City attorney to pursue county post

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Big Spring City Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said today that he will resign effective Jan. 8 to become a candidate for the office of Howard County attorney.

Wilkerson, appointed as city attorney one year ago, said he plans to file as a candidate for county attorney, but is hopeful that the board of commissioners will appoint him to serve in the position until next year's elections.

Commissioners are expected to name a replacement for current county attorney Tim Yeats in mid-January. Yeats announced his resignation in November. A replacement for Yeats must be named to fill the office until a new county attorney is elected in the November 1988 general elections.

"It is my hope that the commissioners will see fit to appoint me to the position. I'm announcing now because I want them to know that I'm interested and available for the job," Wilkerson said.

Wilkerson is a lifelong Big Spring citizen and a 1978 Big Spring High School graduate. He obtained a bachelor's degree in accounting from Texas Tech University in 1982 and a law degree from the same school in 1985.

He worked for Jones and Associates law firm in Big Spring from August 1985 to December 1986 prior to becoming city attorney.

While serving in the part-time position of city attorney, Wilkerson also maintained a private law practice. Wilkerson said he will continue his private law practice if appointed or elected as county attorney.

Wilkerson believes experience gained as city attorney qualifies him a viable candidate for the county attorney position.

"Both positions are very similar ... but the job of city attorney is broader in scope. A city attorney must deal with a wide range of legal cases. A county attorney's primary concern is criminal cases," Wilkerson said.

Wilkerson is also president of the Howard County Bar Association.

Christmas season focus of chamber party line

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Featuring announcements of Christmas-season events and plans for a concert by the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra in January, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's community luncheon took the form of a party-line conversation Wednesday.

Pat Porter orchestrated the "conference call" in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College, reviewing events set for the coming weeks.

Quail Dobbs will serve as grand marshal for the Saturday community Christmas parade, Lea Whitehead reported.

About a dozen floats are expected to appear, along with marching bands, the Comanche Trail Muzzle Loaders, classic and antique automobiles, a sheriff's posse and several other groups.

David Wrinkle then reported on the community-wide Christmas decorating contest.

Residential categories for the contest are: religious, lights-only, door and original/homemade ornaments and mailbox.

Business categories are: show window, inside display and Christmas-tree competitions, Wrinkle said.

Entries must be received in the chamber office before Dec. 15 and judging will be Dec. 22 by members of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs.

Winners will receive media recognition and certificates, and will be designated a "Christmas Site to See," Wrinkle said.

Danelle Castillo, Big Spring High School, was recently selected Miss

Merry Christmas, sponsored by the Blue Blazers.

She presented members of her court — Shanna Arnold, Lisa Alvarez, Letitia Baucham, Leslie Dunnam, Nadine Marquez and Shani Sparling, all of Big Spring, and Terri Duffer and Nora Phillips from Coahoma and Melynda Griford from Forsan — with Christmas memento gifts during the luncheon.

She also will take part in the Christmas parade Saturday.

The Blue Blazers have announced plans for an annual "Pat On the Back" award for women active in community service, to be presented during next year's chamber banquet, according to Sandra Waggoner.

The "Living Christmas Tree" will be presented at First United Methodist Church, 400 Scurry St., according to Tim Neastifner.

Admission to the ninth annual presentation, titled "The Greatest Christmas Card in the World," is free, and performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Two county districts try to bite drugs in schools

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Two county school systems are going to the dogs — literally — as part of anti-drug efforts.

Big Spring and Forsan school districts have contracted with Narcotics Consultants, Inc., Spicewood, to provide dogs that sniff out drugs and alcohol, and spokesmen for both systems are pleased with results to date.

The Coahoma school district, however, doesn't employ such a system. High School Principal Dennis Ward said drugs are not a big problem at his school.

"There hasn't been a problem in the past — as far as drugs being at the school," Ward said. "That's not to say it's not out there hiding, but it hasn't surfaced here."

Ward had experience with drug dogs at his previous assignment as assistant principal in Pecos. The dogs used by the system didn't work properly, however, and the program was halted, he noted.

At Coahoma, there have been no incidents concerning drugs or alcohol on school grounds this school year, Ward added.

Nancy Graves, secretary to Forsan Superintendent J.F. Poyner, said the system uses the drug dog program, but adds that her school doesn't have a significant drug problem.

"We had some reports (of drug use) in the past, but we haven't had a bad problem," she said. "Maybe there's been some alcohol, also."

This is the second year for the drug dog program, and no drugs have been found as yet, Graves noted, adding that she was confident of the canine's ability to sniff out contraband.

"If the kids are bringing drugs to school, the dogs will find them," she said.

The dogs and their owners make unscheduled, unannounced visits to the high school and junior high. Forsan's elementary school also is visited, Graves said.

Big Spring schools are in the second year of the drug dog program, and High School Principal Kent Bowerman is supportive of the anti-drug effort.

"It's had a drastic effect at the school," he noted during last week's school board meeting. "The students feel we're finally doing something about the drug problem."

"In fact," he continued, "there are some students who are scared to park their cars in the lot because they're scared Hershey (the drug dog) will sniff something out."

Town borrows money to pay for prison site

SNYDER (AP) — Residents in this West Texas city have taken a novel approach to buying a prison site to donate to the Texas Department of Corrections.

The TDC chose Scurry County recently as a site for a new prison, and although the department will pay for the construction, the county has to donate the property.

So banks and savings and loans are lending money at low interest to people so they can donate the money to a fund to buy the land.

It's all in the name of economic development, Bill Parker, president of West Texas State Bank, said Wednesday.

"It's a recession-proof, non-polluting industry that's here forever," he said of the prison.

The county has designated 600 acres of farmland for the prison, and county business leaders have imposed a Dec. 15 deadline to raise $1 million to buy the land, Parker said.

"I can almost tell you it's in the bag," he said.

As of Wednesday, about $560,000 had been donated to the Scurry County Area Foundation, which will buy the land and turn the deed over to the state, Parker said. About 85 percent of the sum had been borrowed from financial institutions; the rest came from other donations.

Businesses as well as individuals are borrowing and donating.

"It's interesting that the bulk of the money comes from small people — people like me and mom-and-pop store owners," Parker said. "Several 8-, 9-, 10-year-old people have come in and contributed a dollar or $2. The turnout of the people of Snyder has been extremely heart-warming."

Soviets, White House planning public relations blitz

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians are coming, in droves, to try to fashion a public relations triumph from next week's summit, but the White House plans to counterattack and fill America's television screens with its side of the story.

It is a battle led by two media-savvy superstars, President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, each man determined to show the world that he is a peacemaker.

