

Residents share opinions of Hart re-entry

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Residents of Big Spring did not express a consensus concerning the return of former Colorado Senator Gary Hart to the Democratic presidential campaign.

Although most said Hart has a right to change his mind about running, many added that they would not vote for the man who once clearly led the Democratic pack.

Hart left the campaign trail earlier this year amid a flurry of accusations of moral misconduct, following reports of his involvement with model Donna Rice.

He announced Tuesday that he was returning to the 1988 presidential chase.

Polled Wednesday in the lobby of the Post Office, 501 Main St., local residents offered a variety of opinions concerning the off-and-on quest for the White House by Hart.

Larson Lloyd of Big Spring said, "I wish him well. I wish nobody bad.

"But, I think, in order for continued growth and prosperity in this country, he's not the man."

Trinity Baptist Church pastor Claude Craven, of Big Spring, said, "I think he ought to stay out of the race."

"I think his moral conduct has disqualified him."

Jim Massingill, also of Big Spring, said, "I guess he's got the right to run.

"I don't think he ever got a fair shake the first time. But that's not saying I'd vote for him, either."

Mrs. R.E. Kauffman said, "I know it's a breakdown in our morals to even consider Gary Hart. I'm scared of our morals in this country now."

"My husband and I talked about this quite a bit last night, and we are both in accord," the Big Spring resident said.

Another Big Spring woman did not find the Hart re-entry an unexpected event.

"I'm not surprised," Sheri Wilson said.

"I've just really been looking for that to happen. I'm not surprised at all that he is running again; I have expected that for quite awhile."

Tommy Whatley of Big Spring said, "Well, I think the man has a right to do what he wants."

"He has the right to run, if he feels he has a chance to win, and has the time and money. He certainly has the ambition."

Said former high school football coach Quinn Eudy, "My biggest thought on Gary Hart's candidacy for president is that whatever he did won't make any difference in his candidacy.

"I'm not saying what he did was right or wrong, morally speaking — certainly it was wrong, if it's true," he said.

"But I don't think the public, as a whole, will deal with that if they think he's a viable candidate. They will decide whether to support him or not for other reasons."

"I don't think it will make any difference at all," he said.

Economic counsel available

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The Guadalupe Economic Services Council wants to help keep a roof overhead for people who find themselves in danger of losing their homes.

The council, based in Lubbock, will send representatives to Big Spring Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to meet prospective clients and answer questions. The representatives will be in the meeting room of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce offices, 215 W. Third St.

The council is already operating offices in Lubbock and Midland. According to Margy McMennamy, a counselor with the GESC, the organization has been designated as a housing counseling provider by the Housing and Urban Development department of the federal government.

The public is invited to apply for assistance from the agency.

In addition to counseling people who fear they are about to lose their homes, the group also offers prospective clients a chance to apply to a network of sources for financial assistance.

HUD has approved the council to provide counseling for 71 counties in Texas, including the Permian Basin. The GESC programs address questions from a variety of areas, including:

- Buying and maintaining a home;
- Money management and budgeting;
- Debt consolidation;
- Foreclosure assistance;
- Improving housing conditions;
- Landlord/tenant disputes;
- Consumer protection.

Questions on these issues can be addressed by counselors from the GESC. Appointments are encouraged to ensure that an adequate number of counselors are available during the Tuesday session, according to McMennamy.

Postal officials fight proposed budget cutting

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Postal service in Howard County and throughout the nation would be adversely affected if a deficit reduction bill under consideration in Congress passes, current and retired Big Spring postal officials charge.

However, Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office has described the outcry as "The Washington Monument Syndrome" — a kneejerk reaction to generate opposition to proposed funding cuts.

House Bill 3545 — currently in joint House-Senate conference committee — contains a provision requiring the U.S. Postal Service to re-pay $1.7 billion in retiree cost of living and health insurance adjustments during the next two years. Those costs are now paid with federal budget funds.

"This bill would seriously disrupt the quality of our postal service, as well as slowing the replacement time of out-dated facilities and worn out delivery vehicles, should it pass in its present form," said retired Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty.

In addition, the proposed legislation would also result in severe cuts in postal service personnel, closing of thousands of smaller post offices, and possibly put a halt to Saturday mail deliveries, Hardesty said. Hardesty, who retired as Big Spring postmaster in April, now serves as national chairman of Retired Postmasters of the U.S. The organization has mobilized during the past week, lobbying against the postal retiree benefit pay-back provision.

Postmasters and retired postmasters in all 50 states have been contacted and urged to write or call their respective congressmen and express opposition to the legislation, Hardesty said.

"Enactment of the bill would mean the postal service could not borrow money, or increase postal rates or its budget to cover the loss of $1.7 billion of operation money which would replace that amount paid from the federal budget," Hardesty said.

Elimination of some 50 to 60 thousand postal jobs would be necessary to continue service, Hardesty said.

Current Big Spring Postmaster Ken Curry agrees with Hardesty's comments concerning the adverse POSTAL CUTS page 2-A

Big Spring's sales tax slice nears $90,000

Herald staff report

Howard County's three municipal entities have received checks from the state of Texas totalling $86,876.36, according to the office of the comptroller, Bob Bullock.

Big Spring city finance director Tom Ferguson explained that the checks represent the cities' share of the seven percent sales tax collected on most goods and some services sold in Texas.

"Six percent of the money goes to the state," Ferguson said. "One percent of the collected sales and use tax is returned to the city."

"The retailer collects the tax and reports it to the state periodically," he said. "Depending on the dollar volume, they report monthly or quarterly or in some cases yearly."

"The state then figures the amount due the city every month, and sends the city a check," he said. This month, Big Spring's check was for $84,619.87.

Last year, the tax income returned to the city for the month was $84,237.33, according to Bullock's office.

In real terms, Ferguson said, "It is up very slightly this year. The dollar amounts are close to the same."

Bullock's office shows a net payment to the city of Big Spring of $1,423,219.43 for 1987, a drop of 2.72 percent from 1986, when the total following the December payments was $1,462,951.68 for the year.

Figures for Coahoma this year show a monthly payment of $1,336.70 and a year-to-date total of $24,501.94, which compare to last year's figures of $1,587.47 and $26,829.18 respectively. For Coahoma, the figures indicate a drop of 8.67 percent from 1986.

Forsan received a return of $919.79 for the month, bringing the total for 1987 to $16,512.93. One year ago, Forsan's payment was $825.32, and the yearly figure reached $12,963.18. Forsan shows the only increase from 1986, which according to the comptroller's office amounts to a gain of 27.38 percent.

The return for the county this year totals $1,464,234.30, down from $1,502,744.04 at this time last year, a decline of 2.56 percent.

In Martin County, this month's check for $2,752.24 represents a decline from the figure at this time last year, which was $3,378.49. The yearly total, $48,201.93, was also down from 1986's figure of $59,845.28. The comptroller's office puts the decline at 19.46 percent.

Not all the cities in Texas collect the tax. Bullock's office tracks returns for 852 cities which levy the percentage. According to the comptroller, this month's $3.3 million total payment represents a 6.2 percent increase from December 1986, but the year-end totals — $850.7 million, compared with last year's $886.3 million — show a decline.

A widening of the statewide tax base was reflected in the monthly figures, along with a recovery in the state's economy, Bullock said.

"Our economy is recovering, but it will take some time," Bullock said.

widened tax base — an increase in the number of goods and services to which the sales levy applies — resulted from last summer's special session of the Texas legislature.

Houston received the largest check for December, Bullock said, gaining 9.4 percent overall with its $9.2 million check. Dallas followed with a check for $6.9 million, down three percent.

Checks for Midland and Odessa this month were $501,495.56 and $428,173.01 respectively. Midland showed a 5.60 percent decline overall, compared with Odessa's overall drop of 14.74 percent in sales tax revenue from 1986.

Vaccination of pets vital, officials say

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

If you love your pet, get it vaccinated against rabies — that's the advice being offered by Big Spring City animal control officers.

Although there only have been eight confirmed rabies cases in Howard County this year, the potential for animals or humans being afflicted with the deadly disease is a constant danger, according to Big Spring Animal Control Officer Chuck Smith.

Vaccination of pets is the only way to control the spread of the disease, Smith said.

It is a violation of city law for any person to keep a dog within the city limits unless that animal has been vaccinated against rabies by a practicing veterinarian. Dogs must be vaccinated before reaching three months of age, the law states.

Any animal suspected of having rabies that comes in contact with other animals or humans will be destroyed, Smith said, adding that the heads of animals suspected of having rabies are sent to the State Health Department laboratory for analysis.

A skunk, roaming during daylight hours, may have rabies, Smith said.

"Anytime a nocturnal animal is out in the daytime, it's a pretty good indication that something is wrong," Smith said.

State law requires all cases of animals suspected of carrying rabies that come in contact with humans be reported to health department officials, according to Smith.

Law also requires all dog bites to be reported to the Big Spring Animal Control department, Smith said.

When a bite is reported, law requires that the animal that inflicts the bite be securely confined for observation for no fewer than 10 days. The only other option allowed under the law is for the animal to be destroyed and the head sent to the state health department for examination.

A dog that bites a human cannot be released from confinement until written permission is given by a health officer or a licensed veterinarian, the law states.

Lawsuits filed against five people

Herald staff report

Bond forfeiture lawsuits have been filed in 118th District Court against five people accused of committing crimes in Howard County.

According to the judgment nisi petitions, the accused failed to appear in court Dec. 9 when their cause was called for trial.

The following accused were filed against: Frankie Rubio, possession of a controlled substance, $20,000 bond; Eddie Hernandez, burglary of a building, $10,000; Ruben Bruce Powers, failure to stop and render aid, $1,000; John B. Corrales, burglary of a building, $5,000; and William Steward Froman, burglary of a building, $3,000.

