover accomplished with cooperation of an international peacekeeping force.

It has drawn criticism from the left and right, over whether international relations could be damaged, whether the peacekeeping troops too closely resemble United Nations' forces and whether the Soviets are portrayed too sympathetically.

ABC said it would look for other sponsors for the time Chrysler ordered but that it would hold Chrysler responsible to make up any difference if it gets less than Chrysler had agreed to pay.

General Foods has bought 26 commercials, or about 13 percent of the available time on the program, for products such as Jello pudding, Maxwell House coffee and Raisin Bran cereal.

"Our decision to buy time was based on our belief that this was an appropriate dramatic theme, and our intention is to stay in," said spokesman Cliff Sessions from General Foods' headquarters in White Plains.

In Milwaukee, Northwestern Mutual's manager of advertising and corporate information, Santo Saliture, said "we feel very good" about being a sponsor.

Northwestern Mutual has spent nearly $1.3 million to buy eight 30-second commercials over the seven nights.

The false, erroneous logic and reasoning of some goes like this: (1) never submit any of your points of faith, convictions or doctrines of religion, that are essential to your good standing with your church, to the hazard of investigation from Bible scripture. Remember, you have something to lose, but nothing to gain. (2) When your system of religion is attacked, always extol the wisdom, piety and virtue of its founders; sing the praises of its age, and enumerate how the Bible isn't important anyway. (3) Ridicule the efforts and expose the "arrogance" of those who would dare oppose names so "revered" and authorities so numerous as those who have supported your system. (4) If possible, as far as lies in your power, discredit the motives and criticize the aims of your opposers. (5) Spread false and harmful statements about those who disagree with you, but with "regret" that you should be "compelled" to do so. (6) When you are conscious that you cannot succeed in giving your doctrine scriptural support, represent your opponent as unworthy of your notice. Now, when you have read all that, read Galatians 1:1-12.

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation.

Lawmakers should support 55 MPH

Arizona's distinction as the first state to be penalized by the Transportation Department for failing to enforce the 55-mph speed limit won't even serve the laudable goal of impressing state lawmakers with the importance of supporting 55.

The penalty as a prize. "If she (Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole) continues to fine us at $510,000, it'll take 240 years for us to go in the hole," said Sen. Pete Corpstein, chairman of the state's Senate Transportation Committee. Resistance to the 55-mph speed limit is hard to understand. Lower speed limits save lives and fuel, and help curb pollution.

Domestic energy sources the 'key'

Whether America can maintain its low inflation rate, and whether it now pursues policies that improve the likelihood that it will, is another matter. Energy prices, which ignited inflation in the 1970s and led the world out of it over the past two years, depend on reliable, multiple sources and freedom from monopolistic manipulation by OPEC.

again. Such an effort must include persistent conservation programs coupled with further research for alternative, reliable domestic sources.

Those are precisely the efforts that have suffered heavily in federal budget-cutting of programs needed to help insulate the country not from imports themselves but from excessive dependence on imports. Without that, inflation could reappear even more quickly than it left.

Bennett plan may mean fear of sex

Last week, Secretary of Education William J. Bennett created a furor by insisting that the proper role of sex education courses is to teach youths to avoid fornication.

Civil rights marchers to be lauded

It remains to be seen whether Forsyth County, Georgia's being made internationally synonymous with racial bigotry will have any lasting effect on the all-white area. Nor is it certain whether the Jan. 24 invasion of that county by some 25,000 civil rights marchers will be a turning point or a catalyst for the county to reaffirm its hostility toward blacks. One issue is certain: bigotry is not born overnight. And it will take more than one day to eliminate it. It is still heartening to see that so many believers in equality made that trip to Georgia with the same unwavering determination as did such believers a generation ago.

Iran war should trouble everyone

The battles are being fought on the other side of the world, so far away. But as long as a war involving real people is going on our planet, that should be enough to disturb us all. The bloody war is being fought along the border of Iran and Iraq, and except for the fact that our government was caught selling arms to Iran and then spreading disinformation to both sides, it's of little concern to most Americans. But there are real people dying over there; actually, in some battles, real kids. If war is hell then hell today is that troubled land which surrounds the Persian Gulf. And to the extent that the human race is unable to find a solution, that troubles us.

Drug test argument merely 'piffle'

Airline and Amtrak crews will be tested for drug use under procedures the Department of Transportation will announce shortly. Elizabeth Dole, DOT secretary, said random tests will be included. The announcement drew the expected screams of outrage from the employee unions. Secretary Dole should stand firm on her decision. It makes great sense for the DOT to get its anti-drug campaign in place before an incident occurs rather than waiting for some tragedy to prompt action. As for the argument that such tests invade privacy and subject tested persons to humiliation, that should be dismissed as piffle.

W-4 rescind prompts appreciation

Taxpayers ought to send a giant "thank you" card to Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, who has ordered the Internal Revenue Service to devise a simpler W-4 tax withholding form. In its infinite wisdom, the IRS did away with the wonderfully simple old W-4 with which everyone is familiar. In its place we got a four-page form notable for its obfuscation and one that defies understanding.

The taxpayer was faced with filling out lines A to U, which seemed to stand for Awful through Unbelievable. To be sure we do this correctly, we are advised we can send away for Publications 919, 505, 553 and 590. If that's not sufficient, you could call the IRS' toll-free number. But what you get is mostly a busy signal.

Lovers not good topic at the table

By ART BUCHWALD

We had a lively discussion at the Harcourts' dinner table the other night. It concerned lovers and what makes them different from other people.

Barbara Tommalee started it. "Why do biographers always devote six chapters to the 'other woman' and two paragraphs to the wife? And why do all the great legends of love have to do with people who have to sneak around alleys to give their hearts to another? How come women devote 30 to 40 years of their lives to their husbands and everyone remarks how beautiful the mistresses were?"

"Are you having trouble at home?" Sally Trimble asked her.

Barbara turned red. "No, I'm not having trouble at home. I'm just mad because the other women get such a good press and we wives get such a lousy one. What do mistresses have that we don't?"

Herman Wooten said, "Time — which is the most essential ingredient in a love affair. The other woman is always ready to do anything you want to do. She'll either dress to go out, or not dress and stay in, whichever suits you. She will dance all night, or throw logs on your fire, whichever comes first. But most important of all, she always has a lovely tilt in her voice."

Sally said, "Pigeon feathers. The reason the other woman is always ready to go out is that she doesn't have to get supper for the kids, feed the dog, put gas in the car or iron her dress at 7 o'clock at night."

"We must remember," Herman said, "when you put other women and wives together you are mixing apples with oranges."

Irma Wooten said, "I knew he would come up with something stupid like that." She smeared butter all over his hand.

Herman continued, "The wife has many roles to play in life, the mistress only one, maybe two, if she's a good listener. The reason the other woman is so honored in literature is she has a mystery about her which produces that mix of excitement and intrigue to keep the heart pounding and the blood boiling."

"People don't hold it against the wife that she comes in second in her zest for living. But let's face it, what is more romantic — two lovers having a bottle of wine in the park, or a wife and husband in bed watching Johnny Carson?"

"Why," asked Marta Ulane, "are we just discussing relationships between husbands and their mistresses and not wives and their lovers? It seems the lovers of wives are as interesting as mistresses of husbands."

"Not necessarily," said Elliot Gumbah. "A wife cannot devote a much attention to a passionate love affair because she is always worried that this could be the day the man will come to fix her dishwasher."

"A wife's time is not her own," I said.

"It's worse," he said, "if she has the school car pool."

Herman Wooten said, "I'll tell you what sets the other woman apart from everybody else. She always looks spiffy and never tells you how much things cost. And she has a song in her heart."

I tried to win some brownie points for myself. "I can't understand the fuss over the other woman. Everyone knows her role is exaggerated and blown up by historians to make more titillating reading for breathless schoolgirls."

I could see my wife putting her hand around her soup plate.

"Wait," I said, "I believe if you have a choice, and I'm not saying you do, that you should always pay homage to the wife, because a lot of the time she is the woman behind the man."

If I hadn't ducked, the soup plate would have hit me right between the eyes.

Faulty bolts could threaten safety of nuclear plants

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Substandard bolts have been found at one U.S. nuclear power plant and may well be in place at others, ready to give way at the first serious vibration or ultra-high temperature.

And the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is alarmingly relaxed about the danger that the faulty fastener could cause a Chernobyl-like disaster.

