Child born to suspect in county jail

HERALD STAFF REPORT

LUBBOCK — A female prisoner at the Howard County Jail gave birth to a four-pound girl Thursday night at St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital.

Jeannie Fonseca, who is being held at the jail in lieu of $425,000 bond on three counts of capital murder, was transported to the Lubbock hospital by helicopter at about 7 p.m. Thursday, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

Both mother and child are reported in good condition, he added.

Fonseca has been in custody since October 1987, when she was arrested in connection with the deaths of two Mexican nationals and a Grand Prairie man. Standard noted that she was three months pregnant at the time of her incarceration.

Howard County deputies escorted Fonseca to Lubbock and were assisted in their efforts by officers of the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office, Standard said. Deputies are expected to escort her back to Big Spring either tonight or Saturday, he added.

The sheriff said that no determination as to the custody of the child has been made as of this morning.

"When the hospital determines that the child can be moved, we will have a decision in place," Standard said.

He added that it is "most likely" that the county will pay Fonseca's hospital bills.

Trustees OK portable classrooms

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Big Spring school trustees cleared the way for administrators to purchase two portable classrooms that will bring local elementary schools in line with state-mandated student/teacher ratios.

The action occurred at a special meeting of the board Thursday afternoon at the high school.

By a unanimous vote, the trustees authorized Superintendent Bill McQueary and his staff to seek bids on metal and pre-fabricated portable classrooms to help ease crowding in elementary grades K-4.

The buildings, which will be located at Washington and College Heights elementary schools, will cost the district about $80,000, McQueary told the trustees.

The additional space became necessary because of recent changes in state law that mandate student/teacher ratios in grades K-4 be at or below 22-1, he added.

Administrators had submitted five proposals for trustee consideration. In addition to the plan accepted, they were:

• Moving seventh-graders to Runnels campus and moving fifth-graders to Goliad. Estimated cost was $200,000.

• Moving eighth-graders to the high school, seventh-graders to Runnels and fifth-graders to Goliad.

• Opening the Boydston campus to handle the excess students. Estimated cost was $250,000.

• Busing students between campuses to keep ratios in line.

The disadvantage to busing, McQueary said, was that the plan would not be feasible if there were a noted increase in enrollment.

The proposals to move seventh- and eighth-graders to Runnels and opening the Boydston campus were rejected as not being cost-effective.

Although adequate space is available at the high school to move eighth-graders there, parents were opposed to the idea, Trustee Donnie Baker said.

"The parents I talked to are definitely against eighth-graders going to the high school," Baker said. "Anything else was fine to them ... anything but that."

Board Vice President Ford Farris raised the idea of putting another grade at the high school, and keeping it separate from the main student body. McQueary responded by saying that logistical problems and parental objections made that alternative undesirable.

Although agreeing that the high school is under-utilized, Board President Bill Brooks said that the students' well-being should be the board's main priority.

"If (the plan) is to the students' SCHOOL BOARD page 2-A

Pizza Hut to end Northside service

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The local Pizza Hut will cease deliveries to the north side of Big Spring, but local League of United Latin American Citizens officers are satisfied the chain made a satisfactory effort to provide service to the area.

Raul Marquez and Mary Lou Salazar, president and treasurer, respectively, of LULAC, announced Wednesday that they are pleased with the effort Pizza Hut officials made in the matter.

At a meeting with Pizza Hut representatives Robert Barton and Terry Foster earlier this month, Salazar learned that the delivery quota agreed between the two organizations — 24 deliveries a night — were not being met.

"We had agreed (with Pizza Hut) that if the numbers weren't there, we would drop (the matter)," Marquez said. "They lived up to their end of the agreement, now we'll live up to ours."

"We had expected we'd get better results from our efforts," Barton, the area supervisor for the pizza chain said. "It was strictly a business decision to drop deliveries."

While north side deliveries will cease, Barton and Foster assured area residents that the chain would work with them on any future projects, Marquez said.

For example, if any organization wants pizzas delivered, Pizza Hut will deliver them, regardless of destination, he added.

"We basically came away very happy with the results," he said. "We came out being pretty good friends with them. They just didn't have the numbers they needed from the north side to sustain deliveries."

"We were all happy with the agreement," Barton said. "If the business had been there, we'd have continued deliveries, but it didn't materialize."

The pizza representatives added that, if the local economy improves, they will consider re-starting deliveries to the area, Marquez added.

"We want to make the public aware that Pizza Hut was willing to work with us," Salazar said. "They were very congenial."

Nine listed in elections for city posts

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Chuck Condray, director of special services at Big Spring State Hospital, is also a candidate in the upcoming city council race.

Condray's entry expands the number of persons who have filed for the three at-large council posts to nine.

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Big Spring Herald that Bob Smith of 4048 Vicky St. was the final candidate to enter the race. Condray filed for the race late Tuesday, but city officials did not report his candidacy.

Condray, who lives at 4016 Vicky St., said "an obligation to be a part of the council's decision-making process" and provide input concerning fiscal affairs prompted him to seek election.

"The loss of revenue that occurred as a result of the present economic crisis will probably continue at least for the foreseeable future," Condray said.

"The city council has taken positive steps to reduce the operating budget and has acted responsibly to insure that the necessary municipal services are continued. The next council must also demonstrate an understanding of this need and direct its efforts to bring new businesses and industry to our community," Condray said.

Condray said his present job, which requires the development of operating budgets and monitoring of the expenditure of funds at the state hospital, qualifies him as a council candidate.

Condray has lived in Big Spring for 26 years. Filing period for the May 7 council election closed Wednesday.

Besides Condray and Smith, the other individuals seeking election to the council are: Sidney T. Clark, 2707 Coronado Avenue; Ron Booth, 511 Edward Blvd.; Jerry W. Roach, 1108 E. Fifth St.; Melvin Daratt, 500 E. 23rd St.; Gail Earls, 4016 Parkway Road; and Dorothy and Jimmy Leffler, 1209 Douglas St.

FCC asks more phone compatibility for deaf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission on Thursday proposed requiring that more telephones be hearing-aid compatible, but the agency said extending the requirement to all phones with existing technology would be unwise.

The FCC's proposal would extend compatibility requirements to all credit-card operated phones and phones in common areas of a hearing-impaired employee's workplace, but leaders of the hearing-impaired community say the changes do not go far enough.

Current law requires "essential" phones to be compatible with a certain kind of hearing aid used by 2 million to 3 million people. The FCC previously defined these to include phones that are coin-operated and ones that are credit-card operated in places where no coin-operated phone is nearby.

The agency also requires compatible phones in elevators, tunnels, hospitals and convalescent homes; 10 percent of rooms in hotels and motels; work stations of hearing-impaired employees; and in areas of buildings visited by the public.

The FCC's three sitting commissioners voted unanimously for the proposal after brief discussion that was translated into sign language by an FCC employee for hearing-impaired members of the audience.

FCC Chairman Dennis R. Patrick said the changes "would significantly enhance the access of hearing-impaired persons to telecommunications services."

But Karen Peltz Strauss, an attorney for the National Center for Law and the Deaf at Gallaudet

University in Washington said the FCC action does not go far enough and that legislation is still needed to extend compatibility to all phones.

"I just don't see those two areas (where the FCC extended compatibility requirements) as nearly sufficient to meet the needs of equal access for the hearing impaired," she said.

