While Lewis is talking taxes, Clements said Thursday he is not. The governor's mind is on keeping state spending at a level that would not require major tax increases.

'Arrests' of 60 raises $10,000

Volunteers with the Jail and Bail benefit "arrested" 60 residents Wednesday and Thursday to raise more than $10,000 to fight birth defects.

Those figures were reported this morning by Vicki Slaton, a member of the March of Dimes Foundation's executive committee.

Citizens arrested Thursday included Hooper Sanders of Texas Utilities Electric, Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles, Alice Hayes from Howard College, and Herald City Editor Robert Wernsman.

Judges Thursday were Willie Grant of Coahoma and Big Spring Municipal Judge Gwen Fair. Slaton said several people were to be arrested today, including rancher Rich Anderson, Steve Howard of K-Mart, Librarian Judith Gray, and Herald Managing Editor Darrell Berkheimer

"It's been a lot of fun, and the money's going for a very good cause," she said. She added that with the economy in the shape it is in, the genorosity displayed by residents was doubly appreciated.

Dobbs and Lloyd were judges for the Summer Reading Program pet show Thursday at the Howard County Library. The theme was Animal Antics. At right, Emily Wilson, 7, daughter of John and Merry Lee Wilson, had her hands full trying to hold two cats before the judging began. About 150 parents and children participated in the show. Pets included rabbits, a lizard, a rooster, a snake, fish and bugs, Librarian Judith Gray said. Pets were judged in various categories such as longest ears and longest tail.

eliminated as a state-favored site during May meetings of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, which selected sites near Amarillo and Dallas.

Two anonymous Big Spring residents have contributed a total of $525 since Wednesday's meeting, when the proposal was revived, McLaughlin said.

Meanwhile, leaders of the Amarillo supercollider project have made a sales pitch to about 30 representatives from Panhandle towns for money needed to lure the

Bull rider dies after rodeo falí

MARION - A bull rider died after his leg was severed as he was dragged around the rodeo ring by the animal he was trying to dismount, authorities said.

Elijah Clark Jr., 25, of Gonzales was pronounced dead on arrival at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio late Wednesday.

Clark was a participant in the weekly "Bull Buck Out" at Vic's Rodeo Co., south of Marion, about 15 miles east of San Antonio.

Guadalupe County Sheriff's Deputy Tim Kolbe said Clark was being dragged around the ring when his left leg got stuck in a fence and was pulled off at the hip. Clark's wife, Pam, witnessed the accident.

"One of his legs got hung up in the rigging as he was rolling off the bull," Kolbe said. "Before anyone could get to him, it (the other leg) got hung up in the fence.'

"This was a tragic accident. I have never seen anything like this in all my years of rodeoing," said Sammy Pfannstiel, managing partner of the rodeo.

Pfannstiel said Clark was stepping off the bull after a ride when his legs became tangled in a cinch rope."The whole sequence didn't take 10 seconds," he said.

A memorial rodeo will be held in August for Clark, a thirdgeneration cowboy.

Being an amateur radio operator can have its serious moments, such as when the operators - or "hams" – were relaying emergency messages in the wake of the Saragosa tornado.

On other occasions, operators have fun while sharpening their skills.

The latter will be the case Saturday and Sunday when members of the Basin Amateur Radio Federation participate in the annual Field Day competition sponsored by the American Radio Relay League Inc., according to Larry Smith, a federation member.

Members of the Federation come from clubs in Big Spring, Midland and Abilene, Smith said. He noted they band together to test their skills against other amateur radio groups across the U.S. and Canada.

a site south of Big Spring, in the vicinity of the Big Spring Country Club. Members will operate in Class 1A, which means the club will compete with others using one transmitter and battery power, Smith said.

The main purpose of the contest is to test the group's emergency readiness, he said. All communication equipment used must be operate on emergency power at locations not normally used as amateur radio transmitting sites. Smith explained that the club will erect the site this evening and begin contacting other radio groups at noon Saturday. For 24 hours, members will attempt to contact other groups, and whichever club makes the most contacts will win.

Smith is proud of his group's past contest record. He said the club has won nation-wide contest one time. but last year finished second.

He said "The contest also is a good excuse to go camping. In fact, for some of the guys, that's the main reason for going.

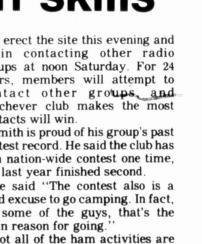

Not all of the ham activities are fun, however. Smith cited the experience of one operator after the recent Saragosa tornado.

The radioman was one of the few contacts in Saragosa with the rest of the state during the hours immediately after the disaster. After emergency personnel arrived at the scene, the club's services still were needed.

Smith said his club set up a station at the Midland Red Cross office the morning after the storm, and began attempting to contact Saragosa residents for worried relatives in the Midland area. He said that was an example of the club's "health and welfare services."

Natural disasters are not the only time ham radio operators are called into action, Smith said. In both World Wars, they were drafted into the Army's Signal Corps

David Ray Waymon, 24, Lawton, Okla. pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Thursday to involuntary manslaughter and was sentenced to three years' probation

Waymon had been sentenced Jan. 20 to three years in the Texas Department of Corrections on the charge which stemmed from the March 1986 death of Joe Harold Roundtree Jr. as a result of driving while intoxicated.

He was returned to Howard County Wednesday to extend his punishment, District Attorney Rick Hamby said.

Waymon had become eligible for parole and placing him on probation allows the District Court the freedom of returning Waymon to TDC if he should violate the probation terms, Hamby said.

Under parole terms, the Board of Pardons and Paroles would determine if he should be returned to the penitentiary, Hamby said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell, a moderate who has been the pivotal vote in many of the court's close decisions, today announced he is retiring from the nation's highest court.

The announcement was such a surprise that the White House learned of his intentions only this morning

Powell, who has suffered from prostate cancer, made the announcement in a printed statement shortly after he left the bench for the last time

"I have advised the chief justice and associate justices that I have elected to retire as an associate justice. The president will be advised today," the statement said. Powell's departure gives President Reagan the chance to change significantly the court's ideological balance with his third appointment. His most recent appointment nominating Antonin Scalia to succeed William H. Rehnquist, who was named to replace Warren Burger as chief justice – merely replaced one conservative with another

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the first indication of Powell's resignation came in a telephone call to White House chief of staff Howard Baker from Rehnquist.

