Patriotism and service to country were ingrained in Ed Metz early in his life.

Born in Sharleroi, Penn. — which he describes as a "normal, patriotic little town" — and coming from a family with three veterans, it seems only natural that he joined the Air Force.

Four tours in Vietnam and almost 20 years later, Metz was walking beside the Moving Wall Friday night, providing counseling to veterans who needed it and "just doing anything that's needed to make this thing a success," he said.

He is on temporary duty leave from Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, where he is assigned to the First Aerialport Squadron. He came at the request of the local Wall Committee, and said he has been impressed with the event so far.

"This isn't a job for me, this is an honor," Metz said. "I have been VETERAN page 2A

Mental health officials attempt to dispel myths

"Mental illness is a reality" is the apparent no-news theme of National Mental Illness Awareness Week, Robert von Rosenberg, superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital, said Friday.

Observation of the special week begins today and continues through Saturday.

"Why would advocates for the mentally ill ... psychiatric physicians and other health professionals select a slogan that appears to be a dull acknowledgement of fact?" von Rosenberg said.

"It was chosen because of the denial that most of us succumb to when faced with the reality of mental illness."

The attitudes of most people who are unfamiliar with the facts tend to believe that "it can't happen to me or mine. Mental illness," they believe, "only happens to those who let it. It's all an act," the superintendent theorized.

"By stressing the reality of the illness, mental health advocates are confronting this denial process — and the misinformation it promotes," von Rosenberg said. "We hope to dispel many of the myths associated with mental illness and to make the general public better acquainted with its reality."

Some of the more prevalent myths and the realities they deny are:

- Myth: Mental illness doesn't affect the average person.
- Reality: No one is immune to mental illness. The U.S. National Institute has stated that one in five Americans has some form of mental illness in a given six-month period.
- Myth: Children don't get mental illness.
- Reality: Twelve million children — infants through 18-year-olds — can and do suffer diagnosable mental disorders, such as depression, attention deficit disorder and pervasive developmental disorders.

- Myth: People never recover from mental illness.
- Reality: As many as eight in 10 people suffering from mental illnesses can effectively return to normal, productive lives if they receive appropriate care and treatment.
- Myth: Mentally ill people are dangerous.
- Reality: People suffering from mental illness are no more

Hobby touts Build Texas amendments

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — People who support proposed economic development amendments that would authorize $1.9 billion in bonds should work hard to get a high voter turnout, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says.

"This is an off-year election. We are battling apathy ... a low turnout is traditionally a negative one," Hobby said at a Thursday forum on the eight proposed "Build Texas" amendments to the state constitution. The proposals will be considered by voters on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Chamber of commerce officials and others at the forum were given packets of information to help them boost the amendments in their area, including advertising samples and a sample telephone bank script.

Hobby also touted a proposal on the ballot to allow the State Board of Education to remain an appointed body, rather than reverting to an elected board.

Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot is paying for most of the television advertising that is planned to promote the appointed board, Hobby said.

Dallas attorney Tom Luce, who has been working with Perot to push the amendment, said film footage has been shot for potential commercials but have not been produced.

It has not been decided whether the commercials will be necessary to promote the appointed board, said Luce, who had no estimate on the amount spent on the film.

The board was temporarily changed to an appointed body as part of the sweeping education reforms approved in 1984.

"All that grief and pain would completely have been wasted had the key change not been made to change the elected (board), which was doing a poor job to an appointed (board), which has done a very

Play, concert among events for ArtFest '87

Herald staff report

ArtFest '87, a six-week celebration of arts and cultural events in Big Spring, will begin Thursday with the production of "Brighton Beach Memoirs" at the Howard College Auditorium.

Curtain time for the play is 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. A "meet the cast" party will be given after the production Thursday in the auditorium foyer, according to information released by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Several other activities are planned for the second ArtFest celebration, the Chamber report stated.

The Big Spring Art Association will sponsor an art show at Canterbury South Apartments Friday through Sunday. Local artists will be featured during the association's show, the report added.

A third event scheduled for ArtFest is the Arts and Crafts Festival, to be at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Oct. 17 and 18. Mel Prather is coordinator of the event where local and regional artists will display a variety of works, and the report stated.

A major event of ArtFest is the Costume Bash at Big Spring Country Club, scheduled for 9 p.m. Oct. 31. Tickets for the event are $5 per person, and are available at the Chamber office or from any Cultural Affairs Council person, the report added.

The Costume Bash is being coordinated by Debbie Reid and will include a cash bar, hor d'oeuvres, music, video shows and cash prizes for best costume, the report stated.

The final event of ArtFest will be a concert at the high school auditorium sponsored by the Big Spring Symphony at 8 p.m., Nov. 21. It will feature Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, and tickets for the event are $7.50 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens, the report said.

Session leaves hospital, ceremony set

WASHINGTON (AP) — William S. Sessions, now scheduled to take formal charge of the FBI later this week, said Saturday he felt fine but "a little grey" as he left a hospital where he had been treated for a bleeding ulcer.

Sessions originally had been scheduled to take the oath as FBI director at a ceremony last Thursday, but the proceedings had to be postponed when he was admitted into George Washington University Medical Center after becoming ill on an airline flight.

"I feel fine — a little grey — but I feel good generally," Sessions told reporters as he left the hospital.

He was accompanied by his wife, Alice, who carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

"Alice brought some yellow roses to go with my grey," he said.

Sessions said his swearing-in ceremony had been rescheduled for 2:30 p.m. next Thursday at the FBI Building.

He praised his doctors and said he intended to follow their advice, which included a special diet and some medication.

But Sessions, who had been a federal judge in Texas, said he will not have to give up Mexican food.

"You know, Mexican food had nothing to do with it," Sessions said of his ulcer attack. "Mexican food is good anytime of the day or night and (the doctor) tells me I can have it anytime I want — and I will."

Sessions was stricken Wednesday night aboard an airliner on the way from Dallas to Washington and was taken by FBI officials from National Airport to the hospital. There, doctors discovered a previously undiagnosed small ulcer in the upper portion of the small intestine.

Sessions had taken aspirin on an empty stomach, became sick and fainted on the flight from Dallas. Doctors said the ulcer flared up when he took the aspirin.

After he takes the oath of office, Sessions is not expected to start in his new job right away because doctors want him to rest before handling a normal workload.

Sessions planned to leave for Texas on Sunday and would return to Washington for the ceremony on Thursday, FBI spokesman Scott Nelson said.

Before he was stricken Wednesday, Sessions had planned to fly home to Texas after the ceremony to finish cleaning out his office there.

Tomatoes picked two ways

Q. Are tomatoes picked by hand or by machine now?

A. If it's to be eaten fresh, they're picked by hand still green. If it's going into ketchup, then it's done by machine, ripe. The machine rips up the whole plant and shakes it over a conveyor belt.

The only thing that makes a tarantula bite dangerous is the possibility of infection.

Q. If tequila isn't the national drink of Mexico, what is?

A. I'm told cognac and beer qualify better than tequila for that distinction.

Martin to coordinate prison effort

Herald staff report

COLORADO CITY — Former Mayor and State Representative Elmer Martin has been appointed to coordinate efforts into possible establishment of a private prison here.

Martin was appointed by Mayor Jim Baum and other city officials.

Sonny Emerson, Huntsville, has proposed that a private prison be built in Mitchell County, and Martin is going to recommend County Attorney Clay Strange and City Attorney Tom Rees study the proposal.

If and when legalities are resolved, the next step will be to hire a consultant to conduct a feasibility study, Martin said.

Myth: If you have a mental illness, you are crazy all the time.

Reality: People suffering from even the most severe mental illnesses are in touch with reality as often as they are actively psychotic. Many victims quietly bear the pain of mental illness

Reality: Most health insurance plans don't pay the same for treatment of mental illnesses as they do for treatment of other medical conditions. But, all of us have just as much chance of being admitted to the hospital this year for a major mental illness as we do for cancer or heart disease.

good job," Hobby said.

A Texas Poll showed 33 percent of Texans for the appointed board, compared with 57 percent against, Hobby said.

But 56 percent of Texans surveyed recently by pollster George Shipley supported the Build Texas amendments package, compared with 21 percent who opposed it, he said.

The margin in the Shipley poll was higher for one of the amendments in the economic development package: 61 percent favored the plan to issue $500 million in general obligation bonds to attract the "super collider," a federal research project, while 13 percent were against it, Hobby said.

The approval rating for the Build Texas amendments "doesn't mean we can sit back and assume these amendments will be approved at the polls. We are battling apathy," Hobby said.

With 25 proposed amendments and two referendums on the ballot, Hobby said he's concerned voters will be confused.

Besides the super collider proposal, the Build Texas amendments would allow bonds to be issued to finance turnpikes, toll roads and toll bridges, local public facilities, mental health and mental retardation facilities and prisons.

The Build Texas package also includes proposals to provide state financing for Texas products and businesses and to issue state water development bonds.

Veteran

nothing but impressed with the way Big Spring has handled this thing."

The 39-year old veteran is well-acquainted with the Wall, having visited the full-sized version in Washington, D.C. While there, he was briefed by officials on details concerning the memorial, and has been educating visitors during the past week.

"I believe the more people know, the better they can help," Metz explained. "I think everybody should see this, so that if there's a next time (another war) maybe we won't make the same mistakes."

He has taken particular delight in educating children and students, believing that a lack of education concerning the war has led to a distorted picture of what happened there.

"Maybe we made a mistake over there but, if we did, it's time to 'fess up to it. There's been a terrible lack of teaching on Vietnam," he noted.

But his primary purpose is still to assist any veterans who might have adverse reactions to the Wall, he added.

"It's hard for non-vets to relate to what happened over there," he explained. "The Vietnam vet needs someone who can speak their language."

As a member of the Vietnam Veterans of America, Metz knows the problems facing the veterans.

Two of the major difficulties concerning returning veterans are Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and the Agent Orange issue. PTSD is delayed traumatic reaction to the war that many veterans suffer, he added.

"I was lucky because I stayed in the military when I came home," Metz said. "But the guy who was carrying a rifle one day and walking the streets of New York City the next was facing a big problem."

Acceptance of the returning veteran added to the problem, Metz noted.

"They weren't accepted by anybody," he said, adding service organizations such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars compounded the problem by refusing to recognize the Vietnam conflict as a foreign war.

He also is active in trying to keep veterans' claim of injury due to Agent Orange in the public eye. Agent Orange was a defoliant used in Vietnam that has caused severe physical problems to soldiers who served there, Metz explained.

Although Dow Chemical, the manufacturer of Agent Orange, has made about $300 million available for veterans, nothing has been paid to date, he added.

While the Agent Orange issue remains unsettled, public acceptance of the Vietnam veteran is improving, Metz said.

"The Vietnam vet is coming out of the woodwork," he said. "We're showing folks that we're professional people, not hell-raisers or dope smokers."

Metz hopes that activities such as the Moving Wall continue to improve public attitude.

"Things like the Wall help. It feels good to see others that aren't Vietnam vets involved with the Wall. It tells me that we're welcomed home — that we're accepted," he said.

"It took a long time, but it finally happened."

Child support monies increase 300 percent

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas child support collections hit $70 million in the fiscal year that ended Aug. 31 in an increase that Attorney General Jim Mattox said Friday added up to 300 percent since he took over the program in 1983.

Mattox said the increase was due largely to the relatively new program in which support payments can be deducted from the paychecks of delinquent parents.

"We started out in the first year of wage assignment by collecting $5.4 million through that program. This year we collected nearly $20 million. We anticipate, in the long run, wage assignment will become the normal way to pay child support," he said at a news conference.

Texas voters in 1983 approved wage garnishment for child support payments. The program began in 1984. A court can order garnishment if a parent is 30 days behind in support payments.

Total support collections through Mattox's office last fiscal year were $70.2 million, up from $50 million the previous year.

"This program is something nearly of a nightmare to us because it is so difficult to handle. It involves all the human frailties that exist in this world and yet we're making big strides," Mattox said.

Due to limited funds, Mattox said his office can only pursue about 30 percent of the cases referred to it. And he said that represents only 25 percent to 35 percent of the total cases.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox announced that child support collections increased 300 percent from Sept. 1983 to a record $70 million in 1987. Mattox made the announcement Friday in Austin flanked by families who have benefitted from the collections.

Briefs

Mexicans oppose law

AUSTIN (AP) — Mexican shoppers are staying away from Texas businesses in the wake of a new state law requiring non-Texans to carry automobile liability insurance while driving in the state.

Officials from Ciudad Juarez to Matamoros, who have urged a boycott of Texas companies, have made charges of discrimination over the law. The measure, which took effect Sept. 1, expands the auto liability insurance requirement that already applied to Texans.

Texas businesses along the border say they are losing millions of dollars since the new law took effect and informal boycott began. Their retail sales have dropped 20 percent to 60 percent, the Austin American-Statesman reported Saturday.

Report backs windfall tax

WASHINGTON — A Library of Congress report released Saturday by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says the Canadian economy received a boost when that country's government repealed their equivalent of the windfall profits tax.

"You've seen a faster increase is taking place in Canada than you're seeing in the United States — working more quickly toward recovery of the oil industry," Bentsen said.

In April, the number of rigs drilling in Canada and the United States declined to a spring low, but in May, an upward trend began and the Canadian increase was significantly greater than the American, the report said.

Officials urge water rules

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Agencies that regulate the use of water supplies should work together toward regional policies for groundwater conservation and surface reservoir projects, officials said.

Members of the Edwards Underground Water District board and municipal officials are considering taking planning for surface water out of the complete control of the City Water Board.

That idea surfaced Friday during the first meeting between the Edwards board and a City Council committee studying water resource issues for the next year met Friday in their first joint session.

Father doubts testimony

BELLVILLE (AP) — The father of murder victim Cheryl Dee Ferguson said he doesn't believe there was any conspiracy during the trial of the former, Conroe High School janitor convicted of killing his daughter.

C.L. "Buck" Ferguson, a Bellville sculptor, said Thursday he does not believe Clarence Lee Brandley was denied a fair trial and that there was no racial prejudice in guiding an all-white jury to convict him.

Defense attorneys, during an evidentiary hearing in Galveston this week, are alleging the prosecutor and judge presiding over Brandley's trial held secret meetings and conspired to cover up missing evidence.

MIA's: Grim legacy

We have witnessed the impact the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving Wall on its visitors. It is serving its purpose of granting a release for those who carry a burden that's grown the past 10 to 20 years. Some of its benefactors do not even realize they carry the burden this memorial can lift.

The healing is not complete. Wounds will remain once the Wall moves to its next location. At the same time West Texans visit the Wall, 1,776 Americans remain officially missing in action. Any step that could resolve that situation is welcome.

An agreement by which the United States will officially encourage private charitable assistance for Vietnam in exchange for increased cooperation from Hanoi in resolving MIA cases is a cautious move in the right direction.

The recent plan for private help is the first concession the United States has made to Hanoi in relation to the MIAs.

Clearly, the relationship between the United States and Vietnam is dicey.

This country still does not maintain diplomatic relations with Vietnam and has resisted pressure to provide any sort of war reparations. The Paris peace accords called for U.S. aid to rebuild Vietnam and for Vietnamese repatriation of American remains. The North Vietnamese 1975 blitzkrieg of South Vietnam effectively obviated those agreements, however.

The United States should move cautiously in expanding its relations with Vietnam. The current agreement does not provide official recognition, nor does it utilize any public money. Rather, aid from private groups, now illegal, will be exchanged for information on MIAs.

It seems a reasonable beginning toward ending the agony of Americans whose friends and relatives have been in limbo for so long.

Strange roadway passages

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

Willie Nelson's words "Just can't wait to get on the road again" have taken on a whole new meaning for me lately, no thanks to Willie.

Travel.

It's clear how the word evolved from travail — from the days when traveling literally meant tribulation, anguish or agony.

I'm not so sure things have improved much lately.

Have you been watching the world of travel?

From the guns on California highways to the moon over Arkansas, you just don't know where the next fork in the road may lead — even to money blowing in the wind.

A considerable amount of coverage has been given to the crazies in California who have allowed their stress levels to exceed common sense.

People on the West Coast have long been looked at in a rather askew fashion — they wear funny clothes, they follow funny trends, they eat funny foods.

Now they've gotten serious about some of their funny ways and have taken action when they feel they've been wronged.

They are shooting each other on the highways of Southern California.

Several people have died and numerous others have been injured in nearly three dozen incidents reported since June 18.

It makes you want to drive ever-so cautiously when approaching the California borders: they take insults seriously.

Looking to the east — Arkansas, for example — the dangers of travel are quite different.

A recent auto accident and two arrests were precipitated by a woman who was practicing a peculiar form of self expression — showing her buttocks through a window.

Complaints of a woman exposing herself to motorists on Interstate 30 led to a chase that ended with a wreck in Texarkana and charges against two people.

An Arkansas state trooper said several people reported having been exposed to the woman's unusual display.

Identifying the car through a computer check of license numbers, a trooper saw the car on the interstate, turned his car around and began chasing it. The car left the highway, traveled down a Texarkana street and crashed on a curve. No one was hurt.

The chase reached speeds exceeding 100 mph, Brown said, and the driver and female passenger were eventually captured.

The two said they were traveling — where else? — to California.

On the other hand, all is not danger on the highways, as more than 100 drivers around Miami can tell you.

