How's that? Charge

Q. Why is there a 25-cent charge to pay my phone bill at The Decorator's Center?
A. The Decorator's Center takes payments as a public service. The fee is a handling charge, as the Center is not compensated under its new contract with Southwestern Bell, explained Darlene Gifford, manager of public relations at Southwestern Bell.

Thousands hear Kris sing of freedom

By STEVE REAGAN
Whether talking or singing about it, freedom is important to Kris Kristofferson.
In an interview backstage, and in his concert Friday night at the newly renovated Comanche Trail Amphitheater, Kristofferson stressed freedom—the lack of it—as a major theme in his life.
Crowd estimates were not available for the concert, but the attendance was more than the 3,000 predicted by organizer Johnny Rutherford.
Kristofferson was happy of the chance to help the park restoration. "It's a good cause," he said, adding, "This will be a good example to other places."
And the people who attended were equally happy he came.
"I think he's great," said Beverly Massingill of Big Spring. "If he didn't care about Texas and its people, he wouldn't have shown up."
David Hill, an inmate at the Federal Prison Camp, echoed Massingill's sentiments.
"This is absolutely fantastic," he said. "(It's) wonderful that the artists gave their time to come out here. It's a good cause."
From his opening song, "Me and Bobby McGee," to songs such as "Shipwrecked in the 80's" and "The Eagle from the North," Kristofferson expressed the concept of freedom.
In an interview backstage prior to his performing, he echoed those beliefs, and discussed Central

Citizens comment on Hart scandal

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer
Only one of the 14 people we talked to at the post office Friday said they had definitely planned to support Gary Hart's presidential bid. They were more divided, however, on their opinions of Hart's alleged sexual misconduct, and of its impact on his candidacy.

Jury's water bill decision council topic

Big Spring City Council is expected to discuss appealing a jury's water bills refund decision at one or both of Council's meetings next week.
A jury awarded $148 Tuesday to Paul and Jerri Winn, 811 W. 18th St., for high water bills last summer.
City Attorney Hardy Wilkerson Tuesday submitted an oral notice of appeal to county court. He said, however, that City Council must make the appeal decision.

Week in review

He said he will not recommend either way.
Big Spring City Manager Mack Wofford said this morning the issue probably will be a topic at the Council's next work session Monday afternoon, or at its next meeting Tuesday evening. The Council is expected to enter closed session to discuss the matter.

• Two sides of the teacher certification coin are apparent in Howard County, the Herald reported Tuesday.
The Texas Senate has approved a bill that would require school districts to tell parents when their children are being taught by teachers not certified in the subject they are teaching.

And most of them laughed before answering the questions.
Richard Cauley did not originally support Hart, and would definitely not now.
"It would put a big question mark in my mind because I think your integrity is linked to all phases of your life. What he does in secret could only be an indication of what he might do in public."
"It's an attitude problem. Hart got caught in an action, but what's in question is his attitude," Cauley said, adding he's still not sure if Hart is "guilty."
"I'm not naive, but I don't know who to believe, him or the newspaper. You almost want to give him the benefit of the doubt," Cauley said.

Earl Stovall thinks Hart did have intimate relations with Miami actress Donna Rice, and he said he would not support his candidacy.

County to hear downtown park request for help

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer
County support will be sought Monday in tearing down a wall opposite the Courthouse Annex to make way for a pocket park.
Chairman of the Downtown Steering Committee, Charles Beil, is expected to ask County Commissioners for the County's support in tearing down the wall.
Commissioners will consider the request at a 9 a.m. Monday at a meeting of the Howard County Commissioners' Court in the Commissioners' Courtroom.

County Judge Milton Kirby said the County probably would supply the city with equipment for the job.
An open lot was created next to what is now the Courthouse Annex when a building burned down in 1983. A wall of that building remains standing opposite the new Annex wall and will be torn down to reveal the red brick wall of the adjoining building, according to downtown renovation plans.

The pocket park, a project of Main Street Inc., Big Spring's downtown redevelopment plan, includes putting trees, benches and lampposts in the now vacant lot on Main Street next to the Annex.

County Auditor Jackie Olson is listed on the agenda to amend the 1986-87 County budget for expenditures that have been added during the year.

Because of computer problems, however, her report may be postponed until the next meeting, Olson said Friday.
She will present the monthly financial report, however, and will give commissioners a review of service recommendations for the courthouse elevator.

Otis Elevator Co. of Midland maintains the elevators and has recommended installing emergency lights and smoke detectors, Olson said. The company has not yet provided a cost estimate for the equipment, she said.

County commissioners also will consider four bids at Monday's meeting, Olson said. They include fuel for county vehicles, and aggregate rock used in paving asphalt and concrete.

Kirby said he will discuss House Bill 327 which gives counties the option of deciding each year whether or not to charge a $5 license plate fee.

According to the present law, counties can choose to charge or not to charge for the plates, but must stick to that decision for five years, Kirby said.

Howard County does not charge for plates, Kirby said.
"We have no plans to add a fee, but (counties) ought to have a choice" of changing their policies from year to year, he said.

Hart decision draws mixed reactions

From staff and wire reports
Gary Hart's withdrawal from the Democratic presidential race was met with contrasting reactions from two local Democrats.

Howard County Democratic chairman M.H. Boatler said Friday that he was disappointed with the withdrawal by Hart, while county organization founder Mack Underwood said he thought the candidate's decision was understandable.

Boatler said "I think it's real bad. I didn't go along with it at all. I was for him and I still am. I don't think he's done a thing wrong."

"I've gone into buildings with women and so have you... they didn't watch him at all times. I don't see anything wrong with a man going into a house with a lady he knows. They never found out if he spent the whole evening—just that he went in with her. I think it's wrong to condemn a man for that. I think he's a good fellow."

Underwood, on the other hand, said that it is his impression that "no one running for public office should get involved in hanky panky. The truth is going to come out."

"It doesn't matter if it's a city, county or state job. You must keep your nose clean if you're seeking to serve the people of the United States," Underwood added.

He said, however, that "lots of people have gotten by with lots worse than he's gotten crushed from."

Boatler's commitment to Hart has not changed, however.

"I talked to (Hart) before this came up. I thought he was a good man and still do. I spoke with his campaign manager a few days ago and I'm still for him, but I'm afraid it's all over."

At the state level, Texas Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle said Friday Hart's action leaves a wide-open field and heightens the importance of the Southern "super primary."

Slagle said "It increases the already very, very large ranks of the uncommitted," in a telephone interview from his Sherman office after Hart announced in Denver that he was dropping out.

Texas, which will send the third-largest number of delegates to the 1988 Democratic National Convention, is one of more than a dozen Southern states that will hold primaries on March 8.

for "moral reasons." But he doesn't think Hart's actions were unprecedented.

"They all do it. Roosevelt had one, JFK had one and Lyndon Johnson — of course, he had so many he doesn't even count," Stovall said.

I.C. Cooper considered himself a Hart supporter, and he still thinks the Colorado senator is "an excellent candidate."

"I'm not as familiar as I'd like to be with the facts pertaining to the accusations. When I have time to learn the facts more fully, I'll decide whether I would continue to support his candidacy," Cooper said.

If, however, the allegations against Hart prove true, Cooper would not vote for Hart.

"I think a national leader should be morally strong," he said.

When asked if she thought Hart slept with Rice, Kay Bancroft replied, "Where there's smoke, there's fire."

And while she hadn't planned on supporting Hart, she certainly won't now that there's "fire."

"If they're running for the position of President of the United States, they should be of high moral fiber," Bancroft said.

Tracy Young and Lynne Fowler both said that Hart's personal affairs are none of the country's business.

"It sounds to me like he's pretty guilty of what they say," Young said. "But his personal life should be his business. If he wants to mess around on his wife, that's his business."

Fowler said Hart's affairs are "none of my business."

"It wouldn't have bothered me (had I been a Hart supporter) because it's not important, that aspect of his life. I'm sure there are a lot of people guilty of worse crimes," Fowler said.

KBYG radio station owner Dick Fields said his station conducted a poll on the morning the story broke asking listeners if they thought the Miami Herald newspaper had acted unethically in spying on Hart. He said the vote was 20-5, with the majority siding against the newspaper.

Fields didn't agree with his listeners.

"It's a tough question, but as a member of the media, I have to say 'yes, the newspaper should have published it. It's relevant to the campaign,'" Fields said.

Fields added that he thinks the allegations against Hart are probably true. Though he probably wouldn't have voted for Hart in the first place, he definitely will not now.

"Very simply, because someone in the public eye should not be in a situation where he could be blackmailed," Fields said.

Mary Williams would not have voted for Hart anyway, but she's not sure he was treated fairly.

"I think I would have to look into it before I could condemn him because there's a possibility the other side lied; because if someone else wanted the democratic nomination, they might get this on him so they would have a better chance," said Williams.

"It seems possible that he might have done it," she added, "but I don't want to be the one to throw the first stone, because I'm not without sin either."

Jack Clark didn't plan to vote for Hart, though he doesn't object to the senator's alleged philandering.

"Heck, he's just having a little fun," said Clark. "I'm not interested in his private life and I don't approve of the way they got it. Are they going to get all the politicians and stake out their bedrooms?"

Clark said he had "no way of knowing" if Hart did sleep with the Miami actress. He did say, however, that Hart's political career is "shot."

Russell Scott probably wouldn't have voted for Hart, and he surely won't now.

"If he professes to be the number one American, and then is deceitful — I don't care, the sex is mundane — but it's the deceit, the hiding behind the backs of the American public.

"Hey, he's human. I'm not saying sex is bad, but to profess to be a saint and then hanging out the dirty laundry just qualifies him to be your general politician," Scott said.

Jim Lasater doesn't think Hart's wife Lee believed her husband, and he wasn't impressed with Hart's composure under pressure.

"I think a presidential candidate should be a good example for the rest of the country," he said, adding that he thought Hart "lost his cool" and "got huffy."

"There's going to be tougher questions than 'Are you fooling around on your wife?' when he gets to be president," White said.

One woman, who asked not to be identified, found a fault in Hart's behaviour not mentioned by anyone else.

"If he was locked up all weekend in that boat with that good looking girl and didn't do anything, than he's stupider than I thought."

Weather

Forecast

West Texas: Mostly clear Saturday night and Sunday. Widely scattered showers or thunderstorms Concho Valley mainly this evening. Mid 40s mountains to near 50 north and far west to the mid 50s southeast and about 60 along the Rio Grande and Big Bend lowlands. Highs Saturday and Sunday in the low to mid 80s except near 90 along the river. Lows Saturday night mostly in the 50s except the lower 60s along the river.

State

The weather service said skies should be fair to partly cloudy over most of the state Saturday. Highs will be mostly in the 80s, but along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend, the highs will be in the 90s.

Overnight low temperatures should dip into the 50s and 60s under fair to partly cloudy skies.

Late-afternoon showers and thunderstorms dampened much of Central, north Central and East Texas Friday, and a line of showers extended across the upper coastal plains into the northwest Gulf of Mexico.

Showers were also reported over parts of south Central and Southeast Texas, according to the National Weather Service. Most of the showers and thunderstorms were triggered by afternoon heating and a weak upper-level low-pressure system moving across Southeast Texas, the weather service said.

Elsewhere, skies were partly cloudy as a weak surface ridge of high pressure hovered over the state.

American policies and his role in the controversial TV mini-series "Amerika."

"Freedom is the most important theme in my music," he stated, adding that sometimes his band "...wished I would write about something else."

"We as Americans have to prove that we believe in our principles of freedom and international law," he said, saying that the country under the Reagan administration is drifting away from those principles, especially with regard to our difficulties with Nicaragua.

"To me...the most important thing I can do is write music," he said. "If I didn't write songs, I wouldn't be here."

"It's hypocrisy to say we're concerned with the human rights of Nicaraguans," he said. "We never have before."

"Our policy towards the Sandanistas is misguided, immoral, and illegal," he said. "For several years we supported a dictator that systematically killed more than 300,000 people."

"America has to get out of the business of trying to overthrow sovereign countries," he said. "America should be 'moral leaders for the rest of the world.'"

