One man dead after shootout

FORT WORTH (AP) - A policeman was critically wounded and another man was dead today after a shoot-out at a drive-in bank where authorities believe a robbery was being attempted.

The shooting occurred at a Meadowbrook National drive-in bank on Fort Worth's east side shortly before 7 a.m., said Officer M.L. Hurd. She said details were sketchy but the dead man was believed to have been trying to rob the bank.

She said she didn't know the identity of the dead suspect and would not release the name of the police officer because his relatives were still being notified.

Smoking Possible ordinance at end of agenda

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

A work session discussion of a proposed ordinance controlling smoking in Big Spring public places is the last item on the agenda for Tuesday's regular City Council meeting.

Supporters and opponents of the proposed smoking ordinance are expected to turn out in force for the work session.

The issue has developed into a lively community debate during the past month. Petitions, both for and against a law banning smoking in public places, have attracted the signatures of hundreds of Big Spring residents.

Smoking ban supporters and opponents have both gathered more than 1,000 signatures each.

City council members must now decide if an ordinance governing public smoking should be drafted, and if enacted, what the law would encompass.

A smoking ban ordinance could range from limiting smoking only in government buildings to prohibiting smoking anywhere inside the city, according to City Manager Mack Wofford. "The council must decide what they want," Wofford said.

An executive session - to discuss the proposed lease, sale or transfer of city-owned land and appointments to vacancies on the electrical and parks and recreation boards - will also be conducted by council members at Tuesday's meeting.

State open meetings law permits council members to discuss such business in closed session. However, any action must be taken in open session.

In other business City Council will:

• Consider approval of applications for keeping livestock at 2501 Broadway St. and 1400 Lancaster St.

• Award a bid for purchase of a one-half-ton pickup truck and air packs for the fire department.

• Review minutes from traffic commission and parks and recreation board meetings.

• Hold emergency reading of a resolution authorizing the mayor to execute an agreement authorizing the city to participate in the Howard County 911 Emergency Communication District.

• Hold emergency reading of a resolution authorizing expenditure of up to $45,000 in local water funds as a match for a $300,000 state water system improvement grant.

• Hold second and final reading of a resolution amending the city's purchasing manual.

• Approve late homestead exemption refunds.

• Consider a tenant's request for early release from a lease agreement at McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

• Authorize the mayor to sign a deed conveying right-of-way on U.S. 87 south of Hearn Street to the State of Texas to allow widening of the highway. Wofford stressed the right-of-way agreements along the highway south of Hearn Street is in no way related to a proposed widening of U.S. 87 from FM-700 to 10th Street.

Big Spring Camp men assisting in Oakdale

From staff and wire reports

Ten Big Spring Federal Prison Camp employees departed for Oakdale, La., this morning to "assist in any way possible" federal officers dealing with Cuban rioters.

The rioters at the Oakdale center - whose actions are believed to have been triggered by a U.S.-Cuban agreement to return certain incarcerated Cubans - have taken 25 people hostage, according to Associated Press reports.

"They (the Big Spring personnel) will be providing whatever assistance is required by the Oakdale authorities," Big Spring Federal Camp Assistant Superintendent Lloyd McMillan said today, adding that the 10 men will be at the site "as long as they're needed."

Of the men who departed this morning, "the majority" are correctional officers, but there is one physician's assistant with them, McMillan added.

Pat Jones, editor of the Oakland Journal, was among four reporters who crowded into a cubicle at the detention center to hear what she said was a rambling discourse by a prisoner who identified himself as Roberto Chaniques.

"He kept saying the reason for this was the decision by Reagan and Castro," said Mrs. Jones.

It was a reference to the recent agreement between the United States and Cuba which called for an exchange of as many as 2,500 Cuban prisoners, mostly criminals and the mentally ill.

"He said 'We don't want to bring harm to the hostages,'" said Mrs. Jones. "He said they wanted it resolved as soon as possible."

The brief interview took place about 11 p.m. CST Saturday, four hours after the riot began.

Jack Frost, a reporter with KATC television, said the conversation with Chaniques took place in a small holding area in one of the few secure areas of the detention center.

"This guy rambled on for about 15 minutes," said Frost.

As he talked with Chaniques, Frost said, he could see through a window into the detention center yard, where prisoners were milling about as buildings burned behind them.

Jones quoted Chaniques as saying some of the prisoners wanted to kill some of the hostages they took and some didn't.

"He said the hostages would stay where they were until a representative from Washington came to negotiate... And he said they won't accept the Reagan-Castro agreement," she said.

Citizens forgetful on prison

OAKDALE, La. (AP) - Everyone in Oakdale worked for more than a year to get the $17 million complex where Cuban inmates took hostages, the mayor says, but nowadays many townspeople say they never wanted the center in their town.

"I don't know anybody who likes this place," said Ella Rollins, whose brother-in-law, Donald Thompson, was among more than 20 guards and staff workers held hostage at the complex today.

Other Oakdale residents also said they'd never cared for it, either, prompting Mayor George Mowad to say he wanted to set the record straight.

"We had total community support and 13 months of politicking... to get this facility," Commissioner Bill Crooker said.

District employee AIDS policy developed

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring school district has developed tentative guidelines for dealing with district employees who have AIDS, AIDS-related diseases or infection by the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV).

The proposal, submitted to the board Nov. 12 for consideration, will be acted upon at the board's Dec. 10 meeting, according to Superintendent Bill McQueary.

If a district employee is diagnosed as either having the disease or the virus will be monitored by a team consisting of the employee, designated school administrators and two physicians - the employee's and one from the district.

The affected employee's right to privacy will be respected, and confidential records will be maintained, according to the proposed guidelines.

The monitoring team will be briefed as to confidentiality requirements, and the number of persons aware of the individual's name will be limited, the report added.

After the employee receives an AIDS diagnosis, and after he or she authorizes release, the principal or supervisor of the victim's school will notify in writing all staff members and parents having children in that school, McQueary said.

He added that the name of the employee would remain confidential. The district will only inform other staff and parents that an AIDS case exists at the school affected.

After that statement is released, the affected person will be allowed to continue duties with the district. He or she will be monitored, however, by district personnel, McQueary noted.

The personnel will be looking for the presence of open lesions and breaks in the skin. If the problems

Commissioners formalize 911 creation; debate bids

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners today formally approved the creation of a 911 emergency communications district - paralleling a Nov. 3 vote in which residents overwhelmingly approved the measure.

Commissioners acted on the issue during today's meeting of the Howard County Commissioners Court, and also debated janitorial bids and approved insurance specifications.

Commissioners could have voted against the 911 measure even though voters approved it by a three-to-one margin during the November election, County Attorney Tim Yeats said.

The cities of Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma also must vote whether to include their jurisdictions in the district, Yeats said. If any city votes against the issue, it will be excluded from the service and phone users won't be charged.

The measure was rejected in two of the county's 25 precincts during the Nov. 3 election.

The Emergency Communications District Board is scheduled to meet Dec. 5 to continue discussing plans to implement the system.

Yeats said the board will have access to more exact costs at the meeting and could set a monthly billing rate.

Commissioners also debated janitorial bids during today's meeting. Commissioner O.L. "Louie" Brown recommended accepting a $31,800 bid from Ramirez Janitorial Service, which now provides the service.

The bid was $8,941 higher than the low bid of $22,859 from Harold Lee Hancock.

"We're already familiar with Ramirez' work," Brown said, making a motion to approve the bid.

"I agree that Albert (Ramirez) has done a good job, but we're talking about a $9,000 difference (in bids)," Commissioner David Barr said.

Commissioners decided to talk with other bidders before awarding COUNTY page 2-A County attorney submits Jan. 15 resignation today

Herald staff report

Howard County Attorney Tim Yeats today announced his resignation, scheduled to take effect Jan. 15.

Yeats made the announcement before Howard County commissioners at a 9 a.m. meeting of the commissioners court.

"I've been offered a job that I simply can't pass up," he said, explaining that he will enter private practice with Little, Palmer & Williams, 500 Johnson St.

Yeats will leave the office with one year remaining in a four-year term. Commissioners will appoint someone to complete the term, although no action was taken at this morning's meeting.

Yeats said he knew of someone interested in the post, but declined to identify the person.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said those interested in running in the March 8 election for the position must file their intent between Dec. 3 and Jan. 4.

The March "Super Tuesday" presidential primary will include county elections for sheriff, tax assessor/collector, county attorney, district attorney, district clerk, precinct 2 constable, justice of the peace precinct 1 place 1, and first and third precinct commissioners.

Commissioners expressed regret at Yeat's resignation.

He's provided "dedicated service," Commissioner Bill Crooker said.

 ty," he told a Sunday news conference. "Everybody is scared now. But they are forgetting what their support was when we started the push in 1981."

The center was courted by rural Allen Parish to counter unemployment peaking in 1983 at 31 percent, the highest in Louisiana. But Rollins said the federal government hadn't followed through on its promises.

"They said it was going to be a temporary holding facility and it turned out to be a federal prison."

"It hasn't helped the economy that much," she said. "Only 50 of the 350 guards are hometown people. They told us our people were either not qualified or too old."

Although it wasn't the economic savior the town expected, Mowad has said the complex was the main reason unemployment dropped below 15 percent in Allen Parish.

The complex, run jointly by the Bureau of Prisons and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, opened in March 1986 as a minimum security, short-term holding center for illegal aliens awaiting deportation hearings.

More than 2,500 illegal aliens passed through Oakdale in the first nine weeks after the detention center opened.

"It was supposed to be just a detention center. Then they bring in those Cubans. There wasn't supposed to be no Cubans," Smitty Willis, who said a cousin of his was among the hostages, said Sunday.

INS spokesmen said a year ago that the most dangerous offenders among Cuban inmates would be held at the U.S. Penitentiary in Atlanta, with low-risk prisoners brought to Oakdale.

"We want to get these guys down there with the understanding that if they behave themselves, they'll be out on the streets," said Louis Richard, director of the Atlanta district of INS.

But that was in 1986, when Fidel Castro refused to take back any of the 125,000 refugees who fled Cuba aboard boats and rafts in 1980.

The State Department announced Friday that Cuba had agreed to take back about 2,500 refugees, most of them criminals or mentally ill. Some were arrested when they arrived, others committed crimes after their arrival.

Of that number, 1,000 are at the Oakdale facility, about 1,400 are at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta and the rest scattered in more than 60 jails across the country.

 become uncontrollable, standard personnel procedures for the district will go into effect, the report stated.

If the illness becomes uncontrollable, the team will recommend to administrators that the person be relieved of duties. The superintendent and the school board will then act on the team's request, McQueary said.

For the affected employee's protection, substitute teachers or other district action may be taken when communicable diseases — such as chicken pox or measles — are present at the school, the report concluded.

the contract. If the lowest bid isn't accepted, all bidders lower than the chosen bid must be given an opportunity to appear before commissioners before a contract is awarded, County Auditor Jackie Olson said.

Of the five bids the county received for janitorial maintenance of the courthouse, annex and library, three were lower than Ramirez' bid.