In case of emergency — call the county Red Cross

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

From lifesaving techniques through disaster relief to emergency leave for members of the armed forces, the American Red Cross and its people serve their communities 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Marianne Brown, executive director of the Howard/Glasscock Counties' chapter and a 15-year Red Cross volunteer veteran.

Red Cross month

With four years in service here, she holds the chapter's only paid post. Brown directs several teams of volunteers and coordinates CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) training, first aid courses and other Red Cross training through local agencies, as well as emergency services of every kind offered through the American Red Cross.

"We get you emergency help," Brown said, "and help you get back to a normal life. We don't try to replace everything you had before."

"We'll provide food and a place to stay, a month's rent if you lose your home and need help paying for a place, a change of clothes if you need to go to work and your home is destroyed."

She cited the recent loss of Mrs. Connie Gatliff's mobile home in a grassfire. The Red Cross provided Gatliff and her husband, since deceased, with emergency shelter after the fire, and paid a month's rent for Mrs. Gatliff's apartment.

The Red Cross also offers emergency assistance to the victims of disasters such as floods and tornadoes.

Although Big Spring did not send a disaster team to Saragosa last year at the time of its tornado disaster, teams from the national organization were drawn here during the 1987 flooding. Teams from San Angelo, Midland and Odessa moved in. The Red Cross-trained volunteers came to offer emergency aid to flood victims.

Brown said more than $35,000 in Red Cross funds were spent in Big Spring during those floods. All the local chapter's money comes from donations, and from funding through the United Way, Brown said.

Perhaps most famed of the Red Cross services are its blood drives. Although Big Spring is not served by a Red Cross blood bank, lifesaving services are offered here, Brown said. Among them are CPR classes and first aid classes scheduled through the Big Spring State Hospital.

Health and safety services the Red Cross also offers locally include health and safety education programs for work, school and community sites as well as the home, she said.

In addition, the Red Cross provides volunteer services to American veterans and American active duty service personnel in all the armed forces — Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, Marines and Navy.

Emergency messages to and from service personnel, including severe illnesses or deaths in the family, or news such as a birth announcement, can be relayed worldwide in a matter of hours through the Red Cross.

Emergency leaves can only be granted in cases where the Red Cross has verified the emergency, Brown noted.

Volunteers from the Red Cross work with veterans in Veterans Administration hospitals — and in other hospitals — nationwide, she said. Services range from pro-

Trustees renew contracts, accept bids

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Contracts for four administrative officers of the Howard County Junior College District were renewed by district trustees during a meeting Thursday.

The annual contracts of Cheri Sparks, vice president of student services; Terry Hansen, vice president of fiscal affairs; Bob Mehan, vice president of instruction; and Ron Brasel, executive director and dean of Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, were renewed.

Action on bids for removal of a swimming pool at the SWCID campus was tabled by trustees. The lowest bid was $18,700 — a higher than expected cost, according to College President Bob Riley.

The pool is unused and has "become a potential liability to the district," Riley said.

City and county government officials will be contacted in an attempt to solicit assistance in removal of the pool, he said.

Trustee board member Harold Davis suggested the pool be filled with dirt and planted with flowers.

In other business, college trustees approved bids on computer equipment, property and liability insurance, fencing and copier paper.

A low bid of $19,640 for the purchase of microcomputers and printers for computer science instruction at the San Angelo campus was approved. The bid was submitted by The Computer Store in San Angelo.

A bid of $46,269 from Texas School Services Foundation for property contents and liability insurance also received board approval.

The Xerox Corporation of Irving submitted a low bid of $4,890 for copier paper. It was accepted by trustees.

A bid of $8,503 from Johnston Construction Company of Big Spring for repair of decorative fence panels at the Big Spring campus also was accepted.

A report on the humanities division at SWCID was also delivered to board members by Division Chairman Beatrice Burke.

Negotiations are underway with several other colleges — both in-state and out-of-state — to establish an articulation agreement governing the transfer of students to and from SWCID, Burke said.

Some 50 to 60 students transfer to four-year colleges each year from SWCID, she said.

An emphasis has been placed on communication, both in and out of the classroom, at the SWCID campus, Burke said.

Pantry lacks location

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Progress on the proposed food pantry to provide Howard County's poor with staple foods has stalled, according to Patricia Lawlis of West Texas Opportunities, Inc., because a building believed secured for the pantry was not available.

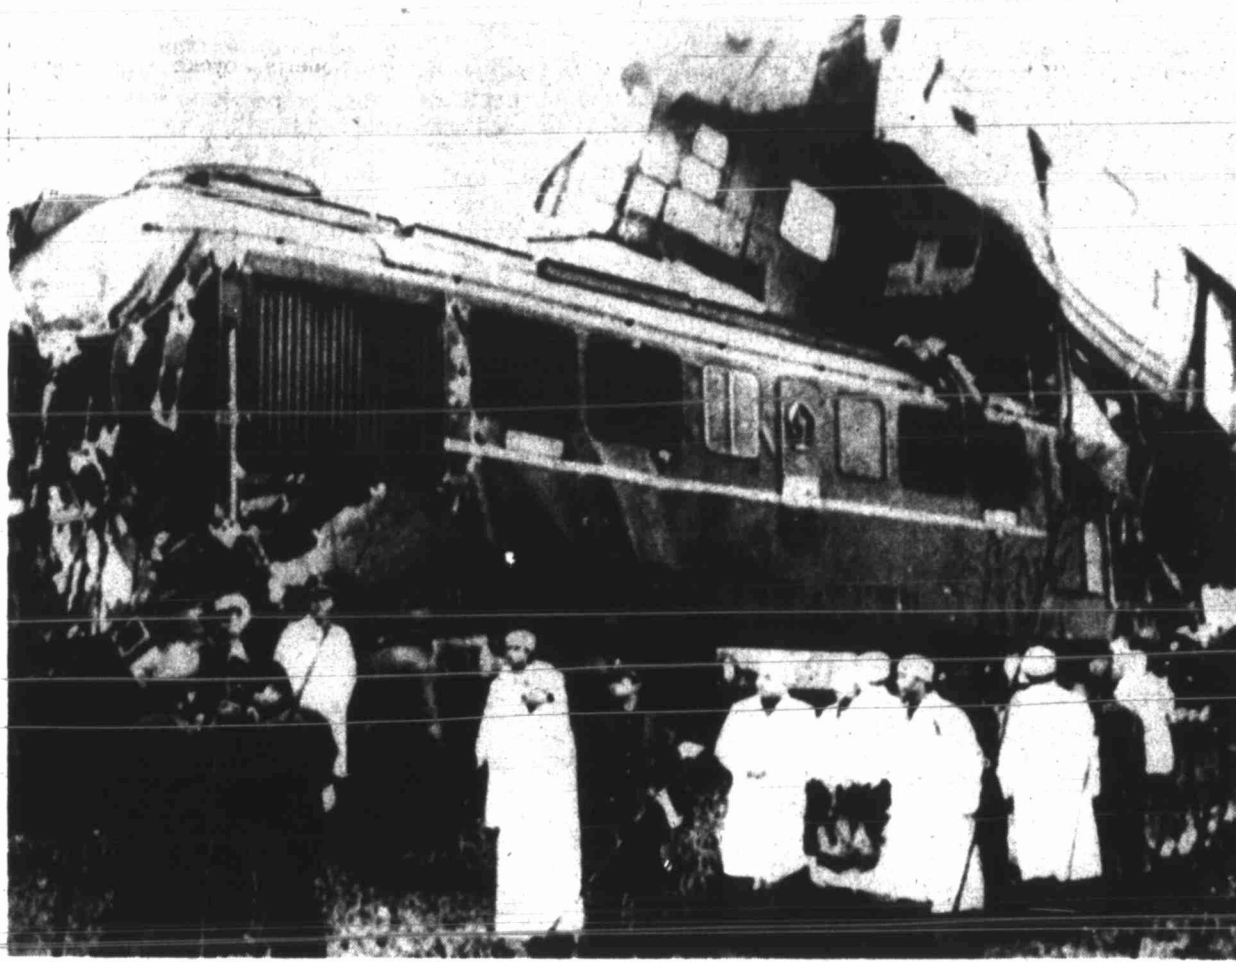

"Right now we don't really have anything more than... we're still trying to find a building," Lawlis said Monday. "The building we thought we had, we didn't get."

