Baby deported to Mexico with maid

EL PASO (AP) — A child was reunited with her family Thursday after the Mexican maid who was taking care of her was arrested trying to re-enter the United States, authorities said.

Lysette Guadalupe Gomez, 3, was reported missing Wednesday along with the maid who had moved in with Lysette's family Monday, police said.

The maid, 18-year-old Maria Jesus Gonzalez-Armandaris, did not intend to kidnap the child but took her across the Rio Grande Wednesday to deliver a letter to a former employer, said Mike Williams, chief agent of the U.S. Border Patrol in El Paso.

About 5 p.m. Wednesday, the maid tried to enter the United States and was stopped by the border patrol, Williams said.

"At that time she gave the name for the baby as Elizabeth Acosta Juarez of Mexico and said she was a friend of the (child's) family," Williams said.

Border patrol agents, not knowing that the baby was American, turned the pair back to Mexico.

El Paso police and Mexican authorities arrested the woman Thursday as she tried a second time to re-enter the United States, Williams said.

Police do not intend to file charges because there was no criminal intent, said Gus Massey, El Paso deputy police chief.

"I don't see where anybody did anything wrong," he said. "These maids are scared. You never know what they're thinking. Maybe she thought they were going to take the child away from her."

Her fear probably prompted her to claim the baby was Mexican, he added. The Gomez family told police they had taken in the young maid Monday and they did not remember her last name.

On Wednesday, police issued a radio announcement telling of icers to be on the lookout for the woman in connection with a kidnapping.

Police said the teen-ager had taken a blue sports bag from the house along with one change of clothes for the baby. But she left behind another bag and several of her own items of clothing.

"I don't think anybody feels it was (a kidnapping)," Williams said. "It does raise some questions regarding hiring somebody you barely know."

Beam's wife claims agents appeared to be burglars

HOUSTON — The wife of white supremacist Louis Ray Beam Jr. says she shot at Mexican federal agents trying to arrest her husband because she thought they were burglars.

"The police here keep saying I'm lying," Sheila Marie Toohey, 20, told the Houston Chronicle Wednesday. "I just want them to give me a fair chance."

She is being held in the Jalisco State Prison outside Guadalajara, Mexico, charged with assaulting a federal police officer and possessing an illegal weapon.

Ms. Toohey said she and her husband returned to their rented home in the small town of Chapala, 30 miles from Guadalajara, after dark Friday from a chili cook-off and shopping excursion. She said an agent emerged from the shadows before she got out of the car.

"I start to come out, and there's this man — he's in plainclothes, I didn't know he was a policeman — and he's got a gun to my husband's head," Ms. Toohey said. "As you know, there's been many rapes and assaults going on in Chapala recently, so naturally I'm scared."

Ms. Toohey said she ran into the house and grabbed a gun, where she confronted another agent, who she asked to identify himself.

"The next thing I know, he looks like he's going for his gun," she said. "He starts to lift it up — I think he's going to shoot me, so I shoot first."

Two bullets hit the agent, authorities said. Ignacio Licea is recovering from his wounds after a kidney and part of his liver were removed in surgery, police chief Guillermo Gonzalez Calderoni said.

Ms. Toohey said she gave up when several cars began converging on the house and she realized it wasn't a burglary. She said that in arresting her, police inflicted several bruises and split her lip.

"I just want them to get me out of here," she said. "I felt I was protecting myself and my family."

The newspaper said members of Ms. Toohey's family planned to leave for Guadalajara this weekend and hope to see her on Monday. Until his arrest, Beam had been on the FBI's 10-most-wanted list.

Lion attack victim goes home

HOUSTON — An 8-year-old girl mauled by a lion last month was released from the hospital Thursday amid mariachi-band cha-chas, gifts and balloons.

Roxanne Marie Hernandez left Hermann Hospital, where she has been hospitalized since the Oct. 10 attack at a Houston flea market, with her parents.

"She's very excited about going home, but she's still got a lot ahead of her," Hermann Hospital spokesman Beth Sartori said.

She has undergone surgery on brain tissue and also to close as much scalp as possible. Other surgical procedures involved covering the skull with skin and she faces further plastic surgery, Ms. Sartori said.

Roxanne suffered a cracked skull, leaving part of her brain exposed after she was attacked by the 300-pound lion. The animal, which a veterinarian said was undernourished, was destroyed after the incident.

New trial ordered in husband's death

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that a Henderson County woman convicted of killing her husband for insurance and retirement benefits cannot receive the death sentence.

The capital "murder for remuneration" charge can be used only in cases of murder for hire, the court said in a ruling Thursday.

The decision sets "a very significant legal precedent," said Gilbert Hargrave of Athens, an attorney for Betty Lou Beets, who was convicted in the 1983 shooting death of Jimmy Don Beets.

The issue could have prevented the execution of Ronald Clark O'Bryan of Houston — the so-called Candy Man convicted of poisoning his son with cyanide-laced Halloween candy for insurance money — if it had been raised in that case, Hargrave said.

"If O'Bryan was still alive, I think you would see he would get a new trial, but it's too late for him," he said. O'Bryan was executed in 1984.

Judge Marvin Teague, who wrote the criminal appeals court decision, was the attorney in O'Bryan's trial and initial appeal. He did not return calls from The Associated Press.

Houston attorney Will Gray, who handled O'Bryan's case after Teague became a judge, said he does not think the argument that prevailed in the Beets case would have had the same effect in O'Bryan's case.

"With the facts of his case, I think the court would have rejected it summarily. It's not so bad when a woman kills her husband," Gray said.

Mrs. Beets faces a new trial on murder charges in the deaths of Beets and a previous husband, Doyle Wayne Barker, said Henderson County District Attorney Billy Bandy. But the appeals court barred a death penalty in those cases. The remains of both men were found buried in the Beets' back yard at the Cherokee Shores mobile home subdivision near Payne Springs.

Bandy was angered by the Court of Criminal Appeals' ruling.

"They're liberals. They're going to turn these people loose one way or another," he said.

A spokesman for the Harris County District Attorney's Office, which prosecuted O'Bryan, called the decision "a distorted interpretation of what the law is."

"I don't think the Legislature intended that. That's the most egregious kind of capital murder there is, when somebody actually injures somebody and then kills them," said Calvin Hartman.

Carlucci may cut arms

WASHINGTON — Frank C. Carlucci, who is expected to be approved next week as the new secretary of defense, says nothing in the Pentagon budget should be "sacrosanct" during efforts to cut the federal deficit.

"We have to look at everything," he said Thursday, although he refused to be specific about what, if any, weapons might have to be canceled.

The deficit-cutting effort could mean "we may be looking at a smaller military force," Carlucci testified at a confirmation hearing before the Senate Armed Services Committee. About half the Pentagon budget is taken up by personnel costs such as military pay, housing expenses and related items.

"I'd rather have a smaller force that is effective than a larger one that is ineffective," he said.

October retail down

WASHINGTON — Retail sales edged down 0.1 percent in October as a sharp dip in auto sales pulled down gains elsewhere, the government said today.

Excluding autos, retail sales were up 0.7 percent, the strongest jump since February.

The Commerce Department said retail establishments sold $127.4 billion worth of goods in October, down $137 million from the September sales level.

The decline was less than predicted by many analysts, who took rising consumer debt levels as a sign that spending enthusiasm would wane. The Oct. 19 stock market crash, according to the figures, apparently had little immediate effect on consumer confidence.

