Spring board

How's that? Graduation

Q. Why are Big Spring, Foran, and Coahoma schools all graduating on May 29?

A. Representatives of three school districts, who attended this month's Strategic Planning Retreat in Big Spring, explained that they individually adopt schedules that best suit their districts' needs. They agreed, however, that they would contact one another when preparing future schedules.

Tornado levels town near Pecos

SARAGOSA (AP) — A tornado ripped through this tiny town in remote West Texas Friday night, killing at least 25 people, injuring more than 110 and trapping some people in a community building, officials said.

"The town is gone," an unidentified amateur radio operator said about the community of 185 residents about 30 miles south of Pecos.

"Our office in Pecos said there are at least 25 people dead and several injuries," said Department of Public Safety spokesman Mike Cox. "The town is without power, the roads are impassable and we have reports of people trapped inside Saragosa Hall."

The residents trapped inside the demolished community building apparently were taking part in a safety course, Cox said from his Austin office.

Jan Knott, assistant administrator at Reeves County Hospital, said a short time later that at least 60 people were hurt and en route to the hospital. She said more injuries were expected.

"There are 60 injured and I have not been notified that we are no longer receiving injured people," she said.

Cox said at least another 50 injured people were still at the scene.

Ector County Red Cross spokeswoman Katherine Stockton said Reeves County authorities had asked for cots, water, blankets and other aid because of the storm's extensive damage.

The tornado hit about 8 p.m., and rescue units from throughout the area were being sent to the scene, Cox said.

"It probably wiped out the whole town," said Tommy King, a sheriff's sergeant in neighboring Ward County.

The Red Cross was preparing nearby schools for people left homeless by the storm.

The storm was moving northeast toward Fort Stockton, and the National Weather Service reported that funnel clouds had been sighted within 28 miles of the town.

Meanwhile, heavy thunderstorms dumped marble- and golfball-size hail 3 inches deep near Whiteface about 45 miles west of Lubbock, Hockley County sheriff's deputies said.

Balloon liftoff

Elbow Elementary School officially closed Friday and students celebrated with a balloon launch and refreshments. Above, Robbi Calley, 10, son of Kevin and Debby Calley of Sterling City Route, checks the direction of the wind before launching his balloon. At left, students watch as the balloons ascend. During the year, the school's 230 children read a total of 13,342 books from the library. During the balloon launch, the children were placed into groups according to how many books were read during the year. Three students had read over 500 books apiece.

Senate cripples Texas' strategy for collider site

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Senate passage this week of legislation barring the use of funds to lure the superconducting super collider, House members began counting votes and checking tactics in preparation for a second showdown.

In a voice vote that pitted small, less advantaged states against large, wealthier states, the Senate adopted a measure introduced by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., ruling out consideration of monetary inducements in the search for a site to build the $6 billion atom smasher.

If the use of monetary incentives is barred from consideration in the selection process, it would severely compromise the strategy being pursued by Texas, which focuses on bond issues to raise up to $1 billion to lure it here.

But passage of the bill in the Senate, where even the smallest states have two senators, is far different than passage in the House, where larger states enjoy much greater power.

Spearheading the Texas delegation is Rep. Joe Barton, R-Texas, who said he expects to see an amendment similar to Domenici's introduced before the full House Science, Space and Technology Committee within the next two weeks.

The two-term Republican said he expects freshman Rep. David E. Skaggs, D-Colo., to offer the Domenici amendment, but a spokeswoman for Skaggs said only that it has been discussed without anything being finalized.

"We're putting a little coalition together and I think we can beat it," said Barton, whose East Texas district houses the top Texas site for the super collider as chosen by a special state commission earlier this month.

Barton, co-chairman of the Texas SSC Task Force, and the three Texans on the committee will have to muster at least 23 of the 45 committee members to defeat the amendment in committee. They will have allies in members from Illinois, California, New York and other large states.

But the fight to kill the Domenici amendment is not only going to take place only in the Science, Space and Technology Committee.

Barton has asked that Energy Secretary John Herrington send a letter to House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, Appropriations Committee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., and other key members outlining the department's opposition to the idea of excluding cost-sharing.

State ordered to revise school financing

AUSTIN (AP) — A judge Friday ordered the state to revise its system of financing public schools to give all students a better chance at a quality education.

However, the injunction ordered by state District Judge Harley Clark won't become effective until the 1989 Legislature has a chance to remedy the current system, which Clark says is unconstitutional.

"The court would be satisfied if the 1989 Legislature does what it should do," Clark said at a Friday hearing.

"I am not happy with ordering the Legislature to do anything, but if by Sept. 1, 1990, there has been no change in the financing system, I will order the Texas Education Agency, the treasurer, the comptroller or anybody else necessary to not spend a penny more under the present system."

On April 29, after a 2½-month non-jury trial, Clark held that the present school financing system was unconstitutional, because it

SSC site backers push for appeal

Garden City site supporters hope a Texas A & M University study identifying Garden City as the best site for the supercollider will convince the state commission to reconsider its selections.

The Texas National Research Laboratory Commission received four appeals Tuesday from sites ruled out as possible locations for the giant atom smashing project.

Nurse recalls career development

By Tom Balderach
VA Medical Center

When Sandy McCutchan took a temporary job at the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Medical Center, she never dreamed she would still be there more than 22 years later.

Sandy's parents settled in Big Spring when she was in fifth grade. "As a kid, I had dreams of being a nurse, but when I graduated from Big Spring High I wanted to work and support myself." So, she took a temporary job in the laundry at the center, which evolved into a full-time position.

"I was content with my job, had married my husband, Calvin, and had a son, Randy, but I started to want more," she says.

After ten years of working in the laundry, her childhood dream of being a nurse resurfaced, and she transferred to the Nursing Service at the VA as a nursing assistant.

"I took an $800 a year cut in pay, but I felt I was really being useful working directly with patients," she said.

Although Sandy immediately applied for a VA program to further her education, she was not selected. Not one to be deterred from her goals, she arranged her work schedule so she could take classes at Howard College.

"For two years I worked three day shifts and two night shifts so I could go to class in the evenings. I lost a lot of sleep, but it was worth it," she says.

Sandy applied to the Upward Mobility Program at the VA in 1981 and this time was selected. "I guess they saw I was serious about my education and deserved their help," she says.

The program paid her school expenses and salary while she attended nursing school full-time at Howard College.

Graduated in 1983 with an Associate's Degree in Nursing, she felt like she finally had reached her goal when she became an R.N. on a medical ward. She was using her skills to help people who really needed it.

More changes were to come, however. "In 1985 I was recruited to work in the NURSE page 2A

Details of Air Force jet crash still unknown

FORT WORTH (AP) — An Air Force jet returning from a training mission crashed into a lake Friday, killing the pilot and critically injuring a crewman who ejected, authorities said.

The F-4 Phantom was on the way back to Carswell Air Force Base Friday morning after training at Fort Sill, Okla., when it crashed into Lake Worth near the General Dynamics plant, said Carswell spokeswoman Jane Coats.

"It was pitching out to make its final approach and it went into the lake," she said. Divers found the body of the pilot in the plane's wreckage, said Charlie McCafferty of the Fort Worth Fire Department. The man's identity was not immediately released.

The crewman was taken Harris Methodist Hospital by helicopter, said Tommy Ryan, another fire department official. Hospital officials identified him as Robert W. Pitchford, 37, of Fort Worth and said he was in critical condition.

The plane was in a flight of three, said Ms. Coats.

"It was the lead aircraft. They were returning from an air-to-ground range mission up at Falcon Gunnery Range," she said.

A woman in the area at the time of the crash

said, "All of a sudden we heard a loud explosion sort of like a sonic boom, only much louder, then it was total silence."

"And of course we looked up and we saw some smoke rising in the air. And then we didn't see any smoke at all," said Ruth Crow.

Few details of the crash were known. Ms. Coats said a board of Air Force officials will determine the cause.

"At the present time we have no indication of what happened," Ryan said, noting that the weather at the time was clear.

The F-4 was from the 301st tactical fighter wing at Carswell, base officials said.

Police beat

Two arrested in assaults

Two people were arrested in two assaults Friday.

Manuel Hinojosa, 23, 1323 Wright St., was arrested at 1500 W. FM 700 on a warrant for Class C assault.

Delores Lozano of the same address told police someone she knows assaulted her Friday morning there, striking her in the face with his fists.

Andrew Martinez, 21, of Coahoma was arrested at 204 N.W. Second St. on a warrant for Class A assault, and on a charge of resisting arrest.

Sandra Martinez of that address told police someone she knows struck her and bit her at her residence Friday morning. She suffered bruises and bite marks to her arms and legs, but refused medical treatment, police reports said.

Kenneth Lee Murphy, 27, of Gail Route, was arrested at 1002 N. Main St. Friday on a charge of violating a protective order.

Sheriff's log

Man released on bonds of $2,500 Friday

Andrew Martinez, 21, Coahoma, was released on bonds totaling $2,500 Friday. He was transferred from the police department Friday afternoon after being arrested on charges on Class A assault and resisting arrest.

Roy Allen Garder, 47, 4212 Parkway, was released Friday afternoon on a $3,000 bond after being transferred to the police department. He was arrested Friday morning at the scene of a fight.

Timothy Donald Taylor, 29, 800 Marcy Drive Apt. 29, was released on a $500 bond after being transferred to the sheriff's office. He was arrested Friday 2505 S. Gregg St. on charges of resisting arrest.

Kenneth Murphy, 27, Gail Route Box 22, was released on a $2,500 bond after being transferred to the sheriff's office. He was arrested by city police on a charge of violation of a protective order.

Robert Carlos Gonzales, 22, 807 W. Eighth St., was released from the county jail Friday after serving time on a pro-fine warrant. Gonzales owed the county $492 in fines and court costs.

psychiatric unit at the VA, and even though I wasn't sure about it, I took the job," she says. "I discovered I really liked the work."