"So we decided not to have another board of directors' meeting until we could get a building that would be suitable," she said.

Irene Rodriguez, of the county welfare office, and I got together Friday and wrote a letter that we're going to send to several people... who have buildings that might be suitable.

"We must have a building," she said, adding that the pantry needs at least a space in a suitable building or an office from which to operate.

"It has to be in the downtown area," Lawlis said.

viding recreation to writing letters for the ill or disabled veterans, she said.

March is National Red Cross Month, and the Red Cross is strongly advocating CPR training for the general public, particularly persons over 50, throughout March.

Red Cross survey statistics indicated that most of the people in a nationwide survey who said they knew CPR were younger than 50, but most incidences of choking or heart attacks occur among the nation's older population.

More than 75 percent occur in the home, and CPR administered immediately, rather than waiting for an ambulance or emergency medical services team, doubles the survival rate, the Red Cross statistics show.

A contest to increase awareness of the Red Cross and its services is being sponsored at each school in Howard and Glasscock Counties, Brown said.

First and second grade students are asked to draw a picture of a Red Cross service. First prize for each school is a $50 savings bond.

For third through fifth grade the contest asks each child to write a half-page essay on "Red Cross in Service to Our Nation," and the prize for each school is a $50 bond for first place.

Junior high and middle school entrants are asked to write a full page, with a $75 first prize offered each school, and high school students may enter a 500-word essay on the Red Cross to compete for a $100 first prize per school, Brown said.

The prizes are bonds furnished by friends of the Red Cross in Howard and Glasscock Counties, and the competing schools are Forsan, Garden City, Coahoma and Big Spring district schools. Deadline for all entries is May 5.

Winners will be announced and prizes awarded at the Red Cross Ice Cream Social at the Old Settlers' Pavilion at 3 p.m. May 22.

For more information on that training, other Red Cross services or the contest, contact Brown at 267-3992.

FCC

Bills in the House and Senate would require all phones to be compatible with hearing aids that use a "tecoil," which cuts the feedback a user would otherwise hear when talking on the telephone.

About 70 percent to 80 percent of all phones are now tecoil compatible, said an aid to Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the House telecommunications subcommittee and a co-sponsor of the legislation.

The hearing impaired "deserve equal access to the telephone and should not be treated as second-class citizens," Markey said in a statement.

An estimated 2 million to 3 million of the nearly 18 million hearing-impaired Americans use a tecoil-type hearing aid worn outside the ear, according to Ms. Strauss.

The FCC said sales of this type of hearing aid is declining and the technology may become obsolete.

"Our concern is imposing a possibly obsolete technology on the manufacturers of all phones," said Gerald Brock, chief of the FCC's telephone division.

Ms. Strauss said a growing awareness of hearing problems has spurred a growth in sales of hearing aids to people with minimal hearing loss. These people typically buy aids that are worn inside the ear and do not have tecoils, she said. Such hearing aids, though, are not sufficient for people with severe hearing loss.

Other members of hearing-impaired community, however, agree with the FCC's position that all phones need to be hearing-aid compatible because there are enough on the market to meet the personal needs of hearing-impaired consumers.

"You need not force everyone to manufacture compatible phones," said Howard Stone, executive director of Self-Help for Hard of Hearing People Inc. in Bethesda, Md.

The commissioners also voted to seek proposals for an interstate relay system for users of telecommunications devices for the deaf, or TDDs, which are electronic typewriters that transmit messages over the telephone.

These devices allow users to communicate by phone directly without having to speak, but when a TDD-user wants to talk to a hearing person who doesn't have one of these electronic typewriters, an operator is needed to relay messages to the hearing person.

About a dozen statewide systems are in operation now.

All of the candidates will be vying for three at-large council seats being vacated by incumbent Councilmen Gary Don Carey, Russ McEwen and Johnny Rutherford who did not seek re-election.

Clark, who owns and operates a local accounting firm, was out-of-town on a business trip earlier in the week and could not be reached for comment. However, Clark was contacted this morning and issued the following statements.

"I've been active in the community for the past ten years. Before that, I always let someone else do it," he said.

Clark said experience gained as an accountant qualifies him as a council candidate.

"As an accountant I deal directly with budgets and financial accounts," he said.

"I feel like it is the responsibility of the city council to set policy and procedures on financial matters. As a council member, I would favor assigning the responsibility of carrying out the policies to the city manager and department heads," Clark said.

'A whole raft' of facts and figures

By L.M. BOYD
You've heard somebody say, "There was a whole raft of whatever," meaning a considerable amount. The idiom dates back to Mississippi transportation of old. When a whole raft of goods meant exactly that.

No two members of the Screen Actors Guild can have the same name.

In laboratory experiments, paired mice produced 180 baby mice in a given time. Then the male mice were separated, fed alcohol, and returned. And the paired mice produced 230 baby mice. What do you make of that?

The Borden folk who invented "Elsie the Cow" didn't have any real cow in mind. It was trademark in an ad campaign. In 1939, though, before the New York World's Fair, the public said, "Show us Elsie." Or words to that effect. So Borden went out and found a likely looking Jersey they renamed Elsie. Her real name was "You'll Do Lobelia." Some name.

Q. Which is bigger — the world's smallest sovereign state of Vatican City or the Magic Kingdom at Florida's Walt Disney World?
A. Vatican City, just barely. With 108 acres. The Magic Kingdom has 107.

No private phone number nationwide starts with 555. That's why it's so frequently used as a fictional phone number prefix on TV.

detriment, we shouldn't consider it," Brooks said.

"Then we'll just have to accept the fact that we have a white elephant (high school building) on our hands and go on from there," Farris said, withdrawing his suggestion.

District officials will solicit bids from local and area businesses, and should have bids ready for board approval by April, McQueary said.

In other business, the board:

- Heard reports from Assistant Superintendent for Business Ron Plumlee and Assistant Business Manager Ron Logback.
- Plumlee updated the board on the status of two houses — located directly across the high school on the 600 block of 11th Place — that the district bought last year.
- He said that utilities to the two properties had been disconnected, and that he was soliciting bids for the houses' removal. The district wants to remove the houses because it needs the additional parking space and the properties constitute an eyesore, he added.

Logback reported that the district has contracted with Hunter and Associates, Abilene, to conduct inspecting, testing and training to insure the district maintains compliance with federal anti-asbestos laws.

Cost to the district will be about $20,000, he added. School districts found to be in non-compliance with the regulations could face fines of up to $5,000 a day, Trustee Dan Wise noted.

- Granted an exemption from the tax rolls to a 25-square foot plot of land on the site of the old Moore school building north of town. McQueary said that tax loss to the district would be about $2 a year.

