Pampa shares widening decision

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Editor's note: The following is one in a series of articles in the Herald concerning the proposed Gregg Street widening project, in anticipation of the Feb. 11 public meeting on the subject at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

PAMPA — Big Spring and this Texas Panhandle community of 19,000 are traveling the same path — at least when it comes to road-widening projects.

However, the communities are at different stages of the journey. Many of the same questions surrounding the proposed Gregg Street widening already have been dealt with by Pampa business, civic and government leaders.

Three years of debate and critical study ended in November, when Pampa City Council members authorized City Manager Bob Hart to send a letter to the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation requesting the widening of 17-blocks of Hobart Street (Hwy. 70) to allow construction of a continuous left-hand turn lane. To date, the state highway department has not responded to that request.

Circumstances surrounding the $2.1 million Pampa highway expansion are almost identical to the Gregg Street proposal.

Like Gregg Street, Pampa's Hobart Street is a major north-south roadway running through the heart of a congested business district.

Improving traffic flow and reducing a high accident rate are also the primary objectives of the Pampa project.

Plans to reconstruct the Pampa highway were first made public in the early 1980s.

"The state highway department prepared plans and specifications and submitted them to the Federal Highway Administration for approval," Hart said.

However, after analyzing safety-related data along the Pampa roadway, the Federal Highway Administration declined to approve the project because it did not include modification of parking, according to Hart.

County restores funding

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners today restored Crimestoppers funding to its previous level. The funding had been cut in half from $5,000 to $2,500 in the 1987-88 fiscal budget.

During their 9 a.m. meeting, commissioners also discussed complaints about the county's janitorial service, discussed dump truck bids, granted permission to fly a Vietnam POW flag on top of the courthouse building and approved several purchase requests.

In late 1987, LeRoy Tillery, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, made a plea before commissioners to restore Crimestopper funding to the $5,000 level.

At that time, commissioners advised Tillery to make an appeal before city council. City council, however, declined to grant funding.

Commissioner O.L. "Louie" Brown made a motion to restore funding to the $5,000 level after commissioners today appointed him to serve another term on the Crimestoppers board.

"They have already obligated themselves to $6,800 this year," said County Judge Milton Kirby, reporting that several awards were given for information gained about eight Howard County residents who were indicted in January on charges of capital murder.

In other business, County Auditor Jackie Olson told commissioners that she received several complaints about the county janitorial service.

In November 1987, commissioners accepted a low bid of $22,859 from Harold Lee Hancock to provide janitorial services to the courthouse, county library and annex.

"My office was not vacuumed at all last week until we vacuumed it ourselves on Friday," Olson said.

Restrooms also have been without paper products, she reported.

After discussing complaints, commissioners decided to wait before taking any type of action to see if Hancock attended the meeting to answer the complaints against him.

No action had been taken at pretime.

Commissioners also addressed the following items:

Pampa merchants criticize state

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

PAMPA — A metallic blur of vehicles rolled down Highway 70 outside the front windows of Cleo Meaker's appliance store as he spoke.

"It all boils down to money and politics," Meaker said, making a chest-high sweep with his left arm toward the roadway just a few feet beyond the row of plate glass display windows.

Although the conversation occurred in a different city, alongside a different highway, a similar scene might just as well have taken place inside a Gregg Street business in Big Spring.

Meaker's comments and those of other merchants who are opposing the widening of Highway 70 through Pampa echo many of the same concerns and opinions held by Big Spring business owners who object to the Gregg Street widening.

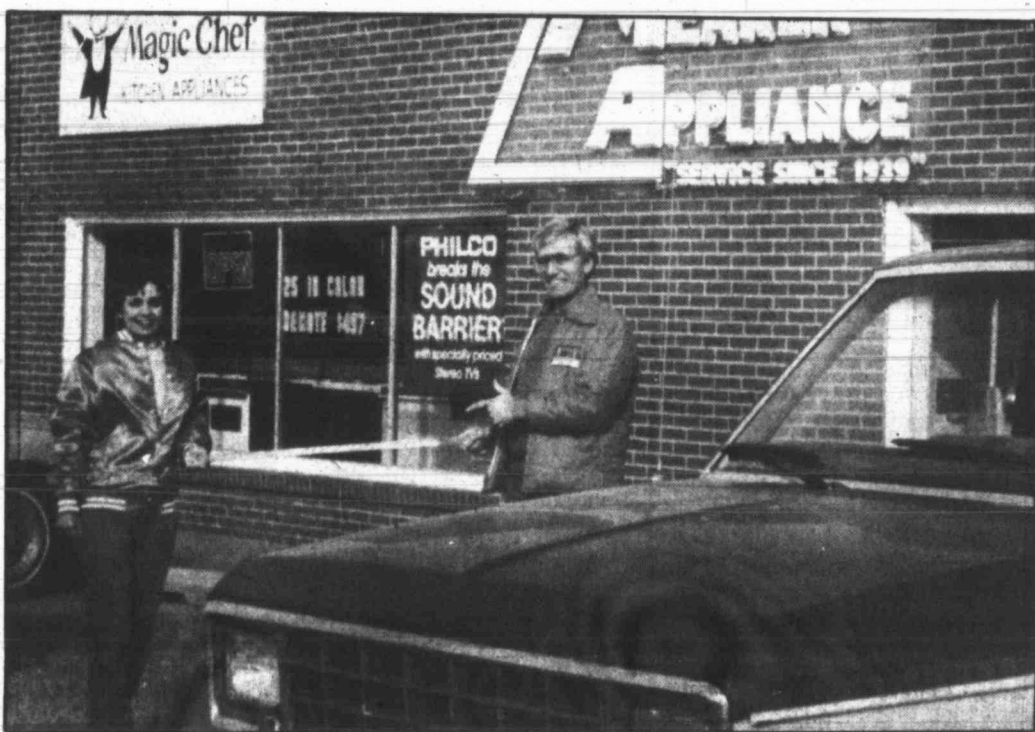

However, several Big Spring Gregg Street merchants say their comments have not been as pointed as Meaker's — because they fear losing business by speaking out too harshly against the Gregg Street widening.

Meanwhile, Meaker did speak candidly recently concerning the proposed Pampa widening.

"It's just another example of government making plans and decisions and passing them from the top down, instead of from the bottom up," Meaker said, who believes the viewpoints of Pampa merchants who oppose the widening project have been ignored by state and federal government officials.

"We don't need the widening project... it's

Stenholm shares Contra views with residents

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Continued U.S. financial aid to the Contras in Nicaragua is vital to prevent establishment of a communist foothold in the Western Hemisphere, Congressman Charles Stenholm said Friday night.

"We must never, never negotiate communism in this hemisphere... that's what this issue is about," Stenholm told an audience of 550 attending the annual Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Rejection of President Reagan's $36.2 million aid to the Contras by both the House and Senate last week was because Congress failed to educate and gather the support of the people concerning what Stenholm called "the real issues" in Nicaragua.

Stenholm voted in favor of the president's aid package last Wednesday. The issue was decided by a close 219-211 House vote.

Providing financial aid to the Contras in their fight against the Sandinistas cannot be likened to the United States military intervention in Viet Nam, Stenholm said.

"This is an issue that threatens to tear the country apart, but I don't believe it can be likened to Viet Nam," he said.

CHARLES STENHOLM

"No American lives are being risked." Stenholm compared continued U.S. financial support of the Contras to military aid rendered by the French in this country's battle against England during the Revolutionary War.

"If it weren't for the Frenchmen who fought side-by-side with George Washington in the Battle of Georgetown, I suppose we would be... paying homage to the queen rather than paying respect to the American flag," he said.

The Congressman also warned that establishment of a communist Soviet-backed government in Nicaragua would cause an increased flow of illegal aliens into this country from Central America.

"If you think there were problems with illegal aliens under the present system, wait until the communists gain strength in the region," he said.

Stenholm went on to defend his vote in support of the Contra aid by saying: "It's very important that we help the Nicaraguans... I prefer to have them under a system of government that more closely approximates ours than the Soviet Union's," he said.

Stenholm compared the Congressional debate surrounding the Contra aid question to smaller controversies that sometimes arise in communities like Big Spring.

"So often the leaders and followers in any community differ," he said.