A few months after transferring to the psychiatric unit, the nurse's position on the treatment team for the Alcohol and Drug Treatment Program at the VA became available, and Sandy applied for it.

"As much as I liked working with the psychiatric patients, I wanted to try my hand with the alcohol and drug patients." Sandy was selected for the job, and is approaching two years with the ADTP.

"I think the ADTP really fits the way I like to work. I like being on a multidisciplinary treatment team with a physician, a psychologist, a chaplain, a social worker, a nurse and rehabilitation technicians. I like the structure and I really like seeing the changes the patients make from the time they come into detoxification to when they are discharged," she says.

Big Spring Hospital's Acting Superintendent Robert von Rosenberg has applied for the position.

Five delegates will represent Big Spring's Chapter 4375 League of United Latin American Citizens at this weekend's state LULAC convention in Midland.

LULAC's 58th annual state convention will be May 21-24 at Midland's Holiday Inn convention center.

The local organization will send Raul Marquez, president; Chon Marquez, treasurer; Patty Garza, vice president; Sharon Deanda, secretary; and Pat Deanda, spokeswoman.

President Raul Marquez said delegates will attend symposiums on the Immigration and Reform Act of 1986 and education.

Marquez said he also hopes to learn more about topics relating to the immigration law.

discriminated against students in property-poor school districts.

"It's going to be very difficult to do what Judge Clark wants to happen," Speaker Gib Lewis said after Clark's ruling Friday. "Any time you deal with school finance, it's going to be very difficult."

Lewis said he hoped Clark's decision would be overturned by higher courts. The appeal to the Texas Supreme Court is expected to take up to 1½ years.

Clark's order Friday did not specify what the Legislature should do to correct the school funding problem.

"I am not ordering the Legislature to do anything, which would not be appropriate," Clark said. "It would be appropriate of the court to review what has been done later."

The lawsuit challenging the current system of school funding was filed in 1985 by 67 districts, which

Two parties have indicated they will sue the city for money they believe they were overcharged for water, an issue that resulted in jury awarding a local couple $148 earlier this month.

Although no suits have been filed, Justice of the Peace China Long said she has had several inquiries as to proceedings.

The city received notice of intent to sue from Edward L. Akin, 1306 Colby St., and Morris Griffice and Paul M. Garrett of Desert Hills Mobile Homes.

A hearing is expected on whether the Big Spring Firefighters Retirement Board is the proper party to file a lawsuit concerning firefighter salaries, according to attorney Drew Mouton.

No trial date has been set in a third suit against the city, filed by businesses and citizens seeking damage from the late August flooding, plaintiff's attorney Brian Hickson said this morning.

argued their low level of taxable properties keeps them from providing their students with the same quality education that richer districts could provide.

The state, joined by 48 local school districts, said the distribution set up by 1984 school reforms was fair and adequate.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon argued Friday that the defendants in the suit — Gov. Bill Clements, Education Commissioner William Kirby, and others — could not put into effect the changes ordered by Clark.

"They are just administrators. Only the Legislature can implement a new system," O'Hanlon said.

"We don't want a two-year hiatus," said Richard Gray, attorney for a group of poor school districts. "We want an orderly transition. We would hope the state uses the time during the appeal to study how they can remedy the

The suit was moved to U.S. District Court in Abilene because the rights Sprinkle accuses the defendants of violating — those of freedom of speech and peaceful assembly — fall under the protection of the U.S. constitution, court records show.

Sprinkle alleged in the civil lawsuit that he was fired from his job as an auto instructor at the college because of his activities with a faculty union.

The public will be saved a 25-mile trip to get to the other side of the Concho River after the Stacy Reservoir is completed — if a bridge is built over the river, say Colorado River Municipal Water District officials.

Ray Stoker of the Texas Highway Commission told approximately 1,500 people Saturday at the Stacy Dam ground-breaking ceremony in Ballinger that the Commission is considering constructing a bridge over the river.

A low water crossing now exists over the river in Concho County, but will be covered with water after the dam project is completed, Water District Secretary-Treasurer Joe Pickle said.

situation, prior to the next Legislature."

Albert Kauffman, attorney for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, said the state should be prohibited from "implementing any system that does not give to each school district the same ability as any other district to raise money for schools."

Earl Luna of Dallas, representing a group of districts with more taxable properties, said such an order would rule out any local enrichment funds.

"I have no desire to prohibit local enrichment," said Clark, "but everybody needs to have an equal shot at local fund enrichment."

Clark remarked once that the Legislature might want to redirect the state's 1,100 school districts.

"I would think the state would want to do some studies on this," he said.

Weather

Scattered showers and thunderstorms, some of them strong, rolled across the Panhandle, rolling plains and the northwest sections of north central Texas today.

A weak cold front extended from Oklahoma to near Childress and further west to near Dalhart in the northwest Panhandle.

Skies were partly to mostly cloudy across the High Plains, with the cloudiness extending east to the northwest sections of north central Texas. Low-level cloudiness caused by moisture from the Gulf of Mexico covered sections of south central Texas, the Rio Grande plain and the coastal plains. The rest of the state had generally fair skies.

Southerly winds prevailed across the greater part of the state. The far west and extreme northeast Panhandle had northerly winds. Wind speeds were in the 5 to 15 mph range. Light and variable winds were over northeast Texas.

Temperatures were in the 50s across the Panhandle and mountains of the southwest. Readings in the 60s were common elsewhere in West Texas. The rest of the state had temperatures in the 70s. Extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from 50 degrees at Marfa in the Davis mountains to 79 degrees at the naval air station in Corpus Christi.

The National Weather Service forecast calls for a chance of thunderstorms over West Texas, the Hill Country, south central, central and north central Texas.

Some of the thunderstorms may possibly become severe. It will be generally partly cloudy to cloudy over the northwest and partly cloudy to clear elsewhere. High temperatures will be in the mid 70s across the Panhandle and 80s to the 90s elsewhere.

Details of Air Force jet crash still unknown

FORT WORTH (AP) — An Air Force jet returning from a training mission crashed into a lake Friday, killing the pilot and critically injuring a crewman who ejected, authorities said.

The F-4 Phantom was on the way back to Carswell Air Force Base Friday morning after training at Fort Sill, Okla., when it crashed into Lake Worth near the General Dynamics plant, said Carswell spokeswoman Jane Coats.

"It was pitching out to make its final approach and it went into the lake," she said.

Divers found the body of the pilot in the plane's wreckage, said Charlie McCafferty of the Fort Worth Fire Department. The man's identity was not immediately released.

The crewman was taken Harris Methodist Hospital by helicopter, said Tommy Ryan, another fire department official. Hospital officials identified him as Robert W. Pitchford, 37, of Fort Worth and said he was in critical condition.

The plane was in a flight of three, said Ms. Coats.

"It was the lead aircraft. They were returning from an air-to-ground range mission up at Falcon Gunnery Range," she said.

A woman in the area at the time of the crash

said, "All of a sudden we heard a loud explosion sort of like a sonic boom, only much louder, then it was total silence."

"And of course we looked up and we saw some smoke rising in the air. And then we didn't see any smoke at all," said Ruth Crow.

Few details of the crash were known. Ms. Coats said a board of Air Force officials will determine the cause.

"At the present time we have no indication of what happened," Ryan said, noting that the weather at the time was clear.

The F-4 was from the 301st tactical fighter wing at Carswell, base officials said.

Two arrested in assaults

Two people were arrested in two assaults Friday.

Manuel Hinojosa, 23, 1323 Wright St., was arrested at 1500 W. FM 700 on a warrant for Class C assault.

Delores Lozano of the same address told police someone she knows assaulted her Friday morning there, striking her in the face with his fists.

Andrew Martinez, 21, of Coahoma was arrested at 204 N.W. Second St. on a warrant for Class A assault, and on a charge of resisting arrest.

Sandra Martinez of that address told police someone she knows struck her and bit her at her residence Friday morning. She suffered bruises and bite marks to her arms and legs, but refused medical treatment, police reports said.

- Kenneth Lee Murphy, 27, of Gail Route, was arrested at 1002 N. Main St. Friday on a charge of violating a protective order.

Sheriff's log

Man released on bonds of $2,500 Friday

Andrew Martinez, 21, Coahoma, was released on bonds totaling $2,500 Friday. He was transferred from the police department Friday afternoon after being arrested on charges on Class A assault and resisting arrest.

- Roy Allen Garder, 47, 4212 Parkway, was released Friday afternoon on a $3,000 bond after being transferred to the police department. He was arrested Friday morning at the scene of a fight.
- Timothy Donald Taylor, 29, 800 Marcy Drive Apt. 29, was released on a $500 bond after being transferred to the sheriff's office. He was arrested Friday 2505 S. Gregg St. on charges of resisting arrest.

psychiatric unit at the VA, and even though I wasn't sure about it, I took the job," she says. "I discovered I really liked the work."

A few months after transferring to the psychiatric unit, the nurse's position on the treatment team for the Alcohol and Drug Treatment Program at the VA became available, and Sandy applied for it.

"As much as I liked working with the psychiatric patients, I wanted to try my hand with the alcohol and drug patients." Sandy was selected for the job, and is approaching two years with the ADTP.

"I think the ADTP really fits the way I like to work. I like being on a multidisciplinary treatment team with a physician, a psychologist, a chaplain, a social worker, a nurse and rehabilitation technicians. I like the structure and I really like seeing the changes the patients make from the time they come into detoxification to when they are discharged," she says.

Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in Austin.

Big Spring Hospital's Acting Superintendent Robert von Rosenberg has applied for the position.

- Five delegates will represent Big Spring's Chapter 4375 League of United Latin American Citizens at this weekend's state LULAC convention in Midland.
- LULAC's 58th annual state convention will be May 21-24 at Midland's Holiday Inn convention center.

