Director: People a priority at center

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer David Wiley debuted as Scenic Mountain Medical Center's administrator today, a few days later than originally planned. The recent ice storms experienced in Texas left him stranded at Dallas/Fort Worth Airport for two days

Delayed start notwithstanding, Wiley said he has been busy recently in establishing what he described as the chief priority of his tenure — increasing both the quality and volume of health care provided by the hospital.

"My number one goal is to build the hospital and its reputation to what it used to be," Wiley said. "When I was at Baylor University (as an undergraduate student), I had heard of Malone and Hogan Hospital.

"We are going to re-emphasize serving patients here," he added. 'We're in a people business."

Wiley comes to Big Spring from Houston, Miss., where he was administrator of the hospital for 18 months. Before that he worked at hospitals in Birmingham, Ala. and Calhoun City, Miss. He also has been a financial controller for Republic Health Care of Dallas, he He received his bachelor's degree in hospital administration from the University of Alabama. He later received master's degrees in both finance and hospital administration from the university, he added.

"The bottom line for me is finance and patient care," he said. "I love hospitals. It's my life. And this is a beautiful hospital and a great opportunity.

Rumors concerning the hospital's — and parent company National Health Care - financial status were among issues he addressed during the news conference.

Wiley said there are no plans to lay off employees, and added that the hospital is "solvent. A condition of my coming here here was that the hospital would not be sold during my tenure," he said.

Concerning National Health Care's financial difficulties, Wiley said the company had recently gone to a de-centralized management program and had cut corporate overhead - steps that should improve its financial picture, he predicted.

Immediate goals for the new administrator include increasing Scenic Mountain's physician base. He revealed he is interviewing an OB/GYN specialist today and will be recruiting additional doctors in the near future.

"An immediate goal is solving problems concerning patients," he said. "Anyone who has had a proand Harris was present and thus blem in the past with this hospital,

observances planned for King's birthday

tion in the Midland Middle School District, was the keynote speaker at the 2 p.m. VA program, according to Conrad Alexander, VA director.

For most of Big Spring and Howard County, however, there will be few observances of King's birthday, as most agencies plan to be open for business Monday.

The U.S. Post Office will have reduced operations in observance of the holiday, according to Beverly Tubb of the post office.

There will be no home deliveries of the mail Monday, and the main window at the post office will be closed. Special and express mail deliveries will be made, however, and box holders will be able to receive their mail, Tubb

Local banks will be closed for the holiday Monday, but few other agencies will observe King's birthday.

City and county offices will be open for business, as well as administrative and business offices for Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan school districts, according to office spokeswomen.

Students at the three districts will be out of school Monday, but that is because of teacher in-service that day, school spokeswomen said.

extra or co-curricular activities, no action will be taken against him; Bowerman said. "If he is involved in such activities, it's up to the department head.'

That philosophy represents a change, he added. Schools used to have the authority to discipline students for infractions committed away from school grounds. Recent legislation has changed this, however, Bowerman said.

"As long as the student is not at school or a school-related activity, he's the responsibility of the parent or law-enforcement agencies," he said.

If the student is at a schoolrelated activity, such as a basketball game, action up to calling lawenforcement officials can be taken by district personnel, he said.

As an example, Bowerman said if a student came to an activity drunk, the school would be obligated to ensure that the student was escorted home - by either parents, police or school officials.

"It would be for his safety and our liability," he said.

School personnel are present at all sponsored activities, and have the authority to call police if unruly fans or students refuse to behave properly, Bowerman added.

The final article in this series will appear in Sunday's Herald, detailing discipline procedures for school bus riders.

Continued from page 1-A analysts suggested figures below $15 billion would be well received by financial markets while anything over $16 billion could have sharp negative implications. The report on the record October deficit, released on Dec. 10, triggered a 47-point drop in the Dow Jones industrial average and helped drive the dollar to its thenlowest levels since the 1940s.

Some narrowing in November had been anticipated. "The trade deficits usually show some improvement, on a seasonal basis, in November and December," said Allen Sinai, chief economist for the Boston Co. Economic Advisers.

