Driver and companion are missing

Herald staff report

The Howard County Sheriff's Office and Department of Public Safety officials are investigating an unusual report of two missing persons.

The office was notified Wednesday that a tractor-trailer with its motor running had been parked at the 190-mile mark of Interstate 20 near Coahoma for two to three days.

The trailer was loaded with onions and no one was inside the vehicle.

Vehicle permits, company papers, clothes and papers indicating personal problems with low pay and debts of Thomas Stephen Blake were found inside.

Blake's birth certificate and an altered copy also were found. The certificates stated that Blake lived in Alamogordo, N.M.

New Mexico police, upon notification, spoke with Blake's father who said his son had obtained the onions in El Paso and was to deliver them to Atlanta, Ga. He had stayed overnight Aug. 1 in Alamogordo, the father said.

Blake was believed to be traveling with a female known only as Jennifer. She is described as 5 feet 4 inches tall with shoulder length blond, kinky hair, a ruddy complexion and wearing a lot of mascara.

Blake is described as 6 feet 3 inches, blond, and 38 years old. Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said the scene indicated no violence.

Howard County law enforcement officials are searching the area and the DPS is expected to conduct a search by helicopter.

Health officials report five local AIDS cases

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

At least five cases of AIDS are being treated by local hospitals, state health officials said today.

Local health officials added they anticipate the number will rise steadily in the future.

Local hospitals have instituted procedures for dealing with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, and other area agencies are formulating policies to deal with the issue.

Howard County has five patients diagnosed as having AIDS, according to Darla Metcalfe, a statistical clerk at the Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Epidemiology.

She also provided the number of patients in other West Texas counties. They are: Midland — 4, Ector — 5, and El Paso — 20.

Scenic Mountain Medical Center has had two major cases of AIDS in the past six months, according to Betty Taylor, infection control practitioner for the hospital.

She said employees naturally are concerned with the possibility of contracting the disease, but basically are satisfied with precautions being taken.

Aside from gloves and gowns, she stresses safety in dealing with needles, explaining that most cases of hospital workers getting the disease came from being stuck by needles used on the patients.

Taylor also instructs the emergency room workers to wear gloves, gowns and protective eyewear, if possible, when dealing with blood or other body fluids.

Administrators for both Martin County and Mitchell County hospitals said no AIDS diagnoses have been made at the facilities. If they do, the hospitals will refer the patients to other medical centers equipped to treat them, they added.

Bob Von Rosenberg, director of Big Spring State Hospital, said his facility has treated "two or three" patients diagnosed as having AIDS or AIDS-related complex, and staff members take the same precautions with those patients as for any infectious disease.

He said these precautions included the wearing of gloves and gowns

Robert Von Rosenberg, acting director of Big Spring State Hospital, left, and Bill McQueary, superintendent of Big Spring schools, have reported their agencies are among those local organizations initiating policies for dealing with AIDS cases.

when coming into contact with patients.

He also stressed that treatment wouldn't be denied any patient suspected of having the disease.

Juan Rodriguez, infection control nurse at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said the center has treated several AIDS patients, but was unsure about the exact number.

He said staff members use two different sets of guidelines in Law lacks provision for family of aliens

From staff and wire reports
Some illegal aliens eligible to apply for permanent U.S. residency hesitate to do so for fear they will be separated from their families, critics of the immigration reform law say.

But it appears area illegal aliens applying for amnesty have families who also qualify or who are American citizens, local officials speculate.

Others may not have come forward because the law doesn't grant amnesty to the families of recipients if some members fail to meet the law's requirements.

Teresa Rocha, Big Spring volunteer coordinator for legalization, said most families who have sought assistance in Big Spring have children who were born in the United States and spouses who have lived in the area long enough to qualify.

Local volunteers have been meeting every Thursday with illegal aliens to assist in the complicated application process.

Volunteers will be available today to offer assistance at 7 p.m. at Sacred Heart Church, 600 N.W. Sixth St.

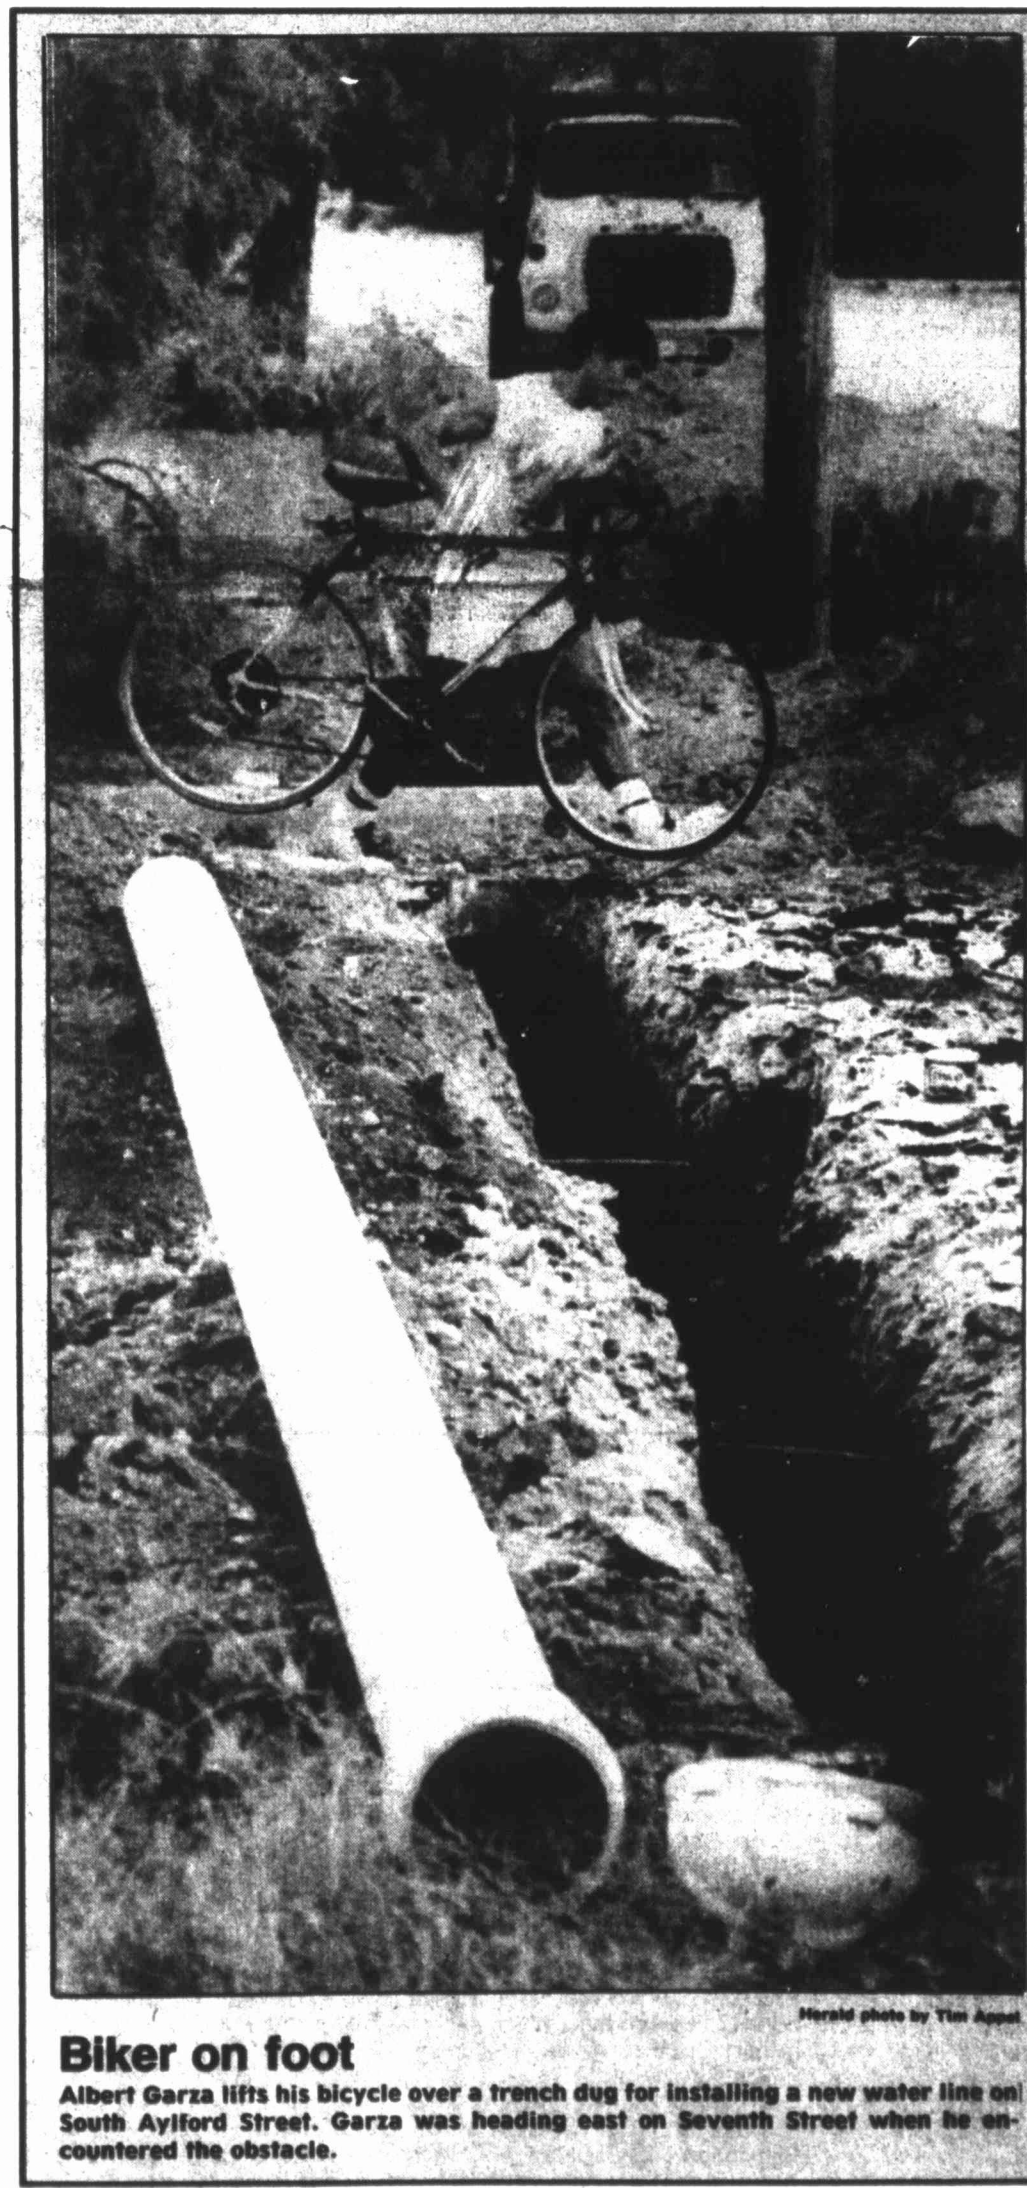

Opponents of the immigration law said Wednesday they plan to push an amendment to the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 that would grant permanent residency to families of amnesty recipients.

The immigration reform law grants permanent residency to illegal aliens who have lived continuously in the United States since Jan. 1, 1982. But spouses and children of such aliens are not automatically granted permanent residency if they do not fulfill the requirements.

The lack of a plan to keep families together is a flaw that discourages aliens from applying for amnesty, said Carlos Spector of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

A pair of bills called the Legalization Family Unification Act would remedy the flaw by giving amnesty to the immediate family of a person who is granted amnesty, Spector said. The bills, sponsored by Edward Roybal, D-Calif., are pending before the House Immigration, Refugees and International Law subcommittee.

LULAC and other groups are calling news conferences across the Southwest to attract attention to the bill, Spector said.

Prisoner work is considered in pocket park

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Downtown Steering Committee members will request federal prison inmates supply the labor to build the proposed pocket park on Main Street across from the Courthouse.

The committee decided on that course at a meeting Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce.

City Councilman Johnny Rutherford, committee member, said he plans to meet soon with Big Spring Federal Prison Camp superintendent Joe Crabtree to discuss the possibility.

Rutherford is coordinator for the park renovation effort in which inmates also are providing the labor. He said prison officials have been seeking additional projects in the community to which prisoners can contribute.

Although the committee requested bids for the work from several local contractors, there was little apparent interest, said chairman Charles Beil.

Local contractors responded that they are busy with other projects and would be unable to begin the pocket park work soon, architect Phil Furqueron said.

He said he negotiated with a contractor to install the concrete, brick pavers, raised masonry planters, a masonry screen and stage for $24,600. A paver is a path made of a substance similar to brick but harder, he explained.

The committee had budgeted $18,000 for the work, he said.

Rutherford said he believes the pocket park could be complete in nine months to a year.

Furqueron said the inmates' contributions would save about 50 percent of this portion of the park's cost — about $12,000.

He reported that committee member Pat Porter's small business incubator, which will feature 10 spaces when complete, should be half filled in about three weeks. The incubator has three spaces occupied and another two ready, he said.

Member Johnnie Lou Avery said Porter has had numerous inquiries about the incubator.

A business incubator is an environment where fledgling businesses can be nurtured into maturity, Downtown Coordinator Teri Quinones has said.

Incubator tenants share such common overhead expenses as rent, utilities, extra manpower and the like, she said.

While 80 percent of new small businesses fail, the same percentage of incubator businesses succeed, according to figures from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Quinones also has discussed plans for the Settles Hotel with developer Gil Cuadra. Cuadra said he has a possible restaurant and two retail tenants for the hotel's first floor. The second floor ballroom would be leased to the restaurant for banquets.

Floors 3 through 13 are being considered for low income housing for the elderly, and the roof top would be leased to radio and transmitter stations, Quinones reported.

Cuadra is to investigate HUD funding for the hotel renovation, she has said.

Survivor describes years of crime, drugs

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Raised in the ghettos of Houston, a gang member at age 11 and arrested 17 times by the age of 16, Freddie Gage began his life of crime early.

Most of the Southern Baptist evangelist's childhood friends died tragically on the streets of Houston, but Gage survived and finally escaped a life of crime and drugs.

He spoke Wednesday to a full sanctuary during the final night of a week-long revival at First Baptist Church.

Gage has been preaching throughout the nation for 35 years since becoming a Christian at age 19.

This was his second visit to Big Spring — he spoke at area high schools in the 1950s.

During an interview before his talk, Gage chastised Southern Baptists.

"We are no longer fishers of men, we are keepers of aquariums," Gage said.

Church members are more concerned with big buildings and big programs and have lost sight of the people, he said.

"Christ is dying of suffocation behind stained glass windows," Gage described results of the First Baptist revival as phenomenal, estimating that about 200 people made public decisions to follow Christ.

