A pilot who escaped on foot from a Borden County airstrip after delivering more than 1,200 pounds of marijuana to a location near Possum Kingdom Lake is not actively being sought by law enforcement officials, a Drug Enforcement Administration agent said

"We know who he is," said Ed Mazurek, resident agent in charge at the Lubbock DEA office.

The pilot, who allegedly carried the marijuana into Texas from Mexico, may still be in Borden County and might be in Austin, Mazurek said.

"There are no arrest warrants at this time," Mazurek said, refusing to disclose the suspect's identity. Information concerning the case will be brought before a federal grand jury in Lubbock. No date has been set, he said.

Possum Kingdom Lake is located approximately 70 miles south of Wichita Falls.

A proposed Vietnam veteran's memorial on the campus of SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf is closer to reality following a meeting of the Howard College Board of Trustees Tuesday afternoon.

The local memorial committee, headed by Charlie Lewis, is awaiting a copy of the group's charter before any further action can be taken, College President Bob Riley

After the charter is received, a draft of the committee will be arranged and forwarded to the federal Department of Education, which owns the land, Riley said.

Once DOE permission is granted, the lease agreement has to be finalized by the board before construction on the two-acre plot of land can begin. Although Riley said he doesn't anticipate any further difficulty in getting approval, he warned that it may be several months before actual construction can begin.

Trials set in cases of deaths

By KERRY HAGLUND Staff Writer

A murder trial involving a Big Spring defendant and an involuntary manslaughter trial in which a father allegedly shot his son are scheduled to go to trial next week in 118th District Court.

Juries are scheduled to be chosen for the two cases Monday.

Assistant District Attorney William Dupree is scheduled to prosecute Richard Delmer Cantwell, 46, Gail Route Box 270, who is accused of involuntary manslaughter in the October 1986 death of his son, Richard Del Cantwell

Testimony is expected to begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The state will attempt to prove Cantwell behaved recklessly, "It was a reckless altercation on Oct. 19, 1986 in which a firearm was discharged," he said.

"The facts are pretty much undisputed," Big Spring defense attorney Don Richard said.

"It was a classic family argument that kids and parents get into ... an accident," said Richard, who reported a lack of evidence to suggest the shooting was intentional

A Howard County grand jury indictment filed Jan. 28, 1987 charged Cantwell recklessly caused the death of his son by discharging a firearm with disregard to the risk involved in the action.

Involuntary manslaughter is a third degree felony punishable by two to 10 years imprisonment and up to a $5,000 fine. Jurors also could elect to grant probation, Dupree

The assistant district attorney said he expected testimony in the case to be completed by Wednesday.

Testimony in connection with the 1987 shooting death of Israel Pacheco - in which Roland Garcia, 21, of Big Spring is charged with murder — probably will begin Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning, Dupree said.

District Attorney Rick Hamby will prosecute the case. Garcia is represented by Lubbock attorney Luis Avila.

The case involves a July 3 shooting in the parking lot of Town & Country Food Store, 1101 N. Lamesa Highway, in which Garcia allegedly shot Pacheco after the two began arguing and fighting, according to police reports.

Pacheco, 24, 707 N. Douglas St., was declared dead on arrival to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital during the early morning hours of

Experts saying Bush's win may be short-lived

HERALD BUREAU REPORT AUSTIN - While George Bush's

supporters say his New Hampshire victory lays the foundation for a large win in next month's Super Tuesday primaries, several political experts say Bush could still have some vulnerable spots before the campaign heads South.

Just a few days ago, Bush was being painted as a wounded frontrunner who would have to rely on the March 8 megaprimary to revitalize his campaign after his dismal third-place showing in Iowa last week.

Related story page 6-A

But his performance in New Hampshire will make it easier to win in the South, where he has strong poll support and has been busy lining up endorsements from key Republican leaders, his Texas campaign spokesmen said.

Tom Loeffler, Bush's Texas campaign co-chairman, said the New Hampshire victory "shows the real George Bush. He's stout. He's tough. He's strong and he can't be kept down." Jim Oberwetter, Bush's Texas campaign director, said the Bush campaign was "back on track. Things are looking bright and we're coming into friendlier territory - Texas and the other states of Super Tuesday.'

Dr. Merle Black, an expert on Southern politics at the University of North Carolina, called Bush's Tuesday win "a big comeback. I think this will allow Bush to play his Southern strategy of relying on endorsements of other elected Republican officeholders in the

But Black and Dr. Richard Murray of the University of Houston both noted that Bush had not earned a huge victory in New Hampshire.

"He's not an overwhelming frontrunner," Murray said. "It's not a great place to finish in your own backyard. But he's still in a good position when the race heads for

A strong commitment has been made to keep the Rainbow Project in operation.

That was the consensus of a meeting of the project's board of directors Monday night, Rainbow Project president Victor Sedinger said.

Although two children are currently sheltered by the Rainbow Project of Big Spring, questions had arisen concerning the project's continuance. In light of the board's decision, however, a meeting was scheduled for Tuesday to begin a fundraising campaign for the project. The meeting originally was scheduled for today

"If there is one thing this crisis teaches," said Sedinger recently, "it is that we need to be visible in the life of the community. If we are meeting a need, then we will go once more to the people of Big Spring and Howard County. "I'm sure they will respond to us, as they have in the past, and we will continue to operate the project for the children. There's never been anyone turned away from the project." Sedinger, pastor of the First Christian Church at 911 Goliad, had expressed concerns about utilization of the project and the need to use the available funds to benefit the maximum number of people in need. Concerns about the project's continued usefulness had been based on the dwindling number of youngsters in the shelter recently, Sedinger had said.

Chancellor thankful for state support Marijuana

Staff Writer

Texas residents - through their representatives - are devoting half of the state budget to education this year, and Hans Mark thanks them for their efforts.

Mark, the chancellor of the University of Texas system, was in Big Spring Tuesday as part of a 40-city tour designed to thank state residents for supporting higher education.

"During the last session of the legislature, there was a debate over education in general, and higher education in specific," Mark said. "They decided not only to fund education properly, but to raise taxes to meet those needs.

"It wasn't easy, considering the economic conditions," he continued. "So, one of the reasons I'm here is to thank the people of this community - and their representatives - for realizing the importance of education.'

Of the $20 billion appropriated by the legislature last year, $11 billion was earmarked for education. Ten percent of the budget - $2 billion — was designated for the UT system,

Aside from thanking Texans for the appropriation, Mark also is using his tour to explain the three areas money will be used.

The first area will be to provide for the higher educational needs of Texas children. The chancellor explained that the state appropriations were important to all public school systems, not just UT.

Nearly 60 percent of money for community colleges such as Howard College in Big Spring came from the state," he said. "Without state revenue, a lot of what they do wouldn't be

The second area is economic development. Mark said he wants the UT system to "act as an engine for economic development," and cited two examples at nearby University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa.

The Permian Basin Center for Energy and Economic Diversification was recently established at the Regional Airport in Midland to develop and market new products and services. Mark noted.

UTPB also is working in conjunction with the Army in developing a new kind of artillery. Called a "rail gun," the weapon will use electomagnetic acceleration instead of standard chemically-induced acceleration, he said.

UT regents set aside land south of Odessa for the project, which Mark predicts will bring additional revenue and jobs to the West Texas

Another accomplishment that Mark is proud of is the recent decision by Sematech officials to locate in Austin. The UT system spent $50 million to attract the industry that will add $200 million to the state economy, he said.

Aside from the new jobs created by establishing industries, another long-term effect caused by these high-tech business are the 'spinoff" business that soon open nearby, he

As an example he pointed to the SSC. If it is located in Texas, it will contribute to the economy indirectly by attracting business that will develop discoveries made by the supercollider, Mark noted.

• The third use that UT will make of state revenue will be to develop state leaders, he

"The university should be the place leaders come from," Mark said. "Not just UT, but other universities as well."

One of the things that makes the UT system great, the chancellor said, are the leaders who have graduated. Of the 29 Texas representatives and senators in Washington, 17 are graduates of the UT system, as are Treasury Secretary Jim Baker and Education Secretary William Bennett.

Texas Department of Public Safety narcotics agents arrested two men and confiscated an estimated 1,230 pounds of marijuana Tuesday near the lake, according to officials.

The pilot departed and landed his craft on an isolated Borden County ranch, where authorities searched for him, officials said.

Gerald Blake Mackey of Cedar Creek was being held in Palo Pinto County Jail on $150,000 bond, and Gary M. Whittington was in an Erath County Jail on $100,000 bond following their arrests Tuesday, officials said.

Both men were arraigned on charges of aggravated possession of marijuana, said Palo Pinto Chief Deputy Allan Spurlock.

DPS Sgt. Bob Porter said customs officials and an Austin DPS agent followed the plane from Mexico to a small airstrip at Sportsmans World, a housing development on the south side of Possum Kingdom Lake.