It was the smallest monthly trade gap since last April, when the deficit was $13 billion. Despite the dramatic improve

Two B-1Bs assigned to Dyess Air Force Base are already being modified in the $40 million program to protect some sensitive areas on the aircraft and officials hope to have the changes complete within a year. On Sept. 28, a B-1B based at Dyess crashed in Colorado killing three crewmen, while three others parachuted to safety. Although the investigation of the crash is not complete, the Air Force believes it was caused by birds being sucked into the engines of the $280 million aircraft. Technicians from Rockwell International, the prime contractor, already are working on one of the B-1s at Dyess, while another has been flown to Rockwell's Palmdale, Calif., plant for modification, said Lt. #### More Texans died in '87 tornadoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas topped the list in tornado deaths in 1987, accounting for more than half of the nation's total from a single storm that obliterated the small community of Saragosa.

Tornado deaths jumped to 59 in the United States last year, almost quadruple the toll of 1986, but still below the long-term average of 90 fatalities, the National Weather Service reported Thursday

Texas suffered the most from tornadoes last year with 42 fatalities. Boosting that total were 30 deaths in the storm that struck Saragosa in West Texas on May 22. Many of those victims were attending a preschool graduation ceremony at the community center.

Protectionism isn't an answer

To hear Rep. Richard Gephardt tell it, his protectionist amendment to the omnibus trade bill is merely meant to shield American producers against unscrupulous foreign manufacturers while they become more competitive. But the Missouri Democrat and presidential candidate exposed his muddled thinking recently in an interview with television commentator David Forst.

When asked about the relative merits of Japanese and American automobiles, Gephardt conceded that, yes, domestic models are generally inferior to those made in Japan. In the next breath, however, he called for higher tariff walls that would prevent the Japanese from selling so many cars and other products in the United States.

Let's get this straight now. Because American automakers cannot compete with their Japanese counterparts, Congress is duty-bound to protect them, even though doing so will raise the price still further on domestic and foreign cars in this country. Such is the sacrifice American consumers must make to subsidize Detroit's inefficiency.

Little wonder that Gephardt has not risen to front-runner status in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes. It's hard to take seriously a man whose vision of trade consists of raising the drawbridge to foreign goods and thereby removing incentives for domestic producers to regain their competitive

The misnamed "temporary" auto quota is a case in point. After five years of limiting the number of Japanese cars allowed in this country, domestic automakers are still not much better prepared to compete. Indeed, Fort President Donald Petersen not only urges another extension of the quota, he wants the Japanese to slash their auto exports to the United States by another 600,000 units next year.

The plain truth is that protectionism is a narcotic to which domestic manufcturers have become addicted. The solution to America's trade deficit does not lie in shutting our borders and propping up inefficient industries. Rather, it's to be found in the rough and tumble of the free market where producers are obliged to best their competitors, both foreign and Gephardt's failure to grasp that fundamental point speaks volumes about his limitations as a presidential candidate.

"The First Amendment applies to everyone — until today. Now if you are 14 to 18, you are not entitled to express yourself unless the principal agrees with you." - Leslie Edwards, an attorney who represented three plaintiffs who were ruled against by a Supreme Court decision that gave public school officials broad authority to censor student newspapers.

"It just reaffirms what we believe, that this was a part of the curriculum, a laboratory just like a science lab is part of science curriculum." Francis Huss, superintendent of Hazelwood East High School near St. Louis, on the Supreme Court's ruling in favor of the school's decision to censor a student newspaper.

"I don't get on my knees every night, but I pray every day. That's what got me through it, definitely." - Twelve-year-old burn victim Anthony Razzano, three months after doctors said he probably wouldn't survive

"If there is anyone to blame, it is some of us, the Central American governments. There hasn't been the political will to comply. There has always been an excuse." - President Oscar Arias of Costa Rica, winner of the 1987 Nobel Peace Prize, on the failure so far of the regional peace

"The fewest wars have been started by arms races. The overwhelming majority of wars, if not all wars, have been caused by unresolved political issues, and it therefore seems to me imperative that this be addressed.' - Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, saying the United States should not let disarmament dominate Soviet-American relations.

Columnist to make TV debut

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

BURBANK, CALIF. - It doesn't matter how I got here, but here I am about to make my television dramatic debut on CBS's "Designing Women," which will air Monday night, Jan. 18, at 8:30 p.m. The comedy is written by. Arkansas native Linda Bloodworth-Thomason and is directed by David Trainer.