"All of my friends are dead," Gage said, directing his message to the more than 100 youths in the audience.

Gage told of growing up in the slums of Houston and of an abusive father.

His parents divorced when he was six.

At age 16, Gage was serving time in the Gainesville state reformatory.

He said he became a Christian after his father and stepmother found the Lord and forced him to attend a Church revival.

Soon after, Gage began preaching in the Houston slums.

His address described friends who triumphed and friends who died.

He told of his friend Tracy Reid who wept at the funeral of Mattox says Bible chairs can continue

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox said Wednesday that the University of Texas system need not cancel its "Bible chair" religion courses just because of a legal opinion he issued earlier this year.

"I recognize the value of the study of religion at state colleges and universities and ... emphasize that 'Bible Chair' courses can be structured in a constitutional manner," Mattox said in a letter to W.O. Schultz, associate general counsel of the UT system.

The system recently announced that it would cancel the programs to avoid "excessive entanglement" between government and religion. University officials said last month the system would discontinue official connection with Bible courses taught by instructors who were selected or paid by religious groups.

James Duncan, executive vice chancellor for academic affairs, also said transfer credits would be limited to religious studies courses offered by accredited institutions.

Under procedures dating to 1919, UT-Austin has offered credit for courses taught by instructors who hold Bible chairs affiliated with the Biblical Studies Association, an off-campus, interdenominational group.

Holders of the chairs were approved by UT-Austin but had been paid by denominations belonging to the Biblical Studies Association.

In his letter, Mattox said state colleges and universities may grant elective credit for religion courses affiliated with or supervised by religious organizations "when those courses follow certain constitutional guidelines."

Mattox said his office has offered to work with schools to help them meet constitutional rules so outside religious study programs can continue.

"All they need to do is pay them themselves and choose them themselves, rather than having some religion choose the instructor and pay the instructor," said Ron Dusek, a spokesman for Mattox.

Infrastructures allowed as incentives for collider

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas can't offer cash to enhance the state's bid for the lucrative "super collider" project, but lawmakers were told guarantees of buildings, roadways and other site improvements would be acceptable.

Under a measure signed into law in July, the Energy Department is barred from considering offers of cash or other direct aid in locating the $4.4 billion giant atom smasher, which is to be used primarily for scientific research.

But DOE Under Secretary Joseph F. Salgado told a group of Texas lawmakers Wednesday that improvements that would enhance the suitability of a site would be considered.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he has some suggestions to make the Texas entries more attractive through infrastructure guarantees.

"I don't want to go into detail because I don't want to alert the competition," he said.

"It looks like Texas or any other state can put their incentives into their formal proposals so long as they go toward creation of infrastructure rather than as direct cash," said Rep. Joe Barton, R-

Ennis, whose district contains one of two Texas sites. The second is near Amarillo.

Nearly 40 states are expected to submit proposals on Sept. 2 to win the '53-mile tunnel of magnets where protons will be accelerated and then smashed together in an attempt to reveal the basic building blocks of matter.

Gramm said he expects legal decisions by the end of the week on the specific technical enhancements he suggested to Salgado. He said the under secretary's initial reaction was positive.

"In evaluating a site, for example, the availability of a small airstrip is a desirable quality. If instead of giving a financial inducement, we guarantee that we will build an airstrip, we will have enhanced our proposal," Gramm said.

The prestigious installation is expected to create a permanent work force of 3,000 as well as 4,500 construction jobs, receive $270 million a year in operating funds and become an international center of attention for basic science and a magnet for high-tech industry.

another friend whom Gage had tried to lead to Christ.

"Hey, man, when I get it, come and preach my funeral," Reid had said, according to Gage.

Two weeks later Reid, a pimp and drug user, was at a church where Gage was speaking.

Gage said he spoke for several hours with Reid after the service, but Reid kept saying, "I'm not ready."

A few days later Reid was gunned down. Gage described graphically the attack with a sawed off shotgun.

He admitted that he attempts to instill fear in youths to show them they could meet his friends' fates.

Gage lives in Fort Worth with his wife and son. He attended Decatur Baptist College and Baylor University and received an Honorary Doctor's Degree in Human Letters from California Theological Seminary.

His life story, "Pulpit in the Shadows: The Story of the Underworld Preacher" written by Stan Redding of the Houston Chronicle, has sold more than 2 million copies.

Gage has appeared on "The Phil Donahue Show," Paul Harvey's newscast, and dozens of newspapers including the Dallas Morning News and the Houston Chronicle.

Cheri Wyrick, 17, daughter of Carl and Carol Wyrick, and Dane Petterson, 17, daughter of Paul and Gloria Petterson, enjoy a joke while they were at a pizza bash at First Baptist Church Wednesday evening. The youths were among a crowd of local residents who heard Freddie Gage speak Wednesday.

Oil prices steady in trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices steadied in early trading today, near the low end of their recent trading range.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for September delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude oil, traded at $21.27 per 42-gallon barrel just before midday, down 2 cents from Wednesday's close.

The bellweather contract had lost 68 cents Wednesday as speculators rushed to dump contracts purchased Monday at the peak of concern over the crisis in the Middle East.

Prices for refined oil products managed to regain some ground today. The September contract for wholesale unleaded gasoline was up 0.27 cent to 55.25 cents a gallon, while the near-month contract for wholesale No. 2 heating oil moved up 0.11 cent to 55.60 cents a gallon.

Contributing to Wednesday's sell-off was the latest weekly data from the American Petroleum Institute showing a sharp buildup in U.S. inventories of crude oil, analysts said. Concern about the Mideast also ebbed in the absence of major new developments in the region.

Oil prices surged Monday after Iranian pilgrims clashed with Saudi Arabian security forces in the holy city of Mecca, Saudi Arabia, last weekend. The incident prompted more anti-U.S. posturing by Iran, which blamed the United States for exacerbating tensions in the region.

Ohio trucker robbed at gunpoint on Interstate

Herald staff report

An Ohio man reported being robbed at gunpoint at a highway rest area after a trucker told him via citizens band radio that the straps holding down his load were loose.

John E. Garrett, of Dayton, Ohio reported to Martin and Howard County sheriff deputies that he was westbound on Interstate 20 when a trucker called him on his CB, warning that straps holding his load were loose.

Garrett pulled off the road at a rest area and was resetting the straps when he heard a car approaching.

He said a man with a Hispanic accent put something against the small of his back and demanded his money and watch.

The robber reportedly said: "If you move or turn around, I'll blow your head off."

Garrett said he gave the man $565 and his $10 watch.

He was told not to turn around.

Garrett was unable to identify the man, but said he saw a 1973 or '74 dirty grey two-door Chevy Nova drive away from the rest area. Two people appeared to be in the car, but Garrett said he didn't know if the second person was male or female.

The car didn't have rear license plates.

If the contact is casual, such as changing bed linen, staff members are instructed to wear gloves and gowns as a precaution.

If the staff members have more direct contact with the patient, they are urged to wear masks and eye cover, in addition to gloves and gowns.

Other local agencies also are drafting AIDS strategies.

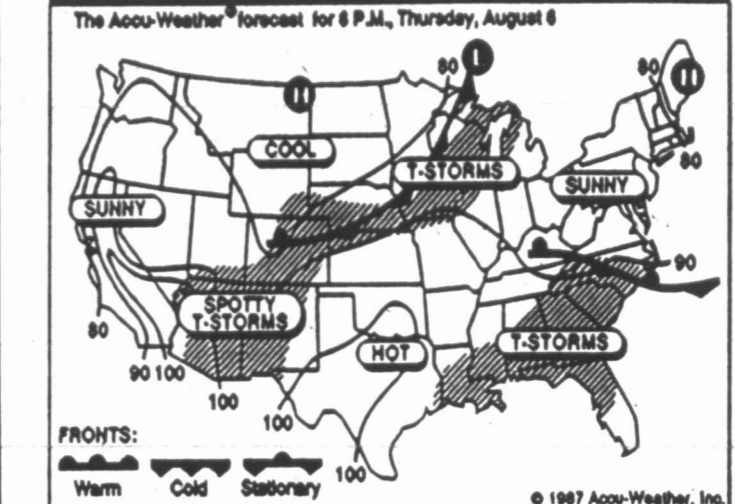

Bill McQueary, superintendent of the Big Spring school district, said the Board of Trustees will consider a policy for students with the disease at its meeting Thursday.

He said school officials also are working on a policy to cover employees who get AIDS, but added they are awaiting state guidelines on the issue.

The Board will have its regular meeting on the 13th to discuss other matters, he added.

Mattox says SMU agrees to cooperate with probe

AUSTIN (AP) — Southern Methodist University will comply with Attorney General Jim Mattox's request for information and investigative records in its possession regarding its pay-for-play scandal, his office said today.

Mattox was notified of the university's decision today in a letter from incoming president A. Kenneth Pye, who takes over Aug. 17. "I wish to make it clear SMU does not desire to conceal any information relevant to your inquiry," Pye said in his letter.

Mattox had requested the information in a July 22 letter to SMU.

The attorney general today also agreed to give SMU a 10-day extension, until Aug. 20, on his request for investigative information gathered at SMU's direction by a committee of United Methodist Church bishops.

The bishops committee issued a report on the scandal June 19, following lengthy interviews with people involved in the payments to players that resulted in the NCAA death penalty — a ban from playing — for the SMU football program.

Texas lawmakers sow peace seeds on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON — An informal chat last month between two Texas politicians led to the new Central America peace initiative embraced Wednesday by the White House.

The seeds for House Speaker Jim Wright's peace plan were sown on July 22 during a courtesy call meeting by former Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, in Wright's Washington office.

Loeffler, a former four-term congressman from the Texas Hill Country, had just been appointed to direct the Reagan administration's anticipated crusade for additional funding for Nicaragua's rebels. Although he and Wright had been frequent political adversaries, the two Texans had developed a strong friendship and a healthy respect for one another.

At the meeting, Loeffler, a strong advocate of contra aid, and Wright, a foe of administration attempts to overthrow the Sandinista government, mused about bringing peace to Nicaragua.

Wright expressed skepticism about White House attempts to pursue diplomatic initiatives in Central America, criticizing the administration for freezing Democrats out of the process. Loeffler responded that the administration was "totally ready to be serious" about a peace initiative.

With that comment, the idea of a bipartisan White House/Wright House peace plan was born.

The hastily prepared proposal was created amid strict confidentiality. Only a handful of congressmen knew of the proposal and even Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater were unaware of the plan until Tuesday.

The proposal was revealed Wednesday by President Reagan at an unscheduled appearance in the White House press room.

"I am pleased to announce that there is a general agreement among us to go forward with a renewed diplomatic initiative in Central America along the lines of the peace plan prepared in cooperation with the Speaker and the joint congressional leadership," Reagan said.

But the "general agreement" described Wednesday by Reagan was no more than a brainstorm when it was first suggested two weeks ago.

The following account of two weeks of behind-the-scenes maneuvering was pieced together from reports by participants and White House and congressional sources.

Wright, who dabbled in foreign affairs earlier this year by leading a goodwill mission to the Soviet Union, took Loeffler's suggestion and went to work.

Wright invited Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., to participate and found the Republican leader "totally supportive and very hopeful."

Wright and Michel then met with the Nicaraguan Ambassador Manuel Cordero to make sure the effort would not be rejected out of hand. Last November, Nicaraguan Vice President Sergio Ramirez told Wright the Sandinistas would lift an emergency decree banning free speech and freedom of the press only if the United States stopped funding the contra war against them. Wright thought a peace initiative would test the Nicaraguans' sincerity.

Wright also talked by telephone with Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, who has been unsuccessful in seeking Reagan administration support for his peace plan.

House Speaker Jim Wright of Texas speaks to reporters outside the White House Wednesday after he and House Minority Leader Robert Michel met with President Reagan. Reagan said later that he has reached "a general agreement" with congressional leaders on a plan to press ahead with military aid for Contra rebels unless the leftist government of Nicaragua accepts a cease-fire.

Assured that a U.S. peace plan would be welcomed by all sides in Central America, Wright sat down with White House Chief of Staff Howard Baker and Secretary of State George Shultz to establish what the White House called "a fair and workable plan."

At his suburban Virginia home, Wright scribbled down the key points of the plan: Central America peace talks, free elections in Nicaragua, and an end to U.S. assistance to the contra contingent upon a halt to Soviet and Cuban aid to the Sandinistas.

While the White House officials were encouraging, Wright said he encountered "considerable skepticism" from his Democratic colleagues.

In private meetings, Wright was told he was being played for a fool by the White House. His party colleagues said the Reagan administration was not serious about seeking peace through diplomacy and was using Wright as a front man for an initiative that was doomed for failure. When the peace plan collapsed, critics argued, the White House would seek further military aid for the contra, and House Democrats would be in a political box: If they opposed the aid request, they would be accused of coddling a communist dictatorship that had torpedoed the Democrat-authored peace plan.

Wright said he understood the arguments, but was not deterred.

"I don't anticipate failure," he said.

Lone Star Gas probes set

Dallas Times Herald Bureau
AUSTIN — The conviction of a former Lone Star Gas Co. executive on bribery and kickback charges promoted Texas Railroad Commission officials Wednesday to launch an investigation to discover if the company's 1.25 million customers were overcharged and should be reimbursed.

At the same time, officials began an internal examination of their own ratemaking procedures to determine if proposed gas prices that are routinely approved by the agency should be more thoroughly scrutinized.

"What I'm asking to look at is the way we set the formula used to determine the price of gas," said Commissioner John Sharp, who asked for the investigations.

Richard H. Wilkins, a former district manager for Lone Star, was convicted in Houston Tuesday of seven counts of mail fraud in connection with a kickback scheme.

Clements to sign bills

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements is nearly done reviewing the largest state government budget in Texas history, his staff says.

Reggie Bashur, Clements' press secretary, said Wednesday the governor likely would finish making his decisions today on which individual appropriations in the $38.3 billion budget he would veto.

The governor has authority to knock separate appropriations out of the state's spending plan with his line-item veto power.

Clements has until Monday to complete work on bills passed during the Legislature's month-long special session that ended July 21, but Bashur said he expected the governor to finish this week.

The appropriations bill would fund state agencies and universities for the 1988-89 budget period.

State to help river search

AUSTIN — Two state agencies were slated today to join the search for the remains of a 17-year-old youth who was washed away two weeks ago by the rampaging Guadalupe River, Gov. Bill Clements' office announced.

John Bankston Jr. has been missing since July 17, when floodwaters swept away a busload of Dallas-area church campers returning from a camp near Comfort.

Reggie Bashur, Clements' press secretary, on Wednesday said the state Highway Department would assign heavy equipment and crews to search debris piles along the riverbanks today and Friday.

The Texas Forest Service also will donate equipment for the search, Bashur said.

