Smoke alarms required in rental units

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

All Texas rental units are required to have smoke detectors, according to Big Spring Fire Chief Carl Dorton.

The smoke detector issue was raised after a wrongful death lawsuit was filed Monday in 118th District Court as the result of the death of 13-month-old Nicholas Nolan Richardson in a 1986 Big Spring fire.

The suit alleges that property owner Herman Shifflett violated the Texas property code by failing to install a smoke or fire detection device in the home.

Dorton said an article of the Texas Property code enacted in September 1981 requires that smoke detectors be installed in all rental units. The article does not apply to owner-occupied homes.

Motels and hotels are also required to have smoke detectors installed.

According to Section 3 of the article, a three-year grace period was provided for the installation of smoke detectors in such dwellings built on or before Sept. 1, 1981 — the date the Act was added to the Texas Property Code.

Since Sept. 1, 1984, every rental dwelling unit in the state has been required to have a smoke detector installed at the beginning of a tenant's occupancy, the article states.

After being notified by the tenant to install, repair or inspect a smoke detector, the landlord has seven days in which to comply.

If the landlord fails to comply, the tenant is entitled to one or more of the following remedies: A court order directing the landlord to comply, a court order awarding judgment against the landlord for damages suffered by the tenant as a result of violation of the Act, a civil penalty against the landlord of one month's rent plus $100, or a termination of the rental agreement by the tenant without court proceedings.

The Act also allows the winning party of a lawsuit to recover reasonable attorney fees and court costs.

The article states that detectors must be installed in accordance with the article, which gives instructions on where and how many must be installed.

In general, the statute requires a smoke alarm to be installed outside each separate bedroom, but allows for exceptions, depending on how the house is constructed.

City studying state prison bid invitation

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

City Council is expected to respond favorably to a Texas Department of Corrections request for a medium to maximum security prison proposal for Big Spring.

The council is to meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall. It is expected to approve a resolution stating that intention.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford said the proposed prison would employ 760 and would have a payroll of $1.3 million per month. It would be a 2,250-bed facility, he said.

Tuesday's resolution is the council's attempt "to position itself to be able to bid," Rutherford said, adding that council members have discussed the possibilities in closed sessions during the past month.

Although the city is considering about six potential sites, a location at the Airpark probably will be detailed in the proposal, with others listed as alternates, he said. A proposal must be submitted in two weeks, he noted.

The state prison could be the third prison to be constructed in Big Spring. A federal prison camp is located at the former Webb Air Force Base and a privately-owned prison is scheduled to be built at the Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

The council also is expected to address this year's ad valorem tax rate, camp site fees and bingo tax.

The ad valorem tax rate is to remain the same as the current fiscal year — 68 cents per $100 value, said City Manager Mack Wofford.

The camp site fees and bingo tax, new fees, had been discussed at previous work sessions.

A proposed ordinance calls for a $4 charge per day per camping space at the Comanche Trail Park campground.

Wofford said the bingo tax will be 2 percent of gross receipts. The camp site fees and bingo tax are expected to yield $4,000 a year each in extra city revenues, according to the 1987-88 budget.

Also at the council meeting, Herbert Ward, 700 E 13th St., is expected to present a petition calling for more aggressive animal control.

Ward complained at a previous meeting about problems he experiences with stray dogs while jogging. He proposed animal control patrols should collect strays on sight rather than relying on complaint calls.

The council also is expected to consider a name change for Northwest Fourth Street, to consider two alcoholic beverage permits, to consider support of a Permian Basin drug task force, and to consider an annual agreement with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce regarding attracting out of town visitors.

Gramm: Interest rate omen for Congress on spending binge

VICTORIA (AP) — A higher discount interest rate isn't a good sign and should be a warning to those standing in the way of a balanced budget, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm says.

The Federal Reserve Bank on Friday announced a half-percent hike in the interest rate it charges on loans to banks. The increase — from 5.5 to 6 percent, the first such rise since April 1984 — sent major banks across the country scurrying to raise prime lending rates by half a percentage point.

"I think the increase in the interest rates is an omen," Gramm said Friday. "After two years of success in bringing down the deficit, Congress has gone on a spending binge and the deficit is going back up."

Factions that don't want to control spending try to focus attention on other issues, and so far their efforts appear to be successful, the Texas Republican said.

"What is happening is that something always manages to bum deficit reduction off the front burner," he said. "We've got to stop that."

The Senate has approved a revitalized version of the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction plan, of which Gramm was chief architect. Now it's up to the House to follow, for Congress needs to renew its commitment to balancing the budget or face the consequences, Gramm said.

In Victoria Friday with U.S. Rep. Mac Sweeney, R-Wharton, for a tour of the campus shared by Victoria College and the University of Houston-Victoria, Gramm later flew to Beeville, where he toured the Navy's Chase Field pilot training facility.

Gramm said the federal government would do well to take note of the relationship that has developed between Victoria College and the University of Houston-Victoria.

"When you've got two separate institutions sharing the same campus — that's efficiency we don't have enough of," he said.

Gramm also said he was impressed by the two schools because they are more than just learning institutions. He said an example of that extra effort is the small business incubator project designed to help new businesses get started by lowering overhead.

Jail, bail collects $15,000

Herald staff report

The local March of Dimes chapter has collected 75 percent of the $20,000 pledged during its Jail and Bail program during July, according to chapter President Donna Parker.

"I'm absolutely thrilled with the results so far," she said of the $15,000 collected as of Friday. "We haven't even mailed the second notices yet, so I feel we've done very well."

Second notices were mailed Tuesday, Parker added.

More than 98 people were "arrested" during the three days of the program, and had to raise an average of $150 in pledges for "bail," she noted.

Of the amount pledged, $18,000 was in bail pledges and $2,000 was in arrest fees — amounts charged to persons to have their friends arrested, Parker said.

Collections have "far surpassed" the chapters goals, she added. "Our goal was $5,000. We just wanted to beat Lubbock."

Lubbock raised $5,000 in its Jail and Bail program, Parker noted.

Parker is currently trying to transfer her success here to similar programs throughout the Permian Basin. Jail and Bail programs are planned for Midland, Odessa, Stanton and several other towns, she said.

Plant coaxing more oil from fields

DENVER CITY (AP) — Amoco Production Co. has inaugurated a new multimillion-dollar carbon dioxide removal plant designed to coax more oil out of underground fields.

The plant, 70 miles southwest of Lubbock, will process hydrocarbon gas already separated from crude at a rate of 80 million cubic feet of carbon dioxide gas per day, Amoco spokesman Greg Clock said.

It is estimated that 90 percent of the gas stream coming into the plant will be carbon dioxide from injection wells at about 5,100 feet in the Wasson field San Andres formation.

During the next several days, Amoco will bring gas through the plant's various systems to ensure the final product meets specifications. The project is expected to extend the life of the 7,840-acre field into the 21st century.

Clock would not disclose the cost of building the project, but said Friday that several hundred producing and injection wells already are working.

Thirty full-time Amoco employees will operate the tertiary treatment plant, which will extract about 3,000 barrels of natural gas liquids and 14 tons of sulfur from hydrocarbon gas per day, he said.

Wasson field, which has undergone a third stage of carbon dioxide recovery since 1984, was discovered in 1936.

Amoco said carbon dioxide gas fed by pipelines from New Mexico and Colorado into the field is separated at the plant and reinjected for use in "coaxing more oil out of the reservoir," Clock said.

Currently, Amoco is working to expand its Mallet carbon dioxide removal plant, which serves three units in Slaughter field, 40 miles northeast of Denver City.

That plant, in Hockley County, was completed in 1985. Once in full operation, it should process about 36 billion cubic feet of carbon dioxide. Amoco said work there should be finished in early 1988.

Highways claim 10, more deaths likely

By The Associated Press

Ten people, including two pedestrians, have died on Texas highways during the lengthy Labor Day weekend, and the Department of Public Safety predicts the grim toll will grow to 42 by the time it ends Monday.

The official counting period began at 6 p.m. Friday and continues through midnight Monday, DPS spokesman David Wells said.

Among the latest incidents, 19-year-old Benjamin Huber of Austin died in a one-vehicle accident in northwest Austin early Saturday.

Rebecca M. Myers, 21, of Houston was killed in a head-on collision just before noon Saturday on Texas Highway 71, about five miles north of Columbus in Colorado County. Three others were injured in the accident.

In earlier accidents, Ronnie Lee Fowell, 34, of San Augustine died at about 6:25 p.m. Friday after the vehicle he was driving went off Texas Highway 147 and overturned, Wells said.

An unidentified male pedestrian, believed to be about 50, died at about 9:25 p.m. after he was struck by two vehicles on Texas Highway 358 in Corpus Christi. Wells said the pedestrian was crossing the road when he was struck.

Robert Romaniello, 19, Lawndale, Calif., was killed at about 9:30 p.m. He was a passenger in a two-vehicle collision on Interstate 10 about four miles east of Winnie in Jefferson County. Two others were injured, Wells said.

Charles Edward Dickens, 57, of Livingston died after a two-vehicle broadside collision at 10 p.m. Friday on U.S. Highway 190 about 10 miles east of Livingston. Dickens was a passenger in a car that was involved in a collision with a pickup truck, Wells said. Two others were injured.

Scott Lane Blanton, 18, of Georgetown died at 10:10 p.m. Friday as a passenger in a vehicle that rolled over on Farm-to-Market Road 971 about two miles northeast of Georgetown.

Miguel V. Jutierrez, 26, of Dallas, a pedestrian, was killed at about 11:29 p.m. when he was struck by a vehicle on north Central Expressway.

Weather

Forecast

West Texas: Widely scattered showers or thunderstorms with slightly below normal temperatures are predicted in the extended forecast. Panhandle: lows upper 50s, highs upper 70s. South Plains: lows upper 50s, highs mid-80s to upper 70s. Far west: Concho Valley and Permian Basin: lows low to mid-60s, highs 80s. Big Bend: highs lower 80s mountains to low 90s valleys, lows mid-50s mountains to mid-60s lowlands.

State

By The Associated Press

Most of the state enjoyed warm temperatures and sunny skies as the Labor Day weekend began Saturday, while the High Plains reported scattered showers.

A few showers also dotted the northern sections of the trans-Pecos, the National Weather Service said.

The inclement weather in West Texas stemmed from a weak upper-level disturbance just northwest of the area in combination with ample moisture and a weak surface trough of low pressure near the New Mexico-Texas border.

Accident victim satisfactory

Herald staff report

A Big Spring man was admitted to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital Saturday after being struck by a car.

Omar Jones, 1902 Thorpe St., is listed in satisfactory condition, a hospital spokesman said Saturday evening.

The accident occurred at 10:55 a.m. in Don's IGA parking lot, 1300 S. Gregg St.

According to the accident report, Myrtle D. Gring, 79, Route 3 Box

239, backed her car into Jones. Gring said her car was parked next to the supermarket and she did not see Jones behind her vehicle. She struck Jones as she was backing out, the report said. Jones said he was behind his car, which was parked facing east behind Gring's, the accident report said. He said Gring backed out without first looking, the report states.

Driver's inattention was listed as a contributing factor in the accident. No charges were filed.

Coahoma council meets Tuesday

Coahoma City Council will conduct its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Sept. 8 at the Community Center at North and Main streets.

The council is scheduled to meet with a Howard County Water District representative and a Big Spring city representative concerning a new water line south of Interstate 20, City Clerk Holly Best said.

The council also will discuss replacing a 4-inch discharge sewer line across Powell's land, and will discuss water bills of residents James Justice and Augustine Cantu.

Also listed on the agenda is a discussion by Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc. engineers to amend a sewer plant application.

Crimestoppers seek information

On Thursday, Aug. 27, between 5:30 and 9:30 p.m., unknown persons entered the house at 706 W. Sixth St. by prying the front door. The thieves stole a 19-inch RCA color television, a Goldstar videocassette recorder, a cassette tape case with about 24 cassettes, an AM/FM clock-radio-telephone, and four 16-ounce Budweiser glasses. Estimated value of the loss is $850.

Anyone with information about this or any other felony crime is urged to contact Crimestoppers at 263-1151. The line is open 24 hours a day.

Crimestoppers is authorized to pay up to $1,000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and indictment or conviction of any person involved in criminal activity. Information is confidential and callers can remain anonymous.

Detectors

Dorton said.

He said local hotels and motels were notified of the new smoke detector requirement — probably in 1982, but he couldn't remember the exact date.

"We knocked on doors of every hotel and motel in town," he said.

In addition, Dorton said he believes an announcement of the requirement was printed in the Big Spring Herald, although he had no record of it.

The wrongful death suit was filed by Donna and Dennis Richardson, individually, and on behalf of the estate of Nicholas Nolan Richardson, and as next friends for Desiree Richardson and Dennis Richardson III.

The Richardsons were renting a home from Shifflett at 1014 S. Runnels St. when the house caught on fire Sept. 17, resulting in the death of Nicholas Richardson.

Young A&M couple busy

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — For the youngest married couple ever to enroll Texas A&M University, taking notes all day and then heading out to work in the afternoon is not the usual path to wedded bliss.

But Jason Griffith, 18, and his wife, 17-year-old Scarlet Griffith, say the new routine is working out just fine.

"Sometimes we don't see as much of each other as we want to because of working and going to school all the time, but because we work so hard, the time we have together is so special," Mrs. Griffith said. "It's just a matter of making quality time instead of quantity time."

And time is of the essence for this young couple, who take their studies quite seriously. Griffith is entering his junior year as a mechanical engineering major with plans to pursue an MBA, while Mrs. Griffith is entering her sophomore year majoring in business.

University officials say the Griffiths are the youngest married students ever known to enroll at Texas A&M.

The pair exchanged vows last March in Killeen amid shocked responses from family and friends, but they say their wedding plans were thought through thoroughly.

"Just because society places acceptance on certain events occurring at certain ages doesn't mean we have to," said Mrs. Griffith.

Alien workers seek help with job losses

DALLAS (AP) — More than 300 alien workers in the last week have sought help from local organizations after being fired from their jobs — many over misunderstandings by employers about the new immigration law, officials say.

At least 300 immigrants have registered complaints, and some have been able to reclaim their jobs after the law has been clarified to employers, said Salvador Ibarra, director of Proyecto Adelante, a 5-year-old organization that helps Central American immigrants.

In addition, officials with the Mexican Consulate in Dallas and the Indian Association of the Metroplex also said they have seen several cases in the past week of immigrants fired because of the new law.

Ibarra said that in all, about 6,000 people who lost their jobs because of the new law have sought Proyecto Adelante's help since January.

The new immigration law includes sanctions that went into effect Sept. 1 against employers who hire anyone without requiring proof of legal residence in the United States. All employees hired after Nov. 6, 1986, must provide the information to a new employer.

But what is happening is that "employers were firing all aliens without documents, even if they began working for them before Nov. 6, 1986," John Gibson, an attorney for Proyecto Adelante, told the Dallas Morning News.

Gibson explained that the Immigration and Nationality Act that provides for penalties against employers does not apply to employers who hired a worker prior to Nov. 6, 1986.

"Employers don't need to sack even those employees who don't have any documents provided they hired them before Nov. 6, 1986," Gibson said. "They need papers only from those employed after that date or from new employees."

Miguel Sorto, a 20-year-old from El Salvador, said Friday that he was fired from his job last week by a construction company after he was asked to provide proof of legal residency.

'Yellowjacket' sting nabs 83 suspects

CLEBURNE (AP) — Dozens of a local junk dealer's customers landed in jail Friday in an undercover sting operation that Johnson County officials started in May.

Authorities obtained indictments against 83 people through an undercover narcotics officer who posed as a fence for stolen goods under the guise of B.J. of B.J.'s Trash and Treasure. The indictments contained 158 felony drug-related and stolen property charges. Officials also filed 30 misdemeanor and 25 juvenile cases, said Don Boulware, Johnson County district attorney.

About half of the people named in the indictments were arrested Friday.

"Operation Yellowjacket" was a four-month effort by state, Johnson and Tarrant county authorities. About $1.5 million worth of stolen property and $30,000 worth of illegal drugs were confiscated in the sting that began May 12, Boulware said.

"If you take 83 good criminals out of an area, you're going to have an impact on your crime rate," he said.

Jury awards $400,000 to survivors

DALLAS (AP) — A jury ordered an El Paso-based trucking company to pay $400,000 to the family of a man killed when his motorcycle was crushed beneath the rear trailer axles of an 18-wheeler.

The action warns the national trucking industry either to change unsafe driving practices or face similar lawsuits, said the family's lawyer, state Sen. Ted Lyon.

Jurors deliberated for more than six hours Friday before finding that El Bar Inc. was negligent in the death of William Dean Claussen, 37, of Garland, killed in a collision with an 18-wheeler on Interstate 20. The jury awarded $100,000 in actual damages and $300,000 in punitive damages.

Claussen died in the December 1985 accident. His parents sued the trucking company and truck driver Jasper Bullock last year.

"There were a lot of facts involving gross negligence on the part of the trucking company," Lyon said.

"This trucking company had (its driver) going for 105 hours straight — no time off or anything. This is typical within the trucking industry."

Secretary held in woman's slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — The secretary of a wealthy businessman whose wife was found shot to death in the family mansion is one of three people police arrested in connection with the Wednesday shooting death of Judy Woods Saragusa.

Houston police arrested the 35-year-old secretary Friday, and a 23-year-old man was taken into custody Thursday. Both were being held in connection with the Wednesday shooting death of Judy Woods Saragusa.

Opinion

Trustees right to have revote

At first, the Herald anticipated publishing an editorial condemning the Big Spring school trustees for conducting a secret ballot at an open meeting.

Instead, we're happier to applaud the Board of Trustees for realizing the action was a mistake, and to praise their rescheduling of the vote at the board's next meeting — Sept. 15.

We believe the mistake was inadvertent, rather than deliberate, and resulted from good intentions. Nevertheless, it violated the Texas Open Meetings law.

The mistake was made at the Aug. 27 meeting, when trustees were voting for one of three candidates to fill a vacant trustee position. That vacancy resulted from the resignation of Dock Voorhies, after he accepted a job change to California.

Board President Bill Brooks explained he suggested a secret ballot to prevent any embarrassment or potential rene-fulness, particularly by the new board member toward those trustees who voted against him or her.

We advised Brooks that the votes should be looked upon as ballots in favor of someone, rather than votes against somebody else.

Unfortunately, concerns about embarrassment or resentment are not compatible with the openness of actions required by the state's Open Meetings Act.

It was revealed at the Aug. 27 meeting that three of the secret votes were for Donnie Baker, while the other two candidates — Barbara Davis and Sharon Justice — received two and one, respectively.

But taxpayers and voters in the Big Spring Independent School District have a right to know how each trustee voted, and that information remained secret.

