State traffic deaths fall, DPS reports

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas recorded fewer traffic fatalities last year than any in the last decade, thanks in part to DWI awareness and seat belts, the Department of Public Safety announced Friday.

DPS Director Col. Jim Adams said during 1986, 3,568 people were killed on Texas roads, down from 3,682 in 1985.

"We are very pleased with this decline, though the number of people who died in traffic accidents in Texas last year is certainly still of tragic proportions," Adams said. "The good news is that it is getting safer to drive in Texas."

For every 100 million miles traveled last year in Texas, there were 2.4 deaths, down from 3.9 in 1981, the DPS reported.

"Not only was the 1986 fatality count the lowest in the state since 1976, last year's figure represents 1,133 fewer traffic deaths than recorded in 1981, the worst year in Texas traffic history," Adams said.

But more deaths, 1,304, were DWI-related in 1986, compared to 989 the previous year, he said.

More reporting of drunken driving accidents may be the reason for the increase, Adams said.

Enforcement of speed limits and driving while intoxicated laws and greater public awareness of the consequences of drinking and driving contributed to the decline.

"An additional factor has been seat belt legislation, which went into effect Sept. 1, 1985," Adams said.

A comparison of the number of deaths of people riding in the front seats of cars or in light trucks during the year before the seat belt law took effect and the year after showed a 7 percent decline, the DPS said.

"Unfortunately, a survey conducted for the Texas Department of Public Highways and Transportation has indicated a slight decrease in seatbelt usage in Texas," Adams said.

The number of motorcycle accident deaths increased from 364 in 1985 to 403 in 1986, the DPS reported. Seventy-seven percent of the victims were not wearing helmets, the agency said.

Action unfolds in 4 lawsuits

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Action is developing in three lawsuits filed against the city, and Howard College attorneys are expected soon to answer a suit filed against the college in February.

Home and business owners in South Big Spring seek $1.7 million relief from Aug. 30 floods in a lawsuit filed against the city in January.

Extraordinarily heavy rains on that date resulted in a breach in Comanche Lake Dam, flooding nearby homes and businesses. Debris buildup in the Big Spring Draw storm sewer system contributed to the flood, the suit contends.

The suit accuses the city of negligence on 10 points, including "maintaining a nuisance known as Comanche Lake Dam and Spillway" and failing to redesign the lake and spillway to comply with Texas Water Commission requirements.

The city, in an answer to the suit, contends the flood was an "unfortunate incident" for which the city was not responsible.

In a second suit, attorneys representing Big Spring firefighters in a dispute with the city over retirement benefits filed a motion last month requesting summary judgement.

Summary judgements are granted for cases in which there is no question of fact, and the only question is interpretation of the law, according to City Attorney Drew Mouton.

Firefighters say the city is obligated by state law to match as much as 9 percent of salary deductions assigned to retirement. The city matched the amount after decreasing firefighters' base salaries.

City officials continue to argue they have provided a 6 percent salary raise to firefighters by increasing their wages 3 percent and their retirement fund 3 percent.

In April, firefighters voted to increase their deduction to 9 percent — the maximum matching percentage allowed by state law.

The city is also expected to file an answer soon to a Big Spring couple's small claims court petition seeking an unspecified amount of monetary damages.

Paul F. and Jerri Winn, 811 W. 18th St., question water bills that charge them for using up to 25,000 gallons a month. They were usually billed for 5,000 to 7,000 gallons, the suit states.

Furthermore, the claim states the defendants were out of town during the billing periods they question.

City officials and an appointed citizens committee investigated possible water meter problems last summer when an unusually high number of citizens complained about their bills — including some who said their bills were double or triple the usual amount.

Those conducting the investigation could not reach a mutual agreement as to why meter readings were inaccurate and unreasonably high.

They said a number of factors could be the source of the problem.

Committee members recommended councilmen refund half the charge above a customer's average monthly usage, but the State plan to attack school dropout rate

AUSTIN (AP) — State Board of Education members polished plans Friday for a statewide attack next year on Texas' public school dropout rate.

"We've got to keep children in an educational environment as long as we can and as long as they can learn," said Jack Strong, chairman of the board's Committee for Students.

The committee reviewed and recommended revisions in a Texas Education Agency staff plan, "Increasing Graduation Rates," that will be presented to the full 15-member education board at its April meeting.

The plan would obligate individual school districts to begin looking at the 7th grade for "risk" students who likely will become dropouts before graduation.

Delia Pompa, TEA project supervisor, said statistics show Texas had a dropout rate of 33 percent in all high schools in 1985-86. The dropout rate was 27 percent for white students, 34 percent for blacks and 45 percent for Hispanics.

The national dropout average, which has been rising since 1981, was 28 percent.

"My concern is that when we start identifying risk students, we may find we have 50 percent who may not graduate, instead of 30 percent," Strong said.

Ms. Pompa told the students committee the proposed new rule is being revised after a series of public hearings at Huntsville, El Paso, Richardson, Edinburg and Midland.

One change as a result of the public hearings, according to TEA Deputy Commissioner Victoria Bergin, is to make the program applicable to students from the 7th to the 12th grade, instead of 9th to 12th.

"At every hearing, everyone said we needed to start earlier," she said.

The proposed rule, to be effective for the 1988-89 school year, would require each school district to search out in the 7th to 12th grades all students "at risk of not graduating from high school."

The school district, including the board of trustees, would be responsible for coordinating an effort involving the school, community, business and parents to find ways to help the "risk" students.

Search begun for kidnapper

A kidnapping incident in Mitchell County has resulted in a state alert for a tractor-trailer rig driver.

Authorities throughout Texas were alerted shortly before noon Thursday to be on the lookout for a dark brown or black rig driven by an armed man who is considered dangerous, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard reported.

The man is a suspect in the Thursday morning shooting of an El Paso woman and her daughter, who were left by a highway after they were abducted when their car broke down east of Colorado City, authorities said.

The victims' names have not been released by authorities.

The suspect is described as a white male in his early 30s who is six feet one inch tall, weighing approximately 230 pounds, with dark hair, a beard and moustache, Standard said.

banding together to help one of their number.

While Lt. Rodney Phillips and his wife, Donette, are in Houston with their daughter, Lisa, who is being treated for leukemia, firefighters will work Phillip's shifts.

Fire Chief Carl Dorton said 20 firefighters plan to take turns working half-shifts for Phillips. A shift is 24-hours, he said.

With the plan, each firefighter will work about an extra 12 hours per month, he said.

Phillips had accrued a considerable amount of sick leave, but since his daughter's illness was diagnosed in June, much of that has been used, Dorton said.

The fire department's illness policy allows an employee to use sick leave if a family member is ill, under certain circumstances, he said.

When Phillips' sick leave has been used, in about a week and a half, the plan will go into effect, he said.

• MIDLAND — Widening U.S. Highway 87 south of Big Spring and funding requests to supplement volunteer and law enforcement services in Big Spring received favorable review Wednesday from a state commission.

Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission endorsements will be attached to the proposals when they are submitted to their agencies, said Jerry Tschauer, the commission's director of planning. Board members also approved a resolution endorsing the Garden City or Trans-Pecos sites for the Superconducting Super Collider project.

Man convicted in 22-year-old murder case

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — It took 22 years for the case to come to trial, but an Oklahoma man faces life in prison after being convicted of the 1964 shooting death of his wife.

The punishment phase of Albert Eugene Branscum's trial began Friday.

Jurors Thursday found Branscum guilty of murder with malice aforethought in the October 1964 shooting of 29-year-old Glenna Branscum.

Branscum, who shot himself twice in the head minutes after shooting his wife to death in their Pampa home, was never prosecuted on the original murder charge because Gray County law officials believed he was mentally unfit for trial.

The case was reopened last year after a relative of Mrs. Branscum's questioned its status and authorities discovered Branscum had left the hospital 20 years ago and had been quietly operating a salvage yard in Konawa, Okla.

