Firm indicted for GOP petition forgeries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Houston political consulting firm and its vice president were indicted on 64 misdemeanor counts in connection with forgeries found on petitions filed by several Republican presidential candidates for the Super Tuesday ballot.

The indictment against Southern Political Consultants was returned Monday by a Harris County grand jury, said Casey O'Brien, spokesman for the Harris County District Attorney's office.

Meanwhile, Democratic presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis stumped the state Monday preparing for the March 8 primary.

Ten Texas Democratic congressmen made stops in seven Texas cities Monday on behalf of Rep. Richard Gephardt, calling him the most electable candidate.

"He can carry Texas because he is on our side on trade issues and he is on our side on the oil import fee," U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, said during a stop in Nederland. "Most of the time we Democrats specialize in glorious ideological defeats. Dick Gephardt will give us a glorious victory."

And Republican Gov. Bill Clements said he likes the idea of

Poll shows Texans support Bush, Dukakis

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texans are looking for a president who can reduce the federal deficit, protect Social Security, and restore strong family and moral values to the country, a new poll indicates.

The poll, conducted statewide for WFAA-TV and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram by SRI Research Center Inc. of Lincoln, Neb., shows protecting the oil industry is low among Texans' concerns, although many economists blame the slump in oil prices for the state's unemployment rate and sluggish economy.

And the poll indicates that Republicans think Vice President George Bush is the man best suited to deal with these issues while Democrats narrowly favor Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

A total of 1,442 registered-voters were questioned between Feb. 19 and 21 about election preferences, political views and issues of concern by interviewers working from a central telephone bank in Houston.

In the Republican race, 59.5 percent were for Bush, 18.8 percent favored Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, 10.5 percent were for former television evangelist Pat Robertson, and 4.3 percent were for New York Rep. Jack Kemp. Another 6.5 percent were undecided.

Among the Democrats, 23.3 percent favored Dukakis, 17.7 percent were for Jesse Jackson, 15.1 percent for Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt, 8.7 percent for Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore, 8.6 percent for former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart and 3.9 percent for Illinois Sen. Paul Simon. Another 21.7 percent were undecided.

But four out of 10 Democratic voters said they still don't know who Dukakis is, and nearly five in six of those who support him said they might change their minds.

Republican side," Clements said. "Those supporters are fairly solid. It's narrow support, but it's a deep support. I think that he will make a good showing in the primary."

A public opinion poll published Sunday by The Dallas Morning News and Houston Chronicle showed Robertson with 8 percent support in Texas, third behind Bush and Kansas Sen. Robert Dole.

Clements said he likes the Super Tuesday idea because it brings more candidates to the South and forces them to discuss issues important to the region.

"I'm impressed with the amount of time that the various candidates are spending in Texas. I don't think that this level of activity had ever happened before," he said.

In other political developments Monday:

• Jackson criticized Houston officials during an early morning walk through a poor, black neighborhood. Campaigning in the city's Fourth Ward, Jackson compared the city's actions there with those of the South African government, which he said is moving blacks from areas it wants to develop for whites.

• Dukakis' campaign said he had received the endorsement of 26 of the 66 voting members of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

College facing jam with Jag

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Officials at Howard College are faced with a problem few other people have — they own a vintage "Jaguar," and they are having problems disposing of the vehicle.

The officials may be sending refunds to persons who bought raffle tickets to buy the car, built at the college's automotive department.

The car — a replica of a 1952 Jaguar XK-120 — was built from a kit purchased by the college a few years ago for about $6,500, according to college vice president Terry Hanson.

"The kit cost about $6,500, but (the college) also bought other parts for the car, such as a chassis, motor and other parts," he said. "We put quite a bit of money in the car."

The school originally planned to use the vehicle as an instructional tool for the students. After it was completed, officials then planned to raffle it off and buy other kits, Hanson said.

"We had built it in class as a teaching module," Automotive Instructor Dee Highley said. "We used it a few times — like in parades and the county fair. It was a real attention-getter, but we never got enough money (from raffle tickets) to pay for it."

"We had hoped to raise enough money to at least pay for the expenses, and we would have loved to make enough to buy some equipment for the department," he added, noting that between $1,500 and $2,000 has been raised through ticket sales.

After conferring on the matter, college officials decided they had an obligation to either raffle the vehicle, or refund the tickets, Hanson noted.

"Right now, we're looking at refunding the tickets and selling the car outright," he said, adding that a final decision on the matter hasn't been made.

If a refund is decided on, ticket holders will be contacted by the college, Hanson added.

Until a decision is made, the vehicle will be in storage at the automotive department, Highley noted.

Car crashes into home twice in past decade

BEAUMONT (AP) — It was an all-too-familiar sound, the sound of a car crashing through a wall and into the home of Bertha Lane.

It was the second time in recent years that a car smashed into the Lane home.

Mrs. Lane, 63, and her son, Michael Lane, 28, were preparing to eat lunch and Mrs. Lane was engrossed in her afternoon soap opera Monday when they heard what sounded like an explosion a few feet away.

A car driven by George Minter Jr., 44, of Beaumont, crashed into the home, plowed through a wall and finally stopped in Michael Lane's bedroom.

"It pushed everything from one end of the room to the other end," said Michael Lane.

"The whole house shook ... It was a very big sound, like an explosion. I was about three steps away from my bedroom when I saw glass and dust flying."

Minter suffered abdominal injuries and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital where officials Monday night listed his condition as guarded. No one in the house was injured.

A few years ago, another car crashed into the Lanes' home. But that accident didn't cause as much damage as Monday's crash, said Lane.

"The other car hit the house on the opposite side, in front," he said. "It didn't do the damage though this one did. This one came clear through the wall. Now I have a drive-in garage."

The second accident has not prompted the Lanes to decide to move. They began working on the damaged walls Monday night.

Lane, a mechanic for a lawn maintenance company, and some friends were working to repair the damage.

"No, we're not going to move," Lane said. "We've done too much to this house and it's paid for. We just wish the guy would have had insurance."

A police report estimated the damage at $7,000 to the one-story home and noted that Minter did not have liability insurance.

Lane, who has lived 26 of his 28 years in the house, says he will spend the next several nights sleeping on the couch in the living room while his bedroom is being repaired.

Koop claims AIDS articles are erroneous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop told the White House AIDS commission today he is outraged at any suggestion that there is no danger of the disease being spread through vaginal intercourse.

Acknowledging that only about 4 percent of the known AIDS cases have resulted from heterosexual transmission, Koop said, "We know from the infected spouses of persons with hemophilia that (this virus) can be spread through normal vaginal intercourse."

"What concerns me is the potential for a more rapid spread ... into the general population," he said.

"I am outraged at recent newspaper and magazine articles stating that there is no danger of heterosexual transmission from normal vaginal intercourse," said Koop. "Although homosexual sex and IV drug abuse are the principal modes by which most cases are transmitted, it is just not true that there is no danger from normal vaginal intercourse."

"What is unknown is the level of danger. There is always a danger whenever people engage in casual sex."

EVERETT KOOP

Koop was today's leadoff witness as the 13-member commission launched three days of hearings into some of the most controversial aspects surrounding AIDS, such as testing, legal protections for those infected, and the kind of preventive education to emphasize.

Koop did not get into those areas in his statement.

His only mention of condoms was in citing a National Institutes of Health study of heroin addicts that found 93 percent of those entering methadone treatment programs reported sharing needles — a prime method of transmitting AIDS. Only 14 percent used condoms when having sex.

The panel chairman predicted on Monday that the group will reach consensus on even the thorniest issues — but only after considerable bickering.

"I think it's going to be a donnybrook in there, but I think something useful will come," retired Navy Adm. James D. Watkins told a National Press Club audience.

Watkins noted that Koop was the first scheduled witness and that Education Secretary William Bennett would testify Thursday.

The two presidential appointees have differed on approaches to combat spread of the disease, especially among young people, but Watkins said he

Loan default prompts foreclosure notice

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Foreclosure proceedings have been initiated against Big Spring City Manager Mack Wofford's home in connection with his default of payment on a $52,000 loan from Citizen's Federal Credit Union, according to records at the Howard County Clerk's office.

Notice of foreclosure on Wofford's home at 4047 Vicky St. was filed at the county clerk's office on Feb. 18. The records indicate that Wofford's home is scheduled to be auctioned to the highest bidder during a sale at the Howard County Courthouse on April 5.

However, Wofford said during a telephone interview this morning that arrangements have been made to make payment on the $52,000 loan and his home will not be auctioned.

"There will be no sale," Wofford said.

"Provisions have been made to handle it," he said in reference to the default on the credit union loan.

Wofford declined further comment.

Wofford and his wife, Joyce, assumed the credit union loan on Jan. 23, 1987, according to county clerk records.

Foreclosure proceedings brought against Wofford's home in connection with default on the Citizen's Federal Credit Union loan is the second financially related to be filed against the city manager in the past three months.

Gray County 223rd District Court in Pampa also has ordered Wofford to pay $40,132.45 in connection with his default on a promissory note with the Citizen's Bank and Trust Company in Pampa.

The court's judgment against Wofford was issued at a non-jury trial on Feb. 5, according to court records.