The local organization will send Raul Marquez, president; Chon Marquez, treasurer; Patty Garza, vice president; Sharon Deanda, secretary; and Pat Deanda, spokeswoman.

President Raul Marquez said delegates will attend symposiums on the Immigration and Reform Act of 1986 and education.

Marquez said he also hopes to learn more about topics relating to the immigration law.

- No additional water bill lawsuits have been filed against the City of Big Spring, although preparations continue in two other suits against the city and one against Howard College.

Two parties have indicated they will sue the city for money they believe they were overcharged for water, an issue that resulted in jury awarding a local couple $148 earlier this month.

Although no suits have been filed, Justice of the Peace China Long said she has had several inquiries as to proceedings.

The city received notice of intent to sue from Edward L. Akin, 1306 Colby St., and Morris Griffice and Paul M. Garrett of Desert Hills Mobile Homes.

A hearing is expected on whether the Big Spring Firefighters Retirement Board is the proper party to file a lawsuit concerning firefighter salaries, according to attorney Drew Mouton.

No trial date has been set in a third suit against the city, filed by businesses and citizens seeking damage from the late August flooding, plaintiff's attorney Brian Hickson said this morning.

No trial date has been set in a lawsuit against Howard College, President Bob Riley and the board of trustees filed by former instructor Bill Sprinkle, according to Mary Dudley, Riley's assistant.

The suit was moved to U.S. District Court in Abilene because the rights Sprinkle accuses the defendants of violating — those of freedom of speech and peaceful assembly — fall under the protection of the U.S. constitution, court records show.

Sprinkle alleged in the civil lawsuit that he was fired from his job as an auto instructor at the college because of his activities with a faculty union.

- The public will be saved a 25-mile trip to get to the other side of the Concho River after the Stacy Reservoir is completed — if a bridge is built over the river, say Colorado River Municipal Water District officials.

Ray Stoker of the Texas Highway Commission told approximately 1,500 people Saturday at the Stacy Dam ground-breaking ceremony in Ballinger that the Commission is considering constructing a bridge over the river.

A low water crossing now exists over the river in Concho County, but will be covered with water after the dam project is completed, Water District Secretary-Treasurer Joe Pickle said.

Judge

discriminated against students in property-poor school districts.

"It's going to be very difficult to do what Judge Clark wants to happen," Speaker Gib Lewis said after Clark's ruling Friday. "Any time you deal with school finance, it's going to be very difficult."

Lewis said he hoped Clark's decision would be overturned by higher courts. The appeal to the Texas Supreme Court is expected to take up to 1½ years.

Clark's order Friday did not specify what the Legislature should do to correct the school funding problem.

"I am not ordering the Legislature to do anything, which would not be appropriate," Clark said. "It would be appropriate of the court to review what has been done later."

The lawsuit challenging the current system of school funding was filed in 1985 by 67 districts, which argued their low level of taxable properties keeps them from providing their students with the same quality education that richer districts could provide.

The state, joined by 48 local school districts, said the distribution set up by 1984 school reforms was fair and adequate.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon argued Friday that the defendants in the suit — Gov. Bill Clements, Education Commissioner William Kirby, and others — could not put into effect the changes ordered by Clark.

"They are just administrators. Only the Legislature can implement a new system," O'Hanlon said.

"We don't want a two-year hiatus," said Richard Gray, attorney for a group of poor school districts. "We want an orderly transition. We would hope the state uses the time during the appeal to study how they can remedy the situation, prior to the next Legislature."

Albert Kauffman, attorney for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, said the state should be prohibited from "implementing any system that does not give to each school district the same ability as any other district to raise money for schools."

Earl Luna of Dallas, representing a group of districts with more taxable properties, said such an order would rule out any local enrichment funds.

"I have no desire to prohibit local enrichment," said Clark, "but everybody needs to have an equal shot at local fund enrichment."

Clark remarked once that the Legislature might want to redistrict the state's 1,100 school districts.

"I would think the state would want to do some studies on this," he said.

Weather

Scattered showers and thunderstorms, some of them strong, rolled across the Panhandle, rolling plains and the northwest sections of north central Texas today.

A weak cold front extended from Oklahoma to near Childress and further west to near Dalhart in the northwest Panhandle.

Skies were partly to mostly cloudy across the High Plains, with the cloudiness extending east to the northwest sections of north central Texas. Low-level cloudiness caused by moisture from the Gulf of Mexico covered sections of south central Texas, the Rio Grande plain and the coastal plains. The rest of the state had generally fair skies.

Southerly winds prevailed across the greater part of the state. The far west and extreme northeast Panhandle had northerly winds. Wind speeds were in the 5 to 15 mph range. Light and variable winds were over northeast Texas.

Temperatures were in the 50s across the Panhandle and mountains of the southwest. Readings in the 60s were common elsewhere in West Texas. The rest of the state had temperatures in the 70s. Extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from 50 degrees at Marfa in the Davis mountains to 79 degrees at the naval air station in Corpus Christi.

The National Weather Service forecast calls for a chance of thunderstorms over West Texas, the Hill Country, south central, central and north central Texas.

Some of the thunderstorms may possibly become severe. It will be generally partly cloudy to cloudy over the northwest and partly cloudy to clear elsewhere. High temperatures will be in the mid 70s across the Panhandle and 80s to the 90s elsewhere.

Butcher gets 20 years

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A federal judge sentenced bankrupt financier C.H. Butcher Jr. on Friday to 20 years in prison for banking practices that prosecutors say bilked thousands of people of their life savings.

Butcher, whose family once held a banking dynasty stretching across Tennessee and Kentucky, stood motionless as U.S. District Judge Thomas A. Higgins pronounced the sentence.

Higgins also ordered Butcher to serve five years probation and pay a $320,000 fine.

"Mr. Butcher, you've enjoyed great material success, prominence and power," Higgins said. "You now are at the bar of this court having fallen from whatever height that wealth, prominence and power may represent."

"This is dues day for you," the judge said.

Butcher, 49, had faced up to 25 years in prison under a plea agreement with prosecutors. He pleaded guilty to bankruptcy fraud, misapplication of bank loan funds, tax fraud and money laundering charges. Charges against Butcher's son and father were dropped under the agreement.

Iron blamed for deaths

CHICAGO — A clothes iron ignited bedroom carpeting in a basement apartment Friday, touching off a smoky fire that killed four children and two women, investigators said.

Smoke inhalation and carbon-monoxide poisoning killed the six victims and the only survivor, an infant, was reported in critical condition, authorities said.

"We recovered the iron from dead center" of the blaze, on the floor, said Detective Robert Sherwin of the police Bomb and Arson Squad.

"The iron apparently ignited the bedroom carpeting and the fire spread to a nearby mattress where one of the children was lying," he said.

"That place wasn't fit to live in," said Felix Winfield, 21, whose sister and three of her four children died in the fire. "There was only one way out and there wasn't any smoke detector."

Families grieve together

MAYPORT NAVAL STATION, Fla. — Families struggled to gain strength from one another's hugs and President Reagan's words of comfort during a memorial service Friday at which 1,200 people paid tribute to 37 USS Stark sailors.

Sailors in dress whites, young women holding babies and gray-haired mothers were among those crowding into the helicopter hangar used for the service at the Stark's home port. Several women wore dark glasses as they clutched relatives. One had to be helped out of the service shortly after it began.

An estimated 300 to 500 relatives of the 37 sailors killed during an Iraqi air attack in the Persian Gulf on Sunday comforted one another as Reagan spoke. One young sailor hugged the women seated on either side of him as they dabbed their eyes with tissues.

Most of those who were not relatives were sailors from Mayport and two other Navy bases in the area. Many wore small purple ribbons — the official color of the Stark.

Transplant patients Clinton House, Middle River, Md., left and John Couch, Yardley, Pa. meet a small group of media members Friday at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Less than two weeks ago House received the heart and lungs of an accident victim and then donated his own heart to Couch, whose heart was in need of replacement.

Domino transplant

Donor, recipient to stay in touch

BALTIMORE (AP) — The nation's first living heart-transplant donor and his recipient agreed Friday that they would keep in touch and closely watch each other's progress after their rare "domino donor" transplant.

The subdued meeting Friday before a small number of journalists was the second for heart patient John Couch and Clinton House, a cystic fibrosis victim. Less than two weeks ago, House gave his healthy heart to Couch while he received a heart and lungs from an unidentified automobile accident victim.

"Right now ... this is actually probably the best I've felt in several years," said Couch, a 38-year-old bookkeeper from Yardley, Pa. He had been bedridden with congestive heart failure for seven months.

Couch, sitting with House in a patients' lounge at Johns Hopkins Hospital, said he was grateful to the 28-year-old refrigeration worker, adding "you usually don't get a chance to meet your donor."

"Fortunately in my case, I didn't have to die to donate," said House, of Essex, Md. "Unfortunately, my donor had to. He's the star in all this."

Couch agreed, saying he hoped their transplants would encourage more organ donations.

"There are people on waiting lists who do die," Couch said. "They don't get the chance to get an organ."

House, whose lungs were nearly destroyed by his inherited disease, said he didn't hesitate for a moment when Johns Hopkins surgeons suggested the dual transplants May 10. The operations were finished the next day.

"I had no doubt," House said. He had been on the waiting list for a heart-lung transplant for a year.

Doctors had said they transplanted both heart and lungs into House despite the fact that his heart was healthy because they consider lungs-only operations more risky.

Their decision was criticized by some other experts, but House said he was happy to be able to donate his healthy heart. However, he added, "I'm sure there would be another donor. It's just an organ — a pump. It's not like I gave him a spirit or anything."

House and Couch walked together to the patients' lounge and then removed their face masks as reporters donned theirs. Both appeared strong and were more talkative than during their first, brief meeting Thursday, hospital officials said.