County Auditor Jackie Olson said she would ask the other bidders to appear before commissioners this afternoon or during the next meeting, Dec. 14.

Commissioners also approved specifications to accept insurance proposals.

The county is accepting proposals on the present benefits as well as separate proposals that will include added stipulations such as a $200 deductible, pre-certification, second opinions, pre-admission testing procedures, and a prescription drug program.

County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin said proposals will be received until Dec. 7 and the contract will be determined during the Dec. 14 meeting of the commissioners court.

The present insurance carrier, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, paid $286,037 of $352,000 in claims from Aug. 1, 1986 to July 1.

Premiums under the current supplier are expected to rise about 37 percent, she said.

Commissioners also were scheduled to convene at 1 p.m. to discuss equipment needs with the County Volunteer Firefighters Association.

In other action this morning, commissioners:

• Awarded a $3,100 bid to Big Spring Printing to provide office supplies. A $3,620 bid was received from L H Office Center.

• Approved payment to a temporary employee hired in the civil department of the Howard County Sheriff's Office. The employee is assisting with the typing of documents related to the capital murder cases to be presented to a grand jury in January. The employee is expected to work about 30 hours, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

• Approved a $160 purchase request from the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission for the purchase of a desk chair and small table or bookcase. Commissioner Brown voted against the request.

• Approved 11 county holidays for 1988.

Gizzard lady to Big Apple

MARLIN (AP) — It doesn't always require a stupid pet trick for the average person to get on the "Late Night With David Letterman" show.

Sometimes it just takes a bizarre hobby.

For almost 30 years Ruth Stone has collected turkey gizzards and the odd things that come out of them.

Her hobby got her a round-trip ticket Monday to New York to appear on the popular variety-talk show hosted by Letterman. Her appearance will be broadcast Tuesday night.

Mrs. Stone used to work at a turkey processing plant here, and part of her job was to clean and inspect the gizzards.

Texas children's home investigation underway

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An investigation into charges of sex, drugs, devil worship and fiscal mismanagement at a Catholic children's home should be completed by mid-December, officials said.

Archbishop Patrick Flores ordered the investigation at St. Peter's-St. Joseph's Children's Home after a private meeting with former and current employees earlier this month.

The employees complained that drugs were confiscated from the children, that sex between the children resulted in four pregnancies and that some of the youths have been involved in demon worship.

The employees also complained that management had been unresponsive to their complaints.

"I'm not really privy to what the investigation has uncovered," John Hohman, the home's attorney, said Sunday. "We're simply trying to assimilate the facts and see what action needs to be taken."

Hohman, who said the investigation should be completed in a few weeks, said the probe may produce some policy changes.

"I think that as far as any major issues are concerned, it will reflect favorably on the home," he said.

Hohman said he had not heard from any parents whose children are at the home.

"The welfare of the children is everybody's main concern," he said.

The home's $500,000 annual budget comes from the archdiocese, the United Way, federal grants and private donations.

Patient dumping draws likelihood of hospital suits

DALLAS (AP) — Five Texas hospitals face possible lawsuits and fines for violating laws aimed at ending the denial of medical treatment to patients who are unable to pay, a newspaper reported.

The inspector general of the Health and Human Services Administration is considering fines of up to $50,000 for three hospitals that violated "patient dumping" rules enacted a year ago. The state is considering fines of up to $1,000 per day per violation against three of the five hospitals.

The hospitals facing federal fines are Humana Clear Lake in Houston, DeTar Hospital of Victoria, and Charter Community Hospital of Cleveland, sources involved in the investigation told the Dallas Morning News.

Both state and federal laws prohibit hospitals from transferring or refusing treatment to emergency patients because they cannot pay. Emergency patients may be transferred when more specialized medical treatment is necessary. Before any transfer may occur, hospitals are required to stabilize the patient and get approval from the receiving hospital.

The hospitals were investigated by the Health Care Financing Administration, a federal regulatory body that probes and rules on all federal patient dumping complaints.

The Texas Department of Health, which oversees state dumping violations, asked the Texas attorney general's office to consider legal action against Humana Clear Lake, Colonial Hospital of Terrell, in Kaufman County, and Winter Garden Medical Center Inc. of Dilley in South Texas.

The request was made after complaining hospitals refused to drop their complaints, said Maurice Shaw, chief of the health department's bureau of licensing and certification.

Texas was the first state to enact anti-dumping laws in April 1986 as part of landmark legislation designed to aid nearly 3 million Texans who lacked insurance or money to pay for health care.

While Texas leads the nation in the number of reported complaints of patient dumping, authorities said the number filed as of last month — 61 under federal law and 19 under state law — is lower than expected.

Border Patrol searches for Cubans

LAREDO (AP) — The Border Patrol and sheriff's department combed the Webb County brush country today in search of Cuban refugees who remained missing after escaping from a minimum security facility by climbing through a steel grating in the roof, officials said.

Six of the 17 who escaped early Sunday morning still had not been apprehended this morning, said Sgt. Rickey Cortez of the Webb County Sheriff's Department, which operates the facility east of Laredo under contract with the federal government.

He said Border Patrol officials were searching the county by helicopter. "The other remaining 60 Cubans in custody have not caused any trouble," Cortez said.

Capt. George Magnon said Sunday that officers noticed the men missing from the Webb County facility about 1:50 a.m.

"They removed the steel from one of the cell blocks and got out," Magnon said.

The refugees, who had been in the facility for about two months after being transferred from a Florida federal detention center, were being held for immigration violations, Magnon said. The recaptured escapees were returned to Webb County Jail, a maximum security facility.

Magnon said the escapees hadn't heard about the situation in Oakdale, La., where Cuban refugees held more than 20 people hostage Sunday after going on a rampage in which 17 others were injured and four buildings were torched.

However, he said he believes the Laredo attempt was sparked by Friday's announcement by the State Department that Cuba had agreed to take back about 2,500 refugees, most of them criminals or mentally ill. Of that number, 1,000 are at the Oakdale facility and about 1,400 are at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta. The remainder are scattered in more than 60 jails across the country.

"We had had no problems with them (Cuban prisoners) until Thursday or Friday. When these stories started hitting the media, that's when they started getting kind of antsy," Magnon said.

Ironically, the escape attempts may hurt the refugee's chances of being released, Magnon said.

Officials had talked to the refugees Friday, telling them they probably weren't affected by the announcement.

"Apparently, they didn't believe us or they took exception to it. For whatever reason, these people just don't want to go back to Cuba," he said.

There were 77 Cuban refugees at the Webb County facility, he said.

Rally skit offends, draws requests

PLANO (AP) — Black students and their parents are protesting what they describe as a racist skit presented during a high school pep rally.

The skit featured three students dressed in black trash bags with huge red paper lips, according to Plano Senior High School principal Doyle Dean and some students who attended the Friday pep rally.

The characters in the skit were identified during the rally as students of Roosevelt High School, a predominantly black school in Dallas which Plano defeated in a playoff football game Friday night. "The first thing I thought of was,

"Well, I guess this is how Plano sees most blacks, with big lips and running around acting stupid," said Dexter Lee, a Plano senior who is black.

Michael McReynolds, one of the protesting parents, said he and about 50 other parents met with Dean Sunday and were to meet later with Superintendent H. Wayne Hendrick about the skit.

The parents are asking for three things, McReynolds said: replacement of cheerleader sponsor Carolyn Rodman, reprimands of Ms. Rodman and Dean, and a public assembly to apologize to Plano and Roosevelt students.

Trip to Germany drawing questions

AUSTIN (AP) — A consortium of West German companies interested in operating a high-speed railroad in Texas were hosts for 17 state legislators and other officials on an eight-day European trip that one official termed a "working holiday."

"It was really an educational trip," said Austin lobbyist Pike Powers, who helped organize the Nov. 6-14 tour.

But John Hildreth, executive director of Common Cause of Texas, questioned whether it was necessary for so many lawmakers to spend eight days in Europe largely at the expense of West German business interests trying to win their support for the project.

"Was an on-site inspection the only way in which legislators could learn of the benefits of this kind of rail system?" asked Hildreth.

"When Congress is appropriating money to send men and women to the moon, they don't have to go along themselves."

"I considered it quite frankly as a working holiday, if you will," said Chris Shields, who went on the trip in his position as counsel to Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains.

The trip was the second in a year sponsored by the German High-Speed Consortium, a group of West German companies that has proposed connecting Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area by high-speed rail.

Last November, a half-dozen legislators were guests of the consortium. More than 50 people attended this month's tour, among them bond lawyers, underwriters and members of the Texas Turnpike Authority.

Disheveled man attacks churchgoers

FORT WORTH (AP) — A homeless, disheveled man who had attracted suspicion in two services earlier in the morning, went "berserk" and stabbed at least five worshippers who tried to stop him from approaching a priest during a Sunday morning Mass, before he himself was critically wounded with his own knife.

Police Capt. Jerry Blaisdell said attempted murder charges were being prepared against a 28-year-old transient who was stabbed three times, once in the heart, as churchgoers wrestled with him near an exit at St. Patrick's Catholic Cathedral in downtown Fort Worth.

It was uncertain how the man suffered the wounds, Blaisdell said. The man's name would not be released until formal charges were filed, police said.

"He had gone berserk inside the church and stabbed several people before being subdued," said police Sgt. Ken Francis.

In addition to the five worshippers who were taken to hospitals, several others suffered minor injuries and did not seek hospital treatment, officials said.

The suspect was at John Peter Smith Hospital and was described as being in critical condition.

There were two previous Masses at the church Sunday morning, and the Rev. Gonzalo Morales had conducted both. The priest said the troubled man had been at the church since the start of the first Mass, which began at 8 a.m.

About 9:45 a.m., one of the parishioners, who is also a police officer, told him he had noticed the man and thought he could be dangerous, the priest said.

Father Morales said he went over to the man after the second Mass.

"I went over to him and I told him I had noticed him sitting through the two previous Masses and I asked him, 'Can I do anything?' and he said, 'No, I just want to stay and pray.' Of course, there was nothing I could do with him then, but I made the ushers very aware of it."

Father Morales said that once the Mass had begun, the man stood up from his pew, attracting the attention of the ushers, and played a "cat and mouse game with the ushers." He said the man held his arms close to his chest, his hands folded down, apparently hiding the knife.

"I've talked to all of the men who were injured, and all of them say that they never saw a knife," Father Morales said.

Father Morales said that when the man stood up, the priest motioned toward a woman in an adjoining room to call the police.

Moments later, as the man darted between the ushers, he approached the center of the church near where Father Morales was sitting. An usher, Sheedy, approached the man at the base of the altar and the man pushed the usher, apparently stabbing him as he tumbled back onto the floor.

"The others were immediately there. They were on their way to help him," Father Morales said. "I automatically got up and told the people to stay calm and remain seated," the priest said. "I signaled the organist to play some music," he said, and he began reading from the gospel of Luke.

Meanwhile, the ushers continued to struggle with the man.

