Spring board

How's that? ABC Park

Q. I am concerned about the condition of the ABC City Park, located at the 1200 and 1300 blocks of West 4th St. Does the city have any plans for cleaning the park area, and if possible, installing a water outlet which would benefit children of the West Side Community Center as well as children and adults in our community?

A. Public Works Director Tom Decell said he was not aware there was no water outlet at the park, but he said he would look into it. He said the city has been concentrating its efforts on City Park, but he said "it should be within our abilities" to fix any problems at the ABC park.

Calendar Audition

· Anyone interested in auditioning for SWCID's spring play should call Liz Wolfer at 267-2511. It will be an original play with deaf and hearing characters. Today is the last day to sign up for auditions.

• The Big Spring Geneological Society will meet at 7:15 p.m. at the Howard County library. The public is invited.

• The First Baptist Church in Colorado City will present "Surrender," a musical, at 7 p.m. at Birdwell Lane Baptist Church on 1512 Birdwell Lane.

SATURDAY

• The Howard County Youth Horseman Club will have an open playday, with registration at 1 p.m. and activaties beginning at 2 p.m. Activities will include barrels, poles, flags, potato races and a Western pleasure class. The play day will be at the HCYHC arena on the Garden City Highway. There will be concessions, and the public is invited.

• The Big Spring Prospectors Club will have its annual Gem and Mineral Show today and tomorrow at the fair barns. Show will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. today.

• The CANtRead Crossroads Adult Need To Read Program will have a phonics workshop to train those interested in teaching adults how to read. The workshop will be from 1-4 p.m. at the Howard County Library. For more information, call the library or Howard College.

SUNDAY

• Today is Scout Sunday, the beginning of Girl Scout Week. The girl scouts will go to First Methodist Church at 10:30 a.m., and will attend a luncheon at Garrett Hall at the church at 12:30. A scout exhibit will open at 1 p.m. at the Heritage Museum.

• The Big Spring Prospectors Club's annual Gem and Mineral Show continues at the county

"It was a surprise to me — but a good one," Owen Ivie, director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said of the bid. "This is a major construction company, and it's certainly capable of doing the job.

The company's bid of just over $31 million was roughly $5 million lower than its nearest competitor, San Antonio based H.B. Zachry Co., which bid $36.3 million. Sunmount Corp. of Roanoke turned in the highest bid at $65.5 million.

West Texas businessmen didn't waste any time making their first attempts to capitalize on the prosperity that could be reaped by the city that can lure the construction headquarters. Shortly after the bids were opened, businessmen from two competing counties provided Brown & Root officials with 1,800 job applications.

About 200 workers will be needed to build the two-mile long dam and the 542,000 acre feet reservoir. In addition, officials expect hundreds of spin-off jobs will be created in order to feed, cloth, and provide services for the dam employees.

overwhelmingly approved a plan that would keep the 5¼ percent sales tax and 15 cent per gallon motor fuels tax on the books permanently. Both would expire Sept. 1 if the Legislature takes no action. Lawmakers approved the increases last September, raising the sales tax from the previous 41/8 percent and the fuel tax from 10 cents per gallon. If approved by the Senate and signed by Gov. Bill Clements, the taxes would raise $2.9 billion for the state in 1988-89, when the state is projected to face a $5.8 billion deficit at current spending levels.

"The House acted courageously this morning, I think, by getting us about half the way there," State Treasurer Ann Richards said after Several House members complained it would be unfair to make the temporary taxes permanent. They said the increases were intended as a stop-gap measure until the Legislature could this year conduct a full review of the tax system, including a possible expansion of the sales tax to cover nowexempt services.

But Clements, who backed the $2.9 billion plan, opposes any sales tax revision that is not "revenue neutral." Some House members say it would be pointless to face the political heat of a sales tax expansion bill if it would not raise more money for the state.

Hammering out revisions in budget

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

The City Council will continue the city budget revision at an allday work session March 16, City Manager Mack Wofford said. The work session will begin at 7 a.m. at the Airpark Council meeting room.

To prepare for the session, city officials are reviewing departmental budgets and preparing revenue estimates, he said. Each department head submitted a report of his department's projected needs and revenues for city review last

The 1986-87 budget must be revised to balance new projections of anticipated income and anticipated expenses, Wofford said. A downturn in the economy has resulted in the city receiving less revenues this year, he has said.

The revision process "makes you search for ways to do things as economically as you can," he said.

He said that planning ahead is difficult and revisions are needed because work on the budget typically begins about 18 months before the budgetary year actually

Wofford said he plans to present the proposed amended budget plus alternatives for Council approval at the March 24 meeting.

Approximately $1.7 million this year will go toward repayment of debts from general obligation and revenue bonds, he said. Other elements of the budget are unknown at this time, he added.

Wofford explained that in many budget areas, funds cannot be commingled.

Taxes go to fund a fairly narrow portion of the budget, he said, and much of the operations money is generated by the entity itself.

After the 1986-87 budget is revised, the city must begin work on the 1987-88 budget during May, he said. The annual budgets take effect at the beginning of each fiscal year.

