How's that? Supermarkets

Q. Is the Furr's supermarket chain owned by Germans, and do the profits go to Germany?

A. This or similar questions have been asked by several readers in recent weeks. But executives in the Furr's headquarters at Lubbock have declined to respond after being contacted repeatedly by the Big Spring Herald during a twoweek period.

Groundbreaking slated May 16

The beginning of Stacy Dam construction will be marked with groundbreaking ceremonies May 16 at the construction site 25 miles southeast of Ballinger, 91/2 years after the Colorado River Municipal Water District filed its permit application.

A barbecue catered by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang will begin at noon, followed by the District's recognition program at 4:30 p.m. Senator Phil Gramm and Congressman Charles Stenholm, both longtime reservoir supporters, will speak, according to the CRMWD.

Texas Senators and Representatives, Governor Bill Clements and former governors, state senators and representatives from this area and other state officials have been invited.

Tickets must be collected by noon Monday, May 11. They are available at no charge at Chambers of Commerce in Big Spring, Snyder, Odessa, San Angelo, Abilene, Midland, Ballinger, Coleman and Eden, and at the county judge's office in the Concho County Courthouse at Paint Rock. The West Central Texas Municipal Water District of Abilene also will have tickets. Only participants with tickets will be served lunch, but those who wish to attend the program only are welcome. The ceremony site is accessible via a road off FM 2134 just north of the Colorado River crossing at Leaday, or from the east by a road off FM 503. From Leaday, look for signs directing visitors to the site. Festivities will be at the north end of the dam location, and first aid and sanitation facilities will be available.

Governor Bill Clements sits next to House Speaker Gib Lewis, left, after their meeting with the state comptroller Wednesday. The Governor said he is considering a plan to raise more money than he earlier declared was his "bottom line."

Clements withdraws no-new-taxes pledge

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements and top legislative leaders were in a bargaining mood after Clements said he is willing to back down from his nonew-taxes pledge to obtain a balanced 1988-89 state Emerging from a two-hour meeting with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Gib Lewis and Comntroller Bob Bullock on Wednesday, Clements said he is being flexible in agreeing to a tax bill that could exceed the $2.9 billion limit he set earlier this year.

Under the proposals being considered by the leaders, Clements said, the sales tax rate would be lowered. At the same time, the base would be broadened to include items and services not now taxed

If that raises more money than the $2.9 billion he previously said was the maximum he would approve. that's all right, Clements said.

"It's entirely possible. You betcha. That would hopefully be an objective, that we might increase our revenues and at the same time reduce the rates, Clements told a news conference

Asked about his oft-repeated threats to veto any tax plan that wasn't "revenue neutral," Clements replied: "Well, we're not going to dwell on that." Clements announcement came the day after he concluded a 17-city tour launched to rally public support for his postiion against higher taxes.

Aides said the change was a move by Clements to end the impasse that has kept the governor and the Legislature at odds for months. It comes less than four weeks before lawmakers end their regular

"You show leadership by compromise and trying to solve problems, not by drawing lines in the dirt," said Reggie Bashur, the governor's press secretary.

'He's trying to be flexible. He's trying to accommodate in the pursuit of solving the problem and doing it without a special session," Bashur said.

The impasse developed after Clements proposed a $36.9 billion budget that would require the $2.9 billion in extra taxes. Then the Senate approved a $39.9 billion budget that needs nearly $6 billion more, and the House approved a $39.4 billion spending plan.

"What I have done here is once again demonstrate my flexibility. I've been telling ya'll all this time how flexible I am, but you wouldn't believe me. And now you have positive proof of it," Clements told reporters Wednesday

The governor said the tax reform plan being negotiated would emphasize fairness and equity by adding to the tax rolls about 150,000 Texans who now escape paying taxes, while lowering or eliminating taxes for others who the governor says pay too much.

The sales tax rate — currently 5— cents — would be lowered. Bashur said Clements favors a rate around

'What we're trying to do here is come up with a broader base and lower the rate. If we can't come out of here with a lower rate, then our sessions are not going to be successful," Clements said.

All three leaders said no final deal has been struck. "We are considering the various alternatives," he said, adding that "it's far too early to get into those details" on exactly how far above $2.9 billion the new revenue total will go

Big Spring honor graduates named

Big Spring honor graduates for the 1986-87 school year have been named and will be honored at graduation ceremonies at 8 p.m., May 29 at Dorothy Garrett

Paul Blalack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blalack, 1527 E. 17th St. is class valedictorian, while Rebecca Thompson has been named salutatorian. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Thompson, 2711 Carol Drive.

Paul has been a member of the National Honor Society for two years and received the Outstanding Physics Student award at the Howard College Awards Convocation recently. He maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average, Murray Murphy, high school principal said today.

A clarinetist in the school band, Paul has been in the All-Region band the last four years. His hobbies include computer programming and playing clarinet at church services.

After graduation, he plans to attend Angelo State University in San Angelo as a computer science major. Murphy reported

Rebecca is vice-president of the National Honor Society, and is a

Cotton farmers need rain

"Overall, the rainfall has been good, but we could sure use a good two-inch rain,' County Agriculteral Extension Agent Don Richardson Howard County will have approximately 85,000 acres of cotton planted this year. 'About the same as last year," according to Helen Bates of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service.