The Pampa bank's original lawsuit against Wofford was filed during the week of Dec 6-13 and requested judgment in the amount of $39,300.40. That amount included the original bank loan, made Aug. 19, and accrued interest, court records state.

Wofford, this morning, reaffirmed statements he made during an interview on Jan. 6 concerning default on the Pampa bank loan.

"The suit was filed in connection with real estate investments he and other individuals made several years ago, Wofford said during the Jan. 6 interview.

"It's a very complex matter involving a partnership land agreement," he said.

Wofford stressed that the recent foreclosure proceedings against his home or the Pampa bank civil suit are in no way connected with any wrongdoing in his current job as Pampa city manager or his current position.

was bit in the face by a stray dog, authorities said today.

The boy, Bryan DeAnda, was treated at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital for a bite that broke the skin on one of his cheeks, the youth's aunt, Sylvia Collins, Sterling City Route Box 42E, said today.

The dog was impounded and quarantined at the Big Spring city pound.

It was wearing an olive green collar, said Deputy Barney Edens, who reported that authorities don't know who the dog belongs to or whether it has had rabies shots.

The dog was captured in the Silver Heels addition south of Big Spring and is described as being about 20 inches tall with sandy brown short hair. It could be a German Shepherd or Chow mixed breed, Edens said.

Collins said her nephew was playing in the yard of her residence on Brackeen Road when the dog bit him and then ran away. The boy is the son of Pat DeAnda, Jeffery Road, according to sheriff's reports.

Three students win in PTA contest

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Three Big Spring students placed first in district competition of the City Council PTA Reflections Contest and qualified for state competition.

They are Megan Keyes of Kentwood School, who won first place in the music category in the Primary Age Group, Sterling Cave of Bauer School, who placed first in music in the Intermediate Age Group and Amanda Griffin of Kentwood, who placed first in the Intermediate Age Group literature competition.

Their material will be sent to state competition today and results will be known by mid-March, according to Doug Morris, president of the City Council PTA.

State winners will advance to national competition in Washington, D.C., Morris said.

All district winners will participate in an April 14 awards luncheon at the Golf Course Road Church of Christ in Midland.

believes their disagreements have been overblown. While both men advocate sexual abstinence as the best course for adolescents, Koop is more direct in recommending use of condoms for youngsters who do not follow that advice.

They also have expressed differences on sex education in schools.

"My feeling is our job is to try to bring ... things together," Watkins said Monday. "I don't see that we have such obstacles ... we can't reach consensus. I wasn't so sure four months ago, but now I am."

He reiterated his determination that the commission is "not going to shy away from anything" in making its final report to President Reagan June 24. Meanwhile, Watkins said he is confident the full commission will adopt the interim recommendations he made last week calling for an additional $1 billion a year in federal spending to fight drug abuse as a way to stem the spread of AIDS among intravenous drug users, who often share contaminated needles, and their sexual partners and offspring.

Indeed, the commission had opened discussion of those recommendations earlier Monday with little sign of significant differences. The panel is to meet Thursday night to draft the final version of the interim report that will go to the White House the following week.

Responding to questions at the Press Club appearance, Watkins said he does not foresee a dramatic spread of AIDS into the general population but cautioned that little is known about the infection rate among teen-agers.

"We don't know what it is in adolescents," he said. "There may be lurking on the horizon a real problem that has yet to unfold."

UBS to conduct blood drive at mall

The United Blood Services staff will be collecting blood from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Mall.

The Big Spring Junior Women's Club is sponsoring the blood drive and encourages everyone who is in good health to come to the Mall and help save a life.

Stefani Wilkerson, local coordinator for the Saturday drive, noted that the entire process takes 30 minutes and you receive a mini-physical. A trained professional will take the pulse, temperature and blood pressure, of each prospective donor, plus a test will be performed to test iron level, she added.

All materials used in the donation process are sterile and disposable. No disease can be contracted by donating blood, according to Janet McGuffin, United Blood Services representative.

United Blood Services is Big Spring's community blood center and supplies all the blood products used by the local hospitals, McGuffin noted.

Decell announces traffic closure

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The southbound lanes of Birdwell Lane at the intersection of 11th Place will be blocked to traffic for the entire day Wednesday, according to Big Spring City Public Works Director Tom Decell.

Decell said the lane closing is necessary to allow Southwestern Bell Telephone Company workers to install fiber-optic cable inside a manhole beneath the roadway.

All traffic on Birdwell Lane will be channelled into the northbound lane at the intersection, Decell said.

The roadway is expected to be fully opened to traffic late Wednesday, Decell said.

Do men treat women as inferiors? Do women treat men as inferiors? Debate goes on. But a scholar contends gender has little to do with it. The real war, says this savant, is between the overconfident and the underconfident. People who feel superior versus people who doubt their worth. Those who insult against those who lash back. Two huge emotional armies, ablunder in offense and defense, stepping all over each other.

Q. What's "dephlogisticated air"?

A. That's what Joseph Priestly called oxygen when he discovered it in 1774.

An Arkansas law passed in 1881 specified exactly how that name was to be spelled — Arkansas, not Arkansaw — and exactly how that name was to be pronounced — Arkansaw, not Arkansas.

Q. How much land did the United States buy from Napoleon in the Louisiana Purchase?

A. No land from him. Only the right to govern and tax. That cost $15 Million. But more than 20 times that much was subsequently paid to Indian tribes for lands they were willing to sell.

Q. How often does a vampire bat need blood?

A. Every three nights.

"Unwanted children" are much in the TV news of late, but unwanted children certainly aren't new. Numerous English parents regarded the colonies in America as a sort of reform school to which they could send their difficult youngsters as bond servants. To say it plainly, they sold them.

Police seize $13 million in drugs

EL PASO (AP) — About 2,300 pounds of marijuana and 357 pounds of cocaine valued at more than $13 million was confiscated in 11 busts over the weekend by U.S. Border Patrol and Customs agents.

Agents also arrested ten people and turned them over to U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents, said Gus de la Vina, deputy chief of the Border Patrol's El Paso sector.

Border Patrol and customs agents assigned to a special task force confiscated 2,266 pounds of marijuana and 184 pounds of cocaine, valued at $7.2 million, he said.

And Border Patrol agents who were not part of the task force confiscated 173 pounds of cocaine and 27 pounds of marijuana, valued at $5.6 million.

The task force was made up of about 150 U.S. Customs Agents and 100 Border Patrol agents who worked at ports of entry and along the Rio Grande, de la Vina said.

"Drug trafficking is out of control," he said at a press conference Monday. "We're not going to put up with it."

Legion honors Jessica's rescuers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rescuers of Jessica McClure are not forgotten, as evidenced by a public spirit award honoring their work, presented by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Midland Fire Chief James L. Roberts received the plaque at Monday's national meeting of the auxiliary, which cited the citizens of Midland for "A courageous act — a young life saved." Jessica, who was then 18 months old, was trapped in a well last October, but was rescued in an intense 58-hour effort that involved hundreds of people from the community and riveted attention nationwide.

The award for the community was presented by Legion Auxiliary National President Pearl Behrend of Racine, Wis.

Clements likes recommendations

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he likes recommendations made by local and state officials following a criminal justice summit meeting, and he said the proposals should help set the agenda for the 1989 Legislature.

"I think it was very worthwhile. Hopefully, it will set the tone, literally, for the 1989 legislative session as far as criminal justice is concerned. Their recommendations certainly will carry a lot of weight," Clements said Monday.

The three-day meeting ended Sunday with numerous proposals, including one that parole violators be returned to new facilities run by the state parole board instead of the inmate-clogged Texas Department of Corrections.

Clements said the attendance at the summit of mayors, sheriffs, district attorneys and other local officials was exactly what was needed as the state wrestles with an overcrowded prison system.

One proposal called for immediate construction of facilities to house 2,000 parole violators to ease crowding at state prisons and county jails.

Police question judge's motives

EL PASO (AP) — A judge who set bond at $100 for a man accused of attacking actress Tracy Scogins has been suspended pending an investigation, Chief Municipal Judge Robert Duran said.

Police Lt. J.R. Grijalva said police have received information that Associate Municipal Judge Rodolfo Romero was a longtime friend of Pedro Concepcion Padilla, who was charged with attempted sexual assault in connection with the attack on Ms. Scogins, in El Paso to co-host the Miss USA pageant. Grijalva would not reveal the source of his information.

But a friend of the two men, who asked that his name not be used, told the El Paso Times that Padilla and Romero have known each other since at least the late 1970s and have played together on basketball and flag-football teams in recreation leagues.

Padilla gave a false name and address when he appeared before Romero and had his bond set.

Lubbock apartment fire kills four

LUBBOCK (AP) — Four people died early today when fire erupted in a south Lubbock apartment complex, fire officials say.

The victims were identified by Lubbock police as Stacey Owens, 19, Kenneth Daves, 18, Larry Daves, 17, and one-year-old Tonia Daves.

determined the cause of the early morning fire at the Lorelei Apartments. The fire was reported at 3:05 a.m. by a Lubbock police officer who was on patrol in the area.