By the time the priest finished reading scripture, an ambulance was arriving and ushers carried the man out and they began praying.

"We prayed for him. Much like the holy father, Pope John Paul, went to pray for his assailant, we prayed for him too," Father Morales said.

"I'm glad that the wounds were not as bad as they could have been, and I think the men (ushers) will be okay, but now I think emotionally this will have to be addressed. It was something tragic," the priest said.

Father Morales said, "He was obviously mentally disturbed."

Church officials estimated that between 550 and 600 people were at the Mass at the time.

Palestine tornadoes more of tough times for East Texas area

PALESTINE (AP) — The tornadoes that hit this area last week could delay recovery from the tough economic times that had plagued this East Texas city, officials say.

Last Sunday and Monday, a swarm of twisters ripped through Texas, killing 10 people injuring 160 and causing millions of dollars in damage.

In this city about 125 miles southeast of Dallas, the storms ravaged the town's industrial district and an important business strip, destroying or heavily damaging more than 80 businesses and 120 homes.

"Many of these businesses are old businesses, and they are accustomed to pulling themselves up by their own bootstraps," said Richard Stolle, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office in Palestine. "This is something else they are going to have to overcome."

The economic toll of unemployment will linger for months to come.

"It's a major setback," said Rosie Halvorson, unemployment insurance supervisor for the Texas Employment Commission office here. The office estimates that 500 local workers, mostly low-wage earners, lost their jobs because of the storm. About 200 of those positions may never be refilled.

The storm hit Palestine as its economy was seeing gradual recovery from oil-field declines and effects of the sluggish Texas economy, which had prompted layoffs at some manufacturing plants and businesses.

The area's unemployment rate, which peaked at about 13 percent in the summer of 1986, had dropped to between 9 and 10 percent last month. City sales tax receipts were increasing, and construction of a fourth Texas Department of Corrections prison unit in Anderson County — a project worth $70 million — was bringing in more money.

Victims of past tornadoes in Paris and Sweetwater advise their Palestine counterparts that rebuilding only comes with patience.

"I'm not saying I'm better off financially, but my business has increased 10 to 15 percent since the tornado," said James Rycroft, president of Vending Variety Inc., a Sweetwater vending-machine company.

"I went from a 3,500-square-foot building to a 14,600-square-foot building," he said. "We owe more money than we ever did, but we're way ahead. 'The tornado cost me $145,000, but I've got probably $300,000 more of assets due to spending the $145,000.'"

Palestine officials are confident their city also will rebound.

Still, the damage will affect employment.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation:

Paper criticizes Reagan leadership

Is the Great Persuader losing his grip? Recent events would lead one to believe so. Battered by the Iran-Contra scandal, President Reagan unaccountably plunged almost immediately into a confrontation with the Senate over nominating "his kind of judge" to the United States Supreme Court. As a result he has twice blown an opportunity to name a right-wing conservative justice to the bench. ... Why did Reagan, who is supposed to have such marvelous political antennae, expose himself to two such unnecessary debacles — especially in the wake of the Iran-Contra fiasco, which left people wondering who was minding the store at the White House? ... After nearly seven years of taking the counsel of Attorney General Edwin Meese — the architect of the (Robert) Bork and (Douglas) Ginsburg disasters — one wonders whether Reagan's vaunted antennae have atrophied through disuse.

Morning Sentinel, Waterville, Maine.

Blasts cabinet-level Veteran office

So there was President Reagan, the hero of many a war movie, saying during the week of Veterans Day just what many veterans wanted to hear: that he endorses the dubious idea — now gaining favor in Congress — of creating a new cabinet-level Department of Veterans Affairs. Although the veterans' lobby is one of the most influential around, its spokesmen contend that former servicemen and women need an even stronger voice in the federal government. Trouble is, there's ample evidence that veterans' affairs already are receiving a major chunk of the federal budget — an estimated $27 billion annually, counting myriad programs and services. Congress would do better to explore a more efficient way of spending for veterans' programs now in place. And Reagan, instead of playing to the audience, would be better advised to consider the negative effects of even more outlays for veterans at a time of deep concern over the federal deficit.

The Seattle Times

Thinks arms treaty is imminent

Mikhail Gorbachev almost desperately needs to abandon the arms race in order to get the Soviet economy up and moving. ... Against that background he may be willing to give ground on "Star Wars" and expect that he can negotiate with the next president of the United States. Ronald Reagan's presidency is in deep trouble. Nothing would help him so much as being able to claim that he scored a major achievement in behalf of all of the world's people by drastically reducing the threat of a nuclear holocaust. ... These conditions ... seem to dictate that they will come out of their meeting next month with the first-ever treaty to reduce nuclear arsenals.

The Daily Astorian, Astoria, Ore.

Says AMA statement disheartening

"When an epidemic prevails, a physician must continue his labors without regard to the risk to his own health." The American Medical Association (thus) addressed doctors' responsibilities to patients with AIDS. Why ... has it taken the nation's largest medical organization ... so long to comment on this pertinent issue of physician conduct? Part of the answer to that question lies in the statement itself. It ... simply reiterates the time-honored credo of all who take the Hippocratic oath. The question really should not be, "Why so tardy a statement?" but rather, "Why a statement at all?" The answer is regrettably simple: Not every doctor follows it.

The Providence (R.I.) Journal.

Asks Reagan to veto gasoline tax

One of the political world's worst ideas, buried many times in recent years, has surfaced again in the bargaining between the White House and Congress on reducing the deficit. Desperate for a tax hike, some legislators are urging President Reagan to accept one on gasoline. For millions of working Americans — especially those west of the Hudson and south of the Potomac — this would be the same as a tax increase on food or housing. Their cars are not toys or status symbols, but vital tools for commuting, shopping and ferrying their children to Little League games and music lessons. Gasoline is already one of the nation's most heavily taxed retail items. The federal tax alone is 9 cents per gallon — twice what it was five years ago — and most state levies are even higher. How many other products bear a total sales tax approaching 20 percent? ... Unless President Reagan has forgotten the principles that he campaigned on in 1980 and in 1984, he will keep saying "no."

The Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel.

Kennedy seems a peace offering

After President Ronald Reagan's post-Bork pledge to serve up a nominee Congress would find even more objectionable, the nomination of Anthony Kennedy to the U.S. Supreme Court sounds like a peace offering. ... Kennedy appears at this early stage to be unencumbered by the doctrinaire tendencies of the right-wing idealogue. After the rancor that characterized the Bork debates and the embarrassment surrounding the Ginsburg debacle, the conciliatory nomination of Anthony Kennedy and the early response from lawmakers look like encouraging evidence that the system can adjust itself, when necessary, back toward center.

Japan punishes two corporations

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The Japanese government has punished two big corporations implicated in the illegal sale of high-technology machinery to the Soviets — but only after pressure from the Pentagon.

Jack Anderson

Tokyo was so afraid of hurting its lucrative trade ties to the United States that it secretly negotiated with the Pentagon and agreed on the punishment of the two Japanese firms in May to appease the U.S. government. The secret negotiations and agreement are spelled out in a Department of Defense memorandum, itself classified "secret."

The subject of the five-page "memorandum for the record," dated May 8, 1987, was "Resolution of Nine-Axis Milling Machine Case." This was the $17 million sale by Toshiba Machine Co. of sophisticated propeller-milling hardware that allowed the Soviets to make their submarines almost undetectable. It could cost the American taxpayers $30 billion to overcome this tremendous technical advantage.

"After extensive negotiations between DOD and MITI (the Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry) and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, a satisfactory settlement has been reached," the memo begins, adding: "The GOJ (Government of Japan) will be taking precedent-breaking direct actions against all involved in the diversion. The publicity surrounding GOJ actions, the financial losses to the Japanese companies and the new regulations instituted by MITI should insure that such a major diversion ... will not happen again."

One page in the memo is subtitled "Sanctions Against C. Itoh," the huge trading company that handled the sale for Toshiba. In a series of columns, we have depicted C. Itoh as a culprit that escaped with a slap on the wrist: a three-month ban on Soviet deals.

Through its American representatives, C. Itoh has protested vociferously that the company didn't know what was in the crates Toshiba was shipping to the Soviets. The lobbying effort was led by Roderick Hills, who initially described himself as a "friend" of C. Itoh, but eventually felt obliged to register as a foreign agent for the company.

Hills and his key associate at Sears World Trade Inc., newly appointed Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci, had worked closely with C. Itoh on unrelated business while the illegal sale to the Soviets was in progress.

Hills correctly maintains that no publicly released U.S. or Japanese official report charges that C. Itoh knew what was in the Toshiba crates.

But Hills tries to paint the three-month ban on deals with the Soviets as strictly a voluntary sacrifice by C. Itoh to help the Japanese government out of an "extremely embarrassing" fix.

The secret Pentagon memo doesn't put it quite that way. While it notes that Japanese MITI officials believed "that there was no malicious intent on behalf of this major trading company," the memo then goes to the heart of the matter: "C. Itoh failed to inspect the merchandise itself, even though it acted as the formal exporter."

And instead of describing any voluntary action by the company, the secret memo refers to three actions to be taken "against C. Itoh" by the Japanese government after "extensive confidential negotiations."

The first penalty: "After administering a 'heavy warning' and a public reprimand, MITI will prohibit exportation of all machine tools to (Soviet bloc) countries for three months."

The second: "C. Itoh will be instructed to reform its internal procedures or face further punishment."

The third: "C. Itoh will be required to report" detailed information on any machine-tool exports during the three months' ban.

"C. Itoh is one of Japan's largest trading companies," the memo notes, "and even a short ban involves very large amounts of money. ... The important factor here is not the amount of money, but the social disgrace involved when C. Itoh becomes only the fourth offender in Japanese corporate history to have administrative sanctions applied to it."

The secret May 8 memo states that the punitive actions against Toshiba and C. Itoh would be "announced unilaterally" by the Japanese government the following Friday. The announcement was, in fact, made in Tokyo on May 15.

When advertising for romance, it's caveat emptor

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
My friend Rigby, the lover, has had trouble getting dates lately, so he subscribed to one of those singles magazines you can find in all major cities.

Lewis Grizzard

They include a classified section in which both men and women — and whatever else is out there these days — advertise themselves for romantic interludes. "At first," said Rigby, "I thought this was the greatest thing since room service. You just thumb through the magazine, pick out what you like, and — voila! — the girl of your dreams." "You sound as if it didn't work out that way," I said to Rigby. "The first ad I answered sounded just like the woman I wanted:

"Blond bombshell with keen interest in the arts."
"And when you met her?"
"She was blond OK, but she was also 4 feet 11 inches, weighed 280 pounds, with a tattoo on her left cheek that said, 'Born to Raise Hell.'"
"By 'cheek,' I asked Rigby, "do you mean...?"
"Let me put it this way," he answered. "The first thing she did when I went to pick her up was moon me."