In closing arguments Thursday, Branscum's attorney, John Mann of Amarillo, said Branscum had acted "under the immediate influence of passion" because he had just learned his wife was leaving him.

"He sentenced himself to the one thing he didn't want — a life without her," Mann said. "This happened as the devil of torment of his soul built and built."

Earlier, Branscum wept while on the witness stand when Mann showed him a photo of his wife and said their marriage was "like heaven."

"I loved her so much, I worshiped the ground she walked on," he said. "It just came to a point where there was no way to go, no where to turn. I just couldn't accept it (Glenna leaving)."

He said he doesn't remember the shooting or his attempt on his own life. Branscum said the last thing he remembers before waking up in a hospital is washing his face and hands and lying across his bed in his home.

Former Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton, who investigated the case last year, has said Gray County officials — including Sheriff Rufe Jordan and former District Attorney Bill Waters — kept tabs on Branscum's condition by phone with officials in Oklahoma but never had him checked in person.

Council voted against the measure in January. Councilmen stated that there was no basis for the action.

A fourth suit, filed by a former Howard College instructor, names President Bob Riley and the board of trustees as defendants.

Bill Sprinkle, a former automotive instructor at the college, claims he was harassed on the job and, finally, fired for his activities with a faculty union.

"I gave (the union) rather vigorous leadership," he said, adding that membership in the 13-year-old organization increased substantially during his tenure as president.

Trouble began when the union newsletter published an article on faculty salaries, which stated there had been little increase during the past 10 years, he said.

Then, "I began to experience serious difficulty," he said, including demotion without warning and loss of job.

Attorneys representing the college are expected to file an answer to the suit in 118th District Court soon.

For the record

Wednesday's story in the Herald regarding softball fees contained a paragraph that Mamie Lee Dodds, a member of the Chamber of Commerce Athletic Committee, felt that it might convey the idea that she was opposed to raising team fees.

Referring to a reduction in the number of softball teams, Dodds said the city has no way of knowing if the lack of teams is because of the fees or because of a lack of facilities. She favors fees only after facilities are developed.

intersection to the Rural Route 33 intersection has been approved by Howard County Commissioners, Tschauner told board members.

• Big Spring should improve its softball fields, since it has raised the user fees, citizens contended at a Tuesday City Council meeting.

Roddy Caffey, president of the Empire Association, said membership in the local league has dropped from 40 teams to 19 the past year because of the user fee increase to $200 per team.

"I think the Council is missing the boat as far as the user fee is concerned," he said. He said that for the fee increase, the city should maintain the softball fields and restrooms.

But, he added that "the user fee is in line," if a new softball field is built, as has been proposed.

It was his opinion that that the city has no adequate place for a softball tournament, which would bring in enough out-of-town money to pay for maintenance.

• Councilmen and city officials, disagreeing over possible locations for a new softball park, decided Monday to form a committee to find a solution.

Locations under discussion are sections of land off Driver Road near the municipal golf course, on Parkway in the southwest part of town, and at the Industrial Park. The Council has abandoned a previous suggestion to locate the softball fields at Comanche Trail Park, after nearby residents complained of the potential noise pollution.

Councilman Russ McEwen favors the Industrial Park location because Big Spring Federal Prison Camp inmate labor could be used. Officials have said labor amounts to 70 percent of the total construction cost.

Inmate labor could be used because the land belongs to the federal government. However, other officials stated their concern that the federal government could appropriate the land after the park was built.

• The cases of a 38-year old Big Spring man charged with attempted murder and a Midland man who claims a former motorcycle store here engaged in deceptive trade practices are expected to be heard next week.

Coahoma school board to discuss budget cuts

COAHOMA — The School Board will review budget cuts in its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Coahoma Independent School District administration office.

In other business, the Board will:

- Consider resignations and teacher contracts.
- Approve clerks for the April 4 school board election.
- Approve the 1987-88 school calendars.

• Hear a request for more funds for the band and the FHA.

• Consider approving the Class of 1967's use of the the cafeterium on June 20th.

• Hear the superintendent's report, to include: the general state of affairs, legislature update, 1987-88 teacher appraisals, legal advice from Paul Lye, and a report on tax collections and finances.

has not been determined. The district clerk's office has sent 138 jury notices, he added.

The attempted murder ce stems from an Easter Day shooting in Comanche Trailer Park. Police arrested Pedro Mendez Cantu, 38, 1511 Johnson St., in connection with the shooting near the park's swimming pool. Raymond Calderon, 1512 Hardin St. and his brother, Enrique Calderon, 32, 501 Abrams St., were shot at by someone in a passing truck, according to police reports.

Cantu, identified by a witness, was arrested by police the same day at his home.

• For the second straight year, Carvell Ngyuen, the 11-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Tra Mgyuen, has won the Howard County Spelling Bee.

Carvell, representing Goliad Middle School, won the bee in the 36th round after nearly an hour's competition Tuesday. Runner-up was Traci Clark, daughter of Frank and Marilyn Clark, who represented Runnels Junior High School.

• A 34-year-old Big Spring man who voluntarily killed 19-year-old Jimmy Yanez in November 1985 officially was sentenced Monday in 118th District Court.

District Judge James Gregg ordered Preston Crawford, 3606 Calvin St., to serve a 10-year probation sentence and pay a $10,000 fine to the district clerk's office.

Gregg's action was based on a district court jury's Feb. 26 ruling that Crawford committed voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of Yanez. The jury also ruled that he serve a probation sentence and pay a fine rather than serve a prison sentence.

Jurors opted for placing Crawford on probation rather than requiring him to serve a prison sentence, ranging from two to 20 years.

• The county approved $3,500 to buy siren activators for Coahoma, Forsan and Sand Springs. They will be monitored by a central switchboard that serves the city's 11 existing sirens, Big Spring Emergency Coordinator Hal Boyd explained.

The sirens in Coahoma and Forsan will continue to be monitored by the volunteer fire departments in those communities, he said.

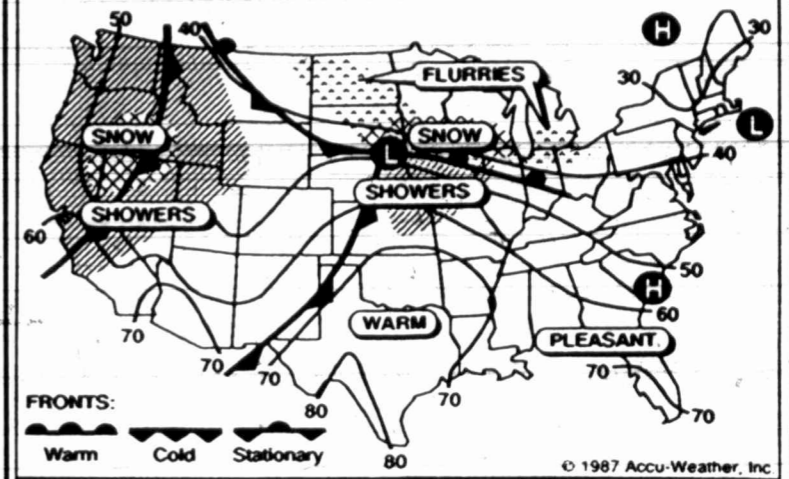

Commissioners also discussed a flood condition on Farm-to-Market Road 846 that runs through Knott. A 1/3-mile portion of the road is 18 inches under water and has been blocked since September, causing traffic to be rerouted, said Knott Farmer Larry Shaw.

• The Supreme Court Monday let stand a $1.4 million award to the family of a Texas ranch foreman killed mistakenly by police while they chased a suspected kidnapper.

The court, without comment, left intact a ruling that four Berger police officers and the city government must pay the damage award to James C. Grandstaff's family.

