For the Record

The answer in Monday's How's That was incorrectly printed in Firsts, Facts and Feats by Bill Adler. The correct answer is Lake Superior, which covers an area of 31,700 sq. miles, according to the '86 World Almanac.

Fiesta time has arrived

It's fiesta time in Big Spring. Big Spring's Cinco de Mayo celebration gets under way today with a parade beginning at the entrance to Comanche Trail Park.

About six to eight men on horseback with Mexican flags will lead the parade through the park to the Old Settlers' Pavilion.

Lizza Rodriguez, this year's Cinco de Mayo queen, will ride on a float with children dressed in traditional Mexican attire, President of LULAC Raul Marquez said.

"A lot of people go just to eat the food," he said, noting that "just about every Tex-Mex dish will be available" at food booths.

"Los Gallitos," a local band that specializes in Mexican-American music, will play from 7 p.m. to midnight today and all day Saturday, Marquez said.

A best Mexican attire contest will be conducted Saturday at 6 p.m. and trophies will be awarded.

Border Patrol educates employers

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Every employer in Howard County, even those who are self-employed, must file employment eligibility verification forms to comply with the 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act.

Members of the Marfa Border Patrol, headquarters for the Big Spring area, brought that message to about 60 people at a meeting Thursday to explain three main portions of the immigration law.

Border patrol members explained basic legalization procedures, legalization of special agricultural workers and employer sanctions.

"This law will affect every employer in the U.S.," said Border

Patrol Officer Clyde E. Jones.

The educational phase of the law, set to end May 31, will most likely be extended to Sept. 1 because of the ignorance surrounding the requirements of the law, Jones said.

"Everyone you hire, be it your brother or sister, will have to fill out a verification form," he said.

Since Nov. 6, 1986, when the bill was passed, it has been unlawful to hire, refer or recruit an alien not authorized for employment. It is also unlawful to hire an individual without verifying the person's identity and eligibility to work, Jones said.

"Very, very few employers have come to these meetings," he said, explaining that most don't realize that documentation must be shown for "blonde haired, blue-eyed Americans" and not only for anyone with a foreign-looking appearance.

The Border Patrol was mandated by Congress to educate the public on the requirements of the Reform Act between Dec. 1, 1986 and May 31, 1987.

According to the planned implementation of the Reform Act, a citation phase begins June 1 and will continue for one year. During this time, employers will be warned for an initial violation, but subsequent violations could consist of fines, Jones said.

Civil penalties to take effect June 1, 1988, will result in a first-offense fine of $250 to $2,000 for each unauthorized alien, he said.

By the third offense the fine increases to a maximum of $10,000 for each unauthorized alien. Repeat offenders could receive a six-month prison sentence, Jones said.

Penalties for failure to keep employer eligibility forms on file will result in a fine of $100 to $1,000 for each violation, he said. The forms must be kept on file for three years after the initial hiring or one year after the person is fired.

The forms are expected to be made available June 1 at the Federal building at 501 Main St. and may be sent to employers by using Internal Revenue Service employer records, Jones said.

An employer must verify an employee's identity and authorization by examining such documents as a U.S. passport, a certificate of U.S. citizenship or a certificate of naturalization. A resident alien card with a photo or an unexpired foreign passport with a work authorization endorsement also can be used.

Most people attending the educational meetings, conducted throughout the country, have been aliens who desire legalization, and few employers have attended, Jones said.

To attain legalization, a person must have resided in the United States for a certain period of time. IMMIGRATION page 2A

Ambulance options are considered

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

People are showing interest in a contract for ambulance services locally and the option of a city/county-run service is being examined, Big Spring Fire Chief Carl Dorton said.

He said sets of specifications have been sent to a dozen interested persons.

"It's looking real good in getting fast returns," he said. Bids will be opened May 21, and a report presented to local government officials May 26.

He said the ambulance advisory committee, City Manager Mack Wofford and he will review the bids.

Dorton said he has been asked to submit a plan for the city and county establishing its own service before May 21.

Options include establishing a separate ambulance department, much as fire and police departments now function, or making the service part of the fire department, he said.

Officials have indicated they want a quality, efficient service but as inexpensive as possible, he said, adding that a low bid from a quality service will be cheapest.

Economics will dictate whether the city accepts a bid from a private company or establishes its own service, he said.

Dorton said he is searching for federal or state aid in establishing a city/county service, but so far has not found any. A grant used to be available during the 1970s, he said.

"We missed the boat in the '70s," he said. The grant would have paid for ambulance vehicles — the largest cost in establishing a service.

A new "box" ambulance would cost $35,000 to $50,000, and a smaller, suburban-type vehicle $20,000 to $25,000, he said.

The main difference is in size, Dorton explained. A smaller vehicle probably couldn't become an advanced life support ambulance, as is now in service, because there's not enough room for necessary equipment, he said.

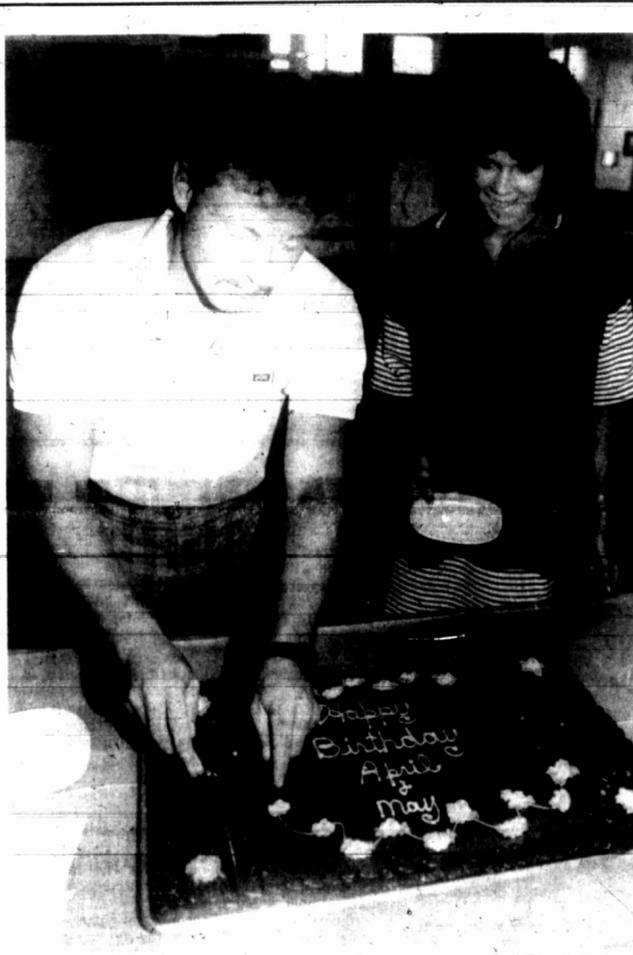

He said used vehicles are available for a lower cost, but most of those for sale have been wrecked and are less than desirable for a long-term commitment.

The city has first option to buy Lee Ambulance equipment if owner Charles Ginn decides to sell, Dorton said.

However, it has not been determined whether the company will go out of business in Big Spring or will retain its option of continuing transfer services. Ginn indicated at an ambulance advisory committee meeting that he plans to re-bid the city/county emergencies contract.

Ginn's contract with the city and county for emergency services is to Park to be closed during performance

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Comanche Trail Park will be closed to non-concert-goers May 8 during the Kris Kristofferson concert, and beer will be available the City Council decided at an emergency meeting Thursday afternoon.

The actor/songwriter has agreed to perform at the amphitheater at 8 p.m. in a concert to benefit the park renovation effort.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford, concert coordinator, said those already in the park will not be asked to leave. During the concert hours, however, no one without a ticket will be admitted.

Tickets will be sold at the park entrances and at the amphitheater, he said.

Tickets can be purchased in advance at Big Spring Athletics, the Record Shop, the Chamber of Commerce and at Endless Horizons in Midland, he said.

The Council agreed that beer sales should be allowed during the concert, but must take formal action at a later time because the item did not appear on the written agenda. A meeting has been scheduled for 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Airpark meeting room.

The Whipkey Drive park entrance will be closed, and the Wasson Road and Interstate 20 entrances will be manned with personnel checking tickets, he said.

Officers on horseback will patrol during the concert, he said, and law enforcement personnel will help with parking and directing traffic.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said concessions and restrooms will be at the top back of the amphitheater, to help avoid non-paying rubbernecks.

Rutherford added that officials are not concerned that everyone in the park then have a ticket, but anyone observed watching the concert from the driveway without a ticket will be asked to purchase one or leave.

Parking at another location and using a shuttle service to transport concert-goers to the park had been discussed, but Rutherford said the plan has been discarded. He said he believes the park has enough parking space, and if necessary, the golf course parking lot can be used.

Clements suggests possible special session

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he likely will summon legislators to a July special session if they can't pass a budget within his $36.9 billion limit by their scheduled June 1 adjournment.

If one is needed, Clements said he probably wouldn't call a special session immediately because he wants lawmakers to go home and hear what taxpayers are saying.

"I want them to go home. I want them to listen to their constituency and see what's going on back there," the governor said Thursday.

Clements has been touring the state urging public support for his spending plans. He wants a $36.9 billion budget for 1988-89, combined with a $2.9 billion tax increase to be obtained by continuing temporary sales and motor fuel hikes now scheduled to expire

Aug. 31.

But in a meeting with reporters, Clements complained that the Legislature's budget proposals are too high. The Senate has passed a $40 billion budget, and the House on Monday will debate a $39.4 billion spending plan.

"Those appropriations are wishful thinking," Clements said. "Certainly the progress that we've made to date in solving the budgetary problem would not indicate that we're going to get there by June 1. But who knows? Miracles can happen."

Clements repeatedly has said he would veto any tax increase higher than $2.9 billion.

If lawmakers can't get Clements to approve more taxes than that, any higher budget they pass won't be certified by the state comptroller, Clements said.

Bill would let boards double tuition

AUSTIN — Speaker Gib Lewis has won preliminary House approval for his bill that would let state college boards double tuition.

In a rare move, Lewis on Thursday came down from his House podium to present his bill. In a development almost equally as rare, the speaker's bill drew heated debate before winning tentative approval in a 98-10 non-record vote.

"If we think that higher education is wasting money, and then we give them the authority to raise tuition, it's like telling your teen-age son, 'Look you're spending too much money, so I'm going to raise your allowance,'" said Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi.

Also Thursday, the House voted tentative approval to a select committee recommendation for a required basic skills test for college students. Students would have to pass the test before they could take junior-level courses.

Cavazos and several other House members want to keep lawmakers in charge of setting college tuition. Under the Lewis provision, part of a comprehensive bill resulting from the Select Committee on Higher Education study, the tuition schedule approved by lawmakers in 1985 would be a minimum.

The boards could increase the tuition up to twice the minimum, which is now $16 per semester hour and rises, in increments, to $24 an hour in 1993.

House Higher Education Committee Chairwoman Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, defended the proposed system as the best way to handle the differing costs at state universities. Gov. Bill Clements said he likes the idea.

"Having this as a more flexible situation for the administration and for the systems of higher education on tuition I think is a step in the right direction," he said.

Rep. Al Luna, D-Houston, said the new system would make it difficult for poor students, including many minority students, to afford college. Delco said they would be helped by a program in which 20 percent of any tuition increase would be put into a special fund to help poor students.

Journalism scholarships announced

Area high school seniors have an opportunity to win $500 college scholarships through the Big Spring Herald's participation in the West Texas Press Association.

Publisher John Brown noted the Herald is a member of the WTPA, which is seeking two future community journalists to receive stipends of $500 each.