He said the pursuit plane, which was unable to land, circled away from the area and notified agents who had been waiting on the ground. Two men loaded 40 large bundles from the KingAir aircraft into a four-horse trailer hitched to a pickup and left the scene in separate vehicles, Porter said.

The plane, meanwhile, flew off and was chased by an assault helicopter, he said.

Police chased the two men for about 15 miles before arresting them and confiscating the marijuana, valued at about $1.2 million. Porter said.

The arrests of the two men were the result of a continuing DPS-U.S. Customs investigation, Porter said. He said the plane is believed to have come from the Mexico City

April 4 trial dates were set for three capital murder defendants arraigned Tuesday in 118th District

All three are in custody in the Howard County jail in lieu of $250,000 bond each. They were indicted by a January Howard County grand jury on charges of two counts each of capital murder in connection with the October 1987 deaths of Miguel Villarreal Calixto and Norberto Gurrola Hernandez. The mens', bodies were discovered in the debris of a house near Luther that had been destroyed by fire.

Authorities believe the two were robbed and shot before the farm house they lived in northeast of Big Spring was intentionally set afire.

Officials believe Perez was slain in a Big Spring motel room in April. Pete Salazar Jr., 23, also is charged in connection with Perez'

Gregg said he's concerned about a potential conflict of interest involving three defendants being represented by the same lawyer.

Lubbock attorney Javier Alvarez is representing defendants Frankie Hernandez, Joe Hernandez and Jeannie Hernandez Fonseca. All three were indicted in connection with the death of Perez, and Fonseca also was indicted in connection with the deaths of Calixto and Hernandez

Because the three are codefendants, representation by one lawyer might cause conflict of in-Thomas, and Aguirre is terest problems, said Gregg, who plans to speak with the lawyer before taking any action to appoint separate attorneys.

the youngster was up and around. "The doctors say nothing was broken," Wilhite said. "They're going to move him out of the ICU to a regular room."

HERALD BUREAU REPORT

Soldier of Fortune magazine chose profits over responsibility when it ran a disguised murder-forhire advertisement in a publication that caters to a "subculture of violence," a lawyer claimed Tuesday.

Attorney Ronald G. Franklin told potential jurors in Houston federal court that the ad led Sandra Kay Black's husband to a hitman willing to kill the 36-year-old woman.

Black's husband has been sentenced to death and her killer is serving a life term, but not all the wrongdoers have been punished, Franklin claimed.

"We are here today because there was another participant in this crime," Franklin said. "We are here today because Soldier of Fortune magazine played a role in this crime.

But lawyers for Soldier of Fortune said magazine employees had no reason to believe that the hitman's ad was anything but an attempt to find a job.

Although Black's slaying was a 'terrible, terrible thing," Soldier of Fortune was not responsible for the actions of Black's husband and killer, said attorney Larry D. Thompson.

"The guilty parties in this tragedy have been tried and have been convicted and are being punished," Thompson said.

The lawyers spoke during jury selection in the trial of a multimillion-dollar lawsuit that claims Soldier of Fortune was negligent in accepting "thinly disguised" ads for professional

Hittner's court. Sandra Black, operator of a day care center, was shot to death Feb. 21, 1985, as she entered her Bryan home following a shopping trip.

Evidence uncovered later - including a copy of Soldier of Fortune magazine with a classified ad circled — eventually linked Black's husband, Robert V. Black Jr., to a plot to murder his wife.

Law enforcement officials claimed Robert Black wanted his wife dead so he could collect $150,000 in insurance money and join his girlfriend in California. John Wayne Hearn, the hitman whose Soldier of Fortune ad Robert Black spotted, admitted that he was paid $10,000 for killing Sandra Black Hearn had committed two other murders within 19 days of Sandra Black's slaying.

Hearn testified at Robert Black's trial that he lay in wait for several hours before Sandra Black returned home and that he fired two shots into her face as she placed grocery sacks on the kitchen table.

Hearn claimed that Robert Black helped him ransack the couple's home so police would think Sandra Black was killed by a burglar.

Robert Black was convicted of capital murder in his wife's slaying and is on death row in Huntsville.

Afghan war winds down

After eight years of atrocities and hardship imposed on the Afghan people, it would be trite to say that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's announcement of imminent withdrawal of his army from Afghanistan is welcome news.

Instead, it is recognition that while brute force may win tactical victories, it can never conquer a free people. Mr. Gorbachev last week stated his willingness to abandon the Soviet proxy regime in Kabul to its fate.

U.N. mediator Diego Cordovez announced that virtual agreement has been reached and that Afghan and Pakistani officials will meet in Geneva on March 2 for what may be the final round of indirect peace talks.

Only the "last commas and single words" were left to be agreed on, said Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Anatoli Kovalyov

The Afghan War has been a classic example of a successful guerrilla operation against superior military power. Kabul's pro-Moscow government seized power in a bloody 1978 coup. Soviet troops intervened in December 1979 and an estimated 115,000 remain. Nearly 3 million Afghans have been driven into exile - primarily in neighboring Pakistan.

But Western arms funneled through Pakistan coupled with fierce Afghani spirit enabled roving guerrilla units to turn Afghanistan into a trap for the Soviets.

Mr. Gorbachev, in his efforts to reduce external entanglements and revitalize the moribund Soviet economy, has apparently concluded it is time to cut his country's losses. His offer to withdraw 10 months after an agreement is reached has drawn criticism from the Reagan administration for being too slow.

Pakistan wants an eight-month pullout. And there is concern as to which and how many combat troops are to be withdrawn, in what order, and how the cease-fire will be struc-

The Reagan administration is correct to assert it wants to be sure that military assistance to the Afghan resistance is not ended prematurely.

But the important fact is that an end to the Soviet occupation seems near. The United States should insist that Pakistan not place any unrealistic barriers in the way of a reasonable settlement to a war no one wants.

Elections deaths at 25

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - A grenade exploded outside a building housing the Israeli Embassy, and the death toll in bloody regional elections in the southern Philippines climbed to at least 25, officials said today.

The military reported that Communist rebels were suspected in the ambush of a Philippine Constabulary patrol Tuesday in northern Luzon's Mountain province. Eight troopers were killed and another 10 wounded.

A constabulary report said one rebel was believed killed but his body was carried away by his comrades.

LONDON (AP) - The House of Lords defeated a bid to water down legislation restricting the promotion of homosexuality by local governments, making it virtually certain the measure will become law.

The Lords, the unelected upper chamber of Parliament, voted 90-48 on Tuesday night to defeat an amendment to legislation regulating local government powers.

The restriction on promoting homosexuality is included in a legislative package proposed by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative administration.

The vote represented the legislation's last parliamentary hurdle and the package has been penciled in for entry onto the statute books on June 1. The package only needs to complete a formal final reading in Parliament for it to become law

Christmas in April needs donated labor and tools to repair at least 10 homes

The date is fast approaching — Christmas in April Day, April 23 — the day when volunteers will repair at least 10 homes of our community's needy elderly. But this is a project that must have many willing hands to make it happen. A least 200 volunteers are needed, for everything from putting on a roof to hauling away trash. Donated use of equipment and tools are necessary as well.

Volunteer your own time, or get together with your friends or organizations. Just one day of your time, Saturday, April 23, is all that, Christmas in April, Inc. needs. It will make a big difference to some of our community's deserving citizens who just happen to be needy and elderly.

To schedule a slide presentation for your club call Sandy Burroughs at 263-0809.

To donate your time or tools call Don Ries, at 263-4335.

rimary win revives Bush, enhances Dukakis

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - George Bush and Michael Dukakis pointed their campaigns southward today after decisive New Hampshire victories that brought Bush back off the ropes and affirmed Dukakis' place in the top ranks of the Democratic

New Hampshire knocked no one out of the presidential races - yet - but and nine delegates, came Gephardt with 20 established Bush and Dukakis as leaders in the contests for convention delegates.

"On to the South, where we're going to rise again," exclaimed a euphoric Bush, a solid winner who had seen a 20-point lead in the polls melt in New Hampshire after his embarrassing third-place finish in Iowa a week ago behind Sen. Robert Dole and former television evangelist Pat delegates.

For his part, Dukakis found common ground with the Democrats of Dixie.

The goals, dreams, the values of the South are very much the same as the Northeast," he declared.

For all the attention they got, Granite State voters managed to keep the presidential races in both parties in turmoil, offering just enough support to also-rans to give them an excuse to struggle on toward Super Tuesday, with its enormous 20-state risks and rewards

The Republican campaign restarted with a dart Dole, denied his dream of crippling Bush with one more swift victory, snapped out an angry message for his chief rival: "Quit lying about my record."

Bush won 38 percent of the vote — and 11 delegates to the GOP convention - in nearly complete returns. Dole had 29 percent of the vote and seven delegates.