However, he urged community leaders to "continue the good fight and stand up for those things you believe are in the best interest of Big Spring."

"And when you lose, go home and make what others have decided work," he said.

Man's death investigated

COLORADO CITY — Officials are investigating the shooting death of a man found inside a pickup truck parked at an I-20 rest area about 11 miles east of Colorado City.

The body of an unidentified man believed to be in his 30s was found Sunday morning in the seat of a 1982 Chevrolet pickup truck, according to Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant.

Authorities believe the shooting is a homicide.

A single bullet hole was found in the driver's side window of the vehicle. The victim had a single bullet wound to the upper left arm, according to Bryant.

Justice of the Peace Ruby Claxton ordered the victim's body to be sent to Dallas for an autopsy. Exact cause of death has not been determined.

Bryant said a passing trucker observed the pickup truck and called the Nolan County Sheriff's Department, who in turn, notified the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department at about 9:15 a.m. Sunday.

The dead man's billfold was not taken, according to Bryant. Authorities had not determined the dead man's name or place of residence.

Some Iowans just putt along despite politics

By CHERYL ARVIDSON
Herald Washington Bureau

DES MOINES, Iowa — With the critical task of narrowing the Republican and Democratic presidential fields in their hands, 1,000 Iowans did the obvious thing Sunday. They played golf.

Putting along carpeted walkways, over tile floors, past pay telephone booths, through shopping malls and around innocent bystanders, a record number of entrants put presidential politics aside in favor of the Third Annual Skywalk Open.

Protected from harsh temperatures by the enclosed system of downtown walkways, the Open provided a unique opportunity for the natives to forget for a moment that 2,500 journalists from all over the world and presidential candidates of every political ilk have invaded their city.

Sure, the two 18-hole courses wove through the Convention Center where in just 24 hours, Iowa Democrats would be tabulating their caucus results and where reporters were pouring in and out with great regularity.

Sure, one of the holes went right through NBC election headquarters and the incredible array of equipment that will be used to relay the Iowa results to the nation.

And sure, one presidential candidate, former Delaware Gov. Pete ("I'm not a golfer") du Pont, entered the tournament and finished with an eight-under-par 46. But once his press entourage got the predictable shot of the Republican hopeful teeing off from the first hole, things quieted down fast, and the priority of the day — having fun — took over.

That's not to say there weren't some similarities between the caucuses and the golf tournament. For instance, there were at least as many different colors of golf balls as there are presidential candidates.

And even though the field was crowded and it cost $10 to enter, only the top three finishers won trophies and everyone else went home with nothing.

Lastly, du Pont proved he can win a race in Iowa — if he is the only candidate entered. But as far as getting any other great insights on the Iowa caucuses from the Skywalk Open, forget it.

For example, the cold weather is a key concern of the various campaigns because organizers are afraid that bitter temperatures and the forecast of snow will cut down on caucus attendance. But the cold weather was precisely what administration's decision not to fund the Hobart widening was influenced by a municipal maintenance agreement established between the city and state highway department in 1967.

One provision in the agreement required the City of Pampa to "prohibit angle parking except upon written approval by the state after traffic and engineering surveys have been conducted to determine if the roadway is of sufficient width to permit angle parking without interfering with the free movement of traffic."

Big Spring city officials signed a similar agreement with the state highway department in 1968 governing parking along Gregg Street.

Undaunted by the Federal Highway Administration's rejection of the widening project, Pampa city leaders pushed forward to make the project a reality.

In late 1984, the Pampa City Commission established a five-member review committee to study the Hobart expansion, according to Hart.

The committee met seven times and made the following recommendations:

- Make an official request to the state highway department to widen Hobart Street to include a continuous left hand turn lane.
- Preserve existing angle parking along the street.
- Encourage merchants to provide off-street parking where possible.
- Modernize traffic signals as soon as possible.

Before making its recommendations, the Pampa review committee also considered the disruption of business along the highway during construction and curtailment, closing of some businesses caused by the elimination of angle parking and possible traffic problems caused by parallel parking.

However, Pampa City Commission rejected the panel's recommendations by a 3-1 vote in February 1985.

The issue did not resurface until mid-1987 when the state highway department announced that state and federal funds were available to proceed with the Pampa Highway 70 widening project, Hart said.

"Funding of the project and the reconstruction of the street, however, was contingent upon the city eliminating the angle parking that currently exists on Hobart Street, whereby vehicles are able to back into the lane of traffic," Hart said.

In order to meet state highway department bidding deadlines, supporters of the Pampa Hobart Street widening arranged for a highway department-sponsored public meeting in early November to inform the public about the project.

Two weeks later, the Pampa City Commission authorized Hart to send his letter requesting the state highway department to fund widening of the highway.

The city manager said the letter represents a renewal of the recommendations made by the 1985 study committee.

The letter was also in response to the state's request that The City of Pampa eliminate angle parking on Hobart Street, he said.

Hart said the City of Pampa has offered to pay for the relocation of any utility lines and traffic lights that would be required for the project.

Above is shown a segment of Highway 70 in the Texas Panhandle community of Pampa that has been targeted for a proposed widening. The highway is a highly congested major north/south thoroughfare with a high traffic accident rate.

 something that has been dreamed up by bureaucrats to keep themselves on the payroll," Cleo said.

The Meaker's store is among 26 businesses along Pampa's Highway 70 that are expected to be adversely affected by a widening of the roadway.

Meaker Appliance, a family-operated business which has existed at the same location for the past 33 years, would be uprooted by the the highway expansion.

Parking spaces in front of the business would be eliminated by the widening, making it necessary for the Meakers to relocate their store.

The Pampa widening is contingent upon enforcement of a 1967 agreement between the city and state prohibiting the city from allowing angle parking or permitting obstructions in Highway 70's right-of-way without obtaining written approval from the highway department.

The City of Big Spring reached a similar agreement with the state highway department in 1968, but enforcement of that agreement has not become an issue in discussion of the proposed Gregg Street widening.

Pampa business owners whose parking would be affected by the Highway 70 widening indicated they didn't care about the parking agreement since it has not been enforced in the past 20 years.

Meaker said it appears as though the state and federal highway departments are "coming in and trying to cram" the highway widening project "down Pampa's throat."

"They are conducting a form of blackmail by threatening to keep funds back from the project unless the city caves in," he said.

Attempts to enforce the angle parking prohibition would take the bulk of north Highway 70 businesses off the tax rolls, according to Meaker. He said most merchants could not afford the additional costs of having to replace the parking spots or of losing customers from having fewer parking spaces and would have to close down or move.

"The citizens will have to pay the ultimate cost eventually," Meaker claimed, since they will have to make up the loss of tax revenues.

"We have watched state and federal governments grow almost like a cancer ... They're trying to beat us out of what is rightfully ours," Meaker said.

Derral Coffman, who owns property along Pampa's Highway 70, said forcing existing businesses to go to parallel parking — cutting down the number of parking spaces in front of a business — "would absolutely kill business" in at least one block along the highway.

Another owner of property along the Pampa roadway, Buzz Tarpley, said he served on a committee appointed in 1984 to consider a similar widening request. He said the committee's recommendations to reject the request are still valid today.

Tarpley said restructuring of Highway 70 would "seriously curtail business" for most stores in the area, saying he had a list of 26 businesses that would be hurt "drastically" by the elimination of angle parking.

Bud Welch, who owns a print shop inside the proposed Pampa Highway 70 target area, also said he was concerned about the construction schedule for the proposed project. He said he had seen other businesses hurt, even having to close, because of delays in the timetable and the unwillingness of customers to battle the construction obstacles to reach a business.

Family seeks justice in deaths

ODESSA (AP) — An Odessa woman said today she plans to hire a lawyer to investigate an ambush by bandits dressed in police uniforms who shot and killed two family members during a vacation in Mexico last week.

"I want justice done," said Josie Melendez, who witnessed the attack. "I want to pursue it the whole way so this won't happen to someone else."

Mrs. Melendez said five bandits commandeered the family's two pickup trucks Tuesday as they made a curve and drove them to an isolated place, killing Catarina Melendez, 62, and his son, Hector, 19. Two other adults were wounded by gunfire and a third was beaten with rocks. Three children were not injured.

The seven survivors returned to Odessa on Sunday after burying the two men in Ojinaga, Mexico.

