Nottingham sheriff visits in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The sheriff of Nottingham came to New York wearing beaver fur and lace and telling tales of Robin Hood. His Big Apple counterpart, who wore a business suit, looked impressed.

"We're awed," New York City Sheriff Vincent M. Pharo admitted Monday. "I'm here 31 years, and this is the first time something like this has happened."

New York has had a sheriff since 1619, according to Pharo. Nottingham's dates 1,000 years, says current holder Councillor Roye Young.

"Go anywhere in the world and people know two cities in England by their posts: the lord mayor of London and the sheriff of Nottingham," Young said.

Robin Hood helped make the Nottingham sheriff's post the stuff of legend in the 12th century with clever escapes to Sherwood Forest after robbing the rich and giving to the poor.

Iran-Contra report criticizes Reagan

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Iran-Contra committees concluded in their final report that President Reagan failed in his duty to see that the law was obeyed, but minority Republicans today dismissed the document as a partisan indictment.

The committees' final report, due out Wednesday, paraphrases the Constitution in saying Reagan failed to "see that the laws are faithfully executed," according to a Senate committee source, who spoke Monday on condition of anonymity.

The language is a paraphrase of the Constitution's description of the president's duties. Article 2, Section 3 says "he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

There was sharp debate among committee members about whether to include such criticism in the final report. Ultimately that language was left in the final document, although other criticism of Reagan was softened substantially, the source said.

However, eight minority Republicans on the Iran-Contra committees still objected to the final report. They said in a dissent that the majority reached "hysterical conclusions," according to a 28-page summary of the minority report released today.

The majority, "having failed to find the evidence of an impeachable offense which many of its members sought, has now, regrettably, come forward with a partisan indictment of this president and his administration," the GOP members said in a critique. The minority report says errors made by the Reagan administration in the Iran-Contra affair were "mistakes in judgment and nothing more," and that there was "no constitutional crisis, no systematic disrespect for the rule of law, no grand conspiracy and no administration-wide dishonesty or cover-up."

Meanwhile, the White House said today that Reagan is preparing

Check fee to begin at schools

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

FORSAN — The Forsan Independent School District Board of Trustees has voted to implement a fee of $15 per check for returned checks.

According to superintendent of schools J.F. Poynor, the problem of returned checks has become a recurrent headache for the district.

"In the bookkeeping area it's a real nightmare," Poynor said. The district has been receiving approximately $120 per month in bad checks, averaging $20 in face value.

In order to have the checks collected, the district must first notify the person writing the check by certified mail and then wait 10 days before turning the matter over to the county attorney.

Poynor said the checks were issued in payment for a variety of items ranging from cafeteria meals to school annuals. He said these checks were a separate issue from checks for school taxes.

In addition to the fee, the school board voted to refuse further checks from individuals writing three returned checks during one school year.

The trustees also voted to appoint the following persons to the textbook committee: J.F. Poynor, Zimmalew Boeker, Vesta Shoults, Brenda White, Mary Hartin, Ida Flowers, Carol Hope, Johnny Schafer, Kurt White, Dava Johnson, Terressa Smith, Johnny McGregor, Doug Parker and Jann Stevens.

The board voted to continue consideration of long-distance telephone service for the school district and consideration of adding theft insurance to high-dollar value items such as computers and video equipment pending further information.

Trustees also voted to accept the 1986-87 audit. In a related matter, the board also decided to rehire the auditors who prepared the document, Stallings & Herm, P.C., certified public accountants, of Stanton.

Discussion of the proposed policy on communicable diseases was also continued. During the next meeting, the board will view videotapes used by the Big Spring School District in training person-

Farmers reap harvest of compassion

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Twelve cotton strippers kicked up a dusty red cloud as they rolled in tight formation across the sandy loam soil in a field just across the Howard County line north of Vealmoor Monday.

The men behind the machines were L.D. Smith's neighbors and they were there because Smith needed help.

It is a harvest of compassion. Five weeks ago Smith, a Borden County cotton farmer, became ill with an enlarged pancreas. Since then, he has received two operations and remains hospitalized in Dallas.

As Smith lay ill — his 2,000-acre cotton crop was growing to maturity. Failure to pluck the crop from the field and get it to the gin would mean further financial hardship for Smith and his family.

Early Monday 25 men arrived at Smith's cotton field. They came with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of harvest equipment — and a priceless concern for their neighbor's well being.

By noon, 70 tight white bales of cotton dotted the field.

"This is a great thing. I know L.D. will appreciate it," said Smith's son-in-law Jimmy Foster as he watched the cotton strippers roll across the field.

"A fellow doesn't know how many good neighbors he has until something happens and he needs help... then he finds out he has more than he thought he had," Foster said.

Among those who came to Smith's aid were Joe Don Zant and Tommy and Jerry Staggs of Vealmoor.

"I'm here because I've been L.D.'s neighbor all my life. I'm gathering his crop because he can't. If any one of us were sick, he'd be the first one there to help," Zant said.

"We're just neighbors helping neighbors," Tommy Staggs said.

Pat Porter, another lifelong friend of Smith's, pitched in by preparing a beef and bean lunch for the men tending Smith's crops.

"It makes me feel good to live in this part of the country," Porter said about the display of friendship and concern.

After a few minutes of food and fellowship, they returned to the work.

Lee Smith, brother of Borden County cotton farmer L.D. Smith, above, receives a plateful of beef from Pat Porter. Below, cotton strippers stir up dust as they roll across L.D.'s field. Twenty-five neighbors are harvesting the 2,000-acre cotton crop Monday and today. L.D., who has undergone two operations recently, is hospitalized in Dallas.

Calvin Crenshaw, superintendent of the Texas Youth Commission home and school for violent offenders listens to a resident in his Giddings office. The school has been described as a Holiday Inn.

Reform school Inmate says it's a summer camp

EDITOR'S NOTE — Thirteen years ago Texas reform schools were ordered to undergo dramatic changes to end what a federal judge called "a history of brutality." Those changes prompted complaints that the Texas system of juvenile justice is too lenient. Last spring, the Legislature attempted to address those problems. In the third part of this series, The Associated Press takes a look at the institution where the most violent juveniles are housed and talks to a judge who handles juvenile criminal cases and who believes the Legislature should do still more.

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
GIDDINGS (AP) — Texas keeps 300 killers, rapists and other violent young criminals at a placid setting where there is an indoor pool, comfortable dorms, no guns and nobody who is called a guard. "It's like a Holiday Inn to me, just like a summer camp," said a 15-year-old girl who helped kill her mother. Calvin Crenshaw, superintendent of the Texas Youth Commission home and school for violent offenders, said he wants life here to be as easy and rewarding as the juvenile criminals choose to make it. But a 12-foot fence that rings the grounds serves as a reminder that this is not a Holiday Inn. Still, it is a far cry from the Texas reform schools of 20 years ago, in which former inmates claimed they were brutalized and filed a successful lawsuit, sparking a series of court-ordered reforms.

"We do not like to make people do things here. We like for them to do it because they feel it's going to be beneficial to them. At the Texas Department of Corrections, my understanding is that the choices are over. You do exactly what you're told," Crenshaw said.

TYC statistics for the past three years show that 27.5 percent of the youths released from Giddings were either sent back to youth facilities or to the adult prison system. That is about the same rate of repeat offenders as at TYC halfway houses and other facilities housing less violent offenders.

Margy Thompson, 118th District chief juvenile probation officer, said she supports the programs at Giddings.

"I believe you need structure," she said.

Coahoma board to boost tax collections

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Discussions on the 1986-87 audit and ways to increase delinquent tax collection highlighted the school district Board of Trustees meeting Monday evening.

The trustees also elected Harold Pearce to the country tax appraisal district board of directors during its regular meeting at the Board Room.

The audit was presented by Big Spring Certified Public Accountant Steven Stone. He noted the district had accrued a cash balance in the general fund of $46,010, and a balance in the debt service fund of $14,042.

If cash from investments are added, the district has a total revenue balance of $430,827 in both funds, Stone noted.

Assets from the general and debt service funds equalled $658,713, while liabilities from the funds totalled $179,502 for the previous school year, he added.

In discussing delinquent tax collections, the board decided that, while such collection efforts in Coahoma are excellent, more can be done in the area. Superintendent Gary Rotan said after the meeting that the district lists about $200,000 in unpaid taxes on its rolls. While some of the debtors have not been located, other addresses are known by the district, he added.

Board President Jim Wright said the district should be more diligent in collecting oil royalty revenue owed by debtors.

"A good percentage of delinquent taxes is oil royalties," he said. "If we slap some liens on those, or hold up some royalty checks, we'll get their attention."

Both Rotan and board member Guy White were quick to note, however, that the district's tax collector, Myrtle Burns, was doing a good job in collecting back taxes.

"We collect about 98 percent of taxes owed to the district," Rotan said. "That's way above average." White also commended Burns' efforts, saying Coahoma's were better than others in the area.

Rotan said he would contact the district's tax attorneys to express the board's desires that more effort be put into locating persons owing delinquent mineral rights. Pearce will receive all of the district's 889 votes to the appraisal district board of directors. He needed 836 votes to secure a spot, Rotan said.

In other business, the board:

- Approved adoption of a local policy concerning the promotion, retention and placement of students.

Rotan said this morning that the program is mandated by the state board of education as an alternative to normal promotion procedures. The local district will use all of its remedial and compensatory programs in an effort to pass the student on to the next grade, he added.

- Decided to resubmit bids on houses owned by the district. Rotan noted that only one bid had been received by the school. That bid — $2,000 by Betty Land — was rejected.

The new bids will be on three houses in Coahoma: 408 N. Fifth St.; 409 N. Fifth St.; and 213 N. Fifth St., Rotan said.

- Approved naming Texas School Services Foundation, Austin, as the carrier for the district's legal liability insurance.

nel and educating students, parents and teachers regarding Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

During discussion of this issue, board president Robert Patterson and board member Jim Alexander addressed the potential danger of lawsuits resulting from exposure to the disease in the school.

"I should think that if a child contracted the disease at school, and no one had been warned (that exposure was possible), it would be a very (litigious) situation," Alexander said. "It seems to me there should be some liability on the part of the person who presents that danger (of exposure)."

Patterson said the primary point he discerned in the legal opinions regarding the matter involved discrimination.

"The way we have to treat it, (to comply with the law) is that, when you say, 'Which kid has AIDS?' then every kid who bleeds has AIDS, every kid who vomits has AIDS, every kid who has a spill of body fluids," Patterson said. "You must treat them all the same."

In other business the board voted to:

- Approve the minutes of the previous meeting; accept financial report, and pay the district's bills.
- Continue consideration of staffing for the 1988-89 school year.

- Adopt a local policy establishing guidelines for conditional promotion of students who have not passed their work requirements but can no longer be made to repeat a grade level under state law.

- Rejoin the TASS/TASA personnel services.

- Join the Coalition for Finance Reform organization, providing the dues of the organization do not exceed $1,000.

The board had scheduled discussion of the Texas Education Agency accreditation report, but the district has not yet received it.

In a related matter, however, the board decided to continue consideration of the student/teacher ratios in the elementary school and consideration of the mandatory programs for gifted children and students at risk of dropping out.

"Structure and discipline is what they don't get at home."

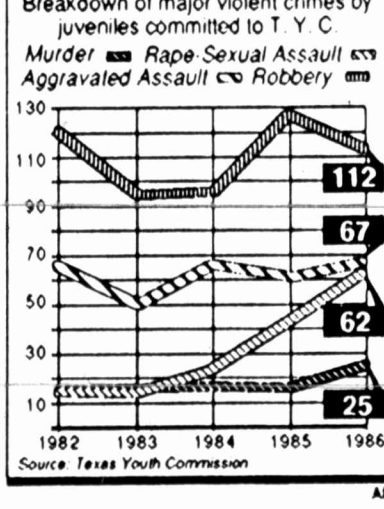

Nine community halfway houses around the state are part of the court-ordered reforms.