On the subject of "Amerika," Kristofferson "...knew I would take some shots from the right and the left. Some of my comrades-in-arms were very concerned with my part in that production."

He did have some reservations with the series. "I felt it reinforced some Cold War stereotypes," he said. "I was very concerned with the way the United Nations in particular was portrayed."

However, he believed that the show was a good experience. "It was very pertinent. It explored some important concepts, like what it means to be an American, and also the ideas of democracy and patriotism."

The Preston Springer band, a local group, began the show with 40 minutes of a mixture of county and rock music minutes, and then Johnny Rutherford took the stage to introduce Kristofferson.

After recognizing the approximately 25 inmates who participated in the park renovation, particularly Clifford Antone, he introduced Kristofferson's band, the Border Lords, with special guest Billy Swann, of "I Can Help" fame.

Rutherford also presented plaques from Mayor Cotton Mize to Kristofferson and band member Steven Bruton, pointing out that Mayor Mize had proclaimed Friday as "Kris Kristofferson Day" in Big Spring.

Two action items are scheduled on the District's meeting agenda. Board members will seek permission to transfer $1,987 from the contingency fund to the electrical and moving account and will take action on changing its hospitalization plan.

Goetz's memory issue

NEW YORK — Amid courtroom theatrics and defiant witnesses, one aspect of Bernhard Goetz's attempted murder trial has drawn little attention: his lawyers' efforts to prove that he imagined a crucial part of his admitted shootings of four young men.

In his statement to police after he surrendered, Goetz said he fired four rounds at four men he thought were trying to rob him on a subway train and then returned to one, since identified as Darrell Cabey.

"I said, 'You seem to be all right, here's another,'" Goetz told New Hampshire police. "I was gonna pull the trigger anyway, but he jerked his right arm and on reflex he was shot instantly."

Meese probe delayed

WASHINGTON — Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden said Friday a Justice Department review of Attorney General Edwin Meese's ties to the scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp. could delay the start of any criminal investigation of Meese.

The Judiciary Committee is concerned that the review not delay a preliminary criminal investigation by the department, Biden said.

The inquiry, launched in the past few weeks, stems from Meese's intervention on behalf of Wedtech in 1982 and from the fact that Meese's investment manager, W. Franklyn Chinn, sat on the company's board of directors in 1985.

Wedtech, a South Bronx, N.Y., defense contractor, is under investigation by U.S. attorneys' offices in New York and Baltimore as well as by New York state prosecutors for alleged payoffs to more than a dozen public officials in return for help in winning government contracts.

Man dies in safety show

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — An off-duty jail guard trying to demonstrate to school children how to escape from a burning building fell and broke his neck as the youngsters watched in horror, authorities said.

But school officials said Friday that William Durand fell from equipment that was not intended to be used for such demonstrations.

Durand, 38, was one of several chaperones who accompanied about 125 middle school students on a field trip Thursday to the Madra ranch outside San Antonio. Durand's 12-year-old daughter was among the children on the field trip, but Northside School Superintendent Jack Jordan said she didn't witness the accident.

Durand, who weighs about 300 pounds, got on top of a large wooden spool to demonstrate how to get out of a burning building, witnesses told sheriff's Deputy R.V. Lujan.

Ancient jewelry

Islamic collection displayed in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — As the Christian Crusaders prepared to storm the gates of Jerusalem, a Moslem woman scooped up her jewelry, grabbed a pot still warm from the oven and buried the silver pieces wrapped in a napkin from the dining room table.

Nearly 900 years later, her perfectly preserved silver armlets and anklets decorated with animals and heart-shaped scrolls will go on display May 19 at the Israel Museum.

They are part of a $20 million collection of 200 major pieces of Islamic jewelry, including a diamond necklace that is a mate to one owned by actress Elizabeth Taylor and a gold necklace given by the Shah of Iran to French President Charles DeGaulle.

The exhibition, including contributions from the Louvre in Paris and the Metropolitan Museum of New York, will be accompanied by Israel's first international symposium on Islamic jewelry, which opens June 10.

But because the jewelry is being shown in Jerusalem, Islam's third holiest city after Mecca and Medina, it is politically sensitive.

Israel regards unified Jerusalem as the capital of the Jewish state, but the claim is disputed by the Arabs because the city's eastern sector was captured from Jordan in 1967.

Museum officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said some European museums, apparently fearing reprisals from Islamic countries, refused to send items for display. Some private donors from Moslem countries also insisted on anonymity, they said.

Meir Meyer, vice chairman of the Israel Museum, said the jewelry collection was the second exhibition with an Islamic theme in recent years and said there had been no public protests so far.

"For many generations, the Arab world looked down on the crafts, and it was Jewish craftsmen who made a lot of the Islamic jewelry in many countries," Meyer said in an interview.

Meyer said 1987, the 20th anniversary of Israel's unification of Jerusalem, was an appropriate time "for showing the best of Moslem art with the kind of general idea that art should cross the frontiers and be admired for its quality."

In addition to the hoard buried by the Jerusalem woman in 1099 and found in excavations between 1968 and 1984, gold and silver jewelry buried by Moslem women just before the Crusader conquest was found in Caesarea on the Mediterranean Sea and Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee.

In the basement vault of the Israel museum, Islamic art curator Naama Brosh took out a crumbling bronze pot that had held the Jerusalem woman's jewelry and slipped onto her arm a coil-shaped silver arm bracelet.

"You can almost see her, taking a pot from the stove, wrapping up her jewelry in a cloth and rushing to bury it outside near the Omayyad Palace before the Crusaders came," said Brosh, pointing out the blackened bottom of the pot as evidence it was taken from the stove. "She expected to come back and get it later, but she never did."

Terrorists hit police

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Terrorists launched a gun and bomb attack on a police station in County Armagh on Friday night, police said. They reported casualties and said troops and police reinforcements were sent to the area.

The domestic news agency Press Association reported eight people killed and said most were believed to be terrorists. It said two police officers suffered head wounds.

Police said there were police and civilian casualties but would not confirm the numbers.

An explosion at the station in Loughgall, five miles from Armagh city and about 30 miles southwest of Belfast, was followed by an exchange of gunfire, a spokesman for the Royal Ulster Constabulary said. He said the explosion occurred at 7:20 p.m.

Landslide kills 100

PADANG, Indonesia — Workers have recovered 96 bodies after heavy rains sent tons of earth and rocks crashing down on two villages in West Sumatra, the Department of Social Affairs said today.

A department official said workers were looking for 10 more bodies believed still buried after part of a hill collapsed Monday on the villages 45 miles from the North Sumatra provincial capital of Padang.

A woman named Amah, who lost three of her four children in the landslide, said she was sure there were more than 30 dead still buried. Officials said the landslide engulfed over 50 homes and badly damaged 54 more. They estimated damage at $1 million.

Continuing rains and fears of more accidents at the hill have made it difficult for workers to search for the bodies. Officials have warned that a second landslide could occur if the rains continue.

Hostage efforts halted

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Lebanon's top Shiite Moslem spiritual leader said in an interview published Friday that negotiations for the release of foreign hostages had been "frozen" until after the 1988 U.S. and French elections.

Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, spiritual guide of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, was quoted as saying: "The kidnapers have an interest in this freezing until the American and French elections in 1988."

He did not elaborate.

Hezbollah, or Party of God, is a Lebanese group made up of Shiites loyal to Iran's revolutionary patriarch, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. It is believed to include several of the groups that claim to hold the hostages. Hezbollah itself has denied involvement in the abductions.

Fadlallah's remarks appeared on an inside page of the first issue of Ash-Shams, a conservative tabloid daily.

Hart's short, brutal presidential campaign ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Hart, the cool intellectual who saw new ideas as the key to the White House, promised his 1988 campaign would be different.

And different it was. Short and brutal, the 26-day episode that was the 1988 Hart campaign for the presidency had little to do with the issues.

All the positions the Democratic front-runner had carefully crafted — to answer the 1984 question of "Where's the beef?" — were left unread as attention focused on Hart's character, private life and rumors of his sexual indiscretions.

Ultimately, it was Hart's relationship with a Miami woman — exposed in a newspaper story — that gave substance to all the questions that had been asked about Hart, questions for which he did not have convincing answers.

Faced with relentless public questioning about intimate matters, Hart withdrew from the race on Friday.

"Now clearly under present circumstances, this campaign cannot go on," he said. "I refuse to submit my family and my friends and innocent people and myself to further rumors and gossip. It's simply an intolerable situation."

He referred to the media behavior outside his final campaign event as "the height of the circus" and decried media scrutiny that brought "my very strong wife close to tears because she can't even get in her own house at night without being harassed."

The former Colorado senator was easily the front-runner in a field crowded with unknowns when he began the campaign with a short speech in front of the red cliffs of the Rocky Mountains on April 13.

"I intend — as I always have — to run a campaign of ideas," Hart said. "Since we are running for the highest and most important office in the land, all of us must try to hold ourselves to the very highest possible standards of integrity and ethics."

Later, he would add: "We genuinely hope this campaign will be different. We want it to be a campaign based on what is best for this country and to test our ideas and policies against the standard of the national interest."

Hart laid out his foreign policy views in a series of speeches calling for what he described as "enlightened engagement." And he had a trio of lectures on economic policy scheduled for later in May.

Hart planned carefully for his second bid for the White House, building on his remarkable 1984 campaign that almost snatched the Democratic presidential nomination from Walter Mondale.

Three years ago, he burst onto the national scene in a matter of days, using a second-place finish in the Iowa caucuses as the booster rocket that shot him out of the pack and past Mondale for a couple of stunning victories.

But the 1984 campaign was also marked by a series of stumbles and errors. There were questions about why he changed his name to Hart from Hartpence, why he had misstated his age in various documents and why he obtained a U.S. Naval Reserve commission while he was a senator. These came to be known as the character issue, while the undercurrent of rumors suggested his involvement with women on the campaign trail.

But Hart said he had learned. "I would hope that four years later with a lot more seasoning that I am prepared," Hart said in his first 1988 campaign news conference.

And even in his announcement speech, he said he would make mistakes, that he was only human.

"As a candidate, I can almost guarantee that I'm going to make some mistakes," Hart said at Red Rocks Park. And make mistakes he did, errors of judgment that wiped out his 1988 campaign almost as quickly as unexpected victories had made Hart a household name in the 1984 campaign.

Only a day after his announcement, Hart's careful issue speeches were swept aside by his comments that other campaigns were spreading rumors about his personal life. That brought back all the stories about the character issues, as well as the questions about why Hart's 1984 campaign debt had not been paid off.

Then, in seven days in May, Hart made "a series of mistakes" that ended his hopes for the presidency.

Hart spent time May 1 and 2 with a Miami model, Donna Rice. Reporters from The Miami Herald saw the two coming and going from his Washington townhouse while Mrs. Hart was at the Denver home. The newspaper story, saying the two had spent the night together, was in Sunday's papers.

Hart and Rice denied any romantic involvement and Hart denounced the newspaper for sloppy work and wrong conclusions. But Rice also revealed she, Hart and others had taken an overnight cruise to Bimini and that Hart had called her several times from the campaign trail.

"Did I make a mistake by putting myself in circumstances that could be misconstrued? Of course I did. That goes without saying," Hart told the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York.

Spain no fantasy for director Spielberg

BY RICHARD LOBANT
Associated Press Writer
JERRE DE LA FRONTERA, Spain (AP) — Steven Spielberg turns childhood fantasies into box-office smashes.

But the self-proclaimed "E.T." and "Raiders of the Lost Ark" must make occasional concessions to reality.

The 39-year-old director came to Spain to shoot his latest movie, "Empire of the Sun," because of the long sunny days in the marshy delta of the Guadalquivir River. However, in the same delta for the movie and story, he found the project resembled in a series of misunderstandings far removed from the fantasies of childhood.

The movie concerns a young

English victim of the Japanese occupation of Shanghai.

The Spanish press has access to the director's plans, which include an airplane crash, a Japanese prison camp, a strip complete with a series of vintage Japanese fighter planes. And so the press relied on scattered information for

Greenhouse, Pin Deck not the same any more

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Two Big Spring drinking and eating establishments have taken on new looks in the past two weeks.

