Spring board

How's that? Warhol

Q. How old was pop artist Andy Warhol when he died Feb. 22 in a New York Hospital?

A. His date of birth is most commonly listed in reference books as Aug. 8, 1928, which would have made him 58 at the time of his death. But a date of birth of Sept. 28, 1930, also has been cited, and Warhol never cleared up the confusion, according to Associated Press reports.

Calendar Open House

TODAY

• The Crossroads Drug Recovery Program will host an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. on the second floor west wing of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Sunday calls for fair skies with a high temperature extending into the mid 60s. The winds will blow from the west at 10 to 15 miles per hour. Sunday night will continue with fair skies and temperatures dipping into the mid 30s. Monday's high temperatures will reach into the upper 60s.

R.J. Baeza, 5, son of Manuel and Maria Baeza, and Ariella Diaz, 6, daughter of Jeronimo and Susana Diaz, look over the Texas display in their room at the Kindergarten Center. Children at the Center will be studying Texas history this week in observance of the 133rd anniversary of Texas public education. Schools statewide have planned special activities and open houses during the week.

Schools mark 133rd anniversary

Coffee with donuts, drama presentations, spelling bees, and open houses are a few of the activities local schools have planned to celebrate the 133rd anniversary of the Texas public school system March 2-6.

School districts will celebrate throughout the state using the statewide theme "Share Our Success" in their activities, Bill McQueary, assistant superintendent of the district, said.

Each school will be the host of an open house and the public is invited to attend any or all of the events.

ELEMENTARY

Bauer Magnet School — The public is invited to visit the campus during the week during school hours, 8:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. The Parents-Teacher Association will be the host of an open house Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

City Cultural Arts winners will be announced at the open house.

• Parents are invited to a coffee and donut reception Wednesday from 7:30-8 a.m. in the library. At 9:30 a.m., a spelling bee contest will take place in the cafeteria.

• Parents are invited to dine in the cafeteria with their students on designated days of the week as follows: first grade — Monday; second grade — Tuesday; third grade — Wednesday; fourth grade — Thursday; fifth grade — Friday.

• Classes will be competing for the most visitors in each room. First place will be a pizza party, second place will have a fried chicken picnic, and third place will have an ice cream party.

• Also, children are asked to dress on a theme each day: Monday — Patriotic Day; Tuesday — T-shirt day; Wednesday — Western day; Thursday — blue and yellow; Friday — Dress-up day.

College Heights — A Parents-Teacher Association meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday will be followed by an open house.

• Fathers and grandfathers are invited to a donut reception Thursday from 7-9 a.m. titled "Donuts for Dads and Granddads."

• The annual campus spelling bee will be Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. The public is invited. The winner will advance to the county spelling bee Tuesday, March 10.

Kentwood — A Parents-Teacher Association meeting followed by an open house and book fair is scheduled for Tuesday at 7 p.m.

At the book fairs, students are able to purchase books and materials that help develop basic skills, according to a school release.

The book fair also will be open during the day from 8 to 8:30 a.m., and from 3:15 to 4 p.m.

• The annual spelling bee will be Friday at 9 a.m. in the school cafeteria. Fourth and fifth grade students will participate.

• A bulletin board will display pictures, ribbons and other honors received by Kentwood students during the school year.

• Parents are invited to dine with children in the cafeteria according to the following schedule: Monday — first grade; Tuesday — second grade; Wednesday — third grade; Thursday — fourth grade; Friday — fifth grade.

• Children are asked to dress according to the county spelling bee Tuesday, SCHOOL WEEK page 2A

Heart raced, blood rushed as gun drawn

By EDDIE CURRAN
 Staff Writer

It was 4:20 a.m. when the man put a 12-pack of beer and a pair of cheap sunglasses on the counter at the 7-Eleven. Then he pointed a gun at Ronnie Cobb's stomach.

The moment Cobb saw that gun, he felt what he called a "head rush."

"When he pulled it out, my heart just raced, and all the blood just rushed to my head," Cobb said Thursday at his home on 1711 Young St.

Cobb, 18, was telling just what it's like to be robbed, when working alone in a convenience store late at night.

He was recalling the robbery of exactly three weeks earlier — Feb. 5. He had been working the midnight shift, 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., for four months at the Eighth and Gregg Streets 7-Eleven.

Since opening 16 years ago, an armed robbery never had occurred at that store — located on one of the busiest streets in town.

"I wasn't scared at all. I never thought that it would happen right up until it happened. Before then, a 15-year old punk stole a 12-pack of beer, but that's the only thing that ever happened," he said.

The night of the robbery was Cobb's last at 7-Eleven. He said he had just given his two week's notice, because his family is moving from Big Spring.

But, he said, "It made the whole difference between me not working" those last two weeks.

According to Cobb, the night of the crime was cool and rainy, like many recent nights in Big Spring. About 4 a.m., in the middle of a slow shift, a 5-foot, 1-inch Hispanic male, approximately 125 pounds, entered the store. He fled on foot.

Cobb said the customer paid for a hot dog and ate it in the store. He asked for and was granted permission to use the rest room. When he returned, he bought a can of root beer.

Cobb said he was quiet but friendly, and he explained to Cobb that he was looking for his wife. Cobb said the man had dirt on his jacket, and looked like "he'd been having a hard time."

After choosing a pair of sunglasses, the man walked to the back of the store toward the beer.

"I told him, 'I can't sell any beer.' I know he heard me, because I've got a pretty loud voice, but he grabbed a 12-pack of Milwaukee's Best and started walking toward the counter. I got a real good look at him then, because I thought he was going to steal the beer.

"I told him again he couldn't, and he said, 'Why not?' I told him it was after hours. Then he pulled out a .22 revolver and he said, 'How about now?'"

"He had the hammer back, and I could see that it was loaded. It was a revolver. If he had twisted his finger, it could have gone off," Cobb said, noting that

200 rally against sex education classes

SNYDER (AP) — About 200 people rallying against sex education courses for young students in Snyder schools were told by a local minister to fast and pray for guidance because "education has never cured sin."

Local church officials say the classes, to begin in about two months for fifth, seventh and ninth graders with parental permission, would encourage sexual activity.

Eleven churches and pastors endorsed a full page ad in the Snyder Daily News promoting the rally and decrying the proposed classes.

Friday night, ministers asked rally participants at the Scurry County Coliseum to pray while ministers decide what to do.

"Education has never cured sin, and it never will cure sin," Rev. Danny Williams, pastor of Lighthouse Assembly of God, said.

Williams said the ministers are not against good health and hygiene but say sex education of the type to be given in Snyder would encourage premarital sex.

"...Fornication and all uncleanness, let it not once be named among you," Williams said.

"We must rise up to the occasion because of the word of God and not let this be taught to our children."

The seventh grade curriculum, titled "Seventh Grade Human Growth and Development," includes the proper use of condoms, birth control pills, and contraceptive foams, jellies and sponges. It also states that teachers stress that the best form of birth control is saying "no."

Williams told the group to go home get their lives in order and fast from Monday through Wednesday. Thursday, ministers will meet to decide to approach the school board about the classes.

In a Feb. 22 Snyder-Daily News ad promoting the meeting, the churches charged the sex education classes with "aiding and abetting sexual promiscuity."

However, a Snyder Independent School District official said that many parents and church leaders have approved of the district's sex education curriculum.

Assistant Superintendent Jerry Scannichio said that the school board began talking about the classes after school counselors said more Snyder students are getting pregnant.

Scannichio said an advisory group that included parents, teachers and a minister recommended that the classes be offered.

During a Feb. 17 board meeting, trustees approved teaching birth control methods to seventh-grade students. However, the material was changed to stress the means of preventing sexually transmitted diseases rather than preventing pregnancy when parents became worried the classes would encourage sexual activity.

Mayor to receive sizable donation for softball park

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
 Staff Writer

A proposed softball complex may become reality through good will efforts by interested citizens, renowned entertainers, and federal camp inmates.

An elderly Big Spring gentleman is expected to make a sizable monetary donation towards the effort during a Monday morning press conference scheduled for 8:45 a.m. at city hall, Mayor Cotton Mize said Saturday night.