According to the suits, the state is entitled to a forfeiture of the bail bonds unless good cause can be shown why defendants did not appear.

At least one of the five has been re-arrested in connection with the charges.

Jury considers O'Neil punishment

Herald staff report

Jurors entered the punishment phase this morning after entering a guilty verdict against defendant Thomas O'Neil Wednesday.

Jurors deliberated about 20 minutes before returning the guilty verdict, District Judge James Gregg said today.

The jury found O'Neil guilty of theft as charged in an October grand jury indictment.

A Howard County grand jury had indicted O'Neil in connection with a July 9 incident in which a handgun was grabbed from the arm of Patricia Mann as she was opening the door of her car, parked at the former College Park Safeway store.

The indictment charged O'Neil with robbery in connection with the incident and also noted two past felony convictions.

O'Neil was convicted in 1985 of felony driving while intoxicated by the 86th District Court in Kaufman County and of robbery in 1975 by the Sixth Circuit Court for Pasco County, Fla.

O'Neil took the stand Wednesday in his defense, testifying he was innocent of the crime.

Top officer

Bill King, left, a four-year veteran of the Big Spring Police Department, receives the Officer of the Year award from Police Chief Joe Cook during the Big Spring Police Association's annual Christmas dinner Wednesday evening. King was cited for his outstanding performance during the past year.

Other department personnel receiving awards Wednesday were: Charlotte Becker, civilian of the year; Fred Pace, association member of the year; and Bobby Armstrong and Mike Pearson, supervisors of the year.

Postal cuts

impact the legislation would have on postal service.

"Service of the smaller post offices in Howard County — such as those at Ackerly, Forsan and Coahoma — would be curtailed and possibly shut down," Curry said.

A reduction in expenditures at the Big Spring post office would also be necessary if the legislation were to pass in current form, Curry said.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office labeled postal officials' lobbying efforts against the budget reduction bill "The Washington Monument Syndrome."

"If congress announced it was going to reduce federal expenditures for maintenance of the Washington Monument, officials who administer those funds would immediately announce to the public that tours of the monument were being cut back," said Jack Devore, Bentsen's press secretary.

However, Devore said the senator is "not branding postal officials' concerns as fakery."

"The members of the conference committee are trying to weed out the real concerns from those of the Washington Monument syndrome," Devore said.

"Senator Bentsen is determined to cut the budget and will cut the budget," he said.

Devore said Bensten's office will not make any specific comment on any of the budget reduction provisions contained in H.B. 3545 until the measure is returned to both houses for a vote.

Bensten is chairman of both the Senate Finance Committee and House-Senate Conference Committee, which is considering the budget reduction bill.

Damon Tobias, legislative assistant for District 17 Rep. Charles Stenholm, said the congressman has been involved in separate agriculture sub-panel discussions and has not had the opportunity to examine the postal budget reduction provision in detail.

"He's aware of the provision and the impact it would have on postal service," Tobias said.

Hardesty is hopeful amendments will be introduced, allowing the postal service to effect the proposed cost reduction plan and give management the opportunity to continue to provide "quality postal service."

"Hopefully, an accommodation will be worked out that will provide an acceptable and affordable universal service for all of our postal customers," Hardesty said.

Board approves suit settlement

COLORADO CITY — The board of trustees of the Colorado Independent School District Monday night approved a resolution resolving a suit filed by the school district against two makers of asbestos, which has been found in some of the school district's buildings.

Two of the asbestos manufacturers, U.S. Gypsum and W.R. Grace, have agreed to a compromise to settle the district's claims as well as the claims of 82 other Texas school districts, without the admission of liability.

The school district is to receive $126,037 net after costs and attorney's fees with which to have the asbestos removed in order not to pose any health threat to students or employees.

CISD and 82 other school districts filed against several manufacturers of certain asbestos-containing plaster products which were applied used in construction of school buildings.

All 83 school districts must approve the resolution by Jan. 4.

In other business, the board:

- Approved the 1986-87 audit report as presented by Joe Morren, CPA;

- Gave permission to order a 53-passenger bus at an estimated cost of $25,000;

- Added Kelley Elementary School Wilma Reynolds to the textbook committee for 1987-88 to replace Loveta Riley who is ill;

- Approved a leave of absence for Kim Stewart, math teacher at Colorado Middle School.

spect the agency by telephoning 1-800-666-GESC or (806) 744-4416. With the exception of debt consolidation, counseling services are free of charge.

The service's fees for debt consolidation vary according to the client's ability to pay, according to McMennamy, with the fee's cap at $20 per month. Many clients use the service to lump all their debts into one monthly payment, the counselor said. The council then distributes an amount from that payment to each creditor.

McMennamy said the council's clientele has changed since the area's oil-based economy suffered severe setbacks. People who could afford to buy a home at one time were fairly assured of being able to pay for the home regardless of circumstance.

But when the bottom fell out of the oil industry, people who had never been in need financially suddenly found themselves in danger of losing homes purchased under mortgages with large monthly payments.

McMennamy said the service can be utilized by clients who, unlike persons with experience in the low-income sector, are not familiar with assistance networks.

The service also acts as a mediator for the debtor and creditor. In many cases, that is all the help needed, McMennamy said, adding that many people are afraid of contacting creditors, and others — for example — are not aware of what must be done to forestall a foreclosure.

Many people either don't know the GESC exists or are embarrassed to seek assistance, she said. Others wait until it is too late to ask for help. "If a client seeks help a week before foreclosure, it's almost certainly futile," she said.

Sheriff's log

Herald staff report

A gas leak was reported to sheriff's authorities at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday. The line, belonging to Mobil Pipeline, is located about a half block south of Rockhouse Road on Wasson Road, according to sheriff's records.

A Mobil representative, Fire Chief Carl Dorton and Assistant City Manager Hal Boyd were notified of the leak.

Boyd said this morning a Mobil field employee who was in Big Spring Wednesday shut off a valve, which had a leaking seal. No one was evacuated from the area, Boyd said, explaining that the gas leaked in a north to northeasterly direction into an open pasture.

The situation was remedied in about 45 minutes, officials said.

A trailer house fire south of Interstate 20 across from Dairy

Queen was reported to the sheriff's office at 9:33 a.m. Coahoma, Sand Springs and Jonesboro volunteer fire departments were called to fight the blaze. The Big Spring Fire Department also was notified.

Charles Rolen Jefferson, 50, 3526 Langley Drive, was arrested Wednesday on a driving while intoxicated judgment. He is to serve 30 days.

Contravis Wilson, 30, P.O. Box 1027 Driver Road, was transferred from the police department Wednesday. He is in custody in the Howard County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond. Wilson was arrested on charges on evading arrest.

Leonard G. McPeak, 26, 608 State St., pleaded guilty in county court Wednesday on a charge of revocation of probation for DWI. He was given credit for 14 days served. McPeak was released on five $200 bonds for the Laredo Sheriff's Office in reference to charges of five counts of theft by check.

Daphne Michelle Crane, 23, 1408 Mesquite St., was transferred from the police department and released on a $1,000 bond.

An assault, a burglary and a theft were reported to Big Spring police Wednesday.

Gregory Gene Johnson, 2623 Fairchild Drive, told police he was assaulted by four men unknown to him. The incident occurred in an alley behind the 2500 block of Clanton Street, according to police reports.

Sandra Lloyd Cathey, Colorado City, reported that someone broke into her car and stole items valued at $34.

$60 million in research funds given

Herald staff report
AUSTIN — A new $60 million research fund can be expected to generate at least four times that amount in federal matching funds and help push Texas to the forefront in the developing field of high technology, Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday.

Clements, in announcing that public and private universities start competing for the grants this month, said the $60 million represents the nation's largest state appropriation for competitive grants in science and engineering.

He said the funds are for basic and applied research, and noted that the field of competition "is wide open" to all Texas universities and junior colleges.

This year the Legislature not only boosted research funds but made radical changes in the awards system. It discarded old formulas and decided all research proposals will be evaluated by merit, regardless of the size or location of the host school.

Insurance board adopts AIDS rules

Herald staff report
AUSTIN — The State Board of Insurance on Wednesday adopted rules prohibiting discrimination against homosexuals and safeguarding privacy for individuals who test positive for the AIDS-causing virus.

Gay rights leaders said they are pleased that the policy prohibits companies from trying to determine an individual's sexual preferences. But they opposed AIDS testing for insurance, saying the industry will be able to deny coverage to people stricken with the fatal affliction.

Glen Maxey, executive director of the Lesbian/Gay Rights Lobby, said that if AIDS patients are unable to obtain medical insurance, the financial burden eventually will fall upon taxpayers.

The adopted rules, effective Feb. 1, allow companies to test insurance applicants for exposure to the virus but require informed and written consent of those who take the test.

License suspension notices misfiled

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Several hundred drivers license suspension notices, which were supposed to be sent to the Texas Department of Public Safety months ago after drunken driving convictions, were found stuffed in a courthouse closet.

The notices, stuffed in five brown envelopes, had been left in a courthouse office because employees of County Clerk Bob Green failed to send them to the DPS, the San Antonio Light reported today in a copyright story.

The latest revelations of mishandled legal documents came to light Wednesday as Green defended his handling of county records by attacking University of Texas at San Antonio professor Richard Gambitta.

Gambitta is preparing a report on the management of local drunken driving cases.

State Sen. Frank Tejeda also called for a state grand jury investigation into allegations that Green's office had not been properly notifying the DPS of license suspensions.

Student kills himself in crowded classroom

Herald staff report
HOUSTON — A high school freshman shot himself in a crowded classroom Wednesday morning, apparently because a girl in his algebra class had rejected his romantic overtures.

The boy's would-be girlfriend and 23 other students were in the classroom when the 15-year-old shot himself in the head with a .357-caliber Magnum.

"Everyone ran out and was screaming," said Donny Lyles, a Mayde Creek High School student who was in an adjacent classroom.

