How's That? Veterans

Q. I am 80 years old and I receive a VA pension. Do I still have to make an annual report of income?

A. Yes. Everyone receiving VA pension benefits, based on age or a non-service-connected disability, must make an annual report of their income. Any change in income should be reported immediately so adjustments can be made, according to the Veterans Administration Office of Public Affairs.

United Way reports why figures vary

Herald staff report

Conflicting figures on local United Way collections have prompted a clarification from Debbie Daniels, drive secretary.

In the Sept. 13 issue of the Herald, it was reported the United Way of Howard County had begun its 1987 campaign at 31 percent of its $215,000 goal. That figure conflicted with a 27 percent collection quoted in Thursday's Herald.

Daniels said the Sept. 13 figure was an estimate compiled from informal pledges given to division chairmen. Several large pledges were included in the estimate that haven't been received yet at the drive office, she added.

The 27 percent figure is actual signed pledges received by campaign members, Daniels said.

'O' is for ostrich

About 79 Coahoma kindergarten students were treated to an unusual field trip this morning as they visited the ostrich farm of James Fryar on Center Point Road, a mile west of Salem Road. Not only did they see the odd-shaped birds, but were able to feed them, as in photos above and below. Above, Heath Evans, 5-year-old son of Lana Henderson, holds onto his food cup as one of the ostriches helps itself.

Rescue attempt

Coast Guardsmen aboard a rescue boat pull William Pardo, 28, from the Laguna Madre near South Padre Island Wednesday afternoon while his wife, Ilenina, at top center, watches. Pardo was pushing his stalled pickup on the Queen Isabella Causeway and was struck by a car driven by Michael J. Logue, 17, South Padre Island. The impact threw Pardo over the bridge railing and into the bay. He died enroute to the hospital.

Guardianship

Laws aim at protecting welfare of wards

Editor's note: This is the sixth in a series on the guardianship system in the United States, and Texas in particular. It was produced after a national investigation by a team of Associated Press reporters.

BY PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer
GALVESTON (AP) — Guardianships are time consuming, expensive and sometimes complicated, but experts say they can be the only way to assure an incompetent adult receives proper care and protection.

In the vast majority of cases, the need for a guardian is clear, since the proposed ward is in a nursing home or bedridden. Sometimes, the prospective ward recognizes the need for and accepts a guardianship arrangement.

Lawyers and judges say some families avoid filing for guardianships because they simply don't care or find it inconvenient. Others become guardians and sacrifice greatly to protect their aged relatives. Still others stay out of court through a sense of shame at having a family member ruled incompetent.

"There are a lot of situations where guardians are needed, but

Part six

But in a relatively small number of cases, the issues are not as clear. It is principally for these cases that Texas guardianship laws include rules designed to protect the rights and welfare of wards.

"That's often the way the law works," said Galveston County Judge Jerome Jones. "You impose extra, expensive steps to cover a very small percentage of cases where there could be abuses."

There are two fundamental types of guardianships — temporary or permanent — and either can be for the protection of the ward's person, estate or both.

A temporary guardianship usually is granted because of an immediate need, such as a medical emergency, Jones said.

In temporary guardianships, the judge is required to appoint an attorney to represent the ward and set a competency hearing within 14 days. The ward and any known relatives are notified by summons, and a notice is posted on the courthouse wall.

For permanent guardianships, no action can be taken toward the ward until a hearing is conducted. In these cases, the ward and relatives are notified and the notice is posted, but the judge is not required to appoint an attorney. The ward, however, may request an attorney or the court may choose to appoint one.

In larger counties, such as Dallas and Tarrant, judges routinely appoint an attorney to represent a potential ward, but in smaller counties, a ward rarely is represented.

If the ward is indigent, the lawyer is paid by the county. And if the ward is able, he is encouraged to attend the hearing. An Associated Press survey of more than 75 files indicates, however, that that rarely happens.

The law assumes that if you are GUARDIANSHIP page 2A

Elderly files reveal emotions, disputes

By PAUL RECER and JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writers

Elderly guardianship cases often pierce deeply to basic human emotions and lay bare long-simmering family disputes, turning brother against brother, testing children's love, or exposing impulses of greed.

Lawyers and judges say some families avoid filing for guardianships because they simply don't care or find it inconvenient. Others become guardians and sacrifice greatly to protect their aged relatives. Still others stay out of court through a sense of shame at having a family member ruled incompetent.

"There are a lot of situations where guardians are needed, but the families are embarrassed to go into court," said Thomas M. Featherston Jr., a Baylor University law professor.

"Relatives usually put more into a guardianship than they get out," said Galveston Judge Jerome Jones. "They'll usually try to keep care of their relatives often at great expense. Blood is thicker than water."

Some of the more than 75 guardianship files studied by The Associated Press involved siblings squabbling about who was best qualified to care for the proposed ward, and the family disputes, said Galveston attorney Gladys Burwell, can be "messy."

"Sometimes they come from feelings that originated in their childhood," Burwell said.

From interviews and file examinations, here are some of the cases uncovered by the AP.

• A 78-year-old McKinney woman was placed under a guardianship in Collin County based on a doctor's statement littered with misspellings and typos.

The statement, which did not discuss the woman's mental capacities, said she had, among other things, "ischemic heart disease" and "is barely able to perform independent activities of daily living. She must walk with the aid of a walker. Her poor vision greatly interferes with her ability to function independently."

Although the woman's estate at the time the guardianship was established in 1980 was valued at ELDERLY FILES page 2A

Mule show a weekend feature at county fair

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Howard County Fair continues today and Saturday with the fiddler's contest, a pet show, mule show and other entertainment and contests.

The fair is open until 11 p.m. both days.

The mule show, a feature of last day events, begins at 5 p.m. Saturday.

The mule activities include a bloomer race in which participants ride a mule to the opposite end of the arena, where a contestant puts a pair of bloomers on the mule and rides back to the starting line.

The rider's partner then rides the bloomered mule to the opposite end of the arena, removes the bloomers and rides back. The winner is the team that accomplishes the goal in the least time.

In the team or single pull hitch, each team or single mule pulls its weight, or their combined weight, on a sled for a distance of 10 feet.

Weight will then be added to the sled, to be pulled the same distance. The process will be repeated until a winner is determined.

The winner will be the team or single mule that pulls the most weight the greatest distance.

The mule show begins with the halter and includes Western Pleasure, individual exhibition, the ring run, the balloon bust and the parade of jacks.

The balloon bust is a contest in which riders have balloons tied to their waists, which opponents attempt to burst. The winner is the last rider with an unpopped balloon.

Attendance at the fair has been "pretty good," with a few more children and a few fewer adults than last year, said R.G. Click, president of the fair association. Numbers were not available this morning, he said.

Steer and lamb weighing and classifying is from 3 to 8 p.m. today. The fiddler's contest begins at 4 p.m., and the pet show at 7 p.m.

"Two for the Show" gives its final Big Spring performances at 7 and 9 p.m.

Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys perform at 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday.

The fairgrounds opens Saturday at 7:30 a.m., with the prospect lamb show at 8 a.m.

The prospect steer contest begins at 1 p.m., and the mule show at 5 p.m.

The Decorating Fun Day begins at 1:30 p.m.; the Sew It With Cotton contest at 2 p.m.; the barbecue cookoff at 3 p.m.; and the Kountry Kids contest at 4 p.m.

Congressman opens guardianship hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oldest member of Congress, saying elderly Americans should have "the same protection a criminal is entitled to in court," called today for federal standards to protect senior citizens from unwarranted or abusive guardianships.

Rep. Claude Pepper, 87, chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging's health subcommittee, opened a hearing today on problems in guardianship procedures with a litany of state inadequacies — including the fact that advanced age is a cause for guardianship in 33 states.

"I wonder if they'll get me," Pepper said. "I'm 87. I have to be on the alert."

Under the procedures, which vary from state to state and sometimes from county to county, guardians are appointed to take control of the property and personal affairs of elderly people who are judged infirm or incompetent.

Pepper said only 14 states require that an allegedly incompetent person be informed of is or her legal rights; eight states don't require that the person be told someone is petitioning to become his guardian, 15 states do not specify that an elderly person has the right to counsel; only 16 states require that the elderly person be present at the competency hearing, and only 12 states require medical evidence to back up a claim of incompetency.

Pepper said he would work for uniform state laws or action by Congress to make sure the elderly are protected.

The Pepper hearing was called in conjunction with a series of Associated Press stories this week on the troubled guardianship system. In 43 percent of the 2,200 cases studied by the AP, senior citizens were taken through court proceedings without an attorney representing them.

Forty percent of the wards were not at their own hearing and 25 percent didn't even have a hearing. Nearly half the files examined had an incomplete or missing accounting of money and three of 10 files had no medical evidence to indicate incompetency.

Several people featured in the AP series recounted to the subcommittee their nightmarish experiences with the guardianship system.

REP. CLAUDE PEPPER

not incompetent, then you'll do something about it," Jones said. That "something" is usually a legal showdown between those seeking the guardianship and the ward and an attorney who claim it is unnecessary.

At issue is the ability of the ward to care for himself and his assets, the fundamental questions of competency. In a serious contest, both sides could present expert testimony, including medical opinion and citizens commenting on the behavior of the ward.

"It can get quite messy," said Gladys Burwell, a Galveston attorney specializing in the field.

With one stroke of the pen, the judge can take fundamental civil rights from the ward and give the guardian control of the ward's life and financial affairs.

Jones and other judges say when the question of competency is a close call, they generally will rule in favor of the ward.

A guardian has 90 days after the judge's ruling to file an inventory of the ward's estate, and then must file annual accountings.

By law, the guardian also must file an annual report on the ward's condition and welfare, but an AP survey of almost 100 guardianship files found that requirement almost universally is ignored.

Most people are appalled at the amount of paperwork and court fees involved in even a simple guardianship, Burwell said.

"When you tell them what all is involved, most people will back off," she said.

The larger the estate, the more complex the work becomes. Court approval is needed to sell anything from the estate and for the guardian to make systematic bank withdrawals to finance the day-to-day needs of the ward.

Every penny used must be accounted for — a rule designed to prevent guardians from using funds for any purpose other than the ward's benefit, Jones said.

The system works, however, only if the court closely monitors the guardianships, and the AP survey showed many virtually are ignored after they are granted.

The cost of operating a guardian-

more than $120,000, the file ends after one accounting.

It was not clear if the ward still was alive or what happened to her estate.

• An elderly man who owned several houses suffered a stroke in San Antonio and slipped into a coma. Within weeks, four people — a brother, a grandson and two friends — filed to become guardians of the estate.

Claims and counterclaims flowed into the file from all sides, charging that other applicants were only after the money. While the court attempted to sort out the claims, months passed and the properties were unoccupied.

Finally, the court named the grandson as guardian. The ward died a few days later and the guardianship was dissolved. Ironically, one of the unsuccessful guardian applicants, the brother, received the whole estate through inheritance.

• A man moved to South Texas from Iowa early in the century, leaving all his relatives behind. During the next 50 years, he amassed a large fortune, but still was without family in Texas. When his health failed, two nephews and a niece who he had not seen in 30 years came to visit. They persuaded him to go with them to Missouri.

In Missouri, the nephews filed papers in court and were declared co-guardians of his estate. Shortly afterward, estate funds were being siphoned off to Missouri.

A lawyer who had been the man's friend for decades learned of the situation and filed suit in a Texas court to block the guardians' actions. Because all of the man's property was outside of Missouri, that court named an accountant to be guardian of the estate.

The Missouri nephews continued to attempt to extract funds from the Texas properties, but the accountant, under court supervision, monitored the filings and released only funds needed for the man's care.

