City question: To bee or not to bee

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

No more bees

That was the conclusion the City Council reached at a work session Monday, and an ordinance reflecting that attitude is expected at a future Council meeting.

The Council also discussed insurance coverage, a change in the peddlers and solicitors ordinance and hotel/motel occupancy tax collection.

The Council will meet at 6:30 p.m. today in the Airpark meeting

The four Council members present and Mayor Cotton Mize all expressed support of banning bees from the city limits. Councilmen Harold Hall and Johnny Rutherford did not attend the meeting; however, Rutherford called briefly via conference phone from Austin. City Manager Mack Wofford said he has received seven or eight complaints from neighbors of Jesse T. Broseh, 1906 11th Place, who keeps about 18 hives at his residence.

The Council members indicated bees could be a threat to the public. "I'd have concerns about my kids" if a beekeeper lived nearby, Councilman Russ McEwen said. He also noted that "if my dog gets out of my yard, I'm in trouble," but bees can't be confined to a yard.

Citizen Mamie Lee Dodds said that she is unable to go into her yard when bees are present, because she is allergic to their stings, and once almost died from Another Big Spring resident has complained that her two-year-old recently had to be rushed to the hospital after he had an allergic reaction to a bee sting.

Broseh has explained that his bees began to swarm this month because of the warm weather, and that they often leave their manmade hives and form swarms in neighbors' trees in the spring.

Councilman Gary Don Carey said he'd be in favor of banning bees from the city, but he expects opposition from pro-bee citizens. 'Bee owners will say 'they're my pets'," he said. Public Works Director Tom Decell joked about applying to the bee situation an ordinance that prohibits the keeping of more than two vicious animals

Wofford said the city had passed in 1974 an ordinance prohibiting bees, but it was repealed in 1978 when a 300-signiture petition was presented. A current ordinance simply bans the sale of honey raised outside a proper business zone.

Also at the work session, a consultant recommended the city remain with its current insurance agency rather than accept another

Hodel proposes domestic oil exploration plan

not reduce its dependence on foreign oil until it explores more actively for domestic oil reserves, according to U.S. Interior

Secretary Donald Hodel. Hodel, in making an address Monday to the Offshore Technology Conference, made public a proposed five-year offshore oil and gas leasing plan. Hodel also released a report recommending Congress allow exploration in an Alaskan wildlife refuge.

"The Outer Continental Shelf and the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge coastal plain are the foundation of America's energy future," Hodel said.

"Oil will not be found until drilling occurs," Hodel said. "We need to have an adequate supply that is domestically produced as much as possible.'

Under the five-year leasing plan, submitted to Congress on Monday, exploration would be ruled out in certain additional areas of Alaska and New England. However, requests from Florida that the Florida Keys be exempt were turned down.

Speaker says tax jump may be necessary

AUSTIN (AP) - House Speaker Gib Lewis says a tax increase may be unavoidable for the next two years, despite Gov. Bill Clements' threatened veto of state spending greater than $36.9 billion.

"The numbers that I see, that I feel are very good numbers, indicate to me that regardless of what we do we'll still be short of revenue," Lewis said Monday after three House Appropriations Committee approved a 1988-89 spending plan totaling $39.4 billion. "We're going to have to have some revenue measure to make up that difference," Lewis added. The Senate earlier approved a $39.9 billion bill, and Lewis said lawmakers are doing the best they

"We hope we can present to him (Clements) a bill that's been well thought-out, that the Legislature has spoken and has spoken very loudly that it is the best we can do as far as meeting the needs of this state and the present situations," the speaker said. Johnston wins District 3 election By SPENCER SANDOW

Staff Writer D.D. Johnston will be the newest City Council District 3 representative when he is sworn in Wednesday. Johnston won the runoff election Monday by 73 percent of the vote to incumbent Harold Hall's 27 percent, according to Finance Director Tom Ferguson.

Johnston received 363 votes to Hall's 132 votes, he said. The votes numbered 258 at the 18th and Main Street fire station, 208 at the Wasson Road fire station, and 29 absentee.

The votes will be canvassed and Johnston sworn in at a special Council meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Big Spring Airpark meeting room. A City Hall notice erroneously lists the meeting date as Tuesday, April 29. The canvassing and swearing in will not be conducted at tonight's regular Council meeting because according to state law, votes must be canvassed not less than two nor more than six days after an election, Ferguson said. Although Johnston received the most votes in the general election April 4, he fell slightly short of the 50 percent plus one vote to win.

Johnston received 49.1 percent of the vote, and Hall 26.6 percent in the general election. Patsy Cawthon, who was not eligible to participate in the runoff, received 24.2 percent.

Johnston lost in the 1985 at large Council election to Russ McEwen by a narrow margin -21votes, Johnston has said.

He said after the April 4 election that he attributes his success to the water bill crisis of last summer and fall, and to his having many friends in the community. He has lived in Big Spring all his life and knows many people, he

Senate OKs new teacher requirement

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would require prospective teachers to receive a bachelor's degree in a discipline other than education received approval of a Senate committee, but not before elementary school teachers were exempted.

The Senate Education Committee approved the amendment after much opposition from Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

"The amendment will insure that minority students get second rate teachers," said Parker, sponsor of the bill. He said minorities usually end up with the worst teachers and exemption of elementary school teachers will continue the production of bad teachers.

After Sept. 1, 1991, aspiring teachers would be required to have a bachelor's degree with an academic major or interdisciplinary major.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, touched off a heated debate in the committee meeting when he offered the amendment that would also exempt special education, bilingual education and other specialty teachers.

The amendment was approved 5-4. Students seeking teaching certificates also would be restricted by the bill to taking only 18 hours in education courses, excluding student teaching hours.

"This will not do away with the colleges of education. It will not mandate a five-year program," said Parker, adding the intent was to give prospective teachers a broader education.

Robert Hardesty, president of Southwest Texas State University, disagreed. He said lawmakers need to "resolve philosophically" whether they want to increase college course plans for prosepective educators.

"They're adding so much, (a prospective teacher) couldn't get student teaching in in four years," Hardesty said.

