Amtrak stops still unknown

Herald staff report

No decision has been made as to whether Amtrak, the national passenger train company, will make Big Spring a permanent stop on its routes, according to a company spokeswoman.

Debbie Marciniak, an Amtrak public relations officer, said officials are still studying the results of a trial run made here Sept. 7. No timetable for releasing the results has been determined, she added.

The purpose of the inspection was to allow company officials the opportunity to explore an alternate route for Amtrak. Currently, trains pass New Orleans and San Antonio, Marciniak noted.

The alternate route, if approved, will have stops in Houston, Dallas and El Paso. Trains would pass through Big Spring, although it is unknown if they would stop locally, she added.

The Moving Wall

Vietnam veteran has seen power of memorial

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Michael Letton has seen the mobile Vietnam Wall's strength: He's seen the flood of tears it brings and has witnessed its healing powers.

He's seen the understanding it breeds in families: Fathers and sons, who for 15 years never spoke of the unpopular war, gain a new respect for one another.

He's seen children visit the Wall with their parents: For the first time they witness true emotions of grief, pain and pride.

Letton, a Vietnam veteran, has been traveling with the Wall since December 1986. "My country was given back to me," Letton said of his travels with the Wall.

Rarely granting interviews, Letton shies away from the limelight and allows John Devitt's Wall to speak for itself.

The attention — plaques, articles, praise — make him uncomfortable because he believes he is unduly recognized.

"John's not getting the recognition he deserves because I'm traveling with (the Wall)," said Letton, who prefers to remain inconspicuous at the Wall site.

But, he added, "the ones who want to know who I am find me. More often than not, a vet will approach me with a tear in his eye."

Letton said he's traveled with the Wall long enough to know the outpouring of feelings it prompts.

Some visitors have followed the Wall to other cities — others have offered to travel with him.

"It's not my personality that draws them," Letton said. For some, he explained, one week with the Moving Wall is not long enough.

"People have a lot of different feelings and you have to allow them to experience those feelings."

"Everyone feels different, but everyone feels something."

Letton estimates that as many as 30 people have ties to each of the more than 58,000 names on the Wall.

A second Wall replica was built last year. Devitt travels with the original, completed in 1984 and Letton, who arrived in Big Spring Monday night, travels with the other.

The half-size replica of the Washington, D.C., memorial will be displayed on the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus at the foot of Scenic Mountain for one week, beginning

Committee planning nears its completion

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

After more than a year of Big Spring planning, the half-scale replica of the Vietnam Wall memorial has arrived.

Volunteers were to begin preparing the site at 1 p.m. today for the exclusive West Texas visit.

Michael Letton, who arrived Monday night from an Illinois visit, and five local volunteers will assemble the Wall at 3 p.m. today.

Letton met with about a dozen Moving Wall committee members Monday night at the Park Inn to complete details of the week-long visit.

Signs directing people to the site will be displayed at all entrances to the city, committee member Charlie Lewis said.

The committee reviewed plans for the daily ceremonies before Letton and several members visited the Wall site — the base of Scenic Mountain on the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus.

Although Letton commented about the fierce West Texas wind at the time of the visit, he appeared satisfied with the site.

The Wall has been assembled in thousands of locations, including shopping malls, fairs and city streets, he commented.

The Wall is to be displayed in Big Spring for one week beginning Wednesday. An official opening ceremony is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at the Wall site.

Committee member Teri Quinones said additional volunteers to assist with parking and escorting people to the Wall at the site are being sought. She can be contacted at City Hall.

Volunteers also will assist with helping to locate names on the Wall and will be available to provide information, emotional support and security of the Wall.

"As a volunteer, the responsibility is very great," Letton said. "You're holding someone's feelings in your hands."

As many as 200 volunteers are expected to assist in various capacities during the visit.

Letton said it would be impossible to estimate the number of people who will visit the Wall during its stay in Big Spring, but said an average of 20,000 to 30,000 people visit the Wall during its engagements.

Monday trucking accident claims life of 18-year-old

Herald staff report

A Big Spring man was killed Monday when a dump truck backed over him at a construction site on Northwest Second Street.

Alberto Gonzales, 18, Gail Rt. Box 21, was pronounced dead at Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles.

ALBERTO GONZALES

According to police reports, Gonzales was fatally injured when he was struck by a dump truck driven by Tomas Gonzales Jr., an employee of Cuellar Trucking of Midland. The Midland man was working at a construction site at the intersection of Trades and Northwest Second Streets, the report stated.

The driver and victim are not related, according to officials.

Tomas Gonzales was backing his truck when it struck the Big Spring man, who was walking past the site, according to the report. The victim was taken to the hospital by ambulance, where Shankles pronounced him dead at 12:20 p.m.

It was unknown why Alberto Gonzales was behind the truck. No citations were issued, the report noted.

A ruling on the death is being withheld, pending an investigation of the incident and an autopsy, Shankles said.

No Texas law watches ward, just the money

Editors note: This is the ninth in a series on the guardianship system in the United States, and Texas in particular. It was produced after an national investigation by a team of Associated Press reporters.

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - In the guardianship of the elderly in Texas, it's only the money that is checked closely.

Guardians of even modest estates must post bonds and are required by law to give meticulous financial accountings of estates every year, though the courts are lax in enforcement.

But the state's probate courts devote almost no continuing attention to the welfare and health of the ward.

State law says an annual report on the condition of the ward should be filed, but this is virtually ignored by the guardians and seldom enforced by the courts. In more than 75 files examined by The Associated Press, only 4 percent contained reports on the ward.

The ward's condition is the primary issue in the initial guardianship application. Most judges require a doctor's statement on the ward's medical history, and the application lists the ward's residence and the proposed guardian's reasons for seeking an incompetency ruling.

But after that, the files are usually blank on the welfare of the ward.

Only rarely is there any hint of the ward's health, where the ward resides, or how the ward's time is spent. These indications usually are from reported expenditures. None of the files checked included a prognosis for the ward's possible return to competency.

Under the Texas guardianship system, according to Gladys Burwell, a Galveston attorney who specializes in the field, "The estate is being protected, but as to the personal welfare of the ward, I really couldn't say."

Wards who are in nursing homes, as are the majority in Texas, generally are well cared for, Ms. Burwell said. A separate set of government rules and regulations cover them.

But the health and welfare of those staying with

Three die in B-1B bomber crash from Dyess

LA JUNTA, Colo. (AP) — Three crewmen parachuted to safety but three others were killed Monday when an Air Force B-1B, the nation's newest strategic bomber, crashed and burned after birds were sucked into the engines, authorities said.

The unarmed, $230 million bomber that was based at Dyess Air Force Base, Abilene, was flying at about 500 feet on a low-level practice bombing run Monday when the pilot reported striking a flock of birds, Air Force and Federal Aviation Administration officials said. The pilot immediately began climbing and reached an altitude of roughly 15,500 feet, said Bob Buckhorn, an FAA spokesman in Washington, D.C. The pilot then radioed air-traffic controllers that two right engines had caught fire because of "bird ingestion," Buckhorn said.

"We're going down," the pilot radioed, according to Laurie King, spokeswoman at Dyess Air Force Base, where the plane was based.

The four-engine bomber then crashed, spraying 50 acres of flat, eastern Colorado rangeland just south of La Junta with shards of metal, most of them no bigger than a few inches in diameter. "It was just a heck of an explosion," said Greg Ricken, who witnessed the falling plane from his dairy ranch 20 miles away. "It sounded like a sonic boom. It looked kind of like an atomic bomb."

The crash was the first involving a production model of the B-1B, the nation's newest long-range bomber.

The survivors were being treated for minor injuries at the U.S. Air Force Academy hospital in Colorado Springs, and were in good condition, Air Force Master Sgt. Al Dostal said late Monday.

"The other three crew members ... are all dead," he said.

The Air Force said the cause of the crash would not be officially listed until an investigation was completed. But officials expressed no doubts that birds

Clements to seek $20 minimum on oil

From staff and wire reports
DALLAS — Texas Gov. William Clements said Monday he will seek support for federal price controls that would guarantee U.S. producers at least $20 a barrel but no more than $25 a barrel for their domestic crude oil.

GOV. BILL CLEMENTS

Local businessmen we contacted had not yet heard of Clements' proposal, and were hesitant to comment before knowing more.