It stars Delta Burke, Dixie Carter, Annie Potts and Jean Smart as four women who run an interior decorating business in Atlanta. Meschach Taylor is their gofer. The show is in its second season after a stormy beginning in which CBS bounced it hither and you and nearly dropped it.

An outery by its fans saved it, however, and it has become a critical success, featuring as one critic put it: "A sense of humor with a wallop of mint

I learned a great deal about television acting Monday. Mainly, I learned I wouldn't want to do this for a living.

First, everybody reads his or her part out of the script-book until his or her head is spinning. Then, you run through each scene for hours upon hours. The next day, the script changes completely, so nothing you did Monday matters anymore. Tuesday, I learned even more. For example: You never walk until you have begun your

 You keep one eye on the person to whom you are speaking and the other on the camera at all times. That is why most television actors and actresses are cross-eyed.

 You make certain you go to the bathroom before the scene begins.

Wednesday, I began to feel a little more comfor-table. I had memorized most of my lines by then. I had learned to sit up straight and not to hang my head down so the camera could get more than a shot

What made me feel best, however, was the realization that all this would be over in just 24

I play Clayton Sugarbaker, half brother to Dixie Carter's Julie Sugarbaker and Delta Burke's Suzanne Sugarbaker.

I've just been released from a mental hospital and I have landed back in Atlanta with my sisters, who aren't certain what to do with me now that I have decided to become the first standup comic majoring in mental hospital humor.

It is Thursday now. Tonight we do it for real in front of a live studio audience. "Make sure your fly's zipped and you'll do fine," one of the stagehands told me. NEXT: Show business is my life.

Reader has concern for today's youth

To the editor:

I come to you in the name of Jesus Christ, our lord and savior not with enticing words of wisdom, but with a heart full of love for our children and teen-agers. Not only these but for all who are controlled by the demonic forces of hell. These spirits are destroying our rs and Dads, please stor and take notice of your child. Find out what is going on in their lives You might be utterly surprised what is taking place in their minds.

Satan is literally destroying our children. He came for this reason to kill, to steal and destroy. It is very evident that he is doing his job

It's time that we, as children of God, stand up and fight the sin that is dominating our city and the United States. If we believe God (and I do) all we have to do is believe what He says and trust Him and walk in His commandments.

Second Chronicles 7:14 says: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land.

If you saw Oprah Winfrey Jan. 6 and heard what this phone porno is doing to young children, and how men and women are using these children in pornography, then surely you can see that we as parents and grandparents must turn to

God. He is our only hope. If we as Christians don't fight for them, they don't have a chance. Look around you at all the teen-age suicides, at the youth who are murderers; this ought not to be. If you are a child of God, surely you can see and feel as I do

I don't have small children in my home, but I do have grandchildren. I want us to be "workers together for Christ's sake." If there are any out there ready to see the mighty works of God and see the healing of the land, let's pull together.

God is looking for people who will trust Him and be obedient to Him. And, some of these things come about only by fasting and prayer. BARBARA JARRELL

Schools are the natural place for aspiring journalists to learn to properly analyze, understand and write such stories. It should be the place where they gain experience in facing realities and writing about them fairly and accurately.

And school is a good place to learn how to be objective and discuss journalistic ethics.

But as we all know, it's hard to understand and appreciate the dilemma of ethics when you are limited to discussing the ramifications of a new Latin class or the next basketball game. Just when I thought good journalistic training

Trains collide, four die

THOMPSONTOWN, Pa. - Investigators recovered data recorders and ordered drug tests for two conductors who survived a headon freight train collision that killed four crew members and scattered charred wreckage

"It's a frustrating, frustrating tragedy," Federal Railroad Administrator John H. Riley said after visiting the site of Thursday's crash in south-central Pennysylvania, about 40 miles northwest of Harrisburg.

According to officials, two eastbound Conrail locomotives pulling 105 coal cars apparently ran a stop signal and rammed into an oncoming train of three locomotives and 61 cars carrying truck trailers containing mixed

Bork resigns to crusad

WASHINGTON - The bitter debate surrounding Robert H. Bork's rejected nomination for the Supreme Court is about to ignite again, as he takes off his judicial robe to free himself of any restraints against attacking his

The White House announced Thursday that President Reagan had reluctantly accepted Bork's decision to step down from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia after six years, effective Feb. 5.