There has been speculation that conservative Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, might be in line for a Supreme Court nomination'.

However, there seems to be a hitch to any possible Hatch nomination. The Constitution says that no member of Congress during the term for which he was elected shall be named to any office "the emoluments whereof shall have been increased" during his term.

That language would suggest that Hatch, in the Senate in February when Congress gave judges a $6,000 salary increase to $110,000 a year, would be ineligible for a seat on the Supreme Court before 1989, when his term - and

Reagan's - ends

Session task is to pass tax bill

The task is clear for the special session that began Monday. Legislators must do what is right for the lone star state, and that means passing a tax bill that goes beyond what Gov. Bill Clements has been talking about.

It also means adequately financing education, the fight against crime and other major state services for the 1988-89 biennium.

Gov. Clements is growling a little less now than he did during the regular session. Last week he dropped his threat to veto any tax bill that goes beyond the estimated $2.9 billion that would be raised by making permanent the temporary increases in the sales and gasoline taxes. We hope he stays in a flexible mood, because compromise is the only answer to this fiscal crisis

But the governor put some items on his agenda that will stir up unnecessary controversy and deserve to be deep-sixed at the earliest possible time. His call for constitutional amendments to ban a state income tax and permit a raid on the highway trust fund is unwise.

Changes in federal tax laws may have made a state income tax the most prudent and equitable way to raise revenues in the future. Raiding the highway fund for general revenues and having road construction financed by bonds that would be paid off by lottery proceeds is robbing Peter to pay Paul and making the financing of a basic state service dependent on gambling – a sleazy way for the state to conduct its business.

We agree with Gov. Clements - call for budget execution authority to help avoid future crises. Crisis is the only way to describe the present situation.

State Treasurer Ann Richards warns that the revenue shortfall must be resolved during this 30-day session so that local school districts and colleges and universities can receive the state money they will need to begin their fall semesters on schedule.

In a sad testament to the failure of the regular session, some school districts reportedly are making contingency plans for delayed openings.

Above all, the legislature must appropriate adequate funds for education, to keep the public school reforms of 1984 alive and to demonstrate that the commitment to higher education has not waned. Here is where Texas' economic future will be made or broken.

The legislature should heed the message of a bipartisan group organized by Dallas businessmen Jess Hay, Peter O'Donnell and others that is campaigning to restore $645 million in cuts so that higher education will at least be financed at 1985 levels. It is up to the legislature to dissolve the "perception" that Texas has given up on its quest for a firstrate university system.

There are other pressing concerns. In light of the commission on judicial conduct's rebukes of two state supreme court justices for ethical violations, Gov. Clements is right to propose a select commission on Judicial Reform. Federal court manadates will make it necessary to bolster funding for prisons and mental health-mental retardation. A bill to curb racketeering needs to be added to the anti-crime legislation passed during the regular session. If there are any more veto threats by Gov. Clements, the Legislature must ignore them and do what is right for the state. The time for bluff and posturing is over.

WASHINGTON - Pentagon strategists have a recurring nightmare that comes closer to reality with every passing day. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have described it tersely: The Persian Gulf is the most dangerous place on Earth, the trouble spot where World War III is most likely to originate

Yet they cannot permit hostile forces to grab control of this strategic waterway, which is the free world's oil faucet. We have had access to the military strategists' thinking, as it appears in classified Pentagon planning papers

Harmony of races still goal

By LEWIS GRIZZARD Mississippi State was playing Louisiana State in the Southeastern Conference baseball tournament in Athens, Ga. It doesn't matter who won the game.

What does matter is that a young white Mississippi State fan, according to news reports, began heckling the LSU right fielder, who is black

When the fan began spitting out racial slurs, the LSU right fielder jumped over the fence and went after the fan, who grabbed himself a large board with which he planned to defend himself.

Before the incident went any further the fan was ushered to another part of the ballpark and the LSU player returned to right field.

But you would think you wouldn't have to read about such a thing occurring in 1987. We passed the Civil Rights Act 23 years ago, before both the LSU player and the fan heckling him were even born, and Lord we've come a ways since then.

But racial incidents still occur in Howard Beach, N.Y., Forsyth County, Ga., and Chicago, Ill., and in a college ballpark where whites and blacks have been competing together for so many years, you'd figure all anybody would notice was the color of the uniform, not the color of skin.

One dies in derailment

COOK, Wash. — Bloodhounds were called out to search for any transients who may have been caught in a 37-car train derailment in the Columbia Gorge in which at least one hobo was killed and one was injured, authorities said.

Corn was piled as high as three feet along the rail line on the north side of the river after the derailment of the 108-car Burlington Northern grain train on Thursday.

The accident blocked the rail line and a highway.

The cause of the derailment remained undetermined early today. No damage estimates were available, but railroad spokesman Howard Kallio said each of the 31 cars destroyed in the accident was worth roughly $40,000.

Boston firefighters fight a nine-alarm blaze early Friday morning caused when a twin-engine plane crashed into the Dorchester area of Boston destroying three houses. One person, believed to be the pilot of the aircraft, was killed and three other persons were rushed to area hospitals.

Plane crash One dead, three homes destroyed

BOSTON — A twin-engine plane struck a house and bounced into another in a residential area early today; killing at least one person and touching off a fire that destroyed three homes, officials and a witness said.

Three people were hospitalized with severe burns, and Fire Chief of Operations John White called it "miraculous" that about 20 people safely fled their homes.

Firefighters searched through the debris for other victims. White said one resident was missing, but may not have been home at the time the plane crashed. The dead person was believed to be the pilot.

The plane crashed in Dorchester, a middle-class neighborhood of tightly packed wooden row houses commonly called "triple-deckers" in Boston because they usually are three stories high. The houses are separated from each other by 10- to 15-foot strips of lawn.

Three houses were destroyed, along with six cars and a van, and four homes were damaged in the ninealarm fire, White said.

The plane, which crashed shortly before 1:30 a.m. was owned by Cash Airlines of Lawrence, said police spokeswoman Nancy Sterling Gleason.