"There are ... no weapons on this campus. There are guards, but we don't call them guards. We call them youth program supervisors. Everybody here is responsible for supervision of students, including myself," Crenshaw said.

The facility, about 55 miles east of Austin, has a bank of small cells, known as "security," used for recalcitrant residents who need to cool off. Other than that, its low buildings and well-kept grounds give it the look of a small community college.

"It's just like you're in another town somewhere. You just adjust," said a 17-year-old offender from a small town. "It's only hard if you make it hard on yourself." The buildings' pleasant facades, like the residents' youthful faces, belie the problems housed here.

"We're talking robbery, aggravated robbery, assault, aggravated assault, arson, rape, murder," Crenshaw said.

"I look at them and I wonder, 'What is he doing here. He don't look like a violent offender,'" said a 17-year-old boy, a well-muscled athlete who speaks openly about his problems.

Vocational teacher John Gordon said he knows well that peculiar feeling that greets new students and teachers.

"They say these are violent offenders. The first time you're on campus you're a little shaky," Gordon said as his wood-working students worked with power tools. "Knock on wood, I've been here three years and I haven't had a problem."

The programs are helpful, said Thompson, because the juveniles learn a useful trade such as carpentry or car mechanics.

Most of the students are 15 or 16. The youngest is 13. The minimum stay is 11 months. Murderers spend at least two years. Under a new state law, some could stay until age 21.

males; rarely are there more than 20 girls at the facility, Thompson said.

"Some of them in my cottage, they act real immature. They play all the time. The group I'm in, we're child molesters. That's what I'm in here for. They like to play. They don't like to listen. They don't take things seriously," the 17-year-old said.

Yes, he said, the facilities are nice, but it's no playground. He has spent five or six days in security because of angry outbursts that sent him there, costing him the privileges of senior status.

"I still have problems, sir," he said recently while conducting a campus tour for visitors. "I let my anger once in awhile get out of control."

"I'm learning that if people do things I don't like, I think they're out to get me. So I get it in my mind that I am going to have to hurt them first. That's where all my problems come from," he said.

After 11 months here, he recently earned his high school graduation equivalency degree and said his group therapy sessions are helping.

"I'd rather be here than out there. How can I put this? People here, they care about you and they try to help you out. I'm in the sex offender program and I get a lot of help from my group and my caseworker. They give you a real opportunity to change your life around," he said.

Thompson commended the special programs at Giddings for sex offenders, which include both individual and group counseling.

All is not always peaceful here, Crenshaw said. Recently, one resident climbed on a roof and knocked out the skylights. The 17-year-old boy said there are periodic fights, usually broken up by other residents.

"It's pretty good here," said the 15-year-old who helped kill her mother. "It's better than me going to prison."

Sheriff's log

Herald staff report

John Joe Sanchez, 34, Garden City, was released from custody Monday after a Sunday arrest by city police on two charges of driving while intoxicated. He was arrested at 11:39 p.m. in the 2300 block of Goliad Street on a charge of DWI and on DWI warrant from Collin County.

Andres Juarez, 28, 1010 N.W. Second St., was transferred from the police department on a charge of bondsman off bonds on charges of assault, possession of marijuana and resisting arrest. He was arrested by city police Oct. 31 and was transferred to the sheriff's office Monday. Juarez is in jail in lieu of bonds totaling $3,500.

Britton Chad Stricklan, 20, 407 E. Seventh St., surrendered to the sheriff's office on a DWI conviction. He pleaded guilty in county court and was fined $431 and sentenced to 72 hours in jail.

William Joseph Barber, 23, 612 Caylor St., surrendered to the sheriff's office on a warrant charge of revocation of probation for burglary of a building. Barber is in custody in the Howard County jail. No bond has been set.

Police beat

Two burglaries were reported to Big Spring police Monday.

Ricky Viera, 204 E. Sixth St., told police someone entered his home and stole a television set, a video recorder and two gold chains. The items were valued at $1,525.

Zelma McClanahan, 3908 Parkway Road, told police someone entered a garage at her residence and stole two tool boxes and tools valued at $130.

Big Spring police also arrested three people Monday.

Mark Anthony Caperton, 25,

Lubbock, was arrested for possession of less than two ounces of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Caperton was transferred to the Howard County Jail and released on bonds totaling $1,000.

Sabrina Kay Young, 21, Gail Route Box 446, was arrested on a charge of criminal trespass. Young was transferred to the Howard County Jail and released on $500 bond.

Ricardo Torrez, 28, 405 N.W. 11th St., was arrested on a warrant for simple assault.

Coahoma city council meets today

Herald staff report

The Coahoma City Council will conduct its regular meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Community Center, North and Main streets.

The council plans to formulate specifications to go out on bid for the purchase of a new city pickup, according to City Clerk Holly Best.

The current pickup, used by the water superintendent, isn't working, she said.

The council also plans to review the use of the community center and discuss whether any changes in the fee structure should be made. Residents are charged $25 for each use of the center, and $15 of that is refunded, Best said. The center is used for various activities including meetings and birthday parties, she said.

Council members will discuss whether the current fee adequately covers the cost of utilities, Best said.

An employee open forum also will be conducted to allow city employees to discuss any concerns they have with the council. The forum is conducted on a monthly basis, Best said.

written answers to questions submitted by independent counsel Lawrence Walsh in his investigation of the Iran-Contra affair.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said written questions were given to the White House on Oct. 10 by Walsh. "Those are being responded to now," he said, with the help of the president's counsel, A.B. Culvahouse, and should be ready "in a couple of weeks."

The House and Senate committees conducted four months of joint hearings into the administration's secret weapons sales to Iran and diversion of profits from those sales to the Nicaragua Contra rebels.

The panels' final majority report says there is no evidence that Reagan knew of the diversion, but it does reflect the belief of many committee members that Reagan created an atmosphere allowing it to occur.

The Senate committee source did not specify which laws the president is accused in the report of not adequately enforcing. But during hearings the committee often discussed three laws.

They were the Boland amendment, which over specified periods prohibited direct or indirect U.S. aid to the Contras; the arms export control act which restricts the sale of American arms abroad; and laws requiring that any funds spent by the U.S. government first be appropriated by Congress.

98-year-old woman is oldest amnesty recipient

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — When 98-year-old Clara Escobedo de Martinez applied for amnesty under the new immigration law this summer, the government computer didn't know what to make of an illegal alien who was born in 1889.

Immigration officials say when she gets her legal residency card today, she will be the oldest person in the nation to obtain amnesty under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986.

Mrs. Escobedo's legal residency comes 60 years after she first came to this country.

"I've always been very happy in the United States," said Mrs. Escobedo. "I thank the Lord."

"I want to be legitimate and content, following the law," she added. Mrs. Escobedo said she was widowed when her husband was killed in 1914 by Pancho Villa's men during a battle in the revolutionary turmoil that engulfed Mexico.

Tuesday actually will be the second time for her to receive legal U.S. residency after losing it in a bureaucratic mix-up 25 years ago.

She said she lived here legally from 1927 until 1962, working at various baby-sitting, restaurant and vegetable packing jobs in Texas and California.

"In spite of the fact that I never learned English, they treated me well," Mrs. Escobedo said.

Then in 1962, she said U.S. immigration officials at the international bridge in Brownsville abruptly took away her resident alien card as she was returning from a regular visit to family members across the Rio Grande in Matamoros.

She never found out why the government revoked her legal status and did not return to live illegally until 1979.

Her standard of living in the spacious, modern Brownsville home she shares with her daughter and granddaughter does not fit the common image of the poor, struggling, undocumented alien living in the shadows.

"She's the oldest in the nation, not only for amnesty, but for any other (immigration) adjustment," said Charlie Perez, chief legalization officer with the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Harlingen District.

Under the new immigration law, she first gets a temporary residence card Tuesday, and may apply for permanent residence 18 months from the date she submitted her original amnesty application.

A one-year amnesty period began May 5 for undocumented aliens able to show they have lived in the United States illegally since Jan. 1, 1982.

The 98-year-old woman, with five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren said she has never been hospitalized, takes daily walks, attends a Baptist church twice a "Whenever she feels sick, the only way to cure her is to take her somewhere," said Rakeel Zarate, her granddaughter, who added that Mrs. Escobedo used to move around so much family members nicknamed her "la paloma," the dove.

The oldest amnesty applicant also tells jokes and still delights in reciting poetry, but apologizes that her memory has started to fade.

"I only forget the bad things," she said. But she still regrets kicking a friend's ailing dog out of her way sometime around 1920.

Bishops push funding for senior nuns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of nuns who taught decades of young Catholics but now have grown old with little or no money would benefit from a huge new fund-raising effort being considered by Roman Catholic bishops.

"The collective Catholic conscience of the country demands this," Archbishop Roger Mahony of Los Angeles declared Monday as the bishops discussed a proposal for a special yearly collection in Catholic churches.

The proposal was expected to be approved today at the bishops' annual meeting.

U.S. religious orders — mostly nuns but also including some brothers — are as much as $2.5 billion short of the money needed to care for their growing ranks of retirees, according to some estimates.

The bishops aren't raising hopes that such an amount — about $47 from each of the nation's 52.9 million Catholic men, women and children — could be raised merely in Sunday collection baskets.

And Bishop Cletus O'Donnell of Madison, Wis., even pleaded Monday for fellow bishops to stop using such a figure.

"It turns people off," O'Donnell said. "Let's be reasonable. We can't raise that amount of money."

But the group made clear they were determined to make a major effort to help the denomination's religious orders, which have large and growing numbers of older members at the same time relatively few young women are joining to take their places and help support them.

In other measures scheduled for votes later this week, the bishops heard proposals Monday under which they would:

— Condemn as "morally objectionable" the practice of public school health clinics handing out contraceptives and giving abortion counseling.

— Declare that the U.S. government is following a "morally flawed" policy in supporting Nicaragua's Contra rebels and that the government should instead help impoverished Central American nations and "not use Central American lives as pawns in a superpower struggle" with the Soviet Union.

Cafeteria menus

Editor's Note: Senior citizens menus were not supplied to the Herald in time for Sunday's deadline. Therefore they are being printed today.

WEDNESDAY — Roast beef; scallop potatoes; mixed green; rolls; butter; gingerbread and milk.

THURSDAY — Ham; sweet potatoes; coleslaw; rolls; butter; prune whip and milk.

