Fina refinery manager named

Bob Johnston assumed duties Monday as the new refinery manager at the Fina Oil and Chemical Company in Big Spring.

A "come and go" reception honoring Johnston will be conducted Wednesday from 10 until 11:30 a.m. in the Texas Electric Reddy Room, Jenkins said. She added that the reception is designed to give all civic and community leaders of Big Spring a chance to meet him.

Johnston was named to the position by officials at Fina headquarters in Dallas, according to Becky Jenkins, local Fina personnel coordinator.

The new manager comes to Big Spring from Corpus Christi, where he served as the general manager of Coastal Refining and Marketing, he explained. The Corpus Christi refinery is a 100,000 barrel per day facility.

Johnston explained that he previously served as president of Derby Refining in Wichita, KS, a subsidiary of Coastal Corporation.

A University of Minnesota graduate, Johnston holds a degree in chemical engineering. He is joined in Big Spring by his wife, Lois.

Jenkins said that Johnston does not replace anyone in the position.

County to fund retarded

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

County commissioners agreed Monday morning to provide monthly funds to the Howard County Association for the Retarded. However, they have requested a financial statement before taking official take action.

The statement will help determine how much the county would grant in addition to helping the county auditor's office record expenditures from the county's general fund, County Judge Milton Kirby said.

Kirby suggested to Association Board Members Carol Green and Mike Cowley that a financial statement listing expenses and income be prepared for the Feb. 23 commissioner's court meeting.

The judge's suggestion rescinded a motion by Commissioner O.L. Brown to grant the association $500 monthly.

"I'd like to fund these people. They're very special to me," Brown said.

Commissioner Bill Crooker agreed with Brown on providing funds, but said commissioners usually review financial statements before granting funds.

Board member Green told commissioners the local nonprofit association provides opportunities for the retarded by offering vocational training at its center located

Falcon Seaboard settles suit

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A lawsuit filed by the firm constructing a cogeneration plant in Big Spring has been settled, a company official said Monday.

Falcon Seaboard and its subsidiary, Power Resources Inc., both of Houston, filed a $20 million lawsuit in 118th District Court Jan. 28 against BBC Brown Boveri Energy Services Inc. of New Jersey and its sister corporations of Houston, New York and Switzerland.

All difficulties have been resolved, and no present controversy between the factions exists now, said A.W. Slaid, Falcon Seaboard director of operations. He said the lawsuit has been dismissed, but would not discuss settlement terms.

Slaid said he sees no obstacle to the construction of the Big Spring plant, which he anticipates will be in partial operation by this summer. The plant is due to be completed in February 1988, he

'No obstacles'

However, negotiations were unsuccessful and Falcon expanded its plans for the plant. The plans, now calling for two generators, were reworked to accommodate an extra contract for supplying generated electricity to Texas Utilities.

BBC asserted that Falcon was obliged to purchase two generators, the suit stated. It asked the court to declare the agreement void.

The suit further claimed that BBC and its sister corporations injured Falcon's business reputation by spreading false information.

It accused BBC representatives of spreading lies that it had a lawsuit pending against Falcon and intended to sue the firm for breach of the agreement. The false information was spread to Falcon's investment bankers and companies that had made a multi-million loan for the Big Spring cogeneration plant, according to the lawsuit.

Blood service plans local donor schedule

With a demand for 1,500 pints of blood monthly to meet medical needs, United Blood Services is organizing a donor schedule for this area.

"It takes 1500 pints of blood each month just to meet the needs of our area," Donor Resources Manager Janet McGuffin said.

Several locations and dates have been scheduled this month. The UBS staff will be taking blood donations at Hall-Bennett Hospital from noon to 6 p.m. Thursday and in Knott from 4 to 7 p.m. on Feb. 18. UBS representatives will be at the Scenic Mountain Hospital Feb. 23 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and at the V.A. Hospital on Feb. 25 at the same times, according to information provided by McGuffin.

A special collection is scheduled at the Dora Roberts Health Center March 9 from 1 to 5 p.m.

UBS serves the needs of all Big Spring and Brownwood medical facilities, one hospital in Midland, one in Odessa, and the small surrounding communities throughout West Texas, McGuffin explained.

The only qualifications a donor must meet, she said, are to be in good health and have no history of hepatitis. The prospective donor must also weigh over 110 pounds.

All first-time donors will receive a gift of appreciation and all gallon donors will receive their pins.

School board will decide teen court funding

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School Board trustees are expected to take action Thursday night on a proposed teen court that would be administered by former police detective Kimberley Phillips.

The board of trustees meeting will start at 5:15 p.m. in the board room at Big Spring

High School.

Phillips addressed board members during their January meeting about the need and benefits of a teen court program. The proposal calls for hearing first-time offender cases of teen-agers who have received traffic citations or Class C misdemeanors.

"They (board members) have been studying the proposal for at least a month. I assume they'll take action," Assistant Superintendent William McQueary said this morning.

Phillips is requesting the school district contribute $3,500 to help fund the proposal. She has addressed Howard County Commissioners and Big Spring City Councilmen about the proposal and seeks $4,700 each from those entities.

In addition, trustees will discuss April 4 election instructions and requirements.

She plans to seek support from the Forsan school district, she has indicated.

Beginning Friday, persons who seek Place One and Place Three trustee positions will have until March 4 to file their candidacy at the Big Spring Independent School Board Business Office, 707 11th Place.

Gramm expects tax benefits, not fee

By WILLIAM GARLAND
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration may recommend next month that tax incentives be used to get the oil and gas industry back on its feet and workers back in the oil fields, according to Sen. Phil Gramm.

Gramm, R-Texas, said he believes an administration task force, in a study eagerly awaited by the oil industry, probably will recommend tax benefits rather than a political-treachorous oil import fee that would prop up oil prices.

The task force, involving the Energy Department and several other agencies, has been studying the impact on national security of rising oil imports and declining domestic oil production since last year. Administration officials plan to release their results by early March, an Energy Department spokesman said.

If the task force makes a recommendation to aid the domestic oil and gas industry, national security concerns are expected to be the chief factor.

Gramm said he will wait until the study is released before introducing his own legislation to aid the industry, still staggering under fallout from last year's precipitous drop in oil prices that cut in half the number of operating oil rigs in Texas and other states.

The administration is considering an increase in the longstanding percentage depletion allowance for independent oil and gas producers and royalty owners, Gramm said in an interview.

He said the task force might recommend hiking the depletion allowance — a tax deduction from oil- and gas-related income — from the current level of 15 percent to as high as the earlier level of 27.5 percent.

The level of the allowance would rise if oil prices declined, and it would go down if the price went up, he said.

"To the extent that they decide on a policy... it will probably be tax incentives rather than a policy aimed at trying to raise prices" for oil and gas, Gramm said.

Enactment of an oil import fee, which would place a floor price under domestic crude production, is strongly opposed in Congress by representatives of Northeastern and Midwestern states.

President Reagan has said he opposes an import fee. Gramm has said he would continue to oppose such a tariff unless the administration study or other factors convinced him the fee would be necessary.

"I think their study will conclude that there are national security concerns in terms of growing foreign imports" of oil and gas, said Gramm. He said the tax incentives might be recommended as the best way to deal with those national security issues.

City split

water leaks from the facility, he has said. Renovation would include replacing worn-out equipment, repairing leaks, upgrading the bathhouse, and allowing for access for the handicapped, he has said. Rutherford added a proposal to provide a shaded area for observers, such as parents.

Rutherford also proposed creating a swimming area on Comanche Lake, with a wall and pump system to keep the water level constant, filters to purify it, and a sandy beach area. The area would be almost maintenance-free, he said — an idea that also appealed to Sanchez.

Mamie Lee Dodds, member of the Parks and Recreation Board, warned the Council that the idea could run into opposition from environmentalists.

"You may run into something like the Concho River snake. You might as well make up your mind that the environmentalists will fight it," she said. "They will find something." A question over the Concho River water snake's habitat caused a lengthy delay in the Stacy Reservoir project.

Decell commented that now is the ideal time for such work while the lake level is comparatively low. A breach in the dam in late August caused the lake to lose approximately two-thirds of its water. The city is working on a project to rebuild the dam.

The Council also decided Monday to develop plans for the expansion of the softball field at Comanche Trail Park, but to delay the work until funds are available.

Councilmen anticipate funds from concerts by Willie Nelson and Stevie Ray Vaughn and the Fabulous Thunderbirds.

Jerry Sachse, coordinator of inmate labor for the park renovation effort, told the Council that plans should be made now. Since approval for the labor takes time, a delay could cause the effort to be shelved until mid-summer, he said.

The project, recommended by the Parks and Recreation Board, would cost approximately $65,000, Rutherford said.

Carey said he believes the softball project should be postponed until the pool work is complete, due to financial questions.

McEwen added, "How can we say to one group of citizens (that uses the pool) 'we don't have the money for you', and say to another group (that use the softball field), 'we have enough money for you'?"

Rutherford favors both projects. "We have the opportunity to do things that will be here far after we've gone," he said. "We need to lay out directions for the project."

Bennett ranks schools

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett released his annual report card ranking the states today and said it shows the pace of school improvement slowed in 1985-86.

College entrance test scores were unchanged or up slightly, while the high school dropout rate took a very small turn for the worse.

It was the fourth year in a row that the Department of Education has produced a "wall chart" ranking states of college entrance test scores, graduation rates, teacher salaries, class size and other measures.

"This year, after four years of improvement, we have basically held steady," Bennett said. "In 39 of the 50 states (college entrance) test scores improved over the previous year. But the graduation rate has declined slightly. In short, some gain, a little slippage."

Since its inception in 1984 under Bennett's predecessor, T.H. Bell, the wall chart has evoked howls of outrage over what some educators have charged was a simplistic and misleading approach to feeding the public appetite for school rankings.

Adviser hospitalized

WASHINGTON — Robert C. McFarlane, the former presidential adviser whose mission to Tehran was at the heart of U.S. arms shipments to Iran, remains hospitalized today for what police are investigating as a suicide attempt.

McFarlane, 49, was taken to Bethesda Naval Medical Center in a Maryland suburb of Washington after he swallowed 25 to 30 Valium pills, said Detective Lauren Acquaviva of the Montgomery County Police Department.

He was listed in good condition, hospital spokesman Lt. Russ Sanford said today.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that family members found a note that appeared related to McFarlane's attempt, but they would not divulge its contents to the ambulance crew.

Soviet grain import low

WASHINGTON — Although the Soviet Union is importing more grain than previously expected, total purchases still are at an eight-year low, according to an Agriculture Department analysis.

The monthly report said Monday that Soviet grain imports from all sources are expected to total 23 million metric tons in the marketing year that will end on June 30, an increase of 2 million tons from the January estimate.

If imports hold at that level, it would be the smallest amount of foreign grain bought by the Soviet Union since 1978-79 when imports were 15.6 million tons. In the following years, annual imports rose to record levels, peaking at 55.5 million tons in 1984-85. They dropped to 29.9 million tons last year after improved harvests.

The Rev. Hosea Williams, center, is put in a police van on Monday in Cumming, Ga., after he was arrested as he picketed the live broadcast of the Oprah Winfrey show. The televised talk show featured residents of virtually all-white Forsyth County.

Activists protest talk show

CUMMING, Ga. (AP) — Coretta Scott King says she's outraged by the jailing of eight civil rights activists arrested while protesting the exclusion of blacks from the audience of a nationally televised talk show.

The arrests were made Monday as the demonstrators stood along a highway near the restaurant where "The Oprah Winfrey Show" was being broadcast.

Miss Winfrey, a black talk show hostess from Chicago, brought her program to Cumming to find out "why this community has not allowed black people to live here since 1912."

The audience was comprised of 100 residents of Forsyth County, the scene of two recent marches that protested the expulsion of blacks from the county 75 years ago.

Ordered by law officers to leave the roadside, protest leader the Rev. Hosea Williams refused, shouting, "If I'm wrong, arrest me."

He and the seven others were then forcibly removed and taken to the county jail on charges of unlawful assembly.

"The treatment we received from most of the arresting officers was some of the worst I have experienced in my civil rights career, especially in view of the fact we were arrested on public property while attempting to begin a totally peaceful, non-violent news conference."

