

Prisons prompt $5.25 million project plans

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The prospect of two additional prisons in Big Spring could spawn a $5.25 million project to extend water and wastewater services to the western part of the Industrial Park.

Public Works Director Tom Decell detailed costs of the plan at the City Council meeting Tuesday evening.

The council passed a resolution responding favorably to a Texas

Department of Corrections request for a medium to maximum security prison proposal for Big Spring.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford said the legislation enables the city to bid for the prison project if the situation occurs.

The city would spend $2.25 million in water line and $2.15 million in wastewater line improvements in the Industrial Park if it receives a contract for the prison, Decell said, adding that the balance of the $5.25 million figure would be spent on engineering and other fees.

The proposed privately-owned prison to hold illegal aliens will necessitate Phase I of the improvements, which calls for spending $1.067 million of the total for such improvements, he said. Phase II would entail spending the balance for improvements to serve the proposed state prison, he said.

Decell suggested the city issue bonds or certificates of obligation to cover the costs, pledging repayment from payments to be collected from the prisons based on the number of inmates.

Proposal requests have been sent to more than 60 communities, which had expressed interest in attracting future TDC projects, said Allen Sapp, administrative procedures officer for the TDC.

Economics of the site and proximity to a large population center will be two main factors considered in choosing the prison site, he said.

TDC officials will consider expenses of utilities and logistical costs, such as food, supplies and transporting inmates, Sapp said.

He indicated the officials will favor a site "reasonably close" to a community of at least 100,000 population from which to draw staff, resources and adequate medical care.

The proposed prison will be filled with inmates transferred from existing, overcrowded facilities, in which inmate population must be decreased by Sept. 1, 1988 because of a federal court order, Sapp said.

The 2,250-bed facility will be as large as the court order will allow the TDC to build, he said, although the state operates several larger prisons.

TDC officials have set a deadline of Sept. 21 for proposals from communities, and expect to select a site in October, he said.

Councilman Rutherford has said the proposed prison would employ 760 and would have a payroll of $1.3 million per month.

Free potatoes are available

COAHOMA — The First United Methodist Church of Coahoma is sponsoring "Operation Potato" Thursday at the church, said Loren Gardner, the minister at First United.

Gardner said that from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., or "for as long as the potatoes last," approximately 4,000 pounds of potatoes — purchased by the church — will be given away at the church to anyone in need.

Gardner is asking that people not take too many potatoes, but enough to last a family for a week.

"Four thousand pounds of potatoes is not going to go a long way, but 4,000 pounds is better than nothing," he said.

City to name street after Vietnam vet

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A street will be named after the first Big Spring veteran to be killed in the Vietnam War, in conjunction with the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall visit, City Council decided Tuesday.

Northwest Fourth Street, which runs from Gregg to Channing Streets, will be changed to Sergeant Paredez Street, in honor of Sgt. Augustine Paredez of the First Cavalry Division, who died Nov. 17, 1965, at age 24. He was killed by shrapnel while attempting to save another soldier, said his mother, Antonia Paredez of Big Spring, through an interpreter.

Paredez grew up at 607 N.W. Fourth St., where his mother lives today, said Council member Pat DeAnda, who proposed the change.

Antonia Paredez had tears in her eyes after the council meeting Tuesday evening, and said she was unable to express her feelings at the event.

City Manager Mack Wofford said Congressman Charles Stenholm's representatives verified Paredez's rank and the fact that he was the first from Big Spring to die in the war.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford questioned whether changing the name of a numbered street would be confusing to drivers and suggested instead naming a nearby non-numbered street. DeAnda replied the change would not be overly confusing, and that Northwest Fourth Street residents support the action.

The council is expected to vote on the matter at its next regular meeting, scheduled for Sept. 22.

The council also set this year's ad valorem tax rate, instituted a tax on bingo proceeds and a charge for use of the overnight camp site.

The ad valorem tax rate is the same as last year: 68 cents per $100 property value, said Finance Director Tom Ferguson.

However, the city will have $150,000 to $160,000 less from the tax this year to spend on operations and maintenance, because that amount will be placed in an interest and sinking fund to pay for general obligation bonds, Wofford said.

Ferguson said the bingo tax will be 2 percent of gross receipts over $2,500. The state will collect the tax and reimburse the city quarterly, he said.

Ferguson noted that Big Spring voters three years ago approved a bingo tax in a city election, but the city had not enacted the tax.

Councilman Russ McEwen questioned whether the tax will mean a substantial extra burden of red tape on bingo game conductors, but Ferguson replied it would not, because conductors already have to report to the state.

The charge for the Comanche Trail Park overnight camp site will be $5 per day, the council voted.

The ordinance originally called for a $4 per day charge, but Rutherford noted that members had agreed on a $5 charge during budget workshops.

Collections will be made through an "honor system," in which an employee is sent to collect the fees daily, he said. Rutherford said the system was implemented over the Labor Day weekend, and yielded $50 to $60.

The council also approved the STREET page 2A

On the level

Members of the Howard County Road and Bridge Department levels the ground as they prepare the site for construction of the Pocket Park on the 300 block of South Main Street Tuesday afternoon. Construction should begin in two weeks and be completed within two months, according to Teri Quinones, downtown coordinator.

'Invisible' dam part of huge Stacy task

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

BALLINGER — Contrary to what is evident to a passerby, every dam has an invisible dam — an underground portion that comprises approximately a quarter of the whole, explained Joe Pickle, the secretary-treasurer of the CRMWD.

Pickle's explanation came during a visit to the Stacy Dam site, where the Colorado River Municipal Water District hosted a media day Tuesday with media representatives from Big Spring, Midland, San Angelo and Abilene.

Pickle's explanation was timely — in the early phases of construction, it's the invisible part that's being built.

And it's a huge job. Monstrous 50-ton trucks, filled with dirt and rocks, buzz by constantly; a gigantic drill bores through the early stages of what will be a 1,400-foot-long drainage tunnel.

Without question, the Stacy Dam project is in full gear. More than 100 employees, about half of next summer's total, are working five ten-hour days weekly. Among them are machinists and oilers who toil each night to prepare equipment for the next day's work.

The Stacy site would dwarf most construction projects. The length of the dam — approximately two miles — makes walking between work areas impractical.

At most construction projects there's a trailer or two.

The construction period of this project — with a target date for completion of Feb. 15, 1990 — required that buildings be erected.

A house is being used as CRMWD headquarters, and later will be occupied by the lake superintendent.

The engineers' lab, which will ultimately be the maintenance headquarters for the lake, is about a half-mile down the dirt road. Biggest of all is the warehouse for the huge equipment being used by contractors Brown & Root Inc.

The press group met first at the CRMWD headquarters, and talked with a representative from Brown & Root and another from Freese and Nichols, engineering contractors.

Pickle also addressed the group, as did Okla Thornton, the biologist who has responsibility to study the Concho water snake and ensure the snake's survival.

Among the facts:

- The project Tuesday was estimated to be 4.3 percent finished, with more than two years to go.

- There are 105 construction employees, five engineers and nine workers from CRMWD on site. Ron Hayes, the project manager for Brown & Root, reported that 70 percent of the construction employees are being hired locally, and another 10 percent will be hired from across West Texas.

The number of employees will peak at more than 200 next summer.

Economics boosts college enrollments

From staff and wire reports

Tough economic conditions are at least partially responsible for increased enrollment figures at Howard College and some Texas universities, officials say.

Enrollment has increased 15 percent at Howard, according to Linda Conway of the registrar's office.

As of Tuesday, 1,474 students have enrolled at the college, compared to 1,281 enrollees last year. The figure includes SWCID and the Lamesa and San Angelo campuses, Conway added.

SWCID has experienced a 21 percent jump in enrollment, she said. The school has 108 currently enrolled, 19 more than last year.

Howard College President Bob Riley cited two reasons for the figures: increased efforts by school officials and the economic decline.

He said that increased recruiting efforts by school officials were primarily responsible for bringing more students to the school.

The downturn in the area economy also is partially responsible for more people going to school, he said.

"With the tough economic times, more people are going back to school," he said. Retraining for another profession is the major reason for the return, Riley added.

He credited the increase at SWCID to recruiting and new facilities and courses. With the new facilities and occupational courses offered, the school is "more attractive to students," Riley said.

Enrollment for HC campuses continues through Friday, Conway said.

In an informal survey Tuesday of major Texas universities, Texas A&M, Pan American and Tarleton State universities showed the largest enrollment increases.

Southern Methodist University posted a three percent decline that officials attributed to a deliberate effort to reduce the size of freshman classes.

Some schools, Texas Christian for one, said they would release enrollment figures later.

Most universities indicated small increases in the number of students over last fall's enrollment. Three — SMU, Stephen F. Austin and Lamar University — reported smaller enrollments. Most schools attributed the rise or fall in enrollment to non-economic factors.

Preliminary figures show that enrollment at Pan Am jumped about 8 percent, from 9,984 last fall to 10,791 this year, David Zuniga, registrar and admissions director, said.

Ailing Herman

Big band leader Woody Herman, confined to a wheelchair by a heart ailment, is consoled by his friend, Regina Billings, as he appeared Tuesday morning at the door of his Hollywood Hills home. The 74-year-old jazz legend faces eviction from the home, which he bought from Humphrey Bogart in 1946 but has been renting since it was auctioned by the Internal Revenue Service in 1985.

Rutledge death results in suit

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

A claim filed April 13 against the city of Big Spring for the death of Marc Rutledge is now a lawsuit in 118th District Court.

The lawsuit was filed by Rutledge's mother Ramona, and his widow, Eva, individually and as next friends for Anthony Miles Rutledge, a minor child.

Rutledge, 24, was stabbed fatally Feb. 13 while entertaining friends in his back yard. He was pronounced dead on arrival to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, according to published reports.

Michael Viera, 15, pleaded guilty May 1 to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death and was sentenced to 10 years probation.

The lawsuit alleges the attack and injury resulting in Rutledge's death were the result of negligence of police officers and city employees.

According to the suit, Viera assaulted and stabbed Paul Bustamonte on Nov. 27, 1986 and an order to detain Viera was issued Dec. 10 by Howard County Attorney Tim Yeats.

The lawsuit states that Viera was arrested Feb. 12, the day before the stabbing, on charges of a minor in possession of alcohol, but he was not detained by police officers.

The Big Spring Police Department was negligent in not discovering the existence of the order to detain

Clements won't appoint committee

Dallas Times Herald Bureau
AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements on Tuesday said he will not appoint a committee to review candidates' qualifications to replace Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice John Hill.

Clements, back from a two-week vacation in Colorado and New Mexico, said he likely would appoint a Republican to the post but said he had no one in mind.

Hill, a Democrat, stunned the court system last month when he announced he will leave the post in January to lobby for state law changes so that justices are appointed on merit instead of elected in partisan elections.

In resigning, Hill asked that Clements appoint a committee to submit a list of candidates to the governor based on merit qualifications. Clements would still make the final selection.

But Clements made it clear Tuesday he will not name a committee to select Hill's replacement.