AMA says treat AIDS

CHICAGO — Doctors have an ethical obligation to treat AIDS victims and people who are infected with the virus but have not developed the disease, the American Medical Association says in its first pronouncement on the issue.

The nation's largest organization of doctors believes as always that "when an epidemic prevails, a physician must continue his labors without regard to the risk to his own health," said the AMA's Council on Ethical and Judicial Affairs.

"The AMA's code is the most widely used code of ethics of America's physicians, and the AMA's 280,000 members agree to be bound by it when joining the association," the association said in a statement Thursday.

Whiteheads divorce

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — Mary Beth Whitehead, the surrogate mother who lost Baby M in a landmark custody battle, was divorced from her husband of 14 years and plans to marry the father of her unborn child.

The uncontested divorce was granted by Superior Court Judge Mark B. Epstein after a brief hearing Thursday.

The 30-year-old homemaker plans to marry Dean Gould.

Trains collide

Investigators find clues elusive

By ARLENE LEVINSON
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — State and federal investigators said they had few clues in the cause of a commuter-train collision that injured more than 100 people at rush hour.

Authorities refused to speculate on the cause of Thursday's crash, which occurred about 8 a.m. at Back Bay station when an arriving seven-car train plowed into a seven-car train discharging passengers onto the platform.

With repairs beginning and some rail service routed past the station today, investigators began examining the track and equipment and interviewing passengers and crew members.

"No factors are apparent to us yet," said Clifford D. Black, a spokesman for Amtrak, which has operated the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority-owned commuter lines since January.

The National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Railroad Administration, as well as Amtrak, the MBTA and state Department of Public Utilities are investigating.

Both train engineers and the five conductors were tested for drugs and alcohol, standard procedure in railroad investigations. Officials said they did not know when the results would be available.

"Right now it seems that everything was working," an unidentified Amtrak source told today's Boston Herald. "The signal-relay cases have been checked, and they're all intact, and the train's braking system is still working."

Authorities apparently do not believe Thursday's record snowstorm, which dumped about a foot of wet snow on the city, was directly involved in the collision at the underground station, said MBTA spokesman Peter Dimond.

However, he said investigators would check whether disruptions caused by the weather confused dispatchers. Both trains were late when the collision occurred.

"People in the aisles fell like dominoes," said James Blanchard, 21, of Attleboro, who was standing in the second train at the time of the crash.

He said he heard people scream-

Firefighters and rescue workers use a ladder as they remove an injured person through the window of one of two commuter trains involved in a collision Thursday morning at Boston's Back Bay station. Officials reported over 100 people injured, six of them seriously. State and federal investigators say they have few clues as to what may have caused the accident. A record one-foot of snow that fell in the Boston area is not believed to have been a cause.

ing and saw a doctor giving emergency treatment to a woman who was tossed between the cars.

City hospitals treated 68 people, and 40 more sought medical attention at the scene.

Six people were reported to have serious injuries, mainly broken bones, and five were hospitalized Thursday night in stable and good condition, said Boston City Hospital administrator Mark Douville.

MBTA spokesman Vicente Carbona said about 400 of the estimated 500 passengers had already left the first train when it was struck. The remaining passengers were in the first four cars of the train, which were protected in part by three empty cars and an engine at the train's rear, he said.

37 killed in accident

MEXICO CITY — A city bus full of early morning commuters skidded off a road in heavy fog on the south edge of the capital Friday and plunged into a deep pond, killing 37 people, authorities said. Four more passengers were reported injured.

Rogelio Rojas, a spokesman for the Red Cross in Mexico City, said 36 bodies had been recovered from the water and another person died of injuries after being taken to a local hospital.

Federal District police spokeswoman Carmen Gutierrez Zamora said the accident occurred at around 6:30 a.m. She said the bus, belonging to the Mexico City Route 100 system got off the road and tumbled into Lake Xico in the Tlahuac district.

"From what survivors said, the road was completely fogged in and visibility was very poor, and apparently the driver lost control of the vehicle," Ms. Gutierrez Zamora said.

Two killed in attack

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iraq today said its warplanes attacked five vessels off the Iranian coast in an unprecedented "massacre" of ships. Two crewmen were killed and a tanker and a tugboat were on fire, shipping sources said.

In Iran, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini called for urgent victory over Iraq in the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war, fueling speculation that a big Iranian offensive was imminent.

Four other crewmen were injured when Iraqi jets fired radar-guided Exocet missiles on the Iranian-chartered tugboat, the shipping executives said.

The identities of the dead and wounded could not immediately be determined because the vessel was in Iranian waters in the northern gulf, close to the war zone.

Prison hostages freed

CHATEAUXROUX, France — All 12 hostages being held at the maximum security St. Maur Prison in central France were freed today when about half the rioting inmates at the facility surrendered, officials said.

Officials said 175 of the rebellious prisoners had given up, but that more than 200 other inmates continued the mutiny, which began 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Miss World crowned

LONDON — A blonde veterinary student from Austria was crowned Miss World on Thursday night in the 37th annual contest beauty pageant, held at London's Royal Albert Hall.

The 5-foot-11 Ulla Weigerstorfer from Vienna was chosen from among 78 contestants from countries ranging from the American Virgin Islands to Yugoslavia. The 20-year-old was not favored by bookmakers.

The favorite going into the contest, Venezuela's Albani Lozada Jimenez, was first runner-up and Anna Margret Jonsdottir of Iceland was second runner-up.

Ortega meets with critic to discuss cease-fire plans

U.S.-Nicaraguan Relations

Events leading to the Reagan administration's decision to open negotiations with the Nicaraguan government.

July 17, 1979
President Somoza resigns after four decades of rightist, pro-American rule by his family.

November 1982
First reports emerge alleging covert U.S. aid to Sandinista rebels.

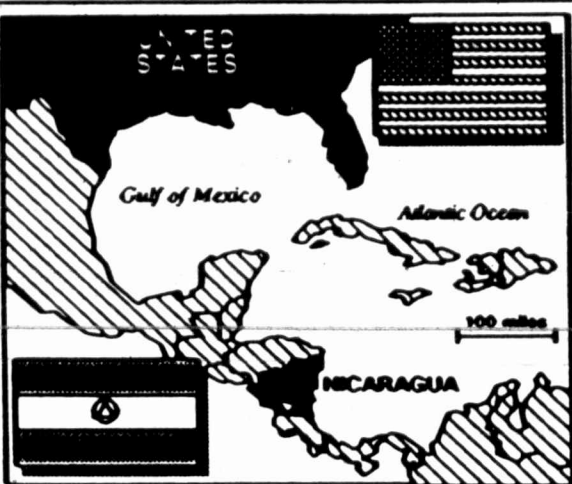

April 8, 1984
Congressional sources say the CIA has been involved in military action against the Sandinista government by supervising the mining of Nicaraguan ports.

May 1, 1985
Reagan announces a trade embargo against Nicaragua.

August 1985
A foreign aid bill is signed resuming $27 million in "non-lethal" aid to the Contras.

June 25, 1986
The House of Representatives approves Reagan's previously defeated $100 million aid package to the Contras.

June 26, 1986
The Nicaraguan government closes the opposition newspaper La Prensa.

February 18, 1987
Senate Foreign Relations committee votes to halt U.S. aid to the Contras.