The Federal Aviation Administration said it believed the twin-engine Piper Seneca, with only the pilot on board, was carrying bank notes and other financial papers from Teterboro, N.J., to Logan International Airport.

FAA spokesman Michael Ciccarelli said the pilot was making an instrument approach to Logan and checked in with the tower, then suddenly veered off. He said there was no indication from the pilot that anything was wrong.

An answering service operator at Cash Airlines said she had no information about the plane or how to reach the airline's owner.

Glenn Austin, 25, a mechanic who lives about a quarter-mile from the crash scene, said he was going to a store when he heard the engine of a plane he estimated to be about 400 feet away make a loud hissing noise, and then stop.

Then, he said, "I heard a loud roar and then it (the plane) went up .... It missed my house by about 40 feet "

By Associated Press OPEC continues talks

VIENNA, Austria — OPEC oil ministers began a second day of closed-door talks today with few obstacles to agreement on a plan that analysts said was likely to keep oil prices steady through the summer.

The 13 oil chiefs were split, however, on a strategy for later in the year, when a seasonal rise in oil demand is expected to allow OPEC to increase its output further. Some members fear that proposed increases may be too large, leading to a new downward trend in oil prices.

In a sign that the negotiations were intensifying, the ministers put off a planned plenary session this morning and held informal talks in small groups. No official reason was given for the change.

The full session was rescheduled for late afternoon.

U.S. rates high in marital casualties

Marriage, American-style, has a high casualty rate - one out of three marriages ends in divorce.

In some areas of the country the failure rate is one in two, according to an article in Cosmopolitan, and the magazine consulted counselors, psychologists, psychiatrists, divorce lawyers and family court judges to find out why. These are the major reasons they gave why women get divorced:

 What you expect is not what you get. Some people expect marriage to mirror television. Real-life parents also color expectations, said Patricia Bogin Wisch, psychologist, divorce mediator and director, Philadelphia Institute of Awareness

"If your father always took out the garbage, then you think all husbands should," she said. "If your husband's mother cooked him a hot breakfast every morning, he expects you to do the same. The experts advise couples to discuss expectations before the wedding day - especially money, sex and long-term goals. • You can't talk to each other.

'You must express your feelings, said Dolores Meltzer, head of the Paramus, N.J. Family counselor Karen Good-Associates of Philadelphia, said: "You can't always judge from a person's behavior what the problem is, and yet people make faulty assumptions all the time. Ask.'

 Life is too short to be unhappy. Phyllis Beck, a judge on the Supreme Court in Philadelphia, said of 25 to 35-year-olds:

"They look down the road and say, 'I don't really want to be living with this person in 20 years.' They assume - perhaps wrongly - that problems they have now will only get worse, and they don't want to see them through. There are ebbs and flows in every marriage, though.'

• Alcoholism, drug addiction and physical abuse. "In the past," Meltzer said, "a woman couldn't leave an abusive mate, because she had nowhere to go, but now, with centers for battered women opening around the country, she can walk out. No woman should have to suffer abuse."

• In-law problems. "People often have problems because they family-therapy unit at Mid-Bergen haven't really separated from their Community Health Center in families," Meltzer said. "It's not just the difficulty of committing yourself to a new life with your man, director of Humanistic partner, but also your family's unwillingness to let go.

> • You married the wrong person. Usually you marry the wrong person either to please your parents or to displease them, Goodman said. But how can you tell ahead of time if you've picked the wrong partner?

"If you ask friends to be honest and are open to that honesty, you can learn a lot," said psychiatrist Dr. Martin Goldberg, director of Marriage Counsel of Philadelphia

 People grow and change at different rates

'No marriage stays the same over the years," Goldberg said. "The question is: Do the changes strengthen the relationship or fracture it? Very often, they can break up a marriage.

 You fight about money. "Value differences come out in the handling of money," Wisch said. "One partner may pay bills on time, avoid buying on credit, always live within a budget, while the other has an easy-come, easygo attitude about money.

Married man leads double life

DEAR ABBY: I am 23. "Elliott' is 45. I am single. Last year he celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary. He and his wife get along very well. He just happens to love me, too. She knows nothing of me, yet I know so much about her. I have known (and loved) Elliott for three years and we have a beautiful 7-month-old son. Elliott paid my way through school and helps me with my bills. He never led me to believe he would marry me, and I never pressured him to. All I want is for him to be a part of my son's life. For now, he sees his son every day and loves him very much.

Elliott is basically living a double life. We spend a lot of time together. I am a Catholic and know it was wrong to get involved with a married man, but it's too late to feel guilty now

Abby, should his wife be told about this? I don't want her to be hurt, but something like this could give her a heart attack. Elliott and his wife have a 24-year-old son whom I have met. Wouldn't it be nice if he knew he had a halfbrother? Should this be brought out in the open? Or is silence the best solution? KEEPING QUIET IN ARIZONA

DEAR KEEPING: What are Elliott's thoughts on the matter? And what will you tell your son when he gets old enough to know that his "Daddy" is not married to his mother — but to some other lady? As I see it, if Elliott loves vour child and continues to see him daily, there is no way he can keep the truth from his wife and family. Nor should he. But he should be the one to inform his family.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live in a nice suburban neighborhood. Our next-door neighbor is a very pleasant young woman who lives alone.

She comes home from work in the middle of the afternoon and often sunbathes in her vard for an hour. We are the only ones who can see into her yard. Sometimes she wears a bikini swimsuit and sometimes she wears an ordinary brassiere and a short panty girdle with the garter tucked up out of sight.

I once made some catty remarks to my husband about the bra and panty girdle outfit, and he asked me to explain what was wrong with it. He said it actually covered about twice as much of her as the bikini. What are your thoughts on this?

Area briefs

Dear Abby

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR DEAR NEIGHBOR: How much is covered is not the issue; more to the point, a bikini is appropriate attire for sunbathing - lingerie is not. However, since your neighbor is sunbathing in the privacy of her own yard (at least she thought she was), she is not accountable for her attire.

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with kids today, anyway? I am talking about grandchildren. You go to visit friends and their grandchildren come into the living room and turn on the television so loud you can't be heard when you talk and you can't hear what the other person is saying either!