We at the Herald suspected such a secret ballot was illegal, and we advised Brooks that we would be checking its legality with the Texas Attorney General's office.

To his credit, Brooks conscientiously checked on the issue with the board's attorney, who advised the action "could be construed as illegal." Thus, the revote has been scheduled.

The matter is explained quite well in the May 8, 1978, opinion issued by John L. Hill, then attorney general for Texas. Hill cited actions and opinions from at least six other states that consider the secret ballot illegal when used by a school board to elect a schools officer.

Hill specifically cited an Illinois opinion, which stated: "... Of what avail is an open door to the public if the proceedings are secret? ... It is no advantage to the citizen to see a member write a name secretly on a ballot unless he is privileged to read what is thereon written."

In his own opinion, Hill adds: "... The Open Meetings Act is designed to ensure that decisions of public bodies are reached openly and that the public can observe the actions of their representatives. ..."

In summary, Hill stated: "The use of a secret ballot in a meeting of a governmental body violates the Texas Open Meeting Act."

Again, we applaud the trustees for realizing the error of the action and rescheduling the vote.

In addition, we hope the attention we've drawn to the issue will serve to remind other elected groups of their obligations to take actions openly — so that taxpayers and voters can be fully informed on who's doing what.

Nationwide events in recent years repeatedly have shown that attempts to hide mistakes incense voters and taxpayers more than admissions of the original mistakes.

Victims service tells appreciation

To the editor:

Thank you for your support and enthusiasm during the recent Spring City Bodybuilding Championships. We are particularly grateful for the outstanding coverage by Steve Belvin, Carleen Everett-Haley and Kerry Haglund. All of these fine reporters did an excellent job both before and after the competition.

This thank you is long overdue to your entire staff at the Herald. You have supported and encouraged Rape Crisis/Victim Services with timely articles, constant public service announcements and sensitive reporting of sexual assault and violent people-against-people crimes.

Perhaps what is most impressive and what we consider your biggest compliment to your audience is the non-sexist attitude taken in your stories. We receive newspaper articles from all over the state and country, and it was first in the Big Spring Herald that we noticed the proper — in our opinion — use of female names.

No longer are we labeled by our marital status, but now stand on our own as Smith, Jones, or Doe. That's a small, but important, step toward equality and, we think, the eventual cessation of violent behavior.

We also take this opportunity to personally commend Darrell Berkheimer on his editorials, especially those relating to sexual harassment and our recent event. Berky, we appreciate you and your ability to put into words the rights and wrongs of our modern society. You target issues well and we applaud you for your talent.

Our final thanks go to more than 100 volunteers and donors who contributed to our first attempt at public fundraising: You have, through your time and contributions, rededicated the Rape Crisis/Victim Services staff and volunteers to the work we do.

We've always felt the community supported and wanted these services, and now we know we're here to stay. Thank you for the third anniversary present.

"Who cares if we don't know where it's going... Heck, our foreign policy's been like that for years!"

Comparisons help explain errors in daily newspapers

By DARRELL BERKHEIMER

Readers often ask why they spot errors in nearly every day's paper. The answer, basically, is one of too much volume in too little time. But readers deserve a more detailed answer than that. So I'll make some comparisons.

First, readers need to know that each day's newspaper has as many words in it as the average paperback novel, for which we pay $2.95 to $3.95.

The Herald, however, costs only 25 cents on weekdays and 75 cents on Sundays.

In addition, that novel probably took the publisher two to six months to produce. And then, most of us still will find some errors in it.

At the Herald, we publish as many words nearly ever 24 hours — six days weekly.

As a result, we realize it's nearly impossible to produce an error-free newspaper each day. Instead, we settle for a compromise that provides readers a daily product with some errors rather than a wait of days and weeks for stale news and possible perfection.

That doesn't mean we condone errors. Trying to eliminate them remains one of our daily objectives, and considerable extra effort is expended toward accomplishing that feat.

As with most operations, however, we must assign priorities. And our first priority is to publish meaningful information daily. In addition, we particularly strive to eliminate errors of content.

This means we realize and accept that we'll probably have some misspellings, typographical and grammatical errors in nearly every day's paper. What we don't want, and give priority to eliminating, are inaccuracies and misleading statements.

Probably everyone is well aware that rushing the completion of their work often causes more errors or mistakes. So most of us, when we can, prefer to take our time to do things right.

But in the newspaper business, we don't have the luxury of taking our time. It's rush, rush, rush every day to cram all of the latest into the paper and get it to the press on time.

Even when we're only minutes late, we force our production department, pressroom and distribution workers to rush, rush, rush even more to try to get your paper to you on time — not just once a month, or once a week, but daily.

Then, when our errors do get into print, they're there for the entire world to see — or at least anyone who buys a copy of the Herald.

In contrast, when most other people make errors in their jobs, usually only a few people associated with their work see or learn of those errors.

Unfortunately, it almost seems diabolical that acceptance of human failings often is not a part of human nature. Instead, we expect and sometimes demand perfection from imperfect beings — particularly in the publication of our newspapers and magazines.

And rightfully so, I guess. We have an obligation entrusted to us to provide factual and clear infor-ation. For that very reason, we detest inaccuracies and initiate as many procedures as we can to eliminate them.

It's inevitable, of course, that when our errors do get into print, some people are quick to call our attention to them — sometimes derisively.

We only wish they were just as quick to call or write about all of the good or well-done items that appear in each day's paper.

By my count, each day's Herald has as many as 90 to 100 stories, briefs and other items of information — not counting advertisements and comics, which probably provide a couple hundred more, particularly as a result of the classified ads.

Most of them have no errors, or the errors are inconsequential — such as two letters transposed, a misspelling or a minor grammatical mistake, nearly all of which have no bearing on the content.

Maybe I'm wrong, but I think we have reason to take pride in the high percentage of error-free work that we do — in comparison to the mostly minor mistakes made.

In looking to the future, we have hopes that computers will help us reduce newspaper errors.

Much of today's computer programming, however, is not yet sophisticated enough to catch our mistakes. Only the latest and most expensive equipment, and materials are beginning to offer those features.

But even after they're perfected and economically feasible, I expect we'll still publish some errors.

I say that simply because humans will continue to gather and prepare the information processed by the computers. And our list of humans who don't make mistakes is rather short.

Berkheimer is managing editor of the Herald.

By BIG SPRING AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The chamber office will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day.

Reservations are due at noon Tuesday for the Chamber of Commerce Quarterly Community Luncheon this Friday at 11:45 a.m. in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It should be an exciting luncheon with news and information about many coming events.

The sponsors for this luncheon are Energas, Southwestern Bell Telephone and TU Electric. The hosts will be the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club.

Cost is $5 with reservations and $7 at the door.

The chamber's nominating committee has submitted its recommendations for new board members for 1988, 1989 and 1990. Five directors will take the places of five whose terms expire this year.

The five recommended to the board are: Carl Bradley, Caldwell Electric; John Brown, Big Spring Herald; Scott McLaughlin, Saunders Company; Drew Mouton, Baneroff & Mouton Attorneys; and Sandra Waggoner, Waggoner Bookkeeping & Computer Service.

Additional nominations may be submitted by 10 members in good standing who petition that a name be placed placed on the ballot. Petitions must be received no later than Sept. 10.

The Leadership Class for 1987-88 is full. About 26 applications have been received and expectations are high for the new class.

The Kickoff Retreat for the class will be Tuesday, Sept. 15, at SWCID. The first class day will be Sept. 23 — the Agriculture Tour and Ag Barbecue at the Howard County Fair.

The chamber needs help from all local clubs and organizations. It's time to revise the Clubs and Organizations Listing, and we need all organizations to send current information, including name of the organization, contact person, address, phone number, meeting dates, times and place, plus current officers' names, addresses and phone numbers.

The Agriculture Appreciation Barbecue is scheduled Wednesday, Sept. 23, at noon at the Howard County Fair. Anyone wishing to donate to the barbecue may contact the chamber office where tickets are available. Additional information is available at the chamber office, 263-7641.

The chamber's Governmental Affairs Committee has reported on another three issues awaiting action in Washington, D.C.

The committee and the chamber board are encouraging support for Senate Resolution 218. It will establish a system through which mandated benefits legislation must be evaluated for impact on the economy, employers and employees prior to being considered.

Businesses are encouraged to oppose Senate Bill 1265 and House Bill 2508, which would require businesses to provide health care coverage that would make it difficult to contain labor costs, create jobs and be competitive.

Another resolution, H.R. 2300, would add a rider on catastrophic illness expense protection to the budget reconciliation legislation. The Governmental Affairs Committee and board encourage businesses to oppose the rider because it should be considered separately.

The new belt buckles of the Longhorn Steer, buckle No. 6 is available at the chamber office.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald.

They should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.

They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered.

They must be signed. Free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign.

Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

Address letters to the editor, Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Tex 79720.

Plan should be dropped

By JESSE TREVINO

A Republican friend called from Washington with news of a nasty little plan. She's the kind of woman who makes it a point to know what is going on.

What is going on, she says, is White House consideration of a plan that seeks to discredit those political organizations opposing the nomination of Judge Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

The list of targeted organizations includes several Hispanic public interest groups.

As a Republican, she's concerned the Administration may be shooting itself in the foot. As a Hispanic who has lived in Washington a long time, she knows the value of these organizations and the role they have played for almost two decades.

The White House plans to argue the Hispanic groups do not represent, nor do they speak for, the Hispanic population, and to paint the organizations as liberal offshoots of the eastern establishment.

To the extent that the reports of such a plan are true, the move plainly is ill advised.

Former Reagan White House staff member Linda Chavez, whose views and campaign for the U.S. Senate wisely were rejected by Maryland voters last year, argued this same nonsense publicly this summer.

Hispanic groups were responding with concern to a Census Bureau report that said job opportunities for Hispanics are not being created outside the service sector.

Jesse Trevino

That's when Chavez questioned whether Hispanic organizations help the cause of greater Hispanic employment.

She inferred the organizations were self-serving and can exist only by feeding off the social problems facing Hispanics.

Chavez certainly is entitled to her opinion; but any Hispanic public interest organization, if it is worth its charter, almost by necessity has to be involved in social and advocacy issues.

These organizations do not necessarily have to prove they speak for all Hispanics.

In fact, most Hispanics cannot name those organizations which, unbeknownst to them, have labored hard to protect what the organizations and their boards of directors feel are valid Hispanic interests.

But that's not unusual. Many army and war veterans don't belong to the American Legion, but that does not mean they would not agree with the positions the Legion takes.

In the case of the NAACP, as CBS News reported last week, many blacks who have succeeded financially are not joining that hallowed black organization, which opened the very doors of success. But, if queried, those same blacks probably would agree with the NAACP's political goals.

So it is with Hispanics. How many of them know what the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund is, or what the National Council of La Raza does?

Not many.

But if you asked most Hispanics if they agree with MALDEF's vigilant efforts in courtrooms throughout the country to overturn gerrymandered political districts and to eliminate obstacles that stifle Hispanic voter participation, those same Hispanics would agree those goals are worthy of pursuit.

If a crafty plan exists by which these Hispanic organizations and those more directly involved in the anti-Bork campaign are signaled out for attack, the chance for success probably is greater than one would first think — precisely because most Hispanics do not know what these organizations are all about.

But before responsible Americans get to the point of having to rally to their defense, the White House ought to cancel that plan.

Jesse Trevino, a former Big Spring resident, is a self-syndicated columnist who writes on Hispanic issues.

A CELEBRATION OF CITIZENSHIP

The Bicentennial Commemoration of the United States Constitution

Please take a few minutes to read this summarized version of the Constitution. Take pride in your country, your flag, and your Constitution...which insures freedom & opportunity for all.

A summary of

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article I LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The legislative branch of government, or Congress, makes all the laws. It has two parts, or houses, the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Section 2: House of Representatives. Members of the House of Representatives serve a 2-year term. They are elected by the people. Representatives must be at least 25 years old, citizens of the United States for at least 7 years, and citizens of the state they represent.

The number of representatives from each state depends on that state's population. In order to decide on the number of representatives from each state, the government must count the people every 10 years. This is called a census.

Section 3: The Senate. The Senate is made up of two senators from each state. Senators have a 6-year term. Senators must be at least 30 years old, citizens of the United States for at least 9 years, and citizens of the state they represent.

The Vice-President of the United States is in charge of the Senate, but may only vote in case of a tie.

Sections 4-7: Rules. Instructions on how to operate both the House and the Senate are covered. Behavior of members, record keeping, pay, and how a bill becomes a law are covered.

Sections 8-10: Duties. The exact jobs of Congress are listed. Congress makes all money and trade laws. Congress decides how people can become citizens of the United States and can declare war if necessary. Powers Congress and the states do not have are also listed.

Article II EXECUTIVE BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The executive branch is made up of the President of the United States and those who help carry out laws passed by Congress. The President manages the government. A President and Vice-President are elected to a 4-year term.

A President must have been born in the United States, must be at least 35 years old, and must have lived in the United States for at least 14 years.

Sections 2-4: Duties. Some of the President's jobs include carrying out the laws made by Congress, responsibility for all the armed forces, pardoning crimes, and reporting to Congress at least once a year on what the nation is doing. The President makes treaties and appoints government leaders; the Senate must give its approval. If the President does wrong, he may be removed from office.

Article III JUDICIAL BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The judicial branch of government is the federal court system. The Supreme Court is the nation's highest court. It has the final say in all matters of law. Judges are appointed, not elected to office.

Section 2: Duties. The federal courts have a say in all cases that are not entirely within a state.

Section 3: Treason. The crime of treason, trying to overthrow the government, is explained.

Article IV THE STATES

Sections 1-4: Rules about the states. All states must accept acts, records, and laws of other states. A citizen of one state must be given the same rights as the citizens of another state he or she may be in. The governor of one state may send an accused criminal from another state back to that state for trial.

New states may be added to the United States. The United States government will protect all states from enemies.

Article V AMENDMENTS

Making changes. The Constitution may be amended, or changed.

Article VI HIGHEST LAW

Above all others. The Constitution of the United States is the highest law in the land. State laws must be under this law. All national and state lawmakers and offices must support the Constitution.

Article VII PASSING THE CONSTITUTION

Ratification. This Constitution becomes law when 9 of the 13 states ratify it, or approve it.

AMENDMENTS

The first ten amendments are known as "THE BILL OF RIGHTS"

Amendment I: Congress may not make rules to change freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or the right of people to come together in a peaceful way or to send petitions to their government.

Amendment II: The people have the right to keep and bear arms.

Amendment III: During peacetime, the government cannot make citizens put up soldiers in their homes.

Amendment IV: People or their homes may not be searched unreasonably.

Amendment V: Persons accused of serious crimes have the right to a jury trial. They may not be forced to give evidence against themselves. Their lives, freedom, and property may not be taken from them unfairly. If the government takes a person's property for public use, it must pay the owner for it.

Amendment VI: Persons accused of serious crimes have the right to a speedy and public trial. They must be told what they are accused of. They have the right to have a lawyer. They have the right to see and question those who accuse them.

Amendment VII: In most cases, there must be a right to a jury trial.

Amendment VIII: Punishment may not be cruel and unusual.

Amendments IX and X: If the Constitution does not give a certain right to the United States government, and also does not forbid a state government to have that right, then the states and the people have it.

Amendment XI: The power of the judicial branch is limited to certain kinds of cases.

Amendment XII: Electors vote for President and Vice-President separately.

Amendment XIII: Slavery may not exist in the United States.

Amendment XIV: People born in the United States or naturalized here are United States citizens. They are also citizens of the states they live in.

States may not make laws that limit the rights of citizens of the United States. They may not take away a person's life or freedom of property unfairly. They must treat all people equally under the law.

Amendment XV: No citizen may be denied the right to vote because of race.

Amendment XVI: Congress is allowed to pass an income tax law.

Amendment XVII: United States senators are elected by the people.

Amendment XVIII: Liquor may no longer be manufactured or sold in the United States.

Amendment XIX: No citizen may be denied the right to vote because of sex.

Amendment XX: Presidents start their new terms on January 20; Congress starts its new term on January 3.

Amendment XXI: The eighteenth amendment to this Constitution is repealed, or taken back.

Amendment XXII: Presidents are limited to two terms in office.

Amendment XXIII: Residents of Washington, D.C., have the right to vote for President.

Amendment XXIV: Citizens need not pay a tax in order to vote for President, senators, or members of Congress.

Amendment XXV: In case the President becomes too ill to carry on the job, the Vice-President will take over as Acting President until the President is better.

Amendment XXVI: No citizen who is 18 years of age or older may be denied the right to vote because of age.

Papal visit

Words not intended as 'accusatory fingerprinting'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican officials preparing Pope John Paul II's trip to the United States next week said Friday the pope is well aware of dissent among his flock, but his words should not be considered "accusatory fingerprinting."

"The pope has no intention to be polemical," said Archbishop Justin Rigali, a top American at the Vatican who has been helping draft the papal speeches.

John Paul departs Thursday for a 10-day visit to nine American cities, his second major tour of the United States since he assumed the papacy in 1978.

Vatican officials and U.S. prelates have stressed the vibrancy of the 52 million-member American church, but the Vatican also has singled out lax clerical discipline and widespread failure to follow church teaching on sexual and family issues.

A recent Los Angeles Times poll found only 25 percent of Catholics surveyed agreed with the pope that birth control is sinful.

McCoo, Davis will perform

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two former Fifth Dimension performers will entertain Pope John Paul II when he attends the 73rd annual meeting of Catholic Charities USA.

Marilyn McCoo, host of the "Solid Gold" television show, and husband Billy Davis Jr., will sing the spiritual number "Praise Ye The Lord" before the pontiff addresses delegates attending the Sept.

13 meeting of the national organization. Ms. McCoo and Davis performed during the 1970s with the Fifth Dimension.

Officials said the singers, who are donating the performance, also will entertain the expected 2,500 conference delegates before the pope arrives.

Based in Washington, D.C., Catholic Charities USA is an umbrella network that coordinates 633 agencies.

as well as within the church."

"The clear teaching by the Holy Father should not be construed or perceived as accusatory fingerprinting," Schotte said, adding that the pope encourages positive values in particular churches and has "a deep understanding and compassion for persons in difficult situations."

Schotte indicated the pope would address "the gratuitous assumption" that one can tailor the church into a "pick and choose church where it is accepted, that being Catholic has little to do with adhering to all the church's teaching."

He rejected, however, a suggestion from a reporter that the church in the United States could become a "schismatic" church and break away from Rome.

The Los Angeles-born Rigali, who heads the Vatican diplomatic school and will accompany John Paul to the United States, said the pontiff has been preparing the addresses all through the summer.