Through the "Bob Craig Memorial Scholarship" program, named in honor of long-time Hamlin Herald publisher Bob Craig, who died in 1981, the WTPA is sponsoring an essay contest based on the theme "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism."

High School seniors interested in pursuing a career in community journalism may submit their essays to WTPA Scholarship Committee, Stephen Henry, Chairman, Drawer H, Levelland, Texas 79336.

The essays must be postmarked no later than May 10, 1987.

The essay is limited to a maximum of 400 words and no letters of reference will be accepted.

In addition to being a senior in high school, contestants must maintain a "B" average or better, and plan to continue studies at a school of journalism. After the winners are selected they must be enrolled in a least three hours of journalism each semester the assistance is received.

The scholarships will be divided into payments of $250 per semester for two semesters for two students.

The essays will be judged by the Texas Press Association.

Natural Dam

The water would merely circulate between the lakes, he said.

Ivie said the spillway was cut around the north abutment of the dam in July in an effort to alleviate high water levels.

Owner Wilkinson said he visited the area before one of the last big rains in 1986 and the water level was only 10 inches from the top of the dam.

"If they hadn't raised the dam, I'm sure (the water) would have gone over," he said.

Although the CRMWD doesn't own Natural Dam Lake and isn't legally responsible for it, the District made modifications on the dam in 1986 as a public service — to help prevent a possible catastrophe in Big Spring, Ivie said.

Wilkinson said he approved the modifications made by the Water District.

Barr told the commissioners' court that an actual dam doesn't exist at the lake. He described the dam as a "natural heel."

"That is 'as wrong as can be, there is a dam there,'" Ivie said.

Water is 12 feet deep upstream of the dam and 2 to 3 feet deep downstream, he explained.

If it ever broke, Big Spring would have water a couple of stories high in the Hotel Settles, Wilkinson said.

Ambulance

Dorton said that to maintain the current level of service, the city would need at least three vehicles for emergencies. However, performing transfer services would be necessary to make the service economically viable, he said, and the city would need additional ambulances for that.

Furnishing the ambulance would be a further cost, he said, although he doesn't know how much equipment would cost. He estimates $4,000 per ambulance for perishable items such as medicine and bandages.

If transfers of patients between medical facilities are to be performed, six paramedics and six emergency medical technicians would be needed, with one manager, he said.

Although he recommends hiring trained personnel, Dorton said they may be difficult to attain. Hiring trained personnel would be less expensive and less "headache," he said.

However, the city could hire untrained workers and an instructor.

Kennel Club plans match

Big Spring Kennel Club's annual AKC sanctioned "B" match will be Sunday in the Dora Roberts Building at the Howard County Fairgrounds. The confirmation and obedience competition is open to any AKC registered dog that does not hold major AKC points.

"A fun match like this is a good place for persons who want to learn how to show a dog to get experience. It's a good place for the dogs to learn, too," said Walton Morrison, president of the local club.

Registration will be from 10:30-noon. Judging begins at noon. Carol and Mike Abernathy, Sweetwater, will judge conformation classes, and Norma Garrett, Midland, will judge obedience. Conformation classes will be three to six month puppies, six to nine month puppies, nine to 12 month puppies, and open for older dogs.

Obedience classes will be sub-novice, novice A and B, graduate novice, open A and B, and utility. Entry fee is $4 for first entry of a dog and $2 for each additional entry of the same dog.

Sandwiches and snacks will be available. The public is invited, and there will be no admission charge.

Last spring's fun match in Big Spring drew 93 dogs and their owners from Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Snyder, Sweetwater, Colorado City, Lubbock, San Angelo, Abilene and Sterling City, according to match chairman Karen Burnett, Midland.

States illegally since Jan. 1, 1982 and must be able to present proof of continuous residency, he said.

A person should be able to show proof of residency for every month since January 1982, Jones said.

The requirement is somewhat flexible, however, he said.

"If a person doesn't have proof of every month, but makes a good faith effort, he most likely will qualify (for legalization)," Jones said.

Illegal aliens also will be required to show a basic knowledge of English, the workings of the government and basic U.S. history in order to qualify, he said.

Aliens who have accepted welfare or unemployment payments do not qualify for legalization, he said.

Applications must be submitted to a legalization center between May 5, 1987 and May 4, 1988 to be considered.

Big Spring area residents seeking legalization should send applications to the Lubbock center, he said.

Jones also discussed a section on special agricultural workers who may be granted temporary or permanent residence under the law.

A person may adjust his status from temporary to permanent residence in one year if he has worked a minimum of 90 days in agriculture during each 12-month period ending May 1, 1984, May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986.

Only perishable commodities apply to the agricultural section, but the list is changing daily, he said.

The list includes Christmas trees, fruits and vegetables and some grains, but excludes cotton and livestock, Jones said.

SDI voted $4.5 billion

WASHINGTON — The Senate Armed Services Committee, trying to write its version of a Pentagon budget, has voted to spend $4.5 billion next year for President Reagan's "Star Wars" program, according to congressional sources.

The figure falls between the $5.8 billion sought by Reagan and the $3.8 billion provided by a bill that will be considered by the House next week.

The panel, meeting behind closed doors, is trying to announce a bill authorizing the Defense Department's budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1. A final vote was likely today.

Overall, the proposal now before the Senate panel proposes about $303 billion, compared to the $312 billion sought by Reagan and the $289 billion passed by the House Armed Services Committee in a bill sent to the floor.

Banks raise prime rate

NEW YORK — Major U.S. banks raised their prime lending rate to 8 percent from 7.75 percent today, a month after the banking industry lifted the key rate a quarter percentage point.

Bond and stock prices fell following the announcement.

Citibank, the nation's largest bank, and Chase Manhattan, the third largest, were the first to announce an increase. No. 5 Manufacturers Hanover, No. 8 Bankers Trust Co. and First National Bank of Chicago, ranked 11th, made similar announcements shortly after.

The prime is the benchmark used by banks to set interest rates on a variety of corporate and consumer loans, including some mortgages.

Firestone moves HQ

AKRON, Ohio — Firestone has been to Akron what Ford was to Detroit, but is moving its headquarters from the one-time rubber capital of the world to Chicago 87 years after the tire company's founding here.

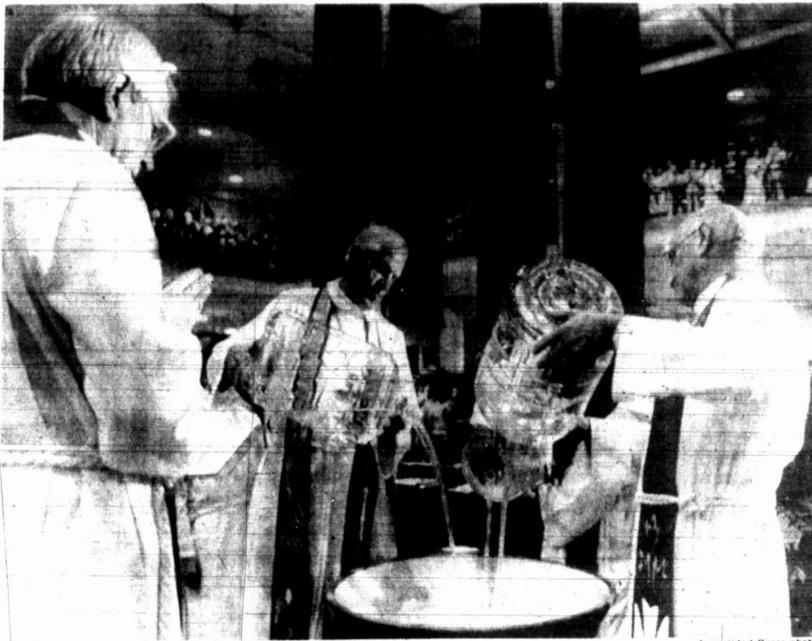

"It's a real shock," said Mayor Donald Plusquellic. "I grew up as the son of a tire builder, and I worked for a time at Firestone loading tires."

The move, which will affect about 450 of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.'s 1,800 salaried employees here, was announced Thursday after a meeting of the board of directors of the nation's No. 2 tire company.

Reagan's son molested

NEW YORK — Michael Reagan, son of President Reagan, says as a boy he was molested and photographed in the nude by a day-camp leader, and feared decades later that the pictures would surface and cost his father the White House.

The president, asked about the incident, said: "I'm sorry. When he was a little boy, he didn't let us know at the time."

Three branches unite, elect bishop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The marathon election of the leader of most of America's Lutherans, newly united into the nation's fifth-largest denomination, entered its second day today with a Minneapolis bishop leading a field of five.

In a historic session Thursday, convention delegates merged three major Lutheran branches into the 5.3 million-member Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. They then began picking their presiding bishop in a long process resembling the way Roman Catholic cardinals choose the pope.

The person chosen as presiding bishop will be the Lutherans' chief spokesman for the next four years and will have powerful influence over the denomination's relationship with other faiths and society.

Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom, 55, moved ahead on the fifth ballot Thursday night, edging Bishop David W. Preus, head of the now-merged American Lutheran Church, 354 to 349 votes.

A sixth ballot was to be held today to narrow the field of candidates. Under the rules, the election could take up to nine ballots.

Running behind Chilstrom, a regional bishop for the former Lutheran Church in America, and Preus, 64, were the Rev. William Lazareth, the Rev. Reuben Swanson and the Rev. Barbara K. Lundblad, all of New York City.

Lazareth, 59, is a noted theologian and ecumenical leader, Swanson is secretary of the former LCA and Ms. Lundblad is an internationally recognized pastor.

Unlike the secret papal selection, the 1,045 Lutheran delegates were choosing their leader in the open at the Ohio Convention Center. The balloting gradually narrowed the field of candidates from 66 to five.

Between votes, there were breaks for reflection, prayer and conversation.

The new denomination is the nation's fifth-largest after Roman Catholics, Southern Baptists, United Methodists and the National Baptist Convention.

The church, combining the LCA, ALC and smaller Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, drew together ancestral Lutheran strands involving about 50 Lutheran groups at the turn of the century.

"It's been a long journey," said the Rev. William A. Kinnison of Springfield, Ohio, who presided over the consolidating convention and headed the joint commission that planned the merger over the past five years.

Kinnison, the president of Wittenberg University, told the delegates they came here from different churches, but "we leave as one."

In a spirited worship service, leaders of the three branches poured water into a baptismal font as a symbol of the unification.

The delegates also approved a new constitution and an initial 14-month budget of $112.3 million.

Pope beatifies nun

COLOGNE, West Germany — Pope John Paul II today beatified a Jewish-born nun who perished in the Auschwitz Nazi death camp, and in a major gesture of solidarity with the Jews called her an "outstanding daughter of Israel."

Less than four hours earlier, a fire of unknown origin destroyed a Roman Catholic church just over a mile from the stadium where the pontiff beatified Carmelite nun Edith Stein.

More than 1,200 leftists and Greens, including naked women and one naked man, marched through downtown streets today to Cologne Cathedral chanting "Pope get lost!" police said. Marchers included homosexuals, lesbians and women's activists. No incidents were reported.

Accord found in talks

JERUSALEM — A government official said today Israel and Jordan have agreed on guidelines for Arab-Israeli peace talks, including the issue of Palestinian representation.

The senior official, who spoke to reporters on condition of anonymity, said Israel and Jordan agreed the talks would begin with an international conference on Middle East peace intended to lead to direct negotiations between Israel and Jordan.

The neighboring countries also agreed on the length of the conference, the official said. "It's not a contract that's been signed. We're still in the process of shaping it up," he said. "But there is agreement on these issues."

May Day rallies banned

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — May Day is a workers' holiday in South Africa for the first time today, but authorities banned 20 black union rallies and alleged that a union headquarters was used as a torture chamber.

