Spring board

How's That? Ballots

Q. Where can I see a sample ballot for Tuesday's primary and when will the polls be open?
A. A complete sample ballot for Howard County Democrat and Republican voters appears on page B-3 of today's Big Spring Herald. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Calendar Auditions

TODAY

• Auditions for the musical "The Robber Bridegroom" will be in the Howard College Auditorium at 7 p.m. Voice and sign actors, singers and square dancers, as well as help with props and costumes are needed; all ages are welcome.
• The Estate Planning seminar scheduled March 7 and 8 by the Howard County Extension office has been postponed because of illness; no date has been set.

THURSDAY

• People who have been certified for March may pick-up their food commodities at the Dora Roberts Community Center from 8:15 a.m. until 2 p.m. All recipients must have their certification cards with them to receive their food. Please bring your own sacks to carry your commodities home in.

SATURDAY

• The Girl Scouts are celebrating their birthday and will have a clean-up from 2-4 p.m. There will also be a friendship supper in Comanche Trail Park at 5 p.m.

Sweat together, live together

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bride wore sweaty running shorts, but that wasn't surprising considering that rather than walk down the aisle she had run side-by-side with the groom for 4 hours, 15 minutes.

Bonnie Weller and Jack Slater, both 28, exchanged vows and rings Sunday beneath the Coliseum's blazing Olympic torch after crossing the finish line of the 1988 Los Angeles Marathon.

"We figure if we can sweat together we can live together," she said after the ceremony.

They were greeted at the end of the 26.2-mile route by a hairdresser, who prepared Ms. Weller's locks for wedlock.

The couple headed immediately for Palm Springs for a honeymoon before returning home to Hampton, Ill.

The marathon attracted 17,040 runners, including Mexico's Martin Mondragon, who broke away in the last mile to win in a course-record 2 hours, 10 minutes and 19 seconds. Com-patriot Blanca Jaime won the women's field in 2:36:10.

Police arrest four in area drug seizure

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Four men were arrested on drug-related charges after area law enforcement officials converged on a residence north of Big Spring late Sunday night.

Upon execution of a search warrant, an undetermined amount of marijuana and a white, powdery substance believed to be cocaine were seized from a residence 1 1/2 miles north of Interstate 20 on Birdwell Lane, according to police reports.

Arrested in the raid were:

• Filomeno Trevino Franco, 18, of the residence in question, on charges of possession of marijuana, possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

• Robert Moreno Marquez, 19, of same, on the same charges.

• Henry Trevino Franco, 31, of Odessa, on the same charges.

• Paul Bustamante, 19, 1002 N.W. First St., on charges of possession of marijuana under two ounces and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Bustamante was transferred to the sheriff's office early today and released on $1,000 bond, while the remaining three were still in custody this morning, according to police reports.

Officers from the Big Spring Police Department, Howard County Sheriff's Office and Department of Public Safety participated in the arrests, the report added.

A police spokesman said today that lab tests on the white substance are being performed today to determine its identity, adding that the quantity of it and the marijuana seized also are awaiting the lab results.

Big Spring firefighters inspect damage caused by a Saturday afternoon fire that gutted a shed located at 701 N. Gregg St. Two fire department units used about 300 gallons of water to extinguish the fire, and no injuries were reported, according to firefighter report.

Deaf school appointment stirs protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deaf students at Gallaudet University said they would "close the campus" today after the selection of a new school president who is not hearing impaired touched off a 60-block protest march to the White House and the Capitol.

"There will be no classes," said Jerry Covell, student organizer for the "Deaf President Now Committee" at the nation's only university for the deaf, which was established by Congress in 1864.

"We will show our unity and try to change their decision," Covell said as he and hundreds of other students swarmed through the streets of the capital for three hours late Sunday night.

The protest came after the university's board of trustees bypassed two deaf candidates for the president's post and instead chose Elisabeth A. Zinser, who does not know sign language.

"I feel like it is a slap in our face," said Covell, who is hearing impaired. He and other deaf demonstrators could understand a reporter's questions by reading lips.

Hundreds of students learned of the decision about 8 p.m. and immediately took to the streets, marching from the university to the Mayflower Hotel where the board had met.

More than 200 continued on to the White House and then to the Capitol where they sat at the foot of the grounds, faced by a line of 25 Metropolitan Police officers. After a half hour, they marched another 30 blocks back to the university to plan their strategy.

The cause of a deaf president has had strong support in Congress, with presidential candidates Robert Dole and George Bush among many who wrote letters to the board urging a deaf president. "We're here to get their attention," Covell said.

Gallaudet University has never had a deaf president.

"In 124 years we didn't give them a chance," residence hall supervisor Tina Jo Breindel wrote on note paper. "Like eating Italian food in Chinese restaurant — strange."

Zinser, who has been vice chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro since 1983, said she plans to keep the position despite the protests. "Very soon, I hope to have the opportunity to be a real person to them," she said.

Zinser said the most important step for her now is to develop skills to communicate with the deaf community.

Trustee board Chairwoman Jane Bassett Spilman said Zinser was chosen "because neither of the other two candidates had the breadth of her experience." The board voted 10-4 for Zinser.

Of four deaf board members, three voted against Zinser and one could not vote since he was a candidate for the job. One hearing board member voted against her.

"That she does not know sign language is obviously critically important," Spilman said. She added that from the time Zinser was notified that she was a finalist, she has been studying sign language.

Democrats to make legislative choice

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Democrats Larry Don Shaw and Cecil G. Gilstrap will face off in Tuesday's primary for the right to face Republican Troy Fraser in November's District 69 State Representative election.

Fraser, a Big Spring businessman, is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Shaw, a four-term incumbent cited his experience and membership to key House committees as reason people should vote for him.

He is a member of the House Appropriation Committee, the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee, and is a member of the Select Committee on Energy, which has been charged with developing a state-wide energy policy, according to a spokesman from Shaw's office.

The spokesman added that, if elected, Shaw will be 35th in seniority for the entire House, something that would work to this area's advantage.

When he announced for re-election in January, Shaw stated that he could "best protect the jobs and dollars Big Spring receives because of my position on the powerful budget committee."

He noted that state dollars represent the largest employer in Howard County, affecting more than 1,000 jobs.

"Jobs and dollars vital to the Big Spring economy are at risk here," he stated. "Over $40 million in state funds go directly to this community to fund the State Hospital, our public schools, the two colleges and other state services from the Highway Department to our State Park."

Gilstrap, a Howard County oilman, claimed a need to lower taxes when he announced for the race in January.

After noting that the state's $5.7 billion budget was "completely out of hand," Gilstrap added that "We need to decrease state taxes, not increase them. The people are being taxed to death."

He said today that he believes his conservative ideology is best suited for this area.

"We need more representation down there, instead of becoming an extension of the state," he said. "I think I'm the best candidate to do that — period."

"The major issue is whether we have been represented in the right way, or we haven't," Gilstrap continued. "It depends on what the people say. Either it's time for a change or it isn't."

Baptists capture gunman

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP) — A worshiper charged at a gunman re-loading a semi-automatic pistol and hit him with a hymnal to help end an attack that killed a man and wounded four others at a Baptist church, the pastor said.

The gunman, who was tackled by churchgoers Sunday morning but not injured, was jailed, and a prosecutor was expected to file charges today, Police Chief Larry Blomenkamp said.

Police Capt. Bruce Fair identified the suspect as Cheunphon Ji, 29.

No motive was known, Blomenkamp said. He said the gunman left California within the past week and arrived in Emporia late Sunday morning, driving up to Calvary Baptist Church in a Cadillac with California plates.

The congregation was into the second hymn of the service, "Like A River Glorious Is God's Perfect Peace," when a man wearing what looked like bright orange earmuffs entered, the Rev. Donald Kusmaul said. After he heard the gunfire, he realized they were the type of ear protection used on firing ranges.

Usher Scott Davies said the man pulled a gun from a bag, aimed it at him and fired.

"I jumped behind a wall ... and looked back out to make sure what was happening was real, and it was," said Davies. "He began shooting across the auditorium itself, randomly, at people, about five or six shots."

Primary election to decide county attorney race

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Two local attorneys are vying for the post of Howard County attorney in a hotly contested county campaign that last week saw its first hints of mudslinging.