Gorbachev got the spotlight Monday with a televised interview with NBC News anchor Tom Brokaw.

Tonight, it's Reagan's turn as the four networks show an interview of the president by their anchor-men.

When Gorbachev meets at the Soviet Embassy next Wednesday with American newspaper editors and publishers, Reagan will be at the White House talking with newspaper columnists, according to tentative plans.

When the summit ends next Thursday, Gorbachev will hold a news conference. Reagan will deliver a speech at 9 p.m. Thursday, followed by a news conference with out-of-town reporters on Friday.

"There is a competitiveness to it, and I don't see any usefulness in denying that," said a senior administration official, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

Gorbachev will arrive in Washington next Monday, and the two leaders will hold five working meetings, along with two dinners, Tuesday through Thursday.

For the U.S. side, the White House plans to pack television screens with interviews with administration officials before, during and after the summit.

"We're going to be on every ... talk show you ever dreamed of, and we're going to be there morning, noon and night," said the administration official, who is deeply involved in summit planning.

"There ain't going to be an hour of television in the next 10 days we aren't on. If they (the Soviets) are there with us, that's fine. But I know we're going to be there."

On Sunday alone, the network talk-show guests will be Secretary of State George P. Shultz, chief arms negotiator Max Kampelman, White House chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. and Rozanne Ridgway, assistant secretary of state for European and Canadian affairs. Shultz and others also are giving speeches.

Reagan will devote his weekly radio address to the summit on Saturday. In recent days, he has been making public appearances designed to highlight the themes he wants to accentuate in his talks with Gorbachev.

The Soviets aren't being bashful either.

By a U.S. count, the Soviets are bringing 20 press briefers in their entourage, 40 journalists and 160 experts in various fields to give reporters background on summit topics.

They have rented press facilities at two hotels and leased the ballroom at the National Press Club. The administration is turning a hotel ballroom into a huge news briefing hall, and is using a Commerce Department auditorium as a backup facility.

About 5,000 journalists from around the world have applied for summit credentials. Their thirst for news will be aggravated by the fact that most of them will never see Reagan and Gorbachev firsthand, since coverage is limited to pools of about 150 reporters.

Chamber

have been taken, however, John Wilson, minister of music, said.

Pam Welch announced plans for Monte Carlo Night for the March of Dimes. This year's event will be at the Big Spring Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Admission is $50 per couple and there will be a charity auction.

Liz Taylor announced that the chamber has selected its first house for repair under the Christmas In April program, which helps the elderly and handicapped with necessary home repairs.

The house chosen needs winterization, and volunteer helpers are encouraged to contact the chamber. Work on the house has been scheduled for Dec. 12, Taylor said.

Bob Riley briefly outlined the status of the United Way drive in the community. The goal this year is $215,000. Collections to date are $162,178 with $22,228 to come for 85 percent of the goal or a total of $184,406 committed.

The chamber will have its own open house Dec. 18 from 3:30 p.m. until 6 p.m.

A list of "good news items" from the chamber include the Hawker-Siddeley co-generation project, Garden City's maverick site proposal for the superconducting supercollider, expansion of the federal prison camp and a new benzene unit at the Fina refinery, Porter noted.

In addition the list covered the Tubb Pocket Park Project, Sparenberg Building and Courthouse Annex, renovation at the municipal auditorium, the ArtsFest Celebration, and the Moving Wall exhibit related to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial and other items.

Katie Grimes announced plans for the "Big Spring Collects" Art Show, set for Friday night at the Heritage Museum. She also announced the museum's Festival of Trees and Wreaths, Dec. 8 to 18.

The Symphony Tour of Homes was announced for Dec. 13 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets will be $7.50 per person and may be purchased at Blum's Jewelers, The Accent Shoppe or the chamber office.

The Symphony Association also will sponsor a free concert by the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra at the High School Jan. 8. At 8 p.m., the Fort Worth orchestra will perform for the general public at the High School Auditorium.

Tickets for that performance will be $7.50 for adults, $4 for senior citizens and students. The program will include musical selections titled "Classics at the Cinema."

The AWBA Arts and Crafts Fair also will be this weekend, according to Loyd Nason.

The event, which raises funds for the group's scholarship program, takes place Dec. 4-6 in the former Hemphill Wells Building downtown, 218 Main St., he said.

Teri Quinones announced the completion of the Tubb Pocket Park project, except for landscaping. Final pourings of concrete are underway at the site, she said.

Invitations to everyone on the party line to come and see the presentation of "The End of the World with Symposium to Follow" at the Howard College theatre were extended by drama director Bill Doll.

Following announcements of the Winter Band Concert by the Big Spring Bands in grades 6-12 at the High School Auditorium Dec. 15 at 7 p.m., and a reminder that the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a seminar on the new federal trucking regulations for commercial vehicles Dec. 9 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., the group joined in singing "Jingle Bells" and adjourned.

Charges cloud summit

WASHINGTON — New charges by President Reagan of Soviet treaty violations are clouding the atmosphere four days before the arrival of General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev for a third superpower summit meeting.

The charges could stiffen conservative political resistance to the missile-destruction treaty Reagan expects to sign next Tuesday and to submit to a skeptical Senate for ratification.

There was no immediate indication in Washington that Reagan's fresh complaints of Soviet treaty cheating — promptly denied by a newly arrived advance guard of the Kremlin contingent — would put the summit in jeopardy.

Panel axes increase

WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee is changing its deficit-reduction tax increase package by dropping one of the only two provisions with a significant impact on a large number of people.

Yielding to complaints from the Reagan administration and employers, the panel tentatively agreed to eliminate a proposed Medicare tax increase on the 8 million workers earning more than $45,000 a year and on their employers.

Hunter's deer stolen

BAKERSVILLE, Pa. — Most deer run away. Jeff Humphreys says his eight-point buck was carried away.

Humphreys, of nearby Ligonier, told police that someone stole his freshly killed deer from the back of his pickup truck Tuesday night as the truck was parked at an inn.

"He had shot himself a nice eight-point, and he was at a watering hole for a beer and to talk about his deer, and he came out to find the deer was taken," said Trooper Jim Steel.

Bishop to meet Cubans

ATLANTA — The Cuban-born bishop credited with ending an eight-day prison uprising in Louisiana said he would travel to the federal penitentiary here today to meet with his Cuban "brothers" holding 89 hostages.

"I will go as a brother not a negotiator," Auxiliary Bishop Agustin Roman of the Archdiocese of Miami told WPLG-TV in Miami on Wednesday night.