In Cape Town, Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu issued his first major statement on Wednesday's election for the white chamber of Parliament, calling it "racist and totally undemocratic."

But Tutu said whites could justify participating if their votes "help bring about the downfall of apartheid and its perpetrators."

May Day celebrated

Polish riot police moved against Solidarity supporters in several cities today where May Day marches were mounted to counter Communist Party-organized parades on this international workers holiday.

There was violence in Sri Lanka, the island state off India where May Day rallies were banned because of a recent upsurge in ethnic violence. At least one anti-government demonstrator was killed.

May Day is not celebrated in the United States, which honors workers on Labor Day in September.

Phone system news welcome

It was good business and economic news — just a bit of the type that Big Spring yearns for in these harsh economic times.

It was an announcement that Southwestern Bell will install a new, state-of-the-art digital switching system in Big Spring. In addition, new fiber optic cables will be installed to improve long-distance service.

It's an $8 million project — $6 million for the new system and $2 million for the cables.

The system is being installed in an effort to work with Big Spring in supporting its economic endeavors, said Darlene Gifford, the company's manager of public relations in Midland.

The equipment already has been ordered and will arrive within 30 days. The new system should be ready for use in less than a year, she added.

The company's announcement this past week was a much-needed and very welcome surprise for many people.

It means local offices and residents will finally have several long-overdue custom calling services available to them.

It gives hope to many residents that their years of complaining about telephone problems may come to an end.

It means Big Spring will be able to boast of the latest in telephone systems in its effort to help attract the superconducting supercollider to the Garden City site.

And it means many people deserve some praise for their efforts to bring the new system to Big Spring.

The list might start with Gifford and local businesswoman Johnnie Lou Avery, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Team Phone Modernization Committee.

That list also would include the representatives of governmental agencies and local industry who attended a Dec. 17 meeting, when those representatives emphasized Big Spring's need for better services to Gifford and other Southwestern Bell executives.

Finally, the new system strengthens Big Spring's portfolio of examples of the community becoming a more progressive place for business, industry and governmental agencies to operate.

Coming to know God needs daily commitment to Him

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I feel a deep need inside of me to get right with God. I have always believed in God, but somehow I feel I do not really know Him in a personal way, like you talk about. How can I know God? —G.A.

DEAR G.A.: First, I want to assure you that you not only can know God personally, but God Himself actually wants to know you and have a personal relationship with you. He loves you, and He made you for Himself because He wants you to know Him.

What is it that cuts us off from God? The Bible answers with one word: Sin. "But your iniquities have separated you from your God; your sins have hidden his face from you" (Isaiah 59:2).

That doesn't mean you have necessarily been a bad person in the eyes of other people — but God's standard is perfection, and we sin against Him every day by our actions, our thoughts, and our selfish motives. Most of all we sin against God by refusing to give Him His rightful place at the center of our lives.

The good news, however, is that God has done everything possible to bring us forgiveness and cleansing from sin. How has He done this? He has done it by sending His only Son, Jesus Christ, to be the perfect sacrifice for our sins, but

Billy Graham

Christ took our place and willingly took our punishment upon Himself when He died on the cross. "God made him who had no sin for us" (2 Corinthians 5:21).

What do you need to do? God offers you forgiveness as a free gift — but like any other gift, you must reach out and receive it. How do you do that?

By a simple prayer of faith confess to God that you know you are a sinner and then ask Christ to come into your life as your Lord and Savior. When you do that, you will know Him in a personal way every day because He lives within you. Make your commitment to Christ now.

Wright keeps FSLIC broke to save Texas S&Ls, banks

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, did his arm-twisting best to keep the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. so broke it can't afford to close down S&Ls in Texas and elsewhere that are for all practical purposes bankrupt.

Wright's intense pressure on his Democratic colleagues succeeded. It was a victory for hundreds of high-flying S&L managements across the country. As long as the FSLIC doesn't have the money to shut them down and pay off insured individual deposits up to $100,000, the reckless thrift managers will be able to accept more depositors' money and make still riskier loans in hopes of an economic miracle that will render them solvent again.

The hard reality is that the government insurance fund now contains a little over $1 billion to guarantee nearly $1 trillion in insured S&L deposits. Yet thanks to Wright's high-pressure tactics, Congress is about to pass a mere $5 billion recapitalization of the FSLIC.

Treasury Secretary James Baker has been warned by his experts that the $5 billion is a drop in the bucket, hopelessly inadequate to douse the prairie fire of S&L failures that could be ignited by a panic almost anywhere in the system. A more realistic recapitalization figure would be $50 billion, Baker was told. The administration favored a bill much larger than the $5 billion.

Wright, determined to keep his home-state thrifths in business, took unusual steps to see that no realistic recapitalization made it through the House Banking Committee. According to congressional sources, he personally attended closed-door meetings of the committee, and kept day-to-day track of the recapitalization bill. Wright's arm-twisting was so severe that he gave some insiders the impression that he would work to unseat the committee chairman, Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., if a bigger bailout figure were approved.

We've been reporting for nearly two years that the FSLIC was essentially insolvent and would need a congressional rescue effort to make good on its deposit-insurance guarantees. Earlier this year, congressional auditors with the General Accounting Office confirmed this, and urged a quick transfusion of money to revive the moribund insurance fund.

The latest audits of the FSLIC show that it is facing a drain of $8 billion from failed and failing S&Ls in the immediate future. This would leave the insurance fund at least $6 billion in the red. Over a five-year period, the losses could multiply fivefold, the auditors warned.

Insiders told our associate Michael Binstein that the entire S&L industry is a tinderbox that could be ignited by the slightest spark of bad news or rumor. And a devastating run on one thrift could spread quickly to others — as the panics in Ohio and Maryland demonstrated.

The best way to prevent such a wide-ranging panic would be to have a healthy FSLIC that could step in quickly and decisively, closing a bankrupt S&L and paying off its depositors. This would calm depositors' jitters and quell the run on deposits before they brought down the whole system.

Obviously, a flat-broke insurance fund can't operate with that kind of firmness — and this is precisely what hundreds of daredevil S&L managers are counting on. As long as they know the FSLIC can't afford to foreclose, they'll continue the dangerously speculative lending and investment practices that brought them to the brink of failure in the first place.

What Wright and his supporters are banking on is that $5 billion will assure that the FSLIC is a tame "sheriff." There will be no "High Noon" face-off with the black-hatted S&L wheeler-dealers as long as the enforcer is a toothless tenderfoot.

Footnote: A Wright spokesman would say only that the speaker was pleased with the $5 billion bill reported out by the House Banking Committee.

GONE WITH THE WIND: A whole genteel way of life has been swept away by the spread of terrorism in recent years. The once-comfortable life of American diplomats overseas has been replaced by the nagging fear that just being an American will be enough to invite terrorist violence.

The new atmosphere is illustrated by a single dry financial statistic: The State Department hired more than 13,000 local guards to protect American diplomats and their families last year, at a cost of $76 million.

Department sources say the protection program is certain to expand as the threat of international terrorism continues unabated.

Texas thought the average Texan had brain damage.

And so while we blame the oil collapse for Texas' economic troubles, we fail to realize that Texas' prestige had taken a royal bucking thanks to cowboy chic. Recruiting new business? What Fortune 500 company wants to deal with a bunch of yahoos like that?

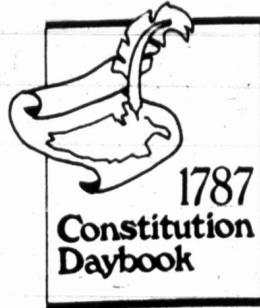

Cowboy chic is a lasso around Texas' neck. In terms of fashion it looks dumb except on real cowboys, who wear what they wear for a reason. And, might I say, God bless the real cowboys, if you can find one.

Let's face it. Cattle drives just aren't that central to the Texas experience. And yet we have allowed cowboy chic to become a Texas trademark. Then we go around thinking we're going to attract high-tech companies and top-flight professors. Sell that to the bull.

What Texas needs to do is shake the urban cowboy image. It is an embarrassment. It's not good for business anymore.

Herewith is a three-point plan for doing so:

Cowboy registration — If you're a cowboy, fine. You have the state's permission to dress like one. The state will provide a photo I.D. to real cowboys. If, however, you've never straddled a horse or

PHILADELPHIA TODAY
Weather: 75, wind west-southwest, cloudy, thunder and rain.

Alarm Fire Company was founded this day. This brought to 19 the number of fire companies in the city.

The Street Commissioners today ordered five citizens to repair walks and grates in front of their property.

In the year ending this date, Pennsylvania Hospital reported that it treated 179 poor, diseased persons. Of that number, 59 were lunatics.

CONFEDERATION TODAY
Congress was not in session for want of a quorum.

DELEGATES TODAY
William Samuel Johnson of Connecticut attended the continuing session of the Confederation Court of Appeals.

George Washington rode to all his plantations, where he observed that the first corn planting was being eaten by birds as fast as it came up.

Gosrunus Erkelens, a recent Dutch emigre, sent a sample of cobalt to Benjamin Franklin. Erkelens' mine was near Middletown, Conn. He asked Franklin's assistance in protecting his discovery and in marketing the ore.

LOOKING BACK
Philadelphia Fire Companies Alarm Fire was Philadelphia's 19th company, but that number was somewhat misleading as it only represented those companies active in 1787. Three companies, Britannia, King George III, and Queen Charlotte, disbanded during the Revolution when their names became unacceptable. Six companies were also established by 1787 in what were then separate villages in Philadelphia County. Today those areas are all incorporated into the city of Philadelphia.

This proliferation of fire companies was a certain indication of the city's growth. Philadelphia was only 38 years old when the first fire engine was put in service in 1718. Twelve years later, in 1730, Benjamin Franklin and his friends organized the first fire company, the Union Fire Company.

By 1803, the Philadelphia City Council contributed regularly to the fire companies' operating budgets. In 1870 they became a regularly paid city service.

In modern day Philadelphia, fire service is provided by 121 companies. This includes 24 rescue units and two marine fire companies.

Blames Texas trouble on cowboy chic

By JOHN YOUNG

Waco Tribune-Herald
WACO (AP) — Face it. The 1980s have been the pits for Texas, and John Travolta is largely to blame.

Sure, go ahead and blame our problem on OPEC and the oil profiteers. Blame it on small foreign cars. Blame all the forces that caused the oil economy to come crashing down.

But save some blame for cowboy chic. Because of it we're the laughingstock of the nation.

It is no coincidence that the decade started with the premiere of the movie "Urban Cowboy" and that Texas' economy went downhill from there. "Urban Cowboy" may have been the biggest disgrace ever foisted upon a region.

Some may have seen it as good publicity, bringing attention to good times in the Lone Star State. In truth, moviegoers across the country were beholding Texans much like one is viewed when one's fly is unzipped.

Let us recall the plot of "Urban Cowboy":

A basically worthless young man with no ambition and no future moves to the big city.

He frequents a bar the size of Rhode Island where people wear cowboy hats, boots and jeans so tight the circulation is cut off. In particular, we wonder if any blood is getting to the brain.

One symptom of this mental asphyxiation is the major pastime at the bar, the riding of a mechanical bull. The barflies spend their nights being thrown off the bull.

The young man meets a basically worthless girl with no ambition and no future. They are perfect for each other. They marry and move into a house trailer.

Things get rocky immediately. The two have a falling out. She succumbs to a sleazy pseudo-cowboy. He falls for a sleazy pseudo-cowgirl.

Finally he wins her heart back by outriding old sleazeball on the mechanical bull. The happy couple rides a pickup truck off into the sunset.