March 31, 1987
111 members of the House ask Reagan to drop reliance on military force as policy in Central America and to support the Arias peace proposal.

April 28, 1987
Benjamin Ernest Linder, an American volunteer working for the Sandinista government, is killed by Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

August 1987
Reagan administration rejects direct negotiations with Nicaragua.

November 5, 1987
Nicaraguan president, Daniel Ortega, says Sandinista government would agree to begin cease-fire talks with Contras through an intermediary.

November 9, 1987
President Reagan says U.S. would talk with Nicaraguan authorities if they engage in serious cease-fire talks with Contras.

July 29, 1986
Nicaragua announces it has filed actions against Costa Rica and Honduras in the World Court to ban anti-Sandinista rebel activity in those countries.

August 13, 1986
U.S. Senate approves $100 million aid package to the Contras.

October 5, 1986
An American-manned military cargo plane is shot down in southern Nicaragua. The sole survivor, Eugene Hasenfus implicates the CIA in the Contra-supply operation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega describes his proposal for a cease-fire between his government and the Contra rebels as a plan that would not "put anybody's back up against the wall."

Ortega scheduled a series of meetings today in Washington, and was to present the cease-fire proposal to one of his harshest critics, Roman Catholic Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo.

The cardinal, who flew to Washington from Managua late Thursday, was expected to accept the role of intermediary in the planned cease-fire talks between the two sides, which have been at war since 1982.

MIGUEL OBANDO Y BRAVO

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, also was expected to attend, and there were strong hints that he might also play some role in the cease-fire process, perhaps as sponsor of a congressional monitoring group. Wright suggested last week that he might create such a delegation.

In meetings Thursday on Capitol Hill with Wright and members of a Senate observer group for Central America, Ortega described his proposal as "flexible" and "not a plan that's going to put anybody's back up against the wall," according to participants.

"We are trying to see how to make peace a reality in Central America," Ortega said after the meetings. There is "a willingness to work for peace in Central America, but we still have to overcome several obstacles," he said through an interpreter.

Ortega also extended his Washington visit, which had been scheduled to end today, through Saturday. The developments heightened optimism that the cornerstone of a five-nation peace accord — peace between the Contras and Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government — could eventually be achieved.

"I think we're getting almost to a point of irreversibility," said Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., who hosted one of the meetings with Ortega on Capitol Hill. "Things are moving, and there's almost the sense of no turning back."

Dodd said that in a two-hour meeting with senators of both parties, Ortega said his government would approve an application by Nicaragua's Catholic church radio station to add news broadcasts to its format. He told the senators that other opposition stations also would be allowed to go on the air, Dodd said.

Wright also met Thursday with four members of the Contra political directorate, and told the opposition leaders "he thinks that things have never looked as good as they do now," said Adolfo Calero, the senior member of the directorate.

But Calero added: "We are very skeptical about Ortega promises.... We will cooperate with a cease-fire, but we have to negotiate it."

The Contra leaders told Wright that any cease-fire agreement would have to allow their military forces to remain in the field and freeze areas currently controlled by both sides. That might require more U.S. aid for food and non-military supplies, they said.

Calero said the Contra leaders would meet later, perhaps next week, with Obando somewhere in Central America to discuss the cease-fire process. It appeared that initial negotiating sessions would take place with Obando shuttling back and forth between the adversaries.

Wright has become an influential figure on the Central American issue and the signs of cooperation between him and Ortega — including successive meetings on Wednesday and Thursday — contrasted sharply with Reagan administration efforts to shun diplomatic contacts with the Sandinistas.

After a meeting with Ortega late Thursday, Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., criticized Wright for taking too strong a foreign-policy role.

Abuse death Hundreds mourn at child's funeral

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 people mourned Elizabeth Steinberg, a 6-year-old girl who died allegedly at the hands of her adoptive parents, and prayed that their grief and outrage could help save other little lives.

The girl's death was getting crueler and crueler, said John deBernardi, who wept Thursday as he placed a small bunch of flowers atop the casket. "It's one red rose for every year of her life."

The mourners included the girl's biological mother, Michelle Launders, who won a court fight to bury the daughter she said she had seen for only 20 seconds before giving her up for adoption.

Most of the mourners were unacquainted with the girl until the death made national headlines and her adoptive parents were charged with murder.

Elizabeth, known to family and friends as Lisa, died following three days on life-support systems after police found her Nov. 2, comatose in the Greenwich Village apartment of her adoptive father, lawyer Joel Steinberg.

"We want to believe that Lisa's death is an isolated case, a freak of nature, but yet we know that it is not," said Rabbi Dennis Math, who conducted the service with the Rev. Kevin O'Brien, a Catholic priest.

"We must risk being wrong, embarrassed, or even evoking a neighbor's anger when we feel a child is being harmed," he said.

Steinberg and his live-in lover of 17 years, Hedda Nussbaum, are Jewish; Ms. Launders is Catholic.

"Somehow in the face of innocence subject to suffering we are given a very special pain," O'Brien said. "There is a particular pain in the death of Lisa, because somehow innocence and suffering should not go together."

Ms. Launders was given custody of the body after an all-night court during which she testified, "It's not right to have my child buried by the people who killed her." A funeral home donated its services, and the Archdiocese of New York paid for the burial.

Cardinal John J. O'Connor was among the more than 1,000 visitors to the casket, surrounded by small bouquets and larger floral arrangements. Cards and letters from mourners were left beneath or atop the casket.

"To Lisa, God bless you," read a card with flowers drawn in crayon from 9-year-old Padre Smith. "I hope the angels watch over you."

O'Connor knelt for five minutes amid the cards and flowers, reading one of the letters as he bowed his head.

The mourners, many weeping, visited the white steel casket with gold ornamentation in a steady stream Thursday morning. From there, the body was taken to a cemetery in the suburb of Valhalla, where it was buried at Ms. Launders' family plot.

At Ms. Launders' request, the child was identified on her death certificate as "Baby Girl Launders, also known as Lisa."

The funeral had been delayed while Steinberg and Ms. Launders fought for the right to bury her. Surrogate Court Judge Marie Lambert had ruled there was no evidence that Steinberg and Ms. Nussbaum had ever legally adopted the child or been given custody.

Both Steinberg and Ms. Nussbaum are in custody, charged with murder and endangering the welfare of a child.

Both also face a charge of endangering the welfare of 16-month-old Mitchell, another child they claim to have adopted. Police said the boy was found strapped to a chair in the Steinberg apartment.

Police contend that Steinberg beat Elizabeth and Ms. Nussbaum, and that Ms. Nussbaum is legally responsible for not stopping the abuse.

Ms. Nussbaum, who remains hospitalized with a broken nose, broken jaw, nine broken ribs and an ulcerated leg, has denied Steinberg hit her and has told authorities Elizabeth became unconscious from choking on food.

Foundation gives little people a boost

DEAR ABBY: I saw a letter in your column advertising Tall Clubs International, so I hope you will do as much for short people. Our club, the Billy Barty Foundation for Little People, is a non-profit organization founded by Billy Barty in 1957 for anyone 4 foot 10 and under.

The foundation fights for little people's rights. It also acts as a resource center, giving information about available jobs, special clothing, shoes, health care, independent living and emotional support as well as social interaction. We welcome people of all ages, races and religions. For information about the club nearest you, write to: Billy Barty Foundation for Little People, 10954 Moorpark St., North Hollywood, Calif. 91602. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope, and be patient because we rely on volunteers to staff our office.