W-4 forms approved

WASHINGTON — Final approval has been given to a revised W-4 tax-withholding form that the Internal Revenue Service expects to begin distributing by mid-April.

The White House Office of Management and Budget recommended several minor changes in the instructions for filling out the forms, called W-4A in the revised version, and the changes were accepted by the IRS, according to IRS spokesman Wilson Fadely.

All wage-earners are required to fill out a new tax-withholding form by Oct. 1 to reflect major changes brought about by the 1986 tax overhaul.

Taxpayers may choose between the two-page W-4A and a four-page W-4 that was released in December. The W-4A was offered by the IRS as a substitute after the agency received many complaints that the four-page document was too complex.

Gotti acquitted

NEW YORK — John Gotti, reputed boss of the largest Mafia family in the United States, and six co-defendants were acquitted Friday of all counts of racketeering and conspiracy.

The jury, whose members were not identified by name for security reasons, deliberated for seven days before returning a verdict.

"I think they're tired of paid government informants who lie," said Gotti's lawyer, Bruce Cutler, who praised the jurors "for their courage."

The racketeering enterprise charged in the indictment was pictured as lasting over 18 years and was allegedly supervised by the late family underboss, Aniello Dellacroce.

All the defendants would have faced up to 40 years if convicted of racketeering and conspiracy.

Hostages taken

TRENTON, N.J. — An inmate apparently armed with a weapon fashioned from razor blades took five people hostage Friday at a maximum-security prison and held four of them for more than two hours before surrendering, officials said.

The inmate seized five people, social workers and prisoners, at about 1:30 p.m., released one about an hour later, then set the others free unharmed about 3:55 p.m., officials said.

He was identified by Department of Corrections spokeswoman Kim White as Bengro Galvan, 29, a Cuban who came to this country in the Mariel boatlift. Galvan was serving a seven-year sentence in the Trenton State Prison on two drug charges, Ms. White said.

Galvan, who had a parole hearing scheduled in a few weeks, primarily was concerned about the accuracy of his parole date, Assistant Corrections Commissioner Gary Hilton said.

Michelle Outlaw, 17, hugs her mother after being expelled from Goldsboro Christian School, two months before graduation, because she modelled a bathing suit in a fashion show at a local department store. She is holding her homecoming queen crown, which she says she had been ordered to return by the Rev. Tom Harper, pastor of the church-sponsored private school. Her father stands in the doorway. A judge today ordered the school to re-admit the girl.

Expelled for modeling swimsuit

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A judge today ordered a church-run school to readmit a 17-year-old girl expelled two months before graduation for modeling swimsuits in a department store fashion show.

The restraining order was issued by Circuit Judge James Llewellyn as a result of a lawsuit filed by attorneys for Michelle Outlaw, said attorney Tim Heathcock, a partner in the firm representing family.

After a meeting Thursday, the school had offered to readmit Miss Outlaw if she would promise to stop modeling swimsuits until after her graduation, but her attorney said she refused to return with that restriction.

Miss Outlaw's parents turned to the courts after the expulsion, saying they were outraged at the action of the pastor in charge of Goldsboro Christian School.

"We were not even notified," Robert Outlaw said. "Nobody called us. They just expelled her for the rest of the term, just over a bathing suit."

"Eleven years she was there and two months before graduation, and they expelled her without even so much as giving her a chance because she had been modeling in an exclusive area of a department store," Outlaw said.

Miss Outlaw said she was called to the office of principal Reginald Kingsley on Wednesday and then taken to the office of the Rev. Tom Harper, pastor of Second Baptist Church, which sponsors the school.

"When I went in, they told me they had a bad report on me," she said Thursday. "They told me someone reported that I had modeled a bathing suit in a window in the mall on Friday and Saturday nights."

Miss Outlaw said she told Harper she had not modeled in a window but in a secluded area of the women's department. She said she had modeled on a Saturday night with other teen models.

"Then he asked me if it was a one-piece or a two-piece," she said. "I told him I had modeled both. We talked for a few minutes and then he told me I would be expelled because I had modeled a bathing suit. He said that whenever I left the school, I was representing the school and that modeling a bathing suit was putting a bad influence on the school."

"He said I was putting a bad influence on the school because I was revealing my body," Miss Outlaw said. "That's basically what it boiled down to."

A woman who answered calls at the church said Thursday that Harper would have no comment on the expulsion.

An aspiring professional model, Miss Outlaw is a member of Weil's department store's Teen Board, a group of young women who serve as youth advisers.

Chernobyl trials soon

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet official said Friday that those responsible for the Chernobyl nuclear power plant disaster will go on trial soon.

Andranik Petrosyants, chairman of the State Committee for the Utilization of Atomic Energy, told a news conference he did not know how many people are being prosecuted, what the charges are or when the proceedings would begin.

The world's worst nuclear accident destroyed the No. 4 reactor at Chernobyl on April 26. Two workers were killed on the spot and at least 29 other people died from radiation-related illnesses. Hundreds of victims were hospitalized after being exposed to harmful levels of radiation.

Soviet newspapers have reported that at least six senior plant officials, including the director, were fired after the accident.

Prosecution sought

OTTAWA (AP) — The government announced it would change its laws to allow prosecution of people charged with Nazi war crimes following publication of a report recommending that urgent action be taken against 20 people accused of World War II atrocities.

Justice Minister Ray Hnatyshyn told Parliament on Thursday the government would propose legislation to change the Criminal Code to permit the prosecution of people on charges of war crimes they allegedly committed elsewhere.

He did not say when the government would submit the proposed bill, but the legislation is expected to pass easily in Parliament, where Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's Conservative Party has a large majority.

Spy book on way

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A judge today cleared the way for publication of memoirs written by a retired British intelligence agent, saying the revelations may be embarrassing to the British government but were outdated and would not harm Britain's national security.

Judge Philip Powell of New South Wales Supreme Court dismissed Britain's attempt to block retired agent Peter Wright's book "Spycatcher," and gave the British government 28 days to appeal.

Powell also ordered the British government to pay the legal costs incurred by Wright and his publisher, Heinemann Aust. Britain said it will consider appealing the ruling.

Britain had sought an injunction to bar Heinemann from printing the book by Wright, a former officer in its MI-5 counterespionage agency, maintaining its national interests would be harmed if the book were published.

Some 'child-proof' packages aren't, poisoning study finds

By ROBERT BYRD
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — A new study of prescription drug accidents involving children has prompted concern over whether "child-proof" containers really live up to their name.

Each year, more than 60,000 cases of accidental prescription drug swallowings by children under 5 are reported in the United States, according to the American Association of Poison Control Centers.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission investigated more than 2,000 such incidents from nine poison control centers across the country in February, March, April and May, 1986. The study, reported Thursday by the Centers for Disease Control, is not a random scientific sample, but does show information about the poisoning cases the centers handled.

The commission found that in 65 percent of the cases studied, the medication was in its original container when the child took it, the CDC reported.

A total of 382 containers were sent to the CPSC for testing; 80 percent of them were "child-resistant," but 65 percent of those didn't work.

Nearly 70 percent of the continuous-thread, "child-resistant" caps on bottles for liquid medicine were ineffective, usually because the medicine had caked on the threads, clogging up the bottle top. And more than half of the lug-type, "push-and-turn" container caps didn't work because the mechanism was worn out.

"We are concerned that there were a number that weren't working," said Barbara Jacobson, a consumer safety officer with the CPSC.

She stressed that 200 ineffective containers in a small study do not mean that most "child-resistant" packages fail.

"It's not something where we're going out to the manufacturers and saying, 'Your packages stink,'" she said.

But the CDC, in its weekly report, said, "The present technology for child-resistant packaging may provide incomplete protection from prescription drug poisoning."

Still, the Atlanta-based agency said, the death rate from child poisonings has dropped steadily since the Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970, and "the use of child-resistant packaging should be strongly encouraged."