I don't care for the television programs the kids turn on. Besides, if I wanted to watch television I would have staved home.

Please print this. A lot of people need to see it.

DISGUSTED DEAR DISGUSTED: The problem is not the kids — it's the adults in charge of the kids who permit the kids to run the show.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter you printed from "Desperate in Maryland." Like him, I had a wellpaying job, a secure future as an inventory control specialist for a major utility, and no previous history of drug abuse. And, like him, I developed a love/hate affair with cocaine. My $32,000-a-year job wasn't sufficient to pay for my escalating habit (in 1978, when I was all of 22). I turned to dealing, and still couldn't keep up with the ever increasing amount of cocaine was using

I knew I had a problem, but, like "Desperate in Maryland," I didn't know how to deal with it. A year in prison didn't help me. A broken marriage didn't help me. Finally, a heart attack at the ripe old age of 24 made me realize that if I didn't stop, I was going to die.

An understanding doctor put me in touch with Cocaine Anonymous and helped me get into a treatment program. That was seven years ago, Abby, and I'm now leading a normal, happy life. To "Desperate in Maryland": If you really want out of the trap you're in, help is as close as your nearest phone book. You can call either the Cocaine Hotline, or the nearest group of Cocaine Anonymous or Alcoholics Anonymous (many AA members are also Cocaine Anonymous members). Hang in there, 'Desperate," help is out there, if you want it

GRATEFUL AND STRAIGHT

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in response to "Hurting in Hartford" who thought she had to have sex with a guy in order to have a lasting relationship. Actually it's just the opposite. If a girl is easy, they'll hang around for a while, but when they want a really solid relationship with marriage in mind, they prefer a girl who's hard (or impossible) to get.

I wish there were more girls who weren't so sex-happy. I'm a 19-year-old male virgin. I'm not ugly and I'm not dumb. There may not be many of us late-teen virgins around, but right now I am in a relationship with one. I agree with you, Abby. That 17-year-old girl should stick to her guns. CARING IN COLORADO

New life found in new face

WACO (AP) — Listening to Craig Schlemmer tell his life story, one might think fate dealt him an unfair blow

Schlemmer once may have thought that, too, but a doctor and a series of operations have given him a new perspective on life – and it's a life he counts himself fortunate to have

A rare genetic disease called multiple endocrine adenomatosis IIB caused Schlemmer to have unusual facial features, including a malformed jaw, enlarged lips, tumors in his lips and nose and reddened eves.

In addition, the disease created problems with his gastrointestinal tract, causing eating disorders and stomach problems that kept Schlemmer from gaining weight. Because of his appearance, Schlemmer endured the comments and stares of others throughout much of his life. 'It was a little tough because I did take a lot of criticism and teasing," Schlemmer said. "The first day of school, some guys followed me all around the campus laughing and that's when I knew something was wrong. Before I was with friends in the neighborhood and no one thought anything of it.'

It wasn't until 1983, after seeing several doctors, that Schlemmer discovered his facial features and stomach problems were the result of a genetic disorder.

Schlemmer was 21 years old at the time of the diagnosis.

Dr. Ned Snyder, a local gastroenterologist, said Schlemmer's disease is rare. Only about 60 people in the world are known to have it

'Most doctors never see it in a lifetime," Snyder said.

When Snyder did see it, he knew what it was. Snyder had written extensive papers on the genetic disease and was familiar with its symptoms

CRAIG SCHLEMMER

"I had never seen this kind before because it was the most rare form, but when I saw Craig I knew what he had." he said.

After high school, Schlemmer worked at a golf club near his home in Mart. As an assistant professional, he frequently dealt with the public.

'When I had to greet the public, it was to the point where I would just want to hide," he said.

Aside from facial features that made Schlemmer self-concious, the disease caused an inward problem that led to some outward attention.

Because the disorder affected his gastrointestinal tract, it caused his stomach to growl loudly, which made sitting in his college classes an uncomfortable experience.

Schlemmer turned to the medical world, once again, for help.

'I said this is as far as it is going," Schlemmer said. "There were just some things about me that I didn't like and I was going to change them.

Schlemmer consulted a family practitioner in Mart who X-rayed his stomach, then referred him to Snyder

Snyder said Schlemmer's disease is known for causing a type of cancer and it usually appears and begins to spread in a person's mid- to late-20s

"I had an interest in Craig and his disease," Snyder said. "I was the one who started it all, so it was kind of my responsibility to get this done.

Within the next four years, Schlemmer had seven surgeries, including plastic surgery on his lips, oral surgery and reconstruction of his jaw, mostly done free by various surgeons

The operations have given Schlemmer a new face and new outlook on life.

"He looks distinctly different," Snyder said. "The great thing about it is now that his appearance has changed, he's more confident.

"He really is a new person and it's great to see it all evolve," he said.

Schlemmer agrees that his attitude about himself has ehanged. "It's been a total change," he said. "I love the part where people say 'Boy, you've changed.

Schlemmer's new-found confidence led him to start his own busines, a personal accounts management service, which opened last month.

Schlemmer's business is a billpaying service. Clients give Schlemmer a set sum of money and he pays all their bills for them. The clients' bills are automatically sent to Schlemmer.

The advantages, Schlemmer said, are that the customer doesn't have to bother with check writing, check and service fees or mailing the bills

Consumers can fight back against mileage rollback

Odometer fraud is estimated by the U.S. Transportation Department to cost consumers $1 billion a year. Until now, doctored mileage had been identified as only a usedcar problem. Chrysler has denied doing anything illegal or improper.

'In a situation like this on a new car, there is absolutely nothing you can do. Zero. Zip," said Bob Knol, head of the auto test division of Consumers Union, publisher of Consumer Reports magazine.

Most new cars have between 10 and 40 miles on their odometers when they are sold, which represents testing and the driving it takes to get the car from the factory to the truck, train or boat, and then to the dealership.

"It is traditional and perfectly normal for plant people to drive production cars off the line overnight to see how they're doing.' Knoll said.

But the Chrysler indictment charged that executives drove the cars days or weeks at a time, and up to 400 miles with the odometers years, the book said. disconnected.