He said he anticipated an end to the 11-day crisis by the time he arrived at the U.S. Penitentiary so he could "celebrate with my brothers," the 1,107 Cuban detainees holding the prison.

Haiti

Prison massacre reported

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Youths who defended their neighborhoods from armed thugs have reportedly disappeared or been arrested, and a newspaper said today that 46 civilians had been massacred at a military prison.

Three human rights organizations on Wednesday asked Amnesty International to investigate the cases of the youths who were arrested or disappeared when the military cracked down on the neighborhood defense brigades.

An article in the San Francisco Examiner today quoted a woman from one of the neighborhoods where the brigades operated as saying 46 civilians were slaughtered at the Fort Dimanche military prison outside Port-au-Prince.

The newspaper based its report on a taped interview with the 19-year-old woman who said she and two others were the only ones spared in the mass killing over the weekend at the prison outside Port-au-Prince.

The unidentified woman, who is in hiding, said soldiers arrested her in her Port-au-Prince neighborhood on Saturday and took her to the prison. That same afternoon she watched as men in uniforms shot and bayoneted to death her 46 cellmates and threw the bodies into a ditch, the newspaper reported.

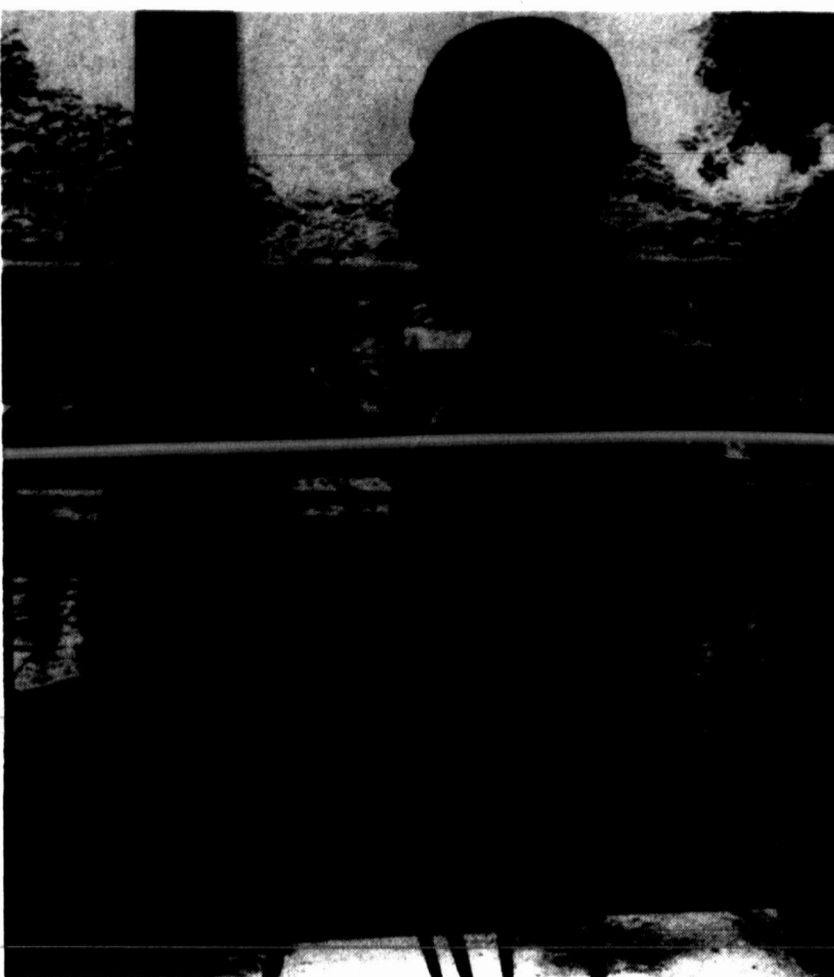

The report could not be independently verified but two unidentified priests said the taped interview corresponded with the same account the woman gave them on Tuesday, a day after her release, the newspaper reported.

The Examiner said Western observers in Haiti had been informed of the allegations, but it did not identify the observers.

It added that military authorities could not be reached for comment and that police sources have consistently declined to comment on allegations of arrests and killings of civilians over the past several days.

Carrefour-Feuilles, where the woman lived and was arrested, was one of three working-class neighborhoods cited in a letter by three human rights groups sent Wednesday to embassies in the capital.

The open letter said that youths who took part in the defense brigades before Sunday's aborted election have disappeared or are being held by police.

A 19-year-old woman tells how she and 48 other youths were arrested in Port au Prince, Haiti by armed men and taken to Fort Dimanche, a military barracks. She said 46 of the group were shot and bayoneted by soldiers while confined to a single cell.

Against Torture. Last week, armed gangs swept through Port-au-Prince in a wave of terror, invading neighborhoods, attacking citizens and shooting into buildings.

Residents formed volunteer groups that erected barricades on streets to blockade access to their districts and protect themselves from the marauders.

Defense brigades remained by the barricades overnight and warned neighborhoods of arriving gunmen by banging on pans and blowing conch shells and whistles. Neighbors claimed they were forced to defend themselves.

Opposition party resigns

DHAKA, Bangladesh — The 10 members of Parliament from the opposition Jamaat-Islami Party resigned today in protest of President Hussain Muhammad Ershad's policies, the party chief said.

"Since this Parliament has failed to serve the people and there can be no hope of its ever being effective, the Jamaat members have decided to quit," the leader of the Moslem fundamentalist party, Maulana Abbas Ali Khan, told a news conference.

An official attached to the Parliament speaker's office said no letters of resignation had been received.

18 exiles convicted

HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam — The Supreme People's Court today convicted 18 Vietnamese exiles of attempting an armed overthrow of the Communist government and handed out sentences ranging from three years to life in prison.

One of the 18, who had cooperated with authorities, was given one to five years of house arrest, including political "re-education."

Vietnam said the 18 defendants were among a small army that infiltrated Laos from Thailand in July en route to commit sabotage in Vietnam. More than 100 of the fighters were killed and 77 captured in late August, the court said.

Iraqis strike tanker

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran's President Ali Khamenei said Wednesday that prospects for victory in a planned blitz on Iraq are "brighter than ever" as the warring neighbors reported attacks on enemy economic and military targets.

The official Iraqi News Agency said Iraqi warplanes on Wednesday struck a tanker off the Iranian coast in one mission and bombed the Imam Hassan oil fields in southwest Iran in another.

Peronist wins election

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A group of off-duty policemen hurled tear gas grenades into an electoral college session Wednesday after the Peronist Party candidate was elected governor in the province of Tucuman. The election of Jose Domato will give the Peronists the governorships of 17 of Argentina's 22 provinces when new authorities are sworn in on Dec. 10.

