Friday topic: Development of downtown

City Planner Robert Lima will recommend several funding mechanisms to finance 18 projects to revitalize downtown Big Spring at a 3 p.m. Friday conference in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

Although he declined to reveal costs, Lima said funds would come from the public, private and private-public sectors.

Tax break options are being analyzed to add incentive for private property owners to participate in the redevelopment, explained Downtown Coordinator Teri Quinones. In a tax increment financing plan, for example, a governing body, such as the city, would lend property owners money to improve their properties. Owners would use the funds to increase the full market value and property appraisal. Entities that receive the additional tax revenue would then cooperate to pay back the lender.

Dam OK 'victory for West Texas'

From staff and wire reports FORT WORTH - After 10 years, it's official.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Wednesday afternoon issued a permit allowing the Colorado River Municipal Water District to begin building the Stacy Dam and Reservoir — 10 years after they applied for the first

'This is an occasion for rejoicing," said district president John Taylor. "This is a victory for all of West

Just hours after the Corps of Engineers signed the permit, a contract was mailed to Houston construction firm Brown & Root Inc., which will break ground next month. In March, Brown & Root submitted a low bid of $30,727,000, and the firm could begin work before the end of April, one official said.

The action prompted relief in Ballinger. Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Don

Bethany said he was relieved by the decision. 'We had heard it would be last Friday, and then Monday. We've been expecting it for about three weeks. But we're very excited," he said.

Bethany said the ground breaking is scheduled for May 16 at the site. If the weather is bad, the ceremonies will be conducted in the Ballinger High School gym, he said.

The construction, however, could begin sooner, according to Owen Ivie, the general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Barring any unforeseen developments, construction could start before the end of this month," Ivie said

"After three years of dedicated efforts, and thousands of man-hours of study and negotiations, we feel we are on our way," he said.

But in Washington, wildlife groups met with their lawyers to decide whether to file a lawsuit to stop construction they say could wipe out the threatened Concho water snake, said Eric Jorgensen, an attorney for the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund.

Col. Al Genetti, Fort Worth District engineer, says the permit takes care of the snake's needs.

'The permit was approved with certain special conditions providing for protection of the Concho water snake, lands to be set aside for wildlife habitat and identification and mitigation of impacts to the cultural resources," he

But John Fitzgerald of Defenders of Wildlife said he does not believe the water district's $3.1 million plan to protect the threatened snake — which includes bulldozing 30 miles of Colorado River shoreline to create more habitat for the snake - will save it.

Officials of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service originally rejected such alternate habitats as too unreliable, but gave the Corps of Engineers their approval after several West Texas congressmen met with them in Washington. Other dam opponents argued previously that the project would harm users of the Colorado River downstream

Treasurer urges priority plan for cash shortage

AUSTIN (AP) - State Treasurer Ann Richards, planning for a possible cash shortage later this year, is suggesting the Legislature establish a priority system for payments should Texas be forced to write hot checks this autumn.

In a letter to state officials, Ms. Richards says legislation may be needed to specify how Texas would balance commitments to public schools, law enforcement, health programs and state employees should the treasury run dry.

The state is required by law to write checks for general revenue spending, even if it doesn't have sufficient funds. State law does not spell out funding priorities, except for a few cases such as a requirement that federal postal fees be paid first.

A priority system would determine which checks would be honored first, officials said.

In her letter to Gov. Bill Clements, House Speaker Gib Lewis, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Comptroller Bob Bullock, Ms. Richards said she wanted to get them thinking about key questions that seem likely to arise if all state bills can't be paid on time.

"Would delayed payments of warrants jeopardize operations at teaching hospitals such as John Sealy Hospital or M.D. Anderson, which are literally dealing with life and death?" Ms. Richards asked.

"Where does the transfer of money for the Foundation School program to fund the state's 1,068 school districts fit into the priorities? How can we best assess the question of whether the schools will be delayed in opening in September?"

City plans psychological tests

AUSTIN (AP) - The Austin city manager has authorized psychological evaluations — at a total cost of more than $150,000 - for 234 candidates for city jobs or promotions.