Police beat

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Big Spring Police investigated a major one-vehicle accident early today. Margarita Saucedo, 50, 908 E. 15th St., was driving a 1979 Ford LTD northbound on Owens Street at approximately 1:12 a.m. when she failed to negotiate a curve at the intersection of Owens and Tucson streets.

Her car left the street and struck a utility pole and some bushes approximately 8-12 feet east of Tulsa Street, according to police reports.

Saucedo was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Rural/Metro ambulance. She was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Other police reports included the arrest of Jesus Garcia Cardona, 28, 1002 N. Main St. No. 2, on warrants for noninsurance and failure to appear. Big Spring police arrested Cardona at 400 E. Fourth St. at 10:15 a.m. Thursday.

- Ruben Darnall reported the theft of a wooden sign valued at $250 from his front yard at 111 E. 16th St. sometime between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday.
- Theft of a windshield wiper motor from a 1988 Dodge pickup truck at the Elmore Chrysler/Dodge/Jeep dealership, 502 E. FM 700, was reported. The motor was valued at $114.28; a chain link fence on the property was damaged.
- Police investigated a telephone harassment complaint at 1220 E. 16th at 8:36 p.m. Thursday.

- Clarence Hartfield reported a burglary at his home, 1301 W. Fifth St., in which a color television and stereo valued at $738 were stolen and property damage estimated at $200 resulted to a glass window and screen.
- Jesse Nunez Torres was transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville early today. He was arrested Feb. 17 on charges of parole violation.
- Police arrested three additional persons Thursday:
 - Ricky Ray Winters, 34, 309 N.W. Ninth St., was arrested Wednesday on a charge of burglary of a building. He was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on $10,000 bond.
 - Heather Ione Padgett, 27, Dogwood Road, was arrested Wednesday on outstanding DPS warrants and a warrant for forgery. She was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on bonds totalling $1,500.
 - Jesse Rodriguez Lopez 20, Route 1 Big Spring, was arrested on warrants for theft and revocation of probation for burglary. He was transferred to the sheriff's office, where a bond of $2,500 was set for the theft charge. No bond was set on the revocation of probation charge, and he is still in custody, according to sheriff's records.

Deaths

Jack Gulley
Jack Gulley, 70, of Big Spring, died Thursday, March 24, 1988 in a local hospital after a short illness.

Services were 2 p.m. Friday in the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Flynn Long, pastor, officiating, and Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, assisting. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Myers & Smith Funeral Home.

He was born April 9, 1917 in New Castle. He married Gypsy Ted McCollum June 25, 1960 in Lorraine. He had been a resident of Big Spring since 1964, spending most of his life here. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church where he served as an Elder.

He was a World War II veteran, serving as a pilot in the CBI Squadron (China-Burma-India Squadron) and was a member of the Hump Pilots Association. He went to work for Cosden in 1954 as a pilot and retired in 1979 from the Traffic Department.

He was a District Commissioner for the Lone Star Boy Scout's District. He was a member of the Big Spring Model Aircraft Association and the Big Spring Amateur Radio Club.

He is survived by his wife, Gypsy, Big Spring; one son, Barney, Dallas; one daughter, Mary Jane Maines, Big Spring; and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney M. Gulley; one brother, Kenneth; and one sister, Ethel Kern.

Bickering between factions threatens Jessica movie

MIDLAND (AP) — A volunteer involved in the dramatic rescue of Jessica McClure says infighting between rescuers over a planned TV movie may be an indication a re-telling won't do justice to the heroic exploits.

Rescuers were tightly knit together during the 58-hour ordeal last autumn that captured the nation's attention when the rescue of the 23-month-old girl was broadcast live on network television.

But now the unity has unraveled with two groups sparring while they wait for the girl's parents to decide who should produce the movie — a producer working with a group of rescue volunteers or one recommended by 11 city employees involved in the rescue.

Volunteer Bruce Peeler has decided to remain neutral on the issue, but he says he sometimes doubts whether the story could be told right, even if all the rescuers have a voice in its production.

"I am wondering if a unified group got together and there was no problem joining the association, if a really true, accurate picture of what took place could ever be put on the screen," he said. "It was a special event. There was so much effort, and everyone had their own story. Maybe it should be kept special like that."

Peeler, president of Midland's Airmaster

Equipment Corp., which contributed some drilling materials to the rescue effort, said Thursday he worries the 11-member municipal association will exclude civilians and volunteers when negotiating a movie deal.

"My problem is that there are several hundred people out there and it is not right that maybe the lady that brought us hamburgers at 3 in the morning, or the guy who brought the sanitary privies — how do you say they should not be in the movie?"

Peeler said he and other neutral participants have been trying to bring the two groups together without success.

"I have taken a stand that if a movie is made, let's make sure that everyone gets involved who was in the deal," Peeler said.

Jessica's parents, Chip and Cissy McClure have said they don't want to profit by their daughter's story, but do not want to stand in the way of the story being told. McClure spokesman Pete Snelson did not return phone calls Thursday by The Associated Press.

Los Angeles producer Larry Spivey, president of Highland Communications Group Inc., organized the 11-member McClure Rescue Association to consult on a TV movie deal. The group, which includes O'Donnell, Police Chief Richard Czech and Fire Chief James Roberts, broke with Spivey later.

"We found that he was going around to individual members of our association offering each member side deals that the others didn't know about," said Martin Allday, a Midland lawyer representing the rescue association.

Spivey has scoffed at the allegation and said everyone was offered the same deal — a chance to consult in the production or to act in it.

Spivey is now allied with the Jessica McClure Rescuer's Association, a group of about 30 volunteer rescuers.

Flat tires save agents from potential ambush

EL PASO (AP) — A couple of flat tires at the right time may have saved four Border Patrol agents from a deadly firefight with drug smugglers armed with AK-47 assault rifles, an official says.

The incident Tuesday underscores the increasing danger Border Patrol agents face as drug smugglers arm themselves with more sophisticated weapons, said Gus De La Vina, deputy chief agent.

More and more smugglers are being caught with other kinds of automatic weapons, accurate high-powered rifles, night-vision devices and even shoulder-fired anti-tank rockets stolen from the Army, he said.

In the Tuesday night incident, agents were alerted that someone was trying to cross the Mexico-New Mexico border about 35 miles west of El Paso. The agents were dispatched in pairs in separate vehicles, but they were slowed when both trucks developed a flat tire.

The smugglers were gone by the time agents reached the border crossing, although they followed footprints and tire tracks to a horse trailer filled with 2,387 pounds of marijuana and arrested two men there.

Later, the agents were told they should have been alerted to the presence of 10 people armed with AK-47 assault rifles. The men stayed in "Mexico" and were not arrested.

"If the guys hadn't had flats, there would have been a hell of a firefight," De La Vina said, adding that the agents are armed with handguns.

Agent Richard Moody, who daily patrols downtown El Paso, agreed with De La Vina's assessment.

"If the agents had pulled up to the scene, I have no doubt they would have been fired upon," he said. "Those people are going to protect their loads. They don't care about shooting a Border Patrol agent."

The AK-47 was developed by the Soviet Union and is the Soviet army's version of the M-16. Drug smugglers have been caught with AK-47s and other kinds of assault rifles, De La Vina said.

Smugglers are becoming bolder and have shot at agents five times in the past five months, De La Vina said. No agents were injured.

De La Vina said he is worried that a big shootout is inevitable, given that smugglers seem to be moving some operations from the Florida and Georgia Gulf coasts to the El Paso area and are taking more measures to protect their loads.

