It's in the air — West Texas dust

By HOLDEN LEWIS

Associated Press Writer

EL PASO (AP) — Dust was in the air as West Texans coped with the annual onslaught of earth, wind and fiery sandstorms.

The season usually begins in mid-March and ends in May. April is the windiest month, and the driven dust can sand-blast car finishes, damage skin and hair and make life miserable for allergy sufferers and people with respiratory illnesses.

El Paso suffered through its first dust storm of the year a week ago, once again meeting a timetable as old as the desert and Texas' South

Big Spring experienced high winds on Wednesday, finally subsiding late Wednesday

The season's high winds and dry weather, combined with plowed-under fields, make Lubbock particularly dusty this time of year, said Andy Anderson, meteorologist in charge at the National Weather Service in Lubbock.

"Everything unfortunately seems to work in harmony," he said.

Conditions are similar in the desert of the Trans-Pecos, where moisture is scarce and the dust easily swirls in the warm winds.

It's so windy in the Panhandle that Amarillo High's mascot is the sandstorm. The school's sports teams are known as the Amarillo High Wind picks up in spring because of uneven heating of the earth, causing fronts and upper-level disturbances, Howard Wheless of the El Paso NWS office said.

"We're going from winter to summer," Wheless said. "It's just a cycle that Mother Nature goes through.

It's also a cycle that allergy sufferers have to go through. At the El Paso Allergy and Asthma Center, business increases about 15 percent to 20 percent during dust storm season, spokesman Jon Kersey said.

"We're seeing a lot of people come in," he said. "They complain of allergic rhinitis, asthma, wheezing, tightness in the chest." Allergic rhinitis is another way of saying hay

The wind-blown dust pits windshields and scratches car finishes, but the body-repair business doesn't increase much during dust storm season, said Enrique Medina, president of Spraymaster Paint & Body in El Paso. Imogene Johns, manager of Aladdin Beauty College in El Paso, said she, like most people, procrastinates when it comes to protecting her hair and skin this time of year. "Knowing better, I'll wait 'til it's too late."

She said people should use skin moisurizers and hair conditioners "to keep those ends from being whipped up in the sand.'

"Once it hits, taking care of it later is kind of like running out after the horse is out and shutting the barn door," she said.

Pageant remains uncertain

By KERRY HAGLUND Staff Writer

The future of the Permian Basin baby pageant remains uncertain.

While officials debate whether the pageant will be conducted, others are criticizing Odessa police for their investigation into the alleged pageant scam.

Several Big Spring families have entered the pageant and are waiting for their children to be crowned kings and queens, but Monday indictments against four pageant organizers on charges of gambling promotion have complicated the issue.

Will there be a baby pageant

The answer depends on whom you ask.

Becky Cagle, manager of the Odessa Ronald McDonald House, and John Green, an Odessa attorney representing three pageant organizers arrested Monday on charges of gambling promotion,

"Steve, after all he's been through, has graciously agreed to try to put the pageant back together," said Cagle, who reported that Ector County District Attorney Eric Augesen had agreed to release records in connection with the case. The Ronald McDonald House was to receive at least $5,000 in proceeds from the pageant.

Augesen, however, said Odessa police have control over items seized in a Monday raid on baby pageant headquarters.

And police today said any release of evidence seized in connection to the pageant is unlikely. Police contend the pageant was a scam and began investigating the operation last week after a reporter called and said the pageant was similar to a Beaumont pageant, which was found to be an illegal lottery.

Permian Basin pageant organizers, Davis, 32, Donna Burris, 38, and William Clyde Burris, 26, all of Lubbock, were arrested

St. Patrick's

Celebration clouded by Irish violence

By SCOTT WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer

More than a million people were expected along Fifth Avenue for New York's parade, green grits awaited celebrants in Georgia, and the Chicago River flowed green as Americans celebrated a St. Patrick's Day clouded by violence in Northern Ireland.

New York's parade, expected to draw 125,000 marchers and more than a million spectators, is the nation's biggest and one of 185 held throughout the United States on the day when everyone is Irish.

In Savannah, Ga., parade organizers braced for 250,000 people to pack the coastal city's downtown Historic District, where grits and public fountains flow green on for the four-hour, three-mile parade.

But the celebrations were clouded by violence at a gravesite in Belfast, Northern Ireland, where three people were killed and 68 wounded by a Protestant Related photo on page 5-A shooting a pistol and throwing grenades at services for three slain Irish Republican Army guerrillas.

"We are very sad to hear the news .. that those people could not be buried in a peaceful way," said Francis Beirne, chairman of New York City's 227th parade honoring the patrol saint of

The Chicago River also flows green today, thanks to 100 pounds of biodegradable dye, with 40,000 marchers and 50 floats stepping out in the Windy City's annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

In Iowa, environmental officials nixed a plan to dye the Mississippi River green to coincide with an interstate parade through the Quad Cities. "It's hard for the department and state Legislature to work as hard as we did last year to pass a water protection act and to allow something like that to occur," said Larry Wilson, director of the natural resources department.