"I think it would at least give us a steady price, but right now, I really haven't checked it out," said Kyle Choate, vice president of the Choate Company in Big Spring.

Clements said: "A minimum, or floor, at $20 makes (advanced) oil recovery possible and a maximum, or ceiling, of $25 answers the issue of the consumer markets and energy costs." Clements said.

Clements did not provide details on how such a price formula would be implemented, but Reggie Bashur, the governor's press secretary said later that it would involve some type of federal price support system.

"The mechanism would be open to negotiation," Bashur said.

He said the governor is encouraged that the Reagan administration has agreed that the nation's dependence on oil raises national security questions.

"The best way to protect the nation is to have a healthy and profitable oil industry and to do that we need a reasonable price." (Gov. Clements) has fixed $20 to $25 as a reasonable price," Bashur said.

However, a study produced by the Reagan administration last March raised questions about the wisdom of an oil price-support program.

The Energy Department study noted that price guarantees could prove "costly to the government and to the U.S. economy." The report continued:

"A price guarantee limited to new oil could cost $5 billion per year by 1991 under the same price conditions. Limiting price guarantees to new oil produced by independents would further limit the revenue loss. In addition, U.S. energy costs would exceed those of other nations, causing macroeconomic losses. Just as in the farm support programs, a price guarantee could encourage overproduction and allocation of resources to oil production that could be used more profitably elsewhere in the economy."

The Clements price proposal also raised some eyebrows among industry and government officials.

A spokesman for the Independent Producers Association of America, which represents about 7,000 U.S. producers, said an oil price support system could be a "hard sell" because of tax implications and opposition from oil-consuming states.

"But we don't knock Gov. Clements in any way, shape or form if he can get something accomplished for the industry," the IPAA spokesman said.

Carleton Carl, press secretary for U.S. Rep. John Bryant (D-Dallas), a member of the House Committee on Energy and Commerce, said he found the Clements proposal for a federal price control on oil "interesting" for an administration "that supposedly likes to get the government out of the industry."

"It would make more sense to have an import fee that would bring in revenue and maintain relatively free market, which the governor has been unable to convince Reagan to support," Carl said.

Clements proposed the pricing formula at a Dallas news conference Monday at the annual meeting of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

The governor said he has asked President Reagan to appoint a commission to establish a national energy policy and that he hopes the price control formula would be among the recommendations of any special commission studying a national energy policy.

Clements said his proposal for a presidential commission has received the enthusiastic support of White House chief of staff Howard Baker.

The governor said he is going to Washington next week to try to get support for the plan from House Speaker Jim Wright, Energy Secretary John Herrington and Interior Secretary Donald Hodel.

Q. What killed most of the Old West's cowboys who died young? Gunfights, perhaps?

A. Accidents with horses.

It was the boy child, not the girl, who was betrothed in infancy and married between age 7 and 10 in Sichuan Province of old China among the Quing people. The girl didn't marry until age 12 to 18. A song still sung thereabouts goes: "My husband is still an infant drinking milk. How long will it be before he grows up?"

Cummer was traveling west and reportedly fell asleep at the wheel, the spokeswoman said.

family or friends is seldom monitored by the courts. When abuses of the wards are detected, it usually is as a result of reports from doctors or from concerned neighbors who call authorities, said Judy Rouse, director of the adult protective services branch of the Texas Department of Public Welfare.

That is one reason some experts on Texas' guardianship system have proposed establishing a program of court visitors.

Under this system, a professional welfare worker would periodically visit each of the wards, check their recent medical history and living conditions, and report back to the court, said Harris County Probate Judge Pat Gregory.

If the court visitor finds abuses or inadequate care, a judge could order a "show cause" hearing to determine if the guardian should be discharged and a new one found.

Thomas M. Featherston Jr., a Baylor professor of law who heads a State Bar of Texas committee studying guardianships, said the current statutes require guardians to file annual reports on the status of the ward, "but these are not detailed."

And, Featherston said, such reports usually are not prepared because "there is no penalty for not doing it and there is no realistic enforcement procedure."

Tarrant County Probate Judge Pat Ferchill, who recently devised a checklist on the ward's personal status for guardians to fill out and mail back, said he already has received a good number of responses.

"Some people are intimidated by having to file a formal report to the court and this makes it easier for them," Ferchill said.

Memorial

Wednesday. Letton credits Devitt for the Wall's success, and admits he was skeptical when he first heard of the plan to build the traveling memorial.

"I kind of thought it was a sick idea, but obviously I was wrong," Letton said.

"I heard about what he was doing and I went to see if it was respectable," Letton said.

Despite his skepticism, Letton said he offered to assist Devitt with his plan. Devitt, however, had all the help he needed.

But Letton said he "hung around for about a month and was then allowed to volunteer."

"I didn't do it knowingly," Letton said of his decision to help with the Wall.

"I just saw pieces of it in the shop and I knew I wanted to be a part of it. It was something I believed in. It needed to be done."

"I thought we were going to get spit at, shot at, and run out of town," he said of his first weeks of touring with the Wall.

None of that happened. Instead, he encountered communities filled with pride and respect.

"I've had two million people or more see this Wall this year alone," Letton said, estimating 20,000 to 30,000 visitors at each location.

"The Wall has a power you wouldn't believe."

He spoke of a Gold Star mother thanking him and an indescribable feeling in his heart afterward — one that will never leave.

He recalls mothers who were able to touch their sons' names for the first time. Some, who visited the Washington memorial, had difficulty seeing the names toward the top and were unable to touch them because of the memorial's size, Letton said.

The half-scale replica in Big Spring is 6 feet tall and 250 feet long.

Letton remembers one visit when a man stood each day in the distance, barely detectable, facing the Wall.

He came back each day that week and remained while the Wall was dismantled — then was gone, never having been close enough to read any names.

Many approach the Wall reluctantly — wanting to see it and not wanting to see it, Letton said.

"They'll drive by at a distance." Perhaps after several days they'll be ready to approach it, he said.

Some veterans choose to visit the Wall alone during nighttime or early morning hours. Some come with their families.

"They know if they don't go they may never have another chance."

Yet many people, both veterans and non-veterans, fear the flood of emotions the Wall may bring, he said. Many who had no direct connection with the war are surprised at the emotion the memorial produces, he said.

"When you walk up to the Wall, there is no denying it."

The names of 58,132 dead or missing veterans line the black plexiglass panels.

"There's no color on that Wall, there's no politics — except for the politics that created it. We're not trying to make a political statement. That Wall makes it's own statement."

The Wall is about seeing a loved one's name, he said.

He describes it as "the most painful thing vets will experience," but added that he believes it is a necessary step.

"It'll drag up memories, drag up a lot of pain," he said of the memorial — a memorabilia of a war that pitted brothers against brothers and "tore the country down the middle."

The Wall memorial will drain one's emotions, but people will walk away with a new sense of pride, according to Letton.

"You'll never see so many vets smiling in one place at one time," he said.

Everyone visiting the Wall will be affected in some way, he said.

"This will touch the community like it's never been touched before."

Another man implicated in teen death

ALVESTON (AP) — Defense attorneys for death row inmate Clarence Brandley are trying to show that a co-worker may have killed a high school girl in 1980 and that Brandley was the victim of an orchestrated effort to convict him.

"The puzzle that has been pieced together — you almost have to piece it back together to understand the significance," Brandley's attorney, Mike DeGeurin, said after the first day of testimony Monday at an evidentiary hearing that could lead to a new trial for Brandley.

Brandley was convicted in 1981 of the murder of Cheryl Dee Ferguson, 16, who was raped and strangled while at Conroe High School with the Bellville High School girls volleyball team. She was the team manager.

A former Brandley co-worker, John Sessum, testified Monday that it was not Brandley, but another Conroe janitor, Gary Acreman, who abducted the girl.

Brandley and another janitor found the girl's body in a storage loft of the school auditorium two hours after she was reported missing.

No charges have been filed against Acreman, but prosecutors said they plan to put him on the stand later in the week.

Last April 10, defense attorneys played for Houston reporters a videotape made March 17 in a Corsicana hotel in which Acreman said Brandley was being railroaded and that it was another janitor, James Dexter Robinson, who grabbed Miss Ferguson and forced her into a girls bathroom on Aug. 23, 1980.

A spokesman for Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox quickly dismissed that claim in April, saying Robinson had just passed a lie detector test in which he claimed innocence in the case.