"It's a super gesture on anybody's part and a good sign for the community," Mize said about the expected charitable financial contribution.

The mayor preferred not to release the man's name nor the proposed financial amount he is expected to donate.

"The fellow is supposed to give me a check of sizeable money," Mize said.

The man's grandson is a former catcher on a Big Spring softball team the mayor coached, Mize said.

The financial contribution, in addition to revenues raised from the Stevie Ray Vaughan concert in Midland Saturday night, and the Willie Nelson concert on March 14 in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum will help considerably in a fund drive for the complex, Mize said.

Both performers agreed to perform benefit concerts to aid Comanche Trail Park renovation efforts.

"I'm going to challenge some other people interested in helping Big Spring and softball in general," Mize said.

The goal is to raise approximately MAYOR page 2A

Cleve Forward serves some food for Vernice Jacobs during an ethnic food festival at the fair barn Saturday afternoon. The festival and art exhibitions were part of the NAACP's observance of Black History Month. The event had better participation and attendance than last year, Dock Voorhies, local celebration committee chairman, said.

ly $85,000 to $70,000 to construct two new fields, Mize said.

City councilmen previously budgeted $110,000 of its funds for softball fields, but had to transfer those funds in mid-January into monies raised for a grant application to the state for rebuilding Comanche Lake Dam.

"That left us with zero for the softball fields," Mize said.

Though a proposed site in Comanche Trail Park has met opposition from Coronado Hills resident representatives, Mize said the city park "would be the ideal place" to locate the complex.

Construction costs would be reduced because Big Spring Federal Prison camp inmates would be utilized to perform the labor, Mize said.

"The federal government funded the building of the park (Comanche Trail Park) in 1936 and consequently we can use federal labor," he added.

A breakdown of costs for building softball fields is 70 percent labor and 30 percent for materials, Mize said.

Federal prisoners are currently enlarging the park's existing softball field that the two proposed fields would augment into a complex, Mize said.

The park also provides additional advantages in providing a swimming pool and other recreational outlets for players on out-of-town teams who bring their families and children, the mayor said.

The city park site though has met opposition from Coronado Hills resident representatives who presented a petition Feb. 24 to city councilmen urging that construction be placed "a proper distance from a neighborhood."

The representatives also complained that noise and traffic problems in addition to ecological damage would arise if the complex is located in the park.

"Noise," Mize said in response to the complaints, "all those people (Coronado Hills residents) have refrigerated air and closed windows in their homes during the summer. They don't hear anything."

Two local accidents reported

Persons involved in two major city accidents Friday night and Saturday morning were treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center, hospital nurses said.

Zena Clark Bedwell, 24, of For-san was discharged Saturday morning after being admitted Friday night for lacerations and bruises suffered in a three-vehicle accident in the 3400 block of West Highway 80.

She was driving a two-door sedan westbound when she collided with a travel trailer being pulled by a pickup driven by William C. Gill, 62, of E. Peoria, Ill., according to the police report.

Gill was attempting to make a left turn from the right shoulder of the westbound lane when the 6:30 p.m. accident occurred, according to the police report.

He was uninjured and cited with improper left turn.

The other local accident occurred at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the intersection of East Fourth and Owens streets.

Carrie Gale Brown, 18, and Connie Dale Brown, 18, both of Iraan were transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center's emergency room by Lee Ambulance paramedics. They were later released after being treated for lacerations and bruises, an emergency room spokeswoman said.

The two girls were traveling eastbound on Fourth Street when driver Carrie Brown attempted to make a left turn onto Owens Street from the far right lane. The car collided with a Suburban Wagon driven by Denise Burns Jackson, 27, 812 W. Third St., who was traveling in the far left lane.

Jackson was uninjured.

Brown was cited for turning left from the wrong lane.

Parade tragedy
Cedric Governor, a student at Julian Percy school in Marrero, La., is comforted by Eugene Jones following an accident involving a runaway horse at a Mardi Gras parade Friday. A riderless horse bolted and ran through the crowd of parade watchers, injuring 15 people, including a 6-month-old baby who was in critical but stable condition Saturday.

he often shoots at a gun range, and knows about guns.

"I told him he could just take the beer and he said, 'Give me the money, too.' I opened the register and gave him all the money, and I asked him if he wanted the change.

"I was trying to give him all that money. I wanted him to feel right at home. You know what I mean," Cobb said, now able to laugh about it.

"The only thing I was thinking about at that point was — do everything right, don't make him nervous. Mostly, I just wanted him to get his business done and get out as-quick as possible."

Cobb said his main concern was an alarm on the cash register that goes off when a certain key is pushed. He thought an alarm might scare the man into shooting.

"I was thinking to myself, 'I've got to hit the right button,'" he said, explaining that he was afraid he might sound the alarm by accident.

Next, Cobb said he started worrying about what the man would do after getting the money. He had been in the store for 20 minutes, and Cobb realized that the man knew that Cobb could identify him.

"I wasn't nervous; I was terrified. I thought it would be pretty stupid for him not to shoot me after I had been looking at him for 20 minutes.

"What I was thinking was, that if he threatens to kill me, I could get the trash can behind me and knock him in the head. I figured maybe he'd just get me once and I'd be able to knock him out before he got me again.

"Other than dying, I might as well have a chance to live, because he didn't have it pointed at my face, he had it pointed at my stomach. It's all hypothetical, but if you wait and see, it's too late," Cobb said.

Cobb didn't have to use the trash can. He gave the man $20 in cash, and the thief grabbed the beer, the sunglasses and raced out the door and around the building.

Cobb said he immediately locked the door, then called the police and his store manager.

Sgt. Bill Anderson of the Big Spring Police Department, the investigating officer, said he has considered some suspects, but no arrests have been made.

Judy Turner, the store manager, said she understands why Cobb quit.

Union demands report

EDMOND, Okla. — Relatives of 14 postal employees shot to death by a fellow worker accused the Postal Service of a cover-up, and a union leader vowed to go to court if necessary to get the full 7,000-page report on the massacre.

The Postal Service on Friday released a 25-page version of its report with some passages blacked out.

A 10-page summary was given members of Congress last week at the urging of U.S. Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., and the 25-page version was released only after the postal union and several news organizations demanded it under the Freedom of Information Act.

"We hope legal action will not be necessary, but it probably will be to get an accurate and complete report," said Cliff Guffey, a postal union representative from Washington.

"We cannot correct what has happened, but we can learn from our experiences," he said at a news conference attended by about 100 survivors and relatives of victims.

Pump price may drop

LOS ANGELES — Gasoline prices should head downward after a two-month rise, following recent declines in the price of crude oil, industry analysts say.

But experts doubt last year's low of 75 cents per gallon will return.

Since Dec. 19, the average price of regular unleaded gasoline at Los Angeles self-service stations has jumped from 75.5 cents a gallon to 92.3 cents, said Trilby Lundberg, publisher of the 50-state Lundberg Survey.

Analysts cited a worldwide oil surplus and rumors that a production agreement between members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is falling apart as reasons for the anticipated decline.

"Everything is hinged to the price of crude oil," said Vic Rasheed, executive director of the Service Station Dealers of America in Washington. "Within the next three months, we're probably going to see a drop of another two to three dollars a barrel. If that happens, you might see a reduction of about six cents a gallon."

Oral Roberts to fast

TULSA, Okla. — Television evangelist Oral Roberts says he plans to begin fasting on March 22 and to continue until he reaches a fund-raising goal "or God calls me home."

Roberts has said that God told him he will die unless he raises $8 million for medical missions by the end of March. In a letter mailed to supporters last week, Roberts said he was $1.5 million short of the goal.

"So with God's leading on March 22, I am going to make the most important trip I have ever made up into the Prayer Tower (at Oral Roberts University)," Roberts said.

"I am going to be in and out of the Prayer Tower praying and fasting until victory comes or God calls me home."

Eight killed in Mississippi

By RON HARRIST
Associated Press Writer

LAUREL, Miss. — Powerful tornadoes swept across south-central Mississippi on Saturday, killing eight people and injuring at least 100 others, and fallen trees and power lines blocked rescue efforts.