The Greenhouse has changed from a bar to a restaurant, and the Pin Deck Lounge at Highland Bowling Lanes has become a much bigger bar.

When the Pin Deck closed for the night a week ago Thursday, it was approximately 1,200 sq. feet big, said owner Harold Aberegg.

When they opened the doors the next morning, the Pin Deck was 4,200 sq. feet. Aberegg said the additional space, which includes a dance floor and two bars, was built before that Thursday. All that was left for the wall between the addition and the bar to be torn down.

Before the addition, there were occasions when the Pin Deck had to turn away customers because of overcrowding. Aberegg said the most customers ever in the old Pin Deck was approximately 170.

Aberegg said there were approximately 300 customers in his bar last Saturday night.

The Greenhouse, on 1102 Scurry St., has been a Big Spring drinking establishment for seven years. It closed about a month ago, but reopened two weeks ago as a restaurant.

Owner Dan Lusk now calls his restaurant Dan's Greenhouse. He's open for lunch and dinner Monday through Saturday. Lunch hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and dinner goes from 5-9 p.m.

The menu consists of charcoal grilled hamburgers, gourmet sandwiches, home-made desserts and lunch and dinner specials. Lusk said specials this week included lasagna, brisket, chicken spaghetti and red enchiladas.

He reported busy crowds at lunch and slow business at dinners. As a diner Tuesday at the Dan's Greenhouse, I have this to report:

the charcoal grilled bacon cheeseburger was delicious, and my partner's turkey sandwich was reported to be excellent.

Perhaps most pleasing of all was the atmosphere — very relaxed, as if you're eating at someone's home and you've got friends cooking for you. It was particularly nice to be able to sit on the porch, feel the breeze, chat, and then enjoy the good chow.

And Lusk said he'll be adding beer and wine to the menu soon.

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.
For use with issue: Different House Styles

Main idea: To celebrate National Historic Preservation Week, this issue describes different home styles. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

1. Count the number of houses pictured. How are they alike and different? Which one do you like the best? Are there any houses in your neighborhood like the ones in this issue?
2. Point to the picture of Lucy the elephant. What would it be like to live in a house like that?
3. What is National Historic Preservation Week? Are there any old buildings in your area? Why do you think it is important to keep old buildings from being destroyed? What are some things you could do to help preserve them?
4. Draw a picture of what you think houses will look like in the future.
5. Draw a picture of a house you would like to live in.
6. Look in your paper for pictures of houses. Can you tell which style they are? Look at the classified ads for houses. Is there one that you would like to buy? Write a pretend ad for a house you are selling.
7. Find the following words: preservation, architecture, gable, restored, formal, level, turret. Define and make up a new sentence for each one.
8. Answer the following questions:
 - a. Which style of house usually has columns?
 - b. What style of house has different levels?
 - c. When was the Art Deco style popular?

Mall gets new owner, manager

Highland Mall has undergone a change of ownership and management.

Vista Savings of Odessa purchased the mall from Strathnaver Co. of Dallas, and manager Sherry Rose began the job April 27, she said. She replaces former manager Michah Goza.

Vista's plans for Highland Mall include cosmetic renovation inside and out, and parking lot and roof repairs, she said. Rose plans to promote greater leasing of mall space.

Highland Mall is 75 percent occupied, she said.

A weekly farmer's market will begin at the mall in June, she said. Farmers interested in selling produce at the market should contact the Permian Basin Farmers Market Association, the Howard County Extension Agency or Joe Hollingsworth, president of the Howard County Farmers Association, she said.

Rose, of Midland, was born and raised in the Permian Basin. She previously was manager of Midland's Dellwood Mall for six years.

AUSTIN (AP) — Jim Hightower rarely appears in public without his trademark Resistol hat. As the state's agriculture commissioner, Hightower is in the business of selling Texas.

More specifically, he's in the business of selling agricultural goods ranging from crawfish and Christmas trees to low-fat beef and wine — all of it produced in the Lone Star state.

His targeted market these days encompasses anybody and everybody beyond the state's borders.

Never one for understatement, Hightower speaks of "wildcatting" new markets for Texas' wide array of agricultural products.

The payoff, he preaches, will be counted in terms of "billions of dollars in new income and hundreds of thousands of new jobs."

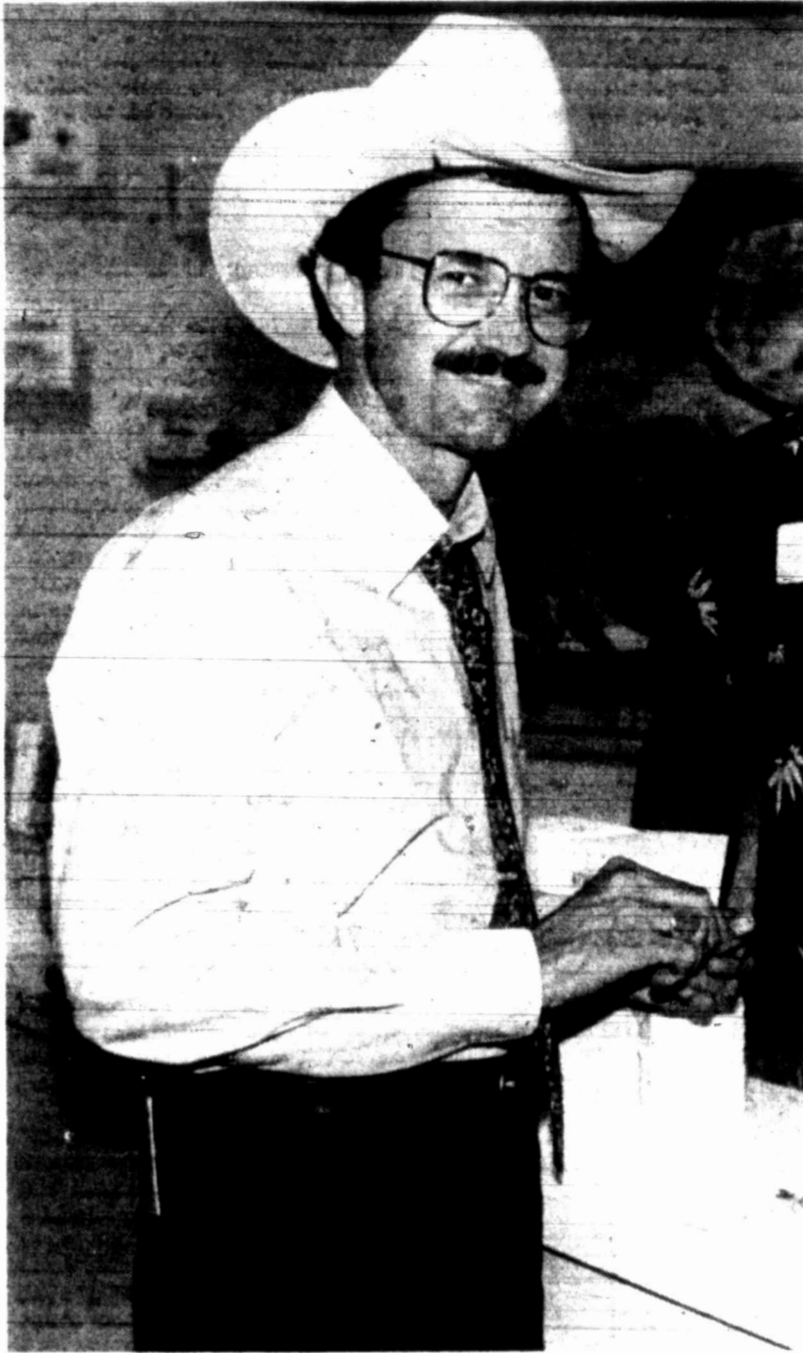

Given the nation's decade-long farming slump and a regional economy traumatized by depressed oil prices, Hightower's call may be interpreted as upbeat or unrealistic.

Yet while prospects for Texas' traditional cash-crop farmers remain tenuous, a relatively small agri-industrial sector is sprouting buds that could blossom into a major new branch of the state's evolving economy.

Manny Zelzer, the 68-year-old president of Dallas-based Richland Beverage Corp., personifies the shift. Late in his career as a finished pipe and steel manufacturer and broker, Zelzer was asked by a Saudi client to procure a non-alcoholic beer for the 6,000 expatriate oil-field workers from Korea, Malaysia and the Philippines working in Saudi Arabia.

Zelzer, working with San Antonio-based Pearl Brewing Co., delivered that was 10 years ago. When foreign sales hit $2 million, Zelzer introduced the product under the name Texas Select to Texas consumers. Zelzer recently took over wholesale marketing for the San Antonio-based producer of Picoso's hot chili mixed-nuts and peanuts. Saudi Arabia, Japan and Canada are among the offshore buyers he's wooing.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower is in the business of selling Texas-produced agricultural goods. Hightower envisions alternate crops such as blueberries, nursery stock, pinto beans, crawfish, catfish, Christmas trees, wine grapes and specialty vegetables contributing as much as $6.2 billion annually to the state's economy and creating 75,000 new jobs.

Chandler Food Sales, has found similar success brokering pickled okra, popcorn and other specialty foods to out-of-state customers.

Chandler Foods is one of 300 food companies and 48 food retail chains that participate in the Agriculture Department's Taste-of-Texas marketing campaign, which promotes Texas grown and processed food products at trade shows.

"The shows we've been to in Chicago, Los Angeles, Tampa, Baltimore-Washington bring in all the food buyers from those regions," Chandler says. "We provide samples for them and put on a Texas party."

Chandler points out that Texas agriculture has shifted in recent years from grains and commodity items to fruits, vegetables and specialty crops. With the right marketing, there's no reason Texas shouldn't be known for popcorn the way Georgia is known for peaches, he says.

The shows have convinced Chandler that there is "great room" for growth in the agricultural good export market. "Outfits like us have tapped less than 10 percent of the market for exported Texas food," he says.

That kind of testimonial is music to Hightower's ears. The commissioner's 126-page "Economic Growth Through Agriculture Development, a Blueprint for Action," unveiled last fall, calls for diversification with a capital D.

Hightower envisions alternate crops such as blueberries, nursery stock, pinto beans, crawfish, catfish, Christmas trees, wine grapes and specialty vegetables contributing as much as $6.2 billion annually to the state's economy and creating 75,000 new jobs.

A second plank of the blueprint calls for greater efforts in the food and fiber processing industry. Texas, which ranks as the nation's second largest producer of raw agricultural commodities, processes only 6 percent of the nation's food.

Should Texas find a way to process 7 percent, that 1 percent increase would translate into $3 billion in revenues and 90,000 jobs, according to Hightower.

The plan also calls for aggressive domestic and international marketing of Texas goods. Armed with a report from State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office, Hightower says Texas companies are achieving only 20 percent of their export potential.

Small business luncheon May 15

COLORADO CITY — Local small business people will be honored May 15 at a luncheon hosted by the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce.

The luncheon, in conjunction with Small Business Week, May 10-16, will be at noon May 15 at the Civic Center. Dr. Don Altman, director of the Small Business Development Center at Abilene Christian University, will speak.

Local nominees for the Lubbock District's Small Business Person of the Year award, Eddie and Joy Piland, owners of Eddie's Pharmacy, will be recognized.

Tickets to the luncheon are $6 and are available at the Chamber, City National Bank, First National Bank and First Western Savings and Loan.

Ambassadors discuss city festival

The Big Spring Ambassadors, concluding a successful Chamber of Commerce membership drive, met in regular session Wednesday.

They discussed the Heart of the City Festival, scheduled for June 6 downtown, to be combined with the annual Crossroads Stampede.

They also discussed the July 4th fireworks display.

The Ambassadors were involved in 24 ribbon cuttings in April. For more information about the organization, contact the Chamber.

Water deliveries drop 33 percent

Water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District dropped in April, mainly because San Angelo received virtually no water.

Both San Angelo reservoirs caught substantial volumes of water the previous fall, whereas last spring they were low and the city used about 14 million gallons per day from the CRMWD, officials reported.

