Pair believed seen; onions, truck returned

Herald staff report
Two people reported missing Aug. 5 may have been seen in Coahoma, according to the Howard County Sheriff's Office. Thomas Stephen Blake of Alamogordo, N.M. and his female companion, known only as Jennifer, were reported missing after a tractor-trailer truck was reported to be parked with its motor running at the 190-mile mark of Interstate 20 near Coahoma for two to three days.

The truck and its load of onions were returned to an El Paso company for which Blake was working, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

Papers in the vehicle indicated Blake had been driving the vehicle.

He said someone reported seeing two people fitting the descriptions of Blake and Jennifer at the Coahoma Town & Country convenience store last week.

The two were in a vehicle with New Mexico license plates, according to Standard.

Law enforcement officials are continuing to investigate the incident, and foul play has not been ruled out, he said.

A helicopter search of the area last week didn't reveal any additional information, and officials are attempting to contact friends of the pair, Standard said.

Blake is described as 6 feet 3 inches, blond, and 39 years old. Jennifer is described as 5 feet 4 inches with shoulder length blond, kinky hair, a ruddy complexion and wearing a lot of mascara.

County plans hazardous waste group

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

County officials this morning discussed establishing an emergency planning committee to develop and review hazardous waste procedures.

Howard County commissioners also heard a report on the effective tax rate and a report on the 911 emergency phone system.

The hazardous waste committee is required by Aug. 17 as the result of the 1986 Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act.

A portion of the Act affecting state and local governments was enacted in response to the 1984 Bhopal, India Union Carbide chemical disaster that killed hundreds of people.

The disaster showed that highly toxic substances pose special response problems to communities, according to information provided by Robert A. Lansford, state coordinator of the Division of Emergency Management.

The division is part of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Jimmie Wood, safety supervisor for the local Fina Oil & Chemical Co. refinery, told commissioners industries have been mandated to assist in local emergency planning and must provide a list of company officials available around the clock to the emergency committee, the fire department and the state emergency commission.

Wood described the local committee as "planning to avoid emergency incidents or to handle them when they occur."

He said Fina Oil is required to provide chemical information to the local committee.

Although Congress has imposed state and local emergency requirements, no funds have been appropriated, according to Lansford.

Fire Chief Carl Dorton said the city already has a community awareness and emergency response committee and its role could be expanded to meet requirements of the new law.

At presstime commissioners hadn't taken any action on the item, but had discussed conducting a separate meeting before Aug. 17 to form a committee.

Judge Milton Kirby said he expected various agencies to be represented on the committee including the county health department, the city fire department, local hospitals and Fina Oil Co.

Tax Assessor/Collector Dorothy Moore said she would present commissioners with a preliminary effective tax rate.

Moore said she has calculated the rate to be .304298 cents per $100 HAZARDOUS page 2A

New students can register here this week

Herald staff report

Students new to the Big Spring school district can register for 1987-88 classes today through Thursday, according to Assistant Superintendent for Personnel and Instruction Murray Murphy.

Grades six and seven students may register at Goliad Middle School, Goliad and E. 20th Sts.; Grade eight at Runnels Junior High School, 200 E. 10th St.; and grades nine through 12 at Big Spring High School, Eleventh Place, Murphy said.

Registration will be from 9 a.m. to noon, and from 1 to 4 p.m. the four days, he added.

Murphy noted that if any new students miss registration on those dates, they may register Aug. 17-21 at the same times.

Registration for kindergarten will be at the Anderson Kindergarten Center, Airport Road, Aug. 19 and 20, from 9 a.m. until noon, he said. Parents are asked to bring birth certificates and immunization records. Income verification will be needed for full-day students, Murphy added.

Murphy added that an open house for kindergarten students and parents will be held August 27, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Grades one through five will register at their school of attendance Aug. 20 and 21, from 8 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 3 p.m., he said.

Registration for the Head Start Program will be at Lakeview School, 1107 N.W. Seventh St., August 24-28, from 9 to 11:30 a.m., and 1 to 3:30 p.m., Murphy said, adding that children new to the program must bring a birth certificate, shot record, and verification of income.

Murphy said parents who have any questions about the Head Start Program may call 267-7452 for further information.

The remaining classes will receive their schedules and conduct orientation at the following times:

- Sixth Grade — Aug. 31 at 9 a.m., at the Goliad flagpole area.
- Seventh Grade — 10 a.m., Aug. 31, Goliad flagpole area.
- Eighth Grade — 9:30 a.m., Aug. 31, Runnels gym.
- Ninth Grade — Orientation at High School auditorium, 2 to 4 p.m., Aug. 28.
- 10th Grade — 3 p.m., Aug. 31, High School office.
- 11th Grade — 10:30 a.m. to noon, Aug. 31, High School office.
- 12th Grade — 9 to 10:30 a.m., Aug. 31, High School office.

'I think that I shall never see ...'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Eloy Centeno got mad first and then he tried to get even.

Centeno, a civic leader, said it was sort of an "eye-for-an-eye" or a tree-for-a-tree deal after the city cut down two of his tall huisache trees.

Centeno, former chairman of San Antonio City Public Service, told the San Antonio Light that he sent a man to City Hall Sunday to saw away at two trees planted there.

Police intervened in the tree revenge plot, but not before Juan Antonio Morales, a Centeno employee, had sawed off a large oak limb.

Morales, 42, was arrested and charged with criminal mischief after the incident

Sunday. He was sent to Bexar County Jail in lieu of a $2,600 bond, but Centeno said he bailed him out late Sunday.

Police said the man was using a gas-powered chain saw to cut a large tree limb on an oak tree at City Hall.

The value of the limb was estimated at $350, police said.

Morales told police he was following Centeno's orders and Centeno said Morales was doing the job he gave him.

"My trees were planted by my father," said Centeno, owner of Centeno Super Market Inc. "They were beautiful trees, many years old."

"But they sent a city crew over and they butchered the hell out of them," Centeno said. "They were such beautiful trees."

He said a city work crew of six men in two trucks stopped Friday in front of his Centeno Super Market offices and hacked away at his trees without his permission.

"I talked to the guy who sent these guys," Centeno said. "The reason made me so mad. They said their trucks go by and get scratched up."

He said that if they would have told him before they had cut at the trees, he would have done something about it.

"I don't believe the city has the right to chop up a tree without anyone's permission," he said.

"I believe in an eye for an eye," he said. "Even though this might cost me."

Fires, bomb Police investigating incidents

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Authorities are looking for someone who threw a homemade fire bomb through a bedroom window early Sunday morning.

Firefighters also responded to three car blazes last weekend.

No one was injured by the bomb or resulting fire at 3229 Auburn St., the home of Ella Faye Edens, at 3:45 a.m. Sunday, according to police and fire department reports.

Edens was watching television in the livingroom when she heard a noise, looked down the hall and saw the fire, said Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles.

Someone had broken the bedroom window and thrown in the bomb, he said, adding that the room's occupants were out of town at the time.

Edens tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the flames with a blanket, then effectively used a garden hose, Settles said.

He said the bomb was a Molotov cocktail, usually a glass container filled with gasoline with a lit rag hanging from the opening. The bomb is being sent for laboratory tests, he said.

Authorities have no suspects in the case, and the investigation continues, Settles said. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

No injuries were reported in three separate car fires Saturday and Sunday, fire department reports state.

The first incident occurred at 605 E. 13th St. at 2:08 p.m. Saturday. The left front tire was ablaze on a 1973 Oldsmobile Cutlass owned by Steven Bullock of that address.

Settles said the fire's cause is unknown. Damage was listed at $500.

A Buick Riviera owned by Mary Ann Marquez, 4116 Dixon St., caught fire when it backfired at South Highway 87 and Driver Road at 7:25 a.m. Sunday, the reports said.

Marquez saw the blaze when the backfire stopped her engine, she told firefighters.

Firefighters arrived to find the car fully engulfed in flames, the report said.

Damage was estimated at $7,000. In a third incident, a 1982 Chevrolet pickup owned by Derle Harbuck, 1501A Lincoln St., caught fire at 6 p.m. Sunday on Interstate 20 just west of Highway 87.

The truck was heavily involved in fire when firefighters arrived, the reports state. Damage was listed at $5,000.

Enjoying a laugh

Dorothy Hayman from Albany laughs while talking to Big Spring resident Margie Fickling during the Old Settler's Reunion at the Howard County Fairbarns Friday afternoon. The 63rd annual event was dedicated to the memory of Dwight McCann, who died Thursday. The longtime supporter of the community event served as Reunion president for 12 years.

Generous Texans are still giving — just not as much

HOUSTON (AP) — Texans who contributed to political campaigns in the past may not be able to give as much now because of the hard economic times, but they are still giving.

Republican and Democratic presidential hopefuls received $2.3 million from Texans during the first six months of the year, according to Federal Election Commission records. That amount was about 7 percent of contributions nationwide.

According to figures compiled by The Houston Post from reports filed by candidates with the FEC in Washington, about half of the money came from the Houston area.

"Houston used to be mecca for fund-raising," said Jim Edmonds, a fundraiser and head of the Greater Houston Association Political Action Committee.

"It's not that anymore, but there's still an awful lot of money being raised in Houston and around the state."

Nathan Landow, a leading figure on the Democratic National Committee, said,

"Some of the $1,000 hitters in Houston may now be $500 hitters, but the interest in giving is still there."

The bulk of the Houston dollars has gone to hometown presidential hopeful George Bush. The vice president has collected about $1.7 million from Texas, close to 20 percent of his total campaign receipts of $9.37 million.

"Times are tough, obviously," said Margaret Alexander, a Bush supporter. "But people have been willing to dig deep in their pockets for Bush. They have been willing to make a sacrifice to contribute."

More Saragosa homes are planned

SARAGOSA (AP) — In the continuing efforts to rebuild the town ravaged by a tornado in May, the Texas Baptist Men expect about 400 carpenters, electricians, plumbers and others to build more houses to complement one recently completed that stands alone on the flat land.

Led by a Waco builder, the volunteers will build one-, two- and three-bedroom houses with designs similar to the yellow boxlike house that was the first to be completed with donated material and volunteer labor.

That dwelling will be inhabited by Sofia Gomez, her daughter and granddaughter. "I'm so content and grateful," Mrs. Gomez said while sitting on a stack of carpet padding, as her two new ceiling fans stirred the cool stream from a wall air conditioner. "We lost everything, everything... but this is beautiful."

The three-bedroom house was built with lumber and other materials donated by businesses in Waco. L.M. Dyson Jr., a builder and a Baylor University professor of real estate, led volunteers from three Baptist churches in Waco. Because he teaches summer school, a plane provided by a Waco company takes him to Saragosa on Friday afternoons and flies him home Monday afternoons.

"I loved doing this. That's why I'm coming back to build more," Dyson said as he inspected joints in the house.

Like many of her neighbors, Mrs. Gomez is buying furniture, a refrigerator and stove with a grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency. She said she received $4,000.

"What makes me sad is that our neighbors won't be around us for awhile. We'll be all alone," she said.

The May 22 tornado that killed 31 people wiped out about 60 houses, but the volunteers say they can replace most of those using donated materials.

Tooth controversial in limestone finding

GLEN ROSE (AP) — A new controversy has opened concerning findings in the layers of limestone along the Paluxy River.

Creationists seeking to prove that men coexisted with dinosaurs say they have found a human tooth among fossilized tracks of the giant reptiles.

Scientists say they doubt the tooth is human, but the Rev. Carl Baugh, a Baptist minister from Dublin, asserts that "implications of this discovery are far-reaching."

"Being found in scientific context with dinosaur tracks, it essentially disrupts the evolutionary geologic column and reconstructs our concepts of life origins in favor of creationism," Baugh said.

Tracks said to be human first found in the area in the 1920s have been used to substantiate the theory that man and dinosaurs roamed the earth together before the great flood, described in the Bible.