Joann Rodgers, hospital spokeswoman, said both men will continue to exercise and undergo regular biopsies to monitor their adjustment to the new organs.

Only two other living-heart transplants like House's and Couch's are known to have been performed, both of them in London.

While the men's situation is nearly unprecedented, research at the University of Minnesota on living donors in bone marrow transplant cases shows that donors are glad to be given the chance to help, even if the recipient dies.

Hero raises millions

VANCOUVER, British Columbia — When Rick Hansen left a Vancouver shopping plaza 26 months ago vowing to circle the globe in his wheelchair, some thought he'd be lucky to reach Seattle.

But 34 countries and 25,000 miles later, Hansen burst through a yellow "Welcome Home" ribbon Friday in bright sunshine and completed his odyssey as a national hero.

"I almost think I'm in a dream or something," he said as he entered Oakridge shopping center, where his trip began.

When he began the final push across Canada last August, there was just $129,000 in a trust fund Hansen had hoped would reach $7.5 million before he was through.

But funds poured in as schoolchildren, housewives, workers and the disabled welcomed him on the westward trek to his home province of British Columbia. The total was expected to hit nearly $11.25 million because of a last-minute flurry of donations.

About 20,000 people lined streets and parking lots in a boisterous welcome, many waving yellow ribbons at Hansen, who wore a blue athletic shirt. He waved back to the left and right.

Moslem attack kills four

NEW DELHI, India — Moslems armed with daggers and swords stormed out of India's largest mosque Friday and attacked Hindus in the ancient center of the capital. Four people were killed and 134 injured, officials said.

In Meerut, 45 miles northeast of New Delhi, nine people died overnight in a fifth day of Hindu-Moslem rioting, the United News of India reported.

The rioting in New Delhi occurred after the army lifted a three-day curfew to allow 2,000 Moslems to pray in Jama Masjid mosque in Old Delhi.

Hospital officials said four people died and more than 134 were injured in the ensuing riots. Most of the casualties were Hindus, officials said. It was the second outbreak of rioting this week in old New Delhi.

Mexico may obtain loans

MEXICO CITY — Mexico, with the developing world's second highest foreign debt, will probably qualify for $500 million in special foreign loans to help pull its sluggish economy out of recession, government and private economists say.

The $500 million account was provided for when the Mexican government recently negotiated a $7.7 billion loan agreement with its bank creditors. The agreement provided that the extra money would be made available for investment projects if the economy was slow to recuperate in the first quarter of the year.

Both economists and government officials indicate it was.

The slow performance of Mexico's economy is a fresh sign of the economic woes of the Latin American debtor nations. Earlier this week, Citicorp, the second biggest U.S. banking company, set aside $3 billion to cover possible losses on foreign loans. It also gave a gloomy economic forecast for the region.

Business briefs

Cosden name changed to Fina

Fina Oil & Chemical Co. has begun a program to phase out the Cosden trade name and replace it with the Fina name, officials announced.

The Cosden name came with Fina's acquisition of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. in 1963, and all petrochemicals and plastics activities were grouped under the Cosden name.

Fina merged all of its subsidiaries in July 1985 and named it Fina Oil & Chemical Co.

"We don't want any confusion about who we are and who is leading the way," said Jim Comeaux, vice president for chemicals. "There has been some confusion in the past about Fina's relationship with Cosden."

Phasing out the Cosden trade name will begin with employees and customers, then spread to the industry, he said.

The Chemicals Division operates, or has an interest in, eight manufacturing plants across the country, including one in Big Spring.

Big Spring Pinkie's stores sold

The two Big Spring Pinkie's liquor stores have been sold to Bob Grimes, former Pinkie's Inc. vice president in charge of operations.

Grimes began his career with Pinkie's in Big Spring, and has worked for the company for 32 years. He started as a clerk in 1955 at the North Store in Big Spring.

He transferred to Post in 1959, and in 1960 moved to Lubbock as manager of the Canyon store. Promoted to regional manager in 1961, Grimes managed the Big Spring market for Pinkie's until his transfer to Lubbock in 1972.

Since then he has served as regional manager for the Lubbock market and was elected to the position of vice president in 1985. He Bob Grimes served as a member of the corporation's executive committee and marketing committee.

Artifacts moves to Gregg Street

Artifacts home furnishings store has moved to 1903 1/2 Gregg St., said owner Barbara Hall. It was formerly on Runnels Street.

The retail store deals in floor and wall coverings, draperies, window treatments, and accessories, she said. It is open Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., or by appointment. The business expanded its stock of fabric lines with the move, Hall said, adding that she plans to expand gift lines considerably this fall.

The business, formerly Fraser-Hall Designs, opened in 1978 and was renamed Artifacts in 1983.

Water deliveries drop this year

Water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District are considerably lower so far this year than usual, but net revenues are unusually high, officials said.

Deliveries of 4,331,715,740 gallons were down 22.25 percent during the first four months of the year, from the same period a year ago.

Net income for the four months was $2,281,372, up 16.97 percent.

Income of $3,918,579 was 0.5 percent more than projected, largely because rates are based mainly on fixed charges necessary to operate the system, rather than on volume alone, officials said.

Expenses of $1,622,060 were 21.79 percent less than projected, partly because of power savings on the lower delivery amount. Other factors were fuel adjustments and rate rebates for energy charges last year.

At the end of April, Lakes Thomas and Spence had 380,180 acre feet of water, or 54.88 percent of capacity. Spence with 67.6 percent of capacity, and Thomas 24.58 percent.

Net increase so far this year has been 12,724 acre feet. District officials said usually, the lakes experience a substantial loss in April.

Big Spring native named reporter

Big Spring native Steve Reagan has been named the newest reporter at the Herald. Reagan, who has worked for the newspaper since April 1981, will begin his new position Tuesday.

He is the son of D.E. Reagan, 1500 Harding St., and brother of Danny Reagan, Herald sports editor 1977-78, who now is a reporter with the Abilene Reporter News.

Steve Reagan was circulation district manager from 1981-83, responsible for staffing and supervising paper routes for a particular area. He has worked in the paper's mail room the past 18 months.

He was an air traffic controller at Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, and was squadron information NCO while serving in the Air Force 1974-77.

He began writing sports briefs for the Herald during football

Steve Reagan season last fall, and progressed to freelance sports writing before applying for the reporting position vacated by Scott Fitzgerald earlier this year.

He has begun covering education for the Herald and that will be among his coverage areas.

March of Dimes benefit to begin

Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants nationwide will begin a month-long fund raising effort on Memorial Day weekend to benefit the March of Dimes foundation to prevent birth defects.

The establishments will donate ten cents for every chicken menu item sold. Customers will be encouraged to donate their change in counter canisters.

Half the funds raised go into a fund supporting research into the cause and prevention of premature birth — a leading cause of birth defects.

Texas ties bank failure record

More failures foreseen

1986, 90 percent of failures were primarily the result of poor management, but at least half of the failures now are no longer caused just by poor management.

"It's the hanging-on of poor economic conditions," he said. "Even the strong bank — if he's got two or three tackles hanging on him — sooner or later he's going to come down."

During the state's boom years in the late 1970s and early 1980s, many lenders got accustomed to widespread land speculation. But when oil prices took a nosedive in late 1985, energy and real estate industries fell apart.

Layoffs mounted in depressed cities throughout Texas. The state is facing a multibillion-dollar budget deficit, and there are mounting calls to enact an income tax for the first time.

"The banking system is more or less reflective of the economy as a whole," said Frank Anderson, a Dallas banking analyst with Ferguson & Co.

Anderson said he expects the bank failure trend to continue through 1987, despite an improving state economy, because of a lag effect.

"We're seeing some improvement — in agriculture, in oil, even in real estate — as we work our way through the cycle," he said.

However, Anderson said he wasn't overly distressed at the record number of banking failures.

"Texas has 14 percent of the total number of banks in the country, more than 2,000," he said. "We've had less than 1.5 percent of that number fail. It's not something you want to see, but it's still a small part of the whole picture."

Poor lending practices and the worsening local economy led regulators to shut down Lake Austin National Bank in Austin on Thursday, said Judith Walter, the U.S. Comptroller's senior deputy controller for administration. The bank, which was chartered in 1983, had assets of about $48 million, the comptroller's office said.

Greater Texas Bank Southwest in Austin planned, pending court approval, to assume the failed bank's deposits and reopen the facility as a branch, said FDIC spokeswoman Julie Ambersom.

Poor supervision of lending and imprudent lending practices resulting in a substantial increase in problem loans were cited in the case of the other bank closed by regulators on Thursday, Texas Investment Bank N.A. in Houston.

The bank, which was chartered in 1972, had assets of about $17 million, said comptroller spokesman Frank Bance.

"Some of the good bankers now — fellows who have sound, well-managed banks now — are that way because they were considered ultra-conservative a few years ago," Nun said.

"Those are the kinds of guys who survived the Depression and know the value of saving for a rainy day."

Drilling report

The price of West Texas crude is $19.37, as of 11:49 a.m. Friday. These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Pumping 124 barrels of oil per day, the No. 1 Southland "B" was completed in Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field by A. K. Guthrie Operating.

Drillsite is nine miles northeast of Forsan. The well was drilled to 3,950-ft. total depth and will produce from perforations in the Middle Clear Fork Formation, 3,234 to 3,781 feet into the wellbore. The location is in a 120-acre lease in the W&N Survey.

Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field gained a producer when Mobil Producing completed the No. 41 G. O. Chalk 15 miles southeast of Big Spring.

The well indicated ability to pump 42 barrels of oil per day, plus 87 barrels of water. It was taken to a 2,507-ft. bottom, and will produce from perforations in the San Andres Formation, 2,052 to 2,184 feet into the hole.

The operation is located on a 160-acre lease in the W&N Survey.