Seattle's parade down Fourth Avenue follows a wide green stripe laid down in a tradition established by the late John Doyle Bishop, who used to paint the parade route only to be arrested annually for defacing the street. In recent years, that problem has been solved by using green tape.

Also scheduled was a Mass for Peace in Ireland at Plymouth Congregational

In Butte, Mont., the M&M Cigar Store cooked up 1,500 pounds of corned beef and 15 cases of cabbage, doubled the length of its 30-foot-long bar, and scheduled 14 bartenders to work through the day and night.

In New York, police said 3,247 officers have been called to duty, with instructions to control public drunkenness around the parade, which disperses on Third Avenue, home of many festive Irish taverns.

Some 185 bands, including the St.

Patrick's Independent Accordion Band from Portadown, Northern Ireland, planned to take part in the Fifth Avenue march.

The parade's grand marshal, William Burke, vice president of the Bank of Ireland, was to be joined on the reviewing stand by Gov. Mario Cuomo, Mayor Edward I. Koch and Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

This year's parade was dedicated to the U.S. Constitution and the liberty of one Irish immigrant who has been held here without bail or trial for over four

James McNamara, parade spokesman, said the march would be dedicated to "liberty and justice" for Joseph Patrick Thomas Doherty, who fled to the United States after the 1980 IRA killing of a British army captain

Rural hospital closures on the rise

Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON - Rural hospitals in the United States have been steadily closing at an average rate of 22 a year during the past two decades, and there may soon be an increase in those closings because of declining profits by hospitals in outlying areas, according to a government researcher.

Data from Medicare, the federal health insurance plan for the elderly begun in 1966, shows that 446 rural hospitals closed their doors from 1966 to 1986, according to recent report by the General Accounting Office, a research arm of the Congress. At the same time, there was a growth in the number of urban hospitals.

The GAO was asked to report the number of rural hospitals that ceased participation in Medicare. The only rural hospitals that terminated Medicare were those that closed, the study found.

In Texas, 87 rural hospitals closed, the highest number of any state in the 20-year period. Oklahoma and Kentucky were next, with 27 and 21 rural hospitals closing since 1966, the study said.

Those states initially had higher numbers of ding to Tom Dawdal, who did the research for the GAO report. Over time, the need for so many rural hospitals has declined, he said.

The study focused on the period since 1983, when the federal program began paying hospitals a predetermined fixed payment for each Medicine patient based on diagnosis. Previously, hospitals were reimbursed for their actual costs per patient.

Rural hospitalks have lobbied against the prospective payment system (PPS) because they are paid at a lower fixed rate than urban hospitals to treat patients with the same diagnosis. The rural hospitals claim their costs are the same or higher than those of city

The GAO report, requested by Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Me., was an effort to determine whether rural hospitals have been forced to close because of the new payment system.

The GAO report found the number of rural hospitals closing sine 1966 has remaiend stable each year — going up and down with no particular pattern. Forty-one closed in the threeyear period after Medicare instituted PPS in

There may be an increase during the next few years in rural hospitals closing, however, because many are becoming less and less profitable, according to Dawdal.

"The numbers in the report (for 1966-1986) were not extremely high," Dawdal said. "But that doesn't mean they won't be high in the next five yaers or even the next two years.'

Dawdal said he "wouldn't be surprised" to see a leap in the number of rural hospitals shut-"Their profits are getting lower or non-existent — that could lead to problems in the future," said Dawdal.

Dawdal said the Medicare fixed-payment system is not necessarily to blame.

"One reason rural hospitals are struggling is they are getting fewer patients to spread the costs out among," he said. "There is a whole set of factors besides Medicare."

As of December 1986, there were 5,991 hospitals in the nation participating in Medicare. Of those, 2,918, or 49 percent, were

Beddow: Cameo's closing rumors 'absolutely untrue'

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Cameo Energy Homes is not closing its Big Spring manufacturing plant, Cameo president John Beddow said today.

"I have heard those rumors," Beddow said. "They are absolutely untrue. We are not closing. I got those same rumors when I rolled into town in October 1982.

"Certain people in Big Spring have predicted that we, among others in town, are going to close, for five years now.

"If they keep predicting that they may be right," he continued. "People will believe the rumors and stop buying from us, and the people who have predicted that we are going to close will be right. They will have made their predictions come true.

"Yesterday we had a meeting for our employees, and I told them that we are not closing," Beddow said. "I told them that the rumors are not true, and that there is no reason for those rumors today."

Widespread rumors that employee paychecks had bounced for the previous two weeks were also untrue, Beddow said. He said he told employees at the plant that "times are tight and things are tough right now, but that's true all over Texas."

The factory at FM 700 and 11th Place Extension opened in 1971 as a manufactured housing plant which changed ownership several times before Cameo Energy Homes bought the facility in 1981.

In January, the factory announced plans to expand its production by 25 percent and add approximately 40 new employees because it was assuming operations of manufactured housing formerly built by Sunrizon Homes, Inc., of Diboll.

"You can't be selective; if you are, then this police department certainly needs to be investigated," Green said.

Augesen said today church raffles haven't been investigated because the money raised benefits the local community and there have been no complaints.