The bolts are counterfeits, mostly from Taiwan, Korea and Japan. They look like high-grade bolts and bear false industry markings designating top-quality manufacture. But they are made of substandard metals or are inadequately tempered to withstand the stress that they may be subjected to in an emergency.

A quality-control official at the commission told our associate Stewart Harris he was reasonably certain that there were no counterfeits in nuclear power plants, because a recent random test had turned up none. Asked how many bolts were actually tested, the official replied: "13".

Further tests will be made on perhaps 30 more bolts taken from three to five power plants, the official said. This will complete the testing, he said, unless some counterfeits are discovered.

We have news for the commission: Counterfeit bolts have already been found in storage at a nuclear power plant. Bill Windt of Texas Bolt conducted laboratory tests on bolts taken from a plant that he said had bought "tons" of substandard steel fasteners.

He was told he'd be sued if he revealed the name of the plant, but he was able to tell us the nuts and bolts he tested at his Houston lab did not meet specifications and could fail under such conditions as the extreme temperatures that are common in nuclear cooling systems. The bolts were subsequently removed from storage and discarded.

Jack Anderson

Frank Akstens, an engineer and editor of Fastener Technology International magazine, said: "The documented evidence you send is appalling testimony on the behavior and shortcomings within the nuclear power industry."

John Cole of Product Risk Reduction Inc. of Westlake, Ohio, said, "I see many of the assumptions and decisions indicated in the (commission's) reports as basic ignorance of the products and the world fastener base."

Charles Wilson of the Industrial Fastener Institute in Cleveland agreed. Some of the engineers who wrote the reports appeared unaware, for example, that bolts that are too hard can be as dangerous as ones that are too soft. If they're too hard, Wilson explained, they won't break loose under extremely high pressure as they're intended to; lacking this safety feature, the entire cooling system could explode.

Wilson also faulted the commission for allowing unmarked bolts to be installed in nuclear plants. "Why doesn't the manufacturer put his mark on? Because he doesn't want you to know that he made the bolt," Wilson said.

IGNORANCE ON IRAN: An internal memo of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has some trenchant criticism of the presidential advisers who masterminded the Iran arms fiasco. "It is unclear whether those most involved in the initiative — notably former National Security Council advisers (Robert) McFarlane and (John) Poindexter and former NSC staffer (Oliver) North — had a very substantive knowledge of the intricacies of Near East politics," the memo observes with diplomatic circumspection. Then it comes right out and accuses the terrific trio of having only "a superficial appreciation" of the situation within Iran.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Today was cold (mean temperature 25), with variable winds and light snow.

Stable-keeper Jacob Hiltzheimer sent his workers to Mr. Twissel's place for a load of hay. On the way back they tipped the hay over, and Hiltzheimer had to hire a team and wagon from Baltis Clymer to go and get part of it.

Noah Webster, in town overseeing publication of his spelling book, took time to visit David Rittenhouse, state treasurer, astronomer and scientific instrument-maker.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

The hopes of the delegates who had been waiting in New York since Nov. 7 for a quorum to assemble must have risen today. Six states had at least two delegates present, and Nathaniel Mitchell (Del.) and William Blount (N.C.) expected colleagues to arrive any day.

Abigail Adams, wife of the minister to England, wrote from London to her friend Thomas Jefferson. She recommended "British oil" for his sprained wrist ("if it does no good it will not do any injury"), discussed Shays' rebellion, and suggested that Jefferson purchase black lace for her with the money he owed her instead of paying her in cash.

LOOKING BACK
Paper Money

In 1787, "black lace" did not conjure up the image of Frederick's of Hollywood that it may in 1987.

Even so, one blinks a little at the thought of Thomas Jefferson buying black lace in any form for Mrs. John Adams. However, the transaction had one great advantage — Jefferson didn't have to find a way to remit cash.

Getting cash with which to pay bills had been an American problem since the first settlement. As a developing country, America imported goods of far more value than the raw material exported, and hard money was sucked out of the country to help make up the difference.

Many of the colonies had responded to the need for cash by printing paper money. In fact, paper money in Pennsylvania had helped to build the State House. When kept to a reasonable amount and coupled with some method of gradually removing it from circulation, many, although not all, colonial issues had retained their face value relatively well.

But with the Revolution, both the nation and its 13 component states needed huge amounts of money, so they printed it. Because the paper money was supported only by the promise that when independence was won the paper would be redeemed at face value, the money depreciated.

By 1787, continental currency was worthless, and the various state monies had lost much of their value.

Five generations

Education and locks promote gun safety

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing that beautiful letter from the parents whose 15-year-old son, victim of a gun "accident," donated his organs so that others might live. It was a wonderful testimony for organ donation. But something has to be added.

When I was a boy, we always had guns in the house. They were kept locked up, but my father didn't stop there. At a very early age, he taught us, "There is no such thing as an unloaded gun!" We were not allowed to point toy guns at our playmates. Each of us was given a closely supervised chance to fire a real gun so we knew what it could do. He taught us that if we were at a friend's house, and that friend found a real gun and played with it, to get the hell out of there and tell an adult! Any explanations to the friend could be made later by telephone, at a safe distance.

As a result of his wise teaching, we grew up regarding guns with understanding and respect, instead of fear and fascination. I wish every parent would do the same.

GEORGE W. NORMAL, ILL.
DEAR GEORGE: Your point is

Dear Abby

well taken. But you and I part company when it comes to guns in the house. Guns in the house have killed more people (especially children) accidentally than on purpose.

DEAR ABBY: "Not Guilty in Elgin" wrote that she and her husband of six months had agreed that each would write thank-you notes to their own friends and relatives for their wedding gifts.

It seems that she wrote hers, but her husband failed to write his, and now she is receiving "hints" that she has failed to acknowledge some wedding gifts.

Abby, he will never write his, and she will always be blamed for not writing the thank-you notes to his family and friends, so I think she would be wise to go ahead and write the remaining notes herself. It would relieve her of the constant guilt feelings and reminders that something was left undone after the wedding.

I know it isn't fair, but she will feel better in the years to come for having done it. She should also be prepared for future failed agreements. This was probably not the first time her husband welched on a deal.

BOB IN PORT ANGELES, WASH.
DEAR BOB: You're undoubtedly right. It isn't fair, but when it comes to acknowledging wedding presents, getting the job done is more important than who does it.

DEAR ABBY: My dear young son is very sad tonight, and his older sister says that she has often felt the same way. Why? Because a well-intentioned schoolteacher appointed other classmates to be team "captains," and to choose up their teams. They chose their classmates — one by one — until none remained.

Abby, only a child who has felt the pain and humiliation of having been chosen last can understand the feeling. My husband and I both experienced this as children, and now we are going through it again watching our own children. It would save many children many scars if teachers would find another way to divide the classroom into two teams to compete in spelling bees, gymnastics or whatever.

Abby, please pass this along. If just one teacher will discontinue that practice, it will be worthwhile. The joy of being chosen first as an early — does not last nearly as long as the pain those children feel when they are the last to be chosen.

HURTING IN OIL
DEAR HURTING: I will gladly pass this important message along with the hope that it will be seen by teachers who will discontinue the cruel practice. This was done when I was a child. And recalling how deeply many children were hurt, I am appalled that this thoughtless insensitive system still persists.

Dr. Donohue

Mother wants to help her son's acne

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a 17-year-old son who has had acne on his face and chest for four years. His features are such that if it weren't for the acne, he would be a very handsome young man. His case is terrible. He has been to four specialists and has followed treatment religiously. He is a very clean person and his diet is excellent. None of my other teenagers have had the problem. Why is it they can transplant hearts, but cannot cure acne? I'm open to any suggestions. I'll fly him anywhere in the world for treatment. — W.W.

I'm going to skip over the usual treatments for moderately severe acne. I'm sure your son has used them. I wish you had listed the treatments that have been tried for his apparently out-of-the-ordinary condition.

I wonder if oral isotretinoin (Accutane) has been suggested. It is a somewhat recent addition to acne-treatment options. It often gives gratifying results for the worst cases, for which it is reserved. Sometimes, too, steroids can be injected into large acne cysts with good results. Has that been tried?

You really won't have to fly your son anywhere to get a full review of his case and suggested treatment. Dermatologists in your area will be up to date on the latest. It's the most common skin disorder they see.

You may be better off sticking with one doctor and allowing him to go through the range of treatments, from the conservative to the more radical ones I've mentioned. I think we all have a tendency to be impatient and lose the advantage of having one specialist follow a case to logical conclusions and most effective therapies.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can sinus infection cause halitosis (bad breath)? — L.L.

