Cookie time has arrived

Herald staff report It's cookie time in the Big Spring area - Girl Scout cookies, that is.

Area Girl Scouts have been participating in their annual cookie sale since Jan. 18. Residents have until Sunday to purchase cookies from neighborhood scouts. Proceeds from the sale of Girl Scout cookies support a wide variety of scout activities, including scholarships and summer camp, according to Nadene Handley, Girl Scout publicity director. The West Texas Girl Scout Council is offering seven different varieties of cookies, which will be delivered March 4-19. Boxes sell for $2 each. Cookie sales first started in 1920 with Girl Scouts walking through their neighborhoods carrying paper bags full of homemade cookies. Now, more than 130 million cookies are sold each year. The area council's goal is to sell 15,000 boxes, of which all proceeds will remain in the area within the council's jurisdiction.

Stenholm assumes Contra aid role

Texas congressional delegation has broken ranks over the impending vote on continued funding for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Rep. Charles Stenholm, a West Texas Democrat, joined a dozen congressional colleagues from both parties Wednesday in support of the administration's plan to funnel $36.3 million to the Contras during the next four months.

Under Reagan's plan, 10 percent of the funds would go to buy small arms and surface-to-air missiles. These "lethal" funds would be kept in an escrow account until March 31 pending the outcome of a current round of peace talks. Stenholm said he will be one of five House sponsors of the administration plan.

'We vote and the aid is escrowed. And we all hope we don't use one dime of the $3.6 million in military aide," he said.

The Stamford Democrat, and Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, were among 13 congressmen who listened to a former Nicaraguan army major and other witnesses tell of the abuses by the Sandinista government

"We still have the capacity to contain Soviet expansionism in Nicaragua, through the freedom fighting Contras," DeLay said, echoing concerns voiced by other panelists.

'But, if we fail the Contras now, only direct United States military intervention will prevent the communist consolidation of Nicaragua.' Maj. Roger Miranda, a Sandinista defector who late last year revealed plans for a massive Nicaraguan military buildup, was brought to Capitol Hill to meet with the members of Congress and persuade them to continue Contra aid. "I know the way they (the Sandinistas) think," Miranda told the informal hearing set up by Contra supporters in the House. "Unless pressure is put on them they will never re-establish democracy in Nicaragua.'

Stenholm left the hearing early after being summoned to the White House along with other Democrats to work out the final strategy for passage of the package, which is slated for a House vote Feb. 3. He said a key point will be that the president and his secretary of state should control the decision on releasing the funds from the escrow account if they judge the peace process has broken down

Meanwhile, Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio, was among several Hispanic congressmen preparing a letter to be sent to President Reagan expressing their firm opposition to his plan to refinance the rebels. "As Hispanic members of Congress, we are opposed to your request for further U.S. aid to the Nicaraguan Contras," wrote the congressmen. "The Arias peace plan specifically prohibits all assistance to the Contras, even 'humanitarian aid,' except for resettlement or relocation

Student failures are comparable to 1985 figures

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

A total of 6,930 grades were issued in the third six weeks for the 1,155 students of Big Spring High School, according to counselor Lynn Calvert. Of those grades, 583 were designated failures — but that number included students who failed more than one course, students given an incomplete or students receiving no grade

'What that figure includes is students who work half a day and other students in programs who receive no grade," Calvert said. "In terms of actual failing grades, we had 446 students who failed."

Under the terms of the no-pass no-play feature of House Bill 72, that means those students are ineligible for any extracurricular activity for six weeks. But the failure rate, Calvert said, does not reflect the actual number of students who will have to repeat courses or who lose credit for courses.

"That (583) number includes youngsters who were failed because of absences;" she said. "I would estimate, roughly, that it's 40 percent freshmen. ders fail, b while to realize that we're serious about this

"This cycle, or six weeks period, is also a letdown period because of the Christmas holidays, and this six weeks has been a real bad flu season, too, so we have had many absences," Calvert said. "This is the time of year the kids think they can relax, because they see that they've had two 80's, too.' She said the loss of credit would occur only if a student failed an entire semester. The loss of eligibility is determined by six weeks or cycle grades, and lasts only through the following six weeks. The percentage of failing grades this six weeks, Calvert said, is approximately 12 percent. This figure compares with a failure rate in 1984-85 of 896 failing grades against a total of 6,823 grades given, or 13 percent, she said.

"I don't think it (no-pass, no-play) has had more than a one percent impact on the total number of failing grades since it began." Calvert said.

She said most Big Spring coaches keep an eye on their athletes' grades and insist on a core curriculum of courses for their collegiate prospects.

'Quinn Eudy worked with me really well on that," she said. "He always knew what his athletes' grades were, and he made sure the ones who the colleges would be looking at were taking the courses they would need and were passing.

"They've all been successful," she said. "My coaches have all come down to check on their kids, and (Ricky) Mitchell has come down to check on his band members. He said the number he lost from band this cycle was down.

She said colleges will no longer accept prospective athletes who were not academically prepared for collegiate work, and the Big Spring coaches are aware of that. So, Calvert said, the coaches help prepare their athletes by insisting on certain courses and passing grades for prospective collegians.

"But it's important to explain that these grades found a practical form of securing we're talking about here are cycle grades, or six revenue for his facility - turning cotton weeks grades," Calvert said. "Failing a six weeks does not mean failing a course.

Hal Boyd, Big Spring emergency management coordinator, estimated damage to be about $200,000 to Roundup Tank Co., located in the industrial park at the former Howard County airport. The company's building caught fire about 11 a.m. today. Strong winds were hampering firefighter efforts to extinguish the blaze, Fire Chief Carl Dorton said at the scene. Several empty 55-gallon drums outside the building exploded, he added. The drums had been used for resin storage.

Company officials were able to evacuate employees from the building and call the fire department before telephone lines were disabled by the fire, he said. Howard County Volunteer Fire Departments from Lomax, Jonesboro and Sand Springs were assisting Big Spring firefighters and brought a water tanker to the scene. A second four-man city crew also was called to assist.

Firefighters at noon were working to knock out hot spots, Dorton said - as thick smoke continued to billow from the metal facility.

The fire apparently started when a spark ignited vapors in the building where an employee was working on a tank, Boyd said. The building housed styrene resins used to make Fiberglas oilfield storage

The center has received donations and pledges equalling about 10 bales of cotton. This translates to about $4,000, although Bristo said final figures for the campaign would not be available until mid-February.