Catarino Melendez's wife, Maria Concepcion Melendez, and Hector Melendez's wife, Blanca, suffered injuries in the attack and were in stable condition today at AMI Women's and Children's Hospital in Odessa.

Ms. Melendez said she is angry that the family received no assistance from the governments of Mexico or the United States in investigating the incident near a coastal town in the state of Michoacan.

"If we had all been killed, nothing would have been done," she said.

Sheriff's log

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A county home sustained about $30,000 in damages during a weekend fire, according to authorities.

The Howard County Sheriff's Office received a call of a house fire at 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Volunteer fire departments from Sand Springs, Knott and Ackery and the Big Spring Fire Department responded to the blaze at the Derwood Blagrace residence, located four miles north of the Brown Community road and three to four miles west of U.S. Highway 87.

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said today damage was estimated at $30,000. The fire was burning through the roof of a carport and through a portion of the house's roof, he said.

The fire was doused before it reached the kitchen area; about one-half of the home was saved, said Settles, who cited reports that said a lamp too close to some bedding may have caused the fire.

• Jose Barraza, Wildfire Road, reported Saturday the theft of a $500 shredder. Barraza said another man had seen a white Ford pickup with the shredder behind it Friday and saw a white male driving the truck, according to sheriff's records. The shredder is yellow.

• Desidero Castillo III, 20, 1609 Lincoln St., was released Sunday after being transferred from the police department. He was arrested on Department of Public Safety traffic warrants and was given credit for eight days served at the city jail.

Pizza theft investigated

HERALD BUREAU REPORT

The assault and robbery of a pizza delivery boy late Sunday was still under investigation by Big Spring police this morning.

Michael Webb, a Domino's Pizza employee, told police that two men attacked him while he was delivering a pizza to a residence at 1206 Main Street.

Two men reportedly struck Webb in the stomach and ear and stole two pizzas and a delivery bag, valued at $35.

Johnny Barraza, 19, 3619 Connally St., and Carlos Carbajal, 19, 410 W. Sixth St. have been arrested in connection with the robbery and the theft of beer from a Big Spring grocery store, according to Detective Tony Chavez. Both men were arrested on initial charges of robbery and theft under $20, according to police reports.

Barraza and Carbajal were arrested immediately after a clerk at Highland Grocery, 401 E. Marcy Drive, telephoned police and reported that two men had walked out of the store without paying for beer. The store theft occurred about 30 minutes after the pizza delivery boy was robbed, according to Chavez.

Although Barraza and Carbajal fit the description of the pizza robbery suspects, they have not been definitely linked to the crime, Chavez said this morning.

Caucuses: It's not how you play, but if you win or lose

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
An AP Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — It'd be easier to analyze the Iowa caucuses after they take place, but why wait? Here are some guideposts by which to judge tonight's first balloting of the 1988 presidential campaign, beginning with the quarrelsome Republicans:

GEORGE BUSH: In a sense, Iowa should be a dream come true for Bush — for once, he gets to be an underdog. If he wins, he'll practically lock the nomination; even a farm state like Iowa, he's probably fated to still be Senate Republican leader in 1989.

PETE DU PONT: "I don't have to win," he said not too long ago, "I just have to beat Jack." Truer words were never spoken; du Pont's race is to finish ahead of Jack Kemp in the second tier with an eye toward victory in the more conservative environs of New Hampshire.

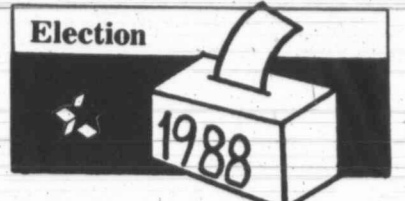

AL HAIG: A sure bet for last place. He's hoping the electorate in New Hampshire and the South will be more hospitable.

KEMP: Kemp hopes to defeat du Pont in Iowa and New Hampshire to emerge as the more conservative challenger to the Bush-Dole survivor.

PAT ROBERTSON: With country singer Ricky Skaggs at his side, Robertson has been working to persuade his fundamentalist followers to show up en masse at the Iowa caucuses. If he wins, the Republican race enters a whole new dimension. If he finishes third or worse, the Robertson balloon will burst.

Democrats:

BRUCE BABBITT: Armed with a plan for a $40 billion sales tax and a notion for taxing high-income Social Security recipients, Babbitt has been campaigning as the last honest man. He doesn't have to win (and he won't), but if he finishes a poor fourth, or worse, he's a dead duck. If he comes in third, he'll take momentum to New Hampsolid second would send Bush into New Hampshire in pretty good shape.

But if the vice president finishes a poor second, let alone third, his campaign could unravel before he gets a chance to spend all that money he's put aside for Super Tuesday. Perhaps the Bush people smell trouble; otherwise why would they be attacking Bob Dole with such vehemence?

DOLE: It's hard to know what Iowa Republicans think of the war of words between Dole and Bush. The Bush people want to portray Dole as a bully and a whiner, but Dole could benefit because he confronted Bush personally while Bush sent out campaign aides to do his dirty work.

If Dole can't win a moderate

shire and could attract attention as a moderate alternative to the more liberal Michael Dukakis.

DUKAKIS: He took a little pounding from Paul Simon over some second-rate campaign espionage, but has a strong organization in Iowa that worked hard to rid Dukakis of his automaton image. A victory would enable Dukakis to avoid the favorite-son asterisk which would depreciate his triumph in next-door New Hampshire.

RICHARD GEPHARDT: He made a midcourse correction last month, turning into a self-styled populist on the campaign trail (ironic given his longtime membership in the club of Capitol Hill insiders.) And his TV time since Christmas has been exhaustive and effective: On top of that, his issue — trade — is a winner in Iowa where so much income has been lost in the negative trade balance overseas.

So he's the favorite and he'd better win. Like Dole (and Simon, to come), if Gephardt can't win in Iowa, where can he win?

AL GORE: The senator from Tennessee didn't like his chances in Iowa so he took his ball and went home. He'll need to demonstrate his national stature in New Hampshire or runs the risk of looking like a regional candidate.

GARY HART: A month ago, the Comeback Kid led in the polls here, but tonight's results probably will end Hart's presidential ambitions for 1988 and maybe forever.

JESSE JACKSON: Tonight, he'll be in Greenfield, a farming community that has served as Jackson's Iowa headquarters and has come to symbolize his effort to shift from a protest candidacy to a populist candidacy. Jackson has been well received, but has no natural constituency in white, rural Iowa. He should finish ahead of Gore and hopes to best Babbitt and Hart.

SIMON: Up-and-down Simon will have to be up Monday night or he's history. He honed his image as a "no-apology liberal" in the small towns of Illinois, drew the lion's share of Joe Biden's Iowa support and led the pack until Hart reappeared. Then he drifted back as a result of some poor debates and a fuzzy message. Then he bounced up again with an endorsement from the Des Moines Register. On caucus eve he unveiled a negative ad against Gephardt, reinforcing the notion that it's now or never for both of them.

Golfing

brought so many golfers out on Sunday.

"It beats being home mowing the yard or should I say shoveling the yard," said James Tolbert of Des Moines who played the "Blue Course" in plaid wool knickers.

"We're here because we've got cabin fever," said Karen Rehberg of Des Moines as her foursome arrived on the 18th hole of the "Red Course."

"Why not? It's 15 degrees outside," said Bill Hendershot of Des Moines.

"Any excuse to play golf," added his golfing partner, Russ Snyder of Des Moines.

"Cubbie Bear," the fully costumed mascot of the Iowa Cubs AA baseball franchise got more attention than Vice President George Bush's motorcade, and no one even paused to look out at Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt's campaign office.

There was a rumor that Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis was campaigning somewhere along the course and that Illinois Sen. Paul Simon was holding a rally, but no one changed their tee-off time to check it out.

In fact, the only reference to the presidential campaign at all was this warning, included on the rules sheet for the Skywalk Open: "Be careful. Be aware that national television and radio networks have equipment in the skywalk area. Please be cautious when near the equipment."

After two hours of checking with folks relaxing at the 19th Hole, where the beer and Bloody Marys were flowing liberally, attending the caucuses appeared to be a low priority among the golfers. Most said they have never attended a caucus and they don't intend to start now.