The dead student, Ramesh Guzman Tumulad, had asked the girl out through friends repeatedly but she had turned him down, said Harris County Sheriff's Department Detective Frank Pratt.

Tumulad wrote the girl a letter Tuesday describing his feelings of love, but when she turned the letter over to a counselor the youth became angry, Pratt said.

The counselor talked to Tumulad Tuesday afternoon about the letter, but it contained no mention of suicide and the counselor returned the letter to the troubled teen-ager, Pratt said.

Tumulad then called the girl Tuesday night and told her he would kill himself because she rejected him, Pratt said.

When told of the telephone suicide threat Wednesday morning, the school counselor was preparing to take Tumulad out of class when the girl ran into her office and said, "He did it," Pratt said.

Most of Tumulad's classmates thought his letter "was a joke," said freshman Amette Knippenberg, a friend of the girl. "Obviously it wasn't."

In the call Tuesday night to the girl, Tumulad said "life isn't worth living if I can't have your love," Knippenberg said, quoting the girl.

Knippenberg said the girl had alerted her parents and had asked teachers to move her away from Tumulad in algebra class because she feared his threats might be serious. The class was the only one Tumulad and the girl had together, classmates said.

Jim Carthel, the principal, said he knew nothing of the letter and had no clue Tumulad was contemplating suicide.

Individual counselors might have been informed about the letter, Carthel said, but he had not.

After the initial chaos, school officials restored order and moved the algebra class to the library.

Paramedics said Tumulad still had a pulse but had difficulty breathing when they arrived. An hour-long effort by paramedics and Life Flight physicians to revive the teen-ager failed.

About 15 counselors, including a specialist in traumatic deaths, were brought in from other Katy Independent School District campuses to help students cope with the tragedy.

Investigators said they are not certain where Tumulad obtained the gun or how he smuggled it into his third period algebra classroom. Harris County Medical Investigator Jay Evans said the gun was found on the student's desk.

Carthel, the principal, said the algebra instructor, Larry Gros, had stepped outside to post the class' attendance card when the shot was fired.

Tumulad, who was sitting near the rear of the classroom, made no threatening comments and left no note before the shooting, investigators said.

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinions from around the state.

Gary Hart is making it a tough race

All of the "undecideds" are looking for a place to jump; many of them were Hart supporters seven months ago, and are likely to become so again — at least temporarily. But if it is unlikely Hart can regain the momentum, it's not at all a mystery what his re-entry does to the chances of the other six Democratic candidates. If new polls show Hart once again in the lead, that would be almost conclusive proof none of the others has a real chance of winning election. If in seven months, none has been able to overtake the ghost of a candidate, how much credibility will they retain as viable presidential contenders? It's been a tough year for Democrats. Gary Hart has just made it tougher yet.

Corpus Christi Caller-Times

Train disaster prompts changes

Saturday's runaway train derailment and hazardous-chemicals explosion four miles east of Round Rock re-emphasizes the need to employ the highest level safety precautions possible to prevent a disaster from occurring in a heavily populated area.

Despite the extent of Saturday's dramatic derailment and fire, luck was on the side of many Round Rock residents. The engineering set of runaway train cars coasted out of control for seven miles ... before crashing and exploding. About 5,000 Round Rock residents were forced to evacuate their homes.

Freight trains pulling tanker cars of hazardous chemicals through Texas cities were referred to as "rolling Chernobyls" by San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros.

Trains, trucks, ships and to even some extend aircraft are used to transport dangerous chemicals. No one disputes the need to ship these chemicals. But the utmost in safety precautions should be designed and strictly enforced for all carriers of dangerous materials.

Austin American-Statesman

Complains Houston is on wrong list

Houston is always on the wrong lists up in Austin, for some reason. When it comes time to select sites for halfway houses to handle felons, Houston is always at the top of that list. This city is getting a disproportionate share.

When it comes time to hand out grants to police departments to fight drug abuse, Houston isn't anywhere on the list at all.

Out of $12.7 million in state and federal funds distributed, the Harris County district attorney's office got $177,000 and the Houston Police Department got zero.

Maybe the size of this city's voter registration list needs to be brought to Austin's attention more often.

Houston Chronicle

News report hit the nail on the head

The "60 Minutes" program on the Texas Supreme Court ... was anything but flattering to the Lone Star state. But the network television report may have made more Texans aware that big-money politics has tainted the national reputation of their highest court.

The "60 Minutes" segment focused on big campaign contributions which have been made to individual members of the Texas Supreme Court by lawyers who have cases pending before the court.

One contribution cited was made by a Pennzoil attorney prior to the court's ruling in favor of Pennzoil in the case against Texaco.

Also discussed were rebukes of justices William Kilgarlin and C.L. Ray by the State Commission on Judicial Conduct.

Supreme Court judges should not accept campaign contributions, gifts or anything of value from attorneys who have cases pending before the court. Supreme Court candidates should not have to wage million-dollar campaigns and incur political debts to the lawyers whose cases they judge.

Waco Tribune-Herald

No excuse for plane crash tragedy

Americans are appalled and angry over the circumstances of the aircraft crash in California that took 43 lives.

It appears that a fired airline employee, David Burke, chose the airliner flying five miles above the ground as the place to kill his former supervisor and cause himself and everyone else aboard to plunge to their deaths.

However, the tragedy could have been avoided. It appears that Burke was allowed to bypass security procedures and board the airplane carrying a handgun.

The issue of laxity in screening passengers at airports is raised anew. Whatever the explanation is for letting Burke on Flight 171 with a gun, it won't be good enough. Twisted minds are hard to detect; firearms are not.

Summit over — Back to the serious stuff

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Boy, am I glad Gorbachev is gone. Don't get me wrong. I was very happy to see the treaty signed, and I think his wife is kind of cute for a woman her age, but all the hi-jinks in Washington only served to detract from the burning question of the week:

Beyond the realm

Are Sean Penn and Madonna really getting a divorce? Personally, I don't want to believe it. To me, they're America's dream couple — The Material Girl and The Thug.

You can imagine my dismay, therefore, when I saw this week's People magazine. Right there on the cover was the sickening news: This generation's dream couple, calling it quits.

Granted, it wasn't exactly a marriage made in heaven, but whose is? So what if he had a penchant for spitting, cursing and swinging at anyone with a flashlight? Maybe he's just excitable.

And big deal if she seems to be unable to perform before 10,000 screaming adolescents unless she's half-naked. Artistic creativity takes many forms and I, for one, would never stand in the way of Madonna exposing her — er — art to her adoring fans.

To get to the bottom of their breakup, I enlisted the aid of ace interviewer Daniel "The Truth" Sheboygan. Perhaps you've heard of him — he's the one who got the exclusive interview with Elvis' ghost for the Daily Snoop, available at fine supermarkets everywhere.

When I reached Truth, he told me he had to put me on hold. He said he was trying to substantiate whether Gorbachev's birthmark is actually the sign of the Anti-Christ.

His return call came in about 35 minutes — he wouldn't talk about his attempts at the Gorbachev story, except to say KGB agents have a rotten sense of humor.

After telling him what I was after, he said he'd get right on the story. "After all," he said, "there's nothing I wouldn't do for my old buddy Steve."

In other words, he owes me money. I patiently waited for word from him for a week. After deciding that he was probably neck-deep in trouble in some Tijuana bar, he surprised me with an early-morning phone call two days ago.

"I found 'em, Steve-o," he yelled. "Found who?"

"Why, Sean and Madonna, of course," Truth said. "What's the matter, boy? You sound like you were asleep."

I had been asleep, but discussing the matter seemed irrelevant. "So, what's the scoop, Truth?"

"I hate to break your heart, friend o' mine, but they're done for. Fini, nada, kaput, Splitsville, see you later, adios."

"OK, Truth, I catch your drift," I drearily replied. "How did you get the info?"

"It was simple, pal. I just walked up to Sean and asked what was going on," he said. "Yeah, I'm sure."

"No, really, I did. You'd be surprised, Reagan. He's really a sensitive guy. The only reason he punched out all those photographers was that he has had a deep-rooted fear of cameras all his life," Truth noted.

"I suppose he told you all this," I said. "God's truth, Steve. All the while he was growing up, his mother was constantly sticking a camera in his face. You know, the kind with the old-fashioned flashbulbs? Every time he'd turn around, FOOSH!, right in his face. It's enough to give anyone a complex."

"That's all very fascinating, but we're getting away from the subject, Truth," I said. "Why are they getting divorced?"

"She snores," he answered. "Excuse me?"

"She snores — loud as heck. Sean said he didn't know whether he was in his bedroom or Grand Central Station. It got so bad, he decided the only way he'd ever get a decent night's sleep would be to divorce her," Truth said.

"Truth, have you been drinking?" I asked. "Just a six-pack or three, but what has that got to do with anything? I'm telling you, Steve, the poor guy had no choice. It was either kick her out, or go completely lu-lu. Sean's a saint, if you ask me," Sheboygan noted.

"Well, Truth, ol' buddy, ol' pal, nobody did ask you, but thanks for the information, anyway. If there's anything you ever need, just call," I said.

"As a matter of fact, Steve-o, there's an attractive blond in the bar with me who thinks tall, slightly-balding writers are sexy. Do you think you could send me a couple of hundred dollars so I can take her to Disneyland?"

"Go with God, Truth," I replied before hanging up.

Thanks Good Samaritans

To the editor: I would like to use your newspaper to thank all of those who helped me with the pasture fire Sunday, Dec. 6. I live beside C & G Quick Stop on South 87 and most of the people that stopped I had never seen. But had it not been for all of you there would have been no way I could have kept it under control till the volunteer fire dept. got there.

No one ever really knows how much you can appreciate a total stranger until something like this happens. There is not time to call any friends to help and when total strangers stop to assist you (in their church clothes!) put out a fire — it restores your faith in people.