The city took 1,389,000 gallons this April, compared to 437,994,000 gallons last year.

Deliveries amounted to 1,331,436,150 in April, a drop of 675,014,000 gallons or 33.31 percent from April 1986.

Of the deliveries, 1,207,400 gallons went to municipalities, a drop of 646,463,000 gallons or 34.87 percent. Oil companies received 143,823,000 gallons, a decline of 16.51 percent.

Big Spring received 194,897,000 gallons, down 26.75 percent; Midland 394,101,000 gallons, up 6.81 percent; Odessa 527,537,000 gallons, down 21.69 percent; Snyder 84,431,000 gallons, down 14.35 percent; Stanton 8,346,000 gallons, down 29.75 percent.

Blalack becomes office manager

Johnnie D. Blalack has been promoted from senior customer service representative to office manager at Big Spring Cable TV, systems manager Larson Lloyd said.

The promotion was effective May 1, he said.

Blalack has been senior customer service representative three years, he said. She began work at the company in July 1981 as customer service representative, he said.

Blalack was born and raised in

JOHNNIE D. BLALACK

Big Spring, and graduated from Big Spring High School.

Rain falls, cotton grows in area

Rains ranging from 0.7 inches to nearly 4 inches have fallen over parts of District 6, Far West Texas, including Howard County, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cotton is emerging in the El Paso Valley and livestock are making good gains on pastures and ranges, the service said. Some sheep and goat shearing continues.

Commercial chili and onions are growing well.

In District 7, West Central Texas, scattered rains produced 1/2 to 1 inch rainfall. Freeze-damage wheat and oats are being grazed out or baled for hay.

Livestock is in excellent shape, with prices strong, the service said. Sheep shearing is complete and grazing is excellent.

Phone marketing fraud battled

The Texas Attorney General and Southwestern Bell Telephone have joined forces to fight fraudulent telephone marketing schemes in the state.

Attorney General Jim Mattox said Texas residents are bilked out of millions of dollars annually by misleading and false telephone sales pitches. Nationwide, consumers lose an estimated $1 billion annually from telemarketing fraud.

A fraction of businesses use bogus prizes, investments and cheap products to entice uninformed consumers to buy their unwanted and sometimes substandard products, he said. Goods and services ranging from investments in oil and gas leases to rare coins, gemstones and office supplies are popular offerings in scams, he said.

Southwestern Bell Telephone has produced a pamphlet offering safeguards to help avoid fraudulent calls and giving tips on handling sales calls. In addition, the company will provide additional information through its bill inserts.

Copies of the pamphlet are available by calling the Attorney General's office at 512-463-2070.

Farmer election nominees sought

Eligible farmers in Howard, Glasscock, Midland and Upton Counties are invited to run for election to the Farmers Home Administration county committee, according to FmHA County Supervisor Ronnal E. Bruton.

Generally, farmers who are residents of the county but not FmHA borrowers are eligible, he said.

Nominations must be returned to the FmHA Martin County office by June 10.

More information is available at the FmHA office in the Federal Building Room 220 in Big Spring, or by calling 267-1102.

One vacancy will be filled. The Martin County area committee assists the FmHA county office in reviewing applications for farm loans and other credit matters.

'Back to basics' not the solution

By TOM PETERS

Many experts believe corporation America needs a "back to basics" movement to stoke our lousy business performance. That's not only wrong; it's a dangerous delusion. It ignores the roots of our malaise and the wrenching shift of attitude we need.

For instance, on product quality, we are getting clobbered everywhere — by the Germans, Swiss and Italians, as well as the Japanese. We didn't, as one union official said to me, "Take our eye off the ball." We never had our eye on the ball.

Let's face it. Our strengths have been our natural resources and pioneering spirit. U.S. farmers, starting with the pilgrims, would cultivate land, wear it out, and blithely move west five miles. Every farm I've seen is a history book marked by hulks of rusted cars and agricultural equipment. Have you ever seen a single rusted auto or tractor body in Germany, France or Japan?

When we began to manufacture, we adopted agriculture's habits — mass, not quality. Quality guru W. Edwards Deming observes, "Henry Ford made great contributions, but the Model T wasn't a quality car." Europeans and the Japanese have lived within limits for centuries, and have had to be more careful with resources — that is, quality conscious. Dwellers in "rabbit hutch" housing in Japan value every square inch, and, therefore, every item, wooden or electronic.

Not so in America, where homes and yards are filled with broken Christmas toys, years-old TVs and power lawn mowers. So let's abandon the notion that we need to return to the days of pride in craftsmanship. Such days never existed.

Our long-standing traditions, more than quarterly earnings pressure, are the reason we're having such a tough time coming to grips with the need for superior quality now.

We never provided good service either. Foreigners may praise Americans' openness and relative informality, but we've always been bustling and impatient.

We rushed to use telephones, Federal Express and now computer networks, because we've always been in a hurry. We value people who "get to the point," and we are irate at those who "beat about the bush." When something breaks, instead of fixing it, we junk it and buy another one.

Well, if quality and service were never our passion, big has been. I bet you can't drive more than 75 miles in any direction, from anywhere in the U.S., without running into a "biggest in the world" of some sort. Wide open spaces and an apparently limitless frontier set it all in motion.

Our factories are just another instance of our devotion to size — our pride is in the biggest auto plant, the largest smelter, the longest production line.

Big railroads spurred us on by making vast markets for cheap goods accessible to industry. Railroad tycoons then used naked power to force business combinations, which they then controlled. Independents who wouldn't go along faced outrageous rail rates and were often forced out of business.

The rise of big combines coincided with the War Department's perfection of mass-production techniques. Britain invented most tools of mass production, but we copied and perfected them. (It's ironic that we are now the premier inventors, and Japan the perfectors.)

A recent poll of Korean businessmen, Fortune reports, suggest that "they preferred Japanese suppliers to Americans by a margin of two to one. The Koreans complained about mediocre product quality, slow delivery times, and poor service, and added that U.S. companies were reluctant to accept small orders."

The Koreans are right. But the answer is not a return to basics. Rather, we need to learn an entirely new set of skills and undo our traditional strengths, over 300 years in the making.

Drilling report

The price of West Texas crude is $19.20, as of Friday.

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

A.K. Guthrie Operating has filed first production figures on a new oil well in Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field. The No. 1 Southland "C" showed potential to pump 96 barrels of oil per day, plus 34 barrels of water.

The operator has 40 acres leased, with drillsite in the W&NW Survey, nine miles northeast of Forsan.

The well will produce from perforations in the Middle Clear Fork Formation, 3,254 to 3,786 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth was 3,900 feet.

The Howard-Glasscock Field gained two production wells on a new oil well in Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field. The No. 43 and 47 G.O. Chalk 25 miles southeast of Big Spring.

The No. 43 well indicated ability to pump 15 barrels of oil per day, plus 29 barrels of water. It bottomed at 2,500 feet.

Union Oil of California, based in Midland, has revealed plans to drill a 10,900-ft. wildcat well in Howard County. The operator has 483 acres leased, with drillsite in the T&P Survey. The venture has been designated as the No. 1 Freeburg Wolfe. Drillsite is 15 miles north of Big Spring.

The No. 6 J.B. Ryan, a 10,000-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Howard County's Southeast Luther Field. Maralo Inc. of Midland is the operator. The well will be spudded in a 480-acre lease 11 miles north of Big Spring in the T&P Survey.

The No. 26 Sloan-Chalk was finaled by Mobil Producing.

It is a developmental well in the Howard-Glasscock Field, Howard County, 13 miles southeast of Big Spring. Drillsite is in an 80-acre lease in the W&NW Survey.

Daily potential of 36 barrels of oil was posted with the Railroad Commission. The well also made 29 barrels of water per day. The operation went to a 2,500-ft. bottom, and will produce from perforations in the San Andres Formation, 2,027 to 2,192 feet into the wellbore.

A new producer was brought on line in Mitchell County's East Iatan-Howard Field, with Mobil Producing as the operator.

The operation showed potential to pump 36 barrels of oil per day, plus 82 barrels of water. It was taken to a 3,400-ft. bottom, and will produce from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, 2,498 to 3,345 feet into the wellbore.

Texaco Inc. has filed first production figures on a wildcat well in Mitchell County. The No. 1 H.G. Ison showed ability to pump 35 barrels of oil per day, plus 77,000 CF casinghead gas.

The operator has 320 acres leased, with drillsite in the T&P Survey. The well is located eight miles northwest of Loraine.

Production will be from perforations in the Strawn Formation, 7,156 to 7,184 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth was 7,600 feet, and the well was plugged back to 7,310 feet.

Jerry Chambers Oil has given up on its efforts to make a producer out of the No. 84 Holloway Canyon, a developmental try in Borden County's West Lazy S Field.

Drillsite was 12 miles north of Gail in a 600-acre lease in the J.T. Beal Survey.

The well was spudded Feb. 13, and probed to a dry bottom at 8,875 feet.

Two new producers have been brought on line in Martin County's Sprabery Trend Field, with Parker & Parsley Petroleum as the operator.

Located 16 miles west of Stanton, the operations are in 163 and 90-acre leases in the T&P Survey. They are designated as the Nos. 1 and 2 Schaecker.

The No. 1 well showed ability to pump 49 barrels of oil per day, plus 186 barrels of water. It bottomed at 9,520 feet, and was plugged back to 9,440 feet.

The No. 2 well demonstrated potential to pump 51 barrels of oil per day. It also made 202 barrels of water daily. The well was taken to a 9,520-ft. bottom and plugged back to 9,448 feet.

The wells will produce from perforations commingled in the Sprabery Formation, ranging from 7,835 to 9,388 feet into the wellbore.

Amoco Production has filed for permit to drill the No. 8 E.L. Powell, an 8,900-ft. developmental well 11 miles northwest of Garden City. Location is in a 1,845-acre lease in Glasscock County's T&P Survey. The well will be drilled in the Dewey Lake Field.

Terra Resources of Midland is planning to seek deeper production at the No. 3 Lois Blalock, a developmental well in Glasscock County's Dewey Lake Field. The well is located 12 miles northwest of Garden City in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

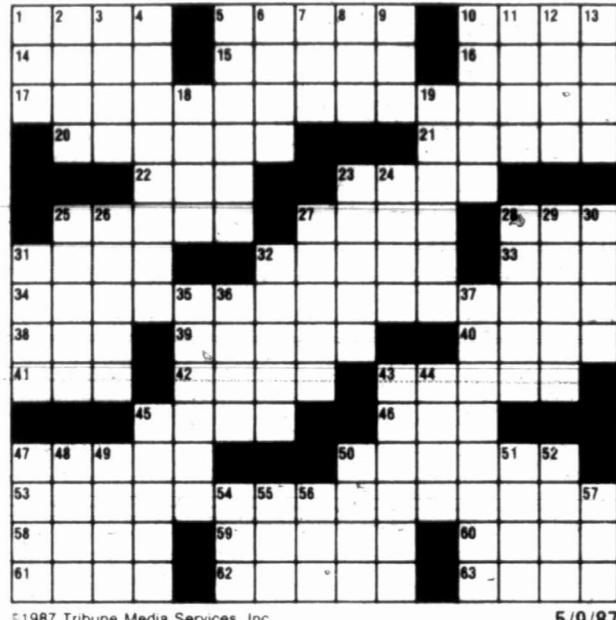

The same operator originally completed the well Dec. 3 of last year. At that time, it pumped seven barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation at 5,978 to 6,039 feet into the hole. The original total depth of the well was 11,056 feet, and it was plugged back to 8,400 feet.

Terra Resources will aim for production in the Wolfcamp Formation at approximately 11,150 feet.

Mustangs outlast Steers in 14 innings

Five hour heartbreaker eliminates Steers from playoff contention

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

With a possible playoff berth on the line and their backs against the wall, the Big Spring Steers battled the Andrews Mustangs for all they were worth.

When it was all over, 14 innings and four hours and 15 minutes later, the Mustangs had escaped with a 8-5 victory as nightfall set in.