In Atlanta, Mrs. King said, "We, the members of the Coalition to End Fear and Intimidation in Forsyth County, have assembled to express our outrage at the unlawful arrest of our colleague."

She said the group wants to meet with Gov. Joe Frank Harris "to seek a just resolution of the situation."

Williams helped lead a Jan. 24 civil rights demonstration that attracted about 25,000 people to Forsyth County. A week earlier, about 75 marchers were confronted by 400 Ku Klux Klan members and supporters, some of whom hurled rocks and debris.

Williams' arraignment on the misdemeanor charges is set for March 23.

"We offered him the opportunity to sign his name and leave," County Sheriff Wesley Walraven said before Williams' release.

During the show, residents discussed the recent events with Miss Winfrey.

Many said they supported the right of blacks to move into the county, but one woman said she believes "we have a right to have a white community."

Some told Miss Winfrey they feared violence from other whites if they welcomed blacks.

After the show, Miss Winfrey said she was "very, very sorry" Williams was arrested. "I have nothing but respect for Reverend Hosea Williams," she said.

Iran frees Canadian

FRANKFURT, West Germany — A Canadian engineer jailed two months in Iran on spy charges flew to Frankfurt today from the Persian Gulf nation, and Canadian officials said he looked happy and healthy.

Philip Eng, 29, was taken to the airport's VIP lounge and kept out of sight of the small group of reporters waiting to meet him, according to photographers on the scene.

Canadian officials said Eng did not want to speak to reporters until he was back in Canada.

"We believe he will be leaving for Canada at the next opportunity, probably around midday," Jim Hentschel, a Canadian embassy counsellor, told The Associated Press.

Engs was arrested in Iran's capital, Tehran, on Dec. 2, a day after he returned to there from a trip to Canada. He was accused of photographing military installations.

U.S. divorce proposed

ROME — A group of Italian senators is proposing divorce "American-style" as a solution to a process that can leave unhappy couples in limbo for as long as 10 years.

The issue is a subject of daily debates on television and in newspapers.

"We're asking for a true reform," said Sen. Vincenzo Palumbo, a Liberal. "In other words, divorce American-style and not a fraud."

He was referring to the shorter time it takes to get a divorce in the United States.

People danced in the streets the night Parliament legalized divorce in 1970 after a two-decade battle. But the law was conservative by the standards of many Western countries, with a mandatory five-year separation period.

After the long separation, a couple might have to wait another five years, because of slow-moving courts, before a divorce is granted.

A Senate committee recently recommended shortening the mandatory separation period to three years. The proposed law also would make it a crime for a spouse to fail to pay alimony after the divorce.

Soviets free dissidents

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union announced today that 140 dissidents have been freed from prison or labor camp and said other appeals for clemency were being considered.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said the prisoners were freed by decree of the Supreme Soviet, the nominal parliament, on Feb. 2 and on Monday.

"As you probably know, the Soviet Union has been re-examining a number of cases, especially cases related to those sentenced on (Article 70) of the Soviet criminal code, concerning anti-Soviet propaganda," Gerasimov said.

During the weekend, dissident sources in Moscow reported the early release from prison or camps of more than 40 dissidents.

Cult probe finds no criminal evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation into a communal group connected to six tattered children found in a Florida park turned up no evidence of criminal wrongdoing, District of Columbia police say.

An anonymous informant's allegations that the group, the Finders, are "a cult and that its activities involve satanic rituals" were not substantiated by stakeouts in December or by evidence seized at two Finders' homes last week, police chief Maurice Turner Jr. told a news conference Monday.

However, Turner said, "We want to assure ourselves" that the children were not abused. "We have not assured ourselves at this point in time."

The children, four boys and two girls ranging in age from 2 to 7, remained in temporary shelters in Florida as officials attempted to identify them and locate their parents.

Two men believed to be associated with the Finders who were with the youngsters when they were picked up by police in a Tallahassee, Fla., park last Wednesday are under arrest on misdemeanor child abuse charges. They are Douglas Edward Ammerman, 27, and Michael Houlihan, 28. They were being held in a Florida jail in lieu of $100,000 bond each.

Scott Hunt, a Tallahassee Police Department spokesman, said authorities were hoping interviews with the children would provide the key to their identities.

"We need to know what they know. They might not be able to tell us anything, but we have to try," Hunt said.

Physical examinations of the children showed that at least one and possibly others were abused sexually, but the abuse charges filed against the men were related only to the children's neglect, Hunt said.

When the children were found, police said they had not eaten in a day and were insect-bitten and dirty. On Monday, Hunt described the children as "doing fine."

District of Columbia police last week seized boxes of documents, computer discs and photographs from a warehouse and a home used by the Finders and were continuing to sift through the materials and items taken from property used by the Finders in rural Madison County, Va.

"The lifestyle of the so-called Finders organization may differ from the societal norm, but so far the Metropolitan Police Department has not uncovered any evidence of criminal wrongdoing by any members of the group," Turner said. "However, we are still involved in an extensive and detailed review process of the documents and records seized."

Turner said an investigation of the group began last December with a complaint of "child abuse, sexual abuse, that it was some kind of satanic cult. But we were never able to prove any of the allegations," he said.

District investigators have been sent to Florida. The FBI, and authorities in Virginia also are involved.

Chief Turner said police had not yet identified the mothers, but Finders group spokesman Robert Gardner Terrell said Monday that the children's mothers "are here in Washington. There already have been conversations" with police, he said.

A top room in a cabin reportedly belonging to the Finders Cult is littered with books, garments, disposable diapers, and furniture in Madison, Va., Monday. Police searched several properties belonging to the cult over the weekend trying to find clues to the identities of six children found in Florida who were part of the cult.

Better training plan necessary

After more than a year of study, a blue-ribbon Labor Department committee has decided that the federal government needs a better program to help American workers who have lost their jobs because of imports or structural shifts in the economy.

No wonder. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that from 1981 through 1985 more than 5.1 million U.S. workers saw their jobs disappear in the riptides of a fluid world economy. Although many of those workers ultimately latched onto other employment, hundreds of thousands of others, many of them middle-aged and lacking modern skills, have floundered.

The plight of these workers has been a driving force behind Congress' protectionist mood. But from the perspective of the overall economy, retraining and relocating the affected workers offers a cheaper and more efficient response than import quotas and tariffs. Retraining provides a measure of security for workers without freezing the economy.

The committee's recommendation for a $1 billion consolidated program to provide remedial education and on-the-job training thus should draw few complaints, and many cheers, in Congress. Already, key congressional leaders have said they will carry legislation to implement the committee's recommendations.

Unfortunately, the federal government's previous efforts in this field have not been very successful.

The old Trade Adjustment Assistance program, which provided supplemental cash grants to displaced workers, was expensive and didn't result in much retraining. Its successor, Title III of the Job Partnership Training Act, hasn't been extensively financed or widely used.

This time, Congress needs to assure that a new program delivers a high proportion of its funds into retraining in real-world skills for which jobs exist, that incentives exist for displaced workers to use their retraining opportunity seriously, and that, where possible, companies closing plants bear some of the burden for helping their displaced workers find a new niche in the job market.

In an increasingly changeable world economy, helping workers adjust to change is an important, permanent national responsibility that has to be performed both humanely and efficiently.

Space program should be for all

Challenger's trail of smoke, a hieroglyphic of disaster, is gone from the sky. The astronaut's remains have been recovered from the sea and buried. The congressional investigators have filed reports. The memorial speeches are over.

But NASA has no more direction than a year ago, after Challenger roared off an icy launching pad and exploded, fragmenting the U.S. space program.

The shuttle will fly again, but no civilian ride-alongs are going on U.S. space voyages — at least not in the near future. The payloads will be military. Instead of teacher Christa McAuliffe carrying an apple into the heavens, will we have a robot carrying a laser weapon?

Star War advocates dream of the militarization of space, a new field of battle for machines. But to many earthlings who dreamed of space as a new frontier, the militarization of NASA might be viewed as a nightmare.

NASA started coming apart long before President Reagan came into office. But his leadership failed permeate the agency. Cocky, punctuated with personality conflicts, underfinanced and overbooked for flights, NASA pushed its public relations campaign to the heavens, and missed the warning signs of disaster on earth.

Perhaps the shuttle program was doomed from the beginning, an idea ahead of its time.

Shortage of time helped kill the Challenger crew — deadlines, and round-the-clock work schedules.

Engineers located flaws in the O-rings and wrote reports. But the reports got lost in the shuffle and the shuttle moved forward relentlessly, trying to fulfill its contracts.

Perhaps the flaw was trying to make the space program pay for itself. America no longer will rely solely on a shuttle to launch satellites. We're going back to the old rockets that were supposed to be obsolete.

In trying to learn a lesson from the hieroglyphics of disaster, let's not learn the wrong lesson.

Civilians belong in space. Medical experiments belong in space. Exploration is a civilian — not just a military — function.

We hope the Challenger crew didn't die so that space programs would be turned over to the military. They died yearning to give children a sense of wonder in space. The heavens belong to the courageous — all of us.

Policy aims toward both sides losing

By ART BUCHWALD
The new foreign policy of the United States is to feed disinformation to both countries engaged in a war so that neither one can win. It's called the "No-Win Good Neighbor Fairness Doctrine."
The need for such a policy came to light when the Iraqis and Iranians started shooting at each other six years ago and the U.S. decided it would be a disaster if one of them won.

A special working group called "Double Dealer" was established in a safe house on North Poindexter Street to see it did not happen.

Luke Booney, recently retired from the CIA, the National Security Council, Southern Airways, Singlaub's Raiders and the Iranian-American Friendship Society, is in charge of Double Dealer. He said the program is one of the most complicated projects the U.S. has ever been involved with.

Booney told me, "It's one thing to see that one side defeats another in war. It's much more difficult to make sure both lose."

I said, "No one said being evenhanded in war was a picnic."
"The only thing that keeps us going is that we hate the people running Iran — and we can't stomach those running Iraq."

"Recently you gave Iran arms to beat up on Iraq. Aren't you tilting towards the Ayatollah?"

"No, because at the same time we gave Iraq top secret satellite photos showing where the Iranian arms were. This is a perfect example of double dealing. It's called playing both sides against the Middle East. The Iraqis got arms to kill Iraqis, the Iraqis received intelligence photos to destroy the Iraqis, and we got money for the contras."

"What else does Double Dealer do to keep the war stalemated?"

"We provide misinformation to both sides. Recently Iraq was expected an attack on its border by the Iraqis. We misled the Iraqis where the Iraqis were going to come. The Iraqis prepared their defense in one place and the Iraqis attacked in another."

"How did you guarantee that the Iraqis wouldn't gain the upper hand?"

"We sold them faulty arms so when they attacked their missiles would fail. Because of our reliable disinformation no one got anywhere. Excuse me, I have to send a telex to Tehran informing them that Baghdad is going to overrun Qof (Qom)."

"That's not true, is it?" I asked.
"Of course not, but it might slow down the fighting in Basra. We don't want the Iraqis to win in Basra because it will only encourage them to keep fighting. The Fairness Doctrine requires that both sides get so exhausted they ask us to be the peacemakers."

"Is this the first war the U.S. ever got involved with in which we didn't want anyone to win?"

"There have been others, but this is the first one in which we've taken such an active role. The reason why is because we have both Iran and Iraq's best interests at heart."
"I read the other day that Iraq claims the disinformation you gave them produced a disastrous defeat for them at the Iraqi seaport of Fao. They're pretty darned mad about it."

"How can they be sure they're getting equal amounts of disinformation?"
"Booney said, 'They just have to trust us.'"

Would-be dictators employ buzzwords to seek U.S. aid

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Idi Amin Dada was run out of Uganda eight years ago, but his bloody legacy lives on. What had been a tourist haven with modern skyscrapers and the amenities of civilization virtually returned to the jungle under Amin's bestial misrule.

On a visit a few years ago, the best room in Kampala's least ramshackle hotel boasted one wall made of gunnysacks to keep out the fetid night air. Uganda's infrastructure was all but destroyed under Amin's dictatorship.

But the worst that Amin bequeathed to his long-suffering people was a ruined economy and political instability marked by a succession of wars, coups, rebellions and indiscriminate slaughter. Amin lives like a king in Saudi Arabia, heedless of the horrors that continue to beset his former subjects.