Railey's salary to end

DALLAS — A prominent minister whose wife was choked nearly to death by an unknown attacker will be dropped from his church's payroll and lose his spot on a religious radio series, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The newspaper quoted unidentified sources saying the Rev. Walker Railey would be dropped from the First United Methodist Church payroll at the end of the month. The sources also said he would be replaced as featured preacher for "The Protestant Hour," a nationwide radio series sponsored in part by the United Methodist Church.

Railey has been on leave of absence from his pulpit since the near-fatal choking attack on his wife, Margaret "Peggy," that left her comatose. Railey appeared before a grand jury about the attack, but investigators refuse to name him a suspect.

AIDS hospital to close

HOUSTON — The nation's first AIDS hospital will be closed due to financial losses of over $7 million in less than one year, a newspaper reports.

American Medical International gave formal notice of its intent to close the facility, the nation's first to focus exclusively on treating those with the fatal and incurable disease, unidentified sources told the Houston Chronicle.

The Institute for Immunological Disorders opened last September under an agreement between AMI, which operated the hospital, and the University of Texas, which provided physicians to staff it.

The agreement, approved in June 1986, required either side to give 12 months notice to terminate the arrangement if the hospital could not be operated on a sound financial basis.

In a letter to the university's Board of Regents, Thomas C. Sawicki, AMI group vice president, said that losses from the hospital have exceeded $7 million, and no way has been devised to lessen the losses, the newspaper reported.

Stockyards suffer debts

FORT WORTH — Development of Fort Worth's historic stockyards district as a major tourism and entertainment center is stalled by debt and financing problems, officials said.

More than $15 million in local and federal tax money has been spent on improvements in the district since 1974.

Millions more in federal funds have been earmarked for stockyards projects through the influence of U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

But federal officials have accused Wright of overstepping his legislative powers in securing the grants, and U.S. Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., has tried to cut them off, the newspaper added.

Billy Bob Barnett, the stockyards' principal developer, has acknowledged he has at least $1.3 million in unpaid bills. Barnett said he has been unable to raise money to pay off debts, finish construction or finance new development.

Two burned in explosion

ARLINGTON — Two men were hospitalized with burns on their faces and bodies after a circuit breaker box exploded while they were repairing an air conditioner at a high school.

Terry Rogers, 35, of Burleson today was listed in fair condition at Parkland Memorial Hospital, while Jack Wilson, 54, of Alvarado was in serious condition, said a hospital operator who refused to give her name.

Both suffered burns to their faces, arms, chests and hands, Carlene Ness, Arlington Memorial Hospital spokeswoman, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The men were originally taken to the Arlington hospital and then transferred to Parkland in Dallas.

"Basically they were in the right place at the wrong time. It wasn't anything they did wrong," said Lt. Gary Pipes, Arlington Fire Department spokesman.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation:

Opposes Reagan abortion proposal

President Reagan has proposed new regulations to bar family planning clinics that receive federal funds from informing clients of the medical facts and legal option of abortion. This pro-ignorance proposal should be rejected. ...

Refusal to fund clinics that engage in medical full disclosure would force health professionals to choose between needed federal funds and basic medical ethics — the duty to present all medical options. ...

Given this dilemma, many clinics ... say they would refuse the funds. Thus Reagan's plan would mean less information, less contraception, more unwanted pregnancies, more social costs and more unsafe abortions for society in general and poor women and teen-agers in particular. ...

Even "anti-abortion groups should, though they do not, oppose this regulation. Unless they believe that medical information undermines the case for their view, they ought to support efforts to make known the realities of abortion. The Oregonian, Portland, Ore.

Says criticism basic to democracy

The congressional investigation into the Iran-Contra affair centered on the nagging questions: "What did the President know? And when did he know it?"

After 12 weeks of public hearings, Congress came up with the nagging answers: "Not much. And no one remembers precisely."

Having cleared those matters up once and for all, what remains to be determined is, "Should we have bothered in the first place?"

And the answer is: Of course we should have, because the great and unique strength of the American system of democracy continues to be its willingness to wash government dirty linen in public and its ability to not get thrown out with the water.

A political system that undergoes the kind of self-inflicted pain ours must endure is bound to present a picture of strength and endurance to the world, even though the world may have a difficult time understanding it.

And any government, free or democratic, would be strengthened by the kind of open debate and constant self-criticism in which this nation indulges. Chicago Tribune

Lauds petroleum import fee bill

The House Ways and Means Committee, looking for ways to reduce the federal deficit, has received an excellent recommendation from Rep. Dick Cheney, R-Wyo.

Cheney has advised the committee that imposition of an import fee on foreign petroleum would generate revenue that could help balance the federal budget while decreasing America's growing dependence on foreign oil.

Cheney and other members of Congress realize that an oil import fee would tend to stabilize prices at a reasonable level, add revenue to the U.S. Treasury and revitalize America's energy producing industries. Farmington (N.M.) Daily Times

Reflagging 'shows muscle' to Iran

Those who support the American commitment to reflag and escort Kuwaiti oil tankers offer a variety of reasons — most of them not easily excused for lack of merit.

Failing to live up to that commitment, in spite of the rest of the free world's hesitancy to show equal muscle, would encourage Iran's free-wheeling aggression and the Soviet Union to expand its power in the Persian Gulf. ...

It was no coincidence that six

Arab nations on the Gulf announced backing for Kuwait's efforts to protect its shipping from attack after the United States began escorting oil tankers in spite of the possibilities of sneak attack. ...

The United States, accepting the minimal risks, is correct to defend interests in the Persian Gulf if it expects to be taken seriously by Iran, the Soviet Union and the Gulf states and help keep vital sea lanes open. Durham (N.C.) Morning Herald

Iran hearings should be put behind

The major facts (in the Iran-Contra affair) are now clear, with only a few details missing. Congress should move quickly to close up shop on this matter and move on to the many other pressing issues confronting the nation.

If criminal charges are warranted, they will surely be brought by the special prosecutor who is already conducting a separate investigation. Hannibal (Mo.) Courier-Post

Ultimately, the final responsibility for this sorry affair lies with President Reagan, on whose watch it occurred.

Nevertheless, we hope the president can put this affair behind him, as the country needs more than a mere "caretaker" government in the 18 months remaining in Reagan's final term. Hannibal (Mo.) Courier-Post

Criticizes Reagan's 'adventure'

During President Reagan's six years in office, more than 300 American servicemen have been killed abroad. ...

Keep in mind, however, that the president's poorly conceived foreign policy was responsible for putting American soldiers and sailors in those dangerous circumstances. After his fruitless "peacekeeping" effort in Lebanon, he has now embarked on another dubious adventure in the Persian Gulf. ...

But if the president has performed badly in conducting foreign policy in the gulf, he has done no better as commander-in-chief. Under his joint chiefs, the Navy didn't deploy any of its three active service minesweepers or its 18 reserve minesweepers. ... It didn't deploy any of its 23 minesweeping helicopters or seven minesweeping boats. ...

Instead, the most powerful Navy of the most powerful nation in the world "protected" Kuwaiti shipping by purposely putting the deep-draft supertanker Bridgeton ahead of the escorting warships to act as a minesweeper-by-sacrifice.

And the tanker sacrificed, as a recently laid mine blew a big hole in it, along with the very prestige and influence the president is trying to rebuild in the Middle East. The Herald, Everett, Wash.

AP Quotes

"We will go to the hearts and minds of people. But we will also go through the judicial process." — Faye Wattleton, president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, opposing President Reagan's plan to end the use of federal family planning assistance money for abortion counseling and referral.

Art Buchwald

In France, bring extra arm and leg

By ART BUCHWALD (While on vacation Art Buchwald received limited immunity, and the special prosecutor has allowed him to reprint some of his favorite columns.)

PARIS — Several years ago, while in Paris, I wrote a column titled "Paris on $500 a Day." The thrust of the piece was that it was still possible to get by in the French capital on $500 if you passed up lunch.

My French friends, as well as Americans living in France, thought the article was very funny. But they aren't laughing any more.

If you don't worry about prices, you can still have a marvelous time in Paris. What you have to do is forget everything and just decide to live for the moment.

I did this the first night I arrived in town. My wife and I went to a small bistro that boasted two stars in the Michelin guide.

When the waiter gave us the menu, I thought he made a mistake.

"I beg your pardon, monsieur," I said. "But I believe you have made an error. You gave me the Bank of France's financial report for the month of May."

"No, monsieur, that is the carte pour dinner."

My wife, who always gets nervous when she sees melon setting for over $15 a portion, whispered to me, "Let's get out of here."

"Don't be silly. We don't get to Paris very often. Let's enjoy it." I studied the menu carefully. "Now we have our choice. We can have the white asparagus or send Joel to college in the fall."

She said, "You mean to say that white asparagus costs as much as Joel's tuition?"

"Yes," I replied. "But they're the large white ones with hollandaise sauce. You can only get them in the spring."

"But," my wife, always the practical one, said, "Joel had his heart set on going to college."

"Look, he can go to school anytime. But how often do we come to France and have a chance to order white asparagus? I know if we explain it to him he'll understand."

There were so many dishes to choose from after the first course that I couldn't make up my mind.

Finally I said to my wife, "Remember that house we were going to buy in Martha's Vineyard?"

"The one overlooking the ocean?"

"That's the one," I said. "Let's have the lobster instead."

"You mean you'd rather have lobster than own a house on Martha's Vineyard?"

"But this lobster is cooked in a special cream sauce of the chef. It could be years before we have a lobster like this again. We have to think of our old age."

"I don't know," my wife said, "I had my heart set on that house."

"Well, I have my heart set on lobster and, since they're both the same price, I think our stomachs should come first."

The waiter handed me the wine card.

"There's a very nice Pouilly Fuisse," I said.

"Can we afford it?" my wife asked.

"We can if we sell the car when we get back home."

"I need a car," she protested.

"All right," I said. "Well'll order an inexpensive Sancerre and cancel the orthodontic work on Connie's teeth."

My wife was becoming agitated. "If it's costing this much for dinner, how are we going to pay our hotel bill?"

"What do you think the World Bank is for?"

Naval Investigative Service has reputation for foulups

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The sudden collapse of the Naval Investigative Service's espionage cases against some of the Marine guards at the Moscow embassy shocked many Americans. But it came as no great surprise to Rep. Jim Bates, D-Calif.

The San Diego congressman, who was a Marine corporal himself as a young man, has been saying for years that the investigative service is one of the most incompetent, undisciplined and abusive organizations in the U.S. military. Bates thinks the investigative service should be eliminated, and he introduced legislation to this effect last year. The congressman and his staff experts argue that:

- Naval Investigative Service agents abuse their authority by using unethical interrogation techniques and extracting confessions by intimidation, lies and trickery.

- The Navy detectives rarely tape-record interrogations, relying instead of their recollections as evidence against the accused. It's also rare, Bates said, that they write down statements that would work in the suspect's favor.

- Finally, Bates charged, NIS agents are heavily influenced by their uniformed superiors, who sometimes use them to retaliate against troublesome subordinates or to derail investigations that might implicate Navy brass hats.

The Moscow Marines investigation wasn't the Navy detectives' first foulup — just the one that made the biggest headlines. Bates wants a House investigation into the case of Tim Reid, a civilian electrical engineer who blew the whistle on a wasteful program four years ago and became a target of the NIS flatfoots. Our reporter Daniel Kaufman has elicited Reid's story from interviews and Navy documents.

In July 1983, Reid discovered at least $200 million in unnecessary costs in the overhaul of Sea Nymph class nuclear submarines at San Diego. He reported this to his superiors, but instead of winning a commendation, he was subjected to what he calls "a number of reprisals" by the Navy brass.

Reid was stripped of his security clearance and bounced from job to job five times. His travel expenses were questioned by Pentagon lawyers.

Reid got the clear impression that the Navy was out to get him.

And through a Freedom of Information Act request, he found support for his suspicions in a memorandum written by a Navy investigative official. Referring to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Rep. Bates, the memo stated: "We don't want them to perceive that Mr. Reid is a trustworthy individual."

The alleged reprisals against Reid also included two NIS investigations in the last 10 months. The first occurred while Reid was vacationing in Europe last September. As he learned later, Naval Investigative Service agents tried to determine whether he had made plans to visit Syria or the Soviet Union. After questioning Reid's friends and family, and checking the stamps in his passport, the Navy dropped that investigation for lack of evidence.

Then, last December, while Reid was working in Hawaii, his boss in San Diego allegedly found a "murder threat" on his desk consisting of hostile note, a broken Darth Vader cup and an ace of spades. Reid found himself being accused of sending the threat.

Reid says the investigators tried trick questions, cajolery and intimidation to get him to confess. At one point an agent asked for permission to search Reid's home for a deck of cards missing the ace of spades.

That investigation was also dropped.

Footnote: A Navy spokesman denied any improprieties by the investigators.

Meaningless movie mauled

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Cable viewers, watch out — Jason's back in town.

That's right, folks. Jason, the brainless, indestructible villain of the "Friday the 13th" movies, is back to thrill us with breathtaking decapitations, spine-tingling mutilations, gore galore and — of course — with almost no plot.

The most recent of the series, "Friday the 13th, Part VI — Jason Lives," is on Showtime, one of the local cable service premium channels.

It is faithful to the series — meaning anyone with more than two brain cells should be grossly insulted by the time the opening credits are finished.

For those who have seen any of the previous five Jason movies, no review of this one is necessary. It's almost a carbon copy.

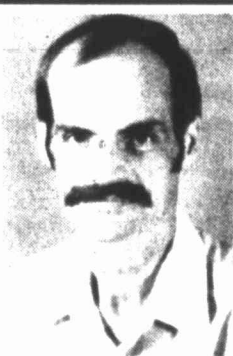

For those fortunate ones who haven't yet seen any of the series, an explanation is needed.

I have a confession; I have watched all six. And, if you press me for a reason, the best I can say is: All of them are so bad, they're funny.

If you're suffering from overload, and want to slip your mind into neutral — and can stomach the blood and body parts — take a bowl of popcorn, pop on the sofa and watch one of these wretched movies.

Not the first one, though. The first of the series was a classic horror film. It had suspense, scares and a hair-raising ending. Incidentally, it also had more gore than a slaughterhouse, but still was a great movie.

The rest of the series, however, falls into what I call the Jason Formula. Mix the following ingredients together, and you have another Friday the 13th movie.

Around the rim

- An indestructible villain

Jason can't be killed. They've tried umpteen ways.

He's been shot, stabbed, hacked, run over, drowned, shot again, torched, axed, impaled and everything else short of being pureed in a giant blender.

In one movie, he actually was killed — but still came back to life. For the next movie, Tim Appel, Herald staff photographer, suggested dissecting Jason into 500 pieces and mailing the parts to different sectors of the world.

I'm convinced, however, that our favorite villain would somehow survive that, too.