Two Big Spring women report assaults

Two Big Spring women told police they were assaulted in two separate incidents this week.

Debbie Blevins, 2206 S. Monticello St., told police Thursday morning that someone she knows threatened her with a deadly weapon at 1:20 a.m. Saturday, placing her in fear of serious bodily injury or death. The incident took place at 1407 Sycamore St.

Lyane Farris, 1208 Lloyd Ave., reported that someone she knows struck her, injuring her nose and mouth at 3:20 a.m. Thursday. Farris, 20, also was arrested at that time and place, charged with Class C assault, according to police

Texas woman awarded Hughes Gold Medal

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Congresswoman Barbara Jordan criticized President Reagan Thursday for his role in the Iran arms affair and says he may need an "extra umph" in his belief in the constitution.

Ms. Jordan, noted as much for her eloquent oratory as for her political leadership, was awarded the Charles Evans Hughes Gold Medal by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The awards dinner at a north Austin hotel marked the first time since 1969 that the medal has been bestowed outside of New York, said Harry Robinson, spokesman for the conference.

'The president is only now just beginning to take in the seriousness of the entire Iran-Contra affair," Ms. Jordan said. The fact that he is taking it in does not mean he's going to correct it. That remains to be "The president of the United States could use a little umph, an extra umph in his belief in the constitution," she said.

Ms. Jordan said returning the National Security to its advisory role would be a "significant achievement.

She joins the company of Dwight D. Eisenhower, Nelson Rockerfeller, Henry Kissenger, Walter Cronkite and Ronald Reagan who also have been given the medal. The award is named for a former Supreme Court chief bigotry and discrimination.

AUSTIN (AP) — The state prison system remained closed to new admissions today, but officials said quicker parole eligibility for 300 or more inmates could lead to reopening of the prisons by next week. At the same time, the federal judge who has threatened to fine Texas $24 million a month planned to take a first-hand look at some penitentiaries.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice was invited to tour the prisons by Gov. Bill Clements and Attorney General Jim Mattox to see for himself improvements that state officials say have been Justice has ruled that Texas is in contempt of court for failing to carry out reforms ordered in a decade-long lawsuit against the prison system. He has threatened daily fines of $800,500 a day beginning April 1, an action Texas is appealing.

"This is the first in this longrunning prison case," Mattox said Thursday of Justice's decision to visit one or two prison units. "We hope the judge will see for himself the progress that has been made at TDC and that the state is working hard to comply with the law."

For the sixth time this year, the gates to the prison system remained closed because of overcrowding Charles Brown, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Corrections, said the prisons were holding

38,683 inmates, or 95.66 percent of

Because the population was about 307 inmates over the 95 percent limit allowed by law, Clements Thursday formally certified that an overcrowding emergency exists. Such action triggers provisions of the Prison Management Act and gives some non-violent inmates additional good-conduct time. The State Board of Pardons and Paroles, in an emergency meeting Thursday, recommended an extra 30 days "good time" for between 300 and 350 inmates who then could be released, said board spokesman Mike Roach.

Rider Scott, general counsel for Clements, said some of the inmates who get the quicker parole eligibilty would be released on parole and some should be transferred to halfway houses.

Scott said the shifts might begin over the weekend.

Last week, 187 inmates were moved from prison units to halfway houses under the Prison Management Act. Clements said that actually meant those inmates would be under state supervision longer than had they remained in prison.

Brown said it appeared unlikely that the prison system would begin accepting new inmates until next seek posts

WASHINGTON - Three former U.S. military officers helped the Nicaraguan rebels buy more than $18 million in military equipment during the period when direct U.S. arms aid was suspended, a rebel leader says.

At a news conference Thursday, Contra leader Adolfo Calero said about $9 million in equipment was purchased with the help of retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, a close associate of former National Security Council staff member Lt. Col. Oliver L. North.

Calero said more than $5 million in weaponry was channeled to the Contras by John K. Singlaub, a former Army major general and head of the World Anti-Communist League who also raised humanitarian aid for the Contras.

WASHINGTON - The House, after rejecting several Republican efforts to dilute the effectiveness of a bill to help the nation's homeless, passed and sent the $500 million measure to the Senate.

On a vote of 264-121 Thursday evening, the House approved the emergency bill which was introduced by the House Democratic leadership and opposed by the Reagan administration as too costly.

The legislation would provide food, shelter and rent subsidies through several programs. It was supported by demonstrators including actor Martin Sheen, who along with several members of Congress slept in Washington streets with the city's vagrants early Wednesday.

Gunman surrenders

NEW YORK — A parolee who authorities believe was high on cocaine surrendered his gun, freed the family he had held captive for nearly 30 hours and turned himself over to police, authorities said.

About 9:15 p.m. Thursday, Ismael "John" Igartua, 25, peacefully left the East Harlem apartment building where the drama had unfolded. Police rushed Igartua away, his head covered by a blanket, his hands cuffed and his girlfriend and lawyer at his side.