They were the ones nearby when $400,000 recently fell out of a Wells Fargo truck on a four-lane highway.

They stopped their cars and scrambled to collect masses of $20 bills after a bag split open and its contents blew in the wind.

"There was chaos in the streets," said one trooper. "Everybody was stopping, getting out of their cars, trying to grab the money."

Apparently, the back door of the armored car swung open shortly before midnight, allowing a sack of bills to fall onto Interstate 95. Another truck struck the bag and bills went flying.

"Everything rained $20 bills," he said.

Police officers did what they could, ordering everyone to drop the cash and return to their vehicles. They doubt — and so do I — that all the money was recovered.

"We had a safety factor to deal with," said one trooper.

I can imagine. People have a tendency to ignore the flow of traffic when they're concentrating on the flow of $20 bills.

As far as can be determined, however, the money incident had no connection to California. I'm still looking into that.

Strict admission rule may mean Hispanic gains

By JESSE TREVINO

The state's two premier public universities, Texas A&M University and the University of Texas, last week announced tighter admission standards.

The announcement comes just a month after state officials were informed the state's colleges and universities had failed to meet the minority enrollment goals established four years ago with help from the federal government.

Humm.

At about the same time, perhaps anticipating criticism from Hispanics, A&M officials unveiled a potentially important minority recruitment program and Jack Blanton, chairman of the University of Texas Board of Regents, went before 16 Mexican-American legislators gathered in Houston to declare that UT is ready to establish a major presence in South Texas.

As of this column's deadline, no Hispanic public interest group nor credible Hispanic politician had attacked the new, stricter admissions policies.

They shouldn't — despite the startling lack of progress on minority enrollment. The new standards are critical to the future of these schools, of Texas and of Hispanics.

Hispanic enrollment, which was to increase to 17 percent by next year, remains essentially where it was four years ago, at 11 percent. This is unacceptably low, and it may take a direct hit at A&M and UT as a result of the new policies.

But both schools might avoid serious erosion in enrollment if they follow through on new recruitment programs and if a critical provision in the new UT admissions policy is effectively managed.

The provision allows senior admissions officials to personally review the application of any Hispanic student who graduates in the top half of his graduating class but fails to meet the tougher standards.

No Texas school has done enough to get Hispanics into school, some have tried harder than others. But they all face serious obstacles, one being that the pool of Hispanic students college officials work with is slashed in half by the atrociously high Hispanic dropout rate.

The 11 percent statewide Hispanic college enrollment figure, then, is not altogether surprising even though Hispanics comprise 22 percent of the state's population.

But higher admission standards are needed.

Both schools have grown too large: UT to 48,000 students, A&M to 39,000. These enormous enrollments must short circuit education.

No one can seriously argue with strengthening the standards. In fact, one wonders if even the new standards are high enough.

In comparison to other schools in the country, the combination of high school grades and scores on standardized tests at UT appear low.

Limiting enrollment also will increase the pressure for UT to establish its long-discussed South Texas program.

Hispanic leaders and organizations, however, should set definite deadlines.

They must simultaneously pressure these schools to initiate programs to retain Hispanics who make it into school but then drop out because of inadequate high school educations.

Already, State Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, who sat on the legislative committee which produced the final state appropriations, was able to secure a commitment from UT officials to get off dead center and move on the enrollment issue.

UT, in return, avoided rather specific language on the matter.

UT got the message, and so should other schools.

Man's honesty prompting praise

To the editor:

A while back, I drove to the drive-in at First National Bank and wrote a check for $100 cash.

While waiting, I busied myself in balancing my checkbook and organizing the errands I needed to run. I then drove off and left my $100.

About 30 minutes later, realizing what I had done, I rushed back to the bank and began checking the cubicles. I could not remember which one I had used.

One of the tellers saw me and said "Mrs. Baker, are you looking for $100?"

A man by the name of Mark Morgan had found the money and returned it to the bank. I knew there was a slim chance I would find the money. Not only was I thrilled to get my $100, but it was so refreshing to learn of someone that honest.

Our daily newspaper always reports numerous thefts, so I think this incident is worthy of mention.

A reward was offered to Mr. Morgan, but he refused to take it.

Eudy coaching criticism blasted

To the editor:

This letter is in response to the one written to Coach Eudy by David Talbott which appeared in this column on Sept. 29.

First I would like to say that Coach Quinn Eudy happens to be one of the best coaches we have had at Big Spring High School.

Coach Eudy and his staff have done a tremendous job with our football program, starting with 6th and 7th graders, up to our varsity players.

You're right Mr. Talbott, maybe our school board should take a look at our athletic program. I think they will see a big improvement over the past years. It's time they recognized these coach's efforts and give them praise.

It's a shame that because we had a district champion last year some people in Big Spring expect it to be done easily this year.

I want to ask you Mr. Talbott — have you stopped to look at who's playing on the field? They are kids, high school kids, not pro football players, so don't expect them to play as such.

Coping with Tehran not easy

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Shultz isn't the sort who would admit it, but Tehran is giving the Secretary of State and the entire Reagan administration fits.

Every time Shultz gets ready to call on the U.N. Security Council to slap a worldwide arms embargo on Iran, the folks in Tehran maneuver to sidestep the sanctions with intriguing hints that it is about to accept a cease-fire in the Persian Gulf war.

The point of an arms embargo would be to force Iran to comply with the cease-fire ordered July 20 by the security council to stop the 7-year-old war and set the stage for peace talks between Iran and Iraq.

The maneuvering makes the United States look a little awkward and out of step with the other big powers.

Shultz, as well as President Reagan, have set deadlines, only to retreat because Iran has managed to persuade the Soviet Union and China, whose support for sanctions is essential, that in time the cease-fire will be observed.

Ten days ago, in a high-profile speech to the U.N. General Assembly, the president gave Iran 24 hours to "clearly and unequivocally" accept the cease-fire or face an arms embargo.

Referring to the speech Iranian President Ali Khamenei was to deliver the next day, Reagan said if the answer were negative, the council "has no choice but rapidly to adopt enforcement measures."

The answer was more negative than positive. But the United States did not follow through with its threat to move for sanctions in the council. It is giving Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar more time to cajole the Iranians into laying down their arms.

Iraq, frustrated by Iranian vacillation, has resumed the "tanker war" in the gulf after a self-imposed moratorium. Tensions — and the risk of a wider conflict involving U.S. naval forces — remain high.

Shultz has spent nearly two weeks at the United Nations in New York, where he has made enforcement of the cease-fire one of his top priorities. He remains confident the Soviets and China ultimately will support the U.S. position.

But the war rages on.

Meantime, Shultz is returning to Washington from more frustration over Iran.

He has to help Reagan decide whether to try to reverse the sharp increase in Iranian oil sales here with a U.S. embargo.

Imports of Iranian oil totaled $819 million through July, the Commerce Department said this week. That's an increase of nearly 70 percent over all of 1986, when Americans bought $498 million worth of Iranian oil.

Iran depends on oil sales to finance its purchase of weapons from a variety of sources, including China, Bulgaria, North Korea and the black market — the very same arms Shultz would like to cut off.

The issue is on the agenda for the National Security Council meeting Monday at the White House. But there may be no decision.

Reagan's advisers are divided. The Pentagon supports sanctions, but there is no consensus at the State Department on what to do.

"Everybody is looking for something practical and useful that will have an impact, but they are not sure the best way to go about it," said a U.S. official who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

"Trade embargoes don't generally work. We'd like to get multilateral support, but we aren't going to get it. Our friends and allies tend to pick up the slack," the official said.

And yet, he added, "nobody likes to put money in Iran's coffers."

Shultz's hesitation over economic sanctions is in contrast with his strong stand on an arms embargo. He simply is not sure an oil embargo would work.

"If the price is right and Iran has heavily discounted its oil, Iranian oil will flow to other markets," Assistant Secretary of State Richard W. Murphy said recently.

There could be another reason for not cracking down on Iran, despite its perennial presence on the State Department's terrorism list and its refusal to agree to a cease-fire in the gulf.

Eight Americans remain hostage in Lebanon. Some anti-terrorism experts believe they are held by pro-Iranian factions.

While the United States has ruled out negotiations or deals for the hostages, closing all channels to Tehran might make it more difficult to secure their release.

Despite the many differences with Iran, U.S. policy remains geared to moderating Tehran's policies.

Bush remark criticized

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush was returning from a nine-day European tour Saturday as he and his supporters in Michigan tried to prevent political damage from a remark that auto workers say is insulting.

Bush made the gaffe Friday after he was asked whether he had learned anything new from his talks with NATO ministers.

He said he had heard from the ambassador from Italy or Norway about a Soviet operation involving 350 tanks that came off without a single mechanical breakdown.

Spending cuts ahead

WASHINGTON — Drastic spending slashes including potential layoff of 400,000 military personnel await the government this year unless President Reagan agrees to negotiate with Congress over deficit reduction, the Senate Budget Committee says.

The committee released estimates Friday showing that agriculture, Medicare and environmental spending will each drop by at least $1 billion unless a compromise is reached between the president and the legislators.

Teacher strike ends

CHICAGO — Striking teachers and the Chicago school board reached a tentative agreement today in a four-week-old walkout idling the nation's third largest school district, Mayor Harold Washington said.

All-night talks between negotiators for the two sides culminated in an agreement.

Teachers' spokesman Chuck Burdeen told WBBM-AM radio the two-year pact calls for a 4 percent salary increase the first year and decreased class size. No further details were given.

Teachers will return to schools Monday for a day of preparation before students go back to class on Tuesday, the mayor said at a news conference at City Hall.

Spy plane makes stop

BELLE CHASSE, La. — One of the Air Force's most exotic and secret airplanes made an unscheduled visit to the New Orleans area when it developed engine trouble over the Gulf of Mexico, officials said.

The SR-71 reconnaissance plane landed at the Naval Air Station in Belle Chasse for repairs Monday and left on Thursday, said Lt. Vickie Owens, spokeswoman for the station. "It gave us very little warning and when it came in it landed on one engine," she said.

Much information about the SR-71 — including the number in the Air Force — is classified.

Police and bystanders grapple for a demonstrator, seen on desk, identified by police as Joshua Laub, 22, as he jumped at Contra leader Adolfo Calero, seen at right with glasses, Friday night during Calero's address at a Harvard University gathering in Cambridge, Mass. Inset above, Laub was restrained and arrested; Calero was not hurt.

Contra protest Leader victim of attempted attack

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A young man screaming curses and threats jumped up on a podium and tried to attack Contra leader Adolfo Calero inside a Harvard Law School auditorium Friday, authorities said.

Calero, who was not touched during the incident, canceled his address, which was sponsored by Harvard Law School Republicans.

Joshua Laub, 22, of Somerville, a Tufts University senior, was released on bail after being charged with being a disorderly person, disrupting a public assembly and assault and battery on a police officer, said Harvard police Lt. Larry Murphy.

Laub wasn't armed, Murphy said. Witnesses said a man screaming curses and threats ran up the right aisle of the auditorium, hurdled a table and jumped upon a raised podium.

"He was within a few feet of the speaker when the police subdued him and removed him from the room," said Peter Costa of the university news office.

The man, who identified himself as a member of the International Committee Against Racism, continued screaming "Kill the Contras!" the witnesses said. "I very much regret that Adolfo Calero was not able to make his statement. Particularly in a university setting, we all have an interest in freedom of speech," said James Vorenberg, dean of the law school.

Vorenberg said law school officials worked throughout the week with police and students on both sides of the Nicaraguan issue "to ensure that it would be possible for the speech to be given and for peaceful protest to take place."

Protests were taking place outside the auditorium, witnesses said.

Calero, 55, a politician, former educator and businessman, is one of the seven directors of the resistance against the leftist Nicaraguan government. His home base is Miami, where he and his wife have lived since he left Nicaragua in 1982.

Soviets free dissident

MOSCOW — A Jewish dissident who earned the nickname "the guardian angel of refuseniks" while struggling for 16 years to join her family in Israel said she was shocked when Soviet officials said she could leave.

"I was so excited that at first I can't believe it," Ida Nudel, 56, said after authorities told her Friday she will soon be granted an exit visa.

Ms. Nudel, whose plight became a cause celebre in the West, declined to speculate why authorities changed their minds after so many years of refusal.

South Africa responds

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Foreign Minister Roelof Botha says that President Reagan's report on the effects of America's year-old economic sanctions reflected "an understanding of the reality of South Africa."

Reagan said the sanctions, which include a ban on the import of coal, steel and agricultural products, had not hastened the end of apartheid but had actually harmed South Africa's blacks by causing increased unemployment.

650,000 pray, sing

SEOUL, South Korea — An estimated 650,000 Christians prayed and sang hymns at a rally in Seoul on Saturday, as conservative ministers denounced extremists and called for an end to South Korea's political crisis.

Elsewhere in the capital, about 30,000 opposition supporters attended a rally at Yonsei University to urge rival opposition leaders Kim Dae-jung and Kim Young-sam to join forces and field a single presidential candidate.

A huge crowd of mostly women packed Yoido Plaza for the prayer rally. They knelt in long rows, stretching their hands to the sky and praying aloud.

More peace talks set

GUATEMALA CITY — The government and leftist guerrillas begin their first peace talks next week to comply with a regional peace plan that has led to similar breakthroughs in Nicaragua and El Salvador.

Guatemala's new civilian government and the rebels announced Friday that the talks will be held Tuesday in Madrid, Spain.

The peace talks, the first ever held in 25 years of political violence in Guatemala, are opposed by the military.

The rebels announced their position in a communique published Friday in the newspaper El Grafico and sent to a radio station.

BUSINESS CAR EXPENSES

The rules governing the tax deductibility of business auto expenses are complex.

Generally, employers can deduct the cost of using cars for business travel or of providing them to employees for business and/or personal use. An employee is taxed on the personal use of an employer provided car.

Self-employed individuals can deduct their business car expenses but are allowed no deduction for any personal use of their vehicles.

Employees can deduct expenses for using a car in performing duties as employees; however, depreciation deductions may only be taken if the car is required as a condition of employment and is used for the convenience of the employer. If the employee is reimbursed by an amount equal to his business car expenses, he need not report the reimbursement or his expenses on his tax return. If the expenses are unreimbursed, the employee may deduct them on his tax return only to the extent that they, together with other miscellaneous itemized deductions, exceed 2% of his adjusted gross income. Self-employed individuals and employees may choose to deduct either a standard mileage allowance (22¢ cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles, 11 cents a mile thereafter) or actual car expenses.

Taxpayers who deduct actual car expenses are entitled to accelerated depreciation deductions over a six year period. In the year of purchase a taxpayer can elect to expense currently the full cost of the car, up to a maximum of $2,560. The amount expensed reduces the amount of depreciation. Both the expensing option and accelerated depreciation are allowed only if the car is used more than 50% for business. If this use test isn't met, depreciation must be taken on the straight line method.

Adequate, though not necessarily contemporaneous, records or "sufficient oral or written evidence" are required to substantiate deductions for the business use of a vehicle. Recommended records include account books, diaries, logs, trip sheets, expense reports, and receipts. In certain circumstances, the sampling method is adequate: a taxpayer can maintain a record for a typical portion of the tax year and use that record to substantiate business use of the vehicle for the entire year.

Justice Bork

UT constitutional scholars oppose nomination

University of Texas law professor Sanford Levinson, left, and Doug Laycock voiced their opposition to the confirmation of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court during a press conference Friday at the State Capitol in Austin.

AUSTIN (AP) — A spokesman for 50 Texas organizations opposing the nomination of Justice Robert Bork to the U.S. Supreme Court said Friday the decision of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen to vote against Bork could sway other senators.

Bentsen, D-Texas, said Friday in a Senate speech he would oppose Bork's elevation to the court, criticizing Bork's record on civil rights and individual privacy.

Scott Polikov of the Texas Anti-Bork Coalition said Bentsen's "decision to oppose the Bork nomination most certainly will carry great weight with the rest of the swing votes on the Judiciary Committee and, once the vote reaches the Senate floor, the undecided senators."

George Strake, chairman of the Texas Republican Party, blasted Bentsen's decision.

"I think it's a shame that Bentsen decided to go along with Sen. (Edward) Kennedy and Sen. (Joe) Biden instead of representing the wishes of a majority of Texans in this issue," Strake said.

Texas' other senator, Republican Phil Gramm, said he will support Bork. "Critics of Robert Bork and Ronald Reagan seek to gain a philosophical victory in the Senate that they were denied by the American people in the last two presidential elections," Gramm said.

Polikov introduced at a news conference three

University of Texas constitutional scholars who spoke against President Reagan's nomination of Bork to the Supreme Court.

Douglas Laycock, a professor at the UT Law School, said "taken as a whole, Judge Bork's views are extreme by any standard."

"One of the Supreme Court's central tasks is to protect the constitutional rights of individuals and minorities. Judge Bork is fundamentally hostile to that task, and that is why he should not be confirmed," Laycock said.

He said 26, or about half of the UT law faculty, had signed a letter opposing Bork and a number of others had indicated they, too, were against the nomination. He said he thought five UT law professors are strong Bork supporters.

Law Professor Sanford Levinson said if Bork is confirmed, "We would be stuck, for his lifetime, with a judge who has repeatedly rejected, with demeaning rhetoric, many of the most important (and inspiring) decisions of the Supreme Court over the past 60 years."