Rep. Jack Kemp of New York finished third with 13 percent, and three delegates. Former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont edged out former television evangelist Pat Robertson, each with about 10 percent of the vote. Du Pont's total was high enough to win two delegates; Robertson got none. In the delegate totals, after Bush's 61 came Dole with 42, Kemp with 35 and du Pont with two. The winning Republican Dukakis lived up to expectations by car-Dukakis lived up to expectations by carrying his neighboring state by 16 percentage points over Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, last week's winner in Iowa. Dukakis could claim a solid victory but opponents discounted it because of his status as a near-favorite son.

After Dukakis, with 36 percent of the vote ident percent and six delegates and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois was with 17 percent and three delegates.

The other Democratic finishers — Jesse Jackson with 8 percent, Sen. Albert Gore Jr. 7 percent, former Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona 5 percent and Gary Hart 4 percent didn't do well enough to pick up any

In the delegate totals, after Dukakis' 44.5 came Gephardt with 39 and Simon with 33. The victorious Democrat needs 2,082 delegates for the nomination.

Bush was exultant at his showing. Quoting Mark Twain, he said, "Reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated." Dukakis belittled Gore's regional strategy.

"Tomorrow, we head South," said the Massachusetts governor. "I don't have a Southern strategy," he said. "I don't have Northern strategy or a Western strategy. I have an American strategy.

Babbitt and Simon, both desperately short of resources, were the likeliest political fatalities from New Hampshire.

Six states will vote before Super Tuesday, but it was clear Tuesday night that the campaigns were looking ahead to March 8 when 20 states on the Democratic side and 16 on the Republican will offer the biggest one-day delegate prize of the campaign.

Bush has the strongest organization in the South while three other candidates -Republican Robertson and Democrats Gore and Jackson — have Southern roots.

debt and in deep trouble.

"This is not helping," Simon said. "From the financial point of view, if I were 3 percentage points ahead instead of 3 points behind, it would make a huge difference in collecting money."

Jackson, Robertson and Gore looked south with particular relish.

"I was born in Greenville, S.C.," said Jackson. "I went to school in North Carolina. ... I expect to get a return on my investment in the South next week.'

"I'm throwing the gauntlet down to Bob Dole and George Bush," said Robertson. 'South Carolina is the first Super Tuesday state and I'm going to beat them there convincingly.

South Carolina's Republican primary is Saturday, March 5, three days before Super Tuesday.

Gore, the Tennessee senator who passed up Iowa and spent less time than his rivals in New Hampshire, watched the returns from Houston, Texas, where he said 'Super Tuesday changes all the rules. It's a completely new ballgame.'

No one admitted to seeing any reason to drop out.

Babbitt last among the Democrats in Iowa and next to last in New Hampshire, said "No way," when asked if he had reached the end of the road. Babbitt said he would ask his supporters "how is it that we can keep this reform movement alive? What's the best way to do it? Should I wage a guerilla campaign or should I withdraw or do something else?"

Hart's comeback dream went nowhere in the state he won four years ago, but he vowed to continue his lonely fight.

'It will take at least 30 to 60 days to determine whether or not I can put together a viable candidacy," said the former Colorado senator.

"We'll do much better in the South than we did in New Hampshire," said du Pont. Said Kemp: "I am convinced as this race goes on it will narrow and it will become a Bush-Kemp or a Dole-Kemp race and I can beat one or the other.'

Cisneros positive about Alamodome deal

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mayor Henry Cisneros says he's close to striking a deal with businessmen interested in investing in the proposed $158 million

Cisneros said Monday that the private financing proposal involving some use of public tax money will

Several council members and citizens' groups have said they could not support a half-cent increase in the VIA sales tax to finance the proposed 65,000-seat domed stadium.

The mayor and VIA plan to build the facility on a 47-acre tract separated from the Convention Center by Interstate 37.

Questions & Answers

Q. What's the best pan shape for microwaving?

A. A ring shape promotes even cooking of foods that won't be stirred during cooking - cakes, breads, muffins. The microwaves penetrate food from the center, sides, top and bottom more evenly than with a square or rectangular pan.

Q. I'm on a low cholesterol diet. Will making soup stock from beef bones contribute cholesterol to my diet?

A. Yes, but only in small amounts generally within guidelines of low cholesterol diets. The beef bones, however, must be well trimmed of fat and meat, since meat is marbled with fat.

Q. What is the shelf life of flour and what storage method do you recommend?

A. From the time it's milled, all-purpose flour will keep for 12 months. Whole wheat flour stores well for eight months. Store either flour at home in a cool, dry place. To extend shelf life, freeze flour in double wrapped containers. Just be sure to bring flour to room temperatue before using it.