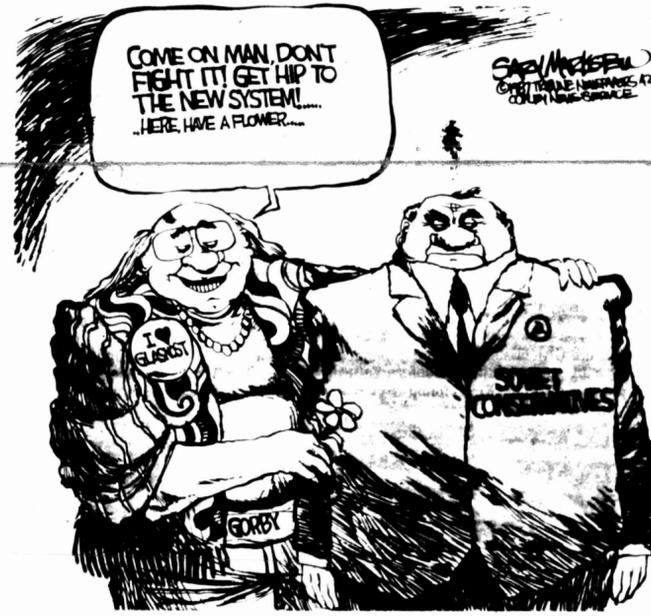

I also thank the volunteer fire department for coming out. You're a great bunch of men to do what you do!

Thank you all from the bottom of my heart!

Reagans' post-summit sentiments vary

By ART BUCHWALD

Ronald Reagan got into bed and sighed. "Mikhail is really a nice guy."

"Nancy punched her pillow with her fist. "He's feisty but he has a sense of humor," the President went on.

"Nancy punched her pillow again. "Why are you doing that?" Reagan asked.

"I can't believe it. I was publicly upstaged by a communist," Nancy said, hitting her pillow once more.

"You're just imagining things," Ronald said. "Raisa wouldn't upstage you."

"Where do you get this Raisa stuff from?" Nancy demanded.

"Well, he calls me Ronnie, and I call him Mikhail, so I don't see anything wrong with calling her Raisa, and the two of them calling you Nancy. That is what summits are all about."

"I don't care what you call her, she humiliated me and she did it on purpose."

"No one could humiliate you, Nancy."

"How would you know? You were locked up in meetings all day and you had no idea what was going on outside."

"What did she do?"

"For one thing she wouldn't let me know if she was coming to tea or not. I had egg on my face when I couldn't tell the press what time she was arriving."

"You know how Russians are when it comes to their tea."

"That's the point. When she came, she didn't want tea, she wanted coffee. I had to go out in the kitchen and make a fresh pot."

"It doesn't matter. We signed an intermediate-range missile treaty. I never thought the Russians would do it."

Nancy said, "I knew you'd take her side instead of mine."

"You're overreacting Nancy."

"You don't know about the tour of the White House I gave her with the TV cameras covering us."

"How could Raisa upstage you in your own house?"

"She kept straightening my paintings," Nancy cried. "And every time I told her an historical fact about the White House she topped me with two I didn't know. I'm sure the KGB briefed her on every piece of furniture on the ground floor."

"So what do you want me to do?"

"You're the President of the United States. My question to you is, are you going to keep allowing the Russians to pull the wool over your eyes?"

Ronald replied, "Of course not, my little babushka."

CIA says glasnost hurting Gorbachev

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Mikhail Gorbachev may not be around as Soviet premier long enough to carry out the treaty he signed at the summit last week.

That's the word we get from the Central Intelligence Agency and other intelligence sources monitoring the Kremlin. Gorbachev is on shaky ground. His reform plans have so unsettled the Soviet elite that an ouster or even an untimely death is possible before the end of 1988.

So far, the CIA thinks Gorbachev is the genuine article and the glasnost, or openness, he advocates is real. So is the "perestroika," the Russian word for "restructuring" and the title of his new book.

In the kind of openness rarely seen in a Soviet official, Gorbachev calls his predecessors "stone-faced sphinxes" who indulged in "grandiloquent twaddle (and) unwarranted splendor, abstract slogans, and recurrences of pompous ostentation."

Jack Anderson

The trouble is, some of those "stone-faced sphinxes" are still around. Gorbachev is threatening their cushy lives with his perestroika, which is nothing less than a reordering of the power elite.

The top rung of the Soviet class system — the nomenklatura — numbers 600,000 to 800,000 people. It is those people who threaten Gorbachev's continued power, if not his life.

One CIA analyst said of the Soviet upper class: "They send their kids to school in Switzerland. They shop in special shops in Russia, only available to them. They vacation where they choose. And they are livid about Gorbachev's economic and other reforms."

It seems that nothing unnerves a socialist like the threat of pure socialism — the spreading around of wealth and power.

The most serious sign that the elite are still in power is the ouster last month by the Communist Party Central Committee of Boris Yeltsin as head of the Moscow party. Yeltsin, a Gorbachev ally, had-mouthed conservative party officials for getting in the way of the premier's reforms. He also had the habit of mingling with the common people on the streets of Moscow to listen to their problems.

Some analysts at the CIA say Gorbachev leans too heavily on the KGB state security forces, one of the three pillars of power in the Soviet Union. The other two are the Politburo (political leadership) and the Red Army (military).

The KGB spreads rumors and disinformation about Politburo members before Gorbachev deposes them. KGB gossips have nothing but praise for Gorbachev. For his part, Gorbachev leaves the KGB out when he talks of reform.

He often refers to the KGB as "the competent authority." Their internal subversion and outrageous international actions continue unchecked.

Last June, Gorbachev gave the KGB a foothold in the Red Army, normally out of bounds for the spies and thugs.

The catalyst for the move was the audacious flight of West German Mathias Rust, who piloted a single-engine Cessna from Helsinki to Red Square. Gorbachev used the stunt as an excuse to fire 75-year-old Defense Minister Sergei Sokolov and subordinates.

Then, Gorbachev chose as a replacement 63-year-old Gen. Dimitri T. Yazov, the deputy defense minister of personnel. Of all the positions in the military, CIA analysts point out, this is the one in tight cooperation with the KGB. In fact, it is often held by a KGB official in military uniform.

"The KGB has a deal with the Army that they have total access to personnel files," one source said. "They are intrusive in the military, and the personnel man is their springboard into it."

Whether the KGB's support is powerful enough to counter the anger of the nomenklatura and keep Gorbachev in power is anyone's guess. But several CIA analysts agreed that if Gorbachev gets through 1988 without being deposed, he may be at the top for years to come.

MINI-EDITORIAL — The offices of the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development must be pretty warm this winter — warm enough that the HUD staffers have forgotten how cold it can be outside.

A congressional report says HUD is being sluggish about distributing millions of dollars in aid to the homeless, in part because HUD thinks it violates the separation of church and state to give that money to churches.

Who else does HUD figure is going to put a roof over the heads of the poor this winter? When the administration is crying for private initiative to take up the slack, it makes no sense for HUD to penalize those who try.

Deaver guilty of perjury

WASHINGTON — Michael K. Deaver still says he's innocent even though the former presidential aide faces possible imprisonment following a jury's verdict that he lied under oath to bury allegations of unethical lobbying.

"I'm obviously very disappointed, but at the same time I know in my heart that I'm innocent," Deaver said Wednesday after a federal court jury convicted him of lying about the lobbying business he formed after leaving President Reagan's staff in 1985.

A friend and political associate of Ronald Reagan since the president's days as California governor, Deaver could be sentenced to five years in prison on each of three convictions. Possible fines total $22,000.

Bush urges caution

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush said Wednesday that reported plans for a massive military buildup in Nicaragua dramatize the need for Americans to "keep your eyes wide open" open about the true aims of the leftist Sandinista government.

During a picture-taking session while meeting with Nicaraguan defector Maj. Roger Miranda Bengoechea, Bush said he doubts that President Daniel Ortega's government in Managua genuinely intends to institute the sort of democratic reforms envisioned in the Central America peace plan.

Asked whether he thought Ortega had no intention of abiding by the conditions he agreed to in signing the accord last August, along with the leaders of four other Central American nations, Bush replied: "I'm convinced of that, yes."

Snow hits California

A Pacific storm crossed Southern California and headed to Western high country after dropping snow on California beaches, while its forerunner dumped heavy snow on New England. At least 83 deaths were blamed on the weather.

The storm closed Disneyland and other Southern California attractions.

LaRouche trial begins

BOSTON — Tight security was imposed for today's opening of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche's conspiracy trial, with even lawyers for the defense and prosecution having to submit to metal detectors and searches.

Federal court officials said safeguards used in trials involving mobsters and terrorists were necessary because of LaRouche's fear of a plot to kill him.

Opening statements were scheduled today in the case against LaRouche, five of his political organizations and six aides. All are accused of trying to obstruct a federal investigation into reports of credit card and loan fraud by LaRouche followers during his 1984 presidential campaign.

Opposition supporters sift through garbage on a truck in Seoul's Koru district Wednesday after people reported seeing police load several ballot boxes onto the truck. Citizens seized the boxes and surrounded them with linked arms.

South Korea Opposition rejects victory claim

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Opposition leaders said today they would not accept governing party candidate Roh Tae-woo's victory in presidential elections and called for nationwide protests to stop him from taking power.

The two main opposition parties and the main dissident alliance all charged the government had resorted to massive fraud to win Wednesday's elections.

They called for a repeat of the June demonstrations that forced the government to agree to democratic elections.

"Let us re-enact the glory of the national resistance in June. The rigged election must be rejected with all the peoples' strength," the National Coalition for Democracy said in a statement.

The National Election Commission said that with 97 percent of the vote counted, Roh was winning with 37.2 percent of the vote. It rejected opposition charges of vote fraud. Officials said formal announcement of the final result was not expected before Saturday.