"I've been watching them, and I think they're more interested in beer," said Millicent Churchill of Altoona who was not playing golf but does plan to attend a Democratic caucus.

Elderly women slain

HOUSTON (AP) — The stabbing death of two elderly sisters has become another chapter of terror for residents of a near north side neighborhood where seven other elderly women also have been slain.

"It's much too early to say there's a connection," according to Houston homicide Lt. Richard Holland. "We're going to investigate this and see what we have. But we don't know much at this point."

The bodies of Maurine Lewis, 79, and her sister, Mildred Irene Morris, 82, were discovered about 4:30 p.m. Saturday by neighbors who were concerned they had not seen either woman for two days, police said.

"It was terrible," said Henry Lowery, who lived next door, describing the scene inside the house.

Lowery told the Houston Post he went to the house after two other neighbors told him they had found the body of one woman sprawled near a table in the living room of the home.

"Whoever it was, was looking for something," Lowery said. "They (victims) kept a little money in the house, and that may be what they were after."

The other woman was found in bed in a back bedroom, and Lowery said her throat appeared to have been slashed.

He said her hands indicated she died while trying to protect herself.

Investigators said both women were found fully clothed, discounting a sexual assault as a possible motive. Robbery was considered a possibility.

Waste seen as option

ANDREWS (AP) — Some Andrews County leaders are casting their lines in the direction of waste management for an economic boost for West Texas.

They say that the area's vast emptiness and limited surface water could suit a dump site for all forms of waste.

Because extensive research and drilling for oil has been done, much is known about West Texas geology, said James Roberts, Andrews County Industrial Foundation president.

With help from the new Center for Energy and Economic Diversification at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, the county could place itself on the cutting edge of waste management, Roberts said.

Former Andrews Chamber of Commerce President Carroll Kysar said last week that while oil service industries are still the county's "bread and butter," the search is on for long-term, stable industries.

Although Andrews County ranked third last year in state oil production, Kysar and other leaders say petroleum revenue alone cannot maintain service levels, provide future jobs and propel growth.

"Oil companies have been taken over by Harvard Business School graduates that deal with numbers and wouldn't know a drill stem core from a door stop," Roberts said. "They're never going to be the same again."

More patients tested

DALLAS (AP) — An unknown number of patients have been tested for exposure to AIDS without their knowledge at Parkland Hospital, officials say.

As part of a hospital policy, that Parkland administrators say has since been changed, the hospital tested about 700 emergency room patients for AIDS.

And the secret testing also extended to include an unknown number of other admitted patients, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

"We don't encourage wholesale screening, and we think it's very foolish and a waste of money," said Dr. Ron Anderson, president of the hospital. "But there's no question that patients have had blood drawn and tested without their consent."

The testing of patients for AIDS without their knowledge is a violation of American Medical Association ethical guidelines. Parkland's testing also has been criticized by civil liberty groups.

"It's a very serious breach of a person's privacy," said Jim Harrington, legal director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union and chairman of the law and ethics panel for the state health commissioner's AIDS task force.

In addition to testing of emergency room patients, doctors at Parkland ordered the testing for some admitted patients. Dr. Alan Pierce, Parkland's medical director, said doctors are concerned about being infected with the virus.

Exxon asks money back

HAWKINS (AP) — Exxon Co. USA says it paid too much money in royalties to people in this small East Texas town, and now it wants some of the money back.

But many townspeople say they don't have the cash, and having to pay Exxon back would ruin them.

"I don't know how we can hold out, because we're fighting a monster, a giant monster," said C.C. Miller, who Exxon says owes the company $1.03 million.

"I guess they figure, 'we're Exxon. What can you do?'" he said.

The oil giant is seeking the money to recoup some of the losses it suffered when it lost a $2.1 billion judgment in federal court over crude oil overcharges between 1975 and 1981. The oil came from the Hawkins Field here.

As a result, Exxon is seeking $600 million in revenues it claims were overpaid to royalty owners based upon the overcharges.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation:

Paper asks if defense justified

Every government in the world views national defense as one of its prime responsibilities and as one area where gambling might prove fatal. Even so, the scope of worldwide spending on military hardware and personnel takes the breath away.

Ruth Sivard, a former chief economist at the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, recently released the 12th annual edition of a study titled, "World Military and Social Expenditures."

According to Sivard, nations spent approximately $1.8 billion a minute last year on their military budgets. That added up to $930 billion overall.

Has all this spending purchased security? Maybe. Maybe not. According to Sivard, there were more wars during 1987 — 22 in all — than ever before. She said the death toll in those conflicts came to an estimated 2.2 million.

Think of what $1.8 billion a minute could do if it was spent on people rather than on war machines.

Think of the wells that money could drill, the roads it could build, the hospitals it could run, the schools it could finance... the possibilities are nothing but endless.

Medford (Ore.) Mail Tribune

Protest coverage unprecedented

American utility officials are well acquainted with the "not in my backyard" syndrome when it comes to building nuclear power plants in a democracy.

But it must be unprecedented for citizen protests to scrap plans for a nuclear plant in a totalitarian state.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, the official organ of the Communist Youth League in Moscow, has reported that officials have dropped plans to build a nuclear plant near the Black Sea in the U.S.S.R. because so many letters of protest, based on "fear" and "ignorance," were received in the wake of Chernobyl.

Leaving aside the questions of safety vs. a country's need for electricity, three things are remarkable here — that the protest occurred, that it was heeded and that it was reported.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Advocates secretariat formation

Newly elected occupants of the White House tend to be hampered by a dearth of institutional memory.

Incoming presidents bring in new people who naturally have little knowledge of how things were done by their predecessors. Sometimes this causes needless difficulties.

Stuart E. Eizenstat, who served as chief domestic adviser to President Carter, elaborated on this recently — and endorsed a remedy that has been discussed from time to time.

What he and others propose is the creation of a permanent White House secretariat to advise successive presidents as to past handling of thorny situations.

It is a good idea. Implementing it might save new presidents much troublesome wheel-spinning, especially in the early stage of their term in office.

The Sun, Westerly, R.I.

Heed Reagan's budget reform call

President Reagan exhibited his best theatrical style as he focused on the budget-making process in his final State of the Union message. It was "show and tell" with a stinging message: The way the U.S. budget is made is a travesty.

Reagan focused on the monstrous, $600 billion continuing resolution passed by Congress last December, almost three months after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Reagan produced the actual budget bills and conference report he received. He held each of the three documents up in turn, recounted its length in pages and weight in pounds and dropped it with a resounding thud into a stack on a nearby desk.

Then he explained that he had received those "43 pounds of paper and ink" only three hours before he had to sign them or have the government shut down. Reagan's bit of "show and tell" dramatized the absurdity of having the budget of the greatest nation on earth handled in such a fashion. And his call for budget reform must be heeded.

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times

Says let's cut the black budget

At long last, Congress has gotten up the courage to demand a peek at the Pentagon's so-called black budget. But even this effort will likely prove insufficient.

For years the Pentagon has maintained a special classified budget for top-secret military and intelligence programs. The official rationale was that the programs were of such high national security value that Congress was given only the barest details — if any at all.

But sensitive national security interests can be protected without abolishing the principle of accountability. The Reagan administration has grossly abused this funding method.

It is estimated that under Reagan the black budget has increased more than eightfold. One press account places the figure at $35 billion and climbing.

If so, that means the Pentagon's black budget alone is larger than the military of any other nation, save the Soviet Union.

The White House argument that secrecy is justified on national security grounds is nonsense. Congress has a constitutional duty to see where the money is going; it should demand full disclosure.

Wright's PR man needs to take some lessons

By JACK ANDERSON
DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Everybody needs an image maker these days. House Speaker Jim Wright hired one with a specific mission — to clean up the little "inaccuracies and misimpressions" circulating in the media about the misunderstood Democrat from Texas.

But Wright's image maker has run amok, peppering national news organizations with amateurish, poison-pen letters that have left Wright looking absurd. Now his image maker needs an image maker.

Wright's hit man is his new chief press officer, George Mair, and we have become one of his targets. The Washington Post reports that we are in good company. Mair has also aimed his pen at the Los Angeles Times, the Wall Street

We got under Wright's skin when we were the first to report nearly a year ago that the congressman was using his considerable influence to keep the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. from closing a couple of savings and loans in his home state.