Q. Please tell me how to use self-rising flour in cookies and

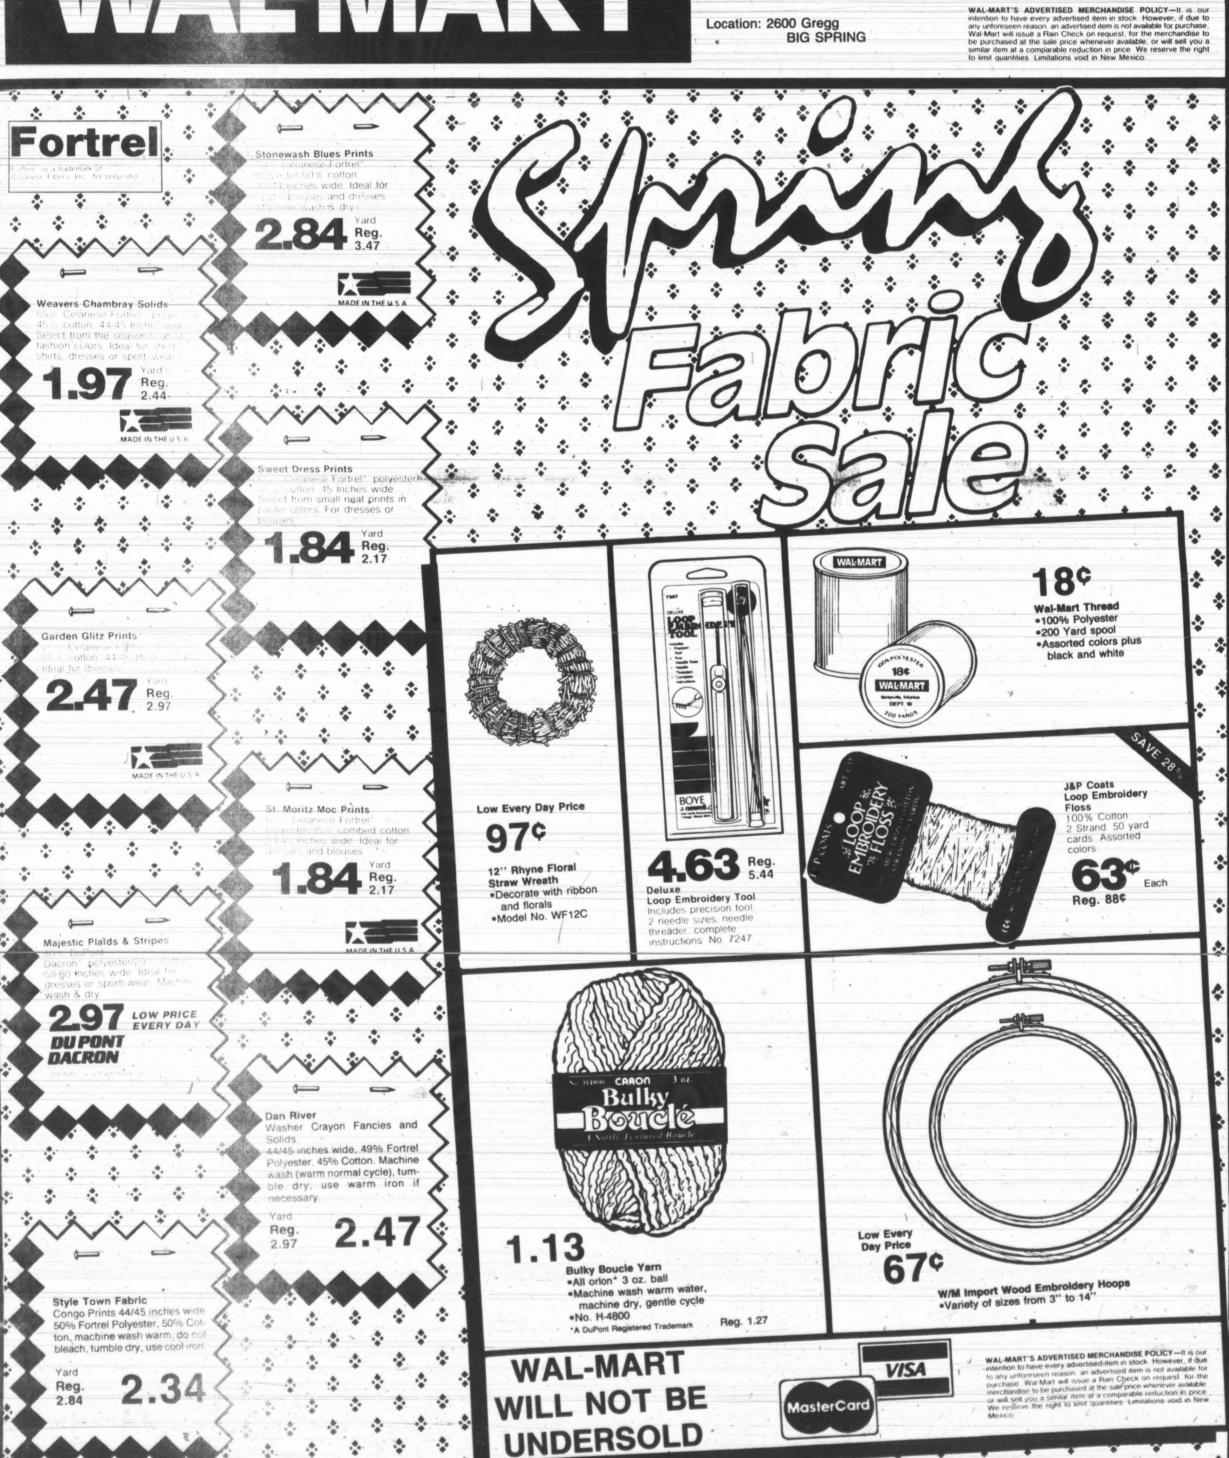

A. Self-rising flour is ideal for high, light biscuits and tender, fine-textured cakes. There isn't one rule for substituting selfrising flour in place of all-purpose flour. Each recipe needs to be individually adjusted. For best results, use recipes already tested with self-rising flour.

Steers break Mustangs

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers had a point to prove Tuesday night in Steer Gym against the Sweetwater Mustangs.

All season long the Steers have been led by high-scoring forward Brian Mayfield. But with Mayfield sidelined with a foot injury, the Steers faced a huge challenge against the taller Mustangs. Big Spring handled the challenge well, defeating the Mustangs 72-55 in District 2-4A basketball action.

Mayfield suffered a dislocated bone in his foot in Friday's win over Lamesa. Without him, Steers coach Boyce Paxton started a lineup which had only one player more than six feet tall. Sweetwater had two 6-4 players in its starting lineup.

But that didn't stop the Steers as they battled on even terms on the boards, and fielded a balanced scoring attack. Leading the way were guards Ian Walker and Abner Shellman and forward Bruce Jones.

Walker and Shellman provided the outside firepower, scoring 20 and 15 points respectively. The 20 points were a season-high for Walker, who was also a terror on defense, collecting five steals and forcing numerous Sweetwater mistakes.

Despite battling foul trouble, Shellman scored 15 points, passed out six assists, grabbed eight rebounds and blocked three

The 6-2 Jones, filling in for Mayfield, responded with 16 points and nine rebounds. After missing his first two shots of the game, he finished the contest by making his next seven attempts. The 16 points were also a season-high for him.

"Bruce Jones really did a great job for us," said Steers coach Boyce Paxton after the win. "I gave all my guards the green light because I knew we had to score from the outside. I didn't think we would score very much inside, so Bruce's points were a bonus. "With the exception of Mayfield, I've been starting a short lineup, and it's been working for me fine. I didn't want to mess things up tonight.'

The Steers led 16-13 after the first quarter as Shellman and Jones scored five points each, and Walker added four points. Tony Lewis had four assists in the opening eight minutes.

Kevin Norman scored inside and Chris Taylor scored outside as Sweetwater took a brief 21-20 lead early in the second quarter. But Big Spring quickly regained the lead when Walker hit a three-pointer and Jones scored twice inside.

Big Spring led 38-33 at the

In the third quarter Big Spring went from its man-to-man defense to a trapping zone press. It worked well, and Big Spring had built a 47-37 lead with 4:20 left in the quarter. Walker got a steal which resulted in a Shellman bucket, and then Walker hit a running jumper, giving Big Spring a 53-42 lead going into the final quarter.

The Big Spring trap had forced eight Sweetwater turnovers in the quarter.

Walker hit another jumper at the start of the final quarter, and then the Steers hit a dry spell that saw them go scoreless three minutes.

By the time Jones had sunk a free throw, Sweetwater had cut the lead to 55-49 with 4:50 remaining.

Then Paxton ordered his troops back into the zone trap, and Big Spring began to salt the game away. Walker hit another three-pointer, Jones scored inside, Walker got a steal and Shellman scored, and Jones scored underneath again. By that time Big Spring held a com-manding 65-52 lead with 1:45 left

"I wanted to try to blow the game open in the third quarter so I went to the trap," said Paxton. "I went back to it because they (Sweetwater) were making me nervous. I didn't feel comfortable until late in the game."

Paxton said he expects Mayfield to be ready for Friday's encounter against Andrews. "He (Mayfield) was on to play him tonight unless we had to. This was a good team effort; everyone did a good job."

The game also marked the return of junior forward Thane Russey, who sprained his knee last week. Seeing only limited action, Russey moved well while scoring two points and blocking two shots.

Big Spring is now 22-9 overall and 12-3 in league play. Sweetwater finishes the season at 2-13

Eight fields promised for softball tournament

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

The City of Big Spring has promised eight softball fields — four at Roy Anderson city park, two at Johnny Stone park and one each in Comanche Trail Park and Stink Creek — will be ready for a major slowpitch tournament May 6, according to Don Davis.

Davis, representing the athletic committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Monday at a press conference to explain the details of the National Triple Crown tournament set for Memorial Day weekend in Big Spring, said reconditioning of the fields is already underway.

He said in order to recoup some of the expense of refurbishing those fields, the City of Big Spring will have the rights to the concessions at all of the softball tournament's

Triple Crown softball is a national tournament organization which began in 1982 in Colorado, according to its spokesman at Tuesday's conference, Jeff Jamison, in response to one team's dissatisfaction with the quality of competition and officiating available in slow pitch softball.

Dave King, the president of the organization, and Jamison were members of that team, which complained to tournament sponsors at a Colorado event.

"What the guy said to us was, "If you can go out there and run a better tournament, do it," recalled Jamison. "So we did."

The double-elimination tournament will begin Saturday morning at 8 a.m., he said, on Memorial Day weekend for the Big Spring leg of the tournament. Texas will have two legs in the tourney - East Texas' three sites are Kileen, Lufkin and Bryan — and following the Big Spring games will come tournaments in Abilene June 17-18 and San Angelo July 3-4.

Because all the teams entered must be sanctioned by the ASA. divisional distinctions and bracketing will be done through the Triple Crown main offices, Jamison said. Teams must submit their entries to Triple Crown Softball at least 12 days prior to the tournament. Entry fees are $175 per team per tournament or $500 for all three, and must be paid in

He said the tournament is expected to draw 80 to 100 teams to Big Spring. "That's an average of 15 to 18 ballplayers per team, plus their families," he said.

"If a team loses on Saturday, then chances are they won't play again 'til Sunday," he said. "Our semifinal and finals will be on Monday.

Jamison said the tournament will offer three divisions of men's competition, two of women's and one of coed, and that the games have been scheduled so that players may compete on both a men's and coed or women's and coed team if they wish.

He said the Triple Crown organization does not make a profit from the tournament, but plows all those earnings back into the awards system - an elaborate array of trophies, equipment and other items - including the trip to the national finals for each qualifying team.

'We pay their transportation to Steamboat Springs, Colo., and we pay for five nights lodging for them in Steamboat," Jamison said. 'That's an average of around $3,500 per team."

The Big Spring tournament, first leg of the series, coincides with a Lutkin/Nacogdoches tournament as well as 10 other tournaments in 11 states. To qualify for national finals, Jamison said, a team must enter all three legs of the Play begins at 8 a.m. each day and is designed to finish by 10 p.m., Jamison said; time limits and home run limits are designed to keep the action moving, he said, with games limited to one hour and no scheduled breaks between

Long-time baseball announcer Buffalos pluck Owls going strong on 80th birthday

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Three generations after his first broadcast in 1930 and 22 years since his last, venerable baseball Hall of Fame announcer Red Barber will be 80 on Wednesday.

"It's a different world," said Barber, who still chronicles the changing game of baseball he has closely followed for more than 50 years. "Baseball is something I'm not familiar with now. Since 1966, we now have player arbitration, free agency, all this money ... Steinbrenner has come in ... expansion." Barber and Mel Allen, were the first baseball announcers inducted in the baseball Hall of Fame. The "Ol' Redhead" still stays busy. He is authoring his seventh book, does a weekly show on National Public Radio, and writes a monthly column for the Christian Science Monitor. "I don't know of anyone today who is in broadcasting on a regular basis who was broadcasting then," Barber, who did major league baseball playby-play for 33 years for Cincinnati, Brooklyn and the New York Yankees, said in a recent interview. "I was the eyes of the game to millions of people that couldn't see for themselves.' Florida Secretary of State Jim Smith will present Barber with a Cabinet resolution declaring Wednesday "Red Barber Day" in the state. He will also be saluted by the local public radio station and in a special tribute Friday by National Public Radio, which has carried Barber on a weekly feature on its

Morning Edition program over the last eight years. "That is genuine broadcasting," said Barber, who chats with NPR's Bob Edwards each Friday on a wide range of sports. "I have to be completely alert to the overall picture." Although he still follows baseball, Barber makes no bones about his preference for the game as it was played before today's sterile, artificial-turf stadiums and multimillion dollar contracts.