The safety commission study said 17 percent of the episodes involved children accidentally taking grandparents' drugs and 14 percent of the episodes actually occurred at grandparents' homes.

Other problems not relating to failure of the "child-resistant" packaging were parents' failure to close the container, keeping pills loose and putting medicine in a different container, the CDC said.

"Where possible," Ms. Jacobson said, "consumers of all ages should request child-resistant packaging, ... keep medicines in original prescription containers, secure the closures tightly ... and store medicine out of a child's sight and reach, whether the container is 'child-resistant' or not."

Dog lover creates pet seat belt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Buckle up your beagle and strap in your Siamese cat, says a man who started making seat belts for pets after his Yorkshire terrier was killed in a car accident.

"This is not a pet rock kind of thing," according to Gary D. Murray. "It's not a yuppie thing. It's to save animals' lives. I had one lady who was complaining she didn't like the color. I said, 'Listen lady, it's not for you. It's for the dog.'"

Murray, 38, recently received a patent for his red "Pet Luv" harnesses and is planning to mass-market the devices, which attach to regular car seat belts and sell for $16.95.

The Reno, Nev., resident was in San Francisco this week to show his invention to the local chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Chapter president Richard Avanzino said restraining devices such as the seat belts are a good idea, even for pets that enjoy traveling and usually are well-behaved.

"We hear of an untold number of incidents where dogs have jumped out of windows or out of the backs of pickup trucks, causing a serious traffic hazard," Avanzino said. "Not only can the pet be killed, but it can cause a lot of human suffering because of people having accidents trying to avoid them."

Mark McGuire, executive director of the Nevada Humane Society, said many accidents also are caused by pets that interfere with drivers and distract them from the road.

In 1982, Murray was driving a friend's car in Nevada when a tire blew and the car crashed into a tree. Murray, who only a short time before had himself started wearing a seat belt, suffered a cut on the head that required a few stitches. His dog, however, was thrown into the windshield.

"About two months later, when we got another dog, I tried to get something to make sure that if we took the dog anywhere it wouldn't get hurt," Murray recalled Thursday. "Regular leashes don't work. They've got cages you can carry them in, but they bounce around inside them like ping-pong balls."

He said when he asked several veterinarians where he could get something that works like a seat belt works for people, they suggested he make it.

Murray, who at the time was a technician for a cable television company, said he spent seven or eight months working on designs and asking the advice of veterinarians.

After about 50 versions, he went after the patent.

The belt is a harness that fits around the pet's chest and around its legs.

Comic mystery to feature Robert Hays

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Catherine Mary Stewart's name is such a mouthful, she says she is considering changing it, even though she's already starred in several movies under that moniker.

The latest is "Murder by the Book," a comedy that CBS will air Tuesday, March 17.

"I'm thinking of going back to being Cathy Nursall," she said. "I took the Stewart from my mother's maiden name. I come from a great Scottish background in Canada. My grandmother spoke Gaelic until she was 10. My mother wanted me to be a nurse, but I couldn't face walking down the hospital corridor and being paged as 'Nurse Nursall.'"

She arrived in Hollywood in 1981, after studying acting and dancing for two years in England. She's been in such films as "The Last Starfighter," "Night of the Comet," and "Nighthawks," as well as the miniseries "Hollywood Wives" and "Sins." In the latter, she played Joan Collins as a young woman.

In "Murder By the Book," she stars as the victim whose kidnapping gets the comedy underway. Robert Hays plays a mild-mannered mystery writer who becomes a tough-talking private eye named Biff Deegan in his fantasies. He weaves in and out of both characters.

"He's having lunch with his publisher one day when he looked out the window and sees me being thrown into a car," said Stewart. "He runs out to see what's going on and finds a matchbook that is a clue to the mystery. It involves a missing piece of art.

Lower rates but higher payments

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When a house is the item to be purchased, Americans like to go first class, or to at least spend as much as they can afford.

They don't do it with travel; relatively few non-business travelers choose first-class over coach.

At the showroom, they show a decided preference for small, lower-priced automobiles, even forcing a once-reluctant Detroit to bend to their wishes.

At the meat counter, they have a tendency to pick choice over prime beef. And when choosing clothing or household items their preference for discount stores helped create what is often referred to as the "retailing revolution."

But in housing their attitude is different.

When mortgage rates fell about 1.5 percentage points last year it was reasonable to expect that monthly payments would fall as well. But the monthly payment on conventional mortgages rose instead, by about $40.

It means that buyers chose more house over lower payments, according to analysts at Lomas & Nettleton, Co., Dallas-based mortgage bankers. Customers bought $15,000 more house than they were willing to buy the year before.

Their statistics showed the customer paid $119,000 for the average conventionally financed new home — conventional mortgages are those with fixed rates, usually for 20 years to 30 years — compared to $105,000 in 1985.

The trend was even more pronounced in the existing home market, where buyers paid $108,000 for the average home, compared to $93,000 in the earlier year, a 16 percent increase, versus a 13 percent rise in the new-home market.

The suggestion is strong, therefore, that Americans put the purchase of a home in a different category than other purchases.

They are, it appears, eager to invest in the home in which they live rather than save the money or use it to make other purchases or investments.

Paul M. Low, Lomas & Nettleton senior vice president, remarks that this willingness to use "savings" from lower interest rates to invest in more house seems to challenge old attitudes about the impact of interest rates.

The classic view is that buyers appear when monthly carrying charges decline sufficiently to fit their income scales. That view assumes that affordability is the key factor in the decision to buy or not to buy.

But, says Low, in a period of relatively low interest rates, affordability is not nearly as significant as when mortgage rates are higher.

Instead, he suggests, homebuyers seem to have a number in mind about how much they can afford to invest. While an interest rate decline may cause them to lower that number, more likely they view it as an option to buy more house.

Additional evidence of Low's number theory seems to come from the rental market. Nationally, the rent component of the consumer price index rose 6 percent last year, in spite of a market pockmarked with vacancies.

Drilling report

Mobil Producing has completed three new oil wells in Howard County's Howard Glascock Field. The wells are designated as the No. 25 Chalk Estate, the No. 42 G.O. Chalk and the No. 47 Owen-Chalk. Drillsites are six miles northeast of Forsan, 15 miles southeast of Big Spring and 13 miles southeast of Big Spring, respectively. The wells are in 80, 160 and 240-acre leases in the W&N Survey.

The No. 25 will pump 15 barrels of oil per day. The No. 42 will pump 20 barrels of oil per day, and the No. 47 will pump 20 barrels of oil per day. Production will be from perforations in the San Andres Formation, ranging from 2,026 to 2,209 feet into the wellbore.

Coyote Oil is planning to seek production in the Clear Fork Formation at approximately 5,770 feet at the No. 1 Helen Haagen, a developmental well in the North Vincent Field. Lobo Oil originally completed the well August 12, 1985, and it pumped 20 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the same formation at 4,311 to 4,523 feet. The well is located one mile northwest of Vincent in an 80-acre lease in the Lavaca Navigation Survey. Coyote Oil operates out of Snyder.

Exxon Corp. has abandoned two undrilled locations in the Chaney Field, Howard County. The wells had been designated as the No. 1 Guttar Trust Estate "C" and the No. 2 Guttar Trust Estate. Drillsites were eight miles northwest of Big Spring in the Bauer & Cockrell Survey. They had each carried permit for 5,800-ft. total drilling depth.

Drillsite has been staked for the No. 1 Mayse, an 8,000-ft. wildcat well in Mitchell County. The operation will be located 11 miles southeast of Colorado City in a 680-acre lease in the H&TC Survey. The operator is Primary Fuels of Houston.

Mitchell County's Sharon Ridge Field gained a producer when John Otis Cole completed the No. 4 Doris Cole "C" six miles southeast of Ira. The well indicated ability to pump 30 barrels of oil per day, plus 40 barrels of waste water. It was taken to a 1,850-ft. bottom, and will produce from a set of perforations at 1,630 to 1,726 feet into the wellbore.