Opposition leader Kim Young-sam was in second place with 27.7 percent, followed by rival opposition candidates Kim Dae-jung with 26.8 percent and Kim Jong-pil with 8 percent. An obscure nationalist got 2.2 percent of the vote.

Kim Young-sam's Reunification Democratic Party and Kim Dae-jung's Party for Peace and Democracy refused to accept the election results.

An angry Kim Young-sam called for a massive struggle against the government as he charged the election had been a fraud.

"I call upon the people to rise up," he said. Small groups of protesters tried to stage demonstrations against the election in Seoul and the southern cities of Kwangju and Taegu.

Riot police opened fire with tear gas in Kwangju and Taegu, but the clashes were very minor and fell far short of opposition calls for nationwide protests.

"Down with the dictator!" shouted 100 protesters blocking a main street in Seoul before they were scattered by charging police. Riot police outnumbered protesters at least 10 to one.

Roh, who claimed victory after vote counting went through the night, rejected the opposition's fraud claims. He appealed for peace. "I have promised you peace and stability," the former general told a news conference after claiming victory in the first direct presidential election in 16 years.

Roh campaigned on the platform that he alone could ensure full democracy and preserve stability.

Quake rocks Japan

CHIBA, Japan — A strong earthquake jolted Tokyo and surrounding areas today, killing two people and injuring at least 11. Many people dove under furniture as their homes and offices swayed violently for several minutes.

The quake was strongest in Chiba prefecture, just east of Tokyo, where a falling statue killed one woman and a collapsing stone wall killed another and seriously wounded her companion, said Susumu Mochihara, a police spokesman.

The earthquake, with a preliminary reading of 6.6 on the Richter scale, knocked objects off desks and shelves, broke windows, disrupted telephone service in some parts of the Tokyo region and briefly halted train service, but the National Police Agency said there were no reports of widespread damage.

Mafia leaders convicted

PALERMO, Sicily — Politicians and justice officials today hailed a jury that convicted 338 Mafia members who ran a criminal empire financed in part by multibillion-dollar profits from heroin sales in the United States.

The officials said the trial, which resulted in 19 life sentences, was Italy's most ambitious prosecution of the Mafia and marked a turning point in the nation's battle against the crime organization.

An investigation into the assassination of several important government officials led to the unprecedented trial.

Interim relief ordered

BHOPAL, India — A judge on Thursday ordered the Union Carbide Corp. to pay $270 million in interim relief for victims of the 1984 Bhopal gas disaster.

The payment, ordered by Bhopal District Judge M.W. Deo, works out to about 9 percent of the $3 billion that India is seeking in damages from the multinational company, based in Danbury, Conn.

Deo ordered the relief payment to be allocated within two months.

Bomb blast kills one

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland — Two time bombs exploded on doorsteps in a mainly Protestant housing project, killing one person, injuring 15 others and damaging 50 houses, police said today.

Police blamed the Irish Republican Army for Wednesday night's attack, but the outlawed guerrilla group issued a statement denying responsibility.

The blasts were heard up to 10 miles away, and were blamed for a car wreck in which another three people were hurt. Police said the driver was apparently startled by the explosions and lost control of the car, which spun and overturned.

Deaths on rural highways increase along with speed limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traffic fatalities on rural interstate highways soared by more than 50 percent in states that increased their speed limit to 65 mph last spring, according to Transportation Department figures.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said 450 people were killed on rural interstate roads over a three-month period last summer in 22 states where higher speed limits went into effect. The same roads claimed 296 lives during the same May-July period the previous year.

Congress cleared the way last April for states to increase their speed limits on rural interstate roadways, but not on other highways. So far 38 states have eased speed restrictions over 27,900 miles of roadway, but only 22 had higher speeds in effect and provided enough data to be included in the NHTSA figures, officials said.

The statistics from the 22 states showed that fatalities climbed by 52 percent on the rural interstate roads during the May-July period, while traffic deaths on other roads where the speed limit could not be increased declined by about 10 percent.

In seven states where the speed limit remained at 55 mph on all highways, the number of deaths on rural interstates rose only 10 percent during the May-July period.

The figures were the latest available from the states, highway safety agency officials said.

NHTSA officials cautioned against "drawing any conclusions... about long-term trends" from the statistics, which covered a relatively small period. In four of the 22 states, fatalities on the rural interstates actually declined, while in other states they jumped by 150 percent or more.

"We don't know what the reason is behind these numbers... It's way too early to draw any long-term conclusions," said NHTSA Administrator Diane Steed in an interview.

She cautioned that the figures in some cases could have been influenced by a sharp increase in the volume of vehicles on the road and that actual driving speeds in the states have yet to be determined.

But other highway safety experts suggested that the preliminary figures, nevertheless, provide the best glimpse yet of the possible safety implications of traveling at higher speeds even on relatively safe rural interstate highways.

"It's probably a pretty strong indication that going up to 65 has a great effect on lives lost. But I don't think that should be any surprise. That's what we've estimated would happen," said Allan Williams, a vice president and highway accident statistics expert for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., who strongly opposed the speed limit legislation approved by Congress early this year, called the figures "an unacceptable increase in deaths and injuries."

In several states with increased fatalities, the numerical differences were so small that no conclusions could be drawn, experts said. Those increases could be the result of just one or two accidents.

Album benefits Special Olympics

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Howard County Special Olympics athletes will indirectly benefit from profits derived from sales of a special Christmas album.

Fifteen of the biggest stars in popular music have recorded their favorite Christmas songs for the album entitled "A Very Special Christmas."

The list of artists who donated their talent free of charge to the album, which was distributed by A&M Records and is available in album, compact disc and tape format, reads like a "Who's Who" of rock 'n' roll. They include:

Bruce Springsteen, Whitney Houston, Madonna, Sting, John Mellencamp, U2, Stevie Nicks, the Eurythmics, the Pretenders, RUN-D.M.C., Bryan Adams, Bon Jovi and Alison Moyet.

Although the Howard County Special Olympics program will not receive any of the money from the album sales, the profits will benefit Special Olympics International, the year-round worldwide program of sports training and competition for people with mental retardation, according to Howard County Special Olympics Coordinator Carol Green.

The local Special Olympic program includes competition in softball, basketball, track and field, swimming, roller skating and bowling, Green said.

"A Very Special Christmas" is a project that rock producer Jimmy Iovine, who has worked with Springsteen, U2, the Pretenders and Tom Petty, has been wanting to put together for a long time.

"I'd wanted to make a Christmas record since I was 18 or 19," said Iovine, whose wife, Vicki, a lawyer who volunteers for Special Olympics in California, helped organize the project early in 1985.

The catalyst for the record was the death that Christmas season of Jimmy's father, Vincent "Jimmy" Iovine, to whom Jimmy's work on the album is dedicated.

"So I asked a couple of my friends, 'If I do this, will you take part?'" Iovine said. "And every person said yes. My only condition was that no one make money from it, the record had to benefit a good cause."

Enter Special Olympics International, the world's largest program of sports training for children and adults with mental retardation.

Eunice Kennedy Shriver began Special Olympics in 1968, and today more than one million people with mental retardation in the United States and more than 70 countries participate in the program.

Of the 15 cuts on "A Very Special Christmas," only Springsteen's "Merry Christmas Baby" and Sting's "Gabriel's Message" were previously recorded. Every other song was recorded especially for this album.

"I realized we pulled off something pretty incredible getting all these people together on one record. But the real point is helping Special Olympics. If this record does that, then we can all be proud," Iovine said.

Special Olympics is entering its 20th anniversary year with an ambitious goal: to double the number of people with mental retardation who participate in the program by 1991, the year of the next International Special Olympics Games.

However, achieving that goal is only the first step.

"Once we double the size of our program, we've got to train the athletes, as well as the coaches and other volunteers who make Special Olympics the world's fastest-growing sports program," said Sargent Shriver.

"A Very Special Christmas will go a long way toward making that next step possible."

Cameras, action rolling in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — The words "third coast" may be a brag the facts don't support, but it can now be said that Austin does indeed have a movie business.

And not just in terms of serving as housekeepers for production companies from out of state. With enough production people to crew at least one movie and a growing talent pool in front of the camera, production companies from out of town now hire up to 70 percent of their personnel from among people who live and work here.

"We're at a turning point," said Tom Copeland, assistant director of the Texas Film-Music Office. "We have never before been able to keep anyone here long enough," he said of people who crew films by working as electricians, makeup and wardrobe artists, cinematography assistants, location managers and general handymen.

Perhaps that is why, in the last year and a half, Austin has served as home base for the production of "Texas Chainsaw Massacre II," "Doodles" (a TV movie), "Nadine," "D.O.A.," "Save The Dog!" and the locally produced "Murder Rap."

In addition to enough crew to staff "about one and a half" pictures, Copeland said, the area has sufficient acting talent, post-production facilities and production equipment to get most pictures made.

Laura Kooris, in partnership with her husband, Richard, in Texas Pacific Film-Video, said the breakthrough probably occurred with the production last year of Cannon Films' "Texas Chainsaw Massacre II." Not only did it feature a famous, Austin-born director in Tobe Hooper, the horror film also included Austinites in key cast and crew positions.

"It was the first picture of its size that used department heads almost entirely in Austin or other cities in Texas," Laura Kooris said.

Texas Pacific also rents equipment and provides services from companies who request specific items.

Austin has good weather, a varied landscape, and a film liaison who smooths the path between filmmakers and city government over such things as street closings and use of public buildings. But it doesn't have everything.

And a poor Texas economy shouldn't discourage filmmakers from shooting in the state.

"For a filmmaker, it couldn't be a better time," Copeland said. "There are good deals around on hotel and motel rooms and office spaces. There's a lot of money to be saved."

Texas actor expanding role

NEW YORK (AP) — Woody Boyd, the naive bartender on "Cheers," has moved to new digs this season and taken up acting, giving the actor who plays him, Woody Harrelson, a chance to stretch a little.