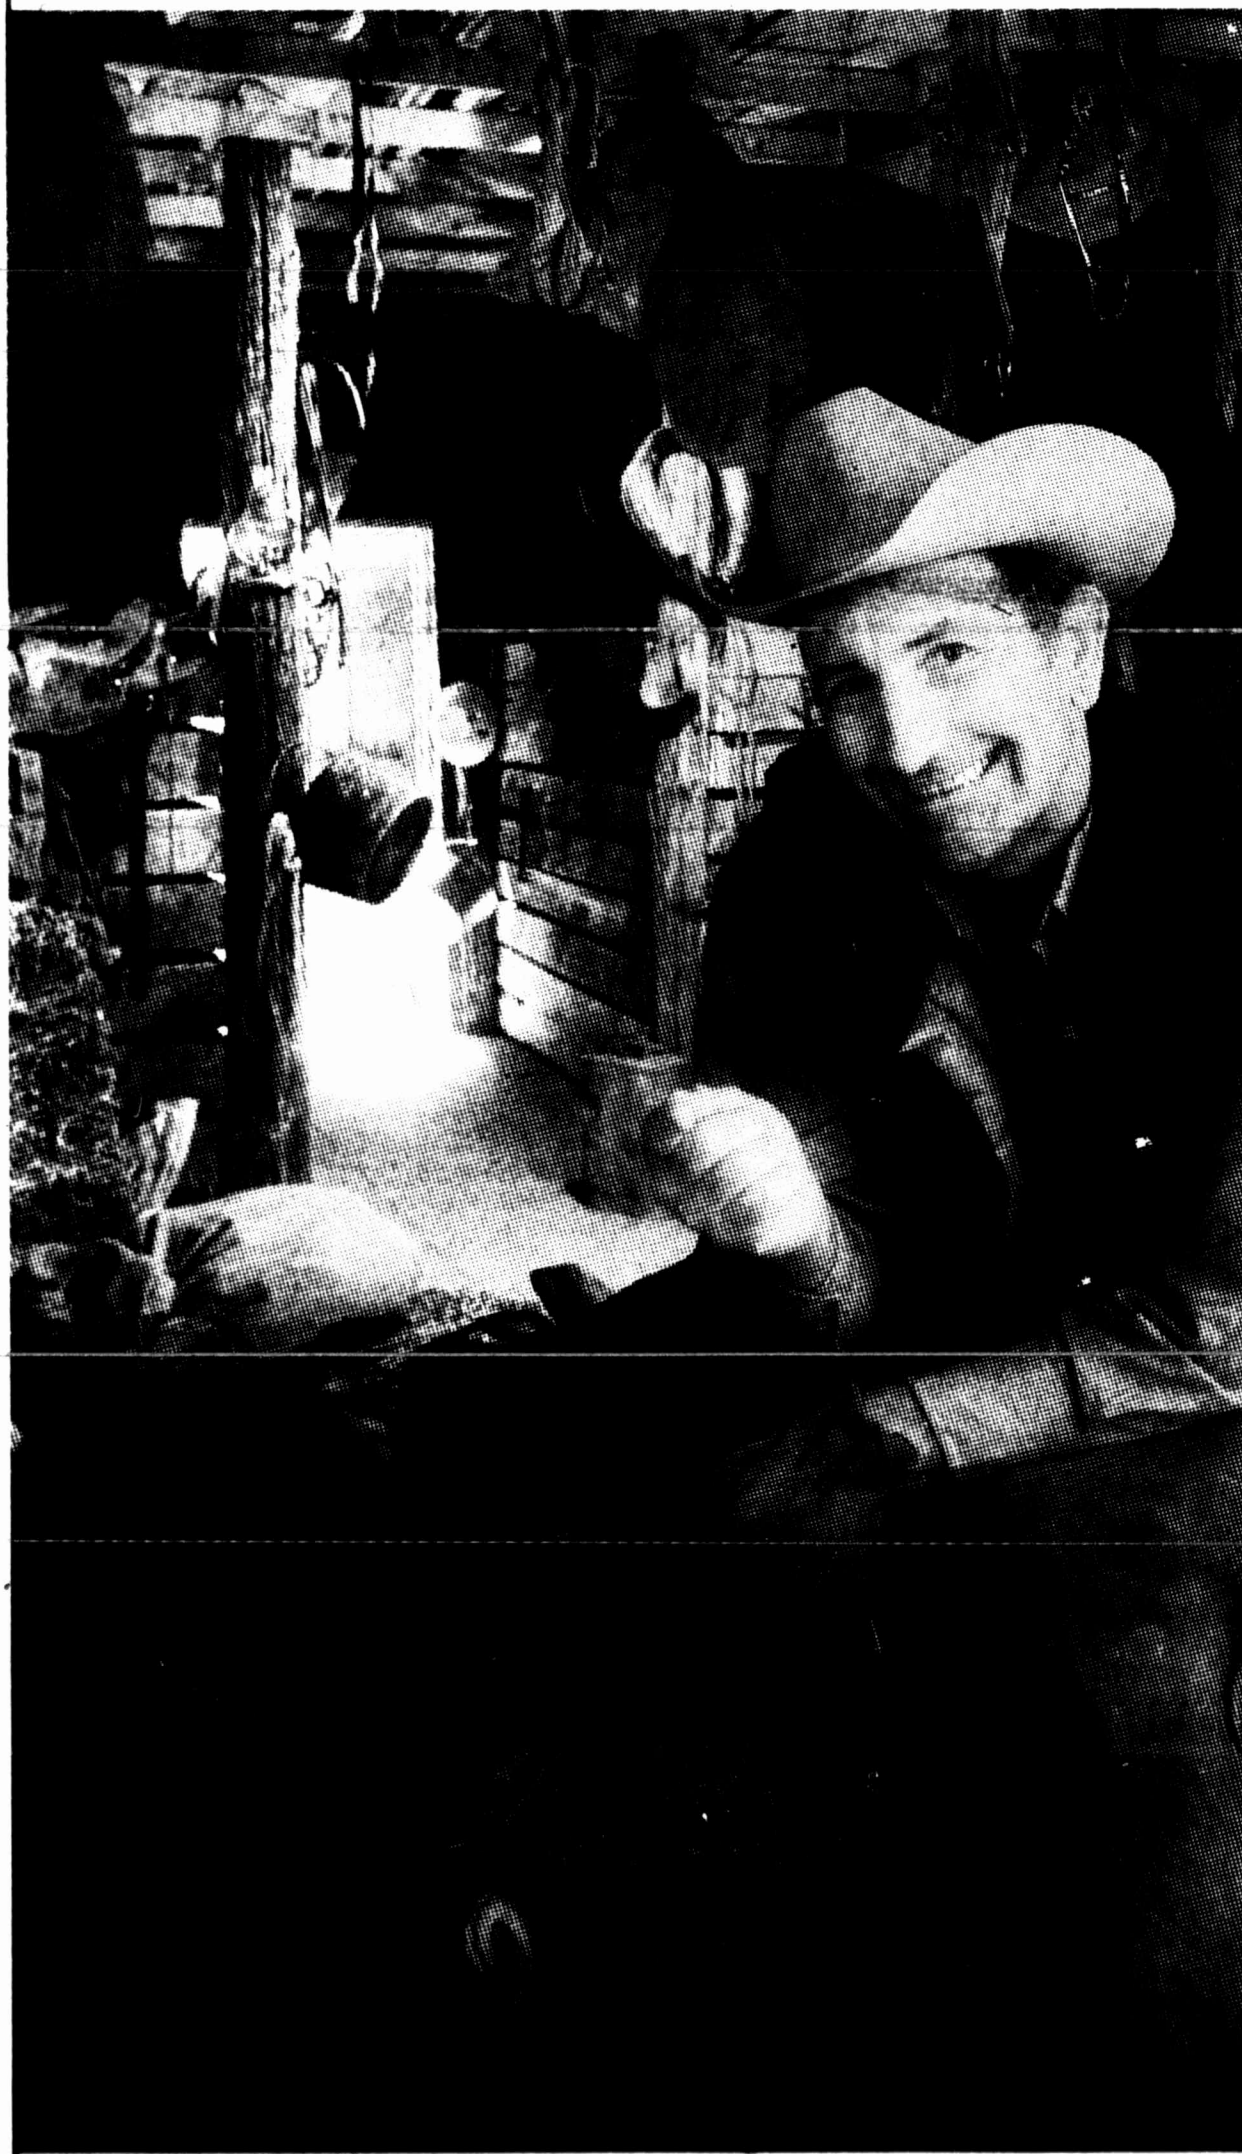

FRIDAY — Spanish rice & ground beef; tossed salad; French bread; butter; Boston cream cake and milk.

"Now that you have to choose a long distance service . . . ClayDesta makes the choice clear and simple"

Clayton W. Williams, Jr., Owner

Big Spring...the choice is yours

After years of coping with delays and sometimes inadequate service, the people of Big Spring are about to realize the full potential of top quality long distance service.

A personal choice

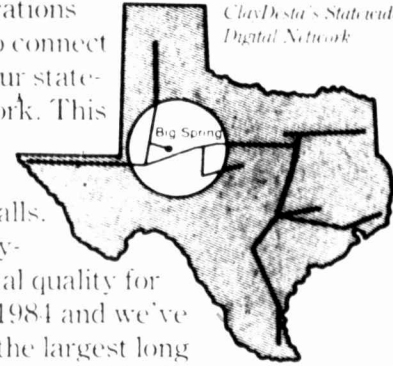

Each of you can select the long distance company of your choice and get easy 1+ dialing. On February 25th Southwestern Bell will convert your exchange to "easy access". As a part of this process you will receive a ballot asking you to select a company for your long distance calling. If you don't complete the ballot, a company will be arbitrarily assigned to you.

Before you mark your ballot consider the clear and simple choice . . . ClayDesta Communications.

A new brand of quality for Big Spring

Phone service in Big Spring will soon be as good or better than anywhere in the state. Southwestern Bell is installing new equipment which will process your calls much faster, clearer and cleaner.

And for your long distance calls, ClayDesta Communications has built a spur to connect Big Spring with our statewide digital network. This combination gives you unsurpassed quality on all your calls.

The fact is, ClayDesta pioneered digital quality for West Texans back in 1984 and we've now grown to become the largest long distance company headquartered in Texas.

But, it's not our size that matters, it's the quality, service and low prices that should make you want to choose ClayDesta.

ClayDesta provides:

- Lower rates than other major companies such as AT&T, MCI, or Sprint, plus time of day and volume discounts.
- No sign-up or minimum monthly billing charges.
- A single detailed monthly statement of all your ClayDesta calls.
- 1+ dialing convenience for calls that are always clean, clear and fast — anytime, anywhere.
- Friendly personnel for 24-hour operator and directory assistance — billing inquiries, trouble reporting and immediate credit for wrong numbers.
- Long distance credit card service from anywhere you travel.

So when you get your ballot choose ClayDesta Communications. We guarantee the best service in Texas. For more information give us a call.

Moderates form Arabian agenda

The just-completed Arab League summit meeting marked a clear change in direction, sending positive signals to the United States regarding its Persian Gulf policy.

The most important changes were the replacement of Israel by Iran as the chief target of criticism and the move to restore Egypt to its rightful place in the Arab world.

Iran topped the summit agenda — the first time since 1948 that such a meeting did not center on Israel — and the official resolution issued at the completion of the four-day meeting in Jordan was harsh in its condemnation of Tehran.

The resolution said Arab leaders "voiced their indignation at the Iranian regime's intransigence, provocations and threats to the Arab gulf states." It condemned Iran's "procrastination" in accepting the U.N. resolution calling for an immediate cease-fire in the Iran-Iraq war and the withdrawal of Iranian troops from Iraq.

The conference proclaimed its "solidarity with Kuwait in confronting the Iranian regime's aggression and denounced the bloody criminal acts perpetrated by the Iranians in the vicinity of the Holy Mosque in Mecca."

Remarkably, Syria, Iran's principal military and strategic ally in the Arab world, supported the resolution.

It is problematic what effect such a resolution will have on Iran, but the United States definitely should be encouraged by the implicit support given its role in the Persian Gulf.

While the conference stopped short of readmitting Egypt to the league, the way was cleared for Arab nations to restore diplomatic relations with Egypt on an individual basis. Libya opposed the move, so the resolution overturned previous league policy that all decisions must be unanimous.

Until 1979, Egypt, the most populous Arab country, was the seat of the Arab League. All but three Arab governments severed diplomatic relations with Egypt in that year in outrage over its peace treaty with Israel.

Now the widening threat from Iran has made solidarity with Egypt more important to the league. It was noted that Egypt has the largest standing army in the Arab world — 500,000 soldiers — and already supplies Iraq with weapons and ammunition at a cost of $1 billion per year.

The ascension of moderates who appear to have taken charge of Arab decision-making at least provides some hope.

Pastor responds to Reagan column

To the editor:
I would like to examine the "deal" in the article written by Steve Reagan on obscenity. Mr. Reagan appears unhappy with the goals of the N.F.D. (National Federation for Decency). I am one Christian man that would like to assert the same right to express my views, as our constitution affords Mr. Reagan, through the medium of the newspaper.
Mr. Reagan, you stated, "One principle of this country's founding was tolerance to different points of view." Points of view on what? Foreign relations? Industrialization? Territorial expansion? National unity?
Yes, our founding fathers utilized toleration where toleration was required, but without regard to pornography, and all of the wicked fruits it has brought forth. Our founding fathers were "avid" readers also, but the book they searched is called The Holy Bible.