Sub-soil moisture is good this year, although the surface is drier than area farmers would like. Richardson said that sub-soil moisture would never take the place of rainfall, but in the absence of precipitation, deep-level water is "...like money in the Soil temperature is still cooler than ideal conditions would dictate. Richardson said that the temperature should be between 55 and 60 degrees, and presently is .. about five degrees below

Other Howard County crops that will be planted this spring are grain sorghum and hay. Although the outlook for these crops are good, Richardson pointed out that they are more sensitive to rainfall needs, so it is too early to predict how the crops will do. Asked when he would advise farmers to plant this year, Richardson said "Probably by May 10 at the latest, but if they feel they've had enough rain, they ought to go ahead and plant now. One farmer who isn't waiting for the rain is Lloyd Underwood of the Luther

"We haven't had any rain to speak of, but we'll plant Monday, if it isn't too wet," said Underwood's wife, Pat. She added that a half-inch rain would be "great." Richard Posey, who produces cotton in the Lomax area, is waiting for some rain before he plants.

"I'll hold off as long as I can stand it," Posey said, adding 'If it doesn't rain soon, I'll just dry-plant, and hope a shower comes along."

"I'll plant in two or three weeks, tops.

Howard County's assistant district attorney was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of possession of a controlled substance, a felony offense, and driving while intoxicated.

William Dale Dupree, assistant district attorney at the Howard County Courthouse since March 2. was arrested by the Texas Highway Patrol at 7:12 p.m. on U.S. Highway 87, one half-mile south of FM 700, according to sheriff's department records. Dupree "will be relieved of any official decision-making capacities until the investigation is complete," District Attorney Rick Hamby said today.

Dupree will continue to report to work, however, Hamby said. The investigation has been turn-

Gov. Clements approves 65 mph limit

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements signed the proclamation that will raise the speed limit on rural interstate highways to 65 mph, beginning Saturday.

interstate highway system in Texas, the stretches outside urban areas. It does not apply to federal or state highways, where the maximum limit remains 55 mph, officials said.

Clements also autographed a 65 mph highway sign like those being posted across the state this week. He said he believes the action will be a popular one with motorists.

'Texans have wanted the speed limit changed to 65 mph virtually since the day the federal government lowered the limit from 70 mph to 55 mph in the early 1970s," he said.

Clements also said the lower speed limit, enacted during the Arab oil embargo, had caused difficulties for Texans. "The reduced limit didn't have much of an impact on smaller states like Rhode Island or Delaware. It had a major impact in Texas. "It affected the family who wanted to drive across the state to visit relatives but only had a weekend. It affected businesses and industries that wanted to get their products from one point to another as quickly and as cheaply as possible.'' he said.

Hart delays campaign

GROVETON, N.H. - Democratic presidential front-runner Gary Hart, dogged by reports that he spent part of the weekend with a young woman, today put his campaign on hold and flew home to Denver to be with his family, a spokesman said.

Hart cut short a campaign swing through northern New Hampshire, the state with 1988's first presidential primary

"While running for president is important, right now my family is more important, Hart spokesman Kevin Sweeney said, reading a prepared text.

The statement said Hart and his family were taking "a few days or a few weeks to be together.

'This campaign and the ideals and ideas it represents will continue and our cause will succeed," the statement said.

WASHINGTON — The second man to plead guilty in the Iran-Contra case, Richard Miller, is a former State Department official who became an intermediary in Lt. Col. Oliver North's covert plans to help the Contras.

And like the first person to enter a guilty plea, conservative fund-raiser Carl "Spitz" Channell, Miller also named North as a fellow conspirator in the scheme to use privately raised funds to arm the Nicaraguan rebels.

Miller, 34, who headed broadcast services for President Reagan's 1980 campaign, is the president of International Business Communications, a firm that was a conduit for funneling money to the Contra rebels.

FDIC chairman speaks

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which insures bank deposits, has described a separate, troubled insurance fund for the savings and loan industry as "a $25 billion hole in the ground?

FDIC Chairman L. William Seidman predicted in a speech Wednesday that healthy thrifts soon will begin to distance themselves from the problems of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

'There are not a lot of people lining up with a desire to spend their next 15 years filling in that hole," said Seidman.

Boy kills himself in class

Two 15-year-old boys shot themselves, one fatally, in front of classmates in schools in Florida and Arkansas, authorities said.

Karl Tramer died early today at Tampa (Fla.) General Hospital, hours after shooting himself in the head Wednesday at the close of an advanced literature class.

Bobby Emmons, a ninth-grader at MacArthur Junior High School in Jonesboro, Ark. was listed in stable condition at St. Bernard's Regional Medical Center in Jonesboro.

Two people were killed and 11 injured Wednesday when a Valley City, N.D., school bus collided with a car south of the city. The driver of the car, Bernice Dietrich, and a passenger of the bus, 8-year-old Matthew Kiefert, died in the accident.

ed hospitalized today after the school bus they were riding hit an oncoming car, killing an 8-year-old bus passenger and the car's driver, authorities said.

Matthew Kiefert, a second-grader at Washington Elementary School, died in Wednesday's accident about eight miles southwest of Valley City, becoming the first school-bus passenger killed in North Dakota in nearly 20 years, officials said.

The driver of the bus and four students were hospitalized, while the remaining six students aboard were treated for minor injuries and released, according to the nursing director of Mercy Hospital in Valley City.

The bus apparently had failed to obey a stop sign at the intersection where the accident happened about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday, said Highway Patrolman Roger

The bus was attempting to cross State Highway 1 when it struck a car driven by Bernice Dietrich, 69, of Verona, Haga said. Ms. Dietrich, who was northbound VALLEY CITY, N.D. (AP) — Four children remain- on the highway, had the right of way; there was no sign she tried to brake, Haga said.