City Manager Jorge Carrasco says the evalutions are "an extremely valuable tool that corporate America has embraced for many years and that I believe municipalities all over the country are embracing.'

The Austin American-Statesman reported Wednesday that a total of $158,501 was paid for expenses and assessments performed by Dr. David K. Wasson bet-

The evaluations cost $500 or $600 each, and the newspaper said Wasson also charges an additional fee to brief Carrasco or his assistants on the findings. Wasson said that from 1984 to 1986, he charged $100 for those briefings, and this year increased the fee to $125. One briefing often covers all finalists for a vacancy, officials said.

Wasson said the higher briefing fee accompanied a Jan. 1 increase in the charge for individual assessments from $500 to $600.

Panel OKs SDI budget

WASHINGTON - The House Armed Services Committee on Wednesday approved a $305.7 billion Pentagon budget bill that gives President Reagan much of what he wanted for defense, including tests of "Star Wars" antimissile systems that might be deployed in the next decade.

After two days of work, the panel voted 45-6 to send the measure to the floor of the House, where it faces likely fights next month over arms control proposals backed by Democratic opponents of the administration.

The $305.7 billion authorized by the committee for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 compares with the $312 billion sought by Reagan. The president's request would have been a 3 percent hike above inflation over the current

Low voter turnout: None

GALESBURG, II. - What does a poll watcher watch when no one shows up to vote?

Election Judge Mary Grawey says she and her two colleagues chatted, ate lunch and "looked at a lot of magazines," when no one turned out to vote Tuesday in a Galesburg Township precinct.

Twenty-six people were eligible to cast ballots in the precinct just outside Galesburg in west-central Illinois. But no one voted on whether the Knoxville Fire Protection District's trustees should be elected or continue to be appointed.

"I thought perhaps some of those people would be interested in that question, but obviously nobody was," Knox County Clerk Yvonne Tabb said Wednesday.

Firefighters and emergency workers look through the rubble after an explosion destroyed a three-story tenement at 141st Street and Third Avenue in New York Wednesday. Rescuers used picks, chain saws and bare hands to search for survivors feared buried beneath the rubble.

Buildings collapse, six dead

NEW YORK (AP) - Rescue workers early today pulled a sixth body from the rubble of a small grocery and a tenement that disintegrated in an apparent natural gas explosion, raining bricks and plaster on nearly two dozen people.

Police and firefighters dug through the wreckage by hand to rescue several people, including a 21/2-year-old boy, during the hectic moments after the blast in the South Bronx on Wednesday afternoon. One man was trapped, conscious and in great pain, under a steel beam for six hours until he could be saved.

Seventeen people were injured in the blast, and 12 rescue workers were injured during the search for survivors, authorities said. At least three of the injured were undergoing surgery today.

Heavy machinery continued picking through the rubble of the one-story grocery store and vacant threestory apartment building today, but authorities said they believed they had found the last victim with the sixth body pulled out shortly after midnight.

A gas leak in the store was reported about 15 minutes before the blast, and Fire Commissioner Joseph Spinnato said natural gas probably caused the explosion. The utility Consolidated Edison said it would investigate.

Uhuruh Roper, 14, said he stepped out of the store just before it collapsed.

"All that happened was a big boom. Just a boom," he said. "I tried to move, but the contact just crushed me up against a car. Then some rocks and pebbles started falling on me, and I couldn't get out. I was kicking for a little while, but then I just kind of passed out."

Roper was in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Lincoln Hospital this morning suffering from multiple injuries, a spokesman said.

"I saw some kids going into the store and the next thing you know it just blew up. It just collapsed," said Nicole Joseph, 18, who was walking by the store. "I couldn't even believe it because one minute the store was there and the next minute it was gone.

Five of the dead apparently were inside the store when it collapsed and the sixth was outside, authorities

Children's art

Shows anguish caused by alcoholic parent

WASHINGTON (AP) - In poignant words and pictures, the children of alcoholics are revealing their private world of fear, anger, guilt, loneliness and shame.