"We've got injuries along a 15- to 20-mile track," said Carl Carlos, Jones County Civil Defense director.

One or more tornadoes, spawned by a storm system that had dumped heavy rain and caused flooding in other parts of the state, hit at midmorning and killed three people in the community of Glade, five miles southeast of Laurel.

"The area was hit so bad that they apparently couldn't get to all the victims," said JoAnn Dunagin, nursing director at South Mississippi State Hospital in Laurel.

Another person was killed on the outskirts of Laurel and the three other fatalities were elsewhere in the county, said Jones County Deputy Larry Harper.

A tornado ripped through the eastern part of Glade, a farming community of about 300 people about 90 miles north of the Gulf Coast, and destroyed a school, church, store and several houses, Carlos said.

Two other unincorporated areas, Dixie ad Powers, also were hit as one or more twisters cut a path 20 miles long by two miles wide through the county,

Carlos said. The National Weather Service reported trees and power lines were downed from Rankin County, in central Mississippi near Jackson, to the Alabama border and tornado warnings were issued in eight counties.

Forty people were taken to Jones County Community Hospital and 12 others were taken to South Mississippi State Hospital. Most suffered cuts and bruises from flying debris and some drove themselves to the hospitals, officials said.

Janet West watched through the door of her family's storm cellar while the wind whipped rain "to the consistency of smoke."

"We looked outside and it just didn't look right," Mrs. West said. "It was almost green."

"I've got a trailer house behind me and I swear it looked like it had exploded," said Mrs. West's husband Howard. "Our neighbors' houses are tore all to pieces."

Charles Tigert said he had just heard the warning and climbed into his truck with his wife when the tornado touched down.

"It turned the trailer on us. I had to kick the glass," said Tigert. "The school's gone. The church and the store, they're both gone."

Clyde Logan said his mobile home was destroyed. "It just blew my trailer all to pieces," he said.

Terrorist given life

PARIS — A special court ignored a prosecution plea for leniency and sentenced a Lebanese terrorist to life in prison Saturday for complicity in the shooting deaths of two diplomats and the attempted killing of a third. Two of the victims were Americans.

Paris shuddered under a wave of bombings last year as terrorists tried to force the government to free the defendant, Georges Ibrahim Abdallah. The prosecution asked for leniency in an effort to spare France new terrorism.

Defense lawyer Jacques Verges said the sentence, the maximum possible, would look to "many Arab militants like a declaration of war."

Georges Kiejman, a lawyer representing the United States in the case, called the sentence "very courageous."

Abdallah refused to attend the weeklong trial and was not present when the verdict and sentence were announced. Verges said the 35-year-old Abdallah laughed upon hearing the sentence and told him he would not appeal.

Kremlin ready for pact

MOSCOW — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Saturday announced the Kremlin is ready for a separate accord with the United States to rid Europe of medium-range nuclear missiles, indicating a major switch in his policies.

He said that while the Soviets will insist on a ban on space-based weapons as a condition for reducing long-range nuclear weapons, there was no Soviet obstacle in the way now for agreement to eliminate medium-range missiles from Europe.

In announcing the new proposal, Gorbachev said the ruling Communist Party Politburo was motivated in part because U.S. officials were "sabotaging accords in each of the (three) areas by pleading that the Soviet Union insists on solving them as a package."

He said the Reykjavik talks produced a "ready accord" on eliminating U.S. and Soviet missiles from Europe.

Aquino offers amnesty

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino offered "full and complete amnesty" Saturday to Communist rebels who lay down their arms within six months, saying she wants to end the suffering from 18 years of fighting.

"We hope by these measures to reunite families, bind up the brokenhearted and heal the wounds of our nation," she said on national television.

Her proclamation appeared to be aimed also at Moslem rebels fighting for 14 years now for self-rule or autonomy in the southern Philippines.

The offer came three weeks after a 60-day cease-fire between the government and Communist rebel forces expired Feb. 8. Increased hostilities have killed at least 95 people since then.

Texas needs a reserve fund

It's farsighted of Texas officials to be talking about creating a "rainy-day" fund to protect against economic downturns. The pain caused by the current revenue shortages should motivate legislators to counter effects of business cycles.

Money should not be put into a reserve account, however, until vital state programs are financed adequately.

Gov. Bill Clements and Rep. Stan Schleiter, D-Killen, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, are calling for the establishment of the billion-dollar contingency fund. It would be financed by any increase in taxes paid on oil and gas if their prices exceed expectations and by setting aside half of any future surplus in the operating budget.

The idea for a "rainy-day" fund is not new, but it never seems to gain much legislative support.

Why should it? The state often has had a budget surplus of $1 billion. But now Texas is facing a billion-dollar shortage, and the Legislature must find some combination cuts and increased revenues to avoid a $5 billion shortage for the 1988-89 biennium.

A budget stabilization fund would help protect vital state services from crippling cuts in the future, as well as enhance the state's bond rating and prevent emergency tax increases. The fund would be limited to 5 percent of the state's general tax collections.

Rep. Schleiter notes that 28 other states have similar funds to protect them from unexpected declines in tax revenues.

The Texas Constitution would have to be amended to establish the special fund and, under Schleiter's plan, two-thirds of the lawmakers in both the House and Senate would have to approve any transfer of funds from the reserve.

It sounds good, and we're in favor of the idea. The state needs a "rainy-day" fund.

But while the Legislature is considering the creation of the fund, it should add another proposal to its agenda — requiring lawmakers to meet every year to review spending and revenue programs.

Sentence seen as slap on wrist

To the editor:

Isn't it amazing how much one's life means to society and our "fair and wonderful judicial system?"

If you take someone's life, and you're Anglo of course, you get slapped on the wrist, get 10 years probation, and a 10,000 dollar fine. Not much for taking a life, right?

I'm wondering what the outcome of a Hispanic boy taking the life of an Anglo man is going to be worth?

The tables are turned around here, people. We need to wake up.

Read about the Crawford trial. You'll find it very interesting — and sickening, I might add.

I hope that Mr. Crawford, the jury members and Mr. Moore can sleep soundly at night, because I can't. And the Yanez family will never be able to.

What if this were to happen to you? Are you prepared for the outcome — "justice for ..."

Observance draws freedom cry

To the editor:

As Black History Month ends, I'm submitting this poem in honor of the celebration.

A Deep Freedom Cry

Begone ye senseless mites who choose to hold fast the reigns of my freedom.

I care not that your mind is sealed with the bonds of naught.

Thrice times 9,000 have I beseeched you to dismiss and remove these weighted chains;

for they hinder my heart from the richness only freedom brings.

Loose me I pray thee! No longer do I wish to be held captive only to be nurtured by your prejudice and selfish values.

My heart sings the song of a free unyielding spirit, crying to be set free.

You understand not this bewitching need deep within my soul.

The battle shall continue and thus shall I emerge victorious with broken chains clasping the bounty of Freedom.

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, March 1, the 60th day of 1987. There are 305 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 1, 1932, the infant son of Charles and Anne Lindbergh was kidnapped from the family's home near Hopewell, N.J. Remains identified as those of the baby were found the next May.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann was tried, convicted and executed for the infant's murder.

On this date:

In 1790, the first U.S. Census was authorized.

In 1864, Rebecca Lee became the first black woman to receive a medical degree, from the New England Female Medical College in Boston.

In 1867, Nebraska became the 37th state of the Union.

In 1872, Congress authorized the creation of Yellowstone National Park.

In 1954, an armed group of Puerto Rican nationalists, firing wildly from the gallery of the House of Representatives, wounded five congressmen.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy established the Peace Corps.

In 1962, the first K mart store opened, in Garden City, Mich.

In 1967, U.S. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York, accused of misconduct, was denied his seat in the 90th Congress.

In 1969, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Powell had to be seated.

In 1981, Irish Republican Army member Bobby Sands began a hunger strike at the Maze Prison in Northern Ireland to demand political status for Irish nationalist prisoners. Sands died 65 days later.

Youths need to be taught the values of involvement

By DARRELL BERKHEIMER

Why are only about 5 percent of the people willing to get involved in volunteer activities? a friend asked.