"She had no idea this vehicle was trying to cross the road," Haga said. Ms. Dietrich, who was wearing a seat belt, "didn't have a chance," the patrolman said. Ms. Dietrich's son, Richard, is the school's bus contractor. He was at the scene of the accident, but did not know until later that his mother was the car's driver, according to school Superintendent Robert Lentz. Authorities had realized the driver was dead and did not tend to the car until the children had been taken care of, Lentz said.

Numerous North Dakota schools contract for bus service with Dietrich & Sons Inc. of Valley City, Lentz said. The bus driver, Danny Olson of Valley City, is an employee of the company, Lentz said.

Rolland Larson, former director of pupil transportation for the state Department of Public Instruction, said the boy's death marked the first time that a school bus passenger had been killed in an accident in North Dakota

Botha stays in power

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The white electorate shifted sharply to the right in a parliamentary election, keeping President P.W. Botha's Nationalists in power while strengthening the hand of those who oppose even modest concessions to blacks.

A spokesman for the far-right Conservative Party, which made big gains in Wednesday's election, promised his party would give the Nationalists "a really hard time" in parliamentary debate.

The anti-apartheid Progressive Federal Party suffered a crushing defeat, going from 27 seats in the outgoing white chamber of Parliament to at least 19, according to nearcomplete returns.

Jews honor diplomat

BUDAPEST, Hungary — The World Jewish Congress today honored Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who saved thousands of Hungarian Jews from Nazi death camps before he was arrested by the Soviets in 1945.

Tying a ribbon to a statue of Wallenberg erected last month, congress President Edgar Bronfman lauded the Swede as "a great, courageous and marvelous man.

Wallenberg's younger sister, Nina, in a message read aloud, made an impassioned appeal for worldwide efforts to determine her brother's fate.

Moved troops training

GUATEMALA CITY - President Vincio Cerezo said the moving of Guatemalan soldiers in U.S. helicopters with American crews was an "isolated occurrence" that would not be repeated soon.

He also said that the troop lift was for training purposes and not to combat leftist guerrillas as U.S. officials had stated.

Cerezo commented to reporters Wednesday on the Pentagon's report that C-47 Chinook helicopters from Palmerola air base in neighboring Honduras and their American crews moved 300 to 350 Guatemalan troops from Guatemala City to Playa Grande, about 200 miles north of the capital.

The Guatemalan army confirmed the Tuesday operation but gave few details.

Body found in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Police said today the unidentified body found in a northern town likely was that of a Lebanese man and not a foreigner, as several radio stations earlier reported

State-run Beirut Radio today interrupted its regular program to announce that the body had been found in Kobeyat and was believed to be that of a foreign man.

It said coroner Ali Shaar in the northern port of Tripoli determined death occured three days ago.

The unhappy reports of Marine guards letting Soviet spies into the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and the consulate in Leningrad are made even more depressing by accounts of governmental ineptness in investigating the affair ...

According to news articles, prosecution of Marines involved in the sex-and-spy scandal may be jeopardized by lack of evidence, retraction of statements by witnesses and legally faulty interrogation of suspects. In addition, the cases are said to have become

So here is a Marine Corps that seems unsure what to do about its own bad apples, a Navy investigative unit that would be hard put to find its way out of a paper bag and a State Department that couldn't keep track of who was under and in beds.

The Soviet KGB must be getting some laughs out of all this. For Americans, it's hardly a confidence-building performance. The Pittsburgh Press

Evidence points to Israeli attempt to deal with Iran

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON — Israel, which has tried to minimize its role in the Reagan administration's arms deal with Iran, may itself have been trying to sell TOW anti-tank missiles to the Tehran regime as recently as February

According to a Customs Service document obtained by our associate Corky Johnson, three Israelis — a three-star general, a colonel and a former two-star general — were trying to acquire recognition. His entry into the race an "end-user" certificate that would disguise the shipment to Iran of 10,000 U.S. made TOW

These are the same ground-But Laxalt is so far the only controlled anti-tank missiles the White House arranged to deliver to Iran for help in freeing American hostages.

The document does not indicate whether the sale was ever consummated, and Customs Service sources were unable to discover the outcome of the reported negotiations The confidential Customs Service document — a Feb. 23 telex from the agency's Rome office to the Strategic Investigations Division in Washington — indicates that Italian officials requested information on a New York City company reportedly involved in the deal. (The company, "Grand M.A.

Ltd.," is not listed in telephone company records.) According to the telex, "a foreign national (not identified) is attempting to acquire in Italy an end-user certificate for the purchase of 10,000 BGM-71/A TOW missiles from Israel." It then states: "The missiles would ultimately be transshipped to Iran. The missiles will be sourced by the government Italian authorities learned of the Rome meeting and asked Customs to investigate those believed to be involved, "presumably because of the attempted approach to an Italian firm by an outside government (Israel)" the telex explained, adding: "The Customs agent in Rome feels we are on firm ground in supplying requested information and assistance.

Sources in the Customs Service could provide no further details of the negotiations, or the results of the investigation requested by Italy

Israel has consistently denied that it supplied weapons to Iran. But the Tower commission, which investigated the White House arms-for-hostages operation, reported that Israel played a key role at "critical points" in the negotiations. The commission concluded that Israel "pressed" an Iranian arms dealer on the U.S. team, despite the CIA's assessment that he was unreliable.