When the elderly man died, the guardian gave a final accounting and the court closed the 6-inch-thick file. The estate, so well defended by the Texas court, passed into probate.

ship usually comes from the estate, and most often is a big expense.

Court fees, set by statute, can total thousands of dollars during a long guardianship, said Burwell. The initial application costs $125, and each sale of property from the estate costs another $125. Postings are $42.50 each. Copying of files cost as much as $2 a page, and some files have hundreds of pages.

If court testimony from a doctor is required in a case, the cost can range from $400 to $1,200.

"To all that, you've got to add the attorney's fees to prepare the documents," Burwell said. "Guardianships are not cheap."

Carnival worker says it all looks the same

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Traveling carnival workers get to see a lot of America, said Eddie Pauley from his game booth at the Howard County Fair.

Pauley, 57, has been a carnival worker for 28 years. He began operating a merry-go-round in Sioux Falls, S.D., June 8, 1959.

Since then he has traveled throughout the country, sometimes with a carnival, sometimes by himself.

"After you get going from one place to another, they all look the same," he commented.

This is Pauley's second time in Big Spring. The first was for the League of United Latin American Citizens Sept. 16 celebration.

After the local fair ends, Pauley may go to Waco — or he may not, he said.

"We'll see."

The Fort Worth stock show may be excluded from this year's agenda because footage has become too expensive to allow him a profit, he said.

"It's not an easy way to make a living. There's more work to it than you'd think. You don't need to do no jogging if you work in the carnival business," he said. But Pauley added that he loves the business.

He usually winters in Joshua, where he has lived since 1960, or visits his two sons, two daughters and four grandchildren in Kentucky. He often brings the children some of the colorful stuffed animal prizes from the game he operates.

"I see my family once or twice a year, anyway," he said.

He and his brother own a piece of land in Kentucky, and it's Pauley's year to pay the taxes, he said.

He has come to know many other traveling carnival workers, and others, Pauley said.

"I know more than a million people, but ain't no way I could call that many names," he said.

Pauley tries to guess which customers will win, but "you never can tell," he said.

"You'll see some of these guys and think 'he's real smart, educated.' But you'd be surprised how dumb he is, sometimes," he said.

On the other hand, his first winner Thursday was a woman he guessed was about 70 years old, he said. Her prize — a teddy bear.

Student protesters sentenced to jail

AUSTIN (AP) — A judge sentenced anti-apartheid protesters to jail terms of up to six months for taking over the University of Texas president's office, but not before delivering a stiff lecture.

"You do not realize, even today, the seriousness of the situation you created," Travis County Judge Leslie Taylor told 12 protesters Thursday. "Your terrorist-style tactics could have caused the civilians or yourselves to be hurt or killed."

Last October's brief takeover was "dangerous to yourselves and the community at large," she said. "This is not the way we address problems in our society."

The protesters are members of the so-called U16, who took over President William Cunningham's office to protest university investment in companies that do business in South Africa.

Ms. Taylor criticized the county attorney's office, which recommended that the defendants be given probation sentences and be required to pay $3,500 for damage to the president's office and perform 100 hours of community service.

The defendants also asked for probation and for community service restitution. They opposed paying the $3,500, contending that police caused the damage to the president's office.

"There is not a dime's worth of difference between the state's recommendation and the position urged by the defense," Ms. Taylor said. "Why does (the county attorney) bother to expend the effort and expense necessary to prosecute these cases, and then ask the court to render a meaningless verdict?

Travis County sheriff's deputies frisk Beverly Burr, left, and Susan Svateck after they were given jail terms for their disruptive activities last year. Judge Leslie Taylor handed down sentences to 12 people who were found guilty of barricading themselves inside the office of the University of Texas president in October. The students were released pending their appeal.

"To follow the state's recommendation would be an open invitation to others to commit these kinds of acts without fear of any serious consequences," she said.

Mike Denton of the county attorney's office said, "The facts of the case supported our recommendation. We realize (the protesters) broke the law and went too far, but we're not blind to why."

His office also considered the youth of most of the defendants and the fact that they had no prior records in recommending probation and restitution, Denton said.

Ms. Taylor gave differing sentences to the defendants, eleven of whom were convicted Monday of disruptive activity, a misdemeanor.

Chester Wilson, 38, was given the maximum sentence possible under the law: six months in jail and a $200 fine. Wilson, an Austin resident who was convicted in a separate trial earlier this year, is "old enough to know better," Ms. Taylor said.

Texan blamed in Missouri slayings

CONWAY, Mo. (AP) — A man who killed three people before taking his own life in Texas was also the killer of three others in southern Missouri last week, officials said Thursday.

Howard Franklin Stewart, 36, whose parents live in Lebanon, Mo., had told two acquaintances before Tuesday's shooting spree at Corsicana, Texas, that he was wanted for killing three people in Missouri.

Two Missouri sheriffs, Lawrence Rifenburg of Laclede County and Jerry Cox of Dallas County, went to Texas Wednesday with two Missouri Highway Patrol investigators to look for evidence linking Stewart to the crimes.

At a news conference Thursday in Conway, where a command post was established after last week's killings, the officials said there was no question that Stewart was responsible.

"We are certain it was Stewart," said Rifenburg, who was joined at the news conference by Cox and Webster County Sheriff Eugene Fraker.

Chairman says agency is judged

AUSTIN — The chairman of an agency created by the Legislature to measure the effectiveness of other state agencies has reminded members that it also must measure up — to the Legislature and the public.

Chairman Jack Vowell of the Texas Sunset Advisory Commission spoke briefly at a Thursday commission meeting marking the beginning of a new review cycle of state agencies.

The 10-member commission of eight legislators and two public members was created in 1977 so state government could abolish or "sunset" state agencies found to be inefficient or unnecessary.

"A lot of people take for granted the fact that we will continue to have a Sunset Advisory Commission forever," Rep. Vowell, R-El Paso said. "While we're not subject to sunset in an ordinary sense, we're subject to the approval of the Legislature and also the approval of the people of Texas."

"So I think in the years ahead, we need to keep in mind that we are also going to be judged by the product which we produce."

One dead, eight injured in collision

LEVELLAND (AP) — A car-bus accident has left one person dead and eight members of the Morton High School junior varsity football team with minor injuries, police said.

The accident occurred at about 8:30 p.m. Thursday on Texas 114 about a mile west of Levelland, a Department of Public Safety accident report indicated.

A 30-year-old Levelland man was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Dee Turner.

The victim's name was being withheld pending notification of his family.

The man's eastbound car collided with a westbound school bus occupied by a driver and 22 football players, officers said. The bus was returning to Morton from a game in Levelland.

The crash occurred after the car swerved into the westbound lanes of traffic, according to DPS trooper Steven Potts.

Two women file $5.2 million suit

HOUSTON — Two women who worked for a NASA subcontractor filed a $5.2 million lawsuit Thursday alleging they were forced from their jobs after raising concerns about management abuses and violations that could harm the space shuttle and its crew.

Named as defendants in the federal lawsuit are the subcontractor, Unisys Corp., four Unisys employees and the prime contractor, Rockwell Shuttle Operations Co.

The suit claims Unisys overcharged Rockwell and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It also alleges Unisys listed a fictitious person as an employee, violated security regulations in handling classified flight software, failed to check the safety of flight software and violated the Equal Pay Act.

Sylvia C. Robins, a former Unisys section supervisor who now works at Rockwell, said after she started working for Unisys in February 1986, she began questioning safety and management of the company's work on the shuttle program.

Language study rises in colleges

In an increasingly interdependent and competitive world, it's encouraging to note that, little by little, Americans are acquiring some of the tools needed to succeed.

A report by the Modern Language Association says that during the 1986-87 academic year, the number of college students taking foreign language courses exceeded 1 million for the first time in 14 years.

Equally significant is the fact that the biggest increases between 1983 and 1986 were in the language of important countries about which Americans know far too little.

Study of Japanese was up 45 percent, albeit only to 23,454; there was a 28 percent increase, to 16,891, in the study of Chinese; and an 11.8 percent increase in Russian-language students, to 33,961.

Overall, the increase in foreign language study was up 3.9 percent over three years, to 1,003,234.

American collegians studied 115 languages last year, ranging from the most popular, Spanish (411,293), to the least, Uighur (1).

Uighur? It's a Turkic language spoken by the Mongols when they ruled much of Central Asia during the Middle Ages. Today, it's spoken by about 6 million people, mostly in the Chinese region of Sinkiang. Presumably that solitary student knows that.

Constitutional Daybook

From The Associated Press
 Tuesday, Sept. 25, 1987
 PHILADELPHIA TODAY

A letter appeared today in the Independent Gazetteer under the purported authorship of Daniel Shays of the anti-Federalist junta in Philadelphia.

Actually it was a fictitious letter probably written by Benjamin Rush. Although the letter has lost some of its impact in over 200 years, it still is interesting.

Shays, through the pen of Rush, suggests that the Pennsylvania anti-Federalists have lost their strength, and that they should recruit opponents by using words such as "aristocracy, monarchy, and oligarchy" to describe the Constitution, although the readers would not understand what the terms meant.

The anti-Federalists should take their time in developing their strategy and perhaps wait until the next session of the Assembly to present their case.

Rush knew that the opposition would be greater than the small group of anti-Federalists to whom he addressed his letter. He also was aware that the Federalists would try to push the Constitution through the state Assembly and ratifying convention very quickly.

Thus this letter seems to be telling the anti-Federalists that they really do not have a chance to defeat ratification.

Rush wrote a letter to Timothy Pickens (Aug. 30, 1787) in which he used similar language and analogies.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

John Langdon and Nicholas Gilman reported to Congress and presented their credentials. It was the first day in 1787 that New Hampshire was represented.

The Georgia delegates presented an impressive argument concerning a possible Indian invasion of the state. Congress granted them 150 pair of horsemen's pistols, 150 dragon swords, one pair of three-pound brass field pieces, 1,000 pounds of gun powder, and 600 rounds of grape and round shot for the field pieces.

RATIFICATION TODAY

Thomas Collins, president of Delaware, wrote George Read to inform him that he had received and read a copy of the Constitution. He congratulated Read and the other delegates on their efforts to defend Delaware's interests. Further, he was personally pleased with the new form of government and stated that he would use his power to assure its ratification in Delaware.

According to an editorial in the Pennsylvania Packet today, the people of Delaware already were voicing their strong support for the system. Indications were that the state would quickly approve the Constitution.

In Connecticut, the New Haven County Congregational Clergy Association discussed the Constitution in their annual meeting today. From the reports, every minister strongly supported it.

Judge Bork doesn't back freedom of information act

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — While Judge Robert Bork has shown himself to be a friend of the press when individuals object to what is published and sue for libel, he does not believe it's the judiciary's role to help journalists when they try to get information or otherwise do battle with the government.

In fact, Bork once issued a barely veiled threat against those in the media who believe it's their duty to be the public's watchdogs against government misbehavior — and especially those who have the effrontery to challenge the courts.

In a 1979 magazine article, Bork wrote: "It seems to me particularly dangerous for the press to attack the judiciary as government, and therefore inherently an adversary, when the press depends upon the judiciary for the protections of the First Amendment."

This could be construed as either a warning or just good, practical advice. But Bork has made it clear in his writings and court opinions that, if he thinks the press would do well to coddle the courts, he doesn't think the courts should coddle the press.

Bork appears to feel that the press is entitled to certain rights — as long as it doesn't get too uppity in its exercise of them. This, he has stated, could lead to anti-press decisions and greater government regulation.

"The press may properly claim great freedom," he has written. "It may not claim — or at least it is not likely to do so successfully — the exclusive or the special possession of it."

This rejection of a special, privileged status for the press comes through loud and clear in Bork's appellate court decisions in Freedom of Information Act cases.