"I will consult with and discuss with many, many people all of the various possibilities. But I see no need to appoint a committee per se and I have no intention of doing that," Clements said.

The governor, asked what he thought about the merit selection process that Hill advocates, said, "That criteria will be the basis upon which I make this appointment."

Hill said he would prefer a committee but was satisfied that Clements would make his decision based on a candidate's qualifications. "I thought there was a lot in what he said to be commended," Hill said.

Clements also said he has not decided who he will appoint to the State Board of Insurance to replace Lyndon Olson. Clements ruled out appointing his budget director, Bob Davis.

"I think Bob is too important to my staff to put him over there on the insurance commission," Clements said. "I need him more than the insurance board needs him."

mer, Hayes said.

• Approximately $12,432,964 of the $68 million budgeted for the project has been spent.

• About 8,500 of the approximately 21,000 acres necessary have been acquired. Pickle said all land owners must sell eventually, because CRMWD has the right of eminent domain.

"It's no longer 'Can we get the land?' but 'How much are we going to have to pay for it?'" Pickle said.

• Thornton said he's found the supposedly-endangered Concho snake in Lake Spence, and some as far away as San Angelo, in the Concho River.

"We've found snakes in locations that tell me that they're surviving," Thornton said, though he added that he has considerable studying to do before he can determine the viability of the snake's survival.

"This type of investigation is something that can't be done overnight," said Thornton, who is in his fourth month of a ten-year task.

Thornton and his four-man crew have been busy turning over rocks looking for snakes, tagging them, and collecting data, which he'll study in the winter while the snakes hibernate.

"My sole purpose in life is to work on the biology of the river snake," Thornton said with a laugh.

Media representatives visited several work sites, the first of which was the core of the dam now being excavated.

The core looks like a massive ditch, which eventually will be approximately a mile and a half long. A massive backhoe at the bottom of the core scoops up debris and loads it onto a 50-ton truck. The big backhoe moves backwards a little every day, leaving the ditch behind it that much longer.

Employees at the Stacy Dam site work on the underground drainage tunnel that will be 1,400 feet long when finished. The tunnel is being bored into the limestone by a machine called a Dosco, at an approximate cost of $1,000 a foot.

The depth of the core is determined by the depth of the bedrock — after it is dug, the core will be filled with an impervious material, and the core and the bedrock will connect, Pickle explained.

That will be the underground portion — "the invisible part" — of the dam.

There's other "invisible" work being done. About a half-mile from the core work, a mole-like machine called a Dosco is burrowing a 1,400-foot underground tunnel 40 feet through limestone.

John Arthur, resident engineer for Freese and Nichols, explained that the tunnel will provide drainage for subterranean water that would otherwise destroy the dam.

The drill has bored a 50-foot tunnel. It will be another three months before the tunnel is finished, Arthur explained, who had to shout to be heard above the noise of the Dosco.

Arthur said it costs approximately $1,000 per foot to drill the tunnel. He added that strict safety measures have been instituted in the tunnel and the entire site, and that nothing is done without the approval of "the safety man."

Arthur spoke from a site that will overlook a 554,000-acre-foot lake on which fishermen and boaters can enjoy themselves.

Right now, that's hard to imagine.

Weather

State

The High Plains, Panhandle and Northwest Texas were sprinkled with scattered showers and thunderstorms today, but the rest of the state had fair skies.

Wind directions varied throughout the state with speeds mostly in the 5 mph to 10 mph range, the National Weather Service said adding that higher wind gusts were reported in the northwest Texas thunderstorms.

At 4 a.m., temperatures were generally in the 60s and 70s. Extremes ranged from 59 degrees at Marfa in the Davis Mountains, to 83 degrees at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi.

Murder, arson among grand jury cases

By KERRY HÄGLUND
Staff Writer

A murder charge and arson are among 38 cases being considered by a Howard County grand jury.

The jury convened at 9 a.m. today in the grand jury room of the Howard County Courthouse.

Jurors will consider a murder case that stems from the July 3 shooting death of Israel Pacheco, 24, formerly of 707 N. Douglas St.

Roland Garcia, 21, 401 N.E. Tenth St., was arrested in connection with the shooting, which occurred at the Town & Country Food Store, 1101 N. Lamesa Highway.

Garcia allegedly shot Pacheco after the two began arguing and fighting in the store's parking lot, according to earlier published reports.

Police later recovered a .22-caliber pistol believed to have been used in the incident.

Garcia was released from the Howard County jail July 7 on a $30,000 bond, according to sheriff's records.

In a separate case, jurors will determine if arson played a role in a fire June 21 that destroyed Moffatt Carpet and Furniture, 200 Main St.

A suspect has been named in the case, but no formal charges have been filed, Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said today.

He said it's likely no arrests will be made unless the grand jury indicts the suspect, although he believes he has a strong case.

Officials received information about the possibility of arson by a witness who informed-Crimestoppers, a local program that awards as much as $1,000 for tips concerning crimes.

The jury will consider several other cases, including investigations into aggravated assault, burglaries, a theft of more than $20,000, several thefts of more than $750, a sexual assault, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and tampering with government records.

FDIC announces $1 billion bailout for First City bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. announced today a bailout package worth nearly $1 billion to rescue the ailing First City Bank Corp. of Texas.

The package is the second-largest government bailout of a bank after the 1984 rescue of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust of Chicago.

The FDIC, which has been negotiating with bidders for several weeks, said the new owner of the Houston-based bank is A. Robert Abboud, former chairman of First Chicago Corp.

The assistance will take the form of $970 million in notes from the FDIC, which will aid in the purchase of the bank's $1.79 billion in bad loans.

In addition to the FDIC notes, $500 million in new private capital will be infused through a stock offering. The FDIC will be guaranteed repayment of at least $100 million of its notes.

The share of the old common stockholders will be reduced from the current 100 percent to less than 3 percent.

"This is no bailout for the old shareholders or for the old bank management...For their purposes...the bank has failed," said

FDIC chairman L. William Seidman.

He said the assistance package was "the lowest-cost alternative to the FDIC when compared to alternate bids and when compared to the payoff of depositors."

He said simply allowing the bank to fail and paying off the depositors could have cost as much as $1.8 billion.

Seidman said that in the worst case the FDIC could lose $800 million to $900 million on the transaction. Even with that loss, "we would still expect to break even for the year."

The FDIC will retain a 15 percent interest in the restructured holding company. Seidman said that the FDIC's recovery of its contribution would depend on the value of that 15 percent interest.

"Everything's going to remain the same (for customers)," said First City spokesman James E. Day.

First City's senior management and board have been working to meet First City's long-term capital requirements and to position First City for continuing leadership in the Texas banking market," said J.A. Elkins Jr., senior chairman of the First City board. "This transaction accomplishes these goals, preserving the company's outstanding statewide market franchise and ensuring our position as a major independent and financially strong competitor."

First City, the fourth-largest bank firm in Texas, had 62 banks and $12.2 billion in assets as of June 30.

Troubled by losses on real estate and oil loans, the holding company lost $160.9 million in the first six months of this year and $402 million in 1986.

On Aug. 19, the firm suspended dividends on its preferred stock.

The FDIC insures deposits of up to $100,000 in 14,000 commercial banks nationwide. Federal regulators customarily have moved to inject funds into troubled banks when private investors are unwilling to get involved on their own.

Abboud, in a statement, said, "I am pleased by the favorable decision, and thrilled to be associated with First City and Texas."

He added: "This investment is a strong vote of confidence in both First City and the future of the Texas region."

Seidman said, "We believe and hope" that First City would be the last of the big Texas banks requiring assistance.

County Attorney Yeats maintains, however, that no court order to detain Viera was issued.

"We didn't have any reason to detain him at that

Big Spring Police Department's participation in the Permian Basin drug task force.

City Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said the action allows participating law enforcement agents from outside the city to make arrests and conduct business in Big Spring on behalf of the task force.

However, he added that the city will not be liable for the actions of other law enforcement agents.

Police Chief Joe Cook, who heads the 17-county task force, said it will hire five staff members to gather intelligence information to help fight narcotics trafficking. He said the force has applied for a state grant to pay the staff and purchase equipment.

In other business, the council:

• Ratified annual agreements with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce relating to attracting out-of-town visitors, conventions and industry to Big Spring.

• Authorized Mayor Cotton Mize to execute deeds for properties sold to collect taxes owed the city.

• Approved two permits allowing alcoholic beverages to be served in Comanche Trail Park.

• Postponed discussion on an animal control petition. Herbert Ward, 700 E. 13th St., who was scheduled to present the petition, did not attend the meeting.

Councilman Gary Don Carey also was absent from the meeting.

Clean up continues after storm

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — City work crews continued cleaning up after a vicious storm tore up power lines and trees, and a woman who was injured said she was glad it was her and not her children who were hurt.

Crews from City Public Service worked late Tuesday to restore power to about 1,000 customers, the only ones of 64,000 residents whose service was interrupted.

Eleven people, including Rosalinda Salinas, 29, were injured when the storm, packing 68 mph winds, tore through the city about 6 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Salinas, who remained in good condition Tuesday at Baptist Medical Center with head and back lacerations, was injured when a 500-foot communications tower owned by Metromedia Paging Services crashed through the roof of her apartment building.

Her husband, David, 35, and daughters, Andria, 6, and Jennette, 2, were treated and released from Baptist Medical Center.

"I saw the news and I saw the way the tower fell and our apartment went directly in half, right where our dining room table was," Mrs. Salinas said Tuesday. "It just knocked me down. My husband said I almost went through the ceiling and into the apartment under us."

She said her two daughters, were watching the rain from the window and were not seriously hurt. "I'm just glad it was me who was hurt and not my children," she said.

A storm packing high winds destroyed this mobile home in San Antonio Monday morning. Telephone poles and a communications tower went down on an apartment complex and power lines were severed. Crews were working Tuesday in calmer weather to restore power and clean up the streets. Several people were injured, none seriously, authorities said.

The high winds also destroyed the mobile home of a woman who is 8 months pregnant, but Debbie Hill was treated for a knee laceration and was released from Medical Center Hospital, hospital officials said.

Five others inside a restaurant when the storm hit were cut by glass falling from wind-shattered windows.

Sue McNew, 31, was in fair condition at Baptist Medical with a cut arm, said a hospital spokeswoman who asked that her name not be released. The other four were treated and released.

Two police helicopters sustained about $45,000 worth of damage from flying debris and six police cars at headquarters sustained damage after a utility pole fell on them, police spokeswoman Romana Lopez said.

More than 300 CPS employees worked through the early morning hours Tuesday and restored power to most customers, but a few trouble spots remained, CPS spokeswoman Barbara Stover said. "We haven't even begun to calculate dollars," she said.

Metromedia sales manager Jim Sawyer said insurance adjusters were at the site of the fallen tower and a work crew was ready to dismantle the twisted metal and haul it off.

"It's a mess. I've been out there and it's amazing that the tower fell down. It's the only tower in town that I could not see falling down," Sawyer said.

Quadriplegic held in wife's shooting death

HOUSTON (AP) — A quadriplegic who police say killed his wife using a wheelchair-mounted gun triggered by a string in his teeth contends he meant the bullets for himself, not for his bride of two weeks.