Could that not be the reason why these founding fathers exteemed this nation as being "under God"? The Bible condemns the use of pornography.

Humanistic journalism paints the light view of pornography, which we have witnessed in your column. What is pornography, Mr. Reagan? If you were really concerned, and truly interested in responsible journalism, you would try to digest the report on the harmful effects of pornography found in the Attorney General's commission on pornography!

Pornography is more than the naked body of a well-paid prostitute! Pornography is watching a 5 minute "flick" in which a 10-year-old, kidnapped girl, is brutally beaten, raped, and stabbed to death!

Child abuse is on an increase in our nation today, and part of the "cause" is the methodical infiltration of "hard porn," into the markets of "traditional porn" magazine and film industries. This market exceeds four billion dollars annually, and an estimated 500,000 children are used as models in "child porn."

The only need that porn provides in a society, is the carnal, ungodly need in man to sin!

I have no desire to "peek through your bedroom window," but I simply desire to stop the viewing of your pornographic materials where I take my wife and children to shop.

A man named Lord Devlin, once wrote, "A sense of right and wrong is necessary for the life of a community. Without it the society will destroy itself." History shows that the loosening of moral bonds is the first stage of disintegration.

So, Mr. Reagan, here is my deal. If you will keep your pornographic material from the eyes of this nation's young people, and my family, I'll promise to keep my church hymns from your pew!

Reagan arms project violates 1972 treaty

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Late last year President Reagan ordered work to begin on a chemical laser weapons program even though he believed — according to his own statement at a secret Oval Office meeting — that it would violate the 1972 Antiballistic Missile Treaty with the Soviet Union.

Dale Van Atta has spent more than six months confirming this story with knowledgeable, though reluctant, officials in the White House, the Pentagon and the intelligence community.

The president ordered Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, head of the Strategic Defense Initiative Organization, to proceed with the secret program, code-named Zenith Star, despite its treaty-breaking implications. His decision has enormous

Journalists, lawyers discuss roles

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer
Speaking to a room full of lawyers, judges and journalists, U.S. District Court Judge Jerry Buchmeyer told his audience of a recent public opinion poll.

At a glance

The general public, he said, views lawyers as scum of the earth. Only one profession is viewed with more scorn, he continued — addressing the journalists in the crowd.

Knowing all too well the truthfulness of his charges, the lawyers and journalists chuckled. Buchmeyer, who writes a humor column for the State Bar of Texas, captivated the crowd during his speech, given in conjunction with a two-day media law conference in Houston last week.

Buchmeyer's speech poked fun at the two professions, but panel discussions during the conference dealt with a more serious issue: striking a balance between protecting the right to a fair trial and safeguarding the freedom of the press. Some interesting statements were made. Among them:

- "Most people are media skeptics, but they believe what they read and are influenced by it." — Roy Minton, attorney from Austin.
- A journalist is like a three-year-old with a pistol. If they shot you, they didn't mean to. Journalists don't set out to do you in, but will do you in, anyway — Davis Rankin, KURV radio, Edinburg.

- The public has a poor understanding of the judicial system. More than 50 percent of people participating in a survey said it's up to the accused to prove their innocence — Jim Cox, Executive Vice President of Edelman Public Relations, Houston.

- Lawyers try to manipulate journalists in their attempts to represent their client; attorneys try to try their cases in the media — Sonny Messiah Giles, editor in chief, Houston Defender.

- "There's no question in my mind that the press influences public opinion — it's inevitable." Ray Miller, journalist and author, Houston.

- Americans are more informed than they have ever been in the history of the world — Roy Minton.

- "We are elected officials, we can't afford to stiff the media. I'm surprised at how often the media supports appointed officials." — William W. Kilgarin, Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas.

- An investigative reporter is someone who is willing to challenge statements. Journalists should take the risk of ill-founded libel suits to expose corruption — Michael Tigar, professor, University of Texas School of Law.

- Journalists and lawyers are the two most independent-minded groups in existence — Temple Driver, 39th District Court, Wichita Falls.

- There is no scientific evidence to show that pre-trial publicity influences jury decisions — Jim Cox.

- The media can inform, manipulate and be manipulated — Sonny Giles.

- Voire dire, the preliminary examination of prospective jurors, doesn't really work. Jurors perceive evidence in the light of judgments they have previously formed, wittingly or unwittingly — Roy Minton.

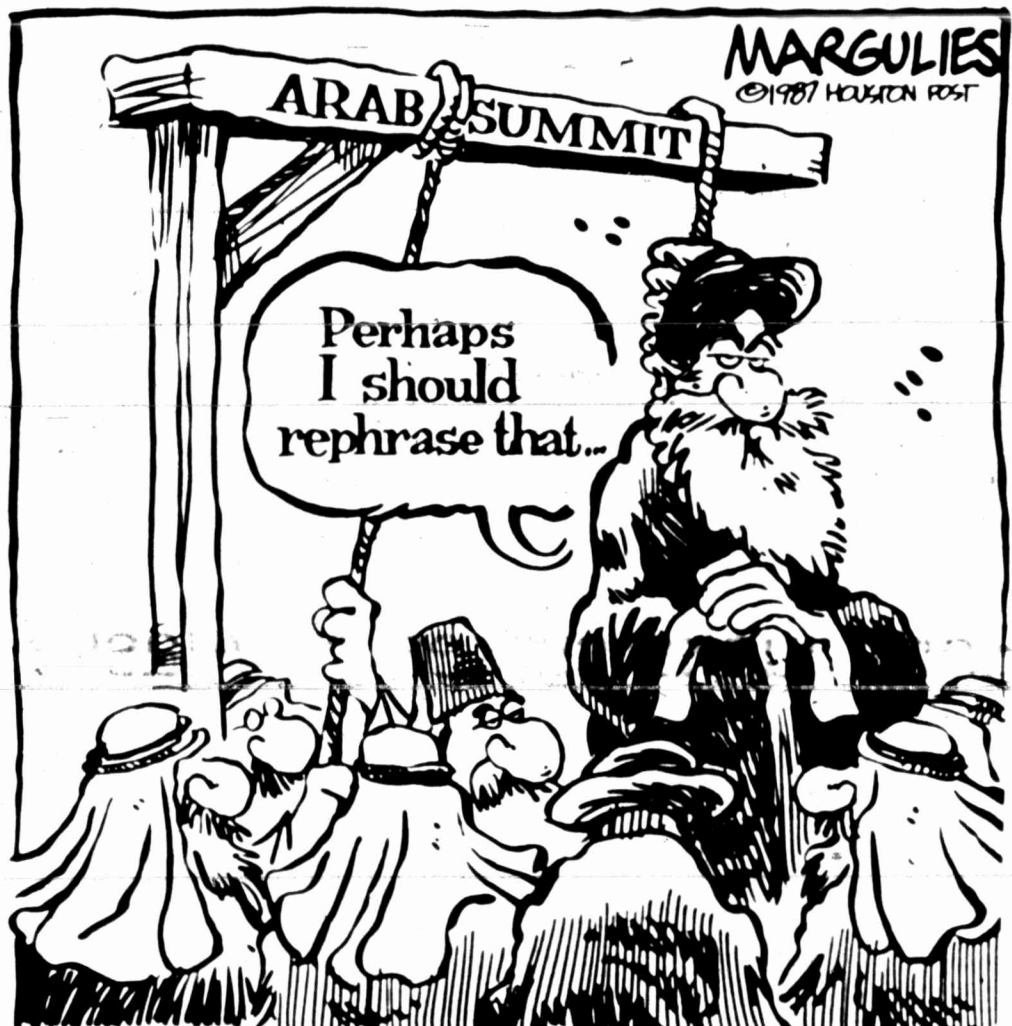

- The media can influence public opinion over the long run. When you hear something over and over again, you begin to believe it — Davis Rankin.

- "60 Minutes" tends to have a very subjective point of view ... They have gone out of their way to mold public opinion; it will have grave repercussions ... will be devastating personally — Kilgarin, commenting on a recent interview with Mike Wallace about the Texaco, Pennzoil case.

- The basic disciplinary rule regulating trial publicity and extrajudicial statements of attorneys has been held unconstitutional on its face by a Texas federal court — Tom Moran, reporter, Houston Chronicle.

- Civil cases often deal with matters of high public concern, but criminal cases often receive more coverage — Bob Gibbons, attorney, Austin.

- It's up to the lawyers and judges to see that the accused gets a fair trial (not the media) — Tom Moran.

Money doesn't grow on bill trees

By ART BUCHWALD
This is the big season for raising political money. Everyone from a presidential candidate to a lowly senator is begging for dollars, and it is not fun. I walked into Senator Moondecker's office. He was on the phone yelling, "Look, Tribby, we sent you two envelopes and nothing came back. The next time you want me to get a bill passed for you making it possible to transfer liquid gas through kindergarten playgrounds, forget you know me."

"Some people just don't have any gratitude," I said. "I don't know what's going on," he complained. "Last time I had $800,000 — this election I have $3,000. All the lobbyists claim their home offices have frozen them out."

"Maybe it's the stock market," I suggested. "A lot of guys who help politicians are now in the quicksand."

Moondecker said, "They should give when there is a stock market crisis, if for no other reason than only the Seante can get them out of their misery. What I resent is that nobody is buying tickets to my breakfast."

"How much is your breakfast?" "Ten thousand dollars a plate, but you get hot coffee and Danish. I've only sold 40 tickets."

"Maybe you ought to get Jim and Tammy Bakker as your speakers. They sell tickets better than anyone."

"Last time I made $144,000 on my bingo game. This year I can't give the cards away. You'd think people would donate to make sure their candidates get in."

"There must be lots of voters that your computer hasn't heard from."

The phone rang and Moondecker picked it up. "Yes, I know who you are," he said. "You're Ogilvy of Beeswax Honey and you want me to introduce a bill barring all Japanese honey from the United States. How do you expect me to do this without a war chest?"

"Do you think honey bills grow on trees? Ogilvy, how would you like to be an admiral in the S.S. Moondecker Navy? It will cost you $25,000 and you get to sit on the deck of all Senate trade meetings. Thanks Ogilvy, your bees are safe with me."

Moondecker said, "This is not my idea of fun, but if I don't do it somebody else will, and heaven knows what kind of senator he'll turn out to be. At least I can be trusted."

"Do all senators make their own appeals for money?" I asked.

"All the ones I know do. Of course those who sit on the Armed Services Committee can raise a lot more than those stuck with investigating air traffic controllers. Some of the chairmen even have their own PACs and they give money to other senators — then you really owe them for being nice to you."

"It seems there are many ways of raising money in politics. What is the weirdest thing you've done?"

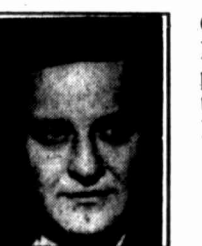

"I offered to put up a guy for an ambassadorship for $15,000."

"That sounds good," I said.

"It would have been, but the nomination was turned down. Now the guy wants to be a federal judge."

Oct. 5 contract made Martin Marietta Denver Aerospace the primary contractor, with subcontracts to Lockheed and TRW of Redondo Beach, Calif.

The true nature and intent of the Zenith Star project have been disguised in official acknowledgements of its various components.

In fact, the program's intent was the most sensitive topic of discussion in the Oval Office meeting last Dec. 17, according to our sources. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger arrived for a meeting at 11 a.m. Abrahamson accompanied him to give a special SDI briefing.

While a variety of SDI programs were discussed, accounts of the secret meeting indicate that the key question was whether to move ahead with the alpha hydrogen-fluoride laser, under development by TRW since 1980 and now part of the Zenith Star project.

At the meeting, Weinberger said the chemical laser was the most mature "directed energy" program under development, and said Zenith Star was the best bet for an early demonstration of such exotic weapons. The president agreed with Weinberger.