During the standoff, Igartua fired at least 27 shots, police said. Police fired no shots, instead relying on negotiators maintaining continuous contact with Igartua and wearing him

Man receives heart of dead grandson

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A man who received the heart of his grandson after the 16-year-old was killed in an accident had to be persuaded to go through with the operation, his daughter says.

Teri Nielson Simper said the first time she ever saw her father cry was when he learned her son Jonathan had died as a result of a car-train accident and his heart was available for transplant.

"Dad didn't ever say he would not accept Jonathan's heart, but his own heart was broken and he just kept looking at me and sobbing that he just couldn't do it,'

"By the time doctors had assured him that the heart was an excellent match, our family had also convinced him that this is what Jonathan would want.'

Thomas A. Nielson, 61, of Logan, Utah, was believed to be the first recipient of a relative's heart, said LDS Hospital spokesman Tim Madden. Nielson was in critical but stable condition in the Salt Lake City hospital Thursday after surgery.

Jonathan Simper was one of four teen-agers who died as a result of a car-train collision in rural northern Utah Tuesday night.

Craig Simper said he was sure his son would want his grandfather to have his heart.

Nielson began having heart pains when he heard of his grandson's accident and was rushed to the hospital.

according to his wife, Donna. A few weeks ago, Nielson had been placed on a heart transplant list after physicians determined his condition was inoperable, Mrs. Nielson said.

Although Simper's three companions died instantly, he was kept alive at an Ogden hospital long enough for the transplant to be arranged.

The three others killed in the crash were sisters Carrie Christensen, 16, and Sarah Christensen, 15, and Melisa Handy, 15.

The deaths occurred when one helicopter smashed into a wooded area about 15 yards from a highway south of Wagoner, Okla., authorities said. The OH-6 helicopters were attached to the National Guard's 45th Aviation Battalion based in Tulsa, said Highway Patrol Lt. Joe Davidson. Photo was taken by Gene Housley of the Muskogee Phoenix.

Man sets himself afire

SEOUL, South Korea - A man doused himself with gasoline and set himself ablaze outside the U.S. embassy today shortly after the visit to South Korea of U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, police and witnesses

Police said Pyo Jung-doo, 25, a college dropout who lived near the southern provincial city of Kwangju, suffered critical injuries and was hospitalized in Seoul.

Authorities said they did not know the motive for the self-immolation. Last year, several dissidents set themselves of fire to dramatize their opposition to the government.

Witnesses said before taking the action, the man shouted slogans, including, "Withdraw parliamentary system." The government is advocating a parliamentary system of government rather than a presidential system after President Chun Doo-hwan steps down

Nazi leader in hospital

BERLIN - Rudolf Hess, the last imprisoned leader of Nazi Germany, was resting in a British military hospital in West Berlin today after complaining about not feeling well, a British spokesman said.

Hess, 92, was taken from West Berlin's Spandau prison to the nearby hospital early Sunday morning, British diplomatic mission spokesman Anderson Purdon told The Associated Press.

"He's simply in for observation. He was taken there simply because he said he wasn't feeling well," said Purdon.

But the mass-circulation newspaper Bild said Hess had been occasionally comatose and that he had been acting mentally unstable

Cuomo makes family priority

Mario Cuomo held the 1984 Democratic National Convention in the palm of his hand. And the calloused hands of the former baseball player who had become governor of New York seemed to embrace the delegates in San Francisco.

He told his immigrant parents' story. It was, in a sense, the story of the ethnic groups welded together by Franklin DelaNo Roosevelt into the modern Democratic Party.

The 1984 Democrats, fractionated into warring groups, were brought together for a moment by Cuomo's vision of the party as a family. When Cuomo stopped speaking, the apparition of a united party seemed to hover in the cavernous hall. The applause was deafening. An outsider would have thought Cuomo was receiving the nomination. But that went to Walter

"Cuomo will be running in 1988," was the watchword whispered in the aisles.

Two and a half years later, Cuomo spoke to a radio

"I choose this moment to make my position clear. I will not be a candidate," Cuomo said recently. "It's the best thing for my family. It's the best thing for my party.

Stunned listeners included volunteers and opponents. As one candidate put it, Cuomo's withdrawal was an opportunity for a dark horse. There was an almost audible sign of relief from Troublesome Gulch, where Gary Hart is preparing his Cuomo's warm, ethnic approach to politics will be missed on the campaign trail. But his choice shows that all politicians do not put power and glory ahead of family.

Did he feel that a liberal candidate from the urban Northeast, however popular in his region, could not deliver for a party that badly needs to regain Southern and Western support? If so, he might be right.

King Hussein doubts U.S. ability to achieve peace

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - King Hussein of Jordan, the most reasonable Arabic national leader in the Middle East, has serious doubts about the United States' ability to have much effect one way or another on a peaceful settlement in the region.

This is a disturbing view to be held by the ruler who has been recognized as crucial to Middle East peace hopes by 'seven American presidents and 10 secretaries of state. All of them shared the egocentric opinion that U.S. policy would be decisive in achieving a permanent solution to the region's problems.

In a recent interview in Amman. we asked the king bluntly: Will Americans have had anything to do with winning peace in the Middle East, assuming it ever comes?