"Somehow the string got pulled ... somehow she pushed my head back," James B. Burns, 40, said Tuesday from his bed at his mother's house, where he lives.

Witnesses told police that Bertha Mae Burns, 37, had placed the string in her husband's mouth in a bar Monday night. She was shot in the neck and died before paramedics arrived.

Homicide Detective A.J. Toepel said murder charges against Burns would be filed today. Burns is in his mother's custody, the detective said.

"According to witnesses, they were sitting there talking in quiet tones," Toepel said. "She then got up and put a string in his mouth and he jerked his head back once and the gun went off."

"She said, 'You've shot me,' and then he jerked his head back two more times and two more shots were fired, and she said, 'You've killed me,' and then she collapsed to the floor."

Burns, who according to his mother, Mae Donna Burns, has been paralyzed since a previous wife shot him nine years ago, said that he loved his new wife and wanted her to kill him.

Somehow, he said, she turned the situation around.

Burns signed a police statement, using a pen placed in his teeth, saying that he asked his wife to shoot him but that she suggested he shoot her, the Houston Chronicle reported today. However, Burns denied that in an interview with the newspaper.

He said he used the gun to protect his wife from a jealous ex-boyfriend who had been threatening her.

Burns told the Chronicle he was talking to his wife when she turned his chair so the gun was pointing at her, knocked a shoebox covering the gun off his lap, put the string in his mouth and the gun went off, Burns said.

"I don't know if she was in her right mind," Burns said, adding that his wife had been depressed for months because her daughter was living with her ex-husband. She tried to kill herself six months ago, but was stopped by a friend, he said.

Millions missing of housing money

AUSTIN (AP) — A Fort Worth bank will be held responsible for $2.8 million in bond money that was put into an uninsured West Indies bank account, the state attorney general's office says.

The state will "seriously consider a lawsuit" against Texas American Bank, trustee for the Texas Housing Agency, unless the money is returned "real soon," Assistant Attorney General Lou McCreary said Tuesday.

"We are requesting that they (Texas American) go ahead and credit us for $2.8 million," McCreary said. "Then we'll help them try to get their money back."

The money is part of $21 million in bond funds that Texas American put into a checking account maintained by Equity Continental Bank Ltd. at Fidelity Bank in San Antonio.

Equity Continental is registered in the British West Indies island of Montserrat and is not protected by federal deposit insurance.

About $18.2 million of the bond money has been recovered by Texas American, the Austin American-Statesman has reported. Of the $2.8 million that is missing, $1.8 million was used for an Indiana apartment construction loan.

Corpus Christi bans portable signs

CORPUS CHRISTI — Portable signs were banned for most parts of the city in a new ordinance passed Tuesday.

The city council approved the sign ban on its third and final reading, over the protests of small-business owners and representatives of the sign industry who have fought against it.

City staff recommended the ban on portable signs, contending they detract from the city's beauty, are difficult to regulate and pose a safety problem during high winds.

The ban affects most of the city's business and industrial property, said Alice Terrall, a planner with the city Planning Department.

The ban originated from a general effort to amend all of the city's sign regulations in certain business districts, she said.

After a phase-out period of one year, the ordinance prohibits "any sign not permanently affixed to a building, structure or the ground, and designed or constructed in such a manner that it can be moved or relocated without involving any structural or support changes," Ms. Terrall said.

It includes but is not limited to "A-frame signs and signs on trailers with or without wheels," she said.

Police hold fire because of crowd

DALLAS Times Herald Bureau DALLAS — A 20-year-old Dallas man was being held for investigation of attempted capital murder Monday after he allegedly shot at officers during a disturbance in East Dallas, police said.

Officers Elliott Stainberg and David Tremain said they were in the San Jacinto and Holly streets area about 11:30 p.m. Sunday investigating a report of shots being fired, when they heard a shotgun blast and saw a muzzle flash from the weapon in a yard in the 1500 block of Holly Street.

The officers ran across a vacant lot and into a back yard in the same block, where they saw Hiliado

Rivera Jr. standing in a group of about 10 Hispanic males and holding a 12-gauge shotgun, police said.

Rivera raised the gun and fired toward the officers from the crowd, but Stainberg and Tremain did not shoot back because of the crowd, according to police.

Rivera then ran into his Holly Street house, where he was arrested without incident, police said. Other officers said they retrieved numerous spent 12-gauge shotgun rounds from the back yard and the gun from a bedroom.

Rivera was being held late Monday at Lew Sterrett Justice Center on $50,000 bail.

Muslim leader talks to Texas blacks

DALLAS Times Herald Bureau DALLAS — Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan urged blacks to take a more active role in the economy and defended some of his controversial beliefs during a meeting in the Dallas Convention Center Tuesday night.

Farrakhan delivered a two-hour speech to more than 2,300 people to help promote a new line of skin and hair products he hopes will expand the economic base of blacks.

People paid $5 each to attend the speech and were searched for drugs and weapons by guards before entering the auditorium.

Farrakhan supports the Clean n Fresh line of shampoos, hair conditioners, skin moisturizers and body lotions developed with the assistance of a $5 million loan he said he received from Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi.

He said the business is owned by blacks and profits will go back to the black community through the Nation of Islam.

Farrakhan said he will use a "multilevel marketing plan" staffed by blacks to sell the products and eliminate what he called "heartless" white middlemen.

"We've got to get up and do something for ourselves," Farrakhan said. "We have to start somewhere, and this is a beginning."

Widow fights courts for inheritance

EASTLAND — Thousands of dollars are piling up in Texas banks while a widow, who claims the money rightfully belongs to her, is living in poverty.

Since her husband's death six years ago, Norma Jean Harlan has tried to straighten out her husband's accounts, which consist mainly of mineral leases that he consigned to her before he died.

Texas courts have held the oil wells, which are worth millions of dollars, because the word "all" was not used in identifying the property her late husband owned in Texas.

"When a court can zero in on one word and you lose your inheritance, it's wrong," she said. "Is the state of Texas going to take me on welfare when I lose my home?"

Mrs. Harlan, who is a diabetic, says she is living alone in Alexandria, Tenn., without running water, a telephone or an automobile because she has no money to pay the bills.

Her husband Eugene, a former university professor, had been sick for six years before his death, she said. The Harlans had lived mainly on the $55,000 to $60,000 income from mineral leases he had obtained in 1952 from his father, who owned United Royalty Corp.

Upon Harlan's death, two of his children from a previous marriage filed suit in Tennessee to prevent their stepmother from sharing in his estate.

The whole truth applies to court

Donald Harvey, 35, former nurse's aide, reportedly admitted to fatally poisoning as many as 50 chronically ill patients at three Cincinnati hospitals where he had worked.

However, under a plea bargain agreement, he pleaded guilty in court to killing only 24 patients.

Harvey used cyanide, arsenic and a petroleum-based cleaner to poison his victims. He also pulled plugs on respirator machines, the prosecutor charged.

Leaving aside the old saying about cats, no organism lives more than once. Yet the judge sentenced Harvey to three life terms.

Harvey or anyone else can't possibly serve that sentence. But man's law sometimes pretends that natural law doesn't exist. Hence the three life terms.

Does this mean Harvey will spend the rest of his life in prison?

Probably, but not necessarily. He will be eligible for parole if and when he reaches age 95.

The law, even more than most human institutions, should be truthful. If "life term" doesn't mean that the convicted party will spend the rest of his life in prison — and it obviously doesn't — let's drop that phony term from legal terminology.

When someone takes the witness stand, the court insists on truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. It should adhere to the same honesty when it passes sentence.

Biden, Simon battle for headlines, office

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Will White House Fever touch off a feud between two liberal Democratic senators?

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., has been in the headlines because of his chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, which will hold confirmation hearings on President Reagan's nomination of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

The pundits haven't decided yet whether Biden's role will be a plus or a minus in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination, but there's no question that the publicity already has helped his name recognition throughout the country.

Now it appears Biden has found another use for his committee chairmanship: keeping another presidential contender out of the headlines.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., is a junior member of the Judiciary Committee and chairman of its subcommittee on the Constitution. He proposed his subcommittee conduct a hearing as part of Philadelphia's celebration of the Constitution's bicentennial.

But as a subcommittee chairman, Simon had to get the Judiciary Committee chairman's permission to hold the hearing. And Biden said no.

A Biden aide said the chairman refused because the proposed hearing would have been an "intrusion" into the celebration planned in July by the Bicentennial Committee.

But Fred Stein, executive director of "We the People — 200," the group that coordinated Philadelphia's celebration, told our reporter Gary Clouser the Simon hearing would have been a welcome complement to the day's events.

Simon's supporters suspect that Biden was less concerned with the intrusion of Simon's committee into Philadelphia's celebration than with the possible intrusion of Simon's mug into the evening news shows and the next day's headlines.

There was a hint in 1986 that Biden and Simon would not always see eye to eye on major issues. Simon sponsored a balanced-budget law that had been soundly defeated two years earlier.

If a feud is indeed in the making, Biden and Simon have a unique stage on which to slug it out. They are the only presidential candidates who serve on the same committee. They share two Senate committee assignments: Judiciary and Foreign Relations. Simon, in fact, is the only non-lawyer on the Judiciary Committee.

Jack Anderson

Ironically, Simon would not be serving on Foreign Relations but for a special waiver the Senate leadership granted guaranteeing he could serve on Foreign Relations, Judiciary and Labor simultaneously. Senate rules forbid simultaneous assignments on more than two major committees.

The Judiciary and Foreign Relations committees have publicity potential that other candidates envy. The Bork hearings will be the opening round of a long series of encounters that could make or break either senator's presidential aspirations.

In the months to come, policy will become an issue of overriding importance in the presidential campaign, and the Foreign Relations Committee will be an ideal forum for both Biden and Simon.

Since both senators' foreign-policy views are essentially the same, the contest will be more of form than substance, with each man trying to avoid sounding like an echo of the other.

Aides to both senators insist that, while the two men are not close personally, they have great respect for each other's abilities. Their rapport will be tested as they share common stages.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Marion Barry, the beleaguered mayor of Washington, D.C., has some peculiar ideas about the role of a free press.

Stung by press exposure of corruption and crime in his administration, the mayor announced the other day that reporters would be "heroes" if they refused to share with their readers the information leaks that are continually embarrassing him.

Mayor Barry's definition of heroes sounds like something that would rate wholehearted official approval in Moscow or Pretoria. We're confident that our colleagues in the Washington press corps will decline His Honor's honor at every opportunity.

Connally's big fall inspires request for signature notes

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

Poor John B. Connally. The higher you climb, the farther the fall.

Two decades ago, we would have been hard pressed to find a Texan — or a United States citizen, for that matter — who would have bet against this dapper, dashing politico.

If anyone seemed to have everything going his way, it was this prematurely white-haired politician whose fingers seemed to be in every pie — successfully.

Now he's in U.S. Federal Bankruptcy Court — haven for the mistake-ridden — filing a plan for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy laws.

One week ago today Connally filed financial statements showing liabilities of $93.3 million and assets of a little more than $13 million, including $850 cash on hand, $45,100 in deposit and $12.3 million in real property.