President Raul Alfonsín's Civic Radical Union, which now has seven governors, won in only two provinces and moderate independent parties in three.

Lehman-Hutton merger nears

NEW YORK (AP) — Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. will buy ailing E.F. Hutton Group Inc. in a $1 billion deal that will create the nation's largest investment firm, the companies formally announced today.

The merger, which came after widespread anticipation and a daylong meeting Wednesday of Hutton's board, marks the first major Wall Street consolidation following the stock crash Oct. 19.

For Hutton, the merger marks the end of an 84-year history tainted in the past few years by scandal, financial losses and widespread demoralization within the firm. Thousands of layoffs of Hutton employees are expected.

For Shearson, an increasingly powerful force in the financial community, the deal will vault it past Salomon Inc. and Merrill Lynch & Co. as the country's largest securities company.

The announcement said Shearson will purchase 28.1 million shares of Hutton common stock at $29.25 per share and exchange another 4.8 million shares of Hutton stock for $139.8 million in high-yield debt securities. Total value of the package is about $1 billion.

Hutton sources said the prospect of a merger and agonizing wait for information had embittered many employees.

The firm announced Nov. 23 it would review proposals for an acquisition by another firm or a major cash infusion, due to concerns over its ability to continue raising capital following the stock market collapse in October.

The same day, Hutton called Shearson, with which it had held and broken off informal merger talks a year earlier.

Hutton stock dipped 25 cents a share to $27.37 1/2 on the New York Stock Exchange on Wednesday. Shearson shares, 61 percent of which are owned by American Express Co., rose 50 cents to $15.

A key prize for Shearson is Hutton's worldwide retail network, which would add about 6,500 seasoned account executives to Shearson's own 5,700 brokers, rivaling Merrill Lynch for dominance in that area.

Shearson, which has about $75 billion in funds under asset management, also would gain billions of dollars in that relatively stable business.

The added workload generated by Hutton's business also would enable Shearson to get more efficient use from its computerized securities processing operation, the object of a $200 million expansion last year.

Jury finds youth guilty in shooting at Junction

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A Lansing, Mich. youth faces up to 30 years in juvenile facilities and prison when sentenced today after a Tom Green County jury found him guilty of shooting a local newspaper editor.

A jury took less than 25 minutes to convict the 15-year-old boy of delinquent conduct because of attempted capital murder in connection with the Sept. 23 shooting of Roy Cooper, editor and publisher of the Junction Eagle.

Cooper was not seriously injured by the shot in the chest, which occurred when he tried to halt the robbery of his neighbor's home in Junction.

The youth, one of three being tried separately for the shooting, testified he and two other Lansing juveniles robbed the home of Cooper's neighbor, Lloyd Stewart. The boy testified that he fired a shot, but said he didn't know if it hit anything.

The trial is the first under a new state law requiring juveniles be sentenced to Texas Youth Council facilities until they reach 18 years of age. Once the juvenile is 18, a judge can order that he or she serve the rest of the sentence in state prison or on parole.

The trial of a second youth will begin at 9 a.m. Monday, while the third will be tried when the second trial ends. All three were charged with the same crime.

The cases were moved to San Angelo on a change of venue because of pretrial publicity and jury selection problems in Junction.

Judge cancels $850 million of debt

FORT WORTH (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has dismissed about $850 million in T. Cullen Davis' debts, leaving the fallen oil tycoon with less than $15 million in unresolved liabilities.

Judge Massie Tillman's ruling Wednesday protects Davis from action by 200 to 300 creditors, including many of the nation's major banks, but still leaves him with four unresolved claims that total about $15 million.

Twalla J. Dupriest, the court-appointed trustee of Davis' petition, says the ruling will not end his financial woes. She has until mid-January to raise objections to the actions taken at the hearing.

"It's going to drag on," Ms. Dupriest said. "We're not through by any means. Just because he was discharged doesn't mean it's over." Davis filed Chapter 7 bankruptcy July 2, listing debts of $865 million and property worth only $1.8 million. He lost most of his fortune on ill-fated real estate investments, according to court papers filed Sept. 10.

Tillman's action came without convening a scheduled hearing because no creditors objected to the plan.

"Most of the creditors did not object because they know there's just nothing left," lawyer Eddie Roush Jr. said of Davis' fortune once estimated at more than $100 million.

Roush said he is not concerned about Ms. Dupriest's continuing investigation of Davis' finances.

"We've been very honest about every financial situation," he said.

Oil company plugs spewing well

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A Mexican oil well in the Bay of Campeche has been plugged with a 500-foot column of concrete and is no longer spewing either oil or natural gas into the air, officials say.

"They did something unique in the oil and gas industry," said Jim Leabo, operations manager for Wild Well Control Inc. of Houston, the firm which acted as consultant to the plugging operation.

"They plugged their own well, using their own people and their technology," Leabo told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times Wednesday. "They're proud of what they did, and we're proud to have been with them."

Usually, he said, oil companies rely on other companies with specially trained crews to manage oil well blowouts.

The Yum-II platform operated by Pemex, Mexico's state-owned petroleum company, blew out Oct.

10 and gradually released a 60-mile plume of light crude into the Gulf of Mexico about 200 miles east of Veracruz.

A 20-mile stretch of uninhabited beach 20 miles west of Ciudad del Carmen was coated by the oil slick, but the beach has been cleaned, Coast Guard spokesman Lt. Paul Zukunft said.

A Coast Guard Falcon jet based at Naval Air Station Corpus Christi has been monitoring Yum-II since October, Zukunft said.

"There will be one more flight next week to check one more time," Zukunft said. "We're confident now that the well has been permanently plugged and should not create any more problems."

The Mexican government, he said, notified the Coast Guard Tuesday that the well had been plugged. A Coast Guard overflight Wednesday verified that report.

No U.S. beaches have been affected by the oil spill, Zukunft said.

Town puzzled by candidates' visit

CLEBURNE (AP) — At least two Democratic presidential hopefuls will participate in the town's political forum this weekend, leaving residents and political observers alike wondering, "Why Cleburne?"

"You know, I'd say 30 percent of the people I've talked to have asked that same question," said Bob Craft, chairman of the Johnson County Democratic Party and the source of the forum and surprise it has created in this community 25 miles south of Fort Worth.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore have already agreed to participate in Saturday night's forum. The Rev. Jesse Jackson has indicated he may also attend.

Also on hand at Cleburne High School will be Jeanne Simon, wife of Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, and Harriett "Hattie" Babbitt, wife of former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt.

State and local Democratic officials will also participate in the event, Craft said.