Robert D. "Bob" Miller, who served as county attorney from 1981-1984, and former Big Spring city attorney Hardy L. Wilkerson, are seeking the county post. Both are running on the Democratic ticket in Tuesday's election. There is no Republican candidate for the office.

Wilkerson last week accused his opponent of taking undue credit for establishing Howard County's hot check department, which was implemented in 1980, several months before Miller took office.

Miller, however, contends he was the one who worked to get the newly established department working smoothly.

Commenting on the hot check issue last week, Wilkerson said, "It's very clear the hot check department — the research, setting it up, were done well before (Miller) took office. For him to take credit for things other people have done ... I don't think it's fair..."

Wilkerson last week also commented on his opponent's 1983 reprimand from the now disbanded state Prosecutor's Council for improper use of monies from the hot check fund.

Commenting about the reprimand, Wilkerson said it should be part of the record because Miller his running his campaign on his previous experience as county attorney.

"If you look at experience, you have to look at the whole record," Wilkerson said.

Miller said the spending of approximately $1,800 to buy perquisites for his staff and to fund a Dale Carnegie course, a seminar he conducted, and to pay for tickets to a governor's inaugural ball were not deliberate misuses of funds.

No funds were used for personal gain, nor did the council find any evidence of criminal intent, said Miller, who reimbursed the fund for the amount the council said was used improperly.

"It was an honest mistake," Miller said.

Miller, who said he's never been arrested, last week alleged his opponent was arrested for public intoxication at a former Big Spring bar.

"That's a lie," Wilkerson said, when asked to comment on the allegation.

Wilkerson said, however, he was arrested on charges of resisting arrest, but was never formally charged with a criminal offense.

The incident occurred while he was trying to defend a client who was arrested at the establishment and, according to Wilkerson, was being treated roughly by a law enforcement official.

Wilkerson resigned from his city attorney position in January to seek the county attorney post.

"I like the challenge offered by the county attorney position," he said.

"It's a natural step up from the city attorney office. I'm the only candidate who can offer the time and attention the office requires and deserves."

Miller said the county attorney's office was "a proficient and strong office" during his term and during the subsequent term of Tim Yeats, who resigned in January to concentrate on his private practice.

County attorney office employees are the same as those who worked for Miller during his 1981-84 term.

"Experience and maturity is needed in the county attorney's office, and such office should not be subjected to inexperienced in-

City may change park, center fees

HERALD STAFF REPORT

City Council will consider amending certain parks and recreation fees during its regular meeting, scheduled for 5 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall.

Members will hear a first reading to the amendments that were originally discussed during the Jan. 26 work session, and will affect Dora Roberts Community Center and Moss Creek Lake, according to the council agenda.

Under the proposed ordinance, the following rental rates would apply at DRCC:

- Ballroom, without alcohol use — $150.
- Ballroom, with alcohol use — $250.
- Meeting room — $50.

- Entire building, without alcohol use — $250.

- Entire building, with alcohol use — $300.

For Moss Creek Lake, the following permit fees would be put into effect under the new ordinance:

- Daily — $1.50 per person.
- Annual — $35 per family.

If adopted, the annual permit shall be effective from Oct. 1 to Sept. 30 of each year, the ordinance noted; no admission fee will be charged for children under 12 or adults 65 or older.

Council also will be asked to authorize bid advertisement to purchase materials to improve access to the west side of the Industrial Park from the Interstate 20 service road.

The project will be a joint effort between the city and Howard County, with the city purchasing the materials and the county performing the work, according to Hal Boyd, airpark manager.

Anticipated cost for the project is $35,000, with $50,000 being allocated in the present city budget, according to documents.

In other business, Council will consider:
 • A resolution approving the classification of a detention center in areas zoned for light industrial, heavy industrial and planned development uses.

• A request from Vera Hamill for a temporary mobile home permit to be located at 208 Grant St.

 seconds of just silence, and then they began to be cries and screams, hollers," Davies said. "It was just chaotic."

Officers found two other handguns and some ammunition in a duffel bag the man carried into the church, Blomenkamp said.

"I thank God that no more were killed," said Kusmaul, 43, pastor of the approximately 150-member congregation since 1970. "He had the capability, the firepower, to wipe out a number of people."

Kusmaul said that when the shooting stopped, Jerry Waddell, 46, got up and ran toward the gunman, carrying his hymnal and hitting him with it when they got outside, with other men joining in the chase.

As the gunman fled, Waddell and others chased him into the street, caught him and held him until police arrived.

Blomenkamp said the man did not speak, just started firing. Kusmaul and his wife, Becky, said they did not hear the gunman say anything.

"All I heard was shots," said Mrs. Kusmaul. "When I first heard it, I thought it was a string of firecrackers. It was that fast."

The pastor said words were exchanged after the gunman was subdued, and that among the epithets he was told the man uttered at the congregation members was "white supremacist cult."

Thomas G. DeWeese, 47, a farmer and father of five from rural Americus, was killed by a gunshot wound to the chest, officials said. His daughter, Beverly, 18, suffered a minor flesh wound and was released from Newmar Memorial County Hospital after treatment.

Sandra Mattix, 43, of Emporia was in fair condition with a shoulder wound, authorities said. Robert Adamson, 14, was in good condition with a thigh wound, and Daniel Goza, 14, was treated for a minor flesh wound and released.

Blomenkamp and Kusmaul praised Waddell for going after the gunman.

"That's not something you average individual would jump on, confronting someone who was heavily armed," said the police chief.

"I'm sure he'd want the glory to go to the Lord, but he was the hero of the day," said Kusmaul. "If we had all stayed down, he would have just taken the other chips and kept shooting."

A Sunday evening church service was canceled because of the shooting, although some members met informally at a private home.

 individuals seeking a training program."

Miller said he has a firmly established private law practice and owns several properties in Big Spring.

"I seek the county attorney's office in order to contribute to the good of the community, rather than financial reward or employment."

Miller has a Big Spring law office and also is co-owner of a travel agency and owns residential and commercial rental property.

"The leaders of this community should remain involved in the governmental affairs. ... Often the successful individual, financially and businesswise, does not seek to serve the public for which strong leadership is needed."

Wilkerson is a partner with the law firm Thomas & Wilkerson, P.C.

If elected, he said he will work to maintain and improve the hot check department.

Wilkerson also said he wants to see juvenile crime reduced.

"If handled firmly and correctly, juvenile offenders can be stopped before they become adult criminals."

Government, corporation sharing cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government and Morton Thiokol, Inc., split the $7,735,000 cost of buying annuities to settle claims by survivors of four of the astronauts who died aboard the space shuttle Challenger, according to documents released today.

Morton Thiokol, the company that produced the faulty booster rocket blamed for the Jan. 28, 1986, explosion, paid 60 percent of the total cost of buying the annuities, or $4,641,000, the Justice Department acknowledged. The government's share, 40 percent, cost $3,094,000.

Champion steer brings Elgin teen-ager $85,000

HOUSTON (AP) — The grand champion steer of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo brought Jay Dee Johnson of Elgin $85,000 at auction.

Johnson's 1,253-pound Maine-Anjou breed named "21" was selected grand champion Friday night and sold Saturday to retired Houston building contractor Tommy Steele and his wife, Mary. The Steeles paid $10,000 more than was paid for last year's grand champion.

The reserve grand champion steer, owned by Vicki Priesmeyer, 18, of Pflugerville, sold for $65,000, almost twice last year's $36,000.

Julie Thornberry, 16, of Conroe, saw her grand champion pen of broiler chickens sell for $3,000 more than last year to J.M. "Jim" and Vickie Clepper and I.W. and Diane Marks. Marks also purchased last year's champion.

She follows in the footsteps of her sister, Rachael, 19, who sold the reserve grand champion pen of broilers in 1986 for $17,500, and her brother Michael, 14, who sold the grand champion chickens in 1983 for $61,000.

Molly Thornberry, Julie's first cousin from College Station, sold the grand champion chickens in 1987 for $35,000.

Sheffield Wise, 15, of Brownwood can trace her family's winning streak back 34 years. In 1954, her father, Dr. Wesley Wise, sold the grand champion lamb in Houston for $2,000.

On Friday, Miss Sheffield sold her grand champion lamb for $31,000.

Last year's champion lamb went for $40,000, but Miss Sheffield wasn't disappointed because the 151-pound animal has a market value of about $125.