Sessum, Acreman and two other janitors were working with Brandley at Conroe High School the day of the killing, Brandley was the only black among them and Brandley attorneys and supporters say that's the key to Brandley's conviction and death sentence.

Sessum said he saw Acreman talking to the girl Aug. 23, 1980, contradicting testimony he gave at an earlier trial and hearings.

B-1B bomber

could disable a low-flying aircraft. The Air Force says birds caused about $18 million in damage to its aircraft in 1986, including the loss of an F-4E and an F-16. The Air Force said there were 2,765 reported incidents of bird strikes last year, mostly during daylight hours at altitudes below 3,000 feet.

"If you get a large enough bird, or many of them, into the turbines, it can cause problems," said a spokesman for Rockwell International, the plane's manufacturer, who spoke on condition of anonymity. The spokesman at Rockwell's North American Aerospace Operations factory in El Segundo, Calif., said birds "can be ingested into commercial airline engines, too."

Rockwell has a contract to build 100 B-1Bs for the Air Force and has delivered more than 60. The more than $20 billion contract to replace aging B-52 bombers has been controversial because of concerns that their technology will soon be outdated.

The plane that crashed at 9:34 a.m. Monday had taken off a little more than 1 1/2 hours earlier from Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Texas, where it was attached to the 96th Bombardment Wing.

Ricken said he watched the plane spout flames from its right rear side for 45 seconds before it crashed over some hills on the horizon.

"It made everything shake around here — the house shook, the shop shook," said Bud Quick, who was at work in his repair shop when he saw the crash four miles away, and then spotted three white parachutes.

Rancher Howard Miller saw the aircraft crash into a shale hill on his pastureland, and ran to the site.

"There was nothing that you could identify as being an airplane," Miller said.

The Air Force said the plane was equipped with four ejector seats. The B-1B usually holds four people, but Air Force officials said two instructors went along.

The Air Force identified the dead as Maj. James T. Aklin, 37, of Champaign, Ill., an instructor pilot; 1st Lt. Ricky M. Bean, 27, of Farmington, Maine, a student pilot; and Maj. Wayne D. Whitlock, 39, of Johnson City, Tenn., an instructor defensive systems officer. The survivors were Capt. Joseph S. Butler, 33, of Rocky Mount, N.C., a student defensive systems officer; Capt. Lawrence H. Haskell, 33, of Harrisburg, Pa., a student aircraft commander; and Maj. William H. Price, 42, of Yuma, Ariz., an instructor offensive systems officer.

Insurance company questions death

AMARILLO (AP) — Robert Lemon says insurance companies lied when they contended that his brother faked his own death.

"I was amazed they spread this lie that my brother murdered someone or somehow obtained a body to put into this plane and set it on autopilot and let it crash," he said by phone Monday.

During the weekend, experts disproved the insurance companies' hypothesis and announced that the remains of a plane crash victim indeed were those of Glen Lemon.

The examination of Glen Lemon's charred remains — part of a jawbone and part of a torso — came 10 months after Lemon's twin-engine Cessna took off and crashed 50 yards beyond the end of the runway at the airport at Liberal, Kan., last Nov. 5. The remains were charred beyond recognition, and the coroner identified the body by a ring and wallet recovered at the scene.

The circumstances of the death raised insurance companies' suspicions. Lemon, 54, was chief executive officer and part-owner of First Bank and Trust of Booker, Texas. Six weeks after the plane crash, the Texas Panhandle bank was declared insolvent.

Compounding the insurance companies' suspicions was the fact that the Booker banker had bought about $8 million in life insurance during the final nine months of his life. His life was insured to the tune of $12.2 million.

Group seeks ruling on Bible chairs

AUSTIN (AP) — A private group has asked for a federal court ruling that could allow it to continue offering Bible courses at the University of Texas.

The Biblical Studies Association, which has sponsored the courses at the university through endowed Bible chairs, last week filed a lawsuit against the university.

The association asked for a court ruling that the course arrangements are constitutional.

The university plans to drop the courses after this semester because, Attorney General Jim Mattox ruled that the course arrangements "violate the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution."

Mattox ruled that an "excessive entanglement" between church and state was created by the practice of a state university giving credit for courses in which instructors are paid by a religious group.

Spanish royalty tour medical center

HOUSTON — King Juan Carlos I and Queen Sophia of Spain, on the final day of a swing through Texas, met young leukemia victims and marveled at the achievements of the Texas Medical Center during a stop in the Bayou City.

The royal couple also met noted heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey on Monday as they toured Houston's medical center.

"He's not a king. He doesn't have a crown on," pronounced 3-year-old Andy Parr of Houston when the king and queen entered a playroom at M.D. Anderson Hospital.

Queen Sophia tried to explain to the leukemia patient that the king leaves his crown at home.

During their visit to the hospital, the royal couple saw different pumps and equipment that cancer patients use for treatment at home. The queen appeared intrigued with a programmed computer card, the size of a credit card, that contained patient information.

"It's bionic," she said. "That's fantastic. It's amazing."

The royal couple also was given a set of Christmas cards made by cancer patients.

Prosecution criticizes new rape law

DALLAS — A new state law allowing victims of sexual assault to use aliases in court will hamper prosecution of sex offenders while having little effect on the number of people willing to press charges against their attackers, prosecutors say.

The law, which applies to crimes committed after Jan. 1, 1988, makes it possible for victims of sex crimes to request anonymity in all official records and court proceedings pertaining to their attack.

The effect will be to keep a victim's name out of records that are open to the public. But the law does not keep the victim's identity from the defendant accused of the crime, Dallas County Assistant District Attorney Howard Wilson said.

The law could cause such other problems as making it difficult for attorneys to question jurors about whether they are acquainted with the victim, he said.

"I don't see the reason for this law," Wilson said. "I don't know who it protects the victim's identity from, except newspapers, and in this area we don't print the victims' names. I think we're going to see a lot of headaches with this that we can't anticipate."

Underground paper blasts officials

CANYON — The first issue of an underground newspaper circulated at West Texas State University lambasted the administration and its policies, blaming them for students' low morale and a faculty exodus.

The publication, The Rest of The Prairie, appeared Monday at several locations on the Panhandle university campus.

"Until such time as we are assured that everyone is being heard, this paper will champion the right of freedom of expression," the newspaper said.

In editorial columns photocopied on both sides of the pages, the publication criticized the administration's policies and complained about a lack of academic freedom.

The publication did not list the names of an editor, a publisher or staffers.

The newspaper accuses university President Ed Roach and regents of discouraging critical views of the administration. It also said that the school's explanation that faculty are leaving the school for various reasons including better job prospects isn't completely true.

Terrorist arrest illustrates law

It reads like something out of a Robert Ludlum novel. A suspected Lebanese terrorist accused of hijacking and blowing up a jetliner two years ago was lured aboard a boat in the Mediterranean and promptly busted by FBI agents. Beautiful.

The Lebanese, Fawaz Younis, was the first terrorist suspect arrested abroad and brought to the United States to stand trial under anti-terrorist laws enacted by Congress several years ago. At the time they were enacted, the laws were nicknamed "long arm." It fits.

The FBI isn't talking, mainly because it hopes to use the tactics again, but apparently the caper went down something like this: Younis was contacted and told that a man or group of men wished to avail themselves of his, ahem, "expertise."

When Younis went to meet the client on a boat in international waters, he was arrested.

Before he could say "ransom," he was whisked to the U.S. carrier Saratoga operating in the Med, flown to Washington, D.C., and hustled into a heavily guarded federal courtroom. He was ordered held without bond to face trial.

Younis was charged in a federal indictment with conspiracy, hostage-taking and destruction of an aircraft, a Royal Jordanian airliner on which four Americans were passengers. None of the hostages was killed in the June 1985 incident. The suspect faces life in the slammer if convicted.

The novel arrest raises immediate concerns that terrorists might retaliate by targeting Americans in the Middle East or Europe. The Justice Department, to its great credit, is hanging tough. Said Attorney General Edwin Meese, paraphrasing President Reagan: Terrorists can run, but there's no place they can hide.

This is the first international sting pulled off by the FBI. We hope it won't be the last.

Reader critical of monkey coverage

To the editor:
Well, well. Now I know a whole lot more than I ever thought possible about the Java monkey.