Yes, it can. Sinus infection can lead to blockage and resultant stagnation of fluid. One indication of sinus infection is a thick discharge, which can be malodorous. The booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," offers additional, more common causes of this problem. Other readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and one dollar.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am on Dilantin. Does this drug cause insomnia? — L.S.

Insomnia has been reported in some Dilantin users. Dilantin is an anti-seizure medicine. Insomnia is not one of the more common side effects and it is always difficult to establish the drug as the cause.

What concerns me about your letter (edited) is your plan to stop the drug. It is a medicine that is not prescribed for trivial illness, and it must not be stopped for trivial reasons, such as a bit of sleeplessness, as important as sleep is to health.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

SWBT plans for emergencies to ensure public safety

No one likes to think about the unthinkable. However, to protect public safety, Southwestern Bell Telephone employees not only think about disasters, they plan for them.

Under the direction of the company's National Security Emergency Preparedness (NSEP) group, employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone stand ready to provide telecommunications services in the event of natural or man-made disasters, national emergencies or critical government requests.

The NSEP group was created in 1984 as a result of divestiture and works closely with other Regional Bell Operating Companies to provide comprehensive emergency services formerly directed by AT&T.

In Texas — a state known for its unpredictable and violent weather — Southwestern Bell Telephone employees make every possible effort to maintain telephone services during floods, tornadoes, hurricanes or ice storms. Likewise, they do all in their power to restore service after man-made calamities such as large-scale accidents.

Because thousands of lives may depend on Southwestern Bell Telephone's quick response in an emergency, employees participate in annual full-scale exercises designed to test the company's ability to recover from disaster.

Drill tests employees, emergency procedures

The most recent drill, held last month, challenged Texas employees to restore telephone service after fictional tornadoes and floods knocked out telephone service in several communities across the state.

For eight hours, employees charted strategies that quickly re-established service to the affected locations. As the day-long exercise progressed, the situation changed — just as it would in a real disaster — requiring employees to adapt their plans and methods of operation in response.

As a result of the exercise, the company now has a better idea of how its employees and procedures might fare in a real crisis and is adapting its plans accordingly.

When not preparing for disaster, Southwestern Bell Telephone employees may also be involved in filling special requests from the federal government. In the past, this has included providing telecommunications services for the president, NASA and visiting dignitaries.

For its outstanding service to the government, the company has earned five official commendations, including one from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Although accolades are welcome, the company will never become complacent about emergency procedures and will continue to look for ways to improve crisis response time. The men and women of Southwestern Bell Telephone believe that when it comes to public safety, nothing should be left to chance.

PRO™ TEXAS
A NEW OPTIONAL CALLING PLAN FROM AT&T

On November 13, 1986 AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T") filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional calling plan, PRO Texas. A comparable interstate plan, known as PRO™ America, is currently available to Texas customers.

PRO Texas gives Texas consumers an opportunity to save money on direct dialed in-state long distance calls. Customers who choose this new AT&T plan will receive a 10% discount on all AT&T intrastate direct dialed station calls by paying a monthly charge of $15.00.

The PRO Texas discount applies to calls placed during all rate periods and all days. The discount is in addition to the AT&T intrastate evening discount of 25% and the night/weekend discount of 40%. A one time charge of $6.00 will be billed to initiate the service. However, this charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

PRO Texas will be available to all Message Telephone Service customers in Texas. AT&T estimates that it will generate revenues in the first year of almost $8 million, which is 7% of AT&T's annual revenues for all Texas intrastate service.

The PUC has assigned Docket No. 7194 to this proposed service offering. The proposed effective date for PRO Texas is March 16, 1987. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Thursday Notes

By Steve Belvin

Howard hoops teams vs. Odessa

The Howard College Hawks travel to Odessa tonight for a game that might decide which team gets the fourth and last conference playoff spot. Howard is currently 12-9 overall and fourth in the conference with a 4-3 record.

Odessa is 13-7 overall and in fifth place with a 3-4 district mark. Howard has beaten the Wranglers twice by a total of three points this season, though the first win didn't count in the conference standings. In their third game of the season the Hawks won 76-74, and in the Dec. 1 conference opener they edged the Wranglers 71-70 in Big Spring.

Though Odessa lost 100-90 Monday night to conference leading New Mexico, the Wranglers are a better squad than the team Howard edged twice. Guard Dave Swan, ineligible first semester, has averaged 26.1 points per game in four games since returning after Christmas.

The Hawks too are a better team. Walter Walker and Billy Giggins, both of whom started in last Thursday's game, did not play first semester. Also, starting point guard Dennis Rhodes is fully recovered from the shoulder injury that slowed him down first semester.

Hawks' coach Larry Brown has said this game may decide the last playoff spot. The Hawks tip-off at 8 p.m. at the Odessa College Sports Center.

Before the Hawks game, the Hawk-Queens will play a revenge-minded Odessa Wranglers team, also at the Odessa College Sports Center.

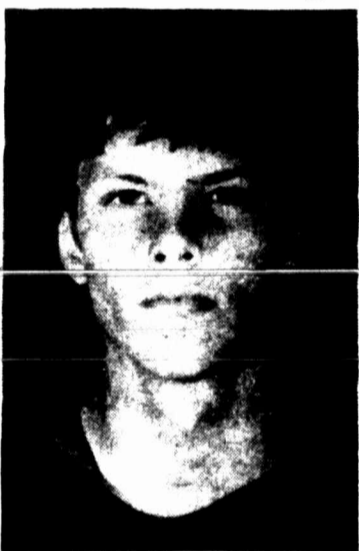

The Odessa women are 18-2 overall, 4-1 in conference, and ranked seventh in the nation. That conference loss came in Big Spring, when the Queens won 61-53 for their biggest win of the season.

The Queens are 15-6 overall and 3-2 in conference after last Thursday night's 65-42 whipping of Frank Phillips.

The Steve Belvin get the picture wrong department is at it again.

In Monday's sports section I incorrectly identified the mug shots of Big Spring High School All-State football players Deeg Young and Matt Burrow.

So I've got it right this time. Here is Second Team All-State offensive tackle Matt Burrow and Second Team All-State defensive end Deeg Young. A job well done men.

DEEG YOUNG

The Western Sportsman Club will hold a big bore rifle match this Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Western Sportsman Club, located approximately ten miles west of town on Highway 176.

Doyle McClain will be match master and anyone interested may call him at 267-1943. The match is open to men and women and non-Western Sportsman Club members.

The Adopt-A-Hawk-Club is really taking care of its adopted players.

The club will have a reception for the players Monday following Howard's game with Clarendon at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The reception will be held in the East Room. There's nothing like making a player feel wanted, especially when they are so far away from home.

While on the subject of Howard College basketball — the Hawks and Hawk-Queens will have makeup games against South Plains in the latter part of February.

The games, originally scheduled for January 19, were postponed because of snowy weather. The Hawks and Queens will travel to Levelland Thursday, Feb. 26, to play the South Plains teams at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Exercise, Every Body's Medicine, to be sponsored by Physicians and Surgeons Hospital in Midland on Feb. 7, is designed to give physicians, nurses, physical therapists, coaches and trainers in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico an update on the latest developments in sports medicine.

Starting with a look at drugs in sports, nationally known speakers will cover a wide range of topics, including sports injuries, the designing of proper fitness, body-building and training programs, coaching methods to prevent injuries; soft-tissue rheumatism that results from sports injuries and cardiovascular benefits of exercise.

The symposium will start at 8 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. at Midland Center, 105 N. Main Street. There is no registration fee and the event is open to the public. Lunch will be served at a cost of $8 per person.

Such well know sports personalities as St. Louis Cardinals head coach Gene Stallings, San Diego Chargers offensive guard Sammy Jack Claphan, and former Dallas Cowboys football player Charlie Waters will attend.

Chrissy slowing down

NEW YORK (AP) — After 1987, Chris Evert Lloyd says she will sharply reduce the number of tennis tournaments she will play.

"Before, whenever people would ask me how long I would continue to play, I always said I'll play another two years because I really didn't know," the 32-year-old Lloyd said before leaving for Japan for a series of exhibitions.

"Now, I would be very, very surprised if I play past this year. The work is very hard now."

"It takes me longer to get warmed up, longer to recover from a tough match."

Lloyd said she will continue to compete in the Grand Slam tournaments — Wimbledon and the French, U.S. and Australian opens — and other selected events, including the International Players Championships.

In 1986, Lloyd was limited to 12 tournaments because of a knee injury. In 1988, she plans to play even less.