Incredibly, the Reagan administration's largesse to various groups of "freedom fighters" is seen as an opportunity by some of the losers in Uganda's ceaseless power struggles. These would-be dictators — no better than Amin — have memorized the proper buzzwords, like "democracy" and "freedom," in hopes of clambering aboard the CIA's gravy train.

The principal target of these mendicant military men is the American Embassy in Khartoum, the sand-blown capital of neighboring Sudan.

"They come here seeking money for guns," a diplomat said. "They keep telling us, 'If only the Ugandan people knew of us and what we stand for...'"

Fortunately, the Americans know exactly what these desperadoes stand for — themselves — and the pleas for money have fallen on deaf ears.

Jack Anderson

"We wouldn't even consider it," the embassy man said.

Reporters Scott and Jon Lee Anderson were in Khartoum recently and paid a visit to one of the exiled Ugandans — Gen. Basilio Olara Okello, strong man of the short-lived military junta that was overthrown just a year ago.

The meeting began on a surrealistic note. "Thank you so much for coming," said the general, beaming. "You are from the embassy?"

It took several minutes to convince Okello that his visitors weren't dropping by with a bag of CIA greenbacks. Despite his obvious disappointment, the general agreed to an interview anyway.

Okello is a friendly, bearlike man whose disarming demeanor belies his reputation as one of the most brutal leaders in recent Ugandan history.

He was responsible for the massacre of uncounted thousands, both as the strong man of the six-month junta rule and before that as an officer under President Milton Obote, who had the distinction of being both predecessor and successor to Amin.

Okello and Obote are rumored to have joined forces for the bloody civil war now raging in northern Uganda against the leftist regime of Yoweri Museveni's National Resistance Army. Okello did not reply when asked point-blank if he was leading the Ugandan rebels from his exile in Sudan; he merely smiled in tacit admission.

Surprisingly, he acknowledged the massacre of civilians by his men. In fact he defended it, saying: "Museveni put children in his army, mothers, young girls. These people, if you met them in a troubled area, what would you do with them? How are you going to go into a guerrilla area and say, 'This is a guerrilla' and 'This is not a guerrilla.'"

Okello confirmed his hopes for American or other Western support, explaining with a straight face that Uganda "needs a democracy."

Asked whether he agreed that further fighting would simply precipitate a new blood bath, the general said: "If it was myself, it shall continue until we attain freedom democracy." But he said in the long run "it depends on the people of Uganda."

WHO (RAY) FOR HOLLYWOOD? Insiders in the movie capital tell us that liberals in the California entertainment industry — always a gold mine for Democratic presidential hopefuls — have their checkbooks ready to back New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, if they can just persuade him to run. Cuomo has made it a point to feel out Californians on his speecifying circuit around the country.

A Cuomo-Nunn ticket would balance North with South, a governor with a senator, and a Roman Catholic with a Protestant. But at this stage, Nunn hasn't indicated he's interested in running for either national office.

PHILADELPHIA TODAY
Weather today: 15, wind still, fair.

In return for the able assistance he had performed for the librarian, the Library Company of Philadelphia granted a full share in the company to John Todd Jr.

Ann Pemberton, widow of Joseph Pemberton, late merchant of the city, leased her Chestnut Street mansion, garden and stables to Trench Coxe. Coxe paid 225 Pennsylvania pounds per annum. The Pennsylvania pound currently passed at value of 7 shillings, 6 pence to a Spanish milled dollar. Mrs. Pemberton re-roofed the kitchen, painted the entire interior, papered both front parlors, and painted the front exterior yellow after removing the front porch.

CONFEDERATION TODAY
No Congress today.
Nathaniel Mitchell wrote to fellow Delaware delegate Gunning Bedford Sr., urging Bedford to hasten to New York to assume his seat. Mitchell was anticipating another attempt to return Congress to Philadelphia.

Col. Jeremiah Wadsworth, commissariat of the Army, painted a gloomy movie picture to Secretary of War Henry Knox. Writing from Philadelphia, he reported that the tardiness of the states in paying their share of Congress' levies had prevented him from paying the troops and procuring supplies for the Army. Wadsworth had even advanced his own money until he found himself in dire straits.

DELEGATES TODAY
George Washington had a clear day, 38 at noon but raw and cold on account of a southeast wind. The general was running the boundary lines between his property and that of George Mason — on land the general leased to his nephew, Maj. George Washington.

LOOKING BACK
American Monies "Not Worth a Continental"
The continental was the currency authorized by the Continental Congress. By 1787 it virtually was worthless, except for papering walls.

The United States of America in Congress Assembled, as it was styled in 1787, had no national currency. Indeed, there were 13 currencies. A New York merchant was no more obliged to accept a Virginia pound than was a Connecticut innkeeper obliged to accept a New Hampshire pound.

Land travel was aggravated not only by poor roads, dust, mud and rough coaches, but by the nuisance of having to exchange money as you passed through each state.

Business transactions were expressed in the exchange value of local currency. The lease Trench Coxe signed today with the widow Pemberton pegged the value of the Pennsylvania pound. The most common exchange rate was in Portuguese half Johannes and Spanish milled dollars. Even national business was expressed in foreign currency.

On July 18, 1787, the Congress of the United States ratified a treaty of peace and friendship with the Emperor of Morocco. Article 16 of that treaty, dealing with exchange of prisoners in event of war, specified that prisoners were to be exchanged on a one-for-one basis. In the event of deficiency of numbers, prisoners were to be redeemed "by the payment of one hundred Mexican dollars for each person."

The Convention in Philadelphia finally came to grips with this problem. Article 1, Section 10, Clause 1 of the new Constitution forbade the states to coin money. Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5 reserved that exclusive power to the federal government: "To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin."

Local woman's granddaughter in training for the Olympics

Olympic trainee Sarah Bearden, granddaughter of Inez Bearden, 2609 Wasson Rd., was the topic of a recent article in The Katy Times.

"The energetic 11-year-old stands four feet, seven inches tall and weighs a mere 67 pounds," according to the article. "Good things, as they say, come in small packages, and this tiny bundle of perpetual motion is a Good Thing — and a darn good gymnast."

She works out nearly 30 hours a week, doing both gymnastics and dance training. She is one of the top gymnasts in Texas in the Class II, 12-14 year-old category, and she wants to be one of the best in America, the article stated.

Along the way, she somehow finds the time to be a sixth-grader at Memorial Parkway Junior High where she is on the honor roll. Education is very important to her and her parents, David and Becky Bearden.

Sarah started her training at Katy Kips in Katy when she was six years old, according to the article.

"I have to give them a lot of credit for giving her a solid foundation," Sarah's mom said. "They really did start her off on the right track."

One summer, she attended a camp at Bela Karolyi's gym, north of Houston. It was at that camp that Sarah fell in love with gymnastic competition, according to the article.

Now she trains at the famous gym that trained Olympic star

Sarah Bearden ...gymnast

Mary Lou Retton. Sarah's goal this year is to advance to the regional meet in Kansas City, but first must contend with numerous district meets and the state meet in April.

While she admits to liking all the events involved in the sport, Sarah does profess a liking to the floor exercise. However, as recent scores indicate, she fares well in all areas.

Like any young girl, Sarah has role models she likes to look up to. She likes Retton, Mariana McNamara and Diane Durham. Her favorite is Phoebe Mills.

With the dedication and hard work she is putting into her sport, it would not be too surprising if some day soon young girls are wanting to be like Sarah Bearden.

Girl in love hides behind parents back

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and have been having a serious love relationship with a 21-year-old guy who is in the military. We met four months ago and see each other four or five times a week, but I feel very guilty because the time we spend together is kept from my parents. I have to make up lies about where I'm going and who I'm with. All my friends know about him and have helped us to sneak around.

We are very much in love and tell each other so often. This is not a schoolgirl crush, Abby. He's the man I want to spend the rest of my life with. We're having sex but we are careful.

I want to introduce this wonderful guy to my parents, but I'm afraid if they know I'm seeing a 21-year-old guy they will forbid me to see him again, or even make trouble for him at the base.

I've read your column since I was 11 years old and trust your advice. Please publish this for us and other couples who have this problem, and don't say where it's from. I know we're not the only ones.

FORBIDDEN LOVE

DEAR FORBIDDEN: A 21-year-old guy is a man — or should be — and it's very unmanly to sneak around with a girl behind her parents' backs. I think you should introduce this wonderful guy to your parents. If he's as wonderful as you say he is, he will quit sneaking around and look them in the eye. If he's not, maybe he's not as wonderful as you think he is. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received another one of those so-called invitations that go like this: "The children of Mr. and Mrs. Blankety-Blank are planning to honor their parents on their 25th wedding anniversary. It will come to $17.50 a plate for the dinner, plus $7.50 if you want to go in on the group gift."

Abby, if children want to "honor" their parents, why don't they give them a party instead of inviting people and asking them to pay for it? We have received several invitations like this one, and think it's terrible. We aren't cheap, but this is like buying a ticket to a party.

Most of the people in this area read your column, so maybe if you ran this (no names, please) you could put a stop to these pay-your-own-way affairs.

MASSACHUSETTS MRS. DEAR MRS.: If a group of friends want to join together to honor someone, then each cheerfully pays his or her own way. But for family members to "honor" one of their own, and ask invited guests to pay for it, is out of line.

DEAR ABBY: I do my grocery shopping at a very large supermarket. There is one checkout woman (I guess you'd call her a cashier) who has been there for many years. She's not young.

Anyway, yesterday when she checked out my groceries, she leaned toward me and said, "I lost my beloved Ricardo after 48 years of marriage; he had a massive heart attack with no warning." I didn't know what to say except,

"Gee, I'm really sorry." Abby, I don't even know this lady's name! She certainly did lay a depressing bit of news on me. I left the store feeling down in the dumps. I didn't need to hear that kind of news from a total stranger. Please comment.

IN THE DUMPS

DEAR IN: Perhaps you didn't need to hear that kind of news from a total stranger, but apparently she needed to talk about it. Sometimes the best thing we can do for a person is to listen. A little compassion, please.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I need your help. I want a telephone in my bedroom, but my dad says no because he thinks I would spend too much time talking, and my grades would go down. Do you think I should be able to have my own phone, or is my dad right?

GIRL IN ROGERS, ARK. DEAR GIRL: If money is not a problem, your father should let you have the phone. If your grades go down, the phones goes out. Get the message?

To get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Clinical Depression is far beyond the 'blues'

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am being treated for clinical depression, but I don't understand just what that means. I've been subject to depression off and on for most of my life. I am 43. It has never done these things to me before, and until now I've never taken medicine for it. I would appreciate your comments on clinical depression. — B.H.

Is the word, "clinical," throwing you? It's not easy to define, but it really means that your depression has gone beyond the "blues" state and is starting to display symptoms that are interfering with your life and livelihood. I can't get any closer than that.

I am speaking of such symptoms as a loss of energy, sleep disturbance, poor appetite, along with the desire to withdraw. In extreme cases, the patient becomes self-paralyzed into total inaction.

This is the point at which a doctor most certainly has to step in, both in the role of psychiatric counselor and prescriber of the medicine we have to relieve the problem. Very often, modern drugs can restore brain chemical imbalance that is thought now to be at the root of depression.

In another part of your letter (edited) you tell me of your fears of addiction to the medicine that apparently had been helping you. In your situation, where a doctor is monitoring your use and providing the essential psychiatric help, you really need not have fear of that outcome.

It's dangerous not to continue to seek help for depression. Suicide remains a possibility in every depression. It's pointless not to use the medical help your doctor feels will help you. Please re-evaluate your outlook.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 49-year-old female with menopause symptoms. Among my recent problems has been a bout of terrible pains in my body (arms, legs, etc.).

My doctor says he isn't sure if it is part of the menopause, but that some women like me have the problem. He thinks it is fibromyalgia (by pressing on my neck to bring on pain). I am taking hormones now for hot flashes, etc. Will it also help the muscle ache, do you think? — Mrs. K.J.

Fibromyalgia, by and large, remains in the unknown cause category. I think you have read past discussions of it here. You may recall my stressing the sleep disturbance factor, for some degree of insomnia is associated with it. Whether the sleep loss is a cause or an effect in fibromyalgia is unclear.