I'm surprised the Army doesn't kidnap him and drop him into Iran. Or is that the plot for No. VII?

- Brainless teen-agers

The teen-agers who meet our villain invariably suffer terminal brain cramps.

In one movie, after Jason has hacked some of her cohorts, one erstwhile heroine spies a large bloodstain leading to a room.

Most of us would make like Jesse Owens in warp speed, and exit stage left.

Not our unfortunate damsel.

She prefers to investigate, giving Jason an opportunity to whack her with his omnipresent machete, sending her to the great beyond.

- You do it, you die

All of you good girls considering sinning with your boyfriends, please take note — never do it when Jason's near.

In each of the series, the tramps have cashed in their chips.

- Polly Pureheart turns into Rambo

With all the bodies flying, and with Jason regarding bullets as mere mosquitos, what finally stops him? The Army, right?

Wrong, buck-o. The Army fails; the sheriff fails, and every adult who crosses the villain's path meets a grisly fate.

The hero invariably is the nice girl. You know, the sweet 'ol gal who doesn't curse, doesn't drink, and shuns sexplay.

This shouldn't be surprising, because by now everyone else is dead.

Part IV, however, provides one exception to the Polly Pureheart rule. In that film, Jason is "killed" by a 10-year-old who's a little faster on the draw with his own machete.

The youngster, Tommy, is featured in sequels as a young man who becomes mentally disturbed by his violent act — while the female victors have suffered no discernible side-effects.

This might say something about the battle of the sexes, but I haven't deciphered that, yet.

Gunman mentally ill

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — The gunman who was fatally shot when he charged past Pentagon guards had a history of mental illness and "hallucinations about who he was," his mother said.
Dwain Wallace, 30, of Youngstown, was shot once in the back by a guard Wednesday morning and died two hours later at a hospital from a wound to his heart, officials said.
Doris Wallace and her husband, Leroy, said their son was a patient at a Youngstown psychiatric hospital in recent years, and once was under the delusion he was an Army general.

Family seeks pardon

LOS ANGELES — After 28 years on the straight and narrow, a 62-year-old chain gang fugitive must hope for the mercy of two governors to escape a 1946 Virginia warrant for his arrest.
Vincent Pelliccio was in jail today, held without bond on the 41-year-old fugitive warrant issued after he cut his shackles and slipped away from the Virginia chain gang while he was serving a five-year prison sentence.
His relatives say his crime of "storebreaking" was relatively minor, and maintain he's long since paid his debt to society by living in fear of arrest.

Hunger aid discussed

WASHINGTON — The food salvaging project that Rev. Ray A. Buchanan and six volunteers started four years ago in a converted sheep shed in the Virginia mountains has collected 53 million pounds of potatoes and yams for the needy.
Imagine, Buchanan told lawmakers, how much more food could be saved from rotting in fields and warehouses if a national clearinghouse were established to match farmers who have surplus crops with agencies that help the poor and hungry.
Rep. Tony P. Hall, D-Ohio, a member of the task force, said the panel will consider Buchanan's recommendations to set up a national clearinghouse as well as another to publish a booklet with tips on organizing food saving programs.

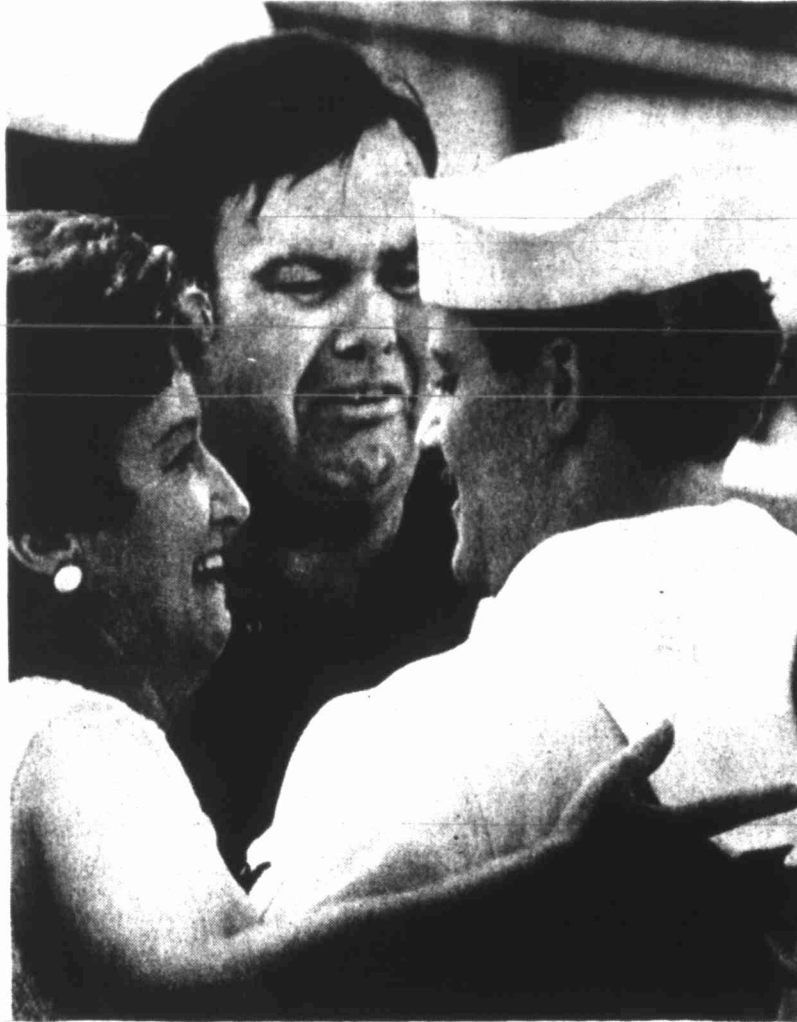

AIDS funding in bill

WASHINGTON — The Senate is being asked to approve $945 million to combat AIDS as part of a big funding bill directing $126.8 billion to the departments of Education, Labor, and Health and Human Services.
The appropriation for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 was approved by the House on a 336-89 vote Wednesday night after several efforts to reduce spending were defeated. The bill provides $13.8 billion more than fiscal 1987 spending for the three departments.
The $945 million appropriation to combat acquired immune deficiency syndrome is more than double 1987 funding.

Gulf

U.S. commitment one of largest

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to provide protection to Kuwaiti oil tankers in the Persian Gulf is forcing the Pentagon into one of the largest deployments of American forces since the Vietnam War.
By the end of the month, U.S. Navy forces alone in the region will include at least 24 combat and support ships carrying more than 15,000 sailors and officers.
That total does not include military personnel posted in several Persian Gulf countries such as Saudi Arabia and Oman where Air Force and Navy surveillance aircraft, respectively, are based, and in Bahrain, where the Navy's Mideast Task Force has a small support facility.

An unidentified member of the crew of the frigate USS Stark is greeted after the ship returned from duty in the Persian Gulf Wednesday. The Stark was damaged when it was hit by two missiles from an Iraqi warplane on May 17, killing 37 seamen aboard. Below, a young child points to her father, a crew member of the Stark.

Although the Pentagon refuses to disclose the precise number of American servicemen in those three countries, the total could be as high as 2,000.
The last time such a large American force was gathered for a single mission was in early 1986, when the Navy combined three aircraft carrier battle groups for operations across Libya's "Line of Death" in the Gulf of Sidra.
At least 25,000 men and more than 30 ships were involved in those maneuvers; each aircraft carrier carried at least 5,000 men.
The Libyan operations were short-lived, however, as were other recent missions such as the 1983 invasion of Grenada and the deployment of Marines to Lebanon that same year.

Reagan administration officials have said Navy escorts for Kuwaiti tankers will continue as long as those ships are threatened with attack by Iran.
That open-ended commitment — Iran has vowed to continue attacking Kuwaiti ships as part of its 7-year-old war with Iraq — has been coupled in recent weeks with the realization that U.S. forces must be bolstered to deal with the threat of underwater mines and speedboat attacks.

The result is a slowly building commitment of American forces to one of the most difficult regions in the world in which to mount operations.
Since May 17, when the USS Stark was inadvertently attacked by an Iraqi warplane, the number of Navy warships posted inside the gulf has grown.

From three destroyers and three frigates, the Navy now has eight warships in the gulf — three cruisers, one destroyer and four frigates — in addition to the command ship LaSalle.

Two other large Navy ships are either on the way or soon will be: The helicopter carrier Guadalcanal will bring mine-sweeping choppers to the gulf, while the amphibious landing ship Raleigh is steaming with small mine-sweeping boats and SEAL fast-attack boats.

Just outside the gulf, patrolling in the northern Arabian Sea and directly supporting the convoy operations, is another Navy battle group headed by the carrier Constellation. Approximately 5,000 sailors and airmen are on the "Connie."

Steaming with that carrier is one of the Navy's most modern Aegis-class cruisers, the Valley Forge, plus one destroyer, two frigates and two support ships.

War games extended

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran today announced the extension of its three-day naval exercises in the Persian Gulf for another 24 hours, and warned ships and aircraft to stay out of the waters around the war games.
In Saudi Arabia, Iranian diplomats complained they were besieged by Saudi security forces.
Iran threatened to use force against Saudi Arabia unless that country withdrew security forces from around the Iranian embassy. The two countries have been feuding over the killing of hundreds of Iranian pilgrims in the Islamic holy city of Mecca last Friday.

Leaders to talk peace

GUATEMALA CITY — President Vinicio Cerezo said he and other Central American leaders will concentrate on their own peace plan in talks starting today but will also look at a proposal by President Reagan on Nicaragua.
The two-day meeting of five Central American presidents picks up where a two-day meeting of their foreign ministers left off, trying to reach a consensus on a regional peace plan.
"The main goal is to discuss proposals and programs of the presidents of Central America," Cerezo told reporters Wednesday night. "Later, we are going to discuss the proposal of President Reagan, but we are very interested in giving the Central American countries the most important role."

Four admit espionage

TOKYO — Four Japanese admitted in court today that they sold stolen U.S. military documents to Soviet and Chinese buyers, a lawyer defending one of the accused said.
On the first day of their trial in the Tokyo District Court, the four men admitted to charges of theft and purchase of stolen goods, said lawyer Yoshito Nagai.
The four, all about 60, are accused of stealing documents on maintenance of U.S. military planes from the U.S. Air Force base in Yokota, west of Tokyo, and selling them to a Soviet government official in Tokyo and a Chinese official in China.

Labor disputes erupt

SEOUL, South Korea — Dozens of major industrial plants were idle today, shut down by thousands of workers staging sometimes violent stoppages to demand better wages and working conditions, the Labor Ministry said.
New labor disputes erupted at 18 plants today, bringing to 54 the number of industrial facilities across South Korea affected by costly walkouts, temporary stoppages and plant closings, ministry officials said.
Labor protests have surged sharply in South Korea in recent weeks after the government, reacting to sustained public protests, agreed early last month to sweeping democratic reforms, including more labor freedom.

Hiroshima marks anniversary

HIROSHIMA, Japan — A moment of silence enveloped Hiroshima and doves soared over the once-devastated city today as Japan recalled the blinding flash 42 years ago that jarred the world into the nuclear age.
"I hope that on this day, the world's 5 billion people will think about what happened here," Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone told about 55,000 people gathered at Hiroshima Memorial Peace Park.
"I pledge that we will build peace on this earth," he added.
At 8:15 a.m., the city of 1 million observed a moment of silence, punctured by the solemn tolling of a bell, as it remembered the more than 140,000 victims of the Aug. 6, 1945 bombing.
A U.S. B-29 bomber dropped "Little Boy," the first atomic bomb used against humans, on this regional military headquarters for southern Japan. Three days later, a second U.S. bomb devastated Nagasaki, killing an estimated 70,000 people.

The Japanese government surrendered unconditionally on Aug. 15, 1945, to end World War II.
Hiroshima has been rebuilt and "the oleanders are blooming now as if nothing happened here," Nakasone said. "But in the minds of the people, the scars of the bombing must still remain."
Nakasone said the United States and Soviet Union had produced "bright news" with their moves toward an accord on deep cuts in medium-range nuclear weapons.
The 45-minute ceremony took place near a carpet of yellow chrysanthemums, the flower of mourning for the Japanese. A flame at the park that is to burn until all nuclear weapons disappear from the earth surged higher during the minute of silence.

As Nakasone spoke, protesters unfurled a banner demanding a new law granting more benefits to the 350,000 Japanese designated as A-bomb survivors.
In other parts of the park, groups of left-wing and ultra-nationalist right-wing demonstrators chanted slogans and made speeches over loudspeakers. They, too, stopped their activity during the minute of silence.
"It is increasingly important that future generations be told about the horrors of nuclear war," said Hiroshima Mayor Takeshi Araki. He said 5 million schoolchildren visited Hiroshima in the past 10 years.

Dog owners lend pets to help head injury victims

Kaly McConley, 3, gets a kiss from Sugar Bear, who is held by its owner, Shirley Huff, recently at a Dallas rehabilitation center. Sugar Bear is one of only a few dogs in the Dallas area trained to take part in recreational therapy for patients of nursing home and hospitals.

DALLAS (AP) — Justin McAden, 9-year-old kid, met Lady, a mostly miniature schnauzer with a pink hat, on a recent afternoon, and the relationship bloomed.

Justin is from Denison. He's a chubby guy with a burr haircut. Lady has white hair and likes to chase whatever someone will throw for her. They look like ordinary boy and dog, but in truth neither is ordinary at all.

Justin is recovering from a head injury he suffered April 24 when a car crashed into his bicycle as he rode to school. And though he appears to be physically sound, his mind plays strange tricks on him.

And Lady, owned by Virginia Hyatt of Arlington, is one of only a few dogs in the Dallas area trained to take part in recreational therapy for patients of nursing homes, hospitals and other medical facilities.

Ms. Hyatt founded Paws Across Texas, an organization of owners and dogs willing to help with therapy. Recently she and other members of the group were at Dallas Rehabilitation Institute to visit some boys and girls — all victims of head injuries — who might enjoy a little hairy company and who might, just might, respond to the dogs more positively than they respond to their human therapists.

On one side of the recreational therapy room at DRI, Lady demonstrated skills at retrieving a number of objects, while on the other side of the room Sugar Bear, a black pekapo, alternately sat up and played "dead dog."

Responses from the half-dozen children varied according to the severity of their injuries. Justin was animated, but 17-year-old Michael Guynes of Arlington, who suffered profound brain damage during football practice at Martin High School in Arlington last year, was able only to raise a hand, slowly, when it was time to return to his room.

Paws Across Texas consists of more than two dozen dog owners and their pets, which range in size

"Dogs have an unconditional love for people. It doesn't matter who they are."

from a 120-pound Irish wolfhound to a 3-pound dachshund.