I don't know how accurate his 5 percent "guesstimate" is. I think and hope the percentage is much higher. But I also suspect that many people have never been taught the importance of volunteer work — or, more specifically, the practical values of being involved.

The subject also raises the question of whether each of us is a citizen or a resident. I believe a considerable difference exists between the two.

Being a resident merely means I live here.

But if I'm a citizen, the term implies that I have an obligation to do whatever I can to improve the quality of life in both our community and nation.

I also believe that this concept is something we fail to teach our youth.

Do we teach that educational growth and personal enjoyment result from being involved? Are we explaining how volunteer activities usually can provide experience toward getting better jobs?

For instance: Employers often want to know how job candidates spend their leisure time.

Which would you hire — an applicant who's involved in community activities, or one whose leisure time is spent watching television and going to the movies?

Employers seek candidates who can think, whose activities demonstrate responsibility, dependability and leadership qualities.

Involvement in volunteer activities can demonstrate all three.

Because Joe Jangle was willing to serve as chairman for an important community project, that demonstrates a willingness to accept responsibilities and leadership qualities.

Volunteer service, in general, indicates that we care and are committed to improving current conditions.

I doubt, however, that we will see a widespread increase in volunteer involvement until the concept is emphasized more to our youth.

Some school teachers, to their credit, will note that they have emphasized volunteerism in civics or political science classes. But I've never had anyone tell me that they received instruction on the practical values of volunteer involvement — either in high school or college.

To my knowledge, no courses or units are designed specifically to meet that objective.

If teachers and instructors think the practical values are self-evident as a result of civics classes, I believe they're wrong. The concept must be discussed specifically.

No, I don't advocate that everyone should immediately join several clubs. But I believe that each of us needs to be active in at least one community service organization, and probably at least one professional or occupational group.

You may have heard it said that the busiest people seem to be the people who accomplish the most. That's often true, and it usually means that those people have developed skills in time management, setting priorities, delegation and motivation.

Those are skills that will help us throughout our personal and family lives.

In addition, there are some psychological reasons for teaching the importance of being involved.

Psychologist Dr. Abraham Maslow pointed out that after our physical and security needs are met, we have social, ego and accomplishment needs. Volunteer activities offer ideal ways to meet those needs.

This subject also reminds me of an old commercial message that ended with the words: "Try it; you'll like it."

I'm not sure I can even imagine the multitude of accomplishments possible if everyone became involved.

Immigration law may fail

By JESSE TREVINO

The Reagan Administration — distracted by the Iranian arms fiasco — may be setting Texas up for a major fall in the way officials are contemplating implementing the new immigration law.

If proposed regulations aren't changed, and if adequate financing isn't secured, the immigration law may fail and the treasuries of the state — plus those of many cities and towns — may be in for a rude surprise.

It behooves Texans to understand what is going on; if the roof falls in, then they won't wonder what went wrong with legislation designed to help solve the country's illegal immigration problem.

Local officials, especially, should not be lulled into thinking they don't have to worry about the financial cost of the new law.

The major problem with the immigration legislation is its financing. Many Congress members came to support the bill, after opposing it, because they were told the law would be fair, and that the program would be adequately financed.

But reports coming out of Washington have some state officials worried they may be left holding the bag.

Congress originally authorized $5 billion during this and the next four years to reimburse states for costs resulting from the new immigration law.

In the past few weeks, questions have arisen over which costs the federal government will cover, and whether money from the $1 billion annual fund can be "carried over" to subsequent fiscal years — when the full impact of the immigration law becomes apparent.

This carryover provision is of particular importance. Few claims will be made this year against the initial $1 billion authorized by Congress. If that money can be carried into the next year, some states could breathe easier.

Of equal importance is whether the $1 billion annual appropriation will cover the state's Medicaid costs. Federal officials recently indicated the federal government won't cover those costs — a blow to states like Texas, which is caught trying to balance its budget while recovering from an economic depression.

Cities and towns, too, may be surprised that they also might have new, unplanned costs. Federal officials do not plan to reimburse them for "services previously offered" to illegal aliens. Counties, such as El Paso, which accumulated millions of dollars in hospital costs last year, may have to bear those costs.

A particularly galling feature of the proposed regulations involve legalization of the undocumented workers — the carrot that brought many members of Congress to the table.

Legalization — offering citizenship to those who had made lives for themselves here — would mean a peaceful implementation of the program so as to prevent a massive round-up of aliens. Some feared such a round-up would have been an international public relations disaster, especially as the Administration sketched the Russians for their human rights violations.

To implement legalization and other provisions of the immigration bill in 1987, Congress authorized $422 million. But the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the Department of Justice, the Office of Management and Budget, and the White House whittled the budget to $138 million — with no money, in effect, for the legalization process.

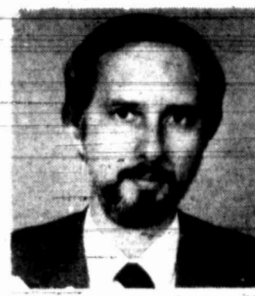

Instead, the INS shifted the cost of the program onto the backs of poverty-ridden workers and families — a sure-fire way to sabotage the program and turn it into a measure by which many of them won't attempt legalization and thus be subject to deportation.

An important aspect of the legalization program involved local auxiliary organizations, which would screen the applicants and provide assistance to those workers who labor in the far flung areas of Texas — nowhere near an INS office.

With little or no money to finance such a system, the application of the law will be uneven and unjust.

With those kinds of radical departures, Congress' immigration bill has been hijacked. We now have a deportation bill, which also may burden state and local governments.

Texas clout may be key to projects

By JIM DAVIS

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — We Texans like to think of ourselves as independent types. Fortunately, we don't carry that self-image to an extreme when it comes to federal help during tough economic times.

We know times are tough now, and, as we have for decades, we know a federal project or two won't hurt.

Lyndon B. Johnson was an expert as a congressman, senator, majority leader, vice president and president at winning federal projects for his home state.

The state also enjoyed clout in Washington, D.C., through the decades, thanks to U.S. House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Vice President John Nance Gardner and a host of long-term Texas congressmen who wielded power through their tenures.

The state's political power may not be as strong today as it was in the Johnson and Rayburn eras, but it is significant.

Lloyd Bentsen is a power in the Democratic-controlled Senate, and junior senator Phil Gramm is a leading GOP spokesman with strings to pull within the Reagan administration.

Vice President George Bush continually stresses his adopted Texas ties, even if his effectiveness becomes diluted because of the Irangate mess.

Gov. Bill Clements also enjoys some access to the Reagan administration, as demonstrated by his private visit with the President last week.

We can use all the string-pulling we can manage these days, because two key projects that we need are up for grabs.

One is the Homeport proposal. The other is the Superconducting Super Collider, or SSC, project.

Together, they could pump billions into the state economy and create thousands of new jobs.

Of the two, the SSC would have the biggest impact. According to various estimates, the atom smasher would bring a federal investment of $6 billion to $10 billion over 10 years.

The project would involve construction of an underground circular tunnel 52 miles in circumference through which scientists would send subatomic particles in opposite directions. Their collisions are expected to open new doors of knowledge about matter and the universe.

Construction could begin in 1989 and involve a work force of about 4,500. Upon completion, probably in 1996, the facility would draw scientists from all over the world.

The area selected for the facility will experience a tremendous real estate and business boom. So numerous states are fighting for it.

Texas, considered among the leading candidates, has much to offer in open spaces and quality universities that could support the SSC. It also will have plenty of electrical power thanks to some nuclear plants that otherwise aren't needed.

Our negatives are that we're a big state with lots of areas competing for selection, perhaps hurting the overall effort. We're also scrimping on state spending while some states are offering cash inducements and boosting higher education funds in hopes of being more attractive to the SSC selection team.

Site selection isn't a problem for Homeport. Money is.

A site near Ingleside on Corpus Christi Bay will be the main base for the battleship group and training aircraft carrier. Galveston will house support facilities.

But the purse strings are tight in Washington these days, and some powerful congressmen still question whether spreading the Navy into various new homeports is necessary or even wise.