Learning hard way provides opportunity

By ALISHA GOLDMAN

Copy Editor I recently took a defensive driving course and learned a lot about my driving skills.

Mainly, I learned that in the 11 years since I took my driver's education course, my driving habits have gone downhill.

Apparently that's the reason I found myself in the class to begin with - having broken one of the driving laws of the state.

For instance, one of the various films my classmates and I saw stereotyped four kinds of drivers: Cautious Ethel; Always-in-a-hurry George; Inexperienced Randy and Reckless Rocky.

The narrator pointed out that all four may be found at any intersection every day, and instructed us on how to be prepared to react to

And on some days, I may drive too cautiously, like Ethel, afraid to park parallel or pass a semi on the

The video pointed out that while we often take time to acquaint ourselves with instructions on our household appliances, learning to use them properly and keep them functioning, and to update our war drobes, we often let our driving skills slip into bad habits and don't keep our cars in good working condition.

Guilty, as charged, I said to myself.

To readers of this column, I suggest investing $20 to take the course to refresh your knowledge of good driving skills. It's cheaper that the fine of $60 or more when caught by one of our alert traffic enforcement officers.

"But (the Dallas fern) has made a major financial difference to us, and it has changed us from a producer company to a marketing company more than anything," he said. "It has brought us into the modern age of realizing that marketing and sales have to lead production."

The company last year received a patent to produce the Dallas fern. discovered in 1985 by an East Coast hobbyist. And Casa Flora's inhouse ad agency, called Genesis West, has vigorously marketed the plant, with a $50,000 annual promotional campaign that reaches trade journals, major newspapers and trade shows nationwide.

Dallas ferns appear in retail nurseries and stores marked by silver and blue star-shaped labels, vaguely resembling the Dallas Cowboys' logo.

The plants are smaller than traditional Boston ferns, which are known for their dangling fronds, making them suitable for tabletops as well as hanging baskets. They have proved popular in both offices and homes and sell for anywhere from $5 to $19 each, depending on

Casa Flora — founded in 1971 by prominent Dallas landscape ar chitect Naud Burnett, who is still majority owner - had modest beginnings. From its greenhouse tucked away on McCommas Bluff Road, off of U.S. 75 in south Dallas, Casa Flora grew flowers, particularly African violets, begonias

Today, the operation is the naall kinds through vegetative propagation — the production of thousands of plants by cutting and rooting stem-like runners from parent plants. Casa Flora has been shipping 40,000 to 60,000 Dallas fern starter plants — or "liners" — a month to wholesale nurseries that grow them out and distribute them to retail outlets. In Dallas, the plants are available at grocery stores such as Tom Thumb and Skaggs Alpha Beta, as well as florists and retail nurseries.

Ohme said the company expects to ship about 2.8 million Dallas fern liners this year, up from about 2.5 million last year, making it one of the major freight shippers annually out of Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. The company also will ship about 750,000 Boston gross revenue figures for Casa Flora, but said Dallas fern is responsible for about a three-fold increase. He said 1987 shipments of the Dallas fern, which represent about 60 percent of the company's plantings, should bring between $1.5 million to $2 million in revenues. The company has shipped about 4 million Dallas ferns to

With a patent on the product, Casa Flora can not only create its own market, but control production to meet the market - rather than producing a product and hoping it pened upon the Dallas fern variety after receiving a load of Boston ferns and noticing that one plant was different, Ohme said. During a period of six years, Mills experimented with offshoots of that one plant until he had three plants with like characteristics.

Casa Flora already had built a reputation as a major fern producer, so Mills contacted Ohme to see if the plants could be massproduced. Ohme experimented with tissue cultures but found he could produce the new plants quicker through vegetative propagation.

Marketing began in November 1985, and Casa Flora received its patent last June, with royalties going to Mills. The ferns soon made national headlines "Pretty Dallas ferns are as tough as J.R." - and Casa Flora was forced to build another 30,000 square feet of greenhouse space to accomodate the demand, bringing its total capacity to 130,000 square feet.

The company's customer base has swollen to about 3,600 from 2,000 this time last year, Ohme

The company today employs about 50 people. About half of the greenhouse workers are Southeast Asians, primarily immigrants from Cambodia and Vietnam. After hours, Casa Flora provides English classes for some of the employees, Ohme said.

Some Dallas-area supermarket chains report that Dallas ferns are outselling Boston ferns "pot for pot" and that customers generally like them for their low maintenance. But not all outlets are seeing booming sales.

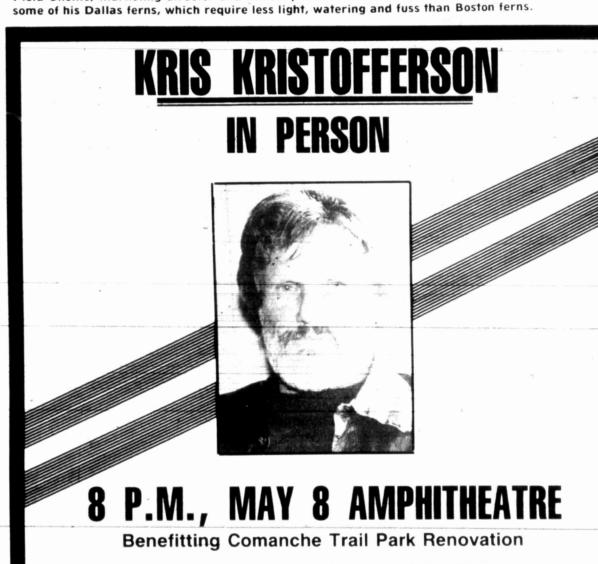

Mark Bickerstaff, merchandise manager for Wolfe Nursery in Dallas, said after the first wave of interest in Dallas ferns last spring, follow-up business has been disappointing. He said that some outlets were left with an oversupply of Dallas ferns last summer and that a few customers have complained that some Dallas ferns have grown longer fronds more characteristic of Boston ferns.

