Chamber honors Hall and Marshall

Florence Marie Hall and J. Arnold Marshall were honored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Friday night as Woman and Man of the Year.

Other awards presented at the banquet included the Outstanding Farmer of the Year and the Blue Blazer "Pat on the Back" Award.

Robert Beall, gin manager of Planters Gin in Knott, was named the outstanding farmer, while, the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce named Sherry Bordofske as the "Pat on the Back" recipient.

The Chamber's annual banquet at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The banquet's theme was "Pride and Progress.

Hall, a native of Big Spring, was recognized for her business and philanthropic activities in Texas, which indirectly touch her hometown, emcee Johnnie Lou Avery said.

'Very quietly, insisting on no fanfare, she reaches out to fill a need, to make a difference, to build a better community, a better world," the local civic leader said. Avery cited Hall's involvement in the YMCA renovation, which included a gymanistic center; the creation of an endowment program for nursing scholarships at Howard College; the enlargement and refurbishing of the water camp in Colorado City for the Buffalo Trail Council Boy Scouts; and the new Salvation Army Center.

Hall serves on the development board of the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston and its advisory boards for the School of Allied Health Sciences and the Cosden before resigning to become vice president for the H.W. Smith Transport Company in 1957. In 1958, he became a partner in two other businesses, and subsequently acquired full ownership of all three firms. He sold them in 1977 to Doma Corporation

Marshall has been a worker with the Chamber for more than forty years, Avery said. He has served as chairman of the Development Committee, which captured regional accolades for Operation Sparkle. He also was involved in the 1960 Downtown Big Spring rehabilitation master plan, which cost more than $4 million.

He served for six years on the City Council and another six as Avery said he also served as public reserve officer, president of the American Business Club, and

He has been on the Howard County Fair Association Board for many years, Avery said, and has served as its president. He has also worked with the United Way, American Red Cross, American Heart and Cancer Associations. He is an active member in the First Methodist Church, serving as president of the board.

He was chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Transportation Panel in 1981, and served as president of the U.S. 87 Highway Association, which spearheads the efforts for extension of Interstate 27 through Big Spring.

He is married to Rachel Ford (Peggy) Marshall, who attended the banquet with their daughter, Nancy, of Dallas.

Robert Beall was named Outstanding Agricultural Producer of the Year. He "practices good land conservation methods to preserve the land and is said to be among one of the best farmers in the area with his high yields in cotton on all the farms he and his sons operate," Avery said.

The award is presented by the Agricultural Committee of the Chamber and is selected by a committee of agricultural professionals and producers. The award is given to recognize contributions to the county through church and civic organizations as well as exemplary production, according to the banquet program.

City Council to discuss audit, pool

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

The City Council is scheduled to hear the annual audit report and to discuss whether to close the swimming pool this summer at its meeting Tuesday.

The Council will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Airpark. A work session is scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday at the Airpark.

After discussing the audit report, city officials plan to begin the annual budget revision process next week. City Manager Mack Wofford has said. Wofford stated earlier this winter that he expects a budget shortfall because of the downturn in the economy. He said a decrease in sales tax and property revenues, plus a smaller amount of money left over from last year in the general fund, are the

The revision process should reveal just how much, if any, the city needs to trim the budget to accommodate those conditions, he has said.

In the matter of the swimming pool, Public Works Director Tom Decell said he has received positive feedback from the public, including a recommendation from the Parks and Recreation Board.

He proposes to keep the pool closed this summer. using the money saved to match a state grant for extensive renovation. The Council also will hear other recommendations from the Parks and Recreations Board, including enlarging the city softball field. An ordinance changing the method of collecting golf course green fees and private cart trail fees is on the Council agenda. The ordinance requires that all cart shed renters have a permit in the renter's name, according to a memo by Finance Director An ordinance authorizing installation of a traffic light at Gregg Street and Edward Boulevard appears on the agenda, as do resolutions authorizing Mayor Cotton Mize to execute lease agreements

Howard County, and amending the lease with Second and final readings of ordinances adopting the revised revenue sharing budget and extending the hours during which alcoholic beverages can be

County law library deficit on agenda

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

The 118th District Court law library with a negative balance of $2,000 - will be discussed Monday among Howard County Commissioners at their 9 a.m. meeting in the county courthouse.

