Christened, opened

This morning noted the official opening of a business incubator center and the official groundbreaking of a park in the lot next door. The Sparenberg Building, 309 S. Main St., housing the small business incubator, had its open house beginning at 11 a.m., with the Tubbs

Pocket Park groundbreaking at 11:15 a.m. In the left photo, H.E. Tubbs, owner of the property where the park will be located, prepares to smash a champagne bottle on a front-end loader to mark the occasion while the audience watches from the sidewalk. In the photo at

County tax refunds drop

Herald staff report

The state sales tax refund to Howard County through August has decreased 4.11 percent, according to information from Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

The county received a payment of $97,572 for August, an increase from last year's $84,650 August payment. However the year-to-date payment of $1,109,271 is a decrease from last year to date payment of $1,156,813.

Of that total, Big Spring received $93,373 for August, compared to $82,718 last year; and has received $1,078,733 so far this year, compared to $1,125,666 last year.

Coahoma received $2,620 in August, compared to $1,294 last year; and has received $18,609 so far this year, compared to $20,823 last year.

Forsan received $1,578 in August, compared to $637 last year; and has received $11,928 so far this year, compared to $10,322 last year.

Colorado City received $18,164 in August, compared to $14,636 last year; and has received $183,639 so far this year, compared to $193,467 last year to date.

Lamesa received $28,247 in August, compared to $27,753 last year; and has received $314,224 so far this year, compared to $351,004 last year.

Veterans to have day in the sun

By KERRY HAGLUND

It's a matter of freedom. Federal prison camp inmates who have temporary lost their freedom and former prisoners of war who have regained their freedom have joined forces to provide freedom of another sort.

The two groups participated in providing a wheelchair-accessible fishing dock to accommodate Veterans Administration patients.

The dock, to be located at Comanche Trail Lake, will be dedicated Friday during the Veterans Administration's observance of National POW/MIA Recognition Day.

The center will join others nationwide Friday in honoring former American prisoners of war, those still missing, and their families.

President Reagan proclaimed Friday a recognition day to honor the men and their families and to foster public awareness of those still listed as missing.

The Veterans Administrations' 172 medical centers and other agencies are expected to participate through community programs.

In Big Spring, the fishing dock will be dedicated a 6 p.m. at Comanche Trail Park and a dinner will be served at 7 p.m. at Furr's Cafeteria where retired Lt. Col. Vaughn Martin is scheduled to speak.

The dedication will be conducted where the dock is now temporarily located — about 100 yards north of the municipal golf club house.

The dock won't be installed, however, until work on Comanche Trail dam is complete, said John Webb, Big Spring VA social work service chief.

Big Spring Mayor Cotton Mize will officially accept ownership of the dock for the city at Friday's celebration.

Conrad Alexander, Big Spring VA center president; Billy McCombs, Permian Basin Ex-POW Chapter commander; and Ernest Boyd, a POW from Big Spring, also are scheduled to speak at the dedication ceremony.

"A common theme of all those involved is related to the concept of freedom — each from a different vantage point — the wheelchair patient, the federal prison camp and the American prisoner of war," Conrad Alexander, VA center director, said.

"Certainly it's fitting to recognize this

State prison petition pulls local support

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The petition drive to show support for a proposed state prison in Big Spring concludes today — and Corky Harris, the campaign's organizer says he is impressed with reaction from local residents.

"It's been very heartwarming, the way the community has pulled together on this project," he said. "Big Spring has pulled together on this like no other project."

The drive has a goal of 5,000 signatures and Harris said there will be "no problem" gathering that many names. There has been no formal resistance to the proposed prison, and negative comments about it have comprised "maybe half a percent" of total reaction to the campaign, he added.

Harris will collect the petitions today and send them to Texas Department of Correction officials. They will study proposals from communities throughout the state and make a decision during the next few months, he said.

The prison would be the third in Big Spring if built here. The state facility would house 2,250 inmates and employ 760, city councilman Johnny Rutherford said.

Payroll for the prison would be $1.3 million monthly, he added. The drive chairman sees two advantages in bringing the prison to Big Spring.

The first is the new jobs it would bring, he said. Secondly, improving utilities to the industrial park to accommodate the prison also would help attract other industries, he added.

Harris was recruited for the drive by Rutherford. "Johnny cornered me and I said yes," Harris said, laughing.

"Seriously, this is an important project," he said. "This is the kind of thing Big Spring needs."

The most likely site for the facility will be adjacent to the existing Federal Prison Camp at the industrial park. A privately-owned prison is also proposed for the area, Rutherford noted.

The reaction from local residents has reinforced Harris' beliefs.

"Some of the other towns trying to get the prison are split," he said. "But that's not the case here. There's not a single business that hasn't taken one (of the petitions). They've all wanted one."

"The community really believes the TDC is professional in dealing with prisoners," he said.

Sheriff reports triple-slaying arrest

Herald staff report

A Lubbock man was arrested today at the Big Spring State Hospital on a capital murder charge, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

Lambert Wilson, 32, Lubbock, was arrested at 11:15 a.m. in connection with a triple murder in Lubbock Sept. 10, Standard said.

Bond was denied. Two other suspects have been arrested in Lubbock in connection with the murders and another is being sought, Standard said.

The sheriff said that Wilson was arrested in connection with the shooting deaths of three Lubbock residents. They were identified as Napoleon Landis Ellison, 21; Vivian Webb, 42; and Quinny Smith, 27, according to the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Ellison was identified as Webb's son.

The Lubbock murders are believed to be drug related, Standard said.

A small amount of marijuana was found at the east Lubbock residence where the shootings occurred, Avalanche-Journal police reporter Joe Gulic said.

Lubbock authorities believe a fourth death may be connected to the recent shootings.

George Henry Wilbon, 20, Lubbock, was found in a field near Lubbock Friday with a shotgun wound to the chest, Gulic said today.

Knowing symptoms can prevent suicide

Editor's note: This article is the final in a series on youth suicide — a national problem — and concern about the problem in Howard County. The series was prompted by the scheduling of a youth suicide seminar this Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in Howard College Auditorium.

Depression — often prompted by pressure among young people — can lead to despair and ultimately suicide, local mental health professionals say.

Jake Glickman, local social worker, estimates he treats 20 attempted suicide cases per year, and more than half are people under 30 years of age.

Lynn Calvert, Big Spring High School guidance counselor, says approximately 10 students every year come to her with depression — although many don't share their thoughts of suicide.

Often, she said, she learns of attempts through other professionals.

Dr. Lorie Hsu, clinical psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital, is among mental health professionals who counsel depressed young people.

"I have seen quite a few people who have attempted suicide in Howard County," she said.

"Young people feel alone. They feel 'nobody knows what I'm going through,'" she said.

Glickman agreed. "I've had clients 10, 11 and 12 years old who have attempted suicide."

He said he usually is involved by the family after the attempt.

"I probably talk to 20 people per year who have attempted it (suicide). I probably talk to triple that number of family members," Glickman added.

Family and friends often can be the key influence to deter a depressed person from attempting suicide, the social worker said.

"I work with both the youngster and ... sometimes the whole family," Glickman added.

Hsu said, "If we talk about working with young people, then we need to talk about teaching parents about the signs of depression and help teens deal with their own

Two recognized for Hispanic Heritage

The equal employment opportunity committee at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp has recognized two Hispanic employees in conjunction with Hispanic Heritage week — Sept. 13-19.

Manuel (Manny) Gomez, supervisor of education, and Christine Martinez, assistant business manager, will be recognized at a Saturday dinner/dance at the prison's staff training center.

The program is for prison employees and invited guests, Superintendent Joe Crabtree said today.

Gomez has worked in his present position since 1985, according to a prison camp news release.

He has a bachelor's and master's in education from the University of Texas at El Paso and taught in the El Paso public school system for five years. In 1972 he became a con-tional Institution in La Tuna. In 1980, Gomez came to Big Spring as a teacher. He transferred to the Federal Correctional Institution in Bastrop in June 1981 and went to a federal institution in Englewood, Colo. in November 1982.

Gomez, his wife, Irma and their two children reside in Coahoma.

Christine Martinez started her federal service as a clerk/typist at Webb Air Force Base in 1972.

In 1977, she transferred to the Veterans Administration Medical Center where she was secretary to the chief of medical services.

Martinez started her Bureau of Prisons career in Big Spring in 1979 when she was hired as a cashier.

She worked as a property management specialist prior to her promotion to her present position in 1986.

Martinez, her husband, Pat, and their children live in Big Spring.

Flood funding approved

Herald staff report

A Senate subcommittee has approved a $75,000 grant to fund a Jones Valley flood relief study for Big Spring, a spokesman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said this morning.

The Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development, which is part of the Senate Appropriations Committee, included the funding in its recommended budget, the spokesman said.

The budget goes before the Senate next week, then to a House-Senate conference to resolve the differences between the House and Senate versions of the budget, he said. That should be concluded by about the end of this month.

Bentsen asked for the grant after he received a letter about the Jones Valley problem from Mayor Cotton Mize, the spokesman said. The Senator asked Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., subcommittee chairman, to approve the grant.

The grant would fund a Corps of Engineers study designed towards providing interim relief from flooding, until a more permanent solution can be found, the spokesman said.

Big Spring leadership plans juniors' program

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Howard County high school students may be able to participate in a Junior Leadership program this spring, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce announced at its board of directors meeting Wednesday.

Last year's Leadership Big Spring class members are developing a 10-week leadership program for high school students, said board member Tammy Stripling.

Leadership Big Spring is designed to develop community leaders locally.

Chamber officials have said the program's purposes are to identify potential community leaders; develop their potential for civic responsibilities and leadership; assure leadership to develop the town's potential, and open dialogue among emerging and present leaders.

The board also confirmed nomination of five new members and voted to support the effort to bring a state prison to Big Spring.

Nomination of Carl Bradley, John Brown, Scott McLaughlin, Drew Mouton and Sandra Waggoner for future board members was confirmed. No others were nominated, and board members will vote at next month's meeting, said President Troy Fraser.

Members voted unanimously in support of the effort to bring the proposed state prison to Big Spring.

"Other people will be hard pressed to offer as much as this community is offering to entice" the prison, said member and City Councilman Johnny Rutherford.

Coordinators are preparing Big Spring's proposal, and it appears the community may offer about $6.5 million in benefits to entice the prison, he said.

In other business, the chamber:

• Announced that representatives from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce probably will visit for a reaccreditation inspection in late October.

• Announced that the newsletter, Forum, was judged one of the best chamber newsletters in the nation in the U.S. chamber contest.

The Big Spring newsletter tied with those from Pensacola, Fla.; Muncie, Ind.; Salt Lake City, Utah; and Akron, Ohio, officials announced. Executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery said the Dallas newsletter was the only one in the state judged better than the Big Spring entry.

• Announced that the annual Agriculture Appreciation barbecue Wednesday will leave from the chamber at 8:30 a.m. to visit a fish farm, a cotton farm, a cotton gin, the Howard County Fair, a cattle auction, Hubbard Packing and the McDonald horse establishment.

• Announced that the membership directory is to be delivered this week.

• Announced that the Beautification Committee is planning a city cleanup for early spring; that elementary schools will include in this year's curriculum the Waste In Place program as part of the Keep Texas Beautiful effort; and that the city is planning its fall cleanup program to collect large trash items.

• Announced that the Cultural Affairs Council has expanded the annual Arts Fest from four to six weeks. This year's fest will be Oct. 8 to Nov. 21. It will begin with the opening night of Howard College's production of Neil Simon's play "Brighton Beach Memoirs," and will end with a symphony concert.

Suicide

Continued from page 1A feelings. "Parents still have a lot of influence. Parents need to be more aware of the signals. If we talk about it (suicide), then a lot of teens will know they are not alone," Hsu noted.

Lee Freeze, Goliad Middle School guidance counselor, says parents are the first people contacted in a suicidal situation.

"If (a student) indicates they are thinking of suicide, then I call the parents and recommend professional help," Freeze said. Sometimes the parents are asked to visit with him, he said.

"We discuss what might be causing the pressure. It may be peer pressure, or school pressure, or pressure at home. A lot of times you'll come up with a reason."

Freeze added that teachers often notice changes in behavior and alert him.

Glickman said it usually depends on a parent or friend to recognize that something is wrong. When someone is concerned about another person, he recommends discussing the symptoms with a minister, doctor or therapist.

"They might be able to prevent something," he said.

Physical signs of depression can go unnoticed by a family doctor, Glickman said.

"They'll be treated for an allergy or a stomach disorder... The physical symptom is a message that this person is depressed. It's very difficult to diagnose," he warned.

"When someone comes to my office, I ask them a series of questions," he said. He said he asks if they have experienced diarrhea, stomach aches, trouble sleeping, or feel sleepy too much.

"I ask if they're thinking of killing themselves, and if they've attempted to do it."

If they don't respond affirmatively to these questions, he said he diagnoses them as mildly depressed and not immediately likely to attempt suicide.

But Glickman said he does require them to promise not to attempt suicide without calling him first. If a promise is not made, he keeps them at the office.

Hsu said, "Generally speaking, a lot of people go to the doctor for feeling tired — no energy." A doctor should be consulted for a physical reason. She said a doctor might overlook the signs of depression and prescribe sleeping pills or exercise.

But she does get referrals from doctors who recognize the signs. "I feel the (medical) community is aware" of the signs of depression, she said.

Glickman says his referrals usually come through recommendations by former clients or a minister.

Mental health professionals will receive three hours of Texas Alcohol and Drug Abuse Counselor (TADAC) credit for attendance, according to the schedule and Big Spring State Hospital officials.

Man freed on $30,200 bond

Herald staff report

A man arrested Friday at a Howard County home where drugs, chemicals, a portable chemical lab and stolen property were seized, was released Wednesday on bonds totaling $30,200.

Wayne Buchanan Lister, 31, Quinlan, was released on a $10,000 bond for possession of a controlled substance, a $10,000 bond for possession of chemicals with intent to manufacture and distribute drugs and a $5,000 bond for possession of marijuana, felony charge.