Rehearsals prep Texans for visitor

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Pope John Paul II has not arrived in the United States yet, but clergymen and lay people who will participate in an outdoor Mass already are rehearsing.

"I'm really glad we came out here today," Ina Albarado said Thursday at a 144-acre site where the Mass will be celebrated one week from today.

"Coming up the steps is great, but when you go back down them, the gray kind of makes the steps hard to see. I know for sure now — I'm going to wear flat shoes," she said.

Dozens of lay ministers, clergymen and readers simulated the 2 1/2-hour papal Mass under the direction of Monsignor Piero Marini, the pope's Italian assistant, who was giving final Vatican approval to the Mass details.

Monsignor Vincent Rizzotto of Houston, chairman of the liturgy committee, said the San Antonio Mass will be unique because it will be bilingual.

The pope will be assisted by 14 altar servers, seven masters of ceremony, two scripture readers and up to 60 bishops from Texas, surrounding states and Mexico.

As the liturgical participants ran through their roles, workers at the site continued putting the finishing touches on the altar platform.

Mike McGlone, an architect with Alamo Architects, which designed the altar, said the pope will have some help dealing with the heat, which may reach into the 90s.

Rev. Aurelio Gutierrez at the age of 83 died Sept. 2, 1987 in Costa Rica, South America. A well-known pastor in Big Spring, Texas. He was pastor of Mexican Baptist Church from June 1, 1960 to April 24, 1964 and moved to Houston and last year moved to Costa Rica. He retired 3 years later.

Recovered billfold stirs memories

PLAINVIEW (AP) — It's almost like a letter that showed up a lifetime after it was mailed. Or a borrowed book returned decades after the fact.

Clyde Stovall opened a package from his hometown and found a tattered billfold and a driver's license — sent to him by the proprietor of a Plainview theater in which he lost it 50 years ago.

"Oh, yes, I was surprised," said Stovall, who left Plainview as an adult to work in the Houston shipyards and later went into the grocery business in Lubbock, where he retired after a bout with cancer in 1973.

"But what really surprised me is that signature. When I saw it, it looked exactly like my writing today," he said. "I would have thought a signature would change through the years, but it's exactly the same."

"I called my family and sisters and told them about it," Stovall said. "They wanted to come and see the billfold and everything."

It disappeared from his pocket at the Fair Theater — one of several thriving city movie houses of the 1930s. He's sure he lost the wallet while on a date at about age 16.

"I remember, just barely," he said. "I think I recall something about losing it."

"That was the first driver's license I ever had," he said. He carried it to the shows, because he drove to them. "We had a 1931 Chevrolet at home, which they let me drive every once in a while, usually to take on a date."

But he doesn't think anyone profited from finding his wallet.

"That's very doubtful," Stovall said. "I didn't carry too much. About that time I delivered The Herald, charging 30 cents a week. I made about 8 cents out of each customer's charge. I had 122 people on my route."

The only other contents — a toy sheriff's badge — did bring back some memories.

"I remember I got that out of Cracker Jacks. I bought Cracker Jacks at the show."

The old badge carries a pre-World War II "Made in Japan" imprint.

Stovall spent quite a few Saturday evenings at the Fair — then known as the Plainview Theater — but he spent even more time at the Granada Theater, a block down the street, where he led a band that played during intermission. Their pay was free admission to the midnight feature.

He liked to emulate Big Band greats like Tommy Dorsey and Sammy Kaye, playing tunes with memorable titles such as "The Dippsey Doodle," one of his favorites.

Stovall recalls that the Fair was less expensive than the Granada and sometimes had more current movies, though both were operated by the same owner.

The Granada was the more plush of the two, its seating area encircled by a dramatically lit grotto wall — its length accented by niches and statuettes — imitating an outdoor setting.

Viewers could lean back and explore the ceiling, blackened except for tiny lights to recreate the stars and the moon, accurate down to placement of the big dipper and other constellations.

By today's standard, the Fair — though in need of refurbishing and not in use — is, perhaps, more historically significant than its sister-theater. Unlike the Granada, which has been remodeled as a twin cinema, the Fair retains the look and feel of the period, with its ornamental plaster balcony jutting out over the main seating area, its stage and orchestra pit unchanged through the years.

The Fair has been vacant in past months, except when workmen began repairs and found the wallet.

Carpenter V.D. Duzan displays a wallet that he found recently while working in an old Plainview theater. The wallet was lost 50 years ago when the theater was one of several thriving movie houses of the 1930s.

Dotson parole revoked

CHICAGO (AP) — The state parole board today revoked parole for Gary Dotson, whose 25- to 50-year prison sentence was commuted two years ago after the woman he was convicted of raping said she had fabricated her testimony.

The ruling sends Dotson back to prison for at least eight months and gives Gov. James R. Thompson the option of ordering Dotson to serve the rest of his sentence.

Dotson, 29, has been in jail on a parole hold order since Aug. 2, when his wife, Camille, accused him of beating her. He spent six years in prison before his sentence was commuted, and has been arrested five times since he was released.

Friday's action puts Dotson's fate back in the hands of the governor — who ordered a three-year parole for Dotson when he commuted the sentence in 1985.

The parole board's order sends Dotson back to prison for the remainder of his parole, said Kent Steinkamp, spokesman for the Illinois Prisoner Review Board.

Thompson now has the option of deciding whether Dotson must serve the remainder of the rape sentence as well, said Thompson's press secretary David Fields.

When he commuted Dotson's sentence, Thompson said he did not believe Dotson was innocent but that he had served sufficient time for the crime.

Steinkamp said Dotson would be turned over immediately to the state Department of Corrections, which has authority to imprison Dotson.

Dotson's lawyer, Thomas Breen, could not immediately be reached by telephone for comment.

Dotson drew national attention two years ago when Cathleen Crowell Webb, whose rape allegation led to his conviction, recanted her testimony and sought to free him after six years in prison.

Dotson's most recent arrest, on the misdemeanor battery charge, occurred after his wife told police Dotson struck her after he had been drinking and threatened to harm the couple's young daughter. That charge, however, was dropped a week ago after she refused to testify against her husband.

The bulk of Friday's hearing centered on his battery arrest, said Steinkamp.

Post offices once part of stores

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH
Post offices inside old general stores are getting hard to find.

Owners of the stores usually refer to the post offices as being inside their stores. But while he was alive, Hondo Crouch claimed his store was in the post office.

His store sold beer and customers drank it on the premises.

"But we have a white line on the floor," claimed Hondo. "And you can't drink beer past the white line, cause that's in the post office and we kinda respect the flag and all that. So that's why we don't drink beer in the post office," he said.

When asked what items he sold in his store, Hondo replied: "Post Toasties and single trees and argo starch, pots, pans, buckets, sloop jars and powder."

When Crouch purchased the small combination store and beer joint at Luckenbach in 1971, his antics focused media attention on a small town America. He celebrated such things as the invention of plywood and promoted Luckenbach as the world headquarters of mud daubers.

"Some people call 'em dirt daubers, but it's kinda hard to daub dirt," he said.

By telling his small town stories and jokes, Hondo became a folk hero and Luckenbach became the place "where everybody's somebody."

His antics were legendary, but his character wasn't too different from most owners of the old general stores. They all had a good sense of humor.

They had to, because running a store meant hard work, long hours and little pay.

But store owners were the solid foundation of the frontier. Usually just being in the presence of a store owner made early settlers feel better.

The store owner represented stability, and when customers saw him working in his store, they were reassured that the earth was in its proper orbit and the world was a good place to live.

The old plank flooring in the stores sway with memories, withstanding the wear and tear of decades. The old set of scales has weighed tons of merchandise.

Plenty of adults and children alike took their first elevator ride in a rope and pulley elevator going from the main floor down to the basement in an old general store. And, like post offices inside stores, the old freight elevators also are disappearing.

Early store owners were benefactors to schools, churches and lodges. And they offered their customers credit, requiring only one payment a year.

Some stores carried slogans such as "we carry everything" and tried to do just that — because stores served trade areas covering hundreds of miles.

Freight haulers would drive their wagons and teams great distances to get to the store. If they arrived at night, they thought nothing of napping on the porch of the store until opening.

Sometimes, in anticipation of a freighter's arrival, the store owners would leave the door unlocked. A freighter's shopping spree might be five wagonloads of merchandise.

The old stores, with their weathered boards and sagging roofs, give us a glimpse of forgotten time. And if we listen closely, we can hear some echoes of an era of brass bands, a boy rubbing a stick down a picket fence, and a family chatting while eating fresh homemade peach ice cream on a summer afternoon.

You can hear the quiet excitement of a time when people shouted hooray and were proud to be alive in America.

Officer fired after slaying

DALLAS (AP) — A parole officer assigned to supervise a convicted child molester and burglar who is wanted in the slaying of a 3-year-old girl has been fired, officials said.

The officer was terminated Friday afternoon, said Norris Rideaux, regional director of the state Board of Pardons and Paroles. He declined to identify the officer.

The parole officer had been assigned to supervise Fernando Garcia, 26, in October 1986, Rideaux said. Records show that Garcia had been arrested three times during the past few months, had worked in a bar — a parole violation — and had lied to parole officials about his address.

Monday, authorities issued a capital murder arrest warrant for Garcia, who disappeared Sunday; shortly before the body of Veronica Rodriguez was discovered in his garage apartment. Police said Veronica had been beaten and strangled and may have been sexually assaulted.

Rideaux said the parole officer did not make required checks of daily arrest reports that would have shown Garcia was in jail. A check likely would have meant a review of Garcia's parole and he could have received a warning, been placed under closer supervision or sent back to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Friday, police put up posters written in English and Spanish that offer a reward for information on Garcia's whereabouts. Authorities believe he still may be hiding somewhere in Dallas, police Capt. John Holt said. Holt said investigators have received dozens of tips from people who have seen Garcia's photograph in news accounts.

Repossessed race yacht is sought

MARLIN (AP) — A prized racing yacht repossessed by the state banking department is the subject of a court fight between two bidders.

The 70-foot boat, Kathmandu, is among a class of craft regarded as the world's fastest monohull racing yachts. It was one of the assets of Chilton Private Bank, which was declared insolvent in May.

Scott Mason, a bidder from Los Angeles, had a commitment that the Texas Department of Banking would recommend approval of his $375,000 bid. But Keiichi Ishizaka of Japan has offered $385,000.

A state district court has final authority over the sale of the bank's assets and has given Mason until 3 p.m. Wednesday to make good on his offer.

Questions arose over whether Mason had the money, while Ishizaka provided a cashier's check. Assistant Attorney General Carla Crisford said the regulators want Ishizaka to buy the boat.

Judge Robert Stem ruled that the banking department must honor its original recommendation — to sell the boat to Mason — if Mason comes up with the money by next week.

If Mason fails to get the cash, Ishizaka can pay $10,000 more to buy the boat.

The Kathmandu is one of a class of boats used in long-distance races. It was owned by John Landon, former owner of the bank.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE From the Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today is a fine time to become involved in some new and unusual activities which appeal to you. Be with some unusual people who interest you. Romance will bloom tonight.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have some fine ideas which can make the future brighter, provided you follow through. See some interesting friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Spend some time in public which will show off your unique talents and lead to greater productivity later on.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study up on a new philosophy which can bring you greater achievements. Handle out-of-town interests.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Be more romantic with your loved one, and gain a greater rapport. Make some new business plans.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to good ideas concerning the business world from a fascinating friend. Become a greater power in the community.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into some social service work and add to your prestige. Look around for a new and educational hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can really enjoy yourself in any recreation you choose today. Get your health improved this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more charming with family friends and enjoy some entertainment together. Put your special talents to work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) This evening is best spent with a good friend who can introduce you to some interesting people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Come to a better understanding with associates. You can make more money if you truly apply yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your new week's work planned before you retire for the evening. Consult a financial expert about your budget.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do something different with your mate and greatly please him or her. Be sure to use caution when traveling.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be recognized as "head and shoulders" above the rest while still quite young, and should be encouraged rather than criticized. Your progeny will require special handling and need a comfortable environment in which to grow so that success will be abundant.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you allow yourself to feel imposed upon or frustrated, annoyances and unhappiness will follow. Maintain your poise and avoid disagreements. Try to remain cheerful and smiling today.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't let a secret worry prevent you from handling your responsibilities. Say nothing which could start a distracting argument with your mate. Avoid any delays.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you help a friend with a problem, be sure to remain objective and don't let the problem become yours. Be polite in conversation. Be very tactful today in business.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be exact when handling business and credit matters. This will get your week off to a good start. Don't ask any big favors today, but wait until later and try again.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) This would be a bad time to begin any new projects. Don't listen to advice from a person whose opinions you don't respect. Enjoy your and family tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to stick "to the letter" when dealing with contracts or agreements. Think of your true feelings to avoid an argument with your mate. Tone down your attitude.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) An associate is apt to be stubborn, so drop the subject until later. This is not a good day to get into any public or charity work. Avoid arguments with friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may find it difficult to get your surroundings in the order you want, so concentrate on your personal well-being and be happy. Enjoy a hobby tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A troubled friend could upset you, but be kind since this person is sick in some way. Don't indulge in an expensive pleasure. Keep your poise and avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If a close tie has problems, be a good listener. Show your devotion and create some harmony. This is not a good day or evening for entertaining guests at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use great care when driving today. Don't make any new friends too quickly today since they may be harmful to your career. Avoid any people who like to argue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how you'll get your financial ideas across to others, but don't take action yet. You may have a unique and profitable idea, so guard it very carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) See if you can get out of a foolish promise you've made, but be tactful. This is not a good day to force your way into new relationships. Take it easy and get some rest tonight.

If Your Child Is Born Today

Your child will be very sensitive and artistic and should be taught to be objective and not so easily hurt by others. He or she will be most cultured and will be good at detailed work, handling both business and art cleverly. Strong discipline should be avoided here, whether your progeny is a boy or a girl.

W. Virginia retains segregation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Thirty-four years after the Supreme Court banned school segregation, the constitution of West Virginia still prohibits blacks and whites from attending the same schools because some lawmakers have been afraid to let their constituents vote on repeal.

State school officials, lawmakers and civil rights leaders call the section a "disgrace" but say recent attempts to delete it have faltered because some lawmakers were afraid the state would be humiliated if the effort failed.

"It's null and void but at the same time it ought to be removed," said state Schools Superintendent Tom McNeel.

A few lawmakers over the years have tried. "We just disgust ourselves with that," said Sen. Joe Manchin, who as a freshman delegate in 1983 sought a resolution that would have let voters decide if the offending language should be deleted.

Legislative leaders, however, "were afraid it would show West Virginia still wanted to be segregated," Manchin said. "It would be a black eye for West Virginia."

Del. Jim Humphreys, a Democrat, said he was told the same thing.

"It was explained to me that it would be horribly embarrassing if it didn't pass," he said.

But Del. Charlotte Pritt, a Kanawha County teacher, believes West Virginians are "more enlightened than that."

Manchin said he will introduce legislation in the next session to remove the section from the constitution.

"I think it would pass," said Pritt. "I would assume most West Virginians are not racist even though we have a high percentage of whites."

Blacks represent 3.3 percent of West Virginia's population of 1.9 million.

Humphreys said he would vote for the resolution because the moot law is "an ongoing embarrassment."

When West Virginia broke away from Virginia, pro-Southern delegates to the convention that wrote the 1863 constitution succeeded in including the provision for school segregation. It was later incorporated in the 1872 constitution.

Maria learns to walk on crutches

BRAINTREE, Mass. — A few months ago, Maria Andy lived in an orphanage high in the Andes, maneuvering her crippled body around by "scooting along on her bottom."

These days, the 7-year-old girl is learning how to walk for the first time on a set of plaster casts and crutches while she awaits the fitting of artificial legs next week. And she's learned enough English to memorize and recite the telephone numbers of several new American friends.

"It's been unbelievable. She's succeeded past our wildest dreams. She's a fighter," said Dr. Martin Dunn, who helped arrange Maria's journey from Ecuador to Boston with a charity group, Por Cristo.

As an infant, Maria was rescued by nuns just as her parents were about to throw her into a bonfire. She had been born with severe scoliosis, or curvature of the spine, and used to move around "by jumping like a monkey," dragging her twisted, useless legs behind her, Dunn said.

Now, five days a week, she spends an hour in physical therapy at a rehabilitation center south of Boston.

There, she is learning to stand up straight for the first time in her life. She is coaxed into doing exercises by therapists who joke with her in English. Two little girls, sisters from Nicaragua who are bilingual, accompany Maria and the three blow bubbles at the end of the therapy session as a reward.

"She's pretty daring," said Debbie O'Neill, one of her therapists. "She's scared me a couple times with what she tries to do, but she's not scared at all."

When Maria came to Boston in late May, doctors were unsure if they could do much except help strengthen the child's legs.

Riverside air show shoots down Steers

Sports Editor

EL PASO — Going into the 1987 football season, El Paso Riverside quarterback Gabriel Herrera was touted as one of the best quarterbacks in El Paso.

The talented junior showed the Big Spring Steers just how good he was as he led the Rangers to an impressive 48-21 thrashing over the Big Spring Steers Friday night at Riverside Stadium.

Herrera, who passed for 1,300 yards last year in nine games, took up where he left off as a sophomore. On this cool, rainy night the scrambling signal-caller pierced the Big Spring defense for 264 yards and four touchdowns. Before leaving the game in the fourth quarter, he completed 15 of 27 attempts.

He completely picked the Steers' secondary apart with his pinpoint passing on roll-outs. And while he wasn't completing passes, he was catching them. Twice on "razzle-dazzle" plays he caught passes from halfback Walter Garcia, totaling 35 yards.

Herrera did most of his damage in the first half while staking the Rangers to a 28-7 halftime lead. He passed for all four Ranger TD's in the first half. His TD passes ranged from bombs to an aerial off a fake field goal.

And while the Rangers' passing attack moved at will, the Steers' offense struggled miserably. Big Spring managed just 95 yards on the ground in the first half.

Herrera's only pass interception occurred on his team's first possession of the game. His pass was picked off by Big Spring cornerback Robert Rodriguez.

But Herrera went to work after that, engineering four scoring drives in Riverside's next five possessions.

The drives covered 50, 57, 67 and 56 yards. Herrera tossed TD passes of 57 and nine yards to Ruben Ortega, a seven-yarder to David Cisneros and a 13-yarder to Pete Pichardo off a fake field goal.

After Riverside's second score, Big Spring roared back when Dennis Hartfield returned the kickoff 81 yards for an apparent touchdown. But the play was brought back to the Riverside 21-yard line because of a clip. The Steers failed to score and turned the ball over on downs.

"That was the key to the game," said Steers' head coach Quinn Eudy. "If we score that touchdown the score is 14-7 and the kids are pumped up and ready to play. That could have put us right back in the game."