To become members, dog owners must have put their pets through obedience school and met other requirements, mostly health-related. Training includes preparing the dogs to be around wheelchairs.

The dogs are "used as tools to motivate, stimulate, help decrease depression and boost morale" at the more than 30 institutions they visit, Ms. Hyatt said. Response from medical personnel has been encouraging, she said, and the group is seeking new members, especially in the Dallas area.

Patty Schaller, manager of recreation and leisure services at Dallas Rehabilitation Institute, says the dogs have been a welcomed addition to therapy programs.

"I've seen those patients recovering from head injuries responding," she said. "They respond to the softness. They'll reach out and touch them, or maybe they'll draw away when the dog licks them in the face. They may not respond that way to humans."

"Dogs have an unconditional love for people. It doesn't matter who they are. There's a warmth of feeling from the animal, and I think they respond to that. It's really, really working."

Though the weekly visits from the dogs may be a bright spot in the lives of the youngsters at the rehabilitation center, they'll never be able to undo all the damage that has been done.

Justin, for instance, may need 10 to 15 years before he returns to normal, his mother, Lisa McAden, said.

"He has lost some of his memory," she said. "For instance he doesn't know how to add. He was hit on one side of his head, and it has affected how his brain controls the other side of his body. When he colors a picture, he colors it only from the middle to the right side. If you ask him to count the numbers on a clock he'll count from one to six, and he'll think he's through."

Saragosa officials squabble over blame for missing items

PECOS (AP) — Two truckloads of goods donated for victims of the May 22 tornado at Saragosa are missing, and both the Reeves County sheriff's department and leaders of the small farming community say the other should take the responsibility.

The goods were being stored in a warehouse at Pecos, about 20 miles north of Saragosa.

"We don't want to be blamed for it, that we couldn't handle the things that were given us," said assistant disaster coordinator Felipe Lopez.

Lopez said the sheriff's office had taken charge of the church group shipment and five tractor-trailer loads from northeast Louisiana donors, one of which was stored in Pecos after arriving in mid-June.

"They were in charge of distribution and now something has gone wrong, they know nothing about it," Lopez said.

The sheriff's department is investigating the apparent theft of the items, which were sent by groups in Austin and Monroe, La., to benefit residents in their recovery from the tornado that killed 30 people and injured 161 others.

Reeves County Sheriff Raul Florez said that responsibility had been turned over to the residents of Saragosa. "We didn't take control. We just found places to store it," said Florez.

The missing goods are under investigation now, he said.

"If it is gone illegally, I'm responsible, just like I'm responsible for everything in the county," Florez said. "But if it was given out, there's nothing we can do."

Saragosa officials discovered the goods missing from the warehouse about a week ago when Lopez was looking for air-conditioning units, he said. Most of the items, ranging from toys and clothes to appliances, came from a batch of donations sent by the church group Saragosa-Austin Cares.

The Rev. Ray Noble, who coordinated the Austin drive, said more than a thousand donors had sent down everything from designer clothing to washers, driers and medical supplies.

Reeves County Community Council Director Mary Mitchell said the disappearance of the goods disappointed and saddened those involved with the Saragosa effort, but wasn't sure that anyone could be assigned blame for the situation.

Meanwhile, earlier this week the Saragosa Building Committee decided to send a check to victims of the tornado that devastated Edmonton, Canada, last week.

Lopez said $250 would be sent on behalf of Saragosa residents as soon as they found someone to send it to, and any clothing left over may also be donated.

The ability to feel guilt is an indication that a person is sound in their thinking ability. If a person has no ability to feel guilt ever, something is wrong. Guilt feelings come from what is called the conscience. People use all kinds of methods to cope with those feelings in the conscience; hide from themselves, cover it up, ignore them, repress them, consume alcohol and drugs. Guilt can be repressed only so long. There can be no inner completeness or satisfaction until guilt is resolved. No problem of guilt is ever solved until it is solved within the framework of religion. Real guilt before God is solved inside the framework of Christ Jesus and His Truth in the Word of God. Guilt feelings are defined as: A sense of realization that one has violated ethical, moral or religious principles with a regretful feeling of lessened personal value on that account. Denomination of defrocked Bakker hurt but hopeful

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Thousands of members of the church that defrocked TV minister Jim Bakker gathered Wednesday for a national assembly, distressed by the PTL scandal but hopeful it will spur others to greater rectitude.

"It's been a time of embarrassment and humiliation for us," said the Rev. G. Raymond Carlson of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent of the Assemblies of God.

However, he added: "Out of it could come some good fallout of self cleansing and examining of our priorities as individuals. We'll come out of it better and stronger."

Bakker's fall from his electronic ministry came after his admission last March of a sexual liaison with a woman fan of the PTL — "Praise the Lord" or "People that Love" — television empire he founded. The Assemblies of God later revoked his ministerial credentials both for adultery and alleged homosexual activity.

More than 15,000 members, pastors and laity, were expected for the biennial general council of the denomination, convening Thursday to run through Tuesday.

The Pentecostal denomination is distinguished by its emphasis on gifts of the Holy Spirit — divine healing and speaking in unknown tongues — phenomena recounted in the earliest stages of Christianity.

Old-line churches generally discounted such happenings, maintaining they ceased after the apostolic age, but in recent years the movement has entered mainline denominations under the name of "charismatic" renewal.

The 2.1-million Assemblies of God has become a major Protestant body in America, 10th in size among the large denominations, and the fastest growing of them all. That growth amounts to 2.19 percent annually, twice the rate of population growth, while major denominations slip in membership, except Roman Catholics and Southern Baptists, both up about 1 percent in the latest figures.

"Everybody needs to answer some criticism. It's healthy for the denomination."

Its warm, lively, often spontaneous style of worship has been cited as a reason for its unusual growth, along with its high sense of God's presence and zealous evangelical preaching.

The Rev. Terry Terrell, coordinator of district-church relations, said the keen awareness of "God's sovereignty" over all life, plus "revivalism and worship style" were factors in the rapid growth.

Terrell said it isn't likely that the Bakker affair will come up in the proceedings here, other than in a statement about the situation to be presented Friday by Carlson.

Carlson said there would be no discussion or action on the matter then.

Nevertheless, the subject was a keen concern of the people gathering here, about 700 of them voting delegates.

Bakker was not expected to attend, but one of his key accusers, TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart, an Assemblies clergyman, was scheduled to be present.

"It no doubt will be on the minds of some," Carlson said. "But our major concern is for renewal and revival in the church, looking forward to strategies for the last decade of the 20th century."

Partly as a result of the scandal, he said "I think there will be an expression of desires to return to basics."

The Rev. Rollin Carlson, an Everett, Wash., pastor and member of a 10-member resolutions committee, said he felt sure the Bakker matter would be on the minds of many delegates.

"Everybody needs to answer some criticism. It's healthy for the denomination," he said.

Celebration planned for state capitol

AUSTIN (AP) — A May 16, 1988, celebration is planned to mark the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the Capitol, the pink granite building that houses much of state government.

Construction of the Capitol began in 1882 and was completed in May 1888, with a dedication ceremony held May 16, 1888, according to Roy Graham, architect of the Capitol.

Graham told Gov. Bill Clements and other members of the State Preservation Board on Tuesday about the plans for the ceremony.

"I am certain the centennial celebration will serve to reinforce the significance of the building as architecture and as history," Graham said.

The board also was told Tuesday that 1,140 blocks on the Capitol's Great Walk have been sold.

The Capitol Committee, the fundraising arm of the Capitol restoration effort, is selling the blocks for $300 each, with the purchaser allowed to have his or her name engraved on the block.

Capitol Committee chairman George Bristol said most of the 1,775 blocks should be sold by the May 1988 centennial celebration.

Judge orders admittance for AIDS boys

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The mother of three young hemophiliacs exposed to AIDS says she expects they will be harassed by classmates when they return to school under orders of a federal judge.

But Louise Ray says she believes her sons can handle most any situation.

"I really do," she said. "We told them from the very beginning they may have problems with some kids. They understand it."

She made her comments Wednesday after U.S. District Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich granted a preliminary injunction that restrains the DeSoto County School District from excluding Richard, 10, Robert, 9, and Randy, 8, from the normal classroom and related activities this fall.

The order forbids the boys from playing contact sports.

"These boys are going to be required to be responsible, in their conduct, attitude and demeanor, beyond the level of responsibility generally expected of boys their ages," Ms. Kovachevich said.

The court also cautioned school officials that they have "important and indispensable responsibilities" in caring for the boys.

The Rays' attorney, William Earl, said he was elated with the decision.

"We feel the law and facts support the judge's decision," he said. "This is a case where three innocent children are caught up in mindless fear and discrimination."

The school board barred the boys from class last fall after they tested positive.

Biting dogs don't belong in any backyard

DEAR ABBY: Here in California, we are currently experiencing a hysteria about pit bulldog attacks on children and adults.

Six years ago, when my son was 10 years old, he was attacked in front of our house by a dog that was half-collie and half-German shepherd. My son did nothing to provoke the dog. I know; I was there. The boy suffered wounds on his face that required 60 stitches. The owners of the dog refused to pay the medical bills because that would have admitted wrongdoing. We sued these people who, by the way, were friends of ours. My son received $25,000 compensation, but in retrospect it was not enough. Due to the scars on his face, our son has been in psychological counseling twice to help him adjust to the social problems those scars left.

Abby, please tell your readers that it is against the law to keep a vicious animal, even if it is tied up in their backyard. If a child climbs over a fence to retrieve a baseball and is attacked by a dog, the owner is liable. Those "Beware of Dog" signs mean nothing. According to the law, the owner is liable for any injuries incurred.

My son is now 16 and he's still very self-conscious about his scarred face. He is also deathly afraid of dogs.

Parents should teach their children never to make direct eye contact with a dog. Dogs see this as a challenge. Try to walk away as slowly as possible, and if there is a large object nearby, pick it up — you may have to use it. Do not run! This is also interpreted as a challenge, and dogs can outrun humans.

I hope this has helped. I wish I had taught my children more than just never to pet strange animals. If my letter will save just one child the devastating trauma our son suffered, it would make my day.

DEBORAH FLYER-WERBIL, FULLERTON, CALIF.

DEAR DEBORAH: I am sure many readers will benefit from your letter. Thank you for sharing with others what you learned the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: With so much publicity about "vicious" dogs being killed lately, please repeat the enclosed article you wrote on that subject years ago. It speaks for those creatures who can't speak for themselves.

ROSEMARY BROWN, CLEARWATER, FLA.

DEAR ROSEMARY: With pleasure. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: This is for all newspaper carriers, mail carriers and delivery people: When you see a dog barking and growling in front of someone's house, turn right around and forget that house.

Today, a delivery boy tried to get up to our front door when he was confronted by our dog on a chain, growling and snapping frantically. The delivery boy didn't take the hint; instead he kept advancing, trying to get around the dog and up to our front door. Had our dog been able to get to this boy, he could have done him serious damage.

Abby, I'm really worried. I have heard that according to law, every dog is entitled to one bite, but if he bites twice, he has to be put to sleep. Is that true?

LOVES MY DOG

DEAR LOVES: "Laws" concerning dogs differ, depending on where one lives. However, it would seem apparent that a barking, growling dog on a chain is doing what he has been trained to do — protect his domain — and anyone who deliberately attempts to invade his territory is asking for trouble. Mail carriers, newspaper carriers and delivery people are usually instructed to "forget" the house that's being protected by man's best friend.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: By definition, a "house" is a structure designed for residential purposes. A builder erects a house, but the occupants make a house a "home" by living in it — adding furniture, children, pets, congeniality.

Also, a "home" could be a nursing home, a home for unwed mothers, a funeral home, an orphanage, or the place people go when they have nowhere else to go. A house can be a "house of ill repute," a boardinghouse, a henhouse, a gambling house, a publishing house, or it could refer to the audience in a theater or concert hall (there was a good "house" on opening night).

A dutiful wife and mother runs a home. A madam, on the other hand, runs a house.

Scientists use microwaves

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Nearly gone are the days of scientists toiling over steaming, boiling beakers. Today, they can zap their experiments in a microwave.

For the past two years, Tom White, a chemist for R.J. Reynolds, has been among a handful of scientists across the country pioneering the use of microwave ovens in the research lab.

By using a microwave instead of a hot plate to heat analytical samples, White says, sample preparation time is reduced by 80 percent.

Two local men honored for retirement

The family of Ben A. Boadle honored him with a dinner and party at Winchester's Friday night.

Boadle retired Aug. 1 from Texas Utilities Company after 35 years with Texas Electric Service Co.

Also honored was Boadle's brother-in-law, Orvel Griffith from Colorado City, who also retired from Texas Utilities Morgan Creek Plant after 28 years of service.

Hosting the event were Boadle's wife, Madeline; and his children and their spouses, Jaouq and Tim Mauch of Sand Springs; Miles and Penni Boadle; Laurie and Gary Wilkerson; and Eugene Boadles, all of Big Spring.

Also attending were Griffith's wife, Georgie of Colorado City, and Boadle's three grandchildren, Stephanie Mauch of Sand Springs; Aaron and Missy Boadle of Big Spring and his brother, Robert Boadle and wife, Cynthia, of Big Spring.

Boadle plans to vacation and continue his volunteer projects in the community, including his work at Wesley United Methodist Church and the Evening Lions Club.

Rook members tie high score

The Rook Club met recently at Herman's Restaurant with Birdie Adams, hosting.

Gene Duncan and Goldye Moad tied for high score.

Next meeting will be Aug. 21 at the home of Marie Affleck.

Names in the news

College dorm named after Burt

By the Associated Press
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Florida State University's football dormitory will be named after former Seminole running back BURT REYNOLDS, a school boosters club official has announced.
 Andy Miller, executive director of the Seminole Boosters, made the announcement Tuesday.
 Reynolds, who was at Florida State in the 1950s, donated $58,000 toward the three-building structure, which was renovated and expanded by the Seminole Boosters Inc. at a cost of $1.8 million.

DAN RATHER

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. — DAN RATHER'S job at the "CBS Evening News" is secure even though the program's ratings are shaky, his boss says. And there are no plans to add a co-anchor to the program.
 "There's no alternative to Dan Rather," CBS News chief Howard Stringer told television reporters Tuesday. "He took us to the top, and I hope he takes us back there."
 Stringer said the problems at CBS News run deeper than the anchor. Massive layoffs and budget cuts of $30 million over the past year have had a devastating effect on the longtime leader of network news, he said.
 "Whatever we've been through, it's certainly time to put it in the past," he said. "There's no sense sitting there and saying, 'Woe is me.' It's time to push forward with options."
 Stringer said those options include changing the evening news this fall, but he refused to give details. There won't be a co-anchor, however, he said.