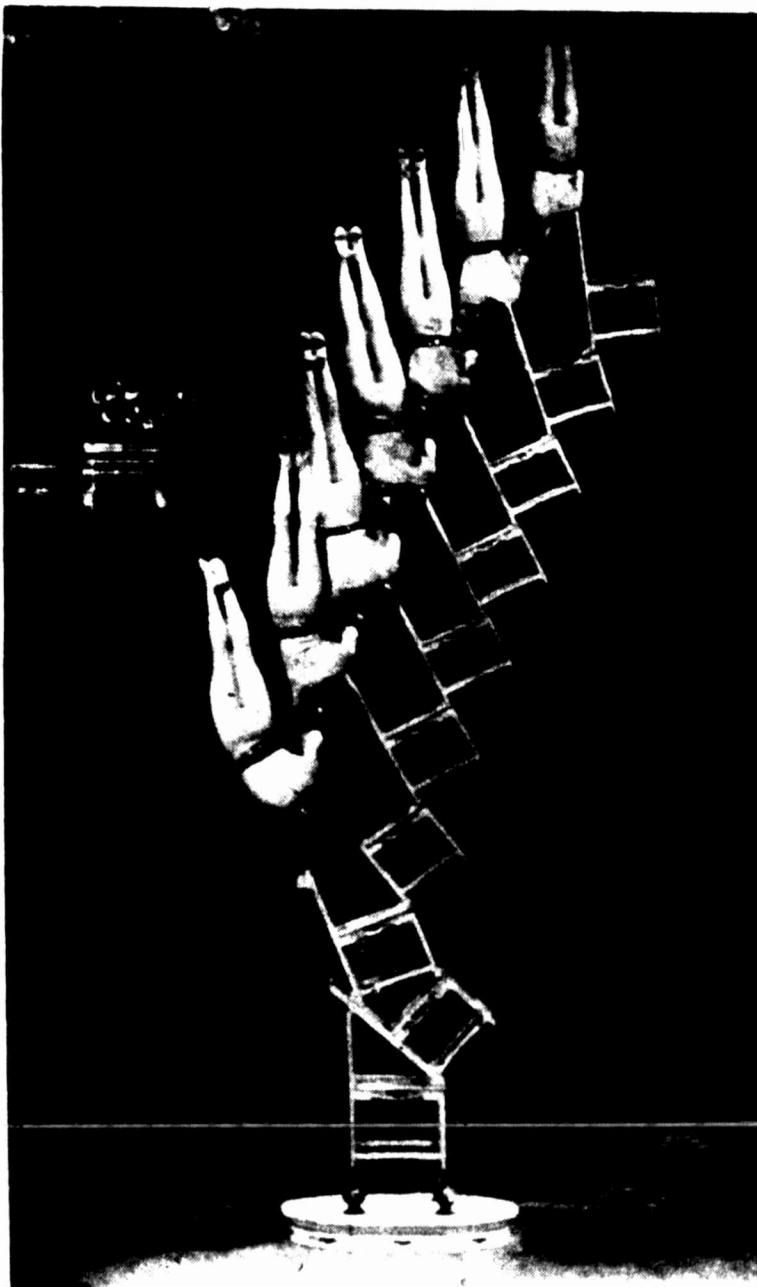

Those who postulate sleep as a cause cite studies in which muscle symptoms have been brought on in people purposely deprived of sleep for long periods. Restoration of sleep in such people ends the fibromyalgia.

Now, about an association with menopause. This idea gains strength from the fact that menopause itself frequently has insomnia as one of its symptoms. And the muscle ache is often an accompanying symptom. If you do have sleep disturbance now, the hormone therapy you tell me you are on now might, in fact, alleviate that while helping your muscle aches. I hope so.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please define simply the term, "dilutional anemia." — E.M.

Dilutional anemia is a condition. You cannot really call it an illness or a disease. It means there is a greater volume of blood plasma, which gives the appearance of a decreased number of red cells in the blood. That relative low count shows up on tests. It's a pseudo anemia. It needs no treatment and is dismissed in an otherwise healthy patient.

This condition puzzled some doctors in the early days of the physical exercise movement. Now they realize the low red cell count reflects more efficient delivery of blood to exercising muscles.

"I've enjoyed being of service to others at Nalley-Pickle & Welch for the past nine years"

Jasper Mallicote

I'm a preneed counselor here. Helping others with their funeral service decisions before the actual time of need is a very gratifying experience. With each family that preplans, I am reminded how much it benefits the "significant others" in the lives of those that choose to prearrange their funeral. The loss of a loved one is difficult enough without having to struggle with funeral service decisions. Preplanning takes away that burden. That's why I'm involved with preplanning. I truly enjoy helping others.

Educators seek 'special items' protection

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas educators Monday pleaded with lawmakers for more money for colleges and universities and asked for protection of "special items" that have been targeted by Gov. Bill Clements.

Ruben Escobedo, regent chairman for the Texas State University System, told the House Education budget and oversight subcommittee, "We have some serious repair work to do on our budgets. Faculty morale is at rock bottom."

Escobedo said state appropriations per student in the system are barely above the 1972 level. Meanwhile, class sizes have become larger, and the schools are losing qualified faculty to higher paying positions in other states.

He said a 27 percent cut to the Texas

State University System office, as proposed under House Bill 1, would cripple the office's efforts to oversee five separate campuses with 40,000 students.

Escobedo also said many of the special item programs should be increased.

Clements has proposed eliminating $49.2 million in the special items category and reallocating that money for research.

Funding for those special items are for specific programs that do not fall under regular appropriation formulas. Often they include scholarship funds.

State Rep. Tom Uher said such a move would jeopardize needed programs and scholarships that are not considered part of research.

Uher, D-Bay City, serves as chairman of the House Education budget and oversight subcommittee and on the budget-writing Appropriations panel.

Under Clements' proposal, Uher said agricultural and business research developed at public colleges may face elimination.

"It's hard to figure out where he's coming from," Uher said of Clements. "In trying to find economies, we may be trying to cut our nose off to spite our face."

One of those special items is the Uvalde Study Center, which is part of Sul Ross State University.

Escobedo said the center needs increased funding to maintain accreditation. "Were it not for the Uvalde Study Center, many in Del Rio and Eagle Pass would not be able to complete their college education," Escobedo said.

He said the Chihuahuan Desert Research Center at Sul Ross also should receive more funds because it was able to attract more than $300,000 in federal grants with an annual appropriation of $61,000.

Escobedo said stronger state support is needed for the Management, Instruction and Research Center at Angelo State. He described the program as "providing expertise and support for the hard pressed agricultural industry in West Texas."

He also pointed out that the Museum of the Big Bend is operating on less money than in 1980, while other state museum budgets have increased 35 percent.

Uher indicated that Clements' plan will face opposition in the Legislature, saying that "governors come and go," but that the quality of Texas higher education has to be maintained.

But, he added, Clements' proposal may prompt scrutiny of individual programs, placing each one in jeopardy. "You could stop a lot of vital projects," he said.

Queens fall short against WTC

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

SNYDER — It's a good thing the Western Texas Dusters are a good free throw shooting team. Because if they weren't, they wouldn't have come away with a 65-61 victory Monday at Scurry County Coliseum.

The league leading Dusters were fortunate that they went to the foul line 20 times. As compared to only six trips to the line for Howard. Coach Kelly Chadwick's Dusters sank 14 of the 14 foul attempts while Howard only missed one free shot.

Free throws really made the difference in the second half. With the score tied 28-28 at the half, WTC came out and sank 10 of 14 foul shots in the second half. Meanwhile Howard went to the line only twice in the half.

Free throws, mixed with WTC winning the battle on the boards and HC's post players having a miserable shooting night, was too much for Howard to overcome.

While Western Texas was getting good production from its front line, Howard College post players Stefanie Massie and Carolyn Willandit wasn't having one of their better nights.

Howard's zone made it hard for conference leading scorer Brenda Welch to get the ball, but when she did, the 5-11 sophomore scored. She ended the night hitting nine of 13 field goals for a game-high 25 points to go along with eight rebounds and three blocked shots.

She got ample help from fellow forwards Gigi Robinson and Lisa Thompson who combined for 17 rebounds, 24 points and four blocked shots. The trio led WTC to a 39-33 rebounding edge.

Massie and Willandit were cold from the floor, sinking a total of eight of 30 shots. Massie, who hit three of here last five shots of the game, made only seven of 22 for the game.

boards, grabbing a game-high 18 rebounds. Willandit wasn't really a factor underneath, getting six caroms, including only one in the first half.

Guard Terri Powell had the hot hand for the Queens. By the second half she had shot the Dusters out of their zone. Powell scored 16 of her 22 points in the first half. She almost single-handedly kept the Queens in the game in the first 20 minutes of play.