"I certainly want to show people that I can do something besides Woody Boyd. I like comedy, and I like making people laugh, but I want to do drama as well," Harrelson said while wolfing down a carrot Chinese food on a recent visit to New York.

Harrelson, 25, has in mind one day playing a far different role. He'd like to make a movie based on his father's life and play the lead.

His father's life is indeed the stuff of high drama. Charles V. Harrelson spent much of his son's formative years in prison for murder and is now serving consecutive life sentences in a Texas prison for murder and murder conspiracy in the 1979 slaying of U.S.

District Judge John Wood Jr.

Harrelson is reluctant to talk about his father, whom he didn't really know until he was grown, not because he's ashamed of him, he explained, but because he's afraid what he says will be misconstrued.

He feels strongly that his father was convicted because of his prior prison record and because the FBI was under pressure to find the judge's killer.

"I don't know," he said quietly. "I feel kind of odd talking about Dad, because it's one thing for me to say it and have my personal feelings about it, but it's another thing for it to be read. I haven't done many interviews, but I've done enough to know that when I read it, it never seems to have the same tonality as what I was saying, which is why I've been very frugal when it comes to interviews."

His mother and father divorced when Woody was young, and he moved with his mother from Midland, Texas, to Ohio. He had little contact with his father as a youngster.

"He was in prison, so no. We'd write," Harrelson said. "I didn't get close to him until when I was a senior in high school. He came to Ohio."

Last year, Harrelson stood in for his father in a proxy wedding in Houston.

The government charged that Charles Harrelson was hired to kill Wood by Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra of El Paso, who was to be tried on drug charges by Wood, nicknamed "Maximum John."

Harrelson asserts his father's trial should have been moved to another city.

Harrelson notes bitterly that Chagra was later acquitted on murder conspiracy charges, yet his father remains in jail.

Ship comes in for successful game inventors

Herald bureau report
Pictionary, the season's best-selling game, is a phenomenon. Three million copies of this charades-on-paper pastime have been sold since it was introduced nationally about a year and a half ago.

To be considered a financial success, a game must sell 50,000 units. Sales of an additional 50,000 deem it a success by any standards. But when a game sells 350,000 units in its first six months, as Pictionary did, you've got yourself a phenomenon.

So says Stephen Peek, president of the newly organized Games Inventors of America.

Most games inventors aren't aware of the complexities they will encounter in trying to create and sell a game, Peek says. After 15 years in the business, Peek has designed, developed or marketed 150 games, including "TV's Dallas."

In addition to consulting work, he is the author of "Game Plan: The Game Inventor's Handbook" (Beterway Publications, $9.95), a how-to guide.

Peek says inventors should remember that a successful game is not necessarily one everyone has heard of — a Trivial Pursuit, for example. More than $900 million will be spent on games this year, according to the Toy Manufacturers of America.

Of the 137 million games expected to be sold, Pictionary, Scruples and Monopoly will dominate. However, the new stay-at-home lifestyle of baby boomers will encourage the sale of even more games in coming years. And, as Peek says, if even 50,000 people buy a game, that's a success story.

Some newcomers in the games race:

- TRAX, designed for two players, is made up of 64 tiles with either straight or curved black-and-white lines on each side. Players, one representing the white track and the other the black, take turns placing the tiles side-by-side. The object is to be the first to complete a line or loop in your own color. Suggested retail: $15 for basic set; $25 for deluxe.

- THE BRAIN GAME from Australia is a strategy board game that requires players to place four markers in a row or four in a square while blocking an opponent's attempt to do the same. What makes it difficult: The colors on the playing board confuse the eye. Suggested retail: $13.

- GENERATIONS capitalizes on the genealogy craze, calling for players to uncover information about their make-believe ancestors by moving through seven regions of the country asking questions. Suggested retail: $25.

- MIND YOUR MANNERS asks players to put their best fork forward as they move from place setting to place setting on the game board and answer questions about social etiquette and business protol. Available in English and Spanish. Suggested retail: $18.

- CORRUPTION: A GAME OF BACKROOM POLITICS has players scrambling up a political ladder while lining their pockets with bribes, payoffs and kickbacks. The first player to simultaneously gain the governor's office and accumulate $50,000 wins the game. Suggested retail: $26.

- I BET I KNOW tests players' knowledge in six categories similar to the ones offered in Trivial Pursuit. The difference: Players choose the level of difficulty and compete for money. Three clues are given for each question. The first to earn $750 wins the game. Suggested retail: $30-$35.

- THE ITALIAN EDITION, a trivia game exploring the accomplishments of Italians and Italian-Americans, includes 1,492 questions about art, music, science, sports, literature, food and entertainment.

Around town

MOVIES

Two new movies will open at Big Spring theaters this Friday.

"Three Men and A Baby" will debut at the Ritz, while "Cinderella" opens at the College Park Cinema.

"Three Men and A Baby" is a PG-rated comedy starring Tom Selleck, Ted Danson and Steve Guttenberg.

They play three men who share a bachelor pad and find themselves hanging diapers and worrying about baby formula when an infant is left on their doorstep.

Show times are 7 and 9 p.m. "Cinderella" is a G-rated animated Disney cartoon feature.

It will also show at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Two holdover movies from last week are "Planes, Trains, and Automobiles," and "Throw Mama from the Train."

"Planes, Trains and Automobiles" stars Steve Martin and John Candy and will be shown at the Ritz at 7:10 p.m. and 9:10 p.m.

In the R-rated movie, Martin plays a buttoned-down ad executive trying to get from New York to Chicago in time to spend Thanksgiving with his family.

Candy is a shower curtain ring salesman who decides to help Martin out, and ends up adding catastrophe to travel disaster.

"Throw Mama from the Train" is a PG-rated comedy directed by and starring Danny DeVito. It will be shown at 7:10 p.m. and 9:10 p.m. at the Cinema.

In the movie, DeVito wants to get rid of his overbearing mother and enlists a college professor, played by Billy Crystal, to help him.

Matinees for all four shows are at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Farm credit bailout may get OK'd by Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4 billion bailout for the Farm Credit System appears headed for final congressional action within days amid deepening concern over the system's financial problems.

"Two weeks ago ... you would have gotten odds if you had bet that we could get this consensus and get this bill through this year," Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., said Wednesday after House and Senate negotiators approved the measure.

Leahy, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said enough time remains to win approval in both houses and start the bill on its way to the president in the dwindling days before lawmakers start their holiday recess.

There have been hints of a presidential veto in the offing, but Assistant Treasury Secretary Charles Sethness told reporters Wednesday that the administration has no position yet and must first study any changes in the measure.

Approval by a House-Senate conference committee capped a furious, last-minute drive to avoid delay until February or later. The measure has been a year in the making and represents the only major farm bill of 1987.

Intensified action came a week after the system's Federal Land Bank in Jackson, Miss., said its losses have been so severe that it must seek alternative ways of arranging credit for farmers.

The system is a 70-year-old network of 37 banks and hundreds of borrower-owned lending co-ops that holds a $50 billion loan portfolio and one-third of the U.S. farm credit market.

It is reeling under $4.8 billion in losses in the last two years, brought on by the rural crisis of the early 1980s and long-term borrowing at high interest rates.

The bill would authorize sale of $4 billion in 15-year bonds to shore up the system, with the interest shared by the government and the system itself.

The price tag for taxpayers is estimated at between $1 billion and $1.5 billion over five years. That represents the cost not only of interest but of borrower rights provisions included for the Agriculture Department's unrelated Farmers Home Administration.

Similar rights would be accorded to Farm Credit System borrowers but at no cost to taxpayers, by congressional reckoning. Included would be greater notice of collection efforts, right of first refusal for former owners to reacquire their foreclosed property and homestead protection provisions.

The Farm Credit System, which has been criticized by federal regulators for excessive overhead, would be slimmed down under the bill. Land banks and intermediate credit banks in each of the 12 districts would be merged.

Balloting would be held to decide on mergers of the districts themselves and the number could shrink to as few as six. Banks for cooperatives in each of the 12 districts would vote on merging with the Central Bank for Cooperatives in Denver and thus forming a new National Bank for Cooperatives.

The legislation also establishes a secondary market that would pool farm mortgages and use them to back securities sold to investors, similar to the way the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) and other home mortgage secondary markets work.

In the scramble to get the finishing touches on the bill, however, lawmakers made major changes in the secondary market. Under pressure from Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, they placed the securities under full Securities and Exchange Commission regulation, according to Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind.

The alteration means banks will be barred from selling the securities as they otherwise would have. They still will be permitted to pool mortgages.

The American Bankers Association, which had lobbied hard for the secondary market, issued a statement saying it was "extremely pleased" with approval of the overall plan. It expressed hope that the changes would not prove "so great that farmers and ranchers must in the end pay higher interest rates."

Unruly children make visiting impossible

DEAR ABBY: Within the last few years, I became very friendly with a young woman I met through work. (I'll call her Jane.) We used to spend a lot of social time together. Jane has two young children. I have one. My child is no angel, but she has been taught good manners and proper behavior. Jane's children are disruptive, ill-mannered and careless (breaking toys, spilling things), and scream at the top of their lungs until they get their own way. They also interrupt every conversation Jane and I try to carry on. Meanwhile, Jane makes no effort to discipline them. Finally, I could no longer stand to go to Jane's house and hold my tongue, so I started making fewer and fewer visits.

Eventually, she asked me what was wrong. Did she do something to offend me? I assured her that nothing was wrong and she had not offended me, but I'm not sure that was a fair explanation. Abby, how can I tell her I got fed up with battling for conversation time with her while her children were around? And I certainly couldn't tell her I couldn't invite her to my home because her children were to ill-mannered and uncontrollable.