Consistently, when a reporter or individual has asked for information under FOIA and a government agency has withheld documents for security reasons, Bork has ruled for secrecy. Here are some FOIA cases researched by our associate Corky Johnson that illustrate Bork's viewpoint:

• When our former associate Donald Goldberg asked to see the results of a State Department questionnaire sent out to U.S. ambassadors on their host countries' diplomatic practices, the department refused to release parts of the responses on grounds that they were "confidential." Our attorney argued that most of the ambassadors had marked their questionnaires "unclassified."

But Bork and his appellate court colleagues ruled for the State Department, saying that government agencies have the authority to reclassify documents at will, and it is up to the journalist to produce evidence that would indicate the reclassification was in error.

• In Meeropol vs. Meese, the children of executed Soviet spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg had used FOIA to seek FBI documents on their parents' case. The FBI withheld documents that it claimed were entitled to exemptions by reason of national security, privacy and law enforcement needs. Bork's opinion on "perhaps the most extensive FOIA request ever made" said the FBI's withholding of the documents was proper.

• In SAUDI ARMS ... AGAIN — Congress is up to its ears in "must" legislation for this session, and this may be the factor that causes the failure of a White House request for a $1 billion arms sale to Saudi Arabia.

The lawmakers have already shot down two such proposals in the last year. The latest proposed arms package includes Maverick air-to-ground missiles, F-15 fighters, ground equipment and M-60 tanks, according to White House sources.

The powerful pro-Israel bloc in Congress is arguing — again — that the weapons could be used against Israel in the event of another Arab-Israeli war.

Among the most influential opponents of the Saudi deal are Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind.; Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., majority whip.

If the arms sale is successfully stalled this session, it won't stand a chance in 1988, an election year.

Jack Anderson

all seem to go to church every Sunday.

People here tend to think it strange when they learn I'm from a two-religion family — the product of an Episcopalian mom and a Jewish dad. My family celebrates Chanukkah as well as Christmas, and I procrastinate more than I actually attend services.

The local reaction to my first name is another demonstration of a more provincial culture.

"Your name is what? Spencer? Is that your last name?" I am constantly asked when I meet anyone new. They always are curious "where I got the name," or if it's my husband's or a family name. It isn't.

Most new acquaintances decide to call me Miss Spencer, as if I were Miss Scarlet of "Gone With the Wind," or Miss Ellie of Dallas. Letters from strangers invariably are addressed to Mr. Spencer Sandow.

Such reactions are much less common in Dallas.

I really don't mind. I'd rather put up with the confusion than go by a different name.

I will miss the people of this informal, desert town, but being with my family again is more than adequate compensation.

Whoever first said "there's no place like home" was correct.

One rarely hears of people in Big Spring shooting each other as they drive past on the highway, but the occurrence is almost common in Dallas and other large cities.

Few Big Spring people seem to hurry. Perhaps they have nowhere to go that won't wait.

Or, as in my case, there's little appealing for young single adults to do.

While Dallas has become quite a cultural mecca during the past decade, the Big Spring culture is far more homogenous than I had ever experienced.

For example, most people seem to be of a Protestant faith, with a large Catholic minority, and they

Lewis Grizzard Ruskie jokes latest trend for president

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Once again, President Reagan has come through in his nation's time of need. Just when we thought ethnic humor could never make a comeback in this country, the president decides to start collecting Russian jokes.

It was in all the papers. The president gets these jokes from people over at National Security, the CIA and the State Department, and he reveals in telling them to reporters.

"The president," according to one story I read, "likes to point out the differences between the Soviet Union and the United States by using Russian jokes."

Ethnic humor has been on the decline in this country ever since Amos and Andy went off the tube. Earl Butz, you recall, lost his job as secretary of agriculture for telling an ethnic joke.

But all the frustration that has been involved in not being able to rib a portion of our society may now be vented if the president's doing it — towards the Russians, who are too busy standing in line to buy toilet paper to get upset over somebody poking a little fun at them.

The Soviet agriculture secretary is talking to a potato farmer about this year's crop.

"We have so many potatoes," says the farmer, "we could pile them on top of one another and they would reach to the feet of God."

"But this is the Soviet Union," says the secretary. "There is no God."

"That's OK," says the farmer. "There are no potatoes, either."

One more:

An American and a Russian are talking. The American says, "I can stand in front of the White House and yell, 'To hell with Reagan!'"

"That's nothing," says the Russian. "I can stand in front of the Kremlin and yell, 'To hell with Reagan, too!'"

In an effort to help my commander in chief, regardless of his needs, I have a couple of Russian jokes the president can use, too.

• The Russian airline, Aeroflot, is regarded as one of the world's worst in both service and safety.

Two rookie Russian pilots are landing at Rostov. The co-pilot looks down and sees the runway.

"The runway is very short here," he says.

"We have no choice," says the pilot. "We must land."

They bring in the plane and make a miraculous landing.

"This was a short runway," says the co-pilot, "but I've never seen one wider."

• Two Russian cosmonauts are lost hopelessly in space. One suggests they pray.

"But I don't know how to pray," the other replies.

"Don't worry," says the first cosmonaut. "I was in United States once and went to a Catholic church. I know how to pray. Repeat after me, 'Under the B.' 13. Under the 'O.' 72..."

If you have any good ethnic jokes you have been too embarrassed to tell, make the Russians the subject and send them to President Reagan.

He won't be able to continue to show his Butz without you.

NFL column wins reader's support

To the editor:

Echoing Tim Appel's column in the Sunday Herald: I heartily support his statements. Football players work a few months for a fantastic salary. They retire at an age that they can pursue another career.

I hope new talent can be developed so that the present figures will not be needed or accepted. Owners and commissioners should form a non-negotiable pact, setting a ceiling on salaries.

Every paid employee is governed by the policies of the organization that pays him. So much striking and marching protesting should be calmed a little.

Dumping treaty OK'd

WASHINGTON — An international agreement to outlaw the dumping of plastic trash at sea has won approval from a Senate panel, leaving just one more step before the treaty becomes international law.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 13-0 Thursday to accept the measure. Environmentalists have lobbied for the plastics dumping ban. A House subcommittee report said an estimated 1 million seabirds and 100,000 marine mammals are killed annually by choking on the floating junk they mistake for food or by becoming entangled in it.

Senate demands void

WASHINGTON — The Senate has voted to tell the Soviet Union to tear down a new Soviet Embassy built in Washington and rebuild the structure in an area of the city where it can't be used for espionage.

The decision Thursday night came after State Department officials told Congress the new U.S. Embassy under construction in Moscow is so infested with listening devices that it cannot be occupied. The decision by the Democratic-controlled chamber came when it voted 69-27 approval of an amendment offered by Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, ordering Reagan to void the current U.S.-Soviet agreement for construction of new embassies.

Two dead in collision

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — A tractor-trailer rig collided with several vehicles slowing for a border patrol checkpoint Thursday, killing two people and injuring 22, the California Highway Patrol said.

The driver of the truck was arrested for investigation of drunken driving in the 6:45 p.m. accident, CHP Officer Jerry Bohrer said. The number of casualties stemmed from the fact that three vans carrying Dutch tourists were involved in the collision, Bohrer said.

Both of the fatalities were believed to be tourists, but Bohrer said no one has been identified.

Storm hits Bermuda

MIAMI — Hurricane Emily swept over Bermuda this morning with gusts up to 98 mph, shocking one forecaster who said its strength and speed "defies ... the concept of meteorology."

Emily's eye passed over Kindley Field in Bermuda at 7:45 a.m. EDT, but there were no immediate damage reports, according to the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables.

Fiji coup

Rabuka stages second takeover

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Military strongman Sitiveni Rabuka today staged his second coup in less than five months, saying he wanted to safeguard the rights of the minority ethnic Fijian population.

Rabuka, a 39-year-old ethnic Fijian who appointed himself head of the army at the time of his May 14 coup, announced in a nationwide broadcast that his forces had "reasserted their authority over the government of Fiji."

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

When he mounted the coup in May, Rabuka said he deposed Prime Minister Timoci Bavadra and his Indian-dominated Cabinet to restore political power to ethnic Fijians, a 47-percent minority. Indians, descendants of British indentured sugar plantation labor, make up 49 percent.

An interim government was appointed after the May coup, but Rabuka said he staged today's takeover because he was unable to alter the constitution to protect the rights of ethnic Fijians.

"I will be taking immediate steps to bring about the desired constitutional changes in a manner which will bring about lasting peace and prosperity in our beloved country," Rabuka said.

"I wish to assure all citizens, irrespective of race or creed, that the rule of law will be maintained," he said. "I appeal to everyone to remain calm and not to cause any disturbance."

Rabuka announced a nationwide 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, the Australian Associated Press said.

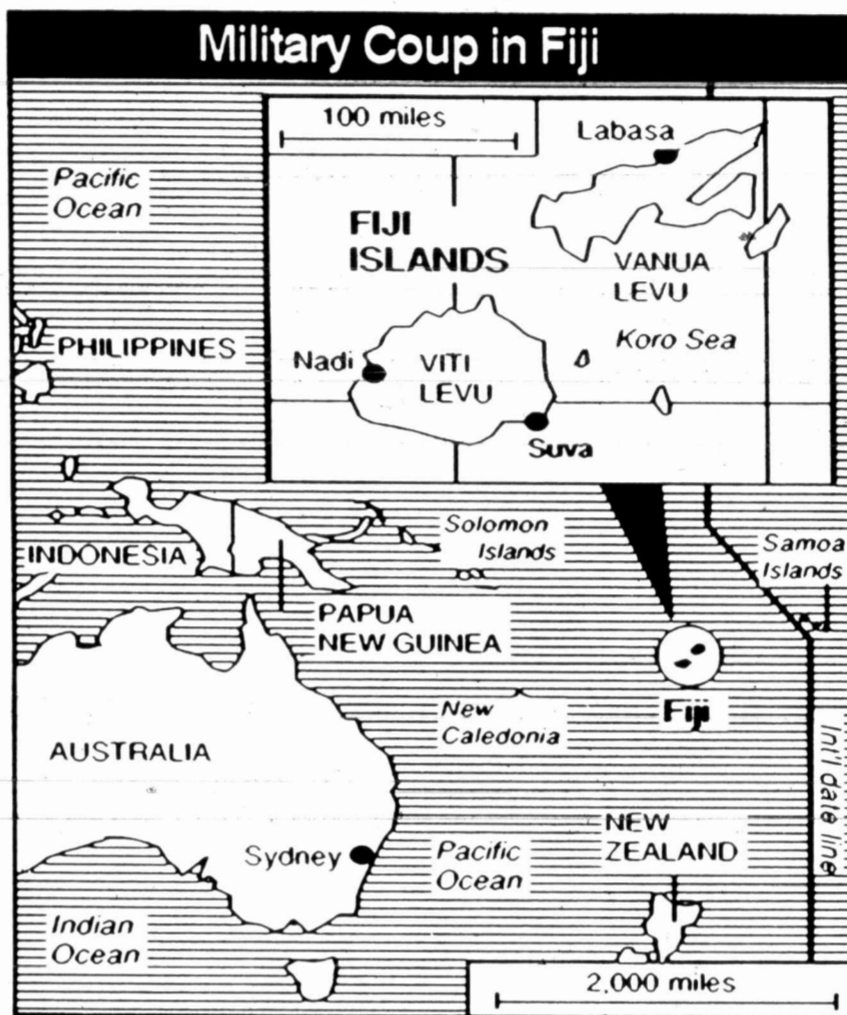

Armed troops took control of the country's two daily newspapers and a commercial radio station at 4 p.m. (midnight EDT). Rabuka announced the coup on the radio 50 minutes later. Staff members at the newspapers and stations were forced from office buildings at gunpoint.