Ohme admits that there was an oversupply last summer but said he adjusted his production to compensate for it. Also, he said, subsequent shipments have been genetically improved to ensure that the Dallas ferns no longer grow the longer fronds.

Neil Sperry, a noted Dallas garden columnist and radio talkshow host, predicted the popularity of Dallas ferns will continue. He said he should know - he has 250 of them at home. "It's a very novel fern, and America is a land of faddists," he said, possibly explaining any reduced level of interest after the plant's splashly introduction. Anxiety number one health problem in U.S.

By REDBOOK

A Hearst Magazine Many working mothers suffer from anxiety, an affliction that can have frightening physical symptoms and has been ranked the nation's top mental health problem.

The National Institute of Mental Health calls anxiety the number one health problem in the United States and, according to an article in a recent issue of Redbook, a 1984 NIMH study found an estimated 13.1 million Americans suffer anxiety disorders.

These include generalized anxiety, phobias, compulsive behavior and panic attacks with heart palpitations, feelings of suffocation and other symptoms.

The study also found anxiety was one of the two most predominant problems for women — the other was major depression — and that people under age 45 were most vulnerable.

'Normal anxiety is a response to a specific stressful event," said David H. Barlow, director of the Center for Stress and Anxiety Disorders and professor of psychology at the State University of New York at Albany

"If you're scheduled for an important job interview, you're bound to feel signs of tension beforehand, such as butterflies in the stomach or a rapid heartbeat or clammy

Anxiety becomes abnormal, he said, if feelings of apprehension arise without identifiable cause; if they are so intense you can't focus on other things, or if you experience anxious episodes more days than not for six months or

'When anxiety takes on a life of its own and interferes with your daily life, it is called generalized anxiety," Barlow said.

Symptoms vary. They include palpitations and a tightening feelthat can cause dizziness and a tingling sensation in fingers, toes you have long-lasting results.

and around the mouth.

Anxiety sufferers frequently think they are having a heart attack, stroke or serious respiratory problems and it is best to consult a edoctor about palpitations or other reactions. If left unchecked, anxiety may increase the risk of health problems

"Added to biological factors," Barlow said, "prolonged stress and anxiety can increase your risk of developing cardiovascular disease, rheumatoid arthritis, chronic headaches and gastrointestinal disorders such as peptic ulcers.'

Many working women develop anxiety feelings and symptoms.

"There are women who were brought up to expect that they would marry and have a family and that would be their identity," said Dr. Abby Fyer, codirector of the Anxiety Disorders Clinic at the New York State Psychiatric Institute. "When they achieve success, they still can be plagued by the discrepancy between what they're doing and their internal self-image."

Psychologist Gary Emery, at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, advised anxiety sufferers: "Tell yourself this is temporary, that it's a state of mind, uncomfortable but not lifethreatening. Accept that you're in a vulnerable mood and keep performing in spite of the anxiety.

For shortness of breath, regulate breathing by letting out a slow, deep breath to the count of five, then breath in normally to the count of four

In severe cases of anxiety, drugs can offer temporary relief. If you are unable to ease anxiety yourself see a mental health professional about appropriate therapy.

"With psychological treatment," Larry Michelson, director of the agoraphobia program at the ing in the chest, hyperventilation University of Pittsburgh, said, "you don't have side effects and

Smokers of low-nicotine smoke more

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) -Smokers of low-nicotine cigarettes compensate by smoking more, receiving practically the same level of toxins as other smokers, a new study says

The three-year Stanford Medical Center study of 713 smokers in five California cities found that smokers of ultra-low cigarettes had an average of eight cigarettes a day more than users of high-yield

"The bottom line for people who smoke cigarettes is that there's no such thing as a safe cigarette, and the best thing to do is to quit," Dr. David J. Maron, director of Stanford's Preventive Medicine Clinic, said Wednesday

"If someone cannot quit, the only way that switching to a lower-yield brand will be beneficial in terms of heart health is if they do not at the same time compensate by smoking more cigarettes per day or doing other things, like inhaling more."

Other studies have shown that smokers of low-nicotine brands smoke closer to the butt, and, consciously or unconsciously, cover the filter holes that are intended to dilute the inhaled smoke with air, Maron said.

The Stanford study found that smokers of ultra-low cigarettes had 26.7 parts per million of carbon monoxide in their breath, virtually the same as those using other brands. Other studies have shown a level of 8 parts per million in nonsmokers.

Similarly, there was no significant difference in blood levels of thiocyanate, a breakdown product of cyanide, which is found in tobacco. For all smokers, the level of thiocyanate was about three times the general population.

On average, smokers of ultra-low brands had 26.6 cigarettes a day, low-yield smokers 22.5, mediumyield 22, and high-yield 18.3.

The study of 383 women and 330 men was co-written by Dr. Stephen P. Fortmann and published in the May issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

"What our study shows, I think for the first time among people randomly smoking cigarettes,' Maron said, "is that if we just look at the carbon monoxide in the breath and the thiocyanate in their blood, there's no way for us to know, without them telling us, that they're smoking high-yield or lowyield cigarettes.