"What did you do then?"
"I ran."
"No, I mean did you answer any more ads in the magazine?"
"I was determined," said Rigby. "The next one sounded terrific: 'Tall, sensuous redhead, looking for a man who likes to walk on the wild side.'"
"And what happened with her?"
"She was into S&M."
"She beat you with a whip?"
"Worse. She tied me up and made me watch rock music videos. When she went to her bedroom to look for her spurs, I untied myself and got away."
"Surely, you decided not to answer any more ads after that," I said to Rigby.

"I found one ad that seemed totally harmless," he said.
"What did it say?"
"Sweet, sensitive schoolteacher wants meaningful, loving relationship with a man who will not only love me, but my pets as well."
"And?"
"Ever try to get romantic in the same room with two boa constrictors named Arnold and Hazel?"
"But you kept trying?"
"I did. The next girl I called said she was 'The-Girl-Next-Door-Type.'"
"Was she?"
"That was the problem," said Rigby. "She turned out to be my neighbor, Hilda Weatherwax, who weighs 300 pounds and has a moustache. Some guy looked at her the wrong way in the laundry room one night and she stuffed him into the Speed Queen. He was in there for four cycles before the fire department came and got him out."

"Surely you stopped answering ads after that," I said.
"I answered one more. It said, 'For a good time, call Gladys', and we hit it off perfectly."
"So singles magazines do work," I said.
"What magazine?" Rigby said. "I found Gladys's number in the phone booth at the bus station."
"Love in the '80s isn't all that different. In a pinch, you still go back to the basics."

Marine copter crashes

SAN DIEGO — A Marine helicopter crashed shortly after takeoff from an amphibious assault ship during a military exercise, injuring 25 Marines and leaving one man missing at sea today, officials said.

The CH-46E Sea Knight Marine transport helicopter crashed Sunday evening aboard the amphibious assault vessel USS Peleliu, Marine Corps spokesman Maj. Tom Mitchell said. He didn't know where the Marines were stationed.

Six Marines were tossed into the Pacific Ocean and five were plucked from the waves by rescue helicopters, Mitchell said. One man was still missing 10 hours after the crash.

Foster homes decline

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The foster care system in Illinois is in trouble, a state official says, because just as the need for temporary shelter for abused and neglected children is growing, foster families are leaving the program.

And unless 1,000 new foster homes are recruited in the next six months, the state's foster care system could be near collapse, says Gordon Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

"Some 400 to 500 foster parents a year adopt their foster children," Johnson said. "Others retire. Some simply burn out from the stress of dealing with the foster children's problems."

Budget pact 'first step'

WASHINGTON — Blinking at the television lights, and perhaps from fatigue after four solid weeks of dickered, House Minority Leader Robert Michel described "those boring sessions" that may have changed the direction of federal spending in the next two years.

"We've just had a beginning here," Michel, R-Ill., told reporters minutes after President Reagan announced his deal with Congress to cut $76 billion from the deficit over two years. "Now the more difficult chore falls on the leadership to sell the programs to our members."

Mail ordering booming

WASHINGTON — Catalogs are pouring into American homes by the dozens, straining letter carriers and confronting holiday shoppers with a bewildering array of choices for ordering gifts.

Mail order was a $50 billion business in 1985, according to the Direct Marketing Association.

Long wait

Cubans still hold 25 hostage

OAKDALE, La. (AP) — Hundreds of law enforcement officers settled in for "a long haul" today at a burned out federal detention center where Cuban prisoners fearing deportation held 25 hostages after a riot.

Authorities used telephones and walkie-talkies for negotiations between federal officials and a group of inmates who claimed to speak for most of the 1,000 Cuban prisoners at the Federal Detention Center.

"We've been talking all night," said Russ Bergeron, a spokesman for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. "We think that's a good sign. As long as we can keep the dialogue between the inmates and the negotiators, No. 1, the possibility of any renewed violence is diminished and, No. 2, the possibility of a peaceful resolution to this situation is improving."

About 300 federal, state and local law enforcement officers armed with riot guns, automatic weapons and carbines were on the scene, along with 350 detention center staff members, Stevens said.

Inside the center, where only four of 14 buildings were undamaged, inmates appeared to be patrolling the grounds and were feeding their campfires with furniture.

"There's no indication that there will be a break soon. We're preparing for a long haul," center housing supervisor Jim Stevens said at a pre-dawn briefing.

The rioting Saturday night was sparked by a State Department announcement Friday that Cuba had agreed to accept the return of 2,500 refugees from the 1980 Mariel boatlift, most of them criminals and mentally ill, officials said. That would include many of the prisoners at Oakdale.

In addition to the hostage-taking, 13 center employees and 10 inmates suffered minor injuries.

Fire destroyed half of the 14 buildings at the year-old, $17 million center, including the two-story administration building, a dormitory, a cafeteria and a processing center.

Louette Johnson, a spokeswoman for the center, said Sunday that the inmates were saying "they don't want to go back to Cuba and they'd like not to be prosecuted for what they're doing."

As a condition for the hostages' release, the Cubans demanded to talk with someone from Washington about their status, officials said.

A letter from U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese was hand-delivered Sunday, they said.

"I do not know the contents. I assume it was reassuring," said Stevens, who said the Cubans got the letter from Meese Sunday afternoon.

"The inmates did not respond," Stevens said.

In Laredo, Texas, 17 Cuban inmates broke out of a medium-security detention center early Sunday by climbing through a steel roof grating. Authorities captured all but three of them within hours.

Guards at Oakdale, a minimum-security facility, do not carry firearms, officials said.

After the rioting began about 7 p.m. Saturday, officials offered through a loudspeaker to give inmates safe conduct to other nearby jails.

Arms talks continue

GENEVA — Secretary of State George P. Shultz today took up with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze some operational details in the way of a treaty to ban intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

Their aim is to have the treaty ready for signing in Washington on Dec. 9 by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The first meeting ran about 45 minutes late, lasting for about four hours and 15 minutes at the Soviet diplomatic mission. Neither side commented on what was discussed.

British blaze kills 30

LONDON — A discarded cigarette falling through a gap in a wooden escalator's slatted steps probably sparked a subway station inferno that killed 30 people, a newspaper said today.

Another newspaper reported that the pre-World War II escalator had repeated mechanical problems and twice gave off smoke earlier this month.

British Transport Police said they have pinpointed the cause of Wednesday's fire at King's Cross subway station, but gave no details other than to say arson had been ruled out.

Iran blasts freighter

MANAMA, Bahrain — An Iranian warship blasted the back out of a Romanian-flag freighter in the gateway to the Persian Gulf today, setting it ablaze and critically injuring two crewmen, gulf-based salvage executives said.

They said another commercial ship in the vicinity was hit by rocket-propelled grenades almost simultaneously and also caught fire.

The attacks brought to four the number of commercial ships struck by Iran in the gulf in the last three days.

Korean students protest

SEOUL, South Korea — Radical students threw firebombs today at government presidential candidate Roh Tae-woo as he was driving by a university in the southern port of Masan.

Students waiting on the campus of Kyongsang University hurled four or five firebombs at Roh's motorcade, but the gasoline-filled bottles exploded in the road and did not hit any of the vehicles or bystanders.

Police in Masan, 200 miles southeast of Seoul, said the attackers fled and there were no arrests. Officers said they were searching for the assailants.

World food production down 45 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pests and diseases ranging from weeds to worms are responsible for a loss of 45 percent in world food production, the World Bank says.

For some countries and crops the loss can be as high as 80 percent.

"With the world population projected to reach 6 to 7 billion by the year 2000 and 10 to 16 billion by 2100, it is clear that the need for intensified agriculture, and therefore the need to deal effectively with agricultural pest problems, will extend far into the foreseeable future," the bank said.

The bank, owned by 151 countries, is the largest source of development aid for Third World countries. The United States is the biggest contributor.

The bank's view was presented in a background paper by Agnes Kiss of its Environment Unit for a day-long discussion Thursday on what to do about pests.

She said some problems from the past have been made worse by measures to feed rapidly growing numbers of people.

—Rotation of crops and the practice of letting land lie fallow for a year or more has been reduced or in some places ended altogether. Some pests specialize in one crop and tend to disappear when a new crop is planted or the land is allowed to rest.

—The planting of large areas with a single high-yield crop which is often susceptible to pests and may have been developed for other growing conditions.

—More use of fertilizer and irrigation, and less use of farm labor.

Participants in the meeting emphasized using insects and other biological means to fight pests. G. Edward Schuh, director of the bank's Agriculture Department, cited a parasite from Brazil which has been brought successfully to Zaire and other African countries to prey on the mealybug that devastates the cassava crop. Cassava, a starchy root plant, is a staple food in much of Africa.

Schuh is a former U.S. undersecretary of agriculture.

A British adviser on rain-fed crops, John Hayward, spoke of work done in Israel and the Netherlands to develop tiny wasps to prey on the white fly that destroys peppers, tomatoes and flowers in greenhouses.

Unfortunately, another kind of parasite preys on the wasps.

Use of such biotechnological methods reduces the need for chemical pesticides, which can harm the environment.

The World Bank has been under attack from environmental organizations and from Sen. Robert W. Kasten, R-Wis. It is accused of ignoring damage to tropical rain forests from major projects it has supported in Brazil and Indonesia.

In a recent reorganization that eliminated 510 of about 6,000 jobs, the bank increased its environmental staff. At Thursday's meeting, Visvanathan Rajagopalan, an Indian who is the bank's vice president supervising that staff, said it now has eight times as many people as before. A spokesman, Peter Riddleberger, estimated the new total at 60, with its chief not yet appointed.

"Little has been said about the bank's investment of more than $1 billion over the last decade in reforestation programs spread over some 50 countries," Rajagopalan complained.

He said reduction of pesticide use is one of the high priority topics the bank's environment unit will deal with.

Thankful woman tells how letter to GI changed her life

DEAR ABBY: I must have started 50 letters to you over the last 20 years to thank you for one particular column. I was 18 when I read something in The Houston Post that changed my life. (I had it framed.) This is it:

Dear Abby

"Dear Abby: I am a GI stationed in Thailand. During the Christmas rush, I worked in the mail room, and while there, I noticed that even though the mail volume was heavy, there were about 500 or 600 guys who would have been tickled to death to get even a bill! That is how hungry these guys are for something in their mailbox. All the world's finest foods and the USO shows can't do for a GI's morale what one letter from 'home' can do.

"Abby, if any of your readers, male or female, young or old, have time on their hands and can afford one postage stamp a week, please ask them to write to: GI JOSEPH W. KING"

You printed his address, and I was one of the many thousands who wrote. I was surprised to receive a letter in April from a Douglas Abney, U.S. Air Force, stationed in Thailand. He was 20, born in Louisiana, had a brother living in Houston, and seemed eager to correspond with me. We exchanged pictures. I thought he was handsome, and he must have thought I was OK, too. Soon we were writing to each other every day until he came back to the States in June. He had a three-week leave and spent most of it with me in Houston. My parents fell in love with him — and so did I. We were married within a year. Now we have four fine children — Shaun, 17; Tara, 15; Jennifer, 13; and Sarah, 11. With the holiday season approaching, I was sitting here counting my blessings, and it occurred to me that I never did thank you for the part you played in giving me a terrific husband, a beautiful family and a wonderful life. So thank you, Abby.