"If and when they choose to, I ippose they can do a lot." Hussein responded tactfully. "But that hasn't been the case as yet. They have hurt it, unfortunately, over the last year.'

The king's judgment may have been affected somewhat by his irritation over the lies told to him by Reagan administration officials stop the flow of arms to Iran while secretly sending weapons to "Not much for taking a life, the Ayatollah Khomeini in return for help in freeing American hostages. Hussein is a staunch supporter of Iraq in its 6-year-old war with Iran.

But it is still a devastating putdown. Most Middle East leaders, whatever their politics, tend to agree with Washington in their assessment of U.S. importance. In fact, the conventional wisdom, that the United States can work miracles if it only has the will, underlies the abduction of American hostages in Lebanon. The kidnappers errantly believe that the United States could win the release of Shiite prisoners in Kuwait simply by asking.

States bordered on disdain when we suggested that American influence over Israel might be the main U.S. contribution to peace in the Middle East.

"This is always the short-term approach," the king replied. "The long-term approach, in the interest of generations to come, is a solution that is based on justice and the recognition of the rights of all. On the other hand, I don't know whether it's your influence over Israel, or Israel's influence over you.'

A settlement of the Palestinian question is Hussein's chief concern, and this is understandable, since roughly one-half the population of Jordan is Palestinian. Indeed, Israelis often express the view, which Hussein resists, that Jordan is in fact the Palestinian

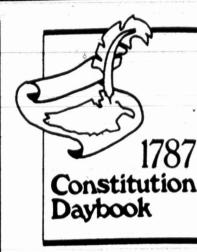

Over the last decade, as U.S. negotiators have tried to be the honest brokers in Israeli-Jordanian peace efforts. Hussein has been generally flexible. But the sticking point has always been the king's insistence on involvement of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Yet lately, according to our sources, Hussein is-moving toward cutting the PLO out of any settlement with Israel. This may be traced to PLO leader Yasir Arafat's break-off of talks with the king a year ago - and Hussein's subsequent discovery that the PLO was planning a hijacking to win concessions from him.

So the king quietly began to develop a secret alliance with in Philadelphia Israel that undercuts the PLO in Gaza and the West Bank, where 1.4 be dictated by the PLO.

Immigration arrests prompt fear

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN Of all the inalienable rights recognized in America, none is more central than the freedom to think, speak and write as we choose. Words cannot be banned because they ridicule or defy our leaders and institutions. Our Constitution goes so far as to protect those who would destroy it: We are free even to advocate the overthrow of the government.

But there are always those who would like to trim back that expansive view of freedom. One of their achievements is a 1952 law known as the McCarran-Walter Act, which allows the U.S. government to keep out foreigners who hold certain political views — a power the Reagan administration has been happy to use.

Now the law apparently is being used for an even more offensive purpose: to deport foreigners already living here because of their political views and associations.

Last month the Immigration and Naturalization Service arrested seven Jordanian Arabs and one Kenyan woman (the wife of one of the Palestinians) in Los Angeles and charged them with membership in an organization which distributes material advocating "world communism" — a charge they all deny.

The organization is the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), a rival of the Palestine Liberation Organization. An avowedly Marxist group based in Syria, it has been implicated in political affiliations — suggesting several terrorist incidents. If a court finds them guilty, they will be expelled from the country.

The INS, according to a spokesman, "has information that they may possibly be involved in activities detrimental to the security of the United States or the safety

Palestinian terrorists at large in the United States? Sounds scary. But these people aren't accused of doing anything that would be illegal if done by an American citizen. If they had committed a terrorist act or taken tangible steps toward one, the government could prosecute them under the criminal laws, which provide for much harsher punishment.

Instead, it acted under a rarelyused provision of an immigration law having to do with mere that the INS has little or no evidence that these people were doing anything with violent intent. Anthony Lewis of The New York Times says an FBI investigation found no evidence of such activity.

That provision of the law may violate the Constitution. It certainly violates the principle that the government may not punish people for their political beliefs or associations.

In 1969, the Supreme Court struck down an Ohio law barring membership in a group advocating "violence or unlawful methods of terrorism" to promote political change. It said the First Amendment doesn't permit the government "to forbid or proscribe advocacy of the use of force or of law violation except where such advocacy is directed to inciting or producing imminent lawless

If the defendants in this case were American citizens, that would be the end of the matter. But because they are resident aliens, they may be subject to different treatments. The Supreme Court grants the executive and legislative branches considerable latitude in setting policy on immigration.

It has allowed foreigners to be refused entry to the United States for holding views that Americans are free to espouse. This disparate treatment may also be allowed for foreigners already in the United

But passing judicial muster doesn't necessarily make it right. Ideas are not communicable diseases with which foreigners may infect us. There is no good reason why foreigners living here should be subject to different rules about expressing political views than those that apply to Americans.

One of the reasons for the First Amendment is to protect unpopular views from arbitrary suppression by those who find them inconvenient. But the broad sweep of this law makes unreasonable discrimination inevitable.