A $5,000 bond also was posted for theft by exercising control, and a $200 bond was posted for possession of drug paraphernalia.

Lister was arrested at a Route 2 residence located about 10 miles northwest of Big Spring.

Sheriff's deputies recovered the portable chemical lab Tuesday.

Tosha Nicole Banks, arrested with Lister Friday, reportedly gave authorities a false name, according to Wednesday sheriff's records. Banks real identity now is listed as Sandra Lee Jennings.

• Randall Ray McCollum, 18, Canton, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Wednesday to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was sentenced to four years in the Texas Department of Corrections and given credit for 16 days of jail time already served.

• Larry Charles Peterson, 35,

511 Goliad St., pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to forgery. He was sentenced to four years in TDC and was given credit for 20 days of jail time. Peterson had been arrested Friday on a state parole warrant.

• Dee Arvin Ratliff, 46, Sand Springs, was transferred from the police department on a charge of criminal mischief. Ratliff was released on a $1,000 bond.

• Mark Anthony Molina, 22, 502 11th Place, was transferred from the police department Wednesday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was released on a $1,000 bond.

• Mike Moreno Ortega, 19, 706 S. Lancaster St., was released from custody under modified conditions of probation under the authority of 118th District Judge James Gregg. Ortega was arrested Sept. 2 on a charge of revocation of probation on a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon on licensed premises.

• William Froman, 26, 901 W. Third St., was released from custody Wednesday after paying $246.50 and serving 10 days on a capias pro-fine warrant for failure to report an unattended death.

• Corina Puentes, 30, Route 1 Box 753, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of theft of service by check. She was released on a $1,000 bond.

event on Sept. 18."

Big Spring Federal Prison Camp inmates built the dock, which will be used by wheelchair-bound veteran patients from the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Webb, along with William R. "Dub" Purser, a former World War II war prisoner, said they conceived the idea several years ago.

Webb said when disabled veterans were asked what they missed, 75 percent said they liked to fish — but their wheelchairs prohibited them from getting near the water.

"Our purpose was to provide for the disabled veterans," Purser noted.

Because the dock will be located on city property, it will be open to the public, but handicapped individuals will have priority, he said. "Everyone will benefit," Webb said of the dock.

The 24-foot square wooden structure has an 8-foot cut-out, contains pipe railings and will have a 38-foot ramp, he said.

Purser said it also will have a roof to provide shade.

The Permian Basin POW Chapter received about $1,200 in cash donations for the dock and several companies donated materials, Purser said.

"We had a lot of help from individuals and organizations in the community," he said.

The Permian Basin POW Chapter, which covers seven counties, has 56 members, he said.

The group sent letters to 175 prisoners of war who live in the area serviced by the Big Spring Veterans Administration center — with hopes that some will attend Friday's dedication.

Police beat

Herald staff report

Police interrupted a suspected burglary at Hughes Rental & Sales, 1228 W. Third St., at 3:20 a.m. today, said Sgt. Bill Anderson.

When police responded to a burglar alarm at the store, they found several people leaving the store in a vehicle, he said. Police stopped the vehicle about two blocks from the store and arrested four people on charges of burglary.

Arrested were Ronnie Lee Mondaca, 23, Jessie Lopez, 19, Jose Perez, 36, no addresses available, and a Big Spring juvenile whose identity was not released because of his age.

Police recovered five videocassette recorders, valued at $1,200, from the vehicle, Anderson said.

• Thieves stole a $4,500 maroon and tan Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme, an unknown amount of cash, a book of stamps and the keys to a 1981 Oldsmobile from Bill Crane Auto Sales, 1300 E. 14th St., between 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, manager Joseph Leseur told police.

• Harry James Wren, Ponderosa Apt. 4, reported that someone he knows used his 1976 yellow Chevrolet Chevette without his permission and returned the vehicle damaged. The crime occurred between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wednesday, police reports said.

• A $500 VCR was stolen and the door frame damaged at the home of Diana Ferguson, 4102 Bilger St., between 12:30 and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, police reports said.

Pickens: Takeovers good for America

HOUSTON (AP) — Corporate raider T. Boone Pickens says hostile takeovers are good for shareholders and the nation as a whole and denies that they eat into research and development funds.

But during a debate Wednesday, John R. Schwemm, chairman and chief executive officer of R.R. Donnelly & Sons Co. in Chicago, argued that evidence shows once-strong companies have emerged from takeovers swamped by debt with their managements in disarray.

"The Japanese don't play this game," Schwemm told Pickens. "They take the long view, and the hostile takeover phenomenon does not exist in Japan."

Pickens said that while there have been some job losses in takeovers, that does not compare to the jobs lost in top companies that have not been threatened by hostile acquisition bids.

"Takeovers emphasize results, not size, and such attempts are nothing more than the market putting pressure on management, he said.

"Takeovers are good for shareholders and America as a whole," he said.

Pickens — who has led several takeover bids and is now part of a group trying to acquire Newmont Mining Corp. — is a proponent of shareholders' rights and has criticized managements as often being weak and only looking out for themselves.

Last year, he founded the United Shareholders Association, a Washington-based organization for the rights of shareholders.

"I believe takeovers solve more problems than they create," said Pickens, general partner of Mesa Limited Partnership in Amarillo. "I believe what we have going on right now is the system is purging itself of abuses that have gone on for years in corporate America."

But Schwemm said the current system is forcing managements to think only about the short-term, which is bad for long-term interests of the nation as it competes in the international market.

Schwemm is a member of Stakeholders in America, which he said was formed to speak out against what it claims are the abuses resulting from hostile takeovers.

"Obviously, not all business acquisitions are bad, and not all hostile takeovers are bad," he said during the debate before executives attending a two-day forum on takeovers and acquisitions. "Not all managements are good. We do not seek to entrench managements. We do seek some changes."

Pickens and Schwemm swapped criticisms during their 1½ hour-long debate.

Schwemm said takeovers in several cases have caused job losses, hurt communities where the company is based, forced cuts in research and development funds and depleted pension funds.

The two men disagreed on most points throughout the debate, with each claiming the other side is just out to make money.

Pickens claims many chief executive officers are short-term thinkers who generally don't own much stock in their company but have big salaries and let the stockholders take the risks.

Briefs

Officials baffled at fireball sighting

DALLAS (AP) — A luminous fireball that streaked across North Texas skies may have been a type of meteor and any remains that survived entry into the earth's atmosphere could be valuable, a resident astronomer said.

The brilliant object appeared to be burning when it hurtled past the Dallas Love Field airport tower at 8:05 p.m. CDT., said tower supervisor Clyde Ledgerwood.

"It was an object in the sky — a brilliant color that lasted only a few seconds," Ledgerwood said. "I have no idea what it was. It moved so fast I couldn't tell, but it left a smoke trail."

Bill Gawne, resident astronomer at the nearby North Texas State University observatory, said the fireball was probably a meteor, although he didn't see it.

"Quite likely it was a bolide, a class of large meteor," he said. "A bolide often breaks up as it enters the atmosphere at speeds between 2 and 15 kilometers a second. Because they impact so quickly, they heat up real fast and glow."

He said a meteorite "chunk" may have survived impact, and "whoever finds it owns it, and meteors can be quite valuable."

National Weather Service spokesman John Jarboe said the object appeared on radar scopes in Fort Worth.

Parents support doctor with AIDS

DALLAS (AP) — More than 60 parents telephoned a pediatrician diagnosed with the AIDS virus and vowed to support him in his battle against the community's fear and a failing practice.

Dr. Robert J. Huse feared he would be forced to close his practice when angry parents reacted to the news he carried the AIDS virus, but he said the calls he received Wednesday have given him hope.

"It makes me feel very good," he said. "It's quite a significant number."

Martha Wheeler, who lives in the suburb of Mesquite where Huse works, said her two children have been Huse's patients since he started his practice there 12 years ago.

"I don't think he would do anything to harm any children," Mrs. Wheeler said. "If he was a danger to the public, I think he would step out of his practice before he would hurt anyone. I think he was just treated dirty by this."

Bank returns missing $21 million

AUSTIN (AP) — All of the $21 million in state money that was improperly deposited in unsecured accounts in a British West Indies bank has been recovered, officials say.

Attorney General Jim Mattox said Texas American Bank of Fort Worth, trustee for the Texas Housing Agency, had assumed responsibility for the final $2.8 million that was still unrecovered and had deposited that amount in the agency's account.

"We don't want this to happen again. State money cannot be risked and foreign business should not be allowed to profit from Texas taxpayers' money," Mattox told a news conference Wednesday.

The $21 million came from bonds issued by the housing agency for use in home loan programs.

Oil replacement rate lowest in decade

DALLAS (AP) — The nation's largest energy companies replaced only 41 percent of their oil reserves and only 48 percent of the gas reserves in 1986, the worst one-year rate in the 1980s, a study indicates.

The report by Salomon Brothers Inc., a New York securities firm, said those 30 energy companies provide about two-thirds of the nation's oil reserves, and that only three Texas companies bucked the low replacement trend.

Maxus Energy Corp. of Dallas and Mesa Limited Partnership of Amarillo replaced crude oil production in 1986. Maxus, the former exploration and production arm of Diamond Shamrock Corp., reported an 11 percent increase in its U.S. liquid petroleum reserves.

Enserch Corp. of Dallas posted a 14 percent increase in natural gas reserves last year, the report said.

U.S. crude oil reserves declined 5.4 percent and Texas crude reserves fell by 8 percent last year, the U.S. Department of Energy previously reported.

"Last year's drop in reserves was a response to a very difficult year," Robert Finley, acting deputy director of the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas at Austin, said Tuesday.

"It may work out that in 1987 the industry will not add reserves, but if there is a decline, it won't be as devastating as in 1986," he added.

Replacement of reserves had been improving until the 1986 price collapse as the industry increasingly used enhanced oil recovery methods designed to extract more oil from existing reserves, the report said.

But as oil prices fell by half last year, outlays for domestic property purchases, exploration and production dropped 47 percent, while foreign spending declined 28 percent, the report said.

Salomon energy industry analyst James D. Crandell said exploration and production budgets this year were set with $15-per-barrel oil in mind, but some companies are basing their 1988 plans on $18-per-barrel oil.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation:

Claims SSC will hurt other research

Nothing could prove worse for American science in the long run than for Congress to be swept up in the hoopla and political huckstering that has so characterized state competition for the superconducting supercollider.

The SSC is the giant atom smasher, 53 miles in circumference, that would be the world's largest and most expensive research instrument. Construction of the SSC probably would cost upwards of $6 billion, create thousands of jobs, and bring the lucky state priceless prestige and other benefits. The central question is how America should spend $6 billion on science. Should it be on physics or cancer, heart disease, reducing the toll from trauma, treating Alzheimer's disease, curing acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or any of hundreds of other urgent problems?

Despite Reagan administration denials, the rest of science is bound to suffer from construction of the SSC, as limited research dollars are shunted into particle physics.

The Blade, Toledo, Ohio

Criticizes required benefits idea

In Congress, there are several proposals pending to require businesses to provide certain new benefits for employees. That may sound like a good idea, but the effect on business — especially struggling small businesses — has to be taken into account.

Small businesses have a smaller pool of workers to share administrative costs of benefit programs and spread the risk of high-cost illnesses.

Health insurance, if it can be obtained, may cost small businesses 30 percent to 40 percent more in premiums than large companies that enjoy discount rates.

Small firms also are more disrupted by the loss of a single employee to parental or disability leave.

In mandating many good things for employees, government may kill the golden goose that provides jobs for those workers.

Chattanooga (Tenn.) News-Free Press

Defends civil rights accusations

The White House, of course, has come to the defense of President Reagan's civil rights record, denounced by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. But it is pretty much a pro forma effort.

The president does not have a civil rights record to defend. He has an anti-civil rights record, just as Marshall said.

Reagan opposed every civil rights law in its time — every one: voting rights, public accommodations, you name it. As president, he resisted the extension of the Voting Rights Act.

Reagan's performance on civil rights would have seemed more familiar in the late 19th century than in the late 20th — and is appropriate to neither.

The Atlanta Constitution

NFL labor dispute may test fans

Labor disputes in professional sports follow a predictable pattern. Players and owners solemnly declare that it will be the fans who will be the real strike victims. Then, both try to use the leverage they have over those fans to improve their own positions.

So National Football League players have set a strike date of Sept. 22. Owners vow to assemble squads of free agents, reject and players disaffected with their union.

But, knowing the loyalty of fans, they'll be back. And no doubt the players (who make an average of $250,000 in salary and benefits a year) will bear the brunt of the fans' ire, since the players, not the owners, parade across the field each Sunday.

But the players' case is not unreasonable. They want a system that would allow them, at some point in their careers, to choose where they want to work, just like everybody else.

There's still time for a legitimate compromise that will give them what they want. But, if there is no agreement, and fans cross the picket lines to see the pseudo-Raiders or the not-necessarily-the-Rams perform, they will have shown just how blind their loyalty can be.

Los Angeles Herald Examiner

Poll proves federalism alive, well

A bipartisan group commissioned a Gallup Poll recently on public attitudes toward local, state and federal government, and the answers were clear-cut. Voters trust their local government the most and Washington the least, with the state government in between.

Though the respondents probably didn't think of it that way, they were confirming that federalism is alive and well.

The Founders took great care to preserve competing political entities within the United States. They granted certain powers to the federal government and reserved all other powers to the states or people. The Federalist Papers, written to argue the case for adoption of the new Constitution, whose bicentennial we are now observing, reasoned that state and local politicians would be more trusted because they are closer to the people.

When considering the checks and balances built into our constitutional system, we tend to think of the separation of powers within the federal government. We should also remember the crucial checks and balances built into the federal system as a whole. It's a work of art — and the public knows it.

The Detroit News

Urges Congress to enforce treaty

If there is anything Congress must do this year besides passing a budget that achieves major deficit reduction, it is prohibiting the Reagan administration from conducting Star Wars activities that would violate the traditional interpretation of the ABM treaty.