Though he enjoys the attention, he says he does it for the money — $500 a week for three nights.
 When Bears Coach Mike Ditka heard the news, he said, "Well, some got it and some don't."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — JOHNNY CASH, LORETTA LYNN, RICKY SKAGGS and other country-western stars left something of themselves in the wet concrete of the city's new StarWalk, including handprints, footprints and even false fingernails.

StarWalk, the country music equivalent to the Hollywood Walk of Fame, highlights 50 Grammy Award winners for country music.
 Many of the stars showed up Tuesday night for formal ceremonies inducting the performers into the StarWalk, a co-venture of Fountain Square entertainment district and the Nashville chapter of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences.
LYNN ANDERSON decorated her plaque with fake fingernails, makeup mirrors, cosmetic brushes, earrings and other personal items.

WYNONNA JUDD brought her dog, Loretta Lynn Judd, and pressed the fox terrier's paws into the wet concrete alongside her hands.
 Singer JEANNIE SEELEY sat right down in the concrete to leave a distinctive mark.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — LUCIANO PAVAROTTI'S concerts

here sold out within two hours, leaving many fans at the mercy of ticket scalpers.

Pavarotti's visit has created such a stir that scalpers holding tickets for his appearances Aug. 16-25 at the Teatro Colon opera house and Luna Park demand up to $250 for front-row seats, which were originally priced at $75.
 Some fans had waited in line two days for tickets to "La Boheme," which is on the program for Aug. 25.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — THE BEASTIE BOYS say they are preparing to sue the city for requiring "adult subject matter" warning labels on tickets for a Sunday concert here.

The three-man group's "Together Forever" tour, which began June 13 in Honolulu and ends in New York on Aug. 17, must print such warnings on tickets and concert advertisements only in Jacksonville, said Bill Adler, a spokesman for Rush Productions.

"It's just a warning, like a warning on a pack of cigarettes," City Council President Clarence Suggs said Wednesday night. He said city lawyers checked the law for constitutionality before it was approved.

The City Council in March enacted a law requiring warning labels for possibly objectionable events at city-owned buildings.

Tips to purchase the best produce

By MIDWEST LIVING
A Meredith Magazine

Take along more than a canvas bag to go thumping, sniffing and poking your way through farmers' markets.

Armed with these tips from Midwest Living magazine, almost anyone will bring home only the freshest, tastiest produce.

Instead of grabbing the first eye-catching zucchini, learn the tests for ripeness, tenderness and maturity.

Corn: Look for brown, dried silks and ears wrapped firmly in green husks. Then use the thumbnail test. If a milky fluid squirts out when a kernel is punctured, the corn is just right. (The fluid is clear, not milky, in new high-sugar varieties.)

Watermelon: Thump a melon and listen for a dull thud, rather than a ring, which indicates an immature melon. Other signs of ripeness: a dull-looking rind with a yellowish underside and a dark, crisp stem.

Cantaloupe: Look for a firm, tan melon with heavy netting on the rind and a sweet smell. Avoid melons with rough stem ends. On vine-ripened melons (the best kind), stems fall off during harvest.

Lettuce and cabbage: Choose solid, heavy heads, but not necessarily the biggest ones. Dark green lettuce is higher in vitamins than light-colored lettuce.

Squash: Summer squash (zucchini, crookneck and straightneck varieties) should be no more than 8 inches long, with a firm, glossy skin. Squash that's too ripe has big seeds, stringy flesh and may even be hollow.

Tomatoes: Buy tomatoes that aren't completely ripe, along with ripe ones to ensure a steady supply until the next excursion. Let tomatoes ripen on the kitchen counter out of direct sunlight. Refrigerate them as soon as they're ripe.

Get produce home as quickly as possible. Perishable vegetables don't tolerate hot cars, so make the farmers' market the last stop before home. Shop early in the day for the best choices and head for vendors whose produce is shaded. If the day is a scorcher, take along an ice chest.

Don't wash vegetables until serving time (unwashed produce keeps better).

Most, but not all, produce should be refrigerated in a crisper compartment or in plastic bags punched with a few air holes (husk corn before refrigerating it in a plastic bag).

Put potatoes in a cool, dark spot. Refrigeration turns them from starchy to sweet. Peaches and pears, like tomatoes, should be ripened at room temperature out of direct sun.

Before refrigerating cantaloupe, give it the fingernail test. If a fingernail easily pierces a melon seam, it's ripe. If the rind makes a crunching noise, leave the melon on the counter another day or two.

Cut a small plug in watermelon and peek inside. If the melon isn't red-ripe, replace the plug and leave the melon at room temperature for several days.

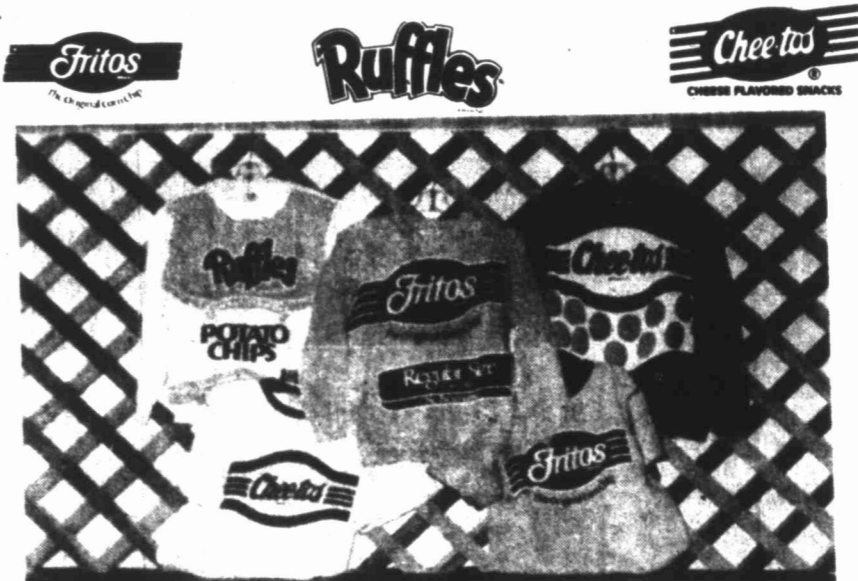

Don't be bashful about wanting to know varieties, either. Certain types of tomatoes and cucumbers, for example, are better for canning than others.

Find out when the produce was picked. Obviously, fresher is better, especially when it comes to peas and most varieties of sweet corn, which lose sweetness rapidly after harvest. Timing also is critical with pickling cucumbers. When buying cucumbers, follow the old rule: "24 hours from vine to brine."

Thursday Notes

Big Spring golfer shoots under age

Bud Pickett had a pretty good day last Thursday. The left-handed golfer, playing the Big Spring Country Club golf course as he does several times a week, birdied the difficult 15th hole and shot a 76.

That score is good for most anyone, but for Pickett it was remarkable. You see, Pickett is 80 years old.

"I shoot pretty close to 90 every time. If I get 90 I'm tickled," said a laughing Pickett, who was at a loss to explain his super day.

"I don't know, it was just one of those things. The next day I could hardly wait to get out there," he said, adding that he shot an 88 the next day.

Pickett was playing with George Grimes, Charles Sweeney and Lowell Jones.

Season tickets for the 1987 version of the Big Spring Steers go on sale soon for $12 per season book.

Those who had season tickets last year can buy tickets beginning Monday at the school business office. Those who did not have season tickets last year can buy them starting Aug. 17.

A related thought: When the band plays and the crowd cheers and the team runs on the field, many a former high school football player sitting in the stands wishes he was 17 years old again.

If you think you're going to feel that way, think about this: How would you like to put on all that heavy armor? Or, for that matter, practice twice a day in this brutal West Texas August heat? That's what the Steers start doing on Monday.

I, for one, don't envy them.

District 2-4A 100-yard butterfly champion Cade Loftin graduated in May, but he hasn't stopped swimming.

The former Steer has qualified to compete in the 1987 Junior Nationals beginning Aug. 14 in Mission Viejo, Calif. Loftin has been working out twice a day this summer with the City of Midland Swim Team and will swim the butterfly leg on its medley relay team at the nationals.

The team has been to meets in Dallas and Houston, and qualified at a meet in Lincoln, Neb. Loftin will attend Henderson State University in Arkadelphia, Ark. in the fall, and will be on the swim team.

The Fina Oilers finished third in the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation's state fast-pitch softball tournament last weekend in Fort Worth.

Coach Cotton Mize said the Oilers played seven games in 24 hours, and might have won the tournament if not for injuries to some key players. Both Mike Ritchie and Sam Wellborn were named all-state at the tourney.

The Oilers' next big tournament — the American Softball Associations regional tournament — will be in Stephenville Aug. 14-16.

The Big Spring Cardinals won their semi-pro baseball division last weekend by winning two double-headers, against Hobbs in Big Spring and then in Odessa against Odessa.

The Cardinals open the playoffs this weekend with a three-game series against the Hobbs Silver Bullets. The Cardinals are inviting baseball fans to watch their game in Big Spring Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at Roy Anderson Complex.

The Cardinals, who are 18-4, are dedicating their effort in the playoffs to Madalena and Felix Rubio, the deceased parents of the team's general manager, Frank Rubio.

A coach and several members of the Big Spring Sidewinders are in Woodward, Pa. attending a gymnastics training camp featuring some of the top U.S. gymnasts as teachers.

Sidewinders' coach Scott McDonald took state champion Lance Moore and teammates Donny Dennard and Debbie Dennard. Teachers at the camp include Olympic stars Tim Daggett, Dan and Dennis Hayden, and Brian Babcock.

The Seventh Annual ALSA Washer Tournament will be Aug. 22 at Howard County Park and offers some big-time prize money.

The entry fee is $50 per team. The first place team will receive $600 and two six-foot trophies; second place will receive $400 and two five-foot trophies; and third place will get $200 and two four-foot trophies.

Howard County Park is on 1000 NW Fourth St. Food and beverages will be sold. To register or get more information, call Larry at 263-5594; or Tudor at 267-4344.

The Big Spring Chicano Golf Club will host a Louisiana Draw Golf Tournament this Sunday.

Tee-off times for the members-only golf tournament will be between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. For more information, call Felix Martinez at 263-4559.

Coahoma bullrider Wacey Cathey was the 10th leading bullrider on the pro circuit as of July 28. Cathey has $28,429 in prize money so far.

Bad break

Without Sherrard, Cowboys must make changes

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Mike Sherrard's fractured right leg not only has put the gifted Dallas Cowboys' wide receiver out for the season, but forced Coach Tom Landry to rethink his entire passing game.

The Cowboys had planned to go deep to the fleet Sherrard this year after the 1986 first-round draft choice from UCLA averaged 18 yards per catch last season.

"We'd built our deep passing attack around him," Landry said. Sherrard went down during a pass scrimmage against the San Diego Chargers on Wednesday.

He tripped over cornerback Carl Brazley and when Sherrard fell his left leg crossed over his right leg, causing the fracture.

"I did it to myself," Sherrard said as he was being loaded into an ambulance for the ride to a hospital. "It was just a freaky thing."

The Cowboys are coming off a 7-9 season, including a 1-7 finish.

Landry said "We'll have to build our passing game around somebody else now but you really can't afford to lose your top player."

"We have players who can play so someone else will have to take charge."

Landry wasn't certain who would take Sherrard's place.

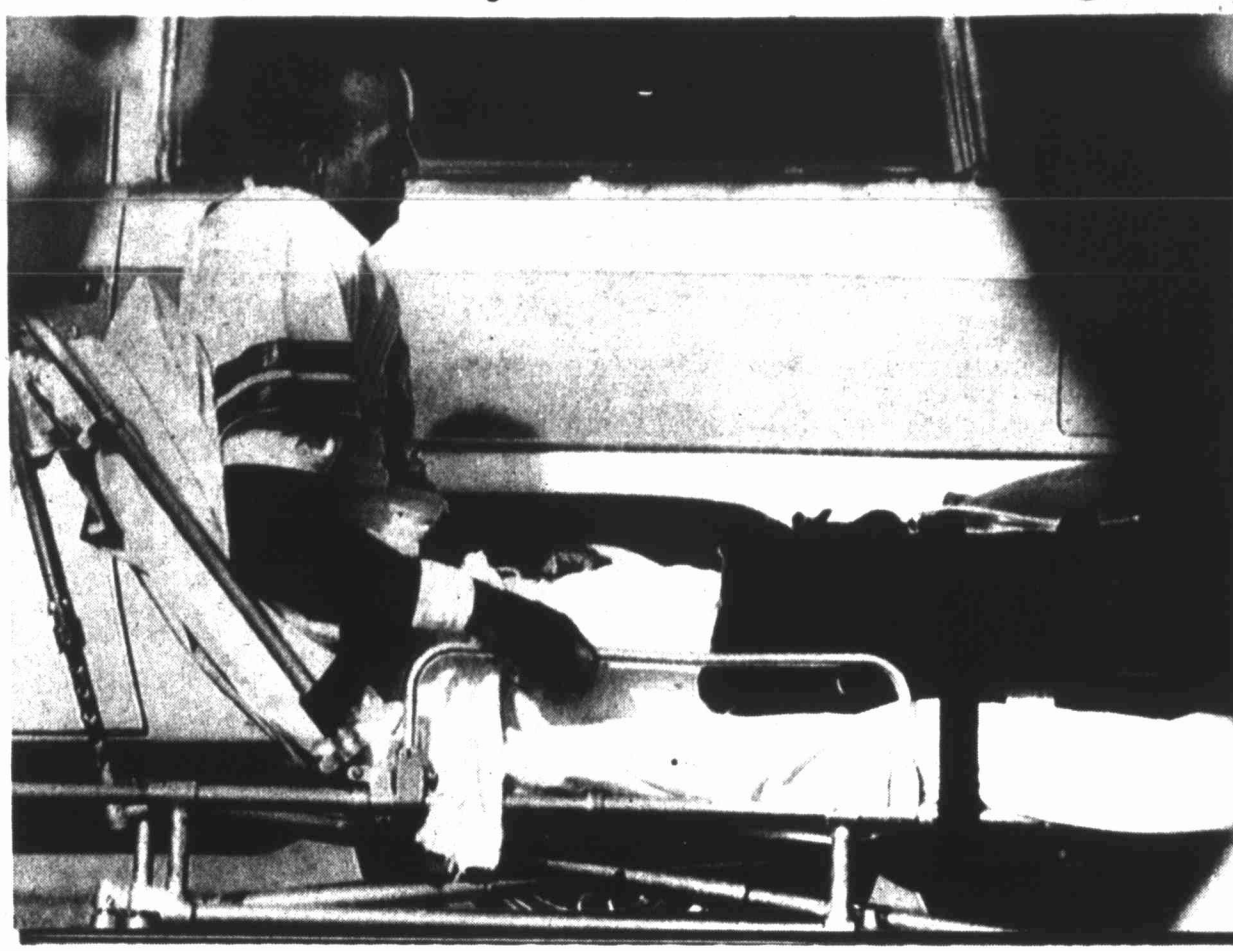

The wide receiver position has been plagued by injuries.