JANIE REEVE ABNEY, HOUSTON

DEAR JANIE: Better late than never. Continued happiness to you and that lucky Doug. And say hi to Shaun, Tara, Jennifer and Sarah.

DEAR ABBY: Do you know Perry Como? If you don't know him personally, maybe he will see this and make my dreams come true. I cannot find Perry Como's record. "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows." I have looked everywhere — I even wrote to Canada, but nobody has it. I am willing to pay $100 for it. Please help me, Abby. Thank you with all my heart.

EMILINE ZIMMERMAN

DEAR EMILINE: I don't know Perry Como, but maybe someone who has "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" will sell it to you. Please send me your address in case I get lucky. (P.S. You have excellent taste. Frank Sinatra says Perry Como is the finest male vocalist in the business.)

Dear Abby's Cookbooklet is here! To order, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (postage and handling are included).

Names in the news

SUN CITY CENTER, Fla. (AP) — Actress Alice Faye had a date with 600 fans, but a chauffeur apparently took her to the wrong town by mistake, promoters say.

ALICE FAYE

Ms. Faye, who starred in movies in the 1930s and '40s, was to visit this sprawling retirement community south of Tampa recently.

She had made an appearance in Clearwater earlier in the day and was scheduled to address the gathering of senior citizens here as a touring good-health spokeswoman for Pfizer Pharmaceuticals.

The program started with film clips. Many in the audience stuck around for two hours until the appearance was scrubbed when it was learned Ms. Faye had been driven to Sarasota 40 miles away and had a plane to catch.

The promoters will try to reschedule the visit, said publicist Scott Grogan.

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronomer Carl Sagan says this nation's chief failing toward its children is its shrinking interest in space exploration.

CARL SAGAN

"Unhappily — astonishingly — the United States may become the first nation to back off from the exploration of space," Sagan wrote in the Nov. 22 edition of Parade magazine.

The Cornell University professor says continued space exploration is needed so children will understand there is a future worth striving for.

"Our children long for realistic maps of a future they (and we) can be proud of. Where are the cartographers of human purpose?" Sagan asked.

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Actor Mark Harmon has been dropped from advertisements for Coors beer, the brewer says.

"Mark's not going to appear in our new brand campaign," company spokeswoman Colleen Plummer said Wednesday at the company's headquarters here.

"We are discussing some opportunities with Mark," she added. Harmon has touted Coors Banquet beer in low-keyed advertisements for more than two years.

The new campaign's theme will be "The American original," featuring film clips of celebrities such as boxer Sugar Ray Leonard, the Three Stooges and the late actress Marilyn Monroe, the company said.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Journalist Nicholas Daniloff, who was arrested in Moscow by the KGB and jailed last year, has been named a resident fellow at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

Daniloff will join the Joan Shorenstein Barone Center on the Press, Politics and Public Policy, according to an announcement Thursday by center director Marvin Kalb.

Daniloff will work on a comparative study of U.S. and Soviet press treatment of world crises, the announcement said. At the time of his arrest Daniloff was a contributing editor with U.S. News and World Report. His release was part of an arrangement by the two superpowers that led to the Reykjavik summit meeting in October 1986.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Carol Burnett is writing a book with her daughter Carrie, a former drug abuser, about the dark times the addiction caused in their household and what it took to overcome the problem.

Carrie, 23, who last month celebrated six years of freedom from drugs, came up with the idea of writing the book after talking to junior high school students about drug abuse, Miss Burnett said.

"We came up with the idea of doing the book separately," the 51-year-old actress-comedian said in a telephone interview from her home in Honolulu. "I would write my point of view as the mother, and she would write her point of view as the kid. We would alternate chapters. And we would write the last chapter together."

Carrie, a budding singer and actress, also just finished co-starring with her mother in a CBS-TV movie, "Hostage," in which she plays a troubled girl who forms a friendship with a widow portrayed by Miss Burnett.

Miss Burnett was in Hawaii to film an episode of "Magnum, P.I."

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Irish rock group U2 will end its 1987 world tour at Arizona State University, where it began, with two outdoor shows next month, promoters announced.

The shows at Sun Devil Stadium Dec. 19 and Dec. 20 will be filmed as part of a documentary on the band and the tour promoting its hit album, "The Joshua Tree," promoter Barry Fey said Thursday. U2's tour began April 2.

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — Patty Hearst, who was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army nearly 14 years ago, says she doesn't dwell on the past.

"I think my life has gone back to what it would have been if this had never happened," Hearst, 33, said Thursday.

"I haven't forgotten. ... I think people have become more removed from the events of the kidnapping and what happened afterward," she said.

Hearst, a volunteer worker for the local chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, commented after serving as a waitress in a celebrity luncheon that raised $23,000 for leukemia research.

A member of the famed Hearst newspaper dynasty, she was kidnapped by the terrorist group in February 1974. She was converted to the SLA cause, and arrested in September 1975.

Hearst received a seven-year prison term for her part in a bank robbery, but President Carter commuted her sentence in 1979.

Hearst has lived in Westport for the past four years with her husband, Bernard Shaw, and their two daughters, ages 3 and 6.

Sitters treat charges like animals

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Baby sitters who find children a challenge haven't seen anything compared to "barn sitters" Pat Beck and Mary Raby, whose charges include horses, cows, pigs and other livestock.

"I'll take just about anything on," says Ms. Raby, who in May started "Barn Sitters" out of Ashland. "I do horses, cows, goats, pigs, egg collecting, milking and mucking — whatever it takes," adds Ms. Beck, a rural Medford farmer who began "Criter Sitters" more recently.

"Like kids, you just have to deal with the animals on an individual basis," Ms. Beck says, describing barn sitting. "But you don't have to deal with whining or complaining — and no diapers."

The idea for Ms. Raby's business originated last summer when her vacation was dampened by lack of someone to look after her seven horses and pony, among other animals.

"I wanted to go away and I didn't have anyone to take care of them, though," she says. And, like her 40-plus customers so far, Ms. Raby didn't feel comfortable leaving hundreds and often thousands of dollars' worth of animals alone with the neighbor kid, she says.

Beck got the idea for her business the same way this year when she hired five people to look after her family's farm and dairy goats.

"It took all five of them to milk one goat. It was hysterical," she says. "It made me think why not give someone the opportunity to have a professional do this."

Both women believe there are more than enough barns to sit in southern Oregon, and although things are quiet now they expect their businesses to grow and prosper. "It definitely is a business that is needed around here," says Ms. Raby. "I'm sure there's more than enough room for others to get into it."

Ron Mobley, a livestock agent and director of the Jackson County Extension Service, agrees there's a growing need for barn sitters.

"In this day and age, it really is necessary," Mobley says. "It used to be in the farming community that everybody up and down the road, their whole life was farming. And if someone left, a neighbor would just pick it up for them. Nowadays, in a small farming community like this, there's less people who can come in and take care of a farm."

The fee for barn sitting depends on the location, number and type of animals and number of days and visits per day required. At $6 or $7 an hour, Ms. Raby guesses the average one-week sitting job would cost about $30. Ms. Beck goes on a base fee of $25 per day, adding charges for milking, cleaning stalls and other extra jobs.

"I'm not out to make big money," Ms. Raby says. "I just want to get by and pay the bills."

Ms. Beck, however, says she is hoping the business will pay well someday.

Like other businesses, barn sitting clients get an estimate of the job's cost before they sign. Clients also get a chance to show the sitters around the farm — "to do chores with them," Ms. Raby says — and to introduce them to the animals and their personalities.

The jobs are pretty routine, Ms. Raby says, with mostly horses and a few dogs or cats thrown in. "I did get one farm that had everything: goats, sheep, chickens — the whole works," she says.

Hoisery considered best investment with the mini

From Ladies' Home Journal
A Meredith Magazine

With minis the fashion to focus in this season, hoisery is the best fashion investment.

Since extra-high hemlines teamed with longer jackets call attention to legs, hose are clearly playing an all-important supporting role. The hot look to go for is the ultrasophisticated style of monochromatic dressing from head to toe. Now is the time to rejuvenate a wardrobe and stock up on hose that are color-coded to every outfit.

Color is the news in hose, in shades from fiery red to teal. There are more shades than ever to choose from. If legs are on the heavy side, go for darker hues. But don't reach immediately for black. Navy is newsy, as are chestnut, acorn, tobacco, coffee. Slim legs should go very bright or very light. Almond, alabaster, taupe and buff are good choices for classic outfits.

The new look in classic hose is tailored, minimally detailed, according to Ladies' Home Journal. Choose sheers with subtle accents such as diamonds, houndstooth, checks, petite dots, to pair with sculpted suits and shapely dresses.

TRAVEL TALK

THE SPLENDOR OF UPPER EGYPT
A traveler's interest in Egypt usually centers on the past. For this ancient perspective, one must travel some 400 miles south of Cairo to Luxor. It is here that Thebes, the capital of Egypt during the Middle and New Kingdoms, was situated. Among the ruins of this area lie the great monuments that one associates with the ancient Egyptian civilization. A tour of the west bank of the Nile in this area will bring tourists into the famed Valley of Kings. These are the burial grounds of the pharaohs. The nearby cliffs are studded with the Tombs of the Nobles. A close attention to detail in these tombs and surrounding temples brings a sense of past and grandeur that the ensuing centuries could scarcely dim.
BIG SPRING SKIPPER TRAVEL, 612 S. Gregg, can arrange the itinerary that will meet the needs of all travelers. Browns turn showdown into rout HOUSTON (AP) — It was supposed to be a showdown for the AFC Central lead between the Cleveland Browns and Houston Oilers. The Browns showed up, the crowd showed up, but the Oilers didn't.

"It was the biggest game of the year and we just flat choked," said Houston tight end Jamie Williams to the Oilers after the Browns routed Oilers 40-7, sending the standing room only crowd of 51,161, the largest turnout in five years for an Oilers game at the Astrodome, home early.

The win put Cleveland atop the AFC Central at 7-3 and dropped the surprising Oilers, who had won only 16 games in the five seasons before this, into a second-place tie with Pittsburgh at 6-4.

Led by Frank Minnifield, Bernie Kosar and Kevin Mack, Cleveland made it such a thorough rout that Houston was in the game for only four minutes and 40 seconds. Starting in the shotgun formation, the Oilers took the opening kickoff and drove from their own eight to the Cleveland 22.

But Ernest Givins was thrown for a 13-yard loss on a reverse, Mike Rozier was thrown for a four-yard loss on a direct snap from the shotgun and the opportunity was wasted.

From there, the Browns drove 76 yards in nine plays to take a 6-0 lead — the extra point was botched — and the fans could have started leaving.