He estimated the Ronald McDonald House would have received $5,000 to $10,000 of an estimated $75,000 raised by pageant organizers.

"If this provision is not changed, farmers and ranchers will be burdened with an additional operating expense that will total hundreds of millions of dollars in diesel-fuel excise taxes ... This is a tax that farmers do not owe and should not have to pay," True told the committee.

True, a Plainview farmer and member of the American Farm Bureau Federation's board of directors, represented the federation at the hearing

He estimated that the refund plan, which takes effect April 1, would require farmers nationwide to pay about $400 million in diesel taxes, including $30 million from Texas farmers alone.

True cited a number of objections to the change in the diesel-tax collection law. He said the change would create cash-flow problems for farmers, require them to borrow additional operating funds, lead to greater interest costs, and put a new paperwork burden on farmers to get their

Texan urges Congress to change diesel-fuel tax law

In addition, True said, only very large farms use enough diesel fuel to apply for quarterly refunds, so that most farmers would be forced to receive only an annual tax credit for the diesel taxes they paid.

"In effect, farmers will be making interest-free loans to the federal government. We think this is ridiculous," said

He also said the cost to the Internal Revenue Service of administering the new

True also warned that unless legislative action is taken quickly, fuel costs could temporarily rise and the fuel-distribution system could be disrupted.

Numerous lawmakers are supporting a change in the new law, including more than 50 senators and more than 200 House members who have co-sponsored various bills restoring tax-free purchase of offroad diesel fuel used by farmers.

But a Federal Highway Administration official reminded the committee Wednesday that one benefit of the new law is expected to be reduced evasion of diesel-fuel taxes, which totaled $2.8 billion last year.

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Texas Rangers are investigating the death of a drug informant found dead in his jail cell about five hours after he was arrested

An autopsy has been ordered on the body of Kenneth Simpson, 30, who was found dead about 4:34 a.m Wednesday, Cleveland Police Chief Harley Lovings said.

Justice of the Peace Charlie Morgan, who conducted an inquest, said he found no outward indications Simpson had suffered a violent death

More than 100 people went to the police station Wednesday demanding information about Simpson's death, but they left peacefully after some of them talked to Mayor Richard Boyett.

Simpson was arrested after an officer went to his home demanding a pen he believed Simpson had taken Tuesday night from the police station, where he had gone to get the telephone number of the U.S. Marshal. Relatives didn't know why he wanted the number but speculated it might relate to his role as a drug informant.

Simpson, who denied taking the pen, became enraged and knocked the officer down, Lovings said. A black officer then took Simpson, who was black, peacefully into

Some students work, avoid a tan

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - Some college students decided to do something constructive with their spring break vacation, passing up beach parties to rebuild a burned-out home.

"The beach is great. It's a lot of fun, but when you go home your tan disappears. This is something that we'll always have," said Michelle Dennis, 22, a psychology major.

In Brownsville, about 12 students are painting, laying carpet and flooring, landscaping and doing other work on the two-room, wood-frame house, belonging to 64 year-old Evangelina Flores, whose husband died in a fire that destroyed most of the house in May. Another seven Alternative Spring Break students from SMU traveled to New Orleans this week to work in a Methodist church's soup kitchen serving meals to homeless people, cleaning and performing light construction work

The project is being coordinated by the Methodistoperated Good Neighbor Settlement House, where the students slept at night.

Just 25 miles away, about 75,000 students jammed South Padre Island, a resort town on a barrier island about 10 miles from the Mexican border.

"I love the beach, I really do, but there is a wonderful feeling that you get when you finish a job helping someone," said Angie Wong, 19, a marketing major

Officers disarm bomb found in bank

DALLAS (AP) - Police say they don't know the target of a radiocontrolled bomb removed from a Dallas bank building that also houses the South Korean

The bomb was found in a thirds. floor stairwell of a First Republic-Bank building in northeast Dallas. It was disarmed Wednesday by police.

"This was not a high school prank. This bomb was built to do extensive damage or kill someone," said investigator Richard Dunn, who carried the 20-pound bomb into a special vehicle.

Dunn said no threats or extortion demands had been made

FBI Special Agent Richard Newth said that investigators knew of no threat against the consulate or any of the other 75 businesses in the building.

The Dallas consulate has very little political function, mainly providing information for tourists and business travelers bound for South Korea, officials said.

First RepublicBank officials said there also was no connection between the bomb and Tuesday's an-seek federal help to overcome its financial troubles.

The bank, with about 100 employees in the building, occupies the first two floors and the 10th

"I wouldn't think there is a connection (to federal aid requests) given that there were no calls or anything associated with it and it was found on a tenant floor," said Marsha Larsh, a spokeswoman for the bank.

The bank is an affiliate of First RepublicBank Corp., which has its headquarters in a downtown

Dunn said the device was constructed out of three plastic pipes filled with commercial-type explosives. He said the bomb had an antenna and was designed to be triggered by a remote-control

'Once we got up there, we knew it was a live device. There was nothing to do but secure the area and transport it as quick as possible," Dunn said.

Employees returned to the building around noon after the nouncement that the bank would bomb was removed.