Glen Rose is located on Highway 67 between Stephenville and Cleburne in Hood County.

A study by two scientists, however, challenged the human track theory, saying the imprints were actually made by dinosaurs walking with an unusual gait.

Ronnie J. Hastings, chairman of the science department at Waxahachie High School, and Glen Kuban, a computer programmer and amateur paleontologist from Cleveland, said they discredited Baugh's findings.

In response, John Morris, a leading creationist, admitted that some of the prints were mistakenly identified as human.

Baugh did not concede defeat. He took his latest find, made in June, to a lab associated with the University of Texas at Austin.

"I took the tooth along with other teeth to the laboratory for identification, and basically they were stumped about what the tooth was, and they could not rule out that it could be human," he said.

Melissa Winans, collection manager and research associate at the laboratory, said the tooth is probably that of a Mesozoic bony fish related to modern gars and bowfins.

Hastings praised Baugh for taking the tooth to a lab.

"Rarely does Baugh behave so scientifically that this action alone is to his credit. This case will take a lot of investigating to see if it actually is a human tooth."

Baugh said his find is a distinctive component of the creation theory.

Rick Wescott, Dallas, left, Rev. Carl Baugh, Dublin, center and Jim Crow, Brownwood, search the site where a possible human tooth, believed to be from the dinosaur era, was discovered in Glen Rose. Creationists are seeking to prove that men coexisted with dinosaurs.

C-City school board to meet

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado Independent School District Board of Trustees will consider adoption of the budget and tax rate for the 1987-88 school year at its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the administrative curriculum center board room, 534 E. 11th St., according to superintendent Charlie Uselton.

The Board also will consider adoption of the effective tax rate, the taxing or exempting of boats and certification of anticipated collection rates, Uselton said.

In other business, the Board will:

- Open bids for gasoline, bread, milk and novelties.
- Consider resignations and appointments.
- Consider employment of an auditor.
- Examine school board policies.
- Amend the 1986-87 budget.
- Consider student transfers and a special meeting to be held Aug. 17.

The Board also will go into executive session to interview applicants for the Principal's position, Uselton added.

Sheriff's log

Deputies seize substance in search

Herald staff report
Seven bags of a substance believed to be marijuana and a white substance believed to be cocaine were confiscated from a Big Spring residence by sheriff's deputies Saturday.

Deputies searched the residence after consent was given, and also confiscated a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun, according to a sheriff's report.

The substances are being tested at a Midland laboratory, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

The names and addresses of suspects are being withheld pending charges.

• Alec Freitag, 65, was reported missing Sunday. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall, with short grey hair. He was last seen wearing a red shirt and blue jeans.

Freitag was last seen in Presidio on or about June 23, according to his nephew, Billy Sanders, Coahoma.

• Clifton Blain Clinton, 30, Sterling City Rt. Box 157FA, is in custody after his arrest on two revocation of probation charges.

• Gilbert Michael Rodriguez, 19, Coahoma, was arrested Saturday on a warrant charging him with criminal trespass. He was released on $500 bond.

• Oscar Raymond Soto, 29, Seagraves, pleaded guilty to Justice of the Peace China Long to charges of failure to control speed, public intoxication, no insurance and failure to stop and render aid. He was fined $240 and released.

• Edward Brumley, 58, 2506 Seminole Dr., was arrested by Department of Public Safety troopers Sunday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and unlawfully carrying a weapon. He is being held in lieu of bonds totaling $1,500.

• Macellous Weaver reported Sunday that someone had stolen a $350 antique pump from the Country Store, North Highway 87. The pump was discovered missing at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and was last seen at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Humane society

The Humane Society of Big Spring has the following animals for adoption:

- Springer Spaniel mix female, 4 months, 263-4810.
- Dachsund-terrier mix puppies, 3 months, 263-4810.
- Gray and white female house cat, 1 year, 263-7189.

• Siamese kitten, has strabismus, 267-5446.

• Lasho Apsu, female, gray, 11 months, 267-5446.

We have many more fine selections of puppies, dogs, and cats at our Adoption Center at 4200 Wason Road. Come see them and our recent improvements.

For the record

Police beat

Youths cause damage, injuries during fight

Herald staff report

Four youths caused $560 damage to a pickup during a fight at midnight Saturday, police reports said. Randy Robertson, 1905 Wason Road, Apt. 2C7, the truck's owner, told police that his son was driving the truck on the apartment parking lot when the four assaulted him and two passengers, damaging the pickup.

Police Lt. Troy Hogue said the three teens in the truck suffered minor injuries.

The incident began with name-calling and escalated into a fight, he said, adding that the four youths had been in another vehicle and were not reported injured.

Robertson's truck suffered a damaged antenna, windshield, right windows and door.

• Thieves stole a 35mm camera and zoom lens, valued at $420, from a Moss Lake campsite Saturday, owner Vane Wheeler of Midland told police.

• A compact disc player, an equalizer, a 35mm camera, a zoom lens and two other lenses were stolen and sheetrock damaged at 4:20 a.m. Saturday at the home of Herman Evans, 1103 E. Fourth St., police reports said. Monetary loss was listed at $728.

• Someone broke into Decker's liquor store, 3009 W. Highway 80, between 12:15 and 12:20 a.m. today and stole seven cases of assorted whiskey, valued at $560, police reports said.

• Tommy Sullivan, HC 61 Box 54, told police Saturday night that a known person stole a $400 transmission from Jim's Automotive, 1811 S. Gregg St. Tuesday night.

• Jose Ortiz Garcia, 63, 3100 W. Highway 80 Apt. G, was arrested at Courtyard Apartments, 4000 W. Highway 80, early Sunday morning after an accident there, police reports said.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated and failure to comply with requirements after striking an unattended vehicle. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $1,500 bond.

• Theodore Rios, 17, 3206 W. Eighth St., was arrested at FM 700 and Virginia Street early this morning on charges of driving without a license and with an expired car registration, police reports said.

• Johnnie Bryant Hardeman, 26, 104 E. Ninth St., was arrested at 1200 S. Gregg St. Sunday night on a charge of driving with a suspended license. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $500 bond.

• Wesley Anderson Bailey, 32, 1202 E. Third St., was arrested at 400 W. Marcy Drive early this morning on a warrant for assault. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $1,000 bond.

• Timothy Lee Threats, 17, 511 S. Goliad St., was arrested at 906 S. Runnels St. Sunday afternoon on a warrant for criminal trespass. Police had responded to a suspected burglary at that address, which was judged unfounded, police reports said.

Threats was transferred to the county jail and released on $750 bond.

Weather

Forecast

West Texas - Considerable cloudiness with widely scattered thunderstorms in most sections tonight then decreasing cloudiness and isolated thunderstorms on Tuesday. Very warm to hot afternoons and mild to warm at night through Tuesday. Lows tonight will be 65 in the Panhandle and mountains to 75 in the far south. Highs Tuesday will be 92 in the Panhandle and mountains to 98 in the southeast and near 103 in the Big Bend.

State

A flash flood watch was in effect today for the extreme southeast corner of the state due to possibly heavy rains.

Elsewhere, a weak stationary front stretched early today from near Wichita Falls into the Trans-Pecos area. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the far west.

Hazardous

of property valuation.

That is the tax rate that must be charged to raise the same amount of taxes as last year, she said.

Last year commissioners set the effective tax rate at 26 cents.

"Values are down," County Auditor Jackie Olson said in response to the tax figure.

Commissioners were expected to have a budget workshop this afternoon, she said.

Concerning the 911 emergency phone system, Fire Chief Carl Dorton told commissioners Howard County must establish a district if they want money generated by the system to stay in the county.

Action should be taken by January 1988, he said.

If a separate district is not formed, the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission would be considered the district, he said.

As a result, money generated from a Howard County system could be designated to other Permian Basin systems, he explained. Midland and Odessa are the only Permian Basin cities the currently have a 911 system, Dorton said.

He is seeking a joint county-city committee to decide whether the 911 emergency number issue will be placed on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Commissioners saw a "20/20" television newsmagazine video explaining an enhanced 911 system. It allows operators to determine the location and phone number from which each emergency call is made.

Telephone companies can charge up to 50 cents to its customers, Dorton said, adding that 24 to 27 cents is currently the average amount charged.

Deaths

Denton

Castleberry

Denton Lewis Castleberry, 45, Midland, died at 4:35 p.m. Saturday, August 8, 1987 at Midland Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

History shown on rocky bluff

PAINT ROCK (AP) — Spanish explorers were the first Europeans to cast their eyes on hundreds of years of Indian history depicted on the rocky bluff that gave this town, 30 miles east of San Antonio, its name.

Much of what they saw remains today.

One pictograph shows a large sun, a giant grasshopper and a wilted stalk of corn indicating a severe drought.

Another shows a warpath symbol, two scalps and a hoop-skirted figure drawn horizontally to represent a captive.

Pioneer settlers at odds with the Indians vandalized the paintings, which told tales of hunting parties and warpath raids, great councils and gods.

In 1877, D.E. Sims claimed the property and cared for the pictographs. His great-grandson, Scott Campbell, has started a company to give tours.

"One of the nice things about this is you walk up and see the bluff just as the Indians saw it coming up from the river," said Campbell's mother, Kay.

The bluff is about a quarter-mile long. Brush has been cleared from the bank to the bluff except for a few mesquite trees that provide a little shade for chairs placed underneath.

Guide Kenny Mesker points to an Indian pictograph painted on a rocky bluff at Paint Rock. There are more than 1,500 pictographs, the oldest dating back about 1,000 years. The most recent was painted about 1865. A tour boat takes visitors to see the pictographs.

Cactus, mesquite, weeds and rattlesnakes guard the foot of the bluff, discouraging visitors from climbing to the paintings 50 feet above and possibly hurting themselves or damaging the paintings. "There are so many markings on the rocks that we don't try to point all of them out," Mrs. Campbell said. There are more than 1,500 pictographs.

The oldest date back 1,000 years, while others were painted as late as 1865. Viewing the pictographs from the different Indians is like looking at paintings of Rembrandt next to those by Picasso, said Mrs. Campbell.

The Indians were students of nature so their drawings of animals were realistic, while they drew stick figures for humans.

"Anything you can read was done by early settlers," Mrs. Campbell says.

The hatred between the two cultures led settlers to deface some of the paintings. The earliest date written among the rocks is 1856.

High school students guide the tours, pointing out about 20 of the more interesting paintings.

The tour begins at the Paint Rock Excursion's office in Paint Rock, about 70 miles south of Abilene on U.S. Highway 83 in West Texas. There, visitors are shown how Indians mixed hematite and animal fat to make paint.

Then it's on to the dock just north of town and aboard the Concho Clipper.

Man charged in couple's death

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who turned himself in to authorities in connection with the beating deaths of a Kingwood couple remains in jail without bond, a prosecutor said.

Herman Arthur Peterman IV, 22, of Humble, is being held without bond Sunday on a capital murder charge on Edward and Jo Ann McMillan, said Casey O'Brien, assistant district attorney.

Burglary was the apparent motive for the July 14 slayings at the McMillans' lakeside home near Houston, O'Brien said.

The McMillans were apparently sleeping when someone broke into the house and ransacked it, he said. McMillan woke up and was attacked by the intruder, apparently with a crowbar, and his wife was beaten to death as she slept.

Heat causes higher ozone levels

FORT WORTH (AP) — Apart from the sweltering heat that could almost cook an egg on the sidewalk, high temperatures in North Texas also are cooking car and factory exhaust into higher levels of the pollutant ozone, environmental officials say.

The recent heat wave has pushed air quality levels to near or below what is considered healthy.

Of the nine times ozone levels in the area have exceeded federal Environmental Protection Agency levels this year, four of them have occurred since July 22.