But Reagan noted that Zenith Star would violate the 1972 ABM Treaty as he understood it. Article V of the treaty states that neither signatory will "develop, test or deploy ABM systems or components which are sea-based, air-based, space-based or mobile land-based."

Despite his stated view that Zenith Star would violate the treaty, Reagan said it was imperative to go ahead with the program anyway.

At this point, according to sources, Abrahamson urged the president, in effect, to give the Soviets the six-months' notice required by the treaty if either side intends to abandon it. Reagan tabled the suggestion for later high-level discussion.

The sources said Abrahamson argued that Zenith Star "should be done openly." The president disagreed. He explained that the political price he'd have to pay, with Congress already at his heels over the Iran/Contra scandal, "would be too high."

Reagan then ordered that Zenith Star be a "black" program, meaning that Congress would not be fully informed of its purpose and progress.

Attempts by Van Atta to meet with the president and/or chief of staff Howard Baker to discuss the story have been rebuffed for months.

Lehder case begins

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Carlos Lehder Rivas set up a smuggling empire using bribes, violence, intellect and charm in a scheme to form his own island nation and become the "king of cocaine transportation," a prosecutor charged.

He even dispatched his mother to smuggle cocaine into California, said U.S. Attorney Robert W. Merkle.

Merkle opened the government's case Monday in Lehder's drug-trafficking trial by tracing the defendant's life from the early 1970s through his arrest last spring in Colombia.

EPA getting tough

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency lays down the law today to cities and counties that don't meet clean air standards, threatening them with construction bans and loss of federal highway money.

Although the construction bans would apply only to major pollution sources, non-complying areas also will have to reduce pollution 3 percent a year, over and above reductions brought about by national programs, or face loss of federal highway and sewer aid.

EPA officials estimate that 30 to 40 areas are likely to be hit with construction bans about three years from now, but say the probable targets won't be known until 1985-87 pollution figures are compiled next year.

Deficit accord near

WASHINGTON — House Majority Leader Thomas Foley predicted today that congressional and White House negotiators will agree on a deficit-reduction package by Friday's deadline, averting across-the-board federal budget cuts.

Foley said such an agreement between congressional and White House negotiators "will send a positive signal to the country; it will strengthen the economy, and it will help the markets."

Haig blasts arms policy

WASHINGTON — Republican presidential candidate Alexander M. Haig Jr. is voicing harsh criticism of the Reagan administration's approach to arms control as the president prepares for his summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

In a speech Monday night to the World Affairs Council, Haig said President Reagan has "overpoliticized and overdramatized the hopes of SDI," the president's Strategic Defense Initiative proposal for a space-based missile defense system.

Denver crash Idaho town mourns loss

MELBA, Idaho (AP) — Students in this tiny farming community huddled in hallways or slumped against lockers, dreading the news. Then it came.

Two Melba High School students and a teacher's wife were among those killed in the crash of Continental Airlines Flight 1713 in a Denver snowstorm Sunday.

The three were members of the school's Future Farmers of America chapter heading home from a national convention in Kansas City, Mo.

"At first you had to listen to the report twice, because you couldn't believe it," said Rod Herman, 18, a member of the FFA chapter who did not make the trip. "You felt so helpless."

Janine Legerwood, 17, a student and member of the chapter, was among the first of 27 people confirmed dead in the crash, which occurred during takeoff in a snowstorm at Stapleton International Airport on a flight bound for Boise.

Also killed was Tami Daniel, wife of Melba FFA chapter adviser David Daniel.

Another chapter member, Sherry Nelson, 18, also was killed. Fifty-five others on the flight, many from Idaho, were injured.

"One of the hardest things is just seeing the kids' faces. They kind of look at you, waiting for an explanation," said Eric Kennedy, a high school social studies teacher in this tight-knit community of 300. "And you don't know how to react."

Although classes were canceled, an early morning assembly was held for the school's 150 students before the news of the deaths came. Kennedy said he arrived late so he wouldn't have to see the students' faces before the assembly.

"If we would have had classes, it would have been tough to concentrate. But if you're sitting here idle, it seems even longer," he said.

Brad Huff, 17, student body president, leaned against a row of lockers. Waiting was the hard part, he said.

"Waiting and wondering why they even tried to take off in those conditions."

Students held onto each other and milled about the hallways, stopping to watch television news reports while teachers and counselors offered solace.

About half of the students had gone home when Principal James Potter got word that Miss Legerwood and Mrs. Daniel were among the dead.

Iraqis bomb nuke plant

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iran said Iraqi warplanes bombed an unfinished nuclear power plant in southern Iran today, killing several employees. Iraq said its forces crushed an overnight ground attack on the central front.

Iraq also announced that its warplanes had bombed a petrochemical complex near the nuclear plant.

The official Iraqi News Agency said a "reckless attempt" by Iranian forces to gain a foothold in the central sector was "crushed overnight, with massive losses in men."

Spanish trawler missing

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland — The search for a Spanish fishing trawler missing off Newfoundland continued this morning, but Coast Guard officials held out little hope the crew of 34 would be found alive.

"The overriding factor here is the nastiness of the weather," said Petty Officer Dale Freeman of the U.S. Coast Guard's Western Atlantic Search and Rescue Coordination center in New York. "The survivability factor is not too good."

AIDS on rise in Europe

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The number of AIDS cases doubles every nine months in the 12-nation European Economic Community, according to a report today by its executive committee, the European Commission.

The commission also reported that the EEC nations had adopted a five-year, $78 million medical research program, which $17 million earmarked for research into AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

"Every effort must be made to curb this trend," the commission said in a press release. "Unfortunately, solutions to the problem appear to be becoming more difficult as time passes, even though considerable progress is being made in our scientific knowledge of the disease."

WARSAW, Poland — An unauthorized news conference by founding members of an opposition party ended abruptly when police cut electricity to an apartment, broke down its door and detained participants and Western observers.

An Australian diplomat and eight Western journalists were released shortly after the raid Monday night on the Polish Socialist Party's Warsaw news conference.

Meanwhile, the outlawed Solidarity labor federation condemned planned price increases that would raise by 110 percent the cost of basic foodstuffs next year.

Earthquake strikes off Alaska coast

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A severe earthquake struck off the south-central Alaska coast, shaking Anchorage 270 miles away, authorities said today.

There were no immediate reports of injury or damage.

The quake struck at 11:46 p.m. Monday, (3:46 a.m. EST today), and had a preliminary Richter scale magnitude of 6.9, said Alec Medbery of the Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer.

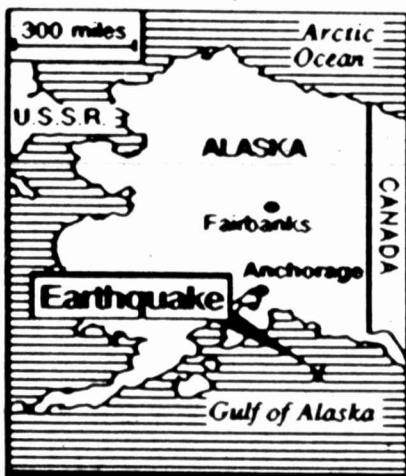

A tsunami warning had been issued for most of the Alaska and British Columbia coasts, but was canceled early today when tidal gauges indicated no tidal wave had occurred, said Wayne Jorgensen of the Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer.

Coastal communities, however, already had begun evacuations.

Erling Johansen, mayor of Cordova, said shortly before the warning cancellation that emergency officials were fanning out to warn the town's 2,600 residents to move to higher ground.

He said he had no immediate reports of injuries or major damage in the town.

Johansen said he was home when the quake hit. "It certainly caused the house to shake," he said in a telephone interview.

The quake and was centered in the Gulf of Alaska about 270 miles east-southeast of Anchorage and 90 miles southwest of Cape Yakutat, between Yakutat and Cordova, according to Medbery.

The temblor was felt as far away as Anchorage, the region's largest city.

"I was just sitting here and I just kind of rocked back and forth a little bit," said John Walther, a disc jockey at KENI radio in Anchorage. "What we feel up here by the time it got to us was just kind of a low level wave. And that was basically what we felt, just a slight rocking."

Walther said he received more than a dozen calls in the minutes following the quake.

"I did get a phone call from a guy on the Kenai peninsula who said he was actually rolled out of his bed," said Walther. The peninsula is south of Anchorage.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

An earthquake of magnitude 6 can cause severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" quake, capable of widespread heavy damage.

The 1964 Alaska quake, which killed 131 people measured 8.4 on the Richter scale, while the San Francisco earthquake of 1906 was estimated to register 8.3.

Wave of violence curbed at TDC

Dallas Times Herald Bureau
AUSTIN — Overcoming the deadly wave of violence that rocked state prisons two years ago, the Texas Department of Corrections has reduced murders and assaults by isolating its most dangerous convicts, a national prisons expert has concluded.

The "classification" system or housing scheme at TDC, in which inmates are assigned living quarters based on sophisticated criteria, has ended the gang warfare in which 52 inmates were killed during 1984 and 1985, according to Dr. James Austin, of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

But inmates remain fearful of their safety and many of the newly-hired security officers are reluctant to patrol some areas of the prisons, Austin noted.

Austin conducted a survey of TDC's housing plan for the court-appointed special master overseeing the prison system's operations and concluded "TDC is doing an excellent job of monitoring" inmate cell or dormitory assignments.

With some 2,800 inmates housed alone, Austin said his investigation revealed that "no doubled celled inmates were plainly too assaultive or too vulnerable to be housed in a double cell... Homicide, suicide and escape rates within TDC are similar or lower than comparable state prison systems."

TDC has reported five homicides this year, compared to 24 in 1984 and 27 in 1985. Non-fatal stabbings have dropped from 404 in 1984 to only 58 this year.

Assistant Attorney General Scott McCown said Austin's report shows TDC has been transformed from the days when inmates known as "building tenders" ruled the cellblocks.

"We have locked up the violent prisoners and... increased the security staff so that we have taken back control of the prison from the vacuum that was created when the building tender system was dismantled," McCown said.

Prison gangs seized control of Texas' 26 prison units after TDC officials agreed in a federal court lawsuit to stop allowing building tenders to mete punishment and exercise authority over other inmates. Officials now say they lacked the security staff to fill the void left by the building tenders.

"When you changed from a prisoner controlled system to a staff controlled system, you were basically building a prison from the ground up," McCown said. "What Austin's report says is... they got the job done."

But Austin also found that inmates and guards still are unsure of the new system.

"Inmates remain ambivalent over the relatively recent shift from the building tender system to the new system of correctional officers being responsible for maintaining control over the inmate population," Austin said.

"In many ways their fears may be justified... During the unit visits, it appeared that officers still remain reluctant to patrol the dormitory and cell-block units — an essential feature of any well organized and safe prison management system."

McCown acknowledged that "the job is not finished. You've got a relatively new security staff that needs to be kind of polished up."

William Bennett Turner, who represents the inmates in the prison reform lawsuit before U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice, said he disagreed with Austin's conclusions but wanted to review the report with him before criticizing the study.

"There are some obvious things in there that you scratch your head when you look at them," Turner said. Particularly, Turner questioned whether the rate of violence at TDC is substantially below other large prison systems as Austin claimed. "The figures he cites don't support it," Turner said.

In other important findings, Austin said TDC houses 70 percent of its inmates in "minimum custody" status, while other states have only 20 or 30 percent in such settings.

In a survey of more than 900 inmates, Austin discovered more than one-third reported taking some medication, including 12 percent reporting medication for high blood pressure or nerves and 20 percent for miscellaneous injuries.

"One is concerned relative to the extremely high proportion of inmates on some form of medication," the report said. "It does reflect indirectly on inmate safety. High proportions of inmates on medication and in particular for 'nerves, high blood pressure and injuries may reflect inmate and staff safety issues."

Odessa professor halts sales of rescue videotape

ODESSA (AP) — Sales of a videotape showing the dramatic rescue of a toddler stuck in an underground well shaft were halted after officials questioned whether state-owned equipment was used in production.