"I think it's only going to help me," Lloyd said. "My problem in my tennis is getting burned out at this stage. When I have had losses, a lot of the reason is because I don't feel fresh."

Lloyd said age also is a factor — not just the fact that she's 32 but that her strongest opponents, with the exception of 30-year-old Martina Navratilova, are the younger players on the tour.

"Looking ahead to this year, I know it's going to be a tough year," the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native said. "There's Hana (Mandlikova, age 24), (17-year-old Steffi) Graf, (21-year-old Helena) Sukova."

"I got by last year," Lloyd said. "This year I have to be physically stronger and mentally tough."

She said her injury, the first serious one in her career, was a blessing in disguise.

"I feel that it came at a good time," Lloyd said. "My head wasn't into tennis anyway."

Besides her woes on the tennis court, magnified by her injury, Lloyd separated from her husband, British player John Lloyd.

"The injury and personal problems came at the same time," she said. "It (the injury) gave me time to clear my head and be by myself. It's going to be a positive in the long run."

The knee problem began at Wimbledon.

"In practice with Marty (Riessen, her coach), my knee locked on me and it hurt real bad," she said. "After Wimbledon I went

TCU keeps rolling

By The Associated Press
The 16th ranked Texas Christian Horned Frogs never had a basketball half-season in their 62-year Southwest Conference history like the unblemished one they just completed.

With a 64-38 whipping of Rice Wednesday night, TCU established these school records:

--13 straight victories, third best in the nation.

--An 8-0 start in the SWC race.

--21 consecutive home victories.

--A best start record of 17-3.

"We can't be overwhelmed because it isn't over yet," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "If we think we have it made now we don't have very big IQs."

In other Southwest Conference games, Arkansas beat Southern Methodist 76-63, Houston downed Texas 65-59, and Baylor edged Texas A&M 71-70.

Killingsworth didn't have any worries against the Owls.

TCU shot to a 30-9 halftime lead, setting a school record for fewest points allowed an opponent in a half.

"It's the easiest game we've had," Killingsworth said. "Usually we have to fight for our lives against those guys."

Rice shot only 28 per cent from the field for the game and 19 per cent in the first half.

Larry Richard and Carven Holcombe each scored 17 points for the winners.

TCU is now 17-3 overall while Rice dropped to 7-12 and 1-7.

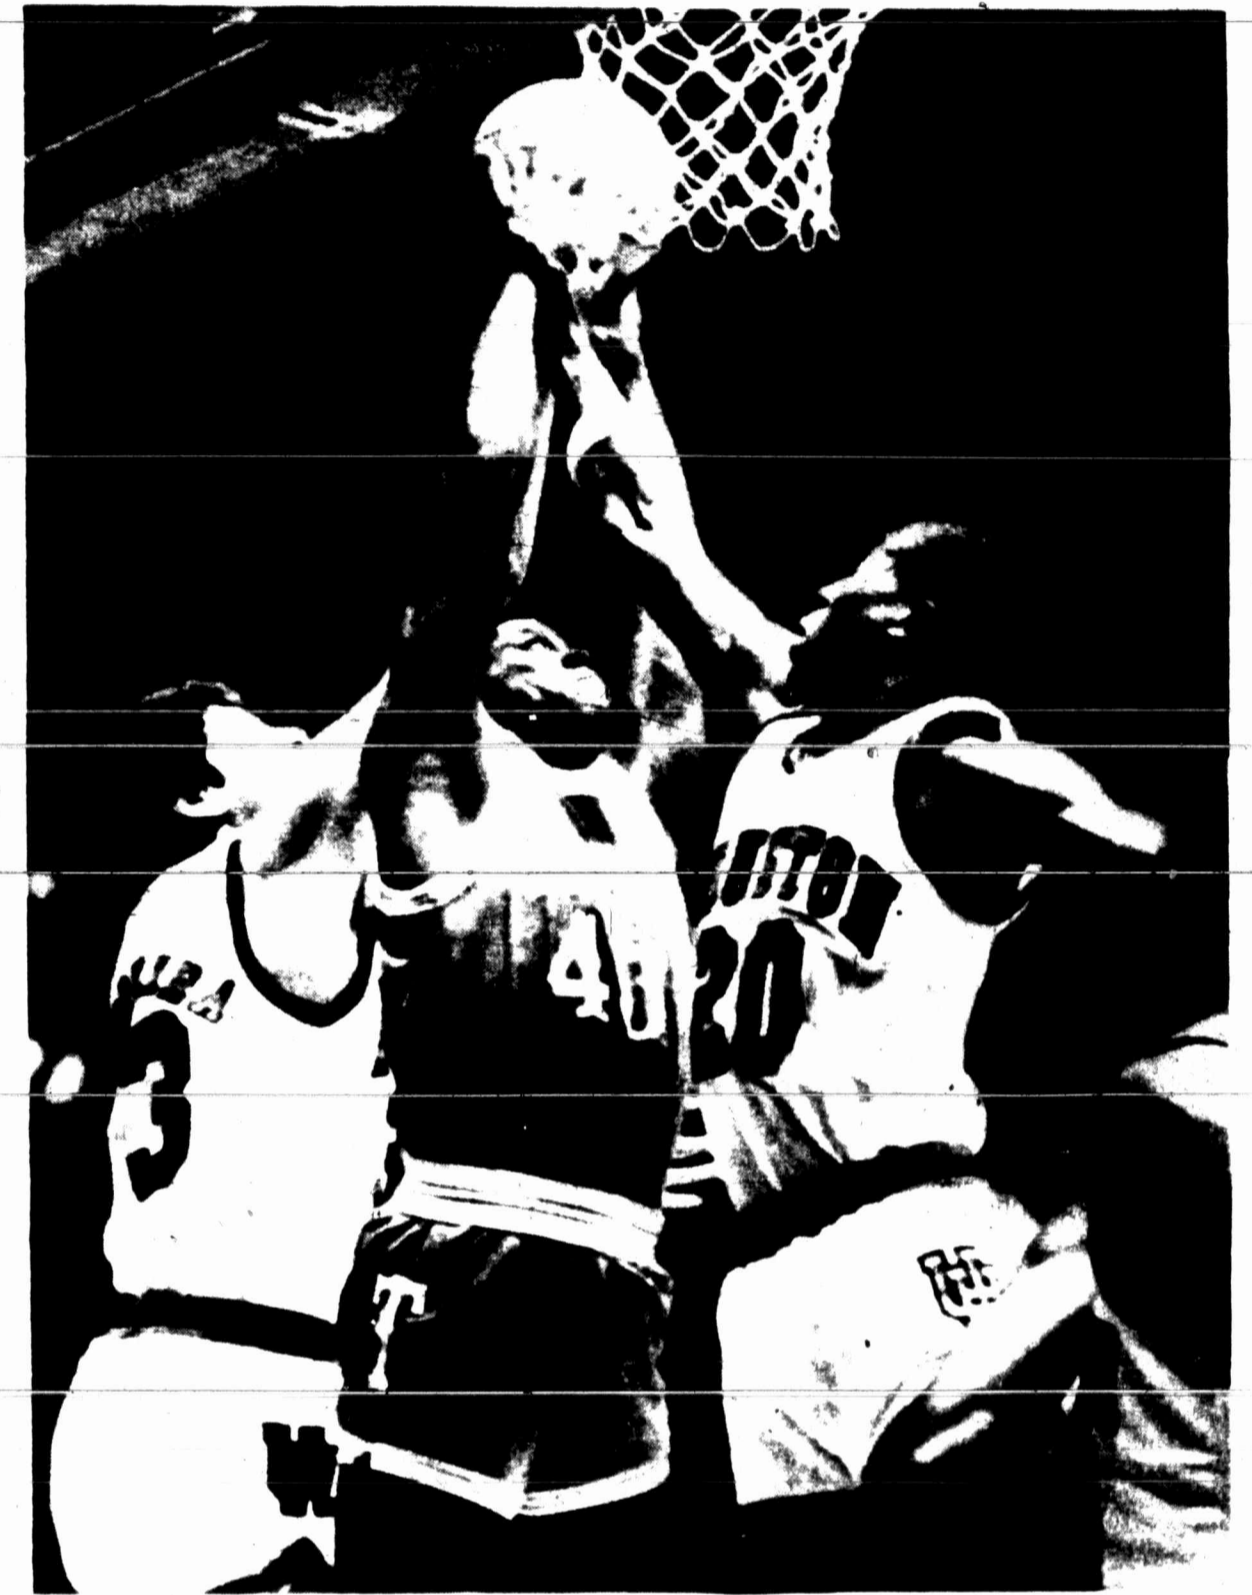

Mike Cooper was high for the Owls with nine points.