It was not immediately clear how many soldiers participated in the coup.

Telephone lines to the South Pacific nation of 715,000 were disconnected.

U.S. to destroy ship

MANAMA, Bahrain — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said today that the Iranian vessel attacked by U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf would be "destroyed in the most effective way possible."

Weinberger made the comment during an interview aboard a U.S. navy frigate in the gulf, where he flew by helicopter hours after arriving in the region for a five-day visit.

"The ship will be destroyed. It certainly will not be handed back so that it can engage in further activities," the Pentagon chief said. Asked how it would be destroyed, he said, "In the most effective way possible."

Summit only in U.S.

MOSCOW — President Reagan will meet this year with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev only if the summit takes place in the United States, a senior Western diplomat said today.

The source, familiar with last week's talks in Washington between U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, said the Soviets informally agreed on a U.S. venue and that no other site was under discussion.

Speaking to reporters on condition he not be identified, the source said Reagan "won't go anywhere else" to meet Gorbachev.

"Obviously, there will not be a summit meeting unless it's in the United States," the diplomat said. "The president's made it clear that if there is another one, it's in the U.S."

Communist rift grows

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — The defense minister sharply criticized the Communist leadership for failing to stop an unprecedented public rift in the Serbian Communist Party and to solve nationwide social and economic problems.

Belgrade residents who watched Serbian leaders argue on live television most of the previous day said they could not remember such a public split in Communist ranks since the party took power after World War II. Belgrade is the federal and Serbian capital.

Teen pilot asks pardon

MOSCOW — Mathias Rust has asked for a pardon of the four-year sentence he received for violating Soviet airspace during a flight from Finland to Moscow's Red Square, the Tass news agency said.

Rust, whose unhindered May 28 flight across hundreds of miles of Soviet airspace prompted a shake-up in the Soviet military, is still being held in a Moscow jail, the official news agency reported in the Thursday dispatch.

Romance still cold after 15 years

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago I had a whirlwind romance with a young man from South America. I married him; only to find out a month later that he was in the United States illegally and was only interested in obtaining residency by marrying a U.S. citizen. I was hurt, packed my things and left him. Shortly after that, he went to his country's embassy. They put him on a cargo plane and sent him "home" at his request.

The problem is, we were never divorced because I was never able to get in touch with him after he left this country. After several months of trying to locate him, I gave up.

Seven years ago, I met a truly wonderful man who wanted to marry me. I said yes, and we were married and now have three children. I finally told him I had never been divorced from my South American husband.

We both want to correct this, but my husband is in the military and I'm afraid it might hurt his military career should this come out.

To whom should we go to talk

Dear Abby

confidentially, and what are the consequences involved for my husband, me and our children? There is no way of getting in touch with my "ex." He disappeared from the face of the earth. Please help me.

WORRIED IN TEXAS
DEAR WORRIED: Talk to a lawyer. Since your marriage to the South American was based on fraud, it could be considered invalid and, therefore, easily annulled, in which case a divorce would not be necessary.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who is currently going out with a guy who will be 19 very soon. I've been dating him for over a year, and in all that time he has never brought up the subject of sex. I think we have a good relationship.

On our last date, he said that he has a really nice night planned for his birthday and he wants me to stay the night. He told me that he would take care of the protection, so I wouldn't have to worry.

I don't know if I am ready for that kind of relationship, but I'm afraid I will lose him if I don't make love to him. I really love him and ant to stay with him. What should I do?

TEMPTED IN UTAH
DEAR TEMPTED: I'm glad you asked. You are far from ready for that kind of relationship. And if you lose him because you don't make love to him, you are well rid of him. Both of you should be aware that sex with a 15-year-old girl in your state is a crime, making the adult male guilty of unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor.

DEAR ABBY: I have a message for "Smart and Confused," who thinks he's smarter than virtually everyone he knows. He said, "After I have started a conversation with anyone from my dentist to my wife, I begin to realize that they are intellectually inferior, and I regard what they have to say as only amusing, if not utterly stupid."

Because I have an IQ of 183, I, too, am smarter than virtually everyone I know. However, I don't know anyone who hasn't taught me something. The only people who have ever bored me are a couple of self-styled geniuses much impressed with their own "superiority." I don't know anyone who hasn't said (or done) something utterly stupid once in a while (including me).

If "Smart and Confused" were a little smarter, he'd know that people with their noses in the air can't see where they're going. Ask him to let you know what he learns when he trips.

By the way, I'm female, married and have two children.
SMART BUT NOT CONFUSED

Military

Cadet Matthew E. Robinson, son of John L. and Sharon L. Robinson of Abilene, received practical work in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Riley, Kan.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadet.

His wife, Christy, is the daughter of Gerald Riggan and Lucille Riggan, both of Lamesa. Robinson is a student at Abilene Christian University.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Linda S. Edwards, whose husband, James, is the son of Marva Edwards of Rural Route 12, recently reported for duty at Naval Air Station, North Island, San Diego.

A 1985 graduate of Streator High School, Streator, Ill. She joined the Navy in February 1986.

Navy Airman Apprentice Jody P. Warren, son of Charles A. and Mary D. Warren of Lamesa, has completed the Basic Avionics (aviation electronics) Technician Course.

During the self-paced course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., Warren received instruction on the fundamentals of electronic circuitry and was introduced to the wide variety of electronic equipment items currently installed aboard Navy and Marine Corps aircraft.

He studied airborne radar, communication and computer equipment, along with the technical manuals, safety precautions and troubleshooting procedures used for maintaining them.

A 1978 graduate of Lamesa High School, he joined the Navy in December 1986.

Club notes

Club learns history of Constitution

Daughters of the American Revolution met for its first meeting of the new year Sept. 16 at the home of Walter Wheat, with Mrs. Curtis Driver, regent, presiding.

The Chapter's National Defense Chairman Margaret Barnett reported on Phyllis Schlafly's article on the defense of our Constitution and a rebuttal of the efforts of the Committee on the Constitutional System, which believes we should revise our Constitution and substitute parliamentary, as exercised by European countries.

The Bicentennial Year of the Signing of the Constitution chairman spoke of the disagreement among the states which Continental Congress had no power to deal and also no power to raise money, said Barnett.

The states were called upon to send delegates to a convention to amend the defects in the Articles of Confederation, by spring of 1787, 55 qualified men worked for four months behind closed doors.

These men were later known as the Founding Fathers of the invention, the Constitution which created a new system of government and remains the document to which Americans turn to in time of crisis.

NARVE members to meet Oct. 15

National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees met at Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center Sept. 16, for a lunch and business meeting, with Billy Marlin, president, presiding.

Mrs. C.C. Nichols, Mrs. J.W. Weidel, and Mrs. Winfred Wood were hostesses.

Mrs. Tip Anderson, who has birthday in September, was present. Mrs. Claudia McCreary, Mrs. H.C.

Mrs. C.G. Barnett presented a program which she displayed a large copy of Howard Chandler Christy's painting of "Signing of the Constitution of the United States."

Christy was commissioned in 1939 to do the painting. After one year's work the painting was completed and unveiled on May 29, 1940. This canvas now hangs in the Capitol of the United States and measures 20 by 30 feet.

Christy spent five years in research and tried to portray this important event as if he had actually been there.

Mrs. Curtis Driver and Mrs. Jack Alexander attended the work shop at Fredericksburg Sept. 14-15.

Mrs. Mike Skalicky and Mrs. C.G. Barnett attended a luncheon in Midland in celebration of the "Signing of the Constitution Week," sponsored by Lt. Wm. Brewer and Col. Theunis Dey, Chapters of the DAR.

Year books were distributed and the budget for the year was accepted.

The next meeting will be Oct. 21 at the home of Miss Helen Ewing.

Scott and Mrs. Bill Marlin were appointed to the refreshment committee.

Members were reminded to write their senator and representative to ask them to vote for HR 2229, S-1155, and H. Con. Res. 133, expressing opposition to the transfer of Railroad Retirement to the Social Security System.

The next meeting will be Oct. 15 at 6:30 p.m.

Poem to be read at Wall ceremony

Howard County Lioness Club conducted its monthly meeting Sept. 21 at the Park Inn.

Guest speaker Sonja Swindell from Big Spring State Hospital, spoke on "Volunteerism." She outlined what patients need for Christmas gifts, and said they are in need of volunteers.

Lioness Clara Justice read a poem written by her son, in memory of the Vietnam veterans, which will also be read at the Wall's opening ceremonies.

Club members will help in lighting the luminaires and volunteering their time while the Wall is here. The club decided to help Helen Crandall, school nurse, pay for medicine for children who are unable to do so.

A report was given by Lioness Betty Franklin on our participation in her special education reading program.

Lioness Sandy Kinnan presented a report on our nursing home program. The club will sponsor seven residents who need a family. We will remember them on their birthdays and other special days.

The next meeting will be Oct. 19 at the Park Inn.

Fire safety

Fire Prevention Week will be observed in Howard County Oct. 4-10. Howard County Farm Bureau Queen Tessa Underwood recently visited a Big Spring fire station with Fire Chief Carl Dorton to emphasize the importance of fire safety.

In a proclamation, County Judge Kirby calls attention to the Oct. 5 NBC prime-time television show "Valerie" which is dedicated to encouraging a nationwide home fire drill in conjunction with this year's theme: "Play It Safe ... Plan Your Escape."

According to the association, 5,580 people died in fires in 1986, a 5.4 percent decrease from the year before when 6,185 people died. Home fires killed 4,655 people, which association officials called "a modest decrease" of 4.7 percent from 1985.

Names in the news

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Cast members of the syndicated television show "Hee Haw" will put away their overalls and don black ties next month Oct. 21 for a tribute to Sam Lovullo, the program's long-time producer.

George Lindsey, who plays "Goober" on the cornpone show, will be emcee of the $75-per-person event on Oct. 21 at Opryland Hotel, organizers said Tuesday.

Lovullo has been producer of the show since 1969 and won an Emmy award in 1971 for the program's computerization and electronic editing.

The Music City Christian Fellowship is sponsoring the tribute. Proceeds will go to charitable projects to be announced later, organizers said.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — An elementary school principal said it was a mistake to cast former White House aide and Watergate figure John Ehrlichman as John Hancock in a ceremony marking the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. Hancock never signed the document in 1787.

Hancock is famous for his oversized signature on the Declaration of Independence signed in 1776.

The costumed role of Hancock, complete with tri-corn hat, was dutifully played at Atalaya Elementary School last week by Ehrlichman, now a Santa Fe novelist with a first-grader attending the school.

Another parent portrayed Benjamin Franklin in the school ceremony.

Principal Rose Ann Sena said the observance in which sixth-grade students signed their own copy of the Constitution wasn't intended to teach that Hancock signed the document.

Of her choice of Hancock, she said, "It's just a really stupid mistake I made."

Ehrlichman, who served in the administration of former President Nixon, could not be reached for comment.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — French mime Marcel Marceau winds up his six-country Latin American tour here with two performances Wednesday and Sunday.

"Being here in a land full of artistic expressions produces a great emotion for me," he told reporters at Mexico City International Airport.

Marceau, dressed in white, held an impromptu news conference after his arrival Monday.

The tour, the mime's seventh one in Latin America, included 42 performances in Argentina, Venezuela, Brazil, Peru and Colombia.

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The first runner-up in the Miss Michigan contest has decided to assume the duties — if not the title — of Kaye Lani Rae Rafko, who abdicated her state crown for the loftier title of Miss America.

Melanie Churella said she told state pageant officials she's willing to make the public appearances that had initially been scheduled for Rafko, who had served as Miss Michigan 1987 for only three months.

Rafko was selected Saturday as Miss America 1988.