"I would suspect the attitude of the ballplayers today is almost that of a disinterested businessman." said Barber. "When I came in, a ballplayer had to work his tail off if he wanted to get a $500 or $1,000 raise the next season.

Barber said the late Branch Rickey let his players know of one sure way to get a raise. "Mr. Rickey wanted hungry ballplayers who knew the only way they were going to get any extra money was to win and get into the World Series," said water. Defending on the play is Sweetwater's Louis Rose.

He broadcast Roger Maris' 61st home run; Johnny Vander Meer's first of two consecutive no-hitters; Jackie Robinson's first game and season, and the breakup of Bill Bevan's World Series no-hitter by Cookie Lavagetto.

Timing is everything in this world," said Barber, who announced five seasons at Cincinnati before moving to Brooklyn in 1939, where he began doing television in addition to radio.

Barber said Willie Mays was the game's best player and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants the best pitcher.

"I will just simply say: 'Who was better at anything than Willie Mays?' "said Barber. "Willie Mays did it all and over a long period of time." Barber was broadcasting for the Dodgers and Yankees while Mays played for the Giants, but he had plenty of opportunity see the centerfielder. "I saw that catch he made on Vic Wertz in the '54 World Series," Barber said. "He turned the whole World Series around with that catch.

Hubbell's steely discipline appealed to Barber. "I have always felt that if I had to have one pitcher pitch one game for me and my life was hanging in the balance, I'd want Carl Hubbell," Barber continued. 'Not only for his amazing ability and control of the screwball, but because of his spiritual control, his icewater intelligent personality. The tougher the situation, the more I'd want Hubbell.

A member of the Hall of Fame veterans committee, Barber enjoyed covering the ballplayers, but had no favorites "I had no problems with the players," he said. "In those days, if you wanted to interview a ballplayer, he had to come to you in your studio or else he had to walk through the stands in his uniform all the way up to your booth." Of course, Barber began his career long before tape recorders and the hundreds of other technological tools now used by present-day "I don't know what these fellow are getting now," door slammed in their faces.

said Barber. "At that time, I think I was the highest

STANTON-The Stanton Buffaloes proved to the Reagan County Owls how they earned a reputation as a powerhouse in District 6-2A by walloping the Owls 91-57.

That win gave the Buffs an undefeated second half in district play. They finish as co-champions along with the Ozona Lions as both teams collected only one loss.

The Buffs scored six unanswered points before the Owls could begin an offense.

Greg Avery tallied for two quick baskets and Reggie Franklin added another as Stanton led 6-0 with five minutes left in the first quarter.

James West put the visitors on the scoreboard as he was fouled by Avery and made the first of two shots from the charity stripe.

The home team kept building on its lead as they began tearing apart the Owls. Leading 10-1 Avery and Franklin made the Reagan County team pay dearly for its miscues.

With the first quarter coming to an end the score increased 20-9 in favor of the Buffaloes. Shane Mc-Cutchen was the only bright spot for the visiting Owls, scoring six of the nine points for the birds.

In the second quarter Avery, Franklin and Val Flores restarted their onslaught where they left off in the first quarter.

Scoring at will, the Buffs seemed to let their guard down and give the Owls an opportunity to climb in close, but as soon as the visitors scored two consecutive baskets the

B-County slaughters Sanderson

Editor's note: The following article was omitted from some editions of the Big Spring Herald Tuesday. By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

GREENWOOD - The neutral ground quickly turned dark and bloody in a bidistrict playoffs match here Monday night as the Sanderson Eaglettes, badly overmatched against the Borden County Lady Coyotes, were slaughtered 71-23.

Borden County's Elana Himes scored first, with just 50 seconds gone from the game. For the next six minutes all either team could do was turn the ball over.

Eleven miscues later, Himes scored again. Fouled on the shot, she sank a third point from the line to give the Lady Coyotes a 5-0 lead. Borden County left Sanderson in the starting gate.

The Eaglettes missed three attempts from the field before Lori Calzada's inside shot broke the lid on Sanderson's basket.

Borden County's defense settled down to business following Himes' third field goal of the night. Himes' rebounding and Coyote thievery deprived Sanderson of the ball most of the rest of the period.

When the Birds could hold on to the basketball, the Coyotes gave them nowhere to take it. With 1:01 remaining Elvira Ballague scored a three-point jumper for Borden to make the score 10-2; Lisha Sternadel would hit another jumper with 22 seconds left to close the quarter's scoring at 12-2.

Sanderson continued throwing the ball away with poor passing in the second quarter; compounded by shaky foul shooting, the Eaglettes' efforts to give the game away succeeded exceedingly well as Borden County took a 37-10 halftime lead off

The home-team Coyotes came back out for the second half full of fire. Sanderson appeared already to have tasted defeat's bitterness: rocky from the beginning, the visitors' defense faltered even further in the third period and the Borden County girls appeared able to score at will.

By the end of the quarter Borden County had 24 more points; Sanderson had two, off Cecilia Castro's foul shooting. The Eaglettes fell apart in short order thereafter. Borden County clung to its half-court pressure defense and broke out its rebounding game - Felicia Romero took down four of the Coyotes' nine boards in the quarter while Julie Harris pulled down three - and three strong steals from Randi Woodward helped the Borden cause.

The Eaglettes made their best run of the night in the fourth period, appearing finally to relax enough to play well. They plunked in 11 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, adding four steals in the final period, but the game still got away.

Borden County advances to the area level in the playoff tournament as bi-district champion with the 71-23 win.

Wandering star

OU football led to Olympic bobsledding

LEWISVILLE (AP) - Mike Aljoe, a strapping former University of Oklahoma football player in a Tshirt, would not appear to be at home on a bobsled.

But just a few weeks ago, Aljoe a former high school football star in Lewisville - was named to the 12-member U.S. Olympic Bobsled Team for the Winter Olympics now under way in Calgary.

"One thing just led to another," said Aljoe, 23, who was a reserve defensive end at OU. "I thought maybe football wasn't for me after all. Bobsledding was my chance to broaden my horizons.'

Aljoe, who graduated from OU last year, said he figured his passrushing ability would be overlooked by the NFL because of his 6-1 height. But his 215 pounds of muscle could be useful in pushing the 1,300-plus pounds of a bobsled.

So Aljoe spent the summer of 1986 planning for life after college football. He was facing a senior season of uncertain playing time. And the NFL was starting to look as unassailable as a frozen slope.

the-way places and cold climates.

LEWISVILLE - Former Lewisville High School football star Mike Aljoe also played football for the University of Oklahoma before taking up the Olympic event of bobsledding in 1987. Aljoe is a pusher on the U.S. team.

CALGARY — Jill Watson of Bloomington, Ind., and Peter Oppegard of Knoxville, Tenn., perform the routine that won them the bronze medal in pairs free skating Olympic competition Tuesday night in the Saddledome. Theirs is the first medal won by U.S. competitors. Watson, inset, fell during the routine but the pair held on to place third.

Victory flight

NAKISKA, Canada — Pirman Zurbriggen, from Switzerland, takes a bump on the downhill track on Mt. Allan Tuesday on his way to clocking the fastest time in the men's Olympic combined downhill race. The day before, the Swiss master skier won the downhill event, caching a gold medal. Following Zurbriggen Tuesday was Frenchman Frank Piccard in second place with Canadian Felix Belcyzk in third. West Germany's Peter Duerr finished fourth. The top American skier in the event finished 20th

Skiers face slalom's challenge

MOUNT ALLAN, Alberta (AP) - If there's one word that makes a downhill skier squirm, it's slalom.

Even the great Pirmin Zurbriggen, men's downhill gold medalist Monday at the Winter Olympics, is wary of today's slalom leg of the

The combined tests competitors' nerve and speed in a breakneck race down the mountain and their ability to handle sharp, twisting turns on the short slalom slope.
Frenchman Franck Piccard, bronze medalist behind Zurbriggen on Monday and second fastest to the Swiss in Tuesday's combined downhill, reckons the slalom will rob him of a second medal. "I am quite happy with my position, but with the slalom to come I am not very confident of keeping it," Piccard said. "My slalom is not very good and it all depends on that." Felix Belczyk gained third place with 1:48.24 to restore some Canadian pride after Monday's regular downhill, when the home country had no one in the top 13.