The tape was made by Bob Wakefield, an adjunct professor at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

University officials say they're concerned that Wakefield, who teaches a television production class, may have used school equipment to produce the videotapes, which he sold for $19.95 plus $3 for postage.

"We're checking into the circumstances to see if university equipment was used to shoot the project," Warren Gardner, UTPB vice president for academic affairs, said late last week. "But I'm quite sure that if he did, he did it unwittingly," he said.

The tape, begun as a class project, shows the final 36 hours of the rescue of Jessica McClure, a toddler who fell into the well last month and was wedged in the narrow shaft for 58 hours.

Wakefield decided to market it after receiving numerous requests for copies of the work.

Board of Regents rules say that state property cannot be used for personal financial gain, Gardner said.

Wakefield would not say whether he whether he used university equipment to produce the tape. "I can't comment on that... because it's in the realm of speculation," he told The Odessa American.

Gardner said he withdrew the videotapes from sale when he learned he might be violating university policy and returned money to the 10 customers who ordered the tape.

Mr. Bob Noyes, President
 Christmas In April, Inc.
 Big Spring, Texas 79720

Dear Bob:

We in Big Spring have many things that we can identify with community pride. One of the outstanding features of our community is the Christmas In April, Inc. program. You and each of the board members is to be congratulated for your dedication to this selfless program which allows a sharing with our fellow-man.

We in the local government want to urge the citizens of Big Spring to participate in the program through financial support as well as physical assistance in completing the much needed projects of repairing the homes of the elderly and handicapped.

Again, Bob, please accept the thanks of all of us who are appreciative of the efforts and ideals of Christmas In April, Inc.

Sincerely,

Cotton Mize

The Ralph Proctors 20-year marriage bears stamp of holiday mail

MR. AND MRS. RALPH PROCTOR Celebrate 50th anniversary

50 years ago

Ralph and Anna Proctor, HC 61 Box 368, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, with approximately 200 people in attendance, at a reception at 14th & Main Church of Christ from 2 to 4 p.m.

Their children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Newton, Mike and Steve, Mr. and Mrs. Lanney Proctor, Teresa and Tanya, will host the event.

Proctor was born in Hatchel, Mrs. Proctor, the former Anna Brown, was born in Winters.

The couple met in 1936 on a farm in Runnels County and were married Nov. 14, 1937 at the home of the late Mrs. Lou Freeman, Mrs. Proctor's sister.

The Proctors have four grandchildren.

The couple has lived in Luther and Vealmoor during their marriage.

Proctor is a semi-retired farmer. He has helped his grandfather ranch in Runnels County, has farmed, and was elected to Gayhill School Board in 1949.

Proctor has also worked for the railroad.

He was director of Farm Bureau from 1947 to 1950, was elected president of Farm Bureau in 1951. He was elected County Commissioner Prec. 1 in 1953, serving two terms.

The couple are members of 14th & Main Church of Christ.

When asked to comment about their marriage they said, "We might have had a few arguments — but our love for each other superceded all the arguments we've had."

Mrs. Proctor's hobbies include creative arts.

Proctor's hobbies include fishing, hunting and reading.

DEAR ABBY: Nearly 21 years ago, an Air Force sergeant working in the mail room at Khorat Royal Thai Air Base in Thailand wrote to you saying that many young, lonely airmen stationed there received little or no mail, and perhaps you could generate a little mail to cheer them up during the Christmas holidays.

You printed his letter, and mail came in by the truckload — as many as 100,000 letters in a single week! That was, December 1966, and I was one of the young, lonely airmen.

We shuffled through the mountain of mail searching for letters from our home states. I was particularly interested in those with New York addresses, as my home town is in upstate New York. A letter from Kathy Birmingham from Long Island caught my eye. She sounded like my kind of girl, so I wrote to her. Surprisingly, she wrote back immediately. We were both 21, and had so much in common. By April 1967, we had a very exciting correspondence going and made plans to meet when I returned from my overseas tour.

In August 1967, I flew home, then drove to Long Island to meet Kathy and her family. It was love at first sight! I asked her to marry me on the third day, she accepted on the fourth, and we were married in November 1967!

We have remained an Air Force family, and have traveled around the world with our lovely daughter, Kelly, who is now 16. Every time we tell the story of how we met, people say, "You should tell Abby!" What more appropriate time than on our 20th anniversary!

So to you, Dear Abby, our thanks for a lifetime of happiness and memories. And to Kathy, the girl who wrote that letter to a lonely sergeant so long ago, my love, now and always. Happy 20th anniversary!

May God bless you, Abby.
CAPT. DAVE THURSTON, BELLEVUE, NEB.

DEAR CAPT. DAVE AND KATHY: Please add my warm congratulations to those of your many friends. What an upper your letter was. And the timing was perfect, because Operation Dear Abby III is coming up in two weeks. In conjunction with America Remembers, I will again publish the addresses of our servicemen and women who are far from home and need to know that their countrymen remember and support them. My readers are eager to send messages of love and support to those men and women who keep our country free.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me why retired men tag along with their wives to do the weekly grocery shopping. I see this constantly. The poor wife has to listen to her husband tell her why another brand is better (or cheaper) than the one she selected. Then there's the hassle of taking items out of the cart and replacing them with others while they argue back and forth. Abby, these women have been shopping for 40 years or more without their husbands — now suddenly he's a maven.

When my husband retires, I will either leave him at home, or give him the shopping list and let him do the grocery shopping.

Please deal with this problem in your column.

SEEN IT IN TUCSON

DEAR SEEN IT: Retired men tag along with their wives because they have nothing better to do. Almost every community has a senior citizens recreation center, as well as volunteer programs. Retired people (both men and women) could enrich their lives and the lives of others by making themselves useful. Those who are not aware of programs for seniors should contact their local volunteer center or Chamber of Commerce.

Jaycees receive awards

Members of the Howard County Jaycees recently attended the "Fall Annual Seminar Stressing Training Retention Activation and Knowledge" meeting of the Texas Jaycees at La Mansion Del Norte Hotel in San Antonio.

Several hundred Jaycees from all over the state attended, including Marlon and Becky Hale, Big Spring, according to a news release.

The Hales received first place for being the Top Jaycee Family, and also received the First Timers Award.

Howard County Jaycees received second place in the Growth Award, Population Division V — second quarter, and were named to the President's List for a minimum growth by three each month in 1987.

Speakers for this year's meeting were J. Terry Bechtol and Jim Sievert. Bechtol is a past president of the United States Jaycees. Sievert serves as the national vice president.

Mark Dixon, a representative of the railroad section of the Texas Safety Association presented a check for $7,000 to the Texas Jaycees for its Operation Livesaver project, the release stated.

The Jaycees are a leadership training organization whose membership is open to any young person between the ages of 21 and 39.

Anyone wanting to join may call Marlon Hale at 263-2474. The next meeting will be today at the Coors Hospitality Room at 7 p.m.

Marine Lance Cpl. Melvin R. Wheat, son of Jesse E. and Lillian M. Bohannon, Big Spring, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 4th Force Service Support Group in Lubbock.

He is a 1986 graduate of Hillcrest Christian School.

Marine Lance Cpl. Manuel Pineda, son of Rinaldo and Maria Pineda, Colorado City, recently received a Letter of Appreciation.

He received the citation in recognition of his outstanding performance while stationed at Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz.

He is a 1984 graduate of Colorado High School. He joined the Marine Corps in May 1984.

Marine Pfc. Sterling K. Burleson, son of Wesley C. and Lynda G. Burleson, Snyder, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, Burleson was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

He is a 1987 graduate of Snyder High School. He joined the Marine Corps in July of 1987.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Organize your schedule sensibly, leaving plenty of time for family and friends. If you must postpone an appointment with someone, be sure you explain your reasons or hurt feelings may follow.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think about what you've learned from past experiences before you make the same mistake twice. Support, do not criticize, an associate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It's important that you use tact with a fellow worker. You can change your present procedures without upsetting a smooth-running setup.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show some interest in helping a good friend solve a problem; you'll be repaid generously. Don't give in to any unreasonable demands.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Listen to what an outsider has to say, but don't let this person create any problems in your home. Use your charisma and be kind.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be most careful in traffic while out visiting. Also, be cautious about what you eat and drink. Don't overindulge in anything this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Before attempting to handle a financial affair which you don't understand completely, get advice from a qualified expert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't bite off more than you can chew, or you'll get nothing done today. Keep your priorities straight when making your daily schedule.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may feel like abandoning a tough project, but stick with it as the profits will make it worthwhile. Listen to your radio tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't object to the postponement of a planned social function. You'll find an alternate activity which will be quite enjoyable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) People who are close to you can give good suggestions on how to advance your career. Be wary of any strangers you encounter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you are to profit from a new idea, it must be put into action quickly. Get out of that rut you've been in for so long. Be innovative.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It may become necessary to make changes in long-standing business policies to bring efficiency up to competitive levels.

If Your Child Is Born Today
 He or she will have a quick understanding of procedural matters, especially in the areas of architecture, government or the functioning of corporate structure. Your son or daughter should be given the opportunity to meet people in these areas.

Lady Steers start season against Brownfield

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Big Spring High School's Lady Steers basketball squads open their season tonight at home against the Brownfield Cubs...

The Cubs are currently ranked No. 11 in the state. According to BSHS coach C.E. Carmichael, the Brownfield girls will be bringing big guns into Steer Gym tonight...

Beginning with a freshman tilt at 4:30 p.m., followed by junior varsity and varsity games at 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. respectively...

"Last year they won the district championship in girls' basketball for the first time in the history of the school," Carmichael said.

He declined to predict whether his 1987-88 squad will repeat the crown, though. Despite early pollsters' high expectations, the Lady Steers are not looking down an easy road this year, Carmichael said.

"We've had some injury problems," he explained. "Two of our people who played for us last year have been injured, and they will be out all year."

"Most of our size is injured," he continued. "Two girls had knee surgery over the summer. One will be back next year, but the other one is a senior. Another girl who started for us last year is ill, and she won't play."

He said he did not know yet how this year's team will play.

"We'll just have to wait and see," he said. Against the highly-touted Cubs, his strategy is going to be one of trying various options and sticking with the ones that work best, Carmichael said.

"You never know how your girls are going to react," he said. "I haven't scouted them (Brownfield) but I have watched them on a film from last year. Other than that, we're pretty much in the dark."

"Their threat is from their inside post people," he said. "They have a girl named Williams who is a six-foot senior, and one named Swoops, a six-foot junior. They are two of the better players in West

C.E. CARMICHAEL

Texas. "We'll just have to run several different things at them and see what works the best," he said. "It's our first game. Our approach and play is going to be based on how we're doing. We might make some changes, do some things differently during the game. We'll just have to see how it goes."

Carmichael is in his third year with the Lady Steers. His starting lineup for tonight's varsity match will be 5-6 senior Katrina Thompson at guard, along with 5-4 sophomore Peggy Smith.

At post, 5-9 sophomore Gisela Spears will start. Starting at forwards will be 6-0 junior Tami Wise and 5-9 senior Michelle LeGrand. Off the bench Carmichael plans to bring in 5-5 junior Kelli Knight, 5-7 freshman Pam Gill and 5-4 sophomore Stephanie Smith as needed.

Thompson started last year, Carmichael said. In the Lady Steers' championship season, Thompson was named to the all-district team. Tami Wise also started in some games as a freshman, which gives her nearly three years' experience as a starter, Carmichael said.

"Peggy Smith got in quite a bit of playing time last year, too," he said. "But the others are new to the varsity."

He said he will approach the season with an open mind. He does not discuss the polls with his players, he said. "If they hear about it, they have to hear about it somewhere else.

"I just don't discuss it with them," Carmichael said.

Lineups may change as the season wears on, he said. One more player will become eligible Friday. She was forced to sit out this six weeks because of her grades under the no-pass, no-play rule, Carmichael explained.