"To cast a vote for Robert Bork is the equivalent of an arms control treaty without verification," Levinson said.

Government instructor Mark Graber said Bork until very recently had held constitutional opinions "that are uniformly regarded as 'unsurpassed ugliness.'"

Reagan appeals in speech for Bork

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Saturday charged "liberal" opponents of Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork with trying to intimidate judges and to "thwart the desire of the American people" for jurists who will bring criminals to justice.

"Don't let them do it," Reagan told listeners of his weekly radio address, even as members of his own Republican party told him that his nomination of the conservative appeals court judge and legal scholar is gravely imperiled.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the Senate majority whip, disputed Reagan's assertion that Bork's opponents had politicized the nomination.

"It's a highly emotional, highly politicized situation. From both sides," Cranston said in an interview on CNN's "Newsmaker Saturday."

"There were plainly political motives in the president's nomination. It took into account ideology, and we have every right in the Senate and should, take into account ideology, as well as every other factor," Cranston said.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled to vote Tuesday on the nomination, and the president has said he would be satisfied if the panel sends Bork's name to the Senate floor without any recommendation.

As of Friday, 32 senators had declared they would vote for Bork and 27 had said they would oppose him, according to a count kept by The Associated Press. The rest were unwilling to state a position.

As he has in recent days, Reagan, in his radio address, invoked the framers of the Constitution's article on the federal judiciary.

Bork score so far: 32 for and 26 against

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who have declared how they'll vote on the confirmation of Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork are generally split along party lines, although two Democratic senators say they'll vote for him and two Republicans say they'll vote no.

The Senate has 54 Democrats and 46 Republicans.

Thirty-two senators had declared by Friday that they will vote for Bork, and 26 said they would oppose him. The rest were unwilling to state a position in an Associated Press poll of all senators who had not previously taken a public stance.

Republicans who sided with the Democratic opposition were Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania and Bob Packwood of Oregon. Sens. Ernest F.

Hollings, D-S.C., and David Boren, D-Okla., are in the pro-Bork camp.

Senators who have announced for Bork: Republicans William M. Armstrong, Colorado; Christopher S. Abortion protesters urge halt to procedure at hospital

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Abortions should not be performed at hospitals because the procedure contradicts their mission to heal people, abortion protesters said Friday.

The protesters — including pastors, pro-life activists and a woman who regrets having had an abortion — had a news conference to announce a Saturday demonstration at Brackenridge Hospital to protest the performance of abortions there.

The demonstration is part of a nationwide effort called Voices for the Voiceless: The Pastors' Protest Against Abortion sponsored by the Christian Action Council.

The performance of abortions at hospitals "is a complete contradiction of their life-saving services, a violation of sound medical ethics, and an offense to conscientious citizens in this nation," said President Robbie Warner of the Central Texas Christian Action Council.

Brackenridge spokeswoman Marsha Walker said the hospital does not take an ethical stand on abortion but follows public policy.

"Our stance is that in this country it is legal for a woman to choose an abortion. It is a private matter between a woman and her physician," Ms. Walker said.

In 1986, physicians performed 73 abortions at Brackenridge, Ms. Walker said. Of the abortions, six were performed in the second trimester, and none was performed later in the pregnancy than that, she said.

"Why is (the protest) not directed at courts and lawmakers, rather than hospitals?" Ms. Walker added. "We don't make the laws."

The protesters said they are targeting hospitals nationally because most late-term abortions are performed in hospital settings.

Although only 23.5 percent of all abortions done in the United States are performed at hospitals, Warner said, the National Center for Health Statistics reports that 83.5 percent of abortions done after the first trimester are done in hospitals.

The demonstration is an effort to convince Brackenridge to stop allowing abortions there, the pro-lifers said. Hospital Administrator Thomas Young has agreed to meet with them at some time in the future to discuss their concerns, said Georgetown attorney Robert Phillips, one of the protesters.

With the demonstration and similar actions, the pro-lifers said they ultimately hope to bring about a reversal of the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

"Private, immediate, easily accessible abortions say to our society that we do not need to take responsibility for our actions," said the Rev. Robert Becker, pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Austin. "An abortion naturally goes against the grain of our very humanity."

Mary Herron, a homemaker and licensed vocational nurse, said she felt victimized by an abortion she had in 1976, when she was an 18-year-old college student.

Kreg and Keith Bryant, grandsons of local residents, were recently honored with membership in honor organizations at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Kreg and Keith are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bryant, 1010 Howell, and Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Pieper of Lamesa, and the sons of Don and Jeannene Bryant of Lamesa.

Kreg, a senior, was selected for membership in Mortar Board, a National Senior Honorary Society for qualities of scholarship, leadership and service. He was one of 35 selected from 150 qualified applicants.

He also was elected president for the 1987-88 year. Kreg represented the chapter at the 27th Mortar Board National Convention July 22-26 at Indianapolis, Ind. where he was one of 196 national delegates to attend.

Criteria for Mortar Board selection includes overall achievements during a college career. Kreg's involvement includes the Cardinal Key Honor Society, and Golden Key Honor Society, which are Junior National Honor Societies, as well as Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lubbock. He also is a letterman with the Texas Tech track team.

Kreg has maintained an overall 3.24 grade point average while at Texas Tech University.

Keith, a sophomore, was selected for membership in Lambda Sigma, which is the Sophomore Honorary Society at Tech. The requirements for selection include at least a 3.25 GPA and involvement in school activities.

This society also emphasizes scholarship, leadership and service, and he was one of 50 selected from over 600 qualified applicants. Keith maintained a 4.0 GPA during his freshman year at Texas Tech.

Keith is a letterman in the Texas Tech track team. Keith also has been selected as a Collegiate Academic All-American by the U.S. Achievement Academy.

They come from the CIFL and the NWFA, from teams like the Connecticut Giants and the Auburn Panthers.

The semi-pro players filling in for the striking regulars in NFL games this weekend usually play for free in front of small crowds. But on Sunday they will get almost $4,000 each and play on television.

"If you want to see the guys who really love the game, you look at the ones playing semi-pro," says John Fuoco, a wide receiver with the New York Jets who was with the Connecticut Giants, champions of the Continental Interstate Football League, until last week.

"We don't get paid, we don't get much out of it except competing and keeping in football."

"And we always hope there's a chance we'll get a shot (at the NFL)."

Dozens of semi-pros are getting that shot thanks to the NFL strike. It might last one game or right into the playoffs. It's an opportunity too good to pass up. It's a chance for a weekly cut of the $62,500 minimum salary.

But it also could be detrimental to the 21 recognized semi-pro leagues across the country who are losing their best players to the strike teams.

The leagues range from the 10-team CIFL on the east coast to the six-team Northwest Football Alliance in Washington state. In between, there is the Metropolitan Football League of Chicago, the Mid-America Empire, Eastern and High Desert leagues. The latter, located in California, has been around for a half-century.

"Semi-pro sports are run as a hobby, not a business," says Ron Real, president of the American Semi-Pro Football Association, which acts as an organizer of games and playoff tournaments for teams throughout the nation.

"We have over 190 teams on our mailing list and, except for a few players who get some expenses, all of them get nothing but the enjoyment of the games."

Real's organization, which is in its eighth year, will hold a semi-pro national championship in Las Vegas on Dec. 19.

"We're really a service organization for teams who need to schedule games, who are looking for opponents," Real says. "We also were requested by the NFL to submit our mailing list to them and we've done it every year, not just in conjunction with the strike."

Forsan air attack guns down Braves

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

FORSAN — Don't challenge Brant Nichols to a game of darts.

He threw so many bull's eyes Friday night, it would be no contest.

Coach Jan East isn't reluctant about his praise — "He's as good a quarterback as there is in this part of the country."

East may have been talking about this part of Texas or he may have been referring to this part of the United States.

It made no difference if you were from Iraan, as Nichols was the main cog in a 43-9 thrashing the Buffaloes handed the Braves Friday night.

Connecting on 11 of 19 passes — including scoring strikes of 49, 33 and 12 yards — Nichols continued to display the brilliance that earned him Crossroads Country Honor Roll first team quarterback honors last season.

He also helped send Forsan away from a homecoming game with smiles, having forgotten what the first period of the game was really like.

What it was like was an Iraan- and wind-dominated 12 minutes that produced one field goal for the Braves and chills for Forsan.

Iraan and the wind kept the Buffs deep in their own territory throughout the opening period, and the visitors threatened to take command of the game, although they failed to take advantage of their opportunities.

A fake Iraan field goal attempt led to a first down on the Buff 10 and the Braves managed a three-pointer with two seconds remaining in the period, as their wind advantage was about to be taken from them.

The teams exchanged punts to open second quarter action before Nichols hit Brandy Bryan for 12 yards and an Iraan offside infraction put the ball on the Forsan 49.

Needing only five yards for a first down, Nichols connected with freshman Jan East on the right sideline for a 51-yard strike with 8:49 remaining in the half. Brave Billy Castaneda blocked the Nichols PAT kick to keep the score at 6-3.

Iraan managed only three plays before having to punt into the fierce north wind.

Taking over at the Iraan 40, Forsan was pushed back on a facemask penalty before Nichols and Stacy Munoz claimed 33 yards on an aerial to the Brave 19. Munoz and John Roman ran for seven yards to set up a third and three at the 12 — from where Nichols hit Ruben Holguin for a six-pointer with 4:25 left in the half.

The Buffs threatened to score, with Nichols hitting Brandy Bryan with two passes to cover 15 yards and scrambling for 12 more, to put the ball on the Iraan 42. However, a pass to Charles Newton went incomplete after it appeared he was interfered with, and Nichols lost seven yards on a fumble that appeared to be a forward pass.

A Forsan punt and an Iraan running play allowed the clock to expire.

The Buffs wasted little time in beginning scoring action the second half. Although a John Roman TD run was called back on a Forsan penalty, an Iraan interference infraction brought Forsan within nine and a Brave offside took the ball to near the five.

From there Munoz bowled his way over with 10:12 remaining in the third period and a successful kick made it 21-9.

Iraan managed two first downs and moved the ball to the Buff 14 before yielding possession on downs. Forsan earned a first down before having to punt and then, four plays later, Bryan recovered a fumble on the Forsan 23.

Unable to move the ball, Forsan attempted a punt that was blocked by the Braves' Dee Jennings with FORSAN page 4B

Wolves bite Bulldogs, 25-10

By STEVE BELVIN

COLORADO CITY — The Coahoma Bulldogs turned the ball over six times, and the Colorado City Wolves were able to take advantage of it enough to grind out a 25-10 District 5-3A win Friday night at Wolf Stadium.

The Wolves, raising their district record to 1-1, came through with four second half interceptions to key the victory over their arch-rival Coahoma. Senior strong safety Cary Ritchey intercepted two of the passes, and cornerback Chris Perkin and tackle Steve Smith picked off one each.

The turnovers offset a fairly balanced Coahoma offensive attack. The Bulldogs outgained the Wolves 300 yards to 205. But Colorado City's only turnovers were a interception by Coahoma defensive back James White in the third quarter, and fumbles in the first and fourth quarter.

Ritchey's first theft and Smith's pickoff led to Colorado City scores. Those would be the only touchdowns of the second half as Colorado City led 13-10 at halftime.

Ritchey picked off his first pass on Coahoma's second possession of the third quarter. He returned the theft nine yards to the Colorado City nine-yard line.

From there the Wolves reeled off a seven-play, 51-yard drive. The big play was a 31-yard run by sophomore halfback Pat Tillis, who was the Wolves' leading rusher with 75 yards in 12 carries.

Quarterback Ismael Silva scored from two yards out, giving Colorado City a 19-10 lead with 1:26 left in the third quarter. The extra point attempt failed.

Tackle Smith's theft led to the final C-City score in the last quarter. He grabbed Coahoma quarterback Curtis Hudson's screen pass attempt and rambled 16 yards to the Coahoma 19. Hudson, who was sacked three times in the game, was under heavy pressure by linebacker Victor Luera.

The 5-6, 145-pound Smith, though small for his position, played a strong game. In addition to patrolling the line of scrimmage, he sacked Hudson once and helped on another sack.

One play after Smith's interception, Beau Rees ran for a 19-yard TD. The point after touchdown was blocked but Colorado City led 25-10 with 1:50 left in the game.

"We played hard, but we just didn't play a full game," said Coahoma head coach Steve Park after the loss. "We had too many turnovers. We just didn't play well in the later part of the second half," said Park.

But it was Coahoma who struck first on its second possession of the game. Fullback Roman Padron silenced the Colorado City crowd with a 71-yard touchdown run. The 170-pounder bounced off several tacklers, then raced down the sidelines for the score. Anthony Hernandez booted the PAT.

Coach Park called the play a "simple trap up the middle." But it was good enough to give Coahoma a 7-0 lead with 6:47 left in the first quarter. Padron finished as the game's leading rusher, with 89 yards in six carries.

Colorado City made the big play in the last play of the first quarter. Jerry Hulme roared through the middle and blocked White's punt attempt. The punt travelled four yards and Colorado City had the ball at the Coahoma 39.

It took the Wolves two plays to score. Silva completed a 15-yard pass to Ray Rivera and then Tillis ran the remaining 24 yards off tackle. Rivera's extra point tied the score 7-7 with 11:34 remaining in the second quarter.

Colorado City took the lead for good later in the quarter. Starting from their own 47, Silva and company engineered a six-play, 53-yard drive. Silva ran the option well, carrying for gains of 10, 13 and seven yards. Rees scored from two yards out. Rivera's PAT was no good and C-City led 13-7 with 6:53 remaining.

Following a 17-yard C-City punt, the Bulldogs drove 26 yards to the Colorado City 18 before the drive stalled. Hudson completed key passes to running back Matt Rowell and receiver Donnie Paige in the drive. It ended with Hernandez line-driving a 35-yard field goal with 11 seconds left in the half, cutting the C-City lead to 13-10.

"This set the stage for Colorado City's second half defensive heroics.

Colorado City coach Tom Ramsey was relieved to get the win.

"It was a good ballgame. I knew they (Coahoma) would be keyed up. We weren't as intense as we were last week against Ballinger, and it showed in the first half," said Ramsey.

"The defense made it happen. We got the turnovers and our punting game got into it with that blocked punt. I think the turning point was in the third quarter when they drove into our territory and we picked it off. Then we came back with a good drive and scored," Ramsey concluded.

FORT STOCKTON — Aaron Ramirez's 32-yard field goal proved to be the winning margin as the Fort Stockton Panthers held on to a 22-20 win over the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs.

Ramirez's boot came with 11:17 left in the game. The kick gave the undefeated Panthers a 15-14 lead at the time.

Fort Stockton scored a TD on a three-yard run by Ryan Murphy. But Lake View came back with and marched 58 yards in 42 seconds for the score. Lake View scored on a 35-yard pass from quarterback Eric Dumas to Mitch McAda.

Lake View elected to go for two, trying to tie the game. But Ramon Valeriano intercepted the pass intended for Eddie Gonzales.

Dumas had a good game for Lake View, completing 15 of 31 attempts for 181 yards and two touchdowns. Valeriano led the Fort Stockton rushing attack with 97 yards in 16 attempts.

The Chiefs fall to 2-3 overall and 1-2 in league play. Fort Stockton, off to its best start in eight years, stays perfect at 3-0 and 5-0.

'Stangs beat Coyotes second time around

GAIL — A 32-point second quarter sparked by Jay Fryar and Sam Rodriguez, lifted the Sands Mustangs to an easy 62-14 win over the Borden Coyotes in 4-A Six-Man football action Friday night.

It marked the second time the two teams had met this season. In their first meeting, a non-district clash in Ackerly, Sands won the game 34-18. This time it was a different story, especially since Borden County was without star running back Shannon Bond.

Bond, who rushed for 197 yards against Sands in the first meeting, injured his foot last week against Klondike. It is not known how long he will be out. But the Coyotes' offense indeed missed him.

The Coyotes were held to 76 yards total offense.

Borden County trailed only 16-8 after the first quarter when Fryar struck for the second of his three touchdowns. Three consecutive scoring passes between Fryar and Rodriguez, one for 55 yards; put the game out of reach.

Fryar carried 11 times for 132 yards as Sands rushed for 256 yards and passed for 118 more.

Sands is now 4-1 for the season and 2-0 in league play. Borden County falls to 1-4 and 0-2.

Sands Mustangs' defensive back Sam Rodriguez (84) turns into a running back after intercepting a Borden County pass during first quarter action Friday night in Gail. Trying to make the tackle on Rodriguez is Borden County's Kerry Fryar (44).

Garden City's first score came with Menard winning 7-0 in the opening quarter. With Menard threatening to score from the Garden City five-yard line, Garden City defensive tackle Jesse Lopez came up with the defensive play of the game.

A Menard runner was hit and the ball popped free. Lopez picked the ball off in the air and

But from that point, Menard answered with 23 straight points. Garden City's final score came on a 10-yard run by fullback Weldon Hillger.

Mike Kenyon was Garden City's leading rusher, carrying 11 times for 45 yards. Leo Garcia was the Bearkats' top receiver with two catches for 49 yards.

Garden City falls to 1-2 in league play and 2-3 overall. Menard is 2-0 and 3-2.

Missed conversions kill Klondike

WELLMAN — The Klondike Cougars came up a kick short as they dropped a 25-24 decision to the Wellman Wildcats in 4-A Six-Man football play.