Victims' daughter seeks recourse

DALLAS (AP) — The daughter of two murder victims has filed a $1 million suit against the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles, accusing the agency of "gross negligence" in failing to revoke the parole of the man convicted in the stabbing deaths of her parents.

Officials at the parole board and fice, which represents the board in such actions, said the case might be the first of its kind in Texas.

The suit was filed Wednesday by Mollie Finch Belt, whose parents, Fred Finch, 66, and Mildred Finch, 64, were stabbed to death during a burglary in 1986.

Kenneth Thomas, new 27, was convicted in the deaths and sentenced to death by lethal injection. He is awaiting execution at the Texas Department of Parole officials have admitted that Thomas should have been in jail at the time of the killings for the Texas attorney general's of-violating the terms of his parole, which stemmed from his conviction in a 1979 stabbing

Instead, Thomas remained free on parole months after he escaped from a minimum-security halfway house, failed to report to his parole officer and attacked his mother with a screwdriver.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

Oil price downward drift bad news

Almost unnoticed, oil prices are sliding toward $15 a barrel. And there is reason to believe they may go far lower. The surplus is considerable. As spring nears, heating demands will diminish. The results will be slowly sliding prices and rapidly slipping U.S. drilling. This spells trouble, to wit, a growing dependency on foreign oil, especially from the Persian Gulf, where the Iran-Iraq war is heating up.

No one believes that there are sufficient U.S. supplies in the to make the nation energy independent. But there is every reason to want to maximize domestic oil production and to fully use domestic gas reserves. That will require deregulating natural gas to free the market to deliver the massive available supplies where they will be needed the most: the Oil and gas are the economic lifeblood of the nation, and the nation continues down the path of increasing dependency on foreign oil. The problem cannot wait for a new president. President Reagan should place energy at the top of his domestic agenda for the remainder of his term. Dallas Morning News

Exercise caution in Soviet trade

Of all the Cabinet departments, the Department of Commerce is probably the least conspicuous to the average American, but beware. Commerce Secretary C. William Verity wants to increase trade with the Soviet Union. Selling Levis, Fords and Coca-Colas to 250 million Soviets is tempting, but caution should be exercised. The Soviets won't allow their market to be bought for a pittance. They

U.S. may be interfering too much

Few would deny that Panama's de facto leader, Gen. Manuel Noriega, isn't a democratic leader....

From the U.S. view, the man isn't fit to rule his country. But the view is much different in Panama and most of Central America. As long as there is general prosperity in Panama, the people won't likely revolt against

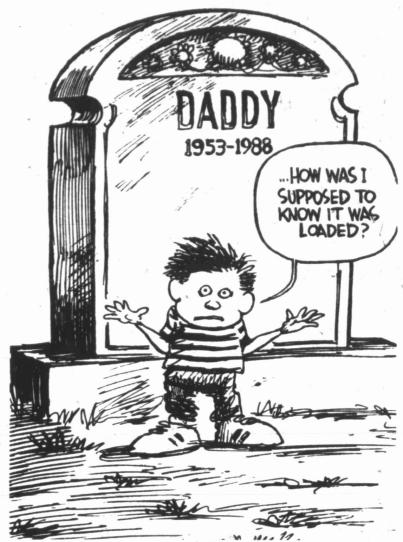

But now because of U.S. moves, prosperity may be going dry. ... When Panama was denied an estimated $50 million of its U.S. dollars in U.S. banks because of charges against Noriega, it started hurting people in their pocketbooks.

The question is, should the United States again be interfering in another country's business, even a country where it has long-time ties? Will it be another case of U.S. interference developing a backlash?

Noriega may be a despot, but he is not a communist. ... Economic pressure from the United States could lead Noriega in that direction. ...

Most disturbing are reports that the canal is being neglected. In the long run, that is what the United States should be looking at, instead of dabbling in Panamanian

Hopping their way into the record book

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

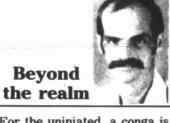

Random thoughts while searching for my car keys:

This just in from the Associated Press another world record has been shattered. More than 120,000 people gathered in downtown Miami Sunday and conga-ed their way into the Guiness Book of World Records

As Gloria Estefan and the Miami Sound Machine provided the music — surprisingly titled "Conga" — the sidestepping throng snaked its way along a 23-block section of Miami, shattering the current Guiness record by more than 100,000 people.

And they say American ingenuity is dead.

My first thought after reading this item — aside from wondering why AP would see fit to run the darned thing - was a brief hope that the Miami Police Department had enough jail space to hold all the drunks.

For the uniniated, a conga is the Hispanic version of the bunny hop, which is the Anglo version of nothing else in the universe

To do the bunny hop, people must meet two criteria: They must have consumed a vast amount of liquor; and they must have a complete lack of pride.

Walk into almost any country and western bar - and quite a few rock bars, also - about five minutes before closing time, and chances are you'll spot bunny hoppers. They're the ones still on the dance floor, yelling, "More beer! More beer!" and wearing T-shirts bearing obscene messages.

Now, what all this has to do with the price of tea in China is anybody's guess.