Ozone forms when sunlight interacts with automobile and factory exhaust. The pollutant can cause watery eyes and dryness in the mouth. Extreme levels can also cause permanent lung damage and break down the body's immune system.

Judges pack guns after violence

HOUSTON (AP) — High emotions and loose security in Harris County courtrooms have prompted many judges to tote pistols, or hide a shotgun under their benches, before hearing cases, The Houston Post reported today.

"I'll give them the first shot but, boy, they better not miss," said one state district judge, armed at times with a powerful .357-Magnum revolver.

In the wake of a recent fatal shooting of a family court judge in Florida, concern at the Family Law Center is especially great.

Several judges also tuck guns under their robes at the nearby criminal courthouse, described as a security nightmare. One armed judge said people "charged with the worst crimes in the world" share common hallways and elevators with the public — including their alleged victims — in the courthouse built in 1954.

Firm accused of taking kickbacks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The wrecker firm holding the exclusive right to haul disabled cars off the city's streets grossed nearly $2 million last year from such business, but auto dealers and body shop owners say that income is augmented by kickbacks they are forced to pay in exchange for receiving damaged vehicles, the San Antonio Light reported.

Some body shop owners claim to have suffered losses of tens of thousands of dollars worth of work from City Towing when they stopped paying kickbacks to drivers or refused to stop employing other towing companies for private hauling, such as customers whose cars have stalled at home, the newspaper reported.

Tropical depression soaks coast

MIAMI (AP) — A tropical depression churning up 12-foot seas with wind gusts to 45 mph failed to develop into the season's first tropical storm but brought heavy rain today to the Texas-Louisiana coast, with up to 5 inches forecast.

The National Weather Service today canceled tropical-storm warnings along the coast, but the National Hurricane Center advised small craft to stay in port until wind and seas subside. Tides 3 to 5 feet above normal were forecast.

Flood and flash flood warnings were posted over much of southwestern Louisiana and extreme eastern Texas today as the weather system produced strong thunderstorms. More than 5 inches of rain had fallen in parts of southwestern Louisiana since Sunday and an additional 5 inches was expected.

City officials in Galveston, Texas, spent an uneventful night at an emergency management center.

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state.

Says Inscam stupid, not criminal

The public display of fumbling in the White House, as elicited by the Senate-House committee investigating the Iran-Contra affair, appeared to end.

The final witnesses were Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger and fired White House Chief-of-Staff Donald Regan.

They continued the pattern set by Secretary of State George Shultz — when they found out, they tried to convince President Reagan to do differently, he didn't know until too late and, surprise, surprise, Rear Adm. John Poindexter is the bad guy.

There's plenty of litter to go around and obviously Poindexter knew his fate when he so completely fell upon his sword while a witness.

... But questions remain. The committee may release more of the private testimony in its final report. Then it will be time for the special prosecutor's report.

... Meanwhile, the public has had a fascinating lesson in government with intimate views of the inside workings at the very top of the executive branch. Stupidity, yes; criminal intent, probably not.

El Paso Times

Calls Houston election a cakewalk

Mayor Kathy Whitmire's run for a fourth two-year term looks like a cakewalk. A dull city election looms ahead.

... Whitmire is winding up her 10th year at Houston's City Hall — four years as the first female city controller followed by six more as a reform-minded mayor. Her style has been that of a pencil-pushing accountant with substance, rather than a glad-handing good ol' girl without it. She is perceived to be scandal-free and forthright.

She has proven to be ready and able to handle revenue crises, and recently there have been many controversial ones in Houston.

... An argument can be made that having a major opponent in a mayoral race makes the incumbent a better mayor in the long run. This situation in 1983 and 1985 made Whitmire a better mayor, more in tune with the people.

We hope having no major opposition doesn't move the incumbent simply to work inside with the ledgers, without going out among her constituents to keep track of their most vital concerns.

Rescue workers deserve protection

Picture this scene: Rescue workers pull a profusely bleeding, unconscious man from a wrecked truck. The blood-soaked rescuers rush the victim to a hospital, where the doctors who treat him learn that he has AIDS.

Should the doctors tell the rescue workers that they may have been infected? A hospital worker in Prince George's County, Md. — where this scenario actually took place — correctly decided that the answer was "Yes." But by acting on that decision she broke a state law.

Maryland allows doctors to let firemen and emergency medical technicians know when they have been exposed to contagious diseases such as hepatitis and mononucleosis. AIDS is not on that list. It should be.

... Compassion for AIDS victims should not lead us to withhold safeguards from potential victims. Those who put their lives on the line for the rest of us deserve information, training and the authority to use protective devices such as gloves and masks. We owe them the best protection we can provide.

Valley Morning Star

Appreciates Koop's AIDS candor

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop continues to impress with his insistence on facing the realities of life in the fight against the spread of AIDS. Rather than take some narrowly ideological view, Koop talks like the doctor he is, giving advice on avoiding a deadly disease.

The other day, Koop held a round-table discussion with four high school students ranging in age from 15 to 18, and ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" aired a tape of the talk.

"There's only one absolutely certain way to avoid AIDS, and that is to be sexually abstinent. Now I think for kids, for many young people, that's a very viable way to live, but for adults it isn't viable.

"But then you have the nice alternative of the mutually faithful, monogamous relationship. ... There will always be people who will continue to perhaps go through a series of sexual partners, increasing their risk of getting any sexually transmitted disease, and to them I say you must protect yourself and your partner, and the only way to offer now is a condom," Koop said.

Sound, practical advice about this deadly disease and how to avoid it is always welcome, or should be, and is beneficial in pointing out what AIDS is — a disease, not a moral argument.

Sees need for state prison solution

If you thought the Legislature resolved the state's prison overcrowding problems in its recent sessions, you're wrong.

Yes, the legislators did include funds for some additional beds. But because of a last-minute rider added to the bill by Wichita Falls Sen. Ray Farabee, the number of beds was chopped from 11,000 to 6,000.

... A prison financing and construction report by Gov. Bill Clements' office estimates that Texas will need 18,378 prison beds in the next four fiscal years just to keep up with additional depopulation orders and the expected increase in inmates.

... Texas is in desperate need of a long-term prison plan that takes into account the needs for more space, more educational and rehabilitation plans, and more expensive parole and probation resources.

(The governor) needs to examine the full spectrum of correctional needs, set achievable goals for the state and call the Legislature back for a special session next year to address prison needs.

News prompts urge to plant a tree

Scientists told a congressional subcommittee that global temperatures are rising dangerously because of chemical changes in the atmosphere. Blame is put on an increasing amount of carbon dioxide, which is created when fossil fuels are burned.

Plants remove carbon dioxide from the atmosphere, but forests are being destroyed at an increasing rate.

News like that creates an urge to dash out and plant a tree. Come to think about it, that's always a good idea.

Democratic candidate Simon shows no fear of hurting toes

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — With his bow tie, horn-rimmed glasses and baggy pants, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois has more than enough to set him apart from the other Democratic presidential candidates.

But the important differences are of substance, not style.

While his rivals try to avoid offending any groups that might block their nomination, Simon sometimes seems to go out of his way to step on the toes of special interests that could make or break his candidacy.

Call it refreshing or suicidal, it's a way of running for president that the American voters haven't seen in a long time.

Consider a few of the powerful egos Simon has bruised since he arrived in the Senate two and a half years ago:

- Television executives. Simon's campaign to reduce the violence on TV doesn't sit well in network boardrooms, where a popular shoot-'em-up series is revered as a financial lifesaver. A modern presidential candidate does not lightly risk the hostility of those who control the most important campaign medium.
- Civil libertarians. In a rare confrontation with the American Civil Liberties Union, which worries about government interference with television's content, Simon insists he doesn't want censorship. Calling himself a "lifelong civil libertarian," he says he can't accept the idea that a free society can't find a way to curb mayhem on the tube.
- Tax reformers. Simon was one of three senators who voted against the much-ballyhooed tax bill. He opposed it because it did nothing to solve the crucial problem of the budget deficits. He also surprised fellow liberals by supporting a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget.
- The coal industry. Though he represents a coal-producing state, Simon has insisted that acid rain is an issue that must be addressed.

- The tobacco industry. Simon supports an increase in the excise tax on cigarettes.
- Big oil. Simon has proposed that by 1992 at least half the gasoline sold in the United States contain 10 percent ethanol, a corn derivative. The Transportation Department is concerned about the plan, which would leave the ethanol portion of the gas free of federal excise tax. Simon says his plan would help the farmers, reduce U.S. dependence on imported petroleum and contribute to cleaner air.
- Budget cutters. Simon has sponsored an $8 billion plan that would guarantee public-service jobs to those unable to find work. He points out that the cost is less than one-fourth of the defense budget increase the White House sought last year, and says his plan would eventually save money by breaking the welfare cycle.
- Ollie North fans. Although his mail ran 50 to 1 in favor of Lt. Col. Oliver North, Simon disdained "finger-in-the-wind politics" and said he doesn't consider someone who fails to uphold the law to be a hero.

Simon has also opposed the jingoistic de-emphasis on the teaching of foreign languages; on practical grounds, he notes, Americans must know how to communicate with potential customers in a global market.

Sounds like a wrong number

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Before you go out and spend a lot of money to have a telephone installed in your car, ask yourself, do I really want to do this?

It occurred to me recently to have a telephone put into my car, mainly because a lot of my friends were doing so, but then I remembered just how much of a nuisance a telephone can be.

It's bad enough having one in your bedroom, which means that no matter how much you need a good night's sleep, somebody can awaken you with a telephone call at any hour.

There's some dentist who apparently once had the telephone number I have now. I get numerous calls each day, some as late as midnight, asking for him.

I am forced to explain to each caller that they are speaking to somebody who wouldn't know a molar if one bit him.

I've decided it's mainly ego that makes people do stupid things like having a telephone in their car.

If I have a phone in my car, then it must mean I think I am so important I can't drive to the convenience store and pick up a six-pack without being out of touch.

A lot of men probably put phones in their cars to impress girls. In the old days, we hung foam rubber dices from our rear-view mirrors to impress girls.

Lewis Grizzard

The fact is, the automobile is the setting for many a romantic interlude, and who wants to be at the height of passion and get a call from his mother wanting to know if he's wearing clean underwear.

There's also a safety factor involved here. We have campaigned urgently to get the drunken driver off the roads.

But what about some mover-and-shaker cutting a million-dollar business deal on his car phone at 70

Marital life pretty good to newlywed

By CARLEEN EVERETT-HALEY
Lifestyle Editor

If I had a dollar for every time I've been asked, "How's married life?" — I'd be rich.

It was only a little more than a month ago — June 27 — when Bee and I were married. We returned to Big Spring July 8.

Since then, the famous question has been asked repeatedly. And, not only have I gotten married, I've suddenly aged.

In addition to being asked how the married life is, now I'm referred to as the old married lady — instead of the young, single woman. And I'm asked how my old man is, and how's that old married life?

The married life — the good ole' married life. What does it really mean?

It means doing all the ordinary things each day, like washing the clothes, doing the dishes, feeding the dog and cleaning the house — but having someone who will share each task.

It means working out little things like deciding whether to squeeze the toothpaste from the bottom or the middle; whether to put dishes in the dishwasher immediately after using them, or letting them pile up; who sleeps on which side of the bed; and where to put the wet towels after showering.

It means having someone waiting at home each night to hear about my day, and being able to hear about his experiences working as an entertainer each night.

It means waking up to a warm body every morning, instead of a cold, stuffed teddy bear.

It means having two step-sons, who I love and adore, to share my life with.

Of course, it also means putting up with the ex-wife — and that can be challenging.

So you ask: "How's the married life?"

Well, I love it. It's been a wonderful six weeks since we took the big step, and I'm so glad.

I'll take the good with the bad — and with love, understanding, and lots of communication — we'll make it. I know we will.

I guess the honeymoon isn't over yet. But maybe, just maybe, it'll never end.