Bork said that as a sitting judge, he could not respond to what had become "an essentially unanswered campaign of misinformation and political slogans" about his nomination

"If, as a judge, I cannot speak out against this attempt to alter the traditional nature of the courts, I think it important to place myself where I can," he said in a letter to Reagan.

He said "constraints of propriety and seemliness limit the topics a federal judge may address and the public positions he may advocate." He said he wanted to "to speak, write and teach about law and other issues of public policy more extensively and more freely than is possible in my present position."

WASHINGTON - Farmers, students, veterans and small business owners who are behind in their payments on government loans are among the targets of an aggressive collection effort announced by the Reagan

Attorney General Edwin Meese III and Budget Director James C. Miller III announced plans Thursday for stronger efforts to collect an estimated $82 billion in outstanding loans and taxes. The plans include tapping paychecks, getting payments through credit cards and even seizing cars, the two said.

She said she tried to conceal her identity under interrogation to protect Kim Jong II, who she called 'dear leader," and that she took a personal oath of loyalty to him.

Spain asks withdrawal

MADRID, Spain - The United States and Spain announced today that the United States accepted Spain's demand that it withdraw 72 U.S. F-16 fighter-bombers by 1992.

Both countries announced an agreement in principle for a new defense accord in a joint statement released simultaneously in Madrid and Washington.

It said the term of the new defense agreement will be eight years with provision for extension for successive one-year periods. The agreement replaces a five-year accord due to expire May 14.

A statement said that in compliance with the sovereign decision of Spain, the United States will withdraw from Spain the 401st Tactical Fighter Wing of 72 U.S. F-16 fighterbombers within three years of the effective date of the new agreement.

Rebel leader escapes

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina - A rebel leader who had vowed to resist being returned to military confinement escaped from his home early today, the government news agen-

Lt. Col. Aldo Rico, leader of a revolt last April at an army base in Buenos Aires, apparently fled at about 4 a.m. with a group of sympathizers, Telam reported.

Military Judge Hugo Beltramino had planned to go to the country club today with an order for Rico's return to jail.

Two army officials who arrived at Los Fresnos country club at about 8 a.m. found no sign of Rico and left 10 minutes later, Telam said. Rico had been under house arrest at the club since Dec. 30, pending trial on insubor-

A communique reportedly signed overnight by Rico had warned he would not be taken into custody "until a minimum of justice is guaranteed." He said his case jeopardizes the stability of the system, internal peace and national defense.

Envoy sent to Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand - The United States today sent a diplomat and three medical experts to Vietnam to discuss ways to help its one-time enemy with its disabled veterans.

Another group, 12 American newspaper executives and journalists, also left today for Vietnam and is one of the largest groups of U.S.-based media representatives to visit since since the end of the war.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Ross Petzing said the four-member team, the third such delegation to Vietnam, will meet with "counterparts in Hanoi to continue discussions regarding Vietnamese humanitarian concerns.

FRANKLIN LIVED THE LIFE HE PRESCRIBED FOR EACH OF US

Few people throughout history have managed to achieve worldwide fame in so many ways as did Benjamin Franklin, whose birthday occurs this week. He was renowned as a statesman of international stature. He verified the existence of electricity by flying a kite in a thunderstorm. Perhaps most of all, he left us his recipe for a better life, which is as valid today as ever. It included thrift, temperance, sensible hours and making the best use of the time of which our lives are made. We should all follow his advice, but unfortunately many of us don't; until we try to buy back our health and then find out that it's too late. At your House of Worship, thank God for a man like Benjamin Franklin, whose legacy helped to give us our freedom, many of our comforts and conveniences, and the formula for a longer life in which to enjoy them.

NANJING, China (AP) - Christian representatives from nine countries attended the recent dedication here of Amity Press, the first and only plant in China giving priority to printing Bibles and other religious literature.

Employing 140 people, the plant has a capacity to turn out 500,000 Bibles a year.

It is a project of Amity Foundation, a social service organization founded in 1985, and to which Christian groups around the world donated $6 million through the United Bible Societies to purchase plant equipment. During the Chinese "cultural revolution" of 1966-76, possession of a Bible was a crime, but since then the government has been more tolerant of religion. Since 1981, 2.9 million Bibles have been printed in China. "The Bible is an important book for all of humanity," Bishop K.H. Ting, president of the China Christian Council, said at the dedication. "We are most happy that today in China the intellectual world is increasingly giving the Bible the attention it deserves.