"I'm going to be taking over (Rafko's) duties, but I haven't fully decided yet if I'll take over the title," Churella said Tuesday. "If I do, I won't be able to run again next year.

"But I'm going to be 25 next week, and I am getting a little old for this."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Andrei Serban, one of the world's best-known opera directors, is tackling a rarely performed work by Sergei Prokofiev for this month's Los Angeles Festival.

"The Fiery Angel" is performed only occasionally at the Los Angeles Music Center because of the difficulty in singing the leading role and the structure of the script, Serban says.

"This is for me the greatest of all operas," said Serban, who was born in Romania and lives in New York.

The opera tells the story of a woman who has visions of an angel, and of the more down-to-earth man who loves her.

NEW YORK (AP) — Music greats Tony Bennett, Lionel Hampton and George Shearing on Tuesday called for an end to a law that limits jazz bands to three pieces in small cabarets.

City Councilman Stanley Michels on Tuesday introduced an amendment to the administrative code that would abolish the law, which was enacted in 1926 during Prohibition to control speakeasies.

At a City Hall news conference, Michels said the amendment would "bring the city of New York into the modern era."

Shearing, a jazz pianist and composer, called the law archaic and said, "We might as well be talking about not being allowed to park a horse on Fifth Avenue."

Herbs topic at meeting

Rosebud Garden Club began its 1987-88 season at a meeting Sept. 15 at the home of Mrs. Walter H. Christensen.

Mrs. Clyde Angel, guest speaker, presented a program on herbs. "God created herbs for the Garden of Eden and since then man has used these in many ways — for food, medicine, love potions, and beauty aids, or simply for their beauty and fragrance," she said.

"The oldest medical manuscript known to man, Papyrus Ebers, was discovered stuck between the knees of an Egyptian mummy. When translated, it revealed startling information about the art of healing with plants as practiced by early man," she continued.

"There should always be a spot in your garden reserved for herbs — in the ground, in pots or in barrels — always as close to your kitchen as possible," she added.

She concluded her talk with this thought: "Planting herbs is planting happiness."

As Bork hearings continue legal authorities testifying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee is resuming hearings on the nomination of Robert H. Bork to the Supreme Court with more American Bar Association leaders testifying for and against the nominee.

The hearings, now concluding their second week, were in recess Thursday for the celebration of the Jewish new year.

Four separate panels of ABA leaders and law school professors, two supporting and two opposing the nomination, were among the scheduled witnesses today.

The hearings will continue Monday and could carry over into a fourth week, overlapping the beginning of the new Supreme Court term on Oct. 5.

President Reagan chose Bork, a federal appeals court judge, to replace retired Justice Lewis F. Powell. The court, now with eight members, will open the new term with a vacancy on the bench.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., the Judiciary Committee chairman, has said he hopes to wrap up the hearings early next month.

The committee, controlled by an 8-6 Democratic majority, is sharply divided on the nomination. But Biden and others have said they favor sending the nomination to the full Senate even if a majority on the panel opposes Bork's confirmation.

Bork testified for a record five days last week, and this week witnesses for and against the nominee have had their turn.

Meanwhile, public opinion polls show an increasing number of Americans with an unfavorable opinion of Bork.

A New York Times-CBS News poll reported that of 836 adults surveyed Sept. 21-22, after Bork testified, 26 percent said they had an unfavorable opinion of the nominee; 16 percent had a favorable opinion; and 57 percent were undecided or had no opinion.

The survey found when the same question was asked Sept. 9-10, before the hearings began, 12 percent said they had an unfavorable opinion of Bork; 11 percent had a favorable opinion; and 77 percent had no opinion.

A Washington Post-ABC poll completed Wednesday and published today shows no significant difference in those who approve of Bork's nomination, from 45 percent on Aug. 5 to 44 percent in the latest poll. But it shows 48 percent disapproving, compared with 44 percent in the earlier survey. Those with no opinion had dropped from 16 percent to 8 percent.

Both polls have a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

On Thursday, the Teamsters union joined a chorus of other unions in opposing Bork's confirmation.

Teamsters President Jackie Presser said his union, the nation's largest with 1.7 million members, had waited until after Bork's testimony last week to see if "he might demonstrate some reconsideration of his opinions regarding workers' rights before the bench." "Unfortunately, the judge managed only to reaffirm those positions," Presser said in a letter this week to Biden. The union made copies of the letter available Thursday.

The AFL-CIO in August condemned Reagan's nomination of Bork and vowed an all-out fight to have it defeated in the Senate.

Since then several other unions not affiliated with the labor federation also have come out in opposition to Bork.

Hearings review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confirmation hearings for Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork entered their ninth day today following a one-day recess for the Jewish new year.

Here is a brief look at today's session:

WITNESSES: A panel on equal protection rights with Shirley Huftedler, Barbara Babcock, Sylvia Law and Wendy Williams; an American Bar Association panel with Chesterfield Smith, Robert Meserve and Robert Kaufmann; former Attorney General Griffin Bell; an academic panel opposing the nomination with Robert Bennett, Paul Gewirtz, Owen Fiss, Tom Grey and Judith Resnick; and one favoring the nomination with Daniel Meador, George Priest, John Simon and John Baker.

PLACE: Senate Caucus Room in Russell Office Building.

LATEST TESTIMONY: Former Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Lloyd Cutler, former counsel to President Carter, testified in support of Bork on Wednesday. Cutler warned Democrats that a future Democratic president might be hurt by the current fight, should the Democrat one day try to place a liberal on the court.

TELEVISION: Public broadcasting stations and Cable News Network providing live coverage. C-Span providing delayed coverage at night.

Real estate scam sells scrubland

DALLAS — The Federal Trade Commission is trying to locate Dallas-area residents who might have been victimized by allegedly deceptive advertising that led them to purchase West Texas scrubland for 10 times what officials say it was worth.

Officials say more than 2,000 unsuspecting buyers from across the country paid up to $1,200 an acre for the land after seeing television commercials and brochures promoting 40,000 remote acres in West Texas as an ideal place for a country home or retirement ranch.

Most of the investors bought the land site unseen. The nearest airport, in El Paso, is 120 miles away.

Had they wanted water, drilling would have cost up to $10,000. And hooking into the nearest electrical line could have cost another $12,000.

So undesirable is the land that the only real estate broker in nearby Van Horn, the Culberson County seat of 3,400 residents, refused to list it, believing banks would not finance loans to buy the property.

"It's really just flat land with a lot of brush with desert-type conditions," said Curtistene McCowan, a consumer protection specialist with the Federal Trade Commission's regional office in Dallas.

Now, after ordering three companies to stop allegedly deceptive sales pitches, the FTC is suing Southwest Sunsites Inc., Green Valley Acres Inc., and Green Valley Acres Inc. II, to recover the difference between the value of the land and what 2,600 investors paid for their parcels. Although the amount has not been determined, McCowan said the FTC stands to recover "millions" if it wins the suit filed in a U.S. District Court in California, where the companies are based.

McCowan said the companies at one time had a Dallas sales office, and the FTC says purchasers might be eligible to recover some of the money they lost.

Buyers from as far away as North Dakota — and one from Tuvalu, an island nation in the South Pacific — paid between $600 and $1,200 an acre for parcels that ranged from five to 40 acres. The purchases took place between 1973 and 1986, when the FTC ordered a halt to what it called deceptive sales pitches and forced the companies to notify buyers of what they really had on their hands.

A land expert for the FTC has valued the property in Culberson and Jeff Davis counties near New Mexico at $53 to $110 an acre, depending on the size of the parcel.

"It blows your mind that some people would see (the brochures and commercials) and not think that this is a part of the country where this can't be," McCowan said. "People may not take the time to really explore before they spend their money."

Before they were halted, the ads and sales pitches described the arid parcels as places where people could build homes and farm fruits and vegetables, McCowan said. In the administrative hearing leading to the 1986 order, the FTC presented evidence that bringing irrigation to a 5-acre garden or farm could cost up to $20,000.

"They claimed you could do anything with the land," McCowan said.

SATISFACTION IS OUR PLEDGE TO YOU

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Big Spring (2-1) at Sweetwater (1-1)

This game pits two running, defensive oriented teams that have both shown an early season tendency towards the turnover. It also pits two of the top district teams, so the outcome is sure to make waves in the playoff picture.

Though the two teams hadn't played for years before last year's clash, you get the feeling a rivalry has already been established. The Steers won last year, handing the Mustangs their first district loss in years. It's a good bet the Mustangs and their fans didn't appreciate it, and are more than looking forward to this game.

Friday's action will feature an enticing clash of strength against strength — Sweetwater's super running back Kenneth Norman against the Steers' very strong running defense.

Sweetwater has only passed 15 times in two games, and the Steers have gone to the airways 28 times.

The team that wins this game will be the team that can stop the others' running backs and hold the turnovers to a minimum.

And it's the opinion here that the Steers have more weapons.

BIG SPRING 22, SWEETWATER 21

Greenwood (1-2) at Forsan (2-1)

Though Greenwood beat Stanton, Stanton beat Coahoma, and Coahoma beat Forsan, last year Rice probably beat somebody who beat somebody who beat somebody who beat Miami. In other words, so what.

And one more thing — the Forsan Buffaloes haven't lost two games in a row since before they invented the face mask. Well, maybe not that long, but you get the idea.

The Buffaloes' most pressing question so far has been their defense. The offense has looked good.

Greenwood's Randy Donnell returned the opening kickoff 87 yards against Stanton, and it's not the only time Donnell has brought one back this season. The Buffaloes' special teams must contain him.

They will, and Jan East's squad will be back on the winning track.

FORSAN 28, GREENWOOD 12

Plains (2-1) at Stanton (2-1)

The Buffalos spotted Greenwood 19 first quarter points last week, and weren't able to play catch-up.

Coach Dale Ruth is hoping his squad can return to the form of two weeks ago, when Stanton dominated Coahoma. In that game, the Buffalos' offensive and defensive lines made the difference.

Look for the Buffalos' line power, their experienced senior quarterback and their abundance of good running backs to make the difference.

STANTON 19, PLAINS 14

Colorado City (2-1) at Ballinger (3-0)

When Wolves' coach Tom Ramsey looked at his schedule, he saw two things he didn't like. Those two things were Post and Ballinger. Both are 3A nightmares for opposing teams.

Last week it was Post and their strong running back Ben Kirkpatrick. This week it's district, Ballinger and their all-state candidate, Terry Strambler.

Last week Post won 40-6. Last year Ballinger beat the Wolves 32-7. It will take an incredible effort from Beau Rees and gang to win this one.

BALLINGER 27, COLORADO CITY 12

Robert Lee (3-0) at Garden City (2-1)

Actually, both of these teams are 2-1. Robert Lee lost badly to Rotan, but the Yellow Hammers were later disqualified for playing two ineligible players.

The Barkats, with a new coach and a couple of new players, are a whole different team than the one that went 1-9 last year. Last week they won on an improbable last-second miracle, but should have won the game anyway.

Look for the good times to continue in G-City.

GARDEN CITY 12, ROBERT LEE 6

Grady (1-2) at Loop (1-1-1)

The Grady Wildcats are riding high after snapping a 12-game losing streak last Friday against Highland. Coach Mike Mathis' young squad finally found what it takes to beat somebody decisively.

It's a great feeling and the Wildcats plan on feeling that way again. In the Loop Longhorns Grady has a formidable district-opening opponent to keep the winning streak going against.

Loop has strong winning tradition, the home field advantage and a mean running back-defensive end named David Davis.

Davis will earn his yards this game because Grady won't get kicked around anymore. Grady will play well, but not well enough to win. The winning streak will have to start all over.

LOOP 35, GRADY 21

Abilene Wylie (1-2) at Coahoma (2-1)

It's the battle of the Bulldogs and Coahoma is pumped and ready to go in their homecoming clash and league opener.