Six Arkansas players scored in double figures as the Razorbacks made it two straight in the Southwest Conference with a win over Southern Methodist.

The Razorbacks had their most balanced scoring attack of the year. Mike Ratliff, Andrew Lang and Ron Huery each had 11 points, while Shawn Baker, Tim Scott and Keith Wilson had 10 each.

Arkansas, 13-8 overall, moved to 4-4 in the SWC. SMU dropped to 9-10 and 1-7.

The Razorbacks welcomed back Coach Nolan Richardson, whose daughter, Yvonne, was buried Tuesday after a two-year struggle with leukemia.

Houston forward Rickie Winslow led a balanced Cougar attack with 14 points in Houston's win over Texas.

Houston, 12-6 overall and 5-3 in the conference, broke a two-game losing streak. Texas dropped to 9-12 and 2-6, losing six of its last seven games.

Rolando Ferreira added 13 points for Houston while teammates Greg Anderson and Tom Grant each had 12 points.

Texas' Raynard Davis led all scorers with 18 points while Fairs had 17 points.

Michael Williams hit a 16-foot jumper with nine seconds remaining to lift the Baylor Bears over Texas A&M.

The win was Baylor's first over the Aggies in their last 10 meetings and the first at College Station since 1971. The Bears are now 11-7 on the year and 6-2 in SWC play. A&M, with its third straight loss, fell to 12-7 overall and 4-4 in league play.

The loss snapped a 4-game home floor winning streak for A&M.

Golden State center seeks drug treatment

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Golden State Warriors Coach George Karl says he's hopeful the rookie Chris Washburn is able to iron out his troubles — and that Washburn's decision to enter drug rehabilitation will eliminate one of the distractions that has slowed down his club.

The Warriors announced Wednesday that Washburn, a rookie from North Carolina State who had skipped practices or showed up late several times in the past few months, has voluntarily sought treatment under the NBA's drug program.

"I just hope it works out for him," Karl said. "I'd like to think about the positive, but there's a sadness for a young man who needs to get grips on who he is and what he is and what it is to give respect to his body and his potential."

"The Washburn thing has been a distraction, but that can't be the reason for the loss in this game," Karl added after Wednesday's 131-104 loss in Phoenix, the Warriors' fifth straight loss.

The Warriors announced that Washburn is expected to remain for at least four weeks at the ASAP Center in Van Nuys, Calif., an NBA-sanctioned facility near Los Angeles. Team officials did not say what drugs are involved in Washburn's case.

Washburn, 21, was the third player chosen in last spring's draft.

The 6-foot-11 forward and center started the Warriors' first two games this season, but he quickly worked his way to the bench partly because of several missed practices.

"I can't deny there were suspicions," said Karl. "He missed two practices this week. Sunday, he said his car was in the shop. Tuesday, I didn't even bother to ask."

Washburn was placed on the injured list on Tuesday because of a kidney ailment, which was not connected to any drug problem, the Warriors said.

"His kidney problem is no smoke-screen," Karl said. "He was in the hospital for kidney malfunctions. He does have a kidney problem."

Washburn has played in 27 games, averaging 10 minutes per contest and 3.5 points per game. Last season, his only full season at N.C. State, he averaged 17.6 points and 6.7 rebounds per game.

Washburn was the third pick in the NBA draft behind Brad Daugherty and the late Len Bias, who died of cocaine intoxication two days after the draft.

Rookie golfer going through rough times

DALLAS (AP) — After becoming the first non-pro in 31 years to win a PGA tournament when he captured the Western Open, Scott Verplank has not shot below a 71 or made the qualifying cut through two pro events this year.

Although he's taken home less than $20,000 in 20 tournaments, Verplank, a two-time All-America at Oklahoma State and the 1984 U.S. Amateur champion, expects to learn and grow from the hard times.

"It looks bad on the surface as far as performance," he said. "I think in the long run it will help me out. When you have failure and play poorly, you learn the most; it makes you stronger and better. So many times, you take it for granted if you're playing good. Everything falls into place: it's no big problem."

"When you're not playing well, it's like you're swinging with your eyes closed and left handed."

Verplank spends a lot of time reviewing videotapes of his swing.

He hopes he can turn things around at this week's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, but he's not going to rush things.

"It's a touchy deal, really," he told The Dallas Morning News from his Stillwater, Okla., apartment.

"I've got to be playing patient not rush into it. I wouldn't be surprised if the AT&T tournament turned out great, but I wouldn't be surprised if I didn't play well. It's just a matter of getting my mind thinking the right way right now," he said.

Besides, Verplank has had his share of success. He tied for 15th at last year's U.S. Open. His first event as a professional. He tied for sixth at the Tallahassee Open last fall. He finished third at a tournament in Japan.

"It's not like I'm completely dogging it," he said. "As long as I don't worry about what other people expect from me, I don't worry."

Point guard scores 41; Tar Heels romp

By The Associated Press
Kenny Smith, North Carolina's point guard, gave the term a new meaning.

The senior from New York, who is known for his passing rather than his point production, scored a career-high 41 Wednesday night as the top-ranked Tar Heels won their 16th consecutive game, a 108-99 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over No. 14 Clemson.

It wasn't all easy going for North Carolina as the Tar Heels, 18-1 overall and 7-0 in the conference, had to rally from a 12-point halftime deficit for the road victory that gave them a 2½-game lead over Clemson and Duke in the ACC race.

Smith, whose previous scoring best was 23 points, didn't play in North Carolina's last game because of a sprained knee and he was doubtful for the Clemson game until an hour or so before tipoff.

"I walked out today and it was still hurting slightly," said Smith, who made 14 of 19 shots from the field, including six of nine 3-pointers. "I came out in pregame and shot around and it still didn't feel right."

The Tigers, 18-2 and 4-2, jumped to a 16-6 lead in the opening 5:30. The lead reached 13 twice in the first half before Clemson settled for a 50-38 halftime advantage as the Tar Heels committed an uncharacteristic 14 turnovers in the first 20 minutes.

After cutting the lead to seven early in the second half, the Tar Heels used a 14-4 run to take a 63-60 lead on Smith's second consecutive 3-point field goal.

Clemson retook the lead and led 78-73 but North Carolina answered with a 22-5 run over the next six minutes to lead 95-83 with 2:49 to play.

Clemson Coach Cliff Ellis praised all of North Carolina's guards, not just Smith.

Freshman center J.R. Reid added 22 points and 10 rebounds for North Carolina, while Jeff Lebo, Smith's backcourt partner, added 20 points.

No. 4 Indiana 69, No. 12 Illinois 66
Dean Garrett scored the go-ahead basket then came up with the blocked shot that gave Indiana undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten.

The junior college transfer, who led the Hoosiers with 20 points, nine rebounds and six blocked shots, hit a jumper in the lane with 1:35 to play to break a 64-64 tie. He then blocked a shot by Illinois' Ken Norman, retrieved the ball and got it to Steve Alford who made two free throws with 30 seconds to play to seal the victory.

The Hoosiers, 16-2 and 7-1, hold a half-game lead over Iowa and Purdue. Illinois, 14-5 and 5-3, was led by Norman and Lowell Hamilton with 16 points each.

No. 19 Florida 90, No. 9 Alabama 80, OT

Florida allowed Alabama to erase a 14-point lead in the second half, but the Gators used the long jumper in overtime for the victory that tied the teams atop the Southeastern Conference

The Gators, 16-4 and 8-1, held a 56-42 lead early in the second half but the Crimson Tide, which had a 12-game winning streak snapped, chipped away with 3-pointers — three by Derrick McKey — and tied the game 74-74 with eight seconds left to force the overtime.

The extra period belonged to Florida as Joe Lawrence, who scored all 18 of his points on 3-pointers, nailed two in the opening 1:30 and the Gators made eight of 11 free throws to take the victory.

Andrew Moten led Florida with 25 points, while McKey led the Crimson Tide, 15-3 and 8-1, with 27 points and 10 rebounds.

Providence 82, No. 11 Georgetown 79

Ernie Lewis made three 3-pointers in the final 2:02, the last with two seconds to play as the Friars, 15-3 and 5-2, snapped an 11-game losing streak to Georgetown, which was led by Reggie Williams, who scored 33 points and grabbed 18 rebounds.