-Checking wear and tear. A car with less than 20,000 miles should not have excessive wear on the accelerator, clutch or brake pedals. It shouldn't have a sagging driver's seat. The metal trim around the ignition lock shouldn't be dulled by key scratches.

You can ask the dealer for the odometer-mileage disclosure statement he received from the prior owner, but he's not required by federal law to show it to you.

don't like TV violence

WASHINGTON (AP) - The television industry may quibble over what constitutes televised violence, but Senate supporters of a bill to curb violent TV programming say they know what they see and they don't like it.

"We have the most violent TV of any nation, with the possible exception of Japan, in the world," Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said Thursday at a hearing on the measure he is sponsoring.

Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., said he also finds far too much "mindless violence" on television.

"One need only spend a single evening sampling the violent fare that dominates so much of our TV programming to appreciate the need for something to be done in this area," he said.

But their concerns met industry resistance. Bruce McGorrill, a vice president of Maine Broadcasting Co. and a member of the NBC-TV affiliate board, told members of the Senate Judiciary's antitrust subcommittee that violent programming is not a problem on TV. 'There are certainly action programs, but not excessively, gratuitously violent programs," McGorrill said.

Pressed by subcommittee members, McGorrill said some of the discussion over TV violence is "semantics," but he said a major obstacle is the lack of a definition tor what constitutes objectionable violence.

An irritated Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said, "I don't have to tell you what violence is. You have eyes.  $\ldots$  There's violence on my TV

Jurors convict Cross for second time

The jury will meet Friday to begin deliberating whether Cross should be sent back to Texas' death row, where he spent 21 years after confessing to the crime in 1965.

Cross, now gray-haired, left the courtroom quickly with his wife after the verdict and refused to answer any reporters' questions.

Earlier Thursday in his final argument, District Attorney Phil Nelson said, "It has

"Weg believe that we have proved beyond a reasonable doubt this defendant murdured these two girls."

Jurors earlier heard a nearly 22-yearold confession Cross gave after investigators zeroed in on him as the prime suspect in the slayings of two UT sorority sisters.

Cross, 44, was being tried for the second time for the July 18, 1965, slaying of Susan Rigsby. The bodies of Miss Rigsby and Shirley Stark, 21-year-old Chi Omega sorority sisters, were found in a field

Defense attorney David Botsford gave a brief closing argument Thursday and referred to the punishment phase to begin Friday

my station. Simon's bill would give the TV industry immunity from antitrust laws for three years to allow its members to adopt standards on TV violence. A similar bill failed to pass the House last year.

Simon said the issue is best addressed by the industry itself rather than by government regulators, but he warned McGorrill and the industry not to "hide behind this phony shield of definition

Many studies showing a link between TV violence and aggressive behavior, especially in children, are evidence that "some voluntary restriction on the part of your industry is in order," Simon said.

McGorrill maintained the legislation is unnecessary because the industry already has a review process that is working well. Otherwise, he said, network affiliates would be hearing complaints from viewers and rejecting their network's programming. But Simon said, "The reality is the market pays off for violence."

During 15 years as an official at Maine Broadcasting Co. with authority over programming, McGorrill acted against only one NBC series. The company's two NBC affiliates ran the series, "The Masters," once but declined to repeat it because "it had more action than we cared to run," he said.

Barry Lynn of the American Civil Liberties Union warned that any attempt to regulate the content of TV broadcasting would raise serious First Amendment concerns Several experts submitted testimony to the subcommittee citing research showing televised violence contributes to aggressive behavior in children and adults.

Aletha C. Huston, co-director of the Center for Research on the Influence of Television on Children at the University of Kansas, testified that the evidence from independent researchers is overwhelming.

WASHINGTON (AP) woman who said she hoped someone would assassinate President Reagan was unlawfully fired from her job as a computer operator in the Houston constable's office, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday

By a 5-4 vote, the justices said the woman's free-speech rights were violated.

"Vigilance is necessary to ensure that public employers do not use authority over employees to silence discourse, not because it hampers public functions but simply because superiors disagree with the content of employees' speech,' Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote.

Marshall said a threat to kill the president would be grounds for firing a public employee, but he said the comment by computer operator Ardith McPherson was not intended as a threat. Ms. McPherson has since married and sher last name is Jackson.

"I got justice. I had to go that high," said Mrs. Jackson, who now lives in Dallas. She said she always thought she would win the case, but "had no idea it would take this long.

Mrs. Jackson's First Amendment right to express herself on a subject of public interest must be weighed against her employer's need to maintain order and efficiency, Marshall said.

"While McPherson's statement

While listening to radio reports about the incident, Mrs. Jackson remarked to a co-worker, who is now her husband, "I hope if they go for him again they get him."

Rankin was told of the comment and called Mrs. Jackson into his office and asked her if she meant it.

There was conflicting testimony about her response. She said she did not mean the remark literally. Rankin testified that she said she did

Mrs. Jackson said Wednesday that at the time she was angry about some funding cutbacks made by the Reagan administration, but that she did not mean the remark literally. She said she was shocked when Rankin fired her, saying he did not know the context of the conversation and the remark

The Supreme Court on Wednesday upheld the appeals court ruling, ordering the judge in the case to come up with an appropriate remedy for Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson, who is currently unemployed, said she wants her job back, back pay and a written apology from Rankin.

NEW YORK (AP) - Jewish leaders condemned Pope John Paul II's meeting with Austrian President Kurt Waldheim and today suggested it was an extension of "the indifference of the Catholic churches in Europe" to the Holocaust.

"This is no less than a whitewash of an international figure who has been accused of complicity in the Holocaust," Rabbi Gilbert Klaperman, president of the Synagogue Council of America, said Thursday.

Waldheim's meeting with the pontiff at the Vatican was his first state visit since his election last year amid allegations he took part in Nazi atrocities while a German army lieutenant during World War Π Waldheim denies the charges. However, the U.S. government has barred him from the country, citing clear evidence supporting the allegations. The head of the International Network of Children of Jewish Holocaust Survivors, Menachem Z. Rosensaft, called the meeting "a deliberate slap in the face of the Jewish people in general and the victims of the Holocaust in particular. "The pope had a choice between maintaining a legitimate dialogue with the Jewish people ... or legitimizing and whitewashing the symbols and vestiges of Nazism, such as Waldheim," Rosensaft said. "He chose the latter." The pope's failure to refer to the Holocaust in his speech after the meeting was "a cruel insult to the memory of the victims of Nazism,' said Burton S. On the second night of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, the clowns and bull riders definitely saved their best for last.