It is not only members of the PFLP who are at risk. These prosecutions are likely to intimidate Palestinians living here from exercising ordinary American freedoms, lest they antagonize immigration officials. They may also deter other immigrants, who can figure out that what is done to Palestinians may be done to anyone.

The arrests carry the odor not of vigilant efforts to ensure the physical safety of Americans, but of an attack on people whose crime is to come from the wrong country and hold the wrong opinions.

Unless the INS can produce evidence that these people are dangerous, it invites the conclusion that the real danger comes not from those who were arrested, but from those who arrested them.

Because there seems to be some misunderstanding about it, let me say a word first about heart block in general. It has nothing to do with blockage of the heart's arteries, about which so much is written. When you see the words, heart block, on a medical report it refers to a short circuit, if you will, in the heart's internal wiring system. That's the system that keeps the four chambers operating in unison to assure proper circulation of blood through the body.

Now, about your heart block. In a second-degree heart block, most of the signals are getting through to the ventricles, the lower (pumping) chambers. A few are not. So the block is not a constant one. There may, as in your case, be some dropped beats.

This is what the "Wenckebach" block means. It is a second-degree block in which the number of missing signals doesn't usually affect the pumping action to any great degree. The medical lexicon is filled with such eponyms, in which a particular condition is named after the physician who first described it, in this case Karel Frederik Wenckebach, a Dutch internist (1864-1940)

I presume your desire for a second opinion has to do with what is to be done about this block. It usually doesn't require a migraine, I can see why your doc- $1.00.

pacemaker, if that is the question. However, if you are having symptoms, like fainting due to temporary interruption in the heart pumping action, then a pacemaker will be considered.

Your present cardiologist would not resent your seeking a second opinion concerning that matter. A third-degree block would be different. In that, the blockage is constant. A pacemaker is required to re-establish proper heart rhythm.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I recently read about menstrual migraine in your column. I wanted to tell you about a medicine I have used. My physician recently gave me some samples of a drug he said might help me. It was naproxen. I was wondering if you had heard any report of this medication. I have used it for some time now and it has worked quickly and I haven't had recurrence for a month. Enjoy your column. - S.T.

Some are more prone to keloid (KEY-loyd) formation. The overgrown tissue is rubbery at first, then turns quite dense and hard. Surgical removal is not always successful, as the scar tends to reform. Success has been reported with injectioin of triamcinolone into the area. This may be more helpful when done in the early stage of keloid formation. But if the scar has been present a long time, surgery followed up with triamcinolone injection increases the chance of permanent removal. A dermatologist will be able to ad-

Grandfather Walker was a pioneer in Fort Ransom, N.D., building his mill there in 1880. It was common to have Scandinavian immigrant girls work in the home as maids. (My grandmother was also one — from Oslo, Norway.)

One particular girl kept using Grandfather's toothbrush. One evening as they all sat around the fire (it gets bitter cold in North Dakota), Grandfather left the room and returned with a pan of water and his toothbrush. Without comment, he removed his shoes and socks, soaked his feet in the water and used the toothbrush to very carefully scrub each toenail!

The maid never used Grandfather's toothbrush again!

Director Elroy Green gets some popcorn for Eddie Long. The popcorn machine is always kept full for the visitors of the new Outreach Center. Grand opening for the center is Sunday afternoon, from 12:30 to 3.

The Corral Facility has new patrons

The Big Spring State Hospital is providing its former clients with an activities center that will hopefully prevent the need for further treatment, said W.C. Earnst, the coordinator of non-residential services for the hospital.

Though the center has been open since early February, the grand opening is this Sunday, Earnst said. The center will be named after the building it is housed in — The Corral, at 611 E. Third St. Earnst said the grand opening will be from 12:30 to 3 p.m., and that the public is invited.

'It's primarily designed to provide recreational and social activities for clients, past or present, of the Big Spring State Hospital," said Earnst, who added that The Corral already has over 100 members.
"And we're calling them members," he said.

"It will primarily be used as a mechanization to avoid further hospitalization. This part of the population, they often have trouble filling leisure time; and over time, that can sometimes lead to rehospitilazation when other factors come to play," Earnst

On Friday, workers at the center were putting in the final piece of equipment — a 20-foot shuffleboard. In addition to that, Earnst said the center will offer bingo, movies, ping pong, bumper pool, board games and table games, including cards and dominoes.

There will also be monthly parties and birthday parties, and other activities to be scheduled by staff members or people in the community, he said.

"Other things will be brought in as they become available. There could be dances or excercise classes — those are just possibilities of what could be offered and what probably will be offered at some time or another," Earnst said.

He said the downtown location was ideal because it allows more people to reach the center easily.

Within two weeks the center will begin a transportation program that will allow those who live farther away to enjoy the center, Earnst said.

Jack R. Stovall, the director of community programs for the hospital, said the center will be open on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Fridays and Saturdays from noon to 9 p.m. It will be closed on Sundays and Mondays.