The traditional interpretation of the 1972 treaty is straightforward enough. Under the treaty, the United States and the Soviet Union may not proceed beyond laboratory research to test, develop or deploy any system or component of a space-based defense against ballistic missiles.

The treaty, moreover, bans a nationwide missile defense, but allows each side to maintain an ABM system to defend one military base or city using the stationary land-based technologies of the early 1970s.

Attempting to build a nationwide shield against ballistic missiles, the goal of President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, would trigger competition between offensive and defensive weapons of unprecedented dimensions.

The treaty is law in both the United States and the Soviet Union. Both nations are obliged by international law to obey it.

Around the rim Viva memory of Ponderosa and Sundays

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

You know you're growing older when, one-by-one, childhood stars die.

Lorne Greene's time arrived Thursday. The 72-year-old Canadian who died of complications after surgery was buried Monday.

For many years, I didn't know him as Lorne Greene. He was Pa Cartwright, the stern-yet-loving father of Adam, Hoss and Little Joe on the popular NBC series "Bonanza."

I have mixed memories of Pa Cartwright.

On one hand, I loved the show. Westerns always have been a great way for me to forget the troubles of daily life.

On the other hand, one thing the Sunday evening show couldn't make me forget was that I had to go to school the next day — and that left me with a slight bad taste when I saw Lorne Greene.

However, the good far outweighed the bad. After all, I would have had to go to school regardless of Lorne Greene's existence.

"Bonanza" was my faithful Sunday-evening companion for 14 years. Since I was a mere five years old when it began, some of my earliest TV memories revolve around the escapades at the Ponderosa ranch.

Reflecting on the series, it's clear that Pa was the glue that held this unusual family together. His sons were nice enough guys but, more often than not, they'd get themselves into some sort of jam and Pa had to bail them out once again.

You always had the feeling, however, that no matter how many times Pa had to save his boys' skin, he never felt inconvenienced by the duty. No, he did it because — dang it — they were his boys, and no side-windin' bushwacker was going to hurt them.

Another feeling that was predominant was that his sons, no matter how trouble-prone they seemed, were going to turn out just fine. Who wouldn't, with a Ben Cartwright for a dad?

The Cartwright patriarch exemplified typical Old West values — honesty, courage, optimism and the persistence necessary to build a ranch from scratch.

He was the ultimate straight-shooter — with his sons and everyone else — and Lorne Greene perfectly fit the part.

With his deep, stentorian voice and a crown of thick, silver hair, Greene cut a paternal figure that even the most indifferent child would find hard to resist.

Heck, I even liked his recent Alpo commercials so much I nearly purchased a dog.

When Bonanza ended its run in 1973, Greene temporarily left public view. He returned with a splash, however, as Commander Adama in the short-lived "Battlestar Galactica" a few years later.

It was a high-tech version of "Bonanza."

The Ponderosa became a gigantic spaceship, rifles were replaced with lasers and, instead of marauding Indians, there were now evil robots named Cylons.

Coming on the heels of "Star Wars" — one of my favorite movies — I thought the merging of Pa Cartwright and C3PO was too good to be true.

Alas, it was.

After Galactica was cancelled, Greene disappeared from series television. He became the pitcher for Alpo dog food, and occasionally hosted a nature special.

Through it all, he remained Pa Cartwright. Oh, there were a few more wrinkles, but the man seemed eternal.

Until last week. So he's gone now, and I have one less childhood hero still around. There are plans for a Bonanza TV reunion, but it won't be the same without Greene.

No — the man who brought Ben Cartwright and Commander Adama to life is no more, except for reruns.

Somewhere, the Cylons must be breathing a sigh of relief.

President's task force cuts fat off of government waste

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has kept one campaign promise that has gone largely unheralded. He correctly suspected that the federal budget was loaded down with waste, and he pledged to seek out and eliminate misspending.

He created a task force of business leaders and asked them to apply their managerial know-how and common sense to the problem. Its official title was the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control. But such a moniker couldn't last, and it quickly became known as the Grace Commission — after the drive and determination of its chairman, J. Peter Grace.

With a powerful push from the president, the commission has made extraordinary progress at cutting government waste — against the stiff opposition of the special interests. For the fiscal years 1986 and 1987, this effort has saved close to $70 billion. This amazing achievement has been documented out of government ledgers by the Office of Management and Budget.

Thus the federal growth rate has been cut significantly without damaging or depriving a single federal program; the fat has merely been sliced off.

The biggest saving has come from modifying government procedures. In the words of the president, the Grace Commission "set down a long-term strategy for streamlining our government," which has become "the basis for on-going reforms."

Meanwhile, Congress is also turning to the Grace Commission's proposals for slashing government expenditures. One out of every three members has already joined Grace Caucuses, which have pledged to cut the waste out of the federal budget. The anti-waste drive is led in the Senate by Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., and in the House by Buddy Roemer, D-La., and Beau Boulter, R-Texas.

Because of the Grace Commission's stunning success, it has been enlarged and revitalized as the United States Taxpayer's Commission. The president met on July 7 with J. Peter Grace, who set up the new commission, which will serve as the taxpayers' eyes and ears in Washington.

It will keep a permanent watch on how the taxpayers' money is spent. As Reagan later explained on his weekly radio broadcast: "J. Peter Grace and a group of dedicated business leaders are now forming the U.S. Taxpayers Commission to keep the focus on reducing costs rather than raising taxes. I expect they will bring renewed interest to streamlining federal operations and to assure that you, the American people, are getting all the government you are paying for."

The Taxpayers Commission is recruiting commissioners from the grass roots. It will seek a political balance of Democrats and

Alpha Phi Dough is new alma mater

By ART BUCHWALD

Word from the old alma mater is that the price of private education is going up faster than the national debt. A recent College Board survey revealed that the price of a diploma at one of the more expensive schools is now $75,000, which does not include gas, oil or ski trips during the school break.

Can parents afford to send a kid to college for $75,000 and still find happiness? The answer is most people can't afford to send them for half that.

And yet for some reason the older generation continues to do it. Thanks to their own sacrifice, parents are making the nut and their children are growing up in the rich academic environment everyone has told them they are entitled to.

In order to get a better picture of what exactly is going on I talked to those involved in the tuition struggle to see how they felt about it.

One student at Georgetown University took the news calmly. "Nobody wants to force our parents to come up with $75,000 big ones, but if that's the price we young Americans have to pay for a good education, I say it's money well spent."

"Dad had it easy when he went to college so he never knew the cost of a diploma. Now he's learning the hard way, and he'll be better for it."

The drama concerning heavy tuition is being played out everywhere. I saw a father at Johns Hopkins say farewell to his son at the gate. As he bade him goodbye, the father gave the young man his cuff links, tie clasp and gold watch. "This is it," the father told the boy. "When they are gone you're on your own."

Art Buchwald

"Where will I find you?" the boy asked.

"Your mother and I will be in the basement of a federal housing project in Baltimore. Don't worry, the move has nothing to do with your tuition. We always planned to do it that way."

A president at one of the Ivy League schools defended the high-priced costs and said that $75,000 hardly pays for books and a half-baked history teacher.

"It's wrong," he said, "to use the figure $75,000 as the cost of a four-year education, because everybody will expect one for that. We have a different plan at our school. We insist that parents throw everything they have in our great rotunda and allow the school to take what it needs."

"That would be a fair way of doing it," I said.

"Parents think we make money on $75,000 tuition. There is no way we can get in the black by filling our classrooms," the president said. "We don't even make a profit on Shakespeare."

"What do you make money on?" I asked.

"Towing students' cars away. If it weren't for our police tow-away program we would never have been able to construct a new science building."

The final person I spoke to was a football player attending a great Texas university.

"How do you feel about a college education costing $75,000?" I asked him.

"I don't think that's a lot of money to pay a linebacker. After all, we have given up a great deal to play football for our school."

"I believe you misread me. The student is expected to pay the school, not the other way around."

"Why would a college football player want to pay the school anything?" he asked.

"Perhaps to get a better education."

"I'd rather see the $75,000 go into new shoulder pads, where it belongs."

Nation

Arms talks resumed

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze resumed their talks today in an upbeat mood, raising expectations about the prospects for an arms control agreement and another superpower summit.

Shultz, at the onset of the final round of discussions, said "we've had a lot of good discussion" about an accord to scrap U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range missiles. That favorable mood, he said, was carrying over to other issues.

Contra money in bill

WASHINGTON — About $3.5 million in new humanitarian aid for Nicaragua's Contra rebels will be included in a stopgap spending bill scheduled to come before the House next week, under a tentative agreement worked out by House leaders.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, on Wednesday agreed to the request by House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois after cutting it down from the $8 million Michel had sought. Both leaders were clearing the deal with members of their parties, and sources said the exact amount was subject to change.

Textile bill faces veto

WASHINGTON — A plan to curb textile, apparel and shoe imports, fresh from gaining House approval, still faces what sponsors concede is a hard fight to win enough support to override an expected presidential veto.

"We have an uphill battle," Rep. Butler Derrick, D-S.C., said after Wednesday's 263-156 vote. "But we can do it. I'm not telling you it's going to be easy, but it's possible."

The House approval vote was well short of the two-thirds needed to overcome a presidential veto. And the administration, highly critical of the measure, made it clear an override vote would be needed if the bill is to become law anytime soon.

Hot August cost extra

WASHINGTON — Warm August weather over much of the South cost Americans an extra $154 million for air conditioning, raising this summer's excess cooling bill to more than $800 million, the government reported today.

That means that the typical American residence had a $100 August air conditioning bill, $3.75 above normal for the month, according to the study by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

And for the warm months of May through August, residences averaged $359.21 in air conditioning costs, $19.68 above normal, the agency said in its monthly Climate Impact Assessment.

President Reagan leads the Pledge of Allegiance during a Capitol Hill Celebration of Citizenship ceremony Wednesday conducted in conjunction with the Bicentennial of the Constitution. With the President are Stephani Petit of Bethel, Pa., and Damien Atkins of Washington, D.C.

Constitution

Texas students celebrate rights

By Associated Press

Uncle Sam competed against Ben Franklin for the best-looking character in American history award, while young delegates wrote a new constitution to address their concerns on school rules.

Texas schoolchildren joined in Wednesday's nationwide celebration of the bicentennial of the signing of the U.S. Constitution in 1787 with assemblies, costume contests and dessert.

Many students in the Lone Star State tuned in when President Reagan led the nation's schoolchildren in reciting the Pledge of Allegiance from Washington, D.C. at about 1 p.m.

School pupils across the South Plains, including the majority of Lubbock Independent School District, joined with Reagan in saying the pledge, Carolyn Goebel, an LISD administrator, said.

But for students in Jayton, the televised Pledge of Allegiance is just the beginning of a full year of activities that will be tied to the Constitution.

Throughout the year, students will be studying about the document and in the spring all the students in the district will combine for a Constitution program.

Elementary school pupils at Stephen F. Austin in Pampa started their crash course in the making of the Constitution by writing their own school constitution.

The students in this small Panhandle town lined up enthusiastically Wednesday to sign the final document, including seven articles that called for reciting the Pledge of Allegiance every day and taking pride in the school's appearance.

Delegates, like third-grader Ryan Cornelson, said he thinks their efforts will be in effect at Stephen F. Austin for another 200 years.

First-grader Danny McPherson said not only does the Pampa school need a constitution to follow but the country needs its Constitution "so we can have a government of the people. If it wasn't important, I wouldn't like it."

Students in Merkel battled to see who most closely resembled some of history's most important people.

Characters from the founding fathers to Civil War generals to Challenger astronauts attended school in this town eight miles outside of Abilene to show their true American spirit.

World

Europe observes date

LONDON — As the United States celebrates the 200th anniversary of the signing of its Constitution today, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is helping launch a drive to save Benjamin Franklin's run-down house in London.

Elsewhere in Europe, talk shows and newspaper and magazine articles discussed the Constitution and its crises, and U.S. embassies arranged seminars on constitutional topics to mark the anniversary.

MIA messages floated

NAKHON PHANOM, Thailand — A group of Americans seeking U.S. prisoners of war in Indochina today floated plastic bags down a river with messages offering $2.4 million to defectors who bring POWs with them.

The seven Americans, led by former U.S. Rep. Bill Hendon, R-N.C., had wanted to send 2,500 balloons over the Mekong River into Laos today and Friday. But a dozen policemen detained them when they arrived in the border town of Nakhon Phanom, 375 miles northeast of Bangkok.

"This river goes for 700 miles to the ocean. It passes through Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam, the very countries where our men are being held," said Elizabeth Stewart, a Washington, D.C., attorney whose father was shot down in Indochina 21 years ago.

Enemy tactics blamed

MOSCOW — The Kremlin's No. 2 man said Wednesday the Soviet Union's opponents are trying to stop its reform program by encouraging nationalism among Soviet ethnic groups.

Yegor Ligachev, the Communist Party propaganda chief who ranks second only to Mikhail S. Gorbachev, told a special conference of senior media and propaganda officials that Soviet opponents are changing and unifying their tactics, the Tass news agency said.

Adviser leaves Cabinet

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino announced today that her closest adviser, Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, was leaving the Cabinet, but said the government would "hold fast" to ideals he represents.

Arroyo's removal was long demanded by business executives and military groups, including one that led a bloody aborted coup on Aug. 28. The military claimed Arroyo was sympathetic to Communist rebels, a charge he denied.

The announcement came after Mrs. Aquino met with Gaston Sigur, U.S. assistant secretary of state for East Asia and Pacific affairs.

Area briefs

Power plant topic at meeting High school class to reunite

Texas' first nuclear power plant, Comanche Peak, which was begun in 1974 after years of intensive research is now in its final stages of construction. The plant was spotlighted at the Desk & Derrick Club meeting Sept. 14. Since its inception, safety for people and environment has been the key consideration.

Mrs. Don (Cheryl) Stevens, customer operations supervisor for TU Electric, prefaced her description of the plant with color slides of "The Wild Flowers of Somervell County." The slides showed the abundance of natural beauty in the area in which the nuclear-fuel steam electric generating station is located.