Multiple sclerosis Survey targets Panhandle

AMARILLO (AP) — The Panhandle has twice the national average number of multiple sclerosis victims and a chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is surveying former area residents to find out why.

Multiple sclerosis, or MS, a degenerative disease of the central nervous system, strikes an estimated 50 of every 100,000 in the South and Southwest, said Fredricka Gens, coordinator of the Panhandle chapter.

"At 50 per 100,000, we should have about 200 cases," Ms. Gens said. "We have twice that number because we have about 400 people with MS."

A 10-page survey with 36 questions, was sent last week to 400 people across the nation who once lived in the Texas Panhandle and registered at the local chapter as having multiple sclerosis.

The confidential survey is aimed at the people with MS who want to remain anonymous. Revealing their illness could cost them their jobs and medical insurance as well as damage their personal lives, said JoAnn Holt, executive director of the Panhandle chapter. That means that another 200 people may have MS in the Panhandle, Ms. Holt told the Amarillo Globe News.

The only identifying information the survey requests is a Panhandle zip code, Ms. Gens said, so officials can determine if any pattern exists from where MS victims lived in the area.

"Researchers believe now that MS is caused by a virus in the first 14 years of life, which lies dormant until a person is usually in his 20s or 30s," Ms. Gens said. "So we want to know where they lived in their first 14 years of life."

The cause and the cure of MS has stumped researchers for decades. The disease affects approximately 250,000 Americans, with nearly 200 new cases diagnosed every week.

Experts say multiple sclerosis is caused when the myelin sheathing, the fatty insulation surrounding nerves in the brain and spinal cord, is destroyed, interrupting and distorting the nerve impulses to the brain.

Super Tuesday

Official votes won't be told for week

AUSTIN (AP) — The Super Tuesday vote count will continue into Wednesday, and the final official results won't be known until March 16.

Assistant Secretary of State Randy Erben said clear trends could be evident by midnight in many of the races, but there are sure to be late-arriving numbers that keep the count going past midnight.

And the final, official results won't be known until March 16, when each party canvasses and certifies the numbers.

Primaries, because they are party affairs, are different than general elections, which are government business. The Democrats and Republicans are in charge, but a good bit of the process is delegated to the state and counties. In some counties, the parties contract with county clerks or election administrators to handle the election.

State government pays for the primaries.

Secretary of State Jack Rains runs an election night vote-counting service that uses people, phones and computers to produce unofficial, but usually accurate, results.

The vote-counting starts when the polls close and the precinct ballot boxes are taken to a central location in each county. The tallies are telephoned to Rains' staff for the election night count. The county party officials later send hard copy of the results to their state headquarters.

Party officials anticipate no problems, but know better.

"We expect nothing to go wrong," said John Weaver, executive director of the Republican Party of Texas. "However, we know something will go wrong. We just don't know what it is."

In the presidential primary, it is more than a simple matter of counting votes. It's important to know from where the votes came. Delegates to the national convention are selected by congressional districts for Republicans and state senatorial districts for Democrats.

The secretary of state's vote-count team will discern the district results and figure out who won how many delegates.

Among the more common election problems in recent years has been ballot shortages. In the November 1987 constitutional amendment election, which drew a surprisingly high turnout, voters in San Antonio, Dallas and some other areas found no ballots at the ballot box, delaying voting for several hours in some cases.

Erben said the secretary of state's office has allocated enough money for more than enough ballots in most areas.

"We used a very expensive formula this year allowing 50 percent over the past watermark turnout," Erben said. "We have done all we can to avoid ballot problems." Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said it appears sufficient ballots have been printed in all areas.

Rains has projected that each primary could draw approximately 1 million voters. Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said his party's primary could draw up to 1.6 million voters.

Every Texan's vote counts on Super Tuesday, but those cast in Dallas probably will be counted last. Erben said officials there plan to postpone the count until the precinct conventions, which begin after the polls close at 7 p.m., are concluded.

"We'll exceed the 1.6 million turnout we had in 1986," Rains predicted. "I also feel confident we will surpass the 1.8 million turnout in the 1984 primaries. I even think there's a chance to turn out more than the 2.3 million voters who participated in the 1972 primaries."

Texas poll says Dukakis, Bush to lead in primary

By the Associated Press

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and Vice President George Bush enjoy the greatest voter support among presidential aspirants in their respective parties, new polls show.

The Houston Post sponsored one of the polls, while the other one was sponsored jointly by the Houston Chronicle and Dallas Morning News.

In the Chronicle-Morning News poll, results published Sunday indicated Bush had slipped somewhat but still received support of 55 percent of those likely to vote in Tuesday's Republican primary. The poll was conducted for the newspapers by the University of Houston Center for Public Policy.

The poll showed that Kansas Sen. Bob Dole was second among Republicans with the support of 16 percent of those surveyed.

Dole was followed by Pat

Robertson with 9 percent and New York Rep. Jack Kemp with 4 percent. Another 16 percent were undecided, the poll Saturday showed.

Dukakis was the choice of 30 percent of those surveyed who were likely to vote Democratic Tuesday. He was followed by the Rev. Jesse Jackson at 17 percent; Missouri Rep. Dick Gephardt at 15 percent and Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. at 11 percent.

Former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart and Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, who have run minimal Super Tuesday campaigns, were at 4 percent and 3 percent, respectively, according to the poll.

In the Houston Post poll, conducted by the Gallup organization, Dukakis was the favorite of 24 percent of likely Democratic voters in the state. Jackson followed with 20 percent, followed by Gephardt with 19 percent, Gore 12 percent.

LULAC leaders protest movie

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Controversy over a new movie about the Alamo raged on the anniversary of the mission's fall.

"All of you who will join in our boycott of Luby's and Pace, cross this line," yelled Cruz Chavira of the League of United Latin American Citizens as he drew a line on the sidewalk with a sword.

Inside the Rivercenter Mall, Gov. Bill Clements used a replica Bowie knife to cut a ribbon for the first public showing of "Alamo — The Price of Freedom."

The film's critics, including several Hispanic leaders, charge it misrepresents the role of Tejanos who helped defend the Alamo against the Mexicans.

About 75 demonstrators picketed

Sunday outside the large-screen theater where the film was being shown.

"Like other Alamo epics before it, this new movie does not depict the roles of Tejanos as integral to this key event. It practically excludes them," said one of the protesters, Gilberto Hinojosa, associate professor of history at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Clements said he, too, would like to see a more extended portrayal of Tejanos in the film.

"I thought it was extremely well done. I'd have liked to see more emphasis put on the Tejanos that were in the Alamo and so courageously gave their lives," Clements said.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here are excerpts from recent editorials in newspapers throughout the nation.

Robertson statements a discredit

Republican presidential hopeful Pat Robertson has a problem with making outrageous statements that he can't back up with facts. He labeled Planned Parenthood supporters as people trying to create a master race just because birth control pioneer Margaret Sanger dabbled in eugenics back around the turn of the century. He warned us that there are nuclear missiles in Cuba and offered as proof that "no one can prove there aren't missiles there." Now he has the gall to suggest, though he admits he has no proof, that the George Bush campaign is behind TV preacher Jimmy Swaggart's fall from grace in an attempt to discredit Robertson, a former TV evangelist trying hard to distance himself from that past. Robertson doesn't need anyone to discredit him. He appears to be doing a fine job of it himself.

The New Ulm (Minn.) Journal

Plays politics with appointments

Ohio's Democratic Sen. Howard Metzenbaum has gotten himself all twisted out of shape over the Justice Department's refusal to release certain of its files to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The files relate to the department's investigation of reports that former U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland Faith Ryan Whittlesey mishandled some entertainment funds. She was said to have entertained American friends with privately donated money that was intended to be used to fete foreign officials. The Justice Department said there was no evidence to produce a "viable criminal case."

That wasn't good enough for Metzenbaum. He wants to come up with something politically damaging to the Reagan administration. Metzenbaum is holding up Senate confirmation of four Reagan appointees to federal court judgeships.

This isn't just playing politics. It's hostage-taking, and it ill becomes a senator of the United States.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel

Hold candidates to budget issue

However else he is remembered, Ronald Reagan will go down as the biggest spender in the history of the presidency.

The $1.1 trillion national budget he proposed recently would only increase military spending about two percent.

In addition, Reagan has an agreement with Congress to run up only $136 billion more debt during the next budget year. In fiscal 1987, they accumulated $148 billion in debt.