250 attend annex grand opening

By KERRY HAGLUND Staff Writer

250 people toured the Howard County annex Monday during its official opening celebration, Howard County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin said today.

County Judge Milton Kirby participated in a ribbon cutting ceremony to kick off the event at 2 p.m. Monday.

Afterward, county employees gave tours of the annex, located east of the courthouse on Main and Fourth Streets, and served refreshments.

The annex houses the county tax collector's/assessor's office, the tax appraisal office, the adult and juvenile probation offices and a juvenile detention center.

A juvenile being held at the detention center was moved to another location to allow visitors to tour the annex's four detention cells, Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Margy Thompson said.

"We're proud of it," Ross Boykin said after touring the facility.

The county purchased the former Woolworth store building for $62.000 in 1985 to relieve over-

The building's exterior was restored and interior offices were constructed for slightly more than $700,000, he said.

Although the annex has been open to the public for approximately one month, Monday was considered the official opening.

The annex was named Wednesday as the most improved Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce beauty spot of the month.

Winn-city water suit delayed

A lawsuit filed by a local couple against the city of Big Spring concerning high water bills during the past summer has been postponed until May 4.

The suit, scheduled to be heard in Howard County small claims court today, was postponed after the city's attorney, Hardy Wilkerson, requested a continuance, Judge William Shankles said today.

Wilkerson is an attorney in a lawsuit scheduled to go to on trial in the 238th District Court in Midland today, he said.

The Winns agreed to the rescheduling, according to Shankles. The Winn's lawsuit, filed March 2 in small claims court, states that the city charged the couple during the past summer for using as much as 25,000 gallons on water a month, when their usual average is 5,000 to 7,000 gallons a month.

The city, in its answer to the suit, denied that it charged the couple for more water than they used.

The Winn suit claims that they were out of town during the billing periods they question.

More than 500 residents complained about extraordinarily high water bills during the past summer for water they contend they did not

City officials and a citizen's water committee investigated the complaints in an attempt to find the cause for the high bills, but no single cause was ever found.

cept a $12.3 million liability coverage policy from Texas Municipal League. Councilmen expressed concern Director Tom Ferguson revealed the city's insurance premium would increase by about $100,000 over the previous year. Officials had asked whether a greater deductible or lower coverage could save money on premiums, but Stephens reported those steps would result in no significant savings. The Texas Municipal League premium would be $256,000, and the policy would exclude coverage of Comanche Lake Dam, even after repairs are made, he said. The dam was breached in heavy rains Aug. 30, releasing the lake's water to flood nearby residences and businesses. Home and business owners have filed a lawsuit against the city for damages. Stephens said although the city received four bids, two were only partial bids, and the only other bid worth consideration was from Parks Insurance Agency for $8.7 million coverage.

He said either TML or Parks would provide the bare minimum need, but he recommends the city purchase the highest coverage available - that from TML because of the city's past loss history. The Council also instructed city staff to prepare an ordinance several months ago when Finance allowing city business owners to solicit door-to-door with an annual permit. The present ordinance requires a $50 permit be purchased every 10 days.

Council members approved the ordinance with the 10-day stipulation last year, expressing concern that citizens had no recourse when traveling businesses sold them defective products door-to-door or on a street corner.

With a permit, the city would know who is selling products in town, and if complaints were made, a future permit could be denied, they said.

However, that problem wouldn't exist with local businesses. members said Monday. McEwen said a local business owner requested the ordinance revision.

The Council also agreed to Finance Director Ferguson's plan to begin collecting the hotel/motel occupancy tax monthly rather than quarterly.

He said the change is needed to provide greater cash flow. He expects opposition from local hotel and motel owners.

PTL to lose tax status

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - The Internal Revenue Service wants to revoke the PTL's tax-exempt status for the years 1981-83, while South Carolina officials are demanding $5.5 million from the television ministry, a newspaper reported today.

A confidential 1985 IRS report asks that the ministry's tax-exempt status for the three years be revoked because a "substantial portion" of PTL's earnings for those years went to benefit PTL founder Jim Bakker, his relatives and other PTL officers, The Charlotte Observer reported.

The report says Bakker was paid nearly $1 million more than was reasonable those three years. And the IRS says PTL failed to report all of Bakker's income on his W-2 forms.

In return for the privilege of tax exemption, federal law prohibits churches and charities from allowing individuals to take money except as reasonable payment for goods or

Goetz trial underway

NEW YORK - Bernhard Goetz is "an emotional powder keg" who shot four youths in a subway car not because they were about to mug him but because of his rigid concept of justice, a prosecutor charged.

"The defendant tried to kill them, not as an act of self-preservation, but because in the defendant's mind this was right and this was just," Assistant District Attorney Gregory Waples said as Goetz's trial on attempted murder charges began Monday.

Defense attorney Barry Slotnick said Goetz had a right to do what he did more than two years ago because he was under attack.

"They're all saying there is hope, but as each hour passes chances are diminishing,' Mayor Thomas Bucci said Monday night.

The body of crane operator Albert William Ritz, 59, of Stamford was pulled from the wreckage Monday evening, raising the number of known dead in Thursday's L'Ambiance Plaza disaster to 16, Bucci said.

Funerals for two of the dead were held Monday, and three funerals were set for today.

Government criticizes U.S. move

VIENNA, Austria — The government today criticized the United States for barring President Kurt Waldheim and rejected as "not proven" charges that he had a role in Nazi atrocities in World War II.

Chancellor Franz Vranitzky told a news conference that the process used by Washington to reach its decision "is one that cannot be followed by the Austrian people and the Austrian government and is therefore incomprehensible.'

The known charges against President Kurt Waldheim are not proven and are therefore rejected," Vranitzky said, reading the text of what he said was a government statement.

The federal government will take all steps to protect the head of state ... from unjustified accusations, he said. Asked if this meant Austria will take legal action against the United States, Vranitzky said it was should he seek to enter on a private visit. It is the first time the United States placed a head of state on its Watchlist of undesireable aliens. Jewish groups in the United States praised the move.

Politicians and media commentators seemed stunned by a move that appeared likely to cloud relations with the United States and unleash a new wave of sentiment against foreign interference in Austrian affairs.