In some circles, I presume, your degree of success can be measured by how deeply in debt you're able to crawl.

The chances of me ever having $93.3 million in liabilities don't even include the first half of the "slim and none" quotient — an indication of my lack of success in Big John's terms.

Poor John B. Connally. The man's always represented Texas to me.

As an impressionable 11-year-old when John Kennedy was killed, John Connally as a rider in the president's car was an image that stayed with me for a long time.

John B. Connally — always showing a smile as wide as Texas, often wearing a cowboy hat and frequently sporting his boots.

Larger than life, John Connally

Just My Type

took on a representation of this state that may have been an unfair albatross, but a representation all the same.

And now he's sitting at the bottom of the financial heap. Likely, this whole economic disaster in which he's mired serves a perverted sense of justice.

Just as he represented the power and riches when all was going well, he serves as a mirror when Texas is facing hard times.

How did he get himself into this mess?

Not, rest assured, all by himself. He had plenty of help from folks who likely had little hesitation about financing the dreams of a man of John Connally's stature.

And nobody climbs so near the top with junior-sized dreams.

No sir, especially not Big John. Likely, this former governor and presidential contender found just what a banker friend years ago told me I needed.

In a time of financial peril — and how many newly-married couples haven't experienced that? — he suggested that I needed a banker with a sense of humor.

But it's unlikely he's enjoying a laugh with them — assuming anyone is yet in a position to have a last laugh.

Although it's far quicker to tally $93.3 million in liabilities when you deal in really big bucks, Mr. Connally didn't slight the little guy, either. Despite his inability to pay, he maintained his good sense of taste.

His list of creditors includes an Austin pie shop — Sweetie Pies, which is owed $65. Isn't that sweet?

And, naturally, it's difficult to swing a really big deal without a really good smoke — reflected in his $1,162.35 liability to General Cigar Co. of Philadelphia.

Big John did have a tight-fisted streak, however, because his assets list includes approximately $4,000 in uncirculated $1 bills that were among the first to bear his signature as U.S. Treasury secretary.

A bankrupt former U.S. Treasury secretary inspires a certain sense of confidence, doesn't it?

Poor John B. Connally. However, I'm not as heartless as all of this may seem, so I offer my services as treasurer of the Get Big John Out Of Bankruptcy Court fund.

Just mail to me any U.S. dollars that bears John B. Connally's signature — ones, fives, 10s or what-have-you — and I'll see that he gets them.

But we'll see that Sweet Pies gets paid first.

I found one, unfortunately, and it proved to be more humorous to him than me as I got myself into debt with his assistance.

I'm betting that John B. Connally encountered both a few too many bright ideas and a few too many loan officers with a sense of humor.

Playing the Scottish courses isn't particularly above par

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — We are friends and fellow golfers and we came to Scotland, where the game had its origins, to play the great courses we have seen on the telly at the British Open.

We played the Old Course here at the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Carnoustie, Royal Troon, Turnberry, Old Prestwick and Muirfield, home of the 1987 Open.

These courses date back so far that after a round of golf in weather that isn't fit for man nor horse, the first golfers rubbed sticks together to build a fire to warm and dry themselves before going home to caves.

I could discourse at length about my impression of Scottish golf courses, but in the interest of time and space and the fact I am teeing off shortly, allow me to offer a brief overview in case you are a golfer and ever have the urge to take the same trip.

The weather: As one of the announcers said during the Open at Muirfield, "If this golf course were an airport it would be closed."

Bring sweaters, hats, long underwear, rain suits and rocks to put in your pockets so the wind won't blow you off the course and into the sea.

The rough: Scottish rough is like the Roach Motel: You may check in but you won't check out.

It is so deep, a member of our group, who is quite short, walked into the rough at Royal Troon and we haven't seen him since. We are contemplating how to break the news to his wife.

Caddies: Listen to what your caddie says. If he says aim your drive at the drunken Scotsman on the hill, aim your drive there.

Your caddie will know exactly what he is talking about and if you don't listen to him, he might take out your sand wedge and mash you over the head with it. It is customary to buy your caddie a pint after the round regardless of how many times he mentions his disdain for your swing during the round.

Mulligans: There is no such thing in this country. People have been hanged and beheaded for such a violation of the strict rules of the game.

Moving the ball for a better ~~hand~~ tried that. Once. My caddie ~~was~~ ed me in no uncertain terms: "In Scotland we play the ball as it lies." I considered such an interpretation harsh due to the fact I had just sliced my shot to the 18th at St. Andrews into a fat woman's lap in a pub that adjoins the course.

The scenery: Incredible, providing you can get the rain off your glasses to see it.

Toughness of the courses: I'll put it this way: One member of our group who was of Scottish descent said: "Now I know why my ancestors left Scotland — to find an easier golf course."

Has the trip been worth it? It's been the thrill of a lifetime despite the fact my caddie, Bunker Bob, said, "You're a wee bit daft if you call yourself a golfer."

PHILADELPHIA TODAY

The weather was cool and pleasant.

Jacob Hiltzheimer's daughters Kitty and Hannah went with William Rush and family in the Rush family carriage to Oxford Church.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

The several delegates to Congress who had been waiting in New York for enough additional delegates to form a quorum continued to wait more or less patiently.

CONVENTION TODAY

As the Convention enjoyed its customary Sunday recess, even the most pessimistic of the delegates must have felt that its work was nearly complete. The Convention had worked itself through the report of the Committee on Style and Arrangement except for the provisions for ratifying and amending the document, and had debated the work of the Committee on Unfinished Parts.

It also had finally agreed on a method of electing the executive which most delegates could support, and had appointed a committee to put the new frame of government in final form. Probably most delegates assumed that this would be their last Sunday in Philadelphia. If so, none of them regretted that possibility.

DELEGATES TODAY

William Samuel Johnson (Conn.) visited John Penn at his country seat, Lansdowne, and McPherson, (probably John McPherson, of 1785 Philadelphia directory fame). He paid 15 shillings for a chair (one assumes a sulky-like buggy used in getting to and from the city).

He does not indicate that his Committee on Style met, although its members may have worked on an individual basis.

George Washington made a visit to Don Diego Gardoque, the minister from Spain to the United States, who had come down from New York to visit Washington. He then dined at the Morrises. He spent the evening writing George Augustine Washington.

James McHenry (Md.) wrote his wife. "I shall soon I hope rejoin the home as it is likely the convention will finish their business in about eight days."

LOOKING BACK

George Washington: A Letter Home

Today's letter from George Washington to George Augustine Washington, his nephew and plantation manager, may help to bring Washington alive for us:

"Dear George,

"This, in acknowledgment of your letter of the 2d of this month, is probably the last letter I shall write you from this place; as the probability is, that the Convention will have completed the business which brought the delegates together, in the course of this week. God grant I may not be disappointed in this expectation, as I am quite homesick.

"As Mr McPherson's glass (if good) is cheaper than the first cost here of that article, independently of the Conn. (Commission) freight, & ca. I request that you get what may be necessary for the Green house, from him, that the building may be finished.

"I am very glad to hear of the interruptions your field work has met with from the rains which have lately fallen. If the weather should be warm, and the fall fine; they may facilitate the growth of every thing — the new meadow, so abundantly productive of weeds, ought to have been mown, as well for the sake of the young grass, as to prevent the seeds of the weeds from maturing and stocking the ground.

"I have but little expectation however, I must confess, that the latter Corn will come to (much); and less that Pumpkin, which are (now) only in blossom, can come to (anything).

"Of the Pease, from your acct of them much may be expected; but should be glad to know whether the vines cover the ground well (those in broad cast I mean) and whether they bear well?

"What is the general height of the Buck Wheat, how the ground is covered with it, & whether it is generally in blossom? If the Potatoes are so slow in forming, I fear not much is to be expected from the yield of them neither....

"Inclosed I send a letter (to whom I offer best wishes) to Mr Lear (Tobias Lear, the general's personal secretary). It came under cover to me from the Eastward. I hope Mathews model will be exact, and arrive soon; accompanied by the Spring Wheat I wrote for (I believe) in my last. My love to Fanny, (George Augustine's wife) & with affectionate regard I am Yours "G. Washington

"P.S. If the Flax has not been spread to rot, it is time it should be — It ought to be returned, well watched, & taken up as soon as it is sufficient rotted and this can only be known by frequent examination after turning."

AIDS panel defended

WASHINGTON — The chairman of President Reagan's AIDS commission today defended the administration's record on battling the deadly disease, saying the government has done an outstanding job.

Dr. William Eugene Mayberry, who was named to head the panel June 25, also said he was not surprised by the furor that has erupted over the president's appointments to the commission.

"I think no matter who had been appointed to the commission, there would be controversy," Mayberry said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America." "There are a lot of issues at stake here and a lot of important concerns that people have, and certainly people want to have their concerns addressed in the way they want them addressed."

Escorts cost millions

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is spending an extra $15 million to $20 million a month to finance its Navy escort operations in the Persian Gulf, the Pentagon says.

The estimate, which is likely to sharpen debate on Capitol Hill over President Reagan's policies in the gulf, was outlined in a letter to congressional leaders by Deputy Defense Secretary William H. Taft IV.

Taft said the administration expects to submit a supplemental budget request in fiscal 1988, which begins Oct. 1, to give the Navy the extra money needed for the Persian Gulf operations.

Prisoners lose suit

SAN FRANCISCO — Religious freedom doesn't mean that a state prison must allow Native American inmates to participate in religious ceremonies, a federal court has ruled.

Tuesday's decision by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed a district court ruling against Earl Allen and Donald Barkley, who alleged their First Amendment right to free exercise of religion was violated.

Allen and Barkley requested they be allowed to go to Pipe Ceremonies while confined in the disciplinary segregation unit of the Oregon State Penitentiary.

The unit is for inmates considered the greatest security risks.

Orthodox rabbi replaced

MIAMI — Orthodox Jewish leaders, dissatisfied with last week's meeting with Pope John Paul II, have refused to allow an Orthodox rabbi address the pontiff here.

Orthodox Rabbi Gilbert Klaperman, as president of the Synagogue Council of America, was to speak on behalf of the 200 Jewish leaders expected at Friday's meeting.

Instead, the council said Tuesday, the group would be represented by Conservative Rabbi Mordecai Waxman.

Former Democratic presidential front-runner Gary Hart, left, speaks with "Nightline" anchorman Ted Koppel in the ABC-TV's Washington studio before his interview on national television Tuesday night. Hart apologized for "the mistakes that led" him to withdraw from the 1988 presidential race.

Hart

Admits adultery, no plans for '88

WASHINGTON — Former Democratic presidential front-runner Gary Hart, grappling with the issue that drove him from the 1988 campaign, admits he has committed adultery and says he doesn't plan to re-enter the race even though he still wants to be "part of this debate" over the country's future.

"I'm not running for president," Hart said in a 60-minute appearance on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program Tuesday night. "I have no plans to run for president."

The former Colorado senator was contrite and defiant by turns during the question and answer session, which he concluded with an emotional apology to his children, Andrea and John.