Jets have near-miss

NEW YORK (AP) — A Pan Am jetliner and a TWA jumbo jet came within 600 feet of each other in a near-miss that apparently was caused by an air traffic controller who transposed the numbers of a flight, the Federal Aviation Administration reported.

Controllers realized the error as the planes neared each other but the Pan Am pilot took evasive action on his own, dropping his Boeing 727 in altitude and passing about 600 feet below the TWA Boeing 747, according to FAA spokeswoman Kathleen Bergen.

Man ends hunt for son

COMFORT — For three weeks John Bankston Sr. prayed as he and thousands of volunteers searched for his son's body along the Guadalupe River, and he sobbed when he finally admitted there was no point in going on.

"It's time to go home. But it breaks our heart to have to leave him," Bankston said Sunday.

John Bankston Jr., 17, was one of 43 people aboard two vehicles from the Seagoville Road Baptist Church in Balch Springs who were caught in the Guadalupe River on July 17 during its worst flood in 55 years. He was last seen helping others to safety.

Ten teen-agers were swept away by the rampaging river. The bodies of nine were recovered, and 33 people were rescued.

Firm to buy Beatrice

NEW YORK — The TLC Group, a New York investment firm, has agreed to buy the Beatrice International Food Co. for $985 million, officials of the investment firm said Sunday.

TLC will own 55 percent of the business, making it the largest black-owned company in the country in terms of annual revenue.

The Chicago-based food unit includes 64 companies in 31 countries. It reported $2.5 billion in sales last year and operating income of $147 million.

Five-alarm fire burns

PHILADELPHIA — A five-alarm fire burned out of control Sunday night at a Chevron USA Inc. refinery after an outdoor petroleum tank exploded, officials said.

The 10:30 p.m. explosion occurred during a fierce lightning storm, although a fire dispatcher could not confirm lightning was the cause.

Horse killed after race

OMAK, Wash. — A horse was destroyed after breaking a leg during a running of the grueling, controversial Suicide Race of the Omak Stampede, and a rider was injured in a subsequent race, officials said Sunday.

National animal rights groups had called the rodeo competition "one giant accident waiting to happen" and had persuaded two commercial sponsors to pull out.

The death after Saturday night's race was at least the fifth of a horse in the 52-year history of the race; one rider died in the 1940s while preparing for the race.

Six found

Police find skeletal remains

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police discovered six decomposed or skeletal bodies and possibly a seventh Sunday in a bloody, trash-filled apartment that an evicted tenant nailed shut days ago, authorities said.

Officers continued hunting through the crime-ridden north Philadelphia neighborhood for the tenant Sunday night, although no warrant had been issued for his arrest, said Detective Jeff Piree.

The discovery occurred at 2 p.m. after the landlord complained about a stench coming from a third-floor apartment in the building, said Detective Robert McGarry.

The tenant, who had lived in the apartment four years, had nailed his door shut from the outside and stalked out of the building after the landlord's nephew ordered him to leave Wednesday or Thursday, police said.

The 30-year-old tenant "is not even a suspect yet," McGarry said. "We are looking for him to see if he can shed any light on this."

The owner, who lived in the first floor of the building, called police at about 1 p.m. Sunday, saying the stench coming from the third-story apartment "was getting worse, and the guy hadn't returned," said McGarry.

Through a crack in the door, police saw bodies and blood on the floor and walls, McGarry said. An initial search produced two women's bodies, one naked and the other partially clothed, McGarry said.

Buried under garbage were the skeletal remains of three more bodies, one wrapped in a sheet.

"The apartment is totally trashed over. It has all kinds of debris and garbage in there, and they were found mixed in among that stuff," McGarry said.

Inside a closet police found the skeletal remains of another body, which appeared to have been tied up, and beneath the remains debris that appeared to be a seventh body, McGarry said.

The city medical examiner will conduct autopsies, probably Monday, but police do not expect the information to lead to identifications. "We have five skeletons and two badly decomposed bodies,"

Officials carry a body bag out of a north Philadelphia row house on a stretcher Sunday where police found six decomposed bodies in a bloody, trash-filled apartment.

McGarry said. "I don't think we can make an identification from them."

Police said they would not term the deaths murder until the medical examiner released results of the autopsies.

But, before police finished their search, Piree said, "Let's face facts — five bodies were found in one location at one time. It's certainly suspicious."

Police would not release the names of the tenant or owner. They also declined to disclose information gleaned from neighbors.

Resident Elizabeth Williams said she was not surprised by the deaths. In the north Philadelphia neighborhood "anything goes," she said.

"I expect to see three or four (dead) people every week," she said.

A neighbor who declined to identify himself said the tenant was "not a pleasant fellow — he seemed dangerous."

Police said the house was in the center of a high-crime area known for drug activity.

"I have information that there are several shooting galleries in the neighborhood," McGarry said, referring to drug centers. "I don't know if this house was one."

Trucker hurt in latest highway shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bullets shattered a window on a tractor-trailer rig on a mountain highway Sunday afternoon, slightly injuring an Alabama trucker in the latest round of California roadway violence, authorities said.

In San Francisco, one motorist was killed and another injured in separate shootings on city streets, but police said they did not fit the pattern of highway violence of the past few weeks, most of it in the southern part of the state.

The shooting of the trucker on California Highway 158, three miles west of Tehachapi and 80 miles north of Los Angeles, brings the number of roadway shootings since mid-June to 49. Four people have died and 15 have been injured.

Army cadet goes wild

MELBOURNE, Australia — A former army cadet in military garb went on a half-hour shooting rampage on a busy suburban street Sunday night, killing six people and wounding at least 18 others before he was arrested, authorities said.

"He was using a pump-action shotgun. He was just going 'Bang! Bang! Bang!' at the cars coming towards him," said an eyewitness, who refused to give his name.

The gunman shot randomly from behind trees and cars, hitting pedestrians and passing motorists with deadly accuracy, and reloading his weapons methodically, witnesses said. Ambulances, police cars, a helicopter and a SWAT team rushed to the scene.

Black workers strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Tens of thousands of black workers struck gold and coal mines today, threatening to paralyze the country's main export industry in what could be the biggest legal walkout in South Africa's history.

The National Union of Mineworkers, whose membership approved the action for better wages and benefits, said that as of 12:30 a.m. today 45,000 gold miners and 30,000 coal miners were on strike.

Union officials were instructed to begin strike balloting today at 12 other mines that produce platinum, chrome, uranium and diamonds.

Soviet Satellite falling

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union said a 10-ton Soviet satellite that failed to reach orbit was to fall back to Earth today, probably in the South Pacific.

The official news agency Tass announced Sunday the Cosmos 1871 satellite, launched Aug. 1, wasn't carrying any dangerous cargo, and there was virtually no chance it would result in injuries to humans or property damage.

Alpine becomes style

MUNICH, West Germany — "The clocks run differently in Bavaria."

The old German saying is a fitting one for the mixed-up time in the ageless popularity of dirndls, loden coats and other rustic Alpine styles.

Old as they are, the styles may be catching on in Paris, Rome and other fashion capitals, according to experts here.

Every Sunday, women in the flowing skirts and men in knee-length lederhosen stroll around Munich, looking like Brothers Grimm characters who stepped out onto the concrete pedestrian mall.

Supertanker hits mine

MANAMA, Bahrain — A Panamanian supertanker struck a floating mine today in the Gulf of Oman just outside the Strait of Hormuz, shipping sources said.

There was no immediate word on the extent of damage, although sources said a preliminary assessment indicated it was not serious.

Peace advocate finishes mission

DALLAS (AP) — Nuclear missiles remain poised on the brink, and handguns still are household utensils in Texas, but John Longhurst leaves his two-year peace mission in the Lone Star State with a wistful sigh just the same.

"My goal is not to bring peace to the world," Longhurst, a thin, now slightly less pale 30-year-old Mennonite, said recently as he packed his car for the trip home to Canada. "That's not going to happen. The first thing that can happen is to change one's heart."

Texas has provided a unique episode for Longhurst, who arrived two years ago as a volunteer and recently ended his humble reign as director of the Dallas Peace Center, a church-supported, non-profit operation with aims that range from helping families find food to promoting nuclear disarmament.

While Longhurst arrived as just another anonymous outsider doing a stint in Big D, his is a rare breed in a city built on the harsh frontier of hard-boiled business. And as he left the peace center's ivy-hung interior, Longhurst said he would like to think he helped change a few hearts.

Along the way, an idealist whose only knowledge of Dallas was Larry Hagman's J. R., Cowboys football and JFK's assassination has expanded to include chiggers, mesquite cooking and another way of thinking.

"I wanted to have an experience," Longhurst said. "I've had it."

Longhurst was simply looking

for something "meaningful" to do when he and his 28-year-old wife, Christine, moved to Dallas so she could earn her master's degree in sacred music at Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Music.

In Winnepeg, Longhurst virtually was lost in a city where peace marches and anti-nuclear demonstrations are as common as boat shows and rodeos are here. But here, he said, a newcomer calling to volunteer in the close-knit, church-based peace community is likely to rise quickly.

At a speakers' forum, he mentioned he had some journalism experience on newspapers in Canada. Members of the peace center suggested he could try his hand with publicizing local activities. "Up until then, we had done just this little 8-by-10 newsletter," said Sam Nance, chairman of the center's board of directors. "We were expecting maybe two 8-by-10 pages. Now, it's a full-blown newspaper. It's wonderful."

Instantly, Longhurst was the volunteer editor of The Dallas Peace Times, paid only $350 a month in living expenses through the Mennonite Voluntary Service. The newspaper reports 10 times a year about the activities of groups promoting human rights, nuclear disarmament, conflict resolution and racial harmony.

Back then, the paper's one-man staff also was pressed into front-line service. That's when Longhurst discovered demonstrations were different in Texas.

At anti-contra demonstrations in Miami, Longhurst said, opposition crowds heaved bottles and rocks. At a North Dallas picket he attended, he said, the only thing passers-by cast were curious glances.

"This is a very career-oriented city," he said. "I don't find it disagreeable. It's just a city where everybody has a lot to do. Maybe it's not possible to arouse the passions in Dallas."

And downright disillusionments occurred as well. The peace center was conscientiously set up in a dilapidated former warehouse on South Harwood Street.

"We wanted to symbolically illustrate that peacemaking is an attempt to pursue better relationships wherever you are," Longhurst said. "It was a lousy choice."

Names in the news

Dick Gregory praises alma mater

By the Associated Press
CARBONDALE, Ill. — Comedian and social activist Dick Gregory, a track star at Southern Illinois University more than 30 years ago, praised the school for the strides it has made since then.

Gregory, whose time in the half-mile stood unbeaten at Carbondale for eight years, said he couldn't eat in the same restaurants with his white teammates.

He received an honorary doctorate on Saturday, telling graduates that they must acknowledge their "fantastic responsibility."

"Remember, fourth-grade dropouts didn't invent a nuclear bomb," he said. Educated people began "every war that's been planned on this planet."

LOS ANGELES — Hustler publisher Larry Flynt is expanding into more mainstream periodicals as the skin magazine becomes less of a money-maker.

Larry Flynt Publications has come out with four new magazines in two years and plans two more, one dealing with automobiles and the other with women's fashion.

"Society is definitely going through a very conservative trend," said James Kohls, company president. "So our emphasis is to grow in non-sex areas."

Kohls said that some stores have stopped handling sex magazines because of public pressure and that Hustler's sales in the past two years have dropped to 900,000 copies a month from 1 million.

Two years ago, Hustler accounted for 95 percent of company profits, and now accounts for 65 percent. "Within the next five years, I see Hustler as providing only about 20 percent," Kohls said.

The company's four new magazines are all profitable, Kohls said. They are Running Times; Men's Look, a fashion and lifestyle publication; RIP, aimed at a punk and heavy-metal audience, and Supercycle, for motorcycle enthusiasts.