About 24 firemen battled the blaze for about 90 minutes before extinguishing it.

No damage estimate was immediately available.

Training, pilot error blamed in crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An Army investigation has determined that insufficient training and pilot error combined to cause the crash last summer of a Huey helicopter at Fort Hood that took the lives of 10 Army Reserve and Texas National Guard soldiers.

"The crew exceeded their flying abilities and the limitations of the aircraft," the report by the 5th Army at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio stated. "The crash was a result of an unauthorized maneuver executed at an altitude too low to recover."

program" was cited in the report as being "not sufficient to prepare the crew," for flights with a full load of passengers.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Monday that the report echoed witness accounts published in the newspaper soon after the June 22, 1987, crash and disputed by Reserve officials.

Witnesses told the newspaper that the crew of the UH-1H Huey helicopter was "hotdogging" with steep turns at high speed and low altitude.

Reserve officials could not be reached for comment Monday, the newspaper reported.

The Vietnam-era helicopter, built in 1967, was based in Norman, Okla., and assigned to the 353rd Engineering Group of the Army Reserve.

The helicopter was participating in Starburst '87, the annual summer training for 20,000 men and women of the Guard and its Reserve support units from 18 states. Eight Reservists and two Guardsmen were killed in the crash.

The crash of the Huey occurred when a high-speed, steep turn at low altitude resulted in an unplanned, rapid descent, the report said.

Jury to decide Soldier of Fortune negligence suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court jury today prepared to consider whether relatives of a Texas woman should be awarded millions of dollars from Soldier of Fortune magazine because an ad in the publication led to her death three years ago.

Gary Wayne Black, 18, and Marjorie Einmann, 64, are seeking $22.5 million in the negligence suit against the self-styled "Journal for Professional Adventurers."

Sandra Black, Gary's mother and Mrs. Einmann's daughter, was shot to death Feb. 21, 1985, at her home in Bryan.

Mrs. Black's husband, Robert, is on Texas' death row for paying John Wayne Hearn $10,000 to kill her. Hearn is serving three life terms in Florida for the Black slaying and two others in that state.

Robert Black contacted Hearn through a personal services classified ad Hearn placed in Soldier of Fortune in late 1984.

Hearn's ad appeared in four issues of the magazine, offering services of former Marine and Vietnam veterans and weapons specialists with jungle warfare expertise for "high-risk assignments" in the United States or overseas.

Attorneys for the Boulder, Colo.-based magazine and its parent company, Omega Group, Ltd., do not dispute the ad brought Hearn and Black together, but insist publisher Robert Brown had no way of knowing the ad was for illegal activity.

Magazine witnesses, including

Brown, defended the publication as a military journal, saying the classified ads were run to provide employment for Vietnam veterans who had difficulty finding work after returning home from an unpopular war. Such work included bodyguard and security duty or mercenary fighting overseas.

But witnesses for the plaintiffs said ad's reference to "high-risk assignments" implied Hearn and others using similar words in ads were making themselves available for criminal activity.

Where are all of the women?

Reflect on the Iran-Contra hearings last summer and try to remember a woman other than witness Fawn Hall. The committee room filled with congressmen prompted some pundits to ask: "Where are the women?"

The answer? Not many are in Congress, where fewer than 5 percent of the members — two senators and 23 representatives — are female. Women are slightly better represented in state legislatures, where they account for 15.6 percent nationally.

But considering that women make up 53 percent of the American population, their political progress isn't exactly overwhelming — even though their ranks are increasing in statehouses across the country at the rate of 1 percent every two years.

For Eleanor Smeal, the immediate past president of the National Organization for Women, that's not good enough. Nor is it for us.

"Any strategy that takes more than two generations is just too slow," she said recently.

She launched a campaign last year to hasten the election of women at local, state and national levels. The strategy is to pack tickets with feminists, on the theory that sheer numbers will ensure that more get elected. It's an ambitious effort that resorts to old-fashioned politicking.

Whether it works remains to be seen. Smeal optimistically calls her movement the Feminist Majority. Women clearly do make up the majority, but what percent of them are feminists — or at least feminist enough to get involved with this campaign?

Moreover, politically active women tend to turn up all over the spectrum. They are Republicans, Democrats, Libertarians, Socialists or even LaRouche followers. Different issues absorb them, and those interests aren't always on Smeal's political menu.

Smeal, while acknowledging these differences, still says that the vast majority of female elected officials tend to support women's rights, social programs for the poor, increased child care and the pressing need for other family services.

Women candidates, she maintains, also have an advantage over male opponents these days. They can appeal to the desires of voters for change and integrity in office.

These are the views of a woman who is a true believer in the "feminization of power." But whether her assumptions are valid or whether her strategy will work, she has focused attention on the American political scene of the '80s — a world where women are seen and heard at the local level, but whose voices grow progressively fainter from the statehouse to Congress and the White House.

That must change sooner or later. Having won the right to vote, women now must seize their fair share of power.

Claims council has wide control

To the Editor: Easily 90 percent of our news media is controlled by the Council on Foreign Relations. This conspiracy has controlled the executive branch of our federal government and all too many institutions of learning. As a result, the communist criminals of the world get a good press while advocates of republican government get a bad press. The current target of this conspiracy is primarily South Africa. With this in mind Mr. John F. McManus, after doing a lot of research, has taken six myths or more correctly falsehoods about South Africa and refuted these myths with the truth. ## Officials hold up candid AIDS book

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — If education is our best bet to stop the spread of AIDS, why is the government trying to shelve its most candid and informative booklet on the subject?

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop's detailed booklet on the disease has won much praise since he published it a year ago. Yet, members of Congress who want to pass the book along to the millions of people back home have to wait as long as six months to get copies from the distributor, the Department of Health and Human Services.

Democratic Congresswoman Barbara Boxer, who represents part of the San Francisco Bay area, first asked for copies of Koop's book last July. She got them in December. Other representatives have complained of similar delays.

Boxer thinks the holdup is the fault of White House conservatives and Health and Human Services officials who consider Koop's book too candid. "They do not like that booklet. It is too explicit and too direct," said Boxer. "We only have one vaccine for AIDS and that vaccine is education."

Boxer has asked the General Accounting Office to look into the situation.

Our associate Stewart Harris asked the Department of Health and Human Services about the delays. A spokesman said the biggest problem was with contractors who handle printing for the Government Printing Office. Only about 250,000 copies can be printed in a week, according to Health and Human Services.

But we found that the glitch is not in the printing. Rather, the printing office did not receive a single order from Health and Human Services during June and the first three weeks of July.

When the printers finally did get orders, they turned them around in as little as three days. The longest the printing office took to deliver Koop's 36-page book after receiving an order was 30 days. Sometimes the printing office expedited the delivery by sending out partial orders while the remainder was still being printed.

To date, the Department of Health and Human Services has made 14 different orders for the pamphlet. Last spring and early summer, as the requests from Congress were piling up, Health and Human Services had ordered just a little more than 3 million copies.

It was not until Aug. 8, 1987 — well after most representatives had asked for copies — that the printing office received its biggest order — a request for 6.7 million copies of Koop's report.

The first copies rolled off the presses three days later, and all of them had been printed by the end of September. It seems the presses run more smoothly than Health and Human Services will admit.

Unfortunately for Koop's pamphlet, the political wheel of fortune has never turned as easily. Right-wing opposition to the report is widespread. Many conservatives don't like Koop's frank, common-sense approach to AIDS prevention. He openly advocates the use of condoms.

Secretary of Education William Bennett, one of the most conservative members of President

Reagan's cabinet, has gone so far as to put out his own booklet, which urges minors to abstain from sex. Bennett's pamphlet advocates "sexuality in the context of marriage."

The Center for Disease Control, which is under the Department of Health and Human Services, has hinted that it doesn't like Koop's report either. When the CDC was deciding whether to mail AIDS information to every American household, a July 28 memo from the CDC to Health and Human Services noted that one disadvantage of not doing the mailing would be that it "might further stimulate congressional distribution of the Surgeon General's report."

Assistant Health Secretary Robert E. Windom announced last week that the nationwide mailing will begin this summer. Other officials indicated the booklet is still being drafted and will stress the importance of abstinence before marriage and faithfulness after. Individuals who cannot restrict their sexual activity within the context of marriage will be advised to use condoms.

There has been no suggestion that Koop's booklet might be used.

The art of receiving gifts

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

When I was 13 years old I was chaperoned here and there, along with two sisters of about the same age, about the greater environs of London. My music teacher, whom I loved and still do, was by my side when I went to the counter of a little souvenir shop in Stratford-upon-Avon and paid out three or four shillings for Shakespearean sundries I had picked out.

An elderly lady took my money, withdrew from the display case a tiny one-square-inch edition of "Romeo and Juliet" and, smiling, gave it to me. A gift. I took the sixpence she had just before given me in change, and deposited it in her hand: a reciprocal gift.

Once outside, I received a kind-but-resonant rebuke from my music teacher. I had done an offensive thing, she instructed me. A gift is a gift, she told me. I must learn, she said, to accept gifts. They are profaned by any gesture of automatic reciprocity.