MIA movie reinforces social issue

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Social issues will do you in every time — and they have a weird way of making themselves noticed in fringe-audience movies.

Take the latest Chuck Norris picture, "Braddock: Missing in Action III."

The missing in action genre really got its start about two years before the first one, when Gene Hackman starred in "Uncommon Valor." Since then, everybody from Chuck Norris to Thomas Sullivan Backman has done at least one back-to-rescue-a-P.O.W.-buddy episode.

But this time, I think, Norris has beaten everybody else to the punch — at least, his is the first movie I'm aware of that's built around rescuing Amerasian children from Viet Nam and its vicinity.

I don't go to movies often. The ones I like, usually, I choose for a simple reason: recreation (read escape). So it surprised me when I found myself thinking about the premise of this movie the next day.

I don't make exceptions very often. I did watch "The Killing Fields," back when it first was issued, and the movie stunned me.

I won't attempt to draw parallels between the two films, but I will say this: The underlying issues beneath the images are similar.

The point is we're beginning to come to grips with what happened in Viet Nam. I don't mean the "Rambo" phenomenon, though I must admit "Tour of Duty" has moments that seem to merit watching.

I mean something different altogether. We're starting to let ourselves look back as a nation and see what we did, what we should have done and what we could have done better, and accept those images as unchangeable facts.

I hope we can figure a way to build a better future on the foundation of those facts, but I don't know if we're ready for that yet.

I do know we ought to do something besides sweep the whole concept of Viet Nam under the rug of forgetfulness. We did that with Korea, pretty well. We're trying hard to do that with Iran.

Pretty soon it will become good strategy to do the same with Nicaragua and the Contras — not just the Washington scandal, but the nation and the insurrection.

After you've been around awhile, you figure out that you can't trust the government unless you're watching it, and even then you shouldn't believe everything you see. "Norris" movie hammers the audience over the head with that message — but then, Chuck Norris is not known for his subtlety.

Sometimes, the stuff he does is so bad it's good, in a comic, absurd sense. This film comes very close to that standard. What prevents it is that it's about a side of Viet Nam we haven't looked closely at yet.

There are several thousand adolescent youngsters in Asia whose fathers were American. Not all of them are soldiers' children; many are. Not all are Caucasians' children; some are.

Most of them, in fact, are "children of the dust." Their mixed parentage makes them subhuman in the eyes of the Orient, and their American heritage puts another strike against them in the eyes of the pro-Soviet Vietnamese regime.

We disbelieved and then forgot the slaughter that followed the fall of Cambodia, now Kampuchea; we disbelieved and are forgetting the horrors that followed the pullout from South Vietnam.

We're aggravated when we discover Vietnamese exiles outscoring U.S.-born children in college entrance examinations, and we're furious when we find ourselves coming in second to the one-time boat people who have taken up shrimping or fishing along our coasts.

But the youngsters we left behind in Southeast Asia are not refugees. They're not exiles. They're not boat people. They're not foreigners.

They're our children. Someday, we're going to have to answer for turning our backs on them — if not to their faces, then to ours in the mirror.

The last of the insultees found

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

A caller had a question: Did Jimmy the Greek get fired because of what he said about black people or what he said about white people?

Lewis Grizzard

"Don't you read the papers?" I asked back.

"He said black people were bred to have big thighs. CBS couldn't keep a guy around who says things like that."

"I know," said the caller, "but he also said white athletes are lazy. I'm white and I resent that."

I dismissed the caller as racist, and probably a conservative Republican or a Rotarian on top of that. Upon some later reflection, however, I realized the caller had given birth to an interesting question.

We know from the purges of Snyder, the Los Angeles Dodgers' Al Campanis, and likely that of Gov. Mecham of Arizona that, if you make insulting remarks about black people, you can lose your job.

But Gov. Mecham is also in trouble for remarks he made about the shape of Japanese people's eyes and before that, he insulted gays and women.

So the question is, who can you insult and get away with it these days?

I once insulted the French and the Spanish because they wouldn't help us bomb that idiot Khadafy.

I got angry letters from both French and Spanish people and was called a xenophobic.

I wrote back and said, "I am not a xenophobic. I messed only with girls roughly my own age, except for that time in Tulsa, which wasn't my fault."

Later, I found out xenophobic meant fear of foreigners. I'm not afraid of all foreigners, just idiots like Khadafy.

And speaking of Arabs, I also said once I'd like to see an American hijack an Arab airliner so we could make demands on them for a change.

My first demand I mentioned would be for those people to start wearing clothes that match.

I got a letter from the Anti-Arab Defamation League after that. Since then, no more camel jokes.

So. Blacks are out as insult targets as are women, of course, and gays and anybody foreign. Anti-Semitism is ugly and vile and every effort should be made to stop it, also.

And who does that leave? The caller who resented Jimmy the Greek saying white athletes were lazy was all wrong because we're it.

Specifically, I am speaking of white Anglo-Saxon Protestant straight males. We are all that is left to shoot at with reckless abandon.

There's a reason for that, of course. We've been on top for a long time and now we have to pay the price, I suppose, by being the fish in the barrel.

Want to insult a white man? How about President Reagan, he's one.

You can use this: Know what you would get if you crossed James Dean with President Reagan?

A rebel without a clue.

Want another one? Have you heard they're changing the name of the Super Bowl in honor of Jimmy the Greek?

Now it's called The Breeders' Cup.

Wasn't that fun? I must leave you now, however; my xenophobia is acting up and I have to lie down. I just saw a shot of Yasir Arafat on television.

Gays protest church

NEW YORK (AP) — A protest Mass celebrated outside St. Patrick's Cathedral led to the arrest of 23 homosexuals demonstrating against what they consider to be their exclusion from the church.

The demonstration Sunday was the latest in a series by Dignity, an organization of homosexual Roman Catholics that has been banned from using facilities of the New York archdiocese.

A state Supreme Court judge issued an injunction last week barring Dignity members' silent demonstrations inside the cathedral, as they have done regularly during Sunday church services. Based on the ruling, Dignity members and their supporters took their protest outside, where temperatures hovered around 15 degrees.

Ex-wife halts killings

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A woman who wrestled a pistol away from her ex-husband after he killed three people at a family gathering may have saved the lives of 10 others in the home, police say.

Thomas Schrader, 33, died Sunday of a gunshot wound he inflicted upon himself Saturday night after killing his girlfriend, father and older brother, police said.

Autopsies were being performed today on the four bodies.

Police think Schrader, who may have been undergoing treatment for mental problems, was trying to shoot everyone in the house, police officer Michael J. McCormick said Sunday.

Set-up led to shootout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An undercover drug buy that ended in a shootout that killed two federal drug agents and two heroin dealers was a robbery set-up by the Thai dealers, authorities said.

"This is the underworld at its worst," agent Roger Guevara of the Drug Enforcement Agency said Sunday.

The gunfight broke out when agents tried to buy two pounds of heroin. But the alleged drug traffickers apparently wanted only to steal the $90,000 being used for the set-up, Guevara said.

Also Sunday, DEA agent Jose Martinez, 25, was released from Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, where he was treated for a leg wound suffered in the gun battle Friday.

The suspects may be part of the so-called Golden Triangle connection, a heroin trafficking network that exports the drug from Thailand, Burma and Laos to the United States, DEA spokesman Robert Feldkamp said.

Plane crash

21 feared dead in German tragedy

MUELHEIM, West Germany (AP) — A commuter airliner with 21 people aboard crashed during a storm today, and witnesses told police it was on fire before it smashed into the ground.

There were no reports of survivors.

"There was a fireball in the air," a police official said, describing eyewitness reports of the crash 10 miles north of Duesseldorf.

It was West Germany's worst plane crash in 17 years, according to the federal Aviation Administration in Braunschweig. In September 1971, 21 people died when an airliner went down near Hamburg.

A police spokesman said wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Federal flight authorities in Frankfurt said the plane was on a flight from Hanover to Duesseldorf airport when it crashed about seven miles short of its destination.

Snow and rain squalls with gusty winds were moving through the region at the time of the crash, officials said.

A spokesman for federal flight control authorities in Frankfurt, Hans-Ulrich Ohl, said the plane crashed at 7:57 a.m. local time.