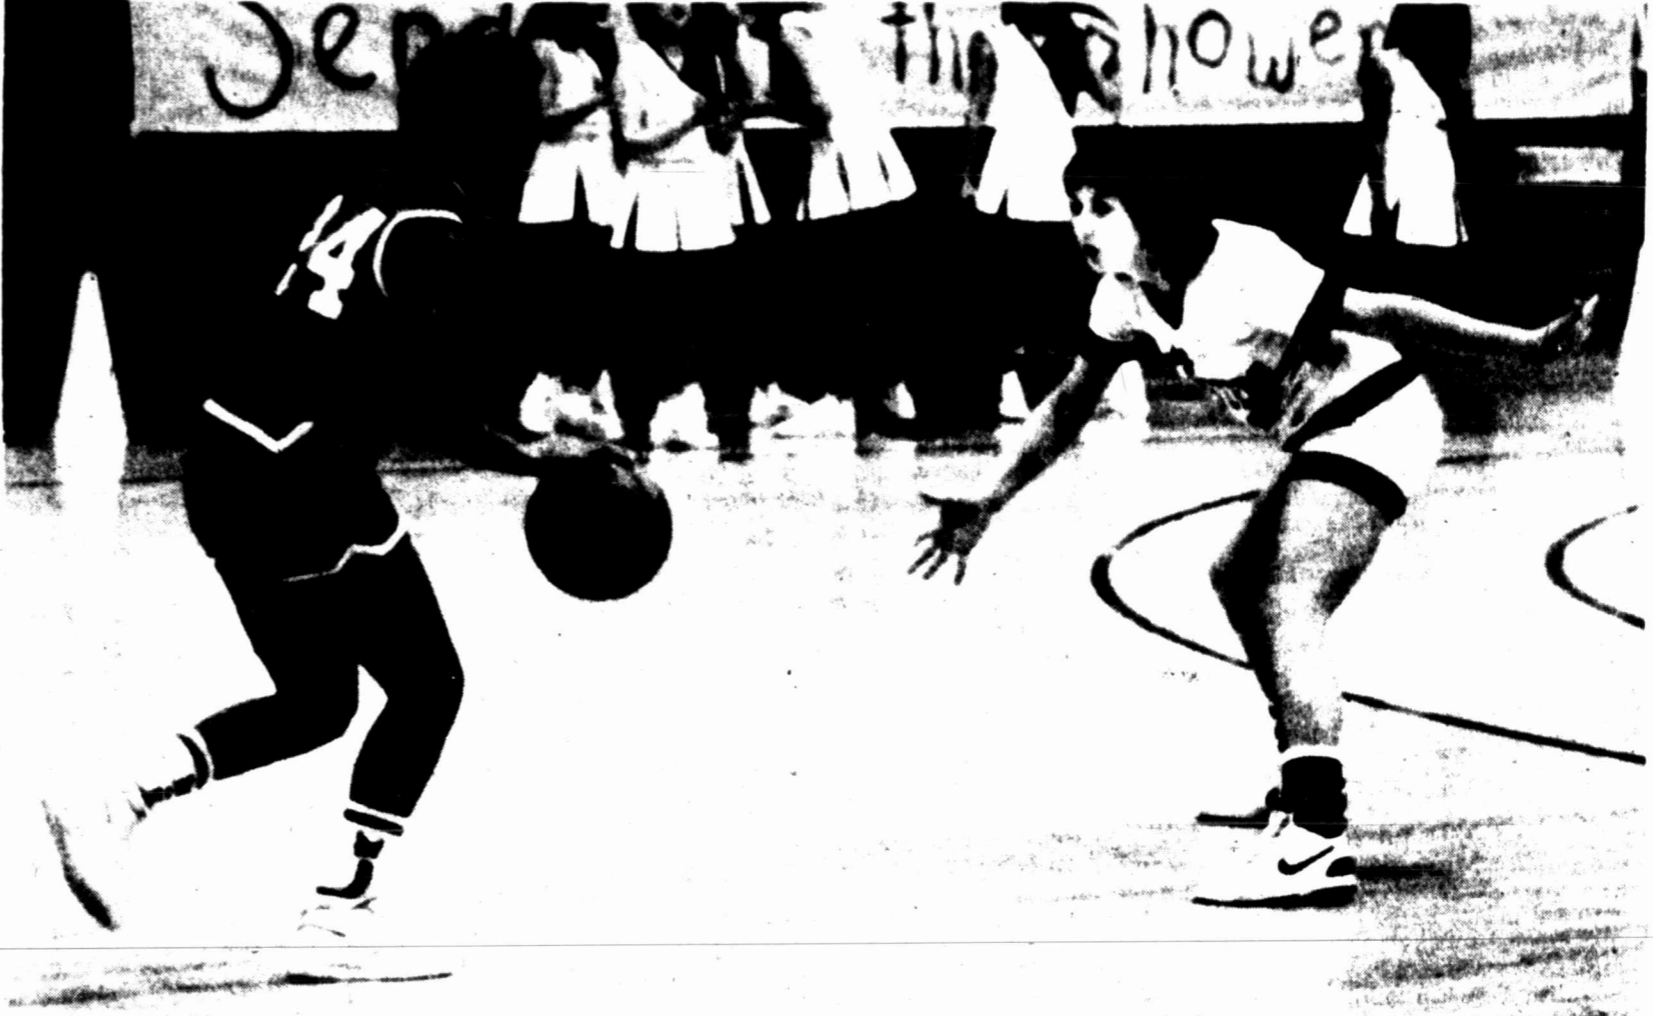

Western led most of the first half as Massie was ice cold and Robinson and Welch scored underneath for WTC. Powell hit four long range bombs and WTC led 14-12 with 9:43 left in the half.

The Dusters led 26-20 with 3:45 remaining in the half and the Queens made a quick run which saw them finish the half strong. HC reeled off the next eight points on two free throws by Trena Jackson, a steal and basket by Massie, and two long range bombs by Powell.

WTC tied the game up at 28-28 at the half on two free throws by Welch.

WTC continued to score from inside in the second half and cut Powell's scoring off by applying man-to-man pressure. With 10 minutes left in the game the Dusters held a 48-38 lead.

Hawks gun down Westerners

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

SNYDER — The difference between winning and losing is pretty much the same as the difference between steak and hamburger, at least for the Howard College Hawks.

Monday night, after relinquishing an eight-point lead and trailing by one with six minutes to go, the Hawks may or may not have been thinking about a thick, juicy T-bone. Whatever their incentive, the Hawks outscored the Western College Westerners 21-7 down the stretch to take a desperately needed 92-79 conference win.

Afterwards, they ate steak, not chopped, and with a baked potato, not fries.

feed you a steak tonight and have a bad practice tomorrow." Hawks'

Coach Larry Brown told his team in the locker room, half kidding, half serious.

"It was a big win for us fellas. We had to have it. This is it, this was our season. I want us to be real good this year. I want us to be in Waco (the site of the regional playoffs)," Brown said.

The win was the first conference road win of the year, and the Hawks had to have it if they wanted to retain a realistic shot at the playoffs. Alvin Lee, the Westerners top gun, was averaging 34 points a game, tops in the nation, and it looked for awhile like he his barrel aimed right at the Hawks' playoff hopes.

Lee, a phenomenal shooter, blasted a three-point shot while falling sideways, and then drove for a bucket to put the Westerners up 72-71 with 6:43 remaining. Lee's points sparked a 10-1 Westerner run that quickly erased an eight-point Hawks' lead. Brown called a time-out.

"When it was 72-71, we just had to bow our necks and play. With a little over five minutes to play, in the huddle we talked about the first 35 minutes and we made up our minds to play hard the last five minutes, and we did.

"Kevin took over at the end of the game. He said 'We're not going to lose this game,'" Brown said.

The Hawks wasted no time once they returned to the floor. Robert Barley spotted Myron Wright underneath the bucket, fired the ball in, and Wright scored. The Hawks made a steal off the press, and Bradsher scored. The Hawks pressed again, and Matt Brown intercepted a pass and one step later

Wills winning battle against drugs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —Maury Wills, who says he aged 15 years during a 3 1/2-year battle with drug addiction, hopes to open a rehabilitation center to help other athletes.

"Someday, I hope and pray the major-league baseball players will consent to drug testing. That is the answer. That's the major answer because there is no way to get around it, no room for denial," Wills said.

The 54-year-old Wills, the 1962 National League Most Valuable Player and one-time holder of the single-season major base stealing record, spent most of his 13 major league season with the Los Angeles Dodgers. He said his drug problems began after he was fired as manager of the Seattle Mariners midway through the 1981 season.

"There was depression and disappointment," he said. "All the people I let down. The embarrassment. The drugs. Somebody comes along and puts it there for you when you're looking for an escape.

As I look back, I had to have an escape and that was it. It would have been nice if there was someone there with the knowledge I have now to grab me before I got trapped.

"Some people get old but never grow up. That's what happened to Maury Wills.

Wills said he spent almost four years virtually locked in his $500,000 California home with blankets covering his windows as he indulged in his cocaine habit. He considered suicide before

Angela George, then a friend and now his wife, helped him enter a clinic where he still goes twice a week for tests.

"I couldn't handle it today if I did not test. I have to test twice a week," said Wills, whose $500,000 rehabilitation bill has been paid for by the Dodgers. "Angela turned me around 3 1/2 years ago. I've gone 11 months clean at a time and broke my program. I'd go eight months and break my program.

"I've got it whipped for today. But once you get addicted, you never get well. You only get better. I don't have withdrawals, but I think about it a lot. I don't count the days behind me. I don't count the days in front of me. All that counts is today. I can't promise you about tomorrow."

Wills, who played in Sunday's charity game between the 1962 Dodgers and 1962 San Francisco Giants, said he's glad his playing days were drug-free.

In that 1962 season, Wills was the National League's Most Valuable Player, hitting .299 with six home runs and 48 RBI and stole a then-record 104 bases in 117 attempts. He also played in all 165 games that season, which ended for him with the Giants winning the third game of a three-game playoff for the pennant.

"I stole 104 bases on my natural adrenal. That makes it easier to live with myself," Wills said. "This is the big leagues now. I'm a rookie at it. It feels good. I've got good natural adrenalin going in my body now. I can smell the flowers."

Rutgers, 20-0, exchanged places with Auburn, 19-1, after the Tigers' 72-71 loss at Georgia on Sunday. The Knights, the only unbeaten team left in NCAA Division I, received a first-place vote and 1,186 points.

It is the second time in the 11-year history of the women's poll that Rutgers has been ranked No.

2. The Knights were also ranked No. 2 five years ago.

Auburn received the other first-place vote and 1,116 points. Mississippi, 20-1, jumped from seventh to fourth with 1,053 points.

Louisiana Tech, 17-2, moved up from eighth to fifth with 947 points. Long Beach State, 20-2, which was upset at Hawaii Saturday night, fell from fourth to sixth with 897 points, while Tennessee, 17-4, dropped from fifth to seventh with 879 points.

Virginia, 19-2, which lost to No. 14 North Carolina State Saturday, fell from sixth to eighth with 841 points. Georgia, 18-3, moved up a spot to ninth with 826 points after upsetting Auburn.

Ohio State, 18-3, moved up to No. 10 after defeating Michigan State and Michigan. Louisiana State, 16-4, fell from ninth to 12th after losses to Mississippi and Tennessee in the SEC.

In the second ten, Illinois was upset at Northwestern and dropped off the list from 19th, while Villanova, 20-2, which holds a three-game lead in the Big East, moved into the 20th spot for its first poll appearance of the season.

The second ten are: Iowa, Louisiana State, Vanderbilt, N. Carolina State, James Madison, Penn State, Southern Illinois, Southern Cal, Washington and Villanova. The second ten last week were Ohio State, Iowa, North Carolina State, Southern Illinois, Vanderbilt, Penn State, James Madison, Southern Cal, Illinois and Washington.

Queens' quarter

By DON STEVENS
HC Queens coach

We have played two fine games in a row. These wins have been typified by good floor play, good defense, excellent shooting and improved rebounding.

I would like to think that we will continue to play well and that some consistency can be established. The inside play of Stefanie Massie has been most impressive. In the last two games Massie has scored 60 points to go with 26 rebounds. This type of inside play is what the Queens have been needing to go with our usually strong perimeter play. Balance is the key to any offense. This, we have had the last two games, as we averaged 91 points in these two outings.

DON STEVENS

Realistically speaking a split with South Plains and win over Frank Phillips would probably put us into the Region V Championship Tournament in Waco next month.

NOTES: Stefanie Massie, 5'11" post player, has taken over as the Queen's leading scorer with an average of 14.4 points per game. Terri Powell, last year's leading scorer, who has also been the leading scorer until this week is close behind with 14.3 points per game average. Three points separate these two players—346 for Massie, 343 for Powell. Massie is also the leading rebounder, averaging 9.3 rebound per game (4th in the conference). Leslie Gooch is the best free throw shooter 39 out of 55 for 71% average. Pam Franklin is the steals leader with 70 steals (4th in the league).

A tremendous task lies in our path, the 21-3 Western Texas Dusters. This article is being written previous to the game, Monday afternoon. Of course, great anxiety and anticipation are the emotions I feel. If we take the floor and continue our recent surge of consistent play, I am confident we will defeat the number eight nationally ranked Dusters. Anything less than a great effort will result in defeat.

The return of Carolyn Willardt, 6'0" sophomore post, to the lineup following her injury, has bolstered our inside scoring and rebounding abilities. It also adds more versatility to our player-rotation possibilities.

PLAYOFF PICTURE

A win over Western Texas would be a great advantage. A loss would not spell doom. Remaining on the conference schedule are three games, two with South Plains and one with Frank Phillips. We, of course, would like to win all three.

Pitt rules in Big East

By The Associated Press

Jerome Lane was ready, and Pittsburgh now sits atop the Big East. The 6-foot-6 sophomore, who leads the nation in rebounding, scored 21 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Monday night as the 10th-ranked Panthers beat No. 9 Syracuse 63-61 to take sole possession of first place in the conference.

"It was the biggest game we've played here, and I love big games," Lane, who scored 16 of his points in the second half, said. "I was so pumped up I wanted the ball every time down the court in the second half."

Pitt's final shot did not come from Lane, however.

Lane made one free throw with 1:23 to play to tie the score at 61. Syracuse's Sherman Douglas threw up an airball on a jumper with 58 seconds to play.

The Panthers, 20-4 overall and 9-2 in the conference, worked the shot clock until three seconds remained on it. Freshman Rod Brookins missed a baseline jumper, but Charles Smith grabbed the rebound and was fouled. He made both free throws and Syracuse's Greg Monroe missed a 3-pointer at the buzzer to give the Panthers their biggest victory since joining the Big East five years ago.

"I'm happy that we were able to win despite shooting so poorly," Pitt Coach Paul Evans, whose team made 24 of 61 shots from the field, said. "You've got to give the kids credit for the defense they played and hanging in there despite missing a lot of easy shots."

In other games involving ranked teams Monday night, No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Pacific 73-59; No. 6 Temple defeated Penn State 73-70 in overtime; No. 13 Georgetown beat Boston College 78-56; and Auburn defeated No. 19 Florida 84-70.

The victory was the seventh in a row for the Panthers.

Syracuse led just once in the final 11 minutes, 61-60, on two free throws by Douglas with 1:38 to play.

"Pitt is a good as any team in the country right now," Syracuse Coach Jim Boehm said. "I thought our kids did a great job, even though we didn't win. Jerome Lane is a great rebounder and Smith can kill you inside."

Smith scored just 12 points, but he grabbed the same number of rebounds as Pitt beat the Orangemen, 19-4 and 8-3, for the second time this season.