An exhibition of their original art - more than 500 crayon drawings, watercolor paintings, poems and letters scrawled in pencil — is stirring emotions among visitors to the marbled rotunda of the Cannon House Office Building on Capitol

"I'm sad but I pretend I'm happy," an 8-year-old girl writes. Another girl, aged 5, titled her drawing, "My Mom taking a drink and me crying." Using angry brush strokes, a 12-year-old boy portrays a blurred face in browns and blacks with a gaping, sharklike mouth, and writes: "My dad is a jerk, jerk!"

In their crude pictures sometimes captioned with misspelled words, parents are fighting, passing out, driving cars into trees, chasing and striking their children, drowning in monstrous bottles of booze, trapped in cans of beer.

A 16-year-old girl with two alcoholic parents painted a red and blue heart, severed down the middle, and wrote: "Alcohol ruins pretty things." Another child, pictured hiding during a parental fight, says, "Alcohol is harmfull. Stay out of the way, Posibly keep out of sight.'

A smiling little girl is pictured disclosing her furtive ploy: "Pore out Mom's drink's and filled in the cans with water!" An adult child of an alcoholic writes, "I was but 3 and daddy always beat on me. He smelt of beer and wine and the next day he kissed me and said things were fine."

There is hope in 8-year-old Jaime's inscription for a cartoon of his father: "My Dad is doing real good at stoping alcohol. My dad is going to special meedings. We had to moive out because my dad got to carried away with drinking. Now he is geting better at stoping. My dad is nicer to us. We have moived back.'

The exhibit, organized by the privately financed Children of Alcoholics Foundation Inc. of New track "superstars" susceptible to their reaction was unusual.

week, ending a national tour that began in New York in October 1983 and continued through Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Texas and California.

Mrs. Migs Woodside, founder and president of the foundation, said the art exhibit is part of her organization's effort to make the public aware of a "huge but hidden" minority in America, the 28 million children of alcoholics.

Sons of alcoholics are four times more likely to become alcoholics than other children, the foundation says. The 7 million youngsters of alcoholic parents may suffer emotional detachment, dependency and low self-esteem, and have physical problems ranging from tiredness to asthma and unusual sensitivity to heat and cold.

Some are overly aggressive, perform poorly in school and have trouble forming trusting relationships. Others become exceedingly responsible, serving as substitute parents for their brothers and sisters and growing up to be fast-

Besides promoting public education and research into the problems of children of alcoholics, Mrs. Woodside said, the foundation is embarking on a privately financed program to package the art exhibit as a classroom teaching tool to alert school children to the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.

She says that because parents' alcoholism is a "family secret," children are reluctant to express their thoughts and feelings for fear of betraying their parents and exposing themselves to the stigma of Therapists encourage these children to express their hidden emotions in drawings, poems and stories, letting their art reveal what they dare not verbalize. Mrs. Woodside said their art has become an excellent tool to inform others about the effects of alcoholism.

When school children were first invited to see the art exhibit when it reached Minneapolis, she said,

A little flower girl (about 21/2 years of age) announced loudly, while she was at the altar with the bridal couple and minister, "I have to make a wee wee." She wasn't lying; she made a puddle during the ceremony.

The ring bearer, an attractive little boy of 3, took the pillow and kept throwing it up in the air and catching it (sometimes) during the entire service. He was seated between his parents and neither one attempted to discipline him.

Frequently, during the procession, the kids do not make it up the aisle, but wander instead to an aunt or uncle on the way there, and cannot be prodded to go where they went during rehearsal.