It was a bad night for Klondike two-point conversion kicks. The Cougars failed on all four attempts after touchdowns.

Klondike could have won the game when it scored its last TD with 1:37 remaining. But the conversion kick was blocked, preserving the win for the Wildcats.

Klondike scored two TD's in the first quarter. Clint Kirkland scored from one yard out and Kirt Tidwell passed 32 yards to

All kinds of players try out for Houston Oilers

DENVER (AP) — The NFL player strike has created frustration and long work days for the 28 coaching staffs, but Houston Coach Jerry Glanville has at least been able to keep his sense of humor. Glanville's replacement team plays the Denver Broncos Sunday in Mile High Stadium.

He admitted the Oilers had "a real problem" getting replacement players.

"Four or five were declared ineligible. One guy we have playing receiver (Sam Moore) was declared legally dead four years ago. The league notified us that some of our players weren't who they said they were. One guy had never played football before, but he told us he had been a star at LAMESA — The Sweetwater Mustangs blew open a close game in the third quarter and trounced the Lamesa Golden Tornados 43-12 in league play Friday night.

The Mustangs erupted for 27 third quarter points to put the game out of reach. Kenneth Norman scored two TD's of nine and one yard in the third quarter. Then quarterback Larry Healer scored on runs of 13 and 24 yards. Healer finished the game with three TD's.

The Sweetwater defense was so dominating the Lamesa accounted for only 53 yards total offense.

Lamesa's scores came on a one yard run by Santos Martinez and a 55-yard run by Jim Horton.

Sweetwater is now 4-1 overall and 2-0 in district play while Lamesa falls to 2-3 overall and 0-3 in league play.

Houston may get all-star game

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston may be the front-runner in its bid to host the 1989 National Basketball Association All-Star Game, a published report said Saturday.

"I feel we will be awarded the thing, but that's premature," said Russ Simons, who as assistant director of marketing for The Summit has been involved in the bidding process.

Ray Patterson, president of the Rockets, said the league would announce its decision on the 1989 All-Star Game "in a week to 10 days."

Competing with Houston for the game are Detroit, Phoenix, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

The Houston plan calls for the All-Star Game to be played in the Astrodome, with the Slam-Dunk Championship, Long Distance Shootout and old-times (Legends) game to be played in The Summit the day before.

The format is similar to what Seattle had in February, when the All-Star Game was played in the Kingdome, with the preliminary events in the Civic Center, the home arena of the SuperSonics.

HARRIERS FARE WELL

In what he called "outstanding performances" from his varsity girls and junior varsity boys, coach Randy Britton and his harriers hosted the Big Spring cross country meet Saturday morning at the old air base golf course.

The Big Spring varsity girls, paced by Mimi Regalado's second place finish, finished fourth in the competition with 113 points. San Angelo Central won the division with 63 points.

Regalado, a freshman, ran a career-best 13:31 over the tough two-mile course.

Also finishing in the top 20 was Big Spring sophomore Susan Garza, who was 13th in 14:13. Rocky Alviar finished 30th in 15:36.

The junior varsity boys finished second in the team standings behind Ozona. Ozona had 21 points and Big Spring followed with 64.

Pacing the Big Spring JV harriers was the sixth place finish of Shawn Daylong, who ran a 18:20 over the three-mile course. Martin Baldwin followed him in seventh place in 18:25.

The Big Spring varsity boys finished ninth with 187 points. Levelland won the competition with 67 points. Ben Gonzales had the best finish for Big Spring, finishing fourth in a time of 16:49.

Complete results can be found on 6-B in scoreboard.

NETTERS SWEEP TWO

SWEETWATER — The Big Spring High School tennis teams continued its winning ways by taking two matches Saturday in Sweetwater.

Big Spring defeated Sweetwater 10-8 and Pecos 12-6. It was the first time this season Big Spring has swept two matches. Coach John Strahl said his team is very united now. The wins give Big Spring a 4-3 district record, good for third place.

The boys led the way against Sweetwater, winning five of six singles matches and sweeping all three doubles match. But when it came down to it, the deciding wins came from frosh girls Tracey Owen and Tammi Mason in the singles competition.

The boys won six of nine matches against Pecos and the girls also dominated six matches to three. Complete results in scoreboard on page 6-B.

RUNNELS DOUBLE-DIPS PECOS

The Runnels Yearlings football team swept two games from the Pecos Eagles in Saturday afternoon action at Blankenship Field.

The Runnels B team ran its record to 2-1-1 by whitewashing Pecos 12-0.

Runnels' first score came on a five-yard run by Rod White. The first quarter score capped off a nine play, 41-yard drive.

The second Runnels score came in the third quarter. Billy Sumpter scored on a three-yard run. The tally capped off a play, 53-yard drive.

Runnels' coaches credited Nick Roberson, Jimmy Voight, Augustine Hernandez and Mike McCormick with playing strong defensive games.

Sumpter finished the game with 100 yards in 17 carries.

The Runnels A team defeated Pecos 15-6, despite having three long runs called back.

Runnels scored via the air. Quarterback Gerald Cobos hooked-up with Pat Chavarria with scoring strikes of 15 and 45 yards.

Kevin Rodgers was Runnels' leading rusher, with 84 yards in 17 carries.

Runnels' coaches credited Cort Pettersen, J.D. Downey, Lance Reeves and Tim Duffy with playing good defensive games.

Runnels A is now 3-1 for the season.

GOLIAD DOWNS PECOS

PECOS — The Goliad Mavericks gridgers also swept two games from Pecos in Saturday afternoon action.

The Goliad B won 12-0. Josh Sosa and Kyle Plumbe scored one TD each. Goliad coaches said

Big Spring High School runner Mimi Regalado finishes the first lap of the two mile run at the Big Spring Cross Country Meet Saturday morning at the old air base golf course. Regalado, a freshman, finished second in the varsity division. She ran a career-best 13:31.

Goliad B is now 4-0 for the year. The Goliad A ran its record to 4-0 by downing Pecos 8-0.

The lone touchdown of the game was scored on a two-yard run by Alonzo Lucas. Lucas also ran in the extra point.

The Goliad A defense was led by Stephen Robles. Also playing well were T.L. Rodgers, Richard Hain, Klay Klatt, Gary Green, Salvador Trevino, Jason Ogle and Jeromaine Gonzales.

COX-STEWERT LEADING WAY

The team of Royce Cox and Howard Stewart are the championship flight leaders after the first round of the Big Spring Country Club Member-Guest Tournament.

Cox and Stewart shot a 60, two strokes ahead of the team of Mike Scarbrough-Billy Crooker and the duo of Jerry Kilgore and Timmy Stewart.

In the first flight, five teams shot a 69 to tie for the lead. In the second flight, five teams shot a 73 to tie for the lead. Three teams are tied at 76 for the third flight lead. Complete results in scoreboard on page 6-B.

Cranes fly by Buffs

CRANE — The Crane, Golden Cranes broke open a defensive battle in the second half and defeated the Stanton Buffalos 14-0 in non-district football action Friday.

The Crane defense shut down Stanton's Wishbone offense, forcing the Buffs to put the ball in the air. Stanton mustered only 55 yards rushing. The Buffs did pass for 132 yards, but suffered three interceptions. They also lost three fumbles.

The first score of the game came with 3:41 remaining in the third quarter. Robert Carrasco scored from one yard out.

Crane added another score with 8:24 left in the game. Rodney Lane scored from one yard out.

Sherrrod Valden was the game's leading rusher. The Crane RB rushed for 61 yards in 13 carries.

Stanton falls to 2-3 for the season while Crane improves to 2-3.

Mustangs trample Wildcats

MIDLAND — The Midland Christian Mustangs rambed to its fifth win without a defeat, defeating Grady 58-20 in non-district six-man football action.

MC took a 12-0 first quarter lead on a one-yard touchdown run by Randy Cloyd and a 32-yard scoring pass from Joel Hobbs to Travis Sturdivant. After that MC was never challenged.

Also for the Mustangs, Tony Carona scored on runs of one and 67 yards, and passed 32 yards to Hobbs for another score. Kevin Wallum also fired a 40-yard TD pass to Aaron Petrie.

Shawn Capehart closed out the scoring in the 22-point final period with a 10-yard run.

Grady's first score came in the second quarter. Scott Glaze fired a 28-yard pass to Julian Valle. David White added the two-point kick.

Grady scored its final two TD's in the fourth quarter.

Tim Stone fired a 17-yard strike to Clay Black. The final Grady TD was a 19-yard pass from Danny Valle to Julian Valle.

Grady is now 1-4 for the season.

Tigers take east lead from Blue Jays

DETROIT (AP) — Mike Henneman, who started the season in Toledo, says he never dreamed he'd be in a position to be a major-league hero in October.

Henneman, 11-3, after pitching two innings of scoreless relief Friday night for a save, came back with three superb innings Saturday as Detroit beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2 in 12 innings.

The victory put the Tigers one game up in the American League East with one game remaining on Sunday.

"My arm was just a little tired, but I felt good the first couple of innings," Henneman said. "What I had to do was hit spots."

It was the sixth consecutive one-run game between the Tigers and Blue Jays, beginning with the four-game series these two teams played last weekend in Toronto.

In all six games, the team that scored first lost.

"They won three up there, so I hope we've got one more coming," Henneman said. "We're playing on heart now. This was a good win."

If the Tigers should win again Sunday, it would conclude one of the great comebacks in the club's history. Only one week ago, Detroit trailed by 3½ games.

"This is such a unique club," Henneman said. "It's amazing we've done what we've done. We bounced back."

"It's not surprising we are where we are when you consider the character of this team."

Manager Sparky Anderson said Henneman was the only pitcher he considered after Jack Morris pitched the first nine innings.

"It wasn't no smarts on my part," Anderson said. "Henneman's been awful good. He's been doing the best job. I'm just wheeling out the guy that's been doing the best job for me, that's all."

Notes: Morris, who has gone 6-8 since July 4 when he was 12-3, threw yet another wild pitch Saturday. That adds to his AL record, giving him 24 for the season. ... Detroit was 11 games out of first place on the morning of May 6. The Tigers low-water mark came on May 11 when they slipped to 11-19. They have gone 86-45 since then. ... Kirk Gibson, who was hitless in four at-bats Saturday, needs one more home run to join the 25-homer and 25-stolen base club for the fourth straight season. Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets is the only other player who

Red Raiders shock Aggies

LUBBOCK (AP) — Mighty-mite Tyrone Thurman returned a punt 74 yards for a Texas Tech touchdown, launching the Red Raiders to a 27-21 Southwest Conference football upset of 15th-ranked Texas A&M.

Thurman, a 5-foot-3, 130-pound junior from Midland Lee, rode key blocks by Monty Melcher and James Mosley down the sideline to stake the Red Raiders to a 7-lead 85 seconds into the regionally televised contest.

Three minutes later, Tech quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver and fleet flanker Wayne Walker connected on a 76-yard scoring pass.

The Red Raiders, 3-2 overall and 1-1 in the SWC, preserved the victory with three pass interceptions, two in the final minutes of play.

The Aggies, 2-2 and 0-1, pulled into a 14-14 tie on a 66-yard touchdown run by Keith Woodside and a 19-yard scoring burst by Darren Lewis.

While the Aggies were stealing three passes from the Raiders, it was interceptions by Texas Tech's Lemuel Stinson, Michael Johnson and Boyd Cowan that loomed as the pivotal plays.

In a race against the halftime clock, quarterback Lance Pavlas drove A&M the length of the field but Stinson picked off a potential touchdown pass at the goal line with 38 seconds remaining.

With 2:38 left in the game, Johnson intercepted a Craig Stump pass on the Tech 38 and, with about one minute left, Cowan intercepted to seal the victory.

Reserve quarterback Scott Toman winged a 7-yard scoring shot to fullback Ervin Farris early in the second quarter and Scott Segrist kicked a 29-yard field goal to provide the Red Raiders with a 24-14 halftime lead.

Segrist, successful on all eight field goals he has attempted this season, kicked a 42-yarder in the third period to increase Tech's lead to 27-14. A&M struck back later in the third on Matt Gurley's 8-yard touchdown run.

Arkansas 20, Texas Christian 10. FORT WORTH (AP) — James Rouse scored two second-half touchdowns to rally the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 20-10 Southwest Conference victory Saturday night over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

Arkansas is 3-1 for the season and TCU dropped to 2-2 after the league opener for both teams before 39,017 fans in Amon Carter Stadium.

The Razorbacks, still in shock over a 51-7 loss to Miami last week, fell behind 10-0 before Rouse and quarterback Quinn Grovey got the offense untracked.

Rouse scored on a five-yard run after Richard Brothers' interception of TCU quarterback David Rascoe at the Horned Frog 33. Grovey completed an 18-yard pass to freshman wide receiver Derek Russell to set up the score.

Anthony Cooney's interception at the TCU 38 and a Grovey-to-Russell pass for 15 yards positioned the Hogs for Rouse's 3-yard run that put Arkansas ahead in the fourth quarter and Kendall Trainor followed with a 27-yard field goal.

Texas 45, Rice 26. AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Fulback Darron Norris ran 58 and 34 yards for touchdowns and took a screen pass 38 yards for a third score as Texas defeated Rice 45-26 Saturday night in both team's Southwest Conference opener.

The victory leveled Texas' record at 2-2, with the Longhorns' next game against No. 1 Oklahoma at Dallas next Saturday.

Rice, the leading SWC offensive team coming into the game, fell to 2-3. The Owls, who had been a 21-point underdog, now have lost 22 straight games to Texas.

Norris, a 195-pound junior, finished with 123 yards on 11 carries, while Texas tailback Eric Metcalf had 157 yards on 17 carries, and had a 59-yard scoring run.

Norris opened Texas' scoring in the first quarter with his 58-yard dash, and freshman Chris Samuels followed with a 57-yard scoring run.

Rice, however, led 17-14 at halftime on a 17-yard touchdown pass to Todd Jones, a 1-yard plunge by Lorenzo Cyphers and Glen Ray Hines' 26-yard field goal.

Safety John Hagy's one-handed pass interception and 29-yard return put Texas ahead 21-17 in the third quarter, and Metcalf scored on his long run for a 28-17 Texas lead.

Wayne Clements kicked a 25-yard field goal after the Rice defense held Texas from the Rice 15, and the Owls' Hines kicked a 23-yard field goal to make the score 31-20.

Quarterback Mark Comalander threw 27 yards to Darrell Goolsby with 13:14 left in the fourth quarter, and Rice trailed only 31-26 after a 2-point conversion failed on Hagy's tackle.

The Rice score followed a Texas clipping penalty that rubbed out a 94-yard kickoff return by Texas' Tony Jones for an apparent touchdown.

Norris broke for 34 yards for his second touchdown, and Rice fumbled on the kickoff. On that possession, Norris grabbed a pass near the right sideline and clinched the victory with his 38-yard scoring run with 9:13 remaining.

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL's "second season" begins Sunday with the striking players' union vowing to remain out until a contract is signed.

After a weekend of games cancelled by the walkout, 13 games were scheduled Sunday, with the teams consisting of free agent replacement players and about 90 regulars who have crossed the picket lines. The third week of the season — all games will count — ends Monday night with the San Francisco 49ers at the New York Giants.

"Going back to work without a contract is not under consideration," Doug Allen, assistant executive director of the NFL Players Association, said Saturday. "That's the story that's been planted by management to try to intimidate the players."

Friday, union leader Gene Upshaw met with striking players of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Gene said he wasn't going to allow us to lose much more money," Cardinals running back Stump Mitchell said after the meeting. "He doesn't want to see us hurt."

"He said that one of the things that could be done is to have us go back in and play without an agreement, rather than sign one now that he can't live with."

But Allen, Upshaw's assistant, Saturday was adamant about the strike continuing until a contract was signed.

The two sides last met Sept. 25, and no further negotiations were scheduled. And while the striking players were to miss another payday, the club owners received a full payment of about $100 million from the three television networks.

"The checks went out today to the clubs," Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and chairman of the league's broadcast committee, said Friday.

New York Jets Marty Lyons (left) and Mark Gastineau talk together at the Jets training camp Friday in Hempstead, N.Y. Both players crossed the picket line and will play today against the Cowboys.

The $100 million is divided fairly equally among the three networks, although CBS pays slightly more than one-third and ABC slightly less. The 28 teams share equally in the revenues, with each team scheduled to receive about $17 million per year under the terms of a three-year contract signed last spring.

Although fans have returned thousands of tickets to this week's games, the NFL has waived its television blackout rule for eight games which were expected to be sellouts before the strike. The games are Chicago-Philadelphia, Cleveland-New England, Dallas-New York Jets, Green Bay-Minnesota, Houston-Denver, Miami-Seattle, St. Louis-Washington and San Francisco-Giants.

The other six games won't be televised in the home team's city, since the blackout rule bars local telecasts in cities where games are not sold out 72 hours in advance.

Those games are Pittsburgh-Atlanta, San Diego-Cincinnati, Indianapolis-Buffalo, Tampa Bay-Detroit, Los Angeles Rams-New Orleans and Kansas City-Los Angeles Raiders.

Who

NFL team asked for a roster list."