The "Cotton for Kids" program was part of an overall drive to raise the more than $309,000 budgeted for the center this year. Center personnel hope to raise between 15 and 20 percent of that amount through personal donations such as the cotton drive, Bristo said.

HOUSTON (AP) - An attorney who represented the widows of astronauts killed in space tragedies says that as the memory of such disasters fade, the women are forgotten.

While today is the second anniversaray of the space shuttle Challenger disaster, Wednesday marked the 21st anniversary of the 1967 Apollo 1 capsule fire in which three astronauts died.

"Yes, I know how it went then, and I know how it goes now," said Ronald D. Krist of Houston, who represented astronaut widows seeking compensation in both tragedies. "The president attends your husband's

Like the Challenger accident in which all seven crew members were killed, the Apollo 1 fire was shocking not only because of the deaths, but also because the accident erupted after 16 consecutive successful flights of the Mercury and Gemini series. In 1972, Krist won a landmark case and a financial settlement for Betty Grissom, widow of Gus Grissom, just as the case's statute of limitations was expiring in Florida.

"Betty never doubted that she was doing the" right thing. She never wavered," Krist said. 'Up until then, no one - least of all an astronaut's wife — had ever challenged NASA or any aerospace company, and it was not until four years after the fire had killed the astronaut trio that I took the case.'

More than a decade later, Krist won a out-ofcourt financial settlement for another astronaut widow: Cheryl McNair, whose husband, Ronald McNair, died in the Challenger disaster on Jan. 28, 1986.

In each case, Krist went after the company responsible for the accident. In the 1960s it was North American Rockwell, prime contractor of problem-plagued Apollo capsule. In the 1980s was Morton Thiokol Inc., prime contractor of a faulty rocket booster.

Mrs. Grissom's prosecution of the case wasn't well accepted by the other two widows,

"It was only after the successful prosecution of their case that the other two (Martha Chaffee and Patricia White) ultimately accepted a settlement of their claims, when they were compensated as the result of Betty's courage and expense," he said.

Betty pioneered the way, and the wake created made it comfortable for the others to

'Continued U.S. aid to the Contras is a clear violation of the peace plan and works strongly to undermine its progress. We must oppose U.S. policy moves that serve to disrupt that progress."

Leaders of the five Central American nations are in the middle of implementing a regional peace plan authored by Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, which Bustamante and others feel could be damaged by granting more aid. "We ought to respect the leadership in Central America," said Bustamante, leader of the House Hispanic Caucus. "These leaders want to be respected in that area of the world, just like we give respect to the leaders in Europe and Asia."

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, has been the primary supporter in Congress of the Arias peace plan.

The informal committee hearing attended by Stenholm and DeLay and the letter by the Hispanic congressmen are part of the intensifing discussion on the Contra aid issue leading up to next week's votes. The Senate is scheduled to decide the issue Feb. 4.

At least three Texas Democrats whose votes could be pivotal indicated their potential opposition to continued aid last week when they signed a letter sent to Reagan calling for a delay on funding.

"We view any move to advance new U.S. aid to the resistance as extremely risky and a threat to lasting peace in Central America. We urge you not to 'overplay our Firefighters spent about 30 hand' by granting (Nicaraguan) tained in an automobile fire at minutes battling the fire, and used President Ortega an excuse to letter.

Andrews' office has been bombarded with telephone calls for the past week on the Contra aid issue, predominantly from people opposed to more funding. One reason is that a group calling itself the Coali-tion for Peace and Justice in Central America has been distributing anti-aid leaflets listing Andrews' office telephone numbers and address. A spokeswoman said he will oppose further funding

A Chapman aide said his boss met with Wright and about 30 other congressmen Wednesday afternoon, after which he determined to vote against any package containing lethal aid in any form.

In the letter delivered Tuesday by Kraut, Bangerter said he also was concerned about the children's health and safety.

"The children are the real victims of this standoff and for their sake this incident should be ended immediately," he said, promising to use his influence to see that the children remained with their mothers.

Singer, 44, whose husband was slain by police nine years ago, and Swapp, said they expected the confrontation to end with the resurrection of John Singer, who will bring about reformation of church and government.

Officials earlier had expressed some optimism because the leaders, who had not communicated with authorities since the day of the bombing, had reconnected their telephone to talk to Kraut and had responded to the governor.

However, Kraut said they remain firm in the belief that only a revelation could end the standoff.

Agency gets Proxmire's Golden Fleece

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency charged with doling out funds to promote minority business was the January recipient of Sen. William Proxmire's notorious Golden Fleece award for financing a now defunct South Texas project.

The Minority Business Development Agency was singled out by the Wisconsin Democrat as having wasted $400,000 in taxpayer money to back the Lower Rio Grande Conference of Mayors, which spent virtually all the money on overhead.

"In May 1986, the (Commerce Department's) inspector general issued a highly critical report of the project and strongly recommended no further funding," said Proxmire, who chairs the Senate Banking Committee.

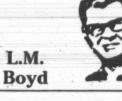

"According to the report, only part of the initial focus of the conference related, even indirectly, to minority business enterprise. Most of the effort and funding went into the overhead costs of setting up the conference and into general community planning."

The conference of mayors was created in August 1984 and, one month later, received the first of two $200,000 non-competitive demonstration projects from the federal agency, with no matching funds

Hector DeLeon, a spokesman for the agency, said the project was funded because the Rio Grande Valley is one of the poorest sections of the United States and needs all the help it can get.

Bradley wins scouting award

Carl V. Bradley of Big Spring was honored Friday with the Silver Beaver Award at the 64th Annual Buffalo Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America reognition banquet.

More than 300 registered Scout leaders from the 18 counties served by the Buffalo Trail Council attended the event at the Holiday Inn Center in Odessa.

A Boy Scout report noted that in recognition of his exceptional service to youth in the area through Scouting and his many community endeavors, Carl Bradley was presented with the Silver Beaver Award. The award is the highest award that may be presented to a volunteer Scouter on the local council level.

Carl Bradley earned his Eagle Scout award in 1940 as a Boy Scout, and has been active in Scouting most of his life, the report stated.