"I just want to say to one very special young woman and young man how sorry I am for letting them down for many others like them. Have courage, we are not defeated and we will not be. I will find some way. I promise you, to continue on," he said.

Thus ended an extraordinary late-night television session in which Hart took full responsibility for the "serious mistake" of keeping company with Miami model Donna Rice. Questions about his relationship with Miss Rice led to Hart's withdrawal last May 8, at a time when he was the prohibitive front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I made a serious mistake. I should not have been in the company of any woman who was not a friend of mine or my wife," Hart said. "I should not have been with Miss Rice."

"I am totally and fully responsible for my own actions and I want to say to everyone how sorry I am. I want to apologize to you for those actions," Hart said.

Hart has stayed out of the public spotlight since his withdrawal from the race, and his appearance on the television program marked the beginning of his re-emergence as a public figure. He said he plans to meet later today with New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, and has scheduled a speech in Philadelphia on Thursday that marks the start of a series of such addresses.

Asked by interviewer Ted Koppel whether he had an affair with Miss Rice, Hart refused to answer directly.

"If the question is in the 29 years of my marriage, including two public separations, have I been absolutely and totally faithful to my wife, I regret to say the answer is no."

Iraq resumes air raids

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iraq said its warplanes bombed 13 oil, industrial and other targets inside Iran today in what it called a "day of revenge." Iran vowed swift retaliation in a flare-up of the Persian Gulf war before a U.N. peace mission.

Iran said it shot down three Iraqi jet fighters, and Baghdad announced attacks on shipping off Iran.

The attacks surprised diplomats in the region, who had predicted Iraq would refrain from raids while United Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar visited both nations in an effort to end the 7-year-old war. The U.N. official is due to arrive in Tehran on Friday night.

Pope sends greetings

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II today offered friendship to all Americans on the eve of his 10-day pilgrimage to the United States.

During a general audience of about 6,000 people in the Paul VI Auditorium, John Paul said in English, "It gives me great joy to undertake this visit during the celebration of the bicentennial of the American Constitution."

He said he looked forward to "expressing personally" to the American people "my sentiments of friendship for the whole nation."

The Roman Catholic pontiff leaves Thursday morning for Miami, the first stop of the nine-city tour.

Aquino Cabinet resigns

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino's entire Cabinet resigned today to allow her to reorganize a government widely assailed since last month's bloody coup attempt.

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno said 28 officials, including the 25 Cabinet members and three others from the Presidential Commission on Good Government, submitted their resignations during a 15-minute emergency Cabinet meeting.

Mrs. Aquino curtly declined to comment on possible personnel changes. Asked by reporters when she would announce the new Cabinet, Mrs. Aquino snapped: "You will know."

Nine presumed dead

BRASILIA, Brazil — An air force jet carrying five of Brazil's top land reform officials and four others blew up after takeoff in the Amazon jungle. Officials said they doubted there were survivors.

Land Reform Minister Marcos Freire, four other ministry officials, three crew members and a friend of the minister were aboard the small plane when it exploded Tuesday night after leaving the Carajas iron ore mine in the northern state of Para, according to an air force statement.

The statement said the cause of the explosion was not known.

Blackmailer makes sure wife won't forget her indiscretion

DEAR ABBY: My husband travels for his business about three or four days a month. We've been married for four years, and I really do love him. One of my friends (she's divorced) invited me to her place for a party, and she had a lot of unattached guys and girls there. Anyway, I got very drunk and went to bed with a guy I had never seen before. I couldn't believe it until he showed me the evidence; he had some guy take pictures of us "in the act."

Now I am being blackmailed. The guy I went to bed with is a big coke user and he is hitting me up for money. I don't have a whole lot, but I'm not about to help him support his habit. I've given him $100 twice, then $50 another time, with a promise to give him more when I get it.

Dear Abby

What should I do? If my husband finds out about this, it will be the end of our marriage. He's such a sweet, trusting man. I am not a tramp. I know this is blackmail, but I can't go to the police. Help me, please!

IN A MESS

DEAR IN: You must go straight to the police and short-circuit this blackmailer, then tell your husband exactly what happened. It won't be easy, but it's the most intelligent way to resolve this mess. (Did it ever occur to you that you were set up? I think you were.)

DEAR ABBY: My very good friend "Wanda" is also my neighbor. Our children grew up together. Wanda's son got married about five months ago. Wanda didn't care very much for the girl. She didn't think she was good enough for her son, but now that they are married, she's trying to accept it.

My wedding gift to this couple was selected with much care, and because I am so close to the family I spent more than I usually do for a wedding gift. I have not had any kind of thank-you for my gift. Wanda would flip if she knew her daughter-in-law had not written her thank-you notes. (At least, I didn't get one.)

Should I tell Wanda I haven't received a thank-you note yet? If it were my son, I would want to know. Maybe the note got lost in the mail. What should I do?

NOT THANKED

DEAR NOT: For heaven's sake, don't tell Wanda. Why give her further reason to dislike a daughter-in-law she's already having trouble accepting? If you believe the note could have been lost in the mail — or was misaddressed — get in touch with the couple. And don't "blame" the bride. A wedding gift is intended for both husband and wife, and the responsibility for acknowledging wedding gifts is now frequently shared.

(Is your social life in a slump? Lonely? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages. Send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.)

MICHAEL JACKSON

BILL COSBY

IAN MCKELLEN

Michael Jackson a 'regular guy'

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Jackson's manager scoffs at reports of outlandish quirks ascribed to the reclusive singer and says, "We see ourselves as a couple of regular guys."

"He's utterly devoted and very disciplined," Frank Dileo said in an interview in the Sept. 14 issue of People magazine. "It sounds boring and stupid, like I'm hiding something, but I'm not."

He denied that Jackson proposed marriage to actress Elizabeth Taylor or that he maintains a shrine to her at his 22-room Encino, Calif., mansion.

"Yes, they are very good friends. They dine together occasionally and visit," Dileo said.

Dileo said Jackson is also close to Sophia Loren, Spanky Macfarland of the movies "Our Gang," Marlon Brando and Liza Minelli.

The manager ridiculed suggestions that Jackson takes hormone shots, had surgery on his eyes or cheekbones and had his skin chemically or surgically lightened.

He admits that Jackson had his nose done — "as every person in Hollywood has. Elvis did, Monroe did" — and that he had a cleft put in his chin.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Cosby made a surprise appearance to offer encouragement and advice to 1,600 black teen-agers on the importance of making the best of an education.

The comedian told participants in the Young Black Scholars program that after college, "It's up to you to come out hot and heavy."

The program was started by black Los Angeles-area professionals to encourage black high school students to go on to college.

Cosby made an unannounced appearance Saturday at an academic pep rally at the University of California at Los Angeles for students with a grade point average of at least 3.2 on a scale in which 4.0 is an A and 3.0 a B.

"Some of you may have a 4.0 and not know how to handle the rest of your life — your room may be dirty," said Cosby, in remarks reminiscent of the fatherly advice he gives his TV family on "The Cosby Show."

"You may have a 4.0 because somebody tied you down because two years ago you had a 1.9. But because we're so forgiving, you have a 4.0 now and we'll take it," said Cosby, the father of five children on and off television.

AUBURN, Ind. (AP) — A Rolls-Royce used by Jim and Tammy Bakker sold for $91,000 at auction here.

Leo Duetran, a tanning salon owner from Worcester, Mass., bought the beige and burgundy luxury car Sunday at the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Festival, said festival spokeswoman Renee Moreland.

Duetran bought a vintage Bentley owned by the late singer John Lennon at last year's auction.

The PTL television ministry formerly headed by the Bakkers had bought the 1953 Rolls-Royce Silver Dawn for the couple's use, then donated it to a hospital in March after Bakker resigned in a sex and money scandal.

The hospital sold the restored car to an unidentified buyer, who consigned it to Kruse International for auction.

Michael Butler, a Kruse vice president, had predicted in June that the car could fetch double the value of similar models, which he estimated at up to $40,000.

BOSTON (AP) — 'Tis better to meet Shakespeare in a theater than in a classroom, says the Tony Award-winning British actor Ian McKellen.

McKellen, who is preparing a one-man show using the bard's works, said the teaching of Shakespeare in school probably "should be banned by international law."

"Many people first meet Shakespeare as an academic subject which causes pain," the actor said in an interview at the Charles Playhouse, where he will perform Tuesday through Oct. 4.

"If you're having problems with Shakespeare, go see him in the theater where he is understandable, if it is well done, and it is fun and enjoyable."

The 48-year-old McKellen won a Tony for his portrayal of Antonio Salieri in the Broadway production of "Amadeus." Queen Elizabeth II named him a Commander of the British Empire.

McKellen put together the improvisational, audience-participation Shakespeare show in 1977 and has performed it around the world.

Food Popcorn

Easy-to-prepare salad and snacks

By LYNN HAYES
Herald Staff

Popcorn is one of those fun foods that children and adults alike enjoy eating at the movies or at home.

While popcorn contributes important proteins, minerals and vitamins and energy-giving carbohydrates to a daily diet, it's also low in fat. Popcorn contains no sodium if served plain.

Popcorn contains a high amount of total dietary fiber. Both the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute recommend popcorn as a moderately high source of fiber which Americans should include in their diets to reduce the risk of some forms of cancer.

Included in this week's Recipe Exchange are easy popcorn snacks from Jolly Time Pop Corn and General Mills.

BAKED

CARAMEL CORN

6 quarts popped popcorn
1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups firmly-packed brown sugar
1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. vanilla

Coat the bottom and sides of a large roasting pan with a non-stick vegetable spray. Place popped popcorn in roasting pan.

In heavy pan, slowly melt butter; stir in brown sugar, corn syrup and salt. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil without stirring for five minutes. Remove from heat; stir in soda and vanilla. Gradually pour over popped corn, mixing well.

Bake at 250 F. for one hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Remove from oven, cool completely. Break apart and store in tightly-covered container.

Makes about six quarts.

POPCORN BALLS

2 quarts popped popcorn
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Keep popcorn warm in 200 F. oven while preparing coating. In 2-quart saucepan stir together sugar, corn syrup, water, butter and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil.

Continue cooking without stirring until temperature reaches 270 F. on a candy thermometer or until a small amount dropped into very cold water separates into threads, which are hard but not brittle.

Remove from heat. Add vanilla; stir just enough to mix through hot syrup. Slowly pour over popcorn, stirring to coat every kernel. Cool just enough to handle. With greased hands, shape into balls.

Makes 12 medium-sized popcorn balls.

Track pendulum swinging wrong way

The World Track Championships in Rome ended Sunday and I came to this conclusion — the balance of power in track and field is tipping.

The world championships was a rude awakening for this track fan. No longer can the Americans boast about being the track power of the world. In the world championships, U.S. athletes won only 19 of a possible 129 medals, and only nine of the 43 available golds.

Thank goodness for Carl Lewis and Jackie Joyner-Kersey.

Lewis' victory in the long jump gave the U.S. men their only gold medal in the field events. Joyner-Kersey gave the women their only field golds — the long jump and the heptathlon.