The same operator has temporarily abandoned the No. 48 Owen-Chalk, a developmental well in the Howard-Glasscock Field. The well is located 13 miles southeast of Big Spring in Howard County's W&N Survey. The well was spudded last Dec. 5, and was bottomed at 2,500 feet.

The No. 1,8704 J.V.P. Rosewood, a 10,050-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Howard County's Southeast Luther Field. BTA Oil Producers of Midland is the operator. The well will be spudded in a 320-acre lease seven miles north of Big Spring in the T&P Survey.

Drillsite has been staked for the No. 2 Doris Chalk Cole, a 7,850-ft. developmental well in the Howard-Glasscock Field, Howard County. The operation will be located seven miles northeast of Forsan in a 161-acre lease in the W&N Survey. The operator is Phillips Petroleum of Odessa.

Campbell Oil of Denver has revealed plans to drill an 8,700-ft. wildcat well in Borden County. The operator has 400 acres leased, with drillsite in the T&P Survey. The venture has been designated as the

No. 216-1 R.N.M. Drillsite is eight miles northeast of Gail.

At a location 14 miles northeast of Gail, Indian Wells Oil finished a new oil producer in Borden County's North Hood Field. The well is designated as the No. 1 Parks "677", pumping 75 barrels of oil per day, plus 92.00 CF casinghead gas and 55 barrels of water.

Location is in a 640-acre lease in the H&TC Survey. Bottomed at 8,337 feet and plugged back to 8,280 feet, production will be from perforations in the Strawn Formation, 8,086 to 8,108 feet into the hole.

Accounting procedure leads to false information

As if we didn't have enough industrial challenges — such as inflexibility and poor product quality — even our basic systems are crippling us.

For example, cost accounting systems routinely allocate overhead costs, such as the accounting department, engineering, utilities, machinery and management, to direct labor. In fact, each typical "direct-labor hour" may carry an overhead "burden," as the accountants call it, of 1,000 percent.

That's why, when a manager is pushed by higher-ups to cut costs, there is but one sensible target under this accounting regimen — direct labor, which, on the books, includes that huge burden charge.

Here's what can happen. Suppose the manager decides to sub-contract production of a labor-intensive part. He saves 100 hours of direct labor at $20 per hour (the actual in all). But on the books, the actual direct-labor savings plus the 1,000 percent burden (worth 10 times the labor), adds up to credited savings of $22,000.

The subcontract to a smaller, low overhead, perhaps offshore operation costs, say, $5,000. The net savings, then, is $17,000. Much applause goes to the plant manager.

Unfortunately, the real story is different from the accounting story. The actual factory overhead is not reduced at all by the act of subcontracting (you can't shut the lights out over one idle machine). In fact, overhead is increased, because the plant manager has to negotiate and administer a contract with the new supplier and handle the incoming components, not to mention the increased initial uncertainty of delivery and quality with any supplier.

So the real net savings is the $2,000 in direct labor minus the $5,000 subcontract cost minus, say, $1,000 in real, added overhead — or a loss of $4,000! Nonetheless, thanks to the miracle of traditional accounting, the plant manager takes a bow.

Such perverse outcomes are commonplace, say professors H. Thomas Johnson and Robert S. Kaplan in their new book, "Relevance Lost: The Rise and Fall of Management Accounting." In fact the authors report that "cost accounting is the number one enemy of productivity."

Industrialists trained in engineering, such as Andrew Carnegie, perfected modern accounting to assist managerial decision-making needs concerning the production process.

But slowly, as professionally-trained accountants began to take control of the systems, accounting's emphasis shifted from management tool to financial reporting.

And it's those financial reporting requirements by various regulatory bodies that necessitate conventions such as allocating all overhead costs to inventory and cost of goods sold, leading to the type of distortion described above.

Johnson and Kaplan attack today's system by outlining its two principal sins — errors of commission and omission. A prime example of commission is the "expensing" of activities such as research, worker-skill upgrading and process improvement.

Because these investments in the future are treated, for accounting purposes, as "expenses of the period," they fall prey to the short-term cost cutter.

Another error of this sort includes hidden cross-subsidies among products that make it difficult to measure true product profitability.

Eddie's back in Beverly Hills

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Whenever the title of a movie has "II" on the end of it, the first question to be answered is obvious.

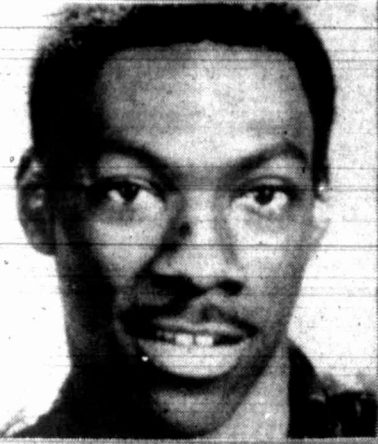

Was "II" as good as "I"?

In the case of "Beverly Hills Cop II", the answer is undeniably "no". That's not to say you won't enjoy yourself at the follow-up, but that simply it's not as good as its predecessor, which was very good.

In the original, the wisecracking Axel Foley (Eddie Murphy) buzzed from his home town urban dump of Detroit to sunny L.A. to avenge the death of a childhood buddy. What followed was a hilarious, action packed jewel of a movie. For two hours, Eddie Murphy partied on the screen.

Part II, like the original, has one good thing going for it that also characterized another of Murphy's smashes, "48 Hours." All three movies employ tense and violent action to balance the comedy, which in turn adds to the comedy.

Instead of two hours of screwball comedy — which

...stars in sequel

always gets tiresome unless it's done really well, by someone like Steve Martin or Mel Brooks — Murphy's movies contain danger. When he hams it up, it's doubly funny because he's about to get his behind shot off.

Like the James Bond movies, Murphy's movies have evil, hateful villains that the audience fears and wants dead. And like Bond, but more so, Murphy's movies are full of comic relief.

When Bond's about to get blown away, he makes a comment so clever we just shake our heads and say, "Whatta guy." When Murphy dodges bullets, he mugs at the audience as if to say, "You know I'm not going to get it. I'm the star." The audience thinks he's crazy, wishes they were that crazy, and loves him for it.

The opening scene of Part II is a bank robbery, with bullets everywhere and a big, mean blonde babe making most of the noise.

Brigitte Nielsen (who, you may know as Sylvester Stallone's real-life wife) is that girl, and several scenes later, she guns down one of the good friends Axel made in Part I. Hence, Axel returns to the Left Coast.

In Part I, Axel Foley, loveable as he was, was a loner because he didn't know anyone in L.A. Because he was alone, he could make fun of everyone, and he did.

In Part II, he begins with friends — we learn he's kept in touch with Billy and Taggart, the two L.A. cops he had such a good time making asses of in Part I. Not to poop on Eddie's party, but it was more fun watching him go it alone than it was watching him as the leader of the Three Musketeers, Beverly Hills version.

And the plot of Part II varies hardly at all from the original. But as those who saw Part I, in Eddie Murphy's hands, that plot was plenty good.

There are lots of laughs, and quite a few thrills, but something's missing. It's old territory now. As we all know, the second time around is hardly ever as good as the first time — and that applies to all phases of life, grasshopper, and not just the movies.

Perhaps most damaging, whenever a movie has "II" on it, we compare it to "I". And "I", in this case, is awful tough company.

It reminds me of the time Raquel Welch guested on "The Sonny and Cher Show". Cher always looked pretty stunning on her own, but she made the mistake of singing a duet side by side with Raquel. Mountinous Raquel stood next to Cher, and the poor host looked merely hilly. The contrast did her in.

That's what happened to "Beverly Hills Cop II". The contrast had it looking pretty average.

MIDLAND

• Taos artists Dan and Michael Vigil are being featured in a show at Gallery 1114 in Midland through June 19. Gallery 1114, an artists cooperative, is located at 1114 N. Big Spring St.

The show includes paintings, and works on paper and monotypes. The artists have extensive printmaking experience and operate a lithography shop in Taos. Both artist have exhibited widely in the Southwest.

• "The Foreigner", a play showing at the Midland Community Theatre, has another week left in its run.

According to the news release, "The Foreigner" had more than just laughs. It has drama, romance, sentiment and intrigue. "The Foreigner" has heroes, buffoons, villains and pretty girl. It has good intentions, bad intentions, suspense and surprise.

Sounds like too much. For reservations, call 682-4111.

ANDREWS

• Andrews Senior Citizens Center holds senior dances every Monday. Out-of-town guests are invited.

ODESSA

• Two musicals — "110 in the Shade" and "Dames at Sea" will be performed in rotation on weekends from June 19-July 19 at the Globe in Odessa. The two plays mark the return of repertory theatre to the Permian Basin. The repertory system enables the theatre to produce two or more shows using performers from a single acting company. The shows are then performed in rotation to provide variety and flexibility for audiences.

For more information, call the Globe at 332-1586.

• The Art Institute for the Permian Basin is presenting an exhibition of work by Fernando Botero Angula of Columbia (born in 1932). Botero is one of the twentieth century's leading international artists, says the press release.

The 21 drawings in the exhibit will be on display from this Sunday through Sunday, June 28. The Art Institute is open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The Art Institute is located at 4909 East University Blvd. in Odessa. For more information, call 368-7222.

SAN ANGELO

• Paul Osborne's comedy "Morning's at Seven" is the next production of the Angelo Civic Center.

This comedy, noted in the press release as "hilarious", will be performed May 28-30 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, May 31 at 2 p.m., and June 4-6 at 8 p.m.

For reservations, contact the box office at 949-4400 between noon and 5:30 p.m. Tickets are $7.50 for adults, and $5 for students and senior citizens.

SEATTLE (AP) — Coach Bernie Bickerstaff of the SuperSonics does not hide his admiration for the Los Angeles Lakers, who lead Seattle 2-0 in their NBA Western Conference final.