The expenditure item arose during the Jan. 26 meeting and commissioners talked with Assistant District Attorney Robert Morris about the budgetary deficit. Morris told commissioners the district attorney's office updates its law library collection and doesn't purchase new He suggested they get rid of certain sets of law books, such as those that pertain to federal law.

The district attorney's office keeps abreast of changing state statutes by subscribing to publications such as "The Southwestern Reporter" and "Vernons Texas Statutes," Morris said.

Commissioners requested County Auditor Jackie Olson to inquire with surrounding county law libraries to learn of their handling of similar situations.

County and Scurry County were not losing money with their law libraries, while charging less than Howard County. The 118th District Clerk's office deducts $15 from each case filing that goes into a general law library fund, Olson said.

Olson said she found out that Ector case filings, she said.

son of Robert and Rosanne Barton, perches his coat over his shoulder, as short-sleeved shirts were the order of the day.

'I want to make commissioners aware of the problem," Olson said.

Other Monday meeting items that commissioners will consider include a county flood plan required by the federal government.

County Judge Milton Kirby said earlier that his office received word from the federal government that all cities and counties were responsible for preparing a flood plan sometime this year.

The county's plan will include rescue and evacuation procedures for residences and businesses located outside the city limits, Kirby said. The judge gave the federal flood requirement to County Engineer Bill Mims, who will present it to commissioners, Kir-

Prison employment workshop set

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp will sponsor a community workshop Feb. 14 for anyone interested in employment in the federal prison system.

'The prime purpose is to provide application forms and information on job openings," said Assistant Superintendent Lloyd McMillan.

The workshop is scheduled 10 a.m. to noon in the Training Center located in a brown building on First Avenue, south of Western Container, McMillan said.

Prison personnel staff members will be present to "provide first-hand information about jobs and duties," McMillan said.

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp has openings now for correctional officers, physician assistant, cook foreman, sports specialist, clerk/typist, and accounting technician, he

'Staff members in these areas will be available to answer questions on these positions," McMillan said.

Only applicants approved before reaching age 35 will be hired, McMillan noted. He added that the hiring process usually takes two to three months after an application has been filed

In addition, applicants are disqualified if they have been arrested within the past three years. To qualify for a correctional officer position, applicants must have a minimum 31/2 years prior experience at working in a supervisory or guideline level position.

The accounting position requires someone with an accounting degree, McMillan said. The hiring process can include job transfers to other federal prison sites, he said. The Federal Prison Camp is an equal opportunity employer.

'We're looking for career opportunity people. We're interested in seeing and hearing from them," McMillan said.

Police officers promoted to sergeants

Three Big Spring police officers have been promoted to sergeant, effective Feb. 8: John W. Leubner, Joe Russell and Drew G. Bavin, according to Lt. Jerry Edwards.

Leubner, 37, has been with the department three years and has lived in Big Spring since 1978. His new assignment will be records and identification, Edwards said.

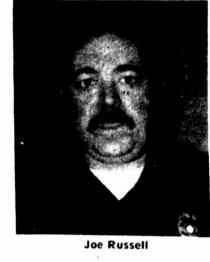

Leubner managed a local sporting goods store before joining the police force. He has a wife, Ruth, and a daughter, Somer, age 7.

Russell, 43, has been with the police department four years in patrol and has been a Big Spring resident since 1983. His new assignment will be as patrol sergeant.

Before joining the police force, Jacob, age 11. he was a deputy with the Amarillo

Bavin, 37, has been with the sheriff's department. He has a police department 312 years and wife, Gail, and one son of the home, has been a Big Spring resident since 1983. His new assignment will contractor before joining the Big be as crime prevention sergeant. He was the undersheriff in Delta County, Colo., and was a general Spring police force. He has a wife, Sara, and two sons, Rye, 15, and Jacob, 5.