He has served in a number of Scouting positions including Troop Committee Member, Assistant Scoutmaster, District Chairman of the Lone Star District (Howard, Sterling, and Glascock Counties), and Council Executive Board member. Bradley is currently serving as a

Council Vice President and Chairman of the National Eagle Scout Association Committee in the

The report stated that he is a leader and has held most positions in the First United Methodist Church of Big Spring. A Paul Harris Fellow in the Rotary Club, he also is involved in many other community endeavors, including a sponsor of the Boys Hi-Y at the YMCA, United Way, Shriners, and the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Herald staff report

The Howard County Sheriff's Office assisted Odessa authorities with the recovery of a drug lab and chemicals from a Big Spring storage building, Deputy George Quintero said today.

The lab was recovered about 11 a.m. Wednesday from a shed located behind a residence in southeast Big Spring.

Local authorities were notified by Odessa officials who have arrested a suspect in a drug case and told the Howard County Sheriff's Office that the suspect gave information about a Big Spring drug lab, Quintero said, adding that he didn't expect any charges to be filed locally concerning the recovery.

The homemade lab consisted of tubes, aluminum, funnels and papers with chemical compounds written on them and about 15 beer bottles filled with a liquid.

Herald bureau report AUSTIN - Gov. Bill Clements, a staunch opponent of abortion, unknowingly appointed a doctor who performs abortion services to the state panel that regulates

The appointment of Dr. James G. Morris, of Lubbock, has produced a storm of protest from right-to-life advocates.

James Huffines, Clements' appointments advisor, said Morris asked that his appointment be withdrawn after the governor's staff informed him of the controversy.

"We shared information we had learned and laid out kind of the scenario and the facts and that's when he decided to take his name out of consideration," said Huffines.

The appointment, not sought by Morris/but offered by Clements, is parficularly embarrassing for the governor who has publicly aligned himself with anti-abortion forces and lobbied for legislation they

"We did not know about the doctor's performing abortions at the time we offered him the appointment," said Reggie Bashur, the governor's press secretary. "If we had known we certainly would have taken that into consideration.

Huffines said he had checked with 15 to 20 "leading citizens" in Lubbock — including doctors, civic and business leaders - before recommending Morris' appointment. He said all had given the longtime obstetrician-gynecologist a strong endorsement, some even referring to him as a "pillar of the community." None, he said, mentioned that the doctor performed abortions as part of his practice.

"It never, never came up in any discussions we had in over 20 different phone calls," Huffines said.

Panel will study state schooling

AUSTIN (AP) — A 15-member task force has been created to examine the state's public education system and analyze the impact of a 1987 court ruling that declared the Texas school financing system unconstitutional.

Gov. Bill Clements announced the committee Wednesday, and he said that it also will examine student performance to make sure certain standards are being met.

The committee is to issue a report on its findings, plus recommendations for improvements, by Jan. 1, 1989, prior to the convening of the next regular session of the Legislature.

The governor, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, decided to create task force last year after the ruling by District Judge Harley Clark that the state's method of funding public education was unconstitutional.

Although that decision is being appealed by the state, Clements said formation of the task force Larry Jenkins of Austin.

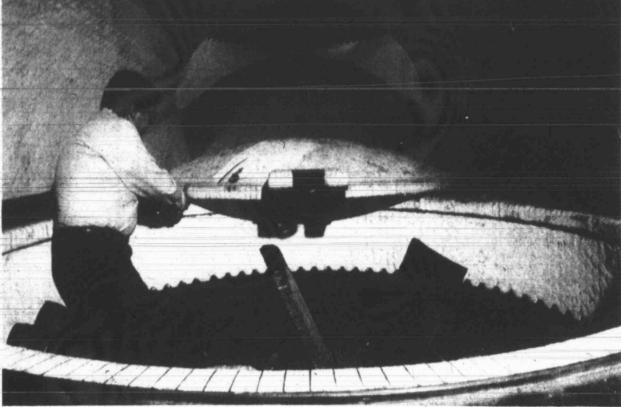

was needed to prepare for the "drastic changes" that would result if Clark's ruling is upheld.

'The Select Committee on Public Education is one of the most critical committees that I will appoint as governor. This panel not only will help determine the direction of the operation of our public schools, but it will evaluate all levels of student performance," Clements said.

"This type of committee will play a key role in our efforts to ensure that taxpayers' dollars are being used prudently - that we're getting our money's worth," he

Hobby, noting that the last select committee on public schools led to reforms encompassed in House Bill 72, said: "Regardless of the outcome of (the finance lawsuit), a review of public school finance will help us maintain our commitment to excellence in all our public schools."

The committee will be chaired by

Peace group says FBI violated rights

Herald bureau report

DALLAS - An organization working for peace in El Salvador said Wednesday the FBI violated its civil rights during a four-year campaign of surveillance that included wiretapping the phones at Holy Cross Catholic Church in South Dallas.

The Dallas chapter of the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador released a report detailing the FBI's efforts to monitor the group as part of a nationwide investigation into Salvadoran terrorist activity. The report was based on a 1,200-page document obtained from the FBI under the Freedom of Information Act.

Joe Crews, a Dallas lawyer and member of the group, said the FBI campaign of infiltration and surveillance uncovered no evidence of illegal activity. He said the investigation, conducted from 1981 to 1985, was unwarranted and resembled "a witch hunt."

Crews said the document shows that an FBI informant, posing as a member of the solidarity committee, attended meetings at Holy Cross Catholic Church in South Dallas. The document also shows that the FBI recorded license-plate numbers of parked cars near locations of meetings and rallies and wiretapped the telephones of the church.

"There's not one iota of evidence in the document to support the position that the organization does anything not allowed in the First Amendment," Crews said. "We write our congressmen, hold rallies and fund-raisers — real radical stuff."

The document offered no clues as to how the FBI might have used any information obtained during its surveillance, Crews said.

Woody Specht, an FBI agent in Dallas, said he could not comment on the specifics of the investigation because the information is classified.

The solidarity committee is one of hundreds of U.S. political and religious groups that agents in 52 of the BI's 59 field offices investigated for Salvadoran terrorist activities.

Ray McElhaney, an FBI spokesman in Washington, declined to comment on details of its investigation except to say it was not initiated simply because the groups disagreed with U.S. government policies. "The FBI is indeed sensitive to the constitutional rights of the U.S. public, and the bureau has no interest in interfering with the exercise of people's First Amendment rights to disagree, to dissent or to

According to the FBI document, the solidarity committee was the only organization in Dallas under investigation.

Clements pledges minority support

AUSTIN - With the federal government losing oversight of desegregation programs in the South, Texas must bolster its efforts to recruit black and Hispanic college students, Gov. Bill Clements said Wednesday.