The Herald saw fit to run a front-page color picture (and lengthy story) in the "Lifestyle" section of the same paper. So how come you missed putting some more about the monkey in the sports section?

The United Way of Big Spring spent a lot of time and effort on the Championship Chicken-Fried Steak Cook-off that was held here (September 12). The newspaper covered this event with three small pictures on page two, with only a caption identifying the pictures underneath.

Perhaps by the next Chicken-Fried Steak Cook-off, that monkey will have been taught to cook so he can enter, then the United Way fund-raising event will get front page attention.

Herald, I am disappointed in your choice of front-page attention.

Writer supports new board member

To the editor:
When Dock Voorhies moved and vacated his position as member of the Big Spring Independent School District school board, we in Big Spring were indeed fortunate to have more than one candidate willing and able to serve us as his replacement.

Mr. Voorhies was a good board member. He attended the meetings of the board, worked in the capacity he was assigned, and showed further interest in our schools by attending many school functions and by visiting in our schools.

It would be wrong to assume that his good efforts could be attributed only to the color of his skin and not to his good character and sincere interest in children and the schools of Big Spring.

I am of the opinion that that who assume Mr. Baker cannot be interested in all of our children and in program having to do with minority interests are not giving him the chance he deserves to do just those things.

Donnie Baker is a good man with children in the Big Spring schools. His character is strong and he sincerely wishes to do good for our community. The color of a man's skin is not a measure of his ability or his integrity.

Steers fan criticizes coaching style

To the editor:
Mr. Eudy, this letter is for you, not your talented players.

Last year you had the most talented players in Texas 4AAAA and you gave Hereford a game by running up the middle every first down and by having no delayed count on snaps.

Then you still have a job in '87, which is beyond my understanding. You start this year by not knowing how to substitute. If a baseball pitcher isn't doing good, they pull him. Likewise, Mr. Eudy, if one or two of your players is having problems with fumbles, put them in some other position or pull them out of the game.

You have 49 players and you play about 25 of them. Use your forces, other than on special teams. Mr.

Shellman is an excellent secondary man, but he is always tired from playing both ways. Are we going home if Mr. Shellman gets hurt?

Once again, Mr. Eudy, use your forces.

You gave the game to Sweetwater. I wonder how many more you will give away before Mr. Logback will wise up and start looking for a new coach? Maybe the school board needs to review the athletic program.

To Mr. Shellman and the rest of the Steers, you all are excellent ball players, and myself and Big Spring citizens stand behind you. Give all the players a chance. Football fans, stand up for the players' rights.

Housing money to build hotels

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Those congressmen with an ingrained nonchalance about deficits are shaking the money tree again on Capitol Hill. They want to spend $16 billion to house or indirectly help the poor and roll the money over into the indefinite future.

The poor deserve a roof over their heads, but the real beneficiaries of the housing legislation will be the bureaucrats who run the program and the real estate developers who will build the housing projects.

The bill will subsidize developers and syndicators who are eager to construct more apartment complexes. Judging from past experience, these projects will be located where the housing authorities and construction people decide to build — not where the poor want to live.

The figures alone suggest there is no need for new housing in some cities the first place; surveys show that a number of localities have more rental vacancies than have been available for 20 years. The poor should have no trouble finding apartments; their problem is that they can't afford the rent.

President Reagan, therefore, wants to issue housing vouchers to help the poor pay for the rental units of their choice. This would cost the taxpayers only half as much as new construction — which means the government could aid twice as many poor people for the same money. It also makes more sense to fill the vacant apartments before government funds are spent to build new ones.

The U.S. Taxpayers Commission, meanwhile, has found waste galore in government-subsidized housing. For each dollar that was spent in a recent four-year period, the hard-up tenants got only 34 cents in benefits. In contrast, the poor who received housing vouchers in a demonstration program got 84 cents of every dollar.

Here is how some housing money appropriated in recent years has been and will be spent:

- Atlantic City has more rental vacancies than the national average. Yet the city collected $7.1 million to construct new apartments, presumably for the poor. Instead, the money was sunk into a luxury housing complex, with a creamy-white 14-story center. Two-bedroom apartments will cost as much as $800 a month.
- Minneapolis will receive $5.5 million to build a Hilton Hotel, with 800 rooms.
- A $3.3 million grant went to South Haven, Mich., for a marina, boat yard, restaurant, 16 condominiums and 200 "docominiums" at the mouth of the Black River.

• A generous $9.3 million was allocated to Wilmington, Del., for a new office tower for the Chase Manhattan Bank.

• Another $3.4 million was earmarked for St. Petersburg, Fla., to renovate a 337-room Hilton Hotel, complete with a swimming pool and tennis courts.

• In Puerto Rico, San Juan was granted $2.5 million to transform an old hotel into a 190-room, art deco-period hotel with a night club, restaurants, banquet hall, conference rooms and parking spaces.

• Erie, Pa., will receive $4 million to help build a 175-room hotel, with a 250-slip marina. Another $1.5 million will go to Charleroi, Pa., to renovate a melting furnace for Corning Glass. And in Lawton, Pa., $170,000 will be set aside to help build a Dunkin' Donuts facility.

• New York City is collecting $6 million for a complex to be called the Renaissance Center, which will include a Hilton Hotel.

Footnote: Jack Anderson is co-chairman, with J. Peter Grace, of the U.S. Taxpayers Commission. It has the bipartisan backing of both liberals and conservatives, who want to stop unnecessary government spending. Its purpose is to keep the facts and arguments about government waste reverberating in the public dialogue.

THE BOLT-CUTTING STAGE — Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., wants to make it easier for the Pentagon to keep suppliers of substandard, counterfeit steel bolts from getting any more defense contracts.

Imported bolts of inferior quality, mismarked to look like the genuine, high-strength article, have plagued the military. At present, the Pentagon practically has to prove its case against a shoddy supplier in court before it can remove it from the list of qualified vendors.

Dingell wants to relax that requirement. He also is taking aim at the advantages that small businesses have in getting defense contracts. Dingell has been told horror stories about unqualified suppliers who slip through the screening process with help from the Small Business Administration.

HANSEN UPDATE — Former Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, is due to be released from federal prison next month, and a number of his conservative friends and supporters are planning a gala welcome-home reception in Washington.

Hansen will be heralded with yellow ribbons, according to the organizers, "to symbolize (his) freedom and to welcome him back into the fight for a freer and safer America." Hansen served about a year for filing false financial disclosure reports with Congress.

In 1963, the second session of the ecumenical council Vatican II opened in Rome.

Filling black holes creates CBS officials predicament

By ART BUCHWALD
The Dan Rather "black hole," as it has become known in news circles, is probably one of the most unique things to have happened in television.

This is what took place. Dan was down in Miami to cover the pope and anchor the "CBS Evening News." To Dan's chagrin CBS Sports was broadcasting a whale of a tennis match between lady stars Lori O'Neil and Steffi Graf. Dan was informed that the "Evening News" might have to be cut to make time for the tennis. Rather was furious and said if CBS Sports cut into his show, then CBS Sports could do all the news that evening.

It was a standoff until 6:30 rolled around and Rather was told he had to hold off on the pope until the tennis game was over. Dan, in fury, took off his mike and walked out of the studio to call his boss in New York.

Now it gets interesting. While Rather was in the hall the tennis match ended. But there was nobody in the studio to present the evening news.

So CBS went to black — pitch black — while CBS network executives from New York to Key Biscayne were screaming at each other, "My TV set is on the fritz!" After six minutes of blackness

Dan came back on the air with an upbeat report on the pope. But it was too late.

Ever since that night, known as "Black Friday at Black Rock," the CBS brass have been scratching their heads trying to figure out what happened and what can be done about it.

Chairman of the Board Larry Tisch said, "This will never happen again!"

Howard Stringer, the CBS News president, said it even more strongly, "This will never happen again!" Three thousand CBS executives opened their windows and shouted, "This will never happen again!"

A source at CBS told me that one of the ideas the executives suggested is to station a pit bulldog by Rather's desk. Every time Dan makes a move toward the door the bull will start chewing his leg.

Another idea, in case the pit bull doesn't work, is to put Rather in chains in the control booth with Diane Sawyer holding the key.

Model awarded millions

NEW YORK — A model whose face was carved by a razor-wielding attacker probably won't ever see the $78 million awarded her by a jury, but jurors said their decision shows the city values "the health and safety of its citizens."