Coahoma proved it's a pretty good team in last week's upset win over Forsan. If the Coahoma offense can lend a little more help to running back Matt Rowell, there's no telling how good Coahoma can be.

Wylie will bring its vaunted passing attack against a stingy Coahoma defense. Coahoma's secondary will get tested and James White and Rowell will have to hold it together.

There'll be some scary moments for the home team along the way. But the secondary will barley pass the test and the Coahoma offense will do what it has to do.

The exes won't be disappointed.

COAHOOMA 22, WYLIE 20

Dawson (1-2) at Sands (2-1)

The Dawson Dragons were picked to finish last in district. This game will let the others know Dawson shouldn't be taken lightly.

Meanwhile the Sands Mustangs are picked to finish first in the district, so this game should be a rout, right? Wrong. Dawson will catch the Mustangs napping in the first half, but Chad Nichols and company will wake up in a hurry in the second half.

Dawson isn't that bad of a team.

SANDS 42, DAWSON 30

Borden County (1-2) at Klondike (2-1)

District opener for the Coyotes and Cougars and it's promises to be a howler.

Both teams play their best when it counts — that means district. Both teams play good defense so you can count on a real head-knocker. Give this one to Klondike because of the home field advantage and its many offensive weapons.

NFL strike

Majority of locals side with league owners

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

The 28 National Football League owners would probably be pleased with the results of our very informal poll taken this week in Big Spring.

Twelve people — nine men and three women — were contacted at the Howard County Fair and at Howard College on Wednesday and Thursday.

Four of the 12 vociferously opposed the players, two supported the players, and five others leaned towards supporting the owners, though with reservations.

Ronnie Schmidt, 1106 Birdwell Lane, did not have any such reservations.

"As far as I'm concerned, they can tell all those guys who walked out of camp that your contract is null and void and that you can start with a new contract when you come back — renegotiate," he said.

Schmidt believes that if free agency is allowed, then the NFL would be unbalanced. Free agency, which is a part of professional baseball and basketball, is the players' main grievance in the strike.

"The team that has the most money would go to the Super Bowl every year," he said.

"I'll watch those scabs," Schmidt added. Noel Harvell, Route 1, Box 664, worked for Cosden for 37 years. He said if he would have moved to Snyder he wouldn't have "carried a thing."

In other words, Harvell didn't have free agency either.

"I'm a union man, and have been for 40 years, but I think they're pricing themselves out. Really and truly, I'm not for the owners or players — they're just pricing themselves out," he said.

"No baseball or football player is worth two or three million — you know that as well as I do. Take that Walker (Herschel Walker, Dallas Cowboys' running back), he made two runs at the one yard-line and ended up at the four. Is he worth three million dollars?" Harvell said.

Gloria Pettersen, 2715 Lynn Dr., is, like the other women we talked to, a football fan.

"It's ridiculous," she said, "because they make enough already."

When pressed, however, Pettersen said, "Well I'm for the players, but they don't need to strike. But I'm not for the owners."

"Somebody's going to think that's a contradiction," she said, finally admitting that, like most of the country, she is confused by the strike.

Pettersen said she wishes they would hurry and resolve the issue.

Rough picket line

Members of the Indianapolis Colts football team throw eggs and block the path of a bus as it tries to leave the Colts training facility in Indianapolis Thursday evening. The bus was carrying replacement players who had just finished their first practice since the NFL strike. It was also reported that a window was broken out on the bus.

Californian leading Southwest golf

ABILENE (AP) — With his wife as a caddy and a song in his heart, Bob Lunn, a name from the past, is putting his stamp on the $400,000 Southwest Golf Classic.

The 42-year-old Californian hovered within a shot of the lead entering today's second round, and despite his age and experience, he looked like a kid with a piece of candy on his way to the circus.

"Golf is starting to become fun again," he said Thursday after firing a 6-under-par 66, a stroke off the pace set by first-round leader Bob Eastwood.

Lunn, winner of six tour events during a four-year span ending in 1972, abandoned the circuit in frustration nearly eight years ago, choosing the less-frenetic lifestyle of a club professional.

But he said his game improved, his confidence returned and with wife Brooke as his caddy, he ventured out again this year, finishing in the money only twice but barely missing the cut on several occasions.

Lunn shared second place with Dan Forsman, Dan Halldorson, Bob Lohr and Frank Connor in the chase for the $72,000 first prize, but Eastwood has found the 7,189-yard Fairway Oaks to his liking.

The bogey-free round included a 5-under-par 31 on the back nine despite the fact that he failed to birdie any of the par 5s, normally the easiest birdie holes.

"I played the par 5s horrid," he said, but insisted that he was more interested in live birds than the golfing kind.

"Golf just gets in the way of my hunting," he said. "I do a lot of dove hunting. I came down here to have a good time. I don't get to shoot birds like this in California."

Jacksonville turns down Oilers' offer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Oilers, considering a possible move to Jacksonville, asked officials here to host a Monday night scrimmage with the New Orleans Saints while the regular players are on strike, a television station reported Thursday.

But Jacksonville Mayor Tommy Hazouri said "no thank you" Thursday to the offer made Wednesday by Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog, WJXT-TV in Jacksonville reported.

"As chairman of the House Retirement, Personnel and Collective Bargaining Committee for six years in the Florida Legislature, the mayor understands the delicate nature of labor negotiations," said Mitch Attalla, Hazouri's chief aide.

The proposed Gator Bowl contest would have been played by free agents signed to play until the strike by the National Football League Players Association is resolved, Attalla said. The Oilers and Saints have a regularly scheduled game Dec. 13 in New Orleans.

The Associated Press was unable to reach an Oilers spokesman by telephone at home Thursday night.

Herzog and Oilers' owner Bud Adams have been negotiating with Astrodom officials as well as a group of Jacksonville businessmen to determine where the NFL franchise will play next year.

The Oilers' contract with the Astrodome expires at the end of this season.

Meanwhile, the Houston Sports Association is offering a new proposal to keep the Houston Oilers in the Astrodome, but an underdog bid from nearby Pasadena also is getting some attention.

Porker win over Miami will put SWC on map

By The Associated Press
The Arkansas Razorbacks have a chance to put the Southwest Conference back on the national football map in a big way.

The 10th-ranked Razorbacks host the fifth-ranked Hurricane Saturday in a nationally televised (ESPN) 3 p.m. clash in War Memorial Stadium at Little Rock Arkansas, the SWC preseason favorite, is the only unbeaten team left in the league.

Odds makers have installed Miami as a touchdown favorite.

Texas A&M, a 29-12 upset winner over 10th-ranked Washington last week, takes its brand new Top 20 ranking (16th) to Jackson, Miss., to meet Southern Mississippi. The defending SWC champion Aggies are 13-point favorites over the Golden Eagles.

A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill will wait until game time to decide between senior Craig Stump or red-shirt freshman Lance Pavlas on his starting quarterback.

Freshman running sensation Randy Simmons also is expected to make his 1987 debut. Sherrill had planned to use Simmons against

Washington, but changed his mind and held him out.

The SWC regular season officially opens this week as Baylor entertains Texas Tech at high noon in a regionally televised (Raycom) game in Waco.

Tech, which has rallied for two victories after an opening loss to Florida State, rated a two-point underdog to the Bears, who also own a 2-1 ledger.

In other games, Sam Houston is at Houston with the Cougars favored by three touchdowns. Southwest Texas is at Rice with the Owls a field-goal choice and Texas tries to get David McWilliams his first Longhorn coaching victory when it hosts Oregon State.

The Longhorns rated a 10-point pick over Oregon State.

Tech's high-powered offense will test Baylor's secondary, which rates second in the nation, allowing just 89 yards per game.

"We will know after Saturday just how good the secondary is," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "Texas Tech has the best offense in the Southwest Conference with good quarterbacks and receivers."

Football roundup

GOLIAD STAYS PERFECT
Both the Goliad A and B teams ran their records to 3-0 by defeating Sweetwater Thursday night at Blankenship Field.

The Goliad A team downed the visitors 24-0. Josh Sosa scored two touchdowns and Tim Pearson and Kyle Plumlee scored one touchdown each.

Goliad coaches credited Marcus Yanez, David Gerhart, Richie Saint, Kevin Billings, Cody Jobe and Dennis Poulette with playing outstanding defensive games.

The Goliad A team soundly whipped Sweetwater 38-6.

Alonzo Lucas led Goliad with TD runs of 64 and 45 yards. He also ran in one two-point conversion. Rodney Price scored on an eight-yard run and ran in two conversions.

Also getting into the scoring picture were Lupe Hinojos, five-yard run; Klay Klatt, one-yard run and James Statham ran in a conversion.

Goliad coaches credited Jason Ogle, Robert Ovalle, T.L. Rogers, Salvador Trevino, Mike Ross, Steve Robles, Richard Hain and Daniel Joslyn, with playing good games.

FROSH RIDE MUSTANGS
The Big Spring freshmen Steer footballers ran over the Sweetwater Mustangs 20-8 Thursday night in Memorial Stadium.

It was "Neal Mayfield's Hour" as the elusive running back gave Sweetwater fits. Mayfield rushed for 253 yards in 10 carries while scoring on a 70-yard run and a 61-yard punt return. He also had a 76-yard TD called back because of a penalty.

Fellow running back Jermaine Miller also had a big night. Miller gained 79 yards in nine carries and scored on a one-yard run. Like Mayfield, Miller had his share of real estate called back for violations. Miller had an 85-yard run and a 80-yard interception return whistled back.

Freshmen coach Tom Posey credited his offensive line of Roman Ortega, Mike Wert, Santos Martinez and Chris Ward with playing outstanding games.

The Steers frosh are now 3-0 for the season.

GARDEN CITY BLASTS ROBERT LEE

ROBERT LEE — The Garden City junior high gridders defeated Robert Lee 36-14 Thursday night action.

Garden City struck first in the opening quarter when Tony Aragon made 15-yard run. Mario Aguilar ran in the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter Garden City's Tony Aragon made an 18-yard TD run. The PAT run failed.

Also in second quarter action, James Soles scored on a 37-yard run. Aragon ran in the two-point conversion giving Garden City a 22-0 lead.

Just before half, Robert Lee's Chris Marquez scored on a three-yard run. The two-point conversion run by Marquez was good.

On opening second half kickoff, Soles returned it for 67 yards to the score. Andy Lopez ran in the conversion, giving Garden City a 30-8 lead.

Also in third quarter action, Garden City scored its final TD on a 20-yard run by Jody Bradford.

SWEETWATER SWEEPS RUNNELS

SWEETWATER — The Runnels A team suffered their first loss in two seasons as they were defeated 14-8 by Sweetwater Thursday night.

Runnels had its chances, but fumbled three times inside the Sweetwater 10-yard line.

Sweetwater scored on its opening drive of the game. The Mustangs took a 14-0 lead when they scored again early in the fourth quarter. Runnels came back and scored on a 53-yard pass play from Gerald Cobos to Cort Petterson. The duo hooked-up again for the two-point conversion.

Runnels was driving for the tying score when time ran out with Runnels on the Sweetwater 25-yard line.

Runnels coaches said that Pat Chavarria, John Downey and Kevin Rodgers all played good defensive games. Runnels A is 2-1 for the season.

The Runnels B team dropped a 8-0 decision to Sweetwater. The only score of the game came in the second quarter. Runnels B never mounted a scoring threat.

Runnels coaches said Gilbert Sanchez, Nick Roberson and Brad Pearson all played good defensive games.

The Steers had the tying TD called back in the final quarter. Big Spring was hampered by two fumbles and two interceptions.