No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas 73, Pacific 59

The Runnin' Rebels overcame their worst offensive half of the season to remain unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Jarvis Basnight scored 11 of his 13 points in the decisive second-half burst as Nevada-Las Vegas broke from a 50-48 lead with a 23-6 burst.

Gerald Paddio scored 13 of his 19 points in the second half as the Runnin' Rebels improved to 24-1 overall and 12-0 in the conference. Pacific, 9-12 and 5-7, led 37-34 early in the second half, but the Runnin' Rebels, the nation's highest scoring team at 96.6 points per game, were able to pull away in the final minutes. Christian Gray led the Tigers with 19 points.

The Runnin' Rebels' previous worst half of the season was a 29-point performance in the Big Apple NIT against Western Kentucky.

"We were flat," UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "We didn't do anything out there. I was afraid something like this might happen because we've played nine of our last 11 games on the road and just played our third road game in five days."

No. 6 Temple 73, Penn State 70, OT long jumpers against Penn State, and Mike Vreeswyk and Nate Blackwell came through.

Vreeswyk made two 3-pointers and Blackwell one in the final 1:18 of regulation to erase a nine-point deficit. Vreeswyk, who made four of seven from 3-point range, tied the game 61-61 with 18 seconds left on a 3-pointer. Penn State had a chance for victory in regulation, but Wes Jones missed a shot with three seconds left.

Vreeswyk, who finished with 18 points, gave the Owls, 24-2 overall and 13-0 in the Atlantic 10, a 72-68 lead with two free throws with 13 seconds left in the overtime.

"Tonight we were not better than Penn State," Temple Coach John Chaney said. "They were a batter ball club all over the floor. We had to make 3-pointers to win."

Blackwell finished with 21 and the Owls made nine of 17 3-point attempts. Tom Hovasse, who broke his nose last Saturday against West Virginia, led the Nitany Lions, 11-10 and 5-8, with a career-high 29.

No. 13 Georgetown 78, Boston College 56

The Hoyas' last five games had been decided by three points or less. This one was never in doubt.

Reggie Williams scored 11 of Georgetown's first 15 points and the Hoyas coasted to a 36-21 halftime lead, the closest the Eagles could get over the final 20 minutes as they lost for the sixth time in seven games.

"We didn't have to go down to the wire for a change and that's good," Williams, who finished with 25 points, said. "We went out and put pressure on them defensively right from the start."

The Hoyas improved to 17-4 overall and 7-4 in the Big East, while Boston College, which was led by Dana Barros with 15 points, dropped to 9-13 and 2-10.

Auburn 84, No. 19 Florida 70

Auburn used a balanced scoring attack and strong rebounding to beat the Gators for the second time in 10 days.

Jeff Morris scored 20 points and Chris Moore and Mike Jones added 18 each as the Tigers ended a three-game losing streak.

Auburn, 13-8 and 6-6, took its first lead of the game at 41-40 on a tip-in by Frank Ford with 15:51 to play and was never headed.

Vernon Maxwell led Florida, 18-6 and 10-3, with 30 points. The Gators, who had an 18-game home winning streak snapped, fell out their first-place tie with Alabama in the Southeastern Conference.

Other Games
Darrin Fitzgerald scored a school-record 54 points, including 12 3-point field goals, as Butler defeated Detroit 88-77. Fitzgerald made 16 of 30 shots, 22 of which were 3-point attempts, and made all 10 free throws. The old Butler record of 49 points was set by Billy Shepherd in 1970 against Arizona.

Marshall extended the longest current Division I winning streak to 13 games with a 96-92 victory over The Citadel. Skip Henderson scored 29 points as the Thundering Herd improved to 18-4 overall and 12-0 in the Southern Conference.

Hawks

After three turnovers, the Westerners managed to get the ball down the floor, but were fouled. Bradsher grabbed the long rebound off the missed free throw and raced ahead of the pack towards the Hawks' goal. Bradsher jumped a little early, but borrowed some of Michael Jordan's air time and thundered the ball home. The slam concluded an 8-0 run in 1:14, and Westerners' coach Phil Spradling called time.

After the break, Bradsher scored twice more, both on short jumpers. At the 3:38 mark, Lee hit two foul shots to end the Hawks' 12-0 spurt that gave them an 83-72 lead. With 1:48 remaining, the Hawks iced it when Rhodes threw a court length pass to Wright, who caught it under the goal and flipped it to Barley, who scored.

Bradsher finished with 33 points, second in the game only to Lee. Bradsher, however, also had 10 rebounds to his credit. He said afterwards that he had something to prove to his coach.

"I just felt like I had to come out and play because I had a bad practice last night and coach was on me. I was like going through the motions. I had to prove to him that I had a good practice I can still produce," said Bradsher, who wasn't too proud of his dunk.

"A weak dunk. I didn't like that dunk at all. That's the way you'd be dunking," he said, laughing and pointing to teammate Bruce Mitchell.

Another Hawk who contributed mightily was Mitchell Porter, who is living proof of the difference a week can make. Last Monday, in the 144-88 win over Clarendon, Porter spent the night in the doghouse, not playing a minute. Against Western Texas, he battled for 10 rebounds and scored 12 points, most at crucial junctures.

"He got his point across," a smiling Porter said. "It's no fun sitting on the bench, especially when you're winning by 50."

Judging from the impression he made on his coach, Porter won't be sitting so much in the future. Brown said, "Mitchell was really a bright spot for me. Out of our post people he was undoubtedly the best."

Walter Walker, despite a cold that had him hacking after the game, scored 20, including a seven-point burst in one minute of the first half that propelled the Hawks from a 27-25 deficit to a 32-27 lead.

Rhodes, the conference leader in assists, dished out 10 of those to go with his game leading seven steals. It was just another night at the office for the Hawks' ball-handling wizard.

After the Hawks had improved to 13-11 overall and 6-5 in conference play, they passed by several hamburger joints, finally settling on a place with knives and forks.

Psychologist helps player

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Paul Annacone says he'll be armed with advice from a psychologist when he goes up against John McEnroe at the U.S. Indoor Tennis Championships.

"I've got my attitude back to where I'm enjoying (tennis) again and I'm able to concentrate better on the court," Annacone said Monday after scoring a 6-4, 6-2 first round victory over Glen Laydecker of Portola Valley, Calif.

Annacone will face the fifth seeded McEnroe in the tournament's second round, probably Wednesday.

Arbiter rules against pro baseball owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Arbitrator George Nicolau ruled Monday that major league baseball teams which failed to sign their free agents by Jan. 8 cannot negotiate with those players before May 1, the earliest date those players may rejoin their former teams.

"The decision provides, as any neutral observer might expect, that once a club loses its rights to a player, it cannot negotiate with that player," Don Fehr, executive director of the players association, said. "The former clubs are out. Now we'll see what happens."

A number of front-line free agents including outfielders Tim Lincecum and Andre Dawson, first baseman Bob Horner and catcher Lance Parrish, Rich Gedman and Bob Boone and pitcher Ron Guidry remain unsigned. In some cases, their former clubs had said that, although they couldn't sign those players before May 1, they could still negotiate with them. The union disputed that and Nicolau's ruling settled the issue.

Barry Rona, executive director of the Player Relations Committee, said surreptitious negotiations might still continue between players and their former teams despite the ruling and that Nicolau "missed an opportunity to keep things above board."

"That's very possible," Detroit Tigers General Manager Bill Lajoie agreed. "Many times in a negotiation other people have been used to intercede so I suppose that that could continue."

Tom Reich, the agent for Raines and Parrish, was blunt in his assessment of the ruling.

"This was just another part of the continuum of flagrant abuses of the collective bargaining agreement," Reich told the New York Times.

Lajoie, whose team could not reach an agreement with Parrish, said the decision makes losers of the players.

"I would say that, yes, the player does lose and neither side can talk, so it would seem to me it would take some time after May 1 to possibly reach an agreement and to get in shape, and I think it just prolongs the time a player may start playing," Lajoie told ABC Radio Sports.

Bucky Woy, the agent for Horner, saw the ruling as a warning to the owners.

"I wasn't surprised at the outcome of the ruling," Woy told ABC. "It's a shame that the issue had to go to arbitration and the grievance had to be filed in the first place. However, it is reassuring that an impartial third party could see through the owners' play and rule in favor of the players."

"The arbiter, in my opinion, is issuing a warning to the owners and I think that if anything comes from it, it may very well be that the owners should take notice of this ruling and perhaps they'll start bargaining in good faith again."

Smith throws out that comment as a way of dismissing the subject. But even at that he's wrong, because the club he's entering is based more on quality than longevity.

Artist's goal: Carve his immortality in sculpture

By JAYNE CANNON
Greenville Herald Banner

LEONARD (AP) — In his studio north of this East Texas town, sculptor William Easley is carving out a piece of immortality.

The San Antonio native took the first steps toward that goal when his bronze statue of Toribio Losoya was erected last fall near the Alamo.

The idea for the statue of the Alamo defender came from Easley's desire to do something for his hometown during the Texas Sesquicentennial. It was important to Easley to use a Hispanic subject, he says.

"Having grown up in San Antonio, I encountered so much racism," Easley said. "There comes a time when you grow up and mature. The things that separate us should be only those things that are really neat — Mexican food, pretty girls in brightly-colored dresses, mariachi bands.

"If a Mexican had done this statue, I don't think it would have nearly the impact. I want people to see that, finally, the Hispanic sacrifice for Texas has been realized."

Losoya was one of nine Mexicans who fought at the Alamo. He died in the fight for Texas independence, and his contribution is acknowledged by the city of San Antonio in at least one way — a downtown street is named in his honor.

After he chose the subject, Easley arranged for a sponsor for the project. Adolph Coors Co. agreed to underwrite the statue's cost, but Easley soon found that cost was not the major battle.

Getting approval for the statue from the city of San Antonio was the stuff of which melodrama is made. Easley took pictures of the table-sized model he sculpted and sent those to city officials. They liked what they saw — but again they passed on the project.

The reason, according to Easley, was that they had been disappointed with the city's last gift of sculpture, a statue of Samuel Gompers, an early labor leader who died in San Antonio.

In turning down Easley's proposal, a city council member made reference to the Gompers statue — and Easley blew his top.

"My mother called me from San Antonio and read this article from the newspaper to me," Easley said. "She read about two paragraphs and I was furious. I was so mad that I started yelling and I took the wax model (of the statue) and destroyed it with my bare hands. "After I tore it apart, I threw it out the window into my back yard and let it melt."

A reporter from a San Antonio newspaper called for comments and Easley told him what he had done. The media circus was on. The story was reported nationwide, Easley said, producing a folder with an inch-thick stack of newspaper clippings. "Look at this, I've even got one from the Anchorage (Alaska) Times."

He says the story probably enhanced his "temperamental artist" reputation.

"I've always been the eccentric one," Easley said. "When I was in high school, I was the guy who wore shoes with lightning bolts on the sides. I don't think I've surprised anybody."

The city of San Antonio's rejection fueled Easley's creativity. If they didn't like the small model, then he'd show them — he would sculpt the piece and let them see it full-size.

"I did it in about two months, took pictures of it and sent it to them," Easley said. "They said, 'Oh, this is fine.' No problem — and after all that."

The statue was unveiled in San Antonio last November, with Coors representatives and Mayor Henry Cisneros in attendance. A crowd that included Losoya's descendants gathered for the ceremony, and the sculptor found himself in the spotlight.

"It was quite an experience," Easley said. "People were asking for my autograph, and I felt like the Elvis Presley of the sculpting world."

Easley says he likes life in the spotlight. The last thing he wants to do, he said, is to be the stereotypical artist whose greatest fame comes after his death.

"A lot of very naive people believe that talent comes first," Easley said. "That's junk. You have to have a promotable, larger than life. You have to have a colorful streak as bright as anything you can put on a canvas."

"They say the meek shall inherit the earth. I disagree. I think the clever will take it, and I want to be counted among the clever."

Easley's ultimate goal is to channel his cleverness into a project that is literally larger than life. Currently, he says, the world's largest free-standing statue is located in the Soviet Union near Leningrad, and Easley would like to change that.

"I just don't like the idea of somebody else having done the world's largest statue," Easley said. "I'd like that statue to be in the United States. And since the Statue of Liberty can't take vitamins or grow taller, I'd like to do it."