Stovall said The Corral was offered by the mayor at $500 rent per month, which the Howard County Commissioners Court agreed to pay. Stovall noted the city originally had agreed to pay utilities, which he estimated at $300 to $500 per month. But he explained the mayor subsequently volunteered to pay for utilities after the question of potential conflict of interest was raised over the city paying utilities at a building owned by the mayor.

Smith has tankers relaxed Busy schedule can't keep Logan from pool

The Big Spring Steers might be the most relaxed team to compete in Saturday's regional swim meet at the Texas Tech swimming center, and it's not

Harlan Smith, the Steers' coach, likes it that way, and he's surely the reason why it is that way. Smith fosters a loose, happy going atmosphere by con-stantly kidding with his swim-mers. As senior Victoria Logan says, Smith keeps things

But just because Smith is a nice guy doesn't mean his swimmers don't work until it hurts. They just find a way to enjoy it. During a workout Wednesday, Smith gave each of his girls different orders, depending on their event.

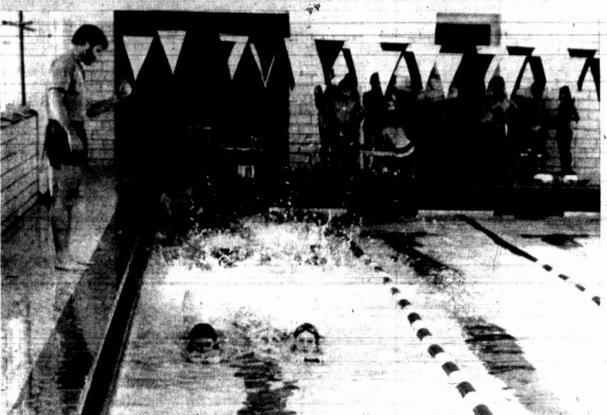

'You're no fun coach," yelled back junior Kaya MacMillan. "Oh yes I am, but not right now," barked Smith, and the girls dove in the water for their

Smith explained that he likes his team to have fun, because swimming is a rigorous, sometimes painful sport that might be unbearable in a strain-

"Right now they're keyed up and they're tight. Victoria's in her last meet, and she needs to get that off her mind.

"We're kind of a family, and they go through a lot of work. And to me, swimming is the toughest sport, because you have to make allowances for breathing when you're in the water," Smith said.

Logan likes Smith's approach. We get along, and we have a lot of team spirit. He says he does that (makes us laugh), so when we're practicing we'll forget about the pain," she said.

Big Spring High School swim coach Harlan Smith watches the clock as he puts his swimmers through a practice session. The Steers and Lady Steers will compete in the regional swim meet in Lubbock Saturday.

Saturday, regardless of how much pain they inflict on themselves, the Big Spring swimmers will have a hard time qualifying for state. Smith concedes that senior Cade Loftin is the only Steers' swimmer with a realistic chance of qualifying for the state meet, though he added that "there's a possibility" the boys 400-yard freestyle relay team could qualify. "Cade's got a chance at state in both events (the 50-yard freestyle and the 100 butterfly). This is something Cade's been looking forward to for eight years, and it's just going to be a matter of determination," Smith said.

According to the coach, Loftin became only the second Big Spring swimmer to ever win district when he captured the 100-yard butterfly in the 2-4A swim meet Feb. 21.

"The competition at regionals is tough," said Smith, who explained that all the schools from 1A to 5A are lumped in one big division. To qualify for state, the Steer swimmers must not only beat all the 4A swimmers, but the 1,2,3 and 5A swimmers as well. Smith said he's not sure how

"We've had lots of success this year. The girls finished third in district — that was a tremendous success. And the TANKERS page 2B

How's this for a day's schedule? Wake up at 5:30 a.m., go to church school from 6-7, swim from 7-8, sit in classes until 2:30 p.m., swim again from then until 5:30, and return home With days like that, Big Spring Steers' swimmer Victoria Logan has little trouble falling asleep at night. She counts maybe three sheep before backstroking into dream land. "There's one thing - I can't go out much at night because I'm too tired. I have to be in bed around 10, but homework keeps me up sometimes," said the

Logan said yes, and Saturday she'll probably swim her final race as a Steer. The winner in each event, plus the swimmers with the next eight best times in the state, will qualify for the state meet

"I don't think I could qualify for state. The times are fast, real fast. I'd like to qualify, but I'm not going to get my hopes up," said Logan, who would have to cut make significant improvements on her personal bests to qualify.

Smith agreed that Logan's chances for state are slim, but he thinks she'll have plenty of incentive Saturday.

"What I'm looking for Victoria to do at regionals is improve her times to meet her goals. She knows and I know that her times aren't real competitive with some of those who LOGAN page 2B

of rookies test positive

DALLAS (AP) — Twenty-nine of the 330 college football playrs at the NFL's tryout camp in Indianapolis tested positive for drug or alcohol use, an NFL official said. One player tested positive for cocaine, six for marijuana, 20 for steroids and two for alcohol use in the screening taken six weeks ago, according to results found in a letter dated Feb. 24, which was sent to each of the NFL's 28 clubs, the Dallas Morning News reported today. It was the first time the NFL included steroid screening in the six years it has tested college players. Last year, 57 of the 335 college players tested positive at the combine in New Orleans. Three were found to have used cocaine, and 54 had used marijuana or other substances.