PONTIAC, Mich. — Pop singer Madonna says her Michigan hometown smells but doesn't stink.

In an interview broadcast Thursday on NBC's "Today" show, Madonna described Bay City as a "little smelly town."

"I do not think Bay City is a stinky city," she told a concert audience Friday night at the Pontiac

DICK GREGORY

LARRY FLINT

Silverdome. "I said it smells bad. I didn't say that about the people. I said it about the Dow Chemical plant."

NEW YORK — Mayor Edward I. Koch, out of the hospital after a minor stroke, says he'll follow doctors' orders and lose weight.

"I have a wonderful job as mayor," he said Sunday as he left Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. "I intend to be here for a long time."

Dr. Robert Barrett, one of his neurologists, pronounced Koch, 62, "in excellent shape" and estimated the chance of a recurrence at 0.05 percent.

The mayor was stricken Thursday, complaining of nausea, dizziness and slow speech.

Among his hospital visitors were Gov. and Mrs. Mario Cuomo, who brought chocolate chip cookies, and Cardinal John J. O'Connor.

"The cardinal said he was also going to do some Jewish prayers. I said, 'My Jewish prayers are taken care of; do them in Latin.' I think he did," said Koch, who is Jewish. "I'm someone who believes in God and I am convinced that's helped me."

YELLOWKNIFE, Northwest Territories — The Duke and Duchess of York pronounced their two-week wilderness canoe trip a success.

The expedition was the third Arctic canoeing trip for Prince Andrew and the first for his wife, the former Sarah Ferguson. They returned from the trip on Saturday and spent the night at a hotel here.

"I've had a tremendous two weeks," Sarah said in a statement. "The experience was challenging and demanding but I feel a great sense of achievement."

They saw many caribou and musk ox, some moose and a wolf, but sadly, "there were no grizzly bears," Andrew said.

The weather "was either hot, still and humid, with plenty of bugs, or ... strong, cold headwinds coming from the polar ice cap," the statement said.

The royal couple and their guides traveled 180 miles and crossed 40 rapids during the canoe trip.

On Sunday, a row of security cars had lined up outside the hotel to take the couple to a shopping plaza a block away, but Prince Andrew waved them off.

KEY WEST, Fla. — Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy, wasn't born in the United States, but he had an All-American introduction to this country.

The sports hero who inspired the 1933-51 national radio series is 83 and lives here.

Armstrong was born in Weston Super-Mare, England, and came to the United States at age 17 when a London music store hired him to deliver a "Stradivarius violin" to automobile mogul Henry Ford.

"He met me at the train in a 1921 Ford," Armstrong said recently. "We had lunch together. I had a chicken sandwich, apple pie and coffee."

He got a job with a Chicago music store and made his mark as a sportsman. In 1922-23 he won the city's amateur competitions in golf, tennis and swimming.

Expectant girlfriend foresees trouble in wife's pregnancy

DEAR ABBY: "Doug" and I are very much in love. He's 38. I'm 29, and four months pregnant. Doug would marry me in a minute, but he's already married to "Jan." They've been talking about a divorce for over a year, but haven't filed yet. Doug and Jan have two kids. They still live together because it's cheaper and more convenient. Meanwhile, Jan is dating up a storm.

Yesterday, she told Doug that she is pregnant and he's the father. Doug says there is no way in God's world that the baby is his because he hasn't laid a hand on her in a year. He says he's willing to take any kind of test to prove that he is not the baby's father, but in order to find out who the baby's father is, they will have to test half the men in San Diego.

I need to know if Doug is going to get stuck with a kid that isn't his. It's not fair. But how can he get out of it? Jan will lie in court if she has to.

IN A MESS
IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR IN: You and Doug are overdue for a long talk — or better yet, a three-way conversation including Jan. (Does Doug really want to leave her? Or is he content with an open marriage in his frightening age of AIDS?)

A woman's husband is presumed to be the legal father of her child, but if Doug has any doubts about it (in Jan's case) he should see a lawyer. As I see it, unless Doug stands by his moral obligation to you, you are in a bigger mess than his wife. Good luck. You will need it.

DEAR ABBY: Forgive me if I do a little nit-picking. Enclosed is a clipping from your column in which you wrote: "I think he is a troubled man and his behavior should be reported to whomever is his superior."

Abby, "whomever" is not the object of the preposition "to"; the whole clause is. Thus, the sentence should read: "I think he is a troubled man and his behavior should be reported to whoever is his superior," "whoever" being the subject of the verb "is."

I usually don't find myself perturbed enough to write letters about misuse of English appearing in the newspapers. However, I'm sure many readers would say, "If Dear Abby wrote it that way, it must be correct."

CMS, PORT ORANGE, FLA. P.S. This clip is from the Daytona Beach News-Journal. Maybe the typesetter took it upon him/herself to do a little editing?

DEAR CMS: I cannot blame the typesetter. (Typesetters do not edit.) So ingrained in my mind is the "to whom," I automatically trusted my ear and used the "to" with "whomever," ignoring the fact that the whole clause was the object of the preposition "to." So, mea culpa to all you English language purists whom I offended.

DEAR ABBY: My only child passed away recently at a very young age. Amid all the pain, this one question nags at me. Am I still a mother?

WONDERING
IN LYNN, MASS.

DEAR WONDERING: Of course you are. Once a mother, always a mother. You are the mother of a little angel.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Women changing drinking habits

DALLAS (AP) — Nothing looks tackier than a woman sucking on a can of beer. Or so generations of women grew up believing. Drinking a beer signaled loose living as surely as smoking on the street and wearing too much makeup.

"Ladies" sipped drinks — preferably colorful ones served in pretty glasses and festooned with fruit, umbrellas, plastic swords and straws.

Beer was a manly drink, one associated with belching and dirty T-shirts stretched over an expanding girth. Except when fraternity boys and Paul Newman drank it, a cold one denoted the proletariat. Careful to avoid such associations, women stuck to insipid beverages that might elicit a hiccup, but never anything less attractive.

"You rarely see a woman drinking straight Scotch, straight whiskey or straight anything," acknowledges SMU sociologist Richard Hawkins, who has done extensive research on the culture's drinking habits. "There's a double standard there. Men are expected to drink their alcohol straight ... but women can be served alcohol only if the impression given is that they haven't been served alcohol."

Demure drinks
For that reason, women order dessert drinks — sweet, fruity concoctions like grasshoppers and Singapore slings, frozen margaritas and strawberry daiquiris, says Hawkins. Men, on the other hand, avoid mixed drinks. Men can't order a bloody mary or a screwdriver in the presence of other males, says Hawkins. They are limited to macho martinis and brawny bourbons. And, of course, to beer, which brings out the competitor in them. Beer-drinking contests strictly engage males: Because it necessarily draws attention to ballooning bellies, women avoid testing their drinking prowess in public.

That women drink publicly at all is a fairly recent development. Before Prohibition, saloons were off-limits to women. Only temperance-union activists armed with self-righteousness stepped inside a drinking establishment. At-home cordials and wine at communion were allowed women, Hawkins says, but sitting on barstools and hefting a glass seriously endangered a woman's reputation. Even today, bars must lure women inside by cutting in half the price of their favorite "feminine" cocktails.

Make mine a light
But then along came "lite" beers. That sounded nice. Fewer calories, too. And at those fraternity parties, there wasn't much else to drink. Beer tasted good with pizza and Mexican food ... if it was really, really cold. Then beer got trendy. A Corona with a wedge of lime perched on the lip of that handsome clear bottle. And after a three-mile run or a tennis game, aahhh ...

Women drink beer now: One-third of all lite beer is consumed by women, reports Coors spokeswoman Nancy Williams. More important to the beer industry, they buy beer. "Women influence one-third of all product decisions and brand decisions," says Williams, meaning women choose what brand of beer to buy. In fact, women buy 70 percent of all alcoholic beverages at the retail level.

For that reason, Coors has launched an advertising campaign aimed at women. The ads, which appear in Glamour, Ms., Cosmopolitan, Women's Sports and Fitness, People, Self and Savvy, show self-assured, '80s women sharing some brews with their buddies — from mugs at a birthday party and from an ice chest after a softball game. The point is to present beer as OK for women. If the Coors pitch succeeds, and other beer makers follow suit, the next step could be a you've-come-a-long-way-baby brew.

Changes on tap
In the meantime, local bartenders say women still order more wine and mixed drinks than beer.

Teacher attends conference

AUSTIN — Local teacher Cindy Schaffer was one of 500 participants of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association annual leadership conference conducted in Austin July 31 and Aug. 1.

TCTA is an organization representing 25,000 classroom teachers with headquarters in Austin.

Commissioner of Education William N. Kirby spoke to the teachers attending the two-day conference. Participants attended mini-conferences on legal and legislative issues, effective public relations and career ladder appraisal issues.

TCTA's leadership conference is an annual event that offers its leadership an opportunity to learn new techniques and assist them with dealing with current educational issues and problems.

"By participating in this conference, our teachers and leadership have demonstrated that they are committed and dedicated to being the best they can be and to providing the best possible education for their students," said State President Wendell Wittenberg, who presided at the conference.

Seminar for women Sept. 1

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Business and Professional Women's Club, the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce and the Small Business Development Center, Abilene, will co-sponsor an area seminar on "Women in the Workforce" on Sept. 1.

A hospitality reception will precede the seminar which will be conducted from 6-9 p.m. at the Civic Center, 157 West Second St.

The seminar will be conducted by Dr. Marilyn Lewis, professor at Abilene Christian University.

Topics to be addressed will be: managing yourself — goal setting and time management; leadership and communication — active listening, overcoming barriers in two-way communication and speech communication problems for women; and conflict and confrontation — group conflict and diffusion, positive and negative conflict, handling criticism.

Chambers of Commerce in Big Spring, Sweetwater and Snyder have agreed to promote the event.

Admission to the seminar is free.

Don't Blame Your Age For Poor Hearing.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample send your name, address, and phone number today to: Department 7826, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

AIDS education program needed for minorities

ATLANTA (AP) — A no-nonsense education campaign targeted at blacks and Hispanics is needed to curb the spread of AIDS in minority communities, which have accounted for 38 percent of the virus' victims, doctors said Saturday at a federal conference.

Additionally, some educators and health professionals among those attending said they were tired of piecemeal campaigns and urged the federal government to commit more funds to finding a cure for the disease.

"It's the same old Band-Aid approach," said Robert Kunst, director of Miami's Cure AIDS Now. "I don't see any sense of emergency being stated here. Let's put $1 billion behind education and $5 billion behind research on stop playing games."

The conference on AIDS and minorities at the Centers for Disease Control came as the agency prepared a new $7 million campaign to educate minorities about the fatal disease. Another $3 million will be added in the next fiscal year.

CDC director Dr. James O. Mason said the education programs and support services for minorities should be greatly expanded.

CDC's tradition, he said, "is to get out from behind offices and get out into the field, where disease is occurring."

But some in attendance said laboratory work should not be neglected.

"This conference is writing off the 1.5 million people who are already positive (infected with the virus that can cause AIDS)," said Bill Bahman, of New York's AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power. "Again, they're not talking in terms of medicine and treatment."

Dramatic statistics about the incidence of acquired immune deficiency syndrome formed the background of the two-day conference. Blacks and Hispanics, 19 percent of the U.S. population, account for 38 percent of all reported cases of AIDS. Among children with AIDS, 80 percent are black or Hispanic.

And according to the CDC, there are distinct racial breakdowns in the way AIDS patients get the disease: injectable drug abuse or heterosexual transmission account for 45 percent of black cases and 39 percent of Hispanic cases, compared to just 6 percent among white AIDS patients, the vast majority of whom are homosexual or bisexual men.

The disease, transmitted most often through sex or shared drug needles, has struck 39,594 people in the United States; so far, 22,747, or 57 percent, have died.