Sculptor William Easley works on one of his creations recently in his studio in Leonard, located about 50 miles northeast of Dallas. Easley, who has created several life-sized pieces, has one on display near the Alamo.

An Easley-sculpted bust of Davy Crockett was dedicated in Dallas' Fair Park last year.

Easley moved to rural Fannin County a year ago after chucking a career in advertising and promotion in Dallas.

"I stuck out like a sore thumb in Highland Park," the balding, bearded artist said. "I was always painting or composing. It's something you can't suppress. But the frustration of living in Dallas got to me, so we moved out here."

"Out here" is a semi-completed house in the country where Easley lives and works. His studio is just a few steps away from the family TV, but Easley said he doesn't mind. He can't work in silence, he said.

"I always have some music playing, something going," he said. "I think it's all a part of the creative process."

A former musician, Easley still uses his musical talents to add another dimension to his artistic endeavors. With each piece he sells, he includes an "art track," a piece of music he composes that is a companion piece to the work.

"You know, somebody looked at the Mona Lisa and wrote a song for Nat King Cole to sing," Easley said. "I do it myself. I think it's a natural. People don't just buy a piece of my art. I want them to make an investment in the whole creative process."

Combining art and music may just be another way for the man who used to bill himself as "William the Sculptor" to achieve that dream of immortality.

"I'd rather have my art outside for the whole world to see than sitting on somebody's mantle in the den," Easley said. "My work is like a time capsule."

The Losoya statue will take three things with it through all time — what happened at the Alamo, with Losoya and with me. I think I've already achieved a little bit of immortality.

"But I'm not stopping here. I'm not saying, 'OK, I can die now.' I want to keep eating, so I've got to keep sculpting."

Texas teacher groups band for salary hike

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas teachers' associations banded together Monday to make a joint demand to the Legislature for a minimum $2,900 salary increase the next two years.

The associations, which have separate legislative programs, said they were making the joint demand "to keep the Legislature from making the claim that the different teacher organizations do not present a clear message on salaries."

The statement was issued by the Texas State Teachers Association, Association of Texas Professional Educators, Texas Classroom Teachers Association and Texas Federation of Teachers.

The proposal would increase starting salaries from the current minimum of $15,200 to $17,080 for the first year and then to $18,100 for the 1988-89 school year.

The current $26,600 maximum for experienced teachers would increase to $29,380 the first year and to $31,000 the second year.

The appropriation bills being considered by the respective House and Senate committees do not presently contain any teacher pay raise, lawmakers said.

Gov. Bill Clements did not recommend a teachers' pay increase in his budget address to legislators last week. He said he supported rewarding Texas' best teachers and providing all teachers with an incentive to stay in the classroom, but that the present "career ladder" program established in 1984 was not working.

Clements said he would propose specific legislation concerning the teacher appraisal system after hearing from a task force of teachers, administrators and legislators.

"I would think chances are very slim," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said after the demand. "I would hope so, but there is an all around shortage of money."

The teachers' groups said their pay demands were based on findings of the Select Committee on Public Education in 1983, which recommended starting salaries of $17,080. The special session of 1984, in House Bill 72, set starting salaries at $15,200.

"Although we are certainly aware of the state's financial situation, there comes a time when priorities must be established and we feel it would be an error of considerable magnitude to not address teacher compensation in this session," said the teachers' statement.

"Although progress has been made with regard to teacher compensation, we still have a long way to go," the groups said. "Our standing in comparing states had risen when average teacher salaries are considered, but in virtually all other areas of education reform we are striving to be considerably better than average."

"Failure to address teacher compensation in the next biennium will almost certainly result in the loss of more capable professionals and necessitate another 'catch up' pay raise down the line."

Atlanta gets convention approval

ATLANTA — Atlanta officials are committed to a $15 million investment on what they hope will be a $60 million windfall for the city's economy when the Democratic National Convention comes to town next year.

Democratic sources said Monday night the convention will be held in Atlanta July 18-21 and the official decision would be announced in Washington today.

Mayor Andrew Young, reached at a speaking engagement in Tuscaloosa, Ala., Monday night, said, "We are expecting that they will choose Atlanta but we really don't know."

The $15 million in spending by government and business calls for the establishment of a non-profit corporation to oversee playing host to the convention.

Atlanta and Houston reportedly were the front-runners among five cities bidding for the convention.

Sanders urges responsible blaming

SAN ANTONIO — Parents should take more responsibility when their children get into trouble and not try to blame it on schools or athlete role models, a former Boston Celtics player and coach says.

"When it comes to a problem with alcohol or drugs, so much of the finger-pointing and placing of the responsibility has been placed on the educational system," said Tom "Satch" Sanders, associate director of Boston's Center for Study in Sport in Society.

"We feel parents and guardians and students must play a much, much bigger role in that fight ... particularly now when the athletes are taking the heat, the blame for the drug problem here in America," Sanders told the National Association of Secondary School Principals Monday.

Richard Lapchick, director of the center that is based at Northeastern University, said athletics are still overemphasized with children despite the odds against their making it to professional ranks.

Witness killed in border 'drug war'

EDINBURG — Authorities blame an escalating drug war in deep South Texas for the slaying of a drug-smuggling defendant who switched sides and testified for the government.

"There is a war going on down here," said Hidalgo County sheriff's investigator Capt. Albert Garcia, who like many lawmen say the Rio Grande Valley is a prime spot for smugglers because of its proximity to Mexico.

In the last two months of 1986, two narcotics agents were gunned down as they investigated drug trafficking, Antonio Espinosa, 39, became the latest casualty in the war when he was killed Sunday as he drove a car with his wife and infant daughter.

Authorities on Monday tested a gun that may have been used to kill Espinosa, an Edinburg man who died from one .38-caliber gunshot wound to the head, Garcia said.

Liquor violations drain commission

DALLAS — Despite a new state liquor law that increased the legal drinking age, reported violations nearly doubled in the last four months of 1986, officials say.

Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission records show a total of 2,899 criminal complaints filed against businesses caught selling alcohol to people under 21 in the last four months of 1986. There were 1,587 complaints filed in the same period of 1985.

The new law, which raised the minimum drinking age from 19 to 21, went into effect Sept. 1 under the threat of a 10-percent reduction in federal highway funding if states did not comply.

State officials expected an increase in activity for the commission's 250 enforcement agents, but the volume of activity created a severe drain on the agency's resources, said Joe Darnall, legal counsel for the TABC.

Officials search for stolen baby

CROSBYTON — The investigation into the disappearance of a 4-month-old girl from a local hospital has come to a standstill, leaving authorities in this small town frustrated and baffled.

Sheriff's officials and the FBI have been searching for leads since Lynsae Lysette Quintero disappeared from the Crosbyton Clinic Hospital early in the morning of Jan. 31.

Crosby County Sheriff Red Riley said normally patient townspeople are becoming angry because they think officers are harassing them.

Riley said the baby's 18-year-old mother, Carmel Julie Quintero, was sleeping in the infant's room when the incident occurred, but added that the baby was being treated in a noisy oxygen tent. Someone possibly could have taken the child without awakening the mother, he said.

On-The-Job Injury
Don't let it keep you off the job a day longer than necessary

"I want to get rid of the pain and get back to work." We hear this a lot.

Temporary pain killers may be okay for temporary pain. But when the pain stays . . . or keeps coming back . . . it's time to try something else. The chiropractic approach to pain is to locate the CAUSE of the pain and correct it. When the cause is corrected, the pain usually goes away in short order. Why not try chiropractic FIRST for on-the-job injuries?

A consultation and preliminary examination can help determine whether chiropractic might help. If treatment, x-rays or other lab tests are indicated, they are covered by most Workers' Compensation insurance plans. CALL US TODAY.

Chalet relocates

Doris Day, co-chairperson of the Chalet, left, displays a quilt made by Murlene Williams, right. Williams, a volunteer, created the quilt for a drawing for the non-profit Chalet, which supports Big Spring State Hospital patients. The Chalet recently relocated to 126 E. Third St. for more space, Day said. Public Information Officer Kathy Viccinelli said the hospital needs encyclopedias and household items. The Chalet also is seeking donations to help purchase an unusually large size pair of shoes for a patient. The shoes will cost approximately $130, she said. Efforts are being made to treat patients to cupcakes on Valentine's Day. More than 750 cupcakes are needed. To help, call 267-8216, Exst. 535, or bring any donated items to the volunteer office at the hospital.

Constitutional rights questioned

DEAR ABBY: Name a place where an anonymous phone call results in the dispatch of police officers to detain and harass citizens in the absence of probable cause, a sworn complaint or an arrest warrant. Chile? The Soviet Union? Nope. Marion, Va.!

"Concerned Teen-Ager" and the other well-meaning but overzealous founders of R.A.I.D. (Report All Intoxicated Drivers) in Marion, Va., have given us a good example of what happens when people believe their noble ends are justified by any means.

Abby, everyone wants to reduce drunk driving, but it shouldn't be at the expense of our hard-won constitutional rights. I'm sure the people who live under a dictatorship would gladly trade our drunk-driving problems for the hardships they have to endure.

CONCERNED BUT SANE
DEAR CONCERNED: Since when is it "harassment" for a police officer to check out a report that there's a drunk driver in the area? If the driver is not drunk, the inconvenience of being stopped is petty compared to the tragedy that could be caused by a person driving while under the influence. You mention constitutional rights: What about the "constitutional rights" of innocent people to be protected against drunk drivers?

Dear Abby

In addition to Marion, Va., according to Brad Hartford, the town of Glenvil, Neb., has a program called REDDI (Report Every Drunk Driver Immediately). Hooray for Nebraska!

DEAR ABBY: I work as a security guard, and due to the nature of my job, I am not permitted to accept gifts from the employees of stores I am hired to guard. However, one woman — I'll call her Jane — gave me a Christmas gift even though I had told her emphatically that I was not permitted to accept gifts. She was very persistent, saying other guards had accepted her gifts and she would be very hurt if I didn't because she had spent so much time and effort selecting it. I finally agreed to accept it on the condition that I could do anything I wanted with it — keep it, trash it, give it away — as long as I didn't give it back to her.

Well, I accepted Jane's gift and without unwrapping it, I gave it to another employee (Dan) and told him it was from Jane. Of course Dan thanked Jane for the gift, then Jane became angry and told me off. Now Jane refuses to forgive me. Was Jane wrong? Or was I?

ALLENTOWN, PA., GUARD
DEAR GUARD: Jane was wrong to have forced a gift on you knowing you were not permitted to accept gifts. You were wrong to accept it, and wrong again for giving it to Dan saying it was a gift from Jane. If you lost Jane's friendship, you haven't lost much. And in the future, stick to the rules or it could cost you your job.

CONFIDENTIAL TO W.W. IN SANTA ANA: "There's a time to wink as well as to see" (Benjamin Franklin). Wise man, Ben. You should have been seeing instead of winking.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to Dear Abby, Westing Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Prison employment workshop set

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp will sponsor a community workshop Feb. 14 for anyone interested in employment in the federal prison system.

"The prime purpose is to provide application forms and information on job openings," said Assistant Superintendent Lloyd McMillan.

The workshop is scheduled 10 a.m. to noon in the Training Center located in a brown building on First Avenue, south of Western Container, McMillan said.

Prison personnel staff members will be present to "provide first-hand information about jobs and duties," McMillan said.

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp has openings now for correctional officers, physician assistant, cook foreman, sports specialist, clerk/typist, and accounting technician, he said.

"Staff members in these areas will be available to answer questions on these positions," McMillan said.

Only applicants approved before reaching age 35 will be hired, McMillan noted. He added that the hiring process usually takes two to three months after an application has been filed and reviewed.

In addition, applicants are disqualified if they have been arrested within the past three years. To qualify for a correctional officer position, applicants must have a minimum 3½ years prior experience at working in a supervisory or guideline level position.

The accounting position requires someone with an accounting degree, McMillan said.

The hiring process can include job transfers to other federal prison sites, he said.

The Federal Prison Camp is an equal opportunity employer.

"We're looking for career opportunity people. We're interested in seeing and hearing from them," McMillan said.

Howard looking to improve pitching

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Howard College Hawks head baseball coach Bill Griffin went shopping for pitchers this summer, and if his new acquisitions can withstand the test, look for the Hawks to reach the state tournament like they did in 1985.