Stevens said major owners of Comanche Peak are Dallas Power & Light Co., Texas Electric Service Co., and Texas Power and Light Co. She observed that electric utilities recognized that economic alternatives to oil and natural gas generating fuels had to be explored because of global energy problems. Central to the facility are two immense reactors housed in concrete and steel buildings with wall thickness of 4 1/2 feet and foundations 12 feet thick. The first reactor is essentially complete, said Stevens, and the second one is 90 percent complete.

Both units which are expected to be ready in 1989, will employ some 480 employees to operate the facility. Total capacity will be 2.3 million kilowatts, sufficient power for a city 1 1/2 times the size of Fort Worth.

Stevens is a graduate of East Carolina University, with majors in housing and political science. She is a member of the Permian Basin Private Industry Council.

Mrs. Marvin (Margaret) Wise, president, conducted the business meeting. She, as delegate, and Mrs. Paul (Charlotte) Sheedy, as alternate, will attend the Association of Desk & Derrick Club's convention today and Friday in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. Laura Gerac of Houston and Mrs. Rodney (Donnette) Phillips were guests.

Recognition day to be observed

American Business Women's Day, a day Americans can recognize the achievements of over 50 million employed women in the United States, was initiated in 1982. This day provides the opportunity to recognize the many contributions by working women, said Deloris Albert, ways and means chairman.

After extensive efforts by the members of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) a congressional joint resolution was passed creating a national observance day on Sept. 22. President Reagan signed the resolution on July 9, 1983, said Albert.

Two chapters are located in Big Spring, the Cactus Chapter, and the Scenic Chapter, which has awarded two $300 scholarships for the fall semester, she added.

The Scenic Chapter will observe the day by having a fashion show, featuring the working women's mode of dress from the 1940s to the 1980s, said Albert.

This event will be conducted in room 101 at the Permian Building Sunday at 2 p.m. All employed women are invited to attend to learn more about ABWA. Refreshments will be served.

The Scenic Chapter will have a concession booth at the Fair Sept. 21-26 to raise funds for scholarships to help women further their education, said Albert.

A national non-partisan educational association, ABWA is dedicated to bringing together business women of diverse backgrounds. And to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition, said Albert.

The Association has more than 112,000 members and 2,100 chapters throughout the United States and Puerto Rico, she added.

If any women would like more information they may attend the event sponsored by the Scenic Chapter or call Deloris Albert at 263-4253, or Chapter President Pearl Nason at 267-7689.

Wife sleeps too close for comfort

DEAR ABBY: I got married three months ago to a wonderful lady. I am 31 and she's 26. The problem: She insists on sleeping in the same space that I sleep in. I thought it was kind of cute at first, but now I am annoyed. She practically sleeps on top of me. I can't sleep with somebody touching me, let alone using me as a human pillow. She says she's not able to sleep any other way.

I have tried everything including begging and pleading; I've pushed her to one side of the bed only to wake up later with her on top of me again. I've tried cuddling with her until she falls asleep, then moving to another bed, but she awakens and comes over to join me. She kept on my arm one night and it was nearly useless for two full days!

We've had numerous arguments about this. I asked her what she did when she was single. She said she slept alone because she had to, and does not intend to sleep alone now that she has a man to sleep with — correction — sleep on.

If this keeps up, I may have to rent a motel room to get a good night's sleep.

What a way to start a marriage! I love her, but wonder if this woman needs some psychiatric attention. What do you think?

SLEEPLESS IN PALO ALTO

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Nowhere is carved in stone that, once married, a person must give up his/her right to a good night's sleep to please the other. Your bride appears to be spoiled, selfish and immature. Buy her an inflatable life-sized man to sleep on, and stand your ground. And yes, she does need counseling if she can't compromise.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a three-person office. My two co-workers like the temperature "cool." However, what they consider "cool" is too cold for me. Consequently they are always switching the thermostat to regulate the temperature to suit themselves.

Today my fingers were so cold I had to put gloves on (Ever try to type with gloves, Abby?) I complained to the boss, and he said, "If you are cold, put a sweater on — the other two workers are more valuable to me."

Any suggestions?

ONE AGAINST TWO
DEAR ONE: Now that you know how you rate with your boss, you have two choices: Dress for Siberia or find another job.

DEAR ABBY: About 55 years ago, Will Rogers said: "What's the matter with this country? No country ever had more, and no country ever had less. Ten men in our country could buy the whole continent of North America, and 10 million can't buy enough to eat."

FRAN KROIS, ST. PAUL, MINN.

DEAR FRAN: Nothing is the matter with this country. It's the distribution that's out of whack. So what else is new?

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset I can hardly see to write this. Our son is 19 years old, and for the last two years he's been going with a girl (she's 18), and this little snip has been leading him around by his nose!

Our son has always had a mind of his own, was very popular and had a lot of friends, but since this girl came into the picture, he is putty in her hands. He's dropped all of his friends. He just goes to school, then to work, and spends every minute he can with her.

Is this a sick relationship or what? And what can I do to make him see the light?

HIS MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Nothing, so please don't try. If you interfere, you'll only drive him closer to the girl.

Ride it out. Maybe she's what your son needs at this time of his life. In any case, don't blame the girl. Your son is responsible for his own behavior.

DEAR ABBY: Over the Memorial Day weekend, we had a family picnic. The sun was shining, kids were running around, a softball game was being played in the backyard, and you could smell the chicken cooking on the grill. Then, all of a sudden, a 76-year-old aunt who was sitting at the picnic table gasped for breath and passed out. She had had a heart attack!

Everybody panicked, but, thank God, my nephew, Michael Bruns, who is a Boy Scout, knew how to give CPR, so while everybody else stood around in a daze, this 15-year-old kid saved a woman's life. Of course we called the paramedics, but at least someone knew what to do before they arrived.

After that ordeal, my husband and I decided to learn CPR. We had thought about it, but like so many others, we never got around to it.

If you publish this, it might wake up a few readers.

Auxiliary to meet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of World War I Barracks 1474 met in regular session Sept. 12 at Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center, 2805 Lynn Dr.

Local delegates representing Big Spring presented their reports on the national convention conducted in Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 23-27.

They reported on the changes to be made in the Constitution and by-laws governing the organizations, as announced by Helen Arnold, national president, of Ohio. She advised the new handbooks will be available about December or earlier.

Further information will be published in the "Torch," the veterans national newspaper.

Memorial services were conducted in memory of Louise Simpson, long-time member who passed away recently.

Messages from the state and national presidents were read.

Cake and coffee was served to patients of the Veterans Administration Medical Center Aug. 25.

The auxiliary meets at the Kentwood Center on the second Saturday of each month at 10:45 a.m.

Speak where the Bible speaks, be silent where it is silent. Teach and live by the way God has given in His word and that alone. The real cause of religious division has always been a lessening of respect for the Bible and an attitude of skepticism in the written word of God. The real question has always been one of Bible authority. The restoration of the church we read of in the Inherent New Testament must be the objective of every church or person that seeks to please God, not as revealed in a tradition or man-made doctrine. Matt. 15:3,6,9. "But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition? And honour not his father or his mother, he shall be free. Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition. But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." God would have us to always recognize and submit only to his authority (Gal. 1:6-12; II John 9-11; Matt. 28:18). It thus follows that it will be enough only when we restore the ethical teachings of Jesus, the doctrinal accuracy, and the spiritual likeness of Christ as is given in the New Testament.

Early delegates picturesque in personalities

By Ron Boyd
Dallas Times Herald Bureau
DALLAS — The Constitution may not be the most tantalizing subject in the world, but the 55 delegates who drafted it 200 years ago certainly were a colorful lot.

If today's scandal-relishing press been around that scorching summer in Philadelphia, no doubt headlines about the meanderings and eccentricities of the framers would have threatened the very birth of federalism.

Just who were these men who gave us union without consolidation and liberty without license? The delegates came from 10 states. More than half were lawyers and a quarter were large landowners. All held public office, 42 as congressmen, seven as governors and eight as judges.

Naturally, there were no blacks, women, Indians or gays, as far as we know. The idea of the Constitution's applying to anyone but landed, white gentlemen had yet to appear above the political horizon.

What follows is a collection of facts, quotes and anecdotes about the men who gave us a more perfect, but not entirely perfect union:

Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania was perhaps the closest to being the Gary Hart of his day. Considered by many the most brilliant man at the convention, he possessed an irresistible charm and commanding mastery of the English language.

Morris had a crippled arm and a wooden leg, but his wit and audacity made him the most accomplished womanizer at the convention.

Once when Morris boasted he was afraid of no one, Alexander Hamilton challenged him to go up to the nation's revolutionary hero George Washington and slap him on the back as he was known to do to other delegates.

Hamilton lost the bet, but Morris told friends he feared he was the bigger loser as Washington had said nothing, but turned and gave him a cold stare not unlike that now on Mount Rushmore.

When it got down to the nuts and bolts of the convention, only five men devoted themselves to editing and rewriting the Constitution.

While the other delegates skipped town for a vacation in late July and early August, these devoted intellectuals hammered out the words that later would guide the destiny of the world's most powerful nation.

The five were James Wilson, the brilliant governmental theorist from Pennsylvania; John Rutledge, the South Carolina lawyer who studied in London and unsuccessfully pressed for a system where the power would be concentrated in a few; Nathaniel Gorham, a skilled parliamentarian who served as president of the Confederation Congress and speaker of the Massachusetts Assembly; Oliver Ellsworth, a practical-minded Connecticut lawyer; and Edmund Randolph, the young governor of Virginia.

Despite his leading contributions to the constitutional debate, James Madison of Virginia was regarded lightly as "Thomas Jefferson's office boy" by fellow delegates. His place in history was assured, however, when he later became president of the United States.

Luther Martin of Maryland probably was the best argument delegates had for denying universal rights. An overbearing, boorish and argumentative lout by many accounts, Martin talked incessantly, leaving fellow delegates "fatigued and disgusted," as one delegate remembered.

Martin, who arrived a few weeks late for the convention, was known to tip a brandy or two and frequently would engage in "tavern harangues" with his colleagues.

A CELEBRATION OF CITIZENSHIP

The bumpkin award went to Roger Sherman of Connecticut, an awkwardly large man with an idiosyncratic speech and an unsophisticated manner.

While delegates scoffed at this shoemaker-turned-judge behind his back, almost everyone gave Sherman credit for coming up with the great compromise of electing representatives to the House based on population and senators by equal representation to all the states.

Finally, William Pierce of Georgia had to leave the convention when it was about half over, but his profiles of the other delegates have become a part of history. Of Pennsylvania's Benjamin Franklin, he wrote: "Dr. Franklin is well known to be the greatest physiognomist of the present age. The very heavens obey him, and the clouds yield up their lightning to be imprisoned in his rod. But what claim he has to the politician, posterity must determine.

"It is certain he does not shine much in public Council — he is no speaker, nor does he seem to let politics engage his attention. He is, however, a most extraordinary man, and tells a story in a style more engaging than anything I ever heard. He is 82 years old, and possesses the activity of mind equal to a youth of 25 years of age."

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 3, 1987

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 104 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide a guarantee for the Texas grain warehouse self-insurance fund. The guarantee of the fund may not exceed $5 million, and when the fund reaches $5 million, the guarantee will cease. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to provide for the surety of a grain warehouse fund to be established by the grain industry for the protection of farmers and depositors of grain in public warehouse facilities."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 60 proposes a constitutional amendment to permit rural fire prevention districts in counties with populations over 400,000 to levy a tax at a rate not to exceed six cents ($.06) per $100 property valuation for the district, if the voters of the district approve the tax.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to raise the maximum property tax rate that may be adopted by certain rural fire prevention districts, but only if approved by the districts' residents."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 48 proposes a constitutional amendment to extend the school ad valorem tax exemption for elderly persons to the surviving spouse of a person receiving the exemption. If a surviving spouse is at least 55 years old at the time of death of the person receiving the exemption, ad valorem public school taxes could not be increased as long as the homestead remained the residence homestead of the surviving spouse.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to limit school tax increases on the residence homestead of the surviving spouse of an elderly person if the surviving spouse is at least 55 years of age."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to create programs and make loans and grants of money for development and diversification of the economy, elimination of unemployment and underemployment, stimulation of agricultural innovation, promotion of agricultural enterprises, and development of transportation and commerce. Bonds or other obligations payable from ad valorem taxes must be approved by the voters in the political subdivision seeking such funding sources.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide assistance to encourage economic development in the state."

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 65 proposes a constitutional amendment to permit the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation to contract with the Texas Turnpike Authority and to contribute money to the costs of turnpikes, toll roads and toll bridges of the Authority. The amendment would authorize the governing body of a county with a population over 400,000, a county adjoining such county, and any city or district located in or partially in such county to make agreements with the Texas Turnpike Authority and levy ad valorem taxes to pay part or all of the principal and interest on Turnpike Authority bonds and to pay maintenance and operating expenses of the Turnpike Authority, if the voters approve the tax.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing agreements between the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the Texas Turnpike Authority and the governing bodies of counties with a population of more than 400,000, adjoining counties, and cities and districts located in those counties to aid turnpikes, toll roads, and toll bridges by guaranteeing bonds issued by the Texas Turnpike Authority."

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to establish three separate development funds. A Texas product development fund could be established to aid in the development and production of new or improved products in the state. The amendment would authorize the issuance of up to $15 million of general obligation bonds to provide initial funding for the program. A Texas small business incubator fund could be established to foster and stimulate the development of small businesses in the state. Small businesses operating under the program would be exempt from ad valorem taxation. The amendment would authorize the issuance of up to $10 million in general obligation bonds to provide initial funding for the program. A Texas agricultural fund could be established to promote the production, processing and marketing of agricultural products produced primarily in Texas by small Texas agricultural businesses. The amendment would authorize the issuance of general obligation bonds in the amount of $100 million outstanding at one time to carry out the agricultural fund program. The legislature could require review and approval of the issuance of bonds and the use of bond proceeds.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for state financing of the development and production of Texas products and businesses."