 Big Spring Federal Prison Camp tentatively has planned a community workshop Saturday, Feb. 14 for those persons who seek employment in the federal prison

The time and site has not yet been confirmed, Assistant Superintendent Lloyd McMillan said this morning. The job fair will be of benefit to anyone seeking employment in the federal prison system — in Texas or elsewhere, he said. News earlier this month that the federal camp had about 20 openings — for correctional officers, secretarial positions, and physician and recreational assistants brought 250 responses, McMillan

He reported records show 100 persons inquired directly at the camp and another 150 inquired by phone, McMillan said.

 A decision is expected in late March on whether to issue a building permit for the construction of the Stacy Dam Reservoir, said Sally Werst, a public information officer with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Fort Worth.

The Colorado River Municipal District, however, plans to open construction bids on March 5 before approximately 100 bidders at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College, reported Joe Pickle, information officer with the water district.

The bids will not be final on that particular date, Pickle said, as specification changes are possible.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. - Quadriplegic Hector Rodas, who didn't want to live because he could not speak, swallow or move, died Friday in the 16th day of a fast he began after a judge granted him the right to die.

Rodas, 34, almost completely paralyzed from drug abuse, died at Hilltop Rehabilitation Hospital at 3:25 a.m. from starvation, his doctor and a spokesman said.

"He died bravely and with dignity and without pain," said Roy Carson, Rodas' friend who held his power of attorney. "He said to tell you after he died that his last message was, 'Please, don't do drugs.'

Rodas had not taken any food or only a little water since a judge ruled Jan. 22 that he had the right to remove the stomach tube that provided him with nourishment.

Arabs deported

WASHINGTON - A group of Arab Americans said Friday that arrests of Palestinians in Los Angeles mark the beginning of a deportation campaign by the Reagan administration targeting Arab visitors deemed to be security risks.

Such a campaign amounts to "wholesale character assassination" based on ethnic background, the National Association of Arab Americans said in a statement.

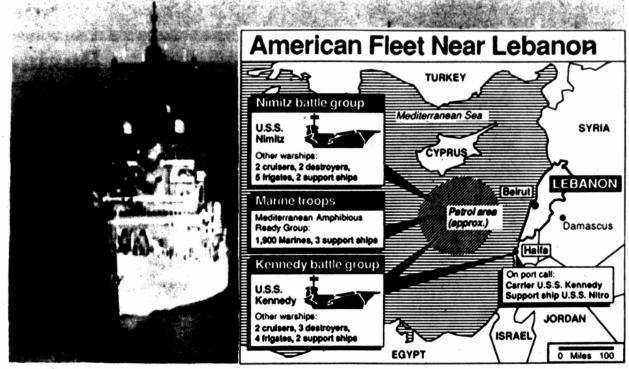

In an attempt to bolster its contention, the group released more than 30 pages of internal documents from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, some detailing recommendations that include detaining without bond Arab visitors who are believed to support terrorist groups.

Chernobyl is reminder

WASHINGTON - The Chernobyl nuclear accident in the Soviet Union should spur a harder look at several safety issues regarding U.S. reactors, but it doesn't warrant an immediate stiffening of controls, according to Nuclear Regulatory Commission analysts.

The NRC's Chernobyl follow-up task force said Friday the April 1986 accident "reinforces" previous concerns over the reliability of reactor containment vessels, the quality of safety management and training, and the possibility of serious accidents even when plants are at low power or shut down.

But the mistakes made at Chernobyl, where two steam explosions during an experiment at low power triggered a fuel meltdown and a massive expulsion of radioactivity into the atmosphere, are "precluded" in the United States because of differences in design, including the use of pressure-tight containment vessels, and better operational controls, the Units of the U.S. Navy's Sixth Fleet conduct maneuvers in the Mediterranean Friday. The American aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy made a port call in Haifa, Israel, reducing the U.S. naval presence off Lebanon's coast. The ship was part of the Navy combat force assembled in the eastern Mediterranean during the past two weeks in response to a new wave of kidnappings in Beirut.

U.S. lacks military options

By BRYAN BRUMLEY

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the recent buildup of U.S. naval forces in the Mediterranean, Washington has almost no military options to aid the eight Americans held hostage in Lebanon, government of-

"There is not a lot we can do to help the hostages," one Pentagon source acknowledged privately.

