American Smokeout are "hanging in there" in their attempt to temporarily kick the smoking habit.

In Corpus Christi, restaurateurs say that since the city's smoking ordinance went into effect last year, the popularity of their nonsmoking sections has exceeded their expectations.

Locally, however, restaurant owners contacted said the SmokeOut had little effect on their business.

'The smokers now out-number the non-smokers here 12-3," said Maureen Daniels, manager of Denny's Restaurant. She added expected, he said.

that the patrons are usually split "50-50" between smokers and nonsmokers

Homer Wilkerson, owner of Herman's Restaurant, said that there were a few more non-smokers today than usual. Most of the time, he noted, "it's pretty evenly split."

The American Cancer Society sponsors the annual one-day campaign to encourage smokers to give up their cigarettes for 24 hours and possibly lead them into giving them up altogether.

Penny Hill, an employee at Big Spring State Hospital, said she was being successful in her habitkicking attempt, also.

"It's not easy, but I'm doing it," she said. Hill added she was chewing gum when she had the urge to smoke, but is being careful as to what she eats.

"I don't have a weight problem so far, and I sure don't want one," she said.

George Van Hassel, a counselor at Hall-Bennett Hospital, said the busy morning he had was to his advantage

"So far, I've been too busy to smoke," he said. "This afternoon will probably be slow, so I'll have to watch out then.'

Pat Stewart of San Angelo was talked into quitting for the day by the Rev. John Crow, a chaplain at substitutes, and many users are voice softly explaining the hazards.

Pizza delivery service prompts local group's concern, petition

By KERRY HAGLUND Staff Writer

A local group, alleging discriminatory practices by a local pizza parlor for not delivering to the north side of Big Spring, is considering boycotting the Restaurant officials, however, say the policy was a business decision made because of delivery time Raul Marquez, president of the Big Spring League of Latin American Citizens, said the local LULAC chapter met this week to further discuss the issue. A petition containing 200 signatures was sent Nov. 1 to Pizza Hut owner Herbert Blankenship showing concern over the policy, Marquez said. The group also has contacted local employees and Pizza Hut Area Manager Robert Barton concerning the delivery policy. Barton oversees the Big Spring operation, along with three restaurants in Midland and one in Andrews.

'We felt like it wasn't right to omit a certain area of town," Marquez said, adding that he wasn't satisfied with reasons outlined in a Sept. 23 letter

In the letter, Barton explained that the north delivery boundary was Second Street because of time and route factors. "We wish we could deliver to all of Big Spring, but to do it properly and not hurt other areas of our business is not possible considering our present location and facilities," Barton said.

Managers at Pizza Inn, 1702 Gregg St., Domino's Pizza, 2202 Gregg St., and Godfather's Pizza, College Park Shopping Center, all said their pizza parlors deliver to all areas of the city.

that are located much further than the furthest part of the north side," Marquez said.

In response to a question on boundaries, Barton said east/ west boundaries are greater because of FM 700 access.

The farm-to-market road has fewer traffic lights, a higher speed limit and less traffic, he said, allowing a larger delivery area.

Delivery routes are determined according to peak business times, he said, explaining that the restaurant treats its eat-in, carry-out, and delivery services on a first-come, first-served basis.

"Try driving down Gregg Street at seven or eight p.m. and see how far you can get," he said. Marquez, however, contends Pizza Hut has delivered pizzas to Motel 6, located near the Gregg Street intersection with Interstate 20 — past the north side. A call to the motel indicated the pizza parlor had made deliveries to the motel.

"Yes, I believe so," Barbara Barnes, the manager's wife said when asked whether Pizza Hut provides delivery service to the hotel. "I think my husband ordered one the other night, and they brought it," she said. All Pizza Hut officials contacted, however, said service was not provided.

"No, we don't deliver to Motel 6," Big Spring Pizza Hut Manager Vijay Patel said. Barton, along with Terry Foster, director of operations, also said the parlor doesn't deliver to hotels located on Interstate 20.

State work financed by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved spending more than $50 million for water and flood control projects in Texas and $23 million for various energy projects in the state.

The money is part of a $15.9 billion appropriations bill for energy and water development in fiscal 1988, which began Oct. 1. It passed 86-9 in Wednesday's vote. The House approved a money bill for water projects earlier this year. For Texas, the Senate bill includes $25 million for construction of a flood control project in San Antonio that would divert water overflows into an underground channel that would run partially beneath the city's central business

 $14 million for a flood control project at Cooper Lake near Sulphur Springs. The project has been pending for more than 30 years and will provide for flood control, recreation and water supply

DANELLE CASTILLO Danelle Castillo named Miss Merry Christmas

Christmas — "It is a time of sharing our love, for giving to others, and for rejoicing with our loved ones. Everyone — family and friends join together to share the spirit of giving ...

Those were among the sentiments expressed by Danelle Castillo, who was selected from among 10 contestants as the 1987 Miss Merry

The competition was sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Blue Blazers.

Miss Castillo, a member of the Steer Band, was chosen by a sixjudge panel — on her 18th birthday — on the basis of responses to a series of questions and an essay titled "What Christmas means to

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Castillo, 1014 Nolan St., the new Miss Merry Christmas and other contestants will be featured in the community Christmas parade Dec. 5 and at other holiday activities in the community, according to event chairman Sherrie Bordofske.

Other contestants for the title were: Shana Arnold, Lisa Alvarez, Letitia Baucham, Terri Duffer, Leslie Dunnam, Melynda Grifford, Nadine Marquez, Nora Phillips and Shani Sparling.

Among the winner's comments in her essay were: "Christmas is a time to celebrate the birth of our lord, Jesus Christ. We all gather to share the spirit of giving, as the three wise men did on the day of the birth of Jesus Christ. ... We share our love by uniting together with the people we love most. When we rejoice, we go caroling to sing and spread the joy of Christmas. ... Christmas is a day for loving.

Deadline for participating in the Christmas parade is Nov. 23 and entries are available at the Big Spring Herald, sponsor of this year's parade. There is no charge to participate.

Four designs chosen for Vietnam memorial

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

The local Vietnam Memorial

Committee has narrowed to four the list of designs for a permanent memorial to those who served in the Vietnam conflict. Secretary Rob McKenzie said the sible for the memorial's upkeep will choose the one that is most cost-effective. The group doesn't yet have an committee — which will be respon-estimate as to construction costs. Once a design is chosen, estimates from monument manufacturers can be obtained, McKenzie said.