Left-wing groups ranging from the youth group of Vranitzky's Socialist party to commentators in leftist newspapers called for Waldheim's resignation.

Vranitzky said he had not yet decided if he would go ahead with a scheduled trip next month to the United

Temple finds bones

BEIJING - Two gold bowls holding tiny bone fragments said to be those of Buddha have been found in a temple near Beijing, city officials said today.

Vice Mayor Chen Haosu said the relics were "one of the important discoveries of Chinese history and Buddhism.

The bowls were found five years ago inside five progressively smaller boxes in a cave of the Yunju Temple 44 miles southwest of Beijing, Zhao Puchu, head of the Buddhist Association of China, told a news conference. Chen said the discovery was not immediately made public because "we were waiting for an auspicious moment."

Tokyo tops city index

GENEVA — For the second straight year, a research firm has listed Tokyo as the most expensive city in the world, with living costs for foreigners there twice the level of New York, according to the survey published today.

Geneva and the Swiss financial capital of Zurich are the most expensive European cities, in 10th and 11th place, because of the strength of the Swiss franc. Mexico City and Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, retained their rankings as the cheapest cities for expatriates.

New York was listed 34th out of 102 cities, while Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., ranked 36th and 38th, respectively.

The survey is based on an index taking into account food, household supplies, recreation, transportation and other items but not including housing.

Paper attacks dissident

MOSCOW - Anatoly Marchenko, a prominent dissident who died in prison, today was branded a traitor by a Soviet newspaper.

The labor newspaper Trud accused Marchenko, who died Dec. 8, 1986 at age 48, of fabricating tales of human rights violations to draw Western attention. The daily said Marchenko's writings were passed "to accomplices in the West, where they were used as 'facts' to organize hostile campaigns against our country

Some dissident Soviet emigres have said they believed Marchenko's death, which followed a hunger strike, was such a blot on the Soviet human rights record that it prompted authorities to end the internal exile of Andrei Sakharov

The money went to a woman in sioner of the Financial Management Service, the Treasury cesses government checks, says the current payment system is playing havoc with the govern-

That is because the $1 trillion annual payment system has to be designed to accommodate the tiny percentage of checks that are not cashed on time.

'Right now the government has to keep its books open forever," Douglas said in a recent interview. Why should the whole process for 650 million checks get wrenched around because a tiny number of people don't get around to cashing their checks. It's absurd."

Douglas is proposing that the government adopt a similar procedure to private business and place a six-month limit on the time that a government check is negotiable.

If held for longer than that, the check would no longer be valid. It would mean that people who were late would have to go back to the agency which issued the check and request a replacement check.

Alfonsin scores civil rule victory

"The house is in order, and there is no bloodshed."

That is how Argentine President Raul Alfonsin announced the end of a four-day mutiny by military officers unhappy with his government.

In Argentina — just as in Ecuador earlier this year — a civilian government had quelled a military rebellion. That is no small achievement in a region where generals often impose their version of order by ousting the elected presidents and seizing power for themselves.

Alfonsin went to an army base near Buenos Aires where the rebels had taken over an infantry school. The fact that the mutinous officers heeded Alfonsin's appeal and surrendered strengthened the president's hand. It also strengthened democracy in a country that suffered seven years of brutal military rule before Alfonsin was elected in 1983.

Why are some Latin military factions suffering setbacks? A trend toward democracy has been sweeping through the hemisphere in the 1980s. The authoritarian military rule of Chile's Augusto Pinochet and Paraguay's Alfredo Stroessner is something of an anomaly in South America, at least for the government but for the rule of the law.

It remains to be seen whether volatile Latin American politics will sustain democracy, but the ability of civilian leaders to put down military uprisings is a hopeful sign. So is popular support for a democratically elected president. About 200,000 Argentines turned out to cheer for Alfonsin.

The rebellious middle-ranking officers wanted amnesty from the prosecution for crimes committed during the military government's purge of leftists and other dissidents in the mid-1970s. Thousands of Argentines were imprisoned, tortured and killed.

Alfonsin's civilian government has pursued those responsible for crimes against the civilian population, whether they were generals, Cabinet mininsters or lower-ranking officers. That is the way it should be.

The Argentine president insists that the military should not be above the law. His policy — and his success in enforcing it should send an encouraging message to other beleaguered Latin American presidents struggling to make democracy work in this turbulent hemisphere.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think the world will end before the year 2000? I saw where you had written a book ("Approaching Hoofbeats") on the end of the world or something, and I wonder what your position is. - F.C.

DEAR F.C.: Yes, my book (based mainly on the book of Revelation in the Bible) does deal with some aspects of the future, and I would encourage you to read it.

Its main emphasis, however, is on how we ought to live right now, in light of the fact that some day this world will end and Christ will come again. As the Bible puts it, 'Since everything will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives as you look forward to the day of God" (2 Peter 3:11-12)

The Bible tells us that some day Christ will come again to rule in perfect justice — and when He does, the world as we presently know it will end. "But in keeping with his promise we are looking forward to a new heaven and a new earth, the home of righteousness" (2 Peter 3:13)

At the same time, the Bible also warns us against setting dates or trying to make predictions about the exact time of His coming. Jesus declared, "No one knows about that day or hour, not even the angles in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father. ... Therefore keep watch, because you do not know on what day your Lord will come" (Matthew 24:36,42).

The real question is this: Are you ready for Christ's return? Have you turned your life over to Him, and are you trusting Him as your Lord and Savior? And are you seeking to live for Christ every

WASHINGTON - The good news is that President Reagan's campaign against government waste saved the taxpayers a resounding $30.6 billion in fiscal year 1986 and will save another $39.4 billion in fiscal year 1987. This enormous savings should increase each year

The bad news is that this still leaves more than $100 billion in annual waste that has been uncovered but not eliminated. Another $100 billion is lost each year in careless habits and wasteful ways

The worse news is that the reassembled Congress is in a spend-spend, tax-tax mood. Its first notable achievement was to ram through a highway bill larded with pork. We counted 170 porkbarrel items in the bill, which will cost the taxpayers $8.4 billion to

The extravagance of Congress debt relentlessly up, up, up. Government spending has ascended to heights that economists regard as beyond all reality. They warn that spending policies must be reversed t avoid an economic smashup.