Last year Howard broke a three year string of reaching the state tournament, when they finished fourth in Region V play with a 7-14-1 record. The top two teams in the region qualify for state. The Hawks did finish with an overall winning record of 27-20-1.

In 1985, the Hawks pitching staff had an earned run average of 2.80. Last season it ballooned to 6.25. It's very simple — no pitching, no state tournament.

"Last year we could score runs, but we couldn't get anyone out," stated coach Griffin.

This prompted Griffin to go 'pitcher huntin' over the summer. What he came back with appears to be a blend of young talent mixed with veteran sophomores. Griffin kept two returning pitchers in right-handers Al Lopez and Thad Webber.

He also picked up three second-year players from the University of Southern Louisiana. They are lefties Howard Landry and Mark Hutchinson and right-hander Ted Herbert.

Webber and Lopez will be counted on heavily in the staff. Webber was in the starting rotation last season and posted an 8-3 record with a 5.20 ERA. Lopez was used mainly in relief. He had a 2-0 record with an ERA of 6.46.

Others Griffin has to choose from include lefties Ernesto Castro and John Medrick along with right-handers Al Benavides, Derek Matlock, Rickey White and Carl Romero.

"Some are veterans and some Members of the Howard College Hawks baseball team go through a workout this week at Jack Barber Field located on the HC campus. The Hawks will begin their regular season Saturday, Feb. 14 at Jack Barber when they host Vernon Junior College in a double-header.

will be going through a learning process," said Griffin. "Hopefully the veterans will come through and we'll get some mileage out of our young pitchers."

Like Griffin said, hitting was no problem for the team last season. Last season the Hawks batted .321 as a team while averaging six runs per game.

Howard returns seven players who are all relatively good hitters.

Third baseman Chad Baker and shortstop Joel Chimelis lead the way. Last season Baker was the team's second leading hitter, batting .365 and driving in 17 runs. Chimelis was right behind Baker, batting .352, hitting six homers, driving in 28 runs and leading the team in stolen bases with 22.

Outfielder Frank Medina will give Howard power. Last season he drove in a team-leading 50 RBIs while batting .344. Outfielder-catcher Freddie Lopez returns with more power. Last season he hit .340 and drove in 20 RBIs. Another returning catcher is Glenn Donnelly, who saw limited action last season. Outfielder Jeff Shults adds more speed to the lineup. The part-time starter batted .265 last season. Griffin says he will use John Wiles as a first baseman or designated hitter this season. Last season Wiles pitched, posting a 2-4 record with a 6.75 ERA.

Newcomers that are also fighting for a starting spot include former Big Spring High School third baseman Randy Hayworth, and infielders Joe Camarillo, Randy Deal, Juan Rodriguez, Doug Staley, Michael Rogers, Ruben Sosa and Trey Wolfe.

In the outfield, Griffin has Perry Shock, Phillip Kerne, Danny Cardenas and Chip Nugen to choose from.

"We went out of the state and got some transfers that can help us right now," said Griffin of his new players.

The Hawks will play their first regular-season games Saturday, February 14 at Jack Barber Field with a double-header against Vernon Junior College. The first game begins at 1 p.m.

Alcohol program initiates service

By ROBERT WERNSMAN
City Editor

"Recovery After Five," an outpatient alcohol treatment program that is less than a week old, has a bright future at Crossroads Recovery, the director is confident.

After-hours treatment, initiated Monday, Feb. 2, has drawn interest from several applicants, and its potential market has not been tapped, says Reta Fambro. The program is available to persons 14 years of age and older.

Several applicants for the evening and weekend program have shown interest, although none of them qualified due to the level of their addiction, she said Saturday.

"The program's design calls for 'early to middle addiction' alcohol, Fambro explained. "Not someone who could go into withdrawal."

"There's a market," she said, it's just a "matter of reaching them."

Insurance which covers inpatient

RETA FAMBRO
... 'there's a market'

treatment normally covers outpatient programs as well, she explained.

All applicants thus far were referred to inpatient programs because individual assessments showed that they would not be treated effectively on the schedule of the new program, according to Fambro.

"Recovery After Five" schedules treatment from 7-10 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with hours of 7-9 p.m. on Thursday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, according to information provided by Program Director Andrew Gramlich.

Fambro said that the best prospects for the program include "somebody who just got (arrested for) DWI, or just finished DWI class who needs further education on drug abuse."

"Our best referrals will come from judges or probation officers," Fambro predicted. She has directed Crossroads Recovery since its inception just over a year ago. Before that the certified alcohol and drug counselor was with the Big Spring State Hospital for three years.

She sees a particular need for such a program, as a result of decreased outpatient services available through the state hospital during the past two years.

Bob Von Rosenberg, acting superintendent of the state hospital concurred.

Funding reductions from the state have resulted in fewer outpatient alcoholism services, he said Saturday. The state hospital no longer has a fulltime alcohol counselor on its staff.

Fambro did not rule out entirely the possibility of the early applicants eventually benefiting from this program.

Those with greater alcohol dependency could go through detoxification before participating in the outpatient treatment.

In explaining the program originally, Fambro said that its design was based on the needs and requests from individuals, labor and management groups. The potential loss of an employee's skills during inpatient treatment is avoided when the program is available after normal working hours.

Fambro's experience also includes four years at the Panhandle Alcoholic Recovery Center in Amarillo, she said.

Young man earns Award

By LYNN HAYES

Doug Abbott will receive the Eagle Scout Award today, the highest rank in Boy Scouts, in a special Court of Honor Ceremony at the First Baptist Church.

The honor will be presented on the first day of Scout Week, as the organization celebrates its 77th anniversary.

The Runnels eight grader qualified for the award by earning 21 merit badges, explained Bill Bradford, district commissioner of scouting and scout master of troop #5. In addition, he had to display responsibility and hold a leadership position for a minimum of six months while being involved in a community service project.

The son of Bob and Karen Abbott, he chose to work on the Scenic Mountain Medical Center Emergency Room entrance, painting the curbs and cleaning the area.

DOUG ABBOTT

The ceremony is planned during morning worship at 10:50, Bradford said.

Bradford explained that once Abbott qualified for the Eagle Scout Award, approval was granted by the Lone Star district's board of review consisting of adult leaders. The necessary approval by the Buffalo Trail Council in Midland and by National Headquarters in Irving followed.

Abbott began his scouting career in 1982 as a cub scout "under the able leadership of Toni Hamby," Abbott's father said. He then became a Webelos scout and earned the Arrow of Light Award in October 1983. He was a senior patrol leader and member of the Leadership Corps.

Boy Scout Troop #5, of which Abbott is a member, made a visit to Alaska last June. The trip was made, Bradford explained, so the boys could "see the world" and gain experience of other cultures.

"The trip to Alaska helped to mature Doug," the scout's father said. Mayor Cotton Mize proclaimed the troop as Ambassadors of Big Spring.

Bob Abbott credits Bradford for being instrumental in emphasizing the need for advancement to Doug.

We are looking for part time help, retired or young people who can spend five to six days a month calling on retail dealers. You will be responsible for approximately fifteen dealers in your area and never travel more than twenty miles from home. Our ideal person would be a retired person who is healthy and would like to get out and meet a few new people every month or perhaps a younger person who has a full time job that leaves him some days that he could work extra. We won't make you rich, but commissions are good and I think you will enjoy these four or five days a month. Weight Loss That Stays Lost!

"The NUTRI/SYSTEM® Program gave me the lasting behavior education that was missing in all those short-term diets I tried. My NUTRI/SYSTEM counselor was my constant sounding board. I could always call when I was bingeing and say, 'help me'. Now I've come to grips with eating right and staying fit. And I'm not turning back!"

Parolee arrested for suspected burglary

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

A 31-year-old Big Spring man on parole was arrested by city police on a suspected burglary of a habitation early Saturday morning in the 1000 block of N. Runnels St.

Raymond Lopez Chavarria, 1217 W. Sixth St., was arrested by police officers Richard Lopez, Wynona Watson and Phillip Buys as he supposedly came out of a residence at 1010 N. Runnels St., District Parole Officer David Harman said Saturday morning.

Chavarria is believed to have been accompanied by three persons who fled the scene by foot, Harman said.

The suspect is being held in municipal jail in lieu of $1,000 bond set by Justice of Peace Willie Grant.

Harman said a parole violation report would be submitted to Austin within the next two weeks concerning Chavarria's parole status.

The state board of pardons and paroles will then decide if the suspect should be rearrested on a parole violation warrant, he added.

Chavarria was previously been sentenced to the jurisdiction of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles for attempted murder in Nolan County and possession of a firearm in Howard County.

He was on parole status at the time of Saturday's arrest after serving a year in the state prison on a Howard County conviction for burglary of a motor vehicle, Harman said.

Earlier this week, two other parolees received new prison sentences from District Judge James Gregg after each pleaded guilty to their felony charge.

Joe Willis Gilbreath, 50, Route Three Box 111, will serve three years in the state prison for a driving while intoxicated felony conviction.

Donald Alton Ashcraft, 31, of Van Zant, was sentenced to eight years for forgery by passing. He was arrested by police at First National Bank while attempting to cash a forged check, Harman said.

He also has six forgery charges pending in other counties and in Arkansas. A felony theft warrant from Tyler and a misdemeanor issuing bad check warrant from Dumas is also pending for Ashcraft, Harman said.

Elks Lodge hosting benefit

A benefit dance will be hosted for Edna Mae Dalton, a cancer patient, 8 p.m. Feb. 13 at the Eagles Lodge.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Check older garage doors this spring, says Reinert

If your home is 10 to 15 years old, chances are your garage door is beginning to sag or deteriorate, says Ralph Reinert, owner of Reinert Welding & Steel Construction.

"That's about the life of a door before it needs major repair or replacement," Reinert recommends that homeowners inspect older garage doors regularly; attending to repairs may add to the life of the doors. Spring is a logical time to do this when homeowners are usually undertaking home improvement projects, he said.

Reinert's company, specialists in fabrication of metal buildings for commercial use and for residential storage, has expanded its business to include overhead door sales and service.

"We have doors to accommodate all needs," Reinert says, "from single car residential garage door to multi-door warehouse installation."

"We install commercial and residential overhead doors and electric operators," says Reinert. Doors are available in two styles, the rolling and the folding sectional. The latter is available in wood, fiberglass or steel. Rolling doors are constructed of steel.

Reinert repairs and services all brands or types of overhead doors, including torsion springs, guide rollers, lift cables or damaged door sections.

Ralph Reinert has 25 years of experience in the construction business and has been in the steel erection business since 1978.

The firm designs and builds to fit the job requirements, fabricating metal buildings and component structural steel for commercial buildings, such as reinforcing steel, columns, beams, bar joists, roof decking and miscellaneous steel items.

An example of their work may be seen in the 5,000 sq. ft. pre-engineered, all metal building constructed recently for Cosden Pipeline for an office and maintenance building.

Cost estimates are available on request from Reinert Welding & Steel Construction. Phone 267-1550.

Put Miller's to work on home, office decor

"We try to have a store where the customer can come in and discuss his problem," says E.G. Miller at Miller's Crown Decorating. "And we often work out the solutions over a cup of coffee."

The family-owned business offers personalized service backed by 35 years experience, most of it in the Big Spring area.

Miller's sells and installs wallcoverings, flooring, carpet, mini-blinds, ceramic tile and formica for residential and commercial use. Floorings include wood and vinyl.

The owners take pride in not being wasteful with materials purchased by their customers. For example, when laying carpet, E.G. or his son, Darrell, will personally come to home or business and take measurements, draw a diagram and estimate the installation with as little waste as possible.

For one price, the firm will measure, custom-order and install

Levelor mini-blinds.

"We try to be fair with our customers, and because we are home-owned we can offer extra service and very competitive prices. We deal with five different manufacturers, and we can order about anything a customer has in mind."

Miller's is Big Spring's only authorized Cook Paint Dealer.

E.G. has more than three decades experience installing carpet and tile, and construction work. E.G. taught his son, Darrell, the business of carpet laying. It was Darrell's idea to open the home improvement business.

"We personally guarantee every job we do," says E.G.

If you've been thinking about a redecorating project at your home or business, you'll appreciate the friendly, straightforward approach the Millers take. Drop in soon at 1510 Gregg Street.