He said planning for the forum began about 2½ months ago when county Democrats decided they needed to "bring our candidates eyeball to eyeball with the voters."

The first step, he said, was to contact the candidates' state coordinators.

"The thing picked up so much momentum," Craft said. "It started out with just the presidential candidates, but then the state officials started calling and now the local officials are going to be in the forum as well."

Sergeant sentenced to five months prison

Army Sgt. Richard W. Sargeant leaves a Fort Sam Houston court Wednesday after pleading guilty to having sex with three women without telling them he has the AIDS virus.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An Army sergeant was demoted and sentenced to five months in military prison after admitting he had sex with three women soldiers without telling them he had the AIDS virus, officials said.

Richard W. Sargeant, 28, was demoted to the lowest rank of private, forfeited all his military benefits and was dishonorably discharged after a court-martial at Fort Sam Houston Wednesday.

The sentence was part of a pre-trial agreement and was made public only after an eight-member military panel had deliberated three hours.

The panel had decided virtually the same sentence, except that it had ordered Sargeant to serve nine years in military prison.

After the jury was dismissed military judge Lt. Col. Stephen Saynisch announced the pre-trial agreement, accepted the sentence and ordered Sargeant to confinement at Fort Hood.

"Sgt. Sargeant is understandably upset and we'll evaluate the outcome of this after we have digested this for a day or two," Maj. Louis Cashiola, Sargeant's attorney, said.

Sargeant and prosecutors declined to speak with reporters after the sentence was announced. Sargeant's case will be automatically appealed to the U.S. Military Court of Review, which will analyze procedures in the trial.

The sentence was the first of its kind handed to a serviceman and military officials believe it will set a precedent for servicemen to obey orders from superiors' regarding AIDS. "They were trying to downplay the sexual aspect of the case and upplay the preventive part of it," Lt. Col. Jim Polley, staff judge advocate at Fort Sam Houston, said about government prosecutors.

"This was an attempt to establish 'you will not do this.' Up to this point, it was questionable," he said.

Sargeant had pleaded guilty to one count of sodomy, two counts of adultery and two counts of disobeying an officer, who warned Sargeant to wear a condom and tell prospective sexual partners of the AIDS virus.

In return, government prosecutors dropped charges of aggravated assault and reckless endangerment. Sargeant could have received a maximum prison sentence of 17 years.

Sargeant, in a teary eyed testimony before the panel during the sentencing phase, apologized for his actions.

"I have no explanation for what I have done. I wish I could undo all the pain I have caused," he said.

"What bothers me is I have put these women in a position that I am going through and I don't want anybody going through the same thing I am," he said.

"I have let down the Army, my family and my friends ... if I am going to die, I pray it not be in jail," he said.

Testimony did not reveal and officials declined to say whether any of the women Sargeant had sex with had also tested positive for AIDS.

Ohio SSC video finds fault with Texas

Dallas Times Herald Bureau WASHINGTON — Ohio Gov. Dick Celeste, escalating the battle for the superconducting supercollider, Wednesday unveiled a video touting his state's proposal and blasting Texas' attempts to lure the project.

The video, which features inspirational musical themes and bipartisan testimonials to Ohio's scientific and geological assets, is a novel approach in the battle for the atom-smashing project, which is expected to be worth as much as $6 billion.

Celeste, a second-term Democrat, said the video would be distributed to members of Congress, prominent scientists and administration officials "to assure that we are making our voices heard in the right places."

Texas — like Ohio, a leading contender among the 25 competing states — has taken a different tack by offering more than $1 billion in incentives to attract the supercollider.

Celeste says he considers Texas, California, Illinois, Colorado and North Carolina to be Ohio's toughest rivals.

But, criticizing Texas' subsidy strategy, he said Ohio does not need to offer cash because its proposal is far superior to the two from Texas.

Celeste said Ohio has numerous advantages over Texas — including better highways, railroads, water and sewer lines, utility linkups — as well as a "physical and intellectual infrastructure" lacking at Texas' two sites, one near Waxahachie and the other near Amarillo.

"We already have in place an infrastructure it'll take Texas $1 billion to provide," he said.

James Naples of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission disagreed. "If somebody is assuming that all we have to offer is money ... they probably haven't done their homework."

In addition to the video, Ohio has spent $130,000 to hire the Washington lobbying firm of Texan Charles Walker to promote its cause.

Responded Naples: "Maybe we should go out and hire an Ohio PR firm."

U.S. space station

Contracts confirm future involvement for companies

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Four companies that won the competition for building parts of the U.S. space station are virtually assured of major roles in America's space program for the next decade, and perhaps far beyond.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the four winners Tuesday, setting off celebrations in some cities and causing despair in others.

Those selected were Boeing Aerospace of Huntsville, Ala.; McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co. of Houston and Huntington Beach, Calif.; General Electric Co., Astro-Space Division, Valley Forge, Pa., and East Windsor, N.J.; and Rockwell International, Canoga Park, Calif.