Newly acquired wide receiver Rod Barksdale pulled a hamstring muscle in the scrimmage against the Chargers.

On Tuesday, Ray Alexander broke his arm and last week rookie wide receiver Everett Gay severely sprained an ankle.

Club President Tex Schramm said "It was a very freaky, sad thing to happen. I doubt he (Sherrard) has a chance to play this season. We're not concerned about this season. We're concerned about his future."

"It's a tremendous loss. He was one of the cornerstones of our offense program. Everything was built around him. You hate to see it happen. For it to happen is a crime. Of all people..."

Sherrard's 41 pass receptions for 744 yards last year was the best performance by a Dallas rookie receiver since Bob Hayes caught 46 passes in 1965.

A walk-on at UCLA, Sherrard was the school's all-time leading receiver.

"Mike was going to be a big part of our offense this year," said tight end Doug Cosbie. "It's a little depressing. I really feel sorry for Mike. He had worked so hard."

"The whole thing about our team this year was to keep healthy. Now it looks like our whole passing game will have to be rethought."

Retired Dallas wide receiver Drew Pearson, who watched the incident from the sidelines, said "it's shocking. I had told him (Sherrard) earlier this week that if he avoided injury he was going to have an All-Pro season. This leaves a big void on the team."

Pearson added "Dallas really doesn't have another deep threat. Barksdale has great speed but he has a long ways to go. I don't see him helping by opening day."

The Cowboys obtained Barksdale Monday from the Los Angeles Raiders in a trade for cornerback Ron Fellers.

Holdouts, Payton top NFL camp news

By The Associated Press — Pro Bowl wide receiver Mike Quick tops the Philadelphia Eagles' AWOL list — the longest in the NFL.

camp Wednesday. In addition, Quick said he won't show up at the West Chester, Pa., training site until the Eagles honored a two-year-old letter promising to renegotiate in 1987.

"Based on the way they (the Eagles) have bargained in the past, this will be a long, long, long battle," Quick's agent Bruce Marks said.

Quick, a No. 1 draft choice in 1982, would earn $450,000 this season, including a $100,000 signing bonus. He wants to join the top-five paid receivers, led by James Lofton of the Los Angeles Raiders at $835,000 per season.

"I'm disappointed," said Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan, who said he would fine Quick up to $1,000 a day. "He's got a contract. He should honor it."

The coach said, however, the club should honor any promise of renegotiations.

"But they should have started in January," Ryan said.

Meanwhile, the Eagles announced the signing of four players, including defensive back William Frizzell and linebacker Jody Schultz.

The others were two draft choices — guard Dave Alexander, a first-round pick out of Tulsa, and defensive tackle-end Paul

Buffalo Bills first-round selection Shane Conlan, who has missed all of the team's training camp, said he expects to reach an agreement within a week.

"There's nothing new, but they are meeting tomorrow again and we'll get a better picture then," said Conlan. His agent, Brett Senior, a Philadelphia lawyer, is negotiating with Bills General Manager Bill Polian.

Conlan, the eighth overall choice in the April NFL draft, said the signing Tuesday of fourth overall pick Brent Fullwood by the Green Bay Packers "definitely helps" his chances of signing.

Non-Believers — Few of Walter Payton's Bears teammates believe the NFL's all-time rusher is going to retire at the end of the season.

"He's got a hundred years left," Chicago Bears linebacker Otis Wilson said.

"Everybody says this is Walter's last year. I doubt it," said defensive tackle William "The Refrigerator" Perry.

"Last year? That's what he said after the Super Bowl," said wide receiver Dennis McKinnon about the Bears' 1986 NFL championship.

Walking Wounded — Detroit backup quarterback Eric Hipple was eager to get back to practice, only 24 hours after undergoing surgery Tuesday on his right thumb.

"I think I can come back in three to five weeks," Hipple said. "I think the six-to-eight weeks diagnosis was a little preliminary."

Dr. David Collon, the Lions' team physician, had said Hipple's recovery would last at least until the team's regular-season opener in Minnesota on Sept. 13.

Golden Bear says PGA is up for grabs

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus says that no one has claimed more than one title in the last 18 major championships because there are so many good players on the PGA Tour.

"It's obvious that nobody has come forward and dominated," Nicklaus said Wednesday on the eve of the 69th PGA Championship.

"I bet we have a repeat this week, maybe," he said.

Nicklaus said that Spain's Seve Ballesteros and Australia's Greg Norman have had more opportunities than other players to break the string begun by Larry Nelson's 1983 U.S. Open victory.

"In my opinion they're the two best players playing," Nicklaus said of Norman and Ballesteros. But he's not sure either of the two foreign stars ranks as a favorite this week.

"I don't know if Seve can back himself up on this course enough or not," Nicklaus said. "I don't know whether Greg can either. It's not a golf course that favors the guy who can hit long. It favors one who can keep the ball in play."

The championship will be contested on the 7,002-yard PGA National Golf Club course where the rough is extremely difficult.

"If you get in the rough inside the ropes, you might as well take a half-stroke penalty," Nicklaus said.

The only option is to knock it out on the fairway, he said.

The greens also will be difficult because of a pythium blight — a turf fungus — that hit about a month ago.

Nicklaus, who resides in south Florida, said even with the fungus problem, the greens "are probably a lot better than most in south Florida at this time of the year."

Nicklaus was asked who he favored, and after saying he hadn't thought about it, asked, "Who's playing?"

He started reeling off the names of such straight hitters as Tom Kite, British Open champion Nick Faldo and PGA Tour money leader Paul Azinger.

He then mentioned Hale Irwin and, after being advised that Irwin wasn't entered, Nicklaus said, "He was my favorite."

Hoping to avoid any problems with the afternoon thundershowers that normally spring up in south Florida in August, PGA officials scheduled threesomes to start on the first and 10th tees for the first two rounds.

The first threesomes in the field of 150 faced a 7:30 a.m. EDT starting time.

Among the more interesting groupings were those that had Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Tom Watson in one and the winners of the season's three earlier majors in another — Masters champion Larry Mize, U.S. Open winner Scott Simpson and Faldo, the British Open winner.

If Nicklaus' prediction that one of the last 18 major winners would win this week, his list of favorites would also have to include himself, Norman, Ballesteros and Watson, but not Scotland's Sandy Lyle.

Yanks avoid sweep; Rangers erase deficit

By BILL BARNARD

Youth was served when 48-year-old Phil Niekro made his 712th major-league start and 23-year-old Brad Arnsberg his second.

Arnsberg, despite giving up four walks and seven hits in six innings, didn't allow a run as he won his first major-league game and the New York Yankees avoided a series sweep by Cleveland with a 5-2 victory Wednesday night.

Mike Pagliarulo led the Yankees with two homers off Niekro, but he said neither came off the veteran's fabled knuckleball.

"The pitches I didn't hit were knuckleballs, and they were the nastiest pitches I've ever seen," said Pagliarulo, who now has 23 homers. "The ones I hit out of the ballpark weren't knuckleballs. They were sinkers, screwballs or whatever. The knuckleballs were floating, rolling backward, doing everything. I was just trying to get my bat on the ball."

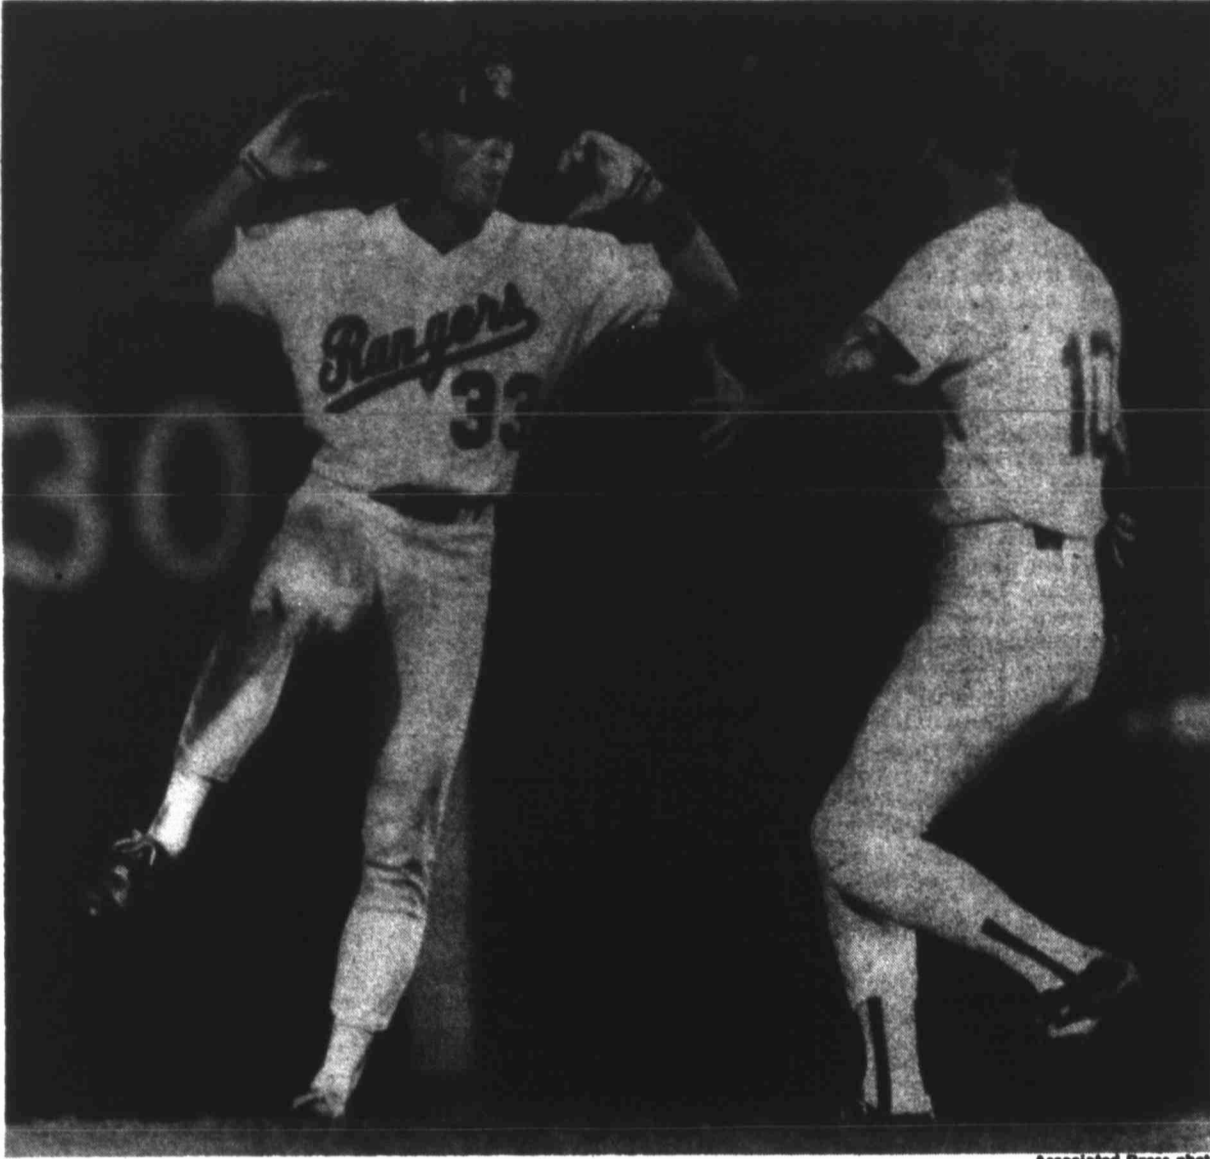

The victory kept the Yankees, who lost the first two games of the series 2-0 and 15-3, a half-game ahead of Toronto in the American League East.

Rangers 9, Red Sox 8

Texas rallied from an 8-3 deficit against Boston as Bob Brower singled off the right field wall with the bases loaded in the ninth. Brower and Ruben Sierra hit two-run homers earlier.

The Rangers tied the game 8-8 in the ninth when reliever Joe Sambito, 1-4, walked Scott Fletcher and Sierra hit his 20th homer of the season. Sambito then walked Pete O'Brien and was relieved by Calvin Schiraldi, who walked pinch-hitter Larry Parrish.

After Mike Stanley sacrificed the runners to second and third, Schiraldi walked Steve Buechele intentionally. After striking out Pete Incaviglia for the second out, Schiraldi gave up the game-winning hit to Brower.

Texas Rangers' left-fielder Bob Brower and first base coach Art Howe celebrate Brower's ninth-inning RBI single that beat the Boston Red Sox 9-8 Wednesday night in Arlington.

Texas started its rally in the bottom of the seventh with an RBI single by O'Brien, making it 8-4. Brower hit his two-run homer off Sambito in the eighth.

Wade Boggs hit his 19th homer for the Red Sox, who scored three runs in the sixth inning on no hits and six walks.

Blue Jays 3, White Sox 2

Toronto kept pace with the Yankees thanks to a ninth-inning rally against Chicago, climaxed by Ernie Whitt's two-run double with two outs.

Jimmy Key, 13-6, was the winner with eight innings of eight-hit pitching.

Angels 6, Twins 1

California tightened the AL West race when John Candelaria held

Minnesota to two hits and no walks in six innings.

Candelaria, who spent 46 days on the disabled list after two arrests for drunken driving, was making his first start since June 16. He faced the minimum number of batters thanks to two double plays.

The Angels trail Minnesota and Oakland by one-half game, with the Athletics leading the Twins by .0005.

Candelaria's duel with right-hander Bert Blyleven, 10-9, was broken open in the fifth inning when Bill Buckner's three-run homer, his first since May 31 and only his third of the season, gave the Angels a 6-0 lead.

Athletics 3, Mariners 1

Oakland took a slim hold on first place as Jose Rijo and Gene Nelson combined on a five-hitter and Jose Canseco hit his 23rd homer.

Rijo, 2-5, called up from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League just before the game to replace the injured Joaquin Andujar, allowed five hits in 5 2-3 innings for the victory.

Tigers 4, Royals 2

Pat Sheridan, Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell homered and Walt Terrell improved his record at Tiger Stadium to 27-7 with his fifth complete game as Detroit handed Bret Saberhagen his fourth straight loss.

The Tigers ended a three-game losing streak and halted the Royals' four-game winning streak as Saberhagen, 15-7, lost to Detroit for only the third time in 13 lifetime decisions.

Brewers 5, Orioles 1

Milwaukee beat Baltimore for the eighth consecutive time this season as Steve Kiefer hit his second homer in as many nights and Ted Higuera pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10.