The loss eliminates any chances Big Spring had of reaching the state playoffs. Andrews and Pecos will represent District 2-4A. Big Spring sports a 6-5 district record while Andrews moves to 9-2, tied with Pecos. Pecos closes out its season against Big Spring and Andrews finishes against Monahans.

The game was a beauty. Both teams played determined, hard-nosed baseball. The Steers managed to stay in the game despite 10 errors. They aided their cause by turning four double plays in the extra innings.

The pitching for both teams was very good. The Steers used Aaron Allen, Carey Fraser and Timmy Guterrez. The Mustangs countered with Maudy Hernandez and Sidney Mihecoby.

Allen started for the Steers and hurled the first three and two-thirds innings. He was touched for eight hits and four runs. He was relieved by Fraser, who pitched two and two-thirds innings of scoreless ball.

Allen was inserted by coach John Velasquez in the seventh. He then pitched two innings of scoreless ball. Allen finished the game with eight strike outs. Allen was relieved by Guterrez, who pitched the remainder of the game and took the loss.

The curve-balling sophomore pitched the last six innings, and gave up five hits and four runs.

Andrews started Hernandez and he lasted five innings, allowing four runs and six hits. Mihecoby, a sophomore left-hander, did a bang up job in relief as he fanned 13 and allowed one run on three hits.

Big Spring took a 2-0 lead after the first inning of play. Ramon Ontiveros started things off with a single. Eric Thompson followed with a single, and Chad Wash's fly scored Ontiveros. Thompson scored when Wash was caught off first base, forcing a rundown. Thompson scored before Wash was tagged out.

Andrews scored a run in the second when Rickey Morris walked and eventually scored on a bloop single by Stephen Hines.

Andrews took a 4-2 lead in the fourth. The big blow was a two run scoring triple by Hernandez.

Big Spring came back and tied the game in the sixth. Thompson led off with a single and Allen followed by smashing a line shot over the right field fence.

The game stayed that way until the top of the 11th.

With two outs, Andrews' David Emiliano singled, stole second and went to third when the second baseman missed the catcher's throw. He scored when the shortstop bobbled a grounder by Micheal Hernandez.

But the Steers weren't about to let the game end. In the bottom half of the 11th, Teddy Molina walked and Matt Burrow singled. Molina scored on a bloop single to center field by Felix Rodriguez. The Steers ended the inning with Rodriguez getting picked off first and Burrow trying to score from third while Rodriguez was in the rundown. This time it didn't work, as Burrow as tagged out at the plate.

The game rocked on until the top of the 14th, when Andrews made its move to victory. Tony Valdez struck out, but Steers catcher Charlie Ogle couldn't hold on to the ball. Valdez ran to first and Ogle's throw was dropped by Burrow, giving Andrews a strike out by a runner on first with no outs.

Todd Lucas walked and Valdez advanced to third on a wild pitch. The winning run scored when Daniel Renteria hit a slow roller to second, scoring Valdez. The next run came when Freddie Lujan executed a perfect squeeze bunt, scoring Lucas and getting a hit himself.

The final run scored when Morris hit a long fly to center fielder Rodriguez, scoring Renteria from third. Rodriguez caught the ball for the second out and completed the double play by throwing out Maudy Hernandez, who reached base via walk, tagging from second to third.

But the damage was done as the Steers went down one, two, three in the bottom of the 14th inning.

"We had our chances to win, but we didn't do it," said Velasquez. "We made too many errors but we did some things that could have won the game."

"High school rules say you can reenter any of your starters, so I put Aaron (Allen) back in to get his bat back into the game. He hit a home run too. I took him out the first time because he got wild. I took him out the second time because his arm got tired."

"It was a set play when Matt (Burrow) got thrown out at home. Felix (Rodriguez) didn't make the guy chase him down long enough. We had gotten away with the play before."

The Steers record falls to 10-11 for the season. Andrews is now 15-6 overall.

Andretti heats up Indy track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti remained the fastest river in practice. Tom Sneva crashed and Rick Mears looked at a possible change of cars on Friday, the final full day of practice before the opening of qualifications for the Indianapolis 500.

In all, 41 cars took to the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval under sunny skies, with everyone trying to catch Andretti's Chevrolet-powered Lola, which turned a fast lap of 216.242 mph Friday.

Earlier in the week, Andretti turned in two laps over 218, unofficially the fastest laps in speedway history. The 1969 Indy winner will be favored Saturday to win the pole for the May 24 race and also to break the one- and four-lap Indy qualifying records set last year.

The one-lap mark is 217.581, while the four-lap, 10-mile average record is 216.823.

Andretti, who had been the fastest five of the seven days of practice, did cause his Newman-Haas team a bit of a scare Friday when an oil line let loose and it at first appeared he had blown his qualifying engine.

Sneva, the 1963 Indy winner, had to switch to his backup March after crashing his Buick-powered primary car in the first turn. He was able to walk away from the crash, but his car sustained extensive damage to its right side.

"The car felt good in (turn) three and four, and then when I got down to one it wouldn't turn and we just went straight on into the wall," said Sneva, who finished last in 1986 after crashing during the parade lap.

"I think that's been the complaint this year with the guys who have crashed is that one minute things feel fine and then all of a sudden it (the car) takes off."

Dick Ferguson also walked away from a crash later in the day in turn four, while Phil Krueger escaped injury in a crash between turns one and two. That made it nine crashes since practice opened here last Saturday.

Mears, a two-time Indy winner, decided to go with a seven 1986 March after failing to produce the speed he wanted in his Penske PC16 racer.

"We haven't found the right combination with what we have," said Mears, who drove the year-old March to a North American closed course record lap of 204.444 mph last November at the 1000 International Speedway. "I'm just going to see what it (the car) can do. It was really solid last year."

Isiah's record third quarter wings Hawks

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Isiah Thomas scored an NBA playoff-record 25 points in the third quarter Friday night, lifting the Detroit Pistons to a 108-99 victory over Atlanta and a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven playoff series.

Game 4 is scheduled for Sunday at the Silverdome.

Thomas, who finished with 35 points, broke the NBA playoff record of 23 points in a single period shared by Bernard King of New York and Gus Williams of Seattle.

Thomas also led Detroit's pick-pocket defense as the Pistons broke away from a 41-41 halftime deadlock. The biggest lead in the first half was only four points, but with Thomas leading the charge, the Pistons outscored the Hawks 38-23 for a 79-64 advantage with 3:13 remaining in the third quarter.

Atlanta closed the deficit to 85-75 at the end of the third quarter, but then Dennis Rodman took over, scoring nine fourth-quarter points for the Pistons.

Rodman finished with 12 points for Detroit while Adrian Dantley scored 16, John Salley 15 and Bill Laimbeer 14.

Kevin Willis led Atlanta with 26 points and Dominique Wilkins finished with 22. Randy Wittman, who scored 34 points in Game 2, was held to 16.

The game was free of the body-slammings, elbow-throwing tactics that marred Game 2 until Wilkins got scissored between Thomas and Rick Mahorn and fell to the floor while soaring in for a layup with 1:20 remaining in the second quarter.

Wilkins, feeling he'd been pushed by Mahorn, came up swinging and both benches emptied immediately. No punches landed during the pushing and shoving that followed, although the 6-foot-1 Thomas jumped up on the back of 7-foot Willis and hung there for a few seconds.

Mahorn was assessed a personal foul and Wilkins sank both free throws for a 41-41 tie that stood for the remainder of the first half.

Atlanta and Detroit split six games during the regular season, but the Pistons have won seven straight at home, including three playoff wins.

Bucks 126, Celtics 121 (OT)
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sidney Moncrief scored six points in overtime and Ricky Pierce hit the go-ahead basket with 1:16 left Friday night as the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Boston Celtics 126-121 for their first victory in the Eastern Conference semifinal playoffs.

The Celtics still lead 2-1, with Game 4 of the best-of-7 series Sunday in Milwaukee.

Pierce, who had 29 points, hit the go-ahead jumper from the left side and Terry Cummings added a free throw with 39 seconds left to make it 121-118.

Dennis Johnson, who led the Celtics with 32 points, missed a three-pointer with 27 seconds to go and Paul Pressey hit one free throw with 24 seconds remaining after he was fouled by Boston's Kevin McHale.

It was McHale's sixth foul and when he returned to the bench a scuffle with Milwaukee fans broke out. McHale had to be escorted off the court by security personnel.

Pierce and Moncrief made in two free throws each in the final 18 seconds to clinch the victory.

The Celtics tied the game at the end of regulation with six straight points in the final 1:04.

Robert Parish's short shot with seven seconds left, after Milwaukee's Jack Sikma had thrown away an inbounds pass, tied the game at 114-114.

John Lucas led Milwaukee with 30 points, including 12 in the fourth quarter. Lucas hit four 3-point baskets in the game, including two in the final period. Milwaukee had an 85-84 lead after three quarters. Lucas hit a 3-pointer with 4:05 left to give the Bucks a 106-102 lead and then hit a layup after a steal by Pressey to make it 108-102.

The Celtics narrowed it to 110-108 on Parish's jumper with 1:53 remaining, but after a timeout, Lucas drove the middle for another basket with 1:43 to go. Following a Celtic miss, Sikma's bank shot with 1:16 to go made it 114-108.

McHale finished with 25 points, while Bird and Parish added 18 each for the Celtics. Moncrief finished with 20 for the Bucks and Cummings added 17.

Orioles' Murray is batting .202 and not liking it

CHICAGO (AP) — Steady Eddie suddenly is unsteady.

Eddie Murray, one of the most productive and consistent baseball players in the past 10 years, is locked in one of the worst slumps of his career and the Baltimore Orioles are paying for it.

Murray took a .202 average, three homers and 15 runs batted in into a weekend series at Chicago. He also has left a trail of stranded runners, poor judgment on the bases and erratic play in the field.

"Everybody has a slump. Eddie Murray's going to be fine," Orioles Manager Cal Ripken Sr. said. "If all I had to worry about was Eddie Murray, I wouldn't have any worries."

Now, though, Ripken and the Orioles are concerned. Baltimore, which had hoped to reverse its only last-place finish in history from 1986, was wobbling at 11-16. The pitchers were not doing as well as expected, but Murray's troubles were the heart of the problem.

Where fans at Memorial Stadium used to chant "Ed-die, Ed-die," they now hope for just a scratch hit. Only this week did Murray raise his batting average above .200.

Murray is acknowledged as the team leader, particularly with younger players. He has become more outgoing in the clubhouse in recent years, but still internalizes most of his feelings about himself. That means he is carrying around an especially heavy burden while he and the Orioles struggle.

The slump has come after Murray signed a five-year, $12.7 million contract. He is the fourth-highest paid player in the major leagues at about $2.14 million.

Murray said he was not concerned by whispers that have linked his slow start with his rich, guaranteed future.

His poorest month ever was April 1981, when he batted .135 with no homers and two RBI. Murray rebounded to lead the American League with 22 home runs and 78 RBI in that strike-shortened season.

Drugs, gambling and the NBA

D.J. and Sikma deny allegations

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dennis Johnson of the Boston Celtics and Milwaukee Bucks' centers Jack Sikma and Paul Mokeski were linked to an Arizona grand jury's investigation into alleged drug use and illegal gambling, a newspaper reported Friday.

All three players, who were in Milwaukee for Friday night's NBA playoff game between the Celtics and the Bucks, denied the allegations contained in a copyright story in Arizona's Mesa Tribune.

The newspaper reported that transcripts it had obtained said that former Phoenix Suns guard Johnny High told the county grand jury he used cocaine with Johnson on three occasions during the 1982-83 season.

"I do not use cocaine," said Johnson, who was with the Suns that season. "I did not. I hope my point is getting across. I have not, I will not. I don't intend to."

The Tribune reported the transcripts also showed that testimony on April 9 alleged that Sikma and Mokeski, his backup, gave a Phoenix nightclub manager winning betting advice the night before the Bucks beat the Suns 115-107 on Feb. 21.

"There's absolutely no truth to it," Sikma said Friday. "I have no knowledge of any investigation going on at this point concerning me anywhere."

The Maricopa County investigation reportedly is looking into allegations that a non-player won more than $100,000 by placing an "under-over" bet on that Feb. 21 game.