Meanwhile, East Germany has emerged as the new force on the track. The East Germans won 31 medals overall, including 10 gold. The East German women really dominated their field, winning 15 of the 57 total medals, and five of the 19 gold.

One good thing for Americans — the Soviet Union is also slipping a bit. The Soviets won 25 medals, including seven gold.

The Soviet and East German women have been dominating track since the early 70's, with or without steroids. The American women are slowly edging back to where they are competitive with them. That's in the sprints, ranging from the 100 to 400 meters, and the relays.

The U.S. women still have a long way to go in the field events and distance races, though.

Overall, the American men are still the best sprinters in the world, and will continue to be as far as I'm concerned. But in the field events, with the exception of the long and triple jumps, the Soviets and East Germans dominate.

The Kenyans and Nigerians are still the ones to beat in the distance races.

So where does all this leave the Americans for the '88 Olympic Games?

I think the Americans must do a whole lot of training and soul-searching if they want to make a good showing in Seoul. The U.S.A. must get that track pendulum swinging back in its favor.

If the first week of Crossroads Country football is indicative of the rest of the season, it will be a very fruitful year for area teams.

Something that never happened last year happened this past week — Crossroads Country teams finished with a winning record.

Of the 10 area games, six Crossroads Country teams came out winners.

Colorado City and Coahoma, teams that won a combined total of one game last season, each won their games over improved teams from Slaton and Seminole.

Last year's powers, Forsan and Stanton, each had tough encounters against Roscoe and Seagraves, but they managed to pull it out.

Borden County and Klondike, two up-and-coming powers, each won convincingly over Amherst and New Life Christian Academy.

Maybe this week Big Spring, Grady, Sands and Garden City will get into the win column.

I travelled with the Steers on their chartered bus to the Riverside game last Friday.

I must admit getting on that bus at 6 a.m. made me think about my old college days, only we never took two charters.

What impressed me was the way the Big Spring players conducted themselves on the trip. Whether at a bus station in Van Horn or the Cielo Vista Mall in El Paso, the Steers always conducted themselves like gentlemen. That's a tribute to both their parents and coaches.

It's good to know the players wearing the Black and Gold are just as much men off the field as they are on the field.

Pecos spikes Lady Steers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Lady Steers ran into a "buzz saw" in Tuesday night volleyball action at Steer Gym.

That "buzz saw" was the Lisa Mierhoff-led Pecos Eagles as the visitors handed the Lady Steers a 15-8, 15-1 whipping.

The Eagles, who lost only one game on the way to the regional tournament last year, showed that they are in state contention form. They got a good tussel from the Lady Steers for a short while in the first game, but they completely dominated things in the final game, pushing their overall record to 14-0 and their district slate to 3-0.

Mierhoff was the leader of the pack. She completely dominated net play with her power-hitting and blocking. When it was all over, the 5-10 junior had downed an astounding 15 of 18 spike attempts for 83 percent.

She led a Pecos squad that constantly kept the Lady Steers on the defensive side of play. The Eagles finished the match with 25 kills in 42 attempts for 60 percent.

Pecos' offensive attack took away from the Lady Steers' offensive output. Because they were playing so much defense, top Lady Steer spikers Cary Brooks and Michelle LeGrand didn't get many offensive chances.

MELISSA MARTINEZ
...two kills in games

ANGIE DEES
...serves five points

Brooks, who sprained her ankle late in the second game, downed two of nine spike attempts. LeGrand was successful on two of three attempts. For the match, the Lady Steers downed eight of 19 attempts for a respectable 42 percent.

While Mierhoff was the star of the show, Terri Sophia was the co-star. Although not a starter, the 5-7 freshman downed five of 12 kills attempts and had three blocks.

ed three more to tie things up. But then Mierhoff returned to the front line and downed four spikes and the Eagles reeled off the last seven points.

There wasn't much to the second game.

Pecos scored the first six points. Martinez scored a point when Mierhoff was wide on a spike attempt, and the Eagles preceded to score the next nine points.

"I think they are better this year than last year," said Lady Steers coach Elaine Stone. "They want it bad this year. They're mad because they didn't make it to the state tournament last year. They only lost two players off that team."

"The first game we basically played well. I told them we had to hit and they tried to hit. The second game we got rattled and lost our heads. We've had some girls out with injuries and that has hurt us. But we're a young, inexperienced team and we'll try to win every game we can."

Pecos made it a sweep by downing the freshmen and junior varsity teams in straight games.

The Lady Steers, now 0-2 in district play and 4-7 overall, will play Fort Stockton there at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Steers will have to stop run this week

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Last week the Big Spring Steers had to worry about stopping a passing attack. This week the tables are turned — the Steers must stop a running team.

The Steers will be trying to get in the win column Thursday night when they travel to Lubbock to tangle with the Lubbock Estacado Matadors at Lowery Field. Game time is 8 p.m.

Estacado, a long-time power in Class AAAA football, is headed by Louis Kelly. In 13 seasons Kelly has guided the Matadors to the playoffs eight times. Four times Estacado has made it to the semifinals, and once to the championship game.

While the Steers were having little luck in stopping El Paso Riverside's passing game in their 48-21 season-opening loss, Estacado was stopping Plainview running back Willie Ansley in the Mats' 19-13 win over 5A Plainview last week.

Big Spring surrendered 334 yards passing. Estacado held Ansley, considered one of the top running backs in the state, to eight yards on 11 carries.

But Big Spring won't have to worry about stopping the pass this time around. The Matadors have always been a running team, and usually feature a good tailback.

This year the man is 170-pound senior Butch Smith. Smith, who played on the junior varsity last season, rushed for 116 yards on 25 carries in the Plainview win.

Estacado will have to be prepared to stop an option-oriented team in Big Spring. The Steers like to run both the Veer and the Wishbone, and used three quarterbacks last week.

Steers' coach Quinn Eudy said Shawn Shellman, who starts at safety on defense, will get the starting call this time at quarterback. Although his play was limited last week, Shellman connected on three of five passes for 126 yards and two touchdowns. Eudy hinted that last week's starter, Craig Knocke, and Steve Gill will see action.

"They'll all find out how it is to operate against a good defense," said Eudy.

Estacado and Big Spring are similar in many ways.

The Matadors made it to the playoffs last year, destroying Big Spring 56-6 along the way. They lost 26 seniors and return only one offensive and two defensive starters. They still have 26 seniors on this year's squad, but most don't have any varsity experience.

Likewise, the Steers made it to the playoffs but lost 24 seniors from that team. Still, they have 20 seniors on the team.

Big Spring also has one offensive and two defensive starters. In other words, there are a lot of players on both teams who are just getting their feet wet.

Estacado's Kelly speaks with the utmost respect. By talking to him you could never tell the score was 56-6 last season.

"I saw them (Big Spring) in two scrimmages and they looked like a good ballclub. I think they might have taken Riverside for granted," he said.

"I really think it will take a miracle for us to beat them. I really think they have better personnel than we do. They run the Wishbone and in the past, defending option teams hasn't been one of our strong suits. I'm really worried about it."

"Then you have to guard against the kids getting too overconfident because of that score last year. I hope our kids realize that on any given night, anyone can beat anyone."

Eudy knows Kelly and the Matadors are not hurting as bad as he claims.

"This is a typical Estacado team. They have a big line, some fast skill people and one of the best coaches in the state," said Eudy. "It's a quality team just like they've had the last two years, except they don't have as much depth. But their front line is very, very good."

Big Spring Steers punt returner Buddy Everett gathers in a punt during pre-game warmup of the Big Spring-El Paso Riverside game last Friday. Everett, a starting flanker on offense, caught a 59-yard touchdown pass against Riverside.

If the game will be anything like this week's practices (twice on Monday), Big Spring should do well.

"The practices have been great this week. They kids have worked and concentrated hard. I'm real pleased with their attitudes," said Eudy. Eudy was quick to the point when asked for the key to beating Estacado.

"We must have a great effort on defense, good ball-control by our offense, no turnovers and definitely not mess up on the kicking game."

If the Steers can do that, it's a good chance they'll get win number one Thursday night.

Rain delay slows down U.S. Open tennis play

NEW YORK (AP) — Helena Sukova read some magazines, nibbled at some fruit and watched a little television. She did those things for nearly 4½ hours.

Sukova also played some tennis — when the rain held off long enough to permit it. And the sixth seed became the only winner Tuesday at the U.S. Open with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over No. 9 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany.

The Sukova-Kohde-Kilsch match was the only one completed as the poor weather wrecked the Open schedule. Other seeded players who got onto the court included Sweden's Stefan Edberg and Mats Wilander, the No. 2 and No. 3 seeds, respectively.

Edberg led countryman Jonas Svensson 6-2, 5-5 when the fourth-round match was postponed. Wilander was beating Ken Flach 6-3, 6-3 when their match was halted.

Those matches were to resume today. Also scheduled were fourth-round men's matches between No. 5 Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia and Mark Woodforde of Australia, and Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union against Ramesh Krishnan of India.

A pair of men's quarterfinal matchups featured No. 6 Jimmy Connors meeting No. 13 Brad Gilbert, and, at night, top-seeded Ivan Lendl against No. 8 John McEnroe.

The other three women's quarterfinals were scheduled for today. Second-seeded Martina Navratilova faced No. 8 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, with the winner headed for a semifinal showdown with Sukova. Top-seeded Steffi Graf of West Germany played No. 5 Pam Shriver, and No. 3 Chris Evert took on No. 11 Lori McNeil.

Sukova, who lost in last year's final to Navratilova, was anxious to get in her match with Kohde-Kilsch, an upset winner over No. 4 Hana Mandlikova on Monday.

"I think when you start a match and can finish it the same day, it is better to finish it," she said. "Can you imagine how we would sleep tonight if we didn't finish the match?"