"We'll do it, not because the federal government tells us to, but because it's the right thing to do," he said. "To ignore this problem is to undermine all of our hard work to revitalize and diversify our economy.'

A U.S. district court in Washington recently dismissed a 15-year-old federal lawsuit that had forced Southern states to submit desegregation plans for state colleges and universities. Because of that action, which might be appealed, federal civil-rights attorneys no longer would be able to monitor those plans and threaten the loss of federal funds if states failed to comply.

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board will meet today to consider Clements' directions for reshaping desegregation goals.

Coincidentally, a legislative panel was told that Texas has fallen short of desegregation goals set in an agreement with the U.S. Office of Civil Rights in 1983.

Texas Higher Education Commissioner Ken Ashworth said that despite four years of minority recruiting Texas has been unable to improve overall enrollment figures of blacks (8 percent) and Hispanics (11 percent).

Ashworth, speaking to the Texas House Higher Education Committee, said the core problem is a statewide student dropout rate of 33 percent.

Studies by the Coordinating Board showed that only one university had enrolled its target number of black students in 1987 and just two met their goals for Hispanic

More rural highway speeds to jump

AUSTIN (AP) - Texans will be from the Sherman-Denison urban able to drive 65 mph on 74 more limits to the Dallas urban limits, miles of rural highways although none in the Crossroads Country region — as a result of action by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

The new speed limit for some rural, non-interstate highways follows federal law. The change should take effect by Feb. 5, Byron Blaschke, deputy engineerdirector of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, said Wednesday.

The speed limit was raised to 65 mph on more than 2,000 miles of rural interstate highways last year under another federal law. That was the first increase since the national speed limit was set at 55 mph by Congress in 1973.

The commission action, with the governor's consent, will hike the speed limit to 65 mph on U.S. 75

ty near Canyon, from Interstate 27 to U.S. 87, 2.5 miles; and U.S. 190 in Bell County from Nolanville to the Temple-Belton urban limit, 5.5

Also included are U.S. 59 in Fort Bend County from near Texas 6 to Texas 36, 12.4 miles; U.S. 287 in Ellis County, the Waxahachie Bypass, 10 miles; U.S. 80 from the Dallas County line to Spur 557 near Terrell, 9.5; and Spur 557 in Kaufman County from U.S. 80 to Interstate 20, 4.6 miles.

The Federal Highway Administration already has cleared the new limits for the highways, Blaschke said.

The new limit doesn't apply to vehicles with lower limits set by law, including trucks, school buses and trailers.

Federal court delays execution

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A federal appeals court Wednesday granted a stay for a Texas man hours before he was to be put to death for the robbery-slaying of a Houston restaurant owner in 1982.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans granted the stay for condemned inmate Raymond Landry at about 9 p.m. so the court could have more time to review the case. In granting the stay, the three-judge panel noted that it received the request at about 7:20 p.m. Wednesday and that the court would not receive a record of the trial until after Landry's scheduled execution.

Landry was scheduled to die by injection shortly after midnight. The execution date was his second. Earlier Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Lynn Hughes in Houston refused to block Landry's scheduled execution and his attorneys immediately sought a stay from the federal appeals court.

Landry's attorney, Michael Charlton, argued his client did not have effective counsel during his original trial, especially during examination of jurors, and was not represented during sentencing.

Urges rebuilding support of police

The brutal slaying of 25-year-old Dallas policeman John Glenn Chase Saturday is a dramatic example of the urgent need to rebuild community support for Dallas police officers.

Chase was writing a ticket for a routine traffic violation in the heart of downtown Dallas when a bystander intervened, wrestled the young officer's pistol away from him and shot him to death.

As he lay dying, the officer pleaded for his life - but some of the onlookers reportedly egged on the assailant by chanting words to the effect of "Shoot him, shoot him, shoot him."

That reaction should raise alarms in all corners of the city. Respect for law enforcement in Dallas has been dangerously eroded. And if the law officers are not safe in this city, then no one else is, either.

... What's needed now is not more finger-pointing. What's needed now is not more racial division. What's needed now is more cooperation from the entire city council, from the whole community, north and south Dallas, in rebuilding support for law enforcement in Dallas.

The PUC approved an agreement in which Southwestern Bell customers in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston would have 60 days in which they could request, at no charge, that their phones be "blocked" from making calls to 976 services such as dial-a-porn. After that period, it will cost $7 to block the calls. Currently, Bell charges $21.65 for blocking the calls.

Requiring consumers to pay for access to such services would appear to be a better way to help ensure that children don't intentionally or accidentally dial up dirty messages and to ensure that people can't easily run up bills on someone else's, or an employer's, tab.

ignoring bitter dependency lesson

Congress and the Reagan administration continue to ignore the facts. The United States slowly is becoming more dependent on foreign oil. Must we repeat the bitter lesson of the 1970s, when Americans waited in long lines to purchase expensive gasoline?

The American Petroleum Institute reported this past week that the United States now imports 40 percent of its oil. With consumption increasing and domestic exploration decreasing, Americans once again will find themselves vulnerable to the oil shocks we experienced during the 1970s. Oil experts have urged Congress to repeal the windfall profits tax so investors would keep drilling for new oil wells. Drillers now say oil prices are too low to encourage drilling. Some experts want an oil import fee that would help increase domestic oil prices. Obviously, that's a political problem because consumers naturally do not want to pay any more for gasoline. But neither do consumers want a repeat of the oil crisis.

... Those who do not learn from past mistakes are doomed to repeat them, according to an old saying. And it looks like the United States is heading toward a repeat of the 1970s oil crisis.

For one thing, good money is thrown fter bad when farmers who are already in debt to FmHA are given automatic followup loans. For another, big corporations used to be able to get lowinterest loans designed for family farms. Finally, like the one by the farmers that stopped FmHA from confiscating their crop subsidy checks. Put another way, farmers can now collect money from one government office while defaulting on collection procedures are hampered by lawsuits,

'Historically, this has been a terrible program for the farmers and the government," the FmHA's top administrator Vance Clark told our reporter Frank Byrt.

As of June 1986, 50,000 farmers were behind in loan payments amounting to $4.1 billion. The GAO report predicts that $7.8 billion of the FmHA's $28 billion loan portfolio is uncollectible. And that assumes the FmHA can sell the property the farmers use as collateral. The government's liberal credit policy and the willingness of regional FmHA adminsitrators to lend more money to people already seriously delinquent exacerbated the problem, the study shows. Once they were in the program, farmers were automatically eligible for five subsequent annual emergency loans even if they didn't experience another disaster.