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 55 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to provide for the issuance of $400 million in general obligation bonds to be used for loans to local governments for acquisition, construction, repair, renovation, and equipment of public facilities or for grants to local governments for planning public facilities. The amendment would also permit the issuance of revenue bonds for the same purposes to be repaid from excess revenue from repayments of loans made under the amendment and from other revenues pledged to the retirement of revenue bonds. The amendment also authorizes the legislature to provide for review and approval of the issuance of the bonds and the use of the bond proceeds.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds to finance certain local public facilities."

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 56 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to provide for the issuance of up to $500 million in general obligation bonds to be used to acquire, construct, and equip new correctional institutions and mental health and mental retardation institutions or to repair existing institutions. The amendment also authorizes the legislature to provide for review and approval of the issuance of the bonds and the projects to be financed by the bond proceeds.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds for projects relating to corrections institutions and mental health and mental retardation facilities."

PROPOSITION NO. 9 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 9 proposes a constitutional amendment to provide that a state legislator is eligible to serve in another state office even if the compensation of the office was increased during his legislative term or even if the appointment is made in whole or in part (including Senate confirmation) by the legislature. The legislator could not, however, receive the increased compensation approved during his legislative term.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to provide that a member of the legislature is eligible to be elected or appointed and to serve in a different state office but may not receive an increase in compensation granted to that office during the legislative term to which he was elected."

PROPOSITION NO. 10 ON THE BALLOT
 Subsections (d) and (e) of Section 1 of Senate Joint Resolution 12 propose a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxation all tangible personal property except structures which are used as residential dwellings and property held or used for the production of income. This exemption would be in addition to the personal property homestead exemption already established by the constitution. If the legislature authorizes the exemption of additional personal property from taxation, under this amendment, local political subdivisions may pass resolutions providing for taxation of such property unless the property is exempt from ad valorem taxation under another law.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxation certain personal property not held or used for the production of income."

PROPOSITION NO. 11 ON THE BALLOT
 Section 1, Subsections (f) and (g) of Senate Joint Resolution 12 propose a constitutional amendment to exempt from ad valorem taxation goods, wares, merchandise, and ores other than oil, gas and petroleum products. These items would be exempt from taxation only if they originated outside the state and were located in the state for a period of 175 days or less for purposes of assembly, storage, manufacture, processing, or fabrication. Such property could be taxed by a county, school district, or municipality if the governing body of the political subdivision took official action to provide for the taxation of the items while they were located in the political subdivision. If the governing body of a political subdivision took official action to tax the items before January 1, 1988, the tax would be effective for the 1988 tax year. If the action were taken after January 1, 1988, and before April 1, 1988, the tax would become effective January 1, 1989.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment providing for the exemption from ad valorem taxation of certain property that is located in the state for only a temporary period of time."

PROPOSITION NO. 12 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 35 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow a married couple to agree in writing that all or part of their community property will become the property of the surviving spouse if one spouse dies.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment permitting spouses to hold community property with right of survivorship."

PROPOSITION NO. 13 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 27 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the creation of special districts to provide emergency services. The commissioners court in a county participating in a district could, upon approval of the voters, levy an ad valorem tax of up to ten cents ($.10) per $100 valuation of the property located in the district.

 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to allow for the creation and establishment, by law, of special districts to provide emergency services."

PROPOSITION NO. 14 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 34 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the state a limited right to appeal criminal cases. Under current law, only criminal defendants are allowed to appeal. This proposed amendment would allow the legislature to pass laws granting state prosecutors the right to appeal in limited circumstances.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment giving the state a limited right to appeal in criminal cases."

PROPOSITION NO. 15 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 35 proposes a constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county treasurer in Gregg County and transfer the duties of that office to the county auditor or an elected official designated by the commissioners court. The amendment would also abolish the office of county treasurer in Fayette and Nueces counties if a majority of the voters in those counties vote in favor of the amendment. In Fayette County, the functions of the treasurer would be transferred to the county auditor or the officer succeeding to the auditor's functions. In Nueces County, the powers, duties, and functions of the treasurer would be transferred to the county clerk.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to provide for the abolition of the office of county treasurer in Gregg, Fayette, and Nueces counties."

PROPOSITION NO. 16 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 6 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the commissioners court in a county with a population of more than 150,000 to establish more than one Justice of the Peace court in each Justice of the Peace precinct, i.e., to provide for the election of more than one Justice of the Peace in each Justice of the Peace precinct.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment providing that certain justice precincts may contain more than one justice of the peace court."

PROPOSITION NO. 17 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 26 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to define by law those municipal functions that are governmental and those that are proprietary. This authorization would apply to laws passed by the 70th Legislature, 1987, and by future legislatures in regular or special session. A municipality is liable for damages arising out of acts committed under its proprietary functions, but not its governmental functions. Definition of such functions by the legislature would clarify the liability of a municipality in civil lawsuits filed against it.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to define for all purposes the governmental and proprietary functions of a municipality."

PROPOSITION NO. 18 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 18 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to provide for the creation, operation, and financing of jail districts. Financing of a jail district could be accomplished through the issuance of bonds and other obligations, or by levy of an ad valorem tax on property located in the district if the qualified electors of a district approve an ad valorem tax or bonds secured by a property tax.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment relating to the creation, operation, and financing of jail districts."

PROPOSITION NO. 19 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 88 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the issuance of $500 million in general obligation bonds, the proceeds of which will be used to establish a superconducting super collider fund. The fund would be used to provide economic incentives for the superconducting super collider research facility, and the agency administering the fund would be authorized to grant land or property to the United States government for undertakings related to the facility.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds to fund undertakings related to a superconducting super collider research facility sponsored or authorized by the United States government, and to make appropriate grants for such undertakings."

PROPOSITION NO. 20 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 96 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide ad valorem tax relief for mobile offshore oil and gas well drilling equipment. The tax relief would be limited to equipment that is being stored while not in use in a county that is adjacent to the Gulf of Mexico or on a body of water that is adjacent to the Gulf of Mexico.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to provide ad valorem tax relief for certain offshore drilling equipment that is not in use."

PROPOSITION NO. 21 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 17 proposes a constitutional amendment to provide for legislative involvement in the executive branch of government by permitting the legislature to include the speaker of the house of representatives in the membership of an agency or committee that includes officers of the executive branch of government and performs executive functions. Under current law, the legislature is not allowed to exercise any powers in executive matters under Article II of the Texas Constitution, which provides for the "separation of powers" into three distinct departments.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to include the speaker of the house of representatives or the speaker's appointee in the membership of an executive agency or committee."

PROPOSITION NO. 22 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 53 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to limit the term of office of a gubernatorial appointee to a vacancy in a state or district office to a partial, temporary term if the appointment is made on or after November 1 of the last year of the governor's term and the governor is not reelected. Under this amendment, the legislature may provide that the tenure of such an appointee would end sooner than the term would normally expire.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to limit the authority of a governor to fill vacancies in state and district offices during the end of the governor's term if the governor is not reelected."

PROPOSITION NO. 23 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 54 proposes a constitutional amendment to authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue an additional $400 million in water development bonds. Of the $400 million authorized, $200 million would be designated for conservation and development of water resources, $150 million would be designated for water quality enhancement, and $50 million would be designated for flood control. The amendment also authorizes the legislature to provide for review and approval of the issuance of the bonds and the use of the bond proceeds.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize the issuance of an additional $400 million of Texas Water Development Bonds for water supply, water quality, and flood control purposes."

PROPOSITION NO. 24 ON THE BALLOT
 House Joint Resolution 83 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow a county to use county equipment and personnel to perform work, without compensation, for another governmental entity if the commissioners court finds that the work will not interfere with the performance of county work and approves performance of the work. The governmental entity must be located wholly or partly in the county, and the governing body of the governmental entity must file a written work request with the commissioners court.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment to permit a county to perform work, without compensation, for another governmental entity."

PROPOSITION NO. 25 ON THE BALLOT
 Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to authorize Randall County to levy a tax for the benefit of the Amarillo Hospital District. Any such tax could be levied only on property located outside the City of Amarillo and outside the South Randall County Hospital District. The tax could not be more than 75¢ per $100 property valuation and would be effective only upon approval by the voters in the area to be taxed. If the tax is authorized by the Legislature and approved by voters, the Amarillo Hospital District is to serve residents of part of Randall County. If a tax is levied under this provision, Randall County must repay the State for the cost of publication of this amendment.
 The proposed amendment also permits the legislature to authorize a hospital district to change its boundaries or jurisdiction if the district was created or authorized by a constitutional provision that includes a description of the boundaries or jurisdiction of the district. Any change in the boundaries or jurisdiction of such a hospital district would become effective only upon approval of the voters in the district.
 The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to permit the Amarillo Hospital District to serve certain residents of Randall County, to authorize Randall County to provide financial assistance to the district, and to authorize certain hospital districts to change their boundaries or jurisdiction with voter approval."

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT FOR STATEWIDE REFERENDUM NO. 1
 Senate Bill 86 submits to the voters the question of whether the 15 members of the State Board of Education should be appointed instead of elected. If the proposition passes, the Governor will appoint a member of the board for each district, with the consent of the Senate. If the proposition fails, the members will be elected from these districts.
 The referendum will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The State Board of Education shall be composed of members who are appointed from districts instead of elected, with equal representation throughout the State of Texas."

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT FOR STATEWIDE REFERENDUM NO. 2
 The Texas Racing Act submits to the voters the question of whether pari-mutuel wagering should be legal in Texas on a county-by-county local option basis. If pari-mutuel wagering is adopted by the voters statewide, a county must also pass a separate proposition on pari-mutuel wagering at an election held in the county before any such wagering may be conducted in that county.
 The referendum will appear on the ballot as follows:
 "The legalization of pari-mutuel wagering under the Texas Racing Act on a county-by-county local option basis."

Pork awards

Lobbyists name Wright 'prize porker' for spending policy

WASHINGTON — A conservative lobbying group on Tuesday named House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the prize porkers in Congress when it comes to hogging taxpayer's dollars for projects in their own districts, a practice known as "pork barreling."

Citizens for America, a group founded in 1983 to support President Reagan's fiscal agenda, held a news conference on the Capitol lawn to announce its first "Pork Barrel" awards.

A spokesman for Wright dismissed the award as "fraternity stuff" and not worth honoring with an official comment.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Dallas area Republican Reps. Steve Bartlett and Dick Army, were in hog heaven, however, as three of the 125 congressmen named to the "Taxpayer Hall of Fame" and labeled "true friends of the taxpayer" by the conservative group.

"I have always been acutely aware that when politicians talk about bringing home the bacon, they're talking about bacon that comes from the smokehouses of the American taxpayer — the people I am trying most to represent," Gramm said.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was not amused that he was one of the 232 congressmen named to the "Taxpayer Hall of Shame" for being a "shameless big spender." Reps. Martin Frost and John Bryant, both Dallas Democrats, did not make the hall of shame but received a "three pig" rating out of a possible four.

Bentsen, who received the maximum four-swine rating in the group's 35-page "pig book," said the Reagan administration has stopped trying to make real spending cuts and that the pork-barrel awards are just a "smoke screen" to conceal that fact from the American people.

"They're scraping the bottom of the barrel for this political gimmick," Bentsen said.

As part of the conservative group's self-proclaimed "Pig Week," each senator and House member was rated on his or her voting record during the last congressional session on such big-ticket items as the Clean Water Act and the 1988 budget. Based on that record, the lawmakers were awarded a certain number of CFA Pigs, which are a caricature of a grinning pig standing in a large barrel, in the book.

In addition, Pork E. (for excess) Pig was on hand to award Wright and Byrd with "Congressional Excess Cards," a parody on American Express credit cards, because of their supposed willingness to increase the federal debt with what the conservative group termed excessive spending.

After the news conference, the costumed pig tried to deliver the Congressional Excess cards to Wright and Byrd but was barred from admission to the Capitol by security guards.

Other Texas congressmen who were given four-pig ratings and inducted into the so-called hall of shame were Democrats Jack Brooks of Beaumont, J. J. (Jake) Pickle of Austin, Kika de la Garza of Mission, Ron Coleman of El Paso, Mickey Leland of Houston, Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio, Albert Bustamante of San Antonio and Solomon Ortiz of Corpus Christi.

Other Texas congressman inducted into the group's hall of fame because they received a "no pig" rating were Democrat Ralph Hall of Rockwall and Republicans Joe Barton of Ennis, Bill Archer of Houston, Jack Fields of Humble, Beau Bolter of Amarillo, Mac Sweeney of Lubbock, Larry Combest of Lubbock, Lamar Smith of San Antonio and Tom DeLay of Sugar Land.

Academia

John Hatch, son of Buddy and Ann Duncan, 2504 Lynn, recently earned a degree in political science with a minor in management from Texas A&M University in College Station.

The degree was awarded during summer commencement exercises.

During his college career, Hatch served as President of the Texas State Student Association and President of Aggie Democrats.

He was awarded the Buck Weirus Spirit Award and outstanding freshman and sophomore in his Corps of Cadets squadron.

He is employed by Garry Mauro, Texas land commissioner.

Thursday Notes

By Eddie Curran

Bad news first

We begin the Notes with a few items to be filed under Bad News:

Ken Coffey, the former Big Spring Steers and Southwest Texas State standout, was cut by the Washington Redskins early last week. Coffey played five years for the Redskins. During that span, the Redskins were the winningest team in pro football.

Coffey, who wears a Super Bowl ring, is living with his wife Brenda and his seven month old daughter Chelsea in Great Falls, Virginia.

Coffey's mother, Emma Gene Coffey, of Abilene, said she talked with her son last night.

According to her, Coffey has talked with the Rams and the 49ers, though nothing has yet come of it. Nevertheless, her son is not waiting around.

Coffey has his business degree from Southwest Texas State, and also has a brokers license. Now, the former Steer is busy studying for the LSAT, the test necessary for entrance into law school.