Nearly 150 stitches were required to close the wounds in Marla Hanson's face after last year's attack. Miss Hanson, who moved here from Texas to pursue her modeling career, said her doctors have told her some of the scars will be permanently visible.

Monday's award to the 26-year-old model is mostly symbolic. Her lawyer, Michael Shannon, acknowledges that the three imprisoned defendants — Steven Roth, 28, Steven Bowman, 27, and Darren Norman, 21 — are broke.

However, Shannon said, the judgment is in effect for 20 years, and if any of them come in to money it will belong to her.

Henry Ford dies at 70

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II, who took over his grandfather's foundering company at President Roosevelt's urging in 1945 and over 37 years restored Ford Motor Co. to profitability, died today after a battle with pneumonia. He was 70.

HENRY FORD II

A Ford company statement announced the death, saying it occurred at 7:21 a.m.

Ford had been admitted to Henry Ford Hospital on Sept. 12 for treatment of pneumonia, but his condition had deteriorated as he developed heart and kidney problems. He had become ill while in Europe.

During his tenure, Ford won recognition for his advocacy of corporate contributions to social progress, for his backing of Detroit's Renaissance Center and for his tempestuous dealings with such corporate lieutenants as Lee Iacocca, whom he fired as company president in 1978.

Ten injured in flight

NEW YORK — Passengers arrived here early today dazed after a turbulence-rocked Eastern Airlines flight from Puerto Rico that sent people flying out of their seats, injured 41 and forced a landing in Bermuda.

But as for the turbulence itself, "there was no warning," passenger Kevin Stokes of Queens said. "I was on the floor. I thought the plane was going down."

Justice stole software

WASHINGTON — A Justice Department official "consumed with hatred" for a computer company that had fired him years earlier used his government position to try to drive the firm out of business, a federal bankruptcy judge concluded.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge George F. Bason Jr. ruled Monday that the Justice Department stole Inslaw Inc.'s computer software through "trickery, fraud and deceit" and allowed department employee C. Madison Brewer III to pursue a vendetta against the company.

Last WWII marine to retire

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Marine Corps' last active-duty combat veteran from World War II is retiring after a career that included two bloody South Pacific engagements and a North Vietnamese rocket attack.

"The Marines have been my life," Chief Warrant Officer Charles B. Russell said Monday in a telephone interview from Camp Pendleton, where he is stationed.

"I liked everything I did, practically. Now I've reached that magic age of 62 and, without an act of Congress, why, you've got to go home," Russell said. Russell, who has worked in ordnance dispersal, safekeeping and recovery since re-enlisting in the Marine Corps in 1954, officially retires Friday, ending a 35-year career. He will be presented with a meritorious service medal during ceremonies at the base 40 miles north of here.

"When he retires, the Marine Corps will no longer have an active duty Marine with World War II combat service experience," said base spokesman Cpl. Paul Hermann.

A native of Ottumwa, Iowa, Russell was drafted in December 1943 and reported to San Diego for boot camp. He was trained as an amphibious vehicle driver and sent to the South Pacific, where he was involved in landing Marines during the invasions of Peleliu, near the Solomon Islands, and Okinawa.

"It was very heavily reinforced by the Japanese. In fact, it was one of the most vicious battles fought in the South Pacific area," Russell said of Peleliu, where there were 7,919 U.S. casualties, including nearly 1,500 killed.

At Okinawa, there were 48,000 American casualties, 12,500 of whom died.

"I was very fortunate that with all the action I was tied up in (during WWII), I was never hurt," said

Russell, who also ferried supplies to the South Pacific beaches and transported casualties to hospital ships.

Russell went back to his hometown in Iowa and started his own business when he was discharged in 1946. He re-enlisted 8½ years later after a meat-packing plant strike hurt Ottumwa's economy. Russell said he overextended himself by loaning money to friends left jobless by the labor dispute.

"I went broke. I was bankrupt. Meantime, the Marine Corps had contacted me about coming back because they had a place for me," Russell said.

Russell, who spent most of his career at Camp Pendleton, was sent to Vietnam in 1969, where his tour of duty was cut short by a North Vietnamese rocket attack.

"I had a little bad luck in Vietnam," he said. "I was there the last part of '69 and the first part of '70. I was the officer in charge of ammunition supply at Da Nang. It was a rocket attack. It put me in the hospital for 90 days."

Russell said he finds it hard to believe so many years have passed.

"It seems like only yesterday I was doing all those things, but there's a lot of difference between being 18 or 19 years old and being 62," he said. "It's been a good life. I think the Marine Corps has been very fair to me."

Russell said he will continue living in Fallbrook in northern San Diego County after he retires. He plans to look up old friends in his hometown and see more of his wife, Karol, and their two children.

"I haven't been back to Ottumwa in 10 years," he said. "Really, I don't have anything planned, just see some friends and neighbors, do some traveling, you know, just to say, 'Hi.'"

More slides feared

MEDELLIN, Colombia — Rescue officials evacuated thousands of people from their homes for fear of new landslides after tons of mud and rocks crashed onto a mountainside slum, killing at least 183 people.

Heavy rains Monday night prompted the mayor to temporarily suspend rescue work in the Villa Tina neighborhood. Authorities estimated that dozens of bodies remained buried in mud up to 36 feet deep, and residents and officials said about 500 people were missing.

A funeral service for 94 of the victims was held in a sports coliseum in Medellin, Colombia's second-largest city. Many of the dead were interred in mass graves.

A few survivors were pulled from the mud after the landslide Sunday, but workers who continued digging found no one else alive, said Mayor William Jaramillo Gomez. The rescue operation was to continue later today.

Gorbachev appears

MOSCOW — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev greeted a French delegation at the Kremlin today, ending a seven-week absence from public view.

French television, which had a camera and correspondent present during a photo session, showed Gorbachev smiling and gesturing during a meeting with the leader of the delegation, former socialist Premier Pierre Mauroy.

Gorbachev, whom Soviet spokesman have said was on vacation, greeted Mauroy's group of 370 politicians, clergymen, cultural figures and other members of the Initiative '87 visit to Moscow.

British farmers protest

LONDON — The government will review compensation claims by 29 Welsh farmers suffering restrictions on the movement and slaughter of their sheep because of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, an official said.

Welsh Secretary Peter Walker made the announcement Monday after meeting a delegation of sheep farmers from North Wales.

More than 30 sheep farmers demonstrated outside the Welsh Office during the meeting to protest delays in settling claims.

The government has paid more than $6.5 million in compensation to farmers whose sheep contain unsafe levels of radiation.

Bush favors Solidarity

WARSAW, Poland — Vice President George Bush, pressed repeatedly to say whether he favors legalization of the outlawed Solidarity trade union, said today, "if the vote was put to me, the answer would be yes."

Bush's comment, at a news conference on the final day of his four-day trip to Poland, marked the first time since he arrived in Warsaw that he gave a direct answer to the question.

Several times earlier in his trip, including twice in his 30-minute session with Polish and American reporters, the vice president avoided giving a direct answer.

"We have made very clear before we got here our interest in free trade unionism, no question about that," he said in response to an earlier question at the news conference.

Lawmakers use funds for meals, cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen have used campaign contributions for baby-sitting fees, personal legal costs, a luxury automobile and car telephone, and meals at Washington restaurants, a study of campaign financial records shows.

Political action committees for large interest groups often are ambivalent about how their money is spent, a spokesman for a campaign contribution watchdog group said.

"They are looking for influence, so they don't care if a congressman buys a Cadillac or pays his attorney," Congress Watch director Craig McDonald said. "The more enjoyment he gets out of the contribution, the better for the PAC."

But individual contributors and smaller PACs generally don't want campaign contributions to go for personal or quasi-political expenses, McDonald said. "They would consider that a waste of their money," he said. Congressional ethics committees rarely investigate campaign spending practices, a Common Cause spokesman said.

"Members can just go on and violate ethics rules and no one will do anything about it," Marci Frosh of the self-style citizens' lobby said.

Federal law and congressional rules say that campaign funds may be used for any "bonafide campaign or political" expense, but that definition has been broadly interpreted by ethics panels.

A study by the Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau of Texas lawmakers' campaign spending records from 1985 through the first half of this year shows that:

Rep. Marvin Leath used campaign contributions to buy a new Lincoln Continental for $16,818 two years ago, the study found.