Maron criticized the tobacco industry, which he said implies cigarettes low in tar and nicotine are safer.

The only benefit that's been shown to smoking lower-yield cigarettes is a reduced risk of certain cancers, and that's not an insignificant point," said Maron. "But what a lot of people don't realize is that by far the major cause of death due to smoking is heart disease.

Thirty to 40 percent of the 565,000 deaths a year from heart disease can be attributed to cigarette smoking, according to a report of the U.S. surgeon general.

Walker Merryman, vice president of the Tobacco Institute in Washingon, said he had not seen the study and could not comment

Ultra-low cigarettes were defined as those having less than .21 milligrams of nicotine; low-yield was .21 to .60 milligrams; medium was between .60 and 1.0 milligrams, and high was over 1.0

Officer of Year

Wesley Marlin Hudgins, Big Spring, was named Correctional Officer of the Year by the Federal Prison Camp of Big Spring Saturday. Hudgins, a native of Big Spring, entered duty with the Bureau of Prisons as a correctional officer when the camp initially opened in October 1979. The son of Katherine and "Hack" Hudgins of Big Spring, he graduated from Big Spring High School, Howard College, Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, and Mary Hardin Baylor. The selection came during a National Correctional Officers Week and is presented "to those individuals who have the responsibility of maintaining the confinement and control" of inmates.

Former local gymnast doing well

Former Big Spring gymnast Will Rutherford is having a good year in his speciality.

The 13-year-old Rutherford, now living in Longview, recently qualified for the Regional United States Gymnastic Federation meet in Houston May 15-16. Rutherford, now competing on a more competitive level, totaled 86.5 points in 12 events to qualify for regionals. The qualifying standard was 70. If Rutherford, competing for the Piney Woods Gymnastics team, scores a 98 at regional, he will qualify for the natinals in Los Angeles in June. Teams from Texas, Kansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas will be competing at regionals. Rutherford's dad, Johnny, who still lives in Big Spring, said he is somewhat surprised to see his son doing so well.

"He moved up two levels of competition this year, which makes him one of the youngest in his category. He's doing much better than we anticipated. Next year he will be a very stiff competitor," the proud pappa said.

The Big Spring Morning Optimist Club and Big Spring Independent School District will be sponsoring the Elementary Track Meet, for third, fourth and fifth graders this Friday starting at 5:30 p.m. at Blankenship Field.

Students from Marcy, Bauer, Kentwood-Moss, College Heights and Washington will be competing.

The C-City Classic men's slow-pitch softball tournament will be this weekend at Hertenberger Field.

Entry fee is $100 per team. The first four teams will receive team trophies and the first three teams will receive individual trophies. There will be an alltournament team, one MVP and one sportsmanship

Entry fee is $8 per player per event and entry deadline is noon, May 15. Awards will be given to the first two finishers in each event.

The Big Spring Red Sox, the local semipro baseball team, raised its league record to 5-1 by sweeping a doubleheader from the San Angelo Brewers Sunday in San Angelo.

George Solis was the winning pitcher in the Sox's 17-5 first game win. David Anguiano had three hits, including a grand slam homer and nine runs batted in. Mechie Sarmiento and Solis got three hits each. Thomas McAdamms pitched a two-hit shutout as the Rex Sox romped 22-0 in the second game. James Walker led the way with three hits. Adam Yanez, Ernie Garcia and Beef Armendarez each had two hits.

The Red Sox will play Sweetwater in a double-header at Roy Anderson Complex at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Cindy Klaus of Big Spring won the women's division at the Western Sportsman Club's first play day last weekend. Over 200 shooters from Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Andrews competed in the shoot.

Other winners in Saturday's muzzle loaders only competition were John Cook of Odessa in the men's competition and Heath White of Stanton in the junior shoot.

In Sunday's open competition, Ed Wright of Big Spring won the men's, Tina Barnett of Big Spring won the women's, and Danny Ditto of Big Spring won the junior competition. Doyle McClain, John Driggs and Boyce Hale were the winners in the high power sporting rifle match. NOTES page 2B

Howard honors athletes

Terri Powell, Dennis Rhodes and R.D. Christon were three of the big winners at the Howard College Banquet Wednesday night.

Powell, a sophomore on the Hawk-Queens, was awarded the academic award for her 3.88 average, and she shared the Most Valuable Player award with freshman Stephanie Massie. Powell will attend the University of Texas at El Paso on a basketball scholarship next year.

Rhodes, the Hawks' 5-6 playmaker and defensive whiz, won the defensive award and the MVP for the Hawks. Outgoing Hawks' coach Larry Brown called Rhodes "a young man I've learned to love in the true sense of the Brown is leaving Howard to become an assistant coach at the University of South Alabama. The college has announced there will be a Friday press conference at which the new Hawks' coach will be introduced.

Ted Hebert, with 13 wins and a 2.80 ERA, and Howard Landry, with 100 strike outs, won the pitching awards. Glenn Donnelly won the academic award.

Sophomore captain Joel Chimelis was awarded the MVP.

For the Hawks basketball team, sophomore Mitchell Porter won the Academic Award. Sophomore Walter Walker won the Offensive Award, and freshman Myron Wright was the Most Improved

For the rodeors, Shannon Garrison, with a 4.0 average, and Ace Thompson, with a 3.8, won the academic awards. Coach Johnston pointed out that Garrison, Thompson and Powell, all academic winners, were from the same high school graduating class in Channing. He also informed the crowd that there were just five members of that graduating class.