After the bulls dominated the bull riders in Thursday night's first go-round, the cowboys in the second group may have huddled together for a little pep talk.

After the first round, the score was Beasts 7, Men 2, because only two cowboys survived the eight second clock. Those two had scores of 70 and 64, both respectable but neither likely money winners.

Injury was added to insult when Kingston, Okla. cowboy Paul Williams took a bad spill and had to be helped out of the arena. Williams' bull Psycho flew out of the chute, and put a fierce, jolting buck on Williams that vaulted the cowboy head over heels.

Williams landed on his back, but scraped himself up to run free of the bull. Two cowboys came to Williams' aid and helped him off. A spokesman at Scenic Mountain Medical Center said Williams received some X-rays, and was treated and released.

Dallas bull rider Ricky Bolin opened the second go-round atop 'super bull' Saturday Night Live. Bolin not only survived, but flourished on the broncing monster. His 76 score set the tone for the second go-round.

Louisiana's David Fournier followed, completing his stay on the bull and delighting the crowd with a full flip, land-on-his feet dismount. The judges liked it too, as Fournier scored a 73.

But 73 wasn't going to win anything in this group, which was easily the most successful group of bull riders in the rodeo so far. Several others, like Fournier, had good rides. Odessa College's Jim Sharp scored a 72 atop Tobasco, and El Paso's Casey Lambert scored a 74.

Lane Frost, currently the tour leader in the bull riding, showed a lot of style in scoring a 74, but his bull wasn't guite as mean as Marty Staneart's. And the bull's score counts in the cowboy's score.

Steaneart, a California cowboy, Hed "Let's go Boys!", and the gate flew open. He mastered his ferocious foe, and when announcer Randy Corley told the crowd it was

Tigers down Astros with last inning hit

By CONRAD MEZICK Staff Writer

In a battle of unbeatens, it was the Texas League Tigers edging the American League Astros 7-6 Thursday night in city Little League tourney action.

Tigers shortstop John Oliva had the game winning hit in the bottom of the sixth, when he hit an 0-2 pitch over the left fielder's head to score Ricky Gonzales from second base.

The hit helped older brother Michael Oliva gain his second victory in tournament play. In his first outing, Michael pitched a no-hitter against the American League Hawks.

In the first inning the Astros took a 3-0 lead when the first three batters reached base. Two scored on a double by Brandon Rogers. The third run scored when the second baseman booted Jeromaine Gonzales' grounder

In the bottom of the inning the Tigers cut the lead to two when Ricky Gonzales tripled, and Orlando Leos singled him in.

In the top of the second the Astros threatened to increase their lead, but excellent defense kept them from doing so. Junior Giatan took first on a walk and moved to third on a double by Pat Martinez. Next Clark Fields hit back to the mound, Giatan attempting to score on the play, was tagged out by pitcher Michael Oliva who then threw to the shortstop tagging the runner off second, completing the double play.

Afer a scoreless second, the Tigers tied the game when the ever present Ricky Gonzales tripled. He scored when Astros pitcher Fields tried to pick him off, but threw wildly, making the score 3-2. The next batter Leos was hit by a pitch. He then stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Another error brought him in to tie the game at 3-3.

Jeromaine Gonzales hit an RBI double in the fourth to give the Astros a 4-3 lead, but the Tigers rallied for three in the bottom half of the inning. The big blow was a two run single by Leos

Trailing 6-4 going into the top of the fifth, the Astros scored two to knot the game. Martinez singled and went all the way to third on another error by the left fielder

Then Fields singled him in, and took second on the throw to the plate. One out later Fields stole third on a close call. Next the Tigers decided to walk Jeromaine Gonzales intentionally. The next batter hit into a fielder's choice, scoring one more run and tying the game at

With two outs in the bottom of the sixth, Tigers center fielder Ricky Gonzales doubled. This set the stage for John Oliva. The 10-year-old, who had struck out the previous three times to the plate, lined his only hit of the game deep to left over the left fielder's head for the winning run

OTHER ACTION

TL Red Sox 8, NL Rangers 6 The Texas League Red Sox eliminated the National League Rangers behind the six-hit pitching of Oscar Valancia.

Valancia outdueled Rangers' David Park, who also fired a six-hitter. Valancia finished the game with 13 strikeouts and Park whiffed 10

The Red Sox will play the International League Indians tonight at 8 at the International League field.

In other tourney action, the National League Ponies defeated the National League Indians and the American League Colts defeated the American League Hawks.

The last bull of the night may have been the most exciting, because the clowns shut the gate and played with him for a bit. He also happened to be the most cantankerous of Thursday night's bulls

First, the bull, listed as K3, threw Phillip Graf. K3 tried to dig a hole with Graf, but the clowns arrived before serious damage was done. Then the bull spotted Quail Dobbs' head sticking out of his Coors barrel.

Oilers may be leaving Houston

HOUSTON (AP) - Harris County and Astrodome officials believe the Houston Oilers will seriously consider moving to another city if $46 million in improvements are not approved for the aging Astrodome.

Oilers owner Bud Adams confirmed Thursday he will make a courtesy visit this weekend with Jacksonville, Fla., officials who have been seeking an NFL franchise to play in their 80,000-seat Gator Bowl.

Adams wants the 50,000-seat Astrodome, the smallest stadium in the NFL, expanded by up to 15,000 seats and a new artificial turf installed.

Harris County, which owns the facility, will decide within the next 30 days if it will include the items on a November bond issue

"I know there's been quite a bit of interest from other cities about getting the Oilers.' County Judge Jon Lindsay said. "They recognize the Oilers are probably vulnerable because of the small seating capacity.

Lindsay says he believes the Oilers are serious about moving.

The Oilers' lease expires this year, and Bob Harter, president of the Houston Sports Association that operates the Astrodome, says the improvements are needed.

and turf," Harter said. "The turf we have now is the only artificial turf in the world that is put over a dirt floor

'We need to concrete the floor and bring it up to the state of the art and put in a new turf system, one for football and one for baseball.'