The luxury car is the Waco Democrat's only vehicle in Washington, and he since has spent at least $2,500 in campaign funds for a car telephone, insurance, repairs, tires and gasoline.

Although he uses the 1986 Lincoln for personal as well as work-related purposes, Leath believes it was proper to pay for it with election money since he considers his life in Washington to be "political" in essence, said Doug Canatsey, his chief aide.

Rep. Steve Bartlett spent $1,690 in campaign funds for baby sitters over the past two years, the Harte-Hanks study determined.

The Dallas Republican, who has three young children, used election money for baby-sitting fees only when he and his wife were away on overnight or extended campaign trips, Bartlett aide Mary Jane Maddox said.

Rep. Solomon Ortiz paid for "meals with supporters" at Washington restaurants with at least $7,471 in election money over the past two years, the study found. That averages about $25 per day for every day Congress was in session during the period.

The Corpus Christi Democrat said he regularly takes people to eat with him in Washington to earn support in Congress and his district.

Rep. Charles Wilson used $20,000 in campaign contributions to pay personal legal fees incurred during a Justice Department investigation of drug use on Capitol Hill. The early-1980s probe focused on Wilson and several other congressmen, but was dropped because of lack of evidence.

Main idea: This issue is about the winners of the 1987 Best School Newspaper Contest. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

1. Look at the photos in the first section of your local newspaper. What do you see in each one? Do you see photos of any famous people?
2. Draw a picture, write a poem or story or take a photo for your school paper.
3. What is a masthead? Create a masthead for your school newspaper.
4. Talk about newspapers. What is your favorite part of your local paper? Does your school have a paper? Are all students able to contribute? What are the best things about your paper? If your school does not have a paper, what can your class do about creating one? What job would you most like to have on the paper's staff? Why are newspapers so important for us to read?
5. Which papers won this year's Best School Newspaper Contest? Find their towns on a U.S. map. Which one is closest to where you live?
6. Get a copy of your local paper and find the following parts: byline, editorial, sports score, weather forecast, TV schedule, ad, index.
7. Create an ad for something you would like to buy or sell in the paper.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure not to annoy a superior this morning. Tend to your credit affairs, and don't forget to pay bills. You may need to take out a loan.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use tact in clearing up a misunderstanding between yourself and someone you admire. Be alert to opportunities which arise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may find that keeping a promise is taking up too much of your time, but it is important to continue with it at all costs.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Try to use a creative talent to improve your vocational activities. Take better care of your health this evening.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of an associate who daydreams too much and is never realistic. Don't permit a co-worker to talk you into a trip.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Before you commit yourself, find out how much time and money an amusement with a friend will require. Be practical today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although you may be worried about a situation at home, don't do anything drastic to change it yet. Show your devotion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't neglect to visit a good friend who has done you many favors. Show your appreciation to this person in some way tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give some attention to your financial situation, but don't become obsessed. Don't let a friend waste your time with trivialities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Focus your attention on advancing some personal matters. Don't go off on any tangents which could be risky, as well as expensive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sit down with an expert and get some financial advice. Someone will suggest a trip which is only self-serving, so forget it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Postpone that meeting with business associates, and lend assistance to a friend who is in dire need of help this morning.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will need to have a comfortable home in which to grow up, and will have just that early in life. But changes will come up later on, so provide your progeny with an education which will forge self-reliance. In this way your child will never be lacking for good shelter, food and the better things in life. Teach him or her cooperation.

Crossroads Chalk Talk

After starting the season with three winning weeks, the Crossroads Country teams hit a roadblock last Friday. Of the nine teams, only Sands, Forsan and Klondike won games.

Sands whipped Dawson 48-20, raising the Mustangs' record to 3-1; Forsan beat Greenwood to go to 3-1; and Klondike also improved to 3-1 with a 32-8 win over Borden County. Those three teams have the top records among the nine Crossroads Country teams.

Stanton, Colorado City, Garden City and Coahoma each dropped to 2-2. Borden County and Grady both dropped to 1-3.

Sid McCowan, Sands, on the Mustangs' one-sided win, in which they led 42-6 at halftime; and on Friday's battle with Borden County, Sands beat the Coyotes 34-18 in the second game of the season, but the first confrontation didn't count in the district standings.

"We had a good ballgame. We finally forced a few turnovers in the first half rather than turning the ball over ourselves. Chad Nichols blocked their first punt, and we recovered on the 10 and scored.

"It was just one of those games where everything fell into place. We play Borden County this week, and this one counts. We'd like to take that other one, but they say we have to play them again. Last time we won by two touchdowns, but that was on our home field. It'll be a real battle."

Coahoma coach Steve Park, on the Bulldogs' 27-9 loss to Abilene Wylie, and this week's game at Colorado City.

"We were ahead in the fourth quarter, and it kind of fell in on us. The kids played hard and played good for three quarters. We just had some breakdowns and they had some key pass plays. They got some breaks and things kind of snowballed.

"Colorado City is always a tough ballgame. It's a big rivalry and the kids always look forward to it.

"We're just going to have to execute better and stay mentally ready and get up for the ballgame."

Forsan coach Jan East, on the win over Greenwood and on this week's game against Iraan.

"We played real good football in the first half, offensively and defensively. We kind of slacked off at halftime, and I'm glad we won the game.

"Defensively, we played better than we've been playing. That's been a big concern the first three games, and I think they had 13 plays and one first down in the first half. You're playing pretty good defense when you do that.

"We've seen Iraan on film and scouted them once, and they're pretty solid. They're doing basically the same things they did last year." (Forsan beat Iraan twice last year, including a first-round playoff victory.)

Garden City coach Sam Scott, on the Bearkats' 14-3 loss to Robert Lee, and on this week's game at Menard.

"Stat-wise, everything was in our favor; but they just put the ball in the end zone and we didn't. We gave them turnovers twice and they took it in.

"We played pretty well, but we just don't keep making first downs long enough to get the ball in the end zone. We have backs going the wrong way and linemen going in the wrong direction. We just keep killing ourselves. We're not doing the little things it takes to win.

"Menard is 2-0 in district, and they're going to be tough. Every week's going to be tough for us. But it's not impossible — if we play mistake free we can win."

Colorado City coach Tom Ramsey, on the Wolves' 14-7 loss to highly ranked Ballinger, and on this week's tussle with Coahoma.

"The kids played well. We had a chance to win the ballgame. We were leading at one time — 7-6 — with about two minutes to go in the half, but we fumbled and they scored with 17 seconds left in the half.

"We feel like the third and fourth ballgames were possibly the toughest part of our schedule. (The week before the Wolves lost to highly ranked Post.)

"Coahoma is a much improved football team. They were leading Wylie in the fourth quarter, and have as many wins as we have. Matt Rowell is their big play man, and (quarterback) Curtis Hudson is doing a good job over there."

Borden County coach Joe Bond, on the Coyotes' loss to Klondike in which leading runner Shannon Bond was injured in the first quarter; and on this week's rematch with Sands.

"We feel like it (Shannon's injury) hurt; we never did get our offense on track. We feel like that hurt us quite a bit.

"They scored some real quick touchdowns on us. After that we feel like our kids played fairly decent defense. They only made five firsts in the second half, so I felt pretty good about that.

"Nothing's broken (in Shawn's foot), but he's on crutches and it's still swollen quite a bit. I doubt he'll be able to suit up this week. We feel like it'll be tough but we expect the kids to respond and play the best they can."

Grady coach Mike Mathis, on the Wildcats' 56-36 loss to Loop, and on this week's game against Midland Christian.

"Our defense made a lot of mistakes, but we couldn't beat Loop even if we played perfect. They were just too big and too physical. Our little kids just got beat all over the field. Their first team scored every time they had the ball.

"They were the most physical game of the year, and they were probably the best team we've seen.

"We scrimmaged Midland Christian this year and they beat us something like 7-3. They're big, and throw the ball better than they run it. We're going to try some surprises and see if we can't win it."

Klondike coach Tom Ham, on the Cougars win over Borden County, and on this week's game at Wellman.

"It wasn't as easy as it sounded. Our kids played well and Borden County had their best running back hurt. They had a little bit of a mental letdown in the first half after that.

"We came out full of fire and vinegar. We came out and took the ball in and scored, and that always helps.