Dr. Donald Hopkins, deputy director of the CDC and the agency's top black official, called for tough talk in black and Hispanic communities about those groups' key risk factors for AIDS.

"AIDS will not be controlled in blacks and Hispanics without control of IV drug abuse and increased ... treatment for drug abuse," he said, adding that sexual promiscuity cannot be ignored, either.

Eunice Diaz, director of health promotion for Los Angeles' White Memorial Hospital, lauded federal efforts to better reach minorities, but warned that "there should not be any further discrimination and alienation against the Latino community."

And she blasted Hopkins and other federal officials for labeling victims as "promiscuous" and "drug-using."

Steve Sroka, a Cleveland public school teacher who has developed educational material on AIDS, said he worried that some of the emphasis on minorities might backfire.

"We have to be very sensitive not to stigmatize and discriminate," he said.

Psychic occurrence hard for scientists to explain

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP)

Scientists who investigate such mysteries as psychic spoon-bending, mind-reading and things that go bump in the night wound up an international conference Saturday saying there's something out there, but they aren't sure what.

"There is now enough information from research to suggest that some odd things do happen, but there's no cohesive theory as to why and how they happen," said American Professor Robert L. Morris of Edinburgh University.

Morris, 45, Britain's first professor of parapsychology, said in an interview that his science deals with "curious things that aren't explained."

"We don't know what the outcome of the many investigations will be and if it turns out that psychic phenomena are merely the application of known physics and biology, and can be explained in ordinary terms, well, that's fine," he said.

Morris, formerly of Syracuse University, New York, joined 140 other scientists in the field to discuss their work, in Edinburgh at the five-day, 30th annual conference of the Parapsychological Association.

A note of caution about believing fantastic stories was sounded by Dr. John Beloff, a retired Edinburgh University psychologist who organized the meeting with Morris.

"I consider that excessive credulity does far more harm than excessive incredulity," said Beloff.

In his address on the credibility of psychic claims, Beloff said there were fewer cases around of alleged psychic activity than there used to be.

He said Uri Geller, who gained fame with his claimed ability to bend spoons by thought alone, "has taken a terrible battering and the mini-Gellers have become even scarcer."

But from time to time, there were amazing claims, Beloff said. "Our ancestors called them miracles or witchcraft but modern researchers should adopt a neutral term such as 'extreme phenomena,'" he said.

If such extreme phenomena exist, it is intellectually dishonest as well as cowardly to discount them, Beloff said.

Morris said investigators of the paranormal have a handy short name for the apparently inexplicable. They call it psi, which rhymes with sigh.

Psi covers extrasensory perception or ESP, which is knowing things you couldn't have known by the usual means, like sensing the death of a relative at the moment of death, or dreaming of a plane crash that happens next day.

"I know of an Edinburgh woman who left her work suddenly because she felt something was wrong at home and on arriving there she found one of her children had been sent home from school ill," Morris said.

The power of mind over matter, like spoon-bending or rolling a string of winning combinations with dice by apparent willpower, is called psychokinesis or PK.

In a PK case cited by Alok Saklani of Garwhal University in Srinagar, India, a Himalayan shaman or faith-healer persuaded one group of wheat seeds to germinate more abundantly than another group, seemingly by concentrating her thoughts on them, and under test conditions.

Robert McConnell, a retired physicist at Pittsburgh University and the association's first president, told The Associated Press: "We don't have any idea what we're doing. All we know is that something occurs."

Davis drops deeper in debt

DALLAS (AP) — Industrialist Cullen Davis, who once estimated his worth at more than $100 million, will list potential personal and business debts of about $700 million, says his bankruptcy attorney.

The attorney, Eddie Roush Jr., said Davis would list assets of less than $5 million in court filings next month.

The $700 million includes about $500 million owed by the family oil business, Kendavis Industries International, which is also in bankruptcy court proceedings, Roush said.

Davis incurred up to another $200 million in personal debt as a result of real estate deals and investments, Roush said.

"It's shocking that it could happen," said Roush, who has counseled Davis on business matters for the past year. "I got to him too late."

Roush said Davis, who filed for voluntary liquidation of assets under Chapter 7 under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code in July, would include corporate claims in the personal filing, because there have been indications that the corporate creditors may attempt to use Davis' personal assets to pay off family business debts.

"If I don't schedule it (in Davis' personal bankruptcy case), I can't discharge it," Roush said.

Davis' estate had a bank balance of $1,600 Thursday, but Roush said a lawsuit filed by Davis against his family business could net him and his brother, Kenneth Davis, more than $4 million. That lawsuit is scheduled for trial next month.

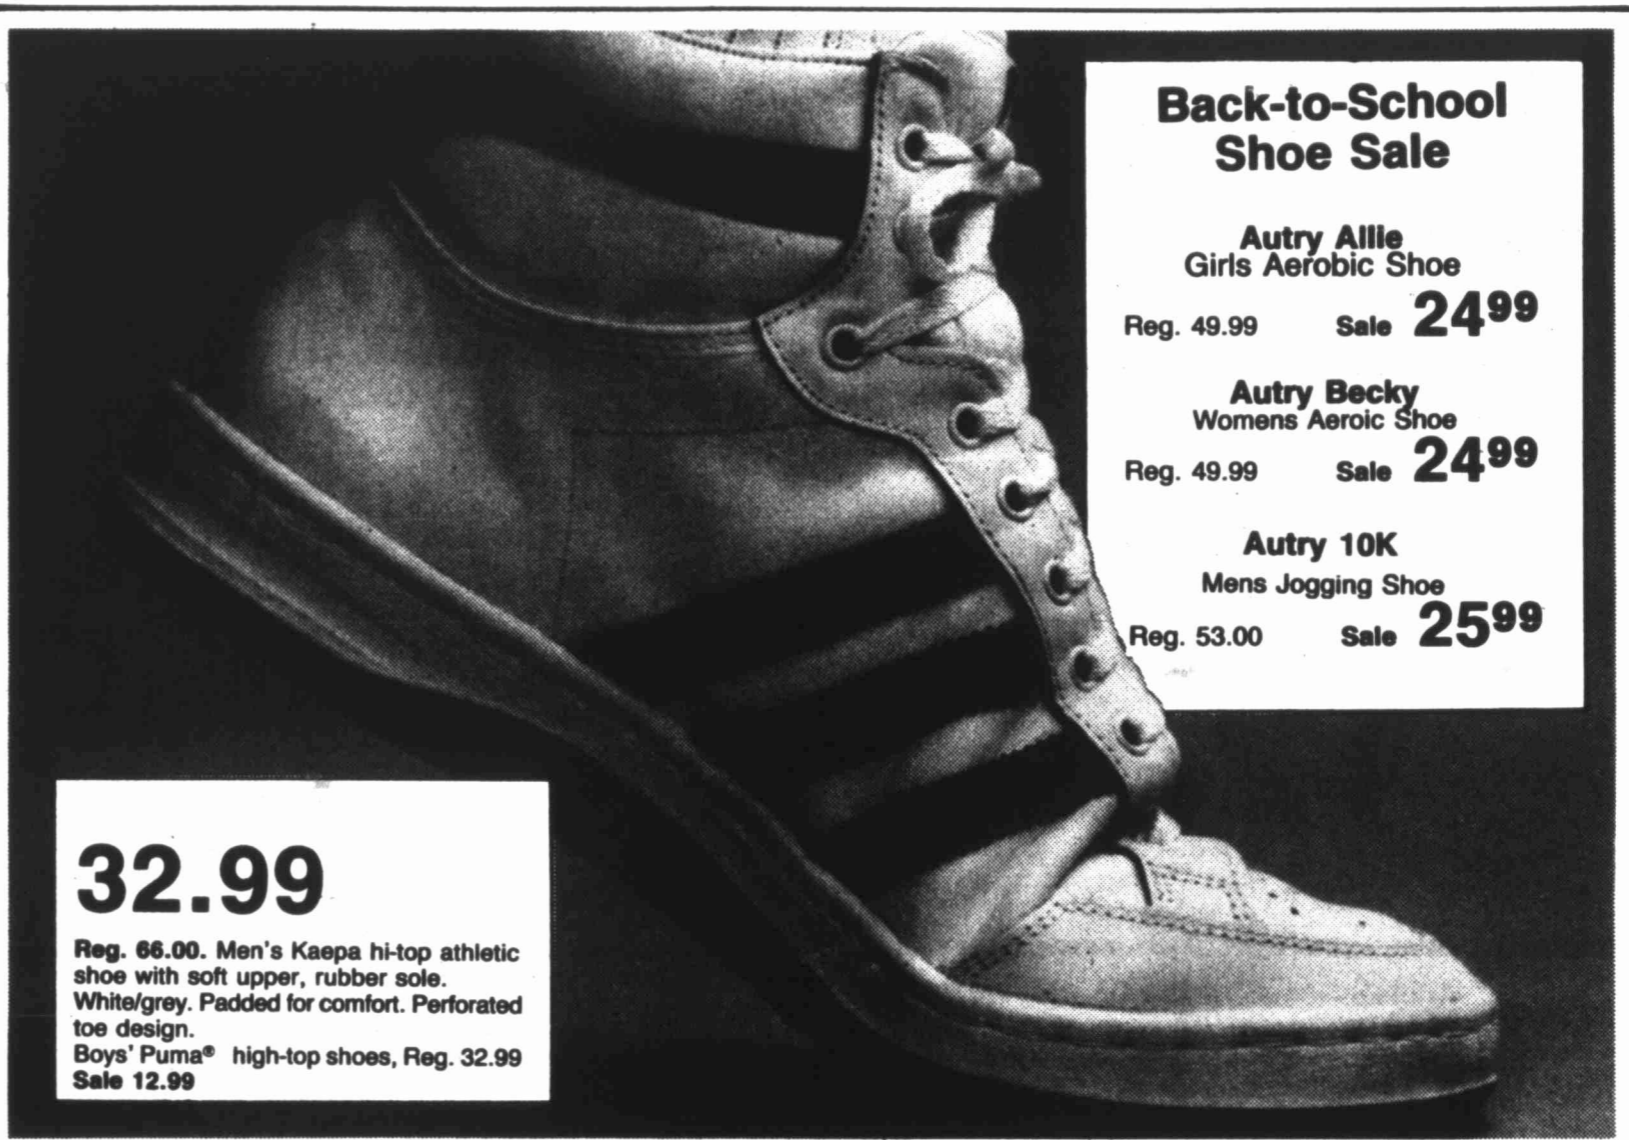

The Davis brothers were once listed among the 400 wealthiest Americans by Forbes magazine, and Cullen Davis was one of the richest men ever tried for murder. He was accused of killing his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, but was acquitted of the charges by an Amarillo jury.

He filed his personal bankruptcy petition after a mistrial was declared in a wrongful death lawsuit filed by his ex-wife, Priscilla Davis, over the death of the girl, Ms. Davis' daughter from a previous marriage.

Ms. Davis and Miss Wilborn's father, Jack Wilborn, had sought millions of dollars from Davis in the girl's death.

She was killed in an August 2, 1976, shooting at Davis' Fort Worth mansion. Ms. Davis' lover, Stan Farr, also was killed, and she and a family friend, Gus Gavrel, were injured.

The bankruptcy proceedings have blocked the trial of further wrongful death cases stemming from the shootings.

Nelson wins third major

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Larry Nelson desperately wanted one more major championship before he ended a late-starting golf career.

He also wanted to finally silence the critics who claimed two major crowns weren't enough to earn him a spot among the game's elite.

The quiet little man from Georgia solved both problems Sunday, knocking in a six-foot par putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Lanny Wadkins to win the 69th PGA Championship.

Both players finished at 1-under-par 287 on the 7,002-yard Champions course of the PGA National Golf Club. Nelson closed with a 72, Wadkins with a 73.