Minor concessions like that will not erase the fact that Reagan, more than any other president, has led the nation into what seems like a bottomless pit of overdue bills.

Of course, Reagan is not entirely to blame. Every Democratic and Republican representative and senator who has served in Congress since Reagan took office in 1981 must shoulder part of the blame for the nation's spending problems.

Reagan, the candidate who promised to balance the budget, has failed financially. He has less than a year remaining in his term — not enough time to balance the budget.

The good news is that this is an election year. Taxpayers and voters have the opportunity — and an obligation — to hold presidential candidates accountable on that issue.

Sioux Falls (S.D.) Argus Leader

Chides lawmaker for Senate arrest

We had thought that House Speaker Jim Wright had sunk to the bottom depths in congressional decorum a couple of months ago when he had the effrontery to make time stand still in order to gain passage of a bill he wanted.

But after Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd's actions (last) week, Wright is barely running a close second.

We have often thought that Congress resembled a circus more than it resembles the world's greatest deliberative body, but Byrd made it complete with Keystone Kops ... when he ordered the arrest of Republican Bob Packwood in order to get a quorum.

We hope, of course, that Byrd's tactic ... was worth such despicable conduct, because Byrd has certainly degraded both himself and the Senate.

Somehow we can't help but doubt that it was.

The McPherson (Kan.) Sentinel

Parody case isn't cut-and-dried

When the U.S. Supreme Court hands down a unanimous decision, you might figure it was a cut-and-dried case. Not so with last week's decision upholding Hustler magazine's disgusting parody of the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

While the court seemed to grant almost absolute protection to speech that is intended as satire, it left blurred the line that distinguishes fact from fiction, parody from portrayal.

At issue was a 1983 takeoff of a well-known liquor advertisement in which famous people describe the "first time" they tasted the product. In Hustler's version, Falwell was depicted as having sex with his mother in an outhouse.

Outraged, the televangelist and founder of the Moral Majority sued publisher Larry Flynt for $45 million for libel, invasion of privacy and infliction of emotional distress.

A lower court had no trouble discerning that the parody was fiction. Thus Falwell did not have a case for libel. ... But it awarded him $200,000 for emotional distress.

It took the Supreme Court to rule that awards for emotional distress require ... (proof of) factual falsehood, the standard for libel. ... And now the court rules draw a distinction between satire, which is absolutely free, and seriousness, which is not.

Free speech should mean just that. ... In the marketplace of ideas and public opinion, truth almost always will win out.

Writers have to live, too

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

It wouldn't be easy to do, but there is a case for gathering all writers and squatting them down for a few weeks in, say, Rhode Island. Then give the Rhode Island primary a great big hype.

Writers are pretty good at arranging for that kind of thing. Why, give us a couple of years and the Rhode Island primary can be made to look like the Congress of Vienna, the Versailles Peace Conference, and the All-Time Summit Conference.

Writers aren't farmers. They are neither as numerous nor, as a class, as prosperous. We hear of indigent farmers and we feel genuine sympathy for them — more sympathy than is generally felt for the average American writer, whose income is approximately $8,000 per year.

Now the writer, like every other indigent worker, likes a subsidy, whether at the hands of Lord Chesterfield or of the National Council on the Arts. But both species of philanthropy — private and public — are highly straitened, as witness the obdurate figure for the average writer in America: $8,000 per year. If the average farmer made $8,000 per year, the capital of the United States would move to Ames, Iowa.

The writers are asking for something that would appear entirely reasonable: namely, that the Internal Revenue Service acknowledge that there is such a thing as a writer's overhead. This was erased, without thought, in the comprehensive tax reform of 1986.

Consider it in terms of Alice Weatherby, who works at a local newspaper and wants to become a novelist.

She quits her job and begins a book on Mary Queen of Scots. When she buys paper and a printer and little computer, she writes down those expenses. At the end of the year, she has not completed her book, let alone sold it: So she lists her expenses as negative income, and to the extent she would otherwise need to pay tax is relieved pro tanto.

In year two, she finishes and sells the book, and pays a tax that is at a higher bracket given that she has deducted the expense for year one.

Under the comprehensive 1986 law, the writer was told that he/she couldn't proceed in the conventional way. Expenses undertaken on the novel on Mary Queen of Scots could be deducted only against income flowing in from the sale of the novel of Mary Queen of Scots.

If, on the side, Alice Weatherby decided to do a piece for TV Guide, she would need to calculate the amount of paper used on that piece, and the percentage of her time used on her computer to write it, before she could attempt to match the expenses of the one project against the income from another project.

It is a nightmare, everybody acknowledges that it is a nightmare, and every odd congressman and every good senator has vowed that when the "Technical Corrections Bill" goes through, the first order of business will be to attempt to give a writer the same procedural legroom in accounting for overhead that is given to the hog farmer or the electrician or the taxi driver.

Everyone agrees — and nothing happens. Because the moment you get a Technical Corrections Bill, you find the lemmings rushing forward to occupy that boat, and it sinks from overweight. The stock market collapse of Oct. 19 probably had the eccentric effect of keeping American writers in their economic paralysis for yet another year.

There have been some attempts made to dramatize the plight of the writer. David Halberstam and Robert Massie went down to Washington to collar random congressmen and senators. There is a problem there.

If the Authors Guild had asked Alice Weatherby to go down and do that, she'd have had a hard time grabbing the attention of the lawmakers; but the minute you get Halberstam and Massie, you run the risk that the legislators are saying to themselves: What's that millionaire want that he hasn't already got, including the power, frequently exercised, to make me, a legislator, the laughingstock of the literary community?

We do not suggest the inactivity Congress in making the desired technical correction is the result of advocacy by inappropriate spokesmen for the plight of American writers. But short of a massive resettlement into Rhode Island followed by a prime-time primary contest fought over the plight of indigent writers, something ought to be done. Writers too should be permitted to make a living. We all know a lot of writers we wish had taken up hog farming. But, unhappily, there is no law around that would handily give us that power to discriminate.

Scars of violence run deep

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Her letter said she had a message and she wanted me to put it in this column.

She said it was important. The subject was hitting a woman. I decided to give her this forum. What follows is her message:

"I believe there are many men out there who have either hit a woman, have thought about it, or are capable of doing so.

"I want you to print this for a purpose — to prevent those men who are capable of hitting a woman from doing so, to commend those who have thought about it and have then abstained, and to expand the minds of those who have struck out and may do so again.

"I'm not a battered wife, nor do I see my husband as a wife-beater. I am simply married to a man who has hit me several times in furious moments.

"To him it was a bad experience. To me, it was a loss of self. He regrets; then, forgets. I will never forget.

"I suppose men find it easy to be aggressive at times. They lose control and express their aggression in a violent manner. Women wear the scars of that violence forever.

"Last night my husband hit me again. I have nothing physical to show for it. I don't have a single bruise nor a broken bone. The only remains of the experience are those which none can see, scars which affect me in a way in which I feel more alone than ever.

"It hurts to be hit. It hurts to have someone look at you with eyes that see so little and with hands that exercise no restraint.

"Long after the action, when those eyes are no longer looking at you, there still remains an imprint deep in your soul as you begin to look at yourself as those eyes did.

"All of a sudden, no matter where you stood before, and you become as small as the eyes that saw you in the heat of anger.

"The loss of self-respect is immense.

"Nobody should be hit. Not an animal, not a man, not a woman or child. Nothing beautiful should be made to feel less than something that deserves some degree of respect.

"Last night my husband hit me again. I feel like I have been robbed of the beauty I saw in myself.

"Perhaps I will get the feeling back that there is something beautiful about me, but why do I have to go through this? Wouldn't it have just been so simple for my husband to have used a little self-restraint.

"I truly believe there are many men out there who can learn from what I have had to say, and I know there are women out there who can relate to my experience.

"Last night my husband hit me again. The positive side of this — and, believe it or not, there is one — is that I want to share what I feel. If one husband reads this and never strikes at his wife again then my suffering will have been worth it."

The darndest thing about my job is that people write me. They spill out their guts. They plead for help. Too often, there is absolutely nothing I can do to help them.

I didn't take this job, I remind myself, to try to save the world. But, then, you get something that really touches you, as this lady's message.

Her husband hits her. It makes her feel ugly. It makes her feel betrayed. She is begging to be understood.