Sikma said he was at the Phoenix nightclub, Malarkey's, two nights before the game to "have a couple of beers" with Mokeski, a Bucks' trainer and a reporter from the Milwaukee Journal.

"Most of the time, I was talking to the people I came with, just shooting the breeze," said Sikma. "People come up and ask how you're doing and so forth. I left there with no knowledge of anything unusual."

Sikma said he did not know James Jordan, the nightclub manager whom the newspaper said allegedly received the information.

However, Mokeski said he and Jordan were friends and had gone on a recent golf trip to Hawaii.

The transcripts indicated that a bartender at the nightclub said Jordan may have rewarded Mokeski with gifts of cocaine for the tip, according to the newspaper.

"Whatever the bartender thinks Jordan said to him, I can't control that," said Mokeski.

"He (Jordan) did not offer me cocaine. I did not take cocaine and did not give him any information about the game other than what I would give to an average fan who would come up and says 'how's the team playing?'"

Commissioner David Stern, in a statement issued by the league, said that while the grand jury investigation continued, "it is unfair for NBA players to be subjected to press reports of alleged 'links' and other vague references that are simply inadequate to support any accusation of wrongdoing."

"The NBA holds its players to the strictest standards with regard to drug use and gambling. If we learn of any such activities, we will act swiftly and decisively. Until there is proof to the contrary, the players are entitled to be presumed innocent."

Stern also said the league had "no reasonable basis to believe that there is current drug use or gambling activity by any player named in recent newspaper articles."

Stern said the NBA does not plan to make any further comment concerning the grand jury's proceedings until the panel had completed its investigation and issued formal charges or "until any credible evidence emerges."

Johnson, a Celtics guard, said he had been asked about drug use by some reporters.

"One said I heard you were a casual user of cocaine," Johnson said. "I don't know what casual users are. Either you're a user or you're not, and I'm not a user of cocaine. That's the best I can tell you."

Davis' confessions continue

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix Suns All-Star guard Walter Davis, the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1977-78, told a Maricopa County grand jury that he first used cocaine during his rookie season and "pretty much the entire team" knew of his drug habit, a newspaper reported Friday.

The Mesa (Ariz.) Tribune published parts of a 282-page grand jury transcript detailing examples of alleged drug use by several current and former members of the Suns.

Davis, a six-time All-Star and the leading scorer in the 19-year history of the Phoenix franchise, turned himself in to NBA authorities on April 16 for his second drug rehabilitation in 16 months. He entered a clinic in Van Nuys, Calif., on April 20 and has been suspended from the team without pay.

The 32-year-old Davis first underwent treatment for cocaine and alcohol abuse from Dec. 12, 1985, to Jan. 12, 1986, at the Van Nuys facility.

Asked during his grand jury appearance April 9 if he had used cocaine after his first rehabilitation, Davis testified that he did "three times ... in December of '86" in hotels at San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York and the one gram of the drug was provided each time by Suns rookie guard Grant Gondrezick.

Gondrezick, veteran center

James Edwards and third-year guard Jay Humphries were indicted April 16 by the grand jury along with ex-Suns Garfield Heard and Mike Bratz on charges ranging from possession to trafficking in cocaine and other illegal drugs.

Edwards, Heard, Humphries and Gondrezick all pleaded innocent to the charges during their April 30 arraignment in Maricopa County Superior Court and their trial has been set for June 22.

Bratz is fighting extradition to Phoenix from Sacramento, Calif., and has not been arraigned yet.

Davis, rookie center William Bedford and ex-Suns Johnny High, Don Buse, Curtis Perry and Alvin Scott were named in the indictments as either witnessing drug transactions or knowing about them, but they have not been charged in the case.

Bedford, Scott, Davis and High all reportedly have been granted immunity in exchange for their grand jury testimony last month.

In his testimony, Davis said he first used cocaine in 1977 during a road trip to Cleveland and the drug was supplied to him by Heard, who played with Phoenix from 1975-80.

Davis said Heard later introduced him to a Phoenix man, who sold him cocaine regularly. He also testified that a Phoenix restaurant waiter supplied him with cocaine between 1982 and 1985 and he sometimes snorted the drug in the restaurant's bathroom.

In addition, Davis testified that he used "cocaine and marijuana" with Edwards from 1982-85 and with Humphries from 1984-86. He also said he has done drugs at various times with Bratz, High, ex-Sun David Thordkill and former NBA guard Phil Ford.

The Tribune's transcripts also state that High testified he shared cocaine "in the past" with ex-Suns center Rich Kelley and former Seattle SuperSonics guard Fred Brown as well as former Suns guard Dennis Johnson. High said he used cocaine with Johnson three times during the 1982-83 season when they were Phoenix teammates.

Johnson, now with the Boston Celtics, denied Friday that he has ever used cocaine.

High, who played with Phoenix from 1979-83, said in an affidavit that he purchased cocaine regularly through the 1983-84 NBA season and used it with Davis, Buse, Scott and Bratz.

Bedford testified that he used cocaine "once" since he joined the Suns and that was at a November 1986 party at a north Phoenix home. He said Gondrezick was given a bag of cocaine and "Grant opened the pack and snorted it out."

Perry, who played for the Suns from 1974-78, told the grand jury that he has not used cocaine in eight years.

Garner's homer all the support Scott needs

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Garner figured his first-inning home run had done as much damage as his team needed since Mike Scott was on the mound.

"When you have a guy like Mike Scott pitching, you don't have to worry about having that big a night offensively," Garner said after his third homer of the season helped the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday night. "He's the kind of guy who can make a run stand up."

Scott, 4-2, did indeed make the run stand, pitching a two-hitter and striking out 12 to give the Astros their third straight victory. It was second complete game this year for Scott, who won the National League Cy Young Award last season.

"I think this was my best outing of the season," said Scott, who fanned 12 for the second time this season and raised his league-leading strikeout total to 62. He also equaled the 12 strikeouts he had on Aug. 24 against the Reds.

Neal Heaton, 3-2, lost for the Expos. Heaton went 7 1/3 innings, allowing five hits and all three Astros runs.

Braves 4, Mets 3

ATLANTA (AP) — Graig Nettles drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly with one out in the 10th inning as the Atlanta Braves edged the New York Mets 4-3 Friday night.

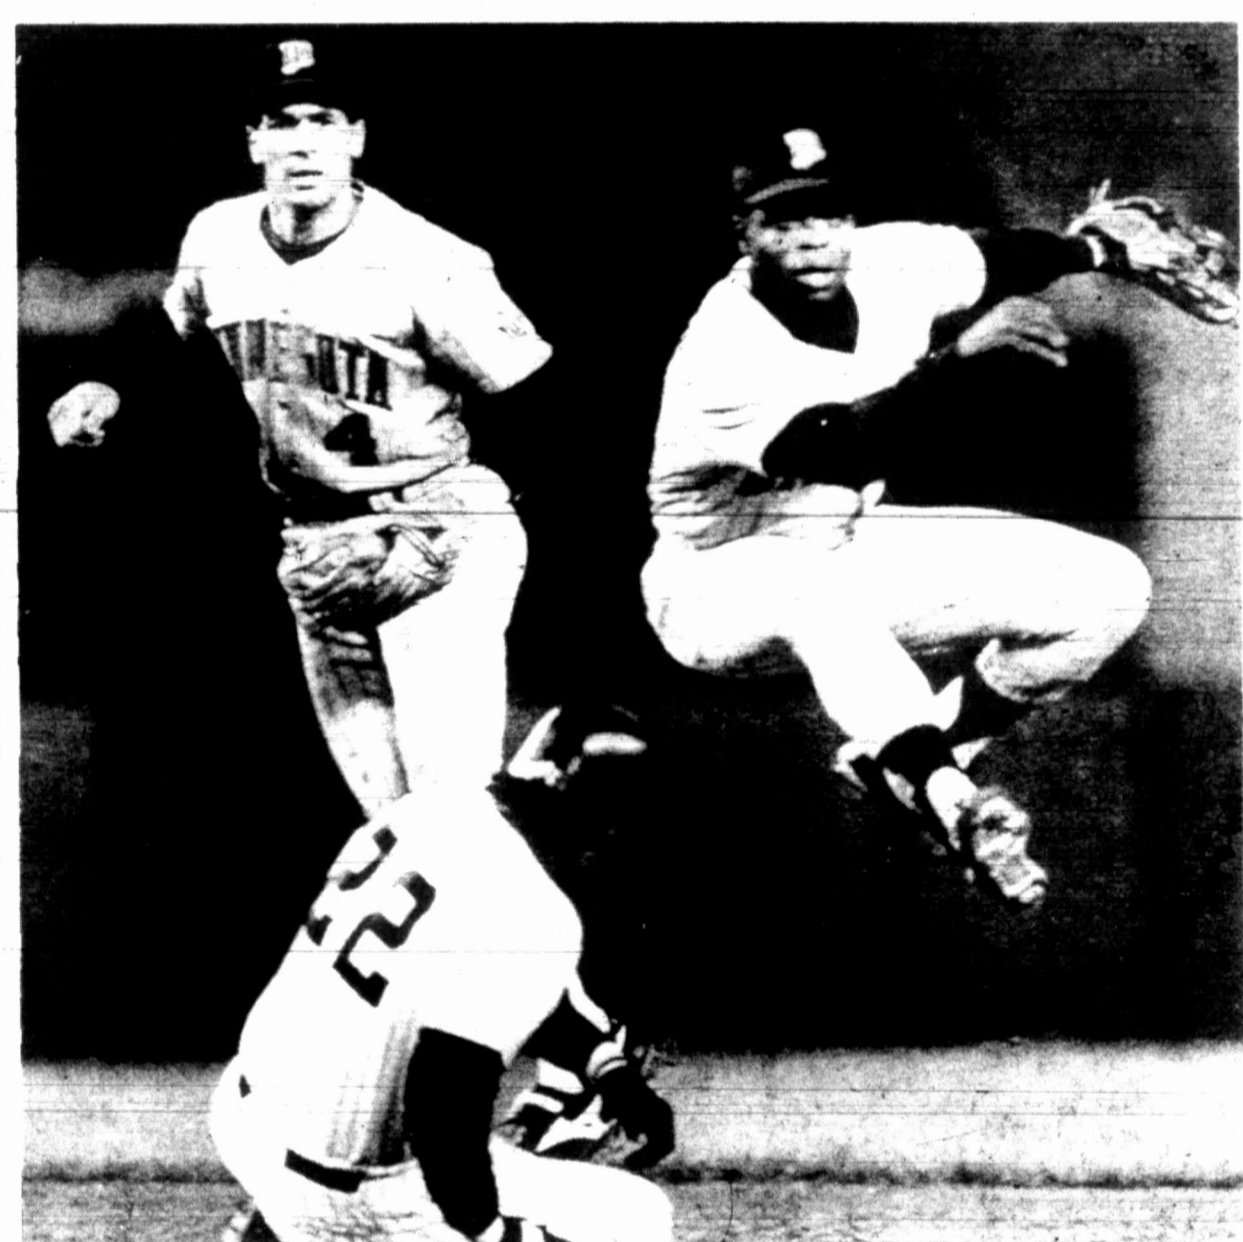

Dale Murphy walked with one out, stole second and advanced to third when catcher Gary Carter's throw bounced into center field for an error. Nettles then fled out to medium right field, with Murphy scoring after Darryl Strawberry made a weak throw.

The victory went to Gene Garber, 4-2, who worked one inning in relief. Jesse Orosco, 1-3, took the loss.

Reds 4, Phillies 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eric Davis' two-run double highlighted a four-run third-inning that carried Cincinnati over struggling Philadelphia, which has four consecutive games and 18 of 26 overall.

Davis is 10-for-17 — a .588 average — with five homers and 13 RBI in four games against the Phillies this season.

Minnesota Twins shortstop Al Newman leaps over New York Yankees runner Gary Ward to complete a double play during fourth inning action Friday night at Yankee Stadium.

cher Tim Lardner's throwing error but stayed there as Don Mattingly fled to shallow left. Dan Pasqua walked, and after an intentional walk to Dave Winfield loaded the bases, Reardon fanned Gary Ward for the second out.