SHARON ALBERTS

DEAR SHARON: Here's hoping this gives "little people" a big boost.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has a 10-month-old son, and I can't believe some of the advice she's been receiving from some friends and relatives regarding disciplining her child. For example: "Never remove articles that you don't want the baby to touch. Each time he touches or grabs something he shouldn't, say NO firmly, then slap his hand. He has to learn!"

Please print your opinion.

CHICAGO GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I go along with letting a child know what he may and may not touch, but children are smart and often test their limits. So, mothers, remove your highly prized pieces, or the one who will learn the lesson will be you.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the safety of our four young children (three girls ages 8, 7 and 6, and a son almost 4). The other day we were shopping in a mall department store. While I was shopping in one part of the store, my wife took the four children to another area of the store. When I went to join her, I found the children alone in the toy section. She had left them there while she went to the catalog department, which was in another section of the building — out of sight and sound of the toy area.

I was very upset and don't feel that they should be left alone yet. She says that they can take care of themselves. Abby, the two younger ones are a handful for us, and I can't see how they can be controlled by an 8-year-old. Kidnapping, although very unlikely, is a fear of mine. Also they could get hurt, or damage something. Am I wrong?

Also, at what age can the oldest be left alone at home to baby-sit the others?

OVERPROTECTIVE FATHER
DEAR FATHER: "Overprotective"? Not in my book. Three children 7 and under should not be left in the care of an 8-year-old. Furthermore, children under 12 should not be left unsupervised in a toy department — or any other department, for that matter. Unattended children have been known to "disappear" from shopping malls and other public places.

The age at which a child is competent to look after younger siblings would depend on the level of maturity of the child. In my view, the average 8-year-old lacks four or five years to qualify.

(For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (30 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.)

Society meets members

Howard County American Cancer Society met Nov. 10, with Paula Talbot, president.

Ramona Harris presented a report on public education. Jane Thomas reported on four Howard County residents, who were provided care by the Service Rehabilitation Committee.

Susan Lewis will be the new crusade chairman, and Bobby Heath will chair a one-hole golf classic in late summer.

Lucy Bonner, Lisa Brooks, Joe Cook, Linda Elrod, Robert Wernsman, Kay McDaniels, Kyle Choate and Denise Crenwelge, new board members, were introduced.

The Texas Breast Screening Project was discussed and will be decided on in December.

Lisa Brooks will chair the Great American Smokeout. Participants in the program to date are: The Veterans Hospital, Big Spring High School, Scenic Mountain Medical Center, Law Enforcement Center, grocery stores, and KBST.

City of Big Spring will present Paula Talbot, president, a proclamation, declaring Nov. 19, 1987 "Smokeout Day" in Big Spring.

Talbot presented Elizabeth Stewart, chairman of the memorial committee, an award of merit from the American Cancer Society for a job well done.

Marcy Ritchey, American Cancer Society representative, Midland, presented a video "Let's Call it Quits," starring the Brady Bunch.

The video is available from community viewing.

A pamphlet titled, "Helping Children Understand Cancer," which is also available to the community, was presented to Jane Thomas.

Lions induct members

Evening Lions Club inducted three new members Monday during Ladies' Night at Winchester's Steak House.

Mark Maas, Alan Kernodle and James "Dick" Cunningham were inducted by Lonnie Legg, past district governor.

Rev. George von Hassell, deacon at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, presented a graphic and moving description of the devastation caused to the mind, body and soul of the mostly young AIDS victims, said Bill Birrell, reporter.

Von Hassell spent three months ministering to patients at San Francisco General Hospital as an assignment of the church, he said.

He told the group of 45 people to get ready — the plague is here now, and that he is counseling patients in the Permian Basin.

Von Hassell also told the group that total isolation from family, friends, society and even hospital personnel, is the greatest ordeal patients suffer, said Birrell.

AIDS patients have a craving for contact and attention of anyone who will dare to associate with them or even enter the hospital room to administer medical needs, he added.

He warned the group that everybody will eventually know someone or have a relative who falls victim to AIDS.

Von Hassell said, "My interest is that of a human begin answering a call for compassion."

Calendars sales to begin

The 1988 Girl Scout Calendars are here. They will be sold during November by Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts of the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

The calendar sale is a nationally-sponsored Girl Scout fundraiser, with money made from sales used to purchase supplies for their own troop.

The 1988 calendar illustrates activities that help Girl Scouts develop and practice decision-making skills. Holidays are noted on the calendar, along with time zones, area codes, and a quick glance of the 1989 year.

Wall calendars and pocket planners are available for $1.60 each. Purchasing a calendar assists Girl Scouting, Gail Earls noted.

For further information call 263-1364. The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency of the United Way. Mayor Cotton Mize has proclaimed the month of November as Girl Scout Calendar Month.

Honored citizen

Joe Pickle, author, former editor of the Herald and secretary/treasurer of the Colorado River Municipal Water District was honored Sunday with a reception for his contributions to the community. He is greeted by Melba Cauble Neel, one of about 250 people who visited the Heritage Museum for the event. Also pictured, to Pickle's immediate left, is Dorothy Neel.

Howard store wins award

The Howard College Bookstore took top honors at the Regional Bookstore convention last week in the renovated and remodeled bookstore competition. Karen Reeves, director of the Howard College Bookstore, made a presentation showing the renovation and other improvements made by the bookstore. There were 12 bookstores in the competition. The Howard College Bookstore carries not only college textbooks, but also clothes and gifts.

C-City makes schedules to observe education day

COLORADO CITY — The Wallace Community Education Advisory Council, in recognition of the Sixth Annual National Community Education Day, will sponsor a number of activities Tuesday. A poster contest will be conducted for students in kindergarten through fifth grades, and a poster or essay contest will be conducted for students in grades sixth through 12. The theme will be the "Generation Connection". Posters will be displayed on the windows of a downtown building. Older citizens are scheduled to serve as lunch room monitors at Kelley and Hutchinson elementary schools during American Education Week, Nov. 15-21. Teachers will be recognized for their dedication to education with refreshments in their respective lounges on Tuesday. Two scholarships for adults will be established for continuing education classes conducted at the Wallace Community Education Center. A free night of skating for all ages will be Nov. 20, at the center. Refreshments will be provided.

New scholarship to begin

Herald staff report
A scholarship has been established in memory of a former Big Spring High School graduate. Jane Guin Thomas, who graduated from BSHS in 1961, died in July of this year. In her memory, a scholarship fund has been established at Big Spring Education Employees Federal Credit Union. The scholarship will be awarded each year to a senior girl. Persons wishing to contribute may send donations to Wanda Driver, Sterling City Rt., Box 41-A. Acknowledgement will be sent to Thomas' husband Jackie, children Duane and Dana and parents Mr. and Mrs. Tom Guin.

Firefighter exercises given

The Howard County Volunteer Firefighters were joined by members of Volunteer Fire Departments from Big Lake and Greenwood in a Flammable Liquid Fire Control Firefighting Exercise at the Fina Oil and Chemical Refinery Saturday afternoon. Jimmie Wood, Fina Safety Supervisor, was the instructor in charge. Assistant instructors were Doc Robertson, Big Lake; Andy Glasscock, Greenwood; Jon Todd Wright, Sand Springs; and C. Roy Wright, Sand Springs. Ronnie Payne, Fina Safety Department, served as Fire Ground Safety Officer. Large volumes of heat and smoke were generated as flammable liquids, flowing from piping and vessels, were ignited. The firefighters used water streams, pushing the flames back permitting valves to be closed, stopping the flow of the burning liquids. Local firefighters participating in the training exercise represented Volunteer Fire Departments from Forsan, Silver Heels, Jonesboro, Coahoma, and Sand Springs. A total of 33 volunteers received training.