What should I do? Must I wait until Jane's children grow up? Or tell her the truth, and risk losing her friendship?

NO-WIN SITUATION
DEAR NO-WIN: Tell Jane the truth with all the love and diplomacy you can muster. She's doing a grave disservice to her children who cannot be expected to know what they have not been taught. Ill-mannered and badly behaved children are obnoxious and, therefore, friendless. You would be doing Jane and her children an enormous favor.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is giving me the silent treatment. Here's the story: "I'm 34, my wife is 33. We've been married for six years, both have good jobs and have never asked our parents for a dime. We are a sensible couple who have always lived within our means. We just moved into a new condo that we are renting. My mother asked me how much rent we are paying. I said something like: "Oh, Mom - don't worry - we're able to handle it." She wasn't satisfied, so she asked me again. Again I told her she didn't have to worry - but I did not tell her how much rent we were paying. Ever since then, she's been giving ing us the silent treatment. Knowing my mother, this is her way of punishing us. Do you think she was wrong to ask me how much rent we were paying? And do you think I was wrong for refusing to tell her?

SOMEWHERE IN THE USA
DEAR SOMEWHERE: Your mother was out of line to have asked. You were within your rights to have politely refused to tell her.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked at this fairly large office for two years. I also have a part-time job because I am deeply in debt following a bad marriage to a compulsive gambler and drinker.

I'm handling my life quite well, but there is a problem I can't handle. It seems that every time I turn around, a co-worker (at both jobs) asks me to pitch in for someone's birthday, anniversary, bridal shower, going-away present, baby gift, flowers, a card - I think you get the idea. All they want is a dollar or two, but it all adds up. Abby, I don't want to appear stingy, and I hate to be the only one in the office to say no, but if I say yes to all these requests, I'll be short of money that's already been earmarked for rent, groceries, insurance, utilities, car payment, gas and so forth.

Is there an excuse that's acceptable?

NOTHING TO SPARE
DEAR NOTHING: Don't look for an "excuse" - give a reason. You are not obligated to give if it's a hardship for you. The next time you're asked, smile pleasantly and say, "I would love to give, but I have some pressing obligations that make it impossible at the moment." Nothing more. Nothing less.

No single requirement for individual achievement is as important as self-discipline or self-control literally means to take possession of your own thoughts and mind. It is one of the greatest essentials to achieve whatever a person wants to be or do. Self-discipline begins with the mastery of your thoughts, if you do not control your thoughts you cannot control your deeds. You must control all your emotions - negative and positive. If you regulate your mind properly, it can lift you to heights of distinguished achievements, but if you permit it to run rampant, it can dash you to pieces on the rocks of failure. One of the major influences over your thinking process is having a definite major purpose in life, then activated by a driving motive, for this is the starting point of all worthwhile achievement. And the motive must be so strong that it will force you to bring into submission all your thoughts and efforts which will result in control over all physical habits. Once your purpose and motive become an obsession, physical actions are automatically under control. The greatest motive is love for God and the greatest purpose is to please Him.

Muzzleloaders' shoot scheduled for Sunday

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The Comanche Trail Muzzleloaders Club has planned a benefit shoot for the Coahoma Church of Christ youth group and the youth of Coahoma. It will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The event will take place in the club's rifle range located on 11th Place extension east of Cameo Mobile Homes and the Big Spring Independent School District's bus barn.

Pro Rodeo clown Quail Dobbs has agreed to appear and help with the event's entertainment, and the club's members have planned a full-dress outing in early-1800s period clothing.

"We will have a refreshment stand operating," said club president Bob Lieb, "and some of the ladies from the church will be making sandwiches and cookies for sale out there, so there'll be things for the kids — and adults — to snack on."

The event offers both archers and black powder enthusiasts a chance to compete for prizes.

Entry fees are $3 for bow and $5 for muzzleloader events.

The Big Spring Steers sophomore and junior varsity basketball teams played the San Angelo Central High School sophomores and junior varsity squads Tuesday.

The Steer sops were defeated 76-34, according to coach James Collinsworth. Steer high scorers were Roy Lang and Chris Minter, each with 10 points.

"This is a group that hasn't played a whole lot of basketball," he said, "except those two (leading scorers).

"They're very inexperienced, but they are improving."

The junior varsity also fell to San Angelo Central, 74-57. Joe Downey led the Steers with 22 points, followed by Chris Cole who scored 18 and Brandon Burnett with eight.

The defeat brings the team's two-game winning streak to a halt and lowers the Steers' season record to 3-3.

"This group is beginning to make things happen," Collinsworth said, "playing better defense and beginning to cut down the scoring."

"What's killing us is the turnovers we're making," he said.

*****

Mark your calendars in advance, too, for the shooting match the Comanche Trail Muzzleloaders' Club will put on in March to benefit Coahoma girls softball.

Preliminary plans for that event include a barbecue cookout at the site by Pat Porter of Big Spring.

Competition will include a marksmanship match in which participants will shoot against sportsmen who prefer modern-day firearms, according to club president Bob Lieb, and there are plans to bring a full-dress 1800s cavalry unit down from Lubbock.

"We're going to really put on a good show," Lieb said. "Last year we had about 200 people, and this year we're expecting between 400 and 500."

He said competitors from as far away as Sonora, Lubbock and Abilene have been invited to participate in the shooting matches.

Two Rangers now free agents

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Texas Rangers will not offer 1988 contracts to catcher Darrell Porter, a 16-year league veteran, and right-handed pitcher Greg Harris, team officials say.

As a result, both Harris and Porter will become free agents as of Sunday, team General Manager Tom Grieve said Wednesday. All players on major league rosters must be offered 1988 contracts by Dec. 20, or they automatically become free agents.

In addition, Grieve said pitcher Mike Loynd has been assigned to Oklahoma City of the American Association, and pitchers Kevin Brown and Bob Malloy have been assigned to the Texas League's Tulsa.

With the five moves, the American League's Rangers now have 33 players on their major league roster.

Harris was 5-10 with 4.86 earned run average in 42 games, including 19 starts, for Texas in 1987, his third season with the club. Acquired from San Diego prior to the 1985 season, his career major-league record is 27-35 in five plus seasons.

Porter batted .238 with seven homers and 21 RBI in 85 games for the Rangers in 1987. Grieve said Porter has been invited to the Rangers' major league spring training camp as a non-roster free agent, but Porter is undecided about his future at this time.

The 16-year major league veteran has a career batting average of .247 with 188 homers and 826 RBI in 1,782 games.

State championship

Lorena one win away from coveted gridiron title

By MICKEY HUMPHREY

Waco Tribune-Herald
LORENA (AP) — Football and baseball have very little in common, but Lorena's success in the two sports last year laid the groundwork for a Class 2A state football championship that is only one victory away from becoming a reality.

Lorena beat New Deal, 27-16, last week in the semifinals at Wichita Falls and plays Refugio this weekend in Austin for the state crown, in an attempt to put the wraps on the best football season in school history.

A year ago, Lorena broke a 40-year drought by advancing to the area playoffs before losing to Eastland. In the spring, the Leopards made it to the quarterfinals in baseball before losing to eventual state champion China Spring.

Despite being hit hard by graduation, the Leopards have posted a 13-1-1 record this season, relying heavily on last year's playoff experiences.

"We're not sitting around dumbfounded by what's happening around here," said Eric Clark, who starts at cornerback on the football team and likely will play shortstop on the baseball team.

"We know what to expect. Pressure is pressure, but we've got a strong feel of what to expect from week to week. There's always going to be that nervousness, but we're also confident."

Lorena hadn't made it to the state football playoffs since the mid-1940s, until winning the 15-2A title last year.

"Last year has had a direct relation to what's been accomplished this year," said Lorena coach John Crawford. "It's been a big help. You can sense a little more confidence in the players this year. They're not awestruck by the situation. It's easier to settle down and play."

That almost wasn't the case earlier this month against Pilot Point, in the quarterfinals. Pilot Point has a program most coaches dream of. The Bearcats had made the playoffs nine consecutive years.

The Leopards read all week long about Pilot Point's tradition.

"That was the most nervous I've ever been before any game I've ever played," said running back Derek Clark, who will play third base and pitcher on the baseball team. "For me, I'm always nervous before any game, but it just seemed like I couldn't get my feet on the ground."

Punter Tommy Motyka, also an all-state first baseman, added, "I was terrified."

Pilot Point took advantage of that tenseness to take an 11-0 halftime lead. The Leopards rallied in the second half for a 15-11 victory.

"One thing we've learned being in the football or baseball playoffs the last two years is that town names can't make a tackle or hit a baseball," said free safety Kyle Allred, also a first baseman on the baseball team.

"We never had played a team like Pilot Point, which has so much tradition. We finally realized they're not any different from playing Mart or Eastland. They're tough, but we can play with them."

Many of the players credit Crawford's low-key attitude and grueling two-a-day practices for the Leopards' success.

"Coach Crawford is serious, but he also lets us have fun," Motyka said. "A lot of people didn't expect us to get this far this season."

Nuggets blast Rockets, 132-113

By The Associated Press

The "Twin Towers" are no more. And neither was the Houston Rockets' offense against the Denver Nuggets.

Michael Adams led a balanced Denver attack Wednesday night as the Nuggets blasted Houston 132-113.

"It could have been worse," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch admitted.

With Ralph Sampson gone, the other half of the "Twin Towers," Akeem Olajuwon, missed his first six shots and scored only 11 points. He often played forward with newcomer Joe Barry Carroll at center.

"We weren't expecting great things tonight with the new players in there," Fitch said.

In other NBA games, it was Boston 121, Utah 111; Dallas 109, New Jersey 105 in overtime, and Philadelphia 114, San Antonio 102.

The Rockets traded Sampson to Golden State last weekend for Carroll and Sleepy Floyd, who started his 265th consecutive NBA game and scored 14 points before fouling out. Carroll scored just nine points.