Hitting any woman is a cheap shot. It's cowardly. If I could change the world, one of the first things I would do is get rid of the creeps and cowards who do it.

That's my message.

Man crushed in elevator

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 90-year-old man was crushed to death while working in the shaft of an elevator he helped install more than a half-century ago, police say.

William Beatty on Friday was sitting on a chair in the elevator with his feet resting on the floor outside when the car began to move upward without warning, said Police Sgt. John O'Connor.

Workers, who believed they had shut off electricity to the elevator before they began trying to repair it, tried to grab him but couldn't pull him out of the car before his feet caught between the car and the wall of the shaft.

Despite his age, the self-employed Beatty continued to do mechanical jobs for longtime customers because he wanted to stay active, according to Detective Louis Serafini. He was described by fellow workers as a "mechanical wizard."

Beatty had been called to work on the elevator because he helped install it, Serafini said.

Swaggart blames media

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Evangelist Jimmy Swaggart accused the media of distorted reports and promised his followers he would tell them someday what sin he had confessed to.

"One day, when it's time, you who have stood with us for so long, we will tell you what has happened, what did happen," Swaggart said Sunday on his prerecorded television program.

"It wasn't like anything you read about in the papers or heard on television or radio or whatever."

Swaggart stepped down from his pulpit at the 7,500-seat Family Worship Center here after a tearful confession Feb. 21. His co-pastor, the Rev. Jim Rentz, has been delivering the sermons.

Immunity issue in trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — State senators have some tough decisions ahead as Gov. Evan Mecham's impeachment trial enters its second week, including whether to grant immunity to a key witness accused of making a death threat.

Attorney General Bob Corbin planned to appear before the Senate today to announce whether he thinks immunity should be granted to Lee Watkins, a former state official.

"I know what I'm going to do, but I'm not going to tell anybody," Corbin said Sunday.

When Watkins took the stand before the Senate on Friday, he invoked his right under the Fifth Amendment to refuse to answer questions that may be incriminating.

NEW DELHI, India — A young Tibetan monk shouts anti-Chinese slogans as Indian police officers resort to charging to stop the procession of Tibetan protesters today before the parliament. The protest was prompted by the unrest in Lhasa where Tibetans feared religious interference by the majority of Han Chinese in China.

Riots

Lhasans kill one in violence

BEIJING (AP) — Tibet's top police official reportedly said serious rioting in Lhasa had killed at least one policeman, and he blamed the violence on separatists out to "destroy the peace and unity of our country."

The People's Daily, the voice of the Communist Party, reported today that 28 policemen were hospitalized with injuries suffered in clashes Saturday between police and Tibetans demanding independence.

The newspaper did not say how many Tibetans were injured. Unconfirmed reports from Western sources in the capital of Lhasa said three to nine people were killed, including one Buddhist monk and two Chinese police officers.

Western sources contacted in Lhasa said the city was quiet today and Sunday but that the Jokhang Temple, around which Tibetans battled police, was closed. The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said stores were open and marketplace stalls were doing business today.

The newspaper quoted the Tibetan police official, Public Security Bureau Chief Lang Jie, as saying on Tibetan television Sunday the disturbances began when "separatists" infiltrated a crowd on the final day of a 10-day prayer festival. He said they started shouting "independence for Tibet" and other "counter-revolutionary" slogans.

Lang said 20 to 30 Buddhist monks circled the Jokhang Temple, shouting slogans and throwing stones and damaging Chinese television vans. The official China News Service earlier gave the number as 60.

They also attacked the Tibetan branch of the Buddhist Association and set fire to a car belonging to the group, controlled by the Chinese government.

Police kill IRA plotters

GIBRALTAR (AP) — British soldiers and police shot and killed three Irish Republican Army guerrillas after they planted a car bomb set to go off during a military parade in this British colony, officials and security sources said today.

The two men and a woman were killed Sunday after authorities uncovered the plot to set off the car bomb on Tuesday, British news reports said, quoting unidentified security sources.

The reports said bomb-disposal experts defused 440 pounds of explosives in a Spanish-registered car parked near Gov. Sir Peter Terry's official residence in Gibraltar, on the southern tip of Spain.

British Armed Forces Minister Ian Stewart said "an intelligence tip-off" led to information about the three members of the Irish Republican Army, which is fighting a guerrilla war to drive the British out of Northern Ireland.

Grenade thrown in riot

JERUSALEM (AP) — Palestinian protesters today hurled a grenade in a clash with Israeli troops in the occupied West Bank and Arab guerrillas commandeered a bus in southern Israel, the army said. Six people died in the bus attack.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir on Sunday blocked a Cabinet decision on the U.S. Middle East peace plan and two Arabs were killed by Israeli army gunfire during a West Bank protest.

In Lebanon, meanwhile, Israeli soldiers and Israeli-backed militiamen shot and killed six guerrillas over the weekend, including three who were on a mission to infiltrate Israel and carry out a terror attack.

In the bus hijacking, Arab guerrillas held the bus for three hours before soldiers and police stormed it, leaving three gunmen and three civilians dead, the army said.

Esquivel speaks out

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Roderick Esquivel, Panama's ousted vice president, said from hiding that if Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega does not relinquish power, Panamanians should take up arms against him.

In an interview with The Associated Press from a house where he was staying, Esquivel warned Sunday that if Noriega tries to ride out the crisis, "democracy must be obtained by fighting for it."

Esquivel was ousted from office in a military-orchestrated coup on Feb. 26 along with President Eric Arturo Delvalle, who also remains in hiding. The two men were removed from their posts a day after Delvalle tried to fire Noriega.

BURT REYNOLDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Burt Reynolds says that for a long time he felt it was impossible to marry an actress, but he's changed his mind.

Reynolds, 52, says he'll probably marry longtime steady Loni Anderson, 43, within the year, and that they want to have children.

"It's so difficult for an actor and actress to get married, to fight for the mirror," he said in an interview in the current issue of Us magazine. "Loni has been successful in breaking down all of those things."

Reynolds also said Ms. Anderson has suffered the classic "dumb blonde" misperceptions.

"She's a college graduate, an art major and she's taught school. She's raised a fabulous daughter," he said. "All of that speaks for itself. That's part of what makes me so proud of her."

Added Ms. Anderson, "You'd think that when I peroxidized my hair my brains went down the drain."

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Brigitte Nielsen says marrying Sylvester Stallone was good for business, but that wasn't the only thing that gave her career muscle.

"To stay on top, you have got to have personality and talent."

LONI ANDERSON

Stallone's ex-wife said in the March 21 issue of Us magazine. "Then it doesn't matter who you were married to."

"My business was terrific whether I was married or not," but "it might have taken longer" to make it had she not married the star of the "Rocky" and "Rambo" movies, Nielsen said. "I have more success than I've ever had," she said. "So whatever I have done, I must have done something right because I'm doing good, and more important, I feel good."

Nielsen is engaged to Jets defensive lineman Mark Gastineau.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Academy Award-winning actress Bette Davis says she set aside five years to establish herself as an actress. Sixty years later and a month away from her 80th birthday, she's still working.

Miss Davis, born April 5, 1908, is preparing for her role in a new Larry Cohen thriller.

Miss Davis, who wrote the best seller "This 'n' That," has overcome a mastectomy and a severe and temporarily crippling stroke to keep working.

She has just moved from the East Coast to a Hollywood apartment.

"I've never been all that fond of

BRIGITTE NIELSEN

Southern California weather and I miss the East," she said in a recent interview. "But I decided I'd become too much of a hermit. I needed to get back in the world."

As for her birthday, "I haven't quite decided what to do on the day. On my 70th, I put a black wreath on the front door. But to be working on your 80th birthday, that's quite something."

BOSTON (AP) — Ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov will perform in Stravinsky's "Apollo" at a gala during the Making Music Together festival teaming Soviet with American artists, organizers say.

Baryshnikov, a star of Leningrad's Kirov Ballet who defected to this country, will be joined at the March 27 gala by dancers from Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet and American Ballet Theater ballerinas Susan Jaffe, Leslie Brown and Christine Dunham.

More than 285 Soviet performers will come to Boston for the March 11-April 2 festival, which is to be followed next year by a similar gathering involving U.S. artists in the Soviet Union.

In addition to dancing, the festival will include opera, symphony, chamber music, quartets, folk ensembles and mime.