The exact location of the hostages in Lebanon is not known, according to administration officials, and even a commando raid against a specific site might cause the kidnappers to kill their captives before they could

A naval bombardment or air strike against Lebanon, similar to those of late 1983, likely would hit civilian targets and serve little purpose other than to deepen local hostility toward Washington, Pentage a officials

U.S. naval activity off Lebanon tapered off Friday, although two Marine assault groups remained in the

One of two aircraft carrier task forces suspended its patrol of the waters off Lebanon, while a three-ship Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group carrying 1,900 Marines had linked up with a five-ship force carrying a similar number of Marines south of the island

During the buildup of the last two weeks, Pentagon and White House officials said they planned no military strike but wanted to be prepared for possible retaliation if the kidnappers began executing hostages.

The fleet might also be used to evacuate several hundred American citizens who remain in Lebanon, Pentagon officials said. Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said the current buildup was meant to show U.S. concern "about rising tension in the Persian Gulf and Middle East" as fighting continued in the Iran-Iraq war and Americans remained hostage in Lebanon. 'We want to make sure that we are prepared if our strategic interests are threatened and to show support for our friends in the area," Sims said. The possibility of U.S. military action in the area appeared to recede as the carrier Kennedy began a port call in Haifa, Israel, and four of its escorting warships prepared to sail for the United States from Spain.

The Kennedy was left with an escort of five warships, and the other carrier in the area, the Nimitz, was accompanied by 11 ships.

New work ethic or new management ethic?

By TOM PETERS

Newsweek's Jan. 19 issue reports that "competitiveness" is most likely the issue for the 1988 presidential elections; Republicans and Democrats are racing to capture the high ground. Nothing less than a "new work ethic" for America may be called

New work ethic seems to imply that "workers" are the problem. Or is a new management ethic

In my view, the evidence is decisive. Workers stand ready to unleash their potential, if they are asked. For 150 years, American management focused on big scale and labor specialization. Management has not only fractionalized labor's contribution, but has systematically tried to eliminate it.

For instance, we pioneered automation, but with the avowed purpose of driving workers out of the system. Today the watchwords are flexible manufacturing, which couples automation with workers' creative input to produce short runs for a large variety of products, which consumers in every market are increasingly demanding.

In the November/December 1986 liarvard Business Review, Ramchandran Jaikumar studies half of the flexible manufacturing systems installed so far in the United States and Japan. He calls the U.S. application a "desert of mediocrity." The Japanese, fully utilizing labor's skills, have employed the new tools as intended. Their average system makes 93 parts. U.S. manufacturers are using the tools to enhance our traditional bias for mass; our average flexible system makes just 10 parts, with volumes seven times higher than the Japanese average.

But automation is the least of it. Japanese managers traditionally have asked every worker to add ideas. And Japanese experts — for instance, engineers — live on the factory floor, supporting the worker. The Japanese word for all this is kaizen. It implies constant refinement. The U.S. counterpart is breakthrough. We characteristically look to leapfrog, concentrating on scientists' brilliant schemes, not labor's dayto-day contributions.

The constant-improvement philosophy encompasses marketing strategy, too. In "Second to None," author Bob author Bob Christopher demonstrates that Japan's marketing prowess stems from "establishment of small distinctions ... minor improvements in convenience, function, miniaturization and the like ... the cumulative effect is immense.'

Harvard's respected Bob Reich argues persuasively in his justpublished "Tales of a New America" that advanced nations can no longer succeed via mass production; only specialized, flexible manufacturing will prove denigrate, labor's contribution; our work force simply must add much more value to justify its higher wages. He calls for "collective en-

We, therefore, must upgrade, not trepreneurship," in which every worker adds ideas in contrast to the current convention of leaving entrepreneurship to the Steve Jobs (Apple) and the Fred Smiths Federal Express)

In other words, Reich prescribes an American version of kaizen.