NEW YORK (AP) - Evangelist Billy Graham, asked in an interview his opinion of former religious broadcaster Pat Robertson's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, said "I better stay off that. I'm not getting involved in partisan politics

Bratt insists that he's the same man he was when he was a priest - that he's just wearing a different uniform these days. Others who know him say that's true.

"He still has that sense of service and commitment to people,' says the Rev. Robert Crisp, who attended seminary with Bratt and now serves as priest of Holy Spirit. Catholic Church in Duncanville. "The focus of his life has changed, but his desire to be of some help to people is still evident."

But if helping people was the impulse that governed Bratt's life, why did he turn his back on a calling devoted precisely to that end? Why would he leave the peaceful majesty of the church for the sordid"violence of the street? Why did he trade a chalice for a .38-caliber Police Special?

Bratt, 36, settles into one of the cramped rooms where Southwest Division detectives conduct interrogations. It is shortly after sunrise. He has just finished an eight-hour shift in a patrol car, and he looks dead tired — tired of the endless calls and tired of the questions he's been asked dozens if not hundreds of times since he

He wearily rubs his eyes and tries again. "I felt there were signs that God was leading me away from the priesthood," he says. "I don't want to say that I was 'called' to be a police officer, but without some help from God, I don't think I would have made it. There are things out there every night that could trip you up. I feel he is helping rather than hinder-

Ron Bratt is a cop. He used to be a priest. It's as simple as that. It's as complicated as that.

If there is such a thing as a fast track for entering the priesthood Ron Bratt was on it from the

He was reared in a religious Roman Catholic family that was proud to have its eldest son become a priest. He attended parochial school in Dallas and was an altar boy who took a sharp interest in church ritual. Early on, he developed a strong and unshakable faith in God.

By the time he graduated from high school, Bratt had decided to become a priest. "I thought, 'This could be worthwhile work," " he recalls. "It is important work. It changes people's lives. You can't come home and say, 'I'm responsible for so much production today.' But you can help make people happy.

Despite his spiritual convictions, he didn't fit the stereotypical image of the earnest young priest. "He wasn't the type who walked around with his hands clasped together in front of him," says his father, Roland Bratt.

Ron Bratt had been introduced to firearms as a youth. In high school, he was active in various sports. While attending seminary on the University of Dallas campus, he became a devotee of the martial arts. And image aside, Bratte himself had doubts serious doubts - about his suitability for a job that requires applicants to take vows of obedience and celibacy.

"I thought, 'God, do I want to do this for the rest of my life?" " he says. "I don't think any sane man takes this question anything but very seriously. I mean, it's a sacrifice. You have to give up your family, your friends and your lifestyle to do a job that is very, very demanding.

Wrinkle Cream Great Success

CROWDS ARE COMING INTO DEPARTMENT STORES across the country for the exciting wrinkle cream, EB5, developed

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think there's more interest today in the occult than there used to be? Why do people get interested in this? For a while I thought interest in occult things was dying down, but in the last month I've discovered several of my friends have become fascinated with things like astrology, reincarnation and speaking with dead spirits. Do you think this is just a passing

DEAR T.B.: No, I'm afraid it doesn't seem to be just a passing fad. Although the emphasis may have changed in recent years, there is still a growing interest in many aspects of the occult in our society (and in many other societies as well, particularly in Europe).

There are probably several reasons why interest in the occult is on the rise. For one thing, some famous people (like certain movie stars) have become fascinated with aspects of the occult, and have even written highly-publicized books about their alleged experiences. But a more basic reason is that many people today are searching for spiritual truth, because they have an empty place in their hearts — a place only God can fill. Instead of turning to God for the answers they need, however, they seek answers in substitutes - including the occult.

Whatever the reasons, the most important thing to say is that only God can satisfy the deepest yearnings of our hearts. Only Christ can take away our sins, and only He can give us lasting joy and meaning in life. Jesus declared, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6). Have you turned your own life over to Christ? If not, make your commitment to Him today. Then pray for your friends, that they will not be led astray into occult ideas that are a dead-end road, but

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm in a drug rehabilitation program for the third time. The other two times I stayed off drugs less than a month, and secretly I fear it will be the same this time around. I don't think there is any answer to my problems. I guess it's too late. Please warn young people about drugs. I wish someone had been honest with me. -R.T.E.