Members recently appeared before the Howard College Board of Trustees in an attempt to secure land on SWCID's campus for the memorial site. While supportive of the committee's goal, board members said use of the land has to be cleared with the General Services Administration.

Questions concerning transferring liability from the college to the memorial committee also must be cleared before land use can be granted, according to Howard College President Bob Riley Legal considerations aside, the trustees showed support for the memorial during their meeting, although board member Harold Davis noted that the desired site may not be the best. "It's a shame it will be where people don't normally pass by," Davis said of the proposed site at the southeast corner of SWCID.

In reply, committee chairman Charlie Lewis said enough interest had been raised by the Moving Wall's recent visit to the same site to virtually ensure public exposure, noting that there are still visitors to the site, although nothing physical remains there. The committee also hopes to eventually erect a museum on the site, he added, to display memorabilia left behind by visitors

Heart trouble linked to smoking parents

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) -Parents who smoke cigarettes at home are probably threatening their sons with heart disease as adults, say researchers who found cardiac abnormalities in 11- and 12-year-old boys exposed to secondhand smoke.

"If parents want the best for their children's health, they should quit smoking," said Dr. William Moskowitz, a pediatric cardiologist who conducted the study at the Medical College of Virginia.

In another study at the school, Dr. Joann Bodurtha found that girls and mothers who showed rapid rises in blood pressure during exercise were more likely to come from families in which people died of heart disease before age

The correlation shows that exercise tests could help identify families at risk so they can be counseled to avoid such dangers as foods, said pediatric cardiology chairman Dr. Richard Schieken.

the American Heart Association's annual meeting Wednesday, followed twins as part of a 10-year effort to determine inherited and environmental factors that may predict heart disease.

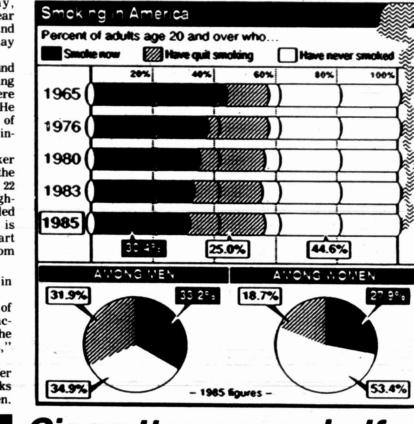

Moskowitz performed ultrasound tests on 141 boys from non-smoking families and 41 from homes where one or both parents smoked. He also measured blood levels of cholesterol and chemicals that indicate smoke exposure.

Sons of smokers had thicker heart walls, stiffer aortas - the main artery of the chest - and 22 percent lower levels of highdensity lipoprotein or so-called 'good'' cholesterol, which is thought to protect against heart disease by removing fats from artery walls.

The abnormalities were worse in boys exposed to more smoke.

The research indicates sons of smokers face "a higher risk of accelerated heart disease in the smoking and consumption of fatty following decades of their lives,' Moskowitz said.

Thicker heart walls and stiffer Both studies, presented during aortas mean the heart works harder and needs more oxygen.

Cigarettes cause half of female heart disease

BOSTON (AP) — Smoking less than five cigarettes a day can double or triple women's risk of heart disease, and no level of smoking should be considered safe, a study today concludes.

The researchers wrote that their findings "leave little doubt that smoking is a dominant cause of coronary heart disease among young and middle-aged women in the United States."

Their work, based on a survey of nurses, says that about half of all heart disease among women in this age group can be blamed on

Until a few years ago, many experts believed that cigarettes did not contribute to heart disease in women. But recent studies have portant hazard for women's hearts. just as it is for men's.

"Any doubt about the effect of smoking on acquired heart disease in women should be erased" by the latest study, Dr. Jonathan E. Fielding of the University of California, Los Angeles, wrote in an editorial published with the report in the New England Journal

Smoking already has been linked by overwhelming evidence with lung cancer and emphysema in both sexes. In addition, there is evidence that special hazards for women include cervical cancer, early menopause and damage to the fetus during pregnancy.

"the overwhelming importance of smoking for coronary heart disease in young and middle-aged women," said its director, Dr. Walter C. Willett of the Harvard School of Public Health. "It looks like cigarette smoking can account for approximately 50 percent of the total number of cases of coronary heart disease in that group.'

Among the study's findings: -Approximately 46 percent of fatal coronary disease and 54 percent of non-fatal heart attacks in women can be attributed to cigarette use.

-Among women smoking more than 25 cigarettes a day, 81 percent of deaths from coronary heart disease are caused by smoking.

-Even the lightest smokers, those who smoked one to four cigarettes a day, were 2.4 times more likely than non-smokers to have heart disease

The risk rises dramatically if concluded that smoking is an im- smokers also have other risk factors for heart disease. For instance, diabetic smokers and those with high blood pressure were 22 times more likely than nonsmokers to have coronary heart

> -When women stopped smoking, their increased risk of heart disease returned to normal.

The Nurses Health Study is following the diets and living habits of 119,404 nurses across the country. When the study began in 1976, they ranged from ages 30 to 55, and about 30 percent smoked cigaret tes. This was virtually the same as women nationwide

During the middle years, heart The latest study demonstrates attacks are far more common among men than women. However, Willett notes: "It is not a rare disease. It's one of the most important causes of death among women in this age group.

Clements appoints candidate for empty chief justice post

AUSTIN — The new chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, State District Judge Thomas R. Phillips, will make a competitive candidate in next November's elections, according to the man who appointed

"Electability had to be a factor," Gov. Bill Clements said Wednesday in naming Phillips, a Republican, to the state's highest civil court.

Phillips, 38, succeeds Democrat John Hill, who is resigning from the court in mid-term on Jan. 4 to campaign for changing the current system of electing Texas judges to a system of appointing them.

Phillips must seek election in 1988 for the remainder of Hill's term, which expires in 1990.

'Tom is committed to this election coming up. He recognizes his problems in having to run again in a couple of years. But to borrow a phrase, he's got the fire in his belly. And he's going to make a great candidate," Clements said.

Phillips, who becomes the first Republican in modern times to head the Texas Supreme Court, said he expects to disagree at times with the eight Democratic justices.

Rescuers too late to save two boys

EL PASO - Firefighters and neighbors battled flames and smoke to try to save two young brothers, but rescuers were too late when they finally made their way into the gutted mobile home.

Four-year-old Justin Kuntz and his 3-year-old brother, Shane, clung together crying for help during the blaze Wednesday afternoon, officials said. Their bodies were found huddled together on a Plastic tricycles were melted at the side of the mobile home and a dog searched throughout the debris for her puppies. Firefighters said they found four dead puppies on the other end of the mobile home.