He said the plane, a twin-engine turboprop FA-4 Metroliner, belonged to the Nuremberg Flight Service. The spokesman said 19 passengers and a crew of two were on board at the time of the crash.

"The aircraft just disappeared from our radar screens without warning," the spokesman said.

He said the plane did not crash in a residential area. "As far as I know, there were no injuries on the ground," the spokesman said.

A Nuremberg Flight Service official said the flight crew had not reported any difficulties before the crash. "This leads us to believe that what occurred was a completely unforeseen circumstance," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Hamadi indicted

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Mohammed Ali Hamadi, the Lebanese whose arrest prompted the kidnapping of two West Germans in Beirut, was indicted today on charges of murder and air piracy in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner, officials said.

The Hesse state court in Frankfurt also returned indictments charging Hamadi with illegal possession of explosives and carrying false documents.

A U.S. Navy diver was killed in the 1985 hijacking and 39 Americans were held hostage in Beirut for 17 days.

Hamadi was arrested in January 1987 at Frankfurt Airport after customs officials found explosives in his baggage.

In the next week, two West Germans were kidnapped in Beirut. The West German government subsequently rejected a U.S. request to extradite Hamadi.

Young-sam resigns

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — In a surprise announcement, Kim Young-sam said today he was resigning as president of the main opposition party to help reunite the opposition and atone for his defeat in the presidential election.

Kim, head of the Reunification Democratic Party, told reporters he hoped his resignation would restore peoples' faith in the opposition. He said the opposition must reunite if it wants to avoid a shattering defeat in upcoming legislative elections.

"For a speedy reunification of the opposition bloc, I declare my resignation as the president of the RPD," he told a news conference.

"I hope my decision today will serve to inspire new hope and courage in the people who are in despair," he added.

Activists give support

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Leslie F. Manigat did not win over opposition leaders with an inaugural address that stressed national unity and promised better living standards, but some said they would give him a chance.

Although opposition activists boycotted the junta-run Jan. 17 election that Manigat won and called the balloting a sham, they said they would stop, at least for a time, their strident criticism and organization of general strikes.

"I won't make any more attacks on Mr. Manigat. He is the president," businessman Louis Dejoie II, a popular political leader, said in a telephone interview after Sunday's inauguration.

"We will give Mr. Manigat every chance to do what he can for the country," said Dejoie.

Panel member says Waldheim cognizant

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A member of the panel probing Kurt Waldheim's past was quoted today as saying the Austrian president knew about Nazi war crimes while serving in the German army and could have done more to prevent atrocities.

But Manfred Messerschmidt reportedly told the Bonn newspaper Die Welt that the commission found no proof that Waldheim committed any crimes.

"There were other officers those days who found ways to prevent the worst from happening," the newspaper quoted Messerschmidt as saying. "There is no personally guilty behavior on his part, but he knew about what was taking place," the West German historian said. "The accusation of participation in war crimes must therefore be taken as refuted."

Swiss historian Hans Rudolf Kurz, who heads the six-member, government-appointed commission, emphasized the report was "critical" and "severe."

The international panel was to present their report to the government and Waldheim late today.

There were signs the report was straining Austria's uneasy coalition government of conservatives and Socialists.

According to Die Welt, Messerschmidt said Waldheim as a young officer routinely got reports that clearly indicated what was happening in the regions in which he served in the Balkans. Die Welt said it would print the interview in Tuesday's editions; it was telexed in advance to other news media.

The Nazis killed or deported thousands of partisans, Jews and other civilians in Yugoslavia and Greece from 1942 to 1945.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1988
Highland Mall
BIG SPRING, TEXAS

A Service of Health & Safety Committee
Of
Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 263-7641. The Mobil Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Big Spring at the Highland Mall.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

I. 35-40 years of age — One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age — A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over. An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

For more information or to make an appointment call 263-7641.

Solution raises readers' eyebrows

DEAR ABBY: I am outraged at your answer to "Bearded in Boston," the 27-year-old man who paid for his own education and is doing well on his own. He had been living away from his family (out of state) for the last five years, and when he returned with a beard, his father told him that if he wanted to come home again, he'd have to shave off his beard.

"Bearded" said he liked the beard and all his friends thought it looked great; then he asked you: "If I shave it off, what will I tell my friends?" Your reply: "Tell your friends your father refused to let you come home unless you shaved your beard."

Abby, why didn't you tell him to keep his beard, come home and stay somewhere else?

OUTRAGED IN BALTIMORE
DEAR OUTRAGED: From the mail I received, I didn't make myself clear. I did not advise "Bearded" to shave off his beard. I told him that if he shaved his beard, he should tell his friends that his father wouldn't let him come home unless he got rid of the beard.

Had "Bearded" asked, "Should I shave it off?" I would have replied: "As a 27-year-old self-supporting adult, you should tell your father that you didn't need his permission to wear a beard — and if you're not welcome to say with the family, you will arrange to stay somewhere else."

As a communicator, I flunked on this one. Pass the hemlock.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "Chicago Attorney," who thinks all obituaries should state cause of death as a "warning" to others, that one cannot correctly assume that every person who dies of lung cancer was a heavy smoker.

Fourteen months ago, I was diagnosed as having "adenocarcinoma" (cancer) of my left lung. (It had already spread to the lymph nodes.) Although my prognosis was exceedingly grim this time last year, by the grace and mercy of God, my treatment was successful and today I am just fine. And by the way, Abby, I have never smoked a cigarette in my entire life!

LUCKY IN PULLMAN, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who recently went to work for a well-known national firm. One of the male employees walked up to me and said, "Do you want to hear a cute joke?"

I asked, "Is it dirty? to which he replied, "Not for an adult as sophisticated as you."

I smiled and countered with, "I may not be as sophisticated as you think I am, so let's forget the joke, OK?"

He looked startled, and I could see that he was offended. The word soon got around that "the new woman" is a prude. I am not really a prude, Abby, but I don't care for dirty jokes. Do you think I was wrong to respond as I did? Or should I have let him tell me the joke, pretended to enjoy it and let it go at that?

NEWCOMER

DEAR NEWCOMER: I think you handled an awkward situation very well. To listen to offensive jokes and pretend to "enjoy" them would only have encouraged more of the same. There is nothing prudish about high standards.

Sampson's reaction saves life

Alert from a security police team doesn't always mean time spent providing security at the launch Control Facilities or at the missile sites.

Sometimes there might be something that occurs on the trip enroute to or from the alert.

On Jan. 1 Airman 1st Class Carey Sampson and Airman 1st Class Michael Cassidy of the 343rd Missile Security Squadron were driving back from an alert near Harlowtown when they discovered a vehicle on the side of the road. They found a woman unconscious and slumped halfway out of the vehicle.

After checking the woman's vital signs they treated her for shock, wrapping her in blankets to maintain her body temperature.

While they were treating her, Montana Highway Patrolmen arrived on the scene, responding to the assistance called for by the two airmen.

"Their quick reaction saved the woman from hypothermia and possible death," Patrolman Jim Rosenberg said.

Wheatland County Deputy Rob Hood agreed with Patrolman Rosenberg.

"Their quick reactions in dealing with this situation greatly contributed to saving her life and greatly shortened her hospital stay," Deputy Hood said.

"We felt it was our duty," said Airman Sampson. "The dedication that the Air Force has given us really helped a lot. Without that training we may not have saved her life."