The operation is located in a 160-acre lease in the H&GN Survey.

A Midland-based operator has staked location for the No. 6 Coleman Ranch "A", a developmental well to be located ten miles northwest of Westbrook. With projected total depth of 3,500 feet, the well will be drilled in a 160-acre lease in Mitchell County's North Coleman Ranch Field. H&TC Survey. The operator is Richmond Drilling.

The No. 1 Miller "52", a 5,350-ft. wildcat well, is scheduled to be drilled in Borden County. Remington Resources of Midland is the operator.

The well will be spudded in a 320-acre lease 12 miles northeast of Gail in the H&TC Survey.

Shell Western Exploration & Production of Houston has filed for permit to drill the No. 3 SWEPI/TXPO Gray, a 4,900-ft. developmental well 11 miles southeast of Gail. Location is in a 642-acre lease in Borden County's H&TC Survey. The well will be in the Gray Gulch Field.

Jerry Chambers Oil spudded the No. 84 Holloway Canyon, a projected 8,775-ft. developmental well in Borden County's West U-Lazy S Field. Drilling commenced Feb. 13, and the well is located 12 miles north of Gail. Drillsite is in a 600-acre lease in the J.T. Beal Survey.

Flowing 182 barrels of oil per day, along with 162,000 CF casinghead gas and 40 barrels of water, the No. 2046 Davis was completed in Martin County's Perrinville Field by Rosewood Resources.

Drillsite is six miles south of Ackerly. The well was drilled to 10,000-ft. total depth and plugged back to 9,783 feet. Production tests were run on an 18 1/2-in. choke, and production will be from perforations in the Canyon Formation, 9,590 to 9,610 feet into the wellbore. The location is in a 462-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Parker & Parsley Petroleum has filed first production figures on two new oil wells in Martin County's Spraberry Trend Field. The No. 1 Coffield "A" and the No. 1 Griffin "A" are located four miles northwest of Tarzan in an 80-acre lease in the M. Curtis Survey.

The Focfield well showed potential to pump 75 barrels of oil per day, plus 31,000 CF casinghead gas and 86 barrels of water. It bottomed at 9,500 feet, and will produce from perforations in the Spraberry Formation, ranging from 8,070 to 9,416 feet into the wellbore.

The Griffin well pumped 45 barrels of oil per day, plus 58 barrels of water from perforations in the same formation, ranging from 8,061 to 9,496 feet into the hole. Total drilling depth was 9,650 feet.

VF Petroleum has given up on its efforts to make a producer out of the No. 1 Donna, a wildcat well in Martin County. The operation was located three miles northeast of Lenorah in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Spudded Jan. 31, the well probed to 3,812 feet with no commercial potential.

Terra Resources has hung the "dry hole" sign on the No. 2 Reynolds, a developmental well in the Clyde Reynolds Field, Glasscock County. The well was located ten miles southeast of Garden City in a lease in the T&P Survey.

The well was spudded Jan. 28, and bottomed dry at 1,950 feet.

An undrilled location has been abandoned by Exxon Corp. in Glasscock County's Saint Lawrence Field. The well had been designated as the No. 3 Fred J. Hoelscher "B", and was to have been located nine miles southwest of Garden City. It had carried permit for 10,200-ft. total drilling depth.

The difficult art of delegating

By TOM PETERS

"Simple" delegation remains the most nettlesome problem a manager faces. Is delegation assigning a task to a subordinate and then washing your hands of it? Or should delegators assign a task, but insist the subordinate submit a careful, step-by-step plan, which they both monitor together regularly?

The former method not only sounds silly, but seems like an abrogation of the boss's responsibility. The latter method, indeed, conforms to the textbook definition of delegation. However, most delegators who follow the second, conventional path fail to achieve their true objective, because the subordinate fails to really catch fire. Why?

For a clue, let's turn to British mystery writer P.D. James, who has been called the new Agatha Christie. An apparently innocuous passage from her current bestseller, "A Taste for Death," reveals her keen management sense: "Dalglish had accepted that the agreement must be kept; Kate Miskin would meet Carole Washburn alone. He had given her no instruction and offered no advice. Other senior officers would have been tempted to remind her of the importance of the meeting, but this wasn't his way. She respected substantially by pointedly not reminding her of all the above!

On the other hand, he hardly set her adrift: (1) he is a consummate professional who has made it clear he entrusted Miskin because she's talented; and (2) his standards are astonishingly high. Thus the granted autonomy is real and significant, but it does not induce anarchy — because the psychological pressure to perform up to one's limit and to an absurdly high standard is monumental.

Bob Townsend, author of "Up the Organization," offers another story: "You tell a guy to get on with it. He's on his own. You make that clear. Two days later, on your way out at about seven in the evening, you poke your head into his office ever so briefly. You say, as a last, inadvertent aside, 'Have you checked with Bernie about your plans?' If you had stuck around another 10 seconds to watch his reaction, you would have seen physical deflation, like a balloon when its air is let out. And his color fades, too. You just stole the whole blasted thing back from him, and in about five seconds at that. And worst of all, you didn't mean it. Or even know it. For heaven's sake, he would have checked with Bernie anyway!"

first visible case dragged on, the press and entrenched political enemies were quick to snipe at him. In this context, Dalglish's permitting youthful Miskin to go ahead, alone, takes on added significance. Dalglish was risking internal scorn as well — the seasoned members of the team were already perturbed that he had appointed a relatively young woman. At the deepest, though seemingly most insignificant, level, he pointedly did not remind Miskin of the meeting's importance, a fact that she is painfully aware of.

Dalglish's second savvy delegation technique involved inspiring terror, along with pride, at being on his team. As a stern taskmaster who seldom offered praise, his standards are widely known to be Olympian.

When Dalglish allowed Miskin to attend the meeting, he reinforced his abiding faith in her. Dalglish is not sentimental, and certainly no closet feminist. He chose Miskin for his team, and early in her career at that, because he believed she was darned good.

We see the full-blown paradox of true delegation here. On the one hand, the boss let go: (1) he formally delegated an important task; (2) he stuck his neck way out by doing so; (3) he upped the ante him for it, but it increased her burden of responsibility. Everything might depend on how she handled the encounter."

Adam Dalglish, James' Sherlock Holmes, is an intellectual, respected senior detective. Kate Miskin is the only woman in his new, elite unit. Carole Washburn is a suspect.

This single paragraph in James' novel reveals most of the attributes of successful delegation. First, Dalglish really did let go: at the most obvious level, he let relatively junior Miskin go alone to a crucial meeting. But two subtler levels of letting go are involved. Dalglish's new, elite unit was forged over political objection. As the unit's

The Sidewinders are hot

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Last weekend, the Sidewinders Christian Academy competed against 27 teams from seven states in a gymnastics meet in Dallas.

The Sidewinders, also known as the Big Spring YMCA boys team, finished second.

That should come as no surprise to anyone who has followed this team. In the two years since coach Ken Werner arrived in Big Spring, the Sidewinders have blasted from the outhouse to the penthouse. If they get any better, President Reagan might invite them to the White House.

In January of 1985, however, Werner was lucky if one of his kids could do a good cartwheel.

"They were bad, real bad. Will Rutherford was the only talent I had when I first started. He had talent, but no technique or form," said Werner Thursday, relaxing in his cluttered office at the "Y".

Though Rutherford left Big Spring to train in Longview, Werner thinks this year's team is his best yet. They finished third out of over 20 teams the weekend before last, and were beaten by the same team that beat them last weekend.

To win the state tournament, Werner said the Sidewinders must beat that team — the USA Acrosports, from Clear Lake.

"They beat us by a big margin. They're a much better team than we are," said Werner, who doesn't rule out the possibility of winning the state.