Through a mighty personal effort, I have refrained from commenting on Jimmy Swaggart's situation. Better writers than I have eloquently sawed ol' Jimmy in half for his foibles of late.

Personally, his comeuppance reaffirms my belief in a benevolent God

Having watched Jimmy spread his vitrolic gospel of hate against Catholics, homosexuals, Communists, free-thinkers or anyone else who didn't hew to the Assembly of God dogma, I think it was ironically appropriate for him to be photographed in the apparent company of a prostitute.

What struck me about his predicament was not that he got caught, but that he put himself in the situation in the first place.

Consider: The guy's got a good job, plenty of money, a gorgeous mansion and thousands of adoring fans. You'd think he would show a little more discretion in the company he keeps

Human rights in the news, on the move once again

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY

Even though the 8:30 a.m. Englishlanguage news issues from Geneva, there was no mention on March 11 of the developments the day before in Geneva at the United Nations Com-mission on Human Rights. It was the big day of the U.N. Human Rights season; Maureen Reagan was in town as a member of the U.S. delegation, and also Vernon Walters, our ambassador to the United Nations.

right The chairman of this year's delegation to that commission is Armando

Valladares (now a U.S. citizen), and if he is not an expert on human rights in Cuba, then Rudolf Hess knew nothing about life inside Spandau Prison. What happened? Let the suspense reign...

The United States was fervently backing the most modest human rights resolution ever formulated. It followed the conventional form of those resolutions, which come in U.N.-sonnet form.

The first eight or 10 or 12 batches of prose describe the motives of the resolution's originator ("Aware of its responsibility to promote and encourage respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms; recalling Economic and Social Council resolution 1235...") until staggereth the patience of any non-bureaucratic reader. After that are the three or four patches of prose that state the resolution.

In this case, all the United States was asking for was that Cuba be urged by the secretary-general of the United Nations to permit the Red Cross to travel to Cuba to examine its prisons. One would think this a rassed in 1962 when the Soviet Union was reasonable request. In the first place, Cuba could always say no, the Red Cross can't examine our prisons. And what then would happen? Nothing.

But in the surrealistic world of the United Nations, these things achieve their own importance, so that intensive lobbying went on for weeks.

As one might expect, a vicious campaign was mounted against Armando Valladares' "Against All Hope," a brilliant, devastating expose of 22 years' life in Castro's prisons. It was charged that Valladares had been — oh, a member of the Nazi Youth Guild, or whatever: Even the most fastidious clerks tend to forget what was today's distortion extruded by the Castro propaganda machine. One unusual development was embarrassing not so much to Castro, who is not easily embarrassed (he wasn't embardetected having moved one-half of its nuclear missiles into Cuba), but embarrassing to Felipe Gonzalez, the prime minister of Spain.

The Madrid daily ABC got hold of an official, confidential report on human rights in Cuba conducted for the Spanish government by Spaniards, which report concluded, to use langauge more economically than the United Nations, that there are no human rights in Cuba. But such is the fraternal feeling of Socialist prime minister Felipe Gonzalez for Castro (they exchanged, a couple of years ago, on Castro's first and only trip to Europe, the biggest public smooch in the history of osculation), that the government managed to suppress the report's circulation. Spain was left pretending to be innocent of the state of human liberties in Cuba, and was therefore determined to vote against the U.S. resolution.

If you can follow a little Byzantine thought, it went as follows: If a) the Red Cross were to enter Cuba and report that the prisons and psychological institutions were in fact torturing political prisoners, then b) the report of Spain's secret commission investigating human rights would indeed be verified; but c) since that report had been suppressed, the result of that verification would be embarrassing to the Spanish government. That is a specimen of U.N.-logic.

In any event, tension mounted greatly, and huge efforts were made to organize the votes. One arithmetician figured that the deciding vote might be cast by Sao Tome. The Europeans, with the exception of Spain, were with us. The communist bloc and its fellow travelers, against - of

Troops patrol Panama City after foiled coup attempt

After eight hours of official silence, the PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) -Soldiers loyal to Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega patrolled the streets of Panama City today, one day after a failed coup attempt by rebel officers sparked rioting by thousands of Panamanians.

The rampage by citizens fed up with military rule and the nation's financial crisis was the largest disturbance since civilian opponents first began staging demonstrations calling for Noriega's ouster last summer.

Wednesday's protests erupted spontaneously throughout the capital and in the country's second largest city, Colon, 50 miles to the north.

Security guards fired into crowds that ransacked stores and lit barricades of trash on fire in Panama City, but no deaths were reported.

By midafternoon, the demonstrators were dispersed, buses and taxis stopped running and the city was virtually deserted, except for patrolling soldiers.

The attempted coup on Wednesday was the first indication of opposition to Noriega within the Panama Defense Forces, the 15,000-member military and police unit from which the general derives his power.

The coup attempt began an hour after dawn with the crackle of light arms fire inside the walled Defense Forces headquarters in the capital.

Defense Forces finally acknowledged at midafternoon that a coup attempt had taken place, blaming a handful of officers led by Panama's police chief, Col. Leonidas Macias.