Yet members of Congress seem impervious to the gravitational pull of economic reality; they must let some air out of the balloon before it bursts and plummets down, down, down. They are already close to losing control of the economy, some experts fear.

Another betched federal budget, with all its forbidding consequences, could be avoided simply by trimming out the fat. The campaign to locate, identify and eliminate government waste, so far, has cost about $83 million. Not one dollar of this was charged to the taxpayers; every dollar was donated by concerned Americans. The amount that has been saved is already running close to $40 billion a year. For each dollar that has been spent since President Reagan launched the anti-waste campaign, $550 is now being saved every year. The amount that has been saved has been meticulously tracked by the Office of Management and

I don't want to rekindle anything between us, nor do I want an affair: I only want a 30-minute faceto-face conversation with Steve to find out why he broke up with me. He still lives in this city, and I heard that he is married and has a family now, but I haven't seen him in 10 years.

Jody Nix

He's carrying on the show

Jody Nix and his Texas Cowboys are carrying on the show — Hoyle Nix and Bob Will's show — one that became a West Texas tradition.

One of the band's most requested tunes these days is "Carrying on the Show," written by steel guitarist, Rick Johnson.

The song is essentially a summary of Jody's life, as he follows in the the famous footsteps of his father.

The song begins:

"I was born in Texas, raised out on

I grew-up on Western swing, Learned to dance out in the barn Hoyle Nix and Bob Wills put the music in my soul, Now they're gone, but the fiddle plays on

I'm carrying on the show."

Jody and his Texas Cowboys is a band for dances, rodeos or reunions. Anywhere there is dancing Jody, his fiddle and his band are likely to be on the stand, entertaining dancers and listeners.

In rodeo arenas or show buildings converted to dance halls from Tulsa, Okla. to Hobbs, N.M. and from Stamford and Henrietta to San Angelo, Jody and his Texas Cowboys are can be found.

The group just completed its 14th appearance at the Bob Wills' Day in Turkey April 24 and 25. The group will also perform at a benefit dance May 1 at the Stampede, Proceeds will benefit the Patient Need Fund at the Big Spring State Hospital, which is sponsored by the volunteers

Jody's father, Hoyle Nix, met Bob Wills in 1952 and they remained "closest of friends throughout Wills' remaining years," Jody

Hoyle and Jody went to the Turkey celebration in 1973 and '74 and have returned every year since 1978, he added

"For years, Dad and Bob Wills played 'battle dances' throughout West Texas," Jody recalls. "It was always a great thrill for me to listen to and work with two great entertainers.

Musicians throughout the territory agree that Jody has "paid his dues," in the field of country music.

He began playing drums at the age of two, and received his first set of drums when he was four. By the age of eight, Jody was a fullfledge member of the West Texas Cowboys, drumming at night and attending school during the day. He continued that regime throughout school, including two years of college.

At 16, he began singing with the Cowboys and since 1977, when his Uncle Ben formed his own band, Jody has been the lead singer.

"It is a real tribute to the boy's sense of family loyalty that he staved with Hovle's band for so long, sitting on the back row, drumming," said one long-time Nix admirer.

"He's had the talent to lead a band for a long time. Besides, through the years, he had plenty of chances to go on the road with other groups.

Jody began playing the fiddle at age 11. His brother Larry taught him the basics and his father and Uncle Ben gave him plenty of encouragement, Jody said.

After mastering the fiddle, he was called occassionally to play fiddle tunes on stage with his father's band.

'Dad would call me up to show me off or when he wanted to rest," Jody said, laughing.

"He almost always introduced me as a left-handed boy playing a right-handed man's fiddle. The stringing is different, but since I started this way, it seems natural to me.'

In 1974, Jody entered his first fiddler's contest and won. Since then he has won the contest at the Howard County Fair six times.

New bookings for the band continue, but Jody keeps his father's commitment to a Thursday night dance at the VFW in Sweetwater, as well as frequent Saturday night appearances at the Stampede, he

He has been booked this year for rodeo and special performances at Paducah, Tahoka, Coleman, Spur, Lea County Cowboy Hall of Fame in Hobbs, N.M. and a repeat performance at the Stamford Texas Cowboy Reunion, which was billed as the largest amateur rodeo in the world.

His dance crowds at Stamford in 1986 totalled 1,400 for Friday and 1,957 for Saturday nights, he reported.

The band is also likely to return to the Odessa Rodeo, where in January they outdrew performers such as Rex Allen Jr., Moe Bandy, Frenchy Burke and Mason Dixon. More than 1,500 dancers attended, he noted.

One of the greatest thrills for the young musician continues to be the appearance at the Bob Wills Reunion, he said.

Dr. Charles Townsend, who wrote the book, "San Antonio Rose, is master of ceremonies for the performances, and Jody plays and sings with the former Texas Playboys. Hoyle's song "Big Ball's in Cowtown," recorded in 1949, is still a favorite of the musicians and

Jody recorded his first single in 1979, backed-up by his close friend Johnny Bush's band, Bandalero, he

He recently appeared with the Bandalero band when Bush performed in Big Spring. He was also prominently featured on the West Texas Cowboys' 1977 album.

In 1986, the new album "New Road Under My Wheels" was released.

It seems it was a prophetic title, considering the band's increased out-of-town bookings, he said.

Jody was named by the Cowboy Hall of Fame for the Western Heritage Award in 1975.

Truly family oriented, Jody continues to play traditional country music. And despite the hours he spends playing for dances, the fiddler does not believe in smoking or drinking, he said.

Most of the dances he plays at are for all ages "from three to 93," he added.

His 5-year-old daughter, Brooke, is a big part of his life. And she is preparing for her turn to "carry on the show" as she puts in a regular stint — singing delightful duets with her dad in an assured and professional manner, Jody said.