Somehow — don't ask me why — this movie became a national phenomenon. The sad result was that millions became urban cowboys. Another sad result was that fair-minded people outside of soiled your boots, sorry, pardner. No cowboy permit for you.

No more cowboy promos — The state should refrain from advertising trail dust and cattle roundups as the Texas experience. That is false advertising. Advertise beaches, hills, woods, reservoirs, bluebonnets, pretty women and chicken-fried steaks.

A new name for the Dallas Cowboys — This is going to be the toughest separation. The most vivid insignia of cowboy chic is Dallas' football team. Unfortunately, as Texas' most visible ambassadors, the Cowboys, bless 'em, are the most responsible for the impression that Texas is a cowboy state. It isn't. Any suggestions?

How about the Corporate Raiders. The Killer Bees. The Armadillos. The Landrys. The Lillys. The Good Guys.

What was that? The Bubbas? Go to your room.

Hey, this is serious. Until Texas shakes cowboy chic, it is never going to hear the last of it from Massachusetts and the conquering quiche-eaters we hear so much about.

Otherwise, Texas' only hope may be for Travolta to do a degrading movie about Saudi Arabia.

Womens group forms committees

The Modern Woman's Forum met at April 24 at Quail Run Apartment complex with Hazel Reed as hostess. Members of the club brought items to be taken to the Westside Center and to the Northside Community Center.

Irene Smith, president, announced the following committees for the 1987-'88 club year:

Program and yearbook: Mrs. C.R. Moad, chairman; Mrs. Paul Sweatt; Mrs. F.C. Tibbs and Mrs. Bert Affleck.

Civic and welfare: Mrs. Hugh Duncan, chairman; Mrs. Curtis Hill; and Mrs. W.E. Singleton.

Finance: Mrs. Paul Sweatt, chairman, and the executive committee. Telephone: Mrs. Vernon Kent, chairman; Mrs. T.G. Adams; and Mrs. J.W. Eastham.

Hazel Reed discussed Parkinson disease. It's a disease with tremors and a gradual loss of muscle control often resulting in complete incapacitation, she explained.

The medication Levodopa is the most common treatment if it can be tolerated, but it sometimes ceases to alleviate the symptoms. Patients often fall and have serious injuries, she reported.

She told the group about a recent surgery on two men in Mexico City where tissue was taken from one of the adrenal glands, located above the kidney and implanted into a section of the brain.

Functional recovery occurred in the patients in a matter days and they were able to lead normal lives, she added.

Next meeting will be a Hawaiian luau at the home of Adele Tibb.

Youth visit local state hospital

Fifty members of the youth group at First Baptist Church of Seminole presented a musical at the Tollett All-Faith Chapel at the Big Spring State Hospital April 26.

The group, led by youth and music director Dennis King, performed several musical selections in conjunction with a puppet show that was used between musical numbers. This was the first time the four separate entertainment groups had joined together for one show.

Recorded music was used for accompaniment. Manager of Radio Station KIKZ-KSEM George Tune was the guest speaker for the group. Solos were performed by Sandra Brooks, Joseph Brown, and Paige Anderson.

After the entertainment, the group served refreshments to Big Spring State Hospital clients, played volleyball with the adolescent unit clients and exchanged names and pen pals.

This activity was coordinated by the center director, Carolyn Harder, of Gaines County Mental Health Center, as part of her on-going public education efforts in the interest of better understanding of mental illness.

Prior to the group's visit to Big Spring State Hospital, Kathy Viccinelli, coordinator of Volunteer Services, presented a program to them on volunteerism April 12. She gave an overview and history of the hospital and mental illness and treatment. The adult leaders came to the hospital on the April 13th for a tour in preparation for the program.

Bride-elect feted with shower

Renee Thompson, bride-elect of Mark Worthington was feted with a bridal shower April 25, at the home of Mrs. Royce Clay, 2903 Goliad.

Thompson and her mother, Mrs. Marion Morgan, were presented with corsages of red and white roses, the bride-elect's chosen colors.

Hostesses were Mrs. Clay, Mrs. Doug Morris, Mrs. Jim Haller, Mrs. Hilliard Ditmore, Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Kay Wilson, Mrs. Royce Griffith, Mrs. Harold Bentley, Mrs. Clark Lowrey, Mrs. Curtis Mullins, Mrs. Kenneth Lane, Mrs. Sarah West and Mrs. Avery Falkner.

Mrs. Curtis Mullins registered the guests. D'Carlton Wilson and Jennifer Lee served at the refreshment table. The centerpiece featured a silk arrangement of red and white roses in an antique crystal bowl.

The hostess gift to the bride-elect was the meat platter to her china.

Approximately 60 guests signed the guest register.

The couple will exchange wedding vows June 5th at the 14th & Main Church of Christ.

Plants discussed at extension club

Terry Jo Johansen from Johansen Landscape and Nursery presented a program to the Center Point Extension Club April 12 at the KOA Center. Betty Coudes and Linnis Couch were hostesses.

Johansen said the first thing to do when planting is to decide where you want the plants to be — in the shade or in the sun. She suggested buying plants that need shade or need sun and to water and fertilize at certain times.

Eight members and one new member answered roll call with "Things I could do without."

Cakes were donated to the Big Spring State Hospital birthday party.

Next meeting will be May 12 at home of Ireba Griffith with Joy Dugan hosting.

Heart determines mourning period

DEAR ABBY: When a wife has lost her mate through death, how long should the mourning period be? Also, how long must she wait before dating members of the opposite sex so people won't talk? Then, how soon after she has started to date must she wait before accepting an engagement ring?

And finally, what is the proper waiting period before she remarries without having people think she has no respect for her first husband's memory?

JUST ASKING IN CANADA

DEAR JUST: The mourning period is traditionally one year. After that, she may start dating. From six months to a year following the mourning period, she may accept an engagement ring. And remarriage can take place any time after that.

None of this is written in concrete, however. What is in one's heart is far more important than what others say. Play it by ear, and don't worry about people's mouths.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that has been bothering me for a long time, but I haven't seen a doctor about it because I'm too embarassed. I am a 15-year-old girl, and the nipple on one of my breasts is "ingrown." It looks funny because it doesn't match the other one. Also, I am worried that when I get older and have a baby, I won't be able to breast-feed it.

Dear Abby

Will I grow out of this and have normal-looking breasts like other girls? Am I the only girl with this problem?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You have what is known as an "inverted nipple." It is not uncommon. First, you should discuss it with your mother — and then with your family physician. If necessary, he can refer you to a specialist who can surgically correct it.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, my son left Ohio to take an executive position in Denver. While there he met "Sue." To make a long story short, he divorced his wife of 16 years to make Sue his new bride. I flew to Denver, checked into a hotel and attended the wedding. I bought my son and Sue several wedding gifts and wished them love and happiness in their new life together. I never did receive a thank-you note, but at the time I wrote it off as simply an oversight.

Sue recently had a baby. I splurged on clothes for the new arrival. (You know how grandmothers can be.) It's been four months and I have not received an acknowledgment from Sue. Finally I mentioned to Sue that I was waiting for an acknowledgment from her. Her reply, "I have a perfect card for you; I just haven't had the time to send it." Abby, I know she's written thank-you notes to close friends and family. How do you size this up?

HURT IN OHIO

DEAR HURT: Obviously, Sue's manners leave much to be desired, but where is your son in all of this? He is equally guilty of ignoring the receipt of "several" wedding gifts as well as gifts for their baby.

Were I in your shoes I would feel more disappointed than "hurt" to learn that my son had married a woman who is either sadly lacking in the social graces or doesn't give a hoot about what you think of her.

DEAR ABBY: After two years of dating Rick, a very loving and good man, he opened his eyes one night in the middle of making love and asked, "Say, what does your gas bill run a month?"

I was hurt and dumbfounded and haven't spoken to him since. (We are both in our late 40s.) What should I do?

Skin examinations part of routine physical

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER
Malignant melanoma, one of the most virulent and deadly cancers, is one of the easiest to cure when diagnosed and treated in its earliest stages.

According to specialists at the New York University Medical Center, careful, regular skin examinations are the best means of discovering melanomas early in their development, when they can be safely removed.

"A careful total skin examination is a very basic, uncomplicated procedure, and should be included as an essential part of the routine physical exam," said Dr. Daniel Roses, professor of surgery at the medical center. He suggests that an inspection of the skin be conducted with the patient completely undressed, and is particularly important as an individual approaches middle age, when melanoma occurs most frequently.

"Fair-skinned individuals, especially those who suffered severe sun burns in their youth, are at a higher risk of developing melanoma than the general population," commented Dr. Jean-Claude Bystryn, professor of dermatology at the medical center. "This group should routinely have a total body skin examination annually from young adulthood on."

Both physicians pointed to the role played by self-inspections of the skin in early melanoma detection.

"This examination should inspect every skin surface of the body, including hidden areas such as the scalp and the folds of the skin in the groin, buttocks, between the toes and under the breasts," said Bystryn. "A mirror or a family member may be of help in examining the back," he added.

He noted that the suspicious signs include any mole or other pigmented area on the skin which itches or becomes crusted, infected or bleeds, or which shows a broadening in diameter, an irregularity in contour or color, or a change in the color of the pigmented area.

Melanoma can occur in anyone of any age on any skin surface. However, certain skin types and certain moles or pigmented areas are associated with an increased risk of this skin cancer.

Certain skin pigmentations in children also may have a greater risk of evolving into melanoma and should be examined as early as possible. "Pigmented areas on the skin of a young child, such as moles that are present at birth, should be brought to a physician's attention and documented so that they can be checked regularly as the child matures," said Bystryn.

Malignant melanoma develops first on the epidermis, the skin's outer layer, and gradually works its way into the dermis, the underlying layer.

In its earliest stages, when it is confined to the epidermis, malignant melanoma does not spread to other parts of the body; it can be cured easily by surgical removal. However, once the cancer invades the dermis, which is rich in blood and lymph vessels, it can be transported in the blood or lymph to other parts of the body, and can become extremely difficult to cure.

IBM creates 'super' new spray paint

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists at International Business Machines Corp. have found a way to "spray paint" superconducting materials onto large and complex surfaces, the company said Wednesday.

The technique raises the prospect of inexpensive and easy-to-apply magnetic shielding as well as superconducting "wires" in computers, IBM said.

Superconducting materials lose all resistance to electricity below a certain threshold temperature, making them potentially useful in a variety of industrial applications.

The materials are also impervious to magnetic fields when sufficiently cooled.

IBM and other companies are working to speed the transition of new, higher-temperature superconducting materials from the laboratory into commercial products.

IBM said its researchers believe they are the first to quickly and easily coat complex shapes such as wires, holes and tubes.

The materials become completely superconducting in the temperature range of liquid nitrogen, about 321 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Marian Stohler, supervisor/social worker at the Rainbow Project, a shelter for abused children, shows Chuck Benz, circulation manager of the Big Spring Herald around the facility recently. The Herald conducted a subscription drive earlier this year and $183.50 of the money was donated to the shelter's efforts.

Superconducting research plan launched

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government on Tuesday launched a program to speed research on new superconducting materials to carry electricity without resistance.

The National Science Foundation said it was awarding $1 million to three university materials research centers to work on understanding the fundamental science underlying synthesis and processing of the superconducting substances, as well as how they work.

Superconductivity is a phenomenon by which electricity goes through a material with great efficiency and no energy loss from resistance.

If the process can be controlled and the right materials developed, superconductivity offers the promise of cheaper electrical power, faster and more efficient electronics, and powerful magnets that can be used for everything from levitating high-speed trains to new generations of atom smashers.

The NSF money will go to foundation-established materials research laboratories in Illinois, at Northwestern University and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and at Stanford University in California, the announcement said.