In 1975, the FmHA expanded the emergency loan program beyond natural disasters to farmers who just wanted to expand their operations or who merely had a poor crop year.

The deal was too good to pass for thousands of farmers desperate to stay in business. Legislation passed in 1985 tightened the qualifications for loans, capped the total amount for each disaster, limited the loans to family farms and not corporations, and required that the farmers proved

But, in 1987, Congress reinstated the policy of automatic loans for five years to already delinquent farmers. This "will likely result in increased loan losses," the GAO report concludes.

Collections have not been going well. North Dakota farmers won a class action suit against the FmHA for foreclosing without giving the farmers other options such as rescheduled or deferred payment programs. The North Dakota farmers sued again when the FmHA tried to seize their crop subsidy payments. The FmHA backed down.

Clark said the crop subsidies were "a last resort," and he added "there was such a hue and cry about it that we put a six-month moratorium on

Nimp factor blown — for now

Unsuspecting journalists, beware - this wimp packs a wallop.

Vice President George Bush, long considered a political lightweight by conservative members of his own Republican party, took a giant step toward shedding that image during a verbal spat with Dan Rather on live television Monday. Rather was determined that Bush answer questions on the vice president's involvement in the Iran/Contra scandal. Boring in with that famous Rather style, the CBS anchorman wanted Bush to clarify some of his earlier contradictory statements.

But the veep would have none of

For the length of the nine-minute argument, Bush sidestepped the issue, using all of the standard political tricks to avoid the issue: Non-answers, changes of subject and the old reliable standby - the counter-punch

Saying that it was grossly unfair that he be judged solely by his actions concerning Iran/Contra, Bush pointedly asked Rather how he would like it if the newsman were judged solely by the time he walked off the set for six minutes last year.

Finally, with the allotted time on the wane, Rather cut Bush off in mid-sentence with a terse "Thank you, Mr. Vice President," and went on with the rest of the newscast. The immediate results of the were an outpouring of public sup-

Beyond the realm port for the Vice President, including much-wanted hurrahs from the right-wingers Bush is so desperately courting.

The general feeling is that he cunningly side-stepped an ambush set by Rather and CBS. Phone calls to both Bush headquarters and the network have been overwhelming in both support of the vice president and condemnation of the newscaster.

After surveying the entire untidy mess, I have only one question: Who ambushed whom?

Granted, Rather sometimes resembles a piranha in a feeding frenzy when he's on the heels of a story, but he's not devious. He simply takes a very dim view of anybody who won't give him a straight answer.

Bush, on the other hand, was the one who set the ground rules for the interview - and he weighted the scales in his favor from the start. The major condition the vice president stipulated was that the interview be live. This immediately put Rather and CBS at a disadvantage.

In a taped interview, more time can be used to get straight answers. In other words, there's no nationally-televised argument deadline hanging over the

In a live interview, however, the clock is ticking. Rather knew he had only a finite number of minutes to get the answers he sought, and then he would have to go on to something else

This situation was ideal for the vice president. Like any good politician, he was able to parry Rather's thrusts until the alloted time was gone — and made the anchor look the bully in the process.

By reminding Rather of the time the newsman stalked off the set for six minutes, Bush also was able to score a parting shot of sorts. This delighted conservatives, who always have regarded the CBS anchor with a certain amount of fear and loathing.

In other words, Bush is less wimpy in their eyes and, for the next few days at least, will be riding high on the aftershocks of his verbal sparring session. But what of the long-range

What seems to be forgotten is that Bush either didn't answer the Iran/Contra questions or gave answers that were contradictory to earlier statements. Within the next month or two, indictments concerning the scandal will be handed down, and the pressure on Bush may increase dramatically. And if the veep thinks Rather is tough, wait until the Democratic nominee starts asking what Bush did or did not

When that happens, people will forget his exercise in Ratherbashing, and remember the contradictions and the waffling.

And that, George, will be really wimpy.

New AIDS strain found

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - A second AIDS virus that was discovered 21/2 years ago in West Africa and later spread to Europe has now been discovered for the first time in a patient in the United States, researchers said Wednesday.

The researchers at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey said it is the first time the virus has been seen in the Western Hemisphere.

The virus is called HIV-2, for human immunodeficiency virus, type 2. That distinguishes it from the original AIDS virus, is designated HIV-1.

FBI tactics blasted

ATLANTA (AP) - The Rev. Joseph Lowery is demanding an investigation of the FBI, saying its monitoring of his civil rights group's opposition to U.S. policy in Central America "smacks of Gestapo tactics."

Economy grows by 4.2%

WASHINGTON (AP) - The economy expanded at an unexpectedly brisk 4.2 percent annual rate from October through December despite the steepest decline in consumer spending in more than seven years, the government reported Wednesday.

While the Reagan administration saw signs that the economy remained strong even after the October collapse of the stock market, some private analysts contended virtually all of the strength came from a sharp accumulation of business inventories at the same time consumer spending was plummeting.

Units to be closed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Air Force says it will close 30 ROTC detachments and consolidate another seven into programs at nearby schools in order to help deal with budget cuts aimed at reducing the federal deficit.

The moves will reduce the number of young officers being groomed for active service and leave the Air Force with 114 ROTC units, the Air Force said Wednesday.

The Air Force said the changes will be phased in over 18 months to allow the 1,197 juniors and seniors in the 37 units to complete their studies. The units involved in the move have a current four-year enrollment of 4,448.

Tavern operator Fred Kaurich Jr. changes a sign outside his establishment after Chrysler Corporation announced Wednesday it plans to close the auto assembly and stamping facilities at Kenosha, Wis. by Sept. 30, putting 5,500 people out of work.

Plant closing

Angry residents threaten lawsuit

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. turned from hero to villain in the eyes of officials and autoworkers shocked by the news that the Kenosha auto assembly and stamping plants will close, making 5,500 people

"This is a sneak attack, another Pearl Harbor," said Billy Kittles, 51, who began working at the former American Motors Corp. plant in 1958. "It's a surprise. Everybody thought when Chrysler took over it was going to be go, go go.'

At the tavern operated by Fred Kauzrich Jr., a sign that had read "Lee Iacocca for president," was changed to read "Lee Iacocca lied to us."

"I tell you what, if I didn't take down 'Lee Iacocca for president' they'd probably blow this place up," Kauzrich said. Iacocca is Chrysler Corp.'s chairman.