"A year ago, a seizure of 500 pounds (of marijuana) was a big deal," he said. "Now we're seeing much larger amounts — tons. Compared to what we had last year, it's alarming."

"It's to give us parity with the smugglers," De La Vina said. "The smugglers, in essence, have declared war. We hope the area east and west of El Paso, and even downtown El Paso, doesn't become a battlefield. With the type of weapons we're seeing, that's a possibility."

Since last October, Border Patrol agents have seized $28 million worth of drugs in the El Paso sector. During the same period a year ago, agents seized $8 million worth of drugs, De La Vina said.

Last stand

FORT WORTH — J.J. Merrick, left, and Josh Irving wait for customers at their lemonade stand on this city's west side. The stand, which was closed last year because of a zoning violation, may be shut down or moved now because J.J.'s parents may be moving, and a new location might not be as busy or profitable as the current site.

Lawmen plead innocent in prisoner's death

TYLER (AP) — Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner will go on trial July 11 on charges of murdering a black prisoner, but will remain free on bond until then.

Ladner, 40, and Sabine County sheriff's deputies, Bill Horton, 58, and James "Bo" Hyden, 34, pleaded innocent Thursday during an arraignment hearing before State District Judge Joe Tunnell.

Tunnell scheduled a pre-trial hearing in the case for June 30, said Smith County Assistant District Attorney Frank Henderson.

Ladner will be tried first, with the trials of the other two men rescheduled for a later date, he said.

On March 3, a Smith County grand jury returned two-count indictments against each of the men, accusing them of causing the Dec. 27 death of Loyal Garner Jr.

Garner, 34, of Florien, La., was arrested Christmas Eve and held at the Sabine County Jail in Hemphill. He suffered head injuries while in police custody and later was taken to the Tyler Medical Center in Smith County, where he died.

Garner was black, and the three lawmen charged with his death are white. His death prompted charges the beating was racially motivated.

Meanwhile in Austin, State Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said the state should take steps to prevent any jail inmate deaths.

Wilson said the Sabine County Jail should be closed because of the Garner's death and all Texas jails investigated.

The deaths of Garner and Kenneth Earl Simpson, who died in the Cleveland City Jail last week were "senseless and tragic," said Wilson, who is preparing measures for legislative action. One of his proposals called for the death penalty for law officers who kill a person in custody, unless the killing was in self defense or to protect the life of another.

Robert Viterna of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards said his agency inspected the Sabine County Jail after Garner's death and has no reason to shut it down.

Cleveland City Attorney James Jasper said said the city would have no comment on Simpson's death until after the FBI and Texas Rangers complete an investigation.

An autopsy report released Tuesday said Simpson, a 30-year-old police informant arrested March 15 by Cleveland police for disorderly conduct, was choked to death. Officers said they bound and strip-searched Simpson but did not choke him.

The two black and five white officers involved have been suspended with pay, pending the outcome of the investigations.

Opinion

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

Texans pay more income taxes

If further evidence were needed of the drubbing Texans take at the hands of the federal tax system, it emerged late last week. Residents of this state, it is estimated, will pay $236 million more on their 1987 federal income taxes than they did in 1986 because now they can't deduct state sales tax. That amounts to $172 for every return filed. Unfortunately for Texans, that's how the bulk of our state budget is funded — through sales tax. Residents of states that have income taxes of their own can deduct those taxes, even though in either case the money hurts just the same coming out of one's wallet.

Houston Post

Child-care bills bad legislation

At times the Washington establishment anoints something "an idea whose time has come" and pushes it through Congress with the power of a locomotive. The tax comes in later and usually is enormous. It's about to happen again with the issue of government-subsidized child care. It may be hard-hearted to oppose federal aid to welfare and poor mothers — single or married — who want to go to work and need help with child-care costs, but Congress has a rotten record in targeting aid. It sells programs by pointing to the plight of the poor, but often the wealthier benefit.

Two major child-care bills are moving in Congress, one introduced by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., the other by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah. Both would send most subsidies to day-care centers, which are used by the better-off. Poor working mothers usually leave their children with a relative or pay a neighbor to come in to watch them.

Congress can do much better — by aiming child-care aid to the poor and away from the yuppies. The question in this election year is: Will it?

San Antonio Express-News

Another piece of idiocy occurs

In the midst of the Central American controversy and the continued strife in Israel, another piece of idiocy has taken place which did not get the attention it deserved.

In Northern Ireland, a man armed with a pistol and grenades killed three people and wounded 52 at an IRA graveside service in Belfast, and two British soldiers were killed later.

IRA spokesmen and others claimed the attacker and an accomplice, both of whom were later arrested, were associated with the Loyalist movement which has been waging war with the IRA for years.

Regardless of who was to blame, the attack was another step in what has to be one of the longest-running examples of man's inhumanity to man.

The church-related feud has spread far and wide, including church circles in the U.S.

While the demands of the Irish movement for total freedom from British rule can be understood, the truth is that the confrontation long ago developed into a grisly religious conflict rather than a political one.

No church or civic group in America, on either side of the Irish dispute, should allow itself to be drawn into the conflict. The problem won't be settled in the parishes of Boston or New York.

Secondly, religion has no business in politics, and vice versa.

What the world is witness to in Northern Ireland is an example not of someone upholding this or that religious belief or practice, but just the opposite. One cannot cloak a wrong in the robes of righteousness and make it right, no matter the cause.

Wearing seat belts is paying off

Even an increase in the speed limit has not prevented traffic deaths in Texas highways from declining to the lowest level in 11 years. The Texas Department of Public Safety gives seat belts much of the credit.

The traffic death toll in 1987 was 3,261, a reduction of 8.6 percent from 1986. The drop is even more significant because there was an increase in the number of drivers on the road and the miles traveled during the year.

When compared with the number of miles driven, the traffic death toll in 1987 was the lowest since the Department of Public Safety began keeping records.

Officials say enforcement of speed limits and drunk driving laws contributed to the reduction in traffic deaths. But the statistic that stands out is the one that shows traffic deaths last year were 18.1 percent below 1984, which was the year immediately before the seat-belt law took effect.

The news is good, but it could be better. Even though the death toll has fallen, thousands of people continue to die on Texas streets and highways in accidents that are mostly preventable.

Remove Soviet pullout obstacles

For eight years, the United States and Pakistan have criticized the Soviet Union for invading Afghanistan and have called for the withdrawal of Russian troops.

Now, when the Soviets publicly state they would like to leave Afghanistan, they appear to be stymied by the United States and Pakistan. What's going on here?

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev stunned the world last month by essentially conceding the invasion was a mistake. The determined Afghans, using Western arms, have made subjugation of their nation impossible.

The Russian leader said a troop pullout can begin by May 15 if an accord can be signed in Geneva between Pakistan and Afghanistan. But here the snag has developed.

Pakistan insists on creation of a coalition government in Afghanistan, formed by the leaders of the seven rebel groups. This is unlikely, given the rebel groups' hostility to one another.

Mr. Gorbachev says the U.S. position has changed since his summit with President Reagan. At that time, the Reagan administration said it would end aid to the Afghan insurgents once the Soviets began withdrawing their troops.

At the bargaining table in Geneva, however, the United States insists it will not cease its Afghan aid until the Soviets stop providing military aid to the communist government in Kabul.

Roadblocks to a Soviet pullout should be removed.

The real Spuds McKenzie

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Word has leaked out that Spuds McKenzie, the controversial party animal dog of the beer commercials, is actually a female.