One of the teams supplying the most replacement players is the Connecticut Giants of the CIFL, a 10-team league stretching from East Haven, Conn., to Richmond, Va. Four New York Jets and four Buffalo Bills come from the Giants, while 14 members of the CIFL team tried out for the Super Bowl champion Giants last week.

"The talent we have is very good," says Andrew Ellison, who recruits players from the Long Island area. "We don't just send out bodies. The only thing these guys are lacking is the opportunity to get a good look from a pro team."

"Most of these guys wanted no part of minor league ball, but they had to be talked into it because there might be a possibility of playing in the NFL. Now, they're getting the chance."

Ellison touts nose tackle James Eaddy, now with the Buffalo Bills, as the best CIFL player in an NFL camp.

"James is the perfect example of a guy who will show his skills in this situation," Ellison says. The Auburn (Wash.) Panthers of the NWFLA, have nine players with NFL teams — five with Seattle, two with the Los Angeles Rams and two with Buffalo.

"The strike is good for those players, but what effect will it have on our team?" asks Michael Highsmith, general manager of the Panthers.

It could have a profound effect because the Panthers are considered one of the nation's semi-pro powerhouses. Last year, they beat the River Grove (Ill.) Cowboys of the Metro League 34-0 in what they called the Ranier Champions Bowl.

Jim Minick, commissioner of the nine-team Metro League, in which the players pay a league fee to play and cover expenses, understands Highsmith's worries.

"The NFL situation created a lot of problems for semi-pros," he says. "Teams are losing players left and right, which is nice for the players, but it can destroy the semi-pro leagues."

Minick estimates it costs "between $30,000 and $60,000 a year to be competitive."

Each player in the Metro League provides his own insurance, although some team owners help get that coverage. Minick said that's the usual procedure in semi-pro leagues.

Equipment often is donated by local colleges. Fund-raisers are held to cover expenses for road trips.

"We'll have raffles, dances, anything we can get together to raise money," says John Bowker, coach of the California Wolves of the High Desert League. "There's so much competition in southern California for the recreational dollar, we can't count on support at the gate."

"One of our guys (safety Craig Birdsong) had just finished pro wrestling school and was going to be a wrestler. Another guy (offensive lineman Doug Kellermeyer) is an opera singer. I expect a good crowd at our games, if only out of curiosity. Everybody has got to show up to see if the opera singer will hit anybody. His voice is so high I don't know if he'll be mean enough."

"Lots of people will be looking at these games. Unfortunately, I'll be one of them."

Forsan

14 seconds remaining in the third period.

Facing a staunch Forsan defense and throwing into the wind the fourth period, Iraan had its hands full. Four plays after the blocked punt, the Buffaloes took over 70 yards from the Iraan goal line.

Eleven plays later, including two beautiful sideline catches — Bryan for 19 yards and Holguin for 22 yards — the Buffs scored again.

John Roman covered the final 15 yards on three plays, picking his way through the defenders over the final seven with 5:31 left in the game. The PAT kick made it 28-9.

Most of the windblown fan likely gave the Braves up for dead, but few would have guessed the Buffaloes were going to score two more times.

Punting the ball after three plays, the Braves found themselves right back against the wall when Newton took a pitch right and covered 23 yards to the Iraan 21. Nine yards from Munoz put it on the 12 and a Roman sweep to the three set up a three-yard bruising run by Newton for the score with 2:11 remaining.

A short kick by Forsan gave Iraan the ball on the Buff 48 — a four-play possession that produced two sacks and two incomplete passes for minus 27 yards.

Forsan, with 1:04 left in the game, took over at the Brave 30. An illegal procedure infraction cost the Buffs five yards. A pass failed and Newton made two yards, to give Forsan a third and 13 with 17 seconds remaining in the game.

That was when Nichols pitched his last two passes of the game — the first went to Bryan in the left corner of the end zone for six points and the second went to Bryan in the left corner of the end zone for two points when the PAT kick snap was bobbed.

East seemed pleased with his team's play, as they tuned their scoring machine in anticipation of district action at Ozona Friday night.

"It was a big win. We needed a win, and having a blowout helped us, too."

He had praise for improved pass receiving, although pointing his displeasure at some dropped passes. The wind was an asset for the Buffs in the second and fourth periods, when they scored most of their points.

East said he planned to attack the Braves' secondary, expecting plenty of stunting and a tough Iraan run defense. The scheme obviously worked.

Mike Averette suffered a knee injury, but Saturday morning X-rays indicated no major damage. East expects 240-pound tackle Chris Marquez to return to action Friday at Ozona, after sitting out the Iraan battle because of a shoulder injury suffered against Greenwood.

Hurricanes rally for 26-25 win over FSU

By The Associated Press
Steve Walsh, stymied for nearly three quarters by a feisty Florida State defense, threw for three touchdowns in the final 16 minutes Saturday as No. 3 Miami, Fla., subdued the fourth-ranked Seminoles 26-25 in the latest chapter of Florida's college football blood feud.

"Do they have some character?" Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson asked after his unbeaten Hurricanes rallied for their fourth victory of the season. "We beat one heck of a football team out there. Florida State plays us better than anyone."

"I thought we had won," Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said. "I don't really know how we lost this one. I didn't think we deserved to lose it. We were up 19-3 and had to make mistakes for them to get back into it."

Top-ranked Oklahoma suffered a setback of its own on Saturday, allowing its first points in 10 quarters. But that lone field goal was all outmanned Iowa State could manage in a 56-3 trouncing.

No. 2 Nebraska, struggling before a home crowd at Lincoln, needed two fourth-quarter touchdown runs by Keith Jones to subdue South Carolina 30-21.

In other games involving the Top Ten, No. 6 Auburn beat North Carolina 20-10, No. 7 Louisiana State staved off No. 19 Florida 13-10, No. 9 Ohio State struggled past Illinois 10-6 and No. 10 Tennessee throttled California 38-12.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 UCLA buried Stanford 49-0, No. 12 Michigan was a 49-0 winner over Wisconsin, No. 14 Penn State got by Temple 27-14, Texas Tech beat No. 15 Texas A&M 27-21, Oregon beat No. 16 Washington 29-22, No. 17 Alabama beat Southwestern Louisiana 38-10, Iowa, tied with Alabama for 17th, lost a 19-14 decision to Michigan State, and No. 20 Georgia battered Mississippi 31-14.

In a late game, No. 13 Arizona State was at home against Texas-El Paso.

Miami trailed Florida State 19-3 with only a minute left in the third period when Walsh found the range. He passed 49 yards to Melvin Bratton and 26 yards to Michael Irvin for touchdowns and added two-point conversion passes to Brian Blades and Warren Williams.

Then, with 2:22 to play, Walsh combined with Irvin on a 73-yard touchdown that gave Miami a 26-19 lead.

"We showed a great deal of character, a great deal of patience and a great deal of poise," said Walsh.

Florida State's Danny McManus threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to Ronald Lewis with 42 seconds to play to pull the Seminoles within a point, but McManus' two-point conversion pass was knocked down by Miami cornerback Bubba McDowell.

No. 1 Oklahoma 56, Iowa State 3

Jamelle Holieway passed for two touchdowns and ran for another and Anthony Stafford scored three times to lead the Sooners, 4-0, to a 35-3 halftime lead. The Sooners, who have outscored their four opponents 218-17 and have given up only eight first downs in their last two games, missed a shutout when Iowa State's Jeff Shudak kicked a 35-yard field goal with one second left in the first half.

"Offensively, this was the best half we've played this year," Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said of the opening half. "Except for two plays in the half — Eric Mitchell's fumble and the long pass Iowa State completed to set up its field goal — those were the only two plays that kept us from playing a perfect first half."

"It will take somebody's greatest ability to beat these guys," Iowa State Coach Jim Walden said. "The last time I saw that much speed was at the NCAA track meet."

No. 2 Nebraska 30, South Carolina 21

Todd Ellis threw touchdown passes of 35 and 80 yards as South Carolina built a 21-13 lead midway through the third quarter. But Nebraska, 4-0, then drove 96 yards to score on a 3-yard run by Jones, who rushed for 51 yards in the drive.

Nebraska linebacker Steve Forch stripped the ball from Keith Bing on the second play after the kickoff, and the Huskers' Jeff Tomjack recovered at the South Carolina 27. Nebraska scored four plays later on Jones' 3-yard run. Jones, who ran for 129 yards, ran for the two-point conversion that gave the Huskers a 27-21 edge.

No. 6 Auburn 20, N. Carolina 10

Jeff Burger threw two touchdown passes in the third quarter, including a 2-yarder to Vincent Harris with 1:18 remaining, to enable Auburn to hold off North Carolina.

The Tar Heels took a 10-3 lead at 7:18 of the third quarter when defensive tackle Tim Goad blocked Brian Shulman's attempted punt and Norris Davis picked up the loose ball and ran six yards for a touchdown.

It took Burger and Auburn six plays to tie the score. Burger, who completed 11 of 12 passes for 124 yards in the quarter, found Freddy Weyand wide open on the right sideline for a 33-yard scoring play with 5:17 left.

Kurt Crain's second pass interception, at the North Carolina 41, set up Burger's game-winning touchdown pass to Harris.

No. 7 LSU 13, Florida 10

Sam Martin scampered 16 and 23 yards on two key carries in a late drive that ended on David Brown's 24-yard field goal with 5:34 remaining. Florida had a chance for a tie, but Robert McGinty was wide right on a 37-yard field goal attempt with 15 seconds remaining.

The Tigers, 4-0-1, had gained a 10-10 tie less than five minutes into the final quarter when Harvey Williams ended a 74-yard drive with a 2-yard scoring run. The Gators, 3-2, had built a 10-3 lead on McGinty's 50-yard field goal in the opening quarter and freshman Emmitt Smith's 7-yard run in the second period.

No. 9 Ohio State 10, Illinois 6

Ohio State started quickly, driving 80 yards after the opening kickoff for a touchdown. Quarterback Tom Tupa got it on a 5-yard run. Matt Frantz booted a 32-yard field goal early in the second quarter to make it 10-0, but that was it for Ohio State's offense. Illinois dominated the second half, but couldn't score until Scott Mohr threw an 11-yard pass to Anthony Williams with 6:22 to play. The missed extra point after that score prevented Illinois from trying a potential game-tying field goal in the last seconds. Instead, a drive to the Ohio State 20 inside the final minute ended with Illinois surrendering the ball on downs.

No. 10 Tennessee 38, California 12

Freshman Reggie Cobb scored on runs of 14 and one yard and also caught a 25-yard scoring pass for Tennessee, 4-0-1.

Tennessee took command with 17 first-quarter points and led 31-0 at the half. The Vols rushed for 220 yards and quarterback Jeff Francis passed for 220, completing 21 of 26 throws.

No. 11 UCLA 49, Stanford 0

Gaston Green, who became UCLA's career rushing leader, sprinted 91 yards for a touchdown and set up another on a 54-yard pass play. Green ran for 139 yards, increasing his career total to 3,217 yards and surpassing Freeman McNeil's total of 3,195.

Eric Turner and Ben Hummel each returned interceptions for touchdowns, Alfredo Velasco kicked four field goals and quarterback Troy Aikman threw two touchdown passes to Paco Craig as UCLA improved to 4-1 overall and 2-0 in the Pac-10. Stanford is 0-4, its worst start since 1983, when the Cardinal finished 1-10.

No. 12 Michigan 49, Wisconsin 0

Senior tailback Jamie Morris rushed for 182 yards and three touchdowns, moving into third place on Michigan's career rushing list. Morris has 3,269 yards and could pass No. 2 Rob Lyle's total of 3,317 next week when the Wolverines travel to Michigan State. Well within reach is Butch Woolfolk, who finished with 3,861.

Morris scored on runs of 35, 13 and 1 yards as Michigan built a 42-0 halftime lead.

No. 14 Penn State 27, Temple 4

Blair Thomas ran for 167 yards and two touchdowns as the Nittany Lions, 4-1, beat the Owls for the 13th consecutive time. Thomas, who surpassed 150 yards rushing for the third consecutive game, is the first Penn State back to put together such a streak since All-American John Cappelletti surpassed 150 yards in four consecutive games in 1973.

Oregon 29, No. 16 Washington 22

Redshirt freshman Bill Musgrave threw two touchdown passes, Kirk Dennis kicked three field goals and Ron Gould made an end zone interception as Oregon held off the Huskies.

Washington scored nine points in the final 1:43 and was driving again before Gould intercepted a Chris Chandler pass with four seconds to go. Chandler had another pass picked off at the Oregon 1-yard line earlier in the final period.

Oregon, 1-0 in the Pac-10 and 3-1 overall, beat the Huskies for the first time since 1980 and only the second time in 14 years.

No. 17 Alabama 31, Louisiana 10

Vince Sutton, starting his first college football game since 1984, threw two touchdown passes to Pierre Goode and ran for another. Sutton, replacing injured starter David Smith, completed seven of 15 passes for 166 yards with one interception.

Sutton's first scoring pass to Goode, a 40-yarder, came with 3:25 left in the first quarter after a Ragin' Cajun fumble. In the second quarter, the speedy sophomore receiver capped a 99-yard scoring drive when Sutton found him all alone down the left sideline for a 46-yard touchdown.

Sutton scored Alabama's first touchdown at 4:22 of the first quarter when he took the ball in from the 17 on a quarterback draw.

Alabama, 4-1, committed five turnovers, but Southwestern Louisiana squandered several scoring opportunities.

Michigan St. 19, No. 17 Iowa 14

Quarterback Bobby McAllister's only pass completion of the second half, an 8-yard touchdown throw to Mike Sargent in the fourth quarter, lifted Michigan State past Iowa. A 22-yard punt return by Andre Rison and five rushes by Lorenzo White for 30 yards set up McAllister's scoring strike to Sargent.

The victory evened the Spartans' record at 2-2 in the conference opener for both teams. Iowa, 3-2, drove to the Michigan State 38-yard line with 3:33 to play before stalling, and a field goal attempt by Rob Houghtlin sailed wide to the right.

No. 20 Georgia 31, Mississippi 14

Quarterback James Jackson passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third as 20th-ranked Georgia overpowered Mississippi. Jackson arched a 9-yard scoring pass to end Kirk Warner in the first quarter and an 8-yarder to freshman tailback Rodney Hampton in the fourth quarter, and scored himself on a 4-yard run in the third quarter.

Hampton, substiting for injured star Lars Tate, kept Ole Miss off balance with his knifing thrusts through and around the Rebel defense and accounted for 227 offensive yards. Tate sprained a knee in last week's game with South Carolina.

Tulane drops Vandy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The fact that his brother was the losing coach tempered Mack Brown's enjoyment of the victory.

Terrence Jones ran for 76 yards and three touchdowns and passed for 148 yards Saturday night to lead Mack Brown's Tulane team to a 27-17 victory over Vanderbilt, coached by Watson Brown.

"There are always mixed feelings about something like this," Mack, the younger brother, said.

Watson Brown said the relationship was on his mind before the game, but not after the kickoff.

"I didn't think about it during the game, and I'm sure he didn't either," he said.

"The difference in the game was that twice Terrence Jones outran our man for touchdowns. We had the man in perfect position, but Jones just outran him," he said.

North Texas stops ACU Wildcats

DENTON (AP) — Freshman quarterback Scott Davis led North Texas State to two fourth-quarter touchdowns Saturday night to give the Eagles a 26 victory over Abilene Christian.

Davis replaced starter Bron Beal early in the second quarter, with NTSU leading 9-3, after Beal reinjured an ankle.

After Keith Chapman's 42-yard field goal had given NTSU a 12-3 halftime lead, Davis led the Eagles on a 45-yard, 12-play scoring drive in the fourth period.

Tony Baker got the touchdown from 1 yard out and the Eagles led 19-3 with 6:15 left in the game.

On the Eagles' next possession, following the recovery of an ACU fumble, Davis passed 24 yards to Thomas Green for the final touchdown.

North Texas, 4-1, scored on its first possession of the game when fullback Darrin Collins capped a 44-yard, four-play drive with a 1-yard run to give the Eagles a 7-0 lead with 12:02 left in the first period.

Sam Houston State routs Texas Southern

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Tailback Luther Turner ran 5 yards for a touchdown that opened a 28-point fourth quarter as Sam Houston State routed Texas Southern 45-7 in a designated conference game Saturday night.

Sam Houston totaled 456 yards of offense in the game, which goes down as a Southland Conference victory for the Bearkats even though Texas Southern is in another conference. The Bearkats are now 3-2 overall and 1-0 in the conference. Texas Southern, a Southwestern Athletic Conference member, falls to 2-3 and 2-1 in the SWAC.

At the end of the third quarter, Sam Houston led 17-7, but the Tigers allowed 28 points in the final quarter. The Bearkats drove 63, 56, 55 and 54 yards for scores in the fourth quarter. TSU scored first when running back Terrence Shephard capped a 4-yard drive with a touchdown that was set up by an 83-yard opening kickoff return by Davis Smith to the SHSU 4-yard line.

The Tigers totaled 121 yards of offense and minus-15 yards of rushing offense.

ENMU wins homecoming ballgame

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — Tommy Neal ran for two touchdowns and quarterback Tommy Gonzalez passed for two more Saturday to lead undefeated Eastern New Mexico to a 34-13 non-conference football victory over Texas Lutheran College.