Many years later I read, in some biography or other of Abraham Lincoln, about an episode that had briefly stalled the receiving line at the White House with corporate embarrassment.

A lady in the receiving line, after taking the president's hand in formal greeting, stuck forward with her left hand a huge bundle of long-stemmed roses, depositing them in Lincoln's hand. The president — and the receiving line — were immobilized. Abraham Lincoln smiled. And said, "Are these really for me?"

"Yes," the guest replied, beaming. "In that case," Lincoln said, "I can think of nothing that would give me more pleasure than to present them to you."

The flowers were returned; there were smiles all the way around. The lady took back her roses, smiled in turn, and the line moved on. That is a singular exception to my music teacher's injunction about the social sin of reciprocal gifts. Few people, in public life or private, have managed — could manage — such extemporaneous grace.

Many years went by. And then, a fortnight ago, I received on my trusty electronic MCI a message from a friend, a computer expert. He said that the retrieval system I had yearned for, which would permit me to locate individual book titles in my library via my computer, had been completed.

He had worked on it (in the interstices of his busy schedule) for more than a month. "It is yours," his message read, "as a belated Christmas present." I flashed back on MCI (that is the only hazardous aspect of that wonderful system, the temptation to the on-the-spot reply) that I insisted he send me a bill for professional services.

One minute later, my mind traveling back to the little souvenir store at Stratford, in utter dejection I shed the grown-up equivalent of tears at my gauche.

The unrequited gift is, in Burke's phrase, one of the unbought graces of life. The effort there and then to repay scars the transaction: What is left is a fatally deglamorized event. The spontaneous, or, for that matter, the long-contemplated appreciative gesture, is X-rayed into desiccated atomic parts.

The universal offense, remarked by Ortega y Gasset as the mark of the masses in revolt, is that of the Westener — rich and poor — who accepts without any thought of any debt incurred the patrimony we all enjoy, those of us who live in the free world.

The numbing, benumbing thought that we owe nothing to Plato and Aristotle, nothing to the prophets who wrote the Bible, nothing to the generations who fought for freedoms reified in the Bill of Rights; we are basket cases of ingratitude.

We cannot hope to repay Socrates what he gave us, but to live lives without any sense of obligation to those who made those lives as tolerable as ours are — the lack of gratitude to our parents who suffered to raise us, our teachers who labored to teach us, the scientists who prolonged our lives when our appendix burst — is spiritually atrophying.

We cannot repay the gift of the Beatitudes. But the failure to recognize that we all owe a huge debt that can only be repaid by our puny efforts to attempt, in our parlous way, to repay the gifts we inherit marks us as the masses in revolt; against our benefactors, our benefactors.

To fail to feel gratitude, when walking through the Metropolitan Museum, or when listening to the music of J.S. Bach, isn't to profane the generosity of the little old lady behind the counter at Stratford-upon-Avon, but to decline to express, however clumsily, our gratitude for the fruits of genius, for the generosity that gave us the lives we lead.

Testimony to begin

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Despite "first-day jitters," the Senate strongly rejected efforts to dismiss impeachment charges against Evan Mecham, and one long-time supporter of the governor said conviction was almost certain.

During the second day of Mecham's impeachment trial today, prosecution and defense attorneys planned to make opening statements on the first allegation against the Republican governor — that he tried to thwart an investigation of an alleged death threat by a state official.

Also, the Arizona Supreme Court was expected to rule today on a defense claim that the impeachment trial, the first of a U.S. governor in 59 years, should be delayed until after Mecham's March 22 criminal trial on charges of concealing a $350,000 campaign loan.

Police attend funeral

SEAFORD, N.Y. (AP) — A police officer killed execution-style as he guarded a witness in a drug case was given a farewell by 10,000 police officers amid tears, vows to find his killer and hopes that his death helps the fight against drug dealers.

The throng of officers, some from as far away as Texas and Ohio, lined eight blocks approaching St. James Church Monday for the funeral of Edward Byrne, a 22-year-old rookie officer.

"If drug trafficking has become so bold that they can engage in the assassination of a police officer, then our whole society is at risk," Mayor Edward I. Koch said at the funeral service. "That is why his death is so important."

Recession fears ease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's chief economic forecasting gauge dropped a sharp 0.6 percent in January, but an upward revision for December eased fears of an imminent recession.

The Commerce Department reported a month ago that the index had declined 0.2 percent in December after falling in October and November.

Three consecutive monthly declines in the index is the traditional, but not infallible, signal of an impending recession.

Reagan to soothe NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan headed for Europe today to assure the NATO allies they will not be left defenseless. He pledged that America will keep its troops in Europe "as long as Europeans want them to stay."

Reagan, as he left the White House for a two-day NATO summit in Belgium, said the session comes at a historic moment for both East and West.

"For four decades, the combination of a strong common defense and pursuit of dialogue with the East has been a winning formula for NATO," Reagan said.

Shultz says plan still alive

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz flew to London today to meet Jordan's King Hussein, saying his peace initiative was still alive even though Arabs and Israelis had not yet agreed to talk peace.

"We are still very much in the process of working," Shultz said in an airport statement ending a four-day shuttle to Israel, Syria, Jordan and Egypt. "Nobody has signed up to our proposals, but everybody wants us to keep working. So we'll keep working," said Shultz, whose plan calls for talks on Palestinian self-rule and an overall settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

A senior Israeli official who demanded anonymity said Shultz's meeting with Hussein would play a major role in determining if Shultz would return to the region. "He (Shultz) was in a bad mood when he returned from Amman" on Monday, said the official. "He was not very happy with the talks."

The official said Jordanian officials had surprised Shultz by hardening their insistence on holding an international conference and by abandoning previous support for a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir has opposed a U.N.-sponsored conference attended by the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council: the United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. He has argued such a forum would be biased against the Jewish state.

The joint delegation was a key element of U.S.-sponsored peacemaking efforts because it got around Israeli refusal to talking with Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Ready for trouble

RAMALLAH, Occupied West Bank — An Israeli soldier, whose riot helmet is painted with the skull and crossbones, watches Monday as a group of about 50 women and some young boys throw stones at soldiers, taunting them with chants of "We are the PLO."

But it could be a third key figure, chairman Yasser Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization, who has been most instrumental in upsetting Shultz's mission. One major Shultz objective was to meet with a delegation of Palestinian Arabs in order to get their goals in negotiations.

But under PLO instructions, all 15 he invited to a session last Friday night in Jerusalem stayed away, and efforts by American diplomats who work closely with Palestinians to set up another meeting fell short.

Israeli officials differ on the cause of the unrest on the West Bank and Gaza, but agree the PLO played at least a role in inciting the Palestinians who clashed with Israeli forces.

And in Amman, where Shultz met twice with Prince Hassan, Prime Minister Zaid Rifal and Foreign Minister Taher Masri, the growing influence of the PLO in the Arab world as a result of disorder in the occupied lands was evident.

Reporters, briefed on the rules that prevented them from disclosing their sources, were told Jordan no longer would put pressure on the PLO to form a joint negotiating team.

General strike fails

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A general strike protesting the regime of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega failed to halt transportation and most commerce in the capital, but organizers predicted it would gather momentum.

An apparent lack of faith in the effectiveness of mass action conspired against the strike's success on Monday, which was pay-day for many workers.

The strike appeared to be somewhat more effective in industry.

The government said the strike — called to demand Noriega's ouster as head of Panama's 15,000-strong Defense Forces — had been a failure.

China has no comment

BELJING (AP) — China today declined comment on Vietnamese charges that Chinese troops had landed on two tiny contested islands in the South China Sea.

Vietnam's Communist Party Daily, Nhan Dan, said Friday that Chinese troops had landed on two coral reefs in the Spratly chain that are claimed by Vietnam and China as well as Malaysia, the Philippines and Taiwan.

Vietnam calls the islands Truong Sa, and China refers to them as the Nansha archipelago.

China's Foreign Ministry, asked to comment on Vietnam's allegations, said a statement it made on Feb. 22 "has already made clear our consistent position." That statement said earlier Vietnamese claims that four Chinese warships had "provoked and obstructed" operations of its cargo vessels on Jan. 31 off the Spratly group were "brazen charges."

319 killed in fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Defense Ministry claimed 229 Contra rebels and 90 soldiers loyal to the leftist Sandinista government were killed in 4,801 combat engagements in February.

A statement issued Monday night said 39 civilians also were killed, 55 injured and 115 kidnapped during the period.

The statement said U.S. Air Force planes violated Nicaraguan airspace 13 times. It said other planes, mostly leaving Honduras to resupply the Contra rebels, were detected 35 times in February.

War on poverty not won yet

TCHULA, Miss. (AP) — What has happened in this Mississippi Delta town tells much about America's rural poverty, which shows no sign of surrendering nearly a quarter century after President Johnson declared war on it.

The fresh air and fertile land of bucolic places like this mask a flood of economic challenges as relentless as the Mississippi River flowing 50 miles west of here.

- Rural people who have the skills to leave are moving to cities by the thousands.
- Small- and medium-size farmers are often struggling to survive.
- Machines are taking over jobs not only in the fields but in small-town factories.
- And more and more of those factories have been fleeing to lower-paying places abroad.
- Those out of work increasingly live on government assistance.