Kids crying in the church (or synagogue, or whatever) are an invasion to the sacred ceremony, and well do I remember the words of a minister, "A baby who cries in church is like a New Year's

It has been suggested that the world has been divided into those who seek the truth of God and those who do not seek that truth, and such is the case. It has become quite common to assume that scriptures are subject to a type of rather hazy relativistic interpretation. that everyone has the right to interpret scripture however they want to, and to oppose such a view is to "deny freedom of will" and to "surrender to legalism." But one thing is certain: if people have the right to do what certain: if people have the right to do what they want to with God's Word, or cannot discover in an objective, understandable sense what God means in His word, what purpose is the revelation? The truth of the matter is that the scriptures need no interpretation the truths that have to do with a person's eternal abode are not matters of interpretation at all. Any time a person attempts to explain away a passage of scripture by saying "it's just your interpretation", does not understand the nature of Divine Truth. Jesus said "you shall know the truth, and the truth 😭 shall make you free" (John 8:31,32). He did not say, "You can never be sure you know the truth", nor did he say "Interpret My Word any way you please." Proverbs 2:1-5

Sebaceous cyst can be removed if trouble

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a female, 23, and a summer lover. I spend lots of time at the beach. My problem right now consists of two growths on my back. They are ugly and show when I wear a swimsuit. They seem to fade somewhat with time, but always come back. They are at about bra-strap level, so get irritated. A doctor tells me they are sebaceous cysts and can be handled when I want it. What brings them on? Can they just be removed? - C.C.

Yes, sebaceous cysts can be removed. They get their name from the oil glands that cause them, the sebaceous glands. These glands have tiny ducts that send the oil out to the skin surface. This light mantle of oil is what gives skin its suppleness.

The glands lie in proximity to hair follicles, which sometimes can interfere with the ducts, causing

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have read a lot about gallstones in your column. You never have said outright that some people can just leave them alone and live with them. Can they? - Mrs. W.L.N.

Many doctors do feel that if gallstones are "silent," by which is meant non-symptomatic, that you can leave them alone. Such stones are most likely quite small. Others feel that even small and silent stones should be removed. It is a question of timing. Better to remove the stones now, goes the thinking, than await potential attack, which may happen at a time when the patient might not be in shape for surgery

Bilingual bill deferred

WASHINGTON — A Texas congressman's move to amend a House bilingual reauthorization bill has been deferred until the full Education and Labor Committee can consider it.

The amendment, authored by Rep. Steve Bartlett, R-Dallas, gives more flexibility to school districts as to how they spend federal money on various bilingual education programs.

"What this Congress needs to recognize is that different curriculums work better for different circumstances," Bartlett told the subcommittee. "The bilingual education curriculum in New York is different than Los Angeles, is different than Dallas, is different than Little Rock.

Barlett offered his measure as an amendment to the Bilingual Education and Labor Act of 1987, which will be folded into a House omnibus primary and secondary refunding bill that calls for increasing bilingual education funding from $143 million to $246 million in

A similar bill is making its way through the Senate.

Drive urges school taxes

AUSTIN - A statewide effort known as "Save Our Schools" has served notice it will support new taxes of any kind to keep local schools from being closed.

We must make sure that public education funding has enough revenue to maintain the commitments made by the Legislature to school reform, and to cover costs associated with enrollment growth," said Will Davis, chairman of the School Finance Symposium, made up of 43 associations and organizations.

The organization is staging its SOS drive April 17-27 when local school boards, teachers and parents will try to impress their legislators that public education is in a crisis.

"We have concentrated on three severe consequences (if schools are not property funded)." Davis told a news conference Wednesday.. "The first area is job loss; the second area, program loss and the third is the actual closing of schools.

Davis said the 17 percent cut proposed for public education by some could mean the elimination of one out of every four jobs, about 60,000, in school district personnel

Reducing programs could mean districts would be forced to delete essential programs such as kindergarten, bilingual, special education, disadvantaged, vocational education, gifted and talented

State saved $58 million

SAN ANTONIO — Texas is $58 million richer thanks to John C. Kight and his crew.

The state Department of Highways and Public Transportation allocated $352 million to rebuild San Antonio's congested downtown freeway system, but Kight and his 46-person design crew used innovative techniques to lower the cost to $294 million.

That extra $58 million goes back to state coffers to build more highways

Planning began in 1963 to replace what is called the downtown "Y" which was built in the late 1940s with an expected life-span of 20 years.

Construction on the new freeway began in 1983 and is expected to be completed by late 1991. The current four-lane roadway will be expanded to 10 lanes — the present four plus six elevated lanes.

