SWCID part of father's dream

Staff Writer

SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf is one of only three colleges in the U.S. for deaf students - and it owes its existence in part to a father's efforts to establish a school for his deaf son in this area.

Fred Maddux Sr., who now lives in Amarillo, was a resident of Big Spring during the late '70s, and concerned about finding a school nearby where his deaf son, Fred Jr., could get an adequate college

The opening of the Federal Prison Camp at the Industrial Park during that time gave him the inspiration for the project.

"I figured that if they could start a prison there, we could start a school for the deaf," he said in a recent interview.

What followed was a year-long odyssey with countless meetings, thousands of travel miles and unknown quantities of studies before SWCID became a reality in

Now, seven years later, Fred Jr. is a first-year student at the local facility. Maddux had become acquainted with Douglas Burke, who was teaching deaf students in El Paso in 1979. Burke, along with El Paso banker Rubeon Shaffer, were instrumental in helping Maddux get the school started, he noted.

The three men's first step was to go Austin to confer with H. Tati Santiesteban, El Paso's state senator. The senator arranged a meeting with officials from the Texas School for the Deaf who, after inspecting the facilities in Big Spring, decided to support the project, Maddux said.

met with development board members Bill Hinkle and Clyde McMahon Sr. The three men then returned to Austin to confer with officials from the Texas Education Agency

The education officials, after hearing the presentation, agreed to supply the necessary funds for a feasibility study — if Howard College would agree to conduct the study, Maddux explained.

It was back to Big Spring for the men, this time to meet with the college's board of trustees. SWCID gathered another supporter in Charles Hays, the college president at the time. The trustees pledged

How's That? Quake

Q. How strong was the Los Angeles earthquake and what do the Richter scale measurements mean?

A. Thursday's quake was much weaker than that experienced in Mexico City two years ago - experts estimated the 1985 quake was 100 times stronger. The Richter scale measures ground motion; every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude thus a reading of five reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of four.

Experts doubtful of Reagan's assistance

DALLAS (AP) — President Reagan probably won't agree to Texas Gov. Bill Clements' request for a committee on a national energy policy that would include a $20-per-barrel floor and $25-per barrel ceiling, energy experts say.

The governor is in Washington this week to argue for his plan that Reagan appoint the panel, which would make policy recommendations on U.S. prices.

Rig census: Worst appears over for domestic drilling

HOUSTON (AP) — The worst appears to be over for the domestic drilling industry, and continued improvement can be expected in the oil patch in 1988, a major oilfield supply company's annual census of rotary rig use drilling activity and record numbers of rigs being removed from the fleet will finally give drilling contractors some ability to raise rig rates," said Roy Caldwell, president of Houston-based Reed Tool Co.

Reed, which released its report Thursday, has provided oil-drill bits to the industry since 1916. The company previously was a division of Baker International but was sold to Camco Inc. in May to eliminate U.S. Justice Department objections to the merger of Baker and Hughes Tool Co., another major drill-bit supplier.

The oil-service industry, rocked by an equipment glut and plummeting oil prices "We feel the combination of increased for the past several years, could return to profitability in 1988, Caldwell predicted.

'The major problem the drilling industry has faced in the past six years has been to reduce the number of rigs available to a level more in line with current demand," he

An annual Reed survey of rig use shows 3,331 rigs available for domestic use, down from 3,993 a year ago. The 17 percent decline is the largest ever recorded in the 35 years the Reed census has been taken.

A rig is considered available by Reed if it has been used in the past three years and can be put into service within 30 days with expenditures of less than $50,000.

The company's count of active rigs is ,388, up 32 percent from 1,052 a year ago. It's the first gain since 1984 and only the second in six years.

'We view the increase as a positive indication of a turnaround in the industry. Caldwell said. "While the condition of our industry is very weak, the census indicates the corner has been turned and we are cautiously optimistic of continued improvement.

He noted, however, that activity is nowhere near the boom days of 1981 and that for the past six years, attrition in the rig fleet simply has not been able to keep pace with the active rig count.

For example, in 1981 the Reed survey showed 4,803 rigs available and 97.9 percent of them in use. The most recent count of 3,331 available rigs, made in late July and early August, amounts to only a 41.7 percent use rate. That is better than 1986, when the rate was 26.3 percent, by far the worst ever recorded by Reed.

'The key to improving industry rig utilization, assuming no further increase in the current levels of activity, is rig attrition.

Mitchell County jail fails review for second time

Herald staff report

COLORADO CITY-The Mitchell County jail, for the second time in two years, has failed an inspection by the Texas Jail Commission.

During the annual inspection of the jail earlier this week, the jail was cited for five areas of noncompliance that Sheriff Wendell Bryant said should be corrected without much difficulty. The areas of non-compliance include:

• Failure of a smoke detector in a detoxification cell to operate properly when a smoke bomb was • Failure to separate male and female inmates by sight and sound; • Failure to conduct an annual inspection of the food service area by health athorities; • Failure to provide a grievance plan in the jail operating plans, and:

• Failure to provide a jailer on the second floor when 10 or more inmates are housed there. The jail has a capacity of 27 prisoners with two cells downstairs housing eight prisoners and the cells upstairs housing 19 prisoners. The jail offices are located on the first floor of the two-story structure along with the detoxification cell. Bryant said smoke bombs have been ordered which will be used to help locate the best placement for the smoke detector in the detoxification cell. He said a door between the male and female cells in the hallway was ajar on Monday during the review, which caused the second area of non-compilance. He added that he will make arrangements with the Texas Department of Health to have the jail kitchen facility inspected annually and the greivance plan in the jail standards book will be adapted to the local operating plans. He also said a jailer will be placed upstairs when the prisoner count reaches 10 or more. He said the county may have arrangements with the city police department to answer the sheriff's department phone and dispatch radio traffic because of a manpower shortage which will be created when a jailer is needed on the second floor