"This team has taken the greatest basketball team in the league down to the wire in two games. "I don't want to get all hung up on people expecting this, people expecting that. We are still playing the Lakers."

Furious Flyers' rally stuns Oilers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Scott Mellanby scored the tying goal early in the third period and set up Brad McCrimmon's game-winning 17 seconds later as the Philadelphia Flyers rallied from a three-goal deficit to beat the Edmonton Oilers 5-3 Friday night in Game 3 of the Stanley Cup final.

The Oilers still hold a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, which resumes Sunday night at the Spectrum, where the Flyers are 11-2-1 in the Oilers' last 14 visits.

Edmonton led 3-0 less than two minutes into the second period and appeared to have the game wrapped up before the Flyers rallied to hand the Oilers their first road loss in seven playoff games this year.

Mellanby tied the game at 3-3 when he beat Edmonton goaltender Grant Fuhr on a 40-foot slapshot from beyond the right circle at 4:37 of the third period.

On the Flyers' next rush, the rookie right wing fed a perfect pass to McCrimmon, who finished off a 3-on-2 by beating Fuhr from just outside the crease at 4:54.

It was the first time in his last 12 games that Fuhr had surrendered more than three goals.

Brian Propp's empty-net goal from center ice with 34 seconds left clinched the win.

Aguirre gets misty remembering Motta

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mavericks forward Mark Aguirre says he may miss former coach Dick Motta despite their clashes over the years.

"I'm sure I will," Aguirre said. "It's difficult for me. Although we've had our differences, I learned a lot from him. I couldn't really measure how much."

Motta announced his retirement Wednesday. He had been criticized by fans and Mavericks officials after he was quoted in New York newspapers as saying he questioned whether he could win an NBA title in Dallas.

"I guess it's shocking," Aguirre told the Dallas Times Herald in a telephone interview from his family's home in Chicago. "I never thought it would happen like that. I don't know what happened. Sometimes he says one thing and it has a different meaning to it. You never know."

Aguirre arrived in Dallas as the NBA's No. 1 draft choice in 1981. He sometimes clashed with Motta's disciplined, patterned system.

Motta suspended Aguirre for two games during the 1985-86 season after Aguirre declined to enter the second half of a victory over Atlanta.

Motta also criticized Aguirre this season for his behavior during a March 21 game with Detroit after Aguirre was ejected in the second quarter for persistently arguing with an official.

Aguirre conceded Motta's absence may give him more freedom on the court.

"It depends on what the new coach wants," he said. "I think I'll have to play a much quicker game. I've started a weight-training program, and I'm trying to get my weight down to about 215 (from 232)."

"I think our team should be totally evaluated again. No major changes, but everyone should know what direction we're going," he said.

Longhorns eliminate Sooners from CWS

By The Associated Press Georgia's Scott Broadfoot pitched a one-hitter and Rich Beilski and Steve Carter both homered Friday, leading the third-seeded Bulldogs to a 5-1 victory over Georgia Tech, eliminating the top-seeded Yellow Jackets from the Northeast Regional of the NCAA Division I college baseball tournament.

Broadfoot struck out seven and allowed only a solo home run to Blake Burke in the second inning.

He retired 23 of the last 24 batters he faced, allowing only a two-out walk to Ty Griffin in the sixth.

Georgia took a 2-1 lead in the third on singles by Donn Perno, Scott Bohle and Carter, a double-play grounder by Roger Miller and an error by Tech first baseman Billy Parkham on Derek Lilliquist's grounder.

Bielski hit a solo homer in the sixth and Carter added a two-run shot in the ninth.

Michigan 10, Rider 0 Jim Abbott pitched an eight-hitter, and Bill St. Peter and Phil Price homered, leading Michigan over Rider College.

Abbott, 11-3, who was born without a right hand, was aided by two double plays and a pickoff.

Central Regional Texas 10, Oklahoma 5

In Austin, Texas, Brian Johnson hit a three-run homer to highlight a four-run fourth inning, powering the Longhorns past the Sooners.

Six different Longhorns had two hits each in the game, which eliminated Oklahoma with a 42-20 record.

Indiana State 10, Lamar 3 Dan Roman hit a two-run home run in the second inning to rally Indiana State over Lamar. Trailing 2-0, the Sycamores scored six runs in the second, sending nine men to the plate. The loss eliminated Lamar, which lost to Texas Thursday night.

Atlantic Regional Florida State 5, Miami 2 In Tallahassee, Fla., Richie Lewis pitched a four-hitter and Barry Blackwell hit a three-run double to key a five-run third inning that carried Florida State over Miami, Fla., eliminating the Hurricanes from a fourth straight trip to the College World Series.

Central Michigan 17, East Carolina 9 Andy Rohn, Mitch Bohn, Steve Lind and Tom Kreiner had three hits apiece and Steve Lind knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles to lead the Chippewas over East Carolina.

South I Regional Auburn 5, Middle Tennessee State 3 In Huntsville, Ala., Rock Wilson hit a two-run single in the eighth inning, leading Auburn past Middle Tennessee State.

The Pack Attacks

Jury says Lofton innocent

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Football star James Lofton was found innocent Friday on a charge he forced a 30-year-old Michigan woman to commit oral sex in a stairwell near the Green Bay nightclub where they met.

A Brown County Circuit Court jury reached the verdict after deliberating about two hours.

The verdict came after the jurors heard closing arguments from defense attorney Stephen Glynn and prosecutor Lawrence Lasee.

Glynn argued the state failed to prove its case and that the former Green Bay Packer, recently traded to the Los Angeles Raiders, should be acquitted.

Lasee told the jury that Lofton assaulted the woman and deserved to be punished.

Lofton had been charged with one count of second-degree sexual assault.

Lasee opened final arguments by saying the woman who accused the 30-year old wide receiver had lived in emotional pain since Dec. 18, 1986. That was the date the Upper Michigan woman claimed that Lofton forced her into an act of oral sex in the stairwell adjacent to the top Shelf nightclub.

"But ladies and gentlemen, she accepted that pain and came here (as a witness). The pain did not come from any of those bogus explanations that Mr. Glynn gave you."

Glynn told the jury that "this case has to turn on one thing and one thing only: that is the testimony of (the woman). That testimony is uncorroborated, inconsistent, and contradictory."

Glynn said "corroborating testimony is important, especially when you have a witness whose story is changing all the time."

Glynn said there was reasonable doubt that the woman had been forced into and then out an elevator and pushed or pulled up two flights of stairs to the stairwell.

"You can have a reasonable doubt from the lack of evidence: there was no hair, or screaming or evidence of pushing to the elevator," he said.

...while Cade's trial continues

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A restaurant night manager testified Friday a man who looked like Green Bay Packer Mossy Cade ate there at the time Cade is accused of sexually assaulting a woman.

But David Lund told a Brown County Circuit Court jury he could not positively identify the patron as Cade, 25, a defensive back charged with three counts of second-degree sexual assault.

Lund, night manager of a restaurant in Aswaubenton, Wis., was the final witness Friday. The trial is scheduled to resume Saturday morning with Cade, who has pleaded innocent, as the day's first witness.

Lund, called by defense attorney Donald Zuidmulder, testified he remembered seeing a black man in the restaurant between 12:30 a.m. and 2 a.m. on Nov. 4, 1985, and that he looked so much like Cade he almost asked him for his autograph.

But under cross examination by special prosecutor Royce Finne, Lund said he could not say for sure the man was Cade.

Zuidmulder has argued that the night manager's recollection is fuzzy because, according to the defense lawyer, the police took so long in checking out Cade's story.

Finne had rested his case earlier Friday and Judge Richard Greenwood turned down a motion to dismiss the charges.

Lund's testimony followed a parade of medical witnesses called by both the defense and the prosecution.

A Houston physician called by Finne testified he found four bruises on the body of the woman who has accused Cade of assaulting her.

Dr. John Cuellar said the 44-year-old woman, who was married to a relative of Cade, had bruises on her left breast, left thigh, left calf and right arm when he examined her on Nov.

4, 1985, the day the assault allegedly occurred.

Testifying Thursday, the woman, who said Cade was like a son to her, accused the football player of raping her while she was a guest in his De Pere home during a trip from Houston to watch him play.

The woman did not make a report to police until she returned to Texas.

"I wrote down they were less than 24 hours old," Cuellar said when asked about the age of the bruises. Admitting he was not an expert on bruises, he said they were certainly less than 48 hours old.

The woman was examined about 12 to 15 hours after leaving Cade's house.

Zuidmulder then asked Cuellar if the woman had any bruises on her wrists and he said no. On Thursday the woman, who is from Houston, testified that Cade had dragged her through the house by her wrists.

Reading from a report, Cuellar said the woman complained of pain in the thighs and the abdominal area. Zuidmulder then said that of the four places she complained of pain, only one of them, a thigh, was bruised.

Also testifying for the prosecution in the trial's fifth day were two crime lab analysts, Karen Doerfer of the Wisconsin Crime Lab in Madison and William David Coffman, who worked for the Houston Police Department in November of 1985.

Blood and saliva tests revealed that Cade could not be eliminated as a source of semen found during an examination of the woman, Doerfer said.

But Doerfer, under cross examination, said the test couldn't eliminate three-quarters of the male population either.

Coffman confirmed that tests he conducted revealed the presence of male sperm.

Karl says he's staying put

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Golden State Warriors Coach George Karl on Friday repudiated published reports that he was interested in interviewing with the Dallas Mavericks for the head coaching vacancy created when Dick Motta resigned earlier this week.

He said the reports were based "strictly on conjecture and rumor."

"I feel that I have one of the top coaching jobs in the NBA. We have had a great season, one that was supported by the fans of the Bay area," Karl said in a prepared statement.