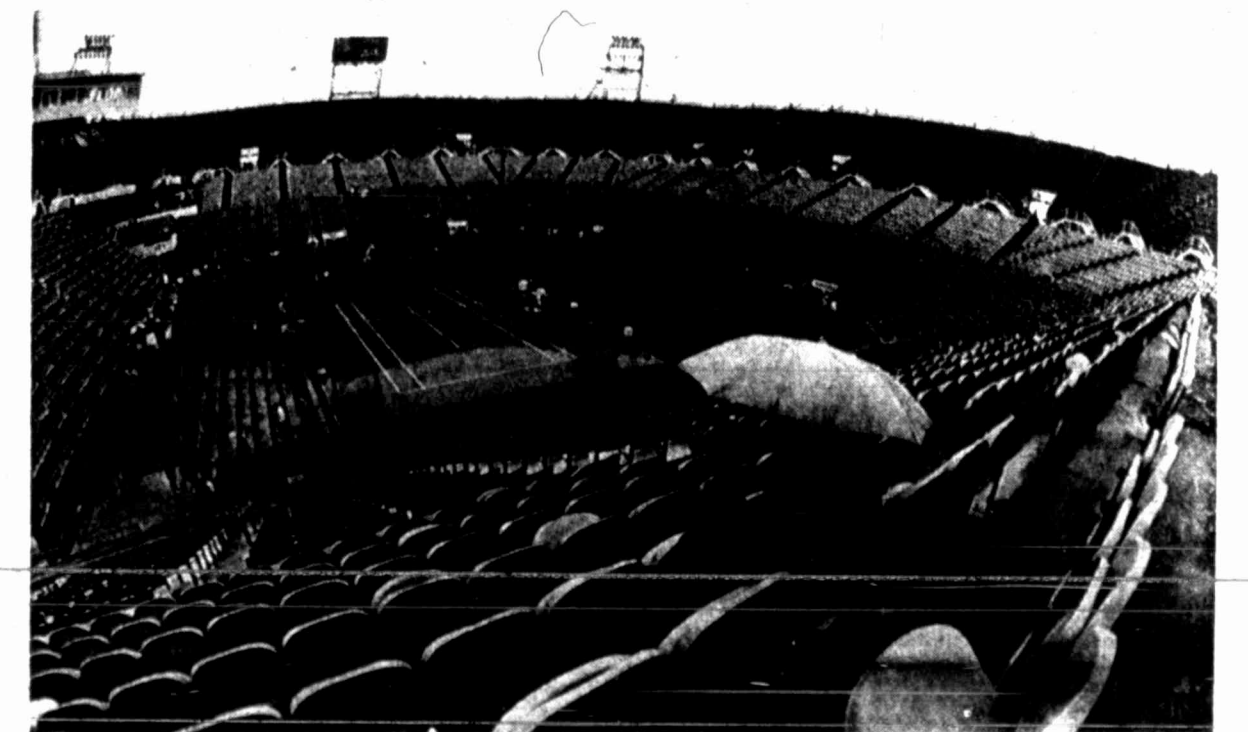

"It is bad for us to just kind of wait and not know what is going to happen next. I had the advantage because I won the first set."

Sukova came to the Open in a slump. After surprising Navratilova in the finals of the Eastbourne grass court tournament that serves as a Wimbledon warm-up, she lost to Pam Shriver in the quarterfinals at Wimbledon.

"Wimbledon was very disappointing, it is impossible to describe how it feels," Sukova said. "I felt I should have beaten Pam. A win could have helped me more than it didn't help me by losing to her."

"I started playing badly when I came to this country. I did not do well in Los Angeles or Toronto or Mahwah."

She wasn't thrilled with the state of her game earlier in this tournament, either. A first-round struggle against Melissa Gurney, which she won 6-7, 6-3, 6-4, only emphasized her troubles.

A lone woman sits in the stands of Louis Armstrong Stadium under an umbrella during one of the rain delays of the U.S. Open Tuesday afternoon. Finals are scheduled for Sunday.

Giants regain game on Astros

By The Associated Press
Roger Craig is feeling pretty good about the San Francisco Giants' chances in the National League West.

"They've got to play .800 ball and we've got to fall flat on our face to lose it," the Giants manager said Tuesday night after his team defeated second-place Houston 6-4. "If we had lost tonight, it would give them momentum for tomorrow (Wednesday) and the rest of the season."

The Giants, who lost to the Astros on Monday night, regained their 5 1/2-game lead when Mike Aldrete hit a two-run double with two outs in the ninth inning. Houston had rallied from a 4-0 deficit to tie the score in the seventh.

"The kid showed he could handle pressure," Craig said of Aldrete. "It was the biggest hit of the year."

Astros second baseman Bill Doran, who keyed the Houston rally in the seventh with a two-run double, said a loss in tonight's game would probably kill the Astros' chances.

Kevin Mitchell had a two-run homer and scored another run with a walk, two stolen bases and a throwing error, helping the Giants take their 4-0 lead.

San Francisco starter Mike Krukow took a three-hit shutout into the seventh. But Doran's two-run double and RBI singles by Gerald Young and Alan Ashby, tied the score and buoyed Houston's hopes for a series sweep that would put the Astros back into the race.

Don Robinson, 10-6, who pitched 2 1/3 innings of shutout relief, opened the ninth with a double off Larry Andersen, 8-5. Two groundouts wiped out the lead runner, but the Giants loaded the bases on a walk to Bob Brenly and a single by Candy Maldonado.

Aldrete then doubled down the left field line on a slider that was up in the strike zone.

Expos 4, Cardinals 1
Third-place Montreal moved within three games of St. Louis as Bryn Smith and Andy McGaffigan combined on a four-hitter.

The Cardinals, 4-9 against the Expos this season, scored their only run on a double play after loading the bases with no outs in the second inning against Smith, 9-6, who allowed three hits in six innings. McGaffigan pitched the last three innings for his 10th save.

Bob Forsch, 10-5, who has not won since Aug. 10, allowed seven hits and four runs in six innings. The runs scored on a wild pitch and a groundout in the first, an RBI single by Hubie Brooks in the third and Jeff Reed's sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Mets 5, Phillies 2
New York, which trails St. Louis by 2 1/2 games, survived two rain delays totaling nearly two hours as Rafael Santana snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run single in the sixth inning against Philadelphia.

The Mets got a strong performance from Bob Ojeda, who pitched two innings of one-hit relief in his first appearance since May 9 following surgery on his left elbow. Ojeda left the game in the fifth inning, leading 2-1 on a two-run homer by Kevin McReynolds off Bruce Ruffin, 10-12.

Dodgers 5, Reds 3
Franklin Stubbs broke out of a long slump with two hits and three RBI as Los Angeles beat Cincinnati for its second victory in 12 games.

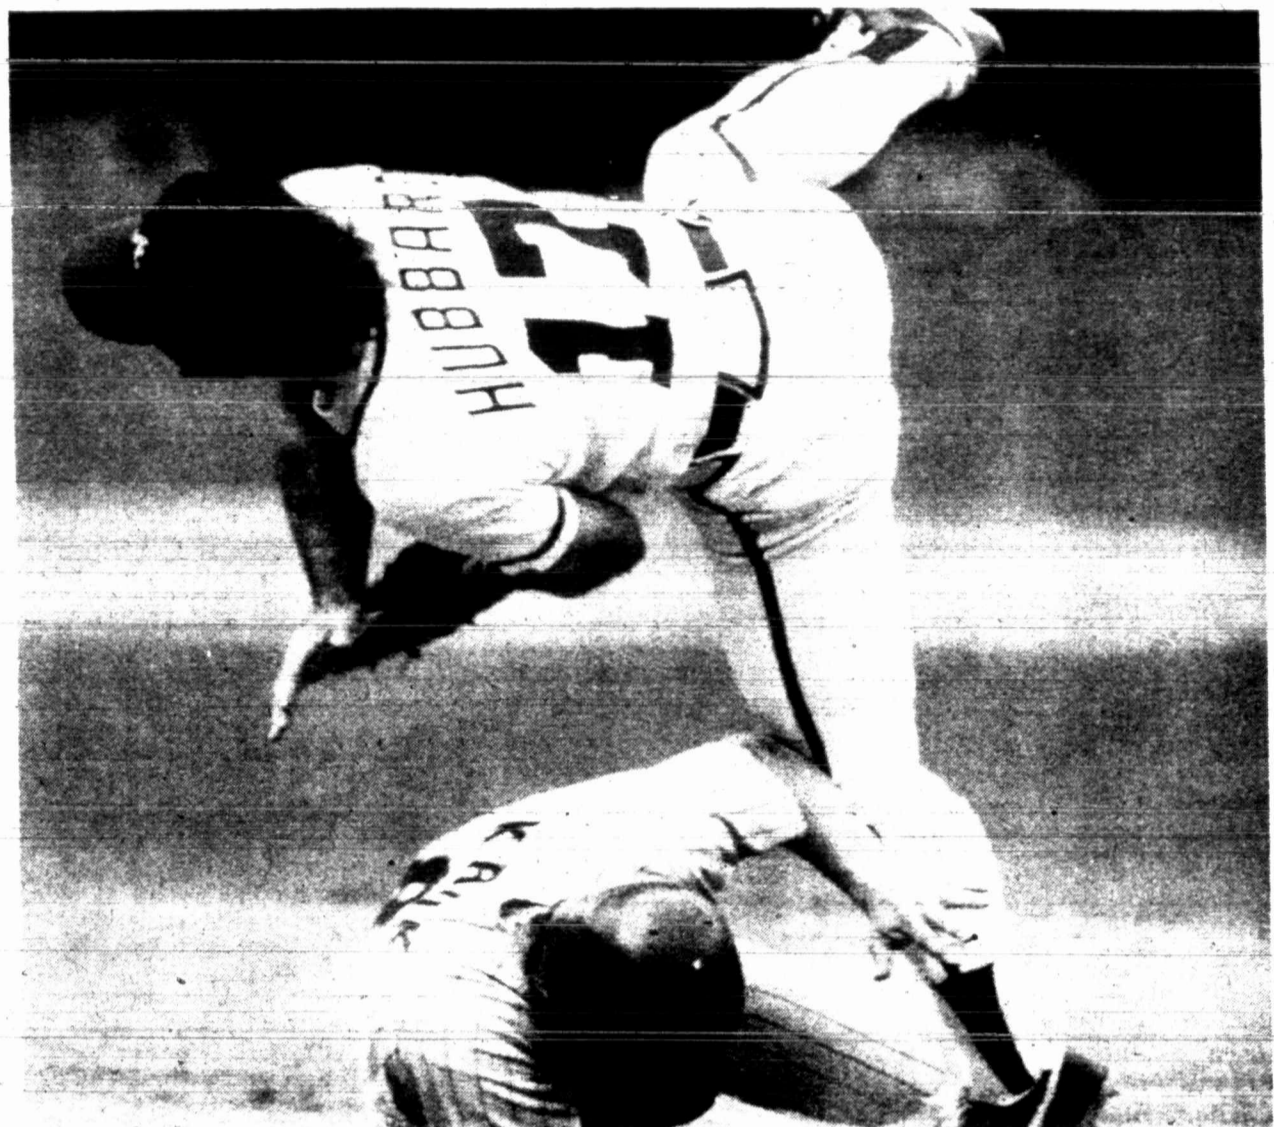

Stubbs, with no hits in his 33 previous at-bats, keyed a four-run third inning with a two-run triple. He singled home another run in the sixth.

Braves 4, Padres 2
Dale Murphy knocked in all four Atlanta runs with a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly and Pete Smith held San Diego to three hits in the first eight innings of his first major-league appearance.

Smith did not allow a baserunner until John Kruk beat out a bouncer to short for a single with two outs in the fourth. Smith tired in the ninth, giving up three more hits, including an RBI single to Chris Brown, before Jim Acker got the last out for his ninth save.

Pirates 4, Cubs 1
Pittsburgh spoiled Frank Lucchesi's managerial debut for Chicago when Mike Diaz and R.J. Reynolds hit run-scoring singles in the eighth inning, breaking a 1-1 tie.

Mexican-born pitcher Vicente Palacios earned his first major-league victory, with eight innings of six-hit pitching. Palacios was making his first start for the Pirates since he was called up from Vancouver, where he was 13-5.

San Diego Padres John Kruk clips the feet out from under Atlanta Braves second baseman Glen Hubbard as he slides into second base on an attempted steal during fourth inning action.