The state tournament is April 25 in Waco, and the Sidewinders are about to go into high gear. In two weeks, Werner's going to double their practice hours — they'll work from 3:30 to 8:30 p.m. every week day.

"They love it. They're looking forward to it. As a matter of fact, we did it before and they didn't want to stop," the enthusiastic coach said.

One reason the kids love practicing is the gymnastics facility at the Big Spring YMCA. It's the most impressive athletic facility in Big Spring, with the possible exception of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The gym itself, finished last spring, cost $280,000, and is longer than a basketball court. But the most startling aspect is not the gym, but the equipment in the gym — high bars, parallel bars, rings, mats, trampolines — the works.

There's even a five-foot deep pool, but rather than water, it's filled with 14,000 multi-colored styrofoam blocks. It allows the Sidewinders to try tricks they wouldn't dare do with a hard floor underneath. It's also a lot of fun to jump in from the trampoline.

Werner said the equipment is "the best money will buy — it's top of the line equipment." The facility and equipment cost $330,000, the entirety of which was given by an anonymous donor.

"She likes kids," Werner said. "And she likes the fact that we allow free gymnastics for people who can't afford it. We never deny a kid."

But how about the name — the Sidewinders Christian Academy?

"I just think that without the Lord none of this would've happened, and I have to give him all the credit. We push Christianity to all the kids on the team, but not hard. We set Christian examples more than anything," Werner explained. Nevertheless, Werner said he would hold no bias whatsoever against a kid who wasn't a Christian.

From listening to him, and from observing the Sidewinders, the primary emphasis appears to be on discipline, with a healthy dose of fun stirred in. When Werner calls his team together, they run in front of him and line up in an orderly single file.

"They are very, very disciplined. I never have to say anything twice; if I say anything twice, they're in trouble. They know when they break the rules, they pay the consequences. But they don't get in trouble very often," he explained.

"Discipline is a key part of gymnastics, but they're used to it. They know I'm their friend, but I'm their coach before I'm their friend."

If nothing else, Werner has instilled his kids with a love for the sport. During practice they eagerly

On the surface, it seemed like the opportunity of a lifetime.

Bela Karolyis, the famous Rumanian gymnastics coach, asked Big Spring YMCA gymnastics coach Ken Werner to come to Houston and coach his boys' team. Karolyis' resume includes pupils like Nadia Comaneci and Mary Lou Retton, so surely Werner grabbed at the chance to coach with him.

Werner told his friend no. "I told him I didn't want to work for him. I told him I wanted to compete against him, and I wanted to beat him. He liked that, he thought that was real good," said Werner, laughing loudly.

Have you competed against him? Did you beat him?

"Yeah, we've beat them every time this year," said the 24-year old coach, with another burst of laughter.

Obviously, Werner appreciates challenges. He also likes to do his own thing. He rides a motorcycle, calls himself a "dead head," and is very religious.

A "dead head," by the way, is a fan, or more specifically, a fanatic, of the Grateful Dead, the famous San Francisco hippie-rock group. Werner's such a fan that he plans to spend his vacation seeing three Grateful Dead shows with friends in Chicago.

If Werner wasn't such an individual, he might never have become involved in gymnastics. In junior high school, some schoolmates called him a sissy because he was a gymnast.

"So I said, 'Well let's go in the gym,' and we'd do strength moves and I'd just blow them away," remembers Werner, laughing again.

At the time, he concentrated more on swimming and track, and was good enough to own Colorado state age-group records in the long jump, triple jump and high jump.

Werner's interest in gymnastics started at age three, when he entered a YMCA program in his native Illinois. After moving back to Illinois his sophomore year in high school, Werner quit track and swimming to concentrate solely on gymnastics.

He practiced with the University of Illinois gymnastics team, and worked out at a club in Decatur, Illinois. He started coaching almost by accident.

"It just kind of happened. An instructor was absent from work one day and I just filled in. I needed the money, and I dwindled out of practicing and into working," Werner said.

The team he helped coach won the national girls YMCA championship, and Werner was hooked on coaching. He saw the Big Spring job on a national list, and drove to Texas.

He interviewed, was offered the job, returned to Illinois, and then back to Big Spring, all in a week's time. That was in January of 1985.

Since then, Werner has enjoyed some of the special perks of success. Last summer, he accompanied star pupil Will Rutherford to Russia, where Rutherford trained with Soviet gymnasts and Werner studied Soviet coaching techniques.

For one month this summer, Werner will take Sidewinders Corey Adams and Robert Lee to Africa. Werner will coach an African junior team, and Adams and Lee will be his demonstrators. Olympian gymnast Bart Conner will accompany the group and teach a more advanced group.

Werner has also been invited to return to Russia this summer, but he said his finances probably won't allow another trip.

When not coaching or listening to music, Werner writes. He's working on a book about the development of a junior elite gymnastics program.

"Americans want instant hamburger, instant chicken and instant gymnasts, and that's not good. You start them at a young age, and you train them for four or five years, and then you have young advanced gymnasts that are winning everything."

"That's how the Russians do it, and that's what my book is about," Werner said.

When asked what his ultimate goal was, and if it was coaching in the Olympics, Werner shrugged.

"This is what I'll be doing for the rest of my life. I really enjoy kids," he said.

Streaking Hawks sweep Angelina

By STEVE BELVIN

Frank Medina saved his best for last, and the Howard College Hawks are glad he did.

The sophomore third baseman cracked a double to drive in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning as Howard took a 7-6 win over the Angelina College Roadrunners in non-region baseball action Friday afternoon at Jack Barber Field.

In the second game of the double-header, Howard won by a 7-1 score.

Medina's double, which scored Chad Baker, capped a Howard comeback, which saw the Hawks rally after trailing the entire game. Angelina, paced by the pitching of Bubba Townsley and the hitting of George Rawls, led 4-0 after 3½ innings of play and 6-2 after 4½r innings.

The Roadrunners, especially Rawls, hit Howard pitcher Howard Landry hard in the first five innings. The big freshman first baseman had a perfect game, going four-for-four at the plate, including two homers a single and double. He drove in three runs and scored two himself. Meanwhile Townsley pitched no-hit ball the first three innings.

In all the Roadrunners socked four round-trippers off Landry and banged out 13 hits. But in the last two innings, Landry closed the door while his teammates rallied to victory.

Angelina scored its first run in the second inning. Rawls' single drove in Matt Jordan, who had singled. Angelina added another run in the third inning when center fielder Max Raxdale homered.

Angelina played long ball again in the fourth inning. Rawls caught a hanging Landry curveball and drove it deep over the left field fence for a solo shot. Another Roadrunner run scored when Jesse Valdez singled, scoring Tim Sherman.

Howard was fortunate only two runs scored. The Roadrunners banged out six hits in the inning. They left the bases loaded when Howard right fielder Fred Lopez gathered in Ricky Risby's fly at the wall.

Howard quickly cut the lead to 4-2 in the bottom half of the inning. Ernesto Castro walked and Howard's first hit of the game was a bang. Cleanup hitter Randy Deal drove Townsley's pitch out of the park, cutting the margin to 4-2.

Playing long ball again, the Roadrunners answered with two runs in the top of the fifth. First Jordan hit a solo homer and the ever present Rawls followed with another solo shot.

But from then on, the game would be all Howard.

In the bottom of the inning Jeff Shults and Joel Chimelis singled. Shults scored when Castro doubled down the right field line. That prompted Roadrunner coach Bill Berry to pull Townsley in favor of Clifton Hutson. Townsley went four innings, allowed five hits and four runs.

Deal greeted Hutson with a long fly, scoring Chimelis and cutting the lead to 6-4.

In the sixth inning Howard rallied to tie the score at 6-6. Medina singled and Chad Webber walked. They both scored on a base hit by Chimelis. This set the stage for Howard's seventh inning victory.