Quakes possible in West Texas and Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Chances are slim that an earthquake the magnitude of the one that shook Los Angeles Thursday will ever hit Texas, experts say

But the most likely sites for a Texas quake are the northwestern Panhandle and El Paso, they say. "In Texas, there's not much tectonic activity,

Toshimatsu Matsumoto, a geology professor at the University of Texas at Austin, told the Corpus Christi Even when there have been quakes in Texas, they were so mild that most residents probably did not notice them, said Davis Fahlquist, professor of geophysics and associate dean in the College of Geological Science at Texas A&M University. The two main areas for geological movement in Texas over the years are the northwestern Panhandle area and El Paso, he said. "El Paso is a young area, geologically speaking about 10 million years," Fahlquist said. "Historically, there have been some fairly large quakes there. In the Panhandle, he said, "there have been some moderate quakes," but nothing that has approached

The underground activity required to cause earthquakes exists in the El Paso area, partly owing to rifts - splits or fractures below the Earth's surface along the Rio Grande from Colorado to West Texas, said Randy Keller, chairman of the University of Texas-El Paso geological sciences department.

Keller told the El Paso Times he has studied rifts in Africa similar to those along the Rio Grande.

"An earthquake like (Thursday's) could happen here, especially one about that size. We have the fault scarps on the east side of the Franklin Mountains, Keller said. "But it's not as likely one will happen here as in California.

Keller said Thursday's West Coast earthquake was strong enough that UTEP would have recorded it on its seismographs no matter where in the world it had

U.S. bank failures pass 1986 record

HOUSTON (AP) — Although the failures of three more Texas banks pushed the nationwide total to 141 — three past the post-Depression record of 138 failures in 1986 regulators say they see better times ahead.

The failure of Western Bank-Westheimer on Thursday triggered the closings of two of its affiliates, Western Bank-North Wilcrest, N.A., and Western Bank-Westwood, N.A., Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. spokesman Alan Whitney said.

State officials said Western Bank-Westheimer had about $253 million in total assets, while federal officials put that amount at $290.9 million. The Wilcrest bank had assets of about $44.8 million, and the Westwood bank about $46.9 million, Whitney said.

The closings brought the state's total to 42 this year, and it also marked the third time this year that three Texas banks failed in one day. In 1986, Texas set a national record with 26 failures

FDIC officials on Thursday also closed Security State Bank in Oxford, Neb., and Clay County State Bank in Dilworth, Minn. The Texas banks marked failures 139, 140 and 141 for the year.

'We're looking at this pace continuing for the rest of the year so we will probably exceed 200 failures," FDIC Chairman L. William Seidman predicted

"We see the trend sharply reversing next year primarily because of the improvement in the Farm Belt. ... We have seen something near a bottoming out in the oil patch. We haven't seen an upswing yet, but it's an improvement in the sense that it's not going down at the rate it was," Seidman said.

The previous national records were 120 in 1985, 79 in 1984 and 77 in 1937. An estimated 4,000 banks closed their doors in 1933, before the FDIC was created, at the peak of the Great Depression.

Seidman is predicting a decline to 150 failures in 1988. The number of banks classified as problem institutions has risen steadily from 204 in 1981 to about 1,600 at mid-year, the level of the past few months. Historically, about 10 percent of problem banks fail.

The Westheimer bank's insured deposits will be transferred to Charter National Bank-Houston, FDIC spokesman Steve Katsanos said. The failed bank's only office will reopen Monday as a branch of the assuming bank.

"We received no acceptable bids for the purchase of the failed bank and that is why we're doing an insured desposits transfer," Katsanos

Auto accident claims the life of El Paso man

Herald staff report

A one-car accident on Interstate 20 claimed the life of an El Paso man Wednesday evening.

James Timothy Lindop, 57, was killed in the accident that occurred at 8:55 p.m. when the driver apparently lost control of his vehicle while traveling eastbound on I-20 at the 174 mile marker, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

Lindop's identification was withheld by officials until Thursday evening, until next-of-kin were notified.

The vehicle struck a guard rail on the left side of the road, crossed the highway and struck a guardrail on the other side, flipped over and came to rest on the highway. The victim, who was not wearing seat belts, was ejected from the vehicle, the spokesman added.

Lindop was taken by ambulance to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead at 9:20 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles.

There were no contributing factors to the accident, the spokesman

Board praises ousted MHMR commissioner

AUSTIN - Embroiled in a deepening controversy over his leadership, Dr. Gary Miller on Thursday resigned his $82,000-a-year position as commissioner of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, effective March 31.

Board members, who reportedly informed Miller privately they had the votes to oust him, lauded his accomplishments during his 5-year tenure before voting unanimously to accept his resignation

The board gave no explanation for its decision.

While they refused to directly criticize Miller, board members clearly disapproved of his administration of the state's largest agency of 26,000 employees, which was recently found in contempt of court by U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders for failing to improve conditions at the Fort Worth State School.

In several hours of discussion of Miller's performance, board member Coke Mills, a Waco attorney, questioned the depart- that makes the institutions too ment's decision to cut funding to small at the risk of being closed."

The federal court found at the core of the problem at the Fort Worth State School was the lack of resources," said Mills. "The bottom line issue is did the administration of funds of this Department cause or contribute to the finding of contempt at the Fort Worth State School.'

Miller said he did not feel a single issue or action led to his loss of support among board members, but acknowledged that the years-old debate over funding for institutional care versus community programs played a key role.

Missing teacher's body found

ABILENE (AP) — A body found in a ditch in rural Jones County is that of a missing elementary school teacher, authorities said.