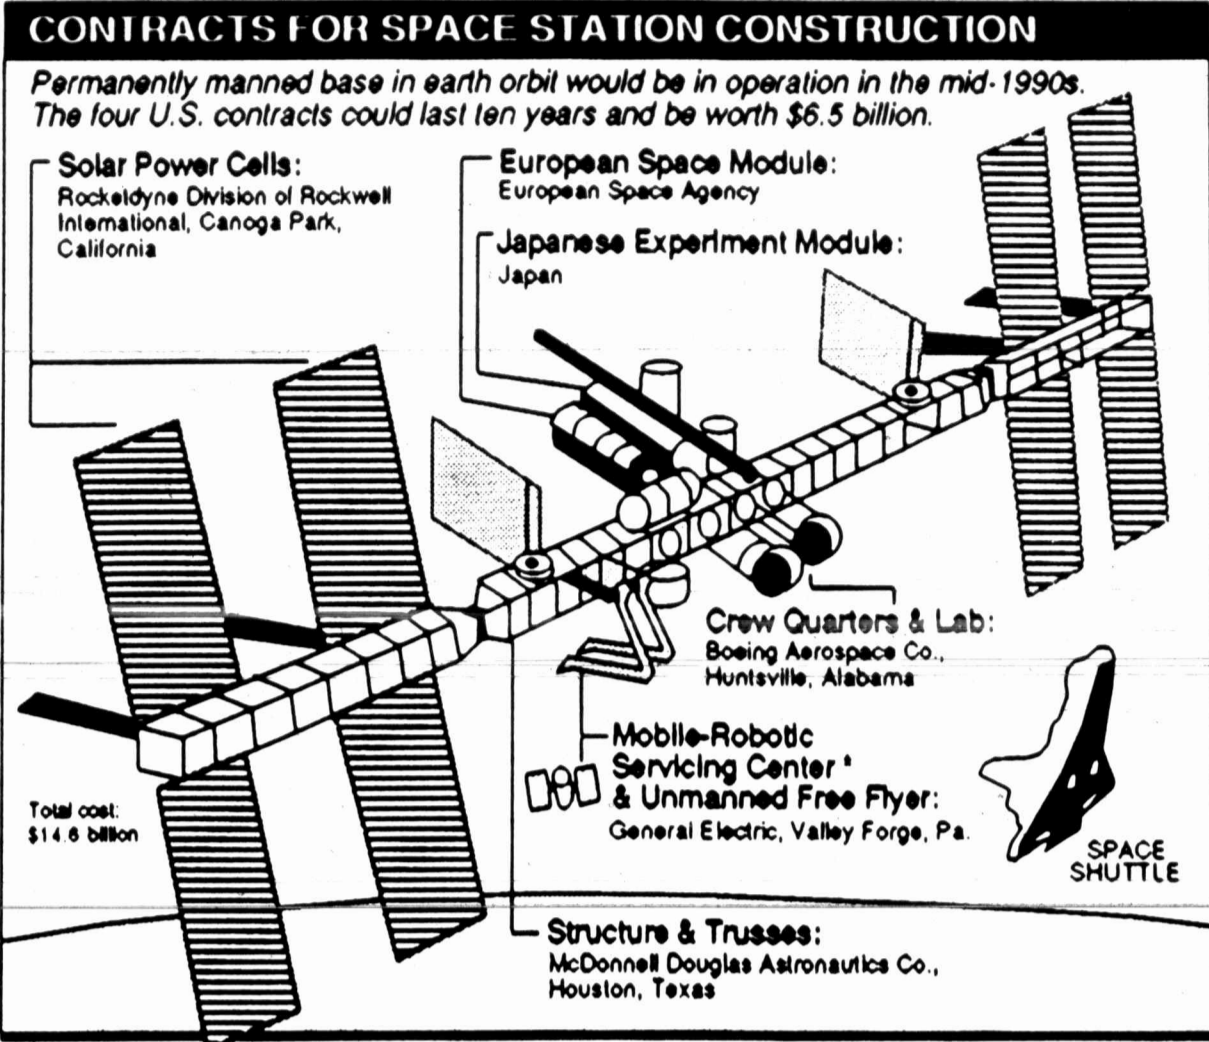

At stake in the competition were NASA contracts that eventually could be valued at $6.5 billion. The work is expected to create at least 12,000 jobs directly and thousands more indirectly.

The contracts will last 10 years and cover the entire next generation of NASA's space efforts. And they will give the winning companies valuable experience for U.S. space projects in the next century.

NASA Administrator James Fletcher said the orbiting station, expected to be completed in the mid-1990s, is essential for any future U.S. effort to mount a manned expedition to Mars, a project the Soviets already are planning.

Fletcher said the station would be used to develop the technology to keep humans in space for long periods, to assemble a Martian excursion craft and as a departure point for a voyage to Mars.

Fletcher said all of the competing companies submitted outstanding bids, but the winning proposals "were clearly superior."

A Boeing spokeswoman in Huntsville said the company plans to hire 1,500 workers and that another 2,000 jobs will be created by subcontractors. Many of those jobs will be in Alabama, she said.

The NASA announcement stunned officials of Martin Marietta in New Orleans, which lost to Boeing. The city had offered incentives to bring the project to Louisiana, and officials had predicted that a winning bid would attract 7,100 jobs to the New Orleans area. The Louisiana economy, heavily dependent on oil, has been depressed for many months. With the loss, Martin Marietta now has no part in the space station hardware contracts at all, though it will continue to make the fuel tanks used on the space shuttle.

Another major company, Rockwell International, lost to McDonnell Douglas.

Contract will mean 1,000 Houston jobs

HOUSTON (AP) — Construction of a U.S. space station will provide jobs for about 1,000 people in the Houston area, says a major contractor chosen to build part of the Earth's first permanent orbiting suburb.

On Tuesday, a division of McDonnell Douglas Corp. was selected by NASA to build major components for the space station, while three other companies were selected as prime contractors for other parts of the project.

The $1.9 billion contract won by the McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co. will mean about 1,000 jobs around Houston in coming years, said William Hayes, director of the company's space station division.

Hayes spoke during a news conference at the company's Houston offices following announcement of the contracts by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire and Gerry Griffin, president of the Greater Houston Chamber of Commerce, also attended the news conference, where a small-scale model of the space station was prominently displayed.

"All of us in Houston are very excited to be a part of the future this country has in space," Mrs. Whitmire said. "We're happy to be here, to celebrate with the winning team's members."

Griffin said that while the contract would help diversify the city's economic base and bring jobs to the area, the space station project also is a symbolic shot in the arm to a space-faring nation traumatized by the January 1986 explosion of the space shuttle Challenger.

"I think the signal it really sends is one the country needs very badly — that the country is getting back on track with the space program," Griffin said. "I say, let's get on with it as quick as we can."

The news conference was held simultaneously with McDonnell Douglas officials in St. Louis, Mo., and Huntington Beach, Calif., and carried by television between the three locations.

While hiring in the early stages of the program in Houston could be expected to total about 1,000 workers, more may be hired as activity increases locally later in the program. The space station is scheduled to be deployed in the mid-1990s.

Nearly 12,000 aerospace jobs generated

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Nearly 12,000 new aerospace jobs, almost half in California, should be created by space station construction contracts, the head of the project estimates.

Andrew J. Stofan, NASA's associate administrator for space station, came up with the figures and a breakdown by states on Tuesday as the agency announced the award of four major work contracts for the orbiting outpost scheduled to be permanently manned in the mid-1990s.

The contractors named to negotiate to build different sections of the station were McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co. of Huntington Beach, Calif., and Houston; Boeing Aerospace of Huntsville, Ala.; General Electric Co., Astro-Space Division, Valley Forge, Pa., and East Windsor, N.J.; and Rockwell International of Canoga Park, Calif.

Each of the major contractors has a team of subcontractors spread across the country.

Stofan said the contracts should generate a total of 11,720 jobs, with the McDonnell Douglas package producing the largest number, 4,050 — 54 percent in California, 18 percent in Texas, 6 percent in Florida and 6 percent in Connecticut, with the rest elsewhere in small percentages.

Stofan spoke at a news conference in Washington that was monitored at Cape Canaveral.