Johnston presented the award for High-Point Cowgirl to freshman Kim Rankin; and gave a special award to Lynn Walling for his support of the rodeo team

Cocky isn't in her vocabulary

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

GAIL — You would think that competing in the University Interscholastic League state meet is something Kelli Williams takes for granted, but it isn't.

You would think that the Borden County High School star would be downright cocky about competing at the meet, but she isn't. You might even think that she would feel very confident of winning state titles in shorthand and tennis, but that's not true either.

"It's hard to find someone as successful as Kelli that doesn't sound conceited," said Borden County tennis coach Bill May

You see, there's not many high school student-athletes that have had the success Williams has had. Her list of accomplishments would compose a very nice memory book, but Williams almost seems embarrassed to talk about them.

done," chided coach May. "If you're not going to talk about it, then I will. This stuff is for your scrapbook. While Williams quickly changed the subject from her accomplishments, she went on to the barriers she intends to clear before leaving Borden County High School. Those barriers are in the form of the shorthand competition and singles tennis play at the UIL state meets. The senior will compete in the shorthand competition this weekend and the tennis competition next weekend

It will be the fourth trip Williams has made to Austin in athletic play, and the second time in literary competition. Last year Williams made it a sweep by winning the Class A state typing title and the state singles tennis title.

a minute with two mistakes. The only person to beat her at the entire state meet was a lad in Class 5A. He typed fewer words but had fewer mistakes. In tennis she won the singles title, defeating O'Donnell's Stacy Bessire 7-5, 6-2.

This year she returns as one of the favorites in both of her events. She has a simple explanation for her approaching ventures.

"I'm just glad to get back. That's what I wanted to do. I'm not taking anything for granted because it's different every year here," she explained.

Williams says she is concentrating on shorthand this week and will switch her attention to the courts next week. She blushes when coach May says she's the lady to beat in the shorthand competition. At last year's state shorthand competition, the winner transcribed 120 words per minute. Williams has already transcribed about her chances, she replied: "If mistake. She transcribed 144 words with a few mistakes.

'Shorthand is a little easier than typing because you have more room for error," said Williams. You can make some corrections when you're typing the words you've transcribed. In typing you can't go back over your mistakes."

Being a good typist goes hand-inhand with shorthand and it works to her advantage. In shorthand competition, participants have a certain time to type their transcribed words. The faster you get finished, the more points you're awarded.

Needless to say, Williams is always the first to finish. She says there are others that suffer because they are slow typists.

When asked about how she feels

Williams has had more experience competing at the state tennis tournament. Not many netters have the honors of competing in the state tourney throughout their high school career.

As a freshman, she was state runner-up in doubles play. Her sophomore season she was eliminated in the state semifinals, and last year she won it all. Irionically, it's the first time Williams will be going to state as the regional champ. And the first two years at state she was beaten by the eventual state champion.

"This is a very tough region for tennis," said May. "Our region is always strong. If you do well in this region, you stand a good chance of doing well at the state meet. A good example is last year, where the top

125 words per minute without a I don't get too nervous, I'll be all two in our region finished one-two

May says his star tennis pupil is playing with more confidence this year. And why shouldn't she? She hasn't lost a match all year and has lost only three sets. When asked if she was playing better than her state winning form of last year, Williams paused for a few seconds and sheepishly replied, "I really don't know if I'm playing better or not. I asked somebody the other day if they thought I was playing better and they just told me I had been playing good.

May says her aggressive game is a big reason why she's so consistent.

"She's very aggressive. She's not the type of player to sit back and wait for the other player to make a COCKY page 2B

Athletes called for herion trial

NEW YORK (AP) -Welterweight boxing champion Mark Breland and pro basketball players Walter Berry and Dwayne (Pearl) Washington have been subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury investigating an alleged heroin dealer, according to a published report.

New York Newsday, in today's editions, quoted unidentified law enforcement officials as saying the three athletes will be asked about James Jackson, who was indicted in February on federal charges of conspiring to distribute heroin throughout New York City, Bridgeport, Conn., Boston and Washington.

Jackson has been described by Assistant U.S. Attorney Maria Galeno as "a heroin kingpin who has become the successor to Leroy (Nicky) Barnes.

Convicted in 1978, Barnes was sentenced to life without parole, but has since turned informant and is seeking a presidential pardon.

Investigators said the athletes were not targets of the probe and there was no evidence that they are or ever were involved with heroin or any other drugs, the newspaper reported.

Jackson befriended star athletes at high-priced nightclubs throughout Manhattan, law enforcement officials told the newspaper

Big Spring Bowl-A-Rama is hosting a Mothers Day No-Tap Tournament this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Ladies will only pay for the prize fund; they need not pay bowling fees.

This will be a ladies tournament with at least one lady on each doubles team. The tournament fee will be $10 for ladies and $15 for men. Squad times will be at 7 and 9 p.m. on Friday, at 3,5,7 and 9 p.m. on Saturday, and at 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday.

Semi-finals will be bowled at 5 p.m. and the finals will follow immediately. For more information, call Bowl-A-Rama at 267-7484.

Jimmy and Susie Welch and Gene and Tammy McKinney were the winners in last weekend's Big Spring Country Club's Scotch Foursome. Play begins at 6 p.m. on Fridays, and players should call the pro shop on Thursdays to reserve a spot.

The team of Dolores Hull, Ruby Honea and Bobbie Patterson won in nine-hole best ball play Monday at the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association's weekly play day. The team of Betty Ray Coffee, Natalie Peurfoy and Angela Cevallos tied for second with Ina Stewart, Harriott Richardson and Ramona Harris.