Traditional interests and hobbies

Jody Nix, above, feels comfortable with a fiddle in his hand. He began playing the fiddle at age 11. His brother Larry taught him the basics and his father and Uncle Ben gave him plenty of encouragement, Jody said. After mastering the fiddle, he was called occassionally to play fiddle tunes on stage with his father's band. "Dad would call me up to show me off or when he wanted to rest," Jody said, laughing. "He almost always introduced me as a left-handed boy playing a right-handed man's fiddle. The stringing is different, but since I started this way, it seems natural to me." In 1974, Jody entered his first fiddler's contest and won. Since then he has won the contest at the Howard County Fair six times.

when he is not playing music.

He enjoys farming, cattle, horses, and an occasional fling at calf and steer roping. And, as a true Texan, he loves the Dallas Cowboys, he added.

Although he is a modest man, Jody confesses to having a strong occupy the young singer's time desire to share center stage with wth the best performers in the country and western business.

> He added that he is currently engaged in negotiations for a contract with a major recording company

"People have been very kind to me," Jody said, "But I still owe a great debt of gratitude to Dad, Uncle Ben, Larry and Mother - who all encouraged me - and to men like Bob Wills, Johnny Bush and Ray Price -who inspired me. And I certainly owe a lot to the members of the Texas Cowboys who support me constantly in their

"I've lost 34 lbs. and I'm still losing." Mrs. J.K., Garden Grove, CA 'I have been on Dream Pill for one month and feel great ... have lost 27 lbs. Mr. A.D., Anadarko, OK

The System's Dream Pill combines two natural substances called L-arginine and L-ornithine which can stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Diet researchers believe that growth hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail.

Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want — and still be thin and wiry.

Life Extension Authors Confirm Results

Durk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. Much to her amazement, while taking L arginine for its healing effects on a broken foot, Sandy lost 25 pounds of fat and put on 5 pounds of firmtoned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400 times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost — without dieting!

New laws may revise home care

"... For reasons which can only be even illegal, (those who live alone) find themselves cut off from care in the in-WASHINGTON (AP) — A in the interest of savings." 70-year-old man who is anemic and has bone marrow cancer lives in a Pennsylvania boarding home. Despite his weakened state, he is refused home health care benefits under Medicare.

The reason for the denial is that he is not considered "homebound," largely because he leaves his room each day to eat meals in a restaurant on the ground floor of his building

According to Sen. John Heinz and other lawmakers who introduced home health care reform legislation last week, the case is typical of a system that has not kept pace with the rising numbers of elderly Medicare recipients needing posthospital care.

Although a new reimbursement system encourages hospitals to release patients sooner than in the past, the government seems unprepared to handle the resulting thousands of senior citizens who must continue their treatment at home, said Heinz, R-Pa., in a recent interview.

"For those who live alone ... the described as arbitrary, confusing and home health benefit assures a choice of independence over institutionalization," Heinz said. "But for reasons which can only be described as arbitrary, confusing terest of savings." and even illegal, (these people) find themselves cut off from care

The man with bone marrow cancer was one of 30 Medicare case studies cited in a report last year by the Senate Special Committee on Aging, on which Heinz is the senior Republican. The document did not identify the individuals.

The report found the number of Medicare claims denied for home health care increased from 18,121 in the last quarter of 1983 — a rate of 1.5 percent — to 47,855 in the first quarter of 1986, a rate of 3.5 percent.

A big part of the problem is the way the federal government treats the "homebound" requirement for home benefits, according to a summary of the reform bill introduced last Wednesday by Heinz and Sens. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., and others. In many cases, Heinz said "homebound" has been interpreted by the government to mean that the benefit applicants are still bedridden.

"Because the term homebound is not defined in the statute, it has been subject to varying and inconsistent interpretations by Health Care Financing Administration intermediaries," the bill summary

HCFA oversees Medicare, which is a federal health insurance program for senior citizens and certain disabled people.

The new legislation would define as homebound anybody with a condition that hampers their ability to leave home without support, or those for whom leaving would aggravate their illness.

The bill would also qualify beneficiaries to receive daily services from home health care providers for up to 60 day, or even longer when a physician declares

"exceptional circumstances." Currently, HCFA allows most patients to be covered for daily care only on an "intermittent" basis. According to Bradley, the "intermittent" requirement has been interpreted by HCFA to mean that daily home care covered under Medicare normally cannot extend beyond three-week intervals. 'In other words, if a patient is too ill, he or she cannot get home health care coverage," Bradley said. "That does not make sense. Rockefeller said his office has received scores of complaints about the "hostile" handling of the home health care program by HCFA in West Virginia.

'Nurses, doctors and elderly patients from all over the state have written me to express their outrage over HCFA's actions," he said. "Our bill would ensure that home health care is administered in a far more constructive and humane manner," he said.

Running backs, Hurricanes go earliest

NEW YORK (AP) — The 52nd NFL draft started predictably today, then quickly turned into a trade mart which sent veteran linebacker Chip Banks from Cleveland to defense-poor San Diego and gave Houston and Minnesota blue-chip running backs.

It was no surprise at all when Tampa Bay used the first choice to take Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde, the Miami quarterback it had already signed for $8.2 million over six years.

And it was little surprise when Indianapolis used the second pick on Cornelius Bennett, the Lawrence-Taylor like linebacker from Alabama, although the Colts used all but one minute and 52 seconds of its allotted 15 minutes pondering whether to choose a running back to replace Randy McMillan, who suffered a broken leg when hit by a car last weekend. "I've got to be happy as an Indianapolis Colt." said a less-thanenthusiastic Bennett, who played for Tampa Bay Coach Ray Perkins at Alabama and had been lukewarm about joining the Colts.

Then Buffalo, which wanted Penn State linebacker Shane Conlan, figured it could get him lower and traded its first-round pick to Houston, which took fullback Alonzo Highsmith of Miami. Buffalo turned out to have figured right, later getting Conlan with the eighth pick it obtained from the Oilers.

That left Brent Fullwood, Auburn's running star for Green Bay, and then came another deal the sometimes troubled Banks to San Diego and an exchange of firstand-second-round picks between the Chargers and the Browns. The Browns then drafted Duke linebacker Mike Junkin.

In a later trade, Miami and Minnesota switched places and the Vikings took D.J. Dozier, the Penn

Russell accepts job of coaching Kings

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -Bill Russell says he decided to return to coaching after a 10-year absence because the Sacramento Kings offered him the kind of longterm contract needed to build an NBA champion.