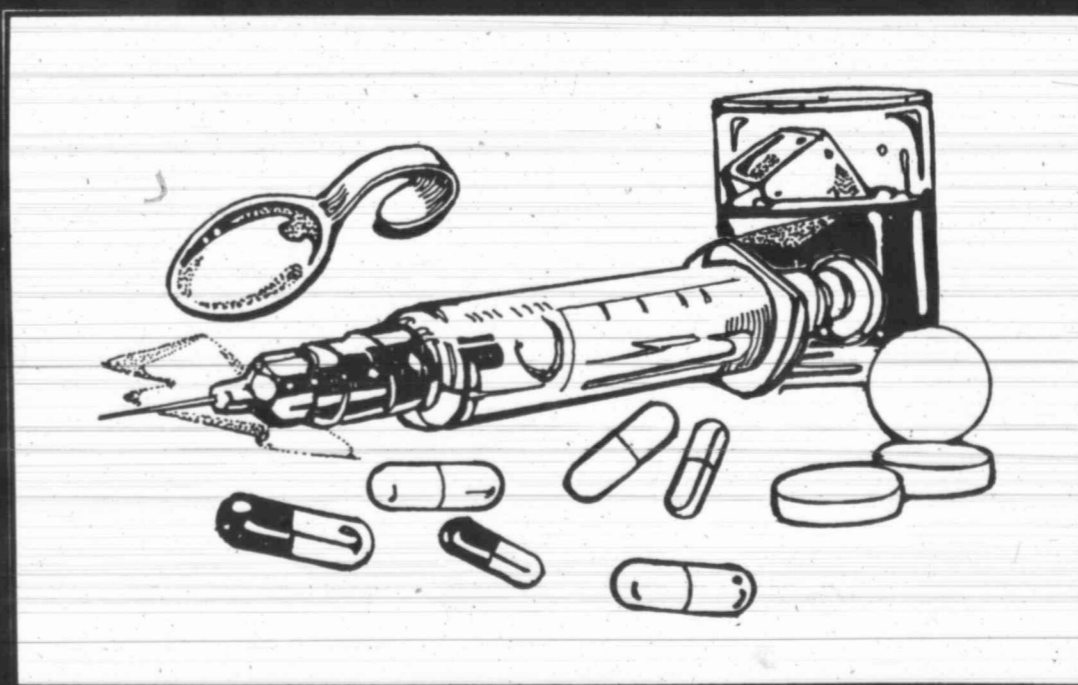

"You have to be prepared every time you go on alert," the airman said. "You can never tell what's going to happen during the alert or on the trip going or coming." The efforts of Airmen Sampson and Cassidy earned each of them the Air Force Achievement Medal, awarded Jan. 14 by Col. Edward

AFC victorious in 'Turnover Bowl'

HONOLULU (AP) — Joe Montana had an explanation for the fact that the defenses dominated the Pro Bowl, as they often do.

"When you have so little time together, trying to do things on offense is much more unnatural than on defense," he said.

Montana, the San Francisco 49ers' quarterback and the NFC starter Sunday, provided an example of how difficult it is to get offensive timing down in just five days of practice.

He was victimized for two interceptions and a safety as the AFC beat the NFC 15-6 in a mistake-marred Pro Bowl game.

There were a total of 10 turnovers, five by each team. The game's only touchdown came on a 1-yard rollout by Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly in the second quarter.

"I think the defense in this situation will tend to look better because the offense isn't as complicated as usual, but I'm not sure," said Kelly, making his first NFL All-Star appearance.

"Hopefully this will be yearly event for me, so I can find out."

"It's difficult to put together an offense in just a few days," said Jerry Burns of the Minnesota Vikings, the NFC coach. "Our pass protection was poor and the timing of our passing and running game was poor."

"Neither team was able to provide any offensive firepower," NFC offensive guard Dennis Harrah of the Los Angeles Rams, who has announced his retirement, said the turnovers may have been due to the fact that the game was rougher than the five previous Pro Bowl games he had played in.

"It was the hardest-hitting Pro Bowl I've been in," said Harrah, who got in a fight early in the game with AFC nose tackle Bill Maas of Kansas City. "I think that made a difference in the turnovers."

Dean Biasucci of the Indianapolis Colts kicked a pair of field goals for the AFC, and Morten Andersen of the New Orleans Saints provided all the NFC scoring with two field goals.

The other AFC points came when Montana stepped out of his own end zone under a heavy pass rush in the fourth quarter.

The AFC gave away four fumbles and one interception. The NFC was victimized for four interceptions and one lost fumble.

End Bruce Smith of Buffalo, selected the game's Most Valuable Player, had five tackles, two quarterback sacks and a pass deflection for the AFC.

"When you have people like Howie Long, Bill Maas and Jacob Green on the inside, they make it easier to get up the field and to the quarterback," Smith said. "The game was more physical than I thought it would be."

Maas had six tackles and two assists for the AFC.

End Reggie White of the Eagles, last year's Pro Bowl MVP, led the NFC with nine tackles and one sack.

Losing streak comes to halt

DALLAS (AP) — After snapping a record 86-game losing streak, the University Dallas Crusaders now are hoping to add some more numbers to the win column before the end of the season.

The small Catholic school defeated John Brown 76-68 on Saturday night, snapping a winless streak that nearly spanned three seasons and was the longest ever for a four-year college.

Moments after Coach Barry Davis was doused with ice water and the basketball nets were cut down, the celebration began in earnest. Davis, his players and students gathered on the campus at Irving, and spent the postgame hours congratulating each other when they heard their accomplishment broadcast nationwide.

"They ran a little blurb on ESPN saying congratulations," Davis said. "At that point, the place went crazy."

Davis said he was especially happy for senior captain Steve Prud'homme, who scored 20 points against John Brown.

Davis, who played college basketball at St. Lawrence, has been the Crusaders' coach since the team was organized in 1985.

The 1,200-student college has high academic standards and doesn't offer athletic scholarships, and Davis said he has had to build his team from "glorified YMCA stars."

The Chicano Golf Association will meet Friday, Feb. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

All association members and anyone wishing to join, are encouraged to attend.

Jordan fuels East victory

CHICAGO (AP) — This one was for the hometown kid and the old man.

Michael Jordan, buoyed by his home fans, scored 40 points and was selected Most Valuable Player as the East defeated the West 138-133 Sunday in the NBA All-Star game.

With 52 seconds left, the fans began chanting, "Jabbar, Jabbar," and 40-year-old Kareem Abdul-Jabbar came back into the game and hit a sky hook to become the all-time leading All-Star scorer with 247 points in 17 appearances.

Jordan, 24, was making only his third All-Star appearance. Although he had scored only 18 total points in his two previous games, there was no doubt that this was Michael Jordan weekend at Chicago Stadium.

"Our guys wanted to get him the ball as much as possible," said Philadelphia's Charles Barkley, one of Jordan's teammates on the East squad.

After winning his second consecutive slam-dunk title a day earlier, Jordan connected on 17 of 23 shots from the field and was the unanimous choice for MVP. His 40 points were just two short of Wilt Chamberlain's All-Star Game record of 42, set in 1962.

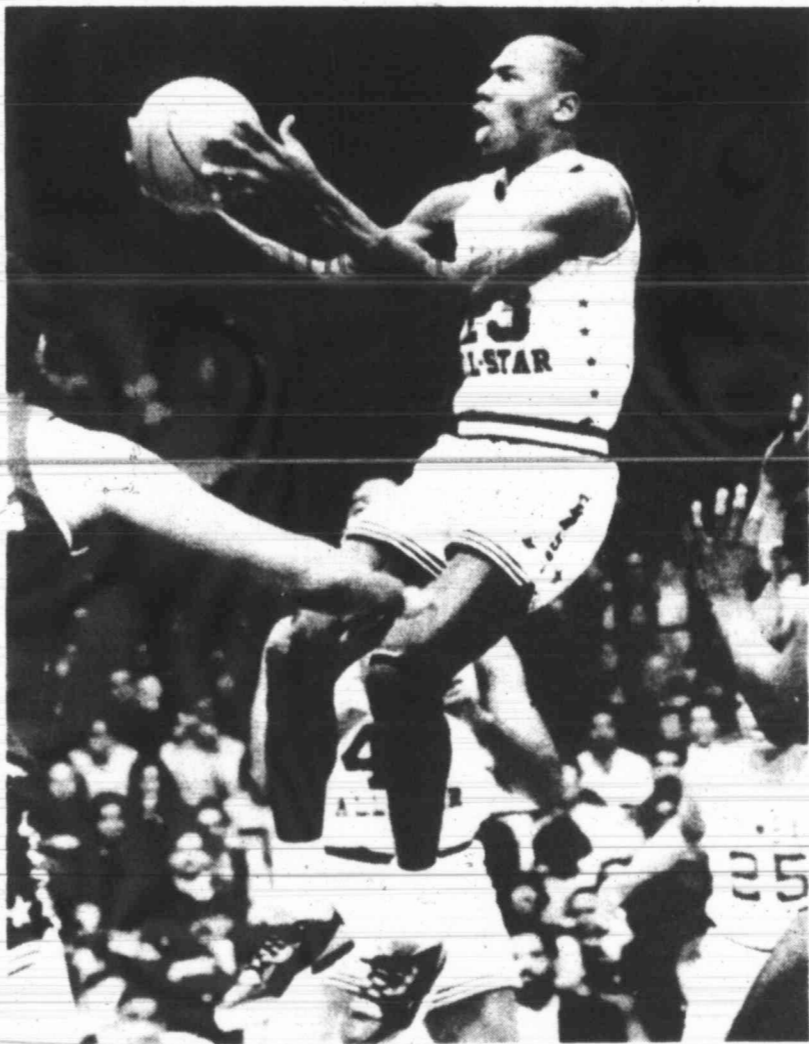

By giving him the ball, he said, "the players were paying me a home-court tribute."