"This really is a big confidence booster to me," Nelson said.

"This is the most important one," he added. "You never know when your last victory will be."

Nelson, who will be 40 next month, won his first major in the 1981 PGA and came back two years later to capture the U.S. Open.

"After the '83 Open I decided not to be concerned about what anybody thought of my career," Nelson said.

He said he began thinking about doing other things at that time, got into several businesses and saw his golf game deteriorate. "It's been all downhill since then," he said of his game. "This year I wanted to come back and play golf. I was going to play until I won again."

Although his goal was attained in the sweltering, record-setting 97-degree weather Sunday, Nelson said he was ready to play some more.

It was Nelson's eighth victory on the PGA Tour, but his first since the 1984 Walt Disney.

It also earned him $150,000 and an automatic spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that will face a European team next month.

"I'm extremely happy because I won one of the greatest championships on one of the hardest golf courses against one of the greatest fields," Nelson said.

"And, I beat Lanny Wadkins, who is one of the toughest competitors in the game."

"It was kind of a test of survival today," Wadkins added, and it was Nelson who survived on a day when six players either led or shared the lead.

Scott Hoch, who started the final round seven shots behind, had a 69 to finish at 288. He was very much in contention going to the last hole, where he missed an 8-foot birdie putt, and then missed a 3-foot par that would have placed him in the playoff.

Mark McCumber, who shared the third round lead with D.A. Weibring, gambled for victory when he tried to reach the par-5 final hole in two.

It failed. His second shot plunked in the water. After a drop, he almost holed his approach, one he needed to make the playoff. His was about three feet away. He missed again for bogey, finishing with a 77 for a 289 and a tie with Don Pooley, who had a 72.

Weibring closed with a 76 and tied Hoch for third place.

Deadlocked at 290 were Bobby Wadkins, 77, and Ben Crenshaw, 74.

Raymond Floyd, a two-time champion, and Spain's Seve Ballesteros were in position after three rounds, but both collapsed in the heat. Ballesteros shot a 78 for 292, Floyd had an 80 and was at 293.

Tom Watson, who needs a PGA title to become the fifth player to win all four major events, made an early run, but struggled in with a 39 on the back nine, including a double-bogey on 18, for a 71 and was at 293.

Five-time PGA champion Jack Nicklaus was never a factor, finishing with a 73 for 296, and Arnold Palmer had a 76 for 306.

Greg Norman, one of the pre-tournament favorites, soared to a 79 and struggled in at 309.

Walker joins Cowboys' growing casualty list

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys running back Herschel Walker will miss the team's first three exhibition games because of a sprained ligament in his right knee, team doctors say.

"I would like to get back into the swing of things," Walker said Sunday after doctors determined he would miss the three games. "But I really feel like I overworked myself in the off-season. So this might be a blessing in disguise."

Walker's sprain brings to 22 the number of Cowboys watching from the sidelines with injuries, including wide receiver Mike Sherrard, who was to have been the cornerstone of the Cowboys' offense. And veteran quarterback Danny White has been troubled with a sore throwing wrist.

Walker suffered the injury Wednesday during a goal-line scrimmage and was originally diagnosed as having a bruised tendon by coach Tom Landry. The team reported he had suffered a sprained knee, but Sunday team doctors revealed a more serious injury.

Doctors detected a sprained medial collateral, one of the two outside ligaments that support the knee. Doctors said the injury will not require surgery.

After missing exhibitions against the San Diego Chargers, the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Raiders, Walker is expected to be available for the team's final exhibition game Sept. 5 against the Houston Oilers at Texas Stadium in Irving.

"I really feel like I'm making progress with it," Walker said. "But it needs the rest. I've still got the whole season to look forward to. That is where everything counts."

Walker's injury means the team's "dream backfield" of Walker and Tony Dorsett won't get much playing time during the exhibition season. Dorsett, who had off-season surgery on both knees to remove deposits, is expected to be on the bench for most of the exhibition season.

Several receivers were injured last week and four of them will miss extensive playing time.

Sherrard broke his right leg Wednesday and will be out for the season. No. 2 split end Karl Pove separated his shoulder Saturday during the team's blue-white scrimmage. He should be out about three weeks.

Ray Alexander broke his wrist and will be out two months, Everett Gay sprained an ankle and Mike Renfro and Rod Barksdale pulled hamstring muscles.

Oklahoma captures Oil Bowl

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Del City, Okla., linebacker Mongo Allen, named the top defensive player in the 50th Oil Bowl football game, says he wasn't surprised by Oklahoma's 10-0 victory over Texas because once the running-backs were stopped, nothing else would work.

Wade Stanley booted a 41-yard field goal and Tony Brooks ran for a 7-yard touchdown in the second quarter Saturday night to lead Oklahoma.

The matchup, sponsored by the Maskat Shrine Temple of Wichita Falls, annually pits high school all-stars from the neighboring states and benefits handicapped children charities in the two rival states.

"We knew if we stopped (Eric) Chatman and (Elbert) Cooper, we would have a good chance. They're great backs, but we felt we could stop them," said Allen, who is on his way to Kansas University.

The Texas all-stars were held to just 68 yards on 41 carries.

The game was the first time Texas has been held scoreless in the 42 meetings between the two states, but Texas still holds the series advantage with a 31-10-1 record. Early Oil Bowls included only Texas teams.

Brooks, from Tulsa, Oklahoma, ran five times for 18 yards and Leonard Bullock of Oklahoma City Southeast ran twice for 17 yards in the 52-yard drive, which produced the field goal by Stanley of Okemah.

Oklahoma quarterback Frank III runs from Texas' defensive lineman Wade Railsback from Graham during first quarter action in the Oil Bowl Saturday night. The Oklahoma all-stars beat the Texas stars 10-0 in their annual battle.

Brooks, who is headed for Notre Dame, was named the top offensive player. He ran for 68 yards in 19 carries.

Quarterback Frank III of Oklahoma City Bishop McGuinness connected with Reggie Jeffers of Ada with two passes for 21 yards in the drive.

A 22-yard pass from quarterback

John Alsup of Edmond to Jeffers started Oklahoma's only touchdown drive. Bullock ran 21 yards to the 7 on the next play, where Brooks took it in from there.

Oklahoma outgained Texas 222-115 while compiling most of the yardage in the first half.

Texas' best scoring chance came on its first possession. Texas moved from its 43 to the Oklahoma 12 but Chatman was stopped for a two-yard loss on fourth-and-two.

A Texas interception game them the ball at the Oklahoma 27 late in the game, but Oklahoma took over on downs after dropping quarterback Rodney Bell for losses of 18 and five yards.

U.S. winning, Cubans fuming at Pan Am

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — American athletes reaped an early harvest of gold medals on the first day of competition in the Pan American Games, while U.S. basketball and baseball teams won their openers and Jamaica's Raymond Stewart ran the third fastest 100 meters ever.

Off the field the action was just as intense. Cuban officials protested what they saw as efforts to get their athletes to defect and Cuban-Americans traded punches with members of the Cuban delegation after a baseball game between Cuba and the Netherlands Antilles.

Mainly, though, it was finally the athletes' turn in the spotlight Sunday as the 10th Pan Am Games opened with the host American team picking up 17 gold medals out of the 36 contested.

The heavily favored U.S. basketball team overcame a ragged start to win its opener over Panama, 91-63. The U.S. baseball team also won, coming back from a 4-0 deficit to top Canada, 10-6.

Jamaica's Stewart turned in perhaps the most spectacular performance of the day, running the 100 meters semifinal in 9.89 seconds. Stewart's run was under Calvin Smith's world record of 9.93, but was wind-aided and will not be recognized.

Bliss wants Johnson in

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University should not deny high school basketball star Larry Johnson a scholarship because of changes in university policies concerning admissions, basketball coach Dave Bliss says.

SMU offered the Dallas Skyline High School star a scholarship, but later changed admission policies after the football scandal that resulted in suspension of football at the Southwest Conference school.

In his strongest public statement concerning the matter, Bliss Sunday told the Dallas Morning News that when SMU officials offered Johnson a scholarship they were aware he might not meet minimum National Collegiate Athletic Association standards for immediate eligibility.

After the football scandal surfaced, the university's Board of Governors changed its policy to eliminate "special admissions," a practice of admitting students who would otherwise fail to meet minimum university standards. At that time, the board specified that the policy change would apply only to future football admissions.

Sources close to Johnson told the newspaper that Johnson has met the NCAA requirement for incoming freshmen athletes of a 2.0 grade-point average for 12 "core" classes.

Yanks' boss uses silent treatment

DETROIT (AP) — Owner George Steinbrenner, whose New York Yankees are struggling through a road trip, confirmed Saturday that he and Manager Lou Piniella aren't speaking.

Steinbrenner, in a statement issued by the Yankees, also confirmed published reports that he forbid Piniella and Yankee General Manager Woody Woodward from discussing bringing up a new catcher until the owner had first talked to Piniella.

Steinbrenner also was miffed that some Yankee players have said the owner should not get so involved in the running of the team.

Princeton coach dies during jog

WOLFEBORO, N.H. (AP) — Princeton University football Coach Ron Rogerson died after suffering an apparent heart attack while jogging here, university officials said Sunday.

Rogerson, 44, was on vacation with his family and collapsed Saturday morning while running on an outdoor track at Kingswood Regional High School, a Princeton spokesman said.

Zimmerman captures LPGA event

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Mary Beth Zimmerman fought off stifling mid-August heat and pulled away from two challengers on the last five holes for a three-shot victory Sunday in the $300,000 LPGA Henredon Classic golf tournament.

Chi Chi dominating Seniors tour

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez shot a 5-under-par 67 final round Sunday, beating Orville Moody by eight strokes to win the $250,000 Senior PGA Classic.

The 51-year-old Rodriguez shot rounds of 65, 66 and 67 for an 18-under-par 198 total, the biggest victory margin of the season on the Senior Tour. Rodriguez won the $37,500 first prize, successfully defending title he won last year by one stroke over Gary Player.

Rams nudge Broncos in London

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — In an NFL exhibition game on one of soccer's most allowed fields, running back Charles White tumbled into the end zone from four yards out with 28 seconds remaining to give the Los Angeles Rams a 28-27 victory over the Denver Broncos Sunday night.

The second TD of the night by the former Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California and the conversion by Mike Lansford capped the Rams' third comeback of the final quarter.

White had scored on the first play of the final quarter with a nine-yard run to put LA ahead 14-13.

McEnroe, Lendl rained out

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. (AP) — The first confrontation in two years between Ivan Lendl and John McEnroe was postponed because of rain in the second set Sunday during the final of the $315,000 Volvo International Tennis Tournament.

After waiting almost 3½ hours, tournament officials rescheduled the match for Monday to follow the doubles final, which begins at 10 a.m. The singles winner gets $40,000.

McEnroe won the first set 7-6, taking the tiebreaker 7-3. Lendl was ahead 4-1 in the second set when play was stopped.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute
FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do not be discouraged by minor problems which may interfere with your ability to express yourself. Handle these problems by maintaining a practical and impersonal stance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A new contact may take up a good deal of your time today, but don't be impatient, as it will be worth it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to a family tie's financial advice, but not at all to a friend who opposes this advice out of jealousy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure that all conversations are in privacy if you want good results. Confide only in those you can trust.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A new system for handling your work will produce good results, provided you don't act foolishly.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid getting into any arguments over finances. Find some kind of tension-relieving recreation this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't permit a known troublemaker to interfere with your plans for the future. Keep your ideas confidential.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may be doubtful about some advice from friends, but chances are you should follow through with it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't take any heat from a fellow worker, as it would set a precedent which would be frequently taken advantage of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A trip may be coming your way if you feel it's necessary, so get your wardrobe in order. Plan your finances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Only one appropriate person should be approached for advice on reaching material goals today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't take on any extra monetary responsibilities. Help a close friend who is in need of counseling.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This isn't a good day to be sociable with personal friends, but it is a time for getting to know your co-workers better.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she may tend to build up a lot of anxiety when attempting to handle too many activities too quickly, so teach him or her to think carefully before acting and to plan ahead. Your progeny may tend to learn slowly academically, but once a lesson is learned, it's learned forever.