Kosar threw for 257 yards and two touchdowns. Minnifield had three interceptions and Mack rushed for 114 yards in 26 carries as the Browns went the entire first half without punting. It was 26-0 at halftime and could have been worse had not the snaps on two

Cleveland Browns Clarence Weathers (85) and Gerald McNeil (89) do a little leg shaking dance in the end zone after McNeil caught a 39-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bernie Kosar in the third quarter of the National Football League game at Houston Sunday. Cleveland won the game and took the lead in the AFC Central division with a 40-7 win.

field goal attempts been botched. In fact, the Browns didn't let up until the third quarter, when it was 33-0 and they had outgained Houston 349-93.

The defense was just as good as the offense, forcing six turnovers — four interceptions and two fumbles — and sacking Warren Moon three times. They also used five- and six-man attacks to force him into quick throws.

Moon had just five completions in 23 attempts for 193 yards, and even that figure was deceptive, because 83 came on a touchdown pass to Ernest Givins for Houston's only score. Moon now has four touchdown passes and 15 interceptions against Cleveland in his career.

"I certainly didn't anticipate this," said Cleveland Coach Marty Schottenheimer. "Sometimes it happens that way. Everything goes right for you and everything goes wrong for the other team."

In fact, it went so well that Schottenheimer even anticipated that Houston might try a flea-flicker, which is exactly what happened on the first play of the game. Typically for Houston it failed — Minnifield wasn't fooled and was all over Curtis Duncan, the prospective receiver.

But not all the Browns thought that way.

"I don't want to say too much about them," said cornerback Hanford Dixon. "But I think the score stands for itself."

Kosar had touchdown passes of 27 yards to Webster Slaughter on the final offensive play of the first half and 39 to Gerald McNeil, Mack ran five yards for one score and Ernest Byner, who added 57 yards to Mack's total, scored from one yard and 17.

Then there was the defense.

"He's a good quarterback," Dixon said of Moon. "But when you put a lot of pressure on a good quarterback, he becomes an ordinary quarterback."

The Oilers, meanwhile, were hoping they would be able to regroup.

"We got beat badly today — it doesn't take an Einstein to figure that out," said defensive end Ray Childress.

"Granted, it was important, but we're still in the hunt," said cornerback Steve Brown. "Obviously, today they were a better football team than us but I'd like to play them again in the playoffs."

Dolphins' rookie runs wild in win over Cowboys

IRVING (AP) — Troy Stradford put his name in the Miami Dolphin record book where not even NFL Hall of Famer Larry Csonka can be found.

Stradford had the third-best rushing game in club history Sunday night as the Dolphins ground out a 20-14 NFL victory over Dallas to roll into a five-way tie for first place in the AFC East.

The rookie from Boston College gained 169 yards on 17 carries and ran 19 yards for a touchdown. He also added 83 yards on six pass receptions.

Mercury Morris gained 197 yards on 15 tries in 1973 and Gary Davis had 172 on 26 attempts in 1977. Csonka's best rushing day was 145 yards.

"The way Troy was playing, it was apparent we wanted him to get the football as much as we could," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "Stradford played a helluva game. The running game came alive when we needed it. We had to have it."

The loss dropped Dallas to 5-5 in the NFC East. Washington leads the division with a 7-2 record and play the Los Angeles Rams tonight.

Miami was 15th in the NFL in rushing going into the game, but Stradford said Dallas was doing a good job defending the pass.

"They just kept calling my numbers and it kind of surprised me because I thought Dallas was supposed to be so great against the run," Stradford said. "I just taking pitchouts and reading the defense. It was real simple."

As any good running back would do, Stradford praised his offensive line, saying, "I was five or ten yards downfield before I was even touched."

Dan Marino hit 22 of 39 passes for 265 yards. His 2-yard scoring pass to James Pruitt with 8:42 to play was the game-winner after a controversial 41-yard completion to Mark Clayton.

Cornerback Ron Francis was falling with the ball when Clayton stole it away from him. Instant replay confirmed the official's decision.

"I had possession of the ball until I hit the ground, then it popped off my chest," Francis said.

"We hit the ground together and I came up with the ball," said Clayton. "It was a catch."

"It was an incredible catch by Clayton," Shula said. "It looked like Francis had the ball all the way. It bounced off his chest, and the next thing I know Clayton's got the football."

Steve Pelluer's 1987 debut as a Dallas starter drew mixed reviews. He threw touchdown passes of 8 and 18 yards to Timmy Newsome but never hit a wide receiver.

Pelluer, who was subbing for the injured Danny White, scrambled 10 times for 84 yards, beating Herschel Walker's rushing total by two yards.

"I was just taking what Miami was giving me," Pelluer said. "The scrambles weren't planned or anything."

Pelluer hit 12 of 18 passes for 134 yards but suffered two interceptions.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said his defense stopped Marino but couldn't handle Stradford.

"We did a pretty good job against Marino," Landry said. "We slowed him down, and that's all you can hope to do." "Our defense held 'em to 20 points and should have given us a chance to win," Landry. "We had plenty of chances but never got going on offense. Stradford was tough. He kept running the same play and we couldn't handle him."

Landry said Pelluer's starting debut was lukewarm.

"Steve handled himself well, but he didn't throw well to our outside receivers," Landry said.

"I was rusty," Pelluer admitted. "But I was getting some confidence and felt good on our last touchdown drive."

Pelluer added, "It's frustrating. The offense is capable of scoring more points." Landry said he might switch back to White for the Thanksgiving day game against Minnesota.

"I'll have to see the films," Landry said. "Danny says his bad wrist is feeling better so the rest helped him."

Saints go marching past Giants

By The Associated Press
In the topsy-turvy NFL, the New Orleans Saints look like playoff contenders and the New York Giants look like former Super Bowl champions.

The Saints, one of the surprise teams in the league, kept moving up by almost certainly ending the Giants' postseason hopes with a 24-13 victory Sunday.

Bobby Hebert's 22-yard touchdown pass to Eric Martin in the fourth quarter put the host Saints ahead and they won their fourth straight game — the longest winning streak in the team's 21-year history.

New Orleans, which has never finished above .500, is 7-3 and one game behind NFC West-leading San Francisco.

The injury-depleted Giants endured another lackluster performance. Quarterback Phil Simms and running back Joe Morris did not play because of injuries and all-Pro Lawrence Taylor missed most of the last three quarters after re-aggravating a hamstring pull.

No team has repeated as Super Bowl champions since Pittsburgh in 1978-79 and the Giants, who lost their first five games this season, are not likely to do it, either. They are three games behind in the chase for a wild-card playoff berth with only six games left.

The Los Angeles Rams play at Washington tonight.

New Orleans forced the Giants into seven turnovers. The Saints intercepted five passes by Jeff Rutledge, recovered two fumbles and partially blocked a punt.

The Giants led 14-13 midway through the fourth quarter when linebacker Pat Swilling caused Rutledge to fumble. Dave Waymer recovered for the Saints at the New York 27 and Hebert hooked up with Martin three plays later. Later, Johnnie Poe got a piece of Sean Landeta's punt and set up a 28-yard field goal by Morten Andersen with 3:26 remaining for a nine-point margin. Rutledge threw TD passes of 46 yards to Stephen Baker in the second quarter and 22 yards to Mark Bavaro in the third. Andersen kicked three field goals and Barry Word plunged 1 yard for the Saints' other scores.

Seahawks 34, Chargers 3
Dave Krieg threw two touchdown passes and ran for another score as Seattle stopped San Diego's eight-game winning streak. Curt Warner had his second straight 100-yard game and the host Seahawks beat the Chargers for the seventh straight time.

San Diego still leads the AFC West at 8-2 while Seattle is 7-3.

Warner ran for 119 yards with a 5-yard touchdown. Mark Herrmann started at quarterback for San Diego in place of Dan Fouts, who has a pulled calf muscle. Herrmann played the first 2½ quarters and Fouts saw only limited action.

Broncos 23, Raiders 17

John Elway passed for a touchdown and ran for another, helping Denver send Los Angeles to its seventh straight loss. Elway completed 16 of 29 passes for 298 yards.

Vance Johnson caught five passes for 115 yards, including a 24-yard TD catch. Rich Karlis kicked three field goals for the visiting Broncos, 6-3-1.

Bo Jackson ran for his first two NFL touchdowns and led all rushers with 98 yards. Still, the Raiders extended their longest losing streak since 1962 and fell to 3-7.

Bears 30, Lions 10

Shaun Gayle returned an interception 20 yards for a touchdown and Chicago's aggressive defense helped the Bears improve to 8-2, tied for the best record in the NFL.

The Bears held Detroit to 30 yards rushing and ended a streak of 11 straight quarters without a sack by getting five. Chicago dominated following Monday night's 31-29 loss to SAINTS page 2-B

Lakers lose first game

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Reynolds scored eight of his 24 points in overtime Sunday night as the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Los Angeles Lakers 124-116, the defending NBA champions' first loss of the season.

The Lakers had won a club-record eight games to start off the season.

Reynolds made the first basket in overtime after the game was tied 107-107 at the end of regulation. Paul Pressey added two consecutive baskets to put Milwaukee ahead 115-110, then Reynolds added six more points as the Bucks pulled away.

Larry Krystkowiak, acquired from San Antonio last Wednesday, forced the extra period when he was fouled by Magic Johnson with two seconds remaining and made his second free throw after missing the first.

Johnson, victim of a steal by Pressey with six seconds left in regulation to give the Bucks their chance to tie or win, came back in the overtime to score seven of the Lakers' nine points in the extra period.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar barely managed to keep alive a streak of scoring in double figures for 782 regular-season games. He got his 10th point on a hook shot with 1:08 left in overtime.

The Lakers led almost all the way, including a 95-83 advantage with 9:44 remaining. But the Bucks made it 103-102 with 2:20 left, then caught the Lakers as they went scoreless for the last 1:35.

Pressey added 20 points for the Bucks and Terry Cummings had 19. Johnson led Los Angeles with 26 points, while James Worthy had 25 and Byron Scott 24.

Trail Blazers 120, Pacers 110
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Steve Johnson scored a season-high 36 points and Clyde Drexler added 31 as the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Indiana Pacers 120-110 in an NBA game Sunday night.

Indiana, shooting 65 percent from the field, led 73-69 at halftime despite Johnson's 27 points, including 19 in the first quarter. But the Pacers managed only 37 points in the second half, allowing Portland to come back.

The Trail Blazers outscored the Pacers 13-4 in the last five minutes of the third period for a 94-91 lead. Johnson tied the score at 89-89 before Drexler's rebound basket put Portland ahead for the first time since the first quarter. Chuck Person, who scored 26 points for Indiana, made it 91-91, and Johnson hit a free throw and a layup to put the Blazers ahead to stay. The Pacers got as close as 98-97, but Jerome Kersey scored nine of his 19 points in the last three minutes as Portland pulled away.

Kersey replaced Kiki Vandeweghe, sidelined for the second straight game with a sore back. Wayman Tisdale had 23 points for Indiana, 20 of them in the first half.

Graf feasts on competition

NEW YORK (AP) — After devouring the competition in 1987, Steffi Graf was still hungry for dessert. So she finished off the year with a tasty treat known as the Virginia Slims tennis championship.