The research agency also said it has set aside $600,000 for "quick start" grants to researchers with ideas on how to fashion the brittle material into useful forms, such as rods, wires and ribbons.

These grants, for up to $50,000 and one year's duration, are necessary because innovative processing methods are needed to create stronger and more flexible forms of the materials for commercial applications, it continued.

The effort is designed to keep the United States in the forefront of work on this promising technology as foreign competitors, particularly the Japanese, move rapidly to exploit it, the agency said.

Superconductivity occurs when materials are cooled to very low temperatures and molecular motion slows down.

Most traditional materials become superconducting when kept close to absolute zero, or minus 459.7 degrees Fahrenheit, the temperature at which the normal motion of molecules ceases.

Recently, researchers at the University of Houston and the University of Alabama announced that they had achieved superconductivity at minus 283 degrees using a new metal oxide material. This is above the long-sought temperature at which cheaper coolants are practical.

Other scientists worldwide quickly followed through with reports of materials similar, if not identical, to that formulated by the American researchers and announcements of higher-temperature superconducting materials have become frequent.

The recent discoveries for the first time move superconductivity into the range of practicality, researchers say.

Obesity becoming epidemic

BOSTON (AP) — The proportion of American children who are overweight has increased more than 50 percent over two decades, and the nation is facing an epidemic of childhood obesity, say the authors of a new study.

Their research documents a striking increase in weight problems among both grade school children and teen-agers.

Obesity is particularly common among white youngsters, although blacks are quickly catching up. The study estimates that nearly a third of all white boys in their pre-teen years are overweight.

The researchers found that from 1963 to 1980, there was a 54 percent increase in the prevalence of obesity among children ages 6 to 11, and there was a 39 percent rise in obesity among adolescents 12 to 17.

"Childhood obesity is epidemic in the United States," said Dr. William H. Dietz Jr. of New England Medical Center, a co-author of the study. "The implications are that there is going to be a major rise in the prevalence of a adult obesity and its consequences."

The study, directed by Dr. Steven L. Gortmaker of the Harvard School of Public Health, is being published in the May issue of the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

The study did not examine what's causing the increase in obesity, but the researchers believe lack of physical activity may be an important culprit.

Smokeless tobacco dulls buds

BOSTON (AP) — Using smokeless tobacco, already linked with cancer and dental disease, also appears to dull taste buds, a report today concludes.

Even after staying off the stuff for 12 hours, regular users seem to have a diminished sense of taste, according to the study by Dr. David J. Mela of the Monell Chemical Senses Center in Philadelphia.

"These results suggest that long-term use of smokeless tobacco may reduce taste sensitivity and perhaps alter preferences for sweet, salty and bitter solutions," concluded the report published as a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Mela compared the tasting powers of nine non-users and eight people who used smokeless tobacco for at least 10 hours a week for more than 1½ years.

falsify grades

ARAB, Ala. (AP) — Three seniors at Arab High School have been suspended for falsifying report cards using a personal computer they learned to run in class, officials said.

School Superintendent Larry Davis said Thursday the students apparently duplicated the computer program used by the school to make report cards. As many as 15 report cards may have been falsified, he said.

"We don't think a great deal of money changed hands," Davis said. "In my opinion, they went after it because it was a challenge."

Rumors about a report card tampering scheme reached school officials before the last round of grades came out, Davis said.

Ex-football star doing just fine

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — After the meal, the speeches and the awards at the Coahoma Sports Banquet, ex-Big Spring Steer quarterback Charlie Johnson signed autographs and talked with friends, old and new.

After the crowd dwindled to the remaining few whose job it was to clean up, Johnson offered some opinions on the National Football League and his old team, the Denver Broncos.

"They got there," Johnson said, referring to the Broncos loss in the Super Bowl. "That was the main thing. They're still a young team and for them to get there was quite an accomplishment."

The 1956 graduate of Big Spring High also had high praise for the Broncos all-pro quarterback, John Elway.

"I got to know him last year, and he's a very nice guy. He's one of the few guys who can make it through that glory stuff without getting pumped up and forgetting what he's there for," Johnson said.

He's also pleased, and justifiably so, with Broncos' mentor Dan Reeves.

"He's done a marvelous job. Talk about a record — he's won 11 or 12 games in each season he's coached," he said.

Johnson, whose last year as a pro was 1975, said drugs were just becoming part of life in the NFL when he retired.

"When I was finishing up, about a half-dozen guys on a team were using marijuana. The ones that used it often couldn't get the job done.

"Most of the guys that do coke (now) finally get caught," he said. "Some of the others might not get caught, but it sure won't help their play.

"But it's a terrible problem for our country, not just the National Football League."

Johnson said he keeps in touch with the Broncos primarily through old Broncos' teammates who live in Denver, like kicker Jim Turner. When asked his prediction for next year's Super Bowl combatants, he really went out on a limb — the Broncos and the Giants, again, he thinks.

Johnson, like every other football fan, has no explanation to why the Super Bowl always turns out to be a Super Rout and a Super Bore.

"Even the bookies have a problem with the Super Bowl. The teams are not that far apart; there's no way you can get there and be 15 points worse than the other team," he said.

Johnson, who lives in Houston, visits Big Spring several times a year to see his mother and his aunts and uncles who live here. He said he speaks at about two or three banquets a year, not near as many as he used to.

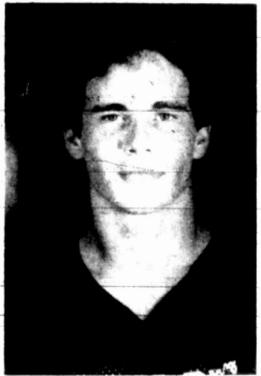

Former Big Spring resident Charlie Johnson chats with ex-Coahoma head football coach Billy Kidd at the Coahoma High School Sports Banquet Tuesday. Johnson was guest speaker at the banquet.

"When you quit playing the invitations stop for everything. When I was playing, I'd do two or three a week," the former Steer said.

Tracksters geared for regional

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Both the Panhandle boys and girls track teams will be among the favorites in the Region I-AA track meet at Blankenship Field this Friday and Saturday.

The Panthers, from District I-AA, bring plenty of artillery into this competition in which the first two finishers in each event will qualify for the state meet in Austin.

The Panhandle girls bring all three relay teams (400, 800 and 1600 meters) and eight individuals to the meet. The Lady Panthers have the third fastest qualifying time in the 400 relay (50.71), and second fastest times in the 800 (1:46.70) and 1600 relays (4:08.00).

Area Crossroads Country sprinter Kody Newman will be trying for a return bid to state. Last year Newman won the 100 meters and finished third in the 200. This year her times of 12.36 in the 100 and 26.25 in the 200 rank among the meet's best.

While Panhandle may be one of the teams to beat, perhaps the team to beat is the Reagan County girls. The Owlettes are bringing all three relay teams and 12 individuals to the meet. Reagan County has the second best qualifying time in the 400 relay (50.67), the best time in the 800 relay (1:46.70), and fourth best time in the 1600 relay (4:15.30).

Olton and Van Horn are the only other teams that qualified all three relays.

Last year Hamlin won the girls division for the second consecutive time.

HASKELL BOYS LOOKING STRONG

The Haskell Indians will be the team to beat in the boys division. The Indians, from District 7-AA, will bring both relay teams (400 and 1600 meters) and 12 individuals to Big Spring.

Haskell owns the fast qualifying time in the 400 relay (43.21) and fifth best time in the 1600 relay (3:28.60).

Panhandle has both relays and seven individuals entered. The 400 TRACKSTERS page 2B

One Texas team left in NBA playoffs

By The Associated Press

The state of Texas and the Pacific Northwest each have something to celebrate and something to bemoan from the NBA playoffs.

Basketball fans in Houston rejoiced Thursday night as the Rockets eliminated the Portland Trail Blazers 113-101. But the Dallas Mavericks, who owned the second-best record in the Western Conference, were eliminated 124-98 by the Seattle SuperSonics.

The Rockets, who lost in the NBA finals to Boston last year, easily won Game 4 of their series with the Trail Blazers, whose 49-33 record was third in the West and seven games better than Houston's mark. Their Twin Towers were too much for Portland to handle.

Akeem Olajuwon scored 27 points, grabbed nine rebounds and blocked five shots as the Rockets clinched a playoff at home for the first time. Ralph Sampson scored 18 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"They were playing so well I wanted to run for cover," Portland forward Kiki Vandeweghe said. "I wanted to find a foxhole."

The Mavericks probably felt the same way after being bombed by Seattle in Game 4. The SuperSonics lost all five regular-season meetings with Dallas this season by an average of 18½ points.

But it was Seattle which dominated the postseason series. On Thursday night, Tom Chambers scored 31 points and Xavier McDaniel added 29.

"If we played these guys for 10 years, we wouldn't be able to beat them," Dallas Coach Dick Motta said.

Houston hosts Seattle in the next round's opening game on Saturday.

In games tonight, Milwaukee is at Philadelphia, with the Bucks leading 2-1; Atlanta, ahead 2-1, visits Indiana; and Utah tries to end its series, which it leads 2-1, at Golden State.

Rockets 113, Trail Blazers 101

Houston staged a 20-4 surge over the final 4:23 of the third quarter to take command. Robert Reid hit for 22 points, including 10 in the fourth quarter, to keep the Rockets in control.

"Now was a good time for us to come together as a team," Reid said. "The other team's coach knows that if Akeem breaks out and you get on him, Ralph will hurt you. It's nice to have that Triple Tower effect with Jim Petersen coming off the bench."

Blazers Coach Mike Schuler said the matchup disadvantage finally caught up with his team.

"The Rockets are so much bigger than we are, we played absolutely the worst team for us to play in the playoffs because of the matchups," Schuler said.

SuperSonics 124, Mavericks 98

Dallas couldn't overcome the absence of 7-foot-2 center James Donaldson, who was out with a sore right leg. Seattle barely missed injured center Alton Lister as its high-scoring trio of Chambers, McDaniel and especially guard Dale Ellis were unstoppable. It was Ellis, who had 21 points Thursday, who led the Mavericks in their other two victories. The former Maverick had 118 points in the series.

Rolando Blackman scored 25 points and Sam Perkins had 24 for Dallas. Mark Aguirre of the Mavericks, who has had strep throat, was held to 13 points and did not score in the second half.

Motta looking for new job?

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Maverick coach Dick Motta has sent indirect feelers to at least three National Basketball Association teams indicating he would be interested in their vacant coaching positions, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Motta said the report, attributed by the newspaper to pro basketball officials, was false.

"I don't have a representative, and I'm not looking for another job," Motta said Thursday before the Mavericks lost to the Seattle SuperSonics, 124-98, in the fourth and decisive game of their first round NBA playoff series.

The newspaper said individuals familiar with the coaching situations of the New York Knicks, Los Angeles Clippers and Phoenix Suns say those teams have been contacted by someone asking if they would be interested in hiring Motta. Motta has a contract that is renewable at his option every season.

The News quoted a prominent basketball official as saying Motta was uneasy about his situation in Dallas and feared that Mavericks majority owner Donald Carter might fire him if the Mavericks did not advance as far as the conference finals.

Carter said before Thursday's game he did not believe Motta was interested in another job and said Motta will return next season if he wants to.

Told of the report, Carter said, "I'd bet a steak dinner that's not true."

"I'm saying unequivocally that he'll be the head coach here next year unless I'm dead and my wife owns the team," Carter said. "Then, he'll still be the head coach. But I'm going to be alive, and I'm going to own the team."

Jerry Colangelo, general manager of the Phoenix Suns, said he has not had any indirect contact with anyone representing Motta. The Suns hired John Wetzel as their head coach Monday.