Dennis Meo, 35, a 14-year plant veteran and second vice president of United Auto Workers Local 72, noted that just two weeks ago, workers were told the assembly plant had broken a 15-year Chrysler record for quality car production.

'We were the best. Now two weeks later all the commitments to us and the state are broken," Meo said. Chrysler, praised as the city's economic savior when delegation for this afternoon to discuss a response. Thompson said a suit could seek reimbursement for state and local costs involved in helping Chrysler expand operations at Kenosha, recovery of a $3 million grant that went to AMC to retrain workers for Chrysler production and unspecified damages

After Chrysler bought AMC last year, the state agreed to provide an additional $5 million in jobtraining money to retrain workers to produce Omni and Horizon cars, Thompson said. Chrysler, he said, balked at signing a written con-

Teeth-grinding can cause problems

DEAR ABBY: This is for "No Sleeping Beauty," married three months but getting no sleep because her husband, "Frank," grinds his teeth in his sleep. You suggested that Frank wear a teeth guard at night — but you weren't firm enough. "Bruxism" (teeth grinding) places a tremendous amount of stress on one's jaw and can damage the disc in the joint. The results in a condition known as 'temporo-mandibular joint' (TMJ) syndrome.

Former Coahoma basketball star Shana Fowler is making a big splash in her freshman season at Grayson College

The former all-stater is one of the big reasons why the Lady Vikings are currently in first place in the Northern Junior College Athletic Association, with a 3-0 record. Grayson is 15-3 overall.

The 5-11 Fowler, nicknamed "The Rock" by teammates because of her rock solid play, is the "sixth-man" for the Lady Vikes. Coming off the bench, Fowler is the team's second leading rebounder, averaging seven boards per game. She's also averaging eight points, shooting 49 percent from the floor and 75 percent from the line.

Fowler has also been a star in the classroom, having a 3.1 grade point average for the first semester.

Former Coahoma player Lamesa drops to class AAA

Sports Editor Lamesa drops down a notch, Stanton gets a long ride and Garden City cuts it in half.

That's some of the big area news concerning the University Intscholastic League new realignment, which was released Wednesday afternoon.

The Lamesa Tornadoes drop down to Class AAA after spending many years in Class AAAA. With its move, Big Spring, now in District 4-4A, has one less team. The district now includes Big Spring, Snyder, Sweetwater, Fort Stockton, Andrews, Pecos, Lake View and Monahans.

Districts two and three in class 4A receive byes. According to UIL Assistant Athletic Director Susan Zinn, a bye means "there are no teams assigned to the district that district would have no opponent in the first round of the Lamesa will play football in District 5-3A with Coahoma, Colorado City, Merkel, Greenwood and Post. But the Tors will play basketball and other sports in District 3-3A with Brownfield, Denver City, Lubbock Cooper, Lubbock Roosevelt, Post, Seminole and Slaton.

Coahoma and Colorado City will play basketball in the league with Crane, Kermit and Greenwood.

Presently Coahoma and C-City are in the district with Ballinger, Brady, Merkel, Clyde, Abilene Wylie and Sonora. The enrollment cutoff for AAA schools is 300-739 high school students. Lamesa presently has 683 students.

Enrollment cutoffs for other because the teams playing opposite classes are: 5A, 1,470 and up; 4A, 740-1,469; 3A, 300-739; 2A, 145-299; leaving a league of Big Lake A, 144 and below; six-man, 95 and Lamesa athletic director Clyde Noonkester was happy about the move to AAA.

"We're real happy about the move. I'm satisfied," said Noonkester. "As far as football goes, we've been playing on the bottom of this thing (2-4A) for a while. It's good to be going in another direction.

"I know people will have high ex- Horn. pectations, and that's all right. As coaches and players we've got high expectations ourselves. As far as football goes, we realize it won't be easy going. But at least we can go out there each week and realize we can compete.

The Stanton Buffalos move from District 6-AA to 5-AA, and therefore will gain a lot of extra travelling as far as football goes - Eldorado, Forsan, Big Lake and Ozona, now the Buffaloes will be playing football against Iraan, Marfa, McCamey, Presido and Van Horn.

But in basketball, the Buffaloes will stay in 6-AA, along with Big Lake, Eldorado, Forsan, Ozona and McCamey.

The new realignment means Stanton will have to travel 216 miles to Marfa and 200 miles to Van

'The only thing I can say is we better keep our bags packed," said Stanton, athletic director Dale Ruth. "There's not really much we can do about it. We've just got to live by it. It's a big challenge.'

The UIL looked more kindly upon Garden City in Class A competition. Instead of being in District 6-A, LAMESA page 2-B

But just the same, tonight is still homecoming for the Hawks and

In this Herald file photo, Howard College Hawk-Queens coach Don Stevens confronts the referee about a call. Stevens and his Queens will have their hands full tonight when they host the Odessa College Lady Wranglers at Dorothy Garrett in a homecoming contest.

Don Stevens figures the homecoming crowd will be a big plus for his squad. "The homecoming crowd should certainly help us," said Howard coach Don Stevens. "We're already outmanned, we've got to have that crowd support.

Stevens expects the Lady Wranglers, ranked No. 4 in the nation, to exert defensive pressure on his team throughout the game.

"They'll try to set the pace and use their fullcourt press for 40 minutes," said Stevens. "We'll try to walk the ball down. It will be a big test for our guards, Cindy Johnson and Kim Rankin.

"Odessa College simply has mnore talent than anyone in the conference. Their second team is Hawk-Queens, and Queens coach probably the second best team in might have been an emotional letthe conference. Ken (Odessa coach Ken Hefner) will be running his girls in and out of the game.'

But Stevens isn't conceeding anything to the Lady Wranglers "My strategy against Odessa

College for years has been to use multiple halfcourt presses to keep them from setting up their offensive game. We want to try to move them out and take the 20-foot shots. I really don't expect many turnovers from it." The Queens are coming off a dismil 72-46 loss to Frank Phillips last week. A tilt Stevens called 'our worst game of the season, I don't exactly know what happened to us against Frank Phillips. I don't even think our players know. It ward Stefanie Massie will have to snap out of her present slump. Once the nation's leading scorer, Massie has averaged 13 points and three rebounds over the past two games. Massie is still leading the conference in scoring at 27.5 points per game. Forward Renee Crooks has been playing well of late. In her last two outings, the freshman from Deville, La. has averaged 10 rebounds and 15 points. Game time is 6 p.m.