The seven-year contract Russell signed Monday with the Kings, who were 29-53 this season, also specifies that he will eventually move up from head coach to general manager and president, and gives him an option to buy part

Russell told a news conference Monday that the Kings attendance record during their two years in Sacramento -- 82 consecutive sellouts in their temporary 10,333-seat arena — is particularly important in his plan to build a championship team.

That kind of stability in attendance means a team doesn't have to make player deals that provide a quick fix in fan support but con-tribute little or nothing to the longrange development of the team, Russell said.

The Kings, in their second year in Sacramento after leaving Kan- fer of its stock. sas City, are due to play one more season in their temporary arena before moving to a 17,500-seat permanent arena in 1988.

"I wanted a long-term contract because I know what it takes to build a solid franchise," Russell said. "I told (managing general partner) Gregg (Lukenbill) if you wanted a team to make the playoffs, I'm not your guy, but if you want an NBA championship,

He said he also was attracted to the Kings because they are a West Coast team, just 90 miles from the San Francisco Bay area, where he played high school and college ball, and where his father still lives.

"I've been offered some jobs before, but they were always on the East Coast. I'd never live on the East Coast," said Russell, whose home is Seattle, where he coached for the SuperSonics from 1973 through 1977.

The 53-year-old Russell, who in 1980 was selected as the greatest player in the history of the NBA by the Professional Basketball Writers' Association of America, has not coached since he left the Russell, who has been a televi-

Edmonton wins Smythe Division title

By The Associated Press When the Edmonton Oilers finish

off an opponent, they do it in style. 'We didn't want to give them a chance to win tonight and have to go back and win one in our own building," defenseman Kevin Lowe said Monday night after the Oilers beat Winnipeg 4-2 to complete a four-game sweep of their NHL playoff series.

In clinching the Smythe Division championship, the hot Oilers won their eighth straight game in the Stanley Cup playoffs and advanced to the Campbell Conference final against the winner of the Norris final between Toronto and Detroit. The Maple Leafs held a 3-1 lead in that best-of-seven series following Monday night's 3-2 overtime

NHL playoff action continues tonight, with Philadelphia hosting the New York Islanders in the Patrick Division and Montreal entertaining Quebec in the Adams.

Smythe Division Reijo Routsalainen scored a goal and assisted on two others in a three-goal first period to lead the Oilers' victory, their 14th without a loss in Stanley Cup play against the

Edmonton superstar Wayne Gretzky, who scored one of the first-period goals as the Oilers took a 3-0 lead, was injured in the third period in a collision with Winnipeg's Dale Hawerchuk. Gretzky left the ice under his own power and did not return, winding up with an egg-sized lump on the left side of his head and a mild concussion. "I was really surprised," Gretzky said. "There's no question he slough-footed (tripped) me." Hawerchuk denied that the incident was planned.

"I felt a stick hit me in the jaw," Hawerchuk said. "I grabbed the guy and it happened to be Gretzky. wasn't trying to hurt him. I was trying to protect myself."

The game's turning point came in the second period. The Oilers were ahead 3-1, but the Jets had just gained momentum from Fredrik Olausson's goal.

The Jets were breaking out of their end when defenseman Randy Carlyle's pass bounced off Mike Krushelnyski's skate. Edmonton's Glenn Anderson pounced on the loose puck, moved into the slot, and buried a shot inside the corner of the net for a 4-2 Edmonton lead that clinched it.

Norris Division Mike Allison scored at 9:31 of overtime to lead Toronto over Detroit, giving the Maple Leafs a 3-1 lead in the series. Allison picked up a loose puck behind the Wings' net on an innocent-looking play that started when Wendel Clark, who scored two goals, shot the puck along the boards. He picked the puck up, moved unchecked to the side of the net and barely got the puck through Glen Hanlon's skates and over the goal line.

"Dan Daoust and Wendel Clark (who earned assists on the goal) battled behind the net and the puck came loose," Allison said. "No one went for it and I got it, came out and tried to stuff it in the net.

"I think Glen (Hanlon, the Detroit goaltender) had it between his legs and didn't realize it."

The puck popped between Hanlon's skates and barely made it over the goal line.

"I didn't believe it when it went in," said Allison. "It was just one of those things. I have a hard time scoring goals so when it did go in I just fell to the ice, I was so Hanlon was strong in the Wings net, especially in the second period when Toronto outshot Detroit 21-6. Toronto goaltender Ken Wregget was not tested as often, but made key saves in the first and third periods and could not be faulted on Detroit's goal. Toronto outshot Detroit 50-32.

The Maple Leafs can wrap up the best-of-seven series with a victory in Game 5 Wednesday night in

Patrick Division

The Flyers can clinch the Patrick title with a victory at home tonight against the Islanders. They took a commanding 3-1 lead in the series with a 6-4 victory Sunday night in New York, completing a two-game sweep over the weekend.

"We've got 'em exactly where we want 'em," New York Coach Terry Simpson said, alluding tongue-in-cheek to the Islanders' habit of making comebacks. They were down 3-1 to Washington in the first round before coming back to win the series

"We've had our ups and downs all through the year," Islander forward Brent Sutter said. "I have no answer for our home losses. Still, we're confident we can win this. We did it once, we can do it again.' Adams Division

The Canadiens-Nordigues series continues with the teams tied 2-2 following Montreal's 3-2 overtime victory Sunday night. In the last eight playoff meetings between the Canadiens and the Nordiques, the home team has not won.

"I think we're ready to turn that around," Montreal center Guy Carbonneau said. "Our first two games here (in Montreal), we really lacked cohesion, maybe because of being off for eight days. But I think we showed in Quebec that we've got it back together."

Steers romp, 13-0

FORT STOCKTON — The Big Spring Steers thumped the winless Fort Stockton Panthers 13-0 Monday night in a make-up game in Fort Stockton.

The Panthers walked nine Steers and hit another Big Spring batter, and the Steers pounded out 10 hits. The game ended after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

James Thompson (4-3) pitched the whole game for the Steers, and struck out 11 Panthers.