He said the Boeing contract should produce 2,900 jobs: 60 percent in Alabama, 18 percent in California, 11 percent in Texas, 6 percent in Connecticut and the rest elsewhere.

Stofan said the General Electric package should create 1,540 jobs: 57 percent in Pennsylvania, 24 percent in New Jersey, 15 percent in California and the rest elsewhere.

The Rockwell package, he said, should generate 3,230 jobs: 86 percent in California, 4 percent in Ohio, 2 percent in Florida and the rest elsewhere.

These figures show that about 5,715 of the new jobs would be in California, 1,740 in Alabama, 1,050 in Texas, 875 in Pennsylvania, 420 in Connecticut, 370 in New Jersey, 310 in Florida and 130 in Ohio.

Major McDonnell Douglas subcontractors are IBM, Houston and Owego, N.Y.; Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. Houston and Sunnyvale, Calif.; RCA Corp., Camden, N.J.; Honeywell, Clearwater, Fla.; and Astro, Carpinteria, Calif.

Boeing's subcontractors are Teledyne Brown Engineering, Huntsville, Ala.; Lockheed Missiles & Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif.; Hamilton Standard, Windsor Locks, Conn.; Garrett Aeresearch, Torrance, Calif.; Grumman Aerospace Co., Houston; ILC Space Systems, Houston; and Fairchild-Weston Systems, Syosset, N.Y.

General Electric's major subcontractor is TRW Corp., Redondo Beach, Calif.

Rocketdyne's team consists of Ford Aerospace and Communications Corp., Palo Alto, Calif.; Harris Corp., Melbourne, Fla.; The Garrett Corp., Tempe, Ariz.; General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif.; and Lockheed Missiles & Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif.

Each work package will be managed by a different NASA field center.

Play examines nuclear war behind facade of comedy

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

The stark, haunting potential of nuclear war is subtly disguised with the humor and pancake makeup of the stage in the local presentation of a modern play.

Howard College Department of Theatre's presentation of "End of the World with Symposium to Follow" by Arthur Kopit is a timely commentary on nuclear defense strategy and arms buildup behind a facade of comedy.

The production will be staged at 8 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday at the Howard College auditorium.

When the curtain rises, be prepared to join main character Michael Trent on an elusive search for the "truth" behind the nuclear arms race.

The character becomes an eroding island, surrounded by a sea of insane voices preaching the confusing virtues and importance of maintaining a stockpile of nuclear warheads.

Trent, who is a single character in Kopit's original script, appears as two characters in director Bill Doll's adaptation.

Beneath the stage lights Trent is a brassy young playwright who has been commissioned by a mysterious billionaire to write a play about the "Impending Doom."

But lurking at corner stage and serving as narrator between scenes Trent is a Sam Spade detective character. With shadow-cloaked face and dressed in black hat and trench coat, he serves as a ghostly hint of the playwright Trent's yet-to-come misfortune.

Steve McLaughlin's portrayal of playwright Trent is polished and natural. He creates a character who is a smooth, stereotyped blend of salesman, politician and writer. His animated facial expressions and relaxed gestures make the character believable.

Stacey Ream, as detective Trent, also offers the audience a realistic performance. Ream's deep voice and well-articulated narrative help build an aura of suspense between scenes.

Other major characters include Stacey Leonard, as overbearing billionaire Phillis Stone; and Chanvindra Freeman, as the arrogant General Wilmer.

Phillis Stone (Stacey Leonard) right, makes a persuasive point in a conversation with Michael Trent (Steve McLaughlin) in this scene in the Howard College Department of Theatre presentation of "End of the World with Symposium to Follow."

Leonard lends a prim and proper air to her character that enhances the play's humor by contrasting the aloof, unkempt mannerisms of playwright Trent.

Also included in the cast are Lorne Russell as Audrey West; Kris Moorehead as Stella and

Japanese Waitress; Angie Jones as Audrey's secretary; Scott Ferguson as Charles; Ben Fritzier as Man in Hallway; Scott Ferguson as General Wilmer's aide; Margot Perkins as General Wilmer's daughter; Ben Fritzier as General Wilmer's husband

Also, Donise Perkins as Sheila Berent; Anissa Barteel as Petey; Tracie Wilkerson as Joan; Dolph Labbe' as Alex; and Angie Jones as Ann Trent.

Triple-tiered, well-constructed sets complement the actor's performances by adding variety to the production.

Carefully selected props enhance the play's subtle, dark message.

Alcohol in some form appears in almost every scene, either inside bottles atop a cluttered desk, or as a beer bottle clutched in the fingers of playwright Trent.

The highly-visible alcohol props seem to symbolize the clouded, sometimes confusing thinking espoused by the play's characters when speaking about the rationale behind the nuclear arms race.

The abundance of alcoholic spirits also suggest mankind's desire to suppress and distort thoughts about the potential for wiping out the collective human spirit in a firestorm topped with mushroom clouds.

Costumes for the play match the professional perfection evident in lighting, music and special effects.

Howard College Department of Theatre's presentation of the comedy is especially timely with the scheduled summit talks on nuclear arms reduction between President Reagan and Soviet leader Michail Gorbachev, Doll said.

"It's an important issue to think about. I think this play makes a strong statement," said the second-year director.

A brief director's note on the back page of the production's program summarizes Doll's thoughts about the play's message.

"I have gone through many phases in the production of this play. One was that you should be hit over the head with the issue of nuclear disarmament," the note reads.

It continues: "However, I have found that End of the World with Symposium to Follow clearly addresses the issue. The best way to ingest it is in the fun presentational form which Mr. Kopit gives us in this play."

★ God gave you the ability to think, love, will yourself, laugh, imagine, create, plan, speak and pray. So each of us can choose to love rather than hate, laugh rather than cry, create rather than destroy, persevere rather than quit, praise rather than slander, heal rather than wound, give rather than steal, act rather than procrastinate, grow rather than rot, pray instead of curse, and enjoy living rather than be miserable. ★

★ What is characteristic of life is that victory comes usually after many struggles and countless defeats. Yet each struggle, each defeat sharpens your skills and strengths, your courage, your ability, and your confidence - thus each obstacle is a "comrad-in-arms" forcing you to become better, or quit. ★

★ Each rebuff is an opportunity to move forward and grow - turn away from them, avoid them, and you throw away great opportunity to become better. Failure will never overtake you if your determination to succeed is strong enough and your attitude is right. ★

★ Whatever you vividly imagine, ardently desire, sincerely believe, and enthusiastically act upon, must inevitably come to pass. ★

Club notes

Member demonstrates slip knot tying

Coahoma 4-H Club met at the Coahoma Elementary School, with 15 members, 15 parents and 14 guests present.