The chairman of the U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee, Patrick Leahy, says rural America has suffered "an economic body blow from which it may never recover."

And while legislation in Congress and statehouses seeks to protect scarce rural jobs, bail out farmers, underwrite economic development and improve schools, many see the problems of America's 13.5 million rural poor as almost beyond help.

Poverty, according to Census Bureau figures, is disproportionately a Southern problem, despite the rise of economic powerhouses like Atlanta. Roughly 16 percent of Southerners fall below the poverty level, compared with 10 percent of Northeasterners and 13 percent of those in the West and Midwest. Not coincidentally, the South has a larger proportion of its people in rural areas — 37 percent — than any other region.

"The sunshine on the Sunbelt has proved to be a narrow beam of light brightening futures along the Atlantic Seaboard and in large cities but skipping over many small towns and rural areas," concluded a report for the Southern Growth Policies Board in 1986.

Tchula, once a prosperous shipping center for the local cotton plantations, lies at the center of the ninth poorest county in the United States. In 1986, per capita income was $5,780 here in Holmes County and the population stood at 23,600, barely more than its 1970 figure.

Ex-convict Turns from criminal to public service

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — To look at him — the slightly built, unassuming, man sitting quietly at his desk in the Programs for Human Services offices — you'd never imagine him sticking a knife in a guard's throat.

But that was one of the highlights in Clark Rolling's criminal career that spanned 27 of his 33 years, 14 of them in jails and the state penitentiary.

Rolling talks openly and publicly about his life now — the alcohol, drugs, armed robberies, assaults with deadly weapons and, ultimately, his beginning as a respected family man — for a good reason: "I want to help young people — some kid who might be on the edge now — from ending up like I did ... I hurt a lot of people and I've got a lot of black marks on the book. I need to get as many white marks as I can."

He works hard for those white marks now, helping the elderly get adequate roofing and insulation, often on his own time, out of his own pocket. He also volunteers his time at elementary schools, talking to students about where alcohol-drug abuse can lead.

It's a path with which Rolling is well acquainted.

Born in Lockney to alcoholic, fighting parents, he quickly became a loner. After his parents divorced, he lived first with one, then the other. At 6, he says he sneaked beer and tried to avoid a physically abusive stepfather. At 8, he was smoking cigarettes and drinking a lot, and by the age of 10, he had his own gang.

"I wish you could come back and tell us more," wrote one girl, "so people would stop telling lies about cocaine, crack, heroin, speed, crystal, etc. I think if you could reach more people, you would touch them. You touched me."

From there, he progressed to first a boys' ranch, then two jail sentences marked by escape attempts. Finally making the big time — the Eastham Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections — he served five years of a 17-year sentence for yet another attempted escape before being paroled to Land Manor in Beaumont.

By then, Rolling had spent half his life — 14 of 28 years — in jail or prison.

"I was scared of the halfway house, scared of women. It was a long time to be in prison."

With counseling, he found a job as an intake clerk in Orange at Programs for Human Services. "I was taking applications for people who needed assistance — working people, street people, the same kind of people I used to rob — and God got into me. I snapped."

Within 30 days, he was promoted to PHS programs supervisor, in charge of four programs to provide necessities — house weatherization, utility bill payments, home repair for the elderly and temporary emergency relief for those who qualify.

Sometimes in his job, he says, he meets people for whom the programs alone are not enough. "I put 2,800 volunteer hours in on one house. But the couple that owned it, they were in their 80s, living there with their grandchildren, and they didn't even have hot water."

There are several stories like that in Rolling's files. "It makes you feel so good, especially when you are leaving after a job and the old ladies say, 'God bless you.'"

Rolling is married now. He and his wife, Vickie, are parents of a 2-year-old child, and also are rearing her 17-year-old twins. He is attending classes at Lamar University in Beaumont to obtain his certification as a alcohol-drug counselor.

After his first presentation to a local school, Rolling got a batch of mail, thanking him for sharing his life story and information about drug and alcohol abuse with the class.

"I wish you could come back and tell us more," wrote one girl, "so people would stop telling lies about cocaine, crack, heroin, speed, crystal, etc. I think if you could reach more people, you would touch them. You touched me."

"This community is going to have to wake up," Rolling said. "Drug and alcohol abuse are real, and people need help."

Under the terms of his parole, Rolling will be under supervision until 1995. But he wants to be more — and contribute more to his family, his church and his community — than most, even exemplary, ex-convicts. And, "one day at a time," according to Rolling, he's succeeding.

MAURICEVILLE — Clark Rolling, program director for the Programs for Human Service offices in Orange, inspects the roof of a dilapidated house which he hopes to repair for an elderly family. Rolling, an ex-convict who has been behind bars for 14 of his 33 years, now tries to help others.

"Life is so good, but I have so much to pay back. I just don't want to expire before I've finished."

"Who knows?" he said, and grinned. "I might be a congressman one of these days."

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

ENGAGEMENTS Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper.

WEDDINGS If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Spectator cheers fans' departure

DEAR ABBY: "Seattleite" was upset with people who leave sporting events early. He was concerned that the players' performances would suffer. You agreed, calling this premature departure "demoralizing, insensitive and unsportsmanlike." Hogwash! Abby, don't assume that everyone who attends sporting events is a fan — which is an abbreviation for "fanatic."

Dear Abby

I attend sporting events hoping to see top-level athletes perform at their best, buoyed by the competition. It's entertainment. And in many cases, I pay exorbitant prices, and when I am no longer being entertained, I leave.

DEAR ABBY: Here's another version of shy second lieutenants were called "shavetails": When a soldier made the transition from enlisted man to officer, he had a surplus of plain-style shirts. Officers' shirts had epaulets — little strips of fabric on the shoulders. So rather than scrap the shirts he had, he took them to the tailor shop in the post exchange and had the tailor sew epaulets on the shoulders.

Also, I doubt very much whether college or professional athletes are "demoralized" when people they've never seen leave the stands early. Athletes at this level play for a variety of reasons, not the least of which is for big money.

And where did the tailor get the extra material to make the epaulets? He just "shaved" it off the tail of the shirt. Hence every second lieutenant who was formerly an enlisted man was known as a "shavetail."

So, if you fans want to be fanatical, please do. When I'm present at a lopsided contest, I'll be the first one out the door. You "home teamers" can demonstrate your sensitivity and sportsmanship in the parking lot jam.

DEAR GRANT: Your explanation checks out. I wonder where the story about shaving the tails of ELLENBURGER: You're right, athletes are entertainers, but when an entertainer sees the audience leaving early, mules used in the military originated.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for advising "Carolina Churchgoer" to tell her minister privately to please stop asking (in a loud tone): "Where is your husband this morning?"

That reminds me of a minister we once had. Although my husband and I attended church services every Sunday morning, our minister would say, "Why don't you two join our Bible study group on Thursday nights?" Then he would say, "I never see you at Sunday night services — you really should make an effort to attend."

Every time we missed a church picnic, supper, book review or guest lecturer, the minister always asked: "Where were you?"

In addition to every Sunday morning service, we also attended Easter and Christmas services, and figured that was quite enough church for us.

As Paul Harvey would say: "Here's the rest of the story." We finally changed churches, and now a nice young pastor greets us warmly, thanks us for coming, and never tries to lay a guilt trip on us for not attending church more often.

IOC head wants Winter Games to grow

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Olympic officials want to see the Winter Games grow. "We think the Winter Games can be more important," International Olympic Committee president Juan Antonio Samaranch said Monday.

Sports will be added to the program and bigger cities and regions will replace small resorts as hosts of the Winter Games, Samaranch and IOC member Marc Hodler of Switzerland said.

But that doesn't mean the IOC will try to slip a third party into what Hodler called "the forced marriage between ice sports and snow sports." And Samaranch raised the possibility of stricter controls over marginal competitors entering events such as bobsled and luge.

At a news conference the day after the close of what Samaranch termed "the best Winter Olympics ever," the IOC chief said one of the three demonstration sports in Calgary would be added to the medal-sport list for the 1992 Winter Games in Albertville, France.

"I cannot forecast, but I know the people of the Savoy (the Alpine region around Albertville) are very interested in freestyle skiing," Samaranch said.

The other demonstration sports here were curling and short-track speed skating.

Hodler said a decision on an additional sport for 1992 probably would be made at the IOC's executive board meeting in Stockholm in April.

Suggestions have been made that the IOC might swell the size — and American interest — of the Winter Games by switching indoor sports such as volleyball or basketball to the winter. Samaranch, however, said that would violate the Olympic Charter, the IOC's bylaws, which limits Winter Games sports to those contested on ice and snow.

"If they played basketball on ice, maybe," he said.

Much attention during the Games focused on athletes such as British ski jumper Eddy Edwards, who flew less than half the distance covered by gold-medalist Matti

Nykanen but won the hearts of fans. The Jamaican bobsled team also was outclassed on the track but made a public hit by selling T-shirts and sweatshirts on the street of Calgary to meet expenses.

Hodler, president of both the International Ski Federation and the Association of International Winter Sports Federations, said there were no plans for qualification standards or other restrictions on skiing or ski jumping.