The boys' mother, Rita Kuntz, was awakened and told of the fire by her 2-year-old daughter, Roxanne. The mother and daughter were treated and released at Sierra Medical Center

Autopsies will be needed to determine whether Justin and Shane died from smoke inhalation or fire. Firefighters said victims usually die from inhaling smoke.

Fire Marshal Rodney Harris said late Wednesday that "there's just too much damage right now" to try to determine the cause of the fire, but investigator Hector Zubia said the fire appeared to have started in the kitchen or the boys' bedroom

Real estate developer denied bond

J.R. MCCONNELL

HOUSTON - J.R. McConnell, the elusive real estate developer who turned himself in to federal authorities, will remain in jail without bond, a federal judge has ruled

McConnell had sought a $50,000 bond, but U.S. Magistrate Karen Brown denied the request Wednesday, agreeing with federal prosecutors that McConnell was a risk to flee the country

The government had requested he be jailed until trial, or, if bond was set, that it be $1 million.

McConnell, arrested Tuesday after getting off a plane from Mexico, was indicted last month in what federal prosecutors said was just the start of one of the biggest bank-loan fraud cases in U.S. history

The indictment charged that Mc-Connell and five associates last year arranged loans for $4.2 million through fraud.

Safeway workers accept new pact

OKLAHOMA CITY — The six locals representing workers in the Oklahoma Division of Safeway Stores have given approval to a new contract that clears the way for purchase of the stores, union officials say

Roger Clark, international vice president of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, said the contract was ratified by more than a 3-2 margin

The 106-store division includes Oklahoma, Kansas and North Texas and employs aboout 4,900 hours of work, he said.

Under terms of the new contract, all workers will lose about $3 an hour in wages and benefits, said Jerry Bennett, deputy trustee for Local 1680 in Oklahoma City. He said the wage-to-benefit ratio would be determined according to each worker's wage rate with the top wage cuts coming from the

The contract also increases the number of full-time jobs and enables more senior part-time employees to claim additional highest-paid employees.

Mattox calls for Bible class changes

Charles Cox, Chairman of the Biblical Studies Association at the University of Texas at Austin, listens to testimony during Wednesday's House Higher Education Committee hearing. Seated behind Cox is atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair, who was waiting to testify.

AUSTIN (AP) — Atheist leader Madalyn Murray O'Hair says the University of Texas should find a way to continue offering religion courses ruled unconstitutional by Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Mattox also told the House Higher Education Committee Wednesday that the courses should continue in a revamped form.

"It cannot be done with just a little bit of tinkering. It's going to take substantially greater changes than that," Mattox said.

Ms. O'Hair said it is possible that only atheists are capable of teaching religion courses without

The House committee convened Wednesday to hear about efforts to get the courses in line with recent opinions in which Mattox has held that it is improper for state universities to offer Bible courses taught by instructors picked and paid for by church

The University of Texas at Austin has used instructors selected and paid by the Biblical Studies Association for 80 years. The school now is looking for a new way to offer the courses. The association has asked a federal court to review the situation.

"I believe the religious studies are important to the curriculum at the University of Texas at Austin," UT President William Cunningham told the committee. "We believe these courses should be taught on our campus.

Mattox agreed, saying an educated person "needs to know the difference in what people believe around this world."

But he said it is difficult to craft religion courses that would not violate the constitutional ban on church-state entanglement.

"They must be taught in such a way that they do not proselytize and that they reflect a secular purpose," Mattox said.

Twenty-two Texas state universities offer religion courses taught by instructors paid by religious groups, according to Rep. Wilhelmina Delco. D-Austin and chairwoman of the higher education committee

Governor's summit badly needed

Gov. Clements last week said he the risk of subjecting the state to would hold a "corrections summit" after Thanksgiving with prison officials and Dallas, Harris and Tarrant County officials to discuss problems stemming from prison overcrowding.

... Texas is caught between the remorseless rules of mathematics and the federal courts. The TDC quota system allows for the admission of 750 new prisoners each week. So why not boost the quota? Under federally mandated prison reforms, the TDC cannot exceed its rated capacity, or it runs massive fines.

The counties, of course, are involved because prisoners who would otherwise be in TDC facilities are being kept in county lockups — at county expense.

... All of this is more than a little unsettling... It also bolsters the case for alternative sentencing to include restitution centers and work-release programs — for nonviolent offenders. At this juncture, Texas can't afford to dismiss any reasonable options out of hand.

More than 900,000 American women gave birth last year by Caesarean section. Only about half that number should have.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe of the Public Citizen Health Research Group, affiliated with consumer advocate Ralph Nader, found that 24 percent of all births in 1986 occurred by Caesarean surgery, four times the proportion in 1970.

Has this unnecessary increase come because physicians are greedy for the higher fees brought by the operation? That cynical explanation does not fit the facts: It is hardly plausible that some doctors have become that much greedier since 1970.

A more likely theory is that obstetricians are more afraid of being sued for malpractice. Ironically, the litigious climate encouraged by Nader's groups seems to have fed the very problem that one of them now deplores

Getting monkey off his back means losing a nervous habit

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

I promised I wouldn't smoke until I finished my column, so let's make this quick, shall we? As you read this, I am in the throes of nicotine withdrawal. It isn't a pretty sight, believe me. The inspiration for this form of masochism is the > Great American SmokeOut, a campaign by the American Cancer Society to encourage weak-willed fools like me to shake the nicotine monkey off our backs.

After much pleading, cajoling and other mild forms of blackmail from fellow newsroom-types, I agreed to participate in the event. They have promised full support and sympathy to help me in any way possible.

Little did I know that sympathy is not an element in abundance in the newsroom. But then, what can you expect from a pious group of non-smokers?

the realm

As I look about, there are anti-smoking posters plastered along the perimeter of the area. I feel I am in the midst of one of those infamous retraining centers the Soviets reserve for folks who are just a little too free-thinking.

"So, comrade, we understand that you are a smoker. Don't you understand that is contrary to the best interests of the masses?'

"But I enjoy smoking." "Hmmm, placing self-pleasure above the best intendency. I see that we will have to work extraterests of the state. A most unfortunate capitalistic hard on your problem. Comrade investigator, please hand me those thumb-screws.' Sorry about that little fantasy, folks. I guess paranoia is a withdrawal byproduct. Next thing you know, I'll be seeing little, green mutants crawling from my desk

The worst thing about kicking the habit is not the fantasies, however. Nor is it the smug, pseudoconcern from one's friends and cohorts.