Perry McDonald gave Georgetown, 14-3 and 4-3, its last lead, 77-76, with a free throw with 1:25 left. Lewis' 3-pointer with 44 seconds left made it 79-77. Two free throws by Jonathan Edwards 14 seconds later tied the Big East game and set the stage for Lewis' winning bomb from deep in the right corner.

Three minutes into the second half, tempers flared briefly as Providence's Jacek Duda fouled Georgetown's Mark Tillmon on a breakaway. The coaches exchanged words about the play and both were slapped with technicals.

No. 17 Pittsburgh 95, Seton Hall 81
Pitt avoided a letdown after its victory at Syracuse earlier in the week despite off-nights from its two leading players.

The Panthers, 16-4 and 5-2, led by at least 12 points throughout the second half of the Big East game. Charles Smith, the Panthers' leading scorer at 18.2, was held to four in a foul-plagued performance, while Jerome Lane, the nation's leading rebounder who scored 27 against Syracuse, had just 11 points. Curtis Aiken and Rod Brooklin picked up the scoring slack for Pitt with 21 and 17 points, respectively.

James Major led Seton Hall, 11-7 and 2-7, with 17 points.

Louisiana State 75, No. 18 Auburn 73

Louisiana State blew a 17-point halftime lead but rallied for the Southeastern Conference victory.

Auburn, 1-5 and 4-4, managed a 57-56 lead with just under 12 minutes to play, but Louisiana State, 13-9 and 4-6, took the lead right back on a field goal by Anthony Wilson and was never headed.

Wilson, who finished with 25 points, was a one-man show for the Tigers in the first half scoring 19 of his points, including five 3-pointers.

Jeff Moore led Auburn with 21 points and the junior had a chance to tie the game but his shot in the final seconds missed and he lost the rebound in the lane as the buzzer sounded.

SuperSonics give Lakers sound whipping

By The Associated Press
The Seattle SuperSonics, expected to be one of the worst teams in the NBA this season, have convinced the Los Angeles Lakers that they aren't.

Tom Chambers, Xavier McDaniel and Dale Ellis — each averaging between 27 and 24 points per game — scored 37, 28 and 25 points, respectively, and the Sonics outscored the Lakers 65-46 Wednesday night en route to a 125-101 victory over the team with the best record in the NBA.

NBA

"They are a vastly improved team than earlier in the year, and they're going to make a lot of noise before it's all over," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "They certainly opened our eyes."

Seattle used two 9-0 streaks in the second half to rout the Lakers after the Sonics' grabbed a 63-55 halftime lead.

The first surge, which started with Seattle ahead by six points, gave the Sonics a 74-59 advantage. The second 9-0 run, in the first 3:29 of the fourth period, made it 103-82. Chambers said Seattle's big rebounding advantage kept Los Angeles from using its vaunted running game.

"They didn't have any fast-break hoops tonight," he said. "That's because we were rebounding so well."

While Chambers, McDaniel and Ellis were the only Sonics with double-figure scoring, they also had three double-figure rebounders. Alton Lister had 16, McDaniel 13 and Chambers 10.

Magic Johnson had 24 points and 11 rebounds for the Lakers and James Worthy added 20 points. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 18 points and 11 rebounds, but he was scoreless in the first half.

The Clippers beat New Jersey for only their third victory in 36 games.

Los Angeles, 6-36 for the season, forced a season-high 32 turnovers by the Nets, whose 11-31 mark is the second-worst in the NBA.

The Clippers took control of the game in the fourth quarter with an 8-1 spurt that gave them an 88-77 lead with 5:25 remaining. New Jersey got no closer than seven points the rest of the way.

Darnell Valentine had 20 points and Kenny Fields 18 for the Clippers, who snapped a five-game losing streak. Buck Williams had 17 points and 16 rebounds for New Jersey.

Celtics 132, Bulls 103
Boston hit 29 of 43 field-goal attempts en route to a 71-46 halftime lead, then coasted over Chicago.

Larry Bird and Dennis Johnson scored 26 points each and Kevin McHale added 22 for the Celtics, all in the first three quarters. Johnson finished 11-for-13 from the field with 10 assists.

Michael Jordan, who also sat out the fourth period, led the Bulls with 27 points.

76ers 109, Cavaliers 107
Philadelphia survived a 13-point third quarter and Andrew Toney scored 14 of his 21 points in the final period against Cleveland.

The Cavaliers outscored the 76ers 26-13 in the third quarter to take a 85-79 lead, but Philadelphia started the final period with a 7-0 spurt, and a 13-4 run later in the quarter put the 76ers in front to stay.

Cliff Robinson scored 23 for Philadelphia and Charles Barkley added 14 points and 14 rebounds despite being ejected from the game with two technical fouls in the third period. Rookie Johnny Newman scored 22 points for Cleveland.

Suns 131, Warriors 104
Phoenix beat Golden State for the fourth straight time this season as Larry Nance scored 29 points.

Nance had 19 while the Suns grabbed a 65-49 halftime advantage and went on to lead by as many as 29 points in the fourth quarter. The Warriors, who have lost five straight, scored only 17 points in the second quarter, making just 33 percent of their field-goal attempts while Phoenix shot 79 percent from the field.

Ed Pinckney finished with 19 points and rookie guard Jeff Hornacek added 18 assists — one short of the Suns' club record. Chris Mullin paced the Warriors with 21 points.

Instead, Lloyd played for the victorious United States squad in the Federation Cup at Prague, Czechoslovakia, the Virginia Slims of Los Angeles, where she lost to Navratilova in the final, and the U.S. Open, where she was ousted by Sukova in the semifinals.

The injury, diagnosed as subpatellar chondromalacia, an irritation to the undersurface of the kneecap, kept her out of season-ending Virginia Slims Championships in November and this month's Australian Open.

During a career that began when, at age 16, she reached the semifinals of the U.S. Open, Lloyd has won six U.S. Open titles, seven French titles, three Wimbledon championships and two Australian Opens.

Perhaps her most remarkable record is a 125-match winning streak on clay, stretching from August 1973 to May 1979.

Following exhibitions in Japan and Palm Springs, Calif., she will join the women's tour for the Virginia Slims of Boca in Florida; the International Players Championships at Key Biscayne, Fla.; the Family Circle Cup at Hilton Head, S.C.; Dallas and Tampa before heading for the European clay circuit.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 30, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After ridding yourself of some early morning confusion, this is an unusually good day and evening to consider how you can be more in accord and up-to-date.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be with the most progressive-thinking persons you know and gain their support for your personal aims.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An outsider could give you some trouble, but handle this matter quickly. Avoid one who is annoying to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan time to gain data that interests you. Kindly listen to the complaints of a fellow worker. Make new allies.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Do what your mate desires of you and then study new systems for improving your business activities.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Contact the most successful persons you know and get advice on how to better your own lot in life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure to handle an important missive wisely. Take the time to show a partner your successful idea.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study how best to express your varied and fine talents more effectively. Stay within your budget.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Change your attitude at home and conditions can be improved there. Invite an interesting couple over.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure communications with others are interesting. Impress them favorably.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Garner various bits of data from magazines, brochures, etc., that will help you to improve your interests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can bring your special talents into focus during this new year. Take time out for social pleasures.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study into fine courses of activity. The evening is ideal for romance with your mate. Be happy and content.

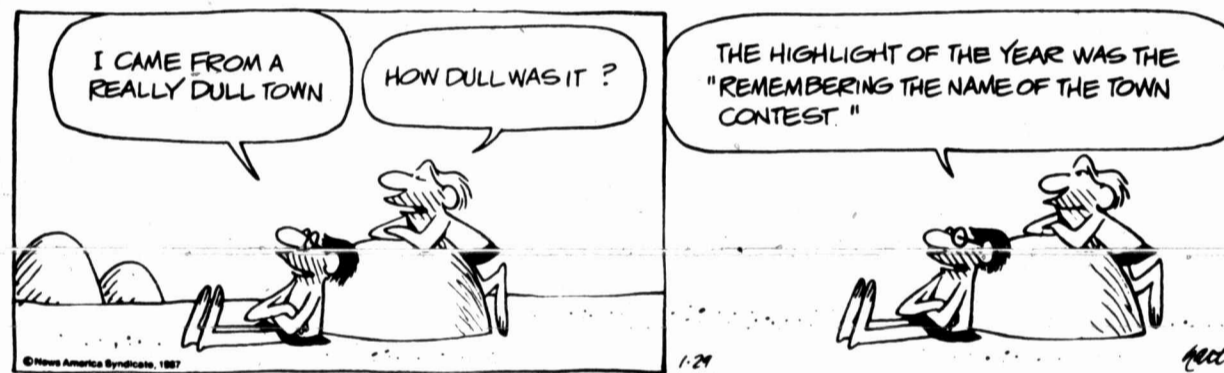

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have every ability to comprehend and be a part of this New Age and get into modern activities. Teach your child whatever is standard so that your progeny can get along well with persons of every age and background. This one will enjoy philosophy.