"This morning an attempt by some officers to take and control the headquarters of our institution, in an isolated action, was firmly quelled by the officers. non-comissioned officers and soldiers of the installation," said an official communique.

The statement from the Defense Forces' press office said Macias, three majors and a captain were arrested and that the revolt was put down "without bloodshed."

But Maj. Edgardo Lopez, head of the military press office, told reporters that 'eight or 10 officers" were involved in the aborted coup. He did not explain the discrepancy.

An hour after the shooting began, Noriega appeared at the top of a stairway outside the headquarters building, dressed in civilian clothes and accompanied by members of his high command.

To shouted questions from reporters about what had happened, the general replied: "What has happened is that you are visiting us here today.

Asked about the shots, he replied: "They were kisses."

Despite official evasions, word of the coup attempt spread and people poured into streets of the capital that were strangely devoid of riot police and soldiers.

Demonstrators erected flaming barricades of trash and debris across hundreds of streets, roughed up suspected government informers and broke into stores believed to be owned by Noriega and his supporters.

In the central business district, a mob of hundreds pushed a parked car through the plate-glass windows of a store they believed is owned by Noriega, then set the vehicle ablaze.

Wage hike approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moves by Congress to raise the federal minimum wage this year will put presidential candidates on the spot and force them to take a position on the issue, the chairman of the House labor committee

"They like to say they are for a good education or a living wage for everyone," said Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins. "They will have to discuss in detail the numbers that Congress sets. They won't be able to just say they are for a living wage."

The House Labor and Education Committee on Wednesday ignored the threat of a presidential veto and approved legislation to raise the minimum wage from $3.35 per hour to $5.05 over the next four years.

The measure, which passed after numerous Republican attempts to weaken or gut it, now goes to the full House.

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. veterans are cheating the government out of tens of millions of dollars each year by lying about their incomes and collecting excessive benefits as a result, a congressional report

The report by the General Accounting Office, the investigative wing of Congress, compared Veterans Administration income forms filled out by pensioners with Internal Revenue Service data

Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, released the report Wednesday and said Congress should move to halt the abuses by giving the VA access to same tax information so it can verify what veterans tell it about income from jobs and investments. Murkowski is the senior Republican on the Veterans Affairs Committee.

The IRS information is compiled from reports supplied by employers and other income sources such as banks and

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J. (AP) - An explosion and fire at a testing laboratory killed two people today and critically injured a third, but authorities said no chemicals or radioactive material appeared to have escaped.

Among the hazardous materials used at Gollob Analytical Services are radioactive hydrogen and krypton, and the solvents xylene and benzine, said Department of Environmental Protection spokesman Jim Staples. Light industrial buildings within a half-mile downwind were evacuated as a precaution, and employees heading to work at neighboring buildings were sent home.

Dozens of volunteer firefighters, working upwind of the one-story lab, had extinguished the blaze by 6:30 a.m., nearly 4½ hours after it

Iran-Contra Further charges possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - Independent Counsel Lawrence E. Walsh is leaving the door open for further criminal charges in the Iran-Contra affair following the indictment of Lt. Col. Oliver North and three others on charges of "deceitfully exploiting" U.S. weapons sales to Iran.

The 23-count indictment charging that North, former national security adviser John Poindexter and two weapons dealers engaged in a criminal conspiracy "is simply an interim report" of the grand jury's 14-month investigation, Walsh told reporters.

"The grand jury is not finished," Walsh said Wednesday after the panel returned the 101-page indictment against North, Poindexter and arms dealers Albert Hakim and retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Grand jurors will continue to meet because "they have uncompleted investigations," Walsh said, refusing to say if more criminal charges would be brought.

The indictment charges that the defendants circumvented a statutory ban on U.S. military aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels "by deceitfully and without legal authorization" setting up a clandestine private arms supply network.

It also says the four conspired to defraud the government "by deceitfully exploiting for their own purposes and corrupting" the U.S. arms sales to Iran that were approved by President Reagan in an attempt to win release of American hostages in Lebanon.

The U.S. government was cheated out of its rightful proceeds from the sale of $30 million dollars worth of weaponry to Iran, the indictment said. The government received only $12.2 million.

All four defendants were charged with conspiracy, theft of government property and wire fraud, stemming from the diversion of arms-sale profits to the Contras to Swiss bank accounts controlled by Hakim and Together, these charges carry a maximum 25-year sentence and each of the three counts has a potential fine of $250,000.

The indictment raises the question of whether Reagan will issue pardons to those charged or convicted as a result of the Iran-Contra affair. Reagan, who has refused to rule out pardons for his former aides, "had no response" to the latest development in the scandal, said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

North, who was fired from his White House post in November 1986, was named in 16 counts. He also was charged with obstructing Attorney General Edwin eese III's Nov. 21-23, 1986, investigation by making false statements and destroying National Security Council documents

Secord and Hakim were additionally charged with conspiring to pay North illegal gratuities by agreeing to set up a $200,000 Swiss bank account for the Marine officer's family and to pay for the installation of a security system at North's home in Great Falls, Va.