War sword reunites friends

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from Doug Frazier in Minnesota who wanted to find Charlie Wheatley.

My sister-in-law, Kate Bonar, called from West Virginia saying she had read Dear Abby that morning in the Wheeling Intelligencer, and she wondered if I was the Charlie Wheatley Mr. Frazier was looking for.

Well, I am. Doug and I were college roommates in Orlando, Fla., back in the early '70s. At that time I needed the money, so I sold him my grandfather's Civil War sword, and never gave it another moment's thought. Imagine my surprise and delight upon learning that the sword might be returned to me!

I'd like to contact Doug personally, but I don't know where in Minnesota he's living. I would be most appreciative if you could help me.

CHARLES T. WHEATLEY, RESTON, VA.

DEAR CHARLES: By the time this is published, you and Doug will have been in touch with each other, and the sword should be on its way to you.

When I phoned Mr. Frazier — now a prosperous farmer in Canby, Minn. — I asked him why, after all these years, he decided to return the sword. He replied: "When I'd see it hanging on our living room wall, I got to feeling guilty because I knew the sword was a family heirloom and really belonged to someone in the Wheatley family, so I took a chance and wrote to you asking if you could help me find Charlie. And you certainly did!"

In this world, when we so often hear, "It's every man for himself," isn't it nice to know that there are still people around like Doug Frazier?

DEAR ABBY: If I'd known you were printing a cookbooklet, I'd have sent you my "Recipe for Boiling Water" sooner.

You'd better publish it before someone else who saw it in our local paper sends it to you and says she wrote it:

RECIPE FOR BOILING WATER
by Grace Knipper
INGREDIENTS: 1 cup water (can be any temperature under 212 degrees)

Pour water into 1 quart pan. Cover with lid. Place on stove burner. Wait patiently.

(If patience grows thin, check to see if burner is lit.)

Do not watch closely, as a watch-pot never boils.

When boiling, use as needed. If your first tries are not successful, don't become discouraged, as many a seasoned wife hears her husband complain that she can't boil water.

DEAR GRACE: Thanks. Every woman who says she can't boil water will appreciate it. And speaking of my cook-booklet, the recipe for "Abby's Cold Cucumber Soup" calls for 1½ cups dairy sour cream. The printer goofed. It should be 1½ quarts dairy sour cream. That prize recipe came from Lois (Mrs. Abe) Ribicoff — a great lady and super hostess.

Abby's favorite recipes are going like hotcakes! For your copy, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage and handling are included.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 77720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Oil demonstration set for Saturday

Lawanda Colton, artist from Portales, N.M., will demonstrate painting mountains by using oils at the Big Spring Art Association's meeting Saturday. Picture shown is a demonstration painting by Colton.

The Big Spring Art Association will meet Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Howard College Art Department. Lawanda Colton, Portales, N.M. will demonstrate painting mountains using oils.

She also will conduct a workshop March 13 and 14 at Q.M. Frame and Art Gallery, 1514 Mesquite. Anyone interested in attending, may sign up at the oil demonstration.

Colton is a well-known artist throughout New Mexico. Her work is represented by Wade Gallery's in Santa Fe, N.M. and in San Antonio, said Quin Martin, president of Big Spring Art Association.

She has won many ribbons for her work and teaches an art class in June in Cloudcroft, N.M.

She enjoys traveling and painting the Teton Mountain in Wyoming.

The demonstration is free and open to the public.

For more information, contact Quin Martin at 263-0323.

Mavs lose

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

One by one, challengers have tested their ability against the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers this season, and one by one they have left the court shaking their heads.

After a 108-97 victory Sunday over Dallas, the Lakers are now 9-0 against the Mavericks, Boston, Atlanta and Detroit — the four teams considered to be the most serious threats to take the title away.

"Dallas has been running roughshod over people and that got our attention," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said, referring to the Mavericks' club-record 11-game winning streak. "We've not played anywhere near this level for the past few weeks. So Dallas really brought it out in us."

Dallas was outrebounded 52-40 by the Lakers, who won an NBA-high 15 straight games earlier this season.

"They (the Lakers) could have done a big favor for us," Dallas owner Donald Carter said. "If we had walked over 'em it would have given us false confidence and the Lakers might have slaughtered us later. Now we know we need to improve in a lot of areas."

Byron Scott scored 28 points to lead the Lakers in scoring for the fourth consecutive game. Mark Aguirre paced Dallas with 27.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Philadelphia 105, Indiana 100; Boston 127, Cleveland 98; and Detroit 109, Milwaukee 99.

The Mavericks left the game impressed with the defending champions.

"The Lakers are still No. 1 and we are No. 2 based on the standings," center James Donaldson said. "The streak was fun and it is good to beat up on the rest of the league, but you have to beat these guys to prove how good you really are."

Scott had 18 points in the first half and Abdul-Jabbar added 12 as the Mavericks shot only 36 per cent from the field.

Celtics 127, Cavaliers 98

Boston handed Cleveland its 24th consecutive loss at Boston Garden as Larry Bird scored 31 points and Danny Ainge had 12 of his 21 in the third period.

Bird was hit on the left eye by a Dell Curry elbow with 16 seconds left in the first quarter, but returned after 2½ minutes in the dressing room. The Celtics lost center Robert Parish to back spasms earlier in the first period, but the Cavaliers committed 14 turnovers in the quarter and trailed 34-21.

BOSTON — Teammate Dennis Johnson bends over to check on Boston Celtic Larry Bird, hit in the left eye by Dell Curry's elbow during first quarter NBA action against the Cleveland Cavaliers at Boston Garden Sunday. Despite the injury, Bird finished the game as high scorer with 31 points in the Celtics' 127-129 victory. However, Bird's playing status for the Wednesday game with San Antonio is reportedly questionable.

Hawks win

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The Howard College Hawks swept the second double-header in a row from Vernon Junior College Sunday by taking the first game 19-9 and the second 13-1 in non-regional action at Jack Barber Field.

Raising their season's tally to 15-4, the Hawks dispensed 18 hits in the first game and 13 in the second as they ran away with two wins for the day. Vernon racked up 11 hits in the first game but managed only two in the second.

The opener went the full seven innings, according to Hawks' assistant coach Greg Henry, but the double-header was called after five innings in the late game because of the 10-run rule.

Howard pitcher Joe Watters earned his first win with the 19-9 massacre, pitching five innings, giving up seven hits and five earned runs, walking five men and fanning three.

Howard had a four-run barrage in the third inning when Jerry Camara led off with a solo homer to left field and Joey Allen capped the rally with a three-run homer scoring Paul Spyhalski, Darren Glenn and himself.

Jody Allen hit his second homer of the game, scoring Camarillo and Spyhalski too, in the fourth. In the top of the seventh, Howard collected seven unearned runs and one earned run to win the game.

In the late game, Howard took a 4-1 lead in the first inning.

The second inning produced nine Hawk runs before a single out occurred. Richard Baker smacked a double to score Phil Longo and Mike Bard, and Jerry Camara singled to drive in Jose Rubiera. Glenn walked to load the bases; Castro singled, scoring Baker and Camara, and a wild pitch brought Glenn home.

Randy Deal walked, Spyhalski singled, scoring Castro, and Longo hit a double, scoring Jay Williams, a courtesy runner for Deal. Bard's sacrifice fly scored Spyhalski, Rubiera grounded out and Baker's pop fly closed the inning.

Finding out Big leagues dusting winter off diamonds

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring training is a time to find things out. And so far, Fernando Valenzuela likes the results.

Valenzuela, the ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers' staff this decade, had an off-season in 1987 going 14-14 with a 3.98 earned run average. He also allowed 254 hits in 251 innings.

On Sunday, he pitched three perfect innings as the Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 3-0, improving their Grapefruit record 3-0.

"I think the weights have helped me a lot," Valenzuela said of his winter training program. "They make me looser, especially the shoulder. I can get looser, quicker now."

The Dodgers hope Valenzuela can return to his 1986 form, when he was 21-11 and struck out 242.

"Maybe I'll have a better spring training this year because of the weights. At least, it's not a bad start."

Right-hander Tim Lary followed Valenzuela with three scoreless innings, allowing one hit, while walking one and striking out two. Rookie right-hander Tim Crews pitched out of trouble in the ninth inning to record his first save of the spring.