'It's a real cost savings to have smaller projects,'' Kight said. "If the project is large, there's only a few bidders and we don't get our money's worth.

'By breaking it into small projects, there's a lot more bidders — usually nine or 10, and on the first pro-

Prison bill clears Senate

AUSTIN — The Senate approved a prison bill Wednesday in response to inmate complaints raised by the landmark Ruiz lawsuit filed in the early 1970s. The Ruiz suit resulted in a sweeping order by U.S.

District Judge William Wayne Justice to change how Texas' 26-unit prison system, with over 38,000 inmates, is operated. Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, said his measure would reduce the amount of "good time" an inmate could accumulate from 75 days to 60 days per month

McFarland said his measure, which was sent to the House on voice vote, "requires that to be eligible for good time, the inmate must participate in work programs.'

The bill would reduce from one-third to one-fourth the sentence an inmate must serve to be eligibile for parole, McFarland said, but it also directs the State Board of Pardons and Paroles to maintain "neutrality" in the prison population through the agency's release program.

In his explanation of the bill to the Senate, McFarland said it also would: • Provide that an inmate would get $200 "gate money" in two installments, $100 upon release and $100 on reporting to the parole officer. • Require TDC to develop a "federally certifiable grievance procedure under the Ruiz case. • Provide a literacy program for functionally illiterate inmates.

Teams from Big Spring, Midland, San Angelo and Canadian will be competing. Class IV competition begins at 9 a.m. Class III Optionals start at 12:30 p.m. and Optionals begin at 4:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Two weeks ago the Sidewinder girls won the Midland Classic. Amy Miller was the Class IV overall champion and Tracy Carpenter won the Advanced Optionals. Kendra Cary was second in the intermediate optionals.

With the second coming of spring, there are many, many activities for the sporting crowd. Softball tournaments, golf tournaments, bowling tournaments, go-kart racing, fishing, basketball — these are a few of our favorite things. But first a little commentary.

The Big Spring Steers baseball team, having weathered a ferocious "pre-season" storm, appear ready to devour some 2-4A competition. When coach John Velasquez made this season's schedule, he did so with the understanding that you don't get better by playing wimps.

So Velasquez scheduled some giants. Teams like Abilene Cooper, Lubbock Monterey and Odessa Permian may well have intimidated the Steers in lopsided victories. Losing starting pitcher Cary Fraser in a freak accident before the season didn't help. Fraser's return, which is possible, would be a much needed late-season shot in the arm.

Even without him, the Steers are 3-0 in conference. That they're 7-10 overall hardly means a thing. Overall doesn't get you to the playoffs, conference does.

Tuesday, Aaron Allen no-hit perennial power Snyder. and the Steers pounded out a 10-0 win. After that performance, there seems little doubt the Steers will finish in the top two in the district and make the playoffs.

After getting whippings at the hands of the giants, the Steers are ready to mete out some punishment of their

The National Junior College All-Star Classic tips off at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Midland College Chaparral Center. Tickets for the game are $5, and Brian "The Bozo" Bosworth will appear, possibly with a new haircut.

Watching the best juco players in the nation, it shouldn't be too hard to ignore the Bozo. In addition, expect plenty of major college coaches to be in the stands. With the NCAA's stiffer academic requirements, many players with major college talent are forced to play junior college ball, so the level of play has risen in the junior college ranks. Two things to think about: Indiana wouldn't have won the national championship without it's two juco transfers, who both started this year; and, the game pits the Texas all-stars against all-stars from the rest of the country. That's an indication of how tough Texas juco basketball is, and the best conference in Texas is the WJCAC, Howard's

Thinclads ready for district

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

In this weekend's District 2-4A track meet in Andrews, the Big Spring Lady Steers find themselves in the role as the underdog while the Steers will be the favorite.

The district meets begins Friday afternoon in Andrews at 4 p.m. The meet will be concluded Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. The top two finishers in each event earn a trip to the region meet in Brownwood.