Graf capped a sensational season Sunday by beating fellow teen-ager Gabriela Sabatini 4-6, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4 in the best-of-five set final at Madison Square Garden.

Following the victory, the world's top-ranked player listed nine of her 11 titles this year in menu form.

"For the appetizer, I had baked Key Biscayne with Boca Raton and Amelia Island on the side," she said.

"For the main course, I took a huge tender French Open topped with Berlin and Rome and a side of the Wimbledon and U.S. Open finals, which didn't have enough salt and pepper.

"For dessert, I started with Hamburg and Zurich and then I got to the best thing, which was New York. That was my year, and it was very tasteful."

The only sour dishes were Graf's losses to Martina Navratilova at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open — her only defeats in 77 matches this year. The 18-year-old West German beat Navratilova in their other two meetings, in the Lipton International and the French Open.

Graf, who replaced Navratilova atop the rankings in August, wanted one more shot at her in the Slims final. But the four-time defending champion was upset by Sabatini in the quarterfinals.

"I was looking forward to playing her," Graf said, "but I'm sure there will be other chances."

Before the $1 million Slims, Graf's biggest titles of the year were Lipton and the French Open. She said Sunday's championship was even sweeter.

"It's the toughest to win because you have the 16 best players," she said. "And it's always exciting to have a nice ending to the year."

Graf, who received the winner's check of $125,000, also made a bit of history by becoming the second female tennis player to win more than $1 million in a year. Navratilova has done it five times.

Sabatini earned $60,000 as runner-up.

Americans go down in world golf play

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — For Ian Woosnam, it was victory No. 7 in a spectacular season. For the World Cup of Golf, it was a successful, if weather-troubled, revival.

For the Americans, meanwhile, it was another exercise in frustration in international team golf competition.

"It's just so frustrating," Ben Crenshaw said after he and teammate Payne Stewart struggled to a third-place finish in the 32-nation 33rd World Cup of Golf on Saturday.

The United States, which once dominated world golf, finished the season with one victory in four international team matches, that in the Kirin Cup in Japan earlier this month. In this one, the Americans were two shots back at par 576, with Crenshaw two under at 286 and Stewart at 290.

Wales, led by the doughty little Woosnam, scored its first World Cup triumph on the second hole of a playoff with Scotland after each team completed the regulation 72 holes in 574.

"I felt if I could just hang in there, Woosie could win it for us," David Llewellyn, the other member of the Wales team, said. "At the moment, he's the best player in the world."

The record indicates that appraisal is accurate. The 5-foot-4 Woosnam set a European tour money-winning record with about $400,000 this season. He won five European titles as well as the Hong Kong Open, played on the victorious European Ryder Cup team and capped his season with his victory in the World Cup individual competition.

He won it by five shots at 274, 14 under par for four rounds of the 6,761-yard, par-72 Kapalua

Bay course that was rain-soaked, wind-raked and, according to Woosnam, "was almost unplayable." Woosnam had rounds of 67, 70, 65 and 72.

In the end, it was a Scottish mistake — a three-putt bogey by Sam Torrance on the second extra hole — that made the difference.

Woosnam and Llewellyn each won $100,000 for the team triumph and Woosnam picked up another $50,000 as the individual champion. Sandy Lyle of Scotland was second in the individual standings at 279 after a closing 71.

The World Cup was not held last year but, tournament officials insisted, is now back to stay.

Crenshaw faded with a final 74 after playing himself into contention for the individual title with a third-round 69.

Saints

Denver, after which Bears coach Mike Ditka said, "We stink."

Jim McMahon threw a 31-yard touchdown pass to Dennis McKinnon as Chicago took a 27-10 lead at halftime. The Bears then went into a ball-control offense and limited the Lions, 2-8, to only three plays in the third quarter.

49ers 24, Buccaneers 10
Joe Montana passed for 304 yards and threw TD passes of 42, 21 and 3 yards to Jerry Rice as San Francisco won at Tampa Bay.

Montana, the top-rated quarterback in the NFC, completed 29 of 45 passes. Rice, who leads the league with 11 TD catches, caught seven passes for 103 yards.

The 49ers won for the eighth time in nine games. The Buccaneers are 4-6.

Patriots 24, Colts 0
New England scored third-quarter touchdowns when Willie Scott returned a blocked punt three yards and Ronnie Lippett went 45 yards with an interception, as the Patriots and Colts joined the five-way AFC deadlock.

The Colts were shut out for the first time in four seasons. They returned the ball over on four straight possessions in the second half and had a punt blocked. Indianapolis' Eric Dickerson gained 117 yards but lost a fumble.

Bills 17, Jets 14
Jim Kelly's 25-yard touchdown pass to Walter Broughton contributed to Buffalo ending a seven-game losing streak against New York. The Bills and Jets are also tied for the AFC East lead.

Kelly extended his string of consecutive games with a touchdown pass to 15. Jets quarterback Ken O'Brien threw two touchdown passes.

Strong, gusty winds at Giants Stadium made passing and kicking difficult for most of the game. Buffalo led 10-7 at halftime.

Packers 23, Chiefs 3
Randy Wright's two touchdown passes to Frankie Neal in the second half enabled Green Bay to send Kansas City to its franchise-record ninth straight loss.

Wright did not start because of an injured ankle but relieved an ineffective Don Majkowski and rallied the visiting Packers, 4-5-1, who ended a three-game losing streak. The Chiefs are 1-9, the worst record in the NFL.

Vikings 24, Falcons 13
Leo Lewis went 78 yards on Minnesota's first punt return for a touchdown in 19 years and the Vikings handed Atlanta its fifth straight loss.

Lewis gave host Minnesota a 17-7 lead with 5:48 remaining in the third quarter. The last punt return for a touchdown by the Vikings was Charlie West's 98-yarder in 1968. Minnesota also blocked a punt by Rick Donnelly.

The Vikings are 6-4, including a 6-1 mark in non-strike games. The Falcons are 2-8.

Cardinals 31, Eagles 19
Neil Lomax threw three touchdown passes and St. Louis took a 28-point lead at halftime and coasted in Philadelphia.

Lomax connected on two TD passes to J.T. Smith and another to Roy Green, while a 35-yard touchdown run by Earl Ferrell and Jim Galley's 20-yard field goal made it 31-3 at the half.

The Eagles, limited to 51 yards in the first half, scored in the second half on two touchdown passes from Randall Cunningham to Mike Quick. Both teams are 4-6.

Steelers 30, Bengals 16
Rod Woodson returned an interception 45 yards for a touchdown and Pittsburgh capitalized on Cincinnati's miscues.

The Steelers intercepted three passes, giving them a league-leading 22. Pittsburgh also recovered two fumbles and sacked Boomer Esiason five times.

Pittsburgh is 6-4 and the host Bengals fell to 3-7.

Bowl picture clearer after games Saturday

By The Associated Press
Miami might yet soar on the Orange Bowl. The Cotton pickers aren't so high on the Irish. Clemson backed into the Florida Citrus Bowl, and that could be upsetting. The Orange are in the Sugar Bowl — almost upset, not quite. And the blush is off the Rose Bowl, thanks to Southern California.

Most of the New Year's Day bowls took a beating Saturday. The big game was No. 1 Nebraska against No. 2 Oklahoma — the game of the decade, some said.

Despite struggling along without injured starters, quarterback Jamelle Holloway and fullback Lydell Carr, Oklahoma won 17-7, almost certainly regaining the No. 1 ranking from Nebraska and setting up a possible national championship game against undefeated and third-ranked Miami, Fla., in the Orange Bowl.

No. 3 Miami 24, Toledo 14
Miami needed two touchdowns in the final five minutes last week to beat Virginia Tech 27-13. This time, the Hurricanes led 17-0 at halftime, then held on to beat Toledo, which got two second-half touchdown runs from quarterback Mark Mellif.

Toledo outgained Miami 307-294 and ran 11 more plays from scrimmage than the Hurricanes. Toledo tailback Neil Trotter gained 123 yards, matching Miami's total rushing yardage.

Miami is 9-0.
Southern Cal 17, No. 5 UCLA 13
Southern Cal overcame a 13-0 UCLA lead in the second half, helped by a pair of Rodney Peete touchdown passes in the fourth quarter. Peete completed 23 of 35 passes for 304 yards.

Both teams finished with 7-1 Pacific-10 Conference records, but Southern Cal got the Rose Bowl bid by beating UCLA.

"We weren't at the top of our game today," Donahue said, "and to win, you had to be."

UCLA, 9-2, will go to the Aloha Bowl on Christmas day against Florida.

No. 6 Syracuse 32, W. Virginia 31
Don McPherson threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to tight end Pat Kelly with 19 seconds left, and Michael Owens took a quarterback-option pitch into the end zone for a 2-point conversion that gave Syracuse a comeback victory over West Virginia. The Orangemen ended their season 11-0.

Penn St. 21, No. 7 Notre Dame 20
Notre Dame fell to 8-2 when Tony Rice was stopped on a 2-point conversion attempt with 31 seconds left after the Irish had driven 62 yards for Anthony Johnson's 1-yard scoring run.

Notre Dame's drive came after Penn State had gone 76 yards for John Greene's 3-yard TD plunge and a 21-14 lead. Blair Thomas carried six times for 32 yards in the drive.

No. 12 S. Carolina 20, No. 8 Clemson 7
South Carolina held Clemson to less than 100 yards rushing for the first time this season, and Harold Green scored on a 6-yard run with 4:58 left in the third quarter, putting the Gamecocks ahead 13-7.

South Carolina is 8-2, while Clemson fell to 9-2.

No. 9 LSU 41, Tulane 36
Eddie Fuller ran 20 yards with 46 seconds left, lifting LSU over Tulane, which was a two-touchdown underdog. No. 10 Auburn and No. 17 Alabama, however, will decide the SEC winner and Sugar Bowl representative when they play next Friday.

Auburn clinches the conference and goes to the Sugar Bowl against Syracuse if it beats Alabama. If Alabama wins, the Crimson and LSU will be tied for the SEC title, and the Sugar Bowl picks one. One of the losers will go to the Gator Bowl against South Carolina, the other will play Michigan in the Hall of Fame Bowl. Tulane's going to the Independence Bowl against Washington.

No. 11 Michigan St. 39, Wisconsin 9

Lorenzo White ran for two first-half touchdowns, and John Langeloh kicked three field goals for Michigan State, which finished 8-2-1 and 7-0-1 in the Big Ten.

White, who gained 292 yards last week against Indiana, sat out most of the second half with an injury and finished with 92 yards.

No. 13 Oklahoma St. 48, Iowa St. 27

Thurman Thomas carried for a school-record 293 yards and four touchdowns, leading Oklahoma State into the Sun Bowl against West Virginia. The Cowboys finished 9-2, 5-2 in the Big Eight.

No. 15 Tennessee 24, Kentucky 22

Jeff Francis threw two touchdown passes for Tennessee, and the Volunteers' defense stopped Mark Higgs on four running attempts from the Kentucky 5 late in the game to preserve the SEC victory.