"I knew he had a long streak going and it was my decision to start him," Fitch said of Floyd. "I figured he'd play two or three minutes and then get him out. But we were playing well I kept him in a little longer than I had anticipated."

"Sleepy will be better once he gets to know the rest of the guys he's playing with," Fitch said.

"The (starting) streak means a lot to me," Floyd said. "Hopefully we could get a win tomorrow night against the Clippers (at Los Angeles) and then go to practice on an upbeat note. We were limited tonight because I didn't know the players. It seemed like Denver was always two steps ahead of us."

Fitch said Carroll was out of shape and "we're going to work on that."

"I was a little disoriented tonight," Carroll said. "A lot has happened in a few days. If you've never been in a trade, you don't know what it's like ... I'm looking forward to getting acclimated to my new team ... It was just time that I left California."

Adams scored 24 points to lead five Denver players score with 20 or more points. Jay Vincent and Fat Lever each had 21, and Alex English and Blair Rasmussen had 20 apiece. World B. Free led Houston with 15 points.

The Nuggets took the lead for good by outscoring Houston 20-3 in the middle of the second quarter.

Celtics 121, Jazz 111
Larry Bird scored 38 points and teamed with Robert Parish in a third-quarter surge as the Celtics continued their Boston Garden streak against Utah.

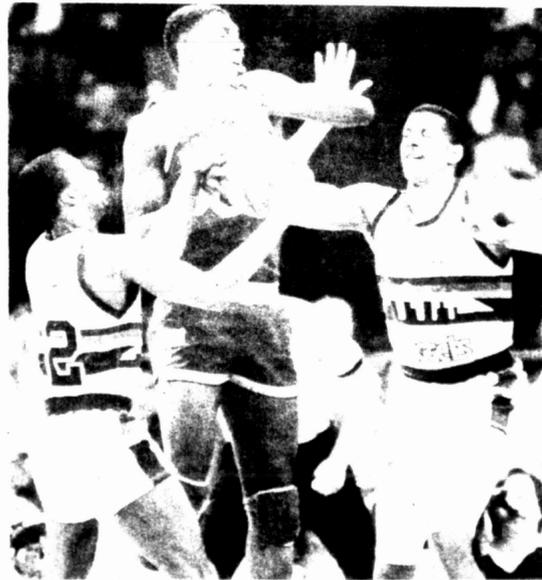

The Celtics, who had lost their last two games at the Garden, are 18-0 at home against the Jazz in 14 seasons. Boston hasn't lost three straight home games since the 1978-79 season.

Tied 73-73 with 7:32 left in the third quarter, Parish's jumper began a 21-12 run that gave the Celtics a 94-85 lead going into the final period. Boston's lead ranged from seven to 18 points the rest of the way.

Utah was led by Karl Malone with 31.

76ers 114, Spurs 102
Charles Barkley scored 32 points and grabbed 14 rebounds as the Philadelphia 76ers defeated San Antonio. David Wingate, in his second season in the NBA, added a career-high 28 points for the winners.

Philadelphia opened up a 51-27 lead with 4:29 left in the second quarter and the Spurs could get no closer than 10 points the rest of the way.

Leon Wood had paced San Antonio with 24 points and Walter Berry had 23.

Mavericks 109, Nets 105 OT
Derek Harper's 3-point goal with 29 seconds to play in overtime gave Dallas its victory over the struggling New Jersey Nets. Harper, who had seven of his 27 points in the overtime, hit a 25-foot jumper to give Dallas a 106-105 lead.

The Nets, who have lost 12 of their last 13 games and are 3-16 overall, missed one shot and had another blocked before Sam Perkins converted a three-point play to end the scoring.

Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 31 points. New Jersey's Mike Gminski scored 11 of his 24 points in the fourth period.

Zurbriggen, the defending World Cup champion was a heavy favorite to capture at least three gold medals in the Olympics.

Brown exits Tulane for North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina football fans are hungry for a winner, but new coach Mack Brown says they may have to wait for the feast.

Brown went to Tulane three years ago to rescue a football program on the decline. This season, he earned a 6-5 record and a bowl bid. He said that transition wasn't easy, and that Tulane supporters should be patient.

"You can ... go in and try and get a good team immediately and a quick fix win-at-all-cost attitude and we were not going to do that at Tulane," Brown said Wednesday at a news conference marking his arrival in Chapel Hill.

"We took measures to build a program instead of trying to build a team," Brown said. "People have to bear with us. It's going to take all the constituency pulling as one to make the University of North Carolina something that we all can be proud of in our football program. And I'm going to need help from everybody in this state."

Brown, 36, succeeds Dick Crum, who resigned under pressure on Nov. 30. Crum left Chapel Hill as the Tar Heels' winningest coach with a record of 72-41-3. But he had a 5-6 mark this year, when North Carolina won only one of five home games. Crum came under increasing pressure because of a conservative offense and a failure in the past four seasons to win the key games.

Brown comes to Chapel Hill with a 17-27 mark in four years as a head coach and the task of reversing the fortunes of a team which in the early part of the decade was considered a challenger for a national championship.

Balanced Arizona romps

By The Associated Press
It takes good balance to stay near the top of the poll and Arizona has it.

The second-ranked Wildcats had four starters score in double figures Wednesday night as they beat visiting Arkansas-Little Rock 77-53 to remain undefeated after eight games.

Steve Kerr and Tom Tolbert each had 15 points, Sean Elliott added 14 and Anthony Cook had 10 for Arizona, which shot 66 percent for the game, 23 of 35, including a 6-of-7 performance from 3-point range. Kerr made all but one of those.

Kerr made five of six 3s and reserve Ken Lofton made his only attempt from long range while the Trojans were a woeful 1-of-13 on 3-pointers.

Arizona led 28-19 at halftime and the Trojans got within 30-25 before the Wildcats went on an 8-0 run to put the game away.

Bell led the Trojans with 13 points, one more than Juric Brown. No. 11 Florida 102, Ohio State 69.

Florida pulled away early for the easy home victory as Vernon Maxwell scored 25 points and Joe Lawrence added 20. The Gators, 6-1, used a 16-2 run to take a 34-15 lead and it wasn't close after that.

Maxwell made 11 of 17 from the field and Lawrence was five of six, including all four of his 3-point attempts as Florida, which led 50-33 at halftime, made seven of 10 long-range jumpers.

Jay Burson scored 20 points and Curtis Wilson 18 for Ohio State, 4-1, which was outbounded 51-33.

No. 16 Missouri 105, Virginia Tech 96.

Derrick Chievous had quite a night as Missouri prevailed in the game that was postponed one night because of the heavy snow in the Midwest.

Chievous, the Tigers' all-time leading scorer, had a career-high 42 points and grabbed 12 rebounds as Virginia Tech saw a five-game winning streak snapped.

Byron Irvin finished with 21 points for Missouri, while Wally Lancaster led Virginia Tech with 26.

No. 18 Georgetown 89, Md.-Balt. County 59.

Georgetown grabbed 20 offensive rebounds as it dominated the smaller Retrievers inside.

The Hoyas led 37-27 at halftime but with Mark Tillman scoring 11 of his 15 points in the second half they pulled away for the easy victory to improve to 5-1.

Other Games

Louisville won for the first time in three games as it beat Cleveland State 93-79. Herbert Crook scored 24 points for the Cardinals, while Pervis Ellison added 22 and freshman LaBradford Smith had 21.

DePaul improved to 5-1 as it beat Weber State 88-65 behind the 25 points of Kevin Edwards.

Steve Pittman scored 24 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as Dayton beat Rollins 106-74.

Texas 90, SW Louisiana 89.

Texas Coach Bob Weltlich says the Longhorns started to celebrate their victory over Southwestern Louisiana too early.

The Longhorns had to go overtime to take a 90-89 victory in the only college basketball game involving a Southwest Conference team.

Travis Mays (14) of the University of Texas goes over Southwestern Louisiana's Kevin Brooks for two points on a fast break in the first half of Wednesday night action. Brooks was called with a foul on the play. Texas won the game 90-89.

Earl Watkins, who finished with 22, canned a jumper from the right side with two seconds left in regulation to force the overtime with the score tied at 78.

The Longhorns finally won when Junior forward Alvin Heggis hit a short jumper with two seconds left in overtime.

The Ragin' Cajuns, 4-2, had taken an 89-88 lead with 49 seconds left in overtime on a 25-foot 3-pointer by reserve Gregg Falcon.

After a Texas timeout with 16 seconds remaining, the Longhorns moved the ball around the perimeter until Rick Fluckey found Heggis moving along the left side of the lane for the jumper.

UTEP hoopster back after suspension

EL PASO (AP) — Texas-El Paso's leading scorer from last season is expected to end a semester-long suspension tonight when the Miners host Lamar University.

Chris Sande was suspended from the team for the first semester because of his involvement in a bar fight Sept. 12. Police said Sande hit two women after one threw a bottle at him because he persistently asked them to dance. He missed the first eight games, all of which were non-conference.

Coach Don Haskins decided to reinstate Sande after reviewing his academic and extra-curricular performance.

"I might put him in the starting lineup, but to be truthful, I haven't given it much thought," Haskins said Tuesday. "I probably won't decide who starts until 15 minutes before the game, just like I always do."

Sande and Jeep Jackson both led the team last season in scoring, with an average of 12.9 points a game. Sande pulled down an average of 4.9 rebounds.

Sande has been allowed to practice this semester, but has not participated in any games. The 6-2 Miners play their first conference game Jan. 8 against Wyoming.

Although Sande might not start tonight, he probably will earn plenty of playing time. The Miners did not receive any scoring from the bench in Saturday's 58-57 loss at New Mexico State.

"Chris will help a lot, especially with interior defense and rebounding," center Antonio Davis said. "Defensively, he's quick and mobile. He can get down and he's bringing a lot of experience."