Lori Michelle Barrett, 27, of Abilene, who had been missing since Sept. 17, died of multiple gunshot wounds to the head and torso, a Dallas pathologist said. She had been bound with electrical cord and gagged, and her body was wrapped in a blanket.

Police last week arrested James Edward Clayton, 20, who admitted taking Ms. Barrett's car and wrecking it, but denied knowing her whereabouts. Clayton was jailed on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Ms. Barrett was a fifth-grade teacher in nearby Hawley and was last seen two weeks ago when she left an Abilene department store where she worked part-time.

A bathroom window in her apartment was open and the screen had been removed. The cord of a curling iron had been cut off and the door was locked and chained from the inside.

Friends and relatives say Ms. Barrett was a religious person and loved by her students.

"I have faith that of all the people I know, she'd be the one in heaven," said her former roommate, Melissa Wissel.

Ms. Barrett had moved to Abilene a year ago and taught part time before she was hired as a fulltime teacher this year. She had planned to leave her job at Dillard's the day after her disappearance.

'She was all personality, always had a smile," said Hawley's school superintendent, Cecil Davis, who filed the missing person report when she didn't show up for work.

Wall visit a religious experience

By ALISHA GOLDMAN Copy Editor

My visit to the Moving Wall vietnam Memorial was a religious experience.

I have no war wounds to heal or grieving to be done for a lov ed one who died in war.

But as I stood in the darkness before dawn and felt the names staring at me from the black casement that blended into the stars, the lives lost in the endeavor of war touched my Among the personal memorials left at the Wall was a small votive candle, silently burning brightly — placed there in the night by an earlier visitor.

Its small, flickering flame was reflected by the Wall, undimmed by the spotlights. Unlike other gifts, nothing iden-tified to whose memory it burned.

I watched the candle flicker as the night continued its slumber

The list of names seems to stretch into infinity, as it does in reality — a virtual army of names. The list grows as young men die around the world for various causes.

Prison employees get leave after showing AIDS concern

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - Former Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, incarcerated in Petersburg federal prison on a campaign-fund violation, has protested vehemently about AIDS danger at the Virginia penal institution.

Now the controversy has taken on new life with the disciplining of three prison employees who wanted better protection against inmates found to be infected with the deadly disease.

The three, all case managers, were placed on indefinite leave with pay after they filed formal grievances over the prison administration's refusal to disseminate the results of AIDS testing at the

They also received poor job-performance ratings. Prison officials said the suspended workers presented "security and safety concerns."

The officials deny the actions were retaliatory. However, five case managers who filed grievances about AIDS, including the three who were suspended, received poor ratings; the prison's other two case managers, who didn't file grievances, got passing grades.

The employees on leave must remain at home or someplace where they can easily be reached from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. One described his situation as "house arrest.

Two of the furloughed workers, Charles Trotmani and Nathaniel Nelson, are president and vice president, respectively, of the local chapter of the American Federation of Government Employees. They contend that prison management wants to keep them away from work until after next month's union elections Trotman and Nelson also are black. After they charged that racism played a part in their being placed on leave, a third case manager, Steve Michniak, who is white, also was placed on indefinite leave. The union charges that he was singled out to rebut the charge of racism.

Nelson told our reporter Gary Clouser that he wants the public to know the cost of keeping the three men on leave with pay — at a total annual rate of more than $90,000. In addition, three case managers brought in from other prisons to take their places are each paid $50 per diem above their salaries.

The heart of the case managers' grievance is that they must come in close contact with the prisoners every day without knowing which ones have tested positive for the AIDS virus:

AIDS is a particular problem in prisons because many inmates are drug abusers, and some of them have contracted the disease by sharing needles with other drug users

The employees' position was sated in a letter to the Bureau of Prisons from union attorney Linda Sheffield. "These employees are expected to stop fights, assist in medical emergencies, administer first aid and live in close quarters with AIDS carriers for eight hours a day, five days a week," she

"Needless to say, an atmosphere of fear and suspicion has developed, as well as deep resentment of administration officials, who have failed and refused to confront the situation, while maintaining a safe distance from the inmate

Prison spokesman Frank Sizer said that the institution has compiled with Bureau of Prisons policy on the matter. He said inmates are tested > upon entering and exiting the prison, and results of the AIDS tests are known only to Warden J.J. Clark and to prison physicians — and to others on a 'need-to-know'' basis as decided by the warden. The warden, noting "considerable concern" by the staff and inmates over AIDS; issued a memo in August urging employees to wear gloves when in contact with inmates' body

The memo also ordered the staff to "avoid actions and statements which are inciteful (and) which may lead to the disruption of the orderly operation of the institution.

When case manager Nelson wore gloves routine ly, a memo from assistant warden Gregory Hershberger cited him for "inappropriate conduct" and said: "Wearing gloves during your regular work day is viewed as inviting the inmate population and staff, and can lead to the disruption of this institution.'

Operating out of island bases in the gulf, they damage ships and injure crew members with machine-gun fire and rocket grenades. Norwegian tankers, which account for about 20 percent of civilian traffic in the gulf, have been the hardest hit so far. Fortunately, the Iranian speedboats haven't been used on kamikaze missions — yet.

Iran's Chinese-made Silkworm missiles, though they carry a 1,000-pound warhead and have a range of 57 miles, aren't regarded as a particularly serious threat by U.S. intelligence analysts.

The Silkworms are not only inaccurate, particularly against moving targets, but their launchers are vulnerable to laser-guided bombs.

This may strike some as a diversionary attack on a relatively minor problem with cigarette smoke sort of like perfecting booze that won't give you bad breath when you drink too much.