This summer, NFL players will be tested for steroids for the first time in the training camp physicals.

The NFL official told the newspaper that the player testing the Class 4A finals Saturday. positive for cocaine this year revealed the presence of a small traceable amount, and that the player is considered a late-round draft choice or perhaps a free

Two of the 29 players on the "The Dirty List," as it is called, are considered first-round picks in the April 28 draft, with one testing positive for marijuana and the other for steroids. The official said 21 were considered likely to be drafted before the test results were

The decrease in the number testing positive has been attributed to the fact that colleges are better at educating and randomly testing players and players were more aware that they would be tested when they arrived at the combine

"Players who get caught are either very stupid or so heavily into it they can't get off it," one NFL general manager said. "The players are getting smarter. And the fact that many schools are testing during the year may also be having an impact.

Chronic marijuana users will test positive for up to 33 days, and cocaine will be detected for up to 48 hours in the most common urinalysis drug screens, regardless of the amount, said Dr. Peter Dysert, director of clinical chemistry at the Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas. Steroids will show up for nine months to a year after use and alcohol use is revealed if the player has had 6-10 drinks in the 12-18 hours before the urinalysis.

Texas, Arkansas in SWC women's finals

DALLAS (AP) - Texas and Arkansas, the top two seeds in the Southwest Conference women's post-season basketball tournament, advanced to the championship game with wins Thursday night.

Arkansas disposed of Houston in the first semi-final 96-82, and the top-ranked Lady Longhorns toppled Texas Tech 73-49 in the nightcap.

Four Lady Razorbacks starters scored in double figures, but Arkansas had to hold off a late Houston rally as the Lady Cougars closed a 15-point deficit down to six with 5:00 to play.

Tracy Webb led Arkansas with 19 points, nine assists and six rebounds before fouling out late in the game. Bronwyn Wynn and Lanell Dawson each had 20 points and Monica Brown points as the Lady Cougars finished the season at 19-10.

Texas, despite a slow start, pulled away from Texas Tech in the second half as four Lady Longhorns scored in double figures. Yulonda Wimbish led all scorers with 17 points, and Beverly Williams added 16.

Julia Koncak scored 16 points to lead Texas Tech, which finishes the season at 18-11

UNLV routs Long Beach St.

By The Associated Press Playing spotty basketball, top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas was only 35 points better than Long Beach State. What happens when the Rebels really get into gear?

UNLV upped its record to 31-1 in the first round of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball tournament Thursday night with a 105-70 romp over the 49ers. Next up at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., is Cal-Fullerton, and Rebels Coach Jerry Tarkanian claims his team will have to be a lot better tonight.

"This is the toughest game since Oklahoma, maybe tougher," Tarkanian said, referring to the Rebels' only loss this season. "I think they (the Titans) are better than Auburn (another UNLV victim). I think they are an outstanding team. I say that in all sincerity.

UNLV, which has won 16 straight games, got 24 points and 11 rebounds from Armon Gilliam and 20 points by Freddie Banks.

Earlier Thursday, UC Santa Barbara downed Utah State 87-79 and San Jose State whipped New Mexico State 71-54.

The only team to gain entry into the 64-team NCAA field Thursday was No. 8 Temple, which avenged its only Atlantic 10 regular-season Missouri State. In the Trans over West Virginia for the conference's postseason title. Temple, 31-1, joined Alabama-Birmingham, Fairfield, Marshall, Navy, Pennsylvania, Wichita State, and Xavier, Ohio as qualifiers.

'She has a 2:49.9 in the individual medley, and I think she could beat that. And if she makes under 1:18 in the 100 (yard) backstroke, she could make the finals (her best time is 1:20)," Smith said.

"Victoria's a good leader. She's my only senior, and she helps keep the other girls in line. She's just been a super worker.

She has a good attitude, and she's a real positive person to have. She's helped these other girls to mature," he said.

Logan hopes to swim next year at the college she attends, but she'd really like swimming for Smith next year.

"I want to be on the team next year because I'm having so much fun. I really like the group of girls we have. I think they're the best we've had yet," said Logan, who seems to have a permanent smile on her face. Still, she said she'll enjoy having some free time after swim season, though she'll continue to swim in the afternoons to stay in shape

There's one other sacrifice that Smith demands of his swimmers - he doesn't let them drink carbonated beverages.

"As soon as we're finished, Im going to have a coke, a nice big one," said the Steers senior, grinning in anticipation.

San Antonio prepares for papal visit

By DAVID SEDENO Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO - Pope John Paul II won't arrive until September, but church leaders and city officials already are gearing up for his visit, which they hope will inspire Christians statewide and add millions of dollars to the local economy.

The pope will spend Sunday, Sept. 13, in San Antonio, celebrating an outdoor Mass to a halfmillion people and visiting with area Polish residents, Texas bishops and those wanting to become priests and sisters.