Later this week, the Lady Steers will host a basketball tournament. The opening games pit Lubbock High and Snyder in one bracket, Andrews and Hereford in the other.

Lubbock Coronado and the Lady Steers have byes in the first round, because those two teams met last year in the tournament finals, Carmichael said.

The action will continue from 2 p.m. Friday until the finals game, set to start at 6 p.m. Saturday in Steer Gym. That game will be followed immediately by a regular game for the boys' team.

Four tournament games, varsity squads only, are set for Friday in the tournament. The losers of the opening round will meet for the consolation game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Basketball referees slate meeting

Big Spring's chapter of the Southwestern Basketball Officials Association will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Goliad Middle School. Annual dues will be collected and the public is invited.

Anyone interested in becoming a basketball referee for the 1988-89 season is urged to attend. For more information, contact Mike Scarborough at Big Spring High School, 267-7461.

Muzzleloaders' club sponsors event

The Comanche Trail Muzzleloaders Club is sponsoring a primitive pack-in Friday through Sunday, Nov. 20-22.

Participants should bring their own water. Deadfall firewood and a picket line will be provided.

The pack-in will take place at the Pat Porter ranch one mile east of Vealmoor on FM 1785.

For more information contact Kay or Errol Porter at the Broken Spoke in Big Spring Mall, 263-2400 or Jay Colvin, 263-6665.

BSHS freshmen drop first court tilt

The Big Spring High School Lady Steers freshman team lost its first game of the season Monday, according to coach Elaine Stone. The split squad was defeated by the Lamesa freshman girls' basketball team, 55-20.

"We had to split the teams," Stone said today. "You can only play one game between Monday and Thursday, so we just had six girls on the court."

"The second half (of the squad) plays Brownfield tonight," she said. Amy Payer was high-point scorer in the loss with seven, followed by Shawn Settles, four points, Carla Van Vleet, five points, Michele Hewitt, three points, and Vernice Ross, one point.

Regalado tops harriers in state meet

Big Spring High School's cross country runner Mimi Regalado finished 28th among 102 runners in the state meet in Georgetown, a performance her coach recounts with pride.

"She ran a 13:26," coach Randy Britton said, "and that's pretty darn good for a freshman."

According to the cross country mentor, the boys' team did not perform as well as expected.

"We had two boys run pretty good," Britton said Monday, "and the rest of 'em choked."

He said the stress of the state meet probably influenced his harriers' performance. Two of the runners on the boys' team, Joel Price and Shawn Daylong, ran very close to their personal best times, Britton said.

"Joel ran 18:13, which is 18 seconds off his best time," he said. "Shawn Daylong ran an 18:19, 21 seconds off his personal best."

The team's lone veteran of state meet competition, Ben Gonzales, ran a 17:42 to finish 45th in the 102-runner event.

James McMillan finished 81st with a time of 18:31. Chris Polyniak ran the three mile course in 18:38 to finish 83rd, followed by Mario Ramos, 87th, with a 19:00 flat and Tim Pruitt, 19:34, in 101st place.

The winning time, Britton said, belonged to a runner from Canyon High School who covered the course in 16:02.

"Canyon won state in the division," Britton said. "Our kids did a real good job."

"They can be very proud they made it," he went on. "That's about the only consolation we have, except that they're all underclassmen. Hopefully, this will be a learning experience for them.

"They can come back next year and they'll have this experience to help them win," he said. "It's awfully hard to go to state the first time and run well."

He said he had expected Gonzales to finish nearer the top of his division because the harrier had run in a previous state meet but in a different event.

"We figured we'd finish about eighth," he said of his team, which came in 12th in its division among the dozen teams competing.

Houston hearing different outcry from 1986

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Jerry Glanville took a moment Monday to reflect on just how much of a turnaround his team has made in one year.

He figures it approaches 360 degrees.

A year ago, the Oilers lost to the Pittsburgh Steelers 21-10, dropping to a 2-9 record. Critics called for Glanville's resignation.

"Last year after this game, our experts (media) asked (General Manager) Ladd (Herzog) and myself to step down and resign," Glanville said. "Our owner (Bud Adams) told us to quit watching TV, so I think everything has changed in one year."

No one is calling for Glanville's resignation after Sunday's 23-3 victory over the Steelers.

In nine seasons, it was Houston's first victory in Three Rivers Stadium, and it marked the first time ever that the Oilers had beaten all three division rivals on the road in the same season.

The victory boosted the Oilers record to 6-3 and kept them tied for the AFC Central Division lead with the Cleveland Browns, their opponent in the Astrodome Sunday.

The Oilers, who finished 5-11 last season, aren't as improved as they appear to the public, Glanville said.

"We knew we were much improved last year, but it was hard to sell that in Houston," Glanville said. "We just couldn't get over the hump. We were losing in overtime or in the last minute."

Glanville isn't ready to start counting the ghosts that the Oilers have cleaned out of their closets.

"You don't have time for personal feelings at a time like this," Glanville said. "You go to work and get ready for the next game."

But first, the Oilers spent one day savoring a rare victory in Three Rivers Stadium, scene of such disappointing playoff losses in the late 1970s.

"Usually, the Steelers try to intimidate us," Oiler tight end Jamie Williams said. "That wasn't the case today. We got physical with them."

"When you pound on a team play after play, they can't help but feel intimidated. I don't think they expected us to do that to them."

After giving up 947 yards in their two previous games (504 to Cincinnati and 443 to San Francisco), the Oilers held the Steelers to just 170 total yards after Earnest Jackson left the game with a rib injury on the first series.

Denver's Orange Crush, Elway combine to beat Bears

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Football Writer

DENVER (AP) — John Elway won a game of dueling quarterbacks with Jim McMahon, throwing for 341 yards and three touchdowns as the Denver Broncos twice erased deficits to beat the Chicago Bears 31-29 Monday night.

Spending much of the night working from a shotgun formation, Elway brought the Broncos back from a 14-0 first-period deficit and from eight points back in the fourth, finally running the drive that culminated in Steve Sewell's 4-yard touchdown run with 4:58 left for the winning points.

The game, played in 22-degree weather, was one of alternating quarters of dominance. The Bears had the upper hand in the first and third periods, the Broncos in the second and fourth. The final margin was two missed extra points by the Bears. Kevin Butler kicked one wide left and another failed when holder Mike Tomczak fumbled the snap.

The Broncos, 5-3-1, turned the tables on the Bears, 8-2, whose three previous post-strike games were victories by one, three and two points over Tampa Bay, Kansas City and Green Bay.

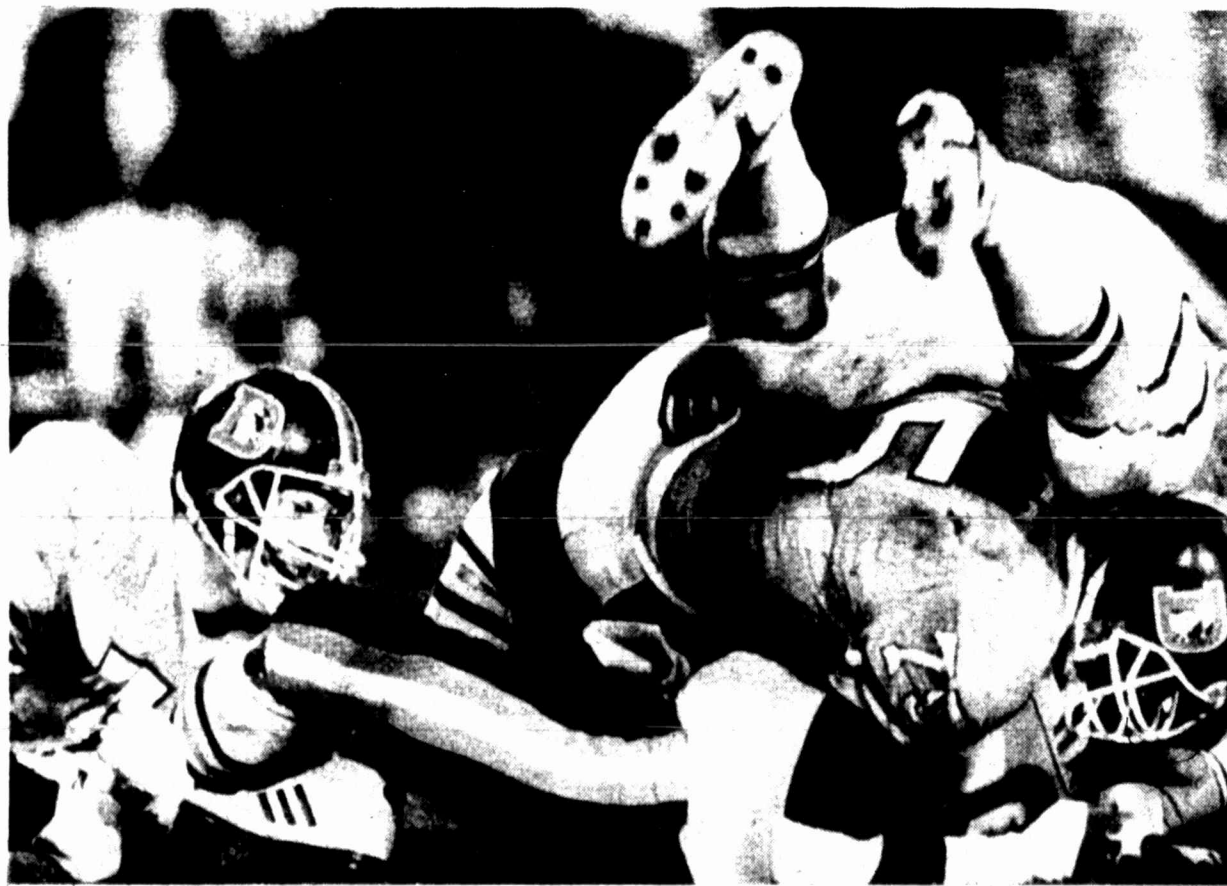

It also marked the first Chicago loss in 26 games started by McMahon, who completed 21 of 34 passes for 311 yards and three touchdowns. He also sneaked one yard for a fourth touchdown. It was the first 300-yard game of his injury-marred, six-year career.

Ironically, McMahon was also the goat, throwing an off-balance pass that was intercepted by rookie K.C. Clark as the Bears, holding a 29-24 lead, were driving midway through the fourth quarter.

Elway then directed the Broncos' eight-play, 61-yard drive to the winning touchdown. The Denver defense then throttled the Bears with their only three sacks of the night, the final one sending McMahon limping off the field with 36 seconds left to play.

Chicago dominated the first period despite starting its first four possessions at the 10, 14, 18 and 10.

The Bears took a 7-0 lead just 3:15 into the game on a 51-yard touchdown pass from McMahon to Willie Gault. It came on a third-down-and-2 play on which Gault took a quick 11-yard flip at the Denver 40, spun around Mike Harden, and outraced Dennis Smith to the end zone.

Denver Broncos' Orange Crush defense reintroduces itself to Chicago Bear quarterback Jim McMahon in Monday night NFL action. The Broncos defeated the Bears, 31-29.

Chicago made it 14-0 six minutes later on an 86-yard, eight-play drive capped by McMahon's 6-yard touchdown pass to Cap Boso. The drive was helped by a 22-yard pass interference call against Denver's Mark Haynes.

Then it was Elway's turn. The Broncos made it 14-7 with 51 seconds gone in the second quarter when Elway connected with Vance Johnson on a 22-yard touchdown pass. The ball deflected off the fingers of safety Todd Bell and into Johnson's hands. It came at the end of an 82-yard, eight-play drive.

It was the club-record 75th touchdown pass of Elway's five-year career, one more than Craig Morton.

The Bears, once again unfazed by poor field position, came right back, moving 89 yards to the Denver 1. Then came what might have been the game's key play.