Pagliarulo, who, like Ward, came into the game with only one home run this season, lined the next pitch over the right-field fence for his second career grand slam.

Cecilio Guante, 2-1, the third New York pitcher, worked out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the eighth and earned the victory with two hitless innings, striking out five.

The Yankees are the only team in baseball that has not lost in its own stadium this year. The record for consecutive victories at home to start the season is 12 by the 1911 Detroit Tigers.

Athletics 7, Tigers 2

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Mark McGwire homered twice and drove in four runs and Mike Davis also homered during a five-run fourth inning, giving the Oakland Athletics a 7-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

McGwire connected for a three-run homer in the fourth and hit a solo shot, his seventh of the season, in the eighth off Detroit starter Frank Tanana, 2-2. Davis went 3-for-4, including a solo home run and double.

Curt Young, 4-1, gave up six hits, struck out five and walked one in eight innings. Detroit is now 0-8 against left-handers this year.

Royals 9, Indians 6

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bo Jackson hit a two-run homer and Thad Bosley, Juan Beniquez and Bill Pecota hit solo home runs as the Kansas City Royals beat the Cleveland Indians 9-6 for their fifth consecutive victory.

Angel Salazar drove in three runs and Mark Gubicza, 2-4, allowed two runs over seven innings in sending Cleveland to its fifth straight loss. The Royals began the game with only 17 homers this year, lowest in the American League. Ken Schrom, 1-4, took the loss.

Rickey Henderson hit a two-run homer off Minnesota relief ace Jeff Reardon, 1-2, before Pagliarulo connected. Reardon walked Wayne Tolleson to start the ninth after going ahead 0-2 in the count and Henderson hit the first pitch far over the 375-foot sign for his seventh home run.

Willie Randolph walked, stole second, and continued to third on cat-

Red Sox 6, Angels 4

BOSTON (AP) — Dwight Evans' three-run homer broke an eighth-inning tie and Don Baylor hit a pair of solo shots, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over California, ending the Angels' four-game winning streak.

Evans lined his sixth homer of the season into the left-field screen off Dwayne Buice, 1-1. Reliever Joe Sambito won his first 1987 decision.

Darrell Miller and Brian Downing homered for the Angels.

Blue Jays 7, Rangers 4

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jesse Barfield hit two homers and drove in five runs, giving the Toronto Blue Jays a 7-4 victory over Texas, ending the Rangers' eight-game winning streak at home.

Barfield's three-run shot capped a five-run first inning against Jose Guzman, 1-2. He hit a two-run homer in the third off Guzman for a 7-1 lead. Barfield, who led the major leagues with 40 home runs last season, has nine this year. He has hit four against Texas, three of them off Guzman.

Jim Clancy, 4-2, won his third straight decision and Mark Eichhorn got his second save.

Orioles 7, White Sox 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Murray, locked in the longest slump of his career, hit two home runs, including a two-run shot with two outs in the ninth inning that gave the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

With two outs in the ninth, Cal Ripken singled off Ray Searage, 0-1. Murray, who earlier hit a home run left-handed, turned around and connected from the right side. It was the fifth homer of the season for Murray, who began the game batting just 202.

Ken Dixon, 2-2, got the victory despite allowing a home run to Ivan Calderon in the eighth that gave Chicago a 6-5 lead.

The Phillies got two home runs from Luis Aguayo and one from Glenn Wilson off Tom Browning. Browning has given up 17 hits and 15 runs in his last three starts, covering 12 2/3 innings.

John Franco pitched the ninth for his sixth save, retiring all three batters. Franco has gotten out 31 of the last 32 batters he's faced.

Rickey Henderson hit a two-run homer off Minnesota relief ace Jeff Reardon, 1-2, before Pagliarulo connected. Reardon walked Wayne Tolleson to start the ninth after going ahead 0-2 in the count and Henderson hit the first pitch far over the 375-foot sign for his seventh home run.

Willie Randolph walked, stole second, and continued to third on cat-

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Pagliarulo hit a grand slam, his second home run of the game, capping a six-run rally in the ninth inning as the New York Yankees beat the Minnesota Twins 11-7 and became the eighth team in major-league history to win its first 10 home games in a season.

Drugs, gambling and the NBA

D.J. and Sikma deny allegations

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dennis Johnson of the Boston Celtics and Milwaukee Bucks' centers Jack Sikma and Paul Mokeski were linked to an Arizona grand jury's investigation into alleged drug use and illegal gambling, a newspaper reported Friday.

All three players, who were in Milwaukee for Friday night's NBA playoff game between the Celtics and the Bucks, denied the allegations contained in a copyright story in Arizona's Mesa Tribune.

The newspaper reported that transcripts it had obtained said that former Phoenix Suns guard Johnny High told the county grand jury he used cocaine with Johnson on three occasions during the 1982-83 season.

"I do not use cocaine," said Johnson, who was with the Suns that season. "I did not. I hope my point is getting across. I have not, I will not. I don't intend to."

The Tribune reported the transcripts also showed that testimony on April 9 alleged that Sikma and Mokeski, his backup, gave a Phoenix nightclub manager winning betting advice the night before the Bucks beat the Suns 115-107 on Feb. 21.

"There's absolutely no truth to it," Sikma said Friday. "I have no knowledge of any investigation going on at this point concerning me anywhere."

The Maricopa County investigation reportedly is looking into allegations that a non-player won more than $100,000 by placing an "under-over" bet on that Feb. 21 game.

Sikma said he was at the Phoenix nightclub, Malarkey's, two nights before the game to "have a couple of beers" with Mokeski, a Bucks' trainer and a reporter from the Milwaukee Journal.

"Most of the time, I was talking to the people I came with, just shooting the breeze," said Sikma. "People come up and ask how you're doing and so forth. I left there with with no knowledge of anything unusual."

Sikma said he did not know James Jordan, the nightclub manager whom the newspaper said allegedly received the information.

However, Mokeski said he and Jordan were friends and had gone on a recent golf trip to Hawaii.

The transcripts indicated that a bartender at the nightclub said Jordan may have rewarded Mokeski with gifts of cocaine for the tip, according to the newspaper.

"Whatever the bartender thinks Jordan said to him, I can't control that," said Mokeski.

"He (Jordan) did not offer me cocaine. I did not take cocaine and did not give him any information about the game other than what I would give to an average fan who would come up and says 'how's the team playing?'"

Commissioner David Stern, in a statement issued by the league, said that while the grand jury investigation continued, "it is unfair for NBA players to be subjected to press reports of alleged 'links' and other vague references that are simply inadequate to support any accusation of wrongdoing."

"The NBA holds its players to the strictest standards with regard to drug use and gambling. If we learn of any such activities, we will act swiftly and decisively. Until there is proof to the contrary, the players are entitled to be presumed innocent."

Stern also said the league had "no reasonable basis to believe that there is current drug use or gambling activity by any player named in recent newspaper articles."

Stern said the NBA does not plan to make any further comment concerning the grand jury's proceedings until the panel had completed its investigation and issues formal charges or "until any credible evidence emerges."

Johnson, a Celtics guard, said he had been asked about drug use by some reporters.

"One said I heard you were a casual user of cocaine," Johnson said. "I don't know what casual users are. Either you're a user or you're not, and I'm not a user of cocaine. That's the best I can tell you."

Davis' confessions continue

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix Suns All-Star guard Walter Davis, the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1977-78, told a Maricopa County grand jury that he first used cocaine during his rookie season and "pretty much the entire team" knew of his drug habit, a newspaper reported Friday.

The Mesa (Ariz.) Tribune published parts of a 282-page grand jury transcript detailing examples of alleged drug use by several current and former members of the Suns.

Davis, a six-time All-Star and the leading scorer in the 19-year history of the Phoenix franchise, turned himself in to NBA authorities on April 16 for his second drug rehabilitation in 16 months. He entered a clinic in Van Nuys, Calif., on April 20 and has been suspended from the team without pay.

The 32-year-old Davis first underwent treatment for cocaine and alcohol abuse from Dec. 12, 1985, to Jan. 12, 1986, at the Van Nuys facility.

Asked during his grand jury appearance April 9 if he had used cocaine after his first rehabilitation, Davis testified that he did "three times ... in December of '86" in hotels at San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York and the one gram of the drug was provided each time by Suns rookie guard Grant Gondrezick.

Gondrezick, veteran center

James Edwards and third-year guard Jay Humphries were indicted April 16 by the grand jury along with ex-Suns Garfield Heard and Mike Bratz on charges ranging from possession to trafficking in cocaine and other illegal drugs.

Edwards, Heard, Humphries and Gondrezick all pleaded innocent to the charges during their April 30 arraignment in Maricopa County Superior Court and their trial has been set for June 22.

Bratz is fighting extradition to Phoenix from Sacramento, Calif., and has not been arraigned yet.

Davis, rookie center William Bedford and ex-Suns Johnny High, Don Buse, Curtis Perry and Alvin Scott were named in the indictments as either witnessing drug transactions or knowing about them, but they have not been charged in the case.

Bedford, Scott, Davis and High all reportedly have been granted immunity in exchange for their grand jury testimony last month.

In his testimony, Davis said he first used cocaine in 1977 during a road trip to Cleveland and the drug was supplied to him by Heard, who played with Phoenix from 1975-80.

Davis said Heard later introduced him to a Phoenix man, who sold him cocaine regularly. He also testified that a Phoenix restaurant waiter supplied him with cocaine between 1982 and 1985 and he sometimes snorted the drug in the restaurant's bathroom.

In addition, Davis testified that he used "cocaine and marijuana" with Edwards from 1982-85 and with Humphries from 1984-86. He also said he has done drugs at various times with Bratz, High, ex-Sun David Thordkill and former NBA guard Phil Ford.

The Tribune's transcripts also state that High testified he shared cocaine "in the past" with ex-Suns center Rich Kelley and former Seattle SuperSonics guard Fred Brown as well as former Suns guard Dennis Johnson. High said he used cocaine with Johnson three times during the 1982-83 season when they were Phoenix teammates.

Johnson, now with the Boston Celtics, denied Friday that he has ever used cocaine.

High, who played with Phoenix from 1979-83, said in an affidavit that he purchased cocaine regularly through the 1983-84 NBA season and used it with Davis, Buse, Scott and Bratz.

Bedford testified that he used cocaine "once" since he joined the Suns and that was at a November 1986 party at a north Phoenix home. He said Gondrezick was given a bag of cocaine and "Grant opened the pack and snorted it out."

Perry, who played for the Suns from 1974-78, told the grand jury that he has not used cocaine in eight years.

Garner's homer all the support Scott needs

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Garner figured his first-inning home run had done as much damage as his team needed since Mike Scott was on the mound.

"When you have a guy like Mike Scott pitching, you don't have to worry about having that big a night offensively," Garner said after his third homer of the season helped the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday night. "He's the kind of guy who can make a run stand up."

Scott, 4-2, did indeed make the run stand, pitching a two-hitter and striking out 12 to give the Astros their third straight victory. It was second complete game this year for Scott, who won the National League Cy Young Award last season.

"I think this was my best outing of the season," said Scott, who fanned 12 for the second time this season and raised his league-leading strikeout total to 62. He also equaled the 12 strikeouts he had on Aug. 24 against the Reds.

Neal Heaton, 3-2, lost for the Expos. Heaton went 7 1-3 innings, allowing five hits and all three Astros runs.

Braves 4, Mets 3

ATLANTA (AP) — Graig Nettles drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly with one out in the 10th inning as the Atlanta Braves edged the New York Mets 4-3 Friday night.