To the editor:

Big Spring could be made a much more desirable place in which to live if two changes were made

First, the city could use its mowing equipment a little longer and mow all the alleys, instead of onethird of them

And next, but more importantly, it could clean its water supply so the water is fit to drink as it runs from the tap.

Other places much smaller do not have these problems. Why must we? I am a widow and former public school teacher who has lived in Wyoming, Texas, Arizona, Colorado and Montana

A very small tax increase and concerned citizens in city offices and homes here could certainly improve Big Spring in a hurry.

How do you think it makes the players and coaches feel when they hear people say degrading things? It's hard enough to win without someone starting problems on the team. If Big Spring would have won would you have been so outspoken?

It is the community's responsibility to support our local sports programs and other scholastic activities, no matter what happens.

To the editor:

Mr. Talbot, you are part of the community.

I'm sure that you are not the only do to cause problems

We may need a few new coaches but we also need a few better and more dependable fans who don't get mad if the coaches don't do things exactly the way we think they should be done.

David Talbot, this letter is for you and anyone else who shares your views expressed in your Sept 29 letter to the editor. I am writing this letter on behalf of the entire Steer football team.

After three years on varsity, I have not met another person who cares half as much about the players on the football team. This goes for all of the coaches. They are doing everything they can to help us win and achieve greatness. They do not need added pressure by fans who make their job even harder — a job I doubt you groggy and sluggish, ill-tempered, or anyone else could do any better. I might start with a cup of coffee,

We, the Steer football team, have not given up after one district loss and still plan to go to the playoffs under Coach Eudy's guidance. After having a team meeting to decide if we should respond to your eletter, we came to the conclusion that the only way we could win was to support our coach with unquestioning loyalty.

This is the only way to have a successful season. Anyone who would have such a letter as yours printed in a local newspaper should know that this could not possibly help the team, but only bring it

Dissension cannot make our team stronger, but only weaker.

The players who start the games on Friday have earned their positions and will do the best job for the Steers. The players who don't start still support the team in hopes of a victorious season.

They do not write unnecessary letters to the editor, but give all of their support. This proves who the men really are. We hope you will cheer for our SCHENECTADY, N.Y. - A woman whose nine children died before age 5 proclaimed her innocence before being sentenced to at least 20 years to life in prison for smothering an infant daughter with a pillow.

Victims' nerves break with glass LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Californians set to in the suburban community where Richard Nixon work today to clear the destroyed buildings and sea of shattered glass left by the region's most powerful earthquake since 1971.

Thursday's disaster, which officials called a dress rehearsal for a "Big One" yet to come, killed at least six people and injured more than 100.

The temblor lasted only 10 to 15 seconds but crumbled dozens of buildings, damaged hundreds of houses and tossed heavy pieces of furniture about like toys. Sixteen aftershocks followed.

Yet, emergency services worked smoothly, traffic flowed, power was quickly restored, and highway improvements completed since the devastating 1971 Sylmar quake minimized damage, officials said. "It could have been worse," said Mayor Tom

Bradley. "Overall, I think we escaped a major catastrophe, and I'm sure we're grateful for that.' In an interview today on CBS, Bradley added: "It was a valuable exercise in terms of our preparation. Within 15 minutes our emergency center was ready in Police patrolled the town for looters, said police Sgt. Charles Plummer, and Gov. George Deukmejian planned to tour the suburb of 71,000 residents today.

In Los Angeles, where five people were arrested for looting, an anti-looting squad was on patrol downtown and the entire department was on alert, working 12-hour shifts, said Lt. Dan Cooke, a police spokesman.

At least six people died, one of them a college student on her way to class struck by a two-ton slab of concrete falling off a parking structure. Rattled residents said they feared the "Big One," a long-predicted massive quake expected to release 1,000 times more energy than Thursday's temblor, which was the strongest since the magnitude 6.4 Sylmar quake that killed 64. "This is only the dress rehearsal for the real thing," said Mike Guerin, spokesman for the governor's Office of Emergency Services.

People handled the quake with varying measures of poise or panic.

In suburban Bellflower, a family was sweeping glass and a stream of beer, wine and other spirits out the door of a liquor store when a woman walked up. "Can I just buy a lottery ticket?" she asked. She was told to come back the next day. Downtown Los Angeles became a virtual ghost town

MANAMA, Bahrain - An Iranian warship today attacked and set afire an Indian tanker carrying volatile petrochemicals in the Persian Gulf, and Iraqi warplanes struck a tanker doing business with Iran.

The attacks came the day after a missile fired from an Iraqi plane hit a shrimp trawler and killed its Australian captain.

Son playing with panties worries mom

found out that our 11-year-old — I'll call him Sidney — has been playing with my panties and bras, and I've been a wreck ever since. Now I'm afraid to leave him in the house alone. He doesn't know that I know. I haven't told his father yet. (Do I have to?)

Is this normal behavior for a boy his age, or do you think he needs to see some kind of counselor? Do you think if we just ignore it he may outgrow

He's always shared a room with his 7-vear-old brother. Just last night my husband suggested putting Sidney in a room alone, but I quickly vetoed the idea, so we dropped the matter. It's sure to come up again soon, so please rush your answer to me.

Dear

Abby

I also find Sidney trying to tie his feet together with a pair of socks a couple of times. Is this normal?

DISMAYED IN DALLAS DEAR DISMAYED: First, tell your husband. Sidney is his son too. Don't ignore it; it's not normal behavior. Sidney needs conseling, but don't approach him as though he's committed some kind of terrible crime. He hasn't. Your family doctor can recommend a family therapist who will make Sidney comfortable with his behavior, and

DEAR ABBY: Seventeen years ago, when I was 18, I had a brief love affair with "Billy Bob," who was also 18 at the time. I became pregnant and his parents paid my hospital bill on the condition that I would seek no further support from them or their son.