"I know Wellman will be tough. They won the zone last year and they have all but one of their kids back.

"We're a lot alike. In fact, if you looked at two teams you would think we were using each other's playbook."

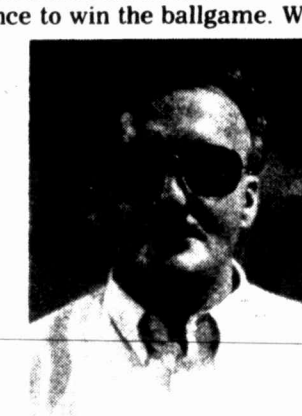

Stanton coach Dale Ruth, on the Buffaloes' 28-0 loss to Plains, and on this week's game against Coahoma.

"We played an excellent team. Plains was real balanced, and we couldn't contain their running back. Their running backs were real quick. We had two chances to score in the first half and just didn't get it in.

"Crane won't be as strong as they were last year, but they're tough. We lost two starting tailbacks — Robert Jones won't play this week and Steve Scurlack will be questionable. But we've got a couple of back-ups that have been doing a good job. We won't have as much speed but they're dependable."

Giants clinch NL West

By The Associated Press
Don Robinson really gave the San Francisco Giants a boost with his arm and his bat, and it helped put them over the top in the National League West Monday night.

Robinson not only pitched the final five innings, but hit the game-winning home run as the Giants won their first National League West title in 16 years with a 5-4 victory over the San Diego Padres.

The 1971 Giants also clinched their division title in San Diego by beating the Padres on the last day of the season.

"I was looking for a breaking ball and I got it," said Robinson, who hit the homer off San Diego reliever Lance McCullers.

"Before I batted I told Roger (Craig, the San Francisco Giants Manager) I knew he was going to throw me a slider and if he did I was going to hit it out of the park. It was at the knees and outside, right in my wheelhouse," said Robinson, who improved his record to 11-7 with the victory. "I knew when I hit it was gone."

Robinson hit a pitch from McCullers, 8-10, over the left-center field wall for the Giants' third home run of the game.

The Giants also got pinch-hit homers from Jeff Leonard and Chili Davis, the 100th career homer for each of them.

The Giants improved their record to 86-70 to put themselves out of the reach of Cincinnati.

Reds 6, Braves 5

CINCINNATI (AP) — Homers by Buddy Bell and Barry Larkin highlighted a six-run fourth inning that carried Cincinnati to a 6-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves Monday night, preserving the Reds' slim chance in the National League West.

Cincinnati batted around in the fourth off left-hander Zane Smith, 15-10, to take the lead.

The two homers gave Cincinnati 192 for the season, the second-highest total in club history. The 1956 Reds hit 221 homers, equalling the National League record set by the 1947 New York Giants.

game's only run in the second inning and John Candelaria and two relievers combined on a seven-hitter as the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0.

The victory moved the Mets within two games of the National League East-leading St. Louis Cardinals. The Mets have five games to play and the Cardinals, seven.

The Cardinals open a four-game series Tuesday night against third-place Montreal, three games off the lead.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rick Aguiera pitched 3 1/3 innings in his first relief appearance of the season and Randy Myers finished up for his sixth save. Philadelphia starter Kevin Gross, 9-15, worked seven innings, gave up just four hits.

The Mets got the only run they needed in the second when Kevin McReynolds opened with a double and scored on Johnson's one-out double, his 16th game-winning hit of the season.

Astros 11, Dodgers 5

HOUSTON (AP) — Terry Puhl

hit a grand slam home run and

Glenn Davis also knocked in four runs to lead the Houston Astros to an 11-5 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Puhl had four hits and Davis three, including a three-run homer, in the Houston attack.

Jim Deshaies, 11-6, was the winner with relief help from Jeff Heathcock, who pitched the final four innings for his first save. Orel Hershiser, 16-15, was the loser.

But Puhl's grand slam in the fifth, his second homer of the year, put the Astros ahead 7-3.

Twins clinch AL spot

By The Associated Press
Steve Lombardozzi found a way to help the Minnesota Twins clinch the division title on the road ... by playing under the Metrodome wherever he goes.

Lombardozzi, batting under 240 for the season, had four runs batted in, including the go-ahead run with a single in the eighth inning, as the Twins clinched the American League West with a 5-3 victory Monday night over the Texas Rangers.

American League

Stadium was a picture of the Metrodome, where the Twins finished 56-25 this season.

"I feel a little more comfortable when I'm playing under the Dome," said Lombardozzi, whose three-run homer in the fourth wiped out a 3-0 Texas lead.

Seattle's 5-1 victory over Kansas City would have given the Twins the title had they not prevailed over the Rangers.

With the score tied 3-3, Kent Hrbek started the eighth inning with a single and moved to second on a groundout. Randy Bush singled, but was thrown out trying to stretch the hit into a double, with Hrbek stopping at third.

Rangers starter Jose Guzman, 14-13, was lifted for Jeff Russell, who walked Tom Brunansky before Lombardozzi, who had only one hit in his last 15 at-bats before the game, singled home Hrbek, with Brunansky taking third. Reliever Mitch Williams then balked Brunansky home forec instance run.

Twins Manager Tom Kelly said he had a premonition about Lombardozzi.

Texas scored its three runs in the first inning with the help of Minnesota starter Joe Niekro's wildness. Niekro walked one and had two wild pitches, Larry Parrish had a sacrifice fly and Pete Incaviglia singled in a run.

Brewers 6, Blue Jays 4

Toronto stayed 2 1/2 games ahead of Detroit despite the loss to Milwaukee, which held the Blue Jays to five hits.

Blue Jays starter Mike Flanagan, 6-8, gave up homers to Rob Deer and Paul Molitor before Dale Sveum gave the Brewers a 5-1 lead with a bases-loaded double, keying a four-run fifth inning.

Orioles 3, Tigers 0

Detroit lost a chance to close ground on Toronto as Baltimore rookie John Habyan pitched a five-hitter for 8 1/3 innings.

Jack Morris, 18-11, gave up eight hits in eight innings and lost his third straight start. Morris, who is 6-7 since the All-Star break, struck out 10, but he walked five and threw his 23rd wild pitch, in the sixth inning, breaking the major-league record set last year by Bobby Witt of Texas.

Mariners 5, Royals 1

Seattle won its fourth straight as Lee Guetterman and Jerry Reed combined for a six-hitter and Phil Bradley drove in two runs.

Bradley singled home a run in the seventh and added an RBI double in the ninth.

Yankees 9, Red Sox 7

New York scored six runs in the ninth inning to complete a rally from a 7-0 deficit against Boston.

Mike Easler's homer off Calvin Schiraldi, the fourth Red Sox reliever in the ninth, broke a 7-7 tie forged when pinch-hitter Jerry Royster had a two-run single off loser Joe Sambito, 2-6. Don Mattingly had a sacrifice fly and Dave Winfield a run-scoring double earlier in the ninth for the Yankees.

Bill Fulton, 1-0, allowed one hit over the last two innings for his first major-league victory.

The Runners-Up

The staff of the Tiger Times.

Each year, the judges select three runners-up. They are not ranked.

• The Tiger Times, Bailey's Elementary School, Falls Church, Va. Teacher-adviser: Mrs. Sally Caldwell. This marks the third year the Tiger Times has been a runner-up in our contest.

• The Twin Rock Times, Bluff Elementary, Bluff, Utah. Teacher-adviser: Mr. Alvin Reimer.

• Not pictured: The PAW, Barrington Elementary School, Upper Arlington, Ohio. Teacher-adviser: Mr. Mark Carter.

More Good Ideas for Publishing Your Paper

Students at Martin Luther King Elementary School in Ann Arbor, Mich., read the Cobra Chronicle. This paper won our 1987 Best School Newspaper contest.

Here are some more ideas. Many are from this year's judges. The ideas were gathered from the papers that entered our 1987 contest.

Printing

• Maybe your school district has a print shop. Sometimes high schools have print shops run by students.

Raising the Money

• You will have to decide whether you will sell it or raise the money to print it.

The judges for the 1987 Contest: Mrs. Nancy Stough, Mrs. Patricia Kelly, Mrs. Kimberly Morse, Miss Margaret Fowler and Mrs. Mary Penick of CE Curtis Elementary School, Chester, Va.