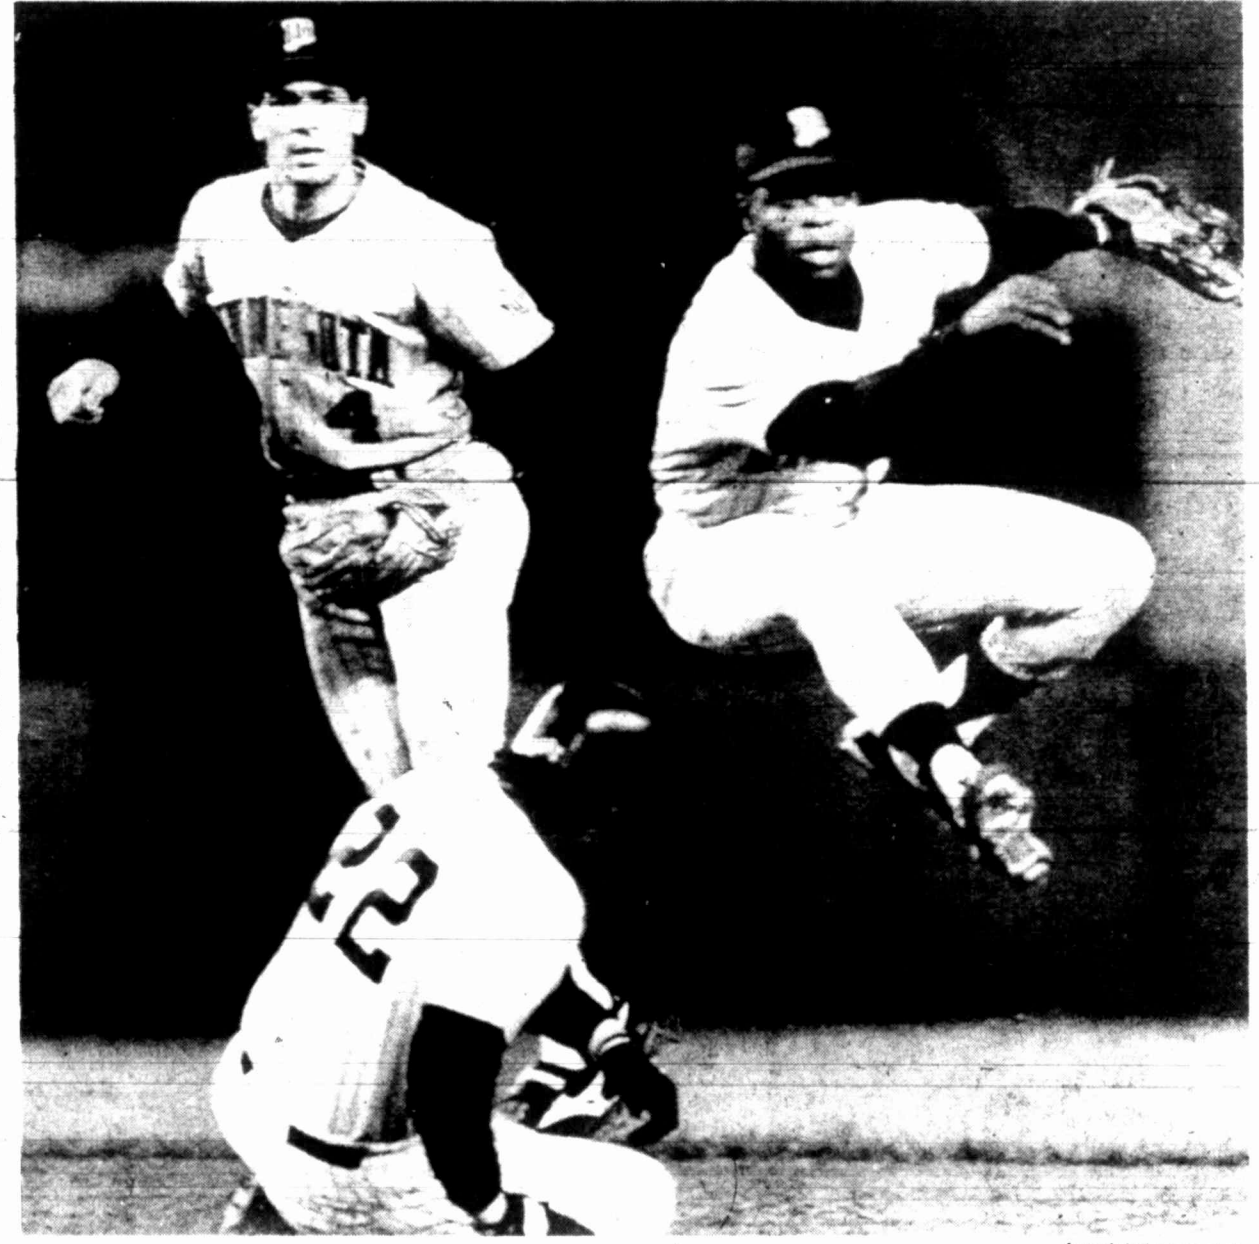

Dale Murphy walked with one out, stole second and advanced to third when catcher Gary Carter's throw bounced into center field for an error. Nettles then flew out to medium right field, with Murphy scoring after Darryl Strawberry made a weak throw.

The victory went to Gene Garber, 4-2, who worked one inning in relief. Jesse Orosco, 1-3, took the loss.

Reds 4, Phillies 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eric Davis' two-run double highlighted a four-run third-inning that carried Cincinnati over struggling Philadelphia, which has four consecutive games and 18 of 26 overall.

Davis is 10-for-17 — a .588 average — with five homers and 13 RBI in four games against the Phillies this season.

Minnesota Twins shortstop Al Newman leaps over New York Yankees runner Gary Ward to complete a double play during fourth inning action Friday night at Yankee Stadium.

The Phillies got two home runs from Luis Aguayo and one from Glenn Wilson off Tom Browning. Browning has given up 17 hits and 15 runs in his last three starts, covering 12 2-3 innings.

John Franco pitched the ninth for his sixth save, retiring all three batters. Franco has gotten out 31 of the last 32 batters he's faced.

American League

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Pagliarulo hit a grand slam, his second home run of the game, capping a six-run rally in the ninth inning as the New York Yankees beat the Minnesota Twins 11-7 and became the eighth team in major-league history to win its first 10 home games in a season.

Rickey Henderson hit a two-run homer off Minnesota relief ace Jeff Reardon, 1-2, before Pagliarulo connected. Reardon walked Wayne Tolleson to start the ninth after going ahead 0-2 in the count and Henderson hit the first pitch far over the 375-foot sign for his seventh home run.

Willie Randolph walked, stole second, and continued to third on catcher Tim Laudner's throwing error but stayed there as Don Mattingly flied to shallow left. Dan Pasqua walked, and after an intentional walk to Dave Winfield loaded the bases. Reardon fanned Gary Ward for the second out.

Pagliarulo, who, like Ward, came into the game with only one home run this season, lined the next pitch over the right-field fence for his second career grand slam.

Cecilio Guante, 2-1, the third New York pitcher, worked out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the eighth and earned the victory with two hitless innings, striking out five.

The Yankees are the only team in baseball that has not lost in its own stadium this year. The record for consecutive victories at home to start the season is 12 by the 1911 Detroit Tigers.

Athletics 7, Tigers 2

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Mark McGwire homered twice and drove in four runs and Mike Davis also homered during a five-run fourth inning, giving the Oakland Athletics a 7-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

McGwire connected for a three-run homer in the fourth and hit a solo shot, his seventh of the season, in the eighth off Detroit starter Frank Tanana, 2-2. Davis went 3-for-4, including a solo home run and double.

Curt Young, 4-1, gave up six hits, struck out five and walked one in eight innings. Detroit is now 0-8 against left-handers this year.

Royals 9, Indians 6

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bo Jackson hit a two-run homer and Thad Bosley, Juan Beniquez and Bill Pecota hit solo home runs as the Kansas City Royals beat the Cleveland Indians 9-6 for their fifth consecutive victory.

Angel Salazar drove in three runs and Mark Gubicza, 2-4, allowed two runs over seven innings in sending Cleveland to its fifth straight loss. The Royals began the game with only 17 homers this year, lowest in the American League. Ken Schrom, 1-4, took the loss.

Red Sox 6, Angels 4

BOSTON (AP) — Dwight Evans' three-run homer broke an eighth-inning tie and Don Baylor hit a pair of solo shots, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over California, ending the Angels' four-game winning streak.

Evans lined his sixth homer of the season into the left-field screen off Dwayne Buice, 1-1. Reliever Joe Sambito won his first 1987 decision.

Darrell Miller and Brian Downing homered for the Angels.

Blue Jays 7, Rangers 4

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jesse Barfield hit two homers and drove in five runs, giving the Toronto Blue Jays a 7-4 victory over Texas, ending the Rangers' eight-game winning streak at home.

Barfield's three-run shot capped a five-run first inning against Jose Guzman, 1-2. He hit a two-run homer in the third off Guzman for a 7-1 lead. Barfield, who led the major leagues with 40 home runs last season, has nine this year. He has hit four against Texas, three of them off Guzman.

Jim Clancy, 4-2, won his third straight decision and Mark Eichhorn got his second save.

Orioles 7, White Sox 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Murray, locked in the longest slump of his career, hit two home runs, including a two-run shot with two outs in the ninth inning that gave the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

With two outs in the ninth, Cal Ripken singled off Ray Searage, 0-1. Murray, who earlier hit a home run left-handed, turned around and connected from the right side. It was the fifth homer of the season for Murray, who began the game batting just .202.

Ken Dixon, 2-2, got the victory despite allowing a home run to Ivan Calderon in the eighth that gave Chicago a 6-5 lead.

Meet Julian Lennon

One of the most popular musicians of the 1960s and '70s was John Lennon of the Beatles. His son, Julian, is one of the most popular musicians of the '80s. Julian's parents divorced when he was 5. He grew up in England, Ireland and Wales with his mother. He attended a military academy for a few years. As a child, Julian wanted to be an actor. That changed when his father gave him a guitar at age 11. He became interested in music and taught himself to play piano and drums. Julian formed his first band in high school. It played its first show in a school program. Before starting a solo career, Julian worked as a waiter, dishwasher and model. He has released two albums and has had several concert tours. His best friends are his band members. He is also friends with Michael J. Fox and Paul McCartney.

Julian lives in London. He likes to watch TV, ride motorcycles and eat potato chips. One of his favorite bands is The Police.

The Rat Kangaroo

Australia is known for its many interesting animals. One of these is the rat kangaroo, the smallest type of kangaroo. It is also known as a potoroo. This animal looks like a rat but it has a strong tail and back legs that it uses to jump like a kangaroo. It travels in a zigzag course. It also uses its tail to carry grass to its nest. It has small front legs that it uses for digging up food. The rat kangaroo is a marsupial, which means it carries its young in a pouch. It usually has one baby at a time. It grows to be the size of a small cat and has soft gray or brown fur and a white-tipped tail.

The rat kangaroo sleeps during the day and eats at night. It feeds on insects, grasses, roots and seeds, and makes its home in thick grass and shrubs. The rat kangaroo especially likes damp places. It usually lives to be about 5 years old.

In the Delegates' Day

Back 200 years ago, when the delegates wrote our Constitution, times were quite different from those of today. The kitchens were often separate from the main building because of the great heat from the fireplaces in the summer and because of the danger of fire. Mrs. Washington had two cooks, two waiters and a housekeeper to help her. But she didn't have a dishwasher, a washing machine or many other appliances your mom has today.

This is the kitchen at Mount Vernon, where cooking was done before an open fireplace.

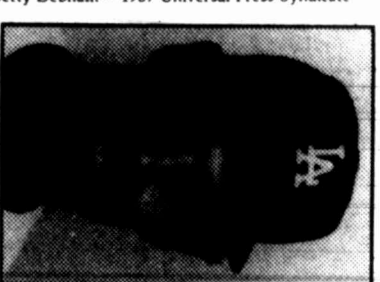

This is the 24th in a mini series about the Constitution.

Gus Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Mike Marshall

Height: 6-5" Birthdate: 1-12-60
 Weight: 218 Birthplace: Libertyville, Ill.

At his first time at bat in the major leagues, Mike Marshall hit a double. Since then, the Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder has been a star. Mike was named the team's top rookie when he joined in 1982. In 1984, he led the team in home runs (21) and game-winning RBIs (10). Last year he was leading the National League in homers until he had a back injury in July. He was named to the 1984 All-Star team. Mike and his wife, Mary, were married last January. He enjoys golf and basketball.