First year track coach Mike Randle and his Lady Steers will be hard pressed to out point favorites Sweetwater and Snyder. The third spot will be a battle between San Angelo Lake View, Monahans and Big Spring. "The way I've figured it, we'll score about 90 points," said Randle of his team's chances. "Places three through five will be tight. It might be five to 10 points that will separate three teams.'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Charles Crenshaw mentioned one of the historical facts of the Masters to his son, Ben, but it did no good.

"My dad told me, 'You know that no one's ever won the par-3 and then won the big tournament,' Crenshaw said Wednesday after his 7-under-par 22 secured the title in the short-course event held annually on the eve of the season's first major golf championship.

"He said to me, 'Son, what are you doing?' On the ninth hole, he said, 'Hit one into the water.'

Crenshaw, a golf history buff, was aware of the Masters trendwithout the reminder.

Crenshaw, winner of the USF&G Classic at New Orleans this year, was in the international field of 88 that began play this morning in the 51st Masters on the 6,905-yard, par-72 Augusta National Golf Club

He was among a rather select group of players regarded as contenders in this event, which he won Crenshaw said whoever dons the green jacket on Sunday will have to be effective with iron shots. He said the greens are firm and fast and, for that reason, "the scores are going to be up. It has raised the degree of difficulty and it places a premium on your second shot. It's been doubly important here to work on your irons and keep your iron shots below the hole.

"There are some terrifying spots (on the greens). But there always have been. The greens are elusive enough that I think you'll see everyone at times having trouble with them. Our hands are full this

The list of pre-tournament favorites has a foreign flair, headed by Australia's Greg Norman and Spain's Seve Ballesteros. Norman has never won the

Masters, but he finished second last year when Jack Nicklaus closed with a dramatic flurry on the final six holes to claim this title for the sixth time

Norman led all four majors last year going into the final round, and won one of them, the British Open. Ballesteros already owns two Masters crowns — 1980 and 1983 — and he has three other finishes of fourth or better in 10 appearances. No one is ready to count out Nicklaus after winning at age 46 last year, adding to his aura as the greatest player in the history of the Crenshaw said he doesn't know why the foreign players are becoming dominant in the game.

'In the past five or six years, their level of play has risen, not just here but all over," Crenshaw

"I can't buy the theory that it's because they're tournament tested all over the world under difficult conditions. That's always been the

'They just have better individuals, guys like Seve, Norman and Bernhard Langer. That must breed some sort of chain reaction, but I don't think there's any real reason for it. Our (Americans) chances are just as good as theirs. They just have shot better numbers at times.

Langer, the West German who won the 1985 Masters, also is regarded as one of the favorites this week

Besides Nicklaus and Crenshaw, other Americans to watch are U.S. Open champion Raymond Floyd, current money leader Corey Pavin, PGA champion Bob Tway and Payne Stewart, second on this year's money list.

Hal Sutton, winless since last year's Memorial, said Wednesday. 'I'm playing as well as I know how. My putts are just not dropping."

With the greens so firm, putting will be the key.

Septien pleads guilty

DENTON (AP) — Dallas Cowboys place-kicker Rafae! Septien, in an about-face from his earlier insistence of innocence, admitted he had sexual contact with a child and was ordered to undergo psychiatric treatment as part of his 10-year probation.

Septien, 33, pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of indecency with a child in exchange for the 10 years' deferred probation and a $2,000 fine. The only evidence Assistant District Attorney Lee Gabriel presented was a signed confession by Septien, indicted Jan. 22 in the sexual assault of a 10-year-old friend of his room mate's daughter.

Septien was living with the friend while separated from his wife. He originally pleaded innocent to the charge, and was to have faced trial April 27 on a sexual assault charge.

That count was reduced to indecency with a child as part of the plea bargain.

The guilty plea was entered before State District Judge John Narsutis. The first year of Septien's sentence would be under intense supervision, but under deferred probation, the charge will not appear on his record if he follows the terms of his sentence.

"I am relieved that this mat ter has been resolved in the best interests of all parties. I am looking forward to making a positive contribution to the Cowboys and the community,' Septien said.

Senior citizens' lead Astros

By The Associated Press

Don't tell the Los Angeles Dodgers that the Houston Astros are just one-year wonders in the National League West.