Mrs. Coffey said Ken's spirits are "really good, very good. And so are mine." She said her son called the day he was cut so she wouldn't get the surprise from the newspaper.

"He was more or less surprised. He thought it was ironic that he would be cut on Labor Day, which it happened to be," she said.

Mrs. Coffey sounded very happy, and said her son was preparing to move forward with his life. So maybe this doesn't need to be filed under Bad News.

A more recent Big Spring graduate, Jay Burcham, hurt his knee in a high school all-star game this summer, and it turned out to be worse than he first thought.

Abilene Christian defensive coordinator Jerry Wilson said the knee was bothering Burcham during drills in August, and it gave way on the first day in full pads. At first, the injury was thought to be serious, but last Wednesday Burcham had arthroscopic surgery, and the doctors discovered he just had some "scuffed" cartilage in the knee.

Wilson said Burcham is on an exercise program, and will return to the doctor in two weeks.

"It's looking with this much time, that the possibility of red-shirting Jay is as high as 50 percent. He could have played some this year. He's that good of a football player and he's a great young man.

"We wouldn't trade him for (Mean) Joe Greene," Wilson said.

*****

The last, I promise last, piece of bad news. Paige Clawson, the Big Spring Lady Steers' all-district point-guard of last year, has transferred to Novice, reported Lady Steers' coach E.C. Carmichael.

Carmichael said Clawson's father will be the boys and girls basketball coach at Novice. Novice is a small, six-man football school in Central Texas.

*****

Now, some good news. Randy Odom, a forward on the Steers' basketball team last year, has received a athletic scholarship to play basketball at Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Missouri. SBU is an NCAA Division II school.

Randy, the son of Bruce and Janice Odom, earned his scholarship at a summer tryout. Because of his late signing, Odom will be red-shirted this year.

Steers begin district play

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

If a week's practice sessions are indicative of the Big Spring Steers performances that Friday night, the Steers will live up to their predicted 16-point edge over the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs, which was bestowed upon them by the Harris Poll.

Last week, Steers' coach Quinn Eudy said his team had excellent workouts. The Steers went on to upset highly-ranked Lubbock Estacado 18-13. This week Eudy said workouts have been equally as good, which might mean a long night for the Chiefs.

"Last week the kids made up their minds to play well. Their practice habits were very good," said Eudy. "This week practices have been real good. The better you practice the better you play."

The district and home opener against the Chiefs promises to be an exciting affair, since coach Mark Gesch's Chiefs have shown a very explosive multiple offense so far.

Gesch, at 28-years-old, is one of the youngest head coaches in the state. The Lake View native served as an assistant coach for four years before becoming head coach this season.

...tough linebacker

"See, they already have the advantage on us," said the former Texas Tech offensive lineman. "Coach Eudy has so much experience on me. He's already forgot more football than I'll ever know," laughed Gesch.

...played well at DT

Lake View finished its non-district season with a 1-1 record. The Chiefs lost their season opener to Del Rio 28-13, and outscored Lubbock High 49-39 last week.

Lake View brings a highly explosive offense into the game, led by senior quarterback Eric Dumas. In last week's win over Lubbock High, the Chiefs' offense rolled up 467 yards. Dumas ran for 61 yards and passed for 70 more in the game.

But so far the big gun for the Lake View offense has been scab-back Eddie Gonzales, a 5-5, 147-pound senior. Gonzales, who's averaging 154 yards per game, rushed for 221 yards on 26 carries against Lubbock High. Fullback Kevin McKerley, a 5-7, 147-pounder, added 67 yards on the ground.

"You can see we have those big running backs," joked Gesch. When Eric (QB, Dumas, 6-1, 180) stands up, you can't see the other backs."

Despite their size, Eudy is impressed by the Lake View offense.

"Undoubtedly, Lake View has a great offense. They have a good quarterback who's better this year. He throws the ball extremely well. They do a lot of misdirection angle blocking, trying to create a lot of

Coahoma, Forsan set for Howard County Bowl II

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

When Coahoma hosts Forsan Friday night, it will be like a pair of nextdoor neighbors going to war.

To add to the intrigue, Coahoma Coach Steve Park and assistant R.L. Coates both came to Coahoma from Forsan, where they coached last year. They're friends with the Forsan coaches and the Forsan players.

As Park said, being on the other side of the field from the Buffaloes will be "a strange feeling."

Forsan coach Jan East agrees that the closeness of the two schools adds a little heat to the game.

"Our kids know each other and see each other in town, and I think that adds a little bit to the ballgame," East said.

East and Park coached together in the 70s under Norman Roberts at Coahoma. They faced off several times after East moved to Forsan and Park went to Stanton. Park joined East at Forsan in 1982, and now they're matching wits again.

Because he coached there, Park knows the Forsan offense and defense well.

"I don't know if it will help any, but I know the kids and the system. But there will be some wrinkles we'll have to get ready for," Park said.

East doesn't believe it will make much difference.

"I pretty well know what he's going to do and he knows what I'm going to do, so it's just a matter of lining up and playing football. Unless one or the other of us adds a trick play, it's pretty much cut and dried," East said.

Last year, in the inaugural Howard County Bowl, the Buffaloes whipped the Bulldogs 38-14. But the Bulldogs, who didn't win a game last season, appear much improved.

Transfer Matt Rowell has provided the Bulldogs with one of the area's top running threats, and the Coahoma defense has allowed just 13 points in two games.

Rowell ran for 193 yards in the opening win over Seminole, but a stingy Stanton defense allowed him just 34 yards in last week's 10-0 win over the Bulldogs.

Coahoma may have had a let-down against Stanton. If so, it's time to get back up. The Buffaloes, always a playoff contender, won't be taking any prisoners if the Bulldogs show up flat like they did against Stanton.

"We've got to get some blocking and get some offense and play better defense too," Park said. "Our offensive line is going to be the key to whether we can generate some offense. We've worked hard this week to do a better job of blocking."

"They (Forsan) have a good running game and a good passing game, and we're going to have to play total defense. We need to be up for this ballgame because the district starts next week and it's a good ballgame for us to get ready for district," Park said.

The Buffaloes' running game improved dramatically from the opening win over Roscoe to last week's 28-14 throttling of Plains. In the opener, Forsan gained just 63 yards on the ground.

Last Friday, however, Stacey Munoz exploded for 134 yards rushing and John Roman added 133 more. Both were career highs.

"It made me feel a whole lot better the way we ran the ball, but Coahoma will be tougher against the run."

"But we won't hesitate to throw the ball. I have confidence in our passing game," East said.

With Brant Nichols, a three-year starter, at quarterback, East has good reason to have confidence in his air game.

On defense, East thinks the key is stopping Rowell.

Coahoma Bulldogs' wide receiver Donnie Paige turns upfield after catching a pass against the Stanton Buffaloes last Friday night in Coahoma's 10-0 loss to Stanton. The Bulldogs will take on the Forsan Buffaloes in Howard County Bowl II Friday.

"He's a good running back. When he moved in it gave them a pretty good threat. We're emphasizing stopping the run this week in practice," he said.

Though Coahoma will have the home field advantage, it doesn't mean as much in this game. The stands on both sides will be packed. There will be a lot of noise no matter what happens.

Howard County Bowl II should be very interesting.

One year away

'88 Olympics could be bleak for Americans

By The Associated Press

The time of reckoning is a year away. On Sept. 17, 1988, the United States will begin its quest for Olympic glory. The Summer Games could be the beginning of a golden age, or the United States could go athletically bankrupt in Seoul.

One thing is sure. The USA will not win the 174 medals, including 83 gold, that it did in Los Angeles in 1984, when the Summer Games were boycotted by the Soviet Union and its friends.

"The L.A. medals were way out of whack," U.S. Olympic Committee spokesman Mike Moran said. "Expectations are high by the general public based on what happened in Los Angeles, and that's a false sense of security."

The United States is expected to be strong in its traditional areas — on the track and in the pool, and in basketball, gymnastics and volleyball — but boxing and baseball could provide disappointments.

While the United States has improved in many areas, including some of the minor sports, the rest of the world also is on the move.

"Everybody is catching up with everybody," Moran said.

Many veteran athletes held on long enough to compete in Los Angeles because they were denied the opportunity in 1980, when the United States boycotted the Moscow Games. A lot of those athletes — especially in gymnastics and boxing — are gone now. Other U.S. stars, such as Carl Lewis and Edwin Moses, are no longer invincible.

While the spotlight will be on the battle between the United States and Soviet Union, another power has emerged.

"The world had probably best take a long look at the East Germans," Moran said. "When you start looking at prospects for how many medals each country can win, East Germany might be the favorite."

Jays, Tigers remain tied for first

By The Associated Press
The Toronto Blue Jays and Detroit Tigers are showing they have more in common than a share of first place in the American League East for four consecutive days.

Both teams, whose 88-57 records are the best in either league, got outstanding performances from their ace pitchers and their cleanup hitters Wednesday night. Jack Morris pitched a three-hitter and Alan Trammell drove in two runs with his 26th homer and a double as the Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1.

Jimmy Key shut out the Baltimore Orioles on six hits for seven innings and George Bell knocked in two runs, giving him a major league-leading 124, as the Blue Jays blanked the Baltimore Orioles 7-0.

White Sox 13, Twins 10
Chicago swept its first three-game series from Minnesota since 1979, but the Twins stayed 3½ games in front of Oakland and Kansas City in the AL West.

Harold Baines and Ozzie Guillen led a 16-hit attack with three hits apiece for the White Sox. Baines knocked in four runs with a two-run double and a two-run homer, while Guillen had three of Chicago's seven doubles and had three RBI.

Rangers 4, Athletics 1
Texas kept Oakland from making up ground on the Twins as Charlie Hough pitched a three-hitter and Darrell Porter and Larry Parrish homered for the Rangers.

Hough, 17-11, who recorded his 11th complete game, walked three and struck out seven. Only one knuckleball got past catcher Geno Petralli, but it was his 34th passed ball of the season, a major-league record.

Oakland right-hander Dave Stewart, 19-11, failed for the second time in his bid to become the first 20-game winner in the majors. Stewart allowed five hits in eight innings.

Parrish's homer, a solo shot in the sixth, was his 31st of the season, a franchise record and a career high.

Angels 6, Royals 4
Bill Buckner had three hits and drove in two runs and Ruppert Jones had two RBI for California Angels against Kansas City.

Greg Minton, 4-2, who relieved starter Chuck Finley, benefited from Jones' RBI double in the sixth that broke a 3-3 tie against Bret Saberhagen, 17-9. DeWayne Bruce went 2 1-3 innings for his 16th save despite allowing a bases-loaded walk to George Brett in the ninth.

Brewers 5, Yankees 4
Ted Higuera pitched a six-hitter for his sixth victory in as many starts, while Glenn Braggs' seventh-inning triple broke a 4-4 tie and climaxed a three-run seventh inning against New York.

Braggs tripled off reliever Tim Stoddard, 4-3, as the Brewers rallied from a 4-2 deficit in the seventh. Stoddard's wild pitch brought in the first run of the inning, and Robin Yount added an RBI single.

American League

Mariners 5, Indians 3
Seattle beat Cleveland when Rey Quinones hit a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning.

Quinones' 11th homer, off Sammy Stewart, 4-2, followed a walk to Edgar Martinez with one out.

In the fourth inning, Cleveland's Joe Carter stole second base, his career-high 30th, to become the ninth major leaguer to reach the 30-homer, 30 stolen base plateau.

Gooden rebounds with three-hitter

By The Associated Press
Dwight Gooden followed one of his worst starts ever with what he called "the best game of my career."

On Saturday, St. Louis tagged Gooden for six runs and five hits in two innings to send him to his earliest exit in 120 career starts.

Gooden returned to the mound Wednesday night to beat Montreal 10-0 with a three-hitter that kept the New York Mets 1½ games behind first-place St. Louis in the National League East. The Cardinals beat Pittsburgh 8-5.

Len Dykstra hit a grand slam and Darryl Strawberry added a two-run homer to support Gooden.

Gooden, 14-6, struck out 11 and walked two as he pitched his sixth complete game, third shutout of the year and 16th of his career. It was the 35th time in his four-year career that Gooden has struck out 10 or more batters in a game.

"I'd have to say that was the best game of my career," Gooden said.

"I had command of all my pitches, I had good velocity and I was hitting my spots."

The Mets scored three runs on wild pitches, two by Montreal starter Charlie Lea, 0-1. Lea was making his first major-league appearance in three years.

Lea, called up from the minors last Saturday, lasted only one inning and was replaced after the first two batters reached base in the second.

Lea, who missed all of 1985 and 1986 while recovering from a torn rotator cuff, gave up four runs on four hits.

Dykstra capped the scoring when he homered with the bases loaded in the eighth against Bob Sebra to give the Mets a 10-0 lead.

Finally, a small clarification. Every Friday, Herald Sports Editor Steve Belvin and myself put together our Friday Forecast. He picks half the games, I do the other half, and we take turns doing the different area teams.

It was Steve, not I, who picked Forsan to lose to Plains. I just wanted to make that known. Personally, I thought the pick was extremely foolish, and said so from the start. I can't plead such ignorance with respect to the Steers game. Both Steve and I, having momentarily lost the faith, picked Estacado. I may add, however, that we were all too happy to lose that one.

I leave you with a few choice words from the Almighty Belvin:

"The Buffs will fall behind early and Brant Nichols will key a comeback, but it will be too little, too late. This game will wake the Buffs up — it's one of our upset specials of the week. Plains 21, Forsan 20."

Actually, the score was Forsan 28, Plains 14.

Boone sets durability record

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Call it durability, call it toughness — California Angels' Bob Boone set a record with it.