With the loving support of my family, I kept my baby boy. When "Jackie" was 7 months old, I ran into a high school sweetheart who had just come back from Vietnam. We fell in love and married four months later, and he added his name on Jackie's birth certificate. (In our state this procedure was less expensive than adoption.)

Now that Jackie is nearing adulthood, don't you think he has the right to know the truth about his parentage? Billy Bob still lives in this area. He's married and has a family of his own, but I've never contacted him, and he never con-

By telling Jackie who his biological father is, I know I run the risk of opening a can of worms, but some people already know the truth, and I would rather have Jackie hear it from me than so-

Do I need Billy Bob's permission to tell Jackie who his real father is? And if I should decide to tell him, could Billy Bob seek parental rights afater all these years?

NEEDS TO KNOW DEAR NEEDS: I think you should tell Jackie who his

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago I help you handle the problem you're biological father is, and the sooner the better. You don't need Billy Bob's permission to disclose the truth, but I advise you to let him know that you plan to do so. I doubt if he would seek parental rights after all these years, since he has ignored all parental responsibilities. But consult a lawyer to make sure.

> DEAR ABBY: Doesn't anyone believe in knocking on the door anymore? I don't appreciate people just walking through my home till they find us. I wouldn't dream of doing that. I don't mind their calling through the door to see if we're home, but I think it's not only rude, it's frightening to have someone walk in unexpectedly.

My hints seem to bounce off. So please tell all those people out there that an unlocked door is not an invitation to walk in.

MAD IN OHIO DEAR MAD: You are foolishly trusting to leave your door unlocked. An open door is an invitation to unsavory characters to walk in and help themselves. People who do not lock their doors get robbed a lot. Or worse.

DEAR ABBY: I have a distant relative who is running for U.S. senator in another state. I just received a letter asking for a political contribution. Am I nuts or something to think that someone running for the U.S. Senate should stick to sending such letters to people in his own state?

I am not a wealthy person, and I think this man is out of line even to put me on the spot by asking me for a contribution to help finance his campaign, especially when both he and his wife are very well-off.

I feel like I'm stuck between a rock and a hard place. If I don't send something, I will never hear the end of it, yet I will feel like a hypocrite if I do.

How do you feel about this? Do you think people running for public office should ask for money from out-of-staters?

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS DEAR ANONYMOUS: It's neither unusual nor inappropriate for a person who's running for the U.S. Senate to solicit funds from out-of-state prospects. Because running for the U.S. Senate is very expensive, if the candidates didn't solicit out-of-state campaign contributions, they could never make it. If you think your distant relative would make a good U.S. senator, support him - even if it's only a token. If you think he wouldn't make a good senator, then don't contribute - and don't feel like a hypocrite.

Residents forgot experts' safety advice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Californians handled their latest big earthquake with varying measures of aplomb and panic, doing a lot of the right and wrong things.

The quake, measuring 6.1 on the Richter seale, hit at 7:42 a.m. Thursday, waking those who were still sleeping and sending earlier risers diving under desks or running out of office buildings.

"I sure noticed a lot of people outside," said police Sgt. Robert Gandy, noting that experts advise getting under desks and doorways rather than leaving a building. "Out there you're susceptible to falling glass and buildings.

Whittier, 15 miles southeast of Los Angeles, youngsters who were awaiting the 8 a.m. start of classes put their earthquake training into practice, said the Rev. Tony Ross

The children ran away from the buildings and gathered in the open school yard without panic. Ross said there were more problems with adults who came onto the heavily damaged campus than with the children.

Common sense, however, was not all that common.

Police had to chase away curious youths who poked their heads into a partially collapsed parking structure in Whittier even though the supports still holding up tons of concrete and steel were all fractured and bent.

Not many people braved the blistering sun to gawk at the damage to the Whittier business district, but many of those who did failed to notice hazards overhead - glass streetlight fixtures perched at precarious angles, tilted brick facades and dangling signs.

Despite the quake's harm, it had its lighter aftermath.

At St. Mary's, the bell tower appeared slightly askew. Ross could tell that something else looked wrong, but he couldn't put his finger on

When the bells rang at mid-afternoon a nun remarked: "Two hours late but at least they

In Whittier, broken glass and debris rained into the streets. Thirty buildings collapsed, city officials

Mayor Gene H. Chandler declared a state of emergency, and at least 170 people spent the night at two shelters.

Mike and Cheryl Verdugo and their 13-month-old daughter, Stephanie, sat on the front lawn of their Whittier house. Verdugo said the family planned to stay outside through the night.

The side of the house is pretty thrashed. Big chunks of concrete came off the side," Verdugo said, adding his baby girl would sleep in Amid concern about falling debris, authorities sealed off a dozen blocks of the city.

"The houses up here in the hills are all a mess," said Denise Huff, 33, whose ceiling caved in. "I'm from Ohio, and I'm going back."

Although the quake was brief, its impact was sure to reverberate for years among those whose fears became reality.

The quake was felt as far away as Las Vegas, Nev., 250 miles to the northeast. It knocked dishes off shelves in the Victor Valley, 70 miles to the northeast.

"I've lived here for a year and had horrible, horrible nightmares about the big one. I thought this was it," said Margie Thomas who raced out of a downtown Los Angeles restaurant when the shaking started. "I'm getting out of Los

In old residential neighborhoods, porches collapsed onto lawns, chimneys toppled, windows were shattered, and streets cracked.

Those killed included a 21-yearold California State University-Los Angeles student crushed by a collapsing watl; a 32-year-old man who fell from a second floor window in suburban Maywood; and a 40-year-old construction worker buried under seven feet of earth 35 feet into a tunnel under construction in the San Gabriel Mountains, officials said.