A Yankelovich poll of Japanese and American workers is illuminating. On the issue "I have an inner need to be the best I can regardless of pay," American workers surprisingly outscored the

On the much more practical question as to "Who would benefit most from an increase in worker productivity," the tables were turned - some 93 percent of Japanese workers thought that they would benefit while only 9 percent of American workers felt that dise is crafted by artists from throughout the country. The Panda

Patch will carry baskets, silk flowers and arts and crafts supplies, and will accept special orders. Farris also owns a Panda Patch store

Self-interest probably rules in both countries, but our workers keenly believe that increased productivity and self-interest don't go hand in glove. Japanese workers' traditional 50 percent bonus after a good year doubtless helps induce the feeling that there is a direct link between contribution and outcome!

A poll reported in a recent special issue of the New York Times Magazine queried post-World War II graduates of five top business schools. About 98 percent of the respondents said that Admission will be $10. 'Japanese blue-collar workers managers in business and industry service. than the Japanese.'

American managers are out of touch, and arrogant to boot. Reich of the left and H. Ross Perot of the right are among thoughtful commentators who agree that America's productivity and competitiveness problems comes from a failure to tap the potential of the work force. The evidence demonstrates unequivocally that the potential is there - such as the many, many firms I have profiled in this column.

What America needs is a new management ethic. But as long as management pretends that "I'm OK, you're not," the future looms

Williams, a volunteer, created the quilt for a drawing for the non-profit Chalet, which supports Big Spring State Hospital patients. The Chalet recently relocated to 126 E. Third St. for more space, Day said. Public Information Officer Kathy Viccinelli said the hospital needs encyclopedias and household items. The Chalet also is seeking donations to help purchase an unusually large size pair of shoes for a patient. The shoes will cost approximately $130, she said. Efforts are being made to treat patients to cupcakes on Valentines Day. More than 750 cupcakes are needed. # Lady Steers catch Prowlers

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

The Big Spring Lady Steers closed out their home season on a winning note as they took a 55-49 win over the Ft. Stockton Prowlers Friday night in Steer Gym.

Coach C. E. Carmichael's team's last home win wasn't an easy one against a tall Ft. Stockton team who only had one starter under 5-7. The district champion Lady Steers had to make a strong second half surge to get past the Prowlers.

It was a relatively close game the whole way. Ft. Stockton, behind the play of post players Dee Ann Bailey and Deena Sloan led 13-8 after the first quarter. The duo scored all but two of the Prowlers first quarter points. Meanwhile Big Spring made only four of 15 field goal attempts in the first quarter.

The Lady Steers went to their press in the second quarter and the tempo of the game picked up. Lady Steers forward Teresa Pruitt the score was tied 32-32 at the half. Nikki Rodriquez, coming of the bench, scored five points in the quarter.

The Lady Steers started to regain control of the game in the third quarter, holding the Prowlers scoreless the first four minutes of the quarter. When Beverly Ligon sunk two free throws, Big Spring held a 38-34 lead, a lead it would

Stanton too much for Buffalo-Queens

By EDDIE CURRAN Staff Writer

STANTON - Kristi Fryar might as well have been playing defense with a broom in her hands, because the Forsan Queens sure couldn't shoot over her.

Fryar blocked four shots in the third quarter as the Stanton Buffaloettes outscored the flustered Queens 14-4 in that quarter on their way to a 41-25 in Stanton Friday

The Buffaloettes zone defense gave the Queens trouble all night. The Buffaloettes clogged the middle, and when the Queens refused to take the outside shot, their offense staggered.

Three times during the game the Queens passed the ball around for over a minute, but the patient Stanton girls didn't budge from their Offensively, the Stanton girls took less time getting the job done. Neither team had a double-figures scorer, but Stanton had three that came close. Fryar scored nine points, mostly from the inside, and Kody Newman added eight, with hers coming from the perimeter. Regina Newkirk, with several good moves to the basket, also had eight.

The home team led 19-9 at the half, and put the game away in the third quarter. Pam Tom, who played a heads up game at the point guard, passed to Fryar, who nailed a turn-around jumper to open the quarter. On the Buffaloettes next trip down, Newkirk drove the baseline and scored.

Fryar, meanwhile, was stuffing the Queens inside attempts, and Forsan's guards weren't shooting the outside shots. A few Queens jumpers might have loosened up the Buffaloettes zone. Instead, the Forsan girls searched patiently, if fruitlessly, for the inside shot.