The worst thing, without doubt: The nerves. If the legs of an athlete are the first things to go, peace of mind is the first thing to desert a smoker trying to shake the monkey.

This shattering of one's inner calm can take many forms. It also can take varying lengths of time to occur. Some quitters have been known to go for days before their nerves begin quaking. In my case, five minutes usually suffices.

It's as if my mind is conspiring against my best wishes. All I have to do is internally announce my desire to quit smoking, and my mind starts trying to dissuade me.

"You don't really want to quit, do you Steve?" "Yeah, I really want to quit."

"Now, Steve, we've gone this route before. Why don't we quit kidding each other? We know that you'll quit about the same time cows start flying." "No, guys, this time I mean it. I really, really want to quit.'

"Steve-O, do you remember what happened the last time we went through this? Do you want a repeat of that episode? Do you really want to go through all that unpleasantness again?'

"Aw, come on, guys. We're supposed to be on the same side! Please, just this one time, let's give it a

"Okay, Reagan, if that's the way you want it just don't say we didn't warn you. Nerves, this is the mind speaking: START DANCING!!!"

I could go on, but what's the point?

The simple fact is that I have boxed myself into a corner. I have told my colleagues that I will quit for today and they are devious and malicious enough to hold me to my word.

Editor's note: Reagan is, of course, being facetious. His co-workers are neither devious nor malicious. We are simply extending a helping hand to a brother in need. And if he happens to backslide a little, we will continue to help him - the ungrateful bum!

DO YOU GUYS MIND? This is MY column, after all. Now, where were we?

Oh, yeah, I remember, I know I can count on endless support and encouragement from my collegues in the newsroom to help me through this 24-hour period. A greater bunch of folks are not to be found this side of Siberia — er, El Paso, I mean.

So wish me luck, fans. I have embarked on a treacherous and mine-filled journey. If you don't hear from me again, it's been fun.

Editor's note: We are pleased to announce that Reagan successfully abstained from smoking today. With our congratulations, we also extend a promise to help him continue his fight against the demon

He has our full assurances that — if he needs it our support and encouragement will be there for him. Besides, there are always the thumb-screws,

Space laser a shortcut for Reagan

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's secret decision last December to go ahead with the "Zenith Star" chemical laser program was motivated by his longstanding desire to have at least a prototype laser weapon in space before he leaves the White House. But he won't make it.

Reagan's intense faith in his Strategic Defense Initiative, popularly known as "Star Wars," was what led him to order Lt. Gen James Abrahamson, director of SDI, to forge ahead with Zenith Star even though the president believed it would eventually violate the U.S.-Soviet Antiballistic Missile Treaty of 1972. The same sources in the White House, the Pentagon and the intelligence community who confirmed the story of Reagan's decision to Dale Van Atta predict that the hydrogen-fluoride laser under development will not be ready to test in space until long after Reagan leaves office.

Absolutely the earliest Zenith Star can have a chemical laser weapon ready to send up, these sources said, is late 1990. And that's only if technical problems do not cause delays It was shortly after his election in November 1980 that Reagan confided to several key Republican senators that he intended to accelerate the development of spacebased laser weapons as an anti-missile defense The laser of choice at that time was fueled by hydrogen fluoride and was known as Alpha. It had been under development since the late 1970s. But the relatively simple chemical laser lost its charm following Reagan's Star Wars speech in March 1983. Attention was focused on free-electron lasers, nuclear-powered X-ray lasers, particle-beam weapons and other exotica. Abrahamson's new SDI Office all but spiked the modest Alpha program. For SDI enthusiasts, the key factor was wave length — the shorter the better. Alpha's rivals were much shorter, and would be brighter, more destructive and more efficient. But by mid-1986, Abrahamson had changed his position, more from political than technical considerations. The White House wanted early results, and the general knew that every laser but Alpha would take at least 10 years to perfect. Thus was born the Zenith Star program: the Alpha chemical laser with tracking, computer and other systems to make it a fully integrated weapon.

When the president was finally sold on Zenith Star at an Oval Office meeting last Dec. 17 with Abrahamson and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, he insisted on making it a supersecret program.

So Reagan ordered that Zenith Star be a "black" program, meaning one that is so secret that few if any members of Congress are cleared to know about it. Zenith Star went through its first phase -January through May - as a fullyblack program.

But then, as the second phase began, some of the secrecy was lifted in a cleverly disarming fashion. Parts of the program have been downgraded to a "secret" classification level and removed from the special access codes that protected the earliest phase from curious members of Congress. On Oct. 5, the Pentagon even issued a press release about Phase Two - without using the stillclassified Zenith Star code name. Instead, they threw out a little blue smoke. The three-month, $10.8 million contract is "to develop a comprehensive road map and a ground verification and integration testing plan for existing key elements of the space-based laser program," the Pentagon announced. It added solemnly: "The study and the resulting plan will be entirely compliant with the 1972 ABM Treaty.'

That disingenuous statement is technically true, but it attempts to disguise the real purpose of the Zenith Star program — a purpose that will not be achieved in the second phase. The goal is to design a fully-integrated chemical laser weapon to be tested in space at the earliest possible moment.

Sony buys CBS Records

NEW YORK - CBS Inc. will likely lavish the $2 billion it realizes from the sale of its record division on its core broadcasting business, while the purchaser, Sony Corp., also achieved a key strategic goal with the deal, officials said.

CBS announced after a special board meeting late Wednesday that it had forged a deal with the Japanese electronics giant that is expected to close in early 1988 pending government approval.

CBS president and chief executive Laurence A. Tisch said in a statement that Sony presented "a very attractive offer in terms of value to the shareholders.

The sale "provides an important source of capital and allows us to focus all of our energies and resources on our core business of broadcasting," he said.

ROMULUS, Mich. - A Northwest Airlines executive has cast doubt on his airline's claim that the crew of Flight 225 properly had checked off the setting of the wing flaps before the nation's second-worst air accident.

The testimony came Wednesday on the third day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the Aug. 16 crash near Detroit Metropolitan Airport, which killed 156

NTSB investigators say a transcript of the cockpit voice recorder, as well as other evidence, showed the flight crew left the flaps in the retracted position, rather than extending them for takeoff.

The flaps, which are panels on the trailing edge of the wings, normally are placed at an angle of 11 degrees to enhance lift for takeoff.

MIAMI — The nation's largest single seizure of cocaine — more than three tons was found stuffed inside hollowed-out boards of a cargo ship boxcar, and drove drugsniffing dogs crazy, U.S. officials said today.