Howard seeks nominations

Howard College is now accepting applications for the Distinguished Alumni Award, presented annually to an outstanding Howard College Alumni. Nominations can be made by contacting Dr. Cheri Sparks at Howard College, 267-6311 ext. 229. The award will be presented during the homecoming celebration January 28-30, 1988.

School rewards attendance

Herald staff report
Five College Heights Elementary School students received cash prizes today for perfect attendance during October. The prizes were awarded as an incentive to encourage perfect attendance during October, when the State Board of Education determines average daily attendance to determine how much funding schools will receive, Principal M.A. Barber said. Barber said College Heights had an average daily attendance of 96.64 percent during October. Of the school's 312 students, 205 had perfect attendance records from Oct. 5 to Oct. 30, he said. Those students were eligible to participate in a drawing to win awards of $5 each. The winners were Julie Vasquez, first grade; Janell Olague, first grade; Jacob Anderson, first grade; Raul Gomez, third grade; and Samantha Mesker, third grade.

Big Spring's harriers heading for state

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Coach Randy Britton's boys' cross country squad has scored the first trip to state competition in the history of Big Spring High School.

"We had all seven runners set personal records," Britton said of his team's Saturday performance in the regional meet in the Mae Simmons Park in Lubbock. "We had a junior record broken. Ben Gonzales ran a 15:39."

"He was nipped at the tape," Britton continued. "It could have gone either way. In the judges' eyes, the kid from Canyon probably beat him by a half inch."

"Ben ran a 15:39 and the winner ran a 15:39, and the automatic timer would have separated the tenths or hundredths, but it didn't."

Britton, though, remains happy with his team's work. "Ben's performance is an exceptional time.

The whole boys' team turned in their best times of the year." Joining Gonzales is James McMillan, Chris Polyniak, Shawn Daylong, Joel Price, Mario Ramos and Tim Pruitt.

Big Spring's girls finished 18 points out of the hunt for a state berth as a team. "All but one of the girls had personal records," Britton said. "And she was very close to her best time, but she's been injured all year."

"She gave a heck of a great effort, but her cardiovascular system just wasn't strong enough," he said of Rocky Alviar. She is the girls' lone veteran of a previous season in cross country.

Mimi Regalado, the standout freshman harrier, will be going to state on the strength of her individual performance. Britton said her sister Yvette, a sophomore, missed a trip to state by a single place and junior Susan Garza missed by two places.

"They ran every bit as good as the boys," Britton said. "Of the 14 runners we took (to Lubbock), 13 set personal records."

Mimi Regalado set a school record by turning in a 12:44 in the meet, her personal best time ever, Britton said. Cross country girls' courses are two miles in length, boys' three.

The girls' team improved its performance over last year by placing fourth in the region. In 1986 the harriers came in eighth.

The boys this year also sent six first-year runners into competition. "It says something about their character," Britton said. "We only had one runner returning on the boys' team, and the rest of them were new. They really did a good job."

He said he felt the team's training had worked out well for the regional track meet. "It was just a matter of doing the right thing in training and of motivation on their part," he said of his runners.

"I did tell them I didn't want Andrews to beat us out of a trip to state," he said, referring to the Andrews harriers' outpacing of his team at the district meet two weeks ago.

"Andrews beat us in district, but we did a better job in regional and it paid off. We beat Andrews by 10 points and we're going to state."

Britton's expectations of his harriers in Georgetown have moderated slightly. "You can't run well and win the first time you go to a state meet," he said. "Just because of the size of the meet, you can't. But these kids will go and then next year, if they go again, which they should, they'll have that experience."

Don't think he's giving up on his squad, though. Britton still wants his runners to receive the recognition their grueling training and tough event deserve.

"A lot of people don't understand this sport, and it takes a backseat to other fall sports," he said. "It always will, I guess, and I'm getting resigned to that."

"But these kids represent Big Spring High School, just like any other team would, and they're going to go to state and do a good job."

Coach Eudy leaves BSBS

Big Spring High School head football coach Quinn Eudy has resigned. The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees voted to accept the resignation Thursday.

Eudy will coach the team in tonight's game against the Andrews-Mustangs. Beginning Monday, he will be on leave of absence through Aug. 31, 1988, the date his resignation becomes effective.

Eudy declined to comment on the resignation early today but said he would comment at a later time. He has been a coach with BSBS for eight years and head football coach for the past six. In 1986 Eudy's Big Spring Steers won the team's first district crown in 33 years with a 9-2 season and advanced to the playoffs.

Rebels slam host team in Hawk Tournament, 63-50

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks must have wondered if someone had sneaked out at halftime and nailed a door over the basket while they were in the dressing room.

It seemed the Hawks couldn't hit a basket in the second half; 17 points back that up. Those 17 points weren't nearly enough as the Hill Rebels defeated Howard 63-50 in the third game of the Hawk Tournament at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Thursday night.

In other tournament action, Cisco outgunned Western Texas 108-98, Blinn defeated Kilgore 59-54 and Midland College downed Trinity Valley 70-59.

Howard will play Kilgore at 2 p.m. today.

Howard never really shot the ball well in the game. The Hawks struggled through the first half, but they still managed to take a 33-26 lead. The pressure smaller Rebels didn't burn the nets up themselves, but they worked hard to beat Howard on the boards and shot 45 percent from the floor and 80 percent from the line.

While Howard was forcing turnovers, Hill stayed in the first half by getting the offensive boards. The Rebels outrebounded Howard 19-12 in the first half and 41-25 in the game.

It was a cold start and Hill took a 16-14 lead with 9:48 left in the first half.

Howard then took control of the game with a trapping press. Miller started the rally with a steal and a nifty pass to the 6-4 Pettigrew, who promptly slammed home a two-hander. Troy Sims ended the rally with a baseline jumper and a free throw.

By the time the rally was over Howard led 26-16 with 4:19 left in the half.

That was Howard's last blaze of glory though. In the first 10 minutes of the second half, the Hawks made just two of 13 field goals and fell behind 40-37.

The rest of the game saw Hill forward Leroy Rodgers and reserve guard Marcus Haynes slowly put Howard away. Before fouling out late in the game, the 6-4 Rodgers collected game highs with 20 points and 11 rebounds. Haynes came off the bench and scored 13 points and dished out three assists.