Heart attacks attributed to the earthquake killed a 69-year-old man during a high-rise building evacuation in Los Angeles; a 72-year-old woman, distraught over damage to her apartment in the city of Bell; and a 20-year-old woman, described by a coroner's spokeswoman as overweight, in Covina.

A 70-year-old woman suffered a fatal heart attack in bed at her Irvine home as her husband tried to calm her over the telephone, but authorities said they could not prove the earthquake caused her

Nearly 12 hours after the quake, a 30-year-old motorcyclist was killed when his bike slid under a state Department of Transportation truck repairing a freeway near suburban Norwalk, said state Highway Patrol spokesman Lyle

The quake, dubbed the Whittier Narrows quake by scientists, was followed by at least 16 aftershocks that measured 3 or more on the Richter scale. Three had magnitudes exceeding 4, and U.S. Geological Survey seismologist Lucile Jones said aftershocks up to magnitude 5 might occur during the coming week.

Coahoma (2-2) at Colorado City (2-2)

This game presents a very interesting complication for the Hudson family. Father Larry coaches the C-City secondary, and son Curtis quarterbacks Coahoma. They probably have some pretty cagey conversations at the dinner table.

'Well Curtis, what did y'all do in practice today?" "Sure dad."

Larry Hudson will surely have conflicting signals bouncing around in his brain when and if Curtis gets sacked. 'Yey! I mean, is he okay?'

One thing's for sure - there will be at least one happy Hudson and one disappointed Hudson tonight.

For Coahoma to win, Curtis must have a good game throwing the ball to take pressure off running back Matt Rowell. He will, but the Wolves have too many weapons. It will be father

Colorado City 21, Coahoma 19

Iraan (2-2) at Forsan (3-1)

Forsan beat Iraan twice last year, including their opening round playoff victory. Unfortunately for the Braves, the Buffaloes are heating up just in time for district, which begins next week in Ozona. The Forsan runners, John Roman and Stacey Munoz, have been rumbling for three games, and quarterback Brant Nichols may be the best in the area. The offense will move. The question had been the defense, and last week the defensive unit had their best game of the season. Look for the Buffaloes to roll. Forsan 28, Iraan 13

Sands (3-1) at Borden County (1-3)

The Mustangs and the Coyotes hooked up in a 34-18 tussle in the second game of the year, with the Mustangs as victor. That game didn't count in the district standings — this one does.

Last year Sands and Borden County split, but this year it won't happen. Sands would get the edge anyway, but Borden County will probably be without all-purpose runner and defender Shannon Bond. Losing a star in six-man is akin to losing a big center in basketball. It hurts.

Friday night, the Coyotes will miss their senior leader. Sands 44, Borden County 12

Klondike (3-1) at Wellman (2-2)

The Coogs' only loss was to mighty Jayton. They thrashed Borden County last week, and it appears they'll battle with Sands for the top spot in the district.

Wellman won the district last year, but won't repeat. Tonight is a good reason why.

Klondike 38, Wellman 20 Garden City (2-2) at Menard (2-2)

The Bearkats had a good showing last Friday everywhere but on the scoreboard. They should be 2-0 in district, which is where Menard hope to make the playoffs. It would be a hole that would be hard to get Last year Menard won this battle 24-0, but there's no real com-

With a 1-1 record, however, they can't afford to lose this game and parison with this year's Bearkats' squad and last year's. The Bearkats will win because they have to.

Garden City 13, Menard 8 Grady (1-3) at Midland Christian (3-0)

Midland Christian beat Grady seven touchdowns to three in a preseason scrimmage, so it's hard to believe the Wildcats can win this one

Since then, however, they've won a game, and have proven to themselves that they can win.

But for the fifth time this year, the Wildcats are playing against the

Midland Christian 48, Grady 36 Stanton (2-2) at Crane (1-3)

This will be an interesting matchup. Crane, a 3A school, has been beaten badly in games against Fort Stockton and Monahans, two district 2-4A teams. Against Seminole, a team beaten 7-3 by Coahoma, the Golden Cranes won by one.

In the second game of the season Stanton whipped Coahoma, but they haven't been the same since, losing two straight. Will the Buffalos slide continue?

Will the Golden Cranes be licking their chops at a 2A team after having been bullied about by two 4A teams?

Do the Golden Cranes miss running back sensation Gerald Mitchell, who now wears a Texas A&M uniform? The answers are no, yes and of course.

NFL strike Upshaw claiming racial bias

WASHINGTON (AP) - NFL Players Association chief Gene Upshaw, claiming racial bias is influencing talks between the union and management, says many of the details of the negotiations are "just not getting through" to all the owners.

Upshaw called upon the owners on Thursday to send their negotiators back to the table for the first round of bargaining since talks broke off last Friday.

Upshaw called a news conference to express his readiness to negotiate, but later addressed a different, more controversial issue.

"I didn't want to say this, but I think (management) is having a lot of trouble with me," Upshaw said. "It's gotten to the point now where they look at me as being black, I'm militant, I'm hostile, I'm going to stop (games) at the stadiums.

"When all else fails, that's the next avenue that they'll take, to try and divide us along the lines of black versus white.

Upshaw ended the question-and-answer session before elaborating. He explained that he had to catch a plane to Texas so he could attend the funeral of his grandmother, who died Thursday morning. As he was leaving, he was asked if racism had entered into the talks.

"I'm beginning to see signs that point in that direction." he said as he was walking out the door.

The NFL Management Council responded with a statement that said: "This is a labor dispute. Race has never been a factor in these negotiations. Suggesting that this is anything more is an attempt to obscure the difficult economic issues, including free

Doug Allen, the union's assistant executive director, said the issue might not be black vs. white, but just a personality conflict.