"It's become clear that cargo containers are the method of choice for shipping large amounts of cocaine," said Michael Sheehan, a U.S. Customs spokesman.

The wholesale value of the 6,292 pounds of cocaine seized Wednesday was estimated at $62 million by Paul A. Teresi, agent in charge of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration office in Fort Lauderdale.

Delta jet loses power

HONOLULU - A Delta Air Lines jumbo jet with 112 people aboard lost power in an engine over the Pacific but landed safely after flying 400 miles on its two remaining engines with a military escort, officials said.

The 100 passengers aboard Flight 1563 continued watching a movie during the incident Wednesday night and were unaware the engine had shut down, said Lew Malin, Delta's customer service supervisor here.

Subway fire

At least 30 die in pandemonium least 30 people and turned London's busiest subway station into a hellish cavern of flames and smoke remained a mystery today.

Pandemonium broke out when thousands of commuters found themselves trapped by the blaze Wednesday evening at King's Cross station and struggled to escape through walls of dense smoke and fierce

The London Fire Brigade said 34 people died, Scotland Yard put the figure at 32, and British Transport Police later said 30 were killed. There was no explanation for the discrepancies.

About 80 people were injured, including 21 who were hospitalized.

The cause was under investigation. Initially it was believed that trash under an escalator caught fire, but London Underground said it found the machine room under the mechanical stairway "clean as a whistle." There also was speculation that a discarded cigarette caused the fire. Smoking was banned in Underground stations and trains in January 1985, but the ban is sometimes ignored. The fire erupted at 7:36 p.m. at the tail end of the capital's commuter rush period, and undoubtedly

All the dead were civilians except for fire station officer Colin Townsley, 45, the Fire Brigade said. Twelve of the injured were in serious condition, including three burn victims in intensive care.

It was by far the worst fire on the 124-year-old London Underground, the world's oldest subway, and its second deadliest accident. Forty-three were killed and 74 injured in a 1975 subway train crash.

Passengers aboard trains that rode into King's Cross described watching helplessly through glass windows as commuters on the platform dashed about in panic. Leroy Bigby, 23, said he was on a train pulling into the station, when he began to smell smoke.

Then as the train pulled into the station it hit a cloud of smoke," he said. "I could hear people screaming and running in every direction on the station. The train carried on and did not stop.

Top politician shot

BELFAST, Northern Ireland - A leading Protestant politician who once recommended burning Roman Catholics was shot in the head today as he got out of a car, police said.

George Seawright, an elected city councilor, was admitted to Mater Hospital in critical condition with two bullet wounds in the head, authorities said.

The Royal Ulster Constabulary said Seawright was shot by "terrorists," but there was no immediate claim of responsibility. The Scottish-born Seawright is a member of the Democratic Unionists, led by the militant Rev. Ian Paisley. The party opposes any concessions by Protestants to the Catholic minority in the British province.

Spy appears on TV

LONDON - Double agent Kim Philby appeared on Soviet television for the first time and accused Western intelligence of provoking Latvian opposition to Soviet rule, the British Broadcasting Corp. said.

Philby, whose defection from Britain to the Soviet Union 24 years ago confirmed massive Soviet penetration of Western intelligence, appeared Wednesday in a four-minute interview in the Soviet republic of Latvia.

He looked "more like a Cambridge don in retirement than a traitor in exile," BBC said. Philby, now 75, was the "third man" with the late Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean. The three came out of Cambridge University in the 1930s and betrayed British and American secrets for decades until they fled to the Soviet Union.

LIMA, Peru - Leftist guerrillas threw dynamite at the U.S. Embassy, injuring a guard, and attacked an auto plant with gunfire and bombs after destroying power lines to cause a widespread power failure, police said. Under cover of the blackout Wednesday night, guerrillas also attacked a tourist hotel and several government facilities in Lima, police said. Four guerrillas were killed and two captured in the attack on the auto plant in Lima, police said. Besides the embassy guard, no injuries were reported to civilians or police who sponded to the attacks

Wife No. 2 doesn't like pictures of Wife No. 1

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in regard to "Steaming in Georgia," who had passed around a family album for visiting relatives to enjoy. She observed one "in-law" looking at two pictures of her husband and his first wife for a very long time. Then after everyone had left, she noticed that those two pictures had been removed from the album. "Steamed" was sure Wife No. 2 had taken them, and asked how to handle that situation at the next family gathering. You suggested she stand guard while guests looked at the album. Not very helpful, Abby.

I am also Wife No. 2, whose mother-in-law keeps pictures of her son and Wife No. 1 in an album permanently displayed on her coffee table. This offended me. After six years, I finally told my husband how I felt about it. It wasn't as though his mother didn't have any pictures of her son and me together. After all, we have taken us, and took plenty of pictures.

DEAR ABBY: I would suggest that "Steamed" use a little better judgment in the future, and remove — ahead of time — any pictures that could be offensive or hurtful to her guests.

As the wife of a divorced man, I know exactly how Wife No. 2 must have felt. True, the "in-law" had no right to remove those pictures, but she shouldn't have been subjected to them in the first place. If anyone has the right to be

Big Spring Symphony Association opens its seventh concert season with "A Romantic Evening at the Symphony" 8 p.m. Saturday in the Big Spring High School Auditorium.

The concert will feature the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Marianna Gabbi and guest concert pianist Tamas Ungar.

Symphony Association President John Wilson said the evening promises to be a "very enjoyable" evening for those who are familar with classic music and even those who are not.

'The concert will feature music that should be familiar to everyone," Wilson said.

The orchestra will perform "Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 5", "Grieg Piano Concerto" and 'Beethoven Egmont Overture.'

The 46-member orchestra will be the largest assembled for an association concert, Wilson said. Guest pianist Ungar is a native Hungarian. He emigrated to Australia and studied under Alexander Sverjensky at the Sydney Conservatorium of Music. In 1967, Ungar won the Australian Broadcasting Commission's national Concerto Competition, leading to appearances with every major orchestra in Austrailia and a tour of New Zealand.

Ungar pursued advance studies with Gyorgoy Sebok at Indiana University and Lajos Hernadi at the Liszt Academy, Budapest.

In 1971 he settled in London, where he earned a reputation as a leading exponent of the Romantic and Modern repertoire. He was appointed to the music faculty of the University of California at San Diego in 1976, and concertos and chamber music. Two years later he was invited to join the music department at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, and was eventually appointed Director of the TCU/Cliburn Piano Institute, a position he currently was soon on demand on the West Coast for recitals,

Ungar's concert engagements continued with return visits to Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and California, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin. His career also expanded to Austria, Germany, Holland, Italy, Canada and in many states, including Hawaii and Alaska.