Dodgers drop Stars, 9-3

In Minor League action the Dodgers defeated the Stars 9-3. Andy Epley was the winning pitcher. He fanned six and was relieved by Josh Hedges, who had four strikeouts. Nathan Zarate was the losing pitcher for the Stars. He struck out nine. Rocky Coats, Shane Sims and Rusty Baker all hit homers for the Dodgers.

Brewers lose third game

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Reggie Jackson has battered Milwaukee pitching throughout his career and there was no letting up against the hottest Brewers' club in history. Jackson's two-run homer Thursday wiped out a 1-0 lead held by the Brewers, who were trying for their 19th victory in April, and the Oakland Athletics won 4-1. Jackson's 420-foot drive in the third inning was the 552nd homer of his career; 61 have been against Milwaukee.

Baseball

"I seem to play well against them. Who knows why?" said the 40-year-old slugger, whose other career marks against Milwaukee include 157 RBIs and a .285 average. "I gave him a pitch he could hit, a slider up, but I didn't think the homer would beat me," said loser Bill Wegman, 2-1. In the only other American League games, Seattle trounced Boston 11-2 and Detroit whipped California 12-4. Milwaukee got its only run Thursday in the second inning uth Rob Deer drawing a walk and scoring on Cecil Cooper's double. Mariners 11, Red Sox 2 Jim Presley hit two home runs and Scott Bankhead held Boston to five hits in a game that featured two bench-clearing incidents and a full-scale brawl. Bankhead struck out seven and walked one. Loser Bruce Hurst was roughed up for seven runs in 3 2-3 innings as the Red Sox lost for the sixth time in their last seven games.

In the fourth inning, Bankhead hit Mike Greenwell on the wrist. Greenwell, who homered in the second inning, charged the mound but no punches were thrown. In the seventh, Boston's Steve Crawford hit Presley in the ankle. Presley started for the mound but was wrestled down by catcher Marc Sullivan. Many individual fights broke out and Crawford and Red Sox Manager John McNamara were ejected.

Tigers 12, Angels 4 Rookie Matt Nokes hit a grand slam in the seventh inning to break open a close game, and Jack Morris recovered from a shaky start. Nokes' fourth homer of the season and first career grand slam gave the Tigers an 8-3 lead.

Morris gave up nine hits but three of them came in the first inning when rookie Devon White followed Brian Downing's single with his seventh homer, giving California a 2-0 lead. Morris also batted for the first time in his major-league career in the ninth inning and hit a foul fly to right field.

Mets 11, Expos 3 Rick Aguilera pitched hitless ball over the final eight innings and Keith Hernandez, Kevin McReynolds, Howard Johnson and Dave Magadan homered. Aguilera fell behind 3-0 in the first inning on Tim Wallach's RBI single and John Stefero's two-run homer, Montreal's third and last hit. He allowed only two baserunners over the final eight innings, both on walks.

Giants 5, Cubs 4 Jeffrey Leonard singled home the tying run in the eighth inning and pinch hitter Harry Spilman singled home the winner in the ninth, both against Chicago relief ace Lee Smith. Chris Speier doubled with one out in the ninth, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Spilman's single.

Reds 9, Braves 8 Buddy Bell scored from second base with the winning run on Atlanta's shortstop Rafael Ramirez's throwing error after Cincinnati came back from a six-run deficit. The Braves appeared headed for a sweep of the three-game series after pitcher David Palmer's three-run homer capped a five-run fourth and Ozzie Virgil added a solo homer in the sixth to give Atlanta an 8-2 lead.

Pirates 5, Dodgers 4 Pittsburgh scored the tying and winning runs when Los Angeles failed to turn-inning-ending double plays and R.J. Reynolds hit a two-run double.

With the score tied 4-4 in the seventh inning, Reynolds drew a one-out walk. Johnny Ray's high hopper was fielded by first baseman Franklin Stubbs, but as pitcher Orel Hershiser took the throw and turned to make the tag, Ray knocked the ball out of his glove for a two-base error. The runners continued to second and third and Hershiser was charged with a two-base error.

After Sid Bream was walked intentionally, Jim Morrison hit an apparent double play grounder to short, but Bream's slide took out second baseman Steve Sax, allowing Reynolds to score the winning run.

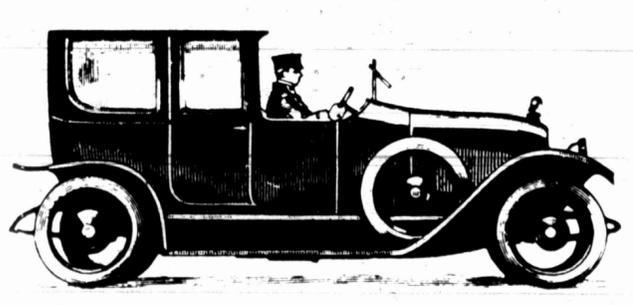

The Pirates tied the score in similar fashion in the sixth inning when shortstop Mariano Duncan mishandled pinch hitter Bobby Bonilla's grounder and settled for a forceout at second instead of a double play.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Use care that you don't do something thoughtlessly that will hurt the feelings of sensitive people. Do not involve yourself in the schemes of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't do anything that will irk those who dwell with you. You are in a festive mood tonight, so be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to be most careful with words, both written and spoken, in order to put your best ideas across.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be most careful in whatever money matters you handle. The evening is fine for seeking advice.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may be overly sensitive during the daytime, so be more objective.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may feel abused by one who has no right to do so, so put your foot down and strive for harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) There may be difficulty today in gaining your personal aims, but all goes smoothly for you tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't be annoyed with a bigwig who is under pressure. Make sure you handle any work conscientiously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some new set-up may seem too complicated, but later you know exactly how to handle it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your many responsibilities seem endless, but if you organize them you can handle everything.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If an ally becomes overly emotional, keep poised and reach a mutual understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study the duties ahead of you and don't feel they are too much. The evening is pleasant.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can make plans for pleasures today. Avoid your busy mate in the daytime, but be happy and romantic tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will get out of the tendency to be overly sensitive, provided you steer him, or her, in the right direction. Upon reaching adulthood your progeny will have great organizational skills and may lean toward politics, whether male or female.

Briefs By Associated Press

Officials probe unauthorized calls

ODESSA — A privately operated telephone company and federal authorities are investigating unauthorized long-distance phone calls, some of which were allegedly made by college students.

The U.S. Secret Service office in Midland has joined ClayDesta Communications in the inquiry to determine whether students of a West Texas college are making unauthorized calls, said company president Randy Kidwell.

Kidwell said Wednesday he could not release details on the calls other than to say it is "in excess of 100 calls. They are not specifically to any one place in the Odessa-Midland area."

Allegations of unauthorized calls include phones at the Odessa College campus and other locations, said Ron Hughes, director of sales and marketing for the Midland-based communications company.

"We're conducting several investigations in the Midland-Odessa area on several things. It's not just Odessa College," he said.

Hereford bank president ousted

HEREFORD — A series of alleged improper insider lending, death threats and family feuding has culminated in the dismissal of the longtime president and chief executive officer of First National Bank in this Texas Panhandle city.

But board members of the First National Bank of Hereford said Thursday the financial strength of the $100 million institution has not been jeopardized and that the bank remains highly capitalized.

James H. Sears, bank president and chief executive officer since 1970 and former Hereford mayor, and his brother, Wheeler M. Sears, a former board member, were named in a suit filed Tuesday in state District Court at Hereford by the bank's board of directors, accusing Wheeler Sears of defaulting on three loans totaling more than $1.2 million made to him by his brother, James Sears.

The latest lawsuit follows a restraining order granted on April 14 by the court against James Sears, who, was accused of, among other things, "threatened to kill all the (bank's) board of directors" after he was dismissed as president and CEO on March 27, according to court documents.

Bexar County to have litter ranger

SAN ANTONIO — It doesn't pay to mess with Texas, but if you do in Bexar County the chances of getting caught will soon increase.

Bexar County will soon have the only litter ranger in Texas.

His sole job will be to ticket people who throw bottles, cans and candy wrappers on state roadways.

The Texas Highway Commission decided Thursday to begin the pilot program in 30 to 60 days.

Money from the state's $1 million "Don't Mess With Texas" anti-litter campaign, $37,846.11, was given to the Keep Texas Beautiful council to fund the 18-month project.

The money will be used for a salary, car and uniforms, Carolyn Goodall, state Highway and Public Transportation Department spokeswoman, said.

"We want to see if the program will pay for itself," Goodall said.

The state spent $861,487 in Bexar County last year to pick up litter.

The new officer will be a deputy constable with power to arrest litterers. Current fines for littering state highways range from $15 to $400.

Auction planned for state treasury

AUSTIN — Treasurer Ann Richards is having a big attic sale this month to raise money for the treasury.

But she hopes the second state auction of items abandoned in bank safety deposit boxes and vaults may find the owner of a family treasure that Aunt Bessie put in a safety deposit box and forgot.

"That would be wonderful," Ms. Richards said Thursday at a preview of some of the 30,000 unclaimed objects that will be on sale May 9-10 at the Austin City

Coliseum.

At the first auction in 1985, which produced $188,000 for the state treasury, a couple identified items that once belonged to a relative.

"We're particularly interested in these two valuable rings," Ms. Richards said, displaying a five-carat pear-shaped diamond and a two-carat diamond surrounded by other stones.

"They were owned by a San Antonio woman who put them in a San Antonio bank deposit box."

Pennzoil: Texaco made bad move

HOUSTON (AP) — Texaco Inc.'s war of words over the multibillion-dollar judgment awarded to Pennzoil Co. is failing in the arena that matters the most, Pennzoil Chairman J. Hugh Liedtke says.

"I think it is fair to remember that Pennzoil has won every point where it counts — in the courts," Liedtke told Pennzoil shareholders at the company's annual meeting Thursday.

A jury in 1985 found that Texaco wrongfully interfered with a planned merger between Pennzoil and Getty Oil Co. and ordered Texaco to pay Pennzoil $10.53 billion.

A Texas appeals court unanimously upheld most of the judgment in February, but reduced punitive damages to make the total $8.5 billion — now about $11 billion with interest. The appeals court later denied Texaco's motion for rehearing.

In addition, the U.S. Supreme Court voted 9-0 to throw out a federal judge's ruling that had reduced the required $11 billion bond to $1 billion. The decision opened the way for Texaco to challenge the bond in Texas courts.

"No wonder Texaco is waging a war of words," Liedtke said. "It has lost on the facts every single time."

Liedtke said Texaco officials have tried to put the blame on Pennzoil for Texaco's bankruptcy filing and called Pennzoil greedy, among other things. But Liedtke said Texaco's bankruptcy filing was an irresponsible move made to avoid paying the landmark judgment.

"They like it there (in bankruptcy) at the moment. They perceive they have some advantage, but the euphoria will evaporate in about 30 days," he predicted.

White Plains, N.Y.-based Texaco issued a statement Thursday in response to Liedtke's remarks, reiterating earlier statements that Houston-based Pennzoil had rejected security proposals and forced Texaco into Chapter 11.

Liedtke said Texaco's own announcement April 12 that it was filing for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code indicated it was a partial filing, with only the holding company and two smaller holding companies involved.

Alfred DeCrane, Chairman of Texaco, speaks to the Texas Senate Jurisprudence Committee earlier this week in Austin. Pennzoil chairman J. Hugh Liedtke said Pennzoil made a bad move filing for bankruptcy.

Senate committee OKs late-term abortion bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislation attempting to regulate late-term abortions has cleared a Senate committee, but the original bill's sponsor says the amended version may violate the U.S. Constitution.