Gibson and Mike Marshall had a pair of hits each to pace the Los Angeles offense.

Royals 6, Tigers 2
Bo Jackson, trying to win a spot in the starting lineup, hit a home run to lead off the second inning and drove in another run in the third to spark Kansas City.

Jackson's homer came off losing pitcher Frank Tanana. Jackson's third-inning sacrifice fly scored Frank White.

Reds 2, Cardinals 1
Eric Davis hit a solo homer, Kal Daniels singled home a run and four Cincinnati pitchers held St. Louis to three hits.

Left-hander Danny Jackson pitched three perfect innings in his first start for the Reds. Jackson, acquired from Kansas City in a trade last November, struck out three and didn't walk a batter.

Orioles 5, Yankees 2
Eddie Murray hit a long three-run homer as Baltimore completed a weekend sweep of the Yankees.

Murray's third-inning homer, which gave the Orioles a 4-0 lead, cleared the 360-foot sign on Miami Stadium's right-field wall, a small parking lot and another row of parked cars before landing on the street running parallel to the stadium.

Jack Clark had a fourth-inning RBI ground-out and a sixth-inning single for the Yankees.

Phillies 9, White Sox 5
Rich Schu hit a two-run double to help Philadelphia beat Chicago.

Three straight walks by rookie left-hander Grady Hall, who then committed a two-run error, led to a seven-run sixth inning as the Phillies spoiled Chicago's Grapefruit League opener.

Rookie right-hander Tom Newell, 1-0, got the victory, pitching two shutout innings.

Blue Jays 2, Phillies 1
Pinch-hitter Rich Leach drove in one run and rookie Jimmy Kelly scored on a wild pitch to lift Toronto over a Philadelphia split squad. Both runs came against loser David Palmer in the sixth inning.

Pirates 6, Rangers 1
Rangers 11, Pittsburgh 1
Sid Bream hit a tie-breaking single and Felix Fermin followed with a two-run single as Pittsburgh scored five runs in the eighth inning to beat Texas.

The Rangers, who had 15 hits in a 6-2 loss to the Detroit Tigers on Friday, managed only two hits off four Pirates' pitchers.

SAN ANGELO — The Big Spring High School girls' track team finished sixth overall here Saturday in the San Angelo Relays. The Steer girls collected a total of 50 points for the meet, trailing Lakeview's 122 meet-winning total.

Hereford finished second with 93 points, Lubbock Dunbar third with 90 and Wolfforth Frenship fourth with 69; Snyder collected fifth place on 67 total points.

Trailing Big Spring in the standings were Abilene Wylie, seventh place, 22 points; Fort Stockton, 17; Muleshoe, 15; Coronado junior varsity, 14, and Odessa Permian junior varsity, six points.

The Steers' best results were second and third place in the shot put, by Charlotte Hayward and Kelly Myles, respectively; Yvette Regalado finished eighth in the 3,200-meter run with a 14:00.45.

In the 100-meter dash Big Spring collected another third place finish courtesy of Marta Mathews' 13.58 time. Melba White added a 28.01 fourth-place finish in the 200-meter dash to the Big Spring totals.

Basin fighter taking skills to church as boxing coach

MONAHANS (AP) — In high school, Gordon Cox said, he was a 130-pound teen-ager who wasn't much good at sports.

"I was so small in high school, I was never really good at football or anything," he said.

Then he discovered boxing, "and I won and said, 'Hey, I did something and succeeded at it.'"

After seven years, he worked his way to the 1982 state Golden Gloves finals, where a cut over his eye caused the fight to be stopped. With a 65-11 amateur record, he turned professional and built a 10-1 mark with eight knockouts before walking away from the ring.

Cox said those years in the ring did more for him than improve his physique and give him a bunch of trophies to dust.

"It just gives you a lot of confidence," he said. "It helped me achieve goals. It took me three years to go to state and four years to get to the finals. But I didn't quit. (Boxing) taught me in life that when you get knocked down, you can't quit."

Cox, 31, is now the activities director at Bethel Baptist Church in Monahans, at the same church where his father is the pastor. He returned to the Odessa Golden Gloves last month as a coach instead of as a fighter.

Working out at the gymnasium of his church have been two open-class fighters and three high school-class fighters who Cox brought to the tournament.

Some might see a contradiction between a church's goals of brotherhood and sponsorship of a boxing club. But Cox said boxing is a way to reach kids who couldn't be reached otherwise.

"It's kind of unusual for a church to have a boxing team, but we try to keep it separate," he said. "But we're trying to teach them good stuff, keep them out of trouble and off the streets."

Cox's experiences as a fighter were not all good. He was ahead on the judge's card when he lost his final amateur bout because of the cut over his eye. And he quit his pro career because, like many pros, he found that the managers he had "just didn't care."

Despite the bad times, Cox said he believes boxing offers much on the amateur level.

"I was just a little bitty kid from Kermit, and I got to where I was fighting for the state title. It teaches kids that no matter what, you can make it," he said.

The odds against becoming a world champion are huge, but that doesn't make the sport any less rewarding, Cox said.

"The chances against making it in boxing are 99-to-1," Cox said. "There are very few champs and thousands of boxers."

Crenshaw's victory not solemn time

MIAMI (AP) — Ben Crenshaw tried, with little success, to mask his delight when the 18-foot birdie putt found the cup on the final hole of the Doral Open.

A grin twitched at his lips. "I wanted to yell. You bet I did," Crenshaw said of the stroke that proved to be the difference in his one-shot victory Sunday.

"A pretty sight," Ben said. It was viewed by thousands of spectators. And millions of television viewers. But it wasn't seen by the three people — other than Crenshaw — most concerned.

Ben's wife Julie lost her contact lenses early in the week. Standing in the gallery with 5-month-old Katherine in her arms, she watched as Ben tried

"I could see the putt rolling, but I couldn't see it go in. I haven't seen it yet," she said.

And Mark McCumber, tied with Crenshaw and waiting to hit his approach, couldn't see either.

"I know enough to be scared when Ben is putting," McCumber said. "I couldn't see it, but I knew from the crowd reaction he'd made it."

And Chip Beck, also tied with Crenshaw after a birdie on the 17th, said he didn't know Ben had made it "until I got to the 18th tee. When he made it, well, that made it pretty tough," Beck said.

Beck, who scored the first victory of his career a week earlier, and McCumber, a two-time winner of this title, each came to the 18th needing a birdie to tie Crenshaw and force a playoff. Each had a putt in the 30-foot range to do it. Each left it short.

But Ben didn't see those misses, either.

"I couldn't look," he said.

Alysheba wins Santa Anita race for Midland owners

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Chris McCarron, who's been aboard a lot of fine horses, didn't hesitate when asked if Alysheba is the best he's ever ridden.

"No question about it, absolutely," McCarron said.

Jack Van Berg, who trains the 4-year-old son of Alydar, expressed a similar sentiment.

"I have more confidence in this horse than any horse I've had in my life," the 51-year-old Van Berg said. "I think he's as good a horse as any who's ever lived."

Pretty strong statements for a colt who's won only six races in 19 lifetime starts. But they couldn't have seemed too far-fetched to anyone who watched victory No. 6, which came Sunday in the $1 million Santa Anita Handicap.

Alysheba held off Ferdinand, the 1987 Horse of the Year, in a battle of the last two Kentucky Derby champions to win the 51st running of the "Big Cap" by a half-length before a crowd of 70,432.

Super Diamond was third and Judge Angelucci fourth in the select four-horse field, the smallest in Santa Anita Handicap history. Temperate Sil was scratched several hours before the race.

The win was worth $550,000, raising Alysheba's career earnings to $3,695,642, third on thoroughbred racing's all-time money-winning list behind John Henry, who earned $6,597,947, and Spend A Buck, who earned $4,220,689. McCarron was John Henry's regular rider.

The winning time for 1 1/4 miles on a fast track was 1:59.45. The stakes record of 1:58.3-5 was set by Affirmed in 1979.

Ferdinand, a 5-year-old son of Nijinsky II, and Alysheba were racing against each other for the second time. Ferdinand prevailed by a nose in the $3 million Breeders' Cup Classic, also a 1 1/4-mile race, at Hollywood Park last Nov. 21.

That victory clinched Horse of the Year honors for Ferdinand, the 1986 Kentucky Derby winner.