Tickets to Saturday's concert are selling for $7.50 adults and $4 students and senior citizens. Tickets can be purchased at Dunlaps, Blum's, The Accent Shoppe, and the Casual Shoppe.

The Big Spring Symphony Association was formed in 1980 to bring peformances of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra to Big Spring. These performances continued until 1984, when the board decided to field its own orchestra.

Orchestra members are drawn from Midland, Odessa and Lubbock under Gabbi's direction. In addition, auditions were held last year to give talented Big Spring musicians an opportunity to play with a symphony ensemble.

Big Spring is one of the few cities its size with its own symphony orchestra and one of even fewer to have a woman conductor.

New movies expected to spice the holidays

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - America's movie theater owners are dreaming of a green Christmas to climax a record year at the box

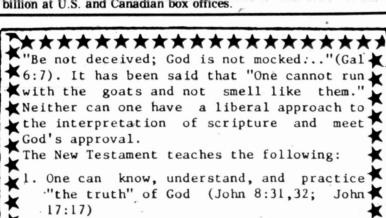

The return of Steven Spielberg, Bill Cosby and Barbra Streisand, a drama about Wall Street and such promising comedies as "Three Men and a Baby," "Planes, Trains and Automobiles" and "Moonstruck" are among the reasons film exhibitors are looking forward to the holiday season. In fact, they don't need to wait, since some of those movies will be on the screens by Thanksgiving.

"Three Men and a Baby' is going to do fantastic business," predicts Millie Gautier, a booker for the 100-screen, New York-based Creative Entertainment Consultants.

In a survey of theater circuits, "Three Men and a Baby" was the film that most bookers mentioned first. The Touchstone Picture comedy stars Tom Selleck, Steve Guttenberg and Ted Danson as bachelors in charge of an infant. Based on the French film "Three Men and a Cradle," it will open Nov. 25.

Bookers are predicting that "Wall Street" will profit from the stock market crash in the manner that "The China Syndrome" did after the Three Mile Island nuclear disaster.

The holiday attractions are likely to add more jubilation for the theaters' New Year's celebration. By that time, estimates Art Murphy of Daily Variety, 1987 will have produced a record high of $4.1 billion at U.S. and Canadian box offices.

Disabled widow was 'victimized by legal system'

MILPITAS, Calif. (AP) — A disabled widow ordered to sell her home to pay damages to a teen-ager hurt on a motorcycle her son once owned is a victim of a legal system that sometimes doesn't deliver justice, her attorney says:

"I know it's legal, that's what the lawyers tell me, but I feel it's immoral," Norma Arjo, the 49-year-old mother of four, said Wednesday.

Arjo, who is nearly blind and uses a wheelchair, lost a judgment by default for $108,000 after she failed to contest a lawsuit last March. She said she wasn't aware of the trial date, couldn't afford a lawyer, and didn't understand how she could be liable for the accident.

With interest, the sum has grown to $116.000, and she now faces the prospect of seeing her house auctioned to pay the award to the teen-ager who lost a leg in the accident while riding with the cycle's new

Arjo was held accountable because the motorcycle, sold a few days before the crash, was still registered in her name, and the new owner, a co-defendant in the lawsuit, had no money or property to pay the claim.

"My son didn't have the accident." she said Thursday. "My son didn't even own the lousy motorcycle. The kid who had the accident and owned the motorcycle didn't pay a cent.

Cyril Ash, attorney for Gary Warner, the injured teen-ager, said he is sympathetic to Arjo's plight.

"I feel sorry for her and I feel sorry for my client, too," Ash said. "Unfortunately, the only recompense one has for negligence in this society is the payment of Arjo, who barely supports herself and her 17-year-old daughter on $696 a month from Social Security and a small pension, said she's "all cried out" over the situation and can only hope a way can be found for her to keep her home.

"I'm not real optimistic," said Santa Clara County Legal Aid Society attorney Gen Fujioka, who began representing Arjo in September after she was given notice of the impending auction of her house in this bedroom community of 43,000 residents about 20 miles northeast of San Jose.

"Unless there's a real breakthrough I don't think we are going to be able to set aside the judgment," he said. "That's the rules of the game.'

"I'm not real proud of the legal profession or the legal system if this is the way people are treated," he said.

After getting the initial legal papers, Arjo said she relied on advice from "one of those lawyers that advertise on TV for $25," who suggested she contact the attorney suing her and tell him she didn't own the motorcycle.

'The opposing attorney told my son if your mother's name is not on the pink slip (registration form sent to the Department of Motor Vehicles) you have nothing to worry about," she said. "I took that to mean that this (suit) was a mistake on their part and nothing would happen.'

She said she didn't hear from the plaintiff's attorney or the court again until after the default judgment. The next document she received was an order to appear in Superior Court for an accounting of her assets.

A hearing on the case was set Tuesday for Dec. 16 to allow both sides to agree on an appraisal of the property. The sheriff's auction would be held 90 days after agreement is reached.

Fujioka said he is looking for ways to block the sale, but the six-month deadline for filing objections to a default judgment has passed.

Oklahoma plays Nebraska for it all

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — What happens when two great defensive football teams meet two great offensive football teams? No. 1 Nebraska and No. 2 Oklahoma figure to find out Saturday. The nationally televised game will decide the Big Eight Conference championship, the host of the Orange Bowl and the No. 1 ranking. The loser goes to the Fiesta Bowl.

Nebraska, 9-0, has the nation's second-best defense against the rush. Oklahoma, 10-0, has the nation's top rushing offense. Oklahoma leads the nation in total defense, Nebraska in 'Their defense is a real key factor, I believe," Osborne said. "When you're only giving up about six points a game and a little over 200 yards a game in total defense, you've got to be somewhat concerned about moving the ball.

"I think that will be a big factor in the ballgame, whether we're able to crack their defense at all. We think we're as well-prepared to do it as anybody they've played. We'll try a lot of different things."

Osborne said the unusual thing about Oklahoma's defense is that it leads the nation in pass defense but also allows fewer than 100 yards rushing. Generally, he said, when a team is good against the pass, it means it has been porous against the run. Not so in this case, he

Nebraska defensive coordinator Charlie McBride said the Cornhusker defense always has its hands full with Oklahoma's wishbone

"I think the Oklahoma wishbone is effective because of its great speed and its great athletes," McBride said. "There is not one player in the Oklahoma offense that you can basically prepare to stop. If you stop one, another is going to beat you."