After Newkirk scored off a drive to the bucket and Fryar converted after an offensive rebound, the Buffaloettes had a commanding 27-10 lead. Forsan's Kim Evans stole the ball and canned the layup to end Stanton's run, but Newman countered with a jumper.

Kaki Elmore drove hard to the bucket for a layup late in the quarter to give Stanton a 31-12 lead. After Newman bombed a 15-footer with 57 seconds left in the guarter to give the Buffaloettes a 21-point margin, Stanton coach Stewart Beckwith sent in a fresh five to finish the game.

You wouldn't have known by the play on the floor that the game was out of reach by the play in the fourth quarter. Both teams played hard and physical, with the Forsan girls gaining some consolation by winning the quarter 12-7. Kendra Harrison had two steals and six points in the quarter for Forsan. She led the Queens for the game with seven HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) Bernhard Langer left his driver in the bag on the way to an 8-underpar 64 that lifted him into a tie with Fred Couples for the lead Friday after the second round of the $600,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

"I carried it around just to show off," joked the West German star who completed two trips over the Waialae Country Club course in 134, 10 strokes under par.

Langer said he used a 3-wood off most tees because "I'm hitting it pretty good and I just wanted to keep it in play.

The strategy helped produce the best round of the tournament, a bogey-free effort that included one string of four consecutive birdies.

He was tied with Couples, who shot a 65 while playing in the same threesome with Langer. Couples 2-putted for birdie on the 18th hole, missing a 15-foot eagle putt that would have given him 29 on the back nine.

The trade winds freshened in the afternoon and became gusty and blustery, sending the late starters sliding down the leader board.

Tom Watson, for example, was within three shots under par at the turn, but backed away in the shifty, tricky winds. He finished with a 71 and a 138 total, four shots back.

Jack Renner, who has a history of strong play in this event, was within one of the top spot after nine, then struggled to a 38 on the back and finished at 71-137.

champion and first-round leader, blew to a 75 - 10 shots higher than his opening round — and a 140 total.

Those various misadventures left Larry Mize alone in second at 135, with Paul Azinger at 136, two off the pace.

Azinger, who won his first PGA Tour event in Phoenix last month, and Mize both played in the relative calm of the morning and

Breland wins WBA championship

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Mark Breland, a 1984 Olympic champion, won the World Boxing Association welterweight championship Friday night when he knocked out Harold Volbrecht with a crashing right to the jaw in the seventh round. Breland chased Volbrecht for most of the first six rounds, then finally cornered him late in the seventh. Breland pinned Volbrecht near the ropes and hurt him with a right to the face that made Volbrecht lean to the ropes. Breland followed with a right and a left, then landed a chopping right to the jaw that dropped Volbrecht to his left knee in a neutral corner. Volbrecht then slumped to the canvas and referee Tony Perez counted him out at 2:07 of the seventh round. The unbeaten Breland became the second member of the 1984 U.S. Olympic boxing team to win a world title, joining Evander

Holyfield, the light heavyweight bronze medalist who is the WBA junior heavyweight Before the fight, Breland had said of his 30-year-old opponent: "If he runs a lot, it may stink the fight out. To me, he's a boxing

Going into the seventh round, it appeared the fight would be a stinker, as Volbrecht continuously moved back and forth and occasionally lunged in with both arms. He simply wouldn't give the 6-foot-2 Breland a target.

Bt although he was unable to land solidly on his 5-6 opponent, the 23-year-old Breland, of New York, was in control of the fight when the end came.

It was his 17th victory and his 12th knockout as a pro after he posted a 110-1 amateur record.

Breland got his championship bid before 2,800 fans at the Atlantic City Convention Center ballroom when Lloyd Honeyghan of Britain relinquished the title, claiming he didn't want to risk having to make a mandatory defense against Volbrecht, a South African who was ranked as the No. 1 contender.