Tennessee, 5-2-1, is going to the Peach Bowl against Indiana. No. 16 Iowa 34, Minnesota 20
Iowa is headed to the Holiday Bowl against Western Athletic Conference champion Wyoming by virtue of its Big Ten victory over Minnesota.

Chuck Hartleb threw two touchdown passes and topped the 200-yard mark for the fifth time in six games. He completed 26 of 41 attempts for 328 yards as Iowa improved to 9-3.

No. 19 Pitt 28, Kent State 5
Craig Heyward, the nation's leading rusher, gained a career-high 259 yards on 41 carries and scored three touchdowns as Pitt clobbered Kent State to end its regular season at 8-3.

No. 20 Indiana 35, Purdue 14
Indiana's defense recovered four Purdue fumbles, intercepted two field goal attempts in its Big Ten victory over Purdue. Anthony Thompson ran for three touchdowns, all following Purdue turnovers.

Indiana ended its season 8-3.

Scott, Pat Rodriguez, Jeremy Robertson, Josh Preston and Cody Hedges, who had four sacks, were standout players for the defense.

The Big Spring Packers lost to the Coahoma Bulldogs of Division II by 20-14 in the Division II Super Bowl. Packer quarterback David Akin threw a touchdown pass to David Anderson for 25 yards.

David Akin also made a second touchdown on the ground. The Pack's defense played hard.

Coahoma had Chris Higgins throw to Jason Harmon for a touchdown and Juan Ruiz scored a touchdown for the 'Dogs.

Jeff Pherneton led the entire Coahoma defense to an outstanding game.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is not a good time to become involved in any arguments or to take any financial risks. Keep an even-paced approach to practical duties, and be sure to pay special attention to details.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are enthused about getting your home in better condition. Keep at it and get fine results; don't run off to any recreational activities.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't take too much time mulling things over in your mind, or you could lose out on important and profitable business matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate on improving your financial situation. A revised budget may help. Avoid any critical persons who could upset you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Come to an understanding with partners and co-workers about your respective duties, and this can be a very productive day.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may disagree with a co-worker today, but otherwise it's a very productive time for you. If you ask someone for a favor, give your reasons first.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't take any risks where your health is concerned. Eliminate any expensive pleasures from your daily routines and save some money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you need assistance from an expert, get it early today. Don't run off on any impractical tangents. Be sure you drive carefully tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't permit a strange person to force you into doing something you do not approve of. Be more kind and considerate toward your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to keep any promises you have made to others. Your mate has a recreational activity planned which you will enjoy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget private worries and get out to a public affair which will improve your mood. Be sure of the facts and figures in any contracts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't let an overly talkative person hold up your planned activities, or you'll miss out on a wonderful business opportunity.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some amusement you desire can be enjoyed after work if you handle your responsibilities first. Pay more attention to your good friends.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will have a great ability where business matters are concerned, but may tend to overlook the obvious at times. Teach your progeny to pay more attention to details, and also to be kind to co-workers. A good education is absolutely essential.

Sodium labeling helpful for patient

LUBBOCK — July 1, 1985 marked an important milestone for nutrition-conscious Americans. Beginning that day, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration required that all FDA-regulated processed foods carrying nutrition labels list their sodium contents. Sodium labeling is a victory for people who want to limit their salt and sodium consumption, according to a Methodist Hospital release. Different sodium labels and levels they represent are:

- Sodium free — Less than five milligrams per serving.
- Very low sodium — 35 milligrams or less per serving.
- Low sodium — 140 milligrams or less per serving.
- Unsalted — Processed without the normally used salt.

Study says Texas children less fit

AUSTIN — Texas school-age children are getting fatter and less fit, as demonstrated by the results of comprehensive state and national tests.

Of 4 million students participating in nationwide tests, only 36 percent performed at levels acceptable for fitness standards.

"Texas school-age children fared worse on some of the tests when compared to the national results, especially in cardiovascular conditioning, and their fitness levels seem to be deteriorating at a more accelerated rate," said Donald Haydon, executive director of the American Health and Fitness Foundation.

Haydon cites these facts: The average teen-ager spends between three to seven hours a day watching television and eating junk food; 41 percent of children ages 7-12 have elevated cholesterol levels and as many as 13 percent have five or more cardiac risks factors.

Also, 20-25 percent of all children are clinically obese, Haydon added.

Despite the statistics, school-age children can be taught become physically fit. That is the goal of the Fit Youth Today program, a health fitness conditioning program introduced in 1986 by the American Health and Fitness Foundation.

FYT tests school-agers in four basic areas — cardiovascular fitness, body related fat, muscle strength/endurance and flexibility — and looks for health fitness, Haydon explained.

ACS offers cancer detection tips

LUBBOCK — If you're a woman, your chances of getting breast cancer are one in 10, according to the American Cancer Society.

The ACS offers the following breast cancer detection guidelines to improve a woman's chances at early detection.

- Monthly breast self-examinations should begin at age 20.

- Professional physical examinations of the breast at three-year intervals between the ages of 20 and 40 are recommended. Annual visits are advised after 40.

- A baseline mammogram between the ages of 35 and 40 is urged. An annual or biennial mammogram from ages 40-49 and annual mammograms from age 50 and on also are recommended.

Many injuries treatable at home

Accidents often happen without warning and the Education Department of Methodist Hospital offers these suggestions to treat common minor accidents.

- Cuts and scrapes — Apply pressure to the wound and stop any bleeding. Clean the area with soap and water and bandage the cut — keeping the area clean. If the wound is deep and might require stitches, seek medical attention.

- Sprains and strains — Rest the joint by using it as little as possible, the apply ice to control swelling and pain. Apply a loosely-wrapped compression bandage and elevate the injured limb.

Take a peek

Joe F. Torres, a registered nurse at the Big Spring VA Medical Center, lets two visitors get a glimpse of what the inside of a patient would look like during the open house celebrating the hospital's new surgical wing. The "patient" — a surgical dummy — is used to simulate actual operating conditions.

AIDS virus notification always shocking

By MALCOLM RITTER
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The letter from the Gulf Coast Blood Center in Houston comes by certified mail, for the addressee only. It is carefully worded. But the news is stunning.

Laboratory tests were performed on the blood you recently donated, it begins.

"The results of these tests indicate you have antibodies to the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) ... the suspected virus for acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS)."

Such a result does not mean you are now infected or will become ill, the letter says. "However, as a precautionary measure, we are advising individuals with a positive test to consult their personal physician for further evaluation."

In contrast, the carefully worded letter from the Greater New York

Blood Program mentions only "a positive test finding of significance to your health." Nobody will say anything more over the phone. Only when donors come to the blood center do they hear that they may be infected with the AIDS virus.

No one can get AIDS by donating blood. But to protect those who receive it, donated blood has been screened since early 1985 for proteins called antibodies that indicate past exposure to the virus.

And for a tiny fraction of donors, that has led to getting a carefully worded letter.

Whether the news itself comes by mail or face-to-face, it's a blow for people who had not considered themselves at risk for AIDS.

"The people we see are shocked. They are blown away," said Nancy Van Devanter, director of the New York blood center's counseling department. "Being told you're positive for HIV is one of the most incredible things an individual can go through."

In a few cases, people have had their own blood stored before surgery to avoid risking an AIDS-tainted transfusion, only to learn their caution came too late.

Even among gay men who have long known the risk of homosexual sex, "they just don't expect it to be them," said Linda Fitzpatrick, who has counseled about 80 donors at the Los Angeles-Orange County Region of American Red Cross Blood Services.

"I guess it's like a smoker smoking for years and not expecting to get lung cancer," she said.

Most Red Cross centers give the news in person after sending a letter that does not disclose the problem, said James AuBuchon, medical officer at Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D.C.

But other blood banks, like the Houston center, tell all in the letter.

If donors are not told immediately what the problem is, "I would be concerned ... you may not motivate them enough to go see what it is," explained Bill Teague, president and chief executive officer of the Houston center, which had sent 63 letters from Jan. 1 through the end of August.

"We wanted to make it abundantly clear that they need to see somebody because they represent a potential danger to some of their partners. It's a sexually transmitted disease."

The letter gives a blood bank phone number to call for information, and about two-thirds of people who get the letter contact the center, Teague said.

The Los Angeles center has tried both approaches to breaking the news, said associate medical director Steven Kleinman.

Study: Splurge some times; cut back others

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Splurging on a high-fat meal every other day did not undo the beneficial effects of a cholesterol-lowering diet, if people compensated by cutting back a bit on other meals, a new study concludes.

The aim of the study was to find out whether people who could not always control their diets could control their cholesterol, said Dr. Margo Denke of the University of Texas Health Sciences Center in Dallas.

She reported her findings Thursday at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association. The study was done in collaboration with Dr. Jan Breslow of Rockefeller University in New York City, where Denke was a researcher until a few months ago.

"The idea is that if somebody needs to go out with the kids to McDonald's or go to a wedding and have a meal high in fat they should reduce the fat content in other meals," said Denke.

She found that 14 people who followed a diet containing no more than 25 percent fat, most of it unsaturated, and moderate amounts of cholesterol, could eat a ham-and-cheese sandwich and a Haagen-Dazs milkshake every other day without substantially altering their heart-disease risk — if the total amount of cholesterol and fat they consumed in their diets did not jump too high. Nancy Ernst, coordinator of nutrition programs for the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute in Bethesda, said of Denke's study, "It's not surprising."

"It's your overall diet that's important, and that's a concept that isn't emphasized as often as it should be."

Ernst, a nutritionist, said she advises people to think of eating as a kind of banking. "If you're going to overspend on your account one day, you have to underspend the next."

"I took care of a lot of stockbrokers, and they didn't want to make their health an issue at lunch," she said. "They go out to talk business, not cholesterol."

Her study suggests that even if they have a high-fat, high cholesterol lunch they can keep their heart disease risks low by cutting back at breakfast or dinner or the next day's lunch.

"You have to look at the sum percentage increase in fat," she said, and keep it low. Splurging a little in the morning, a little at lunch and a little at dinner will likely raise the saturated fat and cholesterol content of the diet beyond desirable levels, she said.

Denke's 14 subjects were put on a typical

American diet consisting of 42 percent fat, most of it saturated fat, for 24 days.

Saturated fat contributes to elevated cholesterol levels and raises the risk of heart disease; unsaturated fat does the opposite.

The subjects were then switched to a diet containing no more than 25 percent fat, most of it unsaturated, and about half the cholesterol of the typical American diet.

That diet included a snack after dinner. In the third phase of the experiment, she put the subjects on a diet in which the snack was eliminated but the milk shake and ham-and-cheese meal was added every other day.

The splurge meal was 50 percent fat, most of it saturated and was higher in cholesterol than the typical American diet.

But it did not raise the total fat in the diet to more than 30 percent, slightly more than half of it unsaturated.

She found only a small increase in the cholesterol levels of the subjects during the splurge diet.