President Denise Walker called the meeting to order. Robb Walker led the pledge of allegiance. The 4-H pledge and motto were led by Dianna Coleman, and Jason Archibald led the 4-H prayer.

Justin Wood read the minutes of the last meeting and Shaundra Walker presented a treasurer's report. Wood also presented a mini-method demonstration on tying slip knots.

A short business meeting was conducted with reports on several past activities. It was decided to change meetings to the second Tuesday of each month.

Stanley Blackwell, Coahoma ag teacher, brought members of one of his contest, teams they are: Darrell Spears, Coley Dobbs, Jeff Rosson, Thomas Hoggard, Alan Pherigo and John Todd Wright. They presented a program on parliamentary procedure.

A game was led by Dianna Coleman and refreshments were served.

Canterbury to host Christmas bazaar

The residents of Canterbury will conduct their annual Christmas Bazaar Dec. 5 at 1700 Lancaster, from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Baked goods, handmade items, and art work will be available. The public is invited and encouraged to drop by and shop.

Women learn how to be good listeners

Woman's Forum met at the home of Helen McDonald with Lucile Kelly as co-hostess. Wanda Rose Fox, president, presided.

Guest speaker Nadine Hodnett presented a program titled, "How to be a Good Listener." Using a format of lecture and a prepared tape, Hodnett stressed the following teaching objective: "To help family members of organizations develop listening habits and improve communication skills to strengthen their interpersonal relationships."

She also discussed reasons for listening and told how to be a good listener and what is involved in active listening.

The next meeting will be a Christmas luncheon Dec. 18 at the home of Evelyn Coker, with Sarah Boyd and Virginia Sweeney as co-hostesses.

Turnabout is not fair play in world of men's fashion

DEAR ABBY: Why, oh why, the double standard? Over the years women and girls have dressed in every conceivable piece of men's attire. They wear our trousers. They wear our suits. They wear our shirts. They wear our T-shirts. They wear our blue jeans, and now they are wearing our boxer shorts — outside, no less — and everyone thinks it's cute and "harmless."

Dear Abby

Just let a boy (or man) put on a pair of panties and all the women go bonkers! They rush the poor guy off to the nearest psychiatrist for "counseling." Can you imagine the horror and furor that would ensue if a boy walked down the street with a pair of frilly panties over his jockey shorts? Half the women in town would be down to the police station trying to get him locked up. The other half would be locking their daughters in the linen closet. Abby, maybe you can explain it. I sure can't.

PERPLEXED IN LARGO, FLA.
DEAR PERPLEXED: Conditioning, my friend. Nearly 50 years ago, Marlene Dietrich stunned the world when she appeared in public in a tuxedo and a mannish hat.

Everyone thought she looked gorgeous! (She did; she'd have looked gorgeous in anything — or nothing.)
But a man in a frilly negligee! No way. It's not fair. But who said life was fair?

***
DEAR ABBY: I am a long-time single father of two boys (11 and 13). It's their school's policy that on campus they may not kiss a girl or hold her hand. They do not understand. How do I best explain this to them other than, "It's school policy?"
They're both responsible, considerate and loving, and, as their father, I owe them a responsible, considerate and loving answer.
So, Abby, I'm asking for some 1987 advice for these super sons. They are both well-informed about puberty, sexually transmitted diseases, AIDS, pregnancy and responsibilities, but they would still like to at least hold their girls' hand. Respectfully.

SACRAMENTO SINGLE DAD
DEAR DAD: Having given your young sons a thorough grounding in every aspect of sex education, these well-informed young men surely know that touching and kissing are the preliminaries to more serious expressions of affection. Now, explain that although "wanting" to kiss a girl and hold her hand is natural, school policy forbids it, and, therefore, they must respect the rules. Period.
***

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from my dentist's, where he explained that a crown on a back tooth would cost $600. Assisted by a young woman, he proceeded. Then he called a female technician to the doorway of the adjoining office. Apparently she was idle, and they kept up a three-sided conversation constantly on a variety of subjects, interspersed with an occasional "Open wide!"

My husband had the misfortune of having a first appointment the morning after a big televised sport event in which he had no interest. He said patients as well as employees were involved in a detailed reshaping of the game. The dentist is young and skilled and we do not plan to change.

My husband says his barber is worse. He converses with the other barbers and customers, sometimes looking over his shoulder as he clips. Also, he has a phone cradled on his shoulder for other conversations while he works.

Is this a way of life with professionals, or am I getting crotchety?
LYNNFIELD, MASS.

DEAR LYNNFIELD: Unprofessional "professionals" can be found everywhere. It's not confined to any age group or special area. There is no shortage of skilled dentists — or barbers. If you put up with this type of unprofessional behavior from a dentist or a barber, you're not crotchety — you're crazy.

FOUNDER

J.W. Elrod

Dee Elrod

Elrod's Furniture was opened in Big Spring by my grandfather, J.W. Elrod in 1937. The Big Spring store was an expansion of the Slaton store which was started 61 years ago. Because of your patronage, we have expanded into our present operation. We thank you for your past business and hope to serve you for another 50 years.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If any major changes in your current situation are necessary, make them carefully after thinking them through thoroughly. Don't be impulsive. If someone asks for your opinion, don't be too direct.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle your daily duties quickly this morning so you can move on to something new. Clear up correspondence which has piled up.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some excellent ideas for improving your home situation will occur to you. Take it easy tonight, and get plenty of rest after a hard day.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You'll be able to know what people are really thinking if you judge by actions and words. Be sure you have your finances in order.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Indulge in a recreation which can bring you both profit and happiness. Be practical in handling a risky situation which comes up.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Some outside activities can help your business affairs to operate on a more profitable level. This can turn a negative trend around.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think over every phase of a trip you want to make so there will be no unexpected surprises. Be sure you have the necessary clothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't hurry through the resolution of any problems, or you'll be apt to miss something important. Prior planning prevents poor performance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your mate has some good suggestions for a change in your home life. Your intuition is accurate now, so follow your hunches.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you listen to, and work with, a smart and energetic partner, you can make rapid progress. Take care of public affairs energetically.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This is a good day to step back and look at your situation from new angles. A good friend can help you to greatly improve your income.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't interfere in an argument between a family friend and an outsider. This dispute will blow over by

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't arrive at any vital decisions today, as your judgment is not all it should be. You can have more security soon if you plan ahead.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will have a tendency to act quickly on new ideas, but should be taught to think things over before jumping in with both feet. It's also important that your progeny be taught the importance of finishing one project at a time. Good manners are important here.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