The cost of expanding the seating capacity would be about $40 million, and a concrete surface and new turf could cost another $6 million, Harter said. The Astrodome's latest artificial turf was installed in 1978.

"Some say it's too soft and some say it's too hard, but everybody agrees it's the worst in the NFL and really needs to be replaced," he said.

Adams' visit to Jacksonville will be the latest in the city's efforts to attract an NFL franchise. Three other teams, St. Louis, Buffalo and Atlanta have visited recently, the Florida Times-Union reported Thursday.

Adams said he would be in Florida this weekend as chairman of the board of the National Sigma Chi Fraternity Foundation and planned to visit with city officials at that time.

Under their current agreement, the Oilers pay 11.2 percent of their gross ticket sales for each game as rent. They receive no revenue

"There are two factors — seating capacity from 55 private suites at the stadium and no parking or concession revenue

The Times-Union reported that Jacksonville officials are expected to offer the Oilers the same proposal they made to the Falcons, which would have allowed them to earn from $4 million to $7 million more each season than they can make in Atlanta

The city offered to rent the Gator Bowl to the Falcons for $25,0000 per game. The team would be sold 10,000 parking spaces for $1 each and skyboxes for $5,000 each. The team could then resell both.

Under the proposal, the team would receive 60 percent of the concessions.

The Astros, who also play their home games in the Astrodome, reportedly considered moving to Washington last season before winning the National League West Division title.

HSA officials said at the time the Astros needed a minimum of 2 million fans per year. The Astros drew 1,734,276 million last season, compared to 1,182,541 in 1985.

The Oilers had a home attendance of 378,241 last season, an average of 37,824 for 10 home games, compared to 365,946, or 40,661 per game, for nine home games in 1985.

Moses starts on new winning streak

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) - For one anxious instant, Edwin Moses was in serious danger of experiencing a two-race losing streak.

The 31-year-old hurdler, beaten in his specialty for the first time in 10 years early this month, returned to competition Thursday and won handily in his preliminary heat of the 400-meter hurdles at the USA-Mobil Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

But Moses was left at the starting line when the gun cracked. "My blocks slipped. I was glad to

The job is still hard. It takes effort to go out and win," Moses said. "I go out to win every time, regardless, so I go into every race with the same frame of mind." The semifinals are scheduled for

Braves lose wild one to Dodgers

By The Associated Press To Atlanta Manager Chuck Tanner, it was a "a billion-to-one" shot. Actually, Ted Simmons had a hard time believing it, too.

"As soon as I hit it, I saw it was going right at him. He had no where to go. It was unbelievable," Simmons said after his line drive hit teammate Glenn Hubbard between first and second base in the ninth inning of Thursday night's game with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Simmons got a base hit on the play, but Hubbard was declared out and Braves wound up losing 2-1.

"In 41 years of pro ball, I've never seen a game end like that," Atlanta Tanner said. "Someone asked me what were the odds of something like that happening. One in a hundred years, and all the games played everywhere. So, how many billions of games is that?"

The Braves-Dodgers game wasn't the only one to end on a bizarre play Thursday night. In San Francisco, the Giants pulled out a 7-6 decision over the Cincinnati Reds with two runs in the ninth. The deciding run scored when Will Clark hit a bases-loaded ground ball through the middle into center field for an apparent gamewinning single

But Cincinnati's Eric Davis came running in to snag the ball and step on second base. However, he had no play at first as the winning run scored.

In other games, it was St. Louis Philadelphia 0; Montreal 7, Pittsburgh 2; New York 8, Chicago 2, and San Diego 4, Houston 1.

John Shelby's leadoff homer and Mike Marshall's RBI single in the seventh inning broke a scoreless tie, and Dodger right-hander Orel Hershiser went into the ninth with a 2-0 lead

But a walk and an error got Hershiser into trouble, and the Braves pushed across a run on Ozzie Virgil's groundout. They had men on first and third when Simmons hit a line drive that was headed for right field. But it struck Hubbard on the back of the right shoulder, ending the game.

Hershiser, 8-7, allowed eight hits, struck out seven and walked one. Doyle Alexander, 4-2, failed in his attempt for a fourth consecutive victory

Giants 7, Reds 6 The Giants, who hit five solo homers in overcoming a 4-0 deficit, entered the bottom of the ninth trailing 6-5. But Bob Brenly walked with one out and pinch-hitter Chris Brown singled off reliever Rob Murphy, 4-3.

Frank Williams took over and Joel Youngblood doubled to tie the game. After Robby Thompson walked, John Franco took over and Clark won the game with his bizarre fielder's choice grounder. The Reds had gone ahead in the top of the ninth when Davis doubled off Scott Garrelts, 6-5, and scored on Kurt Stillwell's sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati starter Bill Gullickson surrendered solo home runs by San Francisco's Candy Maldonado, Chris Speier, Mike Aldrete, Robby Thompson and Bob Brenly in a span of three innings and was not involved in the decision.

Cardinals 3, Phillies 0 Greg Mathews pitched a threehitter and Jack Clark singled in the go-ahead run, leading St. Louis over Philadelphia.

Mathews, 25, evened his record at 5-5 with his second career complete game. He struck out five and walked five

Expos 7, Pirates 2

Tim Raines hit a two-run homer and Mitch Webster went 4-for-5 with three runs batted in as Montreal defeated Pittsburgh.

Dennis Martinez, 2-0, earned the victory by limiting the Pirates to two runs and six hits over 5 1-3 innings. He left with a torn fingernail on his pitching hand one batter after allowing Johnny Ray's tworun single in the sixth.

Mets 8, Cubs 1

Dwight Gooden allowed three hits in seven innings to lead New York over Chicago. Gooden, 4-1, allowed one unearned run, struck out five and walked five in his fifth start since returning from drug rehabilitation.

Mookie Wilson had a single and triple to drive in two runs, and Kevin McReynolds and Rafael Santana each had two RBI on two singles.

Steve Trout, 4-2, who had won his previous four starts, was the loser, allowing five runs on nine hits in 3 2-3 innings.