"It's very hard to compare athletes, because snow conditions and track conditions vary around the world," he said.

But Samaranch said that some qualifying criteria may be imposed in bobsled and luge.

"They must be much more strict in making the competition," Samaranch said.

Samaranch and Hodler said weather was the only problem in Calgary. High winds and warm temperatures disrupted the schedule, and Samaranch said the IOC was lucky it had added four days to the Games. He said the 16-day schedule adopted for Calgary was likely to remain in effect for Albertville.

The two officials also said that international sports federations and national Olympic committees would be asked to be more precise in reports on weather conditions at future Olympic bidding cities.

Rangers slugger in camp; money problem remains

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — Texas Rangers slugger Ruben Sierra has reported to spring training camp but he won't play in any intrasquad games this week or in an exhibition game against St. Louis on Friday, the team said.

"There will be plenty of time for hitting," said Rangers manager Bobby Valentine. "Plenty of time for everything. We'll just have to alter his schedule a little, that's all."

"He still probably needs a rest after winter ball," Sierra, 22, played winter baseball in his home of Puerto Rico for the fourth consecutive year.

"He plays all the time. It's crazy. He said he won't play there every year. The one report we got was that he played real hard down there. He ran out ground balls and everything," Valentine said.

Sierra had vowed not to attend camp without a contract but returned Sunday and said he will not fight the team's salary offer for 1988.

Sierra, who batted .263 with 30 home runs and a team-leading 109 RBIs last year, wanted a $250,000 base salary.

The Rangers have reportedly offered him $215,000 plus incentive bonuses of $10,000. The team plans to renew contracts of any unsigned players Tuesday, 10 days before the major league deadline.

"They're going to make me sad (if they renew the contract), but it won't make me mad," Sierra said. "I'll show them what Ruben Sierra can do."

"I was thinking, 'I want to be with the team. Be here. Work hard. Try to have a better year than last year,'" he said.

"I was ready to come," he said, "but my agent (Joe Maenza) said no. I changed my mind because I wanted to be here. I didn't feel good coming in late. I just wanted Texas to be fair to me."

Pitcher Edwin Correa said he told Sierra he had been getting bad advice.

Sport agent's trial begins

OPELIKA, Ala. (AP) — Kevin Porter knew his Auburn football career could end abruptly by taking $3,800 from an Atlanta sports agent in violation of NCAA rules.

But he said he took the money, including two cash payments of $900 during the 1987 season, to help his mother through financial problems and at first didn't admit it to his Auburn coaches after it was exposed in a newspaper report.

Porter testified Monday on the opening day of the misdemeanor bribery and tampering trial of Jim Abernethy, whose lawyers said the former sports agent violated no state law and exposed corruption in the sports agent business to help clean up college athletics.

Defense lawyer Bill Baxley also said the indictment against Abernethy wrongly describes Porter as "an employee" of Auburn University. "Football players just don't come under that description," he said.

State prosecutors, however, said Abernethy knowingly violated laws with payments that eventually barred Porter, an All-Southeastern Conference cornerback, from playing in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day.

Assistant Attorney General William Wasden told the Lee County circuit court jury that the payments broke Porter's student-athlete contract with Auburn and that Abernethy willfully jeopardized the player's career.

"Auburn has been penalized. Kevin Porter has been penalized. There is only one member of that trio who has not been penalized," Wasden said in reference to Abernethy.

Abernethy is charged with commercial bribery, tampering with a sports event and violation of deceptive trade law. Each misdemeanor court carries a maximum penalty of a $2,000 fine and a year in jail if convicted.

Porter's testimony came after Lee County Circuit Judge Robert M. Harper ruled Monday that Atlanta sports writer Chris Mortensen, who broke the Abernethy story last December,

SFA women enjoying good times on the basketball court

NACOGDOCHES (AP) — Stephen F. Austin State University — only three years after its once-proud women's basketball tradition hit rock bottom — is enjoying good times again. The Ladyjacks are on a roll and ranked 19th nationally.

In the mid-to-late 1970s, SFA was a giant among women basketball powers under the direction of head coach Sue Gunter.

Eight consecutive times, beginning with the 1972-73 season, the Ladyjacks won at least 20 games. The crowds often numbered in the 5,000 range, and Ladyjack basketball literally was the only game in town.

"It was really wild," remembers Robert Hill, sports information director at SFA and former voice of the Ladyjacks.

"The town went crazy, and the support was unbelievable. I think the high point came during the 1979 season when the Russian Olympic team came in, and the coliseum was sold out (8,064 tickets). That is still the most people that have ever attended an event at the coliseum."

The glory was shortlived. Gunter left after the 1979-80 season, and the program turned down over the next five seasons. After the Ladyjacks went only 3-24 in 1984-85, SFA put the program in the hands of smooth-talking, personable, ex-Marine Gary Blair.

Time stands still for 76ers

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers beat the clock, but only after their timekeeper held back the second hand.

Gerald Henderson's driving layup at the buzzer Monday night gave Philadelphia a 102-101 victory over the Chicago Bulls. But with four seconds left time stood still. Or at least the clock did.

With four seconds remaining, the Bulls' Horace Grant missed two free throws. Mike Gminski grabbed the rebound and the Sixers called time.

The clock still read four seconds. "If there's a tip and a rebound, a second has to go off the clock," Chicago Coach Doug Collins said. "I'm going to protest the game."

Collins protested at the scorer's table when Gminski called time. When Henderson scored to win the game, Collins charged the table and had to be restrained by his assistants.

"If the clock shows four seconds, it could be 4.9 seconds and the clock doesn't start until someone touches the ball," timer Jack Grosse said. "He said I never started it and that's not true."

Two Sixers, Gminski and Charles Barkley, agreed that Philadelphia should not have gotten four seconds for the final shot.

"I got a hand on it and tipped it to Mike," Barkley said.

"The ball got tipped over to me, but funny things happen at home," Gminski said. "However, I wasn't going to go over and plead Doug's case for him."

In other games, the Dallas beat Denver 123-96, Washington beat Golden State 110-105, Utah beat Sacramento 115-110 and Portland beat Cleveland 107-94.

Henderson said the drive for the final basket also was a mistake.

"The play wasn't designed like it happened," he said. "Charles was the first option. I tried to get as close as I could and a couple of their guys had their backs turned, looking for Barkley."

"Obviously Henderson made a super play," Philadelphia Coach Jim Lynam said. "Whoever was guarding him got lost in traffic."

Grant's jumper at the start of the fourth quarter gave Chicago an 82-78 lead. But neither team led by more than three points thereafter. Chicago scored the first 12 points of the third quarter to go ahead 66-56 before Philadelphia cut it to 80-76 at the end of the quarter.

Barkley scored 26 points and had 11 rebounds. Michael Jordan had 35 points for Chicago.

Mavericks 123, Nuggets 96
Roy Tarpley scored six points during a 16-3 fourth-quarter spurt as Dallas won a club-record ninth consecutive game.

Rolando Blackman also had six points during the streak, which pushed Dallas from an 85-85 tie to a 103-88 lead with 5:49 left.

Tarpley finished with 15 points and 21 rebounds. Earlier in the day he was named NBA Player of the Week.

"Like Tony the Tiger says, 'It's great,'" Tarpley said of the award. "My goal is just to try and be consistent and to excel."

Mark Aguirre scored 23 points and Sam Perkins added 21 for Dallas, which extended its Midwest Division lead over Denver to 4½ games. Danny Schayes scored 21 points and Michael Adams 20 for the Nuggets.

Under Blair's guidance, she dropped 40 pounds. Two seasons later, Blair considers her among the nation's premier players. She is averaging 22 points and 13 rebounds a game.

"When I got here, I told her if she was ever going to be a Division I player, she was going to have to lose that weight," Blair said. "She worked hard, and I think she is one of the finest players in America. There isn't a six-footer I would rather have anywhere."

Using the talents of Butler and Norris, Blair led the Ladyjacks to a 16-12 season and pulled a recruiting coup in the spring by landing Snook's 6-0 Connie Cole and Angelina Junior College All-American Mozell Brooks, a 5-8 native of San Augustine.

He said he was introduced to Abernethy by a Georgia Tech football player, Ricardo Ingram. "Ricardo was in a similar situation himself," Porter said.

Porter said he met Abernethy and his former partner, Gary Wilson, on Aug. 3, 1987, at Abernethy's Atlanta office. He said he signed the contract that day and got $2,000. He said a go-between, who was not named, delivered $900 in cash to him in envelopes at a Wal-Mart store on two later occasions.

Porter said he tore up the contract after learning that Abernethy had left the sports agent business.

DALLAS — Denver Nuggets guard Michael Adams (14) puts up a shot before Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley (42) could get close enough to block it during second period NBA action Monday night.

Bullets 110, Warriors 105

Moses Malone scored 33 points, including 10 in a 14-6 run at the start of the third quarter to lead Washington to its third consecutive victory.

Washington went ahead 64-53 with the burst over the first six minutes of the second half and was ahead the rest of the way.