"He ran the best race of his life today in a high-quality field," McCarron said of Alysheba. "The difference this year is maturity. All along he's had tons of ability, but he's putting it all together now. As a 3-year-old, he liked to play, just like a young kid."

Alysheba, who won the 1987 Kentucky Derby and was an Eclipse Award winner as the year's top 3-year-old, took the lead entering the final turn and didn't appear to be threatened seriously after that.

Alysheba, who carried 126 pounds, went off as the even-money favorite and paid $4 and $2.60. Alysheba is owned by Dorothy and Pamela Scharbauer of Midland.

"If he stays sound, he should catch Spend A Buck this year, and we'll probably run him next year and he could catch John Henry," said Clarence Scharbauer, Dorothy's husband, who's listed as Alysheba's manager. "We'll give him a rest after this, and then if the East Coast biggies don't come after us, we'll go after them."

Ferdinand, who came in 2 1/2 lengths in front of Super Diamond, returned $2.80. Ferdinand, who is trained by Charlie Whittingham, was ridden by Bill Shoemaker and carried high weight of 127 pounds.

Second place was worth $200,000, raising Ferdinand's career earnings to $3,595,478. Ferdinand is in fifth place on the earnings list behind John Henry, Spend A Buck, Alysheba and Creme Fraiche ($3,641,045).

Super Diamond, ridden by Laffit Pincay and carrying 124 pounds, earned $150,000, while Judge Angelucci, ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye and carrying 123 pounds, collected $75,000. Because there were only four entries, there was no show wagering.

Shoemaker said he had no excuses for Ferdinand's performance.

"I had no problem at all," said thoroughbred racing's all-time leading jockey. "We couldn't get by him. Both (Alysheba and Ferdinand) ran great races. When I tried to get by, he (McCarron) moved his horse with me."

Only once previously, in 1950, had two Kentucky Derby winners run in the Santa Anita Handicap. Citation, the 1948 Triple Crown winner, finished second, while 1949 Kentucky Derby winner Ponder was fourth. The race was won by Noor.

The gross purse of the race was actually $975,000. The fifth-place finisher was to earn $25,000, but since there were only four starters, fifth-place money reverted back to the track.

Warm weather, snow stall Iditarod

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — With dogs drooping from warm weather and a storm burying the trail in wet snow, most leaders in the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race declared their mandatory 24-hour layover at Finger Lake, just 193 miles into the 1,150-mile race.

One exception was Martin Buser of Big Lake, who was the first musher into the checkpoint at 1:50 p.m. AST. He remained in Finger Lake but did not declare the layover Sunday.

Following him into Finger Lake at 2:16 was Lavon Barve of Wasilla, with four-time Iditarod champion Rick Swenson just two minutes behind. Both Barve and Swenson declared their 24-hour layovers, though officials noted they could bolt before the time was up and take their 24 hours later.

Temperatures that hovered around 32 degrees on Saturday took a toll on many of the sled dogs, which are accustomed to running in much colder weather.

The 52 mushers also cast a wary eye at the weather, which usually gets worse the higher the trail climbs into the Alaska Range. Race officials reported wet snow and poor visibility on the trail.

Defending champion Susan Butcher was in eighth place, arriving in Finger Lake at 2:33 p.m. Pass, the highest point on the trail.

SKWENTNA, Alaska — Joe Garnie, of Teller, Alaska declared his mandatory 24-hour layover at Skwentna during the Iditarod sled dog race. An Inupiat Eskimo, Garnie was worried and depressed over conditions.

At Puntilla Lake, the mushers will have covered 223 miles of the 1,158-mile route from Anchorage to Nome.

The top foreign musher Sunday was Jacques Philip of Thomery, France, in ninth place.

Girls' track

Angie Dees, Unis Drew, Mathews and White finished third in the 400-meter relay with an overall time of 53.50.

RUNNELS WINS MEET

The Runnels junior high eighth grade girls track team took first place in Andrews Friday by scoring 159 total points.

Amie Walters contributed two first place finishes, in the 1,600-meter run and the 800-meter run, and a fourth place in the 400-meter relay.

Brooke Arrick took first place in the high jump and second in the 200-meter dash, second in the 1,600-meter relay and fourth in the 800-meter relay, while teammate Amber Grisham added a second in the long jump and 1,600-meter relay to her third place effort in the high jump.

She also took fourth place in the 100-meter hurdles and finished fourth in the 800-meter relay.

Melanie Zapata placed second in the 400-meter dash and 1,600-meter relay, as well as fourth in the 800-meter relay.

Julie Smart finished second in the 1,600-meter run and the 800-meter run.

Gwen Myerl helped the 1,600-meter relay team finish second; she placed fifth in the 400-meter dash.

Karma Morrow placed second in the shot put and sixth in discus.

I'm Proud and Happy to be the wife of Emilio Ray Molina Sr., candidate for County Commissioner Precinct 1.

We are privileged to live in a county where the election process allows Americans the choice to run in any election.

Emillo, having worked with the county has a working knowledge of the financial aspects of the office.

Questions were asked on the Swap Shop that were not directly answered, but I can guarantee you that if he is elected he will confront the issues in dealing with things that deal directly with the tax payers dollars.

I'm hoping that in the future elections more candidates will participate. The competition will be good for the candidates, and when all the votes are counted, because we live in our great land of freedom and democracy, we will back the candidate that you, the people, choose.

I'm asking for your support and influence. Vote for Emillo Ray Molina for your next County Commissioner, Precinct 1 on March 8, 1988.

Introducing No Guesswork Auto Service

The People You Trust For Tires Are Tops In Service Too!

Look for the new signs. It's happening all over town. There's a new look, a new spirit, and a new service capability wherever you see the words, Goodyear Auto Service.

We're computerized. At Goodyear, we take the guesswork out of auto service. When you come in for a tune-up, a Goodyear certified mechanic begins by hooking your car to a computerized engine analyzer.

Over 100 tests. With quiet efficiency, the computer performs over 100 comprehensive tests on your car's engine. The diagnostic results help the mechanic pinpointing problems quickly and accurately. There's even a computer printout that you get to keep, and it shows exactly what's needed to be done.

The non-guesswork tune-up. A computer checklist leaves nothing to chance. So there's no backtracking or time-wasting. Digital readouts, instead of pointers and dials, assure accurate readings. The result: A precise tune-up.

Computerized four-wheel alignment too. Whether you own front-wheel drive, rear-wheel drive, or four-wheel drive, Goodyear offers computerized alignment service. Our computerized equipment can provide a printout that indicates simultaneously the correction needed for each wheel. This aids accuracy, helps eliminate error.

COMPUTERIZED ENGINE ANALYSIS

$19.95 Our computerized engine analyzer performs more than 100 comprehensive tests on your car's engine. Problems are pinpointed quickly and accurately. You'll be given a computer printout that clearly identifies problem areas.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1988

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good time to begin new ventures, or to be rid of old, non-profitable ones. When dealing with others today, sarcasm should be avoided at all costs. Be personable and confident this evening.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get your assets and liabilities organized more efficiently, and you will see exactly how to proceed. Don't make any drastic changes today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do something special to cheer up your mate, as this person has been down in the dumps lately. Retire early and get plenty of rest tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid a person who usually depresses you, or that mood will stick with you all day. Be more cooperative with your co-workers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If you have some entertainment plans, make sure these are activities you will truly enjoy, and which won't cost too much.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) If you want to have guests into your home, make it in the daytime only. Pay particular attention to the plumbing in your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle any reports or statements wisely and accurately. Make sure you drive carefully today. Retire early and rest up this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Avoid a friend who has a tale of woe to trouble you with, as you have enough problems of your own. Keep your mind on your personal goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful this evening, and don't allow yourself to be drawn into an activity you don't approve of. Be firm about this, but polite.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A long-standing worry could depress you if you allow it to. If there is nothing you can do to rectify the situation, forget it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend of yours has been feeling depressed and helpless, so try to raise the spirits of this person who has done so much for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can accomplish a great deal today if you get an early start and use your energy constructively. Steer clear of an irate superior.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study every aspect of a new venture before you proceed. Listen to the views of others which may be quite different from your own.

If Your Child Is Born Today He or she will be highly magnetic and charming, and people will tend to make things easy for him or her. For this reason, teach your talented progeny not to take favors for granted, and not to become lazy. Be sure a fine education is provided, and discourage prejudices.