His visit is part of a nine-city, 10-day U.S. tour, which has the theme "Unity in the Work of Twenty-seven committees are working to flesh out the details of the pope's tentative itinerary for his 22 hours in San Antonio, and the plans should be finished by late May or early June, said the Rev. Lawrence Stuebben, chairman of the Texas Papal Visit Committee.

'Things are right on target,' Stuebben said. Catholics, Protestants and Jews in various parts of the state have gathered since last September, when the visit was announced, to talk about their roles during the pope's stop in

"I really find a great deal of interest on the part of non-Catholics in the event itself," Stuebben said. "I think people realize the significant, unprecedented, historical reality of his coming.

About $500,000 of the $2.5 million needed to offset costs has been raised, and the state's 13 bishops will go to their congregations for more money in the coming months.

Wender and A. Wayne Wright cleared the last stumbling block for the visit by donating a media converging on San Antonio for one or two 140-acre tract of land northwest of downtown as the site for the open-air Mass.

Texas' plans and Hispanic Catholics.

City officials, meanwhile, are working with church leaders and Secret Service agents to coordinate security, parade routes, transportation for worshippers and the news media, and sanitary and first-aid facilities.

The estimated 500,000 to 700,000 people expected for the Mass could add a minimum of $73 each to the local economy, said Frances the bishops' lobbying group. Schultschik, a spokeswoman for the San Antonio Convention and Visitors Bureau.

San Antonio has 16,000 hotel rooms and the Stuebben said. majority of the large downtown hotels are book-

The Rev. Lawrence Stuebben, chairman of the Texas Papal Visit Committee, poses outside the San Fernando Cathedral in downtown San Antonio recently. Pope John Paul II is scheduled to visit San Antonio as part of next fall's nine-city, 10-day U.S. tour.

"The exposure will be like none we'll ever Last week, San Antonio developers Marty have the opportunity to see again," she said. When you think in terms of every form of days, we'll be exposed worldwide.'

Bishop Charles Grahmann of Victoria, chair-Archbishop Patrick Flores is scheduled to man of the finance committee, said the church meet with the pope next month to tell him about has been meeting its deadline for raising funds. Foundations across the state have contributed, but most of the money will come from the state's 4.5 million Catholics. The Galveston-Houston diocese, for example, is responsible for $650,000, 26 percent of the total, and Amarillo, $50,000, or 2 percent, officials said. The percentage is proportionate to the dues paid to the Texas Catholic Conference, Texas Catholic Church leaders will not fran-

"It comes down to about 62 cents per Catholic to have the pope come here," he said. "That's

Church leaders had struggled to find a site for the open-air Mass because of the number of chise papal souvenir products to offset costs, people expected from surrounding states and predominantly Catholic Mexico.

Most of the $2.5 million will be spent for the pope's traveling expenses and insurance, altar construction, a sound system, security, entertainment, toilet facilities and transportation to and from the Mass site, Stuebben said.

About 400 city-owned buses will shuttle worshippers from different parts of the city to the site, which will be transformed from wild grasses to a rolling hill.

"Everything is sort of mind-boggling because of the numbers," Stuebben said.

Texas church leaders have redesigned the trip's national logo by placing a map of Tex behind a picture of the pope, and about 1,000 Bexar County Jail inmates hope to put together 20-foot fiber artwork of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Mexico's patron saint, to greet the pontiff when he visits a church

The papal visit has translated into new religious awareness, Stuebben said.

'There is a certain sense of sacred celebration as who we are as a church," he said.

Baptists surveyed on Scripture

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - Southern Baptists are evenly split over two views of the nature of the Bible, according to findings of a survey of members of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

For eight years, it has been wracked by political turmoil in a drive for control by a fundamentalist wing insisting on a literalist view of Scripture as without error about any matter.

In responses by 1,072 members to a four-page questionnaire, 38 percent said they believed "God inspired writers in such a way ... that the whole of what they wrote was without error.

However, another 38 percent said God gave the writers "inspired ideas so that what they wrote expressed the revealed truth of God in words drawn from the writers' own background and experiences.'

Seventeen percent accepted the writers "were inspired in the same and writers have been

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be alert to the need for changing conditions. There may seem to be delays in new beginnings. Don't be fooled by this and things will hap-pen quickly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Correspondence with others can show you the current trends in business. Study carefully those telephone calls. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) New situations are now coming up that can be opportunities for advancement. Grasp at these.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be prepared for changes to occur in some association you value. Double your efforts and be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Meditate quietly about some limitations. You are then free to go about your activities intelligently.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Some friends may not agree with your mate, but there is no need to take sides. Remove yourself from the situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your status in the outside world and plan how to enhance it instead of put.

outside world and plan how to enhance it instead of puttering around the house so much. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have fine ideas that should be put into operation, so get out of that daily rut you've been in. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Many changes can occur in your business affairs. It would be wise to build up credit holdings now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You think a partner has too many interests. Replace this association with one more like yourself, CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan your Saturday tasks more wisely. Seek the pleasures you like this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get the arrangements made for pleasures you prefer. Get some talent working better.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The situation at home may be unsatisfactory, but don't run away from this.

It would make things get worse.