The Senate Committee on Health and Human Services Thursday approved a bill that says a physician's medical license can be revoked if he performs an abortion during the third trimester of pregnancy.

Sen. Ted Lyon's original bill made it a felony for doctors to perform abortions on a fetus capable of living outside the mother's womb, except when necessary to preserve the mental or physical health of the mother.

An amendment from Sen. Hugh Farmer Thursday dropped the criminal penalties and inserted a provision that would allow the Texas Board of Medical Examiners to revoke the medical license of a physician if the abortion was performed during the third trimester.

But Lyon, D-Rockwall, argues that the provision defines when a fetus is viable, and "the Supreme Court says you can't define viability."

Despite the constitutional question, Lyon called the committee approval of the bill a victory for anti-abortion groups.

"Carrying this bill was like wrestling with an 800-pound gorilla. Every time I grabbed hold of it, it has thrown me up against the wall," Lyon said.

Senate approves bill to warn home owners

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has voted to warn unsuspecting Texans that they could lose their homes if they default on a home-improvement loan.

Senators approved a bill Thursday that would require liens on homesteaded property to contain a conspicuous warning that failure to meet the terms of the contract could result in loss of legal ownership rights of the home.

Such a warning is essential due to the fact that many homeowners are uneducated or uninformed of the risk of loss involved," according to a bill analysis.

The measure, approved on voice vote, was returned to the House, which had approved the bill.

Senators also approved and sent to the governor House bills that would require people who remove asbestos from public buildings be licensed by the state health department and prohibit firefighters and police officers from engaging in political activities while on duty.

The politicking proposal would apply to cities with a population of over 10,000 that are not covered by state fire and police civil service laws.

The Senate refused on a 12-16 vote to debate a bill by Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, to prohibit mandatory testing for AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, except under specified conditions.

Washington's bill also would have provided that an AIDS test be confidential and results not be disclosed except as spelled out in the bill. Washington said the bill was an attempt "to avoid hysteria and get at the true problem."

Tort reform debate scheduled Monday

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he will recognize Sen. John Montford Monday for a vote that could start a two-day Senate debate on tort reform.

"We've got the vote to get it up," Montford said Thursday. "We had hoped to be able to go on Friday, but there are technical difficulties in getting the bills printed."

"Our agreement still stands," he said of a compromise worked out Thursday with Sen. Kent Caperton.

Montford said he planned to start Monday with his omnibus measure to make changes in civil justice procedures in handling personal injury cases, then follow with individual bills on related issues Tuesday.

Montford, D-Lubbock, and Caperton, D-Bryan, have finally agreed on joint and several liability and comparative negligence, two issues they have been negotiating for weeks.

Montford has led the Senate movement for revising civil justice procedures in personal injury cases to make it more difficult for plaintiffs to collect large judgments from defendants.

Caperton has negotiated in defense of current laws.

Supporters of tort reform have said it is needed because of rapidly rising liability insurance costs — caused, they say, by the big judgments in personal injury suits. Opponents blame insurance companies for seeking higher profits.

The major areas of the agreement between Montford and Caperton included:

- Compromise legislation that would say a co-defendant must be found at least 50 percent responsible for an injury before he can be forced to pay 100 percent of the damages, should other defendants not have the funds. Under current law, a co-defendant can be forced to pay 100 percent of the damages no matter how small his share of responsibility.

• Legislation to prevent a person bringing a suit to recover damages if he is found to be more than 50 percent responsible for an accident.

The compromise says, however, that in a case involving a defective product, a plaintiff can't recover damages if he is more than 60 percent responsible for his own injury.

Current law allows a plaintiff to recover damages even if fully responsible for his own injury.

Country minister

He's satisfied serving the Lord

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Larry Tarver's satisfaction stems from serving the Lord and "leading somebody one-on-one to Jesus Christ."

He does this in the out-of-the-way location of Prairie View Baptist Church, 6 1/2 miles north of I-20 and 1 mile west of the Fairview Cotton Gin.

Country life agrees with the Travers, so the situation is ideal — with their home on the church grounds while ministering at Prairie View, he said.

"Since I have a farming and ranching background, I can relate to the people on their level."

Each church has its own personality because of the leadership and those who attend, Tarver said, describing his country church as a small family in a relaxed, comfortable atmosphere.

"The people are loving and friendly here." And, with a laugh he said, "It seems everyone is related to everyone."

Tarver has established three criteria for his church to strive to reach: "I want a person to be fed, challenged and have good fellowship at a church. Many people might find that at our church. Others may not. We have a good worship service. I want people to be here. I think they'd get something here."

Prairie View Baptist conducts Sunday school at 10 a.m., church services at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. and a Wednesday night prayer service at 7.

The decision to move his wife and three children to Big Spring from Fort Worth was relatively easy, the 30-year-old said.

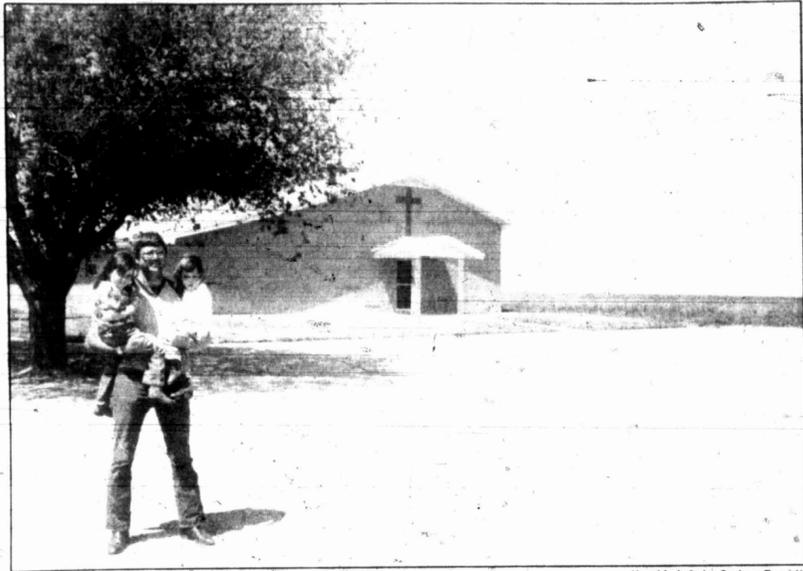

"We felt like God could really use us here," adding that he has a strong desire to perform outreach work.

"I like going to the homes and visiting with people and sharing the gospel. Most of the lost people won't come to church. There are a lot of people who aren't interested in growing in church or growing in Christ. So, you have to go to them."

Tarver says his main goals are to help Christians grow in their relationship with God and to reach people who haven't committed their lives to Christ.

He was a senior in high school before he committed his life to the Lord, he said.

"I had a lot of problems in Larry Tarver and daughters, Rebekah, and Rachel, 1, enjoy the peace and quiet the country offers. Tarver is the minister at Prairie View Baptist Church, 6 1/2 miles north of I-20 and 1 mile west of the Fairview Cotton Gin.

high school — the roof of them was sin. Jesus came into my life and took away those sins and the penalties of those sins."

After graduating from high school in 1975 at the age of 18, Tarver enlisted in the United States Navy.

He was on active duty for 2 1/2 years, before moving to Lubbock and enrolling at Texas Tech. While he attend Tech, he served in the Navy reserves for another 2 1/2 years.

His life began to change in a church — where he met his future wife, Dalena.

"That's where I began to commit myself to the Lord. In Lubbock I felt the need and desire to minister. He filled my heart with so many things I wanted to share."

But his decision to preach wasn't made until later.

He married Dalena in December 1981 and graduated from Tech one year later.

He raised livestock and worked as a custodian at Oakwood Baptist Church for two years.

He said he struggled with the idea to preach, until it got to the point that he wasn't happy with his lifestyle. In 1987, he and Dalena made the decision to preach full time.

"I spent a week looking to buy some land for my livestock business and I got so wrapped up in that that I neglected the things that meant the most to me — spending time with my family and the church. Then I realized that I wanted to spend my time serving the Lord.

"We knew that before we could be happy — really at peace — we had to be serving the Lord. We knew it would be tough, knew there would be things we'd have to give up. But the decision wasn't tough.

"I was involved in the church and wanted to work with people and their spiritual lives."

His life has changed in many ways since then.

"I feel so many internal rewards for serving the Lord. I've got so much peace — before, I had turmoil. I have a purpose; then, I didn't have purpose. I have love; before, it was distorted. And I have security for eternity. I know God will take care of me."

Tarver believes that "everyone in the church is called to minister — maybe not fulltime, though."

To prepare for his newfound position, he attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth — but hasn't completed his work there.

"I have 29 more hours left," he said, with a sigh. "But the best part is the church doesn't require a degree from seminary school to be a preacher."

He was associate pastor at Rivercrest Baptist Church in Fort Worth for six months and served as pastor at Purves Baptist Church in Dublin for a year-and-a-half.

He and his wife have three children: Rebekah, 3; Rachel, 1; and Luke, 3-months.

"It's hectic. Dalena sure stays busy with them. We trade off at night changing diapers, heating the bottles and rocking the babies. We don't get much sleep around here," he mused.

Being a minister will have an impact on his children's lives, he believes.

"I know they're going to be in church and be exposed to the Lord Jesus Christ in a lot of ways."

Slides presented to congregation

A slide presentation of Sunday School was presented to the congregation of the First Church of God, 2009 Main Street.

"Featuring Sunday School!" a collection of color slides taken by Phil Riegel, featured an in-depth look at the total Sunday School program.

Each class was high-lighted with a brief story about its ministry. First Church of God will reach the climax of its Sunday School Cruise next Sunday when the entire church will make a "Sunday School Stew" to be shared as the noon meal after the worship service.

The Sunday School class that increased the most during the six-week Cruise program will take a real cruise on Lake Colorado City and enjoy a cook-out on May 9.

May is also Family Month at the church. Pastor Delmer Loy will be preaching a series entitled, "Why Christians are getting divorces they don't believe in," each Sunday evening at 6:30. Everyone is invited.

Church to observe Music Week

COLORADO CITY — In recognition of National Music Week the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Chestnuts streets, will present a musical program May 3 at 4 p.m.

"I'm glad May 3-9 has been set aside as National Music Week, for nothing enriches our lives more than music," says Rev. Roy Byrd, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Soloists will include Bob Newman, Ronney Conner, Mary Lynn Hackleman, Karen Tammen, Shelly Barber and Gene Rowe. Organist for the program is Addi V. Payne.

Women invited to birthday party

All Presbyterian Women are invited to the 1987 women of the church birthday party on May 4 at 7 p.m. at the fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

This year the emphasis is on communities of hoping and caring. The birthday offering objectives for this year are the KHAYELITSHA Community Centers in Southern Africa and to build shelters for families of burn victims at the Mississippi Fire Fighters Memorial Burn Center in Greenville, Miss.

Austin native heading PTL Club

DALLAS (AP) — The businessman chosen by the Rev. Jerry Falwell to clean up the scandal-ridden television evangelistic PTL Club is an Austin native who has fond memories of his hometown and former church.

"Our job now is to fix a situation here that needs to be cleaned up," said Harry Hargrave, 38, after being chosen to be chief of operations at PTL in the wake of the forced resignation of Jim Bakker.

Hargrave, who has lived in the Dallas area for 20 years, is a 1966 graduate of Austin's McCallum High School.

"I have a very warm spot in my heart for Austin," said Hargrave, who played linebacker for the McCallum Knights football team.

"I can still remember water skiing on Lake Austin and playing Little League baseball and taking swimming lessons at the University of Texas," he recalled. Hargrave said his memories also focused on Austin's Covenant Presbyterian Church.