Sanctuary worker enters prison

DALLAS (AP) — As she prepared to turn herself in to authorities to start serving a six-month sentence for conspiracy, a worker in the sanctuary movement said "I can't turn my back on the people of Central America."

But Stacey Lynn Merkt, whom a judge ordered Tuesday to begin a 179-day sentence at the Fort Worth Correctional Institute, said Wednesday night she doesn't know if she'll resume her work with Central American refugees after her release from prison.

"I haven't thought at all ahead," said Merkt, who was convicted of conspiracy to transport illegal aliens.

The former worker at Casa Oscar Romero, a South Texas refugee shelter for Central Americans, is three months pregnant and said she wants to devote time to her family.

The slender, petite Merkt told worshippers at a prayer service Wednesday night at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Dallas that she is the victim of injustice.

"There is injustice and not just in the Third World," said Merkt. "It's existent in our country here."

"I had a hard time understanding what was going on... six months for an act of compassion," she said.

Talking with reporters after the service, Merkt said her faith in God has given her strength.

"I think that we are called to take stands in our lives," she said.

Asked if her work in South Texas with Central Americans refugees was worth being imprisoned, Merkt said, "Love is always worth it. Justice is always worth it."

Merkt, who was ordered to serve three years probation after her prison sentence, said she is worried about being in prison while pregnant.

Inmates' artwork may greet Pope

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 20-foot fiber artwork created by Bexar County inmates could greet Pope John Paul II when the pontiff visits Sept. 13, officials said.

The Jail Arts and Humanities Advisory Committee organized a group to spearhead the art project and raise money for costs, which could run up to $17,000.

"Many (inmates) are Hispanic Catholics and this is the only way they will be able to participate in the papal visit and take some pride in their paricipation," Nivia Gonzalez, director of the Jail Arts Program, said Tuesday.

Plans call for hanging the huge picture near Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church, where the pope has scheduled a public appearance.

The fiber art is made by penciling a design on a poster or board, then applying strands of yarn over the design.

Ms. Gonzalez said a small portrait of Our Lady of Guadalupe took about 200 hours to make, but that work should go much faster now that a system has been developed.

She said the project could involve as many as 1,000 inmates working for four months. A prototype, 4-by-3 feet poster would be drawn and then enlarged and divided into sections. Each floor of the jail would get a panel.

The project grew out of the Jail Arts Program, which has provided art classes in the jail the past four months.

Ms. Gonzalez said the classes provide therapy for inmates, and can help them develop marketable skills.

Clements appoints Hispanics

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced Wednesday he has appointed Dallas businessman Joe Madrigal Jr. as director of Hispanic and Latin American Affairs for the Clements administration.

Cynthia Ramirez, former public relations employee at Zapata National Bank, was named assistant director.

Madrigal, 38, most recently was associated with Avante International, where he supervised financial consultations for minority businesses.

He left the firm in August to join Clements' campaign as deputy director of voter groups.

A native of Mineral Wells, Madrigal is a 1972 graduate of Stephen F. Austin University.

Ms. Ramirez, 39, assisted Madrigal in the Clements campaign.

She is a native of Zapata and graduate of Metropolitan Business College in Galveston.

Immigration laws outlined to employers

AUSTIN (AP) — George Mitchell knows the new immigration law will affect some of his workers on his Beaumont land, but he said he's learning more about the law to be sure he won't violate it.

"I'm making sure I'm doing everything legal," Mitchell said Wednesday at a seminar explaining the law Congress passed last year.

Under the immigration law, employers can be penalized for knowingly hiring undocumented workers. The law also grants amnesty to illegal aliens living in the country continuously since before 1982.

Mitchell said he farms his land with documented and undocumented workers.

"I've got some that are going to be eligible under the amnesty (provision) and some that won't," Mitchell said.