McBride said he would compare the Oklahoma offense with the Nebraska offense. Oklahoma, he said, is the best in the game at team they have played in the last 10 years here. running the wishbone, while Nebraska sets the I think it will help.'

standard for running the I-formation

Speed is a factor, no question, and their offensive line is one of the best, if not the best, they have had as a group," McBride said. "There have been some individuals in the past that have been exceptional ... but this is the best

"While they may not have played what they consider their best football in the last two games, they may have one of their best teams that Oklahoma has had since I've been here, as far as skills at every position and quality players at every position."

McBride said the 1987 Huskers probably have as much speed on defense as in any of his 11 years at Nebraska.

"I'm not sure overall we're as fast as Oklahoma yet, but in a couple of years I think we'll catch up with them," he said. "We probably have more speed on defense than any

Dilers unhappy with announcers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers officials are not pleased with NBC's selection of two Clevelandbased announcers for Sunday's NFL showdown between the Oilers and the Cleveland Browns.

But the Oilers also aren't expecting NBC to make any changes in the announcer team for the Houston game, which will determine who gets sole ownership of first place in the American Conference Central Division.

Jim Donovan, of Cleveland NBC affiliate WKYC-TV, is scheduled to do the play-by-play and Reggie Rucker, a former Browns wide receiver, will handle the analysis.

"We weren't expressing questions about competency of the announcers," Oilers spokesman Chip Namias said Wednesday. "Both of them do a good job or they wouldn't be at the network level.

'The only thing we were talking about is they were Cleveland sportscasters and the game is being seen in large portion of Texas. In no way are we questioning their abilities as announcers.

Namias conceded it was unlikely either announcer will be replaced. "As far as I know, it's a fact of life," he said. "Once they make the assignment, that's it.'

NBC spokesman Kevin Monaghan said Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzeg called network football coordinator Ted Nathanson Wednesday to complain about the announcer assignments but was told NBC would not is pretty much the same for Baylor quarterback Ed Lovell. With a season once filled with promise virtually wiped out by a knee injury, he has spent most of his afternoons recently cooped up in the training room at Baylor Stadium.

He can only wonder about what might have been.

"It kind of made me wonder what I did to deserve this," said Lovell, a 6-0, 196-pound sophomore from LaMarque. "I had paid my dues and waited for my chance And, just like that, it was gone."

On Aug. 31, Lovell got the news he wanted to hear. Baylor coach Grant Teaff announced that Lovell would be the starting quarterback that Lovell would be back in three when the Bears opened the 1987

After sitting out 1985 as a redshirt and spending most of 1986 on the bench behind Cody Carlson, Lovell finally had his chance.

First hunt offers father, son ritual

By CHRISTOPHER EVANS Fort Worth Star-Telegram

DUSTER (AP) - Daybreak came to the Sabana River basin campsite Saturday in muted contrast to the loud man-talk and snoring of the night before.

Pitch dark and a steamy fog blanketed a post oak thicket 30 yards from an outworn travel trailer. A pack of coyotes, so querulous and close seven hours earlier, had moved on. Rudy Lambert, 34, and son Josh, 7, rolled out of the bottom bunk at 5 a.m. Rudy emerged first. For a few minutes, the boy stayed under the covers, wide awake but cold.

"You skeered yet, Josh?" Rudy said. "No, not yet," said the boy. "I ain't gonna get skeered, Daddy. "He sure ain't lettin' on like he's nervous, is he?" said Heath Holland, 17, from the far end of

"Oh, you wait," Rudy said. "He'll see that of deer standing out there and his little ol' heart'll start beatin' but there ain't gonna be no talkin', now, is there Josh? We got our hand signals worked out, don't we? I don't wanny hear any of this, 'Daddy, I see one' or 'There's one!' It happens each year on the first morning of deer season, only once for every uninitiated marksman. In its purest form, it involves a child, a man and a hunter's rite of passage. The quest: a boy's first buck. And while girls might be involved, the sport is still male dominated. Rudy Lambert, a burly Fort Worth cattle rancher, has prepared for this day since early August.

Joshua Ray Lambert, a second-grader at West Elementary School in White Settlement, since summer has worked alongside his father at readying the Comanche County lease west of DeLeon: clearing trails in the densely foliaged parts of the acreage, building a stand from which the two will hunt, helping transport the stand across the river via a johnboat, baiting the trails with corn.

For the past two weeks, Josh has been getting used to the rifle he will use by firing a target on a hay bale in the Lambert's back yard. A month ago, on the Lambert ranch west of Fort Worth off White Settlement Road, Josh watched his father shoot a bobcat.

'Josh got real excited about that," Rudy the hunt, Jan Lambert, Josh's mother, said she

"Rudy is always with him when he shoots. Our kids have grown up out here with horses and cattle and that sort of thing. Josh and Trish (10) both know how to be careful, but with guns, Rudy is always with Josh. I don't worry because I know how Rudy is. He doesn't go into anything without thinking and planning. 'Josh has been around guns, but not enough to be on his own with a gun yet," Rudy said. "Any gun, loaded or not, is not a toy. Josh has seen several animals shot. He knows what a gun could do to a person. "I've been explaining to him exactly where he should shoot a deer," Rudy said, showing Josh a magazine picture of a deer. "You try to hit him right behind the front legs. That's where their heart, their lungs, their vital organs are. You hit him right there you ain't gonna have to chase him very far.' After rising at the campsite, Rudy puts on camouflage overalls, dresses Josh in longhandles and camouflage, rubs cosmetic lamp black on the boy's face and ties Josh's black nylon galoshes. Rudy grabs eight shells four for his gun and four for Josh's rifle before escorting his son from the trailer. Outside, three men and the boy board a rusty erstwhile Army jeep and bounce off over a rutted road toward their "stands." where the hunters will lie in waiting for deer. Eddie Holland, a Granbury welder, and son Heath, a high school student, will be delivered to two stands in different areas of the 475-acre lease. Rudy and Josh will share the same stand, across the Sabana in the lease's prime deer

"Don't you worry, Josh'll kill him a deer if he gets a shot," Rudy boasts. "He's been practicing. He can shoot Heath's little gun.'

Heath Holland's gun, a 243 Remington deer rifle he bagged his first deer with, has not been easy on young Josh.

"At first when I started shooting it, it put a bruise on my shoulder," Josh said. "Now, I hold it back tight against my shoulder. It don't hurt me now stand. Rudy is eyeing a clearing on the opposite In an interview at their home the day before side. The plan is, once a deer is sighted, for father and son to give each other a palms-down signal that indicates it's time for a shot. At that point, Rudy will carefully hand his son the smaller loaded rifle.