"We're talking about what (owners) are saying to players and privately to agents and management people that we've talked to," Allen said. "They are trying to make the executive director the issue. They tried to do that with Ed Garvey for years. ... It's outrageous that they're now starting to make Gene Garvey, who resigned in 1983 to enter politics, is white.

In calling for talks to resume, Upshaw said: "We are calling upon the owners to send their negotiators back to the table that they left last Friday. "It seems to me that the message is not getting through to the owners. We just feel that a lot of things we talked about and suggested are just not getting through to the group of owners out there that should be concerned about a strike.' Talks broke off last Friday in Philadelphia after three days of bargaining.

"They have never negotiated with us," Upshaw said of the owners. "They have a plan, and that is to play these games. We have a plan, and that is to reach a new collective bargaining agreement.'

Cardinals win NL East title

By The Associated Press

After winning their third National League East title in six years, the St. Louis Cardinals were starting to talk pennant and still talking Mets.

St. Louis ended the race — and New York's hopes of repeating as champions — with an 8-2 victory over Montreal Thursday night. The Cardinals will open the best-ofseven NL playoffs against San Francisco at home Tuesday night.

In 1985 the Cardinals won the East, but were bothered by the attention the second-place Mets got. Last year, the Mets ran away with the East and the Cardinals didn't like the way they did it.

Keith Hernandez, Gary Carter and about a dozen other members of the Mets were among the 48,763 fans at Busch Stadium who saw St. Louis clinch. New York had an offday, and its only hope was to force a tie by having Montreal win Thursday night and then sweep a three-game series from the Cardinals.

"That was a great ay to win," gloated shortstop Ozzie Smith, spraying champagne with teammate John Morris. "They (the Mets) died a slow death and had to watch it.'

"They still think they got a chance," Smith razzed.

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said he had considered Thursday's game a must-win situation. With Jack Clark (ankle) and Willie McGee (finger), who have combind for 211 runs batted in, out of the lineup, he said the team could have been swept by the Mets in the three-game season finale.

"I was thinking if we didn't win tonight, we might be playing on Monday," Herzog said, speaking of a possible playoff game. "I wanted to win very badly. I didn't want the Cardinals to be remembered as a bunch of chokers.

The Cardinals had a 91/2-game lead over the Expos and a 101/2-game bulge over the Mets on July 23 despite injuries to starting pitchers John Tudor, Danny Cox and catcher Tony Pena. Cox was the Cardinal hero in the clincher as he pitched a five-hitter in going the distance. 'That was Danny's best game

since his rookie season," Herzog

Members of the St. Louis Cardinals celebrate clinching the National League East championship by beating the Montreal Expos Thursday night in St. Louis.

Dan Driessen, who was batting .218 while subbing most of the month for Clark, drove in three runs and had two hits. His two-run double in the fourth inning against Jay Tibbs made it 3-1 and he hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

St. Louis scored five runs on two hits and two errors in the seventh against three pitchers. Smith hit a two-run single, Driessen had a sacrifice fly and Tim Wallach and reliever Jeff Parrett made errant throws that allowed runs to score.

Reds 4, Padres 3 San Diego's Benito Santiago extended his rookie record hitting streak to 33 games with an eighthinning bunt single, but Dave Collins had three doubles and scored twice to help Cincinnati beat the host Padres. It was the Padres' seasonhigh eighth straight defeat and the Reds' fifth consecutive victory.

Pirates 12. Cubs 3 Doug Drabek won for the ninth time in his last 11 decisions and Andy Van Slyke keyed a four-run fifth inning with a run-scoring triple as Pittsburgh beat visiting Chicago to improve to 14-4 against the Cubs this season.

Van Slyke's triple was the first of five consecutive hits in the fifth inning against Scott Sanderson and Mike Mason. Darnell Coles, R.J.

Reynolds, and Mike LaValliere followed with run-scoring singles for a 6-1 lead.

Astros 6, Braves 5 Terry Puhl's run-scoring single with two outs in the ninth inning scored Ken Caminiti to lift Houston over Atlanta at the Astrodome.

The Braves' seven stolen bases, including a triple steal in the fourth inning, equaled the major-league high for the season achieved by the New York Yankees and Cincinnati.

Dodgers 7, Giants 0 Bob Welch pitched a one-hitter and singled in two runs as Los Angeles ended its home season with a victory over San Francisco.

Tigers, Blue Jays ready to decide East winner

By The Associated Press After 159 games, it's time for the Detroit Tigers and Toronto Blue Jays to stop fooling around.

The American League East title, the only division crown still undecided, is on the line in the three-game series between the first-place Blue Jays and secondplace Tigers that begins tonight. Detroit must win two of three to force a one-game playoff, also at Tiger Stadium, on Monday. Toronto will win the division by taking two of the games.

"I believe if Doyle Alexander can get us one more win, we'll win it," Tigers Manager Sparky Anderson said Thursday night after his team beat Baltimore 9-5. Anderson has Alexander, who is 8-0 since joining the Tigers in August, set to pitch tonight against Jim Clancy."I get a funny feeling we're going to fall into it. 'The weekend will all come down to starting pitching for us. For Toronto, it might be the bullpen, they've got so many good

"If it comes down to Monday, it'll come down to whose heart don't blow up.

The Tigers will pitch Jack Morris, 18-10, and Frank Tanana, 14-10, on Saturday and Sunday. Toronto goes with Mike Flanagan, 6-8, and Jimmy Key 17-7.