U.S. coach changes goaltenders

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) - The United States Olympic hockey team will be going with a new goaltender but the same old run-andgun philosophy tonight when they meet the Soviets. "We're going to go after them and play aggressively as we always do," U.S. Coach Dave Peterson said. "Everyone believes that you have to be patient when you play the Soviets. That's like getting your tail chopped off one inch at a time.' The Americans hope to backstop their freewheeling offense with a new goalie, Chris Terreri. Mike Richter started the first two games, a 10-6 victory over Austria and a 7-5 loss to Czechoslovakia. A loss would put the Americans' record at 1-2 and make it necessary to beat both Norway and West Germany for any chance to make the six-team medal round next week. The Soviets easily won their first two games, and a victory against the United States would just about cinch them a berth in the medal

Gault's top U.S. time still slow

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) - Willie Gault's latest push times are the best on a U.S. bobsled team that, for all its huffing and puffing, appears destined for mediocrity.

The Chicago Bears' wide receiver, still lobbying to have his No. 3 sled used as one of the United States' two Olympic entries, helped driver Randy Will post the best time among the three U.S. sleds in two practice runs Tuesday. That time, though, was good for only 24th place among the 48 sleds from 23 countries. "We weren't really going as well as we can," said Gault, whose bid to run Lack in the 1980 Olympics was spoiled by the U.S. boycott. Gault's push times, measured over the first 50 meters of the course, were 5.47 seconds and 5.45 seconds Tuesday. By comparison, the top Swiss team had push times of 5.25 and 5.26.

Explosion victims remain critical

By KERRY HAGLUND Staff Writer

Two Big Spring men remain in critical condition in Lubbock General Hospital today after suffering second-and third-degree burns Saturday when a Fiberglas tank in Midland exploded while the two were inside it sealing leaks.

Don Waltenbaugh and Jesse Flores, both 21, are in critical condition in Lubbock General's intensive care burn unit with burns covering more than 70 percent of their bodies, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

The two were employed by Roundup Tank of Big Spring, the same firm that sustained more than $300,000 in damages in a Jan. 28 fire that destroyed a company building at the Howard County Industrial Park.

State and local officials who investigated the Big Spring blaze believe the building caught fire after a spark from a grinder ignited styrene resins used to construct Fiberglas oilfield storage tanks.

No one was injured in the Big Spring blaze.

Saturday's explosion occurred among a set of tanks in the Spraberry field operated by Parker & Parsley Inc. of Midland.

Steers keep playoff hopes alive

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

LAMESA — With three district losses and three games left, the Big Spring Steers had their backs against the wall Friday playing district front-runner Lamesa at home. But with a never-say-die attitude, the Steers remained in the district race by winning a thrilling 70-66 decision.

The cards fell even more into place when Andrews defeated Snyder 54-47, leaving the Steers, Snyder and Andrews tied for second place with matching 11-3 records. Lamesa, which lost to Snyder Tuesday, is leading with an

For Lamesa, ranked third in the state, the loss was the first at home this season. It also marked the first time in six seasons Lamesa had along with 19 rebounds and three lost back-to-back games.

Big Spring played under control against a fierce Lamesa press and very noisy Lamesa crowd. Both teams had their star senior forwards leading the way: For Big Spring it was Brian Mayfield; for Lamesa it was Cedric Mason.

Both produced excellent games. Mayfield hit 13 of 24 field goals and 10 of 12 free throws for 36 points,

The game see-sawed back and forth with neither team able to take firm control. Lamesa led 15-10 after the first quarter, and held its biggest lead at 18-12 early in the second quarter.

The Steers made a run in the second quarter, outscoring Lamesa 13-7 in the opening four minutes. Big Spring led 34-28 at the half.

Mayfield had 19 points by intermission and Cedric Mason wasn't far behnd with 16. Doug Young came off the Big Spring bench and scored five first half points, one a crucial three-pointer.

Big Spring outscored Lamesa 8-2 in the first two minutes of the quarter to take its biggest lead of the game, 42-30.

But Lamesa rallied in the final six minutes of the quarter, outscoring the Steers 18-6 to tie the contest at 48 apiece going into the final period.

Lamesa took a 55-52 lead on a three-point bomb by Lavert Hawkins at the 6:35 mark. Big Spring answered with two baskets and a free throw by Ian Walker, two free throws by Mayfield and a layup by Tony Lewis, taking a 61-55

It didn't seem to matter that the year before he had led the nation's toughest junior college conference, the Western Junior College Athletic Conference, in assists and steals, and in high school had started on two state championship teams. Still, no takers.

Rhodes, as Big Spring fans will remember, is only 5'7. That's not tall enough to play Division I basketball, or so goes the prevailing logic. Rhodes was naving a nard time swallowin that, but swallow it he would: He would enroll at Texas A&M and get his degree.

But there was one last hope. Former Hawks coach Larry Brown, who coached Rhodes in high school and at Howard, was an assistant at South Alabama, in Mobile. He was keeping his old point guard posted during the summer. In the meantime, Brown was trying to convince Jaguar head coach Ronnie Arrow that Rhodes could play Division I basketball.

Convince him he did. The Dennis Rhodes and Coach Brown Show is in its third installment, from Bryan to Big Spring and now Mobile.

"At this level, to tell the truth, we don't give scholarships away," Brown said. "He's helped us. He really has. Nobody expected him to be starting or playing a lot of minutes, but he's playing about as well as he can. I've seen him play better, but overall, he's doing good.

"And heck, he's getting his education paid for and getting a scholarship - that's what it's all about," Brown said.

South Alabama is 10-8 overall, and in the thick of the Sun Belt Conference race with a 4-2 conference record. They're much like the Hawks were last year - very short, with excellent guards and a swarming defense. Though the Jaguars have two NBA prospects at the guard spots, neither is a natural point guard. Consequently, Rhodes, the shortest player in the conference, ia averaging 18 minutes a game and is usually the first man off the bench. He's even started six times.

Rhodes' best game was a 12-point, 10-assist effort against Central Florida. He has averages of three points and four assists per game, but it's his ball handling and defense, two categories that don't show up in the stats, that he excels in. And, as in Big Spring, Rhodes is a crowd favorite. Fans love when he burns the bigger

The hustling point guard and his coach have had to make adjustments since leaving Howard.

"The guys are a lot bigger," said a chuckling Rhodes after a recent Jaguards practice. You're playing against guards 6-5 and 6-6. And the campus is larger and there are a lot more

"I'm more on my own now. I've never really gotten out of Texas. This is a learning experience - new things and new people," Rhodes said.

Brown has had to adjust from being the head coach to the assistant. At practice and during games, he's quieter, because it's Arrow's show. Having seen Brown as a general, it hurts a little to see him as a lieutenant. It's not natural for him. You can just tell he's holding some things in.

"It's difficult. Certainly I miss some of those responsibilities; but I've accepted my role and undersand that. My main objective is to recruit players for South Alabama. We have a chance to win here and do some good things ad we're going to make the most of it,"

McAlister trucking firm sold

HERALD STAFF REPORT

ABILENE - McAlister Trucking Company has been sold, according to Paul D. Graham, president and general manager of the firm. Effective Feb. 10, the business was taken over by Expressco, Inc., which will continue to operate the business formerly known as MAT-CO Transportation. Graham said the company began in Big Spring in 1927 when O.H. McAlister moved to the city and started an oil well rig moving service. Located at 1609 Scurry St., the business specialized in moving oil rigs and also did other heavy hauling and oilfield trucking until 1983. McAlister's business was so successful he expanded into oilfields throughout West, North and East Texas, New Mexico and Illinois.

A veteran of World War II service in Europe, Graham joined the company in 1945 when he married DeAlva McAlister, daughter of the founder. The firm was incorporated in 1965 as McAlister Trucking Company, when Graham was named president and general manager.

By that time, Graham said, the business had expanded into overthe-road trucking. When the 1982 oil crunch hit the Big Spring terminal, he said, the oil rig hauling equipment was sold and the company changed to strictly over-theroad operations. The Big Spring terminal was closed.

Approximately 150 trucks are operated under the MATCO logo, along with terminals in California, New Mexico, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, Oklahoma and West

The late O.H. McAlister moved from Big Spring to Graham, where he died in 1975, Graham said. Mrs. McAlister died in 1982.

Other members of the McAlister family still reside in Big Spring, Graham said, including lone McAlister, a retired English teacher in the Big Spring school system, and Dorothy Lovingood, both sisters of O.H. McAlister.

The company will retain its real property, Graham said.

Painter creates novelty signs

HERALD STAFF REPORT The stork has come to Reuben

Darnall's front yard at 111 E. 16th

Darnall, a painter who also does woodwork and custom-builds wooden signs, plans a new venture around the storks: renting his huge, colorful birds to Spring City residents to announce a baby's

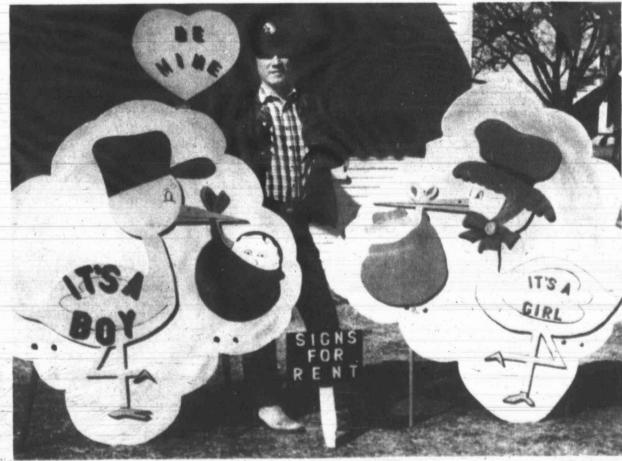

The idea, he said, came from a magazine - the March issue of Income Opportunities - which he originally purchased because its cover featured one of his relatives.