The Navy is seeking $247.3 million for nine facilities in 1988, including $38.8 million for the Ingleside project. The vote is expected to be close.

In both projects, facts and solid arguments will be involved. But political clout also will have a big say in the outcomes. Texas' clout will be tested, and, if it wins, our economic picture suddenly will be a lot brighter.

Annual fund drive to begin

Goliad will start its World's Finest Chocolate sales next week. This is a schoolwide project to raise money for our school's activity fund.

The money will be used to buy supplies and equipment for student enrichment. These delicious milk chocolate with almond bars are $1 each.

Prizes will be offered to students ranging from 2 1/2 inch Goliad Buttons (for half a case sold) to portable TV sets (for 20 cases sold).

Open House Night and Dress-Up Day will be March 5, at 7 p.m. We will start off with a Band and Choir concert, under the direction of Mr. Daniel and Mrs. Lee.

After the concert, parents and students can visit the classrooms. Students are encouraged to dress-up.

The tennis team won their first tournament against Forsan with 23 wins and just three losses.

School cheerleaders elected

The 1987-88 Stanton High School Cheerleader elections were conducted Feb. 19 and 20, in the Stanton High School gym.

On Feb. 19, the contestants exhibited their spirits and enthusiasm before the judges, who were from Midland College and Howard College.

They performed before the student body on Feb. 20. The election was very close. After totaling the judge's score, and popular vote, along with teacher evaluation, the top five were chosen.

They are: Kaki Elmore, Kristi Fryar, Kelly Glaspie, Kody Newman, and Stacie Tom. The alternate for next fall will be Julie Vann.

On Saturday, members of the Stanton High School Band participated in a solo and ensemble contest. The group, and Band Director, Rick Lee traveled to Pecos, where the contest was held.

Many of the individuals are expected to receive a rating of one, those who do will be advanced to state competition this summer in Austin.

Members of the band are: Julie Vann, Vickie Jeffcoat, Jhana Carpenter, Lauri Gerald, Timberele Koonce, Dana Davis, Jill Todd, Jody Brandenberger, Russell Laing, Reggie Franklin, Chris Carroll, Steven Ruiz, Jackie Quaid, Ray Portillo;

Coahoma students place first

COAHOMA — Three Coahoma Vocational Office Education students placed first in the Area IV, Region 2 Youth Leadership Conference Saturday at Odessa High School.

Coahoma students placing first and advancing to state included: Tina Robertson — Office Support Assistant. Tina also took first place in Basic Business Skills, and had the highest score of any of the 350 students attending the conference.

Also placing first were Dani Perkins — Banking Procedures; Denette Dick — Financial Specialist.

These three students and Marie Ethridge, adviser, will participate in State OEA Conference in Houston March 4-8. The top three places in each contest will advance to National Conference in Des Moines, Iowa, May 7-10.

Other Coahoma students placing at Area include: Dee Jon Douglas — Extemporaneous Verbal Communication — Third Place; Sonceia Scott — Bulletin Board Promotion — Third Place; Shona Drewery — Prepared Verbal Communications — Third Place.

Officials sing jailhouse blues

PECOS (AP) — Each weekend four guards with 42 sets of handcuffs board a bus and head for San Diego, Calif., to fetch the federal prisoners that keep the new jail here barely in the black.

Since it opened last May, the new 528-bed Reeves County Law Enforcement Center has never steadily housed the minimum 375 inmates it needs just to break even.

The irony is that the Texas prison system is bursting at the seams and has shut down several times to avoid topping inmate population limits.

The idea for the new $6.2 million one-story jail, which is separate from the regular 84-bed county jail, was conceived "when the U.S. Marshals Service was screaming for space," said County Judge Bill Pigman.

Reeves County Sheriff Raul Florez said the Marshals Service got tired of waiting for the new jail to be built and handed out its prisoner contracts to other counties.

"It should have taken nine months (to complete); instead it took two years," he said.

Pigman blames the shortage of prisoners on other factors, such as the new immigration reform law, which was designed to curb illegal migration from Mexico into the United States. Yet, the law was signed last November, six months after the jail opened.

The judge also says the farm season, when illegal Mexican workers traditionally flock across the border to labor in the fields, has not yet begun this year. However, the farm season was in full swing when the jail opened last spring.

Whatever the cause, this economically hard-hit county now is trying to pay off its expensive new facility.

In January, the county paid $234,000 in interest for the jail, Pigman said, and a $996,000 payment is due in July.

And while the money melts away, the lockup is still looking for the customers who were supposed to turn it into a money-maker.

"We're not short," said Pigman. "But it's like your personal account when you get low. We could be in a hole. But right now it looks like we can make it."

"In this situation, you put your money away on the good days for the bad days," said Florez.

Pigman said he has even written to Gov. Bill Clements' office, offering the jail to the state, whose corrections system has been shut down several times this year because of overcrowding.

"They are leaning toward buying it," said Pigman. "But they need 2,000 beds, not 528."

Reeves County isn't the first to come up with that idea, said Texas Department of Corrections spokesman David Nunnelee.

"I've had several calls (from reporters) about counties offering to build this and that, some kind of facilities," said Nunnelee.

The TDC has several thousand minimum-security prisoners, but it's building trusty camps at 10 of the TDC's 27 existing prisons, most of them throughout east and southern Texas, he said.

Reeves County charges the U.S. Bureau of Prisons $30 a day for each prisoner from the San Diego Metropolitan Correctional Center. That includes everything except hospital stays, said jail director Eddie Markham.

At that rate, there is still a profit per prisoner but only just enough, said Markham.

"There lies the problem," said Markham, a 24-year veteran of the U.S. Border Patrol and the Marshals Service. "We've got to make money."

The money is sorely needed in this West Texas county of 17,000 residents, most of them living in Pecos and hard-hit by the economic woes of the oil patch.

State may free 186 to halfway houses

AUSTIN (AP) — Recently passed prison legislation could be put to use Sunday with 186 prisoners transferred to halfway houses if the state's prison population still exceeds its 95 percent capacity limit.

Gov. Bill Clements Friday authorized use of a new state law that awards up to 60 days good-conduct time to selected prisoners. The action followed a Texas Department of Corrections announcement Thursday that the prison population was 139 over the 95 percent capacity ceiling.

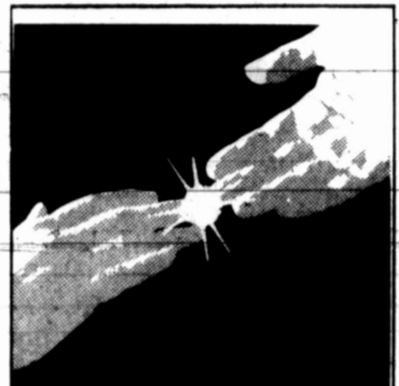

The count at midnight Thursday was 38,529, said David Nunnelee, spokesman for the TDC. The next population figure will be announced Monday afternoon.

Under the Prison Management Act, prisoners awarded the good-conduct time will be moved from prison into supervised halfway house programs, the governor said Friday.

The TDC has been closed to admission of new prisoners since Wednesday.

In signing the action, Clements insisted it was not an early-release program and said the prisoners actually were serving longer sentences.

Meanwhile, the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles said more than 200 agencies have said they are interested in operating highly supervised pre-release centers.

Don't mess with Miss Defense

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor
Franklin is her name and defense is her game.

Howard College Hawk-Queens' sophomore guard Pam Franklin loves to play defense. You can see it in her eyes when the topic of conversation is playing defense. Even more, you can see it the way she plays on the court.

Franklin will get a chance to show off her defensive talents against the best junior college teams in the state when the Queens compete in the Region V tournament March 3-5 in Waco.

Coach Don Stevens' squad will bring their 19-9 record into the first round of tournament play against McLennan, the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference winner. The Queens, third place finishers in the Western Junior Athletic Conference, will play MCC at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

And Franklin is just bubbling to go. "The whole team is excited about going to the tournament. I'm sure we'll have some butterflies at first, but we'll be all right because we'll be in control," said the 5-6 sophomore from Grand Prairie.