72-61 Wednesday night. In other SWC games, Arkansas defeated Rice, 80-61, Southern Methodist University beat Texas, 75-70, and Baylor whipped Houston, 77-59.

Wes Lowe scored a career-high 28 points to lead Texas Tech to the victory over Texas A&M and keep the Red Raiders home victory streak alive. The Raiders have not lost a game at Lubbock this season.

"We had a lot of guys play well tonight," Myers said. "We executed our offense, and our defense was effective. It's the first time all year that our defense has been able to pick us up when our offense bogged down.

High scoring Darryl McDonald, who scored only 13 points and hit only four of 12 field goal attempts and turned the ball over six times, said the poor showing by the Aggies puzzled him.

"We didn't play together as a team," he said. "I don't know what the problem was. I've been starting slow the past few games, and I can't explain it. We have to get hungry again." A&M head Coach Shelby Met-

"This was our worst game defenforts all season as the Red Raiders sively in a long time," Metcalfe kept their home victory streak said. "We don't have the depth on this team for a couple of our players to have off nights. We've got to have the entire team playing hard and playing well each night

> The Aggies, who fell to 4-2 in conference play and 12-8 overall, chipped away at the deficit and came within 9 points three times but could get no closer. The Raiders are now 8-9 and 3-3.

> Andrew Lang scored 17 points to lead the Arkansas Razorback to an 80-61 victory over the Rice Owls and give Arkansas sole possession of first place.

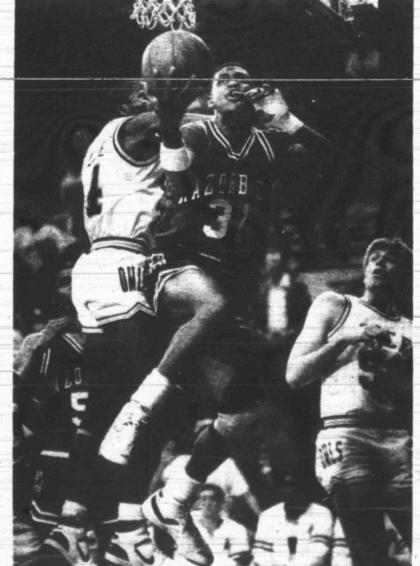

> David Willie had a career-high 28 points for Rice.

> The Razorbacks are now 5-1 in conference play. Rice dropped to 5-12 overall and 2-5 in SWC games. Kato Armstrong scored 17 points to lead SMU to a 75-70 victory over > the Texas Longhorns. Southern Methodist had lost three previous meetings with the Longhorns by a total of four points. The Mustangs, 5-2 in the SWC and 16-4 overall, were also helped

In that game Odessa, led by 6-8 forward Larry Johnson, dominated inside play, outscoring Howard 51-16 and holding a 42-22 rebounding edge. Johnson is averaging 22 points and 17 rebounds per game.

Howard is coming off a 72-71 win over Frank Phillips last week. So far the Hawks have played better on the road than at home, winning three of four conference road

Freshman forward Tyrone Greer has been playing well of late for the Hawks. Against Frank Phillips. Greer scored f6 points and grabbed 19 rebounds. For the season, the 6-6 Greer is averaging 15 points and eight rebounds.

Freshman guard Larry Pettigrew has fielded a hot hand for the Hawks lately. Since the Christmas break, Pettigrew has been averaging 19 points. Game time is 8 p.m.

"I think that was the best allaround game we have played this year," SMU Coach Dave Bliss said. 'We got great help off the bench and every substitute worked out for us. It took that kind of performence to win."

"It was important for us to keep pace with the other teams in the league," Bliss said. "Texas is a very difficult team for us to play is evidenced by the scores the past three games.

Texas Coach Bob Weltlich, under fire because of his team's lack of success, said he was pleased with the Longhorns' play despite the

"I thought we played better than we have been lately, with much more poise," Weltlich said. "We made some mistakes down the stretch but not because we got excited or because we felt nervous.

Baylor guard Michael Williams scored 34 points, 24 in the second half, to lead the Bears to a 77-59 win over the Houston Cougars.

Baylor, 12-7 and 3-3 in league play, led 33-27 at halftime. The Cougars, 8-7 and 3-3, cut the score to 50-45 with 9:12 remaining in the game.

the Bearkats are now in 8-A with Irion County, Rankin, Robert Lee, Sterling City and Water Valley. Last year in 6-A Garden City competed against Irion County, Robert Lee, Menard, Eden, Bronte, Water Valley, Miles and Sterling City.

The switch will save the Bearkats many hours of travel time. Now the most distant game to which they will have to travel is 70 miles, to Mertzon to play Irion County. In the old district, Eden and Menard were 150 miles away. "I'm more satisfied with this district," said Garden City athletic director Sam Scott. "It's more convient. We don't have to travel to Menard or Eden. it's a big difference, they almost cut the district in half.

"It doesn't lose any quality with Rankin moving down. It'll probably pick it up a notch. I look for Rankin and Irion County to be pretty tough."

Local six-man schools changed districts, from 4-A to 6-A, but the teams remained the same.

Sands, Borden County, Klondike, Grady, Loop and Dawson will still be in the same league. Wellman moves into a more northerly league against Bledsoe, New Deal, Smyer and Wilson.

The UIL's new alignment has Forsan athietic director Jan East baffled, but happy.

"I really don't know. I can't explain why they (UIL) do the things they do," said East. "I really think you ought to compete against the teams in your district in every sport," he said of his district (6-AA) changes teams from football to basketball.

"If they had to do something, I'd rather they move us south," said East getting his wish. "We were in that northern district with Seagraves, Morton, Plains and Shallowater for a long time. I didn't like that much."

In fact Forsan barley missed dropping back down to Class A. The A enrollment cutoff is 145-299 high school students. Forsan presently has 147 students, although East said there were a few more when the figures in October were turned in to the UIL.

Two years ago, in the last realignment, the cutoff mark for AA schools was 135-275.

But David Alan Hall of Fort Worth is well ahead of the game, having completed classwork toward a film-video degree at Texas Christian University and his first feature-length movie at the same time.

Screened on campus four times recently, Fragile Expressions drew overflow crowds for the last two showings as word about the

It wasn't the first time Hall's work has impressed his peers. He is, in fact, a veteran writerdirector-producer-editor at 23, despite having to overcome a physical disability that makes walking difficult and might have discouraged one less determined and resourceful.