In couples play Thursday evening, Charlie and Margaret Burdette tied with Ruth and Jerry Roach for first place, Jim and Georgia Newsom tied with Gerald and Ramona Harris for second place.

Couples play every Thursday evening at 5:30 p.m., and have pot-luck supper afterwards. Golf enthusiasts are encouraged to play.

More golf news...

Big Spring golfer Patsy Sharpnack teamed with Lamesa golfer Erma Scott to win the first flight in last Thursday's Spring Fling in Plainview. The two teamed again Tuesday to finish second in the first flight at a San Angelo Riverside tournament.

mistake. She makes things happen. I think she feels more pressure because she's the defending champion and everybody's gunning for

"She's a shy and quiet person until she gets into competition. Then she's definitely an extrovert.

The next two weeks will conclude a long list of achievements for this soft spoken performer. In addition to her tennis and literary heroics, she is two time All-State basketball selection and valedictorian of her graduating class. She has a 96 grade average throughout her high school career

Her formula for success is simple - hard work.

"You've got to work hard. If you don't work hard you don't deserve it. When you work hard you don't have any excuses, you've done you're best.'

Will it be a crushing blow if she doesn't make a repeat performance of last year?

'The other day someone asked me that and I told them I feel real fortunate to be going back to state. If I win it's a double blessing, but if I don't, I'll still be happy because I've given it my best shot.'

Woman says had sex with judge

FORT WORTH - A Fort Worth woman told a packed federal courtroom that she engaged in group sex with State District Judge Tom Cave and his son as part of a sexfor-leniency relationship.

Dedria Nelson, 24, said she met Cave in August 1980 after she was arrested on prostitution charges. At the time, Nelson was on probation for aggravated robbery.

Nelson testified Wednesday that Cave said her case would be "handled" and not to worry about it. She testified that she was arrested after offering oral sex to an undercover police officer. She said Cave asked her to demonstrate and she performed oral sex on him.

Cave, 57, lawyer Ronald Aultman, 70, and bail bondsman J. Dorsey Adams, 80, are accused of violating the civil rights of women probationers by offering leniency in court for sexual favors. Aultman and Adams are accused of setting up liaisons for Cave.

All three have pleaded innocent.

Pileup accident

Paramedics treat a truck driver whose beer truck overturned Wednesday in Grand Prairie. Five cars collided into the loaded beer truck. In other news, officials today released autopsy results on the driver of an April 25 accident that killed six people. The results show her blood alcohol level was three times the legal limit, officials say. The accident on Interstate 45 took the life of the woman Lydia Orozco, 24, who was driving a vehicle that became airborne. "It's clearly a waste of life," said Sgt. Jesse Foroi of the Houston police accident division. "I think it's very sad that a person that drunk was trying to operate a motor vehicle."

The controls come in the wake of stepped up health regulations on imported milk, which effectively sealed the Mexican-Texas border to exports from American dairies.

A confrontation was avoided when the Mexican government agreed to allow U.S. dairies 60 days to comply with the new

A comp of procedures for regulation of liability insurance in Texas with a new division added to protect says no one who is held more than 50 percent responsible for an accident can recover damages. In product liability cases, the limit is 61 percent negligence. Currently a person 90 percent responsible for an in-

Unless a defendant is found to be more than 20 perent responsible for an accident, he cannot be made to pay for more than his share of the engligence. Currently, a defendant found only one percent responsible can be forced to pay 100 percent of the damages if the other defendants have no money.

The three opposing lawmakers, who tried unsuccessfully to change the measure, were Sens. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, Craig Washington, D-Houston, and Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin.

A total of 25 amendments were proposed to the compromise bill negotiated by Sens. John Montford, D-Lubbock, and Kent Caperton, D-Bryan.

A number of the decisions came on 28-3 votes.

"This bill addresses the major. concerns in the civil justice system that have arisen during the liability insurance crisis,' Montford said. "It outlines a new structure for comparative responsibility in deciding personal injury cases.

One of the biggest battles came over an amendment by Lyon to remove a provision that a person held more than 60 percent negligent in an accident could not file suit for damages.

"This is an amendment aimed at the 'big boys,' "Lyon said. "I mean Ford and Exxon and Dalkon Shield and others who # manufacture products that are found by juries to be unreasonably dangerous. This just says they can't get out of paying, just because the plaintiff was partially responsible."

"This amendment goes to the very heart of our agreement with all involved," said Montford. "If this goes on, the wheels will come off.

There was another battle over a proposed amendment by Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, to say that juries could not levy punitive damages more than 10 times larger than the actual damages, or $200,000, whichever was greater. Montford's bill called for a 4-to-1 limit.

"This is telling jurors we don't trust them," said Uribe. "This limits the rights of jurors.'

The amendment lost, 26-5. A proposed amendment by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, to put the state's eight cityowned hospitals in a special category for liability insurance failed 21-10.

The effective date of the changes in civil justice law if finally approved would be Aug.

Senate sends 'hot potatoe' of tort reform to House

AUSTIN (AP) — One of the 70th Legislature's hottest potatoes, tort reform, has been passed on to the House.

Legislation calling for wideranging changes in courts' handling of personal injury cases and in regulation of liability insurance were approved in daylong Senate debate Wednesday.

"Few Texans realize the importance that tort reform will play in the revitalization of the Texas economy," Gov. Bill Clements said.

Clements had promised to call a special session if this session did not produce a good reform