Franklin is the type of player who controls things on the offensive and defensive end. Although not usually a starter, as last year, she runs the offense well from her point guard position. She constantly finds the open woman and finds ways of sending out pinpoint passes.

Defensively, she hounds her opponent unmercifully, never giving them any breathing room. One slip up and Franklin is headed downcourt with a steal and a layup.

She says her love of hard-nosed defense goes back to her high school days at Arlington Sam Houston.

"My high school coach Cindy Duvall taught me that defense was the most important thing. That's what she taught all of our players and we were a good defensive team. We went to regionals two years in-a-row," she remembered.

Sometimes Franklin's hard core defense gets opponents riled, and sometimes fighting mad. A good example is when Howard played New Mexico Junior College at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Franklin was playing her usual harassing defense against an NMJC player. Finally the NMJC player got so frustrated that she walked up to Franklin, away from the referee's view, and gave Franklin a shove. Franklin just walked away.

On NMJC's next possession, Franklin swiped the ball while the NMJC player was dribbling and scored on the other end with a layup. The theme of the story?

"I don't get mad, I get even," laughed Franklin.

"I like to play good defense and get the ball to the person who's scoring for us. I really don't like shooting. It's really not important to me."

And that attitude shows in her stats. She only takes about three shots per game, and averages three points per game. But more importantly, she averages four steals and three assists and takes three charges per game.

"Pam is very valuable to our team," said Howard coach Don Stevens. "She is a true point guard that takes control in running the offense. She understands our multiple offenses and knows what the offenses are supposed to accomplish. She's definitely our best defensive player and a very gutsy one. She always looks for the opportunity to take a charge."

The Queens and MCC are no strangers to one another. The Queens defeated MCC 70-68 in the second game of the season in the MCC Classic tournament. In that game Stevens had to go with a smaller lineup to matchup with MCC's small, quick lineup.

"They pose a special problem for us because they don't have a true post player. They have tremendous quickness and are excellent shooters, much like South Plains. You can't play a zone against them."

Stevens says right now he will start his regular lineup of post players Stefanie Massie, Carolyn Willand and guards Terri Powell, Leslie Gooch and Trena Jackson. "We'll see how that goes or if we'll have to go with a smaller lineup," he said.

Stevens likes his team's chances at the tournament. And why shouldn't he? The Queens have beaten every team in the tourney except conference foe Western Texas, and Howard lost to them 65-61 in Snyder.

"We've got just as good of chance as anybody. Right now we're playing our best ball of the season. The key to winning is being consistent, not just from game to game, but minute to minute."

Defense, as always, will also be a key. And there'll be a girl coming off the bench for the Queens who can play it as good as anybody.

Mustang transfers may suffer

DALLAS (AP) — It will be next Saturday before a decision is made on whether Southern Methodist University football players will be allowed to transfer elsewhere in the Southwest Conference without losing eligibility, league commissioner Fred Jacoby said.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported in its Saturday editions that, in a telephone conference call Friday afternoon, SWC faculty representatives voted 5-3 to permit the transfers.

However, the vote was not binding and a decision will not be made until the representatives meet March 7 in Dallas, Jacoby told the newspaper. SMU participated in the conference call, but abstained from voting.

The three schools voting against allowing the transfers to other SWC teams were Arkansas, Texas Tech and Texas Christian, the Star-Telegram said.

Conference officials discussed the possibility of SMU transfers Friday for the first time since the Mustangs football program was suspended Wednesday as part of NCAA sanctions against the school.

TCU faculty representative Dr. Tom Badgett confirmed the school's opposition to permitting the transfers.

"The intent of the rule when it was enacted was to discourage transfers between conference schools for any reason," Badgett said. "If it was a good rule then, it's a good rule now."

"I see no reason why any other Southwest Conference school should directly benefit from another school's misfortune. And I don't think this is the time for the Southwest Conference to appear to be a pack of vultures."

Assistant coaches from many schools swarmed the SMU campus after the announcement Wednesday that SMU would not be permitted to field a team in 1987. Several SWC assistant coaches and recruiting coordinators were among them.

According to conference rules, the only time a player can transfer to another SWC school without losing eligibility is a) if the athlete's grant-in-aid has been withdrawn or reduced in value and b) if the "sport or sports in which the student-athlete participated has been discontinued at the first conference institution."

The debate centered on the interpretation of the word "discontinued" and whether it carried a contingency of being a voluntary action, the Star-Telegram said.

Host Steers shine in tourney

Big Spring Lady Steers' golfer Michelle Cox whallops a tee shot during this weekend's Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament. Cox shot an 89 Saturday, and finished with the fourth best two-day total among the girls.

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Abilene Wylie had all five medalists and easily outdistanced second place Amarillo High to win the boys' division of the Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament for the second year in a row.

Plainview, led by top medalist Sally McMullan, beat second place Snyder by 21 strokes in the two day tournament.

Don Cook, coach of the host Steers, said the tournament "turned out real well," despite brisk winds that hurt Saturday's scores. The boys were able to fit in 36 holes as scheduled, but the girls played just 27 holes because of rain on Friday.

The Big Spring girls, led by Michelle Cox's fourth place total of 133, finished fifth, one stroke behind fourth place Andrews. There were 20 girls teams entered.

Chris Sims' 165 topped the Steer boys, who finished seventh in a field of 17. Though ninth after Friday's round, the Steers closed strongly on Saturday with the fourth best total.

"They played much better today. I was real happy with Wesley Fields on the first day, and James Averette on the second day," Cook said. Fields, playing on the "B" team, shot an 80 on Friday, the best one day score for the Steers. Averette, also on the second team, shot an 83 Saturday.

"By them shooting fourth best today it shows that they have some potential, and they should be competitive in the district with Andrews and Sweetwater. They've got a long ways to go, but they played pretty well today."

"I told them before the tournament that if we could finish in the top five we'd be doing good because of the quality of the teams. And we finished fifth in the girls and seventh in the boys, and that's pretty good," Cook said.

Cox shot an 89 on Saturday, and it was the first time for her to break 90 in a tournament. Cook also praised the play of Samantha Subia and Tammi Burnsed.

Coach's daughter lifts Maidens

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Morton Maidens got some clutch free throw shooting from Marla Shields and held off the Panhandle Pantherettes for a 55-50 victory Saturday afternoon in the Region I-AA finals at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Shields, a freshman guard and the daughter of her coach, Bob Shields, made three of four free throw attempts in the last 30 seconds to seal the game.

Her pressure packed free throws stifled a furious Panhandle comeback, which saw the Pantherettes rally to only 11 field goal attempts.

Panhandle made its comeback on the strength of its fullcourt press, the same weapon Morton used to gain a 16-point halftime lead.

Morton simply overwhelmed Panhandle in the first half, limiting them to only 11 field goal attempts. All of the attempts were taken by forwards Michelle Wilkinson and Julie Pipes. Pipes scored 10 and Wilkinson scored six in the first half.

But the telling tale of the first 16 minutes of play was that Panhandle couldn't get the ball to their two leading scorers because of the Morton press. Keyed by quick hands of Shields and Nedra Johnson, Morton forced 15 Panhandle turnovers in the half.

While Panhandle struggled offensively in the first half, the "J&J" attack, Johnson and Valery Jackson, was doing the job for Morton. The duo scored 11 points apiece in the half. Johnson, who got into foul trouble and eventually fouled out in the fourth quarter, didn't score in the second half. Jackson ended the contest with 19 points, 10 rebounds and six assists.

But the second half was a different story.

Panhandle controlled the defensive tempo and Morton started turning the ball over. Led by the defensive play of Darcee Duncan, Pipes and Wilkinson, Panhandle forced nine Morton turnovers in the third quarter, two more than they had in the first half.

Pipes and Wilkinson started finding the range and the Morton lead was cut to 41-32 going into the final quarter. The Panhandle barrage continued in the fourth quarter and the Pantherettes slowly crept back into the game. Wilkinson bombed in two long range jumpers and the deficit was cut to 49-45 with 3:20 remaining.