Strike

"I sure don't want to watch Canadian football," she said. Leo Williams, 2705 E. 24th, believes free agency is a right the players deserve.

"Tomorrow you could quit your job and go work somewhere else if you wanted," Williams said.

"I'm not mad at the players, I'm mad at the owners," he added. Despite his opposition to the owners, Williams will watch the "scabs."

"I'll watch any kind of football. I've always liked the CFL (Canadian Football League) — it's better than nothing," he said.

"I think the players are crazy as hell. That's what I think about it," said Roger Miller, 1003 Washington St.

"I think they're just a bunch of overpaid bums," he said, adding that he'll miss watching football on Sundays.

"I'll miss it, but I can always find something else to do," he said. Alex Calvio, a member of the Big Spring Fire Department, strongly supports the owners.

"I think what the team owners ought to do is fire all of them, and hire the ones that want to play football. That way we can see football players, not just overpaid jocks. That's how I feel," Calvio said.

Mrs. Horace Tubb, Box 158-C, has tickets for the Cowboys' game against Philadelphia on Oct. 11.

"Well, we kept them, and we're going to go ahead and see it anyway," she said. "We go every year. Last year we saw them play the Redskins and beat the Redskins."

"It won't be the same though," she said. While Tubb would rather see the real Cowboys than their substitutes, she says she's been too busy working at the fair to form any opinions on the strike.

Kenny Jones, the manager for the Howard College Hawks basketball team, mourns the strike for two reasons.

"I don't think they should have one," Jones said. "People want to have something to do on Sundays. And we'll probably end up having more practices on Sundays instead of getting to watch football."

Jones supports the players, and hopes the owners give in.

"I would think the players are right. They deserve to be able to go to other teams; but they should have to stay at a team at least a year before they decide," he said.

Howard College Hawk-Queens' coach Don Stevens said he supports the owners, but his mind could change any minute.

"I can see the players' side as far as being enslaved for an indefinite period of time, but to be honest, I have to side with the owners. You get a limit with the bottomless bucket. Where do you draw the line?" he asked, referring to escalating player salaries.

"(But) every time I get to arguing one side or another, I can see the other side. There are points on both sides. Just about the time I feel like I have an argument for the owners, I turn around.

"But there's got to be a compromise," Stevens said.

Blue Jays win game but lose star player

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Blue Jays won the game but lost a lot more. And they were as mad as dogs about it.

Tony Fernandez, Toronto's All-Star shortstop and offensive catalyst, was sidelined for the remainder of the season Thursday night after a hard — some said illegal — slide by Detroit's Bill Madlock in a game the Blue Jays won 4-3.

Toronto extended its lead to 1 1/2 games over the Tigers in the American League East by taking back together.

Twins 4, Rangers 0
Frank Viola and Minnesota kept winning at the Metrodome as the Twins beat Texas for their sixth straight victory and closed in on their first division title since 1970.

Viola, 17-9, pitched three-hit ball for eight innings and won his ninth straight decision at home. The Twins have won seven in a row at the Metrodome and are 55-23 at home, the best mark in the majors.

Viola struck out 10 and lowered his earned run average to 2.88, second-best in the league. Juan Berenguer pitched a hitless ninth, striking out three more Rangers.

White Sox 4, Athletics 2
Floyd Bannister continued his late surge with a five-hitter as Chicago won in Oakland.

Bannister, 14-11, won for the 10th time in his last 12 decisions. He extended his string of scoreless innings to 28 1/3 before Dwayne Murphy homered with two outs in the eighth. Bannister struck out seven and walked none in his 11th complete game.

Mark McGwire hit his 47th home run, tying him with Toronto's George Bell for the major league lead, in the Oakland ninth after striking out in his previous three at-bats.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 6
Mike Felder singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning and Milwaukee beat visiting Boston.

B.J. Surhoff led off with a double against Joe Sambito, 2-5, and took third on Ernest Riles' sacrifice. Felder then met reliever Calvin Schiraldi with a single to right field.

American League

ing the opener of a four-game series. Fernandez's fractured right elbow, however, had some Blue Jays talking about more than winning.

"Hard play and dirty play is different," Toronto rookie second baseman Nelson Liriano said. "(Detroit shortstop Alan) Trammell's got to take care now."

The play that could most influence Toronto's season came in the third inning after Madlock led off with a single. Kirk Gibson grounded into a forceout at second base, and Madlock appeared to go out of the basepath and crash into Fernandez.

Fernandez's elbow came down on a wooden border that separates the artificial turf from the dirt sliding area at Exhibition Stadium. The game was delayed for six minutes while Fernandez was examined on the field, and he was taken to Mount Sinai Hospital, where surgery was performed to wire his elbow

Speedy Cardinals run to 3-2 win over Pirates

By The Associated Press
With the kind of running game the St. Louis Cardinals have, pinch-hitter Lance Johnson figured it was best to keep the ball on the ground.

Johnson's bases-loaded force play grounder with no outs scored Willie McGee with St. Louis' second run of the ninth inning as the Cardinals beat Pittsburgh 3-2 Thursday night at Busch Stadium.

The victory increased St. Louis' lead to 3 1/2 games over the second-place New York Mets in the National League East and reduced its magic number to seven for a third divisional title in six years. The Mets lost 5-4 to Montreal in New York.

National League

"I was just trying to hit the ball hard," Johnson said. "Basically, I wanted to hit the ball on the ground or hit a line drive through the infield — as long as I made contact."

Dan Driessen grounded a single to right field off reliever Jeff Robinson, 8-9, to start the Cardinals' ninth. Curt Ford pinch ran for Driessen and advanced to third when McGee singled off second baseman Jose Lind's glove into center field. Jim Gott relieved, and Terry Pendleton hit a double to tie the score 2-2.

After John Morris was intentionally walked to load the bases, Johnson, who was pinch hitting for Tony Pena, hit a hard grounder to third.

Darnell Coles made a diving stop, but his only play was to force Pendleton as McGee scored to give the Cardinals their 49th come-from-behind victory of the year.

"I'd rather win 15-0," Pendleton said. Robinson said the bad hop single by McGee was the key to the Cardinals' winning rally.

Ricky Horton, 8-3, picked up the victory for St. Louis.

Bobby Bonilla's two-run pinch double in the seventh inning had given the Pirates a 2-1 lead.

Driessen's one-out RBI single gave St. Louis a 1-0 lead in the sixth against starter Bob Walk.

Expos 5, Mets 4
Andres Galarraga hit a two-run homer and Dennis Martinez beat New York for the fourth time this season as the Expos took the Mets at Shea Stadium.

Martinez, 11-3, pitched five innings, allowing four hits as Montreal moved to within a half-game of the second-place Mets. Martinez, in his 22nd start since being acquired from Indianapolis on June 8, got his fourth straight victory. The Expos are 19-3 in games Martinez has started.

The Expos trail St. Louis by four games. Andy McGaffigan followed with two innings of two-hit relief. Tim Burke pitched 1 1/3 innings. Bob McClure got one out in the ninth, and Randy St. Claire got Gary Carter to ground out to third with bases loaded to end the game.

Reds 5, Padres 4
Barry Larkin's double snapped a sixth-inning tie and lifted Cincinnati over visiting San Diego despite a record-tying single by rookie Benito Santiago.

Santiago hit safely in his 26th consecutive game to tie the modern major-league mark for rookies set by Guy Cartwright of the Chicago White Sox in 1943. The all-time rookie streak was set in 1899 by James Williams, who hit in 27 games for Pittsburgh.

"For me it means a lot of things," Santiago said. "It's my rookie year, so when I put that kind of number out there, I have to feel good."

Phillies 3, Cubs 2
Darren Daulton led off the 11th inning with his third home run as Philadelphia beat Chicago at Wrigley Field.

Daulton's homer into the right-field bleachers came on a 3-2 pitch from reliever Jay Baller, 0-1. Steve Bedrosian, 5-2, picked up the victory, pitching hitless ball over the final three innings.

Braves 8, Astros 7
Dale Murphy's run-scoring infield single with two outs in the ninth, making lifted host Atlanta over Houston, eliminating the defending NL West champion Astros from the race.

Murphy also had a two-run homer, an RBI double and a single in the game as he reached the 100-RBI mark for the fifth time in six seasons.

Religion roundup
WASHINGTON (AP) — Worried by indications of rising distrust in fund appeals by some religious organizations, a surge of new members has joined the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability.
Now totalling 400, members have to commit their organizations to various standards of financial responsibility, including issuance of regular, independently audited reports of receipts and spending.
Arthur C. Borden, ECFA president, said there has been an unprecedented growth in memberships in 1987, with 65 religious organizations becoming new members since the start of the year.
"Scandals in Christian ministries have created a concern by donors about how their gifts are used," says Gordon Loux, ECFA board chairman, who also is president of Prison Fellowship, a member.
The 400th organization joining was InterServe, which provides medical, educational and technical aid for ministries in South Asia and the Middle East.
Its executive director, Ralph W. Eckardt Jr., said it already had accountability standards but joined ECFA to assure constituents "that we do everything possible to be accountable to them" in "this upsetting time for some Christian ministries."

COLLINGSWOOD, N.J. (AP) The Rev. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist leader, has sent an open letter to Pope John Paul II, saying his visit has revealed to Americans his backing of Marxist ideas and "an apostate super world church."
McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches, made up of separatist, mostly smaller denominations, says the pope left "Bible-believing Christians better equipped to testify to lost Roman Catholics ..."

THE LOVE OF GOD PROVIDES US WITH THE BLAZE OF AUTUMN

With the heat of the summer beginning to wane
And the signs of the year growing old,
Comes a season providing the frost and the rain
While the leaves change to scarlet and gold,
For a moment of glory before they turn brown
And descend to the earth everywhere,
As a cold gust of wind sends them fluttering down
Where the bonfire smoke fills the air.
It's a time for the harvest of orchard and field,
While the earth's brilliant colors appear;
Then the love of the Lord is so brightly revealed
When the season of autumn is here.

Pastor Stephen Bates stands in front of a new church the Gospel Lighthouse at 14th and Goliad streets.

Gospel Lighthouse opens new location

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

Gospel Lighthouse, 14th and Goliad streets, conducted its first church service at its new location May 31, featuring its specialty — the full gospel.

"We teach the entire Bible — that's why we call it a full gospel church," said Stephen Bates, pastor.

"We also teach you can fall from grace, if you quit living for the Lord," said Bates.

Bates began pastoring in 1972 at a pioneer church in Portland, Tenn. "I was overseas for four years in Africa, where I helped build a large Bible School. I have a pioneer spirit. When a church gets large I believe members should start a new church," said Bates.

A truck driver for NAPA Auto Parts, Bates reduced his hours at work to devote more time to the church.

First services were in members' homes beginning May 13 at the home of Robert Pruitt, 2309 Brent; Ron Coker, 2311 Brent; and Dale and Wanda Young, 2903 Lawrence, said Bates.

"We are a non-denominational church. Anyone is welcome to our services," he added.

"We are fundamentally Pentecost. The doctrine of our church is 'The Acts of the Apostles,'" said Bates.

"We preach from the book of Acts as well as the rest of the Bible. It's a history of the early church, and there are miracles and healings there. We feel the same powers the early church had are ours too," said Bates.

"I believe there are christians in all churches — but some of them (churches) don't teach baptism and the Holy Spirit with the evidence of speaking in tongues," said Bates.

"That's what makes us different — the fact that Pentecosts preach on the evidence of speaking in tongues," said Bates.

Member Wanda Young said she first heard someone speaking in tongues when she was 13 years old. "We were in a tent with sawdust on the floor. There were very few people there — but you could feel the spirit of the Lord so strong. That's when I heard people speaking in tongues," said Young.