Higuera, 11-8, who struck out five straight in the seventh and eighth innings, is now 6-1 in his last eight starts.

Niekro gets 10 days for scuffing ball

NEW YORK (AP) — Minnesota Twins pitcher Joe Niekro maintains he is innocent, but says he may not appeal his 10-day suspension for scuffing baseballs because of other factors.

American League President Dr. Bobby Brown suspended Niekro on Wednesday. On Monday night, Niekro was ejected from a game against California after umpires discovered he had an emery board and sandpaper in his back pocket. The umpiring crew sent five allegedly scuffed balls from the game to the league office for examination.

"I don't have to scuff a knuckleball and I threw mainly knuckleballs," Niekro said.

The league said Niekro had informed it through the Twins that he would appeal the suspension, which would be held in abeyance pending a hearing yet to be scheduled. But after California's 6-1 victory over Minnesota on Wednesday, Niekro said he may not follow through with an appeal if a hearing date might serve to jeopardize his playoff eligibility.

The 42-year-old Niekro, the first player to be suspended for doctoring baseballs since Gaylord Perry was suspended for 10 days in 1982, is scheduled to pitch Friday night against the Athletics at Minneapolis.

Niekro said he uses sandpaper and emery, as do most knuckleballers, to manicure his fingers.

"If I've been illegal, I've been illegal for 15 years," Niekro said.

"I'll be honest with you, I always carry two things out there with me, an emery board and a small piece of sandpaper. I've done that ever since I started throwing the knuckleball. Being a knuckleball pitcher, I sometimes have to file my nails between innings, so I carry an emery board with me to the mound."

But umpires Dave Phillips, Tim Tschida and Steve Palermo said the evidence warranted an ejection.

"It was too easy, just too easy. The guy was so blatant," Palermo said. "It was like Prohibition, if a guy had been walking down the street carrying a bottle of booze."

Phillips said the sandpaper taken from Niekro was "contoured to fit a finger. I'm sure he had it stuck to a finger on his glove hand. When we examined the sandpaper, there was a fingerprint on the back side."

"The cuts on the baseball were sharp and with depth. I don't think an emery board could have done that."

Tschida said scuffed balls "just kept coming up during routine inspections. We weren't looking to find anything. In fact, after we got to four (balls) I was hoping I wouldn't see another one."

Niekro said the incident has brought him some unusual attention.

"I also signed my first two emery boards the other night," Niekro said. "We got back to the hotel and a guy was waiting in the lobby. He told me he'd driven 70 or 100 miles, something like that, and asked if I'd sign these two emery boards. So I said OK."

Two close calls help keep NL races interesting

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

A couple of close calls in Montreal and Houston helped keep both National League races close.

The Montreal Expos escaped a bases-loaded jam in the 11th inning Wednesday night and Andres Galarraga's home run in the 13th provided a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"It was a very important win for us because we took two out of three in a big series," Galarraga said. Galarraga, who had four hits, tied the game in the ninth with Montreal's third straight single after two outs.

St. Louis' lead in the NL East was trimmed to 4½ games over New York, which took advantage by routing Philadelphia 13-3, and five over Montreal. The defending World Series champion Mets have not been this close to first place since May 15.

The Houston Astros, aided by a disputed call in the ninth inning, beat San Francisco 6-5 in the 11th on Denny Walling's pinch-single.

Houston remained 3½ games behind NL West-leading Cincinnati, a 6-3 winner over Los Angeles. San Francisco fell five games back.

The Giants led 5-3 with two outs

Houston Astros' catcher Robbie Wine tags out San Francisco Giant Eddie Milner at home in 11th inning action Wednesday in Houston. The Astros went on to score in the bottom half of the inning to win 6-5.

in the ninth and no one on base. But the Astros loaded the bases and Kevin Bass then hit a sinking line drive that right fielder Chili Davis dived for, and first-base umpire Dutch Rennert ruled Davis trapped the ball. Two runs scored on the play, although pinch-runner Terry Puhl was thrown out at the plate.

Giants Manager Roger Craig argued the call and replays appeared to indicate Davis made the catch.

"It was right in the pocket. It never hit the turf," Davis said. "He blew the call."

The Astros succeeded in extra innings when Walling's pinch-single beat San Francisco. Gerald Young led off the 11th with a double, took third on Billy Hatcher's sacrifice and, after Bill Doran was intentionally walked, Walling batted for pitcher Larry Andersen and grounded a single to right field.

Houston swept the three-game series. Eddie Milner went 5-for-6 with three doubles for the Giants.

Hatcher and Doran singled with two outs in the ninth against Craig Lefferts and Alan Ashby drew a walk from Scott Garrelts to load the bases for Bass.

Mets 13, Phillies 3

Gary Carter hit a pair of solo homers and two-run double and Darryl Strawberry hit a three-run homer as New York beat Philadelphia for its fifth straight victory.

Reds 6, Dodgers 3

Barry Larkin's two-run single capped a four-run sixth inning as Cincinnati again beat Fernando Valenzuela and Los Angeles.

Dave Concepcion and Dave Collins hit run-scoring infield singles to break 2-2 tie in the sixth against Valenzuela, 9-9. Valenzuela has lost seven of his last 10 decisions against the Reds and has not won at Riverfront Stadium since June 13, 1983.

Padres 7, Braves 3

Rich Gossage moved into a tie for second place on the all-time save list and Stan Jefferson's three-run homer capped a five-run second inning as San Diego won at Atlanta.

Jones, 4-4, got the victory. Gossage went the final 1 1-3 innings for his eighth save and 286th of his career, tying Bruce Sutter. Rollie Fingers holds the record with 341.

Dale Murphy got his 1,500th career hit for the Braves.

Pirates 10, Cubs 0

Brian Fisher pitched a six-hitter for his second shutout this season against Chicago as Mike Diaz's two-run triple led Pittsburgh.

surgery in the off-season, was limited in his throwing by a sore arm at the Bears camp.

But he and backups Jim Harbaugh, Mike Tomczak and Doug Flutie all took part in drills on the fifth day of practice at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville.

The Bears' fifth quarterback, Steve Fuller, has been sidelined a week with a shoulder injury. He plans to see a doctor today in Cleveland.

McMahon, recovering from shoulder surgery Dec. 12, complained about a sore arm Tuesday, but Coach Mike Ditka said the problem "has to do with not throwing the ball all that much ... it had nothing to do with shoulder."

Oilers 3, Seahawks 2

Rookie quarterback Cody Carlson threw two long touchdown passes for the Houston Oilers in a scrimmage against Seattle, outscoring the Seahawks three touchdowns to two.

Carlson, a third-round draft choice from Baylor, passed 40 yards to rookie wide receiver Curtis Duncan and 47 yards to Ernest Givins for scores. Chuck Banks, a second-year fullback, gave Houston its third touchdown on a 5-yard run.

Rookie quarterback Sammy Garza passed for both of Seattle's touchdowns.

Bumps and Bruises

Injuries and illness hit the Green Bay Packers hard.

Running back Gary Ellerson suffered a sprained knee and could be out 10 days. Meanwhile, offensive tackle Ken Ruettggers was sidelined with mononucleosis, tight end Fred Cornwell broke a bone in his right foot, and tight end Mark Lewis left practice with a sore heel.

Washington Redskins free agent tight end Albert Reese will have to undergo rehabilitative treatment for a knee injury and will be out of action for at least 12 weeks.

Reese, a 6-foot-4, 245-pound rookie from Southern Methodist, has a problem with the posterior cruciate in his left knee. The problem was discovered during an arthroscopic examination Tuesday.

Signings

George Martin has agreed to contract terms and will return for a 13th season with the New York Giants.

Martin, 34, had missed the first five days of training camp while his contract was being negotiated and he also missed the morning practice session on Wednesday. The afternoon session was called off because of heavy rain.

Veteran running back Butch Woolfolk decided to sign with the Cleveland Browns, turning down a reportedly higher offer from the Detroit Lions.

Holdouts

Quarterback Kelly Stouffer's agent has rejected the St. Louis Cardinals' latest offer — $1.78 million for four years, plus incentives — which would have made Stouffer, of Colorado State, the highest-paid rookie in the club's history.

Tom Braatz, Green Bay's vice president of football operations, said he hoped to have a reply today for a contract offer submitted by the agent for holdout quarterback Randy Wright.

Wright, last season's starter, and the Packers are still about $75,000 apart on terms.

Bond, James Bond

Will Dalton satisfy finicky Bond fans?

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Just as Texas football fans worried when Darrell Royal left Texas, James Bond fans worried when Roger Moore left James Bond. Granted, Bond fans may not have been as endeared to Moore as Texas fans were to Royal, but still there was cause for concern. The guard was changing, and not much was known about the new man.

As most know, Roger Moore has stopped playing James Bond. Englishman Timothy Dalton has taken his place, and stars in the latest box office smash, "The Living Daylights."

For most Bond watchers, however, Sean Connery was and always will be the perfect Bond. He defined James Bond, even more so than Ian Fleming, who created the character in his books.

James Bond, as Connery showed us, has certain characteristics the rest of us just dream about.

He defies death at least once a day, and it never worries him. Beautiful women act like he's the only man in the room. He comes to work only when he feels like it, but always gets the best assignments.

Most importantly, he stays cool. James Bond grins when he hears death threats.

Sean Connery did all those things.

When he quit, George — "I'm the Answer to a Trivia Question" — Lazenby replaced him in "On Her Majesty's Secret Service."

I'm sure Dalton was aware of Lazenby's fate. The public didn't think Lazenby was much of a James Bond, so he wasn't ever James Bond again.

Roger Moore was next, and lasted until he'd had enough.

I'll grant that Moore's Bond wasn't as good as Connery's, but he grew on you.

His Bond occasionally got flustered, and you could see the sweat, but he was a Bond with a sense of humor. He had an engaging way with the audience, as if he was winking at them. Two of the best Bond movies — "Live and Let Die" and "The Man with the Golden Gun" — starred Moore.

The news of his departure wasn't altogether saddening. His age was beginning to show in his last effort, "A View to a Kill."

We've known since "A View" that Moore was finished. Rumors persisted that Pierce Brosnan of "Remington Steele" would replace Moore and, frankly, I was concerned.

James Bond is a movie star of the highest order. Pierce Brosnan is only a television star, and not of the highest order. "Remington Steele" and James Bond are both better off now that he's not Bond.

The $64 million question, then, is: "How good is Timothy Dalton?"

It depends.

It depends on what you want from your James Bond. Dalton's Bond, at least on the first try, lacks in one important aspect — he's not funny. In fact, he's not even particularly cool.

During the big chase scene in "The Living Daylights," Dalton looked concerned. Granted, he had an army of Russians hot on his tail, but that wouldn't have bothered Connery or Moore. Those old pros just laughed and said, "Watch this."

Also, this Bond isn't the charmer of the other two. Surprisingly, he actually seems a little shy.

Much has been made of the fact that he's a one-woman man in this movie. Connery and Moore averaged one woman per 15 minutes. I guess the age of AIDS has him worried.

Despite the lack of a humorous touch, I can't give Dalton entirely bad marks. The reason, I guess, is because the movie is so enjoyable.

The chase scenes and special effects are excellent, and the bad guys are sufficiently nasty.

And Dalton has one good quality — he's a good guy. He's not particularly charming or funny, nor is he fearless. But he is a good guy, and it's only natural to root for the good guy.

"The Living Daylights" opened this past weekend as the top money-making movie in the country. In three days it made more money than any of the previous 16 Bond movies.

With such figures, Dalton almost certainly will be back.

I'm convinced that somewhere there's a better Bond, but Dalton will do.

Mini-review

It's rare when an American director achieves such acclaim that his movies are announced with his name in the front of it. Mostly just foreign directors achieve that status. Alfred Hitchcock was one.

Another is Stanley Kubrick, as in Kubrick's "Full-Metal Jacket."

He directed the masterpiece "Dr. Strangelove," among others, but he hasn't made a movie since "The Shining."

I didn't think "Full-Metal Jacket" was a masterpiece, but it was very good. It's a Vietnam movie, so inevitably it will be compared to "Platoon." I thought they were completely different, and have no opinion on which is the better.

"Full-Metal Jacket" essentially is two movies: A boot-camp movie and a combat movie. Only two characters from the first are in the second.

The movie is worth seeing, if only for one reason — the performance of Lee Ermey as the drill sergeant.

Ermey is foul-mouthed almost beyond belief and as hard as steel.

He's crude, but it's hard not to watch his performance with wonder. If bad language offends you, however, don't see it.

Otherwise, don't miss it.

"The Living Daylights" is showing this week at The Ritz. "Full-Metal Jacket" is showing at the College Park Cinema.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day yields an opportunity to garner valuable advice. Later in the day, however, your judgment may not be very good, so try to avoid decisions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some novel way of utilizing one of your talents should be taken advantage of early today. Take no risks this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A family friend has good home safety ideas, so listen. An outsider may give you bad advice, but good suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) This evening is not a good time to take on any challenges. Stay at home and make plans for your weekend.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) After a good day at work, forget about that outside affair which could be difficult. Try to relax.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Support the argument of a co-worker who is in the right. That new contact made today will pop up later in the week.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't follow that hunch which keeps pecking away at you. Don't let an unusual situation embarrass you tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Avoid the public this evening. Be sure to conscientiously keep any promises you have made, recently or past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your fine performance on a present project will bring you assistance from an admirer. Take care of your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Abandon a new idea which you suspect will bring you nothing but trouble — you're absolutely right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't invite guests over tonight after such a busy day. Take it easy and get to bed early, you really need the rest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show that you are dependable by following through on an agreement you've made and benefit greatly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your capabilities can be quite impressive, if you use them. Steer far clear of jealous and scheming persons.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very productive from an early age, but upon reaching middle age, will want to take risks, travel to foreign places, etc., which will not be at all profitable. Teach your progeny to finish a project once it's begun.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

SHOP-O-THE-WEEK

New Horizons Health Club

New Horizons Health Club, opening this week at College Park Shopping Center, offers women a triple shot at health and fitness: passive exercise system, active work-out equipment and tanning beds. There's a 30% savings on all three through Saturday, August 8, as a grand opening special.

Mainstay of the club's program is the passive exercise concept by Precision Body Shapers Systems, Inc. Utilizing seven motorized exercise tables, designed for different areas of the body, the program tones and shapes the body while helping to lose inches.

The system is ideal for all ages — teens to seniors — and even for those with certain health problems.

Active work-out buffs will love the rollers, treadmills, bicycles, rowing machines, belts and Gympacs.

The patented tanning bed produces an even all-over tan — you can have results in three sessions.

Nights for male patrons may be added soon.

New Horizons is open from 8 a.m.-8 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m.-noon Saturday. This is a beautiful, custom-designed facility with relaxed, social atmosphere. For a complimentary session, call 263-8454.