Inside he saw an advertisement for a kit to start a Send-A-Stork business, renting stork-shaped signs for birth announcements. The price was $295, Darnall recalled.

He decided to try his hand with the storks, and created the pair in his yard from scratch. "I can work from a pattern if I have one or I can work from a picture and do almost anything," he explained.

He said his business is still growing from what began as an avocation a few months ago, and he credits his wife and four daughters with assisting him in creating the finished signs for rent.

For details on renting a stork or ordering a custom sign, Darnall said, customers need only contact him at 111 E. 16th St. or by telephoning 263-0723.

School board members and administration officials expressed their confidence Monday before about 40 residents that Saturday's bond issue will pass.

School board president Terry Franklin detailed a junior high and high school expansion plan that has been in the works since 1982. Oil woes that year forced school officials to delay the proposal for Voters of the Stanton Independent School District will go to the polls this Saturday to decide the fate of a proposed $1.5 million addition to the local school facilities. Plans call for additions to the elementary, junior high, and high school plants. Voting will be at the junior high school cafeteria from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Directors of the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District in its meeting last Thursday night, accepted the resignation of Kathy Knox as a board member. Miss Knox also had served as secretary to the board; Rufus Tom was selected to serve as secretary. The directors approved changing their April election to the first Saturday in May to conform to changes in the state election code.

The directors spent some time reviewing their budget and made progress in their plans to open their local office.

classroom space," Franklin Brumley also questioned whether the Stanton school district might find itself in financial trouble similar to what the Coahoma School District is facing. "Coahoma made improvements over their means," he said. "They got themselves in a bind." The Coahoma Independent School District raised its tax rate 16.6 percent — to $1.54 in 1987 as a result of declining property and mineral values.

The district built a new elementary school in the early 1985s and built a new library at the high school a few years later.

Saying Stanton needs to be cautious, Franklin said he is confident of the school district's abilities to cover the indebtedness.

In response to a question of whether additional teachers would be hired as the result of expansions, Franklin said: "I don't know if we will need more teachers; right now we are comfortable with what we have."

"I agree we need the added space," Lipps said, but asked "if we have $500,000 in the bank why haven't we corrected current problems such as a lack of supplies?" The supply budget was cut by 30 percent last year in response to predictions that the school district would experience a 43 percent reduction in oil and mineral values, principal Young said.

"We had to cut somewhere and the least painful area was in supplies," he said, adding teachers agreed to the cut in supplies to avoid salary cuts. Because oil and mineral values than the predicted 43 percent, additional supplies are being obtained, Young said.

Admires patient dumping law

State Attorney General Jim Mattox has jumped head-first into a legal quagmire in filing the state's first lawsuit under a new law prohibiting 'patient dumping'' ...

The new law is a good one, as it helps eliminate the sad possibility that patients will be dumped from one hospital to another if they do not have adequate insurance to cover their illness. The case should help to iron out the ground rules for transferring pa-

Says withhold money from U.N.

The most effective tool available to the U.S. government to reform the United Nations is to withhold money. Congress realizes that. So did the Reagan administration — until recently.

Responding to complaints about pervasive fraud and waste at the United Nations, Congress has for the past few years withheld part of the U.S. contribution to it.

Now some State Department officials want to pay the entire U.S. assessment for 1988, even though the United Nations has failed to implement the promised reforms, such as the pledge to trim excessive salaries and eliminate unnecessary staff positions.

President Reagan is supposed to decide soon whether to certify that the United Nations has reformed its spending habits and curtailed Soviet abuses. If he does, Congress is to release $44 million withheld from Washington's dues for 1987.

As things stand now, Reagan should refuse to certify reforms, since hey have not been made

Lauds Clements' appointments

Not a lot of fuss was made over Gov. Bill Clements' appointment of former Midland County District Judge Barbara Culver to the Texas Supreme Court, but it shouldn't pass without some notice.

She becomes the second woman Supreme Court justice since the mid-1920s — and Clements has made both appointments (District Judge Ruby Sondock of Houston was the other). That may confound Clements' critics, but give the governor his due. His appointments have generally been of fairly high quality, and have shown a genuine concern for minorities - including women.

Axing toy guns not the solution

There is ample evidence that realistic-looking toy guns on the market today have caused headaches for police departments and heartaches for families throughout the nation.

In the split-second world of law enforcement, these plastic recreations of real pistols have been mistaken for genuine firearms by police officers, prompting several tragic shooting incidents. Extremists, seeking publicity, have used toy guns to hold people hostage. Criminals, who can't get their hands on real firearms, often use plastic replicas to ply their trade at convenience stores.

Dallas City Council members should make it tougher on those who recklessly use toy guns in ways that could lead to death or injury for themselves or others. But the City Council Public Safety Committee is not being realistic in its bid to seek a ban on the sale of replica firearms in

A far more practical approach is the one recommended by Mayor Annette Strauss in a proposed ordinance that would establish penalties for anyone who used a toy gun in an irresponsible manner.

lowa not best place to start race

It is often said that this is not the best place in the nation to start this process: Iowa isn't like the rest of the nation — too white, too rural, too agriculturally oriented, and the deal of winter is not the best time to measure political public opinion in Iowa.

Nevertheless, a presidential campaign has to start somewhere, sometime. If not Iowa, where? If not February, when? Some experts predict the primaries and caucuses this year will become a series of favorite son events. ...

This would surely lead to brokered conventions. We hope this prediction proves wrong. The (Baltimore) Sun

Budget process needs revisions

An increasing number of representatives and senators are beginning to offer public apologies for the congressional budget process. The admission is past due, but it's a sign of progress, nonetheless.

The problem is Congress' failure to handle budget bills in an orderly manner, and its reliance on the continuing resolution instead. This contrivance has been used to load up the budget with pork barrels that any responsible president would otherwise veto.

This year's budget was embarrassingly corpulent, even by congressional standards. Some in Congress want to repent. Charleston (W.Va.) Daily Mail

The predicted slide in net cash income in 1988 is blamed on a gradual reduction in federal commodity supports, an end to a threeyear decline in production costs, and a decrease in livestock earnings after two years of growth.

. "All major institutional farm lenders report early loan repayment, relatively weak loan demand, and considerable competition for existing quality farm loan business," the report said. "The overall financial situation of farm lenders improved in 1987, aided by accelerated debt repayment, moderating interest rate and high farm earnings."

Agricultural loan problems "remain significant, particularly for longer-term real estate" portfolios, the report said. "However, apart the FmHA, significant progress has been made by commercial farm lenders on restructuring and liquidating problem farm debt."

"Federal income tax reform has reduced the tax burden on most farmers as individuals, but income from farm investments is generally taxed more heavily," the report said. "The self-employment tax continues to rise, surpassing the income tax in importance for many low- and middle-income farmers.

In a related report, the USDA agency issued state figures showing the cash income for calendar 1986, when the national total rose to $52 billion from $47.3 billion in 1985.

"Net cast income from farming was highest in California at $5 billion, followed by Iowa, $3.6

Nestor Hernandez, CED Martin County ASC

According to Nestor Hernandez, county executive director of the Martin County ASCS office, Secretary of Agriculture Milton Hertz today announced that changes have been made in the manner in which acceptable bid levels will be set for the entrance of land into the Conservation Reserve Program.

The Rural Development, Agriculture, and Related Agencies Act for fiscal year 1988, as contained in Public Law 100-102, provides that funds made available by that Act may not be used to enter into new contracts that are in excess of the prevailing local rental rate for an acre of comparable land.

Hertz said that maximum acceptable rental rates (MARR) will continue to be established on a pool-wide basis. However, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committees will determine a MARR for their respective county, based on local conditions, which may not exceed the MARR established for the pool.

For bids submitted which are equal to or lower than the county MARR, the local county ASC committee will determine whether the bid exceeds the prevailing local tions will take into account the rental rate for an acre of com- nature of the land for which the bid parable land. These determina- is submitted.

Fashion world turns back on cotton

Mississippi Delta cotton farmers are stepping out from their first pro-fitable year since 1982, thanks to favorable weather and steady demand from the textile industry.

But weather can't be controlled and cotton's popularity in the international fashion industry is declining, analysts say.

"Last year, we had a couple of plants running 100 percent cotton. That isn't the case now," said Larry Martin of Alice Manufacturing, one of South Carolina's largest textile companies. "Last year was one of those once-in-a-100-years things," Mississippi

Extension Service analyst O.A. Cleveland said. Fighting a trend that could slice into their spouses' a group called Cotton Wives is trying to make sure cotton never goes out of style. The women, married to cotton farmers, put on all-cotton fashion shows in the South, promoting the fruits of their husbands' labor.