A real estate and financial consultant, Hargrave said he left Austin to attend Southern Methodist University on a football scholarship. He played offensive guard for the Mustangs and graduated in 1970 with a bachelor's degree in business. He earned a master's degree as well.

In a telephone interview with the Austin American-Statesman, Hargrave said he believes he was picked by Falwell to lead the PTL Club because of his experience as a consultant for theme parks.

One of the organization's operations is the Heritage Village USA resort near Fort Mill, S.C.

Hargrave is a consultant for Silver Dollar City in Missouri and the 100-acre Dollywood at Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

The Heritage Village operation makes up a large part of the PTL evangelistic enterprise. It is a religious theme park and resort, which also serves as headquarters for PTL.

"I have met with Reverend Falwell several times, and we decided that we need to do things correctly and honestly and in a Godly way" to bolster public faith in PTL after the Bakker controversy, Hargrave said.

Bakker headed PTL until several weeks ago, when reports surfaced about his sexual liaison with a church secretary. Falwell was asked by PTL directors to become chairman of the organization to restore its credibility.

"We commenced an audit of our organization (Tuesday) afternoon," Hargrave said. "Within the week, it will be completed and we will be able to answer the question of where we go from here."

"We will have a different format on the TV show ('The PTL Club') within a week, and we will approach fund-raising in a different way," he said, adding that he will not appear on the broadcasts.

Hargrave said he still is working out details of how solicitation of money to support PTL's ministry will be handled.

Since the Bakker scandal, public criticism has been aimed at the money-raising approach of some TV evangelists.

"My basic attitude is that it is important for Christians to be accountable," Hargrave said.

"My purpose is to create a positive change that will result in glorifying God, obeying the laws of this nation, and serving the needs to those who have contributed to us in the past."

"Part of my motivation to do well here is that the largest part of our 1,200 employees at PTL are good, quality people," he said. Hargrave said that, during a recent visit to the PTL headquarters, he was thinking about returning home to Dallas when a stranger reminded him of his duty.

"I was standing in the dinner line at Morrison's Cafeteria thinking I didn't want to be here when a lady turned to me and said, 'Do you love the Lord? If Christians don't get involved and help the ministry in a spirit of joy and repentance, then outsiders will,'" Hargrave told PTL employees.

TB jump may result from AIDS

ATLANTA (AP) — Cases of tuberculosis in the United States are up significantly for the first time in the 34 years records have been kept, and the spread of AIDS may be partly to blame, federal officials reported Thursday.

New TB cases declined by an average of 1,706 a year from 1982 to 1984, but by only 54 in 1985. In 1986, the number of new cases recorded rose by 374 to 22,575, an increase of 1.7 percent, the Centers for Disease Control reported.

"This indicates to us that we have a very serious problem; we need to pay attention to this," said Dr. Dixie Snider, director of the CDC's tuberculosis division. He warned that an increase of TB among AIDS patients may mean an increase in the disease among the general population.

The report said the matching of lists of AIDS and TB patients in roughly half the states found that 4.2 percent of the AIDS patients in those states also had TB.

AIDS

Videos series cautions youths on disease

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

In the opening scene of one AIDS video being considered for educational use in the Big Spring school system, a high school girl tells how she "had it all" — she was homecoming queen and an athlete, and she was very happy.

Then, she says, she got AIDS — from the only boy with whom she ever had sex.

"I'm not a bad girl; I didn't sleep around; but I got AIDS," she says.

The girl is an actor, and the story she tells is a fictional account, as are all of the dramatic portrayals in "AIDS: Suddenly Sex has Become Dangerous."

The series on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome was conceived and designed by Cuero Educational Media, Inc. CEMI is owned by a group that includes seven doctors, a video writer, video producers, a lawyer, and several business people.

"We perceived a need for a series that would speak to young people in the same manner in which we would teach our own children," explains the accompanying brochure.

The series was designed for students between the ages of 12 and 16, because "this age range largely encompasses a pre-sexually active audience." The brochure explains that polls conducted by Louis Harris and Associates indicate that slightly over 16 is the average age for initial sexual activity.

Two of the videos in the three-part series might be shown to Big Spring students. The first part includes dramatic portrayals and tough talk from teenagers, and the second part, which the students won't see, is primarily the same as the first part, but with instructions to teachers. In the third part three Texas doctors describe the medical concerns of AIDS.

The dramatic portrayals in the first part could be considered "worst case scenarios." In all the portrayals, the AIDS victims are portrayed as those you would least expect to have AIDS. There are also two scenarios involving role models that dramatize how to avoid situations that could lead to AIDS.

A brochure that came with the videos says: "The dramatic scenarios as portrayed in the series are not commonplace now. They will, however, become more familiar in the 1990s as AIDS invades our lives."

After the opening scene, one of the two student narrators says, "This could be the most important thing you ever learned. Sex has suddenly become very dangerous. Learn how to stay alive — listen up."

In the second portrayal, a high school student is at his doctor's office and learns that he has contracted AIDS.

He asks several questions, each designed to show young people's ignorance of AIDS.

"How can I have AIDS? I'm not homosexual," he says. He then asks his doctor if he will recover in time for a track meet the next month.

When the doctor tells him he has a terminal disease, the youth responds, "Are you telling me I'm going to die from AIDS?"

In the next scene, a young girl is trying on her wedding dress, when her mother gets a call from the doctor. Her daughter has AIDS.

The girl belittles the news. Her reasoning: because her fiance also has AIDS, it won't matter. Her mother informs her that she can't get married and can't have a child, because the disease is terminal.

Between scenes, the narrators offer warnings against "deep kissing" and "heavy petting," which they say can cause AIDS.

In the next scene, two football players in the winners' lockerroom discuss the possibility of dating the opposing team's cheerleaders.

"Those women have some serious reputations for knowing how to do it," says one player — that is perhaps the raciest comment in the videos.

The other player warns him about AIDS, and the two go to a movie with two girls, rather than enter a situation in which sex is likely.

"You might not have as good a time, but you won't be checking into any AIDS hospitals," says the one player.

In the next scene, a boy takes a girl "parking," and tries to have sex with her.

"No Brad, forget it. From now on, no more deep French kissing and no more sex," she tells him, and explains the dangers of AIDS.

"Get out of the car. I'm not going to waste my time on some prude," he tells her, and she gets out.

After that final dramatization, the narrators return and advise that there is only one kind of absolutely safe sex — remain a virgin until marriage, marry a virgin, and remain faithful in marriage.

"Being a young person today is hard. What we just told you is going to make it even harder," the narrator says.

In the first film, and in the medical film, condoms are hardly mentioned.

Big Spring superintendent Lynn Hise said the series didn't stress condom use for a reason — because the film contends that "french kissing" and "heavy petting" can transmit AIDS. Therefore, recommending condom use goes against the goal of this film, which is to stop pre-marital sex altogether.

"What they were trying to say is that the only absolute way to protect yourself is to say 'no,' and as educators that's the message we need to get over to our young people," Hise said.

Dr. Raymond Reese, the third and last doctor, did say that using condoms with a spermicide is "better than nothing, but intimate contact can transmit the virus."

Wheeler also advises that kisses should be "limited to the lips."

The medical video provides statistics, facts and warnings about AIDS. Dr. Bruce Wheeler warns that the incubation period of the AIDS virus — 12 to 60 months — makes it particularly dangerous because people can carry the virus without being aware.

Opinions differ on AIDS video warnings

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Although local officials disagree, some of the warnings in an AIDS information video series being considered for use in the Big Spring school system may be overly "conservative."

That is the observation of Tommy Langham, the disease intervention specialist for sexually transmissible diseases for West Texas and the Permian Basin.

However, the Big Spring superintendent, the health program director at the high school and several of her students don't agree with Langham's assessment.

The series, called "AIDS: Suddenly Sex has Become Very Dangerous," has already been shown to all the freshman and half of the sophomore P.E. students at the high school, and may become part of the Big Spring health curriculum, Superintendent Lynn Hise said recently.

A primary message of the videos is that individuals should refrain from "intimate kissing" and "heavy petting" because of their potential for causing AIDS. The first film also warns against sharing toothbrushes and razors.

"Kisses should be limited to the lips," said Dr. Bruce Wheeler in the third video.

Langham, in a phone interview, said there is no concern that AIDS can be transmitted by kissing, or by sharing toothbrushes and razors.

"I would eliminate the kissing and petting, but sexual intercourse is definitely a mode of transmission. But that's really going overboard. Someone who has exclusively kissed has never come down with AIDS."

"I think that's being real conservative, and it's geared more to the adults than to reality. I think that sometimes we go overboard to scare the kids and they don't believe us and it diverts attention from proven transmission factors," Langham said.

He added, "Scientists will not give you 100 percent odds that the sun will come out, but there is no evidence of transmission of the virus through saliva."

Hise said the district has an option to either buy the three-video package or return it at the end of next week. He indicated the series will likely be purchased.

In the brochure that accompanies the videos, producers of the series concede that saliva is not a proven AIDS transmitter.

"Saliva can contain the AIDS virus, but most doctors agree that given our current level of understanding, there seems to be little risk of direct transmission by saliva."

"So why be concerned? For one thing, we simply don't know for sure... (and) From a behavioral viewpoint, it would also seem logical to discourage such activities. Heavy petting is usually considered as foreplay which often leads to intercourse," the brochure reads.

Big Spring Superintendent Lynn Hise said he discussed the "transmission through heavy kissing" warning with others who saw the film.

"It's an area that at this time is still being debated by the medical community, but if there are open sores on the mouth, then it's a valid point, and we did discuss that."

"We need to get people's attention. They just don't have a real understanding of the dangers," said Hise.

All of the five Big Spring High School students interviewed about the videos said they were glad they saw the film.

"I think that it had some good points in it about waiting until you get married to have sex," said freshman Marc Schwarz, 14. "The disease is so recent, it's hard to tell all the ways you can get it."

"It made me think twice before going into any situation like that, and I think it was very informative and should be shown," said freshman Tina Marquez, 14.

"I talked about it with some seniors, and I think that juniors and seniors should watch this before the prom," Marquez said.

"It's real scary," said freshman Brends Arellano, 15. "So many could have it right now and not even know it. It's frightening."

Santiago Cervantes, 17 and a senior, agreed with Schwarz that people should refrain from sex before marriage because of the AIDS threat.

"I think younger kids should see it, because they don't think before doing something like that," he said.

The students did not seem to resent the warnings in the film against "deep french kissing," despite the lack of proof that the AIDS virus can be transmitted through saliva.

"Everybody needs a little scare right now," Schwarz said. "It's better to go too far than not enough."

"Whichever way you go on this movie you're still treading on thin ice. It's better to try to impress some of the possibilities than leave some out," Schwarz said, to the agreement of his classmates.

Jo Ann Ritchey, chairman of the health and physical education department, recommended the school purchase the video package. "I think it's very good. I think it really made an impression on the kids. It made them aware that could be a lot closer to home than they originally thought," Ritchey said.

Bennett calls for AIDS testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett, calling AIDS "a whole new ballgame," said today he had proposed mandatory blood testing for immigrants, engaged couples, hospital patients and prisoners as one option in the fight against the spread of the disease.

"What I'm saying is that this AIDS situation is a whole new ballgame," Bennett said. "It gives us lots of tough decisions, lots of hard choices, and there are circumstances I believe where public health dictates that we test."

"We simply need to have more information about this disease, and some people need to know about its occurrence who are not now being informed," he added.

Bennett, in an interview today on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," also said he decided to speak out on AIDS because "a lot of people have said that AIDS is simply a matter of educating people." But, he said, education is only part of the answer. "Part of it is medical and we may have to do more testing."