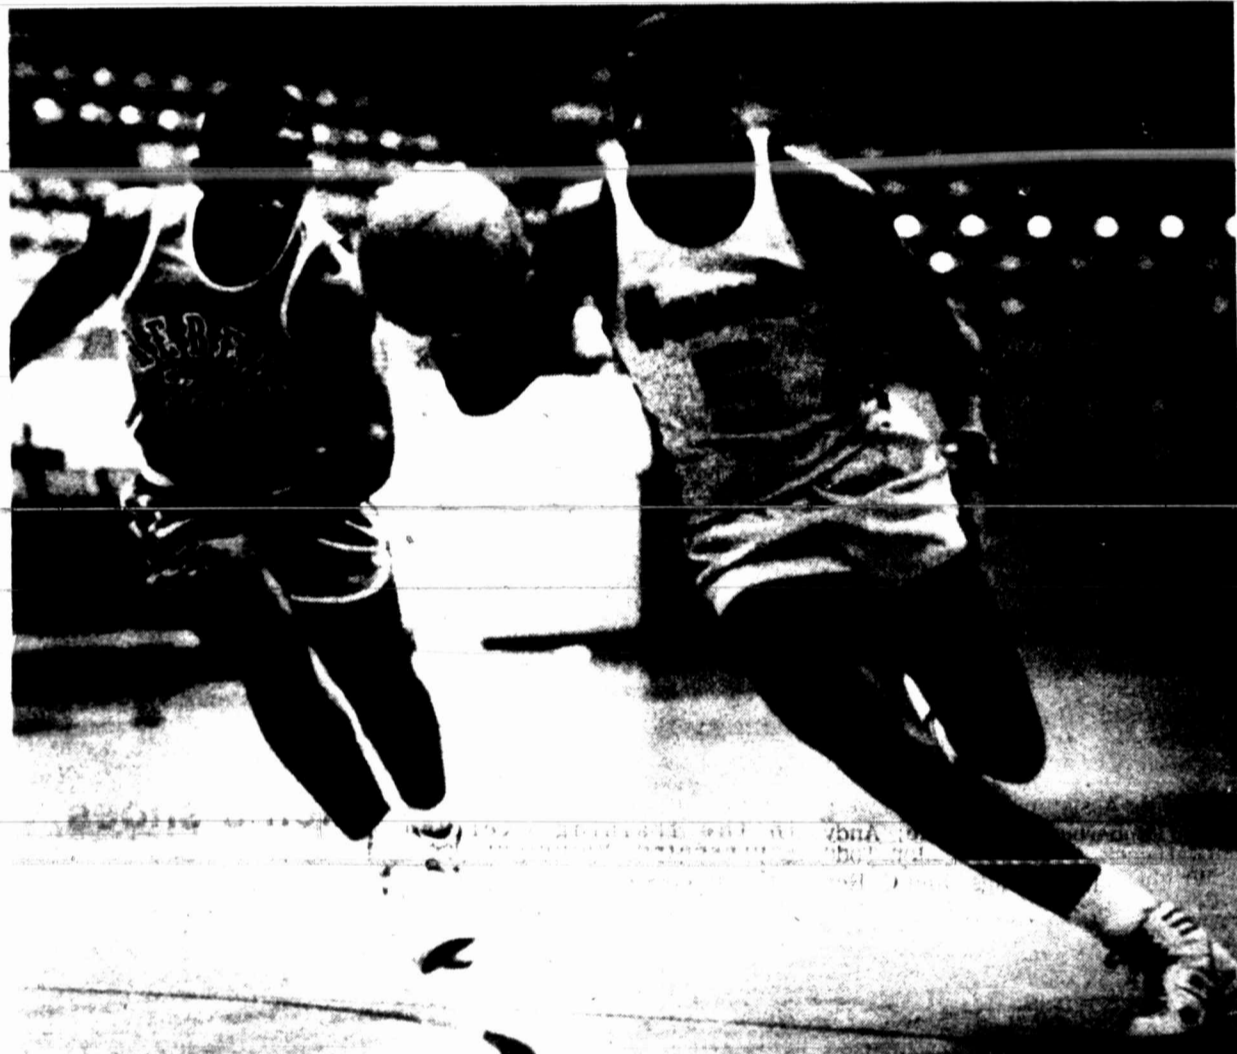

"If we had kept our poise and not fouled so much at the end we might have had a chance," said Howard coach Jerry Kassin. "They had a good game plan. They kept us from running. We've got to play better defense though. Of course it's hard to stay in any game when you shoot like we did tonight."

Miller and Sims led Howard in scoring with 11 points each. Sims and Jerrod Elliott each grabbed six boards.

Sherman Petite, a 6-3 forward, also played a strong game for Hill, finishing with eight rebounds, 11 points and three steals.

Hill is now 2-1 for the season. Howard falls to 2-3.

defense was the key. The Hawks caused 20 turnovers. Guards Larry Pettigrew and Chris Miller led the way, combining for seven steals in the game.

Even then Howard shot only 39 percent. But 39 percent was lovely compared to what the Hawks suffered through in the second half. In the last 20 minutes of play Howard made just seven of 31 shots for 22 percent.

While Howard was struggling, Hill was steady. The Queens' improvement against Cisco women falls short

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

For the third time this year, the Howard College Hawk Queens fell to the Cisco Junior College women's basketball team. In the first round of the Odessa College tournament Thursday night, Cisco defeated Howard by a score of 53-47.

According to Queens coach Don Stevens, this slim defeat at the hands of the Cisco women is a big improvement over the last time his reconstituted team faced the Cisco squad.

"They've beaten us three times, but this time we really improved against them," he said. He gave credit for the improvement to a new defensive scheme.

"Last time, they beat us by 27 points," Stevens said. "So we threw in a new defense and it really helped us a lot."

"We played in a triangle plus two defense," he said. "That's a three-man zone with man to man defense on their hottest shooters."

The scheme worked through the first half, keeping the Queens within four at the break.

Stevens said his team had not shot well all night, but in the second stanza the shooting really soured for the Howard women, who finished with nine of 31 second-half shots.

"That's ridiculously low percentage shooting," Stevens said.

Stevens said standout Stefanie Massie had a fine game again, drawing 15 rebounds off the boards to go with her 18 points, which led the team.

"We did something they hadn't seen in a long time on defense," Stevens said. "It confused 'em, and their point production went way down."

As a team the Queens outrebounded Cisco Junior College 30 to 21. In the second half, the margin on the boards was 16 to nine.

Stevens said the game overall was a big turnaround for his team, especially considering their last match. The Cisco squad slaughtered the nearly-benchless

STEFANIE MASSIE

DON STEVENS

Queens in that one during Howard's home opener earlier this week.

"Twenty-one percent in the second half," Stevens said. "That's ridiculously low shooting; we didn't shoot well all night, and that's what we have to work on next."

"I tell my kids we can stay in any game if we play good defense and rebound well, and that's what they did. That's about all we're doing, right now," Stevens said.

He said the turnover problem has come back to haunt the Queens, who gave up the ball 27 times while receiving charity from Cisco only 21 times.

Seventeen turnovers came in the first half, and the Queens were still down only 28-24, Stevens said.

Had one or two of his players only had faintly better nights, Stevens said, the Queens could have won their first game this year.

Instead, with no backup players available, the Howard College team came up short.

Reneae Crooks scored five points and played very well in the game, as did consistently powerful Stefanie Massie, Stevens said.

Best work for the night in the loss came from Massie, with 18 points, none from the free-throw line, and freshman post Karen Mitchell. The Louisiana rookie tossed four from the field including a three point play and added five from the charity stripe to total 13 points in the game.

Cindy Johnson contributed three from the floor for six total points and Callie Cooley added one shot.

Stevens said the Queens will face Western Texas College's women today at 2 p.m.

Win or lose, the Howard women play again Saturday but the time and opponent in that tilt depend upon today's results in tournament play.

Howard (47) — Rankin 0 0 0; Crooks 13 5; Johnson 3 0 6; Massie 9 0 18; Cooley 1 0 2; Mitchell 4 5 13; totals 18 8 47.