"The Blue Jays, no question about it, have the best personnel in the American League," Anderson said. "But, sometimes funny things happen. Look at 1985. The Cardinals had absolutely the best team, but Kansas City beat them." Tigers 9, Orioles 5

At Detroit, Alan Trammell had three hits, including his 200th this season, and Kirk Gibson and Matt Nokes homered for the Tigers. Walt Terrell went all the way for his 17th victory.

Coliseum, where he starred from 1968-75, Reggie Jackson singled to start a two-run rally. 'This was my last at-bat," he said. "I'd like to be around next year, but it won't be as a player." Jackson, limited to pinch-hitting in the past month because of a hamstring pull, was given a standing ovation by the crowd of 9,846 while he was in the on-deck circle. Before batting, Jackson acknowledged the crowds chants of complete game of the year. "Reggie, Reggie" by waving his After he singled, another stan-

Religion roundup

ATLANTA (AP) - The National Council of Churches has praised the tentative agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union to eliminate short-and medium-range nuclear missiles.

The executive committee of the cooperative organization of most major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox bodies said it had "worked and prayed" for reversal of an arms race leading "to global destruction," and added:

"We thank God that now for the first time an agreement is within reach which would not only limit but eliminate some of the most destabilizing nuclear weapons.

"We continue to pray that this agreement in principle will signal the opening of a new age of trust and confidence-building which will lead to the further reduction and ultimate elimination of nuclear

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Coalition of American Nuns says banning of Dignity, a Catholic homosexual group, from holding services in Roman Catholic churches in many dioceses "only robs homosexuals" of the church's "nourishment and support which is their right."

TOKYO (AP) - Leaders of many branches of Christianity joined in the dedication Sept. 15 of the first common Roman Catholic-Protestant translation of the Bible into Japanese.

The translation is the result of 18 years work by 44 Protestant and Roman Catholic scholars following principles laid down jointly by the United Bible Societies and Vatican officials.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rabbis of more than 1,000 congregations are asking Jews to donate the amount they save by fasting on Yom Kippur on Saturday for food to the needy

The extent of participation in the drive was reported by Mazon, which is Hebrew for hunger and a Jewish organization that raises funds for Jewish and non-Jewish agencies feeding poor people.

Catholics celebrating century in Big Spring

St. Thomas Catholic Church, 605 N. Main St., will observe 100 years of Catholic presence in Big Spring Oct. 20, said Father Robert Vreteau, Bishop Michael Pfeiffer of San Angelo will celebrate a high Mass, with many area priests and other dignitaries in attendance. A reception will be hosted after the church service.

"We have chosen the date of October 20 for that date in 1887 that Bishop Nerez of San Antonio first visited, and dedicated, the first Catholic church on record here," said Vreteau.

"At the time of that visit and the first confirmation, the church was known as St. Mary's."

he added. That first church was on the same acreage where the current St. Thomas Church is located. The service has been continuous throughout the century. The present building which houses St. Thomas was erected in 1911.

"The 100 years of the Catholic presence here can be well divided into three periods, Vreteau noted. "The first 25 years - from early 1887 to 1911 — were the years of St. Mary's parish. In 1911, St. Thomas Catholic Church was built and dedicated."

Hell is not a symbol, but a reality

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently you answered a question from someone who wanted to know what heaven was like. Now I'd like to know what you think hell will be like? Or is "hell" only a symbol or something?...S.H. Dear S.H.: No, when the Bible speaks about hell it is not speaking about a symbol. It is talking about a sobering reality — the fact that there is no place reserved in eternity for those who deliberately turn their backs on God and His love.

Just as our minds can't fully grasp the wonder and splendor of heaven, so we can't fully grasp the awesome horror of hell. The Bible speaks of it as a place of "darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth" (Matthew 8:12). It also speaks of it as a place "where the fire never goes out" (Mark 9:44), and where those who go will have "no rest day or night" (Revelation 14:11). But perhaps the most dreadful aspect of hell is that it is in a place utterly empty of the presence of God, and those in hell will be seperated from God and

His blessings eternally. backs of God "will be punished with everlasting destruction and shut out from the presence of the Lord" (2 Thessalonians 1:9). Hell is the exact opposite of heaven in every way.

But there is good news — and that is that God does not want anyone to go to hell, and "He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone come to repentance (2 Peter 3:9). In fact, that is why Christ came, to open the way for us to be forgiven of our sins and become members of God's family

All we have to do is turn to Christ in faith and ask Him to save us as our Lord and Savior. Have you given your life to Christ? Don't delay another minute, but accept the free gift of salvation God offers you in Christ.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How do you protect your children from the bad influence of your ex-husband? When they visit him he always tries to turn them against me. He also lets them have anything they want, and when I have to discipline them I can tell they wish they were living with him. I love them dearly, but fear the results of this conflict. — Mrs.

DEAR MRS. N.P.: Recently I was reading the comment of an experienced counselor who said this is the number one problem he hears from divorced parents, and admittedly it's not an easy one to handle. And don't forget it's not just a problem for you; it's a source of confusion for your children as well. Divorce almost always has a negative effect on children, which s one of the reasons why divorce was not part of God's perfect plan.

What can you do? First, don't try to compete with your ex-husband by forgetting all about discipline or trying to win their affection by giving them anything they want. Instead, you may have to sit down with your children (either separately or as a group) and calmly explain that you understand what is happening, but you love them very, very much — and one of the signs of your love is that you want to help them grow up to be responsible people.

Don't try to turn them against your ex-husband, but try to help them understand that discipline is part of life. Be sure your discipline is fair and not administered in anger. In addition, you may need to communicate your concern to your ex-husband, urging him, for the sake of the development of your children's characters, not to go overboard on letting them have everything they want, and not try to turn them against you.

Above all, make Christ the center of your home. Your situation is not ideal, but Christ can give you the strength and wisdom you need to overcome the problems of being a single parent.