Veteran knuckleballer does number on A's

By The Associated Press
When Charlie Hough is on the mound, the Oakland Athletics have trouble hitting him and Geno Petralli has trouble catching him.

The Texas knuckleball pitcher held the Athletics to just three hits

American League

Tuesday night as the Rangers clubbed Oakland 12-1. The A's lone run scored on one of the four passed balls charged to Petralli, who now has 31 passed balls this season, two short of the modern major league record.

"I would say I've got a good chance to break the record," Petralli said. "I'm not going to be able to catch all his pitches."

Hough, 15-11, struck out nine and walked four in the victory, breaking a personal three-game losing streak. Against the A's this season, he's 3-0 and has allowed just one earned run in 25 1/3 innings.

The A's only had two baserunners over the last six innings.

Oakland took the lead in the third inning when Luis Polonia led off with a walk and went to second when Hough tossed the ball underhand between his legs and wildly past first on an attempted pickoff. Polonia eventually scored on a passed ball, one of three charged to Petralli in the inning. The catcher made up for it in the Texas fourth when the Rangers scored five times to take the lead for good. When Petralli hit a high fly to right-center, outfielders Dwayne Murphy and Mike Davis, who were injured in a collision early this season, stopped and looked at each other as the ball fell between them.

Red Sox 8, Yankees 6
Todd Benzing's three-run homer after a two-out error broke a 1-1 tie and led the Red Sox over New York in a rain-delayed game at Boston. The game was held up for two hours, 24 minutes with no outs in the bottom of the fourth.

After play resumed, Benzing connected with two outs in the inning. Rain again halted play in the top of the seventh for another 30 minutes.

Boston starter Al Nipper, 9-11, got the victory and is 3-0 against the Yankees this season. Bill Gullikson, 2-1, was the loser.

White Sox 4, Twins 3
Gary Redus broke out of a three-game slump with three hits, including a two-run homer, to back the combined eight-hit pitching of Floyd Bannister and Bobby Thigpen as visiting Chicago topped Minnesota. It was only the Twins' 23rd loss in 71 home games.

Mariners 7, Indians 0
Homers by Domingo Ramos and Jim Presley backed Mike Morgan's seven-hit pitching as visiting Seattle blanked Cleveland. Ramos had four of Seattle's 15 hits, including a two-run homer, to help

Morgan lift his record to 11-15.
Morgan struck out two and walked three while pitching his seventh complete game and second shutout of the season. Rich Yett, 3-7, was the loser.

Presley hit his 22nd home run in the second inning. It was his first homer since Aug. 17. After Rey Quinones singled, Ramos hit his second homer for a 4-0 Seattle lead. Ramos' first homer this season was an inside-the-park drive in the Kingdom.

Brewers 6, Blue Jays 4
In Milwaukee, Chris Bosio, 10-5, won his third straight game and Juan Castillo, Robin Yount and B.J. Surhoff drove in two runs each as the Brewers snapped Toronto's six-game winning streak. Toronto starter Dave Steib, 13-8, worked only 1 2/3 innings, his shortest stint in 28 starts, and is 0-3 against Milwaukee this season.

Castillo doubled home two runs in the second, bringing on reliever Jose Nunez, who gave up single runs in the fifth and sixth innings. The Brewers scored their final two runs in the seventh.

Royals 4, Angels 2
George Brett's two-run homer and run-scoring single helped Mark Gubicza win his first game in over a month as Kansas City defeated California at Anaheim.

Brett's 19th homer gave the Royals a 2-0 lead in the first. He singled in the seventh to score Willie Wilson from third base to snap a 2-2 tie.

Giants still tops in NFC East race

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Parcells, the lunchpail guy with the lunchpail team from New Jersey, made it clear during the off-season that he would tolerate no case of the post-Super Bowl blahs from his New York Giants.

What he can't control, however, is injury, illness and the other teams.

"That bit about not being hungry, that's just a lot of baloney," Parcells says. "But teams are coming after you a little bit harder because you're No. 1 and you have to stay healthy."

Health is a particular matter of concern for the Giants these days after Karl Nelson, the starting right tackle, came down with Hodgkin's Disease, the fourth member of the team in the last eight years to be stricken with a form of cancer.

It's made a number of his teammates nervous about playing and practicing in the Meadowlands and it's also left the Giants thin on the offensive line, which had gone through two years without injury.

Still, on paper at least, the Giants still look like one of the NFL's class teams.

William Roberts, a No. 1 draft choice in 1984 who started in his rookie year, has moved into Nelson's slot on the right side from left tackle, where he was challenging Pro Bowler Brad Benson. That leaves depth a question on the offensive line, and while Parcells is high on rookie tackle Doug Riesenberger, there's enough depth at other positions that a trade for a veteran backup isn't out of the question.

The only other thin position is cornerback, where Parcells is unhappy with Elvis Patterson. The up-and-down Patterson has been displaced at the left corner by second-year man Mark Collins with Perry Williams on the right.

Elsewhere, it's an embarrassment of riches all the way down to the kicking game — punter Sean Landeta and placekicker Raul Allegre.

Eric Dorsey, the first-round draft pick of last year, will take over from George Martin at left end and another second-year man, Erik Howard, is pushing Pro Bowler Jim Burt at nose tackle. Pepper Johnson and Robbie Jones have moved in at inside linebacker, replacing holdout Gary Reasons, to supplement three of the best in the game — Lawrence Taylor, Harry Carson and Carl Banks.

Wide receiver, the weakness last season, has been shored up so well that Bobby Johnson, a Super Bowl star, was traded.

Lionel Manuel and much-improved Stacy Robinson are the starters for now with rookies Stephen Baker, Mark Ingram and Odessa Turner in reserve and Phil McConkey leading the cheers.

Tight ends Mark Bavaro and Zeke Mowatt are two of the top five in the league, leading Parcells to think about a two-tight end offense.

Running back, with George Adams looking like a No. 1 draft pick after a year off from injury, is so deep that Joe Morris probably won't approach 1,516 yards this year - he won't carry as much. Add to them Otis Anderson, Maurice Carthon, Lee Rouson and Tony Galbreath and you have an excess of riches.

Giants

Finally, there's Phil Simms, a young 30 with an excess of confidence coming off his 22-of-25 MVP performance in the Super Bowl.

There's one more incentive: a schedule that opens with Chicago and follows with Dallas, Miami, Washington and San Francisco.

"We can't get complacent," says Carson, the team captain. "We know we've got to be strong and ready to start the season."

Washington enters the season obsessed with finding ways to beat the Giants. The Redskins were 14-2 against the rest of the league last season but 0-3 against New York, including a 17-0 shutout in the NFC title game.

One move they made was to shift 280-pound guard Russ Grimm to center in place of 255-pound Joe Bostic to provide more beef against the Giants' pass rush.

Washington is solid on offense - wide receivers Gary Clark and Art Monk and tight end Clint Didier are dangerous receivers and so is running back Kelvin Bryant. Bryant, who is injury prone, will be the spot backup to George Rogers, who with Keith Griffin will do the bulk of the ball-carrying.

But the defense is a bit shaky.

Dexter Manley, back from alcohol rehabilitation, missed part of the preseason and it didn't help the aging and slow-footed linebacker unit when Neal Olkewicz underwent arthroscopic knee surgery. Darrell Green is the only standout defensive back.

Philadelphia, 5-10-1 in Buddy Ryan's first season as head coach, is the sleeper.

"I honestly think we can contend for the playoffs," says quarterback Randall Cunningham, who's making a concerted effort to stay in the pocket this season. "You never know. Maybe we can get lucky when we play the Giants and Redskins and catch them on a down day."

Cunningham, however, needs a better offensive line. Last year's unit gave up 104 sacks, 30 more than the previous NFL record.

Moreover, Keith Byars, the potential blue-chip running back, enters the season with yet another broken foot, leaving the runner to Anthony Toney and Charles Crawford and perhaps 12th-round rookie Bobby Morse.

The defense, however, could be outstanding, with first-round draft pick Jerome Brown joining Reggie White on the line. Ryan considers the relatively unheralded White the best he's ever coached and the Giants' Simms says of him:

"He may not be in on every play but he causes damage wherever he is."

Dallas lost eight of its last nine games to finish 7-9, its first sub-.500 season since 1964, and was in trouble even before training camp began. Then Mike Sherrard, its best receiving threat, suffered a season-ending broken leg and Herschel Walker was slowed by a knee injury.

Add quarterback Danny White's problematical recovery from a broken wrist sustained last year; weaknesses on the offensive line and linebacker and an aging defensive line that needs rejuvenation from off-injured Kevin Brooks and still-unsigned rookie Danny Noonan and the Cowboys look like anything but a playoff team.

As of now, the cellar is reserved for St. Louis, which was 4-11-1 on merit last year and continued to draft strangely.

Neil Lomax remains the quarterback, although Cliff Stoudt is pressing him while Kelly Stouffer, the surprise first-round draft choice, remains unsigned. Lomax, still just 28, could return to his Pro Bowl form of 1984 if Roy Green can return to form at receiver after two injury-plagued years. But running back is thin behind Stump Mitchell.

The defense, switching from 3-4 to 4-3, is the strength of the team, particularly if linebacker E.J. Junior returns to his form of three years ago. Leonard Smith is a standout strong safety but David Galloway, the best lineman, is out with a broken arm.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Fichter Institute
FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today is fine for putting into motion any new ideas or courses of action you've been champing at the bit to begin. Maintain your courage, confidence and conviction. Schedule your time carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Come to an understanding with partners and co-workers about your respective duties, and this can become a very productive day. Eliminate stumbling blocks first.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You may disagree with a co-worker today, but otherwise it's a very productive time. If you ask a superior for a favor, express yourself clearly and give an honest reason.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Stop bending your elbow so much and eliminate other expensive pleasures which are bad for you — physically or financially. Get up early in the morning.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): If you need assistance from an expert, get it early. Don't run off on any tangents this evening. Become a more romantic person and all will be ideal.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): Don't permit a strange person to force you into doing something you do not approve of or keep you from doing what you had planned. Be cautious all day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Be sure to keep any promises you have made to others, and gain good will and favors owed. Your mate has a plan you should go along with — you'll both have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Forget that worry and get out to public affairs which can bring you prestige and knowledge. Be sure of the facts and figures in an agreement with an associate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't permit an overly talkative person to hold up your planned activities, or you'll miss out on a great opportunity. Don't let a personal wish slow you down.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Some amusement you desire for after work can be easily enjoyed if you handle your responsibilities first. A good friend can help you show your talent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You are enthused about getting your home in better condition. Keep at it and get fine results; don't run off to other matters. Home is the place for you tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't take too much time mulling things over in your mind, or you could lose out on important business matters. If your mate acts silly, pay no attention.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Concentrate on bringing in more benefits, and avoid a critical person. Forget any public work, and focus on being practical. Fix fences, but don't build them.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will be quite adept at understanding those who are clever and temperamental since he or she will have a similar nature. Your progeny will be a far-seeing person who makes plans far in advance and then carries through with them, in a detailed way, to completion. Be sure the education combines practical and mental focuses.