Riverside coach Lou James said the key to the game was his offensive line's ability to protect Herrera.

"Our line picked up their stunts well," said James. "We've been preaching pass protection to them all year. I don't think he (Herrera) threw a bad pass tonight. We've got some good receivers. If we give him (Herrera) time to pass he'll pick you apart."

Big Spring managed one impressive first half drive in their Wishbone attack after Steve Gill replaced starting quarterback Craig Knocke.

Big Spring moved 70 yards in 10 plays. Reserve running back Byron McElreath carried four times for 37 yards in the drive. The drive was capped off by an 18-yard run around end by Danny Williams. Teddy Molina kicked the extra point.

The second half was virtually all Riverside, though the Rangers didn't have to resort to passing as much. Riverside added two unanswered TD's and led 41-7 with 7:08 left in the game.

Then Big Spring got its biggest offensive output from quarterback Shawn Shellman.

Shellman, who starts at safety on defense, came into the game and promptly threw a 59-yard scoring pass to split end Tony Lewis. But the play was called back because Big Spring had an ineligible receiver down field.

On the next play Shellman and Lewis again hooked up, this time for a 64-yard scoring play.

It counted, and Charles White ran in the two-point conversion.

After Riverside scored its final TD of the game, Shellman came back and lofted a 59-yard scoring pass to Buddy Everett, ending the scoring for the night.

Shellman ended the game, completing three of five passes for 126 yards and two scores. His other two passes were dropped.

"All three touchdown passes were on the same patterns," said Shellman. "It was the split end up the seam. I knew we had them beat. I just had to throw it. I was just trying to get something going because I wasn't doing too great on

Bulldogs end streak, win Park's debut

Rowell's running lifts Coahoma

After almost two years without a win, the Coahoma Bulldogs outran, outpassed and most importantly beat the Seminole Indians 7-3 to start a new streak — this one a win streak.

The Bulldogs did it with a new coach, a new running back, a new quarterback and an inspired defense that simply would not let the Indians into the end zone.

And they did it in front of a packed crowd at the Coahoma stadium that didn't want to go home.

Afterwards, the Coahoma players huddled together, faced the crowd, and raised their hands in victory. The Coahoma fans, too proud to go anywhere, raised their hands in return, and the two groups seemed to pay homage to one another.

"To see those kids' faces after that ballgame, boy it was something," said a smiling Coahoma coach Steve Park amid the whooping and hollering in the Bulldogs' locker room.

"It was great to see them getting to feel what it's like to win," Park said.

While most of the Bulldogs were high-fiving and celebrating, one was too exhausted. He just sat in his chair and talked quietly with teammates.

Matt Rowell had not only played both ways — like six other Bulldogs — but he had run the ball an astonishing 31 times out of Coahoma's 50 offensive plays.

Rowell twisted, turned and bulled over Indian defenders for 193 yards — were it not for a 21-yarder that was called back, he would have blasted the 200-yard mark.

"He did a super job," said Park. "He was fantastic, and the line was blocking good for him. He did some ROSCOE — Coach Jan East had high hopes as his Forsan football team opened its season Friday — hopes of accomplishments similar to last year's 10-1-1 season that put the Buffaloes into the state playoffs.

Now he's hoping things get better than they seemed in a 20-14 season-opening win over Roscoe.

He hopes his running game

He hopes his receivers hang on to passes they clearly should catch.

He hopes significant improvement by Roscoe was the reason his Buffaloes were so glad to finally see the clock wind down Friday.

East's Saturday morning assessment: "We won a football game. That's about all I can say."

Actually, he had more to say. "We didn't play real well on either side of the line... they drove on us, especially in the second half, when we seemed to play defense the entire time."

As the score indicates, the Buffaloes never had the game firmly in control against a team they defeated 20-6 a year ago.

Forsan Buffaloes' defensive back Brant Nichols gets a helping hand from teammates David Chavez, left, and Brandy Bryan after he recovered a fumbled Roscoe pitch with 7:24 remaining in the first quarter of the season opener for both teams. Nichols ran for one TD and threw for another in the Bufs' 20-14 victory.

The brightest spot on several occasions was lanky senior end and defensive back Ruben Holguin, who pulled in three passes for 71 yards and a touchdown from Brant Nichols.

Ironically, his stats were better on receptions from the Plowboys' Sammy Herrera — taking two interceptions for 81 yards and a back-breaking touchdown.

His scamper along the west sideline in front of the Forsan fans brought the Bufs' backers to their feet and pushed the score to 20-8 with 3:07 remaining.

The Plowboys' didn't fold, however, as they recovered a fumble with less than two minutes remaining and converted two passes in an obvious passing situation for a 35-yard scoring drive to tighten the game to the final 20-14 tally.

East's halftime sentiments didn't differ greatly the morning after: "Rough on both sides. It looks like the first football game."

His biggest concern appears to be his running game — not wholly unexpected after the graduation of Future looks bleak for Cowboys' fans

By Eddie Curran

The great thing about the beginning of football season is that it's the one time of the season when every fan's favorite team is undefeated. Even fans of hopeless teams like Northwestern and Rice can be excused for at least thinking that maybe, just maybe, this is the year.

A Rice fan couldn't give one persuasive reason why the Owls should win the Southwestern Conference, but he might try. He would be laughed out of the room, but so what. At least he would believe it himself, and, as the cliché goes, "ignorance is bliss."

Cowboys' fans now harboring any such high expectations for their Pokes must be said to be suffering from a similar such disillusion. Anyone who thinks the Cowboys will be anything but marginal is a Cowboys' fan, and not a realist.

The writing is on the wall, folks. This year the Pokes are jokes.

Last Sunday's 34-10 thumping at the hands of the Raiders confirmed the worst. For the season to be bearable for Cowboy loyalists, it's time to swallow a big lump of pride and repeat after me:

"Everything will return to normal next year, but not this year. I must accept the almost unavoidable certainty that the Cowboys will finish no better than 5-11. If they do better than that, I promise to be happy, even if it's only 6-10. There's absolutely no chance for the playoffs, so I won't even mention it. For this year only, I must find another team to pin my hopes on. Amen."

Now that wasn't so bad. It hurt a little, but if you took it like a big boy, be proud.

If you balked, and spit out the nasty words, then your being just plain stubborn. You had your chance.

The biggest reason the Cowboys won't win is that they can't score points. Danny White's wrist isn't what it used to be, and even when it was healthy he couldn't win the big ones. Now the small ones will be hard to come by.

White complained after the Raiders' loss that he and his receivers were on different wavelengths. That's not his fault. An old and reliable target, Tony Hill, is gone, and so is the new and reliable target, Mike Sherrard.

When Tom Landry got rid of Hill before preseason because of Hill's purported weight problems, many secretly praised the move. After last year's embarrassingly un-Cowboy-like 7-9 season last year, Landry seemed to be making a point by dumping the 11-year veteran.

He made the same point with his tougher than ever preseason practices that had many a Cowboy veteran grumbling.

Landry was telling his team that he just wasn't going to take losing. He was telling the team that when the going gets tough, the tough get going. And darn it, the 1987 Dallas Cowboys will be tough.

That's admirable, but it appears to have backfired. There were accusations aplenty that receiver Mike Sherrard's goofy leg-break was a result of a dangerously long and tiring workout.

Sherrard provided the Cowboys with a great deep threat. Now, minus Hill and Sherrard, the Cowboys are without a burner who can catch — Rod Barksdale and Lam Jones are both fast, but so was Renaldo Nehemiah, and he wasn't a great receiver. Neither has indicated he can catch Cowboy prayers.

There is every reason to question the Dallas receivers, and there is good reason to question the quarterbacks. Despite those questions, the biggest question may be the offensive line.

The only place on offense that needn't be questioned is at running back. Herschel Walker and Tony Dorsett give the Cowboys the best backfield in football. But neither has played much in preseason because of injury, and Dorsett, long one of the most surprisingly durable backs in football, may be down to his ninth life.

Schoolcraft leads Buffaloes

SEAGRAVES — Robert Schoolcraft was the defensive hero for the Stanton Buffaloes as the Buffs defeated the Seagraves Eagles 12-7 in non-district football action.

Schoolcraft, a senior linebacker, set up both Stanton scoring drives with an interception and a fumble recovery.

Stanton scored the winning touchdown with 11 seconds remaining in the game. The winning score capped a ten-play, 42-yard drive that took just over two minutes.

Quarterback Skip Hopkins scored the winning points on a one-yard run. The other Stanton score came on a two-yard run by Hopkins. Seagraves' only score came on a 38-yard run by Rudy Cavazos with 1:39 remaining in the third quarter. Curtis Wilson's extra point gave Seagraves a 7-6 lead.

Stanton cornerback Carlos Ortiz forced two Seagraves' turnovers, including an interception of a last-second Seagraves' bomb.

Robert Jones led Stanton in rushing with 81 yards on 16 carries. Stanton, now 1-1 for the season, will play host to Coahoma Friday at 8 p.m.

Colorado City fullback Beau Rees, 33, darts through the Slaton defense during first-quarter action of the Wolves' 14-6 victory Friday night in Colorado City. Rees gained 119 yards in the contest to lead all rushers for the evening. Pursuing Rees on the play are Jerry Mask, 32, and Scott Meeks, 24.

Stangs fall to number two Jaybirds

JAYTON — The Jayton Jaybirds scored 12 fourth quarter points to defeat the Sands Mustangs 40-27 in six-man non-district football competition Friday night.

The Jaybirds, ranked number two in the state, dominated the first half behind the running of all-state running back Steven Morales, who only played half the game.

Morales sprained his ankle just before halftime and did not return. He still finished the game with 195 yards on 25 carries. Morales scored on runs of 51, 24 and six yards. Marc Morales hooked up on a 57-yard scoring play with Doug Smith, giving Jayton a quick 28-0 lead.

The Mustangs scored late in the second quarter on a three-yard run by Jay Fryar.

Sands rallied in the third quarter, scoring 19 unanswered points to make the score 28-27. Fryar scored on a 26-yard run and Damian Zarate threw touchdown passes of seven and 10 yards.

Jayton pulled away in the fourth quarter as Tim Shafer ran for two touchdowns. Marc Morales set up the final Jayton score by intercepting a pass and returning it 54 yards to the one-yardline.

Sands, 0-1 for the season, will host Borden County in a non-district game at 8 p.m. Friday in Ackerly.

Wildcats lose tussle with Gorillas

LENORAH — The Trent Gorillas scored 22 unanswered points in the third quarter to hold on to a 51-37 win over the Grady Wildcats in Friday night non-district six-man football action.

Trent held a 24-23 lead at halftime before erupting for three third quarter TD's.

Grady got a fine performance from Scott Glaze, who completed 18 of 30 passes for 235 yards and four TD's. Grady receiver Scott Terrell also had a fine game, catching six passes for 154 yards and three scores. Glaze hooked up with Terrell for scoring passes of 36, 10 and 44 yards. Tim Stone also threw a 43-yard scoring pass to Kenneth Garza. Clay Black returned a kickoff 65 yards for a score, and Terrell also tossed a six-yard scoring pass to David White.

Defensively Stone and Mark Quilamaca each got interceptions for the Wildcats.

Black was Grady's leading rusher with 55 yards in eight carries. Garza also caught three passes for 55 yards.

The Wildcats will play at Blackwell Friday night.

Powerful Dragons defeat Bearkats

PADUCAH — Paducah quarterback Chris Hurd ran for four touchdowns and passed for two more to lead the Dragons to a 40-14 win over the Garden City Bearkats in non-district football competition Friday night.

The Dragons, ranked in the top five in the state, scored 20 first half points, highlighted by Hurd's 40-yard punt return with no time remaining in the first quarter.

In the second quarter Hurd threw a 10-yard scoring strike to Junior Alafa and added a four-yard scoring run.

The Dragons added 13 fourth quarter points after the Bearkats scored on a one-yard run early in the final period. Paducah amassed 378 total yards on offense and Hurd completed seven of 14 passes for 138 yards.

Garden City, 0-1 for the season, will host Grandfalls in their home opener Friday.

Coyotes blast overmatched NLCA

GAIL — The Borden County Coyotes got their season off to a rousing start by steam-rolling past New Life Christian Academy by a 55-7 count in non-district six-man football action Friday night.

Running back Shannon Bond paced the Coyotes by scoring on runs of 59, 10, two and eight yards. Jimmy Rios added two TD's. Rios returned a punt 34 yards and scored on a 25-yard run.

Mark Latimer scored on a four-yard run.

Bond also scored two two-point conversions, as did Shane Kemper. Cory Fryar scored a one-point conversion.

Borden County's Eric Lusk intercepted the game's only pass.

The Coyotes are now 1-0 for the season while NLCA falls to 0-1.

Tidwell leads Coogs past Amherst

PATRICIA — Kirk Tidwell passed for three second-half touchdowns, including two to tight end Corbett Foster, to lead the Klondike Cougars to a 43-24 six-man victory over the Amherst Bulldogs Friday night in non-district play. Klondike jumped on the Bulldogs early when halfback Clint Kirkland scored on a three-yard run. The point after failed and the Cougars took a 6-0 lead. The Coogs added 16 more points in the second quarter. Junior halfback Steve Cope scored on runs of two and 14 yards. Tidwell booted both extra points.

Klondike will play highly-touted Jayton Friday at 8 p.m. in Jayton.

Wolves convert Slaton slips

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — An opportunistic pack of Colorado City Wolves converted Slaton mistakes into points to claim a 14-6 victory over the Tigers in a non-district game played here Friday night.

With the opening-night victory, Colorado City equaled its win total for the previous year. Although both teams made their share of mistakes in this closely-contested game, Slaton's were by far the more serious. The Wolves scored both of their touchdowns after Tiger fumbles.

The first Tiger miscue came early in the first quarter. Colorado City received the opening kickoff and, not being able to generate any offense, was forced to punt.

Slaton punt returner Gaylon Davis fumbled the Beau Rees kick, and Wolves' center Reese Moore recovered on the C-City 44. The Wolves promptly mounted an 11-play scoring drive.

The highlight of the drive was an 11-yard run by fullback Rees. He was the leading rusher for the game, gaining 119 yards on 22 carries.

With 3:45 left in the first stanza, Wolves' tailback Pat Tillis scored from six yards out. The point-after attempt was good, and C-City led 7-0.

Another mistake haunted Slaton on its next drive. Beginning on their 22-yard line, the Tigers mounted an impressive series of their own, the highlight being a 33-yard run by tailback Davis.

When it appeared that Slaton would even the score, however, C-City free safety Ray Rivera stepped in front of a Jason Bednarz pass to kill the drive.

It was the first of two interceptions by Rivera that provided the highlights to the swarming defensive effort by the Wolves. The unit was praised by Head Coach Tom Ramsey for its timely play.

"They playing swarming football," he said. "The group rose to the occasion several times."

He particularly liked the group's efforts in stopping Davis. The versatile Tiger tailback was limited to 54 yards on nine carries.

Colorado City made its share of mistakes in the first half. After Rivera's first interception, the Wolves marched deep into Slaton territory. Quarterback Ismael Silva's fourth-down pass to Mark Russel was incomplete, however, and C-City was forced to attempt a field goal.

A Saturday to forget for SWC

Aggies, Longhorns and Raiders lose openers

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

The Southwest Conference hoped to regain some pride Saturday with a schedule that included three members of the nation's Top Ten, but things didn't work out quite like the league had hoped.

The SWC's scandal-marred image took another jolt when sixth-ranked Louisiana State defeated Texas 17-3, fifth-ranked Auburn destroyed Texas 31-3 and No. 4 Florida State ran away from Texas Tech 16-16.

Texas Christian also had a major setback, taking on unranked but highly regarded Boston College. The Horned Frogs were turned out 44-20.

Taylor and Rice got the only two victories for the SWC on 1987's opening day. Baylor held off Louisiana Tech 13-3 and Rice battled from a 24-13 halftime deficit to defeat Lamar 34-30.

Earlier in the week, TCU Coach Jim Wacker had observed, "If the SWC wants to be rated as one of the top conferences in the nation, we had better play some of the top non-conference teams."

On this Saturday, at least, the SWC wasn't up to it.

The Aggies, who had the longest major college home winning streak snapped at 14 games, could do little against an LSU team that stretched its regular-season winning streak on the road to 10 games.

Texas A&M's renowned "12th Man" kickoff team also was embarrassed when LSU's Sam Martin ran back the second-half kickoff 57 yards to the Aggies' 41, the longest return since the kickoff unit was formed in 1982.

The Aggies didn't cross midfield on their own until their second possession of the third period, when they trailed 17-0, and had to settle for Scott Slater's 41-yard punt for a first and goal at the 10.

LSU's Jeff Blewett led Auburn quickly to a 14-0 lead. Auburn quick-kick punts were never recovered. Auburn's defense forced three crucial turnovers on the field and two gave Auburn touchdowns. Texas' new head coach, David McWilliams, said the Auburn defense controlled the line of scrimmage most of the game.

McWilliams, the former Texas defensive coordinator who replaced Aker last December, said the dubious distinction of losing the game to the worst opening game in the school's 94-year history was a "disappointment."

"I was disappointed with all phases of the kicking game and the defensive effort," Texas Tech Coach Spike Dykes said.

"We fired some shots in the first half, but in the second half they brought more pressure. We had a good offensive performance against a pretty good defensive team. It was encouraging. We have to build on the bright spots to become a good football team," Dykes said.

TCU led Boston College 10-3 in the first quarter and appeared to have the game in command before falling behind, 31-10, by the middle of the third quarter.

TCU committed five turnovers (three interceptions, two lost fumbles). Each of the interceptions led directly to Boston College touchdowns. Starting quarterback Scott Ankrum threw two; backup David Rascoe threw the other.

"If anyone should know how to live with adversity, we should," Wacker said. "Turn around those turnovers and the score is turned around. You just can't play against a team like Boston College and have that kind of balance in turnovers. And again, they made the big plays and we didn't."

Ankrum, who sat out last season with a hamstring injury in his right leg, went out with a pulled hamstring in the other leg in the third quarter. Ankrum had gained 107 yards on 15 carries in the first half, and when he pulled up lame, he had just broken into the clear on what could have been a 96-yard touchdown romp.

Texas quarterback Bret Stafford loses the ball after being hit by Auburn's Aundray Bruce in the first quarter Saturday at Auburn's Jordan-Hare Stadium. Auburn recovered the fumble on the way to beating Texas in the opener for both teams.

Sooners, Huskers struggle but win

By The Associated Press — The Big Two of the Big Eight, top-ranked Oklahoma and second-ranked Nebraska, rolled to big victories on Saturday, the first weekend of the 1987 college football season.