Honeyghan still holds the World Boxing Council and International Boxing Federation titles, and a fight with Breland is possible

It was the second title bid for the lefthanded Volbrecht, who now has a 39-5-2 record with nine knockouts. He challenged for the WBA 147-pound title in 1980 and was knocked out in the fifth round by Pepino

Jordan looks like a cinch

SEATTLE (AP) — There's no Spud Webb, no Dominique Wilkins, so it's Air Jordan against the world Saturday as the NBA puts on its annual flying show, also known as its slam-dunk contest.

Air, who under the name Michael Jordan leads the NBA in scoring with a 37-point per game average, has never won the slam dunk contest — he was runner-up to Wilkins two years ago, then missed Webb's victory last year when he was sidelined with a broken foot.

"There aren't many players, maybe Dominique, who can think of doing some of the things he does," Atlanta general manager Stan Kasten says of Jordan. "That's the spontaneity. He has genius like an artist has genius."

Wilkins' defection left brother Gerald, who plays for the New York Knicks, as both the defender of the family honor and the principal threat to Jordan. Gerald made it to the semifinals last year.

Instead, players may use more than one ball in a dunk attempt.

"They took the chairs away from me but I have some other ideas that are creative," Gerald says. "I'll be throwing the ball in the air the way Spud Webb did last year."

Another contender figures to be Terence Stansbury of the Seattle SuperSonics, who made it to the semifinals the past two years as a member of the Indianapolis

The other Slam-Dunk competitors are Johnny Dawkins of the San Antonio Spurs, Ron Harper of the Cleveland Cavaliers, Tom Chambers of the Sonics, and Clyde Drexler and Jerome Kersey of the Portland Trail Blazers.

Also scheduled Saturday at the Seattle Coliseum, home of the Sonics, are the NBA's three-point shootout and an old-timers' game.

Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics is favored to win his second straight three-point title against a field that includes Craig Hodges of the Milwaukee Bucks. Hodges lost in last year's finals to Bird.

Also entered in the three-point event are Michael Cooper and Byron Scott of the Los Angeles Lakers, Dale Ellis of the Sonics, Detlef Schrempf of the Dallas Mavericks, Danny Ainge of the Boston Celtics and Kiki Vandeweghe of the Trail Blazers.

In Sunday's All-Star game, the West starters will be Akeem Olajuwon of the Houston Rockets at center Chambers and James Worthy of the Lakers at forwards and, Magic Johnson of the Lakers and Alvin Robertson of the Spurs at Starting for the East will be Dominique Wilkins and Bird at forwards, Moses Malone of the Washington Bullets at center, and Jordan and Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers at guards.

The other West All-Stars are Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers, Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman of the Dallas Mavericks. Eric Floyd and Joe Barry Carroll of the Golden State Warriors, Walter Davis of the Phoenix Suns and Alex English of the Denver

Also on the East All-Stars are Charles Barkley and Maurice Cheeks of Philadelphia, Bill Laimbeer and Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale of Boston, and Jeff Malone of Washington.

K.C. Jones of Boston is the East's coach while Pat Riley of the Lakers will coach the West.

Landry says no to hiring defensive coordinator

IRVING (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, who tries to keep his options open these days, says the search for a defensive coordinator has stopped, but he is still considering hiring someone to work with the receivers.

Landry said Thursday he is not sure he will add anyone to his staff for 1987 other than offensive line coach Jim Erkenbeck, who replaced the retired Jim Myers.

"I'm not sure yet what we're going to do," he said. "Our major thing was to replace Jim Myers. We did that and I'm happy with that. Now, we're just going to think and review and see what we want Landry said he talked to several coaches about the benefits of hiring an assistant to work with receivers. But he has not interviewed anyone for the job.

Paul Hackett worked with the quarterbacks and receivers last season because he installed a new offensive system. A receivers coach would allow Hackett to spend more time with the quarterbacks.

"It's not imperative that we have a receivers coach," Landry said. "But it needs to be done fairly soon if we're going to do it because we're going into our offensive preparations.

He said the coaching staff will spend the rest of the month evaluating the team's offense and making decisions about players.

Landry said once the staff finishes its evaluation of the offense, he will turn his attention to the defense. Wade Phillips, defensive coordinator of the Philadelphia Eagles, was in Dallas two weeks ago to discuss a similar position with the Cowboys.