The Astros, with senior citizens Nolan Ryan and Jose Cruz leading the way, beat the Dodgers 7-3 Wednesday, Houston third consecutive victory over the team which, along with the Cincinnati Reds, was favored to win the NL West

"That's what we have to continue doing," said the 39-year-old Cruz. whose two-run home run capped a seven-run seventh inning after the Dodgers had broken a scoreless tie with three runs in the top of the inning. "The Dodgers have a good ball club. We have to beat them, too, not just the Reds."

The Reds and the San Francisco Giants also remained unbeaten in Wednesday's only other National League games.

Houston got a big lift from the 40-year-old Ryan, who twice was on the disabled list last season with elbow trouble. He went seven innings, the first six scoreless, and struck out 10, the 163rd time in his career he has reached double figures in strikeouts.

"Overall, it was a strong performance for me," said Ryan, who extended his career strikeout record to 4,287. "The elbow felt fine. I mixed my pitches well."

The Dodgers, who got six shutout innings from starter Rick Honeycutt, took the lead in the top of the seventh on a two-run single by Steve Sax and another RBI by Mike Ramsey.

But as it did in the first two games, the bullpen faltered. In the bottom of the inning, the Astros jumped on Tom Neidenfuer and Matt Young. Phil Garner and singled him home.

pinch-hitter Jim Pankovits each had RBI singles, two more runs scored on a single by Bill Doran, another came in on Ken Landreaux's throwing error and Cruz capped the rally with his homer.

Reds 7, Expos 2 Bo Diaz and Buddy Bell each had three RBI as the Reds, who scored 18 runs in the two games, continued throughout the lineup. Bell's three RBI came on a bases-clearing double in a four-run seventh that put the game away for the Reds.

And its' a known fact that the meet will boil down to a two team battle between Big Spring and the Monahans Lobos. In head to head competition in three meets, Big Spring has outscored Monahans twice.

But Britton isn't resting easy. "I don't know, I've seen some strange things happen at district track meets. What we've got to do is go out there and duplicate what we've been doing this past few weeks," he Britton says he wants to come out of the field events with at least 42 points. His chances will be hampered because pole vaulter James Harlin apparantly broke his wrist in practice Wednesday. But Britton still has Paul Decker to depend on to score points in the event. The Steers will get valuable points from Brian Mayfield and Phillips in the long jump and Mayfield in the high jump. James Weaver, Mark Gomez, Dickie Kel-points in the weight events.

On the track the Steers 400 relay team of Mathews, Danny Williams, Dennis Hartsfield and Charles White face an uphill battle to reach regionals. Monahans has run a 42.5 while Big Spring and Lamesa have not cracked the 43 second barrier

The Steers are big favorites in the 1600 relay, just like distance runners Mario and Ben Gonzalez in the 3200 and 1600. Mayfield is a top choice in the hurdles while Cedric Banks and Rodney Bailey will battle for the top 400 spot. White and Mathews will score in the sprints as will Sean Jackson and Andy Dominguez in the 800.

"I'd like to see us even going into the running events," said Britton of his upcoming battle with Monahans. "But I don't want it to have to come down to the mile relay. You know it's great to win those other meets, but past performances don't mean a thing. This is the meet that counts."

throw in the sponge or you lose out.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You seem to be on the verge of disaster where finances are concerned, but make a wise move and you come out on top. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busy in going after some personal wish. You find that an associate can be helpful in your tasks. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study the tense situation around you and steer clear of acquaintances who like to criticize you. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find it difficult to get friends to do what you wish today, so depend more on yourself SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Outside affairs require much of your time now. Avoid an altercation between family and associates. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan time to study into new outlets. Don't fret over something you have little control over. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can seize a fine business opportunity today, so don't permit others to deter you from doing this. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may be depressed over some outside matter and will want to make dramatic changes, but don't.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he, or she, will be able to do work of a very detailed nature and would be very successful in any type of business that has such a prerequisite. There may be a temptation to make a sudden change at the wrong time, so teach your progeny the value of being steadfast.