'We go to schools and tell them to check labels, make sure they're 100 percent cotton and made in the USA.'

Cotton wife Janie Braswell

The yield per acre in 1987 was 832 pounds, second only to the 1982 record of 853 pounds per acre. In 1986, production reached an all-time low of 571 pounds per acre.

Last year's selling price averaged 65 cents a pound. But now 1987 crops are pre-selling for 57 cents, Cleveland said.

America is about 18 months behind Europe in fashion, and 16 months ago cotton began to fade from European clothes, meaning farmers can no longer rely on the textile market as a major purchaser, Cleveland said. "The market is telling us that cotton demand will not be as strong in 988," he said. "Nothing good lasts forever." Buyers say rayon and polyester are making a comeback as women seek a softer, more feminine look that cannot always be achieved with

Cotton Wives, who say the trend in Europe doesn't amount to a hill of beans in the South, market their crops through schools, public appearances and style shows.

'We go to schools and tell them to check labels, make sure they're 100 percent cotton and made in the USA," says cotton wife Janie Braswell of Morgan City. "We push cotton by telling them they're helping out the

No more religious broadcasting?

It's just a rumor, says Stenholm

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm tried Tuesday to head off another onslaught of mail. inspired by a perennial petition that claims an atheist leader is trying to wipe out religious broadcasting.

Calling the 10-year-old petition preposterous," Stenholm, D-Stamford, asked for help in tracking down the source of its latest circulation.

Stenholm's Washington office this week received a response to the petition from Coleman, and his staff is afraid many more letters are on the way as the rumor takes on yet another life.

"If we can stop it this time it will save a whole bunch of folks 22 cents in postage." Stenholm said, adding that is also will save his staff a lot of wasted time.

The petition — the same one that's been roaming America since at least 1978 asks for public support in stopping Austin atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair from urging the Federal Communications Commission to outlaw "the reading of the Gospel on the airwaves."

O'Hair, reached at her office at the American Atheist Center in Austin, said she has never had any such plan, although she is well aware of the rumor.

"I am a champion of free speech," she said. "I wouldn't even shut up a Christian, because I figure the more they talk the crazier people will see they are.

FCC officials agree there is no basis to the petition's claims, and they say they've tried for years to quash the rumor.

Since 1978, the commission has received more than 20 million letters, and members of Stenholm's Washington staff say they have received thousands.

The reason: One version of the petition, photocopied repeatedly, has Stenholm's name printed at the top of it and has been circulated over the years in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Texas.

"It's kind of like an uncontrolled chain letter," said Chino Chapa, Stenholm's press secretary.

"In the fall of 1985 we received more than 500 letters from Indiana on this," he said. "We figured somebody in Texas had a relative in Indiana and they mailed it to them. And from there is spread to Ohio,

After the Coleman response was received, Stenholm worked Tuesday to try to find the source before the response gets out of control...one more time. As of Tuesday night, it had been traced to Austin.

"We've got Sherlock Holmes on the trail again. We're going to try to see who it is that annually starts the rumor," Stenholm said. "I personally have a suspicion on this - that it's a fund raiser. Some group is using this to frighten people and get them to send a few bucks in.

The petition claims O'Hair has gathered 27 million signatures on petitions of her own, asking the FCC to outlaw religious broadcasts. It also says she has been granted an FCC hearing.

"It's preposterous on the very face of it, because we have the Constitution, the First Amendment," Stenholm said. "But anyway, they go on writing." O'Hair, who played a key role in the campaign that led to two U.S. Supreme Court decisions outlawing prayer in public schools, said she has never tried to remove religious broadcasting.

The petition was started years ago by the National Association of Religious Broadcasters, she said, but since then it and several other religious organizations have tried to halt the rumor

But the petition, in bold type, tells people to "have this petition photocopied and send it to 10 people who you know will share your

"It just goes from place to place, or it gets put up in a factory on a bulletin board," O'Hair said. "Right now it's off and away again. Time magazine called me last week wish they'd stop. I'm sorry. There's not a thing I can do about it. I never was involved from the beginning, but everyone needs a devil and I'm it."

She asked that someone tell Stenholm: "I

Stenholm said the rumor is especially troubling since he has a policy that all let-ters will be answered by his staff.

"If anybody, anywhere, who has any information whatsoever on where these petitions are coming from, we would like to know about it," he said.

Tips for gardens

By Richard Minzenmayer

Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)
Martin, Midland, & Howard Counties
Very soon vegetable gardeners in the area will begin preparing their garden sites for spring planting. Soil insects are perhaps the most destructive insects gardeners will encounter at this time of year and if not controlled could cause a reduction in vegetable quality and yield. The best time to control soil insects is before the garden plot is planted.

Most soil insecticides, in order to be effective, must be applied at least 2 weeks ahead of planting and must be thoroughly mixed into the soil at a depth of 4-6 inches. This, of course, cannot be adequately done if vegetable seeds and transplants are planted first.

Soil insects that vegetable gardeners are most likely to encounter are wireworms, white grubs, seed corn maggots, cabbage maggots, mole crickets, sowbugs, slugs, snails, and cutworms. Since soil insects have different feeding habits, some may destroy plant seeds, roots, tubers and underground stem parts, while others may cut off young plants at or near the soil surface. Nematodes also cause alot of problems in sandy soils.

Garden sites planted for the first time or those previously in grass or weeds are more likely to harbor damaging numbers of soil pests. Vegetable gardeners should inspect their garden site to determine if insecticide treatments are needed. Use a shovel or spade and randomly sample the soil at several locations to a depth of 5-6 inches. Remove one square foot section of sil from each location and record number of soil insect pests. One white grub per sampled location could suggest the need to treat with an approved insecticide. However, this is not a fast rule since insect damaging levels will vary, with the crop grown and the insects involved.

Before applying any pesticide always read and follow its labeled instructions.

Petroleum information Researchers see oil staying below $18

Crude oil prices should stay below $18 per barrel this year, with natural gas prices hovering at about $1.80 per thousand cubic feet, officials of a petroleum research organization said Tuesday. Bob Harston, president of Petroleum Information, also said 1987 was likely to mark the trough of the energy's down cycle, with modest improvements expected this year. Domestic crude production in 1988 is expected to continue the slide begun in 1985, while natural gas production this year may rise slightly, Harston said during a lecture before about 1,000 industry officials.

The company projected the U.S. rig count will average between 1,000 and 1,100 during 1988. This week, the count stood at 986, as reported by

Baker Hughes Inc., which compiled the widely-watched index

Petroleum Information also predicted international exploration will increase while domestic exploration will drop.

Oil imports also are expected to continue rising this year, along with U.S. consumption, according to company spokesman Jack R. Ekstrom. 'When demand is up like it is, and production is down, it (oil) is going to have to come from somewhere, and it will come from those that export

Tarzan artist books show in Stanton

By Peggy Luxton Information Advisor Cap Rock Electric Co-Op

Don Turner of Tarzan has always had two loves: his love of the cowboy life and his love of western art. The year 1988 is the year he will put into action a change in his priorities. To date, Turner has made his living as a cowboy, working on his art in his spare time.

But January of this year saw a change in his lifestyle. He is working full-time on his art, doing cowboy work only when a specific job needs to be done on one of the ranches in this area where he has worked for the past decade. His art includes painting, drawing, sculpture and leatherwork. He also custom designs and makes one-ofa-kind jewelry and bits and spurs.

Originally from Turkey, Texas, Turner has been in Tarzan more than 10 years. He has worked as a cowboy on the V-Bar Ranch, the John Campbell Ranch, the Tee Knox Ranch and John Woodward Ranch. He has also worked as a hunting guide on John Woodward's Red Stone Ranch in the Gila Wilderness of New Mexico. He presently lives the Woodward Ranch north of Lenorah.

Turner's art reflects his lifestyle. Each of his pieces has a story behind it. He models his work after people, horses and cows that he has known. He loves to talk about his art and can relate in detail the lostwax process used in casting sculpted pieces or the temper of the cold-rolled steel he uses in creating his bits and spurs.

In his jewelry-making, Turner works with any metal the customer may want, though he prefers silver and gold, or a combination of the two. He has made all types of jewelry, from belt buckles to necklaces bearing individual ranch brands. Each piece is custommade and one-of-a-kind.

Turner's versatility as an artist is unlimited. His work is unified in subject, but diversified in technique. To date, Turner has has done 10 pieces of sculpture, in limited editions ranging from 25 to 50. His bit and spur collection features silver and gold designs and initials. His jewelry is bold but intricate. Turner's favorite media for showing his art work is the oneman show. One such show has been scheduled at the First National Bank of Stanton for the first of April. The show will feature a segment of each type of Turner's Each piece of Don Turner's art reflects the knowledge and skill of