It was ENMU's homecoming tilt. The Greyhounds, now 5-0, also got another solid performance from backup tailback Randy Johnson, who gained 151 yards on 24 carries. Johnson, inserted into the lineup for the injured Rufus Smith, has gained 301 yards in two games.

Neal scored on runs of 2 and 8 aydras as Eastern built a 28-7 halftime advantage. Gonzalez, who hit on 13 of 17 passes, contributed second half touchdown passes of 17 yards to Randy Allen and 13 yards to Charles Mercer.

Gonzalez' backup, Mike Scott, hit Dennis Griggs with a 24-yard fourth quarter TD pass. Texas Lutheran College, 1-3, got its touchdowns on a 44-yard pass from John Fuquay to Alton Martin and a 6-yard run by Keith Davis.

ENMU had 425 total yards to 262 for the Bulldogs.

Tulsa rebounds from last week's slaughter

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Tulsa, rebounding on the road from a 65-0 loss to No. 1 Oklahoma, broke open a close game with three second-quarter touchdowns in 81 seconds Saturday on the way to a 37-25 college football victory over winless Kansas State.

Tailback Derrick Ellison scored two touchdowns and freshman quarterback T.J. Rubley ran for one and passed for another to help give the Golden Hurricane its first victory in five games.

Lenny Williams, a sophomore strong safety, blocked two punts by Kansas State's David Kruger, one recovered in the end zone by linebacker Mike White for a touchdown, the first of three quick scores that took the wind out of the Wildcats, 0-4.

Williams' other block, in the third quarter, led to a safety when the ball bounced out of the end zone.

Tulsa lost on the road to Oklahoma State, Florida and Arkansas before playing the Sooners at home last Saturday. The Hurricane took a 7-0 lead the first time it had the ball, going 67 yards in 10 plays after the opening kickoff, with Ellison carrying in from the three.

Kansas State had to settle for field goals on its first two possessions, with Mark Porter kicking one from 23 yards and another from 42. The Wildcats were at their own 41 when Williams blocked his first punt, leading to White's touchdown.

Tulsa got the ball back at the 9-yard line when Terry Richards fumbled the ensuing kickoff, and on the second play Rubley carried in from the four after the ball bounced off the shoulder of Cobby Morrison.

After Maurice Henry lost the ball at the 22 on the Wildcats' first play from scrimmage, Rubley threw a 14-yard scoring pass to Erick Harrison, making it 28-6 with 9:17 left in the half.

Shawna Adams, at left, dressed as a clown, represents Girl Scout Troop 36 at the Howard County Fair. At right, from left to right, Christy Alexander, Shawna Adams, and Kathryn Burrow, prepare for one of the troop's recent fund-raising garage sales. The troop has been working toward its fundraising goal for the past seven years in order to visit Switzerland. The members are within $3,000 of their goal.

Girl Scout troop's seven-year dream approaches reality

A long-held dream is $3,000 from reality for members of Girl Scout Troop 36.

The troop's members dedicated themselves in 1980 to visiting "Our Chalet," an international Girl Scout World Center in Switzerland.

The six girls, Kathryn Burrow, daughter of Guy and Debbie Burrow; Shawna Adams, daughter of Tom and Karen Adams; Christy Alexander, daughter of Ray and Norma Alexander; Renea Reinert, daughter of Ralph and Janet Reinert; Tonya Rock, daughter of Wayne and Joan Rock; and Kim White, daughter of Wimley and Alma White, began raising money in 1980 for their trip.

The girls, Debbie Burrow, assistant leader Joan Rock, and the leaders' husbands will leave for Switzerland July 2 and return to Big Spring July 24.

"We decided to go the World Center in Switzerland when the girls were in fourth grade — it sounded romantic then," said Debbie Burrow.

There are three other World Centers, one in Cuernavaca, Mexico, which the girls visited in July of this year, one in London, England, which the girls will visit while in Europe, and one in India, a trip Kathryn wants for her graduation gift, said her mother Debbie.

"Or a car," Kathryn added with a laugh. "We have raised $15,000 — but are still $3,000 short of our $18,000 goal," said Debbie Burrow, once a Girl Scout herself and now a leader since 1973.

The girls have delivered phone books, conducted bake sales, garage sales, car washes, and sold calendars to raise money, said Kathryn Burrow.

One of the biggest fund-raisers was the "Millionaire of Howard County" game the girls began selling in November 1985 for $15. Sales provided profits of approximately $5,000.

The girls also sold "Bonus Bucks," coupon books with $800 worth of coupons for $20, at the Howard County Fair.

Another big fund-raiser is the annual sale of Girl Scout cookies, said Debbie Burrow.

The girls are also active in community events.

They initiated the idea of starting a Students Against Drunk Drivers (SADD) chapter in Big Spring by asking the student council at Big Spring High School to sponsor the program.

"We really need a SADD chapter in Big Spring," said Kathryn.

A guest speaker from Boston will present the program at the high school Oct. 13 at 9:30 a.m.

"He'll get the fire started," said Debbie.

"The SADD program doesn't condone drinking — but they say if you do drink, please don't drive," said Kathryn.

The members are also participating in the Moving Wall visit to Big Spring. They will present the flag ceremony Tuesday at the closing ceremonies at 7 p.m.

Troop 36 is the first Girl Scout troop in Howard County to receive the Gold Award, Kathryn said, comparing it to the Eagle Scout Award in Boy Scouts.

"Most people think we sit around and tie knots — but we do a lot more than that," she added.

Who's in the driver's seat often touchy

By MARCIA SMITH
Dallas Times Herald Bureau

The other night, on a rerun of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," the plucky associate producer fell in love with a pale yellow convertible.

Never mind that Minneapolis winters call for a Mercedes with a furnace on board. Mary thought the convertible was cute and she bought it. She probably had an outfit that matched.

That's the stereotypical view of women and cars: Stand-up comedians, talk-show hosts and sitcom writers long perpetuated the notion that women didn't care what was under the hood as long as the interior complemented the exterior. Happily, that's less likely to happen today.

Now, thanks to industry surveys, we know more about the relationship between women and cars. We know, for example, that:

About women

Women influence 87 percent of all new-car purchases, whether they're shopping for themselves or helping to choose a family car.

Women car buyers are younger, better-educated, more likely to be single and more likely to be employed in professional or technical fields than men who buy cars.

Fifty-four percent of women think automobile ads don't contain enough technical information.

Women are more likely than men to seek dependability in a car.

Eighty-four percent of women are turned off by car ads that cater specifically to them.

Women like turbocharged Volvos, Honda Prelude SIs, 16-valve Volkswagens GTIs, four-wheel drive Suzukis Samurais and ... Chevrolets. Forty-five percent of all Chevrolet sales are to women shopping for themselves.

Still, there's one thing we don't understand about women and their wheels: Why is it that women who navigate a busy thoroughfare daily, car pool kids to school and lessons and successfully find their way out of a crowded parking garage become passengers when a man is in the car?

It's true. If members of both sexes are sharing the front seat of a car, the male of the species will be at the wheel. It's an unspoken, unwritten rule of the road. One woman suggests it's because cars used to be more demanding mechanically, requiring cranking and choking and gear shifting.

A man says it's a holdover from the dating ritual, when the boy picks up the girl in his car, opens the door and steers away. Joey Kay Klimko, a Nissan saleswoman, buys that argument. After making 20 demo drives a day, she's tired of driving at the end of the day and enjoys letting her date drive.

"I'm from the old school," she says. "I like men to open doors, light my cigarette, buy me dinner. I like for men to be in control and, if he's behind the wheel, he's in control."

It's a silly nod to the male ego, says computer con-

Howard opens season with Simon 'Memoirs'

Herald staff report

Neil Simon's Brighton Beach Memoirs will come to life in Big Spring this week when the Howard College department of theatre presents three productions of the two-act play in the College Auditorium.

The seven-member cast will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The production is the first of the theatre season for Director Bill Doll, entering his second year in charge of the college's drama department.

Brighton Beach, a successful Broadway production and movie, is Simon's semi-autobiographical play as a Brooklyn teen-ager living with his family in crowded, lower-middle-class circumstances of 1937.

"This is a deeply appealing play that skillfully mixes drama with comedy," Doll said.

The play consists of a few days in the life of a struggling Jewish household that includes the teen-ager, Eugene; Eugene's hard working father, Jack; his sharp-tongued mother, Kate; his older brother, Stanley; his widowed Aunt Blanche and her teen-age daughters Nora and Laurie.

It is not always an enjoyable household — as Eugene's father says, "If you didn't have a problem, you wouldn't live in this house."

Two have heart disease, one has asthma, two at least temporarily lose jobs needed to keep the family afloat and all look to Eugene's father for support — while he grows more concerned about the prospects of another world war and the dangers of his family members in Poland.

"Mr. Simon uses the family miseries," Doll explained, "to raise such enduring issues as sibling resentments, guilt-ridden parent/child relationships and the hunger for dignity in a poverty-stricken world, to allow his memoirs to live again."

Six Howard College students and an instructor are in the cast.

Student actors include Steve McLaughlin, San Angelo, portraying Eugene; Tracie Wilkerson, Big Spring, as his mother Kate; Stacey Ream, Big Spring, as his brother, Loryne Russell, Big Spring, as his aunt, Stacey Leonard and Chawndra Freeman, both Big Spring, as his cousins, Shawn Shreves, a Howard College computer science instructor, is playing the role of Eugene's father.

General admission tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior adults; for more information or reservations, call 267-6311.

Steve McLaughlin, left, and Stacey Ream in the photo immediately above have a confrontation during a scene from Brighton Beach Memoirs, which the Howard College theatre department will present this week. In the other photo, the family gathers to hear news in a letter. From left are Ream, Shawn Shreves seated, Loryne Russell, Stacey Leonard and Tracie Wilkerson.

Weddings

McCoy-Deubler

Lisa D'Ann McCoy, Debra Lane, and Troy Michael Deubler, 604 Elgin, exchanged wedding vows Oct. 3 at 7 p.m. at 14th & Main Church of Christ, with Billy Patton, pastor of 11th and Birdwell Lane Church of Christ, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McCoy, Rt. 1 Box 694-D, and the late Rose Ann McCoy. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Randy Deubler, San Ysidro, Calif.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with royal blue ribbons and ivy, a unity candle draped with ivy, and two sprays of white gladiolas and white and royal blue carnations.

Vocalists were Robert, Debra, and Rebecca Thompson; Robert Greene; Dee and Linda Elrod; Brenda Bedell; Cheryl Green; Karen and Rick Lee; and David and Evelyn Elrod.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white jacquard satin gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and accented with Venice lace trim. The skirt and train were decorated with rows of ruffles and chantilly lace. Satin roses accented the puffed sleeves. The veil was trimmed with Venice lace and the headpiece was made of silk roses.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white iris, carnations, roses, and sweetheart roses, blue miniature carnations, and greenery (leptoe).

Maid of honor was Karen McCoy, sister of the bride, of Big Spring. Bridesmaids were Frances Shaw of Lubbock, and Cheryl McCoy, sister of the bride, of College Station.

Best man was Mark O'Rear of Big Spring. Groomsman were Barry Deubler, brother of the bridegroom, of San Ysidro, Calif., and Steve Rogers of Lubbock.

Ushers were Gary Kirkland, uncle of the bridegroom, of Big Spring, and David Moore of Big Spring.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents Friday at the Brandin' Iron Inn Restaurant.

MRS. TROY DEUBLER
Formerly Lisa McCoy

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table, draped with a white lace cloth, was decorated with the bride's bouquet, her mother's wedding Bible and a red rose, and featured a cake with a crystal fountain holding a three-tiered white cake, decorated with white and blue decorations and a crystal top.

The bridegroom's table was decorated with a centerpiece of silk flowers and candles, and featured a chocolate cake, made by sister of the bride, with double hearts inscribed with the couple's names.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and San Angelo Hair Academy. She is employed by La Contesa Beauty Salon.

The bridegroom attended Reagan County High School and graduated from Christ Fellowship School, and is attending Howard College. He is employed by Electronic Data Systems.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home at 604 Elgin in Big Spring.

Sealy-Silen

Bobbie Sue Sealy, 2515 Dow St., and Daniel Silen, 2510 Cheyenne, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. at Hillcrest Baptist Church, with Rev. Bob Bradberry, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kincheloe, Gail Route. Bridegroom's mother is Bernice Silen, 2510 Cheyenne.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two brass spiral candelabra, and a brass heart-shaped candelabra behind the unity candle, decorated with greenery and peach bows.

Pianist was Lori Sealy. Vocalists were Lori Sealy and Jamie Cofer of Snyder.

The bride was given in marriage by her daughter, Leah Sealy. She wore a white net floor-length gown with a Queen Ann neckline and a net yoke outlined in lace, with schiffli embroidery with pearls and sequins, and featured net and lace sleeves. She wore a chapel-length train. The mid-length Victorian style veil was decorated with sequins, pearls and lace.

She carried a bouquet of peach silk roses with small white silk flowers, peach and off-white bows and long off-white streamers.

Matron of honor was Kim Maddox of Big Spring. Bridesmaid was Leah Sealy.

Best man was Ronald Maddox of Big Spring. Groomsman was Kent Tibbles of Big Spring.

Ushers were Alan White and Joe Buendia, both of Big Spring.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the fellowship hall at the church. The bride's table, draped with a lace cloth with peach underlay, featured a two-tiered off-white cake, decorated with peach and off-white roses. Lovebirds adorned the top of the cake.

The bride attended Snyder High School and is employed by Furr's Supermarket at College Park.

The bridegroom is a 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by the Big Spring Fire Department.

After a wedding trip to Austin, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Club notes

Club to host luncheon Oct. 10

Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs met Sept. 30 at the home of Adele Tibbs, with nine members present.

Final plans were made for the annual luncheon Oct. 10 at Garrett Hall at First United Methodist Church. Tickets may be obtained from Irma Balch or Edna Womack.

The program will include a style show by the Casual Shop, a song by Marcie Weaver, a book review by Annie Matt Angel, invocation by John Wilson, and a surprise guest. Decorations are courtesy of Country Flowers.

Participation in the plantings of the Pocket Park was discussed. Quotations for live oak trees were distributed to the club representatives and the club voted to send a donation.

Next meeting slated for Oct. 15

Elbow Extension Homemaker's Club met Oct. 1 at the home of Erma Stewart. Twelve members and guest answered roll call by reveling how much they weighed at the time they met their husbands.

Jo Reynolds joined the club. During the past two weeks Belinda Woodall and Sybil Duffer had surgery and Muriel Prokschl broke her arm.

Several members volunteered to provide cakes and cookies to the State Hospital.

The next meeting will be Oct. 15 at the home of Gloria Koppes, Dogwood at Ash, one block off Wasson Road.

Terry-Hinds

Melinda Lou Terry, Austin, and James Worth Hinds, Dallas, were united in marriage Sept. 26 at First United Methodist Church in Austin, with Rev. James Carter, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. I.W. Terry, Sterling City. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hinds, 1603 Kentucky Way.

The bride wore a gown of aleon lace sheath with a jewel encrusted bodice and featured a satin cathedral train edged in lace. The headpiece was a jeweled ring with tulle pouf and a shoulder length veil.

Matron of honor was Susan Connolly of Austin.

Bridesmaids were Jane Ann Srader of San Angelo, Patti May of San Angelo, Debbie Mitchell of Austin, and Mary Rinaldi of Austin.

Flower girl was Kelly Townsend of Austin.

Best man was Gary Hinds, brother of the bridegroom, of Dallas. Groomsman were Ed Frye of Guthrie, Doug Connolly of Austin, Jim Terry, brother of the bride, of Sterling City, and Jim Perry of Joplin, Mo.

Candlelighter was Clay Townsend.

Ushers were Neal (Buddy) Jones of Austin, and Jim Rankin of Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Sterling City High School and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Texas Tech University, summa cum laude. She is a special assistant for Research and Policy Development, to speaker of the Texas House.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and University of Texas, and graduated from North Texas State University with a Masters degree. He is vice president of State Relations for Ensearch Corp.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will make their home in Dallas.

Women

sultant Ellen Gunter. She and husband John may share the driving on a family car trip, but John always starts things off.

"Negotiating out of the city is man's work," Ellen laughs. And it's John who drives when they go out in the evening, a practice Ellen calls "the prom syndrome." Silliest of all, she says, is her "wimpy" habit of relinquishing the wheel to her husband after she's spent 30 minutes battling traffic to meet him.

Jean Lindamood, the executive editor of Automobile magazine, says it's the male's youthful infatuation with the automobile that puts him in the driver's seat.

Boys read car magazines, design new models in study hall and tinker with engines even before they get a driver's license. At 16, he's driving. Girls sometimes wait until they're 17 or 18 to get a license, she says.

Clearly, cars are more important to boys and, therefore, to men. That's partly why Jean, who's second in command at a magazine read by 250,000 car crazies, lets her husband drive when they go out together. But mostly, her reasons are practical: "I let him drive so I can sleep."

Workshops, computer courses specialize for agriculturors

When and where are the workshops on Lawyers and Accountants being held for training to assist farmer and ranchers in financial trouble?

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is planning two regional workshops for lawyers and accountants to equip them to better serve financially troubled farmers and ranchers.