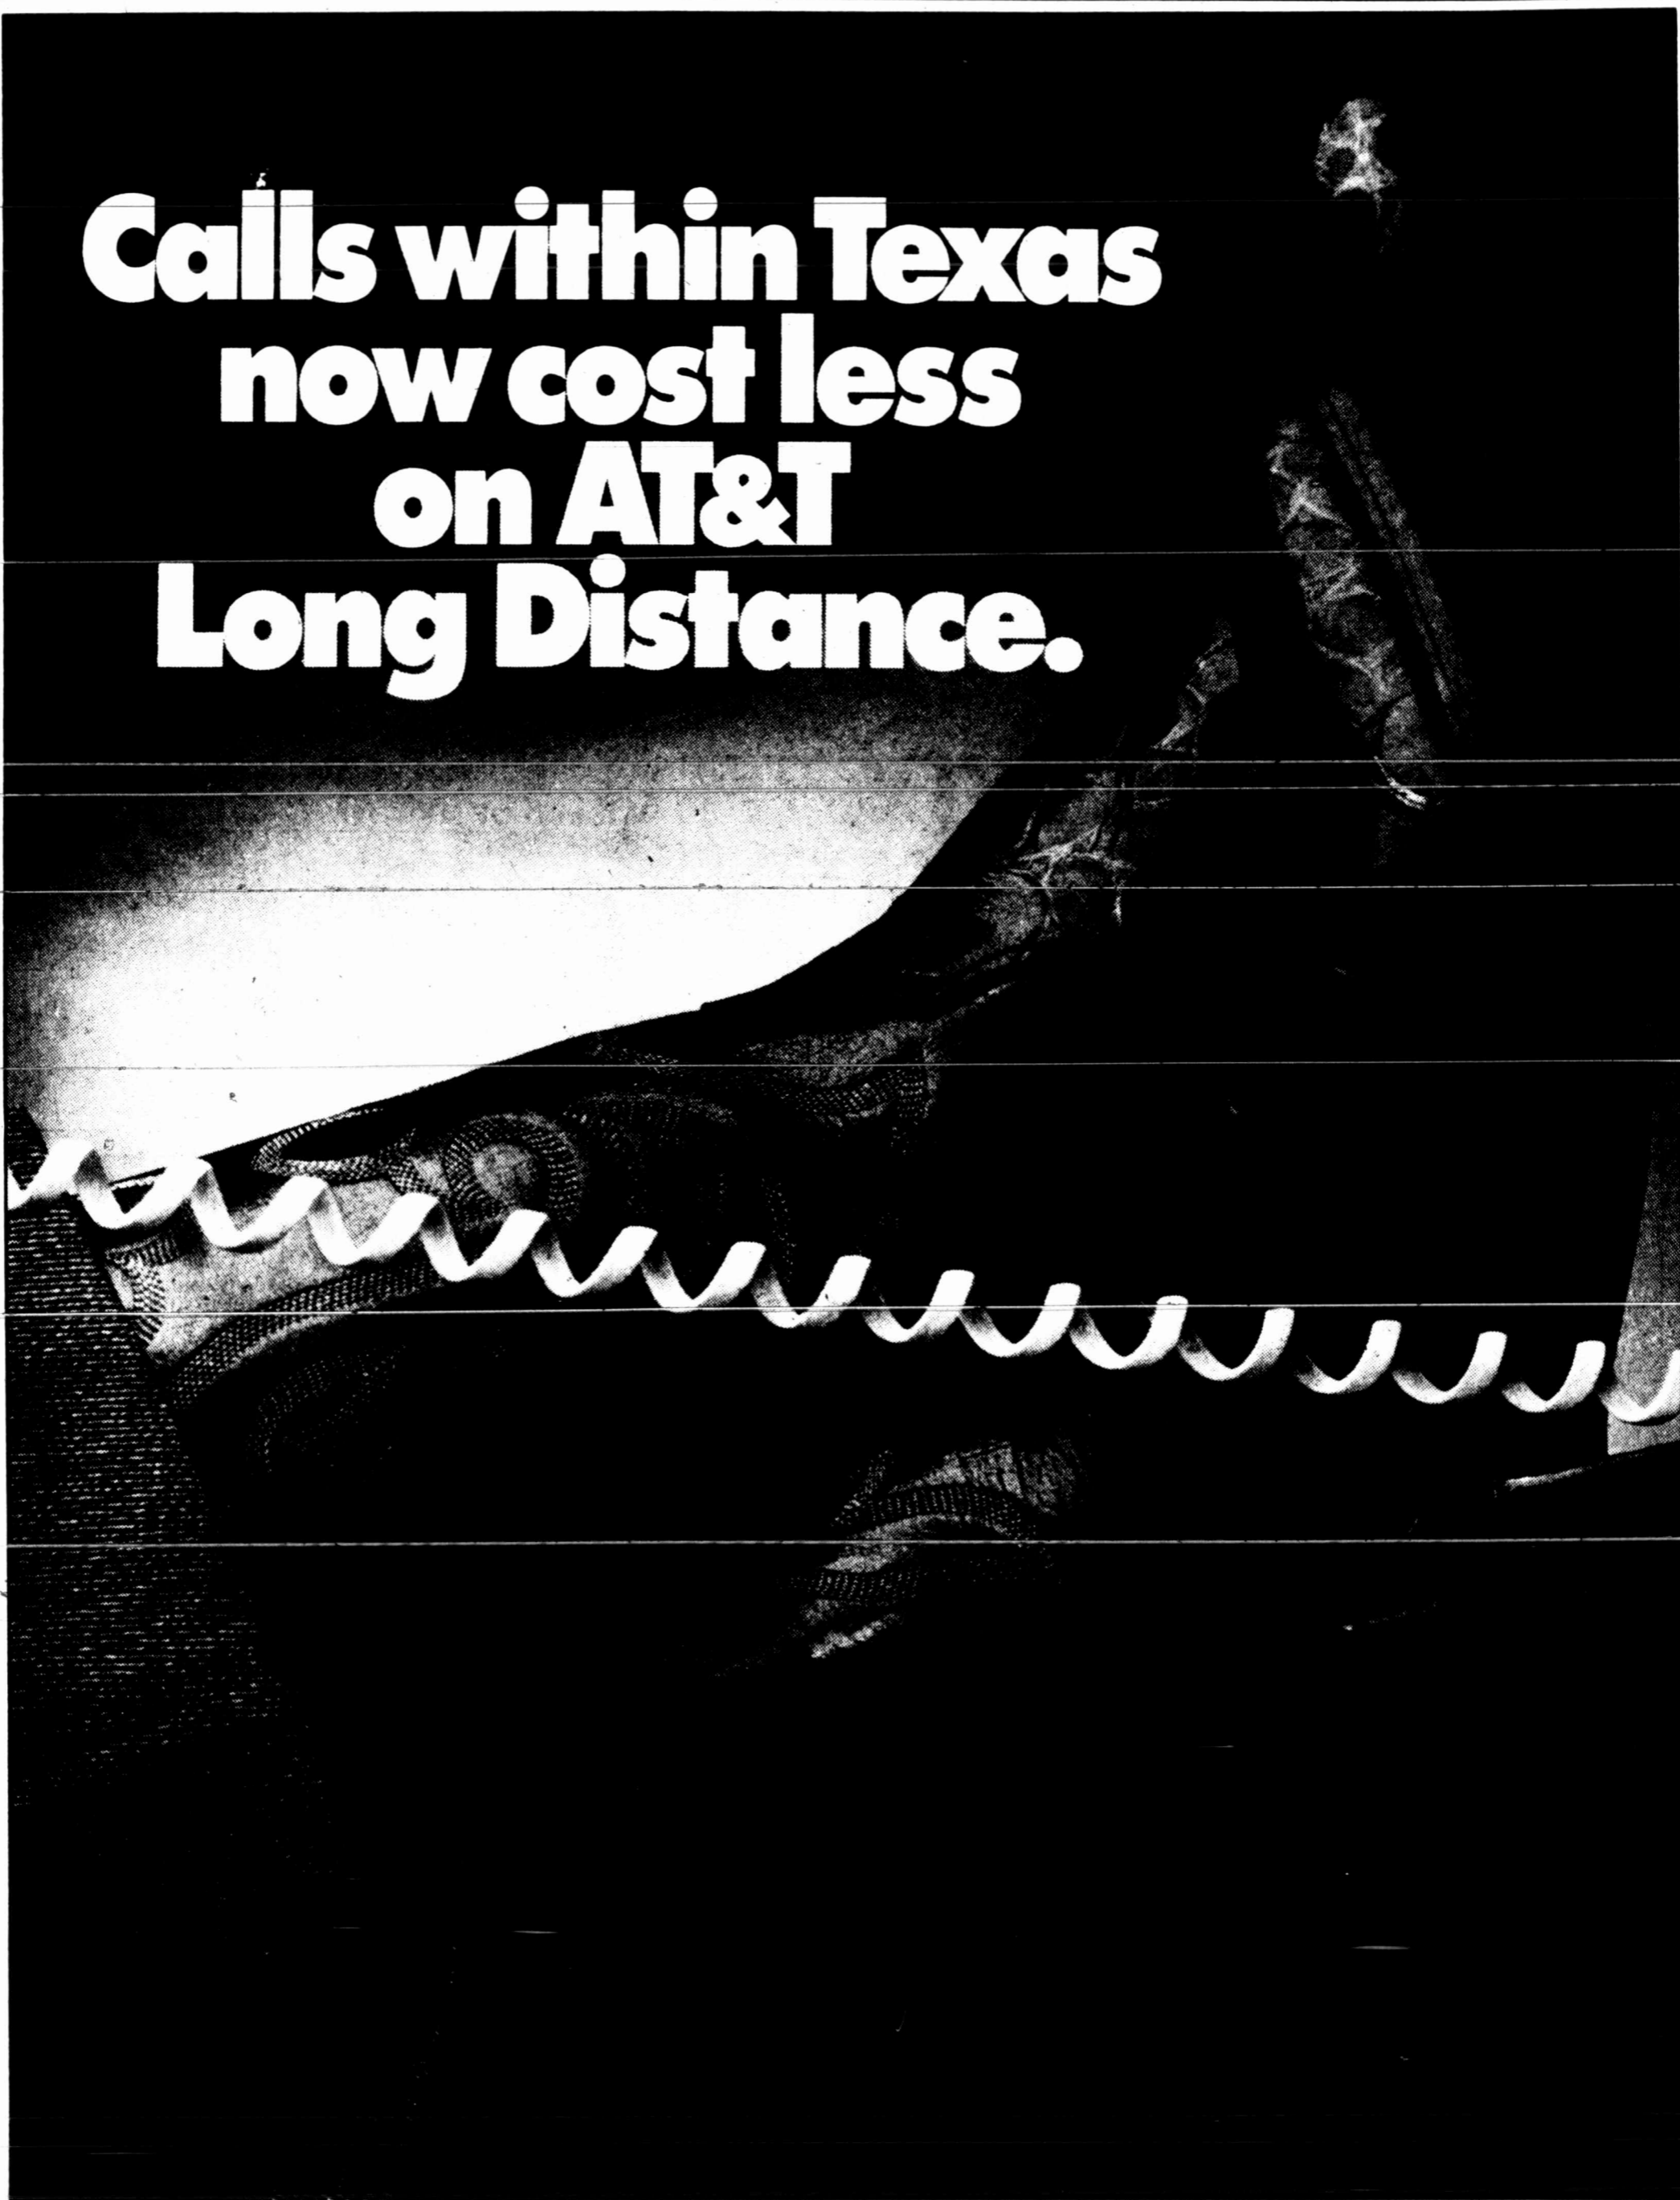

Because the law will affect hundreds of Texas employers when it takes affect in early May, the Texas Department of Agriculture has organized statewide seminars to explain the law, said Olga Moya, spokeswoman for the seminars.

Moya said farmers, employers, producers and church and community leaders were invited to the seminars "so we can get the ball rolling on education."

Calls within Texas now cost less on AT&T Long Distance.

AT&T has just lowered the price of in-state Texas long distance 8 percent for residence and business customers.*

Now, for example, a five-minute direct-dial daytime call (Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 5 PM) from Amarillo to Brownsville, Houston to El Paso, Dallas to Austin, Dallas to San Antonio, Dallas to Houston or San Antonio to Amarillo costs only $1.86.

We've also lowered the price of in-state AT&T WATS 29 percent and lowered the price of in-state AT&T 800 Service approximately 20 percent.

But that's not the whole story. Since 1984, we've lowered prices 30 percent overall on direct-dial state-to-state AT&T long distance calls. Yet we're still giving you the clear long distance connections and full-service long distance operators you've come to expect from AT&T. Still giving you the best value in long distance by providing you with the most advanced and reliable long distance network in the world.