Reserve quarterback Charles Thompson, taking over after the Sooners built a 35-0 second-quarter lead, accounted for four touchdowns as Oklahoma massacred North Texas State 69-14. At Lincoln, Neb., Keith Jones scored three touchdowns and quarterback Steve Taylor two as the Cornhuskers hung a 56-12 thrashing of Utah State.

Neither Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer nor Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne were particularly pleased despite their teams' runaway victories.

"We won the ball game, scored a lot of points, played a lot of players and dominated the game, but at the same time I like to have a flawless performance from a football team," Switzer said.

"I wasn't real impressed," Osborne said. "I chewed the players out at halftime. I didn't think we had played well. We had not earned a whole lot of offensive points. I told them at the end of the game they had played fair."

Our punt returns were good and our pass coverage was good. I'm disappointed with the (six) turnovers.

No. 1 Oklahoma 69, N. Texas St. 14

Thompson scored on runs of 7, 4 and 1 yards and threw 20 yards to Carl Cabbiness for another TD for Oklahoma, which went to its reserves after the starters put five touchdowns on the board by the midway point of the second period.

No. 2 Nebraska 56, Utah St. 12 — Taylor set a school record for rushing yards by a quarterback when he collected 157, including scoring runs of 44 and 58 yards. The old mark of 143 was set by John Bordogna got against Iowa State in 1952. Jones scored on runs of 1, 1 and 13 yards and Nebraska tied a league record by returning two punts for touchdowns. Dana Brinson went 57 yards as Nebraska built a 28-3 halftime lead and Rod Smith returned the other 80 yards during a 21-point Nebraska third period.

No. 9 Clemson 43, W. Carolina 0 — Freshman tailback Terry Allen scored twice and David Treadwell kicked three field goals as Clemson rolled over the Catamounts of NCAA Division I-AA.

No. 10 Miami, Fla., 31, No. 20 Florida 4

Steve Walsh passed for 234 yards and a touchdown and Miami's defense intercepted Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell three times and sacked him on five occasions as the Hurricanes rolled past the Gators.

Walsh, a sophomore who inherited the quarterback job from Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde, completed 17 of 27 passes in his first college start.

No. 11 Penn St. 45, Bowling Green 19

Michael Timpson returned a punt 63 yards for a touchdown and Blair Thomas turned a screen pass into a 67-yard score as Penn State gave Coach Joe Paterno his 200th college football victory.

Paterno, with a 200-44-2 record in 22 years at Penn State, is the ninth major-college coach to win 200 games.

No. 13 Washington St., Stanford 21

Chris Chandler completed 18 of 31 passes for a career-high 344 yards, including a 45-yard touchdown pass to Darryl Franklin in the third quarter.

No. 20 Georgia 30, Virginia 22

Lars Tate rushed 28 times for 218 yards and scored touchdowns on runs of 28 and 44 yards, becoming the first Georgia back since Herschel Walker in 1982 to rush for over 200 yards.

Tate's 24-yard run cut Virginia's lead to 14-10 in the second quarter and his 44-yard scamper with 7:50 to play gave the Bulldogs a 30-14 advantage.

Other Games — Bill Curry, hired away from Georgia Tech last season, made a successful debut as coach at Alabama as the Crimson Tide clubbed Southern Mississippi 38-6. Bobby Humphrey ran for two touchdowns and caught a 43-yard pass for another score.

Sophomore tailback Torin Dorn rushed for 165 yards and two touchdowns in North Carolina's 34-14 victory over Illinois.

Boston College 38, Texas Christian 20

BOSTON (AP) — Junior quarterback Mike Power threw for three touchdowns and fullback Jim Turner ran for two more Saturday in a 38-20 Boston College opening game victory over Texas Christian.

The Eagles, who were playing the Horned Frogs for the first time, scored 21 points in a 3-minute, 3-second span late in the second quarter to take charge after trailing 10-3.

Power, in his second collegiate start, completed 16 of 31 passes for 379 yards and had a 78-yard touchdown pass to flanker Marcus Cherry, a 23-yarder to Jim Bell and a 44-yard scoring connection to Darren Flutie as the Eagles took advantage of five Texas Christian turnovers.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mark McGwire and Mickey Tettleton

each drove in two runs and Curt Young, 12-6, allowed two runs on six hits in seven innings.

Young struck out three, walked one and increased his record to 3-0 at Memorial Stadium. Eric Plunk worked the last two innings.

Twins 3, Brewers 1

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Brunansky homered over the center-field fence on the first pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Brunansky's 28th home run of the season came against Chuck Crim, 5-7. The Twins remained three games ahead of runnerup Oakland in the American League West.

Cowboys

Even if both are healthy, in today's NFL, two great running backs aren't equal one great quarterback — especially when it's two great running backs without a good offensive line.

Defensively, the Cowboys don't look real promising either. Names like Ed Jones, Randy White and John Dutton sound great, but their average age is over 35. And you never hear anybody comparing linebackers Mike Hegman, Jeff Rohrer or Eugene Lockhart to Lawrence Taylor.

To make matters worse, the Cowboys share a room with the Giants and the Redskins, two teams that look great heading into '87. If the Cowboys are lucky, they'll compete on even terms with the Cardinals and Eagles.

That alone seems an indignity.

McEnroe struggles but wins at Open

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe overcame his quick temper to beat Slobodan Zivojinovic in a long match and advanced to the fourth round of the U.S. Open tennis championships Saturday.

Jimmy Connors stretches to hit the ball on a return during his match Saturday against Jim Grabb in the U.S. Open. Connors defeated Grabb 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

After taking the first set, McEnroe lost the second when chair umpire Richard Ings penalized him a game for continued verbal abuse.

Zivojinovic won the third set in a tiebreaker but McEnroe fought back to win the final two sets, ending the 4-hour match with a cross-court backhand.

McEnroe downed the 24-year-old Yugoslavian 6-4, 5-7, 6-7 (3-7), 6-4, 6-3 on the stadium court at the National Tennis Center.

It was the second straight match in which McEnroe has displayed his famous temper. During his second-round victory over Richey Reneberg Thursday night, McEnroe played better after he got into an altercation with a courtside fan.

"The last match, it helped," he said. "This time it didn't. It's something I don't feel good about."

After the match, Chief of Supervisors Ken Farrar said McEnroe would be fined for his behavior.

Zivojinovic had 19 aces and 38 service winners, but couldn't dominate McEnroe with his power game.

"This guy has one of the hardest serves in the game," McEnroe said. "You're always diving and stabbing at it. But I felt I did well on his serve."

Zivojinovic, who beat McEnroe in their only previous meeting at the 1985 Australian Open, said McEnroe's service returns were the key to victory.

"I have one of the best serves in the game, but he was returning so well," he said. "It was like he was playing with me."

In a Saturday night match, fourth-seeded Boris Becker sprained his right ankle but went on to beat Britain's Andrew Castle 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Trainer Todd Snyder, who taped Becker's ankle early in the third set, described the injury as a minor sprain.

In other matches, defending champion Martina Navratilova and Jimmy Connors coasted into the fourth round.

No. 9 Andres Gomez of Ecuador rallied to beat Thomas Muster of Austria 1-6, 6-7, (12-14), 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Navratilova needed just 43 minutes to beat Lisa Bonder 6-2, 6-1 while Connors ousted Jim Grabb 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Navratilova has lost only nine games in her first three matches, but the No. 2 seed said she isn't worried about a lack of playing time heading into the final rounds.

"I'll get my practice on the practice court," she said. "I'll get tested there."

Connors never lost his serve against Grabb, a former All-American at Stanford.

"That's three guys in a row that I've never played before," Connors said. "I'm getting used to it."

defense.

A grim Eudy admitted Riverside's passing attack spelled doom for Big Spring.

"Our inability to stop the pass and pressure the quarterback were the big keys," he said. "Offensively, we failed to move the ball early and get our defense off the field. We just have to start eliminating the mistakes and get in high gear."

Riverside's James said the Steers have the making of a good team.

"Big Spring has a lot of good material. I don't know if they were prepared for us though. They may have taken us too lightly."

"These kids around here (Riverside) haven't had any winning seasons until two years ago. Now they're hungry for wins and they want it more than most teams," said James.

By the way they played Friday night against the Steers, it was obvious they wanted an season-opening win pretty badly.

AAA Kermit Yellowjackets needed in their upset win over the Pecos Eagles Friday night in season-opening non-district action.

The score came with 50 seconds left in the first quarter. The big play in the scoring drive was a 45-yard run by Kermit class AAAA state playoffs, was led by Marcus Brown's 155 yards on 12 carries. Brown scored on two 31-yard runs. Michael Thibbs blocked an Andrews' punt and ran it in 26 yards for another score.

Andrews will travel to Midland Friday to play Midland High.

Snyder 10

SNYDER — Trampus Goodwin scored two touchdowns for the Tulia Hornets, leading the class AAA Hornets to a 20-10 upset win over the class AAAA Snyder Tigers.

Goodwin scored on runs of 43 and 15 yards.

Snyder got a third quarter safety and scored its only TD on Hereford, which went to the quarterfinals last year in the a one-yard run by Scott Lanier in the fourth period. The two point conversion from Roland Romo to Stacey Kellem was good.

With 23 seconds left in the game, Tulia's Togo Halford picked off a Snyder pass and returned it 30 yards for a score.

Goodwin led all rushers with 159 yards on 20 carries. Vyrion Clay led Snyder with 50 yards on five carries. Snyder quarterback Lee Fletcher was six of 12 for 118 yards.

The Tigers, 1-1, will host Levelland Friday at 8 p.m.

 tough running."
 Rowell admitted he was "a little tired" after his 31-carry effort, but he was feeling good nevertheless.
 "It always feels great after a win. The line did a real good job and the fullback (Carlos Cervantes) did a real good job picking up his blocks," said Rowell, who was all-district on offense and defense last year at Devine, a AAA school in South Texas.
 Before Rowell could run the ball, however, he and the Bulldogs' defense had to get tough — the Indians' Dwight Hill returned the opening kickoff 51 yards to the Coahoma 20.
 Coahoma fans had to wonder if it wasn't 1986 all over again. It wasn't. The Bulldogs defense surrendered just four yards on four plays, and Coahoma took over on their 16.
 Then it was Rowell's turn. The new Bulldog, running inside, off-tackle and around the end, chalked up runs of eight, 12 and 16 yards to move the Bulldogs to the 45.
 Coahoma punted, and again the Indians almost scored on the return. This time, Hill's brother Gerald raced 55 yards to the Coahoma 31. And again, the Coahoma defense held on four downs.

 Rowell powered another drive deep into Indians' territory, where the Bulldogs faced a fourth and one on the Seminole 26 when the gun sounded ending the quarter.
 In the first quarter, Rowell had 88 yards and the Bulldogs had five first downs; the Indians didn't have a first down, and neither team had passed.
 On the first play of the second quarter the Bulldogs jumped off-sides, stopping the drive and bringing on a field goal attempt. The 40-yard try was short, and the Indians took over.
 The Indians, with much fewer two-way players, gained the advantage as the second quarter wore on. Quarterback Jeff Condit completed a 31-yard pass, the big play in a drive that gave Seminole a first and goal on the one and an almost certain touchdown opportunity.
 The Indians, however, went off-sides on two consecutive plays, making it first and goal from the 11. The Bulldogs' Jeff O'Daniel sacked Condit for a 12-yard loss, and the Indians had to settle for a field goal try. Shawn Hatchett made the 33-yarder, and the half ended with Seminole on top 3-0.

 Coahoma returned the second half opening kickoff to the 22, and Rowell, who finished the first half with 99 yards, rolled off tackle for 14 yards on the first play from scrimmage. He went for another 14 two plays later.
 After a five-yard penalty and a five yard loss, the Bulldogs faced a second and 20. Sophomore quarterback Curtis Hudson, who was one for four for 22 yards in the first half, hit Anthony Hernandez for 20 yards and a first down inside the Indians' 20.
 Three plays later, on third and nine, Hudson gunned a pass to senior wingback James White, who nabbed the ball just in bounds and fell out on the nine, good for a first. Moments later Rowell capped the 78-yard drive with a four-yard rumble over left tackle.
 The PAT was good, and Coahoma led 7-3 with 6:08 left in the quarter.

 A fired up Ronnie Ruiz made a great hit on the kick off, and Trey Gardner recovered a Condit fumble on the first play from scrimmage for the Indians. Coahoma took over on the Seminole 29.
 Hudson was sacked on the first play, but a face-mask penalty and an 11-yard scamper by Rowell gave the Bulldogs a first and goal from the five. For once, however, the Indians stopped Rowell — he managed just three yards on four runs, and Seminole took over on their two.
 The quarter ended moments later, and like the first, Coahoma dominated, with seven first downs and 87 yards to one first and 10 yards for Seminole. The question was, would Coahoma's two-way starters run out of gas in the final stanza?
 The Indians got out of trouble with a 10-yard completion that the referees added 15 to after a Bulldogs' infraction. With first down on their 41, Steve Vargus, on his first run of the night, burst over right tackle and went untouched into the Coahoma secondary.

Vargus appeared on his way to a touchdown, but James White made up ground and brought Vargus down at the 20; 39 yards from the line of scrimmage. Coahoma held on the next three plays, but on fourth and long Condit completed a seven yarder for first and goal on the Coahoma nine.
 Two plays later it was third and goal from the two, and Carlos Cervantes slammed Jessie Guzman for a one-yard loss. On fourth down, Condit handed off to one back, who pitched to another — the Coahoma defense wasn't fooled, though, and stopped the Indian runner on the one.
 The Bulldogs took over with 6:41 remaining, and Hudson went to work. On a third and eight, Hudson threw the ball deep, where it was tipped by one Coahoma player into White's hands for a 27-yard gain.
 With 1:17 remaining, the Bulldogs faced a fourth and five from the 42. One more first down and the victory was secured. Hudson rolled left, and fired to Donnie Paige for a ten-yard gain and the 17th and final Coahoma first down. Hudson, who was the junior varsity quarterback last year, finished the game six for nine for 95 yards and no interceptions. In the second half he was five for five, most coming on crucial third and fourth down situations.

 "He did an excellent job throwing the football and James White did a great job catching the football — all our receivers did," Park said.
 For his part, Hudson said he just tried to "relax and throw the ball."
 "I was feeling a little pressure in the first half and I got a little jittery. I just had to think about it (the third and fourth downs) like it was first or second down," Hudson said.
 Sixteen Bulldogs finished with tackles, including seven by Terry Hall and five by Scott Thomas. The Bulldogs gang tackled, and the closer Seminole got to the goal line, the tougher they got.
 "They showed lots of courage," Park said. "Lots of courage and lots of guts. They could have laid down but they sucked it up," Park said.
 They certainly did that. And the Coahoma Bulldogs are 1-0.

Bufs

 two quality halfbacks in Mitch Hays and Wayne Wright.
 Senior fullback John Roman led the Buff rushers with 33 yards on 11 carries, while Stacy Munoz — a guard the previous three seasons — is seeing action at halfback for the first time.
 He gained 24 yards on seven carries and East says he expects better production from both as the season progresses.
 The Bufs, winning the flip and taking the opening kickoff, picked up a first down before losing yardage when Nichols was dumped attempting to pass and then after he bobbled a pitch left that he recovered.
 Forsan punted and allowed a first down before Nichols recovered a fumbled pitch at the Buff 43. He led the squad to the Ploowboy 29 on two first downs before Forsan yielded possession on downs.

 Two runs produced five yards for Roscoe, including a play that saw Matt Evans, Billy Massingill, Roman and Chris Marquez bowl over the Ploowboys' Danny Herrera.
 East praised the improved play of Marquez, a 240-pound senior tackle who saw limited action a year ago.
 Forsan — with :42 remaining in the first quarter — stood four plays and 40 yards away from scoring its first TD of the season.
 Wade Salvato had no luck carrying toward the right side of the line and one play later Nichols backed up and, under extreme pressure by Ploowboy Aaron Brown, uncorked a 32-yarder to Holguin.
 He was stopped at the eight as the quarter ended, and Roman carried for a yard to put the ball at the seven. From there, Nichols rolled right on the next play, rolling right into the end zone with 11:12 on the clock.

 He added the PAT kick to give Forsan a 7-0 lead.
 The score seemed to ignite the Ploowboys, who retaliated with a 15-play drive that included a 26-yard fourth-and-five pass from the Buff 42.
 In what looked like a sure scoring situation, Roscoe took the ball to the three before being called for illegal procedure. From the eight, the Ploowboys gained three yards on two runs before two pass attempts failed, and the Bufs took over at the five with 4:36 remaining in the half.
 Roman split the line and zipped 12 yards up the middle to improve the Bufs' position to the 18. He followed with seven more from the left side of the line.
 An eight-yard gain by Munoz and two short runs gave Forsan possession at the 37 before an offensive pass interference slowed the Buff drive and forced a punt with 1:02 left in the half.
 It was an eventful minute, and two seconds.
 The Ploowboys were called for clipping on the punt return, failed on a halfback pass attempt, lost yardage on a halfback reverse and failed to complete a pass on a fake punt with 40 seconds left from the 35.

 That move proved damaging to the home team's efforts.
 A Nichols pass to Brandy Bryan failed to connect, but on the next play Nichols found Holguin and the Buffaloes had TD number two with 22 seconds left. Nichols' PAT kick was good for a 14-0 lead at half.
 Roscoe Coach Troy Kennedy's halftime remarks ignited the Ploowboys, as they took the second half kickoff and notched four first downs in a 71-yard scoring drive — highlighted by a 17-yard burst through the middle by Danny Herrera.
 That put the ball at the three, and Bill Brown took it across the line on the following play to get Roscoe on the board. A determined effort by Sammy Herrera from his quarterback spot earned a two-point conversion and made it a 14-8 game. Roscoe claimed 5:18 of the third quarter in his scoring drive.
 Roscoe's defense was equally inspired, allowing the Bufs eight yards on three plays before punting.
 The hosts gained four yards on two running plays — including a big defensive play by Marquez that stopped Hilly Williams in his tracks — before Herrera took to the air.

 It was his first completion to Holguin, who intercepted at the Ploowboy 35. However, Forsan failed to take advantage of the opportunity, gaining just eight yards in four plays, and Roscoe took over, 73 yards from the end zone.
 The Ploowboys reeled off seven plays and earned two first downs as the third quarter ended before Danny Herrera fumbled and Roman recovered at the Forsan 49.
 The Bufs threatened, earning two first downs and driving to the 19 before two passes East felt should have been caught fell through the hands of Bryan and Holguin and Roscoe took over.
 The Ploowboys gained two first downs — helped by a 23-yard pass completion on a fake punt — and drove to the Forsan 35 with just over three minutes remaining.
 Roscoe fans were ready for a score when Holguin turned the tables.
 Sammy Herrera, under intense pressure from Billy Massingill after a bobbled snap from center, saw his pass stolen by Holguin. He raced the full 72 yards — aided by solid blocking — and put the game away for the Buffaloes.