Cisco (53) — Upshaw 1 0 2; Carruthers 4 2 10; Laryssa Bliss 1 1 3; Scott 2 0 4; Wilkinson 1 0 2; Tiemann 6 0 12; Schoemer 5 0 10; Simmons 4 2 10; totals 24 5 53.

Three Points — Howard (Mitchell).

Halftime — Cisco 28, Howard 24.

When the Sands Mustangs and Jayton Jaybirds battle in their six-man zone playoff game tonight at 7:30 in Post, it may be a case of the walking wounded playing each other.

Both teams will bring banged-up squads into the contest, with the winner advancing to the bi-district playoffs.

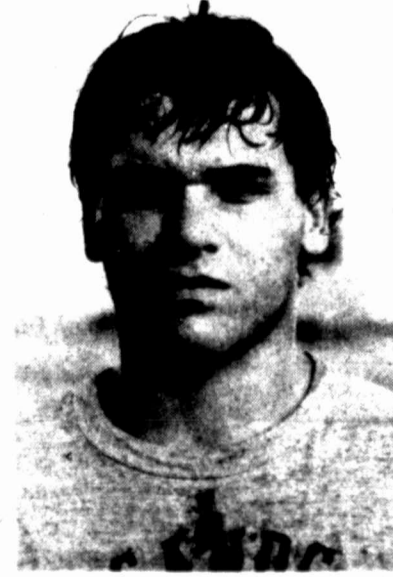

Sands comes into the contest with an 8-2 record. The Mustangs tied with Wellman and Loop for the 4-A West Zone championship; Sands advanced as district champ via a coin flip. The Jaybirds bring a 7-2 record into the game. They finished behind 4-A East Zone winner Trent.

Both teams are familiar with each other. The two met in the season opener in September, and Jayton scored two fourth quarter TD's to take a 40-27 victory.

But now both teams enter Friday's contest with hobbled squads.

The Mustangs had six of their starters injured in their season finale against Grady last week, but Sands' coach Sid McCowan is expecting all of them to play tonight.

"Ole Grady beat us up," said the first-year Sands coach. "We're still recovering from that game."

JAY FRYAR

"We've still got a couple of ankles bothering us some," said McCowan.

Two big blows to the Sands cause will be the losses of WR-DE Chad Nichols and RB-LB Jay Fryar. Nichols underwent knee surgery three weeks ago. Fryar suffered a concussion two weeks ago and is doubtful for tonight, said McCowan.

Fryar has been Sands' leading rusher and passer for the past two seasons. Before he was injured, he was averaging more than 250 yards total offense per game, not to mention being the team's leading tackler.

Last week Damien Zarate filled in well for Fryar. The junior runner rushed for 218 yards in 21 carries, plus three touchdowns.

"Losing Fryar makes us adjust our game plan," said McCowan. "We won't be conservative. We'll open it up."

The Jaybirds will be hampered because starting running back Steven Morales is nursing a cracked bone in his ankle. Jayton coach Phil Mitchell said that Morales would try to play on the ankle tonight, though.

This season the 6-1, 175-pound Morales gained more than 1,000 yards and was the Jaybirds' offensive

Big Spring (5-4, 4-3) at Andrews (3-3-1, 4-4-1)

Season finale for both teams. A win for the Steers could mean a third place. A win for the Mustangs could mean the difference between fourth and fifth place.

Along with Fort Stockton, Andrews has been the surprise team in the district. They are coming off an emotional 38-7 loss to Sweetwater last week. Although the 22-14 score doesn't indicate it, the Steers totally dominated Snyder behind the strong legs of Charles White and a nasty defense.

This week will be more of the same. Look for White to carry 30-plus times and the Steer defense to go out in a blaze of glory.

Religion roundup
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Dear Ronnie," began the letter signed by 800 members of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in which President Reagan was reared in his boyhood days in Dixon, Ill. The letter, to which signatures were gathered at the denomination's recent assembly here, urges Reagan to "listen to the message of the church, instead of depending upon advice from the Pentagon and the merchants of war material." It asks Reagan "how our Christian faith can justify your actions" in these policies among others: Use of violence rather than negotiations as an instrument of foreign policy in Grenada, Libya, the Persian Gulf and Nicaragua; funding of Strategic Defense Initiative ("Star Wars") at the expense of the poor and homeless, which could force the country "toward national bankruptcy."
 TECHNY, Ill. (AP) — The United Church of Christ is the first major Protestant denomination to join in urging a boycott of Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum and its subsidiary, Shell Oil U.S.A., to protest sales in South Africa. Numerous Protestant and Catholic groups, below denominational level, and labor groups have called for such a boycott, as has the Unitarian Universalist Association, a relatively small denomination. The American company emphasizes that it has no operations in South Africa, and that it and the umbrella company, Royal Dutch Shell, firmly oppose apartheid. The UCC action was taken by its executive council, interim policy-making body.

THE LESSONS OF OUR FAITH SHOULD BE TAKEN HOME WITH US
 We are continually urged to attend our House of Worship, and those of us with the wisdom to realize that we need a higher source of comfort and guidance than we can obtain on earth will take this advice. However, the lessons we learn there are of little value unless we carry them with us and put them into practice the other six days of the week. This can be done in many little ways which are nonetheless important; like holding a door open for someone, or thanking the person who does it for you. Or stopping to help someone who has just dropped an armload of packages. Or just being polite and cordial to everyone. Doing these things can start a chain reaction of good humor and can even help you bring yourself out of a depressed mood. The Bible tells us to "love thy neighbor," and these everyday acts of kindness must surely be included in this Scriptural mandate.

Christian surf band makes waves for Jesus

HOUSTON (AP) — Move over, Annette Funicello. Houston's own surf band, Surfside Witness, a female, Christian version of the Beach Boys, rides through today's waves of secularism on the surfboard of the Gospel.

The group is making its waves in the Bayou City, no less. And the sextet is finding that the plains-and-bayou region — though not a surfing mecca of California or Hawaii proportions — likes the musicians' breezy, informal combination of endless summer, sand and sincere Christianity.

The songs are sacred and surf-oriented, with such titles as "Surfin' With The Savior," "Surfer Girls," "California Christmas," "Bible Beach" (to music by Chuck Berry) and "Sunday School Dropout." The patter between numbers at their concerts, generally presented at churches, is soft-sell evangelical Christianity, with testimonies from the six earnest young women behind their microphones and guitars.

"I used to be sooo dumb and sooo judgmental of other people," lead singer Nan Salinas, 25, told listeners at a recent concert. "Jesus made me realize how ugly that was."

Instead of blunting the gospel, the ever-popular, never-dying appeal of surf music seems to disarm people enough to listen to an old story.

"God uses the foolish things of the world to confound the wise," said Nan, who is also the group's songwriter. Originally intending to write standard rock 'n' roll, all she could come up with was surf music.

"Well," she said, "the songs may be silly, but the message isn't silly. We've been well received. I've never had anyone not liking us."

"Once we start talking, people realize we are learned in the Word," said Nan's sister, Elizabeth, 18, who plays the drums. "When they hear of a female Christian band, people think that's kind of dingy."

Surfside Witness, a female Christian version of the Beach Boys, poses on Galveston Beach.

Another truth has surfaced as Surfside Witness has developed. Concerning musical styles, beach is harder than Bach, says Nancy, who defines surf music as a blending of harmonies with at least four parts, a melodic lead and a falsetto lead.