"I intend and look forward to fulfilling my contractual obligations to the Golden State Warriors. It is my desire to build a winning tradition with the Warrior organization."

Murphy, Braves pound Cubbies

CHICAGO (AP) — Dale Murphy hit two home runs and Dion James and Gerald Perry hit one each Friday, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 9-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Atlanta starter David Palmer, 4-4, allowed three runs over 5 1/3 innings for his fourth consecutive victory. Jim Acker pitched the final 3 2/3 innings for his fourth save.

Murphy hit his 12th home run of the year to right field in the fourth inning off loser Scott Sanderson, 3-1, giving the Braves a 1-0 lead.

James hit a three-run homer in the fifth after Andres Thomas doubled and Palmer singled. Ken Oberkfell singled and one out later Murphy homered into the left-field bleachers to give Atlanta a 6-0 advantage.

Chicago had 10 hits and left 10 men on base.

Mets 6, Dodgers 4

NEW YORK (AP) — Reliever Matt Young's throwing error enabled New York to score the tiebreaking run in the seventh inning as the Mets beat Los Angeles 6-4, the Dodgers' sixth straight loss.

Home runs by Darryl Strawberry, Kevin McReynolds and Mookie Wilson off Fernando Valenzuela helped New York overcome a three-run homer by Los Angeles' Pedro Guerrero in the first inning.

With the score 4-4, pinch-hitter Lee Mazzilli opened the Mets' seventh with a single. Mookie Wilson followed with an infield single, but Young, 1-5, threw Young's error the play allowed Mazzilli to score and Wilson reach third.

Terry Leach won his first decision of the season and Roger McDowell got his third save.

Though the Chicago Cubs' Keith Moreland is forced out at second, he makes sure Atlanta Braves' second baseman Ken Oberkfell doesn't make the double play. But the Braves won anyway.

Giants 2, Phillies 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Atlee Hammaker, making just his second start since October 1985, scattered three hits over six innings and singled home a run as the San Francisco Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1.

Hammaker, 2-1, who missed the entire 1986 season with shoulder and knee injuries, struck out three and walked one. Scott Garrelts finished, allowing two hits, for his sixth save as San Francisco won its third straight game.

Don Carman, 2-3, took the loss despite giving up four hits in eight innings.

Pirates 4, Reds 1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rick Reuschel pitched five-hit ball for seven innings and hit a tiebreaking solo home run in the eighth, giving the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Fisk's blast beats Sox, Clemens

BOSTON (AP) — Carlton Fisk hit his third home run of the season high into the screen above the 379-foot mark in left-center field with one out in the top of the ninth victory over Roger Clemens and the Boston Red Sox.

Fisk's homer came after the Red Sox left the bases loaded and failed to score in the eighth inning.

Clemens, 3-4, struck out 10 for the second time this season and the 14th in his career and pitched his third consecutive complete game, allowing six hits. But the setback gave him the same number of losses as last year when he was 24-4 and won the American League's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Awards.

Tigers 3, Twins 2
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jack Morris boosted his record to 11-0 in his home state Friday night as the Detroit Tigers beat the Minnesota for their eighth triumph in nine games.

Larry Herndon opened the Tigers' seventh with a double to left-center off Frank Viola, 2-5, and one out later Chet Lemon hit an opposite-field double off the right-field wall for the winning run.

Morris, 5-2, a St. Paul, Minn., native, is 8-0 in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome after going 3-0 at old Metropolitan Stadium. He is 17-5 lifetime against the Twins.

Longhorns

Middle Tennessee put runners on first and third with none out in the top of the ninth but Gregg Olson, 11-1, struck out the side to end the threat and knock the Blue Raiders out of the tourney.

Arkansas 7, West Virginia 2
Dan Thomas drove in three runs on two doubles and Dennis Fletcher and Bob Edwards combined on a seven-hitter, leading the Razorbacks over the Mountaineers, who were eliminated.

South II Regional
Fullerton St. 4, Tulane 0
In New Orleans, Mike Harkey threw a four-hit shutout to lead Fullerton State over Tulane, eliminating the Green Wave. Fullerton State scored all of its runs in the top of the third inning on a double by Andy Motta and singles by Mark Baca, Mike Ross and Ken Garcia.

Louisiana Tech 5, Southern U. 2
David Segui hit a two-run double and scored a run, pacing Louisiana Tech over Southern University.

Jimmy Faircloth, 9-3, got the victory for Tech, while Jeff Swain, 6-3, took the loss.

Midwest Regional
Western Carolina 8, Purdue 7
In Starkville, Miss., Skep Nelloms went 4-for-5 and drove in two runs and reliever Ward Withrow pitched 3 1/3 innings of scoreless ball, enabling Western Carolina to hold off Purdue and eliminate the Boilermakers. Nelloms led a 13-hit attack with two singles, a double and triple.

Oklahoma State 8, North Carolina State 6
Designated hitter Jim Ifland drove in four runs with a homer and a single, leading Oklahoma State past North Carolina State.

Oklahoma State, who took a 6-0 lead in the sixth on Ifland's homer, 16 hits in the game. The loss dropped the Wolfpack to 39-16 and eliminated them from the tournament.

West I Regional
Washington State 10, Oral Roberts 5

In Stanford, Calif., Jeff Hooper, Randy Snyder and Rob Smith each homered and Brian Sajonia pitched a seven-hitter over 7 2/3 innings, pacing Washington State over Oral Roberts in the first game of the regional.

Loren Hoppes also had four hits for Washington State.
Wichita State 4, Cal-Santa Barbara 4

Tim Raley hit a run-scoring triple in the seventh inning to break 3-3 tie and lead the Shockers over Cal-Santa Barbara.

Shane Durham, 4-1, allowed one hit over the final three innings in relief of starter David Haas for the victory.

West II Regional
UCLA 12, Hawaii 11

In Tempe, Ariz., Scott Cline drove in five runs, including a two-run homer, and the Bruins withstood a four-run, ninth inning rally to edge Hawaii.

Trailing 12-3, Hawaii scored four times in the sixth, including two runs on a Markus Owens homer. The Rainbows scored four times in the ninth, including a two-run homer by Robert Muhammad.

New Goodyears may be cause of Indy wipeouts

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The average motorist doesn't think about tires until one goes flat.

At a racetrack, however, tires are of supreme importance. They can make all the difference in a race — and sometimes between life and death.

Goodyear, the exclusive tire supplier for the Indy-car series, has been on the spot this month because the company brought steel-belted radial tires to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the first time.

The radial replaces the bias-ply tire, a nylon and rubber unit that, except for improvements in rubber compounds and changes in dimension, has remained basically the same for about 50 years.

The problem is that 23 cars have crashed this month and several others have spun or nearly gone out of control during practice and qualifying leading up to Sunday's Indianapolis 500.

Nobody has directly blamed the new tires, citing a slippery track, changes in the cars, driver error and parts failures as other possible factors in the unusually high number of incidents.

But the radials have definitely been at least part of the problem.

"The tire is far more consistent in size, but it has less grip," Bobby Rahal, the defending Indy winner, said. "You just have to drive accordingly."

Tom Sneva, who crashed twice during the month, has been especially vocal about the shortcomings of the radials.

although he stops short of blaming them for the accidents.

"What I've found is that you get into the turns and the grip just seems to go away," Sneva said. "That's a real problem, because suddenly you're just sliding to the wall."

"These tires are very different than what we were using before, and that means they have to be tuned to the chassis a lot differently than before. Whatever we did in the past, we have to start 180 degrees from there and work from there. Some teams have found the answer and some haven't."

Mario Andretti, who won the Pocono 500 last summer on the new radials — the only superspeedway event run with the new rubber — argues adamantly that tires are not the culprit here this month.

"Anybody who blames the tires is fooling themselves," Andretti said. "This is a good, consistent tire. You can't stand still in this world. You have to keep developing new technology. This is a good technological tire."

Auto racing's buzz-word for tire use is stagger. The term describes the different widths of tires. The proper combination allows a car to get through turns with the least resistance.

Since all four turns at Indianapolis are left-handed, stagger dictates narrower tires be used on the left side of the car.

"It was impossible to maintain stagger with the bias-ply tires," Leo Mehl, director of racing for Goodyear, said

The Mini Page Teacher's Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.

For use with issue: The Bill of Rights

Main Idea: This issue is about the Bill of Rights. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

1. Find the following drawings: a soldier carrying a gun, a church, two Amish children, a group of people, a boy selling a newspaper.
2. Act out the different amendments and the freedoms they give us.
3. What are the different amendments in the Bill of Rights and what does each one mean to you? What do you think our country would be like without these rights? How do these rights affect you every day?
4. In what year was the Bill of Rights added to the Constitution? How many years ago was that?
5. Study your paper and talk about how freedom of the press affects it, the reporters and the readers.
6. On a large piece of poster paper, copy the First Amendment and place it on the wall. Why is this amendment so important?
7. Find the following words: amendment, worship, assembly, defeated, established, approval, limits, effect, deliberate, defeated, unflattering, petition. Define and make up a new sentence for each one.
8. Answer the following questions:
  - a. Which of the amendments is the best known? Why is it so important?
  - b. How many amendments did James Madison present to the Congress? How many were cut out?
  - c. What does freedom of the press mean?
9. Do more research on the lives on Madison and Mason.

The First, Second and Third Amendments
Freedom of the First Amendment
John Peter Zenger, printed a true

The First, Second and Third Amendments

The First Amendment

Freedom of religion means that Congress cannot pass a law setting up a religion that everyone must follow. You are free to worship as you please.

Freedom of speech means that you are free to speak out and give your side of things. Others are free to listen. However, there are some limits. You can't shout "fire" in a crowded room when there is no fire.

Freedom of the press means that members of the press do not have to get what they are planning to print or say approved by the government beforehand. They are free to print what they wish as long as it is not a deliberate lie.