North was accused of accepting the security system and pocketing $4,500 of $90,000 in travelers checks he received from a Contra leader to cover expenses of helping the rebels.

The gratuities were offered to "encourage North to continue in his position" at the White House so Secord and Hakim "would continue to receive opportunities for substantial revenues and profits" from the arms sales, the indictment said

Secord and North agreed the "Enterprise" would keep most of the proceeds from the sale of TOW missiles to Iran in February 1986, the indictment said.

Israelis, Arabs clash

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israeli soldiers shot and killed four Arabs in clashes in the occupied lands, and the defense minister said the army would supplement force with new economic restrictions on Palestinians.

In another development, Israeli warplanes today bombed Palestinian guerrilla bases 10 miles southeast of Beirut in the third such Israeli air raid in Lebanon this year. Three people were reported injured.

The attack came a day after a volley of Katyusha rockets was fired from south Lebanon into a community in north Israel. An Israeli army spokesman said the rockets shattered windows and damaged citrus trees, but Israeli soldiers shot and killed four Arabs in clashes on Wednesday, bringing to 100 the number of Arabs killed by U.N. count since violence began Dec. 8 in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Also Wednesday, the occupied lands were paralyzed by a general strike and authorities arrested an Arab-American advocate of nonviolent resistance.

Another Irish Republican Army gunman was to be buried in Belfast today as the British-ruled province reeled in shock over Wednesday's attack at the city's Roman Catholic Milltown cemetery.

Police said they were holding a Protestant, Michael Stone, who allegedly mounted the attack, and an accomplice. Police gave no other details on the two, who can be held without charge for seven days.

The IRA three guerrillas buried Wednesday were slain March 6 by British soldiers in Gibraltar, while unarmed and allegedly planning a bomb attack.

A spokesman at Belfast police headquarters today said the firebombing of the five houses appeared to be a sectarian attack. He said a woman was treated in a hospital for smoke inhalation but no other injuries were reported.

'Wonder Years'

A fond look back at an awkward age

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) Remember 20 years ago? Blackand-white television, the Vietnam War, the assassinations of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy, campus unrest, sexual revolution, hippies, flower children?

Other events shook the earth. too. Growing up, for instance.

In ABC's "The Wonder Years," Kevin Arnold is 12 years old in 1968. He has to be careful of the neighborhood bully, namely his older brother. His father is a distant figure who shows up now and then to straighten him out. The offstage narrator is Kevin as a grownup, looking back and remembering. Of course, remembering it in his own fashion.

"The Wonder Years," simply put, is wonderful. Every adult out there who has ever grown up will identify with this awkward age.

Fred Savage stars as Kevin, Jason Hervey is his older brother, Wayne, and Olivia D'Abo is his sister, Karen. The midseason replacement series being given a limited trial by ABC has been given a Tuesday night spot between ''Who's The Boss'' and "Moonlighting."

"1968 was a year when a lot of amazing things took place," said Carol Black, creator and executive producer with her husband, Neal Marlens. Marlens also created ABC's "Growing Pains."

"We were about that age that year. There were a lot of really disruptive events in the background of a kid's life.

Marlens said, "It's different when you're 12. You know things are happening, but you're not quite sure about them. It struck us as an interesting time. There were already retrospectives about people who were a little older, like 'The Big Chill.'"

"When you're young you don't have a context in which to place things," Black added. 'It's just part of the world. It's a time when you get your first impression of

It's also a time when a selfconscious 12-year-old is more interested in figuring out how he fits in. You can put it into context later. At 12 you just want to blend in.

Black admits "The Wonder Years" is not really about the 1960s. 'It's the problems a kid has with his older brother, his father, his girlfriend," she said. "The period is more of a backdrop than the essence of the show."

Black and Marlens share common backgrounds. Both were raised in the suburbs, he outside New York City and she outside Washington, D.C. Both had older brothers. They met while students at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania.

They started writing together about 6 years ago. He was working as a newspaper reporter in Massachusetts and she was a graduate student.

"We wrote a spec script for 'Barney Miller,' which had just gone off the air," said Marlens. We felt it was better to write for a show that wasn't on the air. It got good response.

Marlens wrote for "Oh Madeline" and "Newhart." Then he created "Growing Pains" while Black wrote the movie "Soul Man." Actually, they worked together on both projects, but thought it best to separate the

They also stress that "The Wonder Years' is not autobiographical.

"I was never a 12-year-old boy," said Black. "And Neal was never this particular 12-year-old boy.' 'We make up the specifics,' said Marlens, "but we do use incidents from our lives and those of our friends. It's the story of a family, but it's seen from the viewpoint of the boy.

"We didn't set out to do anything deep. 'Leave It To Beaver' in its day was well thought out.

Dentist won't pull patient's teeth

DEAR ABBY: Well, I thought I'd heard everything until I went to a dentist in a new town and needed to have a tooth pulled. Would you believe that dentist doesn't pull teeth? He sent me to an oral surgeon. I found it hard to believe that a dentist couldn't - or wouldn't — pull a tooth, so I asked the receptionist at the oral surgeon's office why my dentist wouldn't pull my tooth. She said my dentist wanted to make sure it was extracted correctly, as if there was an incorrect way to pull a tooth.