"I was so excited. The pastor explained speaking in tongues. I read about it in the Bible. I was so hungry to receive the Holy Spirit," said Young.

"One summer after lunch we had a revival, so I went to church to pray. As soon as I fell on my knees to pray I received the Holy Spirit. Then I began speaking in tongues. It was wonderful," said Young.

"This is why our church is the Gospel Lighthouse — we want to spread the gospel in Big Spring," she added.

"We have been here 3 1/2 months and we're really doing well," said Bates.

"We have been blessed financially and spiritually. We've bought a new air conditioner, chairs, song books, and we're looking for an organ," said Bates.

The church has 21 members and averages 51 in attendance at the 11 a.m. worship service, and there are approximately 40 in attendance at the 6 p.m. evening services. They meet at 7 p.m. for Wednesday evening services, said Bates.

Six new members will be received Oct. 4, he added.

"We like singing and we have quite a lot of singing at our services. We'll have a gospel-singing Oct. 24. Anyone from any church is invited to come and sing," said Bates.

"You can be a christian and have fun," he added.

"We are a ministry to the people. We don't have a dress code. I would hate to keep people from coming to church because they think they have to wear really nice clothes," said Bates.

Children's church is conducted at 11 a.m. for children from preschool to 12 years old. The program is geared for children to learn and understand, said Bates.

"We give the children a New Testament if they don't have a Bible. I think we have a real good program for the children. We also have a nursery," he added.

Campers-On-Mission to meet at rally

Texas recreational vehicle owners, who are members of the Baptist Home Mission Board, Campers-On-Mission, will rally at Circle 6 Ranch Baptist Camp, 7 miles north of Stanton on Highway 137, Oct. 2-4. Approximately 50 to 55 RV owners are expected to attend, said Edna Ames, member.

The group meets twice yearly for a three-day rally, followed by a two-week construction and building repair work project.

During this session buildings at Circle 6 Ranch that have been wind damaged will be repaired.

The COM has been organized for many years, but only recently have West Texans and Big Spring residents, become involved, said Ames.

The work of COM is sponsored by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, Atlanta, Ga., and the Texas Baptist General Convention of Texas in Dallas, said Ames.

The desire of the COM is to extend the ministry of the church by sharing Christ, witnessing, and building for the glory of God, she added.

The program will be highlighted by guest speakers, Dr. Daniel Vestal, pastor at First Baptist Church in Midland; Dr. C.Y. Dossey, retired Baptist minister from Dallas; Dr. L.L. Richardson and Rev. Doyle Hughes, representatives of the Baptist General Convention of Texas; Tim Thornton, minister of music at First Baptist Church in Big Spring; and the Singles Ensemble of First Baptist Church, Big Spring, which will provide the special music.

Local RV owners planning to attend are: Mr. and Mrs. Welby Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. V.V. Ames.

Anyone interested in participating in this mission may contact Charles Carpenter, area coordinator for West Texas, 1721 E. 10th St., Odessa, Texas 79761, or call 915-332-6377.

Baptist Temple to host revival

Baptist Temple Church, 400 11th Place, will host a "Believe and Belong Revival," Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Dr. Nelson Lanham, who pastored at First Baptist Church in Ozona for 12 years, will be the evangelist, said Pastor Lee Rodgers.

Bob Beasley, minister of music, will lead the singing. Jim and Debbie Grimes will be the guests soloists for Sunday services. Other local talent will sing each night, said Rodgers.

The public is invited to attend Monday through Wednesday for noon services, featuring pot-luck dinners daily. Monday through Wednesday evening services begin at 7 p.m., said Rodgers.

Survey shows Catholics want democratic church

NEW YORK (AP) — A panel of sociologists, analyzing results of a survey into unexplored areas, say it points up strongly that American Roman Catholics want a more democratic church.

They particularly want a share in decision-making at the parish level, but majorities also think they should have a part in determining policies at the diocesan level, and at the top, the Vatican.

"In the face of continual statements by the church hierarchy that this is not a democratic organization, the people are saying they want it to be," says William D'Antonio of Storrs, Conn., executive officer of the American Sociological Association.

Mary Ann Lamanna, a sociologist at the University of Nebraska in Omaha, said the "most striking" finding is "a tremendous commitment to the church, yet a strong preference for democracy."

The results, she says, also show a "strong expectation of individual conscience as the arbiter of decisions," a self-determining streak about personal matters also brought out in other studies.

The sociologists developed a special poll conducted by the Gallup organization for the National Catholic Reporter, which is based in Kansas City. Their comments were carried in the Sept. 11 issue.

"This is the most reliable voice of the laity that's available," says sociologist Dean R. Hoge of the Catholic University of America. "No poll in the history of Catholic research has gone into these issues at such depth."

"This is a first," he says. He says it shows American Catholics "are more ready for participation" in policy-making of the church in keeping with the concept of it as the "People of God" in which "everyone is a part, everyone could be heard."

"There's no avoiding that in the future," he adds of the present indications. "I think it is inevitable" and it means "there will very likely be a greater authority problem coming up in the church."

He also noted findings that "Catholics are more individualistic in terms of personal religious authority, over against church authority" as brought out in other studies.

But the new element, examining Catholics by age, educational, racial, economic and liberal or conservative classifications, emphasizes the growing urge for fuller involvement in running of the church.

In the overall figures, 60 percent want more democratic decision-making at the parish level, 55 percent at the diocesan level and 51 percent at the Vatican level. Only 30 percent or less opposed in each case, the rest unsure.

Among the most educated and economically well-off, the proportion favoring such involvement was even higher.

Greater lay majorities also want the right to participate in various specific matters, 81 percent in deciding how parish funds are spent, 69 percent in giving occasional sermons, 66 percent in deciding whether to use altar girls (now banned by the Vatican), 57 percent in picking parish priests.

Sociologist James D. Davidson Jr. of Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., says "there's a very strong evidence of the laity's wanting desperately to participate in the life of ... the local parish."

Majorities also want a part in making church policy about birth control and divorce (now prohibited) and nearly half want in on deciding whether to ordain women and allow priests to marry (both now also prohibited).

"The Spirit seems to be saying something rather different to the laity than the hierarchy seems to be hearing," says sociologist Teresa A. Sullivan of the University of Texas at Austin.

However, she says findings also show lay members will stick with the church "no matter what" and "despite the fact that they disagree with practically everything that we could talk about in terms of democratization."

"They want to have a lot more voice in what's going on. But if they don't get it, they're not going to leave ... There is something American Catholics find in Catholicism that is deep and nurturing and doesn't have very much to do with the Vatican and the bishops and all the rest."

Contrary to what Pope John Paul II said on his visit, majorities say they can be "good Catholics" without heeding church rules against divorce and birth control or requirements of weekly Mass attendance and yearly confession.

Trinity Cross Church to host revival

Trinity Cross Church, 1008 South Birdwell Lane, will host a revival, Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Monday through Wednesday at 7 p.m., said Jeanie Ward, publicity chairman.

James Payne an evangelist from Little Rock, Ark., will lead the revival.

Payne was born the eighth child of Frank and Lucy Payne in a small town in Tennessee. Early in life, a difficult childhood and the company of a bad crowd led him down the wrong road, according to a press release.

At age 13 he became involved with drugs and alcohol and was addicted to both before he was 15. Without a positive influence in his life, the possibilities of him ever changing his negative lifestyle seemed hopeless, according to the release.

However, when he was 17 years old he was taken to the hospital for two major surgeries. After the second surgery he died and had an out of the body experience and a visitation from Jesus, according to the release.

He was freed from his addictions, his sickness, and his sins.

Immediately after leaving the hospital he began to prepare for the ministry Jesus had called him to. He traveled for the first few years sharing his testimony and leading hundreds to Christ, according to the release.

Then God opened the door for him to pastor a church in Nashville, Tenn. In a few short years this church grew from 25 members to over 600 members. While in Nashville, Payne developed his singing and songwriting talents, according to the release.

He has recorded several albums that have appeared in the top 20 gospel charts as they received national air play. He has also written songs for The Happy Goodman Family, The Florida Boys, Wendy Bagwell, Larnelle Harris, Jimmy Swaggart, and a host of others, according to the release.

Payne's music has brought him may awards and appearances on leading gospel programs, as well as a recent appearance on the world famous "Grand Ole Opry," according to the release.

After leaving Nashville, Payne pioneered a church in Arkansas that grew from four people to over 650 in less than two years. He built a 1,000 seat auditorium on 15 acres of interstate property with a state of the art television studio, according to the release.

It was here that Payne expected to spend the rest of his life, when God spoke and called him to carry the message of revival to the church, according to the release.

Payne has preached in some of America's greatest churches. He has also spoken throughout Europe. He has appeared on the 700 Club, P.T.L., Channel 38 in Chicago, T.B.N., and several other telecast, according to the release.

He also has hosted his own program on ABC and NBC, "Nighttime with James Payne," as well as a daily radio program for 13 years, according to the release.

Payne believes the "Old Time Religion" is still the newest thing around. When you hear him you will leave knowing the power and presence of Jesus, according to the release.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is not a Saturday for lounging around and getting nothing done. Focus your attention on making realistic plans for future accomplishments. Plan your time and efforts carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Confer with an expert before making any changes in your present mode of operation, then you'll have much more confidence.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to, and understand, the ideas of others, although they may be radically different from your own. Don't dwell on the past.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are thinking of making any changes in business affairs, give your co-workers an idea of what they should expect.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Change your usual attitude toward close friends and family and you'll create much more happiness in these areas.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Shop around and find what you need to make your home more attractive, then you can invite friends in and feel quite proud tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get your financial affairs in good order this morning, making sure to budget in room for amusements and hobbies which you enjoy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Today is the perfect time to follow through on business matters which have been waiting. Cut down on extravagances and waste.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be kind to your mate this morning, as he or she may be in a bad frame of mind. Stay around friends who you are particularly fond of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make your own needs secondary and concern yourself with the feelings of your loved ones. Watch out for obstacles in your path.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you confide in a principled friend, you can gain the assistance you need to make an idea a reality. Be sure to drive carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you look from a new perspective, you'll see how you can improve your position in the business world. Be practical and exacting.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Know what your mate expects of you in order to avoid blunders. Learn more about the monetary aspects of your business.

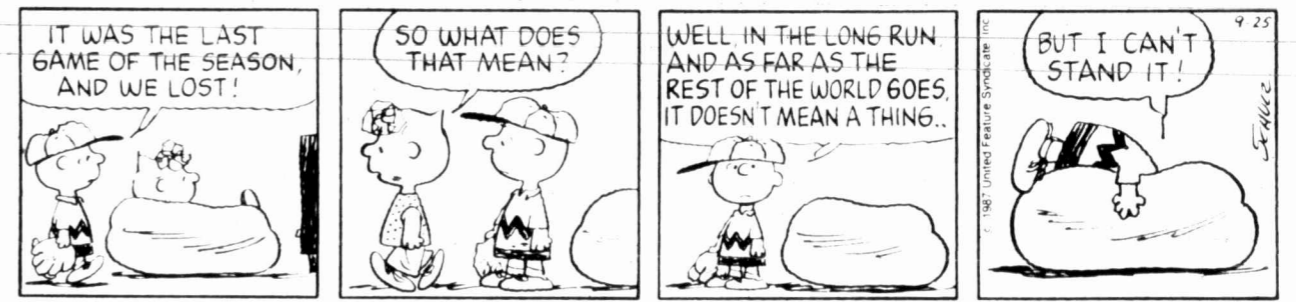

If Your Child Is Born Today He or she will love to get right to the heart of any matters and find the truth, even if it means working long and hard hours. Your progeny will be determined to the point of stubbornness and will always have a plan in mind, never relying on impulses. Your child would do well in any government work, especially the police department.