Workshops titled "Serving Farmers in Financial Trouble" are scheduled for Oct. 21 in Lubbock at the Memorial Civic Center, and Oct. 22 at the Kiva Inn in Abilene, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

We want to provide accountants and attorneys with information about recent changes in bankruptcy rules and tax changes that affect farming and ranching decisions. Many farmers and ranchers are having to make critical decisions concerning changing business size, refinancing and renegotiating loans as a result of financial problems.

The workshops will provide lawyers and accountants with information so they can give practical advice to their farmer/rancher clients. A checklist of potential trouble spots with various solutions to financial problems will be presented.

All workshop speakers are based in Lubbock and include John C. Akard, U.S. bankruptcy judge for the northern district of Texas; John Burdett, CPA; Tommy Swann and Robert Wilson, attorneys; and Walter O'Chesky, Chapter 12 trustee for the northern district of Texas.

Registration information on the workshops is available at any County Extension Office.

Cooperating with the Extension Service in the workshops are the Agricultural Tax Problems Committee and the Agricultural Committee of the State Bar of Texas and the Lubbock and Abilene CPA chapters.

I understand the Extension Service is conducting a series of computer training programs. Where and when are these being conducted?

The programs will be given in Sweetwater beginning in December. Below are the dates of each. Each short course will cost $125.

Checks are payable to the Texas Agricultural Extension, Account No. 20650. Send registration form to Dr. Jackie G. Smith, Texas A & M Research and Extension Center, Rt. 3, Box 213-AA, Lubbock, Texas 79401.

• Electronic Spreadsheets and Their Use in Agriculture

December 28-30, 1987
The microcomputer is a useful tool to many farmers, ranchers and agribusinessmen. One of the software packages that has proven to be most helpful to the users of microcomputers is the electronic spreadsheets.

This short course will provide an opportunity to learn what they are, how they work, and what they can do to help agricultural decision makers develop new spreadsheets to fit their situations. The Lotus 1-2-3 spreadsheet will be used.

• Farm and Ranch Accounting with Microcomputers
February 24-26, 1988

This short course will teach farmers and ranchers with beginning to moderate accounting skills the basics of financial statement preparation, double vs. single entry accounting, and cash vs. accrual financial records. Emphasis will be placed on establishing a computerized accounting system in a typical farm and ranch situation, on processing typical transactions and on handling special problems with a computerized accounting system.

• Advanced Electronic Spreadsheet Development and Applications in Agriculture
May 25-27, 1988

This short course is for previous short course participants or individuals with considerable experience in Lotus 1-2-3 spreadsheet development.

• Whole Farm Ranch Planning and Financial Management
August 23-25, 1988

This course will teach participants to add a financial perspective analysis to a physical production plan.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat Magnet' Diet Pill Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

No Dieting—Eat Normally
Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You will start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new major medical breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patent pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat particles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

Within 2 days you will notice a change in the color of your stool as the fat particles are being eliminated.

"Pills Do All the Work"
According to the doctors, the fat-magnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% safe. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

The fat-magnet pills have just been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and reports of dramatic weight loss. It's the "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public
If you need to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800)527-9700, ext. W842.

Geologists, first to go, are being sought again

AMARILLO (AP) — The dust from the bust may be gradually settling and Texas Panhandle petroleum geologists are trying to find out who's still around to help sweep up.

The number of petroleum geologists employed in the Panhandle has been sliced in half since 1981 — from about 530 to 270 — as oil and gas prices declined and companies laid off geologists, according to the Panhandle Geological Society.

Now, with crude oil prices apparently stabilizing and talk of higher gas prices by this winter, it's time for a roundup and head count of geologists, said Don Cameron of Pantera Energy in Amarillo and president of the society.

"We're trying to get in touch with as many people as we can, and find out where all these people disappeared to," he said. "Over the last few years, a lot of people lost their jobs or were transferred out of town, and obviously some are working in other fields."

Gas prices, which in the boom years of the early 1980s averaged $4 per Mcf (thousand cubic feet) for wells drilled at that time, are now hovering between $1.10 and $1.40 per Mcf on the heels of slackened demand and oversupply.

Crude oil prices took a dive in early 1986 from around $30 a barrel to less than $10 a barrel in the summer of that year. Agreements among the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to cut back production coupled with tensions in the Persian Gulf have since helped prices recover to the $19 range.

Jerry Andersen of Donald C. Slawson Co. in Amarillo said geologists are first on the "hit list" for layoffs when the oil and gas industry turns sour.

"When budgets are cut, you quit exploring," said Andersen, who is secretary of the society. "The geologist is step one of the whole exploration. You have to have an idea before the landmen can go out and acquire the acreage, before the engineers can develop a drilling program, before anybody can do anything."

At the same time, geologists are the first hired back when a rebound occurs and companies start to become more aggressive in exploration campaigns, Cameron said.

"When times are good, there's nobody that they like better than a geologist, and when times are bad, they don't want to see a geologist," he said.

Both Andersen and Cameron said the decline in the number of employed geologists in the Panhandle appears to have bottomed out.

The possibility of oil prices cresting over $20 a barrel and staying there means large industries will consider converting to cheaper natural gas as a fuel, they said. That would help boost prices for gas, which accounts for 75 percent of the energy revenues in the Panhandle.

Also, a harsh winter could help burst the current "gas bubble," or oversupply, of 4 trillion cubic feet of gas, Andersen said, which also might increase prices and stimulate exploration.

Mike Ayling, president of MLA Resources in Tulsa, an executive recruitment firm for petroleum geologists, said he's seen an increase in requests in recent months for geologists from companies in Houston, Dallas, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, but that the situation in Amarillo is still "pretty grim."

"There are only a few big oil companies in Amarillo, and they've been downsizing or consolidating in the last year," he said. "Also, the turnaround there won't come until natural gas prices increase."

Still, Cameron said some smaller independent companies have continued aggressive exploration programs while bigger companies with large overhead expenses have not.

"A small company can afford to drill a well at $1.35 gas, but Texaco can't," he said. Major companies tend to undertake major exploration programs in new basins — drilling 10 to 20 wells at a time — which costs huge sums of money, he said.

"As one geologist from Oklahoma City told me the other day, we (the smaller companies) are just up in the boneyard trying to find a few pieces of meat."

Cameron said the Panhandle Geological Society hopes its meetings this year will provide an opportunity for petroleum geologists to find out who's still in the fold.

"You need to be in touch with what's going on out in the area," he said. "For example, there's a lot of information trading — such as log trading — that goes on in this industry."

"If Donald C. Slawson Co. drills a well out in Harper County in northwest Oklahoma, and that's an area I work, I might call Jerry (Andersen) and ask him if they made a well, if it was oil or gas, or whatever."

Local woman recognized at rally

Cynthia Boadle of Big Spring was honored at a Stanley Home Products Sales Rally in Big Spring recently.

Boadle, an independent Stanley Dealer, attended the all-day event, which included award ceremonies, recognition to top sales leaders, and new promotions.

She was recognized on her promotion of group leaders and also for top sales.

Stanley Home Products is a Division of Stanhome, Inc. Direct selling groups conduct business in the United States and in 19 countries throughout the world, selling high quality household cleaning products, health and personal care items, and designed giftware.

McDaniel named president of S&L

LUFKIN — Monte Edward McDaniel has been named the new president and chief executive officer of Home Savings and Loan, the parent company of Big Spring Savings.

McDaniel's background includes 24 years of experience in all aspects of the state's savings and loan industry. After graduating from the University of Texas, he went to work in 1959 at the San Antonio office of one of the "Big Eight" accounting firms.

He joined a savings and loan association in Laredo in 1963. Seven years later McDaniel was elected president and chief of the association.

He held the position until leaving in 1984 to join the Texas Savings and Loan Department. Serving as a Deputy Savings and Loan Commissioner, McDaniel was in charge of state-chartered associations in the northern half of Texas. He also acted as liaison between state-chartered savings and loans and the Federal Home Loan Bank in Dallas.

McDaniel and his wife, Barbara, have three children. Their two daughters live in the Austin area, and their son is attending Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

Sonny Fuller retires after 45 years

W.G. "Sonny" Fuller retired from the American Petrofina refinery Wednesday after 45 years of service for the company.

Fuller had worked in the capacity of process unit manager for the past 18 years. He said he had worked throughout the entire Big Spring facility, and had been instrumental in the organization and implementation of the high-deal, alkar and cat-cracker.

Sanger named Fiberflex president

HOUSTON — Peter J. Sanger has been named President and Chief Executive Officer of Fiberflex Products, Ltd. Sanger will divide his time between the Houston and Big Spring offices, according to a release from the company.

Prior to joining Fiberflex, Sanger held a number of executive positions with oil producing and service companies, including Hematech Drilling Information company, The Analysts, Inc., and Howell Corporation, the release stated.

Sanger has a master's degree in engineering from the Colorado School of Mines, and studied for post-graduate degrees in finance and law at the University of Colorado, George Washington University and the University of Denver.

Fiberflex Products, Ltd. has offices in Houston, Midland and Denver. The company has manufacturing facilities in Big Spring, where it produces a line of patented-designed fiberglass sucker rods and specialized pultruded fiberglass products for industrial markets, the report concluded.

Offshore production down in July

AUSTIN — Leases in state offshore waters produced 137,414 barrels of oil during July, down from 137,442 barrels in June, according to the Railroad Commission.

Gas well gas production from offshore leases amounted to 6,260,121 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) in July, against 6,527,791 Mcf in June.

Casinghead gas production totaled 294,561 Mcf in July, compared to 244,067 Mcf in June. Casinghead gas is natural gas produced from oil wells.

Condensate production from offshore leases amounted to 15,227 barrels in July, against 16,311 barrels in June. Condensates are liquid hydrocarbons produced from gas wells.

In July, offshore crude production made up about 0.23 percent of the preliminary figure for crude production in Texas. Offshore gas well gas production was approximately 1.92 percent of the preliminary state total.

July offshore production in state waters was reported from 41 oil and 395 gas wells.

Well plugging violators penalized

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission assessed a total of $14,000 in administrative penalties Monday to three Texas oil and gas operators for problems under the Commission's well plugging rules.

Morsco, Inc. of Corpus Christi was penalized a total of $6,000 for one well each on the F.J. Smith "B" and C.L. Carson leases in Nueces County. Commission records indicate the wells have been inactive and unplugged for more than 10 years.

Petrolero Exploration, Inc. of Abilene was assessed a $4,000 penalty for a well on the H.A. Stephens lease in Rannels County that had been inactive and unplugged for more than a year. Tex-Kan Industries, Inc. of Houston received a similar $4,000 penalty for an unplugged well on the K.L. Wittman et. al. lease in Frio County.

To date in 1987, the Commission has leveled more than $673,000 pollution and well plugging penalties. Last year the Commission assessed more than 1.6 million in such penalties.

Businesses are speaking new language

DALLAS — A growing number of companies are starting to speak a different language — Spanish.

Companies that traditionally have advertised in English are adding Spanish. Others offer an array of services for Spanish-speaking clientele, such as a bilingual telephone directory and a family magazine.

The companies say they want to foster a better understanding of Hispanic culture, as well as the language. "We're all here, and we're going to have to learn to get along and work together and understand and deal with each other," said Estella Esparza, owner of Bilingual Workshops and Ideas, or Taller Bilingue e Ideas.

The three-year-old company provides varied translating services, from immigration documents and medical records to advertisements, Esparza said. About 30 percent of Dallas' Hispanic population needs information in both Spanish and English, she said.

Esparza said she has translated during trial proceedings for Hispanic defendants and has translated ballots for state and county elections. In addition, Esparza said she has even started receiving requests from people wanting to learn to speak Spanish.

U.S. Census figures show that Esparza and other local business people are marketing to a rapidly growing segment of the city's population.

The Census Bureau reported in 1980 that there were 111,083 people of Hispanic origin living in Dallas. The Hispanic population has grown by 30 percent since then, according to estimates.

And projections by the Texas State Network suggest that Hispanics would make up one-third of the state's population by 1990.

Along with growth in population comes strength in purchasing power, said Patricia Asip, manager of Hispanic marketing for J.C. Penney. "Demographics are such that companies need to look at their customer base, and if those customers require special attention, it is up to the far-sighted corporations to take those steps," Asip said.

Several far-sighted businesses in the Dallas area are meeting that need, including Puntos... Magazine, a bilingual publication which went into circulation earlier this month.

The magazine, with a circulation of 30,000, contains articles written in Spanish and English, and some written in both languages, said Maria Vera-Roman, administrative manager. The goal is to encourage NEW LANGUAGE page 3D

A few changes could help GM

By TOM PETERS

Incentives for car buyers are now a year-round affair. Yet even the latest, 1.9 percent financing is not enough to shake General Motors' sluggishness. In fact, the once great firm has become a sort of national embarrassment, a symbol of our inability to compete.

I suggest we make the revitalization of GM a national priority. My plan may not be literally plausible, but it seriously addresses the sorts of staggering problems that GM, and countless other former leading American firms, face.

• Location. Detroit is an island. While recently making the 45-minute drive from the Detroit airport to downtown, I counted only three Japanese cars on the road. This is not the real world.

(For instance, GM's market share in trend-setting California is 40 percent below its national market share.) I propose that GM get out of town: Move the headquarters of the small-car division to San Diego, the large-car division to Dallas, and transport a trimmed-down corporate headquarters — about 250 instead of today's 6,000 — to Atlanta.

Peters on excellence

• Organization. Instead of the U.S. imposing a five-year sanction against Toshiba for its selling machining equipment to the Soviets, we should ask Japan to send Soichiro Honda to act as GM's chairman for the next five years.

Electronic Data Systems founder and recently-deposed GM board member H. Ross Perot should be invited to return to the fold as chief executive officer. This time he should be paid a $7.5 million bonus to criticize GM, rather than be penalized by that amount every time he is critical of the firm (one of the terms of his late 1986 surrender).

GM's already-pruned middle management staff must be cut another 75 percent in the next five years, and 90 percent of those who remain ought to be moved to the field — to parts and distribution centers, sales offices and the like.

• Perks. All officers should be given new Honda Acuras, rather than the traditional GM vehicles. All officer bonuses ought to be based 75 percent on relative quality improvement vis-a-vis competitors, both domestic and foreign.

• Design. Ford's Taurus has been a smashing design success in the United States, but it is essentially an imitation of sleek European models. To instill more boldness and creativity in Detroit, GM's new chief designer position should report directly to the chairman of the board; the post would GM CHANGES page 3D

MediaNews reorganizes management

DALLAS — MediaNews Group, owner of the Big Spring Herald, announced Wednesday it is reorganizing the management of its newspapers under separate operating groups for its large and small publications.

Under the new structure, MediaNews Group President William Dean Singleton will directly oversee management of the company's three largest daily and Sunday newspapers: The Dallas Times Herald, The Houston Post and The Denver Post. The purchases of the Houston and Denver papers were announced in September and are scheduled to be completed by Dec. 1.

Singleton announced that J. Allan Meath has been named president of Garden State Newspaper Group, a newly-formed division that will oversee management of MediaNews Groups' 25 other daily and Sunday newspapers and 28 weekly publications.

Singleton called Meath "an outstanding newspaper executive" and said his "publishing expertise and leadership will further enhance the Garden State Newspaper Group's position as a growing publishing force."

The reorganization applies only to the management of member newspapers and not to the financial structure of MediaNews Group, according to Singleton. MediaNews Group was founded in 1983 by Singleton and Richard Scudder, 74, a fourth-generation newspaper publisher from New Jersey.

With the purchase of the Denver Post and Houston Post, MediaNews Group became the 11th largest newspaper chain in the United States.

Garden State Newspaper Group will be divided into three regionally based subdivisions: The Atlantic Group, based in Woodbury, N.J.; the Mid-America group, based in Dallas; and the Pacific Group, based in Hayward, Calif.

In a related announcement, MediaNews said that Meath has appointed L.L. "Ike" Massey group vice president of the Mid-America group and Anthony F. Tierno vice president of the Atlantic Group.

Before the reorganization, Tierno served as vice president-treasurer. Massey served as publisher of the Huntsville Item and MediaNews vice president-southwest newspapers. Tierno and Massey will now report to Meath.

Entrepreneur hoping he's found hangover cure

Dallas Times Herald Bureau
DALLAS — Many have tried, and many have failed, but Dallas entrepreneur Ken Taylor swears he's found a cure for the hangover.

To the list of offbeat products being sold in Dallas vending machines, add Nutrahol, a large black capsule billed as "The Drinker's Pill."

Taylor owns the Texas distribution rights to the product and will be test-marketing it in two Dallas nightclubs — Belle Starr on North Central Expressway and the Top Rail Ballroom on Northwest Highway — during the next three weeks. If people like it, Taylor hopes to have Nutrahol machines in 50 bars and clubs by the end of the year.

The concept behind Nutrahol is simple. Each capsule contains carbon and activated charcoal, a known absorber of toxins. The drinker pays $1.25 for a package of three capsules, which are taken 15 minutes before alcohol is consumed.

The charcoal acts as a sort of blotter in the stomach, sopping up most of the alcohol before it enters the bloodstream, where it does its damage.

A user of Nutrahol purportedly can imbibe without having to worry about the headaches, nausea and diarrhea that characterize a major-league hangover. The product also is supposed to do away with gas, bad breath and even a few calories.

"I was the first skeptic," Taylor said Wednesday. He said he raised his eyebrows when approached by Mary Jo Morrison, the marketing representative for Nutrahol, which is manufactured in a suburb of Baltimore.