Coach John Velasquez said he started just four of his regulars against the Panthers, who dropped to 0-16 overall and 0-7 in the district. When the game ended, none of the Steers' regulars were on the field.

Aaron Allen had three RBIs on a home run and a double, and Matt Burrow added two RBIs. Eric Kinman and Teddy Molina each had doubles, and Marcos Ramos hit two singles in two trips to the plate.

Ramos and Ramon Ontiveros

each had two steals for Big Spring. "James was throwing real well last night, and we did hit the ball real good. They also walked us a lot early. "They're young, real young mostly sophomores and some juniors," Velasquez said about the Panthers.

The Steers improved to 6-2 in district and 10-12 overall. They are now alone in second place, a game behind Andrews and a half-game ahead of Pecos.

This afternoon at 4 p.m. the Steers host Brownfield in a nondistrict game.

Cowboys draft lineman

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, needing quality help in an aging defensive line, selected 280-pound Nebraska noseguard Danny Noonan today in the NFL draft.

"I think he very definitely could be an impact player for us," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "He has the size, speed and quickness you look for in a defensive lineman.

Landry said the 6-foot-3 Noonan could play any position in the defensive line and be a good pass rusher.

"We believe he will be an excellent pass rusher," Landry said. "He might not be an immediate starter but we think he will definitely help us next year. Gil Brandt, the Cowboys' director of player personnel, said Noonan reminded him of Dallas' All-Pro defensive tackle Randy White.

"He looks a lot like Randy White when Randy came out of college in size, speed and competiveness," Brandt said. "He even has the same kind of personality White has.'

Noonan was particularly tough against the run at Nebraska where he was a consensus first team All-Big Eight Conference and All-American selection.

Astros club defending champs

By The Associated Press

Jim Deshaies, who didn't pitch in last fall's memorable league championship series against the New York Mets, shouldn't have that problem again if the Houston Astros win their division.

Deshaies pitched a four-hitter in his second seven-inning stint of the season Monday night, and also contributed two RBI as the Astros broke a three-game losing streak with an 11-1 rout of the Mets.

"I wasn't thinking of last October," said Deshaies, 2-0, who has allowed only one run in the last 14 innings. "It was only my second start. We've gone with four starters so far and eventually we'll go with five. It's a matter of time until I get more starts. It's a long Deshaies allowed only a firstinning home run to Keith Hernandez and went on to strike out seven and walk five. Aurelio Lopez and Julio Solano each worked a scoreless inning to finish the game.

Billy Hatcher and Glenn Davis homered for the Astros, who just finished losing three straight to Cincinnati at Houston.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - Providence College Coach Rick Pitino views NBA interest in his coaching talents as a "one-shot deal" he expects to be a memory after Friday.

Reported last week to be the New York Knicks' top choice for a new coach and a leading candidate for a similar post with the Phoenix Suns, Pitino says he intends to be back leading the team he took to the NCAA Tournament semifinals last season. "I've always intended to come back next year," Pitino said Mon-

The largest deer hunting case involved two violators who paid more than $4,000 in fines for killing deer during closed season — and left the carcasses to waste.

In one unusual incident reported, the individual was caught spotlighting deer from inside his home. The violator put feed in the backyard, then shot the deer that came to eat. The person who reported the violation declined a reward.

Illegal fishermen also are caught as a result of such tips. Two groups were caught netting catfish, and their fines exceeded $5,000.

Even taxidermists are caught. One along with several of his clients, paid more than $2,000 in fines for possessing illegally mounted eagles, hawks and owls.

During its 51/2 years of existence, OGT has paid $51,200 in rewards to 265 callers, and the program has been credited with the arrests of 1,059 violators who have paid more than $205,000 in fines, according to the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Wayne Armstrong, our local state game warden, indicated that timelyess is the essential ingredient in reporting violations. He added that other helpful information includes a license plate number, description of a car, truck or boat used, the number of people involved and the location.

TWIN BUTTES — Heavy rains during 1986 have raised the Twin Buttes Lake level to two-thirds full, and reports indicate that the black bass fishing is improving.

Biologist Billy J. Follis of the Parks and Wildlife Department reported recently that Greg Benson of San Angelo on Feb. 24 caught an 11-pound black that is believed to be a lake record. Shortly thereafter, Follis recieved another report that someone had caught a 10 pounder, he said.

These large bass probably are a result of the stocking program from 1975 through 1978, when the Florida-strain of largemouth bass was placed into the lake.

In a recent column, I reported that a state record bass was caught from Lake Fork, east of Dallas. That largemouth, I understand also was of the Florida-strain. So given time and rain, West Texas might produce some records of its

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APR. 29, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It's one of those days when you would be wise to follow through with the practical ideas you've started on. Anything new could have countless unfortunate ramifications.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Pay more attention to the smaller details of practical affairs. Visit a good friend tonight for a good time. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Concentrate on personal matters that can be profitable. Show special thoughtfulness to your friends. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact your friends and see if there is anything helpful you can do for them that makes them happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Study your personal wishes and find the best way to attain them.

Make a practical plan for best results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Delve right into outside activities and handle them efficiently. Enjoy the feeling of satisfaction you have. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your routines well and do whatever will make them run more smoothly now

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go over your bills and see how you can handle them rightly so they are soon behind you.

SSC bond legislation approved

AUSTIN — Legislation aimed at helping Texas attract the superconducting super collider project was approved by a Senate subcommittee Monday and advanced for consideration by the entire panel.

The legislation would empower the state to issue $500 million in general obligation bonds and allow the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission to issue additional revenue bonds.

Voters would have to approve the the bonds before they could be issued.

Texas is one of many states try-physics reseach tool that promises to bring thousands of jobs to the winning state. The Texas National Research Laboratory Commission was formed to lead Texas' effort.

Originally, the legislation provided for the issuance of $500 million in revenue bonds. Bill sponsor Sen. Chet Edwards amended the bill to allow the commission to issue bonds "for what they can prove they have the revenue stream for.