"We came out a little bit stronger in the third quarter and were able to maintain a nine-point lead. That was the key," Bullets Coach Wes Unseld said. "We've gotten big games out of a couple of guys lately. The last few games, it was Jeff Malone, and tonight it was Moses."

Otis Smith scored a career-high 29 points to lead the Warriors, who lost their fourth straight game.

Jazz 115, Kings 110

Karl Malone scored 41 points, tying his career high, including the basket that put Utah ahead for good at 101-100 with 5:18 left.

"Karl came into the league and has been working hard since Day One," said Utah assistant coach Jerry Sloan, who is acting coach while Frank Laydon recovers from a hernia operation.

"He and (John) Stockton always give it all they've got. Hustle is the key. They're a great pleasure to coach."

Thurl Bailey and Bobby Hansen added 21 points each for Utah. Malone also had 15 rebounds and Stockton had 19 assists.

Reggie Theus scored 22 points for Sacramento, which lost its seventh consecutive game.

Trail Blazers 107, Cavaliers 94

Jerome Kersey scored 33 points and the Trail Blazers held Cleveland to 18 points in the fourth quarter as Portland won its third straight game.

Kersey also had eight rebounds, made five steals and blocked three shots for the Trail Blazers, who played their fourth game in seven nights.

"Kersey was outstanding," Portland Coach Mike Schuler said. "The one thing about Jerome is that he'll give you a consistent effort every night."

Clyde Drexler, who scored 18 points, gave Portland its largest lead at 96-87 with 3:34 remaining. Brad Daugherty scored 23 points for Cleveland.

Hersey sweet to Bradley; Braves clinch MVC title

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Bradley Coach Stan Albeck looked out at the court, saw Hersey Hawkins warming up early and figured there was "no way" the 14th-ranked Braves would fail to win the Missouri Valley Conference crown.

And they didn't, thanks to Hawkins, who scored 49 points as Bradley beat Southern Illinois 113-102 Monday night to clinch the title.

Roundup

"Whenever he comes early and shoots, we know he's going to have a good game," Albeck said of Hawkins. "We knew he was going to have a good night, and tonight there was no way he was going to let us lose this game."

But it wasn't easy. Hawkins, the nation's leading collegiate scorer, was forced to outduel SIU's Steve Middleton, who scored 42 points in his final game at Carbondale.

"Middleton is a tremendous basketball player," Albeck said. "If it wasn't for Hawkins, he would probably be the player of the year in the Valley."

Hawkins scored 29 first-half points, pushing Bradley, 12-2 in the conference and 23-4 overall, to a 56-48 halftime lead.

SIU, 6-8 and 12-15, had a 15-8 lead with 15:35 left in the first half, but Bradley came back to lead 20-19 after Luke Jackson hit a turnaround jumper. The Braves extended the lead to 42-27 with seven minutes to play in the half, but SIU closed to within eight points on a Todd Krueger tip-in at the buzzer.

The Salukis came back to make a strong challenge in the second half, but Bradley was equal to the task.

SIU tied the game at 76-76 with 11:43 left to play on a Middleton free throw.

The Braves' Jerry Thomas then scored nine straight points as Bradley built the lead to 92-78 with 7:55 remaining.

Hawkins set an SIU Arena scoring record and added 11 rebounds. Jackson added 12 points and 13 rebound for Bradley. Donald Powell came off the bench to score 18 points.

No. 7 Pittsburgh 87, Boston College 79

Charles Smith scored 23 points to become the second-leading scorer in Pitt history as the first-place Panthers improved to 11-3 in the Big East Conference and 21-4 overall.

Ironically, Smith had the first

3-point goal of his career.

"The funny thing is he's actually a good three-point shooter," Coach Paul Evans said. "We have some plays designed for that but he doesn't take that many."

Demetres Gore scored 14 of his 20 points in the second half for Pitt. Sean Miller added 16 points, including four 3-pointers.

Dana Barros led Boston College with 32 points, hitting on 11 of 22 shots and six of 10 three-pointers. Steve Benton and Jamie Benton added 14 points apiece for Boston College, 15-12 overall and 6-10 in the conference.

No. 16 N. Carolina St. 87, N.C.-Asheville 76

Chucky Brown scored 25 points and Vinnie Del Negro added 23 to lead the Wolfpack, 21-6.

North Carolina-Asheville, trailing 52-32 at halftime, closed the gap to 78-70 with 3:20 remaining on the play of William Funderburk and Ricky Chatman, both of whom wound up with 22 points.

But freshman Chris Corchiani hit a pair of free throws and Brown followed with a dunk with 1:30 left to increase the Wolfpack lead to 84-72.

The Bulldogs, 13-14, took their only lead at 22-21 with 9:07 left in the first half on a basket by Funderburk. But Del Negro and Brown sparked a 9-0 spurt that gave the Wolfpack a 30-22 lead with 7:11 left.

Wolfpack Coach Jim Valvano said he had hoped for a better effort.

"I know it's a long year, but I'm disappointed," Valvano said.

Other Games

Forwards Ken Battle and Nick Anderson scored 22 points each and Illinois beat Indiana 75-65, giving Coach Lou Henson his 500th career victory. Henson, 500-243, is major college basketball's sixth-winningest active coach.

Illinois is 9-6 in the Big Ten Conference and 19-9 overall. Indiana, 8-7 and 16-9, was led by Jay Edwards with 23 points.

Reserve Mike Abram hit a 16-foot jump shot with 10 seconds left as Louisville, 19-8, scored the final six points of the game to defeat Memphis State 71-69 and clinch the Metro Conference championship.

Herbert Crook and Pervis Ellison led Louisville, 19-9 overall and 9-3 in the conference, with 16 points each and Abram added 13. Dewayne Bailey led Memphis State with 17 points and Dwight Boyd added 16.

to get back on top, we had to get the best players from East Texas," Blair said.

"Three years ago, we got Butler. Two years ago, we got Brooks. And last year, we got Reed."

Butler and Reed were the two best players in East Texas coming out of high school, while Brooks was a junior college All-American whom the Ladyjacks should have gone after when she was finishing high school, Blair noted.

"We may not be able to get the Parade All-Americans from other states, but we can't afford to let the players out of our own back yard get away," Blair said.

Recruiting seems to be going well this year, he said.

"A couple of years ago, a lot of people weren't listening to our message," Blair said. "This year, we may not get every kid we want, but at least we are in on them. They are listening to what we have to offer, and I think we'll get our share of good players."

According to Brooks, Blair's greatest strength doesn't come from the x's and o's drawn on a chalkboard.

"Coach Blair is a tremendous motivator," she said. "He knows how to make us play our hardest all the time. He can be demanding, but he really cares for us, and everyone on the team knows that what he says is for the best."

Blair said, "I won't be satisfied until we can get back to where this program used to be. The town and the campus are excited about what we are doing here. We just have to keep moving upward and not reach a certain level and become complacent."

Ex-Denver coach becomes Raider

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Shanahan knows a lot is expected of him as coach of the Los Angeles Raiders. He says he's ready to meet the challenge.

"My concern is not really with the playoffs because my standards are higher than getting into the playoffs," Shanahan said Monday at a news conference called to introduce him as the Raiders' new head coach. "Our standards are to win world championships."

"It's been a situation of great tradition and great success. I'm going to try and add to that success."

The Raiders are the only AFC team to win a Super Bowl in the 1980s, having accomplished the feat following the 1980 and 1983 seasons. But the club has missed the playoffs the last two years, going 8-8 and 5-10.

The Raiders' record last year was their poorest since 1962, perhaps prompting Tom Flores to announce his retirement as head coach on Jan. 20 at age 50 after nine years on the job. His teams were 83-53 in regular-season games.

Flores had succeeded John Madden, whose teams were 103-32-7 in 10 years and won the Super Bowl following the 1976 season.

So it would appear the pressure is on Shanahan, but he didn't sound concerned about that Monday. Rather, he sounded confident.

"It's indeed a great honor and a privilege to be the head coach of the Raiders," he said. "It's always been a goal of mine to be a head coach in the National Football League; to be the head coach of the most successful team in professional sports history makes it that much better."

"It's going to be a privilege to me to keep up the tradition of a Tom Flores, a John Madden, and an Al Davis, that kind of tradition and the championships that were won here. I know these goals can be achieved."

In introducing Shanahan, Davis, the Raiders' owner, said, "As I went into his character, as I went into his background, I found no flaw. His record speaks for himself. His vast amount of experience for a young man is unequalled by many."

LOS ANGELES — Mike Shanahan holds a Los Angeles Raiders' helmet during a press conference where he was introduced as the club's new head coach Monday.

Shanahan, who said he signed a three-year contract with the Raiders, has been an assistant coach under Dan Reeves at Denver the last four years and the offensive coordinator for the Broncos the last three.

The Broncos, who have been bitter rivals with the Raiders in recent years, won the AFC West championship the last two seasons and advanced to the Super Bowl. Meanwhile, Los Angeles finished well down in the standings.

Now Shanahan will try to change all that. "I'm going to be my own person and try to do the best job I can," Shanahan said. "I have the freedom to do the things I want to do offensively. You try to go full speed ahead, make decisions, don't look back."