• You might want to try a bake sale, skating party, after-school movie or advertisements to raise money.

Features

• Mystery teacher or student puzzle. "Who am I?" tips about him or her.

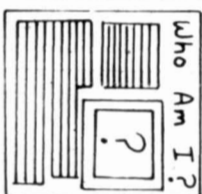

• New books in the library.

• List of birthdays, new students.

• Baby pictures of teachers or students for a "look back."

• Classified ads to sell used items.

• A continuing story each issue.

• A "roving reporter" feature where reporters ask questions of students and teachers. For example: What excuses teachers don't like to hear.

Layout ideas

• Use artwork in the flag or title of the paper that runs on the front page.

• Use artwork in section headings.

Tips From the Judges

How to Start a School Paper

The Winners

The judges' tips

We asked Mrs. Nancy Stough and Mrs. Patricia Kelly of C.E. Curtis Elementary School in Chester, Va., to give us some ideas for schools that want to publish their own papers. Advisers to last year's winner, they helped judge this year's contest.

1. Get an adviser

He or she might be a teacher, principal, secretary, reading teacher, librarian or parent volunteer.

2. What kind of paper?

Decide if it will serve the whole school, a grade level or your class.

3. Choose the staff

You'll need reporters, editors, artists, photographers, layout people, typists. Proofread your stories.

4. Study your newspaper

Study the parts of the paper and learn newspaper terms. Invite someone from the local paper to talk to your staff.

5. Plan your paper

• Hold a contest to choose a name.

• Decide on the sections, such as features, school news and entertainment.

6. Reporting the news

• Include an index, masthead, page numbers, issue and volume numbers.

• Make a list of people to interview.

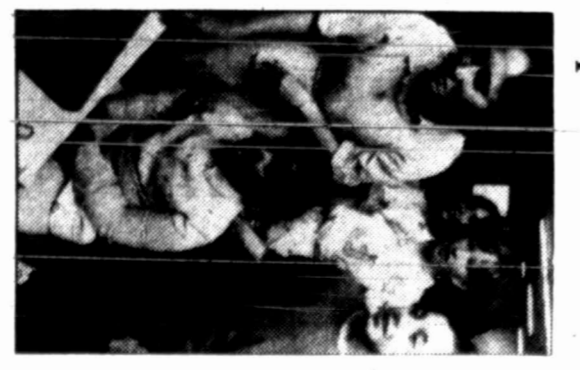

• Write out your questions.

• Try role-playing to practice interviewing.

• Write articles answering the questions who, what, where, when, why and how.

7. Layout tips

The adviser to the Cobra Chronicle, Mrs. Sandy Simon, shows the students how to use a computer to set headlines. Mrs. Simon is a parent volunteer.

• Try using a word processor for typing articles.

• Design a logo for your flag (the name at the top of the front page).

• Use border tape to outline articles.

• Use artwork to illustrate your stories.

Lifestyle

New boyfriend's life a secret

DEAR ABBY: I met this guy when I accidentally got a wrong telephone number. I asked for Larry and got a Gary. He liked my voice and I liked his, so we decided to meet. We liked each other a lot, and since then I've been seeing him.

Dear Abby

All I know about him is that he is a hairdresser who owns a car with a phone in it. I know all his numbers — his home, his car and the beauty salon, which he owns.

He never talks about himself. When I ask questions, he changes the subject to how much money he makes or how tired he is.

Abby, how can I find out more about this man? I don't even know how old he is or if he's married. I have really fallen for him, but I don't want to fall any deeper until I know more about him. Can you help me?

to friends of mine as follows: "This is my son, Jeffrey, and his friend, Karen."

I was informed later that Karen thought she should have been introduced as Jeffrey's "girlfriend" instead of his friend. My thinking was, since she was physically present, it was obvious that she was a girl, so that word was redundant. Or was I being insensitive in not making her feel "special" enough?

JEFFREY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: These days, the word "friend" covers a multitude of relationships. I suspect Karen was piqued because she felt that you were attempting to minimize (or deny) the seriousness of her relationship with Jeffrey. Were you?

DEAR ABBY: This is my first time to write. I, too, am one of those "pop in" preachers. I always try to make it at a convenient time. I thought perhaps you would like to share the following with your readers:

OUR MINISTER NEVER STOPS
"Occasionally someone will say, 'Our minister never stops by to visit us.'"

"If your minister never stops at your home, you should probably thank God. It means death has not struck, that no serious illness has laid you low, that the surgeon's knife has not been necessary, that you have no serious family problem, or that you are not a spiritually delinquent member.

"As a rule, your minister does not have time for a 'social call.' Not that he wouldn't enjoy it; it's just a matter of priorities — putting first things first.

"However, you may be sure of this: Your minister is willing to come to the hospital or your home, the jail, the street corner, or anywhere at any hour of the night or day — wherever or whenever he is needed. So, call him if you need him. Otherwise, he will not know of your need until it is too late.

"For the moment, thank God you have not needed your minister. One day you may need him, and he will heed your call."

PREACHER IN NORTH LITTLE ROCK

FALLEN ANGEL
DEAR ANGEL: You could have him investigated by a detective agency — but it's not inexpensive. My best advice would be: If you have to ask Dear Abby how to find out what kind of man you're dating, perhaps you shouldn't be dating him.

DEAR ABBY: My son has been dating a girl (exclusively) for two years. Recently I introduced them

Wedding

Warren-Moore

Laura Lynn Warren Hilltop Road, and Jay Taylor Moore, Abilene, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Pioneer Drive Baptist Church in Abilene, with Rev. Glen Schmucker, pastor of Beltway Park Baptist Church, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Warren, Hilltop Road. Bridegroom's parents are Rex Moore and Mrs. Beverly Peterson, both of Abilene.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with three arch candelabra and two spiral candelabra, and featured two arrangements of white gladioli, white enchantment lilies, snapdragons, and spider mums.

Vocalists were Liza Langston, Dennis Johns, Fred McNab, and Laura Long.

The bride selected and purchased her gown in England, where she has been a Rotary Scholar for the past year. The gown was fashioned of white embossed satin with a high neckline, long fitted sleeves, and a dropped waist. Embroidered scalloped edged the hemline of the formal-length skirt. The headpiece was a small bandera covered with lace, pearls and crystals. The fingertip veil was edged in satin. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, freesias, enchantment lilies, and alstromarias.

Matron of honor was Beverly Warren, cousin of the bride by marriage, of Houston. Maid of honor was Julie Hunter, of McKinney. Bridesmaids were Angie Wiley, of San Antonio, Anne Huber, Donna Clark, and Donna Bryant, all of Abilene. Flower girls were Katy McNab and Taylor McNab. Best man was Fred McNab. Groomsmen were Mark Moore, brother of the bridegroom, of Houston; Bryan Womble, of Jacksonville, Fla.; David Morris, Paul Gomez, and Jon Caudle, of Abilene.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's table, draped with a white cloth, was decorated with an arrangement of white enchantment lilies and mums, and featured a three-tiered cake covered with an arrangement of fresh flowers.

Bridegroom's table was black with an overlay of white, and featured a chocolate cake decorated with fresh strawberries.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Big Spring High School. She graduated with a Bachelor's Degree from Hardin-Simmons University in 1986, and a M.Ed. degree in Mass Media and Education from the University of Manchester, England in 1987.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Cooper High School, Abilene. He graduated with a Bachelor's Degree from Hardin-Simmons University, and is employed by Southwest Savings and Loan.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks, the couple will make their home in Abilene.

Names in the news

Benefit performance raises $1 million

CHICAGO (AP) — Peter Allen, Colleen Dewhurst and Angela Lansbury led a cast of celebrities in a $1 million benefit performance for AIDS victims.

More than 3,000 people turned out to see the stars and show their concern Sunday.

Also featured during the two-hour sell-out performance were Oprah Winfrey, Jerry Herman, Chita Rivera, Leslie Uggams and five Chicago choirs.

The benefit was dedicated to Fritz Holt, a Broadway producer who helped organize it before he died of acquired immune deficiency syndrome last summer.

"In the past year, I have lost five people close to my life from that same illness," Ms. Lansbury told the crowd. "It has and will touch every man, woman and child throughout the country."

The event was sponsored by Marshall Field's department stores to raise money for the AIDS Foundation of Chicago and the American Foundation of AIDS Research.