Boone crouched down behind the plate Wednesday night against the Kansas City Royals in his 1,919th game as a catcher, breaking the record for games caught set by Hall of Famer Al Lopez.

with-pain Boone a sense of history. "The number is irrelevant. I don't know what the number means," he said. "I don't know where it's going to end. What is relevant to me is the last couple of years when I saw the people I passed on the top 10 or 15 on the list. All of those catchers, who were not only outstanding catchers but outstanding players

AT&T ANNOUNCES UPCOMING PRICE CHANGES FOR SOME TEXAS INTRASTATE SERVICES

AT&T announces the following price changes for some of its Texas intrastate services. These changes, which more closely reflect the actual costs incurred by AT&T in providing these services, will become effective on October 1, 1987.

- SDN (Software Defined Network) Schedule B prices will be reduced an overall 7.1%. Schedule C prices will be reduced 4.4% for the initial 30-second rate period of each call.
- WATS 80 service prices for both the initial period 80-hour usage and additional period usage will increase 5%.
- The monthly prices for AT&T's Private Line Service will increase up to $25 per channel termination for Analog services and 10% for Digital Data Services.
- A $25 monthly surcharge will also apply to any private lines which may be used to access the local exchange network, unless certified as exempt by the customer. The $25 surcharge, which was previously authorized by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, is a flow through of charges assessed by the Local Exchange Companies to AT&T for those Private Line services.

The combined effect of these price changes is expected to produce approximately $4.99 million annual revenue, which is approximately 5% of AT&T's annual revenues for all Texas intrastate services.

If you have questions regarding the changes for Private Line service, please call AT&T toll-free at 1-800-345-5092. If you have questions regarding the WATS or SDN price changes, please call our business consultants toll-free at 1-800-222-0400. AT&T's tariffs reflecting these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on August 31, 1987, with an effective date of October 1, 1987.

Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may also contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas in writing, at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or by calling the Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223, or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 for teletypewriter for the deaf.

confusion," he said.

Eudy also said he thought the Lake View defense, which Big Spring scored 33 points against last year, was better this season.

Steers' defensive coordinator Mickey Findley says the key to stopping Lake View's offense is shutting down the Chiefs' trap plays.

"We must stop their trapping game. With their offense, they trap everybody on the defensive line," he said. "They'll try to pass on us too because we have shown some weakness on our pass defense. We've got to contain Dumas and put some pressure on him. We have to do that to beat them," said Findley.

The lone defensive change for the Big Spring defense at strong safety, where David Kilgore will take over Shawn Shellman. Shellman will be limited to starting quarterback duties.

Findley praised the play of cornerback Robert Rodriguez, who did a good job of stopping Estacado's sweep. He also said that linebacker Kenneth Banks, defensive end Jason Phillips and defensive tackle Steve Raines played good games against Estacado.

For the second week Shellman will get the starting nod at quarterback. Eudy liked what he saw against Estacado.

"I was real pleased with Shellman's play. I thought he did a good job operating the team against a good defense."

Eudy is hoping for that same balanced running attack as last week, when Charles White and Bruce Jones both rushed for over 100 yards.

"That's what you want in any option type offense. We've always strived for a balanced running attack. We want to be able to use our passing game when we want to. We must play ball control, eliminate the turnovers and keep our defense off the field so it will have time to adjust and rest," said Eudy.

"I look for a defensive game. I have a lot of confidence in our defense, if we don't turn the ball over and put them in a hole," said Eudy.

"I think there will be some points scored. I would like to think that we're going to generate some offense. My kids will be pumped up and ready to play. It's a big game when you play any district opponent. And I know Big Spring will be ready to play too," said Gesch.

 Strawberry, who was hit in the ribs by a Joe Hesketh pitch in the second, was removed from the game in the fourth. He was taken to the hospital for precautionary X-rays.

"Nothing's shown up on the X-rays yet, but it may be cracked and sometimes they don't show up right away," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said. "Right now it looks like he won't play through the weekend."

Cardinals 8, Pirates 5
 Tony Pena's two-run double capped St. Louis' four-run third inning as the Cardinals beat Pittsburgh at Three Rivers Stadium.

John Tudor, 29, survived two solo home runs by Mike Diaz and was relieved by Ken Dayley in the eighth inning. Tudor is 5-1 since coming off the disabled list July 30 after breaking a bone in his right knee in April.

Two Cardinals — Jack Clark and Willie McGee — now have at least 100 RBI and Terry Pendleton has 92. The last NL teams with three 100-RBI men in a season were the 1970 Chicago Cubs and Atlanta Braves.

Giants 7, Astros 1
 Dave Dravecky pitched a four-hitter and Will Clark hit a pair of two-run homers as San Francisco beat Houston at Candlestick Park for its fifth straight victory.

The Giants took a 7 1/2-game lead over idle Cincinnati in the NL West and the third-place Astros fell 8 1/2 games behind.

Dravecky allowed three singles and Gerald Young's first major-league home run, with two outs in the sixth inning.

Phillies 8, Cubs 5
 Jeff Stone's three-run pinch double off Chicago reliever Lee Smith capped a seven-run Philadelphia seventh inning at Veterans Stadium.

Trailing 4-1, the Phillies put together their biggest inning of the season, sending 11 men to the plate and taking advantage of three straight walks by Smith, including one to Greg Gross with the bases loaded. Stone, pinch-hitting for pitcher Mike Maddux, 2-0, opened the inning with a walk.

Juan Samuel singled and Milt Thompson hit into a force play, sending Stone to third. Stone scored on Von Hayes' single, making it 4-2 and Smith, 4-10, yielded a two-run double to Mike Schmidt to tie the score.

Three walks by Smith pushed across another run, setting up Stone's double.

Padres 3, Braves 0
 Mark Grant pitched a two-hitter for his first major-league shutout and Benito Santiago extended his hitting streak to 20 games with a run-scoring single in the first inning as San Diego beat visiting Atlanta.

Grant, 7-7, acquired from San Francisco in a mid-season trade, also had a career-high nine strikeouts en route to his second complete game.

 Helsinki, the United States led with 24 medals. At the Rome world championships this month, Americans won 19 medals and came in third behind East Germany, with 31, and the Soviet Union, with 25.

The American star at the world games was Jackie Joyner-Kersey, considered the best female athlete in the world. Kersey won the heptathlon and long jump. She holds the world records in both events.

Steve Scott, America's top miler for nearly a decade, believes it will take a disaster to reverse what he sees as a decline in U.S. track and field. And that disaster "probably has to be at the Olympics, which is the only time most Americans pay much attention," he said.

In 1984 at Los Angeles, Lewis won four gold medals — in the 100 and 200 meters, the long jump and the 400 relay. But at Rome, he lost his 100-meter title to Ben Johnson of Canada. Johnson set a world record of 9.83 seconds, and he also is considering running the 200 at Seoul. Lewis might be the favorite in only one event, the long jump.

In June, the 32-year-old Moses saw a string of 122 victories in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles come to an end. He has lost twice this year and is clearly no longer unbeatable.

There is reason for some optimism. Two of the U.S. women's best, sprinter Evelyn Ashford and distance runner Mary Decker Slaney, were injured and unable to compete in Rome. At the same time, John Powell has the world's best effort in the discus this year, and Renaldo Nehemiah, given another year to prepare, could return strong in the hurdles.

Swimming & Diving
 The United States has the two best divers in the world, Greg Louganis and Kelly McCormick, while both the men and women swimming teams will be strong.

Splitting their squads in August, U.S. swimmers won 27 of 32 gold medals at the Pan American Games in Indianapolis and 24 of 32 golds at the Pan Pacific Games in Australia.

Many consider Matt Biondi the best male swimmer in the world.
 "On the men's side, we're probably No. 1 in the world," Moran said. "Our women will have to catch the East Germans."

Basketball
 The women's team won the most recent world championships and the Pan Am Games, despite missing three injured starters — Cheryl Miller, Cindy Brown and Kamie Ethridge. They will be strongly favored in Seoul.

Only slightly less favored will be the men, despite their 120-115 loss to Brazil in the Pan Am Games. Olympic Coach John Thompson of Georgetown is expected to keep just four of the Pan Am starters: David Robinson, Danny Manning, Rex Chapman and Jerome "Pooh" Richardson.

The Soviet men's team, perhaps second-best in the world, has injury problems. Among them: Arvids Sabonis, the Soviets' 7-foot-2 center, underwent surgery for the third time this year on his Achilles tendon.

Gymnastics
 Gone are Mary Lou Retton, Bart Connor, Peter Vidmar and Kathy Johnson. Like so many of the athletes disappointed by America's 1980 boycott, they hung on until 1984. They didn't hang on for '88. The rising U.S. stars are Kristie Phillips and Scott Johnson.

Phillips was upset for the all-around title at the Pan Am Games by Sabrina Mar of the United States, but the U.S. Olympic people consider that a sign of depth. Johnson was a member of the U.S. men's gold medal team in 1984, and he emerged as an individual threat at the Pan Am Games with the all-around title.

The big pre-Olympic test is coming up with the world championships next month in Munich.
 "If we're healthy, we'll win some medals," Moran said, "but whether we can repeat Los Angeles is a big question. The Soviets, Bulgarians and Romanians have a tremendous amount of talent."

Volleyball
 The men's team is the best in the world and a solid favorite to win at Seoul, while the women are regrouping.

The men have dominated international volleyball for four years, although they lost one match to Brazil en route to the Pan Am gold. The U.S. team's top player, Karch Kiraly, missed the Pan Am Games with a broken thumb.

The women, meanwhile, lost all but two of their players from the silver medal team of '84. They may compete for a medal.

Fun bands set for HC Fair

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Organizers for the entertainment at this year's Howard County Fair are excited about the shows this year.

Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys will play Saturday night, and the comedy-musical foursome Two for the Show will play Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Sonny Choate, who along with Jewel Tubb is organizing the entertainment, said Two For The Show is playing in Odessa this weekend and in Lubbock the week after Big Spring.

"We were lucky to get them. They have a variety show that is very crowd pleasing. They cut-up a lot."

"I saw them in Dallas last January and thought they were exceptional. We caught them between big engagements," Choate said.

The group's show combines comedy and pantomime with country, gospel and contemporary music.

The members have been together for 10 years and have won the "Gong Show" and other talent contests. The group is on the road all but four weeks of the year, and has opened for such big name artists as Ronnie Milsap, Conway Twitty, Marty Robbins, Box Car Willie and The Thrashers.

The group's musical numbers include a medley of Statler Brothers' classics, country rockers like "Let the Heartaches Ride," and Ray Steven's "Guitarzan."

Two For The Show will perform Wednesday through Friday at 7 and 9 p.m. daily.

Jody Nix and The Texas Cowboys will play at 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday night.

"He's a tradition," said Choate. "We didn't see how we could get by without him. He's got a whole of a following. He's got a good band and he's a good entertainer."

Choate said The Texas Cowboys have played at every Howard County Fair.

On Monday night — opening day — Shanna Fowler, last year's Howard County Fair Queen will attend this year's contest, at which her successor will be named. The Members of the band Two For The Show pose for a publicity photo. The group, which combines comedy and music, will play two shows nightly for three nights at the Howard County Fair.

Howard County Fair Queen show will begin at 7 p.m., and there will be a talent show at 8 p.m.

Tuesday is Teen Night. All teenagers will get into the fair for $1, instead of the regular price of $2. At 7:30, there will be a "Battle of the Cheerleaders." Choate said cheerleaders from Coahoma, Foran, Sands and other area schools will compete.

The rock band Hit And Run, comprised mostly of Big Spring musicians, will play, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Choate said all the entertainment will be in the entertainment tent, south of the main fair barn. There is no extra charge for the entertainment, he added.

New PBS season promises more of the same — quality

By ROBERT BARR
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —

A bathroom sink is overflowing with water. A young woman desperately tries to open the drain. Shrieking violins from the shower scene in "Psycho" cover the gurgling of running water. This is public television? It's "Trying Times," something a little different amid the thought-provoking and culturally significant fare on PBS this season.

The comedy experiment is but three hours in the PBS lineup, which also features Sir David Attenborough visiting "The First Eden" in the Mediterranean, Spiro Kostoff pondering architecture in "America by Design," and "Oil," a history of the industry which has been so good to PBS via endowments by Mobil and Exxon.

What's missing this season is anything highly controversial, such as last season's "The Africans," denounced in some quarters as anti-American propaganda.

But who knows? Maybe the Republican candidates debate, under the auspices of William F. Buckley Jr.'s "Firing Line," will generate a little heat.

For the most part, PBS viewers aren't notorious thrill-seekers, and they'll find the new season's lineup as comforting as a fine old quilt.

"Great Performances" will include the Houston Opera Company production of Aida, a two-part salute to George Gershwin, and a celebration at Wolf Trap featuring Tony Bennett, Judy Collins, Roberta Flack and Andy Williams.

The New York City Opera's new production of Mozart's "The Magic Flute" will air on "Live from Lincoln Center," which will also have the opening night of the New York Philharmonic and a New York's Eve gala featuring soprano Kathleen Battle.

"Masterpiece Theater" features "The Bretts," an eight-part saga of theatrical life in 1920s London, and an adaptation of Jane Austen's "Northanger Abbey."

"Mystery!" has six more Miss Marple cases with the delightful Joan Hickson, and three cases from the files of Dorothy Sayers' wry and dapper sleuth, Lord Peter Wimsey.

"The Story of English," a hit last season, will take an encore this year, and so will "The Adams Chronicles," first seen 11 years ago.

For those awkward years between "Mr. Rogers" and "Masterpiece Theater," PBS has scheduled 13 episodes of "Degrassi Junior High," a serious attempt to deal with the problems of adolescents while still being entertaining.

Bill Moyers will devote an hour in November to the issues of covert action and secrecy in government which underlie the Iran-Contra affair, and in December he will spend three hours exploring the sometimes explosive mixture of "God and Politics."

Three new productions of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas — "Iolanthe," "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Princess Ida" — will be presented along with eight programs first seen in 1984, including "The Mikado" and "The Pirates of Penzance."

One of the larger commitments of PBS time belongs to "Heimat," a 16-hour saga of three generations of life in Germany from 1919 to 1982.

The aforementioned panicked bathroom scene is from the first episode "Trying Times," with Rosanna Arquette and David Byrne starring in a comedy written by Pulitzer-winning playwright Beth Henley ("Crimes of the Heart.")