Padres 4, Astros 1

A bloop single by Carmelo Martinez that Houston second baseman Bill Doran lost in the sun led to two runs in a four-run sixth inning as San Diego beat the Astros.

Martinez' popup would have been the third out in the inning and would have sent the game into the seventh tied 1-1. All four runs were scored after Houston starter Mike Scott, 9-4, retired the first two

Dravecky, 3-6, who pitched 6 1-3 innings, allowed four hits and one run, Chuck Jackson's first majorleague home run. Lance McCullers pitched the final 2 2-3 innings for is ninth save.

Scott walked Stanley Jefferson with two out in the sixth. Jefferson stole second and scored on a single by Tim Flannery. Tony Gwynn reached on an infield single, then Martinez hit what appeared to be a routine pop fly behind second base. Doran lost the ball in the sun and two runs scored.

After an intentional walk. Kevin Mitchell singled to drive in the final

"Any time you go against Mike Scott," said Dravecky, "you know it's a tough ballgame. You've got a guy on the hill who you know most of the time is going to win. Your level of concentration increases. Then you hope you get a break somewhere down the line. That's exactly what happened.

ing the pitch from the mound to start the eighth inning.

"I felt like I had a good fastball when I was warming up in the bullpen and I went out with the most confidence that I've had since I came here," said Reardon, who pitched two perfect innings Thursday to nail down the Twins' 4-3 victory over the Indians for his 15th save. "I got everybody on fastballs. I only threw a couple of curves. I just went right at them.'

Reardon, who came to the Twins in an offseason trade with Montreal, had a rough start to the season. But he has pitched well as the Twins have won 15 of 18 games to take a 41/2-game lead over Oakland in the American League West only American League game played Thursday.

Reardon retired the side in the eighth on two strikeouts and a popup. He struck out Chris Bando to start the ninth, but pinch-hitter Carmen Castillo gave Reardon a scare by hitting one deep to center field.

"With this ballpark, I thought it was gone. I just put my head down," Reardon said. "But when I looked back up and saw (Kirby) Puckett was under it, I let out a big sigh of relief,"

Reardon then struck out Tony Bernazard to end the game. The Twins gave starter Bert homer against Cleveland's 48-yearold knuckleballer, Phil Niekro, 5-7. He had gotten some advice from Niekro's brother, Joe, a Minnesota pitcher "I asked Joe before the game if Phil stays with the knuckler when he gets behind in the count," said Gladden, whose fourth homer of the year came on a 3-1 pitch. "Joe said, 'No, he'll more or less throw you the fastball.' That's what he threw me and I hit it pretty good."

fastball," said Niekro, who has a 316-268 career record after allowing eight hits in the complete game effort. "I didn't want to walk the first man in the first inning."

One out later, Puckett blooped a single and Kent Hrbek followed with a line drive over the right-field fence, just inside the foul pole. It was the 18th homer for Hrbek, who has four homers and eight RBI in his last six games.

Bando's second-inning RBI single pulled Cleveland within 3-1, but Smalley's leadoff homer to center made it 4-1 after four innings. Bando's two-run fifth-inning "I had to throw Gladden a homer closed out the scoring.

Momentum is important in any endeavor and the College Baptist Church has kept up its momentum through the 30 years of existence in Big Spring.

The church celebrates its 30th anniversary this weekend, beginning Friday at 7 p.m. with a service in the auditorium at 1105 Birdwell Ln. H.W. Bartlett, the first pastor of the congregation, will speak. A dessert fellowship is scheduled afterward in the Fellowship Hall.

The celebration continues Saturday with a Heritage Holiday when charter members gather at 7 p.m. and a homemade ice cream fellowship will follow.

Former pastor Dr. Jimmy Law will speak at services at 11 a.m. Sunday, and the weekend activities. will conclude with a Surprise Service at 7 p.m. presented by the current Pastor Bobby Fuller.

The group was officially designated a church in 1957, but actually began from the First Baptist Church in Big Spring.

First Baptist Church voted in 1951 to purchase four lots in the vicinity of Howard County Junior College on Birdwell Lane and Monticello.

The cost was $50,000 and in 1955 the College Baptist Chapel formally opened Approximately 40 people from First Baptist agreed to form the mission for one year. Bartlett, a minister at First Baptist at the time, became mission pastor of the small group. At the end of the year, some remained and others returned to the home congregation.

Among those who stayed besides Bartlett was the family of Orville Bryant, who currently are members at College Baptist Church.

Bryant originally went to College Baptist to help lead the singing and serve as music director. "They asked me to do it," he recalls.

He and his family decided to stay with the congregation because "we liked it and felt it was the right thing to do," he said. "It's small and everyone knows everyone else. I didn't want to go back to a larger church.

The friendly, family atmosphere of the church likely has helped

However the church had committed to $100,000 for the new building almost twenty years later, the church still owed $65,000.

In October 1985, Fuller, the current pastor, challenged the church to raise the final sum to retire the debt on the facility. He began a campaign titled "65 by October 5." In less than six months, $68,500 had been raised and the WASHINGTON - U.S. Roman Catholic bishops are appealing a federal appeals court ruling that could require them to open their files about opposing abortion in a case that threatens the church's tax exemption.

If necessary, the bishops will carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court "to protect their rights," says Monsignor Daniel F. Hoye, the bishops' general secretary.

Abortion Rights Mobilization, pressing the IRS to lift the church's tax exemption on grounds it finances political efforts against abortion, wants to examine church files about the matter, and an appeals court approved the search June 4.

DALLAS - The annual North Texas conference of the United Methodist Church has elected the Rev. Zan W. Holmes Jr., a former state legislator, to head its 12-member delegation to the denomination's national conference next year.

Holmes, the first black minister to lead the regional delegation, was elected on the first ballot. Holmes is a faculty member at Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Theology and pastor of the St. Luke's Community Church in south Dallas, which he built from

CHICAGO Lutheran theologian Martin Marty has advised leaders of the newly merged Evangelical Lutheran Church in America to listen and respond to its congregations, not just to critics at large

He says power in organized religion resides in congregations, and through them most of the country's volunteer work hours and dollars are expended.

He says that while critics in general deserve a hearing, the congregations have the highestmotivation for the new denomination "to prosper and be effective.