Hutson, who got the loss, retired the first two Howard batters. But Baker kept the Hawks' hopes alive with a single to center field. Three pitches later Baker stole second base. Then Medina ended the game by smashing a two-bagger in the left-center gap, scoring Baker with the winning run.

Howard coach Bill Griffin said he knew his troops would start hitting the ball sooner or later. "I knew we would eventually score some runs," he said. "Landry is our number one pitcher and that's why I stayed with him. He showed what he was made of when he struck out four of their last six batters."

"I really didn't think they (Angelina) would hit that many home runs. That first baseman killed us, but it's a big lift for us to come back and win like that."

DALLAS (AP) — Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka says he's gone as far as he can to accommodate quarterback Jim McMahon.

"I'm finished bending. It's over. It now goes the other way. And unless he conforms totally to the program we want, then I think you will see No. 2 (Doug Flutie) or No. 18 (Mike Tomczak) or No. 4 (Steve Fuller) out there."

ACC glamour turns to shame; Miners nip Arizona

By The Associated Press
Norm Sloan's Florida Gators on Friday beat North Carolina State, the team he coached to the 1974 national championship, as an Atlantic Coast Conference team went down for the fourth time in six first-round NCAA Tournament basketball games.

Meanwhile, Southwest Missouri of the Mid-Continent Conference, the league that provided upset-minded Cleveland State in 1986, beat No. 13 Clemson of the ACC 65-60 in a Southeast Regional game. The Tigers' Horace Grant, the ACC Player of Year, was limited to only two second-half points.

Also falling from the ACC ranks on Friday was Georgia Tech, beaten 85-79 by Louisiana State in the Midwest Regional. Virginia was beaten 64-60 by Wyoming Thursday night in the West Regional.

The ACC, which along with the Big Ten and Southeast Conference sent six teams to the tournament, did advance No. 2 North Carolina and Duke into second-round action.

At Syracuse's Carrier Dome, Vernon Maxwell's 3-point basket ignited a 17-0 streak midway through the second half that helped Florida erase a nine-point deficit and take an 82-70 East Regional victory over Jim Valvano's Wolfpack. Valvano coached N.C. State to the NCAA title in 1984.

Maxwell finished with 28 points, including 15 free throws, and backcourt partner Andrew Moten added 19 for Florida, which will meet No. 7 Purdue Sunday in a second-round game. Purdue beat Northeastern, 104-95.

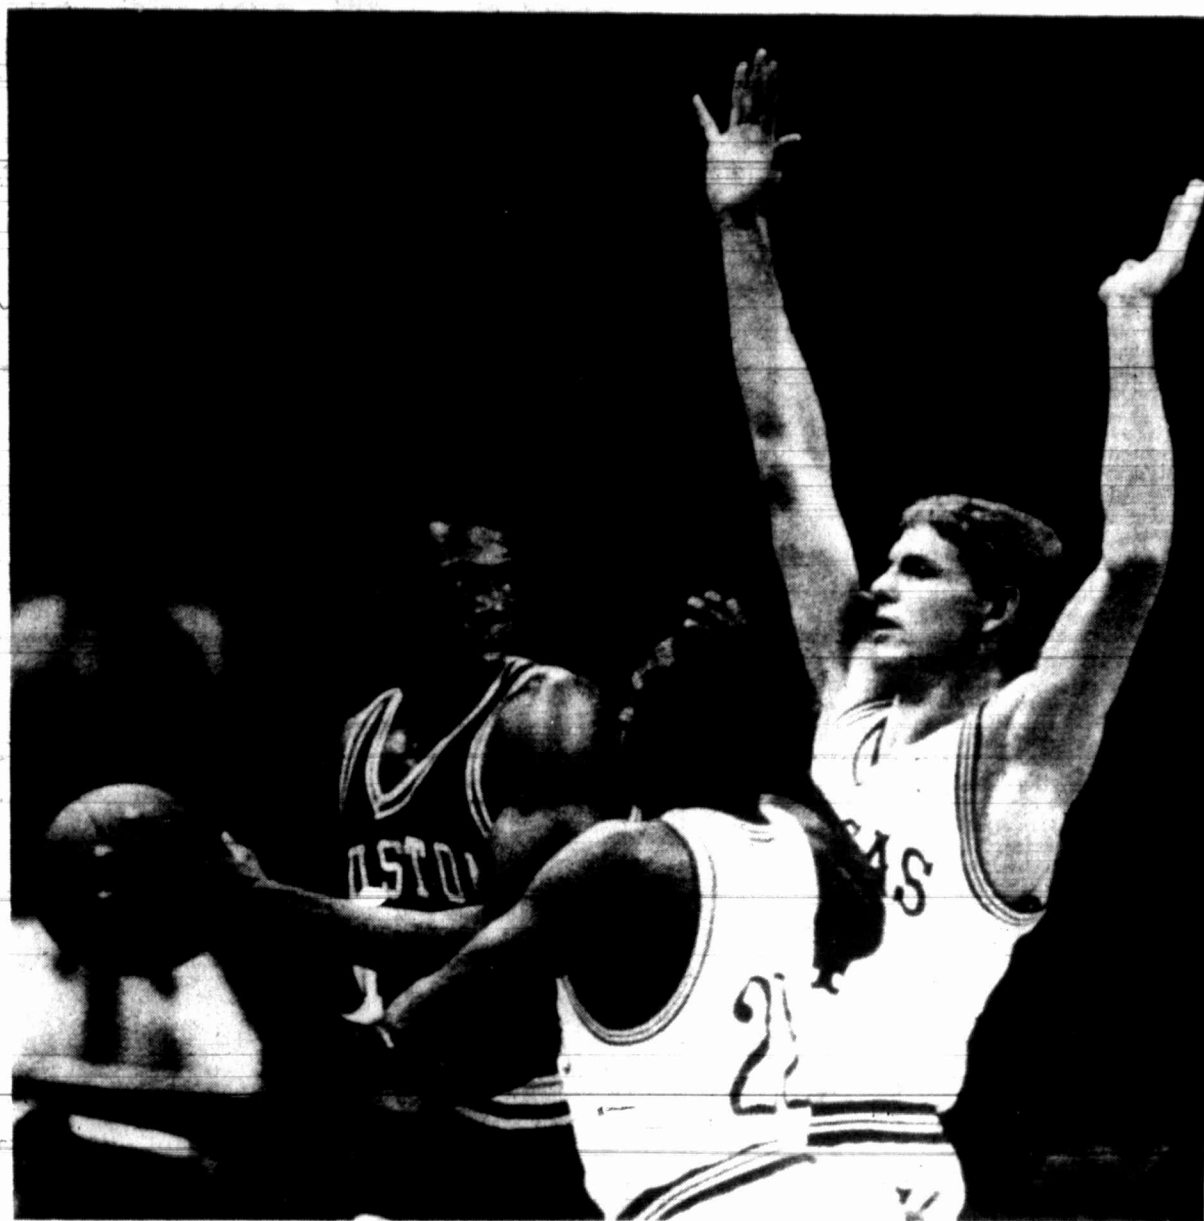

The game marked Florida's inaugural appearance in the tournament.

Despite beating the school he led to a national championship, Sloan said the victory was no sweeter than if Florida had defeated another team.

"There was nothing special about meeting them. It's just wonderful to see friends from North Carolina State and all the people I worked with. It's just a basketball game," he said.

Also in the East, Western Kentucky beat West Virginia 64-62. In the late game, No. 10 Syracuse, 26-6, met Georgia Southern, 20-10.

In other Southeast Regional games at Atlanta, No. 20 Kansas beat Houston 66-55, No. 4 Georgetown blasted Bucknell, 75-53. Later Friday, Kentucky, Houston's Ricky Winslow looks for a passing lane against Kansas' players Cedric Hunter (22) and Chris Piper during the Cougars first round loss to the Jayhawks Friday.