But he said he accepted some free samples and conducted his own test by taking three capsules, drinking 132 ounces of draft beer in two hours and then taking two more capsules.

The outcome? "No hangover effects whatsoever," Taylor said.

Morrison said Nutrahol has been on the market about 1 year and is available in about 20 states.

"It's just now beginning to take off," she said, in the wake of legislation passed by a number of states — Texas included — that holds bar owners and private party hosts liable if they give alcohol to an intoxicated person who later causes an accident.

"I think that people in today's society have been faced with two possibilities," Morrison said. "They can either give up drinking totally or consume alcohol and face the consequences. I think we've given them a third option."

Charlie Pence, manager of Belle Starr, said he was skeptical after hearing Taylor's testimonial for Nutrahol. So, Pence said, he took three capsules, downed five Jack Daniels-and-Cokes in two hours and took two more capsules.

"It seems to work," Pence said. "It seems to just keep you sobered up. I wasn't going to put the machine in here if I didn't try it for myself. I wasn't going to try to sell something I knew didn't work."

Activated charcoal has been used for years to counteract poisons. Susan Humphrey, a registered nurse at the North Central Texas Poison Center, said it is a particularly effective antidote to poisons such as cyclic antidepressants and camphor.

"It will immediately soak up, as a sponge would, the toxins," Humphrey said.

But she said she had never heard of activated charcoal as a hangover remedy and doubts the Nutrahol capsules contain enough of the substance to do much good.

"Each is unique and one-of-a-kind," confided Minerva Lewis, as she granted a sneak preview of Country Flowers & Gifts' cache of hand-made, original Christmas wreaths, baskets and door hangings.

"We've been working on them for months, and we'll keep designing new ones as long as we have ideas — and space," she laughed as she opened a loft hung with their creations. Some were rustic while others are formal. Motifs range from the traditional to space-age. There are all sizes and prices ranges, from small door hangings to over-the-fireplace wreaths. Look for these Christmas fantasies at the shop during the citywide florists open house in November. The creative philosophy at Country Flowers stems from the artistic bent of its owners — Minerva Lewis, an artist, and Lea Lewis, a potter.

A big seller now at Country Flowers are lavish real or silk football mums, priced from $10 to $30 depending on "add-ons." A popular gift is the "I love Big Spring Steers" teddy bear, which is delivered with a live rose in its hand.

Christmas gift items are arriving daily and may be put on layaway.

Devotees of "country things" will love the stuffed cloth cat, rabbit or sheep dolls; accessories in faded blue wood; advertising reproductions of famous ads from the 1920's; grapevine wreaths to hang the year around; and oldtime red "spatterware" for the table — beanpot, tea kettle, plates, bowls, coffee pot and spoons.

An unusual long 'n lanky rag doll clasps her hands around the door knob while her legs double as draft stoppers along the floor.

A great gift for a shut-in or college student is a throw printed with a checkerboard, complete with heart-shaped checkers.

A new basket collection is made from the fibers of monkey pod trees and palm trees.

Shipments of exclusive "All God's Children" figurines, signed and numbered by the artist, are arriving daily. And there are new wall hangings in deerskin by Marsha Hudson.

Country Flowers is located in a charming 1920's cottage at 1701 Scurry.

GOSH/YES! filled local void

YES! Business Services came into being because it filled a community need, says owner Pat J. Porter.

In the late 1970's, while pursuing other business interests in Big Spring, she realized that some of the supplies and services she needed were not available locally.

"I remember people telling me 'Oh, you can't get that here' or 'You have to go out of town to do that.'"

That was a challenge for Pat, so she set her chin and said "YES! it can — and will — be done here!"

And that's how the firm got its name when it opened in 1977.

In the early 1980's, she added Gail Office Supply House (GOSH) when virtually the same scenario was replayed.

"Computers became more common, but the local service and supply industry had not kept pace. So we felt the market was ready for a specialty supplier for information processing."

The two businesses complement each other and are located in adjoining spaces at 306 Main Street.

"We deal in service," declares this business entrepreneur. "We can provide everything from a #2 pencil to specialty computer furniture."

As soon as a customer acquires a new piece of computer hardware, GOSH begins to locate a supplier, she says. If a customer is considering buying a new piece of hardware, GOSH immediately checks the availability of supplies in this area.

"It's a challenge and a mark of our professional ability to be able to find accessories that our computer customers need," says Pat.

Engraving, awards/trophies and commercial signage are handled by YES! They can engrave letters as small as 1/16 inch or as large as 6 inches — on metal, brass, plastic; in fact, on everything from custom jewelry to oilfield lease signs.

Their name badges and signage are in big demand by local civic clubs, trade shows and business firms.

They stock a supply of fine quality engraveable items — solid brass luggage tags, door knockers, key chains, contact lens cases, bookmarks — all great gift items.

Pat's business acumen earned her the Small Business Person of the Year Award in 1986. She is Region IV Director of the Trophy Dealers & Manufacturers Assn.

Denise Jackson is manager of GOSH.

Others on the staff are Kay Harris, inside sales and receptionist; Kate Porter, delivery and outside sales; Sami Porter, receptionist and Tana Carroll, engraver.

Shop at GOSH/YES! from 9 to 5 Monday thru Friday.

Chamber of commerce weekly report

By BIG SPRING AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Chamber membership — What's it all about? I'm sure this question has gone through every potential chamber member's mind at one time or another. It's a very important question and deserves an answer.

What is it all about? It's about concern for one's community, it's about networking, and it's about enlightened self-interest.

If you live, work, or do business in a community, then the economic viability and the livability of that community must be of concern to you, because if these decline, then business declines.

Therefore, it is essential for the business community to be part of the decision-making processes that will impact on the community.

Chamber of Commerce

To gain this input, the business person could:

- Take individual action — This would be very time consuming.
- Add employees to handle this important task — This would be very expensive.
- Let the government do it — This would lead to increased taxes, more regulatory controls, and increased business development constraints.
- Do nothing — If we do nothing, then government will do it.
- Take collective action — This is voluntarism ... this is the chamber of commerce.

By banding together to undertake aggressive action programs that are in the best interests of the total community, both business and the community prosper. This is the purpose of the chamber of commerce — but — it takes two: the chamber and you.

Networking is another important part of chamber membership. It gives those who participate in this aspect of the chamber a way to meet their fellow chamber members. There are several ways to participate. The major way is to select a committee and participate in the committee meetings and activities. Another good networking opportunity is to attend the quarterly community luncheons. You can also take advantage of seminars and workshops sponsored by your chamber.

Many of our members belong to the chamber even though they know they will be unable to take an active part in the organization. They realize that the work of the chamber is important to them personally and to their business. Their financial participation is important because it helps to fund those programs and activities of importance to the business community.

They realize, like those members who can personally participate, that it is in their best interest to have a strong, viable chamber working for them. Remember: It takes two — the chamber and you.

Drilling report

Davis Delaware Petroleum of New Orleans has staked location for the No. 1 Delma Graham, a wildcat well in Howard County. It carries permit for 10,950-ft. total drilling depth, and will be located seven miles east of Forsan. Drillsite is in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 30, Blk. 33.

The No. 1 Woodchuck, a 7,500-ft. wildcat well, is planned by Lakewood & Fulton of Midland. It will be located 19 miles northeast of Big Spring in a 320-acre lease in Howard County's H&T Survey, Sec. 24, Blk. 25.

Chapman Exploration of Tulsa has revealed production figures on a plug-back operation at the No. 1 Denton, a wildcat operation in Howard County. Drillsite is seven miles southwest of Big Spring in a 640-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 64, Blk. 33.

The well pumped 80 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Wolfcamp Formation, 9,144 to 9,180 feet into the wellbore. It was originally completed by same operator May 24, 1986, with bottomhole at 10,135 feet. Chapman plugged the hole back to 9,240 feet.

Flowing 245 barrels per day, plus 305,000 CF casinghead gas, the No. 1 Kohler-Brennand was completed in Mitchell County's Westbrook Field. The operator is Kohler Energy of Wichita Falls.

Drillsite is five miles southwest of Guthbert. The well was drilled to 8,184-ft. total depth and will produce from a perforated interval in the Ellenburger Formation at 8,170 to 8,181 feet into the wellbore. Production tests were run on an 8/64 in. choke, and flowing tubing registered 725 PSI.

The location is in a 640-acre lease in the H&T Survey, Sec. 19, Blk. 26.

Mobil Producing of Midland has filed first production figures on two new oil producers in the Eastlatan-Howard Field, Mitchell County. The Nos. 220 and 225 Mary Foster indicated ability to pump at the combined rate of 30 barrels per day, plus a combine d406 barrels of waste water.

The operator has 3,840 acres leased, with drillsites in the T&P Survey, Sec. 17, Blk. 29. The wells are located nine miles southwest of Westbrook.

Production will be from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, ranging from 2,441 to 3,304 feet in to the wellbore. Total drilling depths were 3,407 and 3,400 feet respectively.

Mitchell Energy of Houston is planning to conduct a re-entry operation at the No. 2 Reeder "410", a wildcat well in Borden County. Drillsite is 12 miles east of Gail in a 161-acre lease in the H&T Survey, Sec. 410, Blk. 97.

Mitchell originally completed the well July 10, 1984. At the time, it pumped 69 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Strawn Formation at 7,644 to 7,743 feet.

Bottomhole was at 8,030 feet. The operator plans to deepen the hole to approximately 9,000 feet and seek production.

Union Texas Petroleum of Midland is planning to drill the No. 1 Nester Strain "18", a wildcat well in Martin County. The well is under authority for 11,400-ft. total drilling depth.

Location is in a 320-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 18, Blk. 35, nine miles north of Stanton.

Parker & Parsley Petroleum of Midland has revealed intentions to drill the No. 2 Beal Snyder "G", a 9,000-ft. developmental well in Martin County's Spraberry Trend Field. The well will be drilled six miles southwest of Stanton in a 173-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Sec. 26, Blk. 37. Flowing 378 barrels per day, plus 393,000 CF casinghead gas, the No. 3061 Cooper was completed in Glascock County's Cobra Field by Matador Drilling of Midland.

Inside look

Bob Boyles of J&M Oilfield Supplies "mikes" the inside diameter of a blow-out preventer body at the company's machine shop. Boyles says that his business has "ever so slightly increased" and "it gives all indications of continuing."

Preliminary oil production figures show July decline

AUSTIN — Texas crude oil production averaged 1,945,947 barrels daily in July, according to preliminary figures released by the Railroad Commission.

This figure compares with preliminary June production of 1,961,741 barrels daily. Final production reports for June indicated average production at 1,968,224 barrels daily.

The preliminary Texas oil production figure for July is 60,324,337 barrels, up from 58,852,215 barrels in June.

The state's top producing counties, rank ordered by preliminary July production were: Gaines, 3,472,506 barrels; Ector, 3,434,275 barrels; Andrews, 3,386,137 barrels; Pecos, 3,381,296; Yoakum, 2,917,854 barrels; Hockley, 2,782,413 barrels; Gregg, 2,714,854 barrels; Crane, 1,552,590 barrels; Scurry, 1,547,729 barrels; and Wood, 1,189,736 Barrels.

GM changes

be shared by Calvin Klein and equally design-conscious Apple Computer founder Steve Jobs.

Both should have seats on the board. To acknowledge the role of women in car purchasing decisions, more than half the design department should be staffed by women by 1992.

Customers. Three dealers, with customer satisfaction scores in the top 1 percent of all GM dealers (as measured by a third party) should be given rotating seats on the board.

All dealers in the top 1 percent would be given $250-per-car rebates; those in the top 10 percent would be given $125-per-car rebates.

Those in the bottom 2 percent each year would automatically lose their dealership. Each General Motors manager, starting with the chairman, must be required to work one week per year in a local dealership.

Three senior customer-related positions ought to be created, with board seats for each. Quality guru W. Edwards Deming would become vice chairman of the board. Consumer activist Ralph Nader would head a new Office of the Chief Consumer Ombudsman and would report directly to the chairman.

And Les Wexner, the founder of fleet-of-foot-retailer The Limited, would be made senior vice president of distribution and customer-order fulfillment.

Workers. General Motors should offer a lifetime employment guarantee to 85 percent of its work force. In return it should receive complete elimination of currently narrow job jurisdictions and unstinting UAW acceptance of team-based organization of the sort that has been so successful in the GM-Toyota joint venture.

A wage package should include a potential gain-sharing incentive of 25 percent, based first upon quality improvement and second upon productivity improvement.

Finally, over a five-year period GM should offer a one-time, $15,000-to-$20,000 per-employee retraining pot (which would add up to about $1 billion), to boldly shift its emphasis from "hardware" to "humans."

"Half a Million in 1992." The firm should declare its strategic intent to sell 500,000 cars in Japan by 1992 (it sells 1,800 today). This would only be achieved, of course, by providing superior product quality and heretofore-ignored responsiveness to unique Japanese market needs.

Special consultant. One "victim" of this grand scheme would surely be current chairman Roger Smith. I propose he be retained, with a salary of $1 million per year. However, he would be placed on a rotating assignment, with six months as sales manager in a Southern California Chevrolet-Toyota dealership, then six months at the same dealership's service department.

He would be offered an additional $1 million, one-time bonus if he were to successfully complete a one-year Berlitz program in Japanese, followed by a transfer until retirement to an overseas leadership post in the "Half a Million in 1992" program for Japan.

These ideas may sound outrageous, but when I recently presented them to an audience that included several dozen GM "real people" (middle managers and UAW reps), they responded with cheers.

GM's workers acknowledge the need for audacious steps to resuscitate the free-world's largest industrial concern.

When will GM's top dogs catch on?

readers to learn both languages, she said. "It might entice them (English-speaking people) to learn the Spanish language better. I would imagine with (Spanish-speaking people) the reverse might be applicable," Vera-Roman said. Editor Fernando Escovar said the bilingual concept blends together two distinct segments of the Hispanic market. "We have a big community here, from Mexicans and Mexican Americans who can't read English very well," he said. "We think we are very important to the people here in Dallas."

The magazine's purpose is to facilitate the adjustment to U.S. life for non-speaking citizens, from directing them to lawyers and doctors who speak Spanish to providing information about sporting events and other entertainment, Escovar said.

And Spanish-speaking residents can use the Dallas Bilingual Yellow Pages. The directory, which carries ads from all types of businesses, designates Spanish-speaking businesses, said its publisher, Michael Gonzales. The directory, which boasts a cir-ulation of 50,000 in Dallas, features an English-Spanish index, so a person wanting to find the listings for attorneys could look under the word abogado, said Gonzales, a past president of the Dallas Hispanic Chamber of Commerce. In addition, there are tourist sites listed and a map for newcomers, Gonzales said.

Another local company, Tiempo Video Productions tapes entertainment programs and music videos of local Spanish bands for broadcast on Heritage Cable.

Notice to Big Spring regarding Power Resources Cogeneration Facility

During the period of October 4th through October 10th our construction contractor will begin the process of cleaning newly constructed steam lines at Fina's refinery by "blowing" the lines with high pressure steam. This process generates a great deal of noise and will be audible in most of Big Spring. Please do not be alarmed at the sound levels as they are normal in these circumstances and we ask the citizens of Big Spring to bear with us for these few days. Be assured that there is no danger to the people or the environment at or near the point of steam discharge. This is a one time event necessary for new construction and will not be repeated once completed.

Thank you for your indulgence and we apologize for any inconvenience.

He joined the Army back in 1964. How could he know he would never come back — 23 years ago.
 — Continued from page 1 by Kenny Rogers.

...can never fully understand exactly what it was like in Vietnam. ...the only way we can hope for is to remember those who made the sacrifice.

...the past few days, Big Spring has been a center of that remembrance. ...the week long visit of the Moving Wall. It ...the names of 58,022 American soldiers who died ...the Vietnam conflict.

...is used by more than a memorial to the brave in- ...in that far off land, however. It should be a ...returned — returned to an America that ...of their efforts.

...from those days can come down around me. ...could take me back in time. ...as the good times ...20 years ago.

...memories of the '60s might be ...back.

...through that turbulent decade, however, ...a time of drastic change and upheaval ...America truly lost its innocence.

Changes abounded during that time. It was a decade when tastes in music, clothing, hairstyles and entertainment were altered dramatically. Experimentation truly was a lifestyle of the '60s.

But the decade also had its darker side. John Kennedy and his brother Robert were assassinated during that period. Martin Luther King, the leader of the civil rights movement, was gunned down in Memphis, Tenn. Riots raged through American cities in the long, hot summers of the '60s. Every night on TV, it seemed, the streets were filled with protesting blacks, women, or students. And in the middle of it all was Vietnam.

More than 58,000 of our finest died; thousands more were permanently injured. And instead of parades or thank yous, the Vietnam veteran came back to silence, embarrassment, or outright hostility from the populace.

Now, more than a decade after the last serviceman earned his place on the Wall, no longer is it unfashionable to talk about the war.

Three of the biggest selling movies during the past year have been about Vietnam. Book stores are teeming with works on the subject and — perhaps most indicative of the attitude change — a TV series about the war debuted last week.

The Walls — both the permanent one in Washington, D.C. and the two portable models — have played significant roles in that change. They are reminders of our sons, brothers and friends who paid the ultimate sacrifice for their government. It is a sacrifice that the rest of us should never forget.