Edwards, D-Duncanville, said the $500 million cap on the general obligation bonds, paid by taxing to land the huge high energy payers, would be issued first

Texaco creditor committees meet

NEW YORK - Two creditor cy laws. committees named in the Texaco Inc. bankruptcy case are expected to appoint chairmen when they convene here today

In an unusual move Monday, a Justice Department official named the two bodies to represent unsecured creditors of Texaco and two financial subsidiaries

The dual committees will separate Texaco's oil industry competitors, including its rival Pennzoil Co., from other unsecured creditors, mostly banks, during Texaco's reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankrupt-

"This is a little different from normal," Harry Jones, U.S. trustee for the Southern District of New York, said Monday in White Plains, N.Y

"But this is an unusual case," he said of Texaco's reorganization, which resulted from the multibillion-dollar damage judgment Texaco lost to Pennzoil in

Mexican police kill drug kingpin

EL PASO — A drug dealer killed in a hail of bullets after a team of Mexican federal police surrounded his ranch was the longstanding head of a drug empire that numbered more than 300 growers and smugglers of marijuana, heroin and cocaine, authorities

Pablo Acosta, 50, died Friday near Ojinaga, Mexico, 250 miles southeast of El Paso. "If he wasn't the largest (drug dealer in Chihuahua), he was certainly the most dangerous," said Guillermo Gonzalez Calderoni, head of the Mexican Federal Judicial Police in Juarez.

"He was ruthless ... one of the most significant drug traffickers along the U.S.-Mexico border," said Phil Jordan, with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration

Jordan said there will probably be a power struggle in the Acosta organization to see who will control

"It will disorganize it for a little while," Jordan said. "Unfortunately, there will be more Acostas.'

Texas truck driver killed in accident

OTTAWA, Kan. — A Texas truck driver was killed on Interstate 35 Sunday when his rig crashed through a bridge rail and landed on its top in a field below.

The victim was identified by the Highway Patrol as James L. Secord, 51, Wichita Falls.

ANGLETON - Police evacuated there was no immediate estimate as to how many people were affected, Dewberry said.

Angleton has about 13,000 residents and is in Brazoria County, about 35 miles south of Houston.

About 100 people reported to an emergency shelter at a Presbyterian church, Houston radio station KTRH reported.

Early in the morning, light winds carried vapors to the southeast from the leaking railroad car. But the winds shifted, carrying the vapors to the east, Dewberry said.

Death row inmate wins reprieve

HOUSTON - An inmate facingdeath early today for the 1982 slaying of a Houston bar manager won a reprieve from a federal judge just seven hours before he was slated for lethal injection.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle MacDona in Houston granted the indefinite stay of execution for Larry Norman Anderson about 4 p.m. , Monday, defense attorney, Richard Alley said.

"I'm very relieved," Anderson said after hearing the news.

Anderson, scheduled to die shortly after midnight, was being transferred from his cell at the Ellis I Unit to a waiting cell next to the death chamber in Huntsville when he heard he got a stay, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said.

Also on Monday, a spokesman for the state attorney general's office said state attorneys would not oppose the request for a stay.

"The reason is the record is so voluminous we just didn't have time to go through and present it to the court." spokesman Ron Dusek said. "It's based solely on that and not anything else so far as his having a legitimate claim.

Their co-student David Florey made the highest score. "All through school there's an immense pressure put on students to attain an 'A' in every class," said Florey, 17, a "C" student who made the highest score answering 89 percent of the answers. "Some of the things it takes to get an 'A' can be pretty strange. You have to write for the teacher, and sometimes you don't feel good with an 'A' if you get it."

Higher ed board gets Senate OK

AUSTIN - Lawmakers say the board that oversees state higher education in Texas can recommend how big colleges and universities should be allowed to grow and what they should offer, but final decisions are up to the Legislature.

During a Senate Education Committee Monday, members approved new duties for the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board, but wouldn't approve a transfer of power to the

A bill sponsored by Sen. Carl Parker would have allowed the coordinating board to take over the duty of setting enrollments and determining the course and degree offerings of each institution.

Instead the committee voted 5-3 to require the board to make reccomendations to the Legislature on those areas.

"I don't want any board or agency to have the autocratic power to make those determinations on its own without consulting the Legislature or ... having a fair and public forum on it," said Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasedena.

"At this time I vehemently oppose shifting if from the Legislature to the coordinating board, but I want the coordinating board to work as a partner," he said.

The bill is aimed at cutting down on duplication of degree programs and improving transferability of

Committee hears both side of lottery

AUSTIN (AP) — There was no middle ground in arguments before the Senate State Affairs Committee on a proposed state lottery.

Some witnesses said Monday a lottery would be an alternative to new taxes while others says it would breed a new generation of gamblers. "I've never said this would solve our state's financial problems but this is one method we can use instead of raising taxes," said Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, sponsor. At Uribe's request the proposal was left pending in the committee after the hearing with no Uribe said he would ask for committee approval after a House committee acts on a similar plan, hopefully next week. "This is a seduction of our state in which many persons will be enticed into a lifetime of gambling," said the Rev. Richard Freeman of Methodist Church of Texas..

Uribe's proposal consists of a proposed constitution change that would be voted on next November and then a state law to create a state lottery if voters approved.

Uribe said a state lottery could produce $248 million in new state revenue in 1988, $410 million in 1989, $429 million in 1990 and $502 million in 1991.

The lottery would be operated through a special division created in the comptroller's office. Forty percent of the gross proceeds would go to general revenue and the rest to winners and for expenses

"Michigan voted in a lottery in 1972 and the people of Michigan are still calling it a better deal than paying higher taxes," said Michael Carr, lottery commissioner of Michigan.

"We believe the state lottery is bad pr policy," said Gary McNeil, speaking for the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission. "The state lottery means the state of Texas advertises, sponsors, and promotes the largest numbers game in the state. Where a private citizen would be arrrested for illegal bookmaking, the state will be given free reign to be the chief bookie.

Jim Barnett, director of the California state lottery, said their $1-a-ticket game produced $1.7 billion in sales the first year with 38 percent going to education.

"We are very concerned about a state lottery," said Linda Team, a representative of Texas Impact which she said was for tax reform but not lotteries

"This would affect the poor and the poorly educated, those very susceptible to ripoff schemes of all kinds "she said