18-10, met Ohio State, 19-12.

In the Midwest Regional at Rosemont, Ill., No. 8 Temple downed Southern University 75-56, and St. John's nipped Wichita State 57-55. Late Friday, No. 5 DePaul took on Louisiana Tech, 22-7.

In the West Regional at Tucson, Ariz., sixth-ranked Iowa crushed Santa Clara 99-76 and Texas-El Paso scored a 98-91 overtime victory over Arizona. At night, No. 12 Pittsburgh played Marist and Oklahoma took on Tulsa.

EAST

Purdue 104 Northeastern 95

Doug Lee scored 17 of his career-high 29 points in the second half to lead seventh-ranked Purdue past Northeastern. The Boilermakers reached the 100-point mark for the first time this season.

SW Missouri 65, Clemson 60

Winston Garland scored 24 points and Basil Robinson added 13 while Greg Bell provided the defensive pressure against Grant. "You can talk about Garland and Robinson, but the job Bell did on Grant probably won the game," Southwest Coach Charlie Spoonhour said after the Bears' triumph in their first ever NCAA tournament game. The Bears, who lead the nation in scoring defense, allowing only 57 per game, held Grant in check after the 6-foot-10 center scored 14 in the first half. The Tigers were seeded fourth in the Southeast.

Freshman Kevin Pritchard ignited a 26-9 first-half run with 15 points as No. 20 Kansas beat Houston. The victory sends the Jayhawks into Sunday's second-round action against Southwest Missouri. Kansas, 24-10, led 34-21 at halftime and Houston, 18-12, was unable to get closer than seven in the second half, the last time with 13:05 left at 42-35 after a basket by Greg Anderson.

Reggie Williams scored 21 points and ignited Georgetown with a pair of three-point baskets as the Hoyas trounced Bucknell for their 12th straight victory. Top-seeded Georgetown trailed the 16th seed 23-19 when the Hoyas made their move with 4:37 left before the half, running off 13 consecutive points within a 2:27 span. Perry McDonald hit a short jumper, Charles Smith hit a free throw and a layup off a steal and Williams connected on his first 3-pointer off another steal.

Midwest

Temple 75, Southern U. 56
Louisiana State 85, Georgia Tech 79
St. John's 57, Wichita St. 55

Temple's stubborn defense held Southern to 27 percent field-goal shooting and senior guard Nate Blackwell scored 24 points and center Tim Perry added 21 points and 17 rebounds. Southern, which had scored 100 or more points in its previous five games, hit only 20 of 73 shots from the field as Perry and 6-foot-10 Ramon Rivas bottled up the inside. Southern's tallest starter is 6-7 Craig Pollard.

Darryl Joe scored 28 points, including seven 3-point baskets, and Anthony Wilson added 20 as 10th-seeded LSU defeated Georgia Tech. LSU, 22-14, faces second-seeded Temple, 32-3, in the tournament's second round on Sunday. It was the second consecutive postseason meeting between LSU and Georgia Tech. LSU defeated Tech 70-64 in the semifinals of the 1986 Southeast Regional.

Marco Baldi, a 6-11 sophomore from Italy who was banned from last year's tournament for violating NCAA rules, made a 12-foot jumper with one second remaining to lift St. John's over Wichita State. Baldi was suspended prior to St. John's first-round game in 1986 against Montana State when it was learned by the NCAA he had accepted transportation expenses from an Italian pro club. His eligibility was restored last October.

Kevin Gamble and Roy Marble keyed a 38-4 first-half run as sixth-ranked Iowa sacked Santa Clara. Trailing 4-0, the Hawkeyes scored the next 22 points and followed that with a 16-4 run. The Hawkeyes led by as many as 31 points in the first half, dominating the game with full-court pressure that held Santa Clara to only two field goals in the first 14 minutes. Iowa, 28-4, forced 15 turnovers in the first half and shot 70 percent from the field while holding Santa Clara to 25 percent.

UTEP, the Western Athletic Conference regular-season champion, trailed 78-73 with 50 seconds left in regulation but forced the overtime at 79-79 on Jeep Jackson's 3-point goal with 26 seconds left and junior guard Chris Blocker's jumper with one second showing. Jackson scored nine of his 23 points in overtime and keyed a pivotal 9-2 run as Texas-El Paso defeated home-standing Arizona. The Miners, 25-6, advance to Sunday's second round to face sixth-ranked Iowa.

second game while raising its season record to 11-3. Hebert went the distance and the Hawks's two big innings were enough for the win.

In the bottom of the fifth of a scoreless game, Howard scored four runs. John Wiles and Chimes singled. Castro doubled, scoring the first two runs of the game. Deal followed with his fifth homer of the season, giving Howard a four run cushion. Angelina scored in the top of the sixth when Rawls singled, scoring Raxdale. The Hawks put the game away with three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Pinch-hitter Perry Shock singled and scored on a base hit by Medina. Medina eventually scored on a throwing error. The final Howard run came when Castro singled, scoring Wiles, who had also singled.

Morton on way to defending state championship

AUSTIN (AP) — Defending champion Morton, with relentless defensive pressure, and Liberty Hill, on the scoring of Phillip Lenox, advanced to the Class 2A finals Friday at the boys' state basketball tournament.

Morton forced 28 turnovers in its 75-66 semifinal victory over Archer City, a 1986 Class A finalist.

Liberty Hill, a tournament newcomer with five junior starters, defeated Paris Chisum 74-68.

Jerry Joyce, a 6-foot-5 senior who was all-tournament last year, paced Morton with 23 points, including a leaping tap-in on a lob pass.

Billy Dugan of Archer City led all scorers with 32 points but had only two in the final quarter as Morton widened a 66-64 margin.

Anthony Hawkins of Morton had a key play, stripping the ball from Mark Crelia and passing to Morton teammate Rob Shields for a field goal and 68-64 lead.

Liberty Hill jumped to a 20-6 first-quarter lead and hung on for its victory despite allowing Chisum to score 30 points on 22 turnovers.

Lenox, whose father and uncle were basketball stars at Southwest Texas State and Texas A&M respectively, scored 28 points for Liberty Hill and was the high rebounder with 10. Clay Cole scored 20 for the Panthers.

Kelvin Battle scored 21 for Chisum but fouled out with 3:41 left in the game. Bobby Randall, second leading scorer for Chisum with 14 points, went to the bench with five fouls with 1:31 to go.

Members of the Sidewinders Christian Academy stand at attention while coach Ken Werner provides instructions for Thursday's practice. From climb the bars and rings, and swing and twist in ways that would make most people sick with dizziness. Mostly, they work hard and help each other.

Their behavior and talent make it easy to forget they're just 10 and 13 year olds. One of the best Sidewinders, Robert Lee, weighs just 65 pounds.

"We've had football players come in here and do things that the little kids can't do," Werner said, referring to the six and seven year olds.

"I have a select team of 5,6 and 7 year olds. They're my little jewels. They're going to be highly advanced and highly competitive. I'm still in the building process; when these guys are 10 they'll be the kind of team I want, because my older kids will be good 16 year olds."

Right now, Werner says he has six "really good prospects." They are Hank Tonn, Cory Adams, Clint Finley, Donny Dennard, Lance Moore and Lee

Moore, 13, has won every event, including the overall titles, at the last two meets. According to Werner, Moore is "dominating the competition right now." That Moore has only been involved in the sport since May comes as quite a surprise, and a testament to his coach.

You won't find better conditioned kids than the Sidewinders. If you don't believe it, try swinging from the rings or high bars. What you can't do they can do with the ease of monkeys and the grace of ballet performers.

Right now, Werner says the Sidewinders are "among the top five teams in the southern United States — for their age."

"Next year, we're going to go up north and compete and find out how we stand nationwide," he said.

Judging from the remarkable progress of the last two years, the Yankee teams might best beware. Ken Werner and the Sidewinders will only get better.