"I take a look at a team's defense. I really thought the Raiders were one of the best-coached defenses in the National Football League. We felt in Denver that the one thing we had to do to be successful was beat the Raiders. Offensively, I haven't really studied them."

"Obviously, my expertise is in the offensive area. I plan to contribute in a lot of areas. Our quarterback situation will start at the base. I will not have a preference as to which one will play. There are several people at that position who I will look at."

The Raiders have had quarterback problems in recent years, with veterans Marc Wilson and Jim Plunkett and the young Rusty Hilger unable to provide them with any consistency at the position. Veteran Vince Evans is also on the roster.

Shanahan is credited with tailoring Denver's offense to fit the talents of quarterback John Elway, an offense which probably was more responsible than anything for getting the team to the last two Super Bowls.

At 35, Shanahan is the youngest coach in the NFL. But he isn't the youngest coach hired by the Raiders — Davis was 33 when he took command in 1963 and Madden was 33 when he was named in 1969.

Shanahan will be a head coach for the first time, as were Madden and Flores when they were hired by Davis.

"I've always been asked a lot of things about my age," Shanahan said. "It comes down to one thing, you've got to get the job done. I think of my age as a plus, but you've got to get the job done, and I intend to do that."

Davis characterized Shanahan as "bright, enthusiastic, and with a love of the game of football," and called the hiring "a new chapter in Raider history."

Davis said he first interviewed Shanahan the night after the Broncos were beaten 42-10 by Washington in the Super Bowl on Jan. 31. Davis said he spoke several times with Shanahan and with a total of six people about the job.

"I started looking into him in 1984," Davis said of Shanahan. "Just like we watch all the great players who come into the league, we watch all the young coaches who come into the league."

"His record while at Denver is synonymous with greatness. You have to respect what's been going on in Denver the last few years. We certainly respect it. I was looking for an excellent coach. I was looking for someone who I thought could bring greatness to the Raiders."

Nets end search by naming Reed coach

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Willis Reed did not take the New Jersey Nets head coaching job unaware that the club has problems, lots of problems.

Injuries, lack of leadership, drug problems and three straight losing seasons only highlight the Nets' woes.

But beyond the problems, Willis Reed found something he has been looking for for almost 10 years, a return to the NBA head coaching ranks.

"This is going to be a challenge," the 45-year-old Reed said. "But I like coaching. There are only 23 jobs like this in this league and when you get the opportunity for one you have to take it."

The Nets ended a 12-week search for a coach Monday by naming Reed as their third coach this season and giving him the job of turning around a team that has won only 12 of 54 games this season.

The Nets did not disclose the length of Reed's contract, but sources said it was three years.

"I don't know if this is a troubled franchise," said Reed, a Hall of Fame center with the New York Knicks in their heyday in the late 1960s and early 70s. "I think they have problems. However, I don't see them as problems that can't be resolved."

New Jersey is tied with the Los Angeles Clippers for the worst record in the league. The club has lost 240 manpower games due to injuries, and twice in the past three seasons has lost players due to drug problems.

Two years ago, Micheal Ray Richardson was banned from the NBA for violating its drug policy for a third time, and just last week forward Orlando Woolridge, Reed's cousin, admitted he has a drug problem and was suspended while he undergoes rehabilitation.

Reed said his main job will be to evaluate his players the rest of the season.

"I'm looking at this as a 28-game season," said Reed, who debuts tonight when the Nets play the Clippers at home. "We'll be looking to win as many as possible and then take it from there."

In taking over, Reed replaces interim coach Bob MacKinnon, who compiled a 10-29 mark after taking over for the fired Dave Wohl in early December. Under Wohl, the club won only two of its first 15 games.

MacKinnon will return to his job as assistant general manager, and Reed said he plans to retain assistant coaches Garry St. Jean and Bob Wenzel for at least the rest of the season.

Bob Casciola, the Nets' chief operating officer, said the field for the job was narrowed last week to Reed, an assistant at Sacramento under Bill Russell. The two sides ironed out the final details of a contract on Sunday afternoon and Reed signed it later that day, Casciola said.

"This team needs a leader," Casciola said. "We have players who are individual and players who have some ability. We don't have a take-charge guy. We had to find a coach with those leadership qualities, and Willis Reed is that kind of man."

Reed spoke with the Nets players for about 10 minutes before attending the news conference to officially announce his appointment.

"I think it's good to bring him in now and throw him into the fire," Nets captain Buck Williams said. "This way he can evaluate who can play and who can't. He can get a feel for the players in game situations. I think this is the best time to bring him in."

Reed added that coming in now will also give him a say in the team's offseason training and a chance to have an active role in the NBA draft. He also said injuries are something no coach has control over.

"A lot of people look at this organization as being at rock bottom," Reed said. "I think we have a good young nucleus. If we can get everyone healthy and playing again things will change."

Reed played 10 seasons in the NBA and led the Knicks to league titles in 1969 and 1973. A seven-time All-Star, he was named the Knicks head coach in 1977 and led to team to the playoffs. He was fired 14 games into the next season after the club went 8-24.

He was a volunteer coach at St. John's for two seasons before becoming the head coach at Creighton for four years.

Sports Briefs

Tennis team finishes ninth

ODESSA — The Big Spring High School tennis team finished ninth in the 10-team Odessa Invitational this past weekend. Big Spring scored 53 points. Winning the tournament was Lubbock Coronado with 122 points. Odessa Permian followed with 112 and San Angelo Central was third with 108 points.

In girls singles, Tracey Owen finished 13th and Julia Serna placed 19th.

In boys singles play, Rocky Tubb placed fifth and Eli Stovall was 16th.

In boys doubles play, Binky Tubb and Taff Wennick finished ninth, while the team of Dan Ditto and Dan Whitehead placed 13th.

In girls doubles competition, Kendra Madry and Angie Wilson was 12th, and Amber Logback and Tammi Mason placed 17th.

This Friday and Saturday, Big Spring will compete in the Sweet-water tournament.

Sands in area basketball play

The Sands Mustangs will be in state area basketball competition tonight when they take on the Sudan Hornets in Denver City gym at 7 p.m.

Sands defeated Fort Hancock 63-55 to advance to the game.

Former hoopsters in region play

MIDLAND — Two former local players will be competing in the Region V women's basketball tournament at Midland today.

Former Big Spring Lady Steer Teresa Pruitt, now a starting forward for South Plains College, will be playing at 3 p.m. against Cisco Junior College.

At six, former Coahoma Bulldogette Shana Fowler, now playing for Grayson College, will play against Clarendon College.

If both South Plains and Grayson win, the two will meet Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Finals are slated for 7 p.m. Thursday.

Davis competing in big tourney

HOUSTON — Local bowler Joyce Davis will be competing in the Bluebonnet Queens tournament Saturday and Sunday at Fair Lanes Imperial Valley.

Davis will competing against 219 bowlers from 48 associations. The event is conducted by the Texas Women's Bowling Association, and co-sponsored by Bowling Trophy and Awards of Garland.

Brown leading Florida Futures

ROCKLEDGE, Fla. (AP) — Lynda Brown of North Fort Myers, Fla., fired a 3-under-par 69 to lead after the first round of the $20,000 Central Florida Futures golf tournament.

Kellie Stencil of Geneva, N.Y., was a stroke back at 70, and Anne Heuschneider of Smithtown, N.Y., was third at 72.

Kentucky griddy arrested

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — University of Kentucky flanker Dee Smith was arrested in Cincinnati on felony cocaine trafficking charges, Hamilton County, Ohio, officials said.

Smith, 20, was being held in the Hamilton County Justice Center on $150,000 bond Monday. A preliminary hearing was set for March 4.

The 5-foot-11, 182-pound Smith, of Paducah, Ky., had 23 pass receptions for 420 yards and four touchdowns for the Wildcats last season.

CLASSIFIED AD FORM

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will be unusually adept at communicating your ideas and intentions to others early in the day, so take advantage of this tendency. Investigate the details of any new plans very carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you've been having a long-standing disagreement with your mate, this is a good time to clear it up and increase the happiness at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find a better system for handling your daily duties. This will help you save time and effort, but will increase your productivity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Schedule some appointments for social activities later in the week, and plan your work for tomorrow.

Pay more attention to your health. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Before you go out this morning, make sure your house is in perfect condition, as you may want to entertain there tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) This is a good day to catch up on your neglected correspondence and any vital business matters. Get together with good friends tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Now is a good time to take care of any financial problems and get good results. If you have to make some home repairs, get estimates first.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can find some lucrative new business opportunities if you stay alert. If your good friends need assistance, offer your help. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Let your talents shine through, and you can be much more successful in the future. Reserve the evening for your mate and a few good friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find out what your friends want of you, and you can please them greatly this evening. State your personal goals clearly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you need some advice on how to proceed with a financial venture, accept advice only from a qualified expert and act quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A trusted superior can give you some great help in moving quickly toward your career goals. Drive carefully this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can make some valuable new contacts today, so be charming and put your best foot forward. Try to be more cooperative with co-workers.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will have a very generous and cooperative nature, and will make close and valuable friends quite easily. Your progeny could be quite successful in any profession which deals closely with people, such as public relations. Active sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