Forsan injuries

ROSCOE — Forsan expects to be at full strength when they return to action Friday and host Plains on the Buffaloes' homefield.
 Shay Howard suffered the only injury in the contest.
 His right arm, which had been ailing before the game, required x-rays Saturday morning, but Coach Jan East reported that it is nothing more than a deep bruise and the 170-pound junior tackle won't miss any action.
 Michael Self will return to action Friday, and that pleases East.
 The senior center suffered a broken nose the week before two-a-day practices began and has not seen action. He'll be in the line-up against Plains, East said.
 "You don't lose a two-way all-district player and not feel it," East said.
 Wade Salvato, 170-pound junior halfback, "got his bell rung" before the first half of action against Roscoe ended, East said, and was lighththeaded as the second half began, although he returned to action.

 Rivera's 34-yard try was blocked by Tigers' tackle Chip Payne, however, and Slaton had dodged a Wolves' bullet.
 The Tigers couldn't generate any offense for the remainder of the half, however, and C-City led 7-0 intermission.
 Slaton received the second-half kickoff, and mounted an impressive drive deep into Wolves' territory. But once again, a mistake would haunt the Tigers.
 The eight-play drive was stopped on the Wolves' 36 when C-City defensive end Sammy Garcia had to re-kick. Russell received the boot on the 25 and scooted along the left sideline to the Tiger 38-yard line.

 From there, it was easy picking for the Wolves' offense, as they took only five plays to score.
 Rees rambled for 13 yards during the drive, which was capped by a 15-yard scoring pass from Silva to Russell. The PAT ended the scoring for the evening, although a crucial mistake would haunt Slaton one more time.
 After receiving the ensuing kickoff, the Tigers reached the C-City 40-yard line — aided by a facemask call against the Wolves.
 Davis then streaked through the middle for a 40-yard touchdown run, and Slaton supporters went wild on their side of the stadium.
 Back at the line of scrimmage, however, the Wolves' defense was having a celebration of their own. The Tigers were guilty of illegal procedure, which effectively destroyed their drive.
 Two plays later Davis was gang-tackled on fourth down, and C-City played ball-control offense to run all but 30 seconds off the clock and secure the victory.
 After the game, Ramsey paid tribute to Silva's handling of the offense.
 "I was pleased with the way Ismael ran the offense. We had no turnovers, which is unusual in a first game," he said. "That was a big problem for us last year, and something we worked on very hard this spring."
 "We pretty much did what we wanted to do for a first game. We played ball-control offense, which is a little out of character for us," Ramsey noted.
 "We were able to sit on the ball and eat the clock. We'll throw more in the future, but I'm pleased with our effort tonight."
 He paid tribute to the Tigers as well, calling them a "good football team that'll win some games." He added that the nullified touchdown run seemed to let the air out of their efforts.
 The Wolves, who suffered no serious injuries in the game, return to action next Friday at Seminole. Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Score by Quarters:
 Slaton 0 0 0 6-6
 C-City 7 0 0 7-14

pounced on a Steve Starkey fumble.
 Both teams had lengthy drives in vain in the third quarter. The Wolves had a ten-play march halted when Rees was stopped one yard from a first down deep in Slaton territory. It was then that the Tigers mounted their only scoring drive of the game.
 The highlight of the series was a 32-yard option pass from Davis to Michael Cone. Bednarz also helped the Tiger cause, getting a first down on fourth-and-two in Wolves' territory.
 On third down inside the C-City 10-yard line, Davis was stopped short, but the Pack was guilty of an infraction, and Slaton had first and goal on the three.
 Bednarz scored on a sweep around right end the next play. The two-point conversion pass was just beyond Les Clark's fingers, but the Tigers were down by only one, and seemed to have momentum.
 Then came what Ramsey described as the turning point of the game.
 C-City returner Mark Russell was stopped on the 16-yard line, but Slaton was flagged for off-sides and

Cruisin' into the past

Local car collectors have "gone back in time" this weekend.

"It's like the '50s," says John Edwards, local antique car collector.

Drivers of more than 65 custom cars and street rods, 1948 models and older, have been cruisin' Gregg Street, eating at the Sonic and playing games at the 16th Annual Early Cars Rod Run Saturday and today.

The cars, which "look like they did the day they rolled off the showroom floor," are on display at Comanche Trail Park at the Old Settler's Pavillion from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Edwards said.

The collectors are "from all over Texas and New Mexico — it's like a family reunion."

The games — which feature golf carts substituted for the autos because "it was tearin' up the cars," are the highlight of the days' activities, Edwards said.

Three of the favorites are:

- The panty dash — the driver races to the finish line and puts on a pair of women's panties;

- Blind driver — the driver is blindfolded and the passenger instructs him through an obstacle course while racing against the clock;

- Sweeper — the passenger of the golf cart sweeps a beach ball through the obstacle course.

Trophies are awarded to the winners and "everyone has a good time."

In addition to getting together and having fun, the Rod Run is a time to look at the other cars and prepare for the group's annual car show, Edwards explained, which is scheduled at the Dora Robert's Fair Barn in March.

Big Spring collectors belong to two local car clubs: Early Cars of Big Spring and Big Spring Rod and Custom.

The antique cars must feature everything original and if anything is replaced, it must look like the original. Although street rods look like hot rods, they aren't used to race.

Edwards said that car collectors love their cars and take their care seriously.

"You touch 'em — you die," he said with a chuckle.

Although car collecting is an expensive hobby, their efforts range in price.

"I know some guys who've spent about $25,000 in fixin' up their cars and I know some who've spent less than $3,000. It's up to the person."

He added that the insurance for the collectibles is high, too.

Anniversaries

The Bobby Joe Capps

MR. AND MRS. CAPPS in early years together

THE CAPPS celebrate 25th anniversary

COAHOMA — Bobby Joe and Frances Capps of Coahoma were honored at a surprise party at the Coahoma Community Center on Aug. 30 for their 25th wedding anniversary.

The occasion was hosted by Mary Pounds, Jackie Cook and Bobby Capps, children of the couple.

Capps was born in Grosebeck and Mrs. Capps, the former Frances Allen, was born in Big Spring. The couple was introduced by Mrs. Capps' cousin in 1959. They were married Aug. 30, 1962 at the Sand Springs Church of Christ with Eddy Van Swinney, officiating.

Children of the couple are Jackie Cook of Coahoma, Bobby Capps of Coahoma and Mary Pounds, 1906 Hale. They have two grandchildren.

During their marriage, the couple lived in Bandera for three years and the rest of their time has been spent in Coahoma.

Capps is a pumper at Walsh-Watts in Coahoma. He previously worked at Big Spring Beams and Mrs. Capps worked at Gamco in Big Spring.

The couple are members of the Church of Christ of Coahoma.

When asked to comment about their marriage, Capps said the only thing he regrets about their marriage is that they didn't get married sooner. Mrs. Capps said "We have always had a good Christian marriage and have three wonderful kids."

Capps enjoys music and working and Mrs. Capps likes gardening and fishing.

The H.R. Crocker

Mr. and Mrs. H.R. Crocker Jr., 1740 Purdue, were honored with a surprise wedding anniversary reception Aug. 29 at the First Methodist Church parlor.

Hosts for the event were Burnise Vannoy, Pamela Vannoy, Carolyn Vannoy, Lura Davis and Diane Crocker.

The couple's cake, top, garter and wedding pictures from 1962 were featured as special accents at the reception.

Crocker was born on Jan. 6, 1929 in Eldorado, Ark. Mrs. Crocker, the former Betty Sue Hale, was born on June 16, 1940 in Stanton.

The couple was introduced on a blind date in Stanton and married Sept. 8, 1962 at the home of the bride's parents in Stanton with the Rev. J.F. Fields, officiating.

They have one daughter, Diane Crocker, 1105 Pickens. During their marriage, they have lived in Big Spring and at 1740 Purdue for the past 18 years.

Crocker worked in the circulation department at the Herald's for several years, before going to work at the City of Big Spring Water Department 20 years ago. Mrs. Crocker works in the nursery at the

Applications available for Howard County pageant

Howard College news service Many young girls dream of being Miss America.

The next Miss Howard County Pageant queen could be the next Miss America.

Eligible young ladies in the Howard County area must decide soon if they would like to enter the pageant, said Linda Conway, pageant general chairman.

The pageant is Oct. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Howard College Auditorium. Applications can be obtained in the dean of admissions office at Howard College.

To qualify, a young woman must be between the ages of 17 and 26 on the Labor Day holiday, must be a high school graduate by Labor Day and must never have been married.

Talent will be considered in the judging and each contestant should possess some quality of talent, either trained or potential.

In discussing the talent qualifications, Conway stressed that the range is varied and that no young woman must necessarily be trained in any specific field.

She explained that many entrants in previous pageants did not realize they possessed a quality of talent until they considered entering the contest.

She added that in almost every national Miss America Pageant conducted in Atlantic City, N.J., there have been state queens who have presented dramatic readings or comedy monologues as their talent presentations before a panel of nationally prominent judges.

"Any potential entrant may also have a talent unrealized," Conway said, adding that a young woman might be a delightful singer without ever having exhibited her singing ability before an audience.

Judging of the candidates will be based on the same values as considered at the Miss Texas Pageant and at the national Miss America Pageant.

Personality, poise, and talent are the major requirements. Each contestant will be judged in private interview, evening gown, w/suit and in the presentation of her talent.

Conway hopes that civic and social organizations in the area will sponsor candidates, adding that contestants must submit their own names as entries.

In urging civic and social organizations to sponsor candidates, she said each member of the organization should consider the young women they know personally, relatives or daughters of friends, and should encourage the girls to enter the pageant.

Collecting antiques enjoyable

NEW YORK (AP) — "The U.S. Customs Service defines a genuine antique as any object that is at least 100 years old. But, to many, it also is any item that is the first of its kind," say collectible experts Ralph and Terry Kovel.

The Kovels, in Family Circle magazine, offer some tips for collectors.

— Buy because you like it, not because it is a "good investment."

— The best time to buy an antique is when you see it. You rarely get a second chance.

— The less you know about antiques, the more you must trust your dealer so don't be afraid to ask questions.

— Look carefully at anything that seems too great a bargain — it might be damaged or a reproduction.

Stallone arrives in Israel to film Rambo III

By the Associated Press
JERUSALEM — Sylvester Stallone has arrived in Israel to film "Rambo III" in the Dead Sea's rocky surroundings.

In best Rambo tradition, the actor was whisked to his hotel Thursday from Ben Gurion International Airport near Tel Aviv in a special armored jeep, Israel radio said. "Rambo III" is about the one-man commando squad's adventures in Soviet-occupied Afghanistan.

Stallone has taken over an entire floor of the Moriah Dead Sea Spa Hotel 70 miles south of Jerusalem for his personal use, and booked 30 rooms for his crew, said Ilan Gayer, the hotel's sales manager.

Weight-lifting equipment in the hotel was removed to make way for Stallone's personal 18-piece gym, flown in from Los Angeles, Gayer said.

Twelve to 14 bodyguards accompanied Stallone, Gayer said. However, a production official who spoke on condition of anonymity said the actor would have only four guards.

LOS ANGELES — Comedian-actress Whoopi Goldberg says the producer and director of her new movie, "The Telephone," reneged on an agreement to let her take part in the editing, and she's suing for $5.1 million.

The suit was filed Wednesday in Superior Court against director Rip Torn and New World Pictures.

Miss Goldberg contends that her contract allowed her to take part in cutting the movie, but that she was instead given a version to edit on her own while Torn did another version.

In keeping with the decision of an arbitrator who ruled on the dispute Aug. 11, Torn's version is being distributed.

The suit alleges Torn's version is artistically inferior and will damage Miss Goldberg's career.

DARWIN, Australia — Australia's most celebrated aboriginal actor, David Gulpilil of the hit movie "Crocodile Dundee," has been sentenced to a month in jail for drunken driving.

The 35-year-old Gulpilil was also barred Thursday from driving for three years.

WHOOPI GOLDBERG

LOS ANGELES — "Magnum P.I." star Tom Selleck secretly married his longtime girlfriend, Jillie Mack, last month, his publicist disclosed.

"He kept it a secret for a whole month," publicist Esme Chandee said Thursday, just hours after denying a newspaper report of the wedding. "He's very private about all of that."

Other details, including the exact location of the Aug. 7 wedding and the honeymoon itinerary, were kept secret even from her, Ms. Chandee said. The wedding took place somewhere near Lake Tahoe, she said.

The 42-year-old actor met Miss Mack in 1983, when he was filming the movie "Lassiter" and she was appearing in the musical "Cats" in London.

Since then, the 28-year-old English actress has appeared in a "Magnum" episode and in other TV shows, Ms. Chandee said.

The marriage is Selleck's second.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the best person to hold his job in recent memory was Pierre Salinger of the Kennedy administration, but that the work was easier back then.

"I think back then the press felt they were more a part of the presidency," Fitzwater said recently.

"Since Watergate, the press has assumed a very adversarial role that changed the whole dynamic of press relations in the White House."

ships with reporters are almost out of the question, said Fitzwater, who holds court in a hotel here while President Reagan is on vacation.

"Salinger had to deal with 15 to 20 reporters," he said. "When we go on a trip I have to deal with 300."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Johnny Van Zant is hitting the road, playing the rock 'n' roll songs made famous by the Lynyrd Skynyrd Band, which included his late brother.

"We'll see how it feels," Van Zant said. "Right now, I think it feels good for the band emotionally and spiritually to be playing these songs again."

Ronnie Van Zant, guitarist Steve Gaines and background singer Cassie Gaines were killed in 1977 when their chartered plane crashed in Mississippi en route to a concert appearance.

Johnny Van Zant and a new Lynyrd Skynyrd Band are preparing for a concert tour beginning Sunday at the Volunteer Jam concert. "I think we'll let it end once we finish these shows," he said.

The Lynyrd Skynyrd Band was best known for the hits "Sweet Home Alabama" and "Free Bird."

DALLAS — Dallas faithfuls are demanding to be counted.

Because response to her adultery survey showed Dallas to be a "hotbed of sin," Dear Abby says she has had "a blizzard of post cards and letters" from Dallas readers who are faithful to their spouses.

Abby has received an additional 2,500 letters with Dallas postmarks since she revealed her preliminary findings to Dallas readers two weeks ago.

Abigail Van Buren, whose column appears in the Big Spring Herald and about 1,300 other newspapers, asked readers in June: "Have you ever cheated on your mate?" She says she has been flabbergasted by the estimated 200,000 post cards and letters received in her Beverly Hills office.

Nationwide, the faithful outnumber the unfaithful "by a long shot," she says. Women who say they have never cheated on their mates and men who say they have made up the largest number of respondents.

The same is true of Dallas readers, but they have confessed their infidelities in greater numbers — and at greater lengths — than the columnist's other unfaithful readers, Abby reported last month.

That news prompted the city's "true blues" to send Abby their stories.

Only one letter in the batch corroborated the earlier findings: "Sorry, this isn't going to make Dallas look any better," wrote one Dallas reader, "but we've been married for 16 years and neither one can claim fidelity, but we're hanging in there until our four kids are out of the nest."

Most of the Dallas faithfuls have been married 10 years or longer, Abby reports. The longest marriage is 55 years: "He's 77 and I'm 71 and it never occurred to either one of us to fool around. Maybe I'm only kidding myself, but I'm pretty sure if he had fooled around, I'd know it," the faithful wife wrote.

Another reader wrote: "Never cheated — I'm 49, she's 48 — married 30 years. It's not that we're so virtuous. We both work and neither has the time nor energy."

One post card read: "We're not from Dallas. We're from Fort Worth. Is that close enough? Married 22 years, never cheated and I'm sure my husband hasn't. He's not the type."

There's still time to plant a garden

What should I best be doing now with my landscape and garden?

You can still plant beets, lettuce, and spinach seeds. Try the varieties of Detroit Dark Red beets and Hybrid 7 or Iron Duke Spinach.

There is still time to sow radishes. Try one of the black or white varieties, such as Black Spanish or White Chinese. Salad Bowl or Red Sails are good varieties of Leaf Lettuce that can be planted now and some good mustard varieties include Tendergreen and Florida Broadleaf. Give your garden a steady supply of water to keep new and established vegetables growing strongly. Water deeply each week if it does not rain regularly.

Mulches will help keep your fall garden productive. In addition to being helpful conserve moisture, mulches limit weed growth and help keep vegetables from rotting by lessening their contact with the ground. The best mulches this time of year are compost, bark mulch or other organic material.

A constant level of moisture will help protect your tomatoes from blossom end rot. This develops when water supplies are inconsistent causing the bottoms of developing fruit to blacken. Avoid any drastic moisture fluctuations, like allowing the soil to dry out completely, then thoroughly watering.

If you have been wanting to add wildflowers to your garden, now is the time. Fall is the best time to plant most varieties because this allows them time to become established before hot weather. Probably the most famous wildflower, the bluebonnet, should be sown this month and next. Sunny, well-drained areas of slightly alkaline soil seem to provide the best results. Prepare the seed bed by raking the soil loose, then sow the seeds at the rate of ten to twelve seeds per square foot. It is not necessary to scratch or soak the seeds before you plant them.

In fact, doing so may reduce the number of plants that appear in later years. After they are sown, cover bluebonnet seeds with one-fourth inch soil and water them well. Do not keep the soil soggy, but do water the seeds if fall rains are light in your area.

Finally, you will need patience to grow bluebonnets. These seeds are slow to germinate, but once they do, you will be set for several years to come. Bluebonnets reseed themselves regularly, if plants are left unmowed until the seed pods have matured and turned brown. Avoid fertilizing bluebonnets as this may limit blooms.

Limit the fertilizer your woody plants receive now. This will prepare them for winter by reducing the amount of new growth that can be damaged by cold weather later in the season. Avoid pruning spring-flowering shrubs now because these plants will blossom at branches growing now and any pruning done this fall could cut off next spring's floral display. This is not a good time to prune some plants, but it is the right season to add trees to your landscape. Some good varieties recommended for our area include the Russian Olive, Burr Oak the Shumard or Red Oak, Redbuds, and Purpleleaf plums. Bradford pears, Cedar Elms, the Jerusalem Thorn, Rocky Mountain Juniper and the Honey Locust.

Not only here in West Texas, but just wherever, before you plant any tree or shrub, this fall, first ask yourself if the plant you are considering is well suited to your area as far as light, soil and weather tolerances are concerned.