Rural hospitals face struggle to compete

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Advantage of urban hospital centers over their rural counterparts pose the need for smaller hospitals to seek new methods of attracting doctors and patients, two local administrators say.

Larry Elliott and Ray Mason, administrators of Martin County and Mitchell County hospitals, respectively, recently discussed these and other rural hospital issues.

They address four major problems facing rural hospitals:

• Medicare reimbursements — which Elliott and Mason agree is the most unfair advantage of urban hospitals.

Under the present system, urban hospitals receive more in reimbursements than smaller medical centers do. The reason, Elliot says, is the "bigger is better" philosophy of the government.

Mason said federal authorities give larger amounts to urban areas because they figure costs are higher in bigger cities — a theory the administrator disputes.

Another problem with the decreased reimbursements, Elliott said, is that rural hospitals receive less money from the government, while it is expected to provide the same quality of care.

Smaller hospitals also are more dependent on Medicare patients for their revenue. Consequently, reduced reimbursements affect the smaller facilities to a greater extent, Mason said.

The solution, both agree, is for Medicare to abolish the urban and rural designations, making both eligible for the same amount of reimbursements.

• Peer review — the system by which the Texas Medical Foundation, under contract to the Health Care Finance Administration, reviews doctors and hospitals to certify their Medicare privileges.

Neither administrator opposes the concept of the review, but believe it is administered unfairly. Mason said it's a matter of numbers.

Mitchell County's doctors are subjected to review more often, he explained, because there are fewer of them. In contrast, larger hospitals rarely have all their doctors reviewed because there are more of them, Mason said.

LARRY ELLIOTT

Larry Elliott, administrator of Martin County Hospital, top, and Ray Mason, administrator of Mitchell County Hospital, say hospitals have unfair advantages over their rural counterparts in several areas.

Another reason the review is slanted against rural hospitals in the administrator's view is the lack of family practice doctors on the review board — despite such physicians constituting the majority of a small hospital's staff, he said. Mason suggests that all doctors be reviewed on a regular basis and for more family doctors to be included on the review board. Elliot also disagreed with the methods of peer review, saying it uses fear as a motivator. Examiners constantly threaten doctors and their hospitals with loss of Medicare privileges — for any amount of time the foundation determines — and also threaten the doctors with review by the State Board of Medical Examiners, he said.

He contends that economics should be the motivator for hospitals to comply with review standards. If a doctor's Medicare records aren't satisfactory, the reimbursements should be reduced or eliminated for a certain period of time.

Threat of review by the state medical examiners, however, should be left to the American Medical Association, Elliott said.

• Staff recruitment and retention — which both believe is more difficult at a rural hospital.

Mason said Mitchell County currently has an adequate amount of staff members, but there is little leeway. If a worker calls in sick, the hospital must operate short-handed, he said.

He said the problem exists in larger areas also, but urban areas have a larger labor pool to draw upon than Colorado City.

Elliott said the problem with trying to recruit personnel to a rural area is the belief among doctors that they will be more subject to peer review, and the hospital will have greater difficulty staying open than a larger medical center.

To correct the situation, both men said it was necessary to upgrade their respective facilities. But Elliott sees two advantages to practicing in Stanton.

He believes Martin County's hospital is better equipped than other rural hospitals; and the town also offers "small-town living with big city convenience" — citing Stanton's proximity to Big Spring and Midland.

Mason said Mitchell County was offering specialized services in an effort to entice more doctors to practice there.

• Utilization of resources — which Elliott and Mason consider crucial to survival of rural hospitals.

To that end, both hospitals offer more services than ever before, the men said.

Elliott said Martin County is nearing the end of a two-year expansion program.

Briefs

VA plans recognition day

The Big Spring VA Medical Center is planning a Women Veterans Recognition Day and Wellness Clinic on Tuesday, November 10, 1987, according to Tom Balderach, clinic public information officer.

The Wellness Clinic is designed for the prevention of illness, Balderach said. Prevention strategies include early diagnosis and education.

The clinic will provide gynecologic examinations, cancer screening, diet counseling, mammography where indicated, and other health screening tests, he added.

He said that the VA needs help in identifying women veterans in the area. If any information about a woman veteran is known, please contact Dr. Carolyn Reed at the medical center.

VA library chief returns

Don Fortner, former Chief of Library Service, has returned to Big Spring VA Medical Center, according to Director Conrad Alexander.

Prior to working at Big Spring, Fortner was employed at the VA Medical Center in Columbia, Mo. He initially transferred to Big Spring in 1975, Alexander said.

As chief of library services, Fortner is responsible for obtaining the medical literature published that will inform the staff of progress and improved techniques for patient care, the director said.

Fortner and his wife, Myrt, are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. They have three daughters — Jennifer, a sophomore nursing student at Texas Tech University; Julie, a senior at Big Spring High School; and Jill, a seventh-grader at Goliad Middle School.

Rest best for headaches

LUBBOCK — Some headaches can be traced to a specific physical event: A weather change, the onset of flu, chemical fumes, eye strain or an allergic reaction — others may be triggered by emotional factors, like stress or anger.

The Office of Public Relations for Methodist Hospital released a report explaining the different types of headaches and the best way to deal with them.

The best medicine for a tension headache is to take time to relax; lie down in a quiet place, take a walk, massage your head and neck or soak in a warm tub, the report states.

It adds that non-prescription drugs, like aspirin or acetaminophen, often can relieve pain.

If the source of tension is constant, such as job pressure, deal with the problem, the report continues. It may be time to talk with your boss, change your attitude toward work or find a new job.

The report lists four types of headaches: • Vascular — When blood vessels in the head and scalp dilate, they stretch nerves within them. A throbbing ache results on one side of the head. Migraine is the most well-known type.

The headache itself is often preceded by 10 to 30 minutes of symptoms, including seeing halos around lights, nausea, tingling in the arms and legs and confusion.

• Sinus — The sinuses are cavities in the skull behind the forehead, eyes and nose. They are lined with a mucus-producing tissue. The lining swells when irritated or when mucus is blocked from draining through the nose. The swollen linings trap air inside the sinuses, causing headache and facial pain.

• Temporal arteritis — An artery in the temple becomes inflamed and tender; low-grade fever and weight loss often accompany this headache. The condition affects the elderly and can be treated.

• Traction headaches — These account for only a small percentage of all headaches and stem from pressure within the head caused by a serious disorder: Brain tumor, aneurysm or stroke. Such headaches are symptoms calling attention to a much more serious condition.

Clinic to test new drug

BATON ROUGE, La. — Doctors at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge will be testing the effectiveness of a new heartburn drug to see if it can provide relief to the millions of Americans who find current heartburn medications no help, according to Charles Madanick, public affairs officer for the clinic.

The drug, famotidine, will be given to only 20 patients in a six to 12-week trial at Ochsner to see how well it treats the symptoms of heartburn and to measure its potential for preventing the damaging effects of acid backflow on the esophagus, Madanick said.

"Most of the medications on the drug shelf today are fairly effective in treating heartburn for 60 percent of the population," said Dr. Terry Ortega, a gastroenterologist at the clinic.

"But, for million of Americans, those drugs simply do not work," he added. "We're hoping famotidine will answer their needs."

Patients selected for the test will undergo an extensive screening process, which includes a physical exam, direct inspection of the lower esophagus with a flexible optic tube, Madanick said.

He added that patients who are interested in being considered as a candidate for testing may call (504)-295-4319 for more information.

Hearing aid catalog ready

WAUKEGAN, Ill. — The publication of a new Senior Citizen Discount Hearing Aid Catalog has been announced by American Health Service.

American Health Service is an organization serving the hearing needs of the American public through the sale of brand name hearing aids at substantial savings direct by mail, according to Irene Galletto, a spokeswoman for the company.

Unfortunately, hearing aids do not last forever. In fact, according to "Facts About Hearing Aids," it's estimated that the average life of a hearing aid is approximately three years.

Galletto said that the catalog contains many models of hearing aids made by leading manufacturers and that when buying a replacement aid direct through American Health Service, savings can amount to as much as 60 percent compared to retail prices.

For the free catalog, write American Health Catalog, 1413 Golf Road, Waukegan, Ill. 60087.

Veterans Administration honors supply employees

Seventeen people will be honored at the Big Spring VA Medical Center this week as a part of the nationwide salute to 6,500 employees who handle procurement and supply functions.

In proclaiming VA Procurement and Supply Service Week, Thomas K. Turnage, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, cited the "vital role these dedicated people play in our ability to provide high quality medical care and benefits to America's veterans."

Conrad Alexander, director of the local facility, notes that the local procurement and supply function includes several activities:

• Personal Property Management Section — responsible for maintaining stock levels in the Supply Warehouse for items used on a consistent basis, accountability for all stock items and equipment used at this facility, requisitioning all supplies and equipment obtained from or through the VA Supply Depot.

• Purchase and Contract Section — responsible for all procurements from Government contract and open market sources for supplies and equipment, as well as annual supply and service requirements, maintenance, contract nursing home care, contract counseling and half-way houses.

• Storage and Distribution Section — receives all incoming shipments, delivers items to the user services and stores stock items in the warehouse. Warehouse stocked items are issued on a recurring basis as requested by the using services on an established schedule.

• Supply Processing and Distribution Section — issues approximately 20,400 line items to the patient care areas and expends $220,000 annually for these supplies. SPD personnel decontaminate, clean and sterilize equipment and reusable supplies for reuse to the wards.

The VA operates one of the largest acquisition, inventory management, and distribution activities in the Federal government, he added.

Alexander also noted that the Big Spring VA Medical Center has contributed to the VA's reputation as one of the best logistics operations in the government. Because of this, the VA has been delegated the responsibility for centralized acquisition and management of medical care items for the entire federal establishment, he said.

The Office of Procurement and Supply's centrally managed contract and inventory programs generated cost containment actions of over $343 million for the VA's medical care program during fiscal year '86 alone, Turnage noted.

The VA has 172 medical centers, three supply depots, a marketing center, a prosthetics distribution center, plus its Central Office in Washington — where procurement and supply functions are carried out, he said.

Big Spring VA Supply Service employees hosted an open house within the Supply Service on August 5. Refreshments were served from 1 to 3 p.m.

Medical center names director

LUBBOCK — Steve L. Grappe, former administrator of Hamlin Memorial Hospital, Hamlin, has been named director of regional services for Methodist Hospital.

He will be responsible for development and operations of the hospital's System Regional Healthcare Network, which will make various health care services available to health care providers and communities across the region, according to Debra Reece, of the hospital's office of public relations.

Grappe had been administrator of Hamlin Memorial Hospital since April, 1981, she said. He directly supervised all financial and departmental operations and reported to a seven-member board of directors elected by the community.

From Oct. 1978 to March 1981, he served as administrative assistant at the Saint Joseph Hospital, El Paso. He was responsible for opening and managing a 23-suite medical office building there, Reece said.

Malone And Hogan Clinic

Malone and Hogan Clinic is proud to welcome our new Podiatrist, Carlos A. Dimidjian, D.P.M., to our staff. Dr. Dimidjian was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina and raised in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He received his D.P.M. from the Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine in 1985. Dr. Dimidjian completed his internship and surgical residency at Dallas Family Hospital. He speaks fluent Spanish.

We are looking forward to having Dr. Dimidjian join Malone and Hogan Clinic and the Big Spring community. Malone and Hogan Clinic, 1501 W. 11th Place, Big Spring. 915/267-6361 or 1-800-262-6361. Appointments available.