"It made me proud to play in front of the home fans, and in front of my family, fiance and friends," Jordan said.

"I think there were a lot of expectations as far as me getting MVP. My expectations were just to have a good game."

Magic Johnson, who finished with 17 points and 19 assists for the West, said Jordan handled the weekend All-Star pressure well.

"You've got it (pressure) already in the slam-dunk (contest) ... and then you have got out and actually do it (in a game). It's a lot of pressure, but the great ones come through. And that's what he did. And I think he did not only for himself but for the city of Chicago," Johnson said.

CHICAGO — Chicago Bulls' Michael Jordan of the NBA East team flies through the air, on his way to a basket in Sunday's NBA All-Star game. Jordan's 40 points led the East to a win. Jordan was named the game's MVP and also won the slam dunk contest on Saturday.

Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins, who lost to Jordan on the final jam in Saturday's slam-dunk competition, added 29 points for the East, which now leads the All-Star series 25-13. But Wilkins had no hard feelings about playing second fiddle two days in a row.

"Michael and I have been close friends," Wilkins said. "He's a great player and it's a great city for him. Naturally, the attention is going to be on him. I was just having fun."

Jordan scored 18 points and Wilkins 13 as the East built a 60-54 lead at halftime. The West pulled to within 78-75 with 5:52 left in the third quarter on a layup by Xavier McDaniel, but Wilkins scored twice and Larry Bird once to put the East ahead 84-75.

Jordan sat out eight minutes over the last two periods with foul trouble, but the East still managed to stretch its advantage to 15 points, sparked by Wilkins and Danny Ainge, whose three 3-point baskets tied a record set by Isaiah Thomas in 1985. Jordan came back to score 16 points in the final 5:50 to put the game away.

Karl Malone led the West with 22 points, Akeem Olajuwon had 21 and Lafayette Lever 17. Johnson's 19 assists were three short of the record 22 he set in 1984.

Bird remained king of the long-distance shootout, capturing his third consecutive title Saturday by outdueling Seattle's Dale Ellis 17-15. He scored only six points in Sunday's game, but said his East teammates played well.

Jabbar, who finished with 10 points, said he wasn't thinking about joining the old-timers.

"I can't watch the Legends game," he said. "Half the people in the Legends game are younger than I am."

"It's not depressing. It's just very ironic. It tells me I've done quite a remarkable job just being out here on the court. They (legends) don't look good, they don't look healthy."

After having a basket taken away earlier because of offensive goaltending, Jabbar was pleased to finally break the record with 44 seconds left, on a 10-foot skyhook off a pass from Johnson. And for Johnson, it was a thrill to watch.

"I saw the look on his face after he did it, and it was special."

Eighteen-foot putt sinks Tway

Jones win Pebble in sudden-death

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The putter was the winner for Steve Jones. It also was the eraser.

"A hot putter can erase a lot of bad swings," Jones said after he'd twice blown the lead and still held on to score a sudden-death playoff victory Sunday in the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

Bob Tway was the victim of Jones' winning 18-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole, the par-3 17th at Pebble Beach.

"It was great putt," Tway said. "I don't feel like I lost it. I just feel like Steve won it."

But it was a near thing, this first individual career victory for the rangy, 29-year-old Jones.

He had a 3-shot lead when play started. By the fifth hole, he was behind. He regained the lead, one-putting six consecutive holes, then backed off into a tie for the lead.

"It's very difficult to go out and play with the lead," Tway said. "Sometimes it's much easier to come from behind."

Tway did just that.

Seeking his first victory since beating Greg Norman in the 1986 PGA, Tway came from six strokes back with a 68 and was standing by the 18th green when Jones came to the final hole of regulation play with an 8-foot birdie putt to win it.

He missed that one, finishing the last round with a 2-over-par 74, and the playoff was on, beginning on the 16th. After that was halved in pars, Jones dropped the winner on the 17th, a putt worth $126,000 from the total purse of $700,000.

It also helped ease the memory of a pushed tee shot that cost him the title on the final hole of the 1987 Heritage Classic.

"This will mean a lot for me," Jones said. "This gives me the confidence that comes with winning; it gives me the winners' edge when I get in this situation again."

Norman, trying to overcome a 9-shot last-round deficit, came within one with a 66 that left him one shot out of the playoff at 281.

Former Masters champions Bernhard Langer of West Germany and Craig Stadler, along with Tom Sieckmann and Jim Carter were another stroke back at 282.

Langer moved into the lead on the fifth hole, but bogeyed five of seven beginning on the ninth. He finished with a 73. So did Stadler, who once mocked a bite at his balky putter. Sieckmann had a closing 70, Carter 71.

Lopez survives wind

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Nancy Lopez was breezing to the championship of the LPGA's $200,000 Mazda Classic until a 25-mph wind almost blew it away.

Lopez, who took a four-stroke lead into Sunday's final round, survived the weather and bogeys on three of her first seven holes for a two-stroke victory and the $30,000 first prize.

Lopez also received a pep talk from her husband, Baltimore Orioles third baseman Ray Knight.

"I did kick her in the butt a little bit on the fourth hole," Knight said. "I just wanted her to be aggressive, wind or no wind. She plays best when she's aggressive."

Lopez had a 1-over-par 37 on the back nine to outlast the rest of the field and finish with a 3-over 75 and a 72-hole score of 5-under 283 at the 6,368-yard

Stonebridge Golf and Country Club course.

Marta Figueras-Dotti of Spain made birdie putts of 70 and 12 feet on the last two holes for a 73 to finish second at 285 in the season-opening event on the LPGA Tour.

Jan Stephenson, who was Lopez's biggest threat in the final round, found a bunker on No. 18 and took a double bogey to finish with a 74 and end tied for third at 288 with Heather Farr, Amy Benz, Patty Sheehan, Juli Inkster and Martha Foyer, whose previous best finish was a tie for 24th.

Inkster had the day's best round, a 68. Fourteen golfers shot 80 or above.

Lopez' championship was her 37th on the tour but her first in a season-opener.

Lopez took the lead for good in the second round.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may feel a little bit aggravated this morning by some difficulties in communications, but don't try to force any issues or lose your temper. Think out a course of action and follow it carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't become upset if you have to postpone working on a new project, but get busy and keep those promises you have made.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Refrain from lending money to a mere acquaintance, or you will surely lose it. Try to be more understanding to an associate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You will get the assistance you need if you try to cooperate more with a fellow worker. Be sure to obey all rules and regulations.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Take some time for a little relaxation today, and later you can get down to business with much energy and enthusiasm.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may feel torn between idealistic and materialistic ideas, so try to strike a balance between the two. Invite guests into your home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If someone "stands you up" today, use the time to visit some friends you haven't seen for a long time. Be extra careful while driving.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't leave any important practical matters unattended to pursue a new interest which is not worthwhile. Keep your nose to the grindstone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Much good can come of a get-together with friends who have the same interests as you. Don't spend too much money this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to use logic to settle an argument between a family member and a stranger. Be more understanding of your mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't let a letter you receive keep you from sticking to your schedule. Maintain a positive attitude despite any difficulties which arise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't allow an easygoing friend to waste your time and keep you from important work. Be sure to complete any orders from superiors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This evening would be a fine time to invite some good friends into your abode. Get everything in order first, and have a fine time together.

If Your Child Is Born Today

He or she will have to deal with many unexpected events throughout the lifetime, and should be taught how to react quickly without making bad decisions. Your progeny will have a very studious and curious nature, and would do well in research work.