Next decide if it is the right variety for your part of the state. No matter how good a plant looks in a nursery catalog, it will not do as well in your garden if it is not adapted to the growing conditions there.

Finally, consider the amount of maintenance time each plant will require. If you have a limited number of garden hours, do not plant specimens that are highly susceptible to insects and diseases. It is so much easier to pick one of the many attractive plants well adapted to Texas growing conditions.

Shop around for best credit card prices

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Many people watch for sales and compare prices when grocery shopping. They will go to the store that has the lowest prices and buy the brand that is the least expensive. The same concept can be used with credit cards.

When you're "comparison shopping" for credit cards, consider the following:

- Annual Percentage Rate (APR) — APRs currently range from 10.5 to 22.2 percent. The average is 17.9 percent. When comparing APRs, also compare the different types of financial institutions. The average APR for credit cards issued by banks is 18.38 percent, for savings and loan institutions 15.8 percent, and 14 percent for credit unions.
- Annual Fees — The current average annual fee is $17 per year.

Focus on family

However, some institutions still issue cards without a fee.

- Transaction Fees — Some institutions charge transaction fees for cash advances.
- Grace Periods — The grace period is the time (usually 25 days) that the cardholder has to pay the bill before a finance charge is assessed. Some institutions offer lower rates, but eliminate or reduce this grace period. When the grace period is eliminated, those people who pay their entire bill at the end of the month lose because they began paying interest on their purchases as soon as they are made, instead of paying interest only the unpaid portion of their bill. Even with grace periods, cardholders who carry over a balance to the next month will not be allowed a grace period for purchases made in that month while there was still an outstanding balance.

- Tiered Rates — Some institutions apply different APRs to different consumers. Under tiered rates, lower rates are given to cardholders with higher monthly balances or multiple accounts.
- Variable Rates — Some institutions set their rates in accordance with the prime rate. For example, some may charge prime rate plus a certain number of percentage points.

You need to make a careful comparison of all the factors and be aware of how you use your credit to decide which credit card is best for you. Family Economics: Granovsky, Fall 1987

Anniversary

The 'Jack' Spiveys

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. (Jack) Spivey were honored with a 40th wedding anniversary reception on Sept. 5 at Berea Baptist Church.

Hosts were their children, Martha and Tom McCall and Patty and Marvin Spivey.

The crystal punch bowl and appointments and bride and bridegroom cake top from the wedding reception in 1947 were used at the anniversary reception. A wedding photo and embroidery wedding remembrances were displayed with several wedding pictures.

Spivey and Mrs. Spivey, the former Katie Merle Pound, met in 1941 when Jack moved into a boarding house across the street from the Pound home in Humble. Spivey was born in Sour Lake and Mrs. Spivey was born in Humble.

They corresponded during World War II and were married Sept. 6, 1947 after Spivey returned to the United States. He served four years, 1941 to 1945, in the South Pacific. The wedding was at the bride's home in Humble and was performed by Brother S.R. Johnson of the First Baptist Church.

During their marriage, they have lived at Old Ocean, Petrolia, Seymour, Haskell, Colorado City and Big Spring.

Spivey is retired from Texas Pipeline Co. (Texaco) after 43 years of service. He retired as station supervisor in December 1980. Mrs. Spivey has been a homemaker throughout their marriage.

The couple enjoys friends and cooking and canning together. They are both members of the VFW and DAV. They are members of Berea Baptist Church.

Their children are Martha and Tom McCall of Grand Prairie and Patty and Marvin Spivey. Their grandchildren are Cody and Kati McCall of Grand Prairie and Ricky and Sandy Swafford of Big Spring.

When asked to comment about their years of marriage, Mrs. Spivey said, "We've had many happy years together and in moving around, we've made many enduring friendships and we thank God for them."

Spivey added, "My 40 years of marriage have been very enjoyable due to the love of God, devotion to one another and sharing with a host of friends."

Wedding

Allard-Barnes

STANTON — Melissa Ann Allard of Stanton became the bride of Rocky Randall Barnes of Stanton at an evening ceremony on Aug. 8 at the Church of Christ with Lee Graves, elder, and Deral McWhorler, minister, officiating. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allard of Stanton. Bridegroom's parents are Jody and Richard Barnes of Stanton.

MR. AND MRS. ROCKY BARNES exchanged vows Aug. 8. Best man was Robby Barnes, brother of the bridegroom, of Big Spring. Groomsmen were Kevin Barnes, brother of the bridegroom, of Stanton and Tim Nowell of Loraine.

Ushers were Rusty Allard, brother of the bride, of Stanton; Woody Crow, brother-in-law of the bride, of Stanton; and Mark Barnes, cousin of the bridegroom, of Midland.

Candlelighters were Sparky Allard, brother of the bride, of Stanton and Woody Crow, nephew of the bride, of Stanton.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church.

The bride is a graduate of Stanton High School and works at Woody's Bar-B-Que.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School and attends Midland College. He works at Wheeler Motor in Stanton.

After a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Stanton.

Vocalists were the Golf Church of Christ Singers of Midland.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Matron of honor was Brenda Crow, sister of the bride, of Stanton. Bridesmaids were Dedie Almon, sister of the bride, of Gainsville and Connie McCaulley of Midland.

Flower girls were Cari Crow, niece of the bride, of Stanton and Shanna and Sherre Wells, cousins of the bridegroom, of Stanton. Ring bearer was Clay Crow, nephew of the bride, of Stanton.

The Crossroads of West Texas

Engaged Father's death closes ugly chapter in daughter's life

DEAR ABBY: My father died recently of a heart attack. He was 63. My mother said I was not welcome at his funeral because I had taken him to court for sexually molesting my 4-year-old daughter. I testified in court that my father had also molested me and my older sister between the ages of 4 and 8. We had told our mother at the time, but Dad denied it and Mom accused us of lying.

I've had therapy since, which helped me a lot, but I really wanted to go to Dad's funeral because I needed to see him dead in his casket so I could finally say, "It's over; he's gone forever!"

My mother blamed me for Dad's death. She said the stress of the trial caused it. Abby, please encourage people who have been molested as children to get therapy. (I got mine at the YWCA.) If it hadn't been for the therapy, I never would have been able to deal with that ugly chapter in my life, which affected me more than I realized. My daughter is also getting therapy. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest.

WHOLE AGAIN IN INDIANA DEAR WHOLE AGAIN: Don't thank me. That's what I'm here for. Readers, if you don't know where therapy is available in your community, contact your social services, county welfare association, any women's rights organization, or write to me.

DEAR ABBY: Baseball is the only major sport in which the players indulge in the disgusting habit of chewing tobacco, then spitting right on the playing field. Millions of viewers are "treated" to dozens of close-ups of players spitting gobs of gunk onto the field. This grosses out a lot of people, while greatly impressing many young ball players who then take up the habit. Maybe if you would scold them they would clean up their act. Why must they chew?

DISGUSTED EX-FAN DEAR DISGUSTED: Baseball players "chew" to keep their mouths moist and to relieve tension. Don't chew out the players — blame the cameramen who bring it into our living rooms. Spitting is not only unsightly, it's a health hazard.

DEAR ABBY: Thirteen years ago I married a woman I loved very much, and still do. However, the love I had for her is fading because when I married her, she had a 10-year-old daughter who — 13 years later — is still living with us!

Abby, when I married this woman, I accepted her 10-year-old daughter with open arms and raised her as my own, but is this daughter expected to live with us forever?

READY TO LEAVE DEAR READY: That would be a good question to ask your wife — and her daughter. All children should clear out when they reach legal age, unless, of course, the parents want them to live at home and they (the grown children) prefer it.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tipps of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bradshaw of O'Donnell announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Shana Bradshaw of Coahoma, to Charles LaRue of Coahoma. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac LaRue of Coahoma. The couple will exchange wedding vows Oct. 3 at the First Baptist Church Chapel with Richard Dickerson of Stonewall, Okla., uncle of the prospective bridegroom, officiating.

COUPLE TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McCoy, Rt. 1 Box 694-D, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Lisa D'Ann, P.O. Box 3624, to Troy Michael Deubler, P.O. Box 2819. She is also the daughter of the late Rose Ann McCoy. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Randy Deubler, 604 Elgin. The couple will wed Oct. 3 at 14th and Main Church of Christ with Don Parker, minister of the Church of Christ in Amarillo, officiating.

Stafford moves Big Spring office

Dr. Richard Stafford, former assistant chief psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital, has started an independent practice in Big Spring and Midland, and moved his Big Spring office to Scenic Mountain Medical Center Suite 215. He plans a grand opening there within the next few weeks.

Stafford's psychology practice deals with all ages, couples and families, and specializes in such areas as marital therapy, parenting, social problems, stress management and weight control.

A subspecialty is the use of biofeedback equipment and hypnosis for stress accompanied by tension and migraine headaches, ulcers, colitis and hypertension.

He also treats those who must readjust after major life upheavals such as divorce or bereavement.

Stafford was reared in Lubbock and received a doctorate degree in counseling psychology from Texas Tech University. He is a consultant for the Big Spring police department and the Crossroads drug and alcohol abuse recovery unit.

CPA Green elected to institute

Neva Joyce Bidy Green of Big Spring recently was elected a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

The institute is a national organization with more than 248,000 CPA members. It sets audit standards, provides continuing education, enforces a code of professional ethics and prepares and grades CPA examinations.

Green is a stockholder and CPA with Green & Fillingim accounting firm in Big Spring.

A graduate of Paducah High School and Hardin Simmons University, she is a member of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Permian Basin Chapter of CPAs.

Green also is president of the Altrusa Club and treasurer of Ingenious Computer Systems Inc. She has served as president of the Big Spring Progressive Forum, American Business Club Wives and as a trustee and treasurer of the Heritage Museum.

Watson joins New Mexican staff

Tom Watson, former publisher of the Big Spring Herald, has been appointed general manager of the Santa Fe New Mexican, publisher Robert M. McKinney announced.

Watson, publisher in Big Spring for nine years beginning in 1978, said his duties at the New Mexican will be similar to those as Herald publisher.

The New Mexico paper, in addition to being located in the state's capital, has about twice the staff and circulation of the Herald, Watson said.

"It's a tremendous challenge," he said.

Highlights of his Big Spring career include initiating the weekly shopper and, in 1983, the Saturday publication, which recently was curtailed; computerizing the typesetting and editing in 1983, and the business systems in 1986; and expanding the paper's commercial printing business.

Watson founded the local Crimestoppers chapter in 1982, was first chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Chemical People committee, was director of the Big

TOM WATSON

Spring Rotary Club, was a member of various other chamber committees, was on the executive board of the Boy Scouts, and served on the United Way board of directors, he said.

He and his wife, Elaine, are raising two granddaughters, Jennifer and Teri Daniels.

Wallises attend training seminar

Curt and Peggy Wallis, owners of Beltone Hearing Aid Centers in Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, attended the Beltone Electronics Corp. technical training seminar in Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 6-7.

The two-day course was prepared and taught by Robert J. Briskey, director of technical training for the corporation.

The course included the latest technological reports. The course has been approved as meeting state and national requirements for re-certification and license renewal, according to a news release from the company.

Grass fires occur, livestock well

Grass fires are occurring on dry ranges, but livestock continue to be in good shape in District 6, Far West Texas, including Howard County, according to a report from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Insects, especially grasshoppers, are quite active. Pecans are maturing well and the cantaloupe harvest continues.

In District 7, West Central Texas, sorghum yields are running 3,000 to 4,000 pounds per acre. Many big acreage range grass fires are occurring.

The high cattle and sheep markets continue to hold their own, and Pecans still look good, but insects are active, the Extension Service added.

Seminars to help employers

The Texas Association of Business is sponsoring a series of regional seminars to help employers comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act. Texas Employment Commission and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service are participating in the seminars.

They will be conducted at the Holiday Inn Civic Center in Lubbock Oct. 6, and at the Holiday Inn Country Villa in Midland Nov. 16.

The seminars are designed to inform employers of their responsibilities under the new law and the penalties for failing to comply.

"The scope of the penalties, both civil and criminal, along with the new anti-discrimination provisions, impose significant new risks that employers must understand," said Phil Pfeiffer, association chairman of employment relations.

Cost of the seminar is $40 and registration begins at 8 a.m. The program begins at 9 a.m. and continues through lunch. Participants will receive copies of the new immigration law and regulations, the I-9 form and employer's handbook.

Anyone interested in more information may call the Texas Association of Business headquarters in Austin at 512-477-6721, or the local Texas Employment Commission at 267-7437.

Herald contract expands printing

A $1.6 million a year contract to print the Dallas Times Herald weekly television guide will mean better quality color processing for the Big Spring Herald and its printing customers, said Gary Bishop, pressroom foreman.

Bishop and staff are working to prepare about $250,000 of new equipment for the printing job, including press equipment and a machine to staple the product, fold it and trim the edges, he said.

The Herald will print about 400,000 copies a week of the guide, in addition to the 115,000 per week it prints of the Big Spring Herald, the Stanton Herald, the Ballinger Ledger and other products, he said.

The work will begin Jan. 1, and will mean hiring an additional three pressmen, Bishop said.

August retail sales results low

The nation's largest general retailers announced their August sales results, and the numbers reflect a hard fact of life: changes in the calendar can affect consumers' buying habits and give storeowners a lackluster month.

Retailers said Thursday they had generally soft sales, and analysts attributed the results to delayed back-to-school shopping. Many parents have put off their purchases with Labor Day falling late this year.

Local winery begun

Jerome Hoelscher, owner of a farm near St. Lawrence, displays tanks in his winery. Hoelscher recently finished harvesting his first 12-acre grape crop, planted three years ago. Another 13 acres should be ready for first harvest in two more years, he said. From the harvest, the grapes go to the wine press, after which the juice is pumped into tanks to ferment for two to three months. After the wines are bottled Hoelscher said he plans to begin contacting distributors for the products. Hoelscher, who has farmed near St. Lawrence since 1956, admits wine grapes are an unusual crop for West Texas, but said an increasing number of farmers are growing them.

Design opportunity often present

By TOM PETERS

I wrote this column with an 18 black Cross pen. The ink flow is superior, but on that score I find a 35-cent Bic more than adequate. My addition to Cross is due to the pen's design — its heavy weight, smooth feel, sleek look.

As markets become ever more fragmented and as product offerings proliferate, the search for differentiating features grows ever more frenetic. One arena that doesn't receive enough attention is design.

Design has long been the secret weapon of many successful companies, from furniture maker Herman-Miller, whose whole strategy is design-centered, to Black & Decker, Sony, Mercedes and IBM.

IBM's Tom Watson Jr. was a design fanatic. Despite occasional fiascos, such as the first PCjr's too-soft-touch keyboard, design has permeated the firm's approach for decades — not just the shape and styling of its products, but also the look of its offices, the graphics in its logo and even the format for its order forms.

This pervasive approach is described by American industrial design consultant Michael Shannon: "Design is the company's strategic objective made buyable, made REAL in customer terms. It is how the company looks, feels, tastes, wears, rides — what the company is that customers care about."

Another computer maker, Apple, made design its premier strategic weapon from the start. An unimposing look and numerous

Peters on excellence

"user-friendly" features have been the cornerstones of its effort to gain widespread acceptance of the computer. And once more, Apple's concern with design is reflected in every aspect of the firm's operations.

London Financial Times management expert Christopher Lorenz forcefully argues in a thoughtful book, "The Design Dimension," that design must routinely become a principal strategic tool.

He asserts that an "industrial-design vision" must drive product development as much as the "marketing vision" (spearheaded by market research, advertising, etc.) and the "engineering vision" (which concerns technical specifications).

Shannon convincingly makes a similar case, and suggests that most firms create a role of "Vice President of Design, reporting to the CEO."

Such positions do exist, but, unfortunately, not in most American firms. This is one more element of growing importance that we are neglecting, which keeps American firms at a disadvantage vis-a-vis our most important competitors — such as the Japanese, Germans and Swiss.

Sony has a senior design position and, of course, a remarkable history of design-led innovation. Sony's industrial designers usually set the parameters for new products, which the engineers then follow. This is the opposite of the norm in most U.S. firms, where designers are handed the job only after the engineers have done their thing.

One major U.S. exception is the smashing success of Ford's Taurus and Sable, which provides the most visible example of design's importance in recent years.

The cars' distinction goes well beyond their aerodynamic look. Ford concertedly attempted to outdo the best car makers in the world on hundreds of small details — from an easy-to-remove gas cap to an owner's manual that readily flops open the first time you use it.

Detroit's more usual failure to consider such fits and finishes has been a major contributor to its downfall relative to both the Europeans and Asians. (The Japanese have not slackened, to be sure. Honda's Acura is a monument, even by its high standards, to such considerations. First-year model acceptance has been unprecedented.)

Last summer I was in Norway, far north of the Arctic Circle for a couple of days. While wandering through a small-town hardware store, I picked up a hammer, which was heavy and which I did not especially need. Nonetheless, I instinctively shelved out the $8.95 to purchase it and carried it home 6,000 miles, in my already overloaded suitcase.

Today, when I'm not using the tool, I keep it on a bookshelf in full view, instead of storing it in my tool chest. The reason for my odd behavior: design. The hammer is beautiful to look at, feels good and works.

Several days after I brought the tool home, I got a flat tire. While changing it, I cut my finger on a metal burr on the surface of the lugwrench. When thinking about the hammer, it occurred to me that the lugwrench need not be ugly (which it is), nor have such rough surfaces. The maker can't use production costs as an excuse (I've inquired); it simply did not pay attention to design.

Cross (which, by the way, is very successful in design-conscious Japan), Apple, Sony and the maker of my tool from Norway understand the strategic influence of design.

Whether a company opts to add a Vice President of Design to its staff or not, there is no question that the design dimension — style, fits and finishes, including manuals and forms, and the overall image of the company to customers — presents an enormous opportunity. It's one more element of the quality and management revolution that Americans must learn to value and to implement.

Drilling report

Pumping 133 barrels of oil per day, plus 50,000 CF casinghead gas, the No. 6 J. B. Ryan was completed in Howard County's Southeast Lullwater Field by Maralo Inc. of Midland.

Drill site is 11 miles north of Big Spring. The well was drilled to 10,000-ft TD and will produce from perforations in the Siluro-Devonian Formation, 9,899 to 9,903 feet into the wellbore. The well also made 19 barrels of water per day.

The location is in a 480-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 34, Blk. 32.

A. K. Guthrie Operating of Big Spring has filed first production figures on a new oil well in the Howard-Glasscock Field. The No. 1 R. J. Wallace "B" showed potential to pump 120 barrels of oil per day, plus 114,000 CF casinghead gas.

The operator has 160 acres leased, with drill site in Howard County's W&N Survey, Sec. 86, Blk. 29, eight miles east of Forsan.