Shortly after 7, a turkey enters the clearing on Rudy's side. But the bird, a gobbler, is too far away for a shot. By 10 a.m., Rudy and Josh have seen nary a deer. They leave the stand and head back to meet the other hunters, both of whom have killed bucks.

Josh says he is not discouraged. "I'll get one," he says, anticipating the afternoon hunt. Jan and Trisha Lambert arrive, along with Pam Holland, Eddie's wife. The women cook breakfast inside the trailer. After 3 p.m., the men and boy head back for the stands. This time, Josh and Rudy see several turkeys, but no deer. "And the turkeys we saw, they didn't have beards," Josh says as night falls. Only "bearded" male turkeys may be shot lawfully. On the day before the trip, Rudy, who has bagged five deer in his four years of hunting, discussed his feelings about teaching his son to hunt, principles that have "very little to do with killin' a deer," he said. 'The way I feel about it has a lot to do withmy own father, Ray, who was a construction worker in Fort Worth when I was growing up,' he said. "My dad fished with me, he played baseball with me. We got close because of that time we were with each other. We're still close. "It turned out real good for us, and I guess that's why I'm so proud Josh likes sports and hunting and the outdoors," Rudy said. "And, hunting, I sure don't think there's anything wrong with it. Not as long as you do it within the rules and are careful with yourself and with

Earnhardt named top '87 driver

By MIKE HARRIS

AP Motorsports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Dale Earnhardt is the 1987 Driver of the Year in auto racing, earning nine of 10 first-place votes from a national panel of motorsports writers and broadcasters.

The NASCAR stock car star, who closes out his season on Sunday at Atlanta International Raceway, already has won 11 races, more than $1.5 million and his second straight Winston Cup championship and third overall.

Earnhardt, the son of the late Ralph Earnhardt, a sportsman division champion, was away from home on a hunting trip Tuesday when the award was announced and was unavailable for comment.

The other first-place vote went to NHRA pro stock drag racing champion Bob Glidden, who finished his season with four straight victories. Panelists vote for only one driver in the final Earnhardt will be honored on Dec. 4 at a luncheon in New York. He will receive a diamond and saphhire ring and a specially designed Steuben glass trophy.

The 35-year-old North Carolinian is the 12th stock car driver and the 15th different racer in 21 years to win the prestigious award.

He also is the third consecutive first-time winner, joining 1985 winner Bill Elliott, another NASCAR star, and Indy-car champion Bobby Rahal, who won in 1986.

Other former winners of the Driver of the Year Award include Mario Andretti (1967, 1978 and 1984), Bobby Allison (1972 and 1983), Darrell Waltrip (1979, 1981 and 1982), Johnny Rutherford (1980), Cale Yarborough (1977), David Pearson (1973 and 1976), A.J. Foyt (1975), Bobby Unser (1974), Richard Petty (1971), Al Unser (1970), Lee Roy Yarbrough (1969) and Mark Donohue (1968)

Results of fourth-quarter balloting by the panel also were announced Tuesday, with Indycar star Michael Andretti, winner of two of three races during the period, taking the honors with 70 of a possible 90 points and six first-place

Elliott, who also won twice, was second with 51 points and one first-place ballot, followed by Glidden with 38 points and two first-place votes and Rahal with 34 points and the other top vote.

Also receiving votes in the fourth-quarter balloting were sports car driver Jochen Mass of West Germany, Trans-Am champion Scott Pruett, Earnhardt, drag racers Dick LaHaie, Mark Oswald and Darrell Gwynn, and sprint car racer Steve Kinser.

Earnhardt won the first- and third-quarter voting, while Rahal, who earned his second straight CART-PPG series driving championship, was the second-quarter winner.

CITY OF BIG SPRING
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FUND TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The City of Big Spring is planning to file an application with the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA) for a Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) grant under the Community Development Fund. This application will be submitted to TDCA on or before December 3, 1987.

3, 1987.

A public hearing concerning the proposed grant application will be held at 6:30 o'clock p.m. on Monday, November 23rd, 1987, at Northside Fire Station, 100 N.E. 8th, Big Spring, Texas. The purpose of this public hearing is to review the City of Big Spring's proposed 1987 request for TCDP funds including the amount of funds to be respected. quested and the scope and location of proposed project activities. All citizens are encouraged to attend this public hearing and present their views on this proposed project. Written comments will be accepted by the City up until the time that the City's application is submitted to TDCA

The basic intent of the TCDP grants is to provide programs to benefit low and moderate income persons, to prevent or eliminate slums and blight and to meet other urgent community development needs. Eligible activities include improved ment needs. Engible activities include improved streets and drainage, utility systems and other public facilities improvements. Housing improve-ment programs are also eligible as are certain public service activities which meet one of the public service activities which meet one of the three primary TCDP basic intents noted above. For further information about the City's proposed TCDP applications, contact Emma Lee Bogard, City of Big Spring, at (915) 263-8311. Handicapped individuals who might have difficulty in attending this public hearing should contact City Hall to arrange for special assistance.

From the Carroll Righter Institute

This is the perfect time to handle domestic matters, whether they are family or property oriented. Try to maintain a cheerful attitude all day, although your patience may be strained quite a bit.

sure to carry through with a promise you made to your mate some time ago. Pay special attention to but this person can be very beneficial and can lead you into a profitable situation.

job. Be very careful in motion, especially while driving.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may find it hard to stick with the plans you have made, but persevere and all will go smoothly for you. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may feel very "up in the air" today, so take some time to relax and decide on a positive course of action before beginning anything new.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be very exacting in your communications with others, be it in writing, using the telephone, or visiting anyone in person. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make collections on debts owed to you. This will make it easier for you to pay your bills. Take time to make necessary repairs at home. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't be a spendthrift today. In fact, now is the time to revise your budget and find a way to economize more for future goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to avoid any arguments with friends over trivial matters. You may have to bend a bit to do this, but it will be worth it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An advancement project which you've been working on will now be easy to complete. Avoid any arguments with your mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Don't take out your aggravations on friends; find a more sensible outlet. Be objective in your everyday dealings and get good results. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able to meet a person you have long wanted to contact. This person can give you some information which will be very useful.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will always be very purposeful in any actions, never wasting any time on trivialities. Teach your progeny while young not to ignore the wishes of others in a blind pursuit of personal goals. Be sure you point out the benefits of cooperation to him or her.