I was astounded by this information. I also wonder if this revelation will make more heated the charge that Spuds commercials are encouraging young people to drink.

Likely, it will make those opposed to the commercials even more anxious to have them removed from television.

People who are in this movement support Pat Robertson for president, wear knee-length black socks with their Bermuda shorts, eat a lot of prunes and are against most everything.

The fact that we have a female dog here portraying a male will no doubt further flare the nostrils of the pious.

So intrigued was I by the situation, I phoned Hollywood and talked to Spuds' agent to obtain background information on the controversial star.

I was told Spuds' parents, Bowser and Fifi, also had been in show business, having played opposite Ed McMahon in several Alpo commercials.

"And Spuds' real name?" I asked.
"Elaine," the agent answered. "After a great aunt who once appeared with Bullet (the wonder dog) in a Roy Rogers movie."

"How did Spuds (Elaine) break into show business?" I continued.
"She was a very precocious pup," the agent explained. "At a very early age, she was fetching sticks, rolling over, and playing dead for humans who rewarded her with stomach scratches and morsels of food.

"Soon, however, she tired of this and headed for Hollywood. She got lucky and met Rin Tin Tin at an alley cat-chasing and Rinty introduced her around.

"She broke in as one of the dogs Clint Eastwood spit on in 'The Outlaw Josie Wales.'"

"And after that?"
"She had a part in the off-Broadway version of 'Lady and the Tramp,' and was hired to howl at the moon in various horror flicks."

"How did the beer thing come about?"
"She got that part because she knew how to cha-cha with those bimboes on the beach."

"And a crucial question here," I went on, "does Elaine (Spuds) think she is promoting alcohol consumption?"

"Of course not," said the agent. "She is simply an actress doing a job. She rarely drinks herself except for an occasional bowl of white wine or perhaps a rum-soaked dog biscuit."

"And this thing with Rin Tin Tin. Was it serious?"
"It could have been, but Lassie kept sticking her nose into the relationship."

"Lassie was after Rinty?" I asked.
"No," said the agent, "Elaine."

"You mean Lassie was..."
"Gay. Everybody in Hollywood knew about it except for Timmy and Gramps. It would have broken their hearts."

So now even more ammunition for the righteous to use against the Spuds McKenzie campaign — a female dog portraying a male, mixed with alcohol, and canine homosexuality.

Look for the entire thing to wind up on the next "Geraldo."

Selling seashells but not on the seashore

By ALISHA GOLDMAN
Copy Editor

While vacationing on the Gulf Coast last week I discovered a new haunt — and learned a little more about the overwhelming variety nature displays.

I visited my grandmother who lives two blocks from Copano Bay, near Corpus Christi. I have dozens of second and third and fourth cousins sprinkled throughout the towns around Corpus.

One great-aunt lives in Refugio and introduced me on this visit to one of the most impressive seashell shops I have ever seen in my life.

My family has gone to visit my grandmother almost annually, so I have spent a number of rainy afternoons in seashell shops in other towns, a common pastime on rainy days at the seashore.

It was a rainy day this year, too, when we decided to check out this couple who had an enormous seashell collection.

I was skeptical. Refugio isn't on the beach itself and the shop would be competing with hundreds along the coast for living up to a claim of being one of the best.

It turned out to be the most enjoyable afternoon of my visit — besides one of the best seashell shops on the coast.

Natalie and Bill Green live in a humble home on 104 E. Vance St. of Refugio, originally a Catholic mission of Mexico.

In another two-story house behind their own, without even a sign to alert visitors of its contents, resides a collection of over 2,000 varieties of shells from around the world.

The Greens love to tell you about them.

They can explain how a snail forms a shell, where they come from, which are rare; and help you find the ones you like best.

A tour of the collection and their explanation of various special types of shells, with names like "wedding cake" and "murex," takes at least two hours. Then you still have to decide which ones and what sizes to take home.

The couple's enthusiasm and knowledge of shells are matched only by the quantity they house.

The building is full of millions of shells — literally. Every closet and hallway is stacked with shelves up to the ceiling bulging with jars and cigar boxes full of seashells.

The shop is the product of "a hobby that got out of control," Natalie explained as she displayed yet another closet filled to the ceiling.

The shells are priced from ten cents to $95 per shell.

They come in every size, from as small as a seed to as big as a pumpkin.

What makes their shop the best, however, is not the quantity or even the variety, but the exquisiteness of the shells.

Each shell is as unique as a snowflake since a specific snail forms each. A phenomenon of nature is that the baby shells are identical in every way to full-grown adult shells.

The colors of the shells are special, too. Some are pink, others red or green, and vary in shape depending on the species.

But even a species will vary depending on the water it originated from.

The Greens, retired from respective careers, dared to allow a hobby to grow into a business — but a fun one.

They do not advertise; they don't even have a shingle out. Yet shell sellers from the Philippines, Asia, Africa and South America find the way to their door.

They are woken at late hours of the evening by shell collectors desiring a peek at their private collection or hoping to discover a new "find."

They annually have hundreds of plain beach combers, who stop by, too. "They just find us by word of mouth," Natalie said, smiling.

My grandmother plans to do all of her Christmas shopping at Green's Seashell Shop this year — on my recommendation. She already knows which one I want.

Thatcher uses the curve system

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Ten years ago on television I asked Mr. Denis Healey, at the time the reigning economic intelligence in Britain's Labor Party, whether he didn't think that a tax of 83 percent — at that time the going tax on incremental earnings in Great Britain — was too high.

He said well, yes, 83 percent is high. But, he explained, Britain has high military expenditures, which expenditures, ho ho ho, are in part the result of American influence, and what can you do? If you have high expenditures, you have high taxes, right?

It is a measure of how far we have come in 10 years that the government of Margaret Thatcher announced her tax and budget policies for the forthcoming year. The British tax, which under Mrs. Thatcher has gradually reduced to a top rate of 60 percent, is coming down.

Indeed, Mrs. Thatcher is aping the approach of Reaganomics. Under her penultimate reform, the tax rates were 27 percent, 40, 45, 50, 55 and 60 percent. Under the new law (remember: What Mrs. Thatcher sends over to Parliament becomes law, under the British system), there will be only two tax rates. The first tax rate reduces from 27 percent to 25 percent. The second is 40 percent. If you earn $35,700, you will begin paying 40 percent tax.

In passing, one notes that it is too high a rate, not quite as enlightened as the United States' high rate of 33 percent; but then, a little culture lag is understandable. It was much further back than 10 years ago since we had a rate of 93 percent.

But how strange to recall the analysis of a man as bright as Denis Healey: You need heavy expenditures on weapons, and therefore you need taxes at 93 percent. Mrs. Thatcher has been cutting taxes and reducing inflation (to the present level of 3.3 percent — lower than our own).

And, last year, Britain had a balanced budget, its first in almost two decades. The pound has been soaring on the market, and one would be tempted to suspect, save that the honor of the chancellor of the exchequer is as solid as Mrs. Thatcher's popularity, that this had something to do with expectations that this radical tax reform was in prospect.

What Mr. Healey and the Labor Party are embarrassed to learn is that excessive income tax rates yield less revenue. For many years, supply-side economics and the Laffer Curve have been the laughingstock of the redistributionist economic fraternity.

But the figures accumulate now with devastating impact, year after year, in category after category. When in 1978 capital gains taxes were reduced from 49 percent to 28 percent, the Treasury Department's official prediction was that "the measure would cost more than $2 billion annually" in lost revenue.