But he returned home and with a ew from consideration, of ficials said.

Landry said Dallas no longer plans to add a defensive coach. 'Not at this point," said Landry.

"I'm going to do a lot of work on defense this year, much more than I ever have before.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) Reserve center Randy Neff hit three free throws in the final 15 seconds Friday night to lift Vanderbilt to a 60-56 nonconference basketball victory over Notre Dame.

Neff's free throws blunted a final-minute Irish comeback that had seen Notre Dame trim a 57-50 Vanderbilt lead to 57-56 with 16 seconds to play.

Notre Dame, now 13-6 for the year, had an opportunity to tie the contest at the 16-second mark, but forward Donald Royal failed to convert a free throw play after pulling the Irish within one point on a follow shot.

Vanderbilt, 14-9, snapped a fourgame Notre Dame win streak that included a 60-58 victory over thentop-ranked North Carolina last Sunday.

The Commodores took the lead for good at 26-23 on a three-point shot by guard Scott Draud with 17:24 remaining in the game. Vanderbilt went on to lead by nine points on two occasions, the last at 40-31 on two free throws by Barry Goheen with 10:34 to play. Notre Dame pulled within two points twice, the last at 51-49, before Vandy went on a 6-1 run for its 57-50 lead. The Commodore victory spoiled a spectacular second-half effort by Notre Dame's Royal, who scored 17 of his 21 points in the final 20 minutes. Royal was the only Irish player to hit double figures, while Vander-

decided in March trial

DENTON (AP) - Dallas Cowboys kicker Rafael Septien will go to trial March 30 in this North Texas city on charges that he sexually assaulted a 10-yearold girl, it was determined in a hearing today.

Septien was about 10 minutes late for a morning hearing before State District Judge Sam Houston, who initially forfeited Septien's $10,000 bond but changed the order when the 33-year-old football player appeared in court with his attorneys.

Septien will appear in State District Judge John Narsutis' court for trial, said Sandra Marsh, the criminal court coordinator.

The Cowboys' all-time leading scorer, Septien was indicted Jan. 22 by a Denton County grand jury for allegedly abusing the daughter of a friend.

Narsutis issued a gag order in proposals the case Jan. 30 to prevent those associated with the case from speaking to reporters.

Smith's back after surgery

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — After will have arthroscopic surgery and with his 17.7 point scoring average, watching what North Carolina's Kenny Smith did to his team, North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano says is talking of putting some of his players through arthroscopic surgery

Smith, five days after undergoing the procedure on his left knee, put on a near perfect display of basketball talent Thursday night.

Smith operated the Tar Heel fastbreak offense for 30 minutes, drove inside for baskets and popped outside to nail three 3-point field goals in a 21-point performance. Thirdranked North Carolina crushed the Wolfpack 96-79.

All week, Valvano had heard Smith would be out of the lineup, but that was not the case when the two teams took the floor for the Atlantic Coast Conference game.

"Next time, three of my players a couple will get the flu and maybe we'll win," Valvano said. "Kenny Smith was great from the opening 3-pointer to the final buzzer.

"The knee is definitely not 100 percent, but it's close to topnotch," Smith said. "About the only thing I couldn't do is dunk the ball with ease.'

Rick Brewer, North Carolina's sports information director, said Friday that team physician Dr. Joseph DeWalt told him after Smith's surgery last Saturday, that the senior guard would probably play against N.C. State.

Yeah, Joe (DeWalt) told me that Kenny had a good chance to play, but he didn't want to say anything in case Kenny couldn't play," Brewer said.

Smith, who leads the Tar Heels not only impressed Valvano, but his teammates.

"I'm not surprised he came back from surgery so fast," said freshman center J.R. Reid. "He's a tough kind of guy — a New Yorker. He likes to play.

Smith scored a career-high 41 points against Clemson after missing a game two weeks ago against Georgia Tech for a knee injury unrelated to the cartilage damage he suffered in his left knee.

However, going into Thursday night's game, Smith said he felt great

"I knew ... I was going to be fine," he said. "It was the first time since last summer that my knee wasn't tight. I knew I could go full speed. It felt good to be able to cut and run without having to worry about the knee.