When I went in to see the oral surgeon, he told me that my dentist and he were lifelong friends. Then he assured me that my dentist was a very fine dentist. (If he was such a fine dentist, how come he doesn't know how to pull a tooth correctly?)

It cost me a lot more to have the tooth pulled by an oral surgeon than if a dentist had done the job.

Abby, I find it hard to trust a dentist who can't do a basic procedure a lifelong buddy down the road who just happens to be an oral surgeon. I personally think they have a nice ing," but I resisted it.)

Williams conquers Michael and Bulls

By The Associated Press

They came, 16,515 strong, to the Capital Centre and they saw Chicago's Michael Jordan, but Washington had Williams the conqueror.

Jordan scored 25 points Wednesday night but that was nine below his NBA-leading average. Meanwhile, John Williams equaled his career high with 28 points and led the Bullets to a 106-103 victory over Jordan and the Bulls.

"Most everyone comes out to see Michael Jordan do his thing, but sometimes other players are overdue." Williams, a second-year pro, "I was due for a good game, and I had one tonight.

It was Washington's ninth victory in the last 11 games and gave the Bullets a 11/2-game lead over New York and Philadelphia, which beat the Knicks 115-108, in the race for the eighth and final playoff berth in the Eastern Conference.

Elsewhere, it was Utah 120. Dallas 115; New Jersey 83, Milwaukee 79; San Antonio 113, Los Angeles Clippers 110, and Phoenix 118, Golden State 112.

A three-point play by Moses Malone gave Washington a 102-99 lead over Chicago with 2:14 remaining but the Bullets didn't score again until Williams hit a pair of free throws with 46 seconds left to make it 104-101.

With the score 104-103, Williams, who had 12 points at halftime and 12 more in the third period, followed his own missed shot and scored an insurance basket with four seconds left. Jeff Malone also scored 28 for the Bullets.

'The play was set for Moses, but he had three guys on him,' Williams said. "Steve (Colter) swung it to me and the shot clock was going down, so I took the shot. I missed it, and I think it was

Hawks complete sweep of Longview

The Howard College Hawks' baseball team swept a doubleheader from Longview Community College, a Missouri school, Tuesday.

The Hawks won the first game 12-1 in five innings because of the ten-run rule, and the second game 9-1 in seven innings, according to HC assistant coach Greg Henry.

In the opening game, Longview scored one run on a triple by the third baseman, who crossed the plate when the left fielder grounded out to the shortstop, Henry said.

Howard College pitcher Joe Watters went three innings, allowing three hits and three runs, one earn-

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.

For use with issue: Let's Visit Australia

Main idea: This issue is the first in a three-part series on Australia. The following is the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

Count the number of flags. Circle the American flag. How are the flags alike and different? What do you see in the Australian flag? Talk about what each symbol

2. Pretend you are visiting Australia. Design a postcard you could send your family. Write a note telling them what you have seen.

3. Would you like to visit Australia? What would you most like to see? What are some ways Australia has influenced the United States? (For example, in movies, music, dress, food, sayings.)

4. Find Australia on a world map or globe. How big is it compared with the United States? What other countries is it near? What bodies of water border it? What is meant by the Southern Hemisphere? 5. Australia is celebrating its 200th birthday. Make the country a birthday card. 6. Find the following words: hemisphere, bauxite, continent, constellation, aboriginals, landmark, colony. Define and make a new sentence for each one.

7. Do some research to find out how long it would take and how much it would cost to get to Australia from where you live. 8. Look through your paper for articles on Australia. Look in the world weather section to find the temperature of an Australian city.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will be impelled toward making some new beginnings today, but don't start anything at this time. Instead, carefully review all the available data, and make sure you are clear on all points.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A friend is too busy with his own af-fairs to be of help to you, but don't take this personally. Don't take any risks on the highway.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)

Don't try to push your opinions on anyone today, or you will end up in trouble. This is not the best time to begin any new projects.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A financially well-off friend can give you some financial support, but make sure of your facts before you Jul. 21) Avoid any tense confronta-tions with officials today, or you'll get into big trouble. Be cheerful and optimistic at home tonight. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A situa-tion which you find unablessed.

tion which you find unpleasant may have to be accepted for now, but only for a short time. Ask questions and clear up your confusion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't do anything which could cause friction at home, thereby spoiling your family's harmony. Try to save more money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If a co-worker is in a bad mood, be gentle and diplomatic to this person. Avoid any confrontations which could have unfortunate results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have several ideas for becoming more successful, but they need further study before you can put them into operation. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Even if you don't really agree, go along with your mate today and avoid any trouble. Be sure to drive carefully this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You understand how to improve the conditions at home, but your family may not be willing to go along with your ideas at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid an acquaintance who will only waste your time and money this evening. Instead, stay at home and catch up on your reading. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't rely so much on others to help you progress. Plan to make some repairs to your home which will improve its value.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will be way ahead of his or her time, and will have many unique ideas which may have to be shelved for a while. Teach your progeny while young to have more pa-tience with others who are less talented, and to be cheerful when communicating with others.