Episode two stars Teri Garr as a woman trying to solve a mid-life crisis by learning to drive.

MOVIES

• There are four new movies opening Friday in Big Spring, highlighted by "The Witches of Eastwick," starring Jack Nicholson as a warlock who moves into a small New England town inhabited by three witches. The comedy stars Cher, Susan Sarandon and Michelle Pfeiffer as the witches. It's rated R. Showtimes are at 7 and 9:10 p.m. at the College Park Cinema.

Also opening at the Cinema is "Harry and the Hendersons," a Steven Spielberg production about a family that finds and adopts Big Foot. It's rated PG. Showtimes are 7 and 9 p.m.

Opening at The Ritz is "Hamburger Hill," a new Vietnam movie based on a true story. Hamburger Hill was so named by medics because soldiers returned from it as if they'd been in a hamburger grinder. It's rated R. Showtimes are 7 and 9 p.m.

Also opening at The Ritz is "House II," a comedy-horror flick. It's rated PG-13. Showtimes are 7:10 and 9 p.m.

ODESSA

• Tickets are on sale for the Sept. 29-Oct. 4 performances of the Ice Capades' "Bravo America!" tour at Ector County Coliseum.

The Ice Capades feature Canadian and World Professional Champion Ron Shaver, three-time Canadian Champion Kay Thomson, soloists Kevin Parker, Gordon Forbes and Simone Grigorescu, plus a supporting cast of some of the world's top skating talents.

The show also features the cute and cuddly Ewoks characters, starring in a magical trip to the mystical moon of Endor to defend the "Sunberries" from the dim-witted Duloks.

There will be seven shows from Tuesday to Sunday, with 2 p.m. shows on Saturday and Sunday. There will be no evening show Sunday.

Tickets are $7.50, $8.50 and $9.50; and will be sold at the Coliseum Box Office and the Midland Park Mall. For more information, call 366-3541. For information on group sales, call 332-8143.

The Year of Dennis Quaid

'Big Easy' star has six movies in six months

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The movie trade is pretty much in agreement that this is the year of Dennis Quaid.

More like the half-year, as the affable younger brother of Randy Quaid reports: "I've got six pictures coming out in six months. First 'InnerSpace,' now 'The Big Easy.' Then 'Suspect' with Cher comes out in October. I did another movie called 'D.O.A.' and that follows. I don't know when. So that's four right in a row."

So far, so good. While "InnerSpace" didn't score as well as Steven Spielberg productions are supposed to, Quaid drew critical acclaim for his well-shaded performance as a hotshot Navy pilot on a cruise inside Martin Short's body.

"The Big Easy" provided another step forward. Quaid brought dimension to his role as a New Orleans cop on the take until he falls for an upright prosecutor (Ellen Barkin). Both performances required more skill than many leading men are accustomed to displaying. During most of "InnerSpace" he was seated at the controls of his microscopic space ship.

"That wasn't so bad. I got to sit down most of the time," he said. "I couldn't believe it myself, but the movie was actually a lot of fun. Much of that was due to Martin Short, the funniest man in the world as well as the kindest."

In "The Big Easy," Quaid managed to handle not one but two unfamiliar accents.

"I tried to combine two kinds of Louisiana accents," said the Texas-born actor. "One was a kind of New Orleans 'yat,' which is kind of Brooklynesse with elongated syllables. For the Cajun accent I went down to southwestern Louisiana on weekends and got that into my system. Then I tried to put the two accents together. I think I got it."

Dennis Quaid was speaking by telephone from Montana, where he maintains a refuge from the pressures of a fast-moving career. He fell in love with the Big Sky country while driving through after the Midwest location of "Breaking Away." During the rare breaks from films and publicity tours, he goes there "to fish the river, look at the clouds and empty out my brain — so I can fill it up again."

During most of his 33 years, Dennis has been known as Randy Quaid's kid brother. Four years younger, Dennis followed his big, outgoing brother through Houston schools, then the University of Houston, where both studied acting. Dennis credits his father, William Quaid, with influencing his sons to be actors.

"My dad was a frustrated actor," he said. "He was an electrician, but he liked to tap dance around the house and act like Bing Crosby and Dean Martin. He turned us on to Laurel and Hardy and pointed out actors he particularly liked. I think that's where we got it." The elder Quaid died five months ago.

Randy preceded Dennis to films by five years, scoring in such films as "The Last Picture Show," "What's Up Doc?" "The Last Detail" and "Midnight Express." Dennis followed him to Dennis Quaid is handcuffed to a courtroom railing in this scene from his latest film, "The Big Easy," which closes its run at The Ritz tonight. In the film, Quaid plays a brash, freewheeling police detective who's on the take until he falls for an upright prosecutor.

Hollywood, making his film debut in 1973 with "93055," James Bridges' memoir about the impact of James Dean's death on a small town.

The Quaid brothers appeared together in "The Long Riders" and off-Broadway in Sam Shepard's "True West." During the latter run, the lifelong sibling rivalry erupted into a wild slugging match.

"Randy and I are closer than two brothers can possibly be, and there are positives and negatives to that," Quaid said. "We love each other more than most brothers do. We can also hate each other as much. We can fight — I mean really fight."

"But that's good. How many people can you really do that with? Somebody you're really intimate with can really get to you."

"We almost killed each other one night (during the play) over some stupid reason that came out of frustration. Part of it was because of the play, which is very difficult. We actually ended up going out and having the best time we ever had."

Although Quaid worked regularly during his first 10 years in Hollywood, his career wasn't really progressing. Part of that, he theorizes, was because of his age.

"As you get older, the parts get better," he said. "Let's face it, when you're 20 and 21, you're not very interesting. What have you really experienced in life?"

After such films as "Crazy Mama," "Gorp" and "Caveman," he hit the bottom with "Jaws 3-D."

"I was having to support a house up here in Montana, and it was the only movie I did for commercial reasons," he recalled. "I asked myself, 'Why am I an actor?' It just wasn't any fun any more. So I sold the house I was building and lost all my bread in that. I moved to New York and started doing plays again, and I realized I was an actor because I really loved it. I've got it back now."

National Guard joins war against drugs and aliens

By The Associated Press

The Texas Army National Guard's help in fighting the war on drug- and alien-smuggling is increasing as the battlefield continues to expand, officials say.

The troops aren't exactly on the front line of this war and don't want to be, said spokesmen for federal agencies that benefit from the Guard's troops and supplies.

But the limited help has whetted other agencies' appetites for more Guard tactical support, although questions have been raised about whether the Guard's new role is detrimental to its military preparedness.

"Actually, in some cases it helps our readiness. We don't do any missions that would take away from regular training missions," said Texas Army National Guard spokesman Maj. Ed Komandosky of Austin.

"We feel that it's an obligation. After all, we're citizens, too, and we try to be good citizens," Komandosky said Wednesday.

As part of routine training exercises in the past few months, Texas Guard units have built an office for the U.S. Border Patrol in El Paso, flown sorties to watch for aerial smugglers and marijuana crops and paved part of a West Texas highway that soon will have a new immigration and drug checkpoint.

In Arizona, Guard units from Utah, Missouri, Wisconsin and Arizona were dispatched to desert outposts last month to operate low-altitude radar to aid in the war on aerial importation of illegal drugs.

Each summer since 1985, Texas Army National Guard pilots, in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety, have patrolled East Texas forests searching for marijuana fields. About a year ago, the Guard's role was expanded to include more activity with federal agencies, in tasks such as construction and road building, to aid the interdiction effort.

"We have had significant assistance from the National Guard in a number of areas - not in an enforcement posture, but in support," said Alan Eliason of El Paso, director of Operation Alliance, which coordinates the federal war against drug-smuggling.

"They've been extremely helpful in areas where we, as agencies, simply don't have the money to do things that desperately need doing," Eliason told the Dallas Morning News.

Funding for the Guard's interdiction-related activities come from the units' regular budgets, but the Department of Defense's fiscal 1987 budget included $6 million specifically for Air National Guard drug-interdiction flying time.

President Reagan, meanwhile, is responding to a request from Congress to better integrate the U.S. armed forces into the drug war.

Last month, Lt. Col. Ralph G. Beckett, deputy commander of West Air Force Base in Abilene, told the Texas Police Association that the military's role in drug enforcement could grow, but he said the military branches will suffer from being spread too thin.

"The direct involvement in search, seizure and arrest clearly violates the historic separation between military and civilian spheres of activity - one of the most fundamental principles of American democracy. Additionally, this effort would most certainly severely impact military readiness," Beckett said.

Eliason said the question of possible legal consequences hasn't come up because the military, including the Guard, is not directly enforcing drug or immigration laws.

Cocaine prices cheap despite more seizures

EL PASO (AP) - The wholesale price of cocaine has plunged over the past year even though seizures of the drug have increased, a federal narcotics agent says.

The wholesale price in Dallas averages $27,000 per kilo, or 2.2 pounds, compared with $45,000 in June 1986, Phil Jordan, special agent-in-charge of the Dallas region of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, said Wednesday.

Prices are $3,000 to $4,000 per kilo higher in El Paso, a city Jordan described as "a focal point for the Colombian-Mexican connection."

He said prices apparently are dropping because many cocaine users are trying to deal with their addiction, thus reducing demand for the drug.

"One thing I attribute that to, and I'm an eternal optimist in these things, is that the media has made the public aware of the dangers of crack cocaine. That has changed the public's perception that cocaine is not dangerous," he said.

Jordan's agents worked Wednesday to identify the Mexican smuggling operation responsible for bringing in 3,589 pounds of cocaine that was seized Monday by U.S. Customs inspectors at the Zaragoza Bridge.

The cocaine, in more than 60

55-pound bales, was found stacked 10 feet high behind a false wall in a tractor-trailer rig driven by a man identified as Eduardo Pinto Chavira, 22, of Juarez.

A federal grand jury indicted Pinto Wednesday, charging him with conspiracy to import cocaine, importation of cocaine, conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute cocaine, and possession with intent to distribute cocaine.

Pinto was held without bond in the El Paso County Jail.

Jordan said that if the cocaine, which apparently originated in Medellin, Colombia, was smuggled by the same organization that brought 1,997 pounds into the United States last month, it likely was destined for a distribution point in California.

He said that 1,997-pound shipment confiscated Aug. 12 by U.S. Border Patrol agents near Las Cruces, N.M., is believed to have been smuggled into the country by members of the Pablo Acosta Villareal organization of Ojinaga, Chihuahua. Although Acosta, 50, was killed April 24 when Mexican federal police raided his camp, the organization still is operating.

Jordan told the El Paso Times that tests on the wrappings of the 3,589 pounds of cocaine confiscated Monday in El Paso will provide "intelligence feedback tying it to an organization."

Crews pump water and oil from American battleship

LA PORTE (AP) - Work crews are starting to pump out 40 years' worth of oil and water from inside the hull of the battleship USS Texas, officials said.

The Texas, which served in two world wars and is the only surviving Dreadnaught-class American battleship, has been berthed in the Houston ship channel near the San Jacinto Monument since 1948.

The pumping operation to remove 1.5 million gallons of oil and water that has seeped in through its rusting hull began Wednesday and is expected to take up to three weeks, said Jim Eaves, a consultant with Shell Oil Co., which is participating in the project.

Once the oil and water is removed, preparations will be made to move the ship to a drydock where repairs on the hull can begin, officials have said.

The ship will be closed to visitors during the week while the pumping is continuing, Eaves said. However, it will remain open to tourists on weekends, he said.

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks said Wednesday the Navy, the attorney general's office and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department finally have agreed on a deal to release $5 million in federal money to help with restoration of the ship.

"This is the best news we've had in months," David Cottom, a parks spokesman, said.

The money was approved by Congress last year but was tied up in a dispute between the Battleship Texas Advisory Board and its former fundraiser, who is seeking 10 percent of the appropriation.

W. Douglas Williams is suing the parks department and the advisory board, contending his is due $500,000 in commissions from the Navy grant. The state disagrees.

Williams' attorney Joan Bain said she wants an appeals court to issue an injunction freezing use of $500,000 in federal money, although the remaining $4.5 million would be allowed in the restoration effort.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get some rest. any important matters settled early. A few compliments would help in this area. If you delay, later on you'll have trouble expressing yourself and probably be ignored. Try to remain cheerful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show more affection for those who mean a great deal to you. It is not a good idea to try forcing your opinions on anyone. Formulate a good plan first. Drive carefully today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is the best time to settle a troubling family matter. Don't let a friend hurt your feelings with comments which are unintentional. Don't entertain guests.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't be annoyed by gossip or criticism which should be ignored. If going on a trip, leave early since heavy traffic will annoy you. The evening brings happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get a financial difficulty settled early. You'll feel confused if you begin with home improvements and then move on to outside matters. Stay at home this evening and be happy.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A charming attitude this morning will get you some favors you need. It would be most unwise to criticize a friend this afternoon. Avoid socializing this evening. Get some rest.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't let your happiness over a private matter prevent you from handling outside duties. Take no unnecessary risks. Avoid hurting your mate's feelings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An early morning surprise will please you, but your mood could be brought down by friends. Postpone those social engagements; relax and SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The morning is the best time to ask for favors from a superior. Handle a credit matter in a most precise and businesslike manner. Don't lose your temper today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Reply favorably to a letter from afar. Later, continue operating sensibly, and make no changes in your routine. Postpone that little trip until a later time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Settle an outstanding account, and show those you deal with that you keep your word honorably. Should your mate feel frantic, you must remain calm and poised.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't become involved in any alliances which you don't feel comfortable about. If you must handle any public affairs, strike while the iron is still hot.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can accomplish a great deal today if you begin with home improvements and then move on to outside matters. Stay at home this evening and be happy.

If Your Child Is Born Today He or she will live graciously in early childhood and have amazingly good fortune. A fine education is absolutely necessary, and your progeny could do quite well in government work, whether male or female. Be sure to give your son or daughter plenty of encouragement for a job well done or discouragement will result.