The Mini Page thanks Wynell Burroughs and Jean Mueller, education specialists at the National Archives, for help with this story.

Freedom of assembly means that you are free to meet peacefully.

Freedom to petition means that you are free to ask the government to correct things that you think are wrong.

The Zenger Case

Zenger's lawyer pleads his case.

The right to print the truth was established in the English colonies in 1734. This was more than 50 years before the Constitution was written. In 1733, a newspaper editor, John Peter Zenger, printed a true but unflattering story about the royal governor of New York. The governor had Zenger thrown in jail for about nine months.

At the trial, a lawyer proved that the story Zenger printed was the truth. The jury found Zenger not guilty and set him free.

The Second Amendment

The right to bear (carry) arms (weapons). Congress cannot prevent people from owning guns for their own protection. However, states and local governments make laws about who may own them.

The Third Amendment

The housing of soldiers. This amendment stops the government from forcing citizens to keep soldiers in their homes. In Colonial times, citizens were forced to offer rooms to British soldiers.

- In place of white bread, try crackers, bagels, corn or bran muffins, pita bread, English muffins, taco shells, raisin bread, grain bread, tortillas or croissant rolls.
- In place of lettuce, try cucumber slices, pickles, cabbage, zucchini slices, alfalfa sprouts, green pepper strips or bean sprouts.
- In place of jelly with your peanut butter sandwich, try raisins, sliced bananas, sliced apples, grated carrots or bacon bits.

Amendments to the Constitution

The Bill of Rights

The First Amendment protects the right of the Amish people to worship as they wish. The Amish are farmers who believe in living a life separate from the modern world. The boys wear black clothes and wide-brimmed hats. The girls wear simple dresses and bonnets. They usually travel in buggies.

This is the 16th in a monthly series about the Constitution. The next issue in the series will be about Amendments 4 through 10.

An amendment is a change or addition.

The first 10 amendments to the Constitution are called the Bill of Rights. They were added in 1791 to limit the power of the government over the people. There were several reasons why a bill of rights was not a part of the original Constitution.

Many of the men who wrote the Constitution felt that another bill of rights was not needed since these rights were already protected by state constitutions.

Others felt that the Constitution says that all power not given to the government goes to the people. They thought that making a list of people's rights was not a good idea since they might leave out one.

George Mason of Virginia was one of the delegates who felt that a bill of rights should be included.

In 1776, Mason had written the first bill of rights for the Virginia state constitution. Many other states copied his ideas. Mason refused to sign the U.S. Constitution because it did not have a bill of rights.

James Madison of Virginia realized that a bill of rights had to be added if the Constitution was to be accepted. Some states had agreed to sign only if this was done.

Madison was elected to serve as a representative to the first Congress under the new Constitution. He presented 17 amendments to Congress. These were cut down to 12.

On Oct. 2, 1789, President Washington sent the states a copy of these amendments for their approval. By Dec. 15, 1791, enough states had approved 10 of the amendments so that the Bill of Rights went into effect.

The two amendments that were defeated dealt with the salary of the members of Congress and a change in the number of members allotted to each state.

The First Amendment
"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

The First Amendment of the Constitution is the best-known. In fewer than 50 words, it sets down many of our basic rights.

Meet Stevie Wonder

Stevie Wonder has been tops in the music business for more than 24 years. He is also blind. Since his first hit record at age 12, he has had more than 26 top-ten hits and won many big music awards.

Stevie, now 36, grew up in poverty in Michigan. His real name is Stevland Morris. He is a very talented musician who began by playing the harmonica. He practices the piano every day. He also owns his own recording studio in

Stevie Wonder

California. He gets a lot of his song ideas from listening to the news.

Stevie has recorded songs for several movies and once did a duet with Paul McCartney. He also worked with USA for Africa. Stevie is divorced and has two children. He lives in Beverly Hills, Calif.

He likes going to the movies and having people read to him. He also likes the L.A. Lakers basketball team and music by Michael Jackson and Sting. His future plans include recording a jazz album.

Meet Morris the Cat

The most famous cat in America is Morris, the king of cat food. He is seen by millions of people every day on TV commercials.

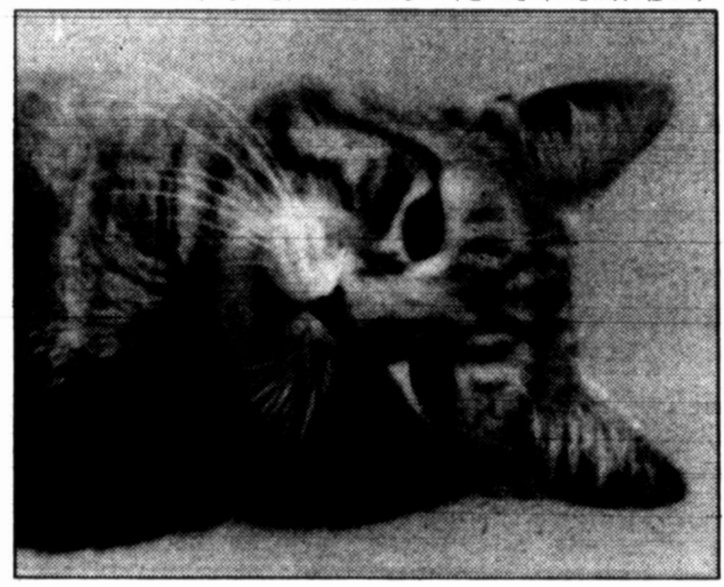

Morris was found in an animal shelter on the East Coast about five years ago. He was chosen for his big build and good looks. He weighs about 13 pounds and is a foot tall. He has orange-striped fur and green eyes.

Morris is a natural star, always cool and calm in front of the camera. One magazine named him "Animal Star of the Year" for three years in a row. He loves attention and being in crowds. He visits cat shows where he presents the Morris Award to the best mixed-breed cat. He also gets lots of fan mail.

A few years ago he co-wrote a book about cat care. Morris lives outside Chicago with his trainer, Bob Martwick. Bob works with other animal actors.

Morris, who never diets, likes eating and watching TV. He also likes sitting on the windowsill watching the birds.

A very famous cat.

ANIMAL FACT-A-POONIES

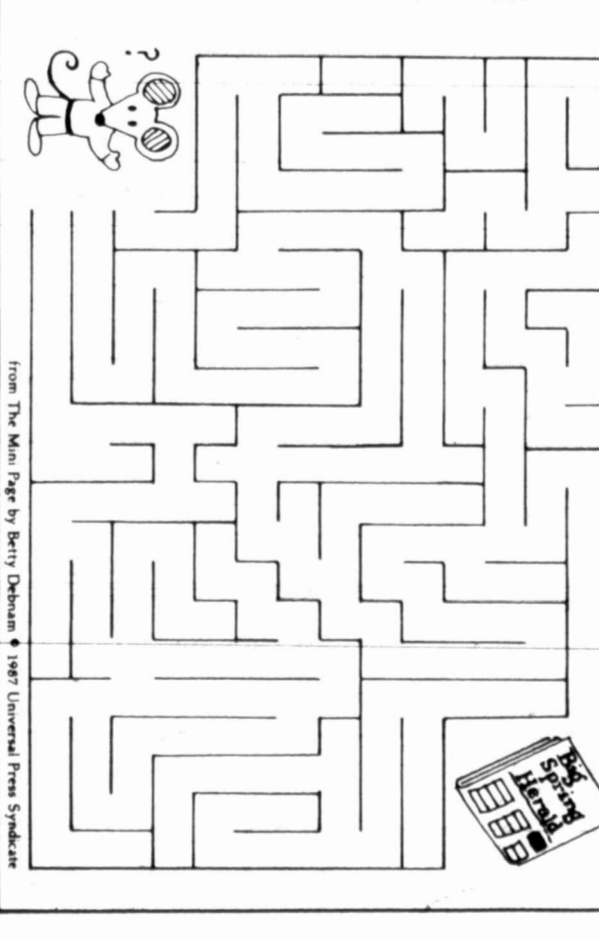

The chameleon, a type of lizard found mostly in Africa, has a tongue as long as its body. The sticky tongue, which can measure 10 inches, quickly shoots out to grab insects.

Can you imagine being in four states at the same time? You can do that in a place called Four Corners. It is where Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico meet.

This message is from all of the Furr's employees at #1 College Park to our friends and neighbors in this area.

Don't sacrifice quality, Just spend Less money!

Hi, again! We're the employees of your new Furr's and we're back this week to talk about how you can feed your family for less money. You don't have to give up quality. You don't have to give up variety. You don't even have to give up freshness. All you have to 'give up' to save on your grocery bill each week is high supermarket prices. At Furr's we offer you the lowest prices possible. And that's the best way we know to be a good neighbor!

Low prices every day!

Here at Furr's we have what we call our 'Everyday Low Prices.'
Thousands of items throughout the store are marked with low prices - every day. That means you can rely on us to have low, low prices every day of the year. And that's important when you're trying to feed a family on a budget. Instead of running from store to store trying to get their specials and trying to save money, you can trust us to have low prices every day. And even if another store has one of our items at a special sale price, your total grocery bill will still be lower at Furr's because of our everyday low prices throughout the store!

We're all working together!

We think it's important to work together to make things better for the neighborhood. And we're doing just that. We live here, we work here and we send our kids to school here. We want to be good neighbors and good friends. We know how hard it is to feed a growing family on a shrinking paycheck and that's why we're doing everything we can to keep our prices down. We buy groceries for our families too, and we're proud to buy them at Furr's!

Tell us what you think!

We're the new kid on the block and we want you to tell us what kinds of products you'd like for us to carry. If you're having trouble finding your favorite brand, tell us about it! We want to be YOUR grocery store, and that means 'stocking YOUR favorite products.
So, please, take a few minutes and fill out our little survey.
We're waiting to hear from you!