On third down, Chicago used 315-pound defensive tackle William "The Refrigerator" Perry in the backfield for the first time this season and only the second since his precedent-setting rookie season of 1985. This time, the move backfired. Harden stripped Perry of the ball at the goal line and Haynes returned it to the 24.

From there, Denver moved 76 yards in 10 plays, tying the game on Elway's 22-yard pass to Mark Jackson with 1:54 left in the half.

The Bears couldn't move, but Denver could, with Elway hitting rookie Ricky Nattiel on a perfect 35-yard pass over Reggie Phillips with 11 seconds left in the half. It was the first NFL touchdown for Nattiel, who caught the ball just in bounds to cap a seven-play, 69-yard drive.

Elway, who threw for just four yards in the first half in last week's 21-14 loss at Buffalo, had 214 by intermission this time.

First, McMahon took the Bears 72 yards in seven plays, capping it with a 26-yard touchdown pass to Gault with 6:50 gone in the period. When Butler's extra point attempt was wide left, Denver led 21-20.

The Bears got the ball right back, however, and took the lead just two minutes later.

Ron Rivera, replacing the injured Otis Wilson at linebacker, intercepted an Elway pass at the Denver 30 and returned it to the 15. Four plays later, McMahon snuck over from the 1.

Queens hosting tournament here

The Howard College Hawk Queens women's basketball team will host a tournament this week in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

According to Queens' Coach Don Stevens, the tournament will begin Thursday at 4 p.m. with a game between the women of Odessa College and the McLennan College women's roundball squad.

At 6 p.m. Western Texas College meets Panola College in the opening round, and at 8 p.m. Howard's Queens will play the Southwest Christian College women's team.

On Friday the action continues as McLennan meets Western Texas at 4 p.m., Southwest Christian plays Odessa College at 6 p.m. and Howard plays Panola at 8 p.m.

On Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Odessa plays Panola College, followed by Western Texas against Southwest Christian at 3:30 p.m. and Howard College meeting McLennan at 5:30 p.m., Stevens said.

Stevens said Odessa College will probably be the best team in the tournament. They are coming off a victory in the championship round of their own tourney last weekend, he said.

Cowboys, Walker bench Dorsett

IRVING (AP) — Herschel Walker's 60-yard touchdown run in overtime not only gave the Cowboys a 23-17 NFL victory over New England, it secured a sideline seat for Tony Dorsett.

"Herschel has the capability of doing that every time he carries the ball," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "Herschel is our future."

Walker, 25, replaced the 33-year-old Dorsett at starting tailback Sunday against the Patriots and responded with 173 yards rushing on 28 carries. It was the fourth-highest rushing total in Cowboys' history.

"They (the coaches) have made their decision to go to Herschel and I'll have to live with it for this season," Dorsett said.

Dorsett suffered a bruised shoulder during the game. He carried once for five yards and caught two passes for 19 yards.

"I have no problems with Herschel," Dorsett said. "It's just obvious the team wants to go with a younger man. We're still good friends. Remember, we were roommates in training camp. Eventually, everyone's time comes to be replaced in the NFL. I guess mine is here."

Dorsett, in his 11th NFL season, needs 108 yards to become the fourth-leading rusher in league history.

"It was a tough decision for me to make to replace Tony," Landry said. "He's also to the 12,000-yard rushing mark and he can still do the job. It was hard on me and hard on Tony."

 Walker's frustration of being a part-time wide receiver reached a peak last week when he complained he didn't understand his role on the team. Walker suggested he might be better off on another club.
 Club President Tex Schramm agreed with Walker and Landry announced Friday that Walker would start against the Patriots.
 Walker also caught five passes for 59 yards against New England.
 "It felt good to do this for the team," Walker said.

"I went too far in some of my statements last week. I'm glad I could do this for the Cowboys."
 He added, "I still can't say I'm the starting tailback. Tony will still play. When you have someone with his talent, you have to get him into the game."
 Dorsett said he thought he had suffered a separated shoulder against New England.
 "X-rays show it's just a bruise," Dorsett said. "It's just sore."
 Dorsett had some kind words for Walker after the touchdown run.
 "I told him what a great run it was," Dorsett said.

Books About the Constitution

This is the 200th anniversary of our Constitution. Here are two children's books about the subject that you would enjoy.

"We the People: The Constitution of the United States of America," by Peter Spier, is a picture book. It is mainly about the preamble. This book shows how our country has grown and changed from its beginnings to the present.

Peter Spier is one of the best-known children's illustrators in the country. He has won many awards. His latest was the 1978 Caldecott Medal for the book "Noah's Ark."

The Caldecott Medal is given each year to the most outstanding illustrator of a children's book.

"If You Were There When They Signed the Constitution," by Elizabeth Levy, illustrated by Richard Rosenblum, published by Scholastic, 1987.

"If You Were There When They Signed the Constitution" is a question-and-answer book about this subject. The author, Elizabeth Levy, has written 35 books for children and young adults. She too has won awards.

will give you an idea of the humor that makes reading her books so much fun.

- "What's the Big Idea, Ben Franklin?"
- "Will you Sign Here, John Hancock?"
- "Where Do You Think You Are Going, Christopher Columbus?"

What's your background, Jean Fritz?

Jean Fritz was born in China and lived there until she was 12 years old. Her parents were missionaries. She moved back to this country and the family settled in Hartford, Conn.

After she married, she and her husband settled in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., where they still live. They have two grown children.

At first, she wrote short stories for adults. She became interested in writing for young readers when she set up a children's section for a local library.

How do you work, Jean Fritz?

"I write by hand until the end of the day. Then I type up what I have done. I revise as I go along. There are many revisions and cuttings at the end."

"I always visit the place where the person lived or where the event took place."

"The research is the fun part of it."

Meet OMD

OMD has been a popular group in England for about seven years. They became known in America two years ago when they had a hit song in the movie "Pretty in Pink." The founding members are Andy McCluskey (vocals, keyboards and bass) and Paul Humphreys (vocals and keyboards). Paul and Andy, both 28, grew up near each other in Liverpool, England. They used to listen to records and practice music at Paul's house. Andy and Paul formed their first band with some friends at age 16. The two then decided to try a band on their own. They named themselves Orchestral Manoeuvres in the Dark (OMD for short) after one of their first songs. They had their first record at age 21. They now have seven albums. Andy has two sisters. He still lives in Liverpool. He likes the group Simple Minds. Paul and his wife, Mo, live in Liverpool. He and Andy are both interested in Martin Luther King and have written a song about him. They spend a lot of time touring.

BRB'S MAGIC TRICK

Magical Glass Trick

You'll need:

- heavy construction paper
- a glass
- water

What to say:
 "I can turn a glass of water over, and the water will not spill out."

What to do:

1. Pour a glass full of water.
2. Cut a paper square to cover the top of a glass.
3. Put the paper on top of the glass. Hold your finger on the paper.
4. Standing at a sink, turn the glass over. Remove your finger from the square. The square should stick to the rim.

Gus Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Stefan Edberg

Height: 6-2 Birthdate: 1-19-66
Weight: 175 Birthplace: Vasterвик, Sweden

Swedish tennis star Stefan Edberg began playing the game when he was 7. His mother taught him how. Now he is one of the top players in the world. Some experts say he may become No. 1. Stefan has won many big tournaments, including the Australian Open and the Swiss Open. The quiet Swede likes golf and soccer. His favorite groups are Genesis and Dire Straits.

Names in the news

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Farrah Fawcett said her perfectionism made her a pain in the neck while making "Poor Little Rich Girl," an NBC-TV miniseries that began last night.

FARRAH FAWCETT

In the five-hour show, Ms. Fawcett portrays Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton as chic, wealthy, miserable and sometimes dependent on drugs and alcohol.

Ms. Fawcett said she had problems with the script and casting, clashed with executive producer Lester Persky and at one point wanted to leave the production.

"I'm a perfectionist, and so are they," the 40-year-old actress said. "I think we managed to irritate everyone on the set — but our intentions were admirable."

Persky said that to play Hutton, Ms. Fawcett "wanted authenticity, and she wanted a production that would reflect her lifestyle. But she was very sweet and giving. She actually gave extra days to the production. She never missed a day's work."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope took aim at the White House, Wall Street and politicians as he toasted the 35th anniversary of the famed Sands Hotel.

BOB HOPE

Hope, performing Saturday night at a private dinner dance, said that only four weeks ago his stockbroker was telling him "buy." Now, the comedian said, his broker is telling him "jump."

Hope, 84, said he was in Washington recently, but didn't stop by the White House because "I didn't want to be on the Supreme Court."

He said former Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart "wanted to throw his hat in the ring again, but he forget where he left it."

The dinner dance was attended by high rollers, officials and past performers, including Patii Page, Foster Brooks and members of the Copa Girls chorus line that played the Copa Room.

"The Sands was the hotel that started Las Vegas on the big time," said Sen. Chic Hecht, R-Nev. "It was the first hotel that brought big entertainers and it's the hotel that really skyrocketed this town."

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The sculptor of a San Francisco fountain that was spray-painted by U-2 lead singer Bono says he was unperturbed by the graffiti, calling it "a very necessary disease."

Armand Vaillancourt attended the Irish band's Oakland Coliseum concert Saturday night to show he had no hard feelings about last week's graffiti incident in San Francisco, said U-2 publicist Regine Moylett.

During that concert, Bono spray-painted, "Stop the Traffic, Rock 'n' Roll" on the fountain.

The act annoyed police, who recently led a campaign against graffiti and vandalism.

On Saturday, Vaillancourt joined U-2 on stage. As they played, he scrawled "Stop the Madness" across the 60-foot stage set.

"Graffiti is a very necessary disease," the sculptor said. "Young people don't have the access to front pages as politicians do. Bono was obviously high on his music. I have come here to say, 'No problem.'"

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Israel's president, Chaim Herzog, received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Brandeis University, which shares with the Jewish state the same birth year: 1948.

At Sunday's ceremony, the 69-year-old Herzog predicted improved relations between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former White House aide Michael Deaver says first lady Nancy Reagan expressed support when he called her from a clinic to tell her he was being treated for alcoholism.

Deaver recounted the conversation in his book, "Behind the Scenes," excerpts of which appear in Life magazine's December issue.

The effects of Deaver's alcoholism are part of his defense in his trial on charges he lied to Congress and a grand jury investigating his activities as a lobbyist after he left the White House.

In November 1986, Deaver wrote in his book, he had been at a Maryland alcoholism clinic for 10 days before his wife, Carolyn, was permitted to visit. She said Mrs. Reagan had been calling every day, wondering where he was.

"Later, I placed a call to the White House," Deaver wrote. "When Nancy came on the line, she said, 'My God, where are you?'"

"The words did not exactly dance off my tongue: 'I'm at a place in Maryland where I'm getting some help ... because I am an alcoholic.'"

"Thank God!" she said forcefully. "Thank God, that's what it is."

"Nancy what are you saying? I just told you I'm an alcoholic. It's a terrible thing."

"Calmly, she said: 'No, it's a disease, and one you can handle. I was worried sick you might have cancer. This one you can cure.'"

For use with issue: What's New, Jean Fritz?

Main idea: To celebrate National Children's Book Week, this issue features an interview with author Jean Fritz. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following.

1. When is National Children's Book Week? Mark the dates on a calendar. What does the theme of the week mean to you? What can you do to celebrate it?
2. Visit your school library and have the librarian give the class a tour to show you the different areas. Where would you find books about the Constitution?
3. Design a poster for National Children's Book Week. Be sure to include the theme.
4. What is the name of Jean Fritz's book on the Constitution? Design a new cover for it.
5. Look in your school or local library to find one of the books mentioned in this issue. If you cannot find one, find any book written or illustrated by someone whose name you find in the issue.
6. Do you have a favorite book? What makes it special to you? Who is the author? The illustrator? Has the author written any other books? What do you think makes a good book?
7. Circle all the quotation marks. Talk about how they are used. Write a sentence using quotation marks.
8. If you were to interview your favorite author, what questions would you ask him or her?