The well will produce from a perforated interval in the Wolfcamp Formation, 7,394 to 7,403 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth was 8,000 feet.

At a location 13 miles southeast of Big Spring, Mobil Producing of Midland finished a new oil producer in Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field.

V. F. Petroleum of Midland has filed for permit to drill the No. 1 Chaney, a 10,500-ft. wildcat well four miles northeast of Knott. Location is in a 640-acre lease in Howard County's T&P Survey, Sec. 3, Blk. 33.

Howard County will see more wildcat drilling action when Samedan Oil spuds the No. 1 Otis, 15 miles southeast of Big Spring. The well carries permit for 1,700-ft. maximum depth. It will be drilled in a 320-acre lease in the W&N Survey, Sec. 94, Blk. 29.

The operator is based in Midland. The No. 8 J. B. Ryan, a 10,100-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Howard County's Southeast Lullwater Field. Maralo Inc. is the operator.

The well will be spudded in a 480-acre lease ten miles north of Big Spring in the T&P Survey, Sec. 34, Blk. 32.

well as a dry hole June 26, 1984. The original total depth was 7,600 feet. RKG plans to plug the hole back to approximately 4,980 feet and seek production in the Clear Fork Formation.

Mitchell County's Coleman Ranch Field gained two new producers when Fina Oil & Chemical of Midland completed the Nos. 506 and 1009 Coleman Ranch Unit two miles west of Cuthbert.

The No. 1009 well pumped 110 barrels of oil per day, plus 84 barrels of water, while the No. 506 pumped 32 barrels of oil per day, along with 94 barrels of water. Production will be from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, ranging from 2,616 to 2,924 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth for each well was 3,000 feet.

Drill sites are in a 1,700-acre lease in the H&T Survey, Sec. 70, Blk. 97.

Two new producers were brought on line in Mitchell County's East Iatan Howard Field, with Mobil Producing of Midland as the operator.

Located nine miles southwest of Westbrook, the wells are in a 3,840-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 17, Blk. 29. They are designated as the Nos. 223 and 227 Mary Foster.

The No. 223 well pumped 53 barrels of oil per day and 99 barrels of water, while the No. 227 well pumped three barrels of oil daily plus 300 barrels of water. The No. 223 bottomed at 3,999 feet, and was plugged back to 3,349 feet. It will produce from perforations commingled in the San Angelo and Clear Fork Formations, ranging from 2,336 to 3,186 feet into the hole. The No. 227 bottomed at 3,400 feet and production will be from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, 2,970 to 3,276 feet into the wellbore.

Borden County gained a wildcat producer when Parallel Petroleum of Midland completed the No. 1 Doyle Newton 12 miles northeast of Gail.

The well showed potential to pump 65 barrels of oil per day, plus 78,000 CF casinghead gas and 250 barrels of water. It bottomed at 8,491 feet, and was plugged back to 7,950 feet. Production will be from perforations in the Strawn "A" Formation, 7,912 to 7,916 feet into the hole.

The operation is on a 560-acre lease in the John H. Gibson Survey, Sec. 37, Blk. 30.

Remington Resources of Midland has revealed plans to drill two new developmental wells in Borden County.

The No. 2 Miller "525" and the No. 2 Miller "587" will be located 12 miles northeast of Gail. The "525" well will be in a 320-acre lease in the H&T Survey, Sec. 525, Blk. 97, South Hood Field. The "587" well will be in a 480-acre lease, same survey. Sec. 587, Blk. 97. Drill site is in the Gavett Field. The operations carry permit for 5,450 and 5,550-ft. maximum depths, respectively.

Amoco Production of Odessa has revealed the plugging and abandonment of the No. 8 E. L. Powell, a developmental well in Glasscock County's Dewey Lake Field. The well was located 11 miles northwest of Garden City in a 1,845-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 8, Blk. 35.

Spudded May 5, the well bottomed dry at 8,500 feet.

Maxus Exploration of Midland is planning to drill the No. 1 Cookbook, an 8,500-ft. wildcat well three miles east of St. Lawrence. Glasscock County. Drill site is in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 24, Blk. 34.

Standard Oil Production is planning to re-enter the No. 5 R. S. Davenport "A," a developmental well in Glasscock County's Spraberry Trend Field. The well is located 22 miles southwest of Garden City in a 640-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 14, Blk. 37.

Sohio Petroleum originally completed the well Sept. 15, 1981, and it flowed 328 barrels of oil per day from Spraberry Formation perforations at 6,871 to 6,972 feet. Standard Oil is planning to seek production in the Clear Fork Formation at approximately 6,972 feet.

Motor home business all started with a bus

By CHRIS VAN WAGENEN
The Odessa American
ODESSA, Texas (AP) — When mechanic Loyd Delcore and cabinet maker Robert Slaughter met each other through a mutual friend a while back, they never dreamed they would team up to manufacture a custom-built luxury motor home.

But 16 months and thousands of hours later, the pair are in business — the motor home refurbishing business.

Delcore and Slaughter decided the best way to market their trades together was to build a motor home from scratch.

So they bought a rusted body of an old bus from a junkyard in Abilene and went to work as Espen Coach Company — the Espen being Delcore's middle name.

"We've had lots of calls on it," said Delcore. "Everyone is just curious where it came from, but we built it from scratch."

They crafted cabinets using three-quarter-inch imported Canadian ashwood.

They also added such features as a rearview television camera and an electric refrigerator that runs on butane when the power goes out, and then cuts off the battery when the butane is emptied.

Delcore said no shortcuts were taken.

For convenience and luxury, the pair installed a total of three televisions, a water bed, a built-in vacuum cleaner, a built-in safe, gas-fired barbeque and a hydraulic system that stations the bus on a level plane once stopped.

Delcore's wife, Raye, said she rarely saw her husband during those months, but was pleasantly surprised with the end result.

She said the two were so wrapped up in the project, that at one point, she had to serve them Thanksgiving dinner in the garage.

"That's the day we designed the dashboard," laughed Delcore.

"But we took off 'Christmas,'" added Slaughter.

Oddly enough, the most difficult problem encountered was what color to paint the bus.

No one could agree on that. They painted the vehicle five times before choosing a deep maroon accented by polished stainless steel and a mural of their bus painted on back.

Delcore figures about $500,000 was invested in the project — $225,000 for the interior alone.

"I had one federal judge in New York City call me. I don't know how he heard about it, but the word is getting out," said Delcore.

Both he and Slaughter now plan to market their project at RV trade shows around the United States.

They hope the project will catapult them into the lucrative motor home refurbishing business.

Delcore figures the service is worth between $35,000 and $70,000, depending on what owners want.

As for building another motor home, Delcore said he plans to take a break for a while. "But we'll build another."

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

4x4's A SPECIALTY — Although Cahill's Automotive specializes in repairs and service for four-wheel drive vehicles, Jim Cahill operates a complete auto repair shop. Jim, a mechanic for 28 years, does all the work himself.

Mystique

Cahill's specializes in 4x4's

When Jim Cahill opened his own shop three years ago, he felt there was a place in the Big Spring market for a garage that specialized in four-wheel drive vehicles.

Cahill's 4x4 Automotive is a full-service auto repair shop, Jim says, with emphasis on four-wheel drive repair and service.

"It's not just the repairs," Jim explained, but rather the whole mystique of these vehicles. "I dress them up with lift kits (to accommodate the larger tires), roll bars and special light kits for off-road use."

Many of these kits are added for practicality, such as on vehicles for hunting or ranch driving. But many times the customer adds accessories "to make 'em look good," Jim says.

For vehicles of all kinds, Jim provides engine overhaul, brake jobs, tune-ups, carburetor repairs, and air conditioning service.

When asked what he felt kept his customers coming back, Jim answered without hesitation, "quality work and the cheapest flat rate hour in town."

Jim has been a mechanic 28 years and does all his shop's work himself. He previously worked in the service departments of Big Spring's Pontiac and Chevrolet dealerships and operated his own full service station.

His long experience plus pride in his work account for a high level of quality, he feels.

"Cahill's Automotive can offer the 'cheapest flat rate hourly charge in town' because of low overhead. Jim's well-appointed building is located on his home property on N. FM 700.

Although the garage hours are 8 a.m. til 5 p.m., Jim doesn't mind working at night or on Saturdays when the customer is in a bind. "It's handy since the garage is located near my home," Jim says. "And besides, it's a kind of personal service that I can give when necessary."

Jim is glad to provide free estimates. His shop is located on N. FM 700, about 1.2 miles north of the intersection of I-20 East and FM 700.

Look for Cahill's Automotive on the south side, set back from the road. A sign designates the entrance.

New 'Very Texan' pizza makes debut at Pizza Inn

"Nobody else in town has a whole wheat crust," says Jerry Brooks, manager of Pizza Inn, 1702 Gregg. He feels that this is just another example of how Pizza Inn has stayed ahead of the competition in Big Spring for over 17 years.

"We're now introducing a new pizza," he said. "We call it the 'Very Texan.' It's a real Texas kind of pizza." The Very Texan has four meat toppings — pepperoni, hamburger, sausage and Canadian bacon. Jerry says it's "very filling."

"We were the first in Big Spring to offer delivery service," the manager declares. "And we introduced the pizzetti, a dessert pizza. In our advertising we say 'Thank you, Big Spring, for making us No. 1!' We feel that our consistent quality product and dependable delivery service are the reasons for our loyal customers."

Pizza Inn delivers during all their opening hours — "rain or shine," according to Jerry. He says they deliver between 50 and 100 pizzas every day.

They've just added deliveries to Sand Springs and Coahoma. Deliveries are scheduled between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. to these locations; orders must be placed about an hour ahead of time.

There is no charge for Pizza Inn's party room, which can accommodate 40 persons for birthday bashes, club meetings, after-the-game or going away parties. There is a special party set-up for birthday parties — napkins, paper plates and balloon favors. Discounts are available to groups over 10.

Pizza Inn's menu offers three kinds of pizza crusts — the new whole wheat, plus original thin and regular deep pan — with a variety of toppings; meat balls and spaghetti, lasagna, ham-and-cheese submarines and steak hogies.

The all-you-can-eat buffet includes a variety of pizzas, spaghetti, generous salad plus desserts including the pizzetti.

Pizza Inn has 17 employees. Assistant managers are Lillie Klein and Danny Doport.

"They're open seven days a week: 11 a.m. to midnight Sunday thru Thursday; 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday. Buffet is served 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily plus 6-8:30 p.m. Sunday and Tuesday. For deliveries phone 263-1381.

Apparent law violation top news

Herald staff report
• Responding to an apparent violation of the Texas Open Meeting Act, the Big Spring school district Board of Trustees will revote on the selection of a new member.

Board President Bill Brooks said the action is scheduled to eliminate any appearance of illegality. The issue arose during the board meeting Aug. 27, when Donnie Baker was chosen by secret ballot to replace Dock Voorhies — an action that apparently violates a section of the Texas Open Meeting Act.

In an opinion dated May 8, 1978, former Texas Attorney General John Hill summarized, "The use of a secret ballot in a meeting of a governmental body violates the Texas Open Meetings Act."

• Andy Gramlich, administrator at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, has resigned from that post, according to Mike Deacon, acting administrator.

Gramlich's resignation is believed to be effective immediately, Deacon said, adding no reason has been given for the action.

Gramlich is on vacation, and could not be reached for comment. He has been administrator at the hospital for about one year, Deacon said. No date has been set for naming a new administrator, he added.

• Reservation deadline for the Sept. 11 Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce luncheon — which officially will initiate the 1987 United Way campaign — is noon Tuesday, according to Betty Schoenfield of the chamber.

The goal of this year's campaign is $215,000, the same as last year, said campaign manager Tommy Welch.

Tickets for the luncheon are $5 per person by reservation, or $7 at the door, Schoenfield said. The luncheon will begin in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 11:45 a.m.

Week in review

• The Vietnam Wall committee during a 2½-hour meeting Wednesday finalized details of the veterans' memorial wall's visit to Big Spring Sept. 30 to Oct. 6.

The committee has met its original $3,200 fundraising goal to finance the Wall's visit to Big Spring. However, an additional $500 to $1,000 is needed to fund expenses during its visit, said committee Secretary/Treasurer Teri Quinones.

Those expenses include printing programs and providing temporary restrooms, as well as any unanticipated items, she said.

Quinones praised those who contributed to the effort, and said that she hopes the momentum will continue, "in order to provide a first-class presentation to West Texans."

• A Big Spring couple was to be in Saragosa Friday helping construct new homes, and a local drive is underway to collect used furniture for the victims of the May 22 tornado.

Lloyd and Virginia Claxton, 2400 Marcy Drive, will be among 450 volunteers constructing about 60 new homes. They will spend a week there, working "around the clock," Claxton said.

They will be part of the Baptist Men of Texas effort that will construct permanent one-, two- and three-bedroom houses at the town that was virtually destroyed by the twister.

The group of Big Spring businessmen and church leaders who raised over $8,000 for the Saragosa relief fund are preparing a drive to collect used furnishings for the homes being constructed.

• Only one area school will have to make policy changes as a result of a new law banning smoking and tobacco use on public school campuses.

And, Howard College won't be affected by the law, College President Bob Riley said.

Coahoma Superintendent Gary Rotan said Coahoma High School had a designated student smoking area outside the school building that has been eliminated because of the new law.

The smoking ban took effect Monday and is among about 750 new laws passed during the last legislative session.

Big Spring, Forsan, Sands, Stanton, Grady, Glasscock, Borden and Colorado City school districts already had policies banning the use of tobacco.

• Representatives of the state Republican party were in Big Spring Tuesday as part of a tour to campaign against incumbent Democrats.

State party chairman George Strake said party officials are hoping to attract a candidate to run against State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, in the 1988 election.

Rich Anderson, whom Shaw defeated in 1986, is giving serious consideration to running again, Strake said.

"We're banking on him running," he said. "He ran a good race last time."

Increased taxes and the possibility of a state income tax are the main issues in the campaign against Shaw and 36 other Democratic incumbents the Republicans have targeted, Strake said.

• Tentative approval has been given for expansion of the Howard County Jail, Sheriff A.N. Standard said Tuesday.

Joe Slater, a member of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards, gave approval for a 10-inmate expansion last week while conducting an annual jail inspection, Standard said.

The Sheriff's office, however, doesn't have any plans to seek approval to expand from the County Commissioners Court, he said.

The jail was certified Aug. 26 as meeting all state standards. It was recommended, however, that additional lighting be provided and that some locks be modified, the sheriff said.

• Arson caused an estimated $10,000 in fire damage to a Big Spring house, said Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles.

The blaze erupted early Tuesday morning at 910 E. 13th St., the home of Karen Ward and Marla Nall, fire department reports said.

'Genius' house home of future

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You probably haven't asked for it, but the smart house is coming, and early indications are that it will operate perfectly if it has a smart owner.

In truth, it is being designed to overcome even the absence of smarts in the owner, but a question arises concerning who might feel comfortable living in a genius house they do not understand.

As envisioned, the smart house will receive telephoned instructions, such as to turn on the oven, alert the homeowner to smoke or fire problems, and turn off lights when a person leaves the room. It will protect kids too.

The smart house is being developed by the National Association of Home Builders and its associate NAHB Foundation. Now in the laboratory stage, it might be demonstrated in late 1989 and made commercially available soon after.

Asked why it is being developed, a spokesman for the foundation observed that so many patchwork schemes of automating houses were being developed that they thought it best to begin from scratch and rethink the entire matter.

If it turns out as planned, a chip in each smart-house device and appliance will identify what is being plugged into any outlet, as well as the specific amount of current needed for its operation.

Only after this identification is made can the device receive current. Thus, a baby sticking a finger into a smart-house outlet would not be harmed because its finger is not an authorized device.

The smart house looks after its occupants, no matter how absent-minded. It can, for example, be instructed not to provide power to an electric guitar plugged into a bathroom outlet.

Even if such an instruction weren't given, a teen-ager trying to play that guitar in the shower would be protected, because any deviation from the power level the system has been instructed to receive will trip the circuit.

The smart house seeks elegance also. Stereo speakers can be plugged into any outlet in the house without running additional wiring. A stereo receiver in the living room can provide music in the bedroom or even the basement too.

Any smart-house device can operate in any outlet, which means you can unplug the stereo speaker and plug in a telephone and immediately make a call.

Through a video display it can also alert you to an open refrigerator door, an oven unintentionally left on or a front door left unlocked.

All smart-house devices can be given instructions from a control panel placed anywhere in the house. Thus, a panel next to your bed can be instructed to wake you up with music, raise the heat and get the coffee ready.

According to the foundation, the entire system they come up with will have the capability of being controlled remotely from any distance simply by telephoning instructions to it.

All this will cost, of course, but if homebuyers are as smart as this house thinks they are they will demand its services.

Therefore, say the foundation folks, within a couple of years of its introduction it should cost no more than those old-fashioned homes that people now live in. Production volume, that is, will bring down the cost.

The smart-house innovators have thought an awful lot about this project, but they haven't been able to overcome the obvious, which is the absence of power. The nearest they have come to resolving that issue is to have the smart house switch to an alternate power source, if one is available.

While that might be viewed as a drawback by some homeowners, others might be reassured by the knowledge that if their house becomes too smart for its own studs they can always pull the plug on it.

Tax & financial planning

NEW INTEREST RULES
The IRS has just issued complicated temporary regulations governing the deductibility of various kinds of interest.

It used to be that, with few exceptions, interest paid was fully deductible on your tax return. Generally, business interest expense remains fully deductible. Investment interest expense is deductible only up to the amount of net investment income. Interest expense connected with passive activities is deductible only to the extent of passive activity income. Both of these categories have transition rules covering the next several years. Personal (consumer) interest, such as interest on car loans and credit cards, is being phased out completely and will no longer be deductible by 1991. Qualified home mortgage interest remains fully deductible.

The basic rule in the new IRS regulations is that interest deductibility is determined by the use of the loan proceeds. The collateral used for a loan is irrelevant.

People often mix borrowed funds with other un borrowed money; it is this situation which will now call for very careful recordkeeping in order to maintain deductions. The regulations state that expenditures made from an account containing both borrowed and un borrowed funds will be treated as coming first from the borrowed money. A fifteen day exception to this rule allows expenditures made within fifteen days after loan proceeds are received to be designated by the taxpayer as coming from either the borrowed or un borrowed funds. An expenditure made from a mixed account after the fifteen days will be treated as having come first from the borrowed funds.

Loan proceeds taken in cash will be categorically treated as used for personal expenses unless the proceeds are spent within the fifteen day grace period. The regulations have some transitional rules and deal with loan paybacks as well. Final regulations will be issued after the IRS has digested the public's comments on the temporary rules.