DEAR R.T.E.: The same day I received your letter I received another letter from someone about your age. This person had also been involved with drugs very deeply. She wrote how she had given up all hope of ever being free of them — in spite of the fact she knew they were ruining her life. But now she's completely free of them, and is working in a drug rehabilitation center to help others as well.

What made the difference? The difference came when she admitted her helplessness and turned to Christ. She didn't have a religious background, but when she discovered that God loved her and wanted her to be His child forever, it made all te difference. No, she admited, it had not been an easy road. But with Christ in her heart she had hope, and Christ also gave her the courage to face up to the problems she was trying to bury with drugs. Christ also led her to other Christians (including some who had had a similar background) who loved her and encouraged her. God's Word, the Bible, became her constant companion also, assuring her of God's unchanging

I don't claim that all your problems will vanish the moment you accept Christ. But with Him you can face the future with hope, and He will help you. The Bible promises, "No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it" (1 Corinthians

Woman's ex still haunts parents' house

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I divorced "Marvin" with hard feelings and I do not wish ever to see him again. I recently married a wonderful man who my parents agree is a "real nice guy." However, Marvin still visits my parents, who welcome him with open arms. I can't understand this, as they know how lousy he treated me. When my husband and I are at my parents' home, Marvin drops in children "find" their biological knowing perfectly well we are there because our car is out in

I finally told my parents it wasn't my place to tell them who they could have in their home, but if I had to worry about bumping into Marvin, I just wouldn't visit them anymore. They just said they couldn't help it if he dropped in. Well, I think they could help it if they wanted to. Marvin knows I am very uncomfortable, but he insists on coming in when I'm there. Is there a solution?

DEAR TORN: Yes. You could ask your parents respectfully but firmly — to instruct Marvin not to drop in when he sees your car out in front. If, as you say, your parents know how "lousy" he treated you, yet they welcome him with open arms, you have the right to ask them why. And I suggest you

Teaching pets rules of home

From BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS

A Meredith Magazine

Most pets want to please their owners. But it's up to owners to teach them the rules of the house. Try these ideas from Better Homes and Gardens magazine to make house pets behave.

Cats that scratch on the furniture need scratching posts. If a cat uses a scratching post made from a rug or other material, it may find a similar material on the couch or carpet. Consider getting a scratching post made of cork. Introduce the cat to its new post the moment it attacks the furniture. Praise the pet each time it returns to the post for a luxuriating scratch.

To keep a dog that barks when left by itself quiet, praise it before leaving home and again upon returning. The dog will associate comings and goings with extra attention and remain content and quiet while alone.

Water pistols can let a pet know who's boss. A quick, harmless squirt can get the message across when a reprimand is needed. Use a water gun only for selective situations. Don't squirt the dog for jumping on the bed, roughhousing with kids and other miseeds, or the animal may think of the squirt as something annoying and not as a punishment for a specific bad habit. Spray the dog only when it jumps on the bed, it will learn quickly that if it jumps on the bed, it's going to get wet as Chaps' David Martin sank a basket at the buzzer.

Howard quickly closed the gap by one point to start the second half as Tyrone Greer and Tony Smith sank two baskets to cut Midland's lead to 36-35. With 14:08 to go in the action,

Midland began to slowly pull away; building its lead to six points. Again the Hawks cut the margin by two, trailing 51-49. Greer managed to tie the game at 58-58 as he connected on a basket as Howard's chances of upsetting the Chaps were beginning to be realistic. Smith was fouled by Charles McCovery and sank both to give the home team the advantage it seeked.

Tied at 60, five turnovers were committed by both teams as neither could find the handle on the roundball. It also ticked off two minutes, making the crowd restless for another basket. Pettigrew made one of a two foul shots to again give the Hawks the lead. It was short-lived because Herman Henry of Midland scored four unanswered baskets, a lead the Chaps would never relinquish. as Howard's last gasp for air was finally exhausted.

Tony Smith put up a threepointer with 56 seconds to go, cutting the gap 72-69. The final score of this well-fought battle came up short for the home team as they lost to a very talented Midland squad 76-71.

'We needed to execute better in order to win, we didn't so Midland drove home with the win, coach Kassin said."