Pipes followed with a steal and was fouled on the play. She sank both free throws, cutting the margin to 49-47 with 2:30 remaining. Morton came back when Shields, who also had a game-high six steals, whipped a neat crosscourt pass to fellow freshman Rosemary Franco for an easy basket.

Panhandle retaliated on a jumper by Pipes and cut the lead to 51-50 on a free throw by Wilkinson with 1:45 remaining. The third Morton freshman on the court, Jennifer Evans, made a foul shot, giving the Maidens a 52-50 lead with 1:05 left.

This set the stage for the 5-3 Shields to ice the game by making three of four foul attempts and getting a steal, propelling Morton to

Sports Briefs

Mustangs roll, Tors fall

BROWNFIELD — The Andrews Mustangs advanced to the second round of the state basketball playoffs by defeating the Lubbock Estacado Matadors 82-74 Friday night.

Andrews held a 43-28 halftime lead, but had to hold off a second half Estacado rally. Guard Ryan Davis scored 28 of his 36 points in the second half, but it wasn't enough for the Matadors.

Sophomore Damon Clay paced Andrews with 21 points. Jim Bice scored 19 and Bernard Williams added 16 points.

Andrews advances to regional playoffs against the winner of the Cleburne-Mineral Wells matchup with a record of 29-3.

In other bi-district action, Borger defeated Lamesa 91-67.

AHS stomps Central

Defending state champion Amarillo High had an easy time in the opening round of the AAAAAA playoffs, defeating San Angelo Central 82-55 Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Amarillo, 28-3 for the season, took a 36-25 halftime lead and never looked back. Sammy Simpson led AHS with 23 points. Brant Capps followed with 17, central, which ends the season with a 19-12 mark, was led by Chris Lowery's 22 points.

Steers 2nd in track meet

FORT STOCKTON — The Big Spring Steers got second place at the Comanche Relays Saturday. Big Spring scored 139 points. Monahans won the meet with 144 points.

The Steers gathered six first place finishes. Two Steers set meet records. Brian Mayfield went 6-8 in the high jump and Mario Gonzales ran a 10:13.16 in the 3200. (Meet results can be found in scoreboard).

Bowling tourney planned

The Mixed Couples Tournament will be the weekends of March 21-22 and 28-29 at the Bowl-A-Rama Bowling Lanes.

Entries are due March 15 at midnight. For more information call 263-2408.

B-County falls, 50-22

LEVELLAND — The Borden County Lady Coyotes' basketball season ended in the opening round of the Region 1A basketball tournament, as they dropped a 50-22 decision to Sudan.

Debra Wooley led Sudan with 19 points. Guard Kelli Williams paced Borden County with 14 points. The Lady Coyotes end the season with a 25-5 record. Sudan advances to the state tournament by defeating Nazareth 46-44 in the finals.

SUDAN (50) — Kirkland 248; Henley 204; Pack 044; Nix 113; Crowson 113; Towell 408; Newman 215; Wooley 83 19; totals 20 10 50.

the state basketball tournament in Austin next weekend.

Seniors Wilkinson and Pipes turned in strong performances in their last game for the Pantherettes. They hit 17 of 31 field goals for 42 points, 19 rebounds and five steals.

Morton coach Bob Shields said that poor third quarters have been haunting his team all season. "For some reason we've played bad third quarters all year. I just told the girls to go out there and play hard," he said. "It took us a while to adjust to their defense in the second half."

"I wasn't worried about having four freshmen out there at the last. They operate under pressure well. They've played together a lot."

The Morton mentor was somewhat displeased with the officiating. "The officials let them get away with a lot of stuff in the second half and it enabled them to get back into the game. It's like they (the officials) wanted the game to be close for the crowd."

When asked about the play of his daughter, Shields went from a happy coach to a proud papa. "Maria stepped up and hit some pressure free throws, we really had to have them. It couldn't have happened to a nicer girl. She'd been out all week with an inner ear infection. She didn't have any balance at all. The doctor told her not to play but she told me nothing was going to stop her from playing."

And for the Panhandle Pantherettes, her presence turned out to be very unfortunate.

MORTON (35) — Valery Jackson 7 5 19; Nedra Johnson 5 1 11; Jennifer Evans 3 1 7; Carolette Cobbs 0 0 0; Maria Shields 0 3 3; Imelda Burcarga 0 0 0; LaQuita Thompson 0 0 0; Rosemary Franco 4 0 8; totals 22-46, 11-23, 55.

Employee Mary Hernandez makes a strawberry shake the old-fashioned way, with real ice cream.

Rory Payne sips a Coke as he sits at the counter of the Stanton Drug soda fountain. Rory's father Mike Payne says he has been coming to the shop since he was as old as his five-year-old son.

A little hang-out

STANTON — Lots of things have changed since 1961, but at least one place remains the same.

That place has a worn counter with a row of 10 old-fashioned red stools, and an atmosphere that evokes a sense of nostalgia.

The small floor space is filled with everything from A to Z: a soda fountain and grill, books, cosmetics, cards, office supplies, toys, gift items and a pharmacy in the back.

Stanton Drug is just as it was the day it was built, says Mike Payne.

"I've been comin' here since I was his age," he added, pointing to his 5-year-old son, Rory.

"It used to be the only place in town for the kids to come. It was like Happy Days. All the old men used to sit out here and spit tobacco on the street," he added.

Payne remembers when Cokes came in a glass bottle and cost a nickel.

"I'll never forget that day they went up to a dime. I came in after school to get a Coke and I put my nickel on the counter. The lady told me they were a dime and I had to go to my grandmother's to get another nickel."

Stanton Drug was established in 1951 by Glenn and Mary Purdie Brown. After 32 years, they sold the drug store to Kyle Kendall.

The people in Stanton patronize the store for several reasons. The homey atmosphere and down-to-earth service are just two of them.

"It's like a little cubby hole where everyone calls home," Payne said.

"The ladies meet here after church and others come after aerobics — and we have business luncheons," says Kendall.

"We make huge hamburgers (about 1/2 pound of beef) and we have good, ole' timey milk shakes," says Noemi Ruiz, 20, who cooks for the establishment.

"Our shakes are still made with real ice cream," she added. "We have people who come from Big Spring and Midland just for our shakes."

Cherry Cokes still are made the old-fashioned way.

"We put the ice in a cup, a squirt of cherry, two squirts of Coke and carbonated water to make cherry Cokes," Ruiz explained.

"They've got the best coffee in town," said long-time patron O.L. Snodgraw.

"I've been comin' here ever since it's been open. I come nearly every day," the 86-year-old said. "This is the only place in town to hang out."

And a hang-out it is.

"We have customers who come in every day and spend the whole day in here," says one employee, Mary Hernandez.

Ruiz and Hernandez both claim that the drug store is a "gossip center."

"You find out who's going out with who, and who's doin' what here," Ruiz said with a giggle. "Everybody comes here to find out the gossip."

Stanton Drug is easy to find. It's at the corner of St. Anna and St. Peter streets on the main drag, where the town's only stop light is located.

Long-time patron O.L. Snodgraw relaxes in a booth, with cigarette and coffee nearby. Snodgraw claims to have hung out at the facility since it first opened.

Noemi Ruiz, cook at Stanton Drug for the past year-and-a-half, flattens out the ground beef into patties for her huge hamburgers.

Energy smart home lighting saves money

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent
Lighting accounts for only about 10 percent of the average household electric bill, but it's easy to save on that 10 percent if you know something about light bulbs.

Watts are units of measurement for the amount of electricity needed to power a light bulb. A 200-watt bulb, for instance, uses twice as much electricity as a 100-watt bulb. The more watts used, the higher your electric bill.

Most of us buy light bulbs according to watts, without ever paying attention to the lumens listed on the package label. But the lumens will help you pick the most energy efficient bulb.

The lumen is a measure of the amount of light given off by a bulb. A bulb giving off 2,000 lumens is twice as bright as one that produces 1,000 lumens.

Now, consider both watts and lumens on different bulbs. For example, compare one 100-watt 1,750 lumen bulb to two 60-watt 870-lumen bulbs. Together, the two 60-watt consumers 20 percent more electricity than the 100-watt bulb, but produce 10 less lumens of light.