Once it's all worked out, however, Surfside Witness has a sound all its own. They're not Amy Grant or Sandi Patti, two well-known evangelical female Christian vocalists, but the women know their beach background. Old surf movies and television shows are stored at home on videocassettes. Their favorites are old Gidget reruns. They've memorized the winners of the old surf classic competitions and the names of great Hawaiian surfers.

The band was started by Nancy, Elizabeth and their sister Mona, 20, who have been singing since their California childhood. Their first venture into a recording studio was 12 years ago when their mother, Ann Salinas, recorded a solo gospel album in Fresno.

The Salinas children, eight of them in all, grew up in the Escondido Valley north of San Diego and dedicated their lives to Christ in their late teens. The family relocated to Houston, where Ann and her husband, Ernest Salinas, are pastors of the non-denominational West End Community Church just east of Memorial Park.

About four years ago, the sisters formed a surf band, chiefly because nothing like what they had in mind existed. Nan, who was trained at the Houston Conservatory of Music, was the chief songwriter. Three other members — Rebecca Steele, 19; Kim Littlejohn, 18; and Sara Colburn, 19 — have since joined. Kim is a student at a local college and the other five women work.

The result of their labors is more than a sanctified rendition of "Bikini Beach," "Pajama Party," or "Where the Boys Are." All of the performers are born-again Christians who use anecdotes from the youth culture during performances. They make jokes about rock groups such as Motley Crue, then offer to talk or pray with concertgoers after the music ends.

But do they surf? The three sisters occasionally do, and Nancy's board is a fluorescent yellow with "Jesus Saves" painted on it in hot-pink lettering.

Despite the casual, fun-loving nature of surf songs, the band members are very conservative young women who will give up a secular job if it means working on a Sunday and will rarely date because of calls for their ministry.

But during performances, they are laid back, sometimes poking fun at one another between numbers, before whirling off into another number in their breathless, girlish sopranos.

"We used to not be Christians, and we know what's out there," said Nan. "And we know there's nothing out there."

In God's eyes older people are useful

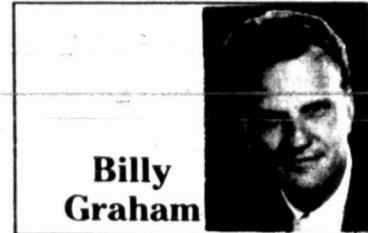

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think older people are useless? It seems like our society has little use for older people, yet I certainly don't feel like being put on a shelf, although I am in my late 70's. — Mrs. E.R.

DEAR MRS. E.R.: No, in God's eyes older people are not useless — not at all. Some of the greatest men and women in the Bible were older when they did their greatest work — people like Abraham, Moses and the Apostle John. Anna, a godly widow who was 84 years old, was given the privilege of welcoming the infant Jesus to the temple and "spoke about the child to all who were looking forward to the redemption of Jerusalem" (Luke 2:38). And throughout the history of the Church some of God's choicest servants have been older men and women.

The Bible says, "Is not wisdom found among the aged? Does not long life bring understanding?" (Job 12:12). It also declares, "Gray hair is a crown of splendor; it is attained by a righteous life" (Proverbs 16:31). Those who are younger need the wisdom of those who have learned from life's experiences, and from God's dealings with them. We would not have so many problems in our world if we had listened to the wisdom of those who have lived longer.

That does not mean, of course, that you can necessarily do all the things you once did. But God is not finished with you — if He were, He would take you to heaven right now. Some of those who've helped my ministry the most have been older people who've been faithful in praying for me and my work. I've also gained immeasurably over the years from the wisdom and spiritual insights of older men and women.

Don't believe you are useless, for God still wants to use you. Have you asked Him to show you ways you can be used by Him to pray for others, and encourage and help them?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I doubt if even God can straighten out the mess I've made of my life. Years ago I decided I didn't want to bother with God (or have God bother with me), and I wanted to run my own life. Well, it was a mistake and all I've done is miss out on any real happiness and security. — W.W.

DEAR W.W.: One reason I've printed your question is because there are many, many people today in danger of falling into your condition. Right now they are deliberately leaving God out of their lives, thinking they can avoid Him and not suffer any consequences for their actions. But — as you've discovered — that is not true, and perhaps your testimony will warn them of the dangers of turning their backs on God. The Bible warns, "Do not be deceived; God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction" (Galatians 6:7-8).

You cannot rewrite the past. But God loves you, and He wants to make the future different. He wants to forgive you for your sins, and He also wants to come into your life and put your feet on a different path. He wants to give you hope for the future, and help you discover the joy of knowing Him in a personal way. How can this happen? It can happen because Jesus Christ went to the cross to die for your sins.

First Baptist Church hosts revival

First Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy Dr., will host revival services Sunday at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. Revivals will be conducted Monday through Wednesday, with a luncheon at 11:45 a.m. and revival services at 7 p.m., said Mike Couch, minister of administration/program coordinator.

Evangelist Vince Cervera, Greenville S.C., will lead the revivals.

He was born in New Orleans, La., and was called to preach as a teenager, said Couch.

Cervera has traveled an average of 50,000 miles per year in the last 15 years, conducting over 400 revivals, he added.

"His message is as old as the Bible. His appeal to young people is truly remarkable," said Couch.

"His methods, winsome personality and dynamic preaching have combined to make him a popular evangelist," he concluded.

Chairman says revival a success

Lamesa Baptist Association hosted revivals in Preixides and Colonia Esperanza, Chih., Mexico July 11-17, said Dick Butchee, missions involvement chairman.

The association has taken groups to conduct revivals for the past 20 years, he said.

"People came and came until there wasn't standing room," he added. At Preixides the average in attendance at Vacation Bible School was 427.

And approximately 405 people attended services in Colonia Esperanza. This year three people were baptized, said Butchee.

"It (the revival) was a success because so many people were saved," he added.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:
Clear up all of the odd jobs and other chores which you've let accumulate lately, then attend to your usual Saturday fare such as shopping. Write down any ideas you have so they're not forgotten.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be extra helpful to anyone asking for assistance today, as you will soon be repaid for your kindness. Pay attention to details.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Pay some special attention to your mate, as this person is feeling a little bit neglected. Be very cautious while driving tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your house in shape today so you can invite family and friends in tonight for some pleasant entertainment and much laughter.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get an early start on your chores this morning so there will be plenty of time for fun later. Don't, however, exhaust yourself.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) An expert can help you set up an efficient, but easily followed, budget. Make any repairs which are needed around your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Repay old friends who have been very helpful in the past by inviting them over for dinner and entertainment later tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more understanding of your mate. Help this person remove obstacles which are interfering with progress and causing a bad mood.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) With a little help from your friends, you can achieve some constructive goals. Be wary of any fire hazards around your house.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An opportunity to indulge in a long-forgotten recreation will present itself. Try to get your mate involved in this as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek out the information which is necessary before you charge into a new situation. Consider the consequences of your actions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your accounts in order today, and keep a sharp eye out for errors. Enjoy a mutually-appreciated entertainment with your mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This is a good day to get together with some cooperative business associates and talk over the coming week's activities.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will be very conscientious and methodical, paying unusually close attention to details, and would do well in architecture, electrical engineering or a computer-related profession. Stress the "golden rule," as your progeny may not always think of others.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