When President Carter was informed that such a tax reduction was in prospect, only two years after he had advised the Democratic Convention that our tax policies were "a disgrace to the human race" (his verbal formulation must have been a wink at Jesse Jackson), he reacted as though all Ten Commandments were scheduled to be violated in the Rose Garden at high noon.

One year after the reform was written into law, revenues from capital gains, which had been $8 billion, far from reducing to $6 billion, increased to nearly $12 billion.

Can we hope that such knowledge, painfully accumulated, which Mrs. Thatcher is now putting to use, will spread, little by little, to other countries devastated by high marginal tax rates? We know that it has happened radically in parts of the world once thought invincibly ignorant when up against any plank of dogmatic socialism.

Perhaps the worst offender this side of the Scandinavian countries, where tax rates underwrite the most extensive black economy in Europe, is Ireland, where a tax rate of 58 percent is imposed on income above $17,000.

Pill won't cause cancer

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who began taking birth-control pills as teen-agers and used oral contraceptives over several years do not face an increased, long-term risk of breast cancer, according to a study published today. Previous studies have disagreed over whether the use of birth-control pills increases the risk of breast cancer for women through middle age. Some researchers have suggested the conflicting conclusions might be the result of a long-term latent effect from early use.

"But we found no direct human evidence for such a latent effect," said Dr. Bruce Stadel, one of four authors reporting on the study of more than 9,000 women in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Mechem loan 'stupid'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An $80,000 loan to Gov. Evan Mechem's auto dealership from the governor's protocol fund was "politically stupid" but not illegal, a former top aide testified at Mechem's Senate impeachment trial.

Former special assistant Sam Steiger said Thursday he did not consider the protocol fund to be public money and thus the loan to Mechem Pontiac was legal.

"I think we have a politically stupid thing that was done, but not an illegal thing," Steiger said. "I think it's a very clear demonstration that here was a man, Governor Mechem, who had total confidence that he was going to be able to repay this."

Education labs urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the nation's largest teachers' union said today each state should designate an entire school district as a "living laboratory" for experiments in pursuit of higher education.

National Education Association President Mary Hatwood Futrell said she will ask her state affiliates to work with governors, state legislators and state school officials to bring about such experiments on a broad scale.

Each state should have at least one district operating "as an experimental, living laboratory for education reform," Futrell said.

"In these 50 school districts, school employees, working through their local association, would join with school boards, parents, civic leaders and business to develop whatever innovative or creative program they deem appropriate to improve education," she said.

S&Ls call for cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heaviest savings institution losses since the Great Depression underscore the need for federal regulators to begin cleaning up the mess of insolvent institutions in the Southwest, savings and loan lobby groups say.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Thursday that the nation's 3,147 savings institutions lost $3.2 billion in the fourth quarter of 1987, pushing red ink for the year to $6.8 billion, the worst loss since the agency began keeping track in 1934.

"I hope it's the worst we'll ever see," said James W. Christian, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

Melissa Sanders, 19, of Tucson, Ariz., raises her arms in celebration atop her 5-by-7-foot house on a pole shortly before coming down to the ground and setting a record for pole sitting in Indianapolis Thursday. Sanders spent 516 days atop her perch, with only her cat for company. She raised $10,000 for cancer research, falling short of her $100,000 goal.

Pole-sitter

Adjusts to life on Earth

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — After more than a year and a half perched atop two 43-foot poles to raise money for cancer research, Melissa L. Sanders came down to earth to a place in the record books and the fiancée she has never dated.

"Everything looks so small, so different from here," Miss Sanders, 19, said Thursday after a fire truck's bucket brought her down from the three-story-high shack where she spent 517 days with her feline companion, Pole Cat.

"My knees are wobbly but I feel great," said Miss Sanders, who was embraced by her mother, Mauri Rose Sanders.

"Without the cat, I would never have made it," she said. "It was pretty cramped quarters, but it wasn't so bad. I'll miss it."

Miss Sanders' shack in the sky measured 6-by-7-by-9 feet. It had a plastic kiddie pool for bathing, a chemical toilet, television and a telephone that resulted in regular $300 phone bills.

Among the 1,000 people waiting on the ground for Miss Sanders was her fiancée, 25-year-old Keith Seal of Monterey, Calif.

"She's kind of hesitant," Seal said. "She's wondering what's going to happen and knows she'll miss all the attention."

The pole sitter thanked her sponsors, and accepted bouquets and contributions. Then she climbed into a stretch limousine for a drive around town. Miss

Sanders said she was looking forward to "a good long walk and a real shower."

She raised $10,000 for cancer research, but had hoped her effort would bring $100,000. Her sister, Rebecca, has cancer and has been in remission for four years.

The Tucson, Ariz., native broke the world pole sitting record Feb. 26 when she overtook the 488-day mark set by Mark Sutton of Victoria, British Columbia, winning her a place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Pole sitting runs in the family. Her mother set a record in 1959 by spending 211 days in the air. "I'm sure she'll look back on this with fond memories," said Miss Sanders' aunt, Tanya Bowles of Indianapolis. "Maybe she saved a life by doing this. And that's about all you can ask for."

Firefighters were on hand to make sure Miss Sanders got down safely.

"She's going to look up and be lonely when she passes by here next," said Perry Township Fire Chief David Betzner. "It's been her home and when you take someone out of their home — no matter how much they want to go — they're going to look back with longing."

However, Seal said Miss Sanders was not coming down a moment too soon. "I've been waiting a year for this," he said.

Mrs. Sanders agreed it was time for her daughter to return to earth.

Plan aimed at strife

MOSCOW (AP) — Red Army helicopters and troops patrolled the Armenian capital today after the Kremlin endorsed a plan aimed at ending ethnic strife in the region by improving the lot of Armenians cut off from their homeland.

Also today, the governments of the two southern republics plagued by the unrest — Armenia and Azerbaijan — issued regulations prohibiting public meetings without official permission in an apparent attempt to prevent more violence.

The Politburo adopted an eight-year plan to build more housing, roads, schools and social services in Nagorno-Karabakh, a region of Azerbaijan where Armenians make up more than 75 percent of the 160,000 population, the official Tass news agency reported Thursday night.

Armenians, who are predominantly Christian, have been demanding that the region, which is smaller than Delaware, be annexed to the neighboring Armenian republic, though there is no common border.

Iran hammers Basra

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said today it hammered Iraq's southern port of Basra with missiles and shellfire and repulsed an Iraqi counterattack in the northern Kurdistan mountains, killing or wounding 500 men.

Iran also said it shot down four Iraqi warplanes. Iraq said its planes attacked two vessels in the Persian Gulf overnight.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said Revolutionary Guards in northeast Iraq pushed back four infantry battalions and a brigade — about 7,200 troops — that Iraq moved up from its southern 7th Army Corps to reinforce the northern front.

The agency, monitored in Nicosia, said the fighting centered around the Rishan mountains east of the town of Sayyid Sadiq.

Airline captain wounded

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An attacker shot and wounded the captain of an Italian jetliner today after the plane landed at Bombay's airport and tossed two grenades at pursuers before he was captured, authorities said.

The assailant fired four shots from an automatic pistol at Vittorio Sanataniello, who had landed the Alitalia airliner a few minutes earlier after a flight from Australia. Police said Sanataniello and 12 other crew members were climbing onto an airport bus bound for a city hotel when they were attacked.

The attacker was overpowered by two off-duty policemen who chased him as he fled the bus, said Police Commissioner Vasant Saraf. The two grenades he lobbed failed to explode.