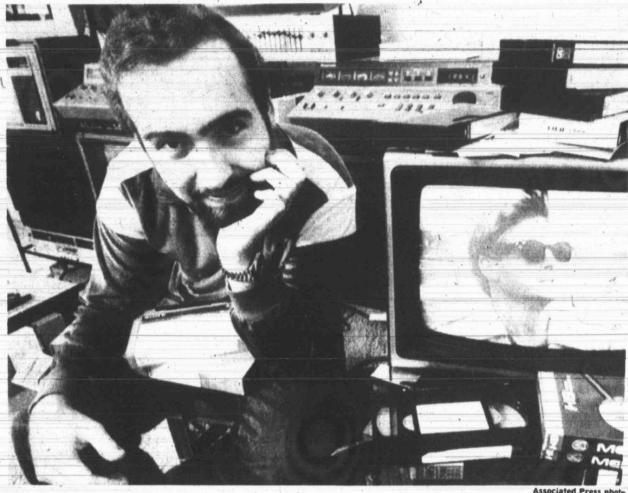

And soon he will head for Hollywood in the hope of putting his creativity and experience to work professionally.

"I have no illusions about it. Trying to make it out there is a hard thing to do," he said. "When you go to Hollywood, everybody's No. 1 where they came from. You're just another face in the crowd, and the competition is intense.'

Hall figures he'll have to spend a couple of years working outside the film industry, meeting people and getting himself and his work known before he can expect to break in. And he is realistic about prospects for fulfilling all his ambitions.

"Ideally, I'd like to be a writerdirector," he said. "But it's possible that my dreams of directing professionally have gone by the wayside, because I'm not sure I'm physically capable.

"I was born with cerebral palsy and have struggled with that through a series of operations leading up to a big one last. January. Unfortunately, it didn't do what I'd hoped it would. In fact, I'm worse off physically than I was

"Film directing, with a 60- or 70-day shooting schedule, is very demanding physically, and I'm not sure I'm up to it. I'll just have to wait and see and deal with it."

But if Hall ends up being like to read, so I thought maybe primarily a writer, it'll be OK with him because that's what he's always been. "I consider myself a storyteller more than anything else," he said.

He started writing at an early age and won his first writing laurels at Fort Worth's Paschal High school. "It was hard to generate interest in my stories, though, because people really don't realized. "So, when we got a home they'll listen, and I started writing radio scripts.

"Eventually, I did a 16-episode radio drama, 'The Adventures of Captain Triangle,' and that really taught me a lot about what you can do with sound and the auditory parts of the process.'

Before long he was winning recognition with his video shorts, and one he made in 1984, "Shadow Games," won an award from the American Film Institute and was shown on Movie Channel pay cable

"That was a big shot in the arm for me ... a turning point," Hall said. He has produced several hourlong videos and a number of half-hour or shorter lengths and has written two unpublished novels, the first of which, "Fragile Expressions," he adapted into the feature-length video movie.

Hall describes the movie as a character piece about the friendship of two college students in their last semester together. "There's a girl involved, but really it's a story about self-expression. It's not about what college students do but why they do what they do," he said.

The movie was shot in 30 days -'Our shortest shooting day was 13 hours, our longest 27 hours" after Hall interviewed some 70 people and screen-tested a dozen to find his cast. Some of the performers were undergraduates and graduate students at TCU; others were professional actors from Dallas and Houston. "I was fortunate to get sIthat was out of the question because film costs so much more. To give you an idea, a friend of mine made an eightminute short on 16-millimeter film, and it cost more than my feature."

Making "Fragile Expressions" cost less than might be expected even on tape, Hall said, because "I've learned how to get the most out of the resources I had and I had a lot of help from a lot of people.'

Using his own novel was a matter of expedience, Hall said. "With graduation coming up, I didn't have time to develop a script from

Search continues for missing miners

Herald bureau report LAS ESPERANZAS, Mexico -

The search continued late into the night Wednesday at the Cuatro y Medio coal mine where an explosion and fire has so far claimed the lifes of 31 others, authorities said. "Everybody is waiting at the mouth of the mine. Maybe soon they will bring up more bodies," said an employee at the mine near Las Esperanzas, about 120 miles southwest of Eagle Pass.

Dust-covered miners with battery-powered lights beaming from their steel helmets work in shifts, digging through debris 1.4 towns have rung and schools have miles into the shaft while families and relatives of the missing workers anxiously watch from behind a fence 200 yards away.

Although the six missing miners officially have not been counted as dead, several rescuers said they do not believe the men could possibly have survived the disaster which trapped 138 miners early Monday. Officials said 17 of the approximately 100 men rescued several hours after an electrical transformer short-circuited and exploded were seriously injured.

As they waited for word about the missing miners, relatives standing outside the compound fence noted that miners were not the only victims of the disaster.

"Did you see the mules?" asked one woman, pointing toward corral where three badly burned mules that had been brought out of the mine were penned. One of the animals appeared to have been left blind by the explosion which scorched its skin and left its eyes sealed

Company officials said that because of limited working space, only about 80 rescue workers at a time have been able to work inside the mine.

Also keeping vigil Wednesday was Eliseo Mendoza Burrueto, governor of the state of Coahuila, who has pledged financial assistance to the children and widows of the disaster victims.

The past two days, church bells in Las Esperanzas and neighboring been canceled as the communities

"The bells are ringing sadly," said school teacher Rose Irene Campos. "Almost everybody is touched by this. So many people died." Maria Herrera, whose cousin, Enrique Ramirez Herrera, died in the blast, said: "It affects us all because we're all like brothers

Hipolito Chavez Vaquera, a mechanical engineer at another mine, said it was not uncommon for a transformer to short-circuit inside a mine but claimed safety officials should have checked to make sure there was no carbon monoxide gas in the mine.

"If there's enough ventilation you can even solder in a mine. If the area would have been wellventilated, nothing would have happened," he said.

In Washington, FDA spokesman Bill Grigg said, "The NutraSweet Co. has not yet provided the FDA with enough information for an appraisal, but the agency will look at the substance to determine whether it presents any regulatory, or in particular, safety issues."

Several experts said the questioning reflected a widespread skepticism in the general publiceven cynicism - about the application of technology to food.

Procter & Gamble Co. has encountered the same difficulties in promoting olestra, its own fat substitute, which was announced last May. Olestra must clear the hurdle of FDA approval because it is a synthetic substance, made of ordinary sugar and fatty oils.