Focus on family

The 100-watt bulb, with more lumens per watt, is the energy-efficient choice in this situation. Your best buy will be the bulb that gives you the most lumens per watt, has the longest life and will cost the least over its life.

With these facts in mind, you should be ready to "lighten" your energy load, rather than simply grabbing the least expensive bulbs off the store shelf.

ILLUMINATING FACTS ON INCANDESCENT BULBS

Although standard frosted incandescent light bulbs are the most commonly used household bulbs, they are the least energy efficient since they produce less than 20 lumens per watt.

However, there are several ways to use incandescents more efficiently. Wherever you can, use a single high-wattage bulb instead of several low-wattage ones. High-wattage bulbs don't last as long as low-wattage bulbs, but the money saved in electricity will more than compensate for the price of a new bulb. Check to make sure your fixture can accommodate high-wattage bulbs before installing them.

In fixtures with two or more bulb sockets, use just one high-wattage bulb. Place burned out bulbs in the empty sockets to guard against someone sticking a finger in the socket. Also, moisture can penetrate an empty socket and cause a short circuit.

Look for bulbs marked "energy efficient." Although they may be more expensive than standard bulbs, the energy-efficient models should save you money in the long run.

Don't confuse "energy-efficient" bulbs with those marked "long-life." Long-life bulbs do last about three times longer than ordinary incandescents, but they deliver up to 20 percent less light than standard bulbs of equal wattage. But long-life bulbs may best be used in hard-to-reach spots such as closets and stair-wells.

With three-way bulbs, you can adjust the light to your particular needs and eliminate waste. For added savings, try the new energy-saving 30-70-100 watt and 15-35-150 watt three-way bulbs. They produce more light per watt than the standard version.

A new family of incandescent bulbs in 34, 52, 76, 90 and 135 watts are available to replace the standard 40-, 60-, 75-, 100- and 150-watt bulbs. These new bulbs also have higher lumens per watt than the bulbs they replace.

Engagement

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Bobby D. Grant, 2206 Merrily, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Pamela Sue of San Angelo, to Kelly Glen Barnes of Carrollton. # Provisions of the tax bill affect agriculture

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

I failed to attend last week's tax information meeting for agricultural producers. What were some of the major provisions of the reform bill that was discussed?

The tax reform bill would provide tax rates of 15 and 28 percent beginning in 1988. In 1987, there would be 5 tax rates of 11, 15, 28, 35, and 38.5 percent.

Standard deduction for a joint return would be increased to $5,000 in 1988 and the personal exemption would be raised to $1,900 in 1987, $1,950 in 1988, and $2,000 in 1989. Income averaging and the deduction for a two-earner married couple would be repealed. State and local sales taxes would no longer be deductible as itemized deductions.

Deductions for IRA contributions would be repealed for joint filers with adjusted gross income in excess of $50,000 plans. Under the tax reform bill, about 80 percent of all farmers would be in the 15 percent bracket.

For farm corporations, tax reform retains a graduated tax rate structure with a top rate of 34 percent. The tax rate on the first $50,000 of taxable income would be 15 percent. For taxable income between $50,000 and $75,000, tax rate would be 25 percent, and for taxable income above $75,000 the rate would be 34 percent.

Investment tax credit would be repealed. Only 65 percent (82.5 percent in 1987) of unused investment tax credits could be carried forward. Farmers earning 50 percent or more of their gross income from farming would be allowed a 15-year carryback of existing investment tax credits.

For your garden

The amount available for refund would be limited to the lower of: (1) 50 percent of carryovers, (2) the taxpayer's net tax liability for the past 15 years, or (3) $750.

The Accelerated Capital Cost Recovery System depreciation would be retained with modifications. Autos, light trucks and most livestock would be depreciable over a five-year period.

Single-purpose agricultural structures would also be written off over a seven-year period. Deductions for most farm assets would be computed using a 200 percent declining balance method.

Multi-purpose farm structures would be written off over a 31.5-year period at a straight-line rate. The option to expense up to $5,000 would be increased to $10,000 for businesses which invest less than $200,000 per year. Depreciation deductions would not be adjusted for inflation.

The exclusive for long-term capital gains would be eliminated.

Capital gains would be taxed at rates of 15 or 28 percent. Farmers can continue to utilize the cash method of accounting with some limits. A restriction is taxpayers could not deduct amounts paid for feed, seed, fertilizer, or other supplies prior to the year consumed if they exceed more than 50 percent of expenses for which economic performance has occurred.

The bill would require the capitalization of preproductive expenditures for assets with a development period of more than 2 years. However, farmers could elect to continue deducting preproductive period expenditures, including interest. If such an election were made, however, gains from the sale of developed assets would be taxed as ordinary income to the extent of prior deductions. Straight-line depreciation would also be required on all depreciable farm property.

Expensing for soil and water conservation expenditures would only be allowed for conservation activities in connection with a plan approved by the Soil Conservation Service of the USDA or a comparable State authority. The provision for expensing land clearing expenditures would be repealed.

The tax reform bill would permit self-employed individuals to deduct 50 percent (25 percent for tax years beginning before 1990) of the cost of health insurance.

The tax reform bill permits solvent taxpayers to exclude from income the discharge of any qualified farm debt. Basis in farmland is added to the list of tax attributes which may be reduced by the discharge of indebtedness income.

BUSINESS MEALS AND ENTERTAINMENT

(New Rules for 1987)

Only 80% of business meal and entertainment expenses will be deductible effective for tax years beginning after 1986. That means the new rule applies to you as of January 1, 1987, if you are a calendar-year taxpayer, and it applies to you on the first day of your 1987 fiscal year if you are a fiscal-year taxpayer.

Taxes and tips must be included in the total expense before applying the 20% reduction, and any portion of a business meal that is "lavish and extravagant" must be subtracted before the 20% adjustment.

There are exceptions to the 80% rule; that is, in some cases the expense is 100% deductible. For example, employers will still be able to deduct 100% of the cost of food and beverages for employee parties and picnics, small business gifts of food or beverages, and expenses for samples or promotional items for the general public (such as food samples in a supermarket or tickets given to the first 100 customers).

Where meal and entertainment expense reimbursement is treated as compensation to the recipient, it is fully deductible by the payor. Employers can reimburse employees for 100% of business meal and entertainment costs and take a deduction for 80%. The fully reimbursed employee takes no deduction. During 1987 and 1988, meals that are part of a "qualified banquet meeting" at a business seminar or convention are fully deductible if there's a speaker at the meal, 40 or more people attend, most are away from home, and the cost of the food isn't separately stated.

The new rules apply to all business meals, including those that are part of business travel away from home.

Review the new rules with your accountant and adjust your recordkeeping system as needed. Otherwise, the IRS could lump all expenses into the 80% category and you could miss deductions to which you are entitled.

Mom disgusted at daughter's housekeeping

DEAR ABBY: Have I got a problem for you! My daughter is one of the poorest housekeepers God ever created. Her house is a disaster area — from the rotting fruit and vegetables in her refrigerator to the piles of rancid clothes and towels in her bathroom. Every flat surface is covered with teetering stacks of clothes, books and junk. (She's intelligent and loves to read.)

From time to time she makes an honest effort to "clean house" by sweeping the floor and taking the dishes out of the dishwasher, but that's it. I've tried giving her house a thorough cleaning, but in two weeks it's the same old mess. It's a miracle her husband hasn't walked out on her.

I've offered to hire a cleaning woman, but she doesn't want "strangers" in her home.

She's not personally sloppy. Nobody would believe what a terrible housekeeper she is. She's a college graduate and doesn't work outside the home or in it.

What can I do?

FRUSTRATED IN ARLINGTON, VA.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You can't — nor should you try — to do anything, unless your daughter acknowledges that she has a problem and asks for your help. If her husband hasn't complained about the rotting perishables in the fridge, the rancid clothes and towels mildewing in the bathroom, or the clutter on every surface, perhaps the hasn't noticed either, in which case this couple could be living in heaven — hog heaven. So until they recognize the problem, abide by the old saying, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

(For Abby's booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (3¢) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61064.)