Troops leave war zone

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Sandinistas began pulling army patrols out of jungle war zones throughout Nicaragua to avoid clashes that could imperil their newly signed peace accord with the U.S.-supported Contra rebels.

The Defense Ministry reported no fighting on Thursday, the third full day of a cease-fire agreed to during talks at the southern border town of Sapoa that ended with the previous night's unexpected agreement. Radio Liberation, the Contras' radio station, has reported no combat since Monday.

Easter benefit

Betty Barnett, manager of 7-Eleven, Fourth and Johnson streets, holds her 4½-month-old son, Michael, while her daughter, Rhonda, 4½, at left, and Ashley Dean, 3, daughter of Janis Dean, sit atop the Easter basket that was made to help raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Saturday and Sunday a local photographer will take pictures for a $2 donation at the store. All proceeds will benefit MDA.

Parents' old wounds scar daughter's wedding plans

My wedding plans are giving me nightmares. I have two fathers — my biological father (he and my mother were divorced when I was 3 years old) and my stepfather who raised me from the age of 5.

I want both my fathers to give me away, but I couldn't possibly choose between them. I also want my mother to have a part in giving me away, but she may not come. The problem is my biological father's wife. I really don't want her. She's the one who caused my parents' divorce, and my mother does not even speak to her. My real father says he won't come without his wife.

My mother said she could tolerate having my real father at my wedding, but she will not come if his wife is there. I want this day to be a happy one, so how do I solve these problems? My stepfather is an angel, and says he will do whatever makes me happy.

WEDDING WORRIES

DEAR WORRIES: While "giving the bride away" is traditional in most wedding ceremonies, it is not essential and can be omitted. In recent years, the mother alone has given her daughter in marriage.

What a pity that your mother and biological father cannot put away their bitterness for the sake of family harmony on their daughter's wedding day. You cannot (nor should you try to) coerce either parent into doing anything. Invite them both and let the decision rest with them.

DEAR ABBY:

The gentleman I am presently dating is 36 years old and twice divorced. He takes frequent business trips and sends me letters when he's away. His letters are very graphic — telling me what he would like to share with me (sexually), then describing it all in what he considers erotic detail.

Abby, I am a lady. None of this turns me on — in fact it turns me off!

Why would a man write this sort of stuff? Does he think I enjoy it? I am definitely going to tell him how I feel about it, but I'd like to know if there is some psychological reason for his behavior.

TURNED OFF

DEAR TURNED OFF: Some men do it to turn themselves on — hoping it will create the same effect in the recipient. There are women who enjoy such letters, but since you're not one of them, by all means tell the man that you find such explicit letters offensive, and you want no more.

Don't put off writing thank-you notes, letters of sympathy, etc. because you don't know what to say. Get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send a check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letters Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage and handling are included.

Easter Bunny to visit VA hospital

The Easter Bunny will visit patients at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Saturday, said Conrad Alexander, director.

Patients will hide eggs for the VA employees' children's annual Easter Egg Hunt on the front lawn of the medical center.

Patients who can't assist in hiding eggs are invited to watch the children as the hunt progresses.

This is the first year patients have participated in the hunt, said Alexander.

Immediately following the hunt, members of the VA employees' association will deliver miniature Easter baskets to all patients.

"It's (the Easter egg hunt) just another way our employees are trying to show we care about our patients," said Alexander.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Moonlighting" stars Cybill Shepherd and Bruce Willis were left speechless by the 2½-week scriptwriters' strike, but filled a five-minute gap in their latest script by rocking to the tune of "Woolly Bully."

Miss Shepherd and Willis kicked and sang along as Curtis Armstrong, who plays novice detective Bert Viola, danced about in a pharaoh's outfit, mouthing the words to the 1965 song by Sam the Sham & The Pharaohs.

The script for Tuesday night's ABC-TV show was written before the Writers Guild of America struck March 7. But when it was filmed last week, the producers discovered it fell about five minutes short. So the cast improvised.

"Remember on the Ozzie and Harriet show?" Willis told the audience. "See, sometimes their show would be short and then they would bring Ricky Nelson out and he would sing a song."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Dean Martin needs several weeks to recover from a kidney problem, so the "Rat Pack" concert tour with Frank Sinatra and

CYBILL SHEPARD

Sammy Davis Jr. will go on without him, his spokesman says.

Martin, listed in fair condition Wednesday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, had been playing to packed houses with Sinatra and Davis, who appear in concert Friday in Detroit before bringing their tour to the East.

Martin's physician, Dr. Charles Kivowitz, has advised the entertainer to have at least three to four weeks rest before returning to work, said Martin's publicist, Susan Reynolds.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producers of the NBC series "St. Elsewhere" have decided to include a rambling speech improvised by actor Ed Flanders in the show's final episode, scheduled for broadcast on May 25.

Flanders, who played Dr. Donald Westphal before leaving the series earlier this season, was supposed to return for the final episode and read a sentimental statement about beginnings and endings.

Gephardt may be next to withdraw from race

By LAURA KING
Associated Press

Democrat Richard Gephardt will become the next casualty of the 1988 presidential campaign if he fails to win the Michigan caucuses on Saturday, a campaign aide said today.

With the Missouri congressman insisting publicly that no decisions had been made, the aide said Gephardt would leave the presidential race early next week in time to file for re-election to his House seat by the Tuesday deadline.

"He will be out if he doesn't win in Michigan," said the aide, who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

Gephardt is running third in the polls in Michigan behind Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson.

"All decisions are made in due time," Gephardt said Wednesday. Asked if his showing in the state would make or break his candidacy, he responded: "That's unthinkable."

But the aide said consideration was being given to Gephardt ending his candidacy whether or not he wins in Michigan.

"Only as Rep. Gephardt can he raise the money to pay off the debts" from the presidential campaign, the aide said.

The Dallas Times Herald, citing sources, said in today's editions that Gephardt would drop out early next week.

The presidential contenders spent much of Wednesday making attacks across party lines, with Republican Bob Dole taking aim at Dukakis, and Democrats Albert Gore Jr. and Jackson harshly criticizing GOP front-runner George Bush.

Although the primary season is far from over, the candidates appeared to be shifting their attention toward the general-election confrontation in November between their two parties. After Michigan, both parties hold primaries in Connecticut on Tuesday.

Heading into this round of contests, the Democrats have largely avoided the bitter battles among themselves that were typical of the Super Tuesday campaign earlier this month. But there's still some infighting afoot.

Gephardt has sounded a drumbeat of attacks against Dukakis in recent days, accusing him of inconsistency on trade issues. He was expected to bring up the subject again today in an economic address.

In Michigan, the Missouri congressman has been courting workers, especially those in the auto industry, with his get-tough-on-foreigners trade message.

Gore, without mentioning Gephardt by name, took a swipe at him for that. "It would be easy to blame all our problems on foreigners," he told the Wisconsin Legislature.

The Tennessee senator is badly in need of a Northern victory, and his political director, Larry Harrington, said Wisconsin may be the place for Gore to "punch through." Also making a big push in Wisconsin is Sen. Paul Simon, whose home-state victory in Illinois last week revived his bid.

"If I can win Wisconsin, two weeks later is New York. ... That would give me a lift and put me back in the ball game in a major way," Simon told the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

Jackson was crisscrossing Michigan, where polls have indicated he is running second to Dukakis. Other candidates may have more money, Jackson told auto workers, but he has a richer message.

"I've been... walking the assembly line, standing with and fighting for the workers," he said. "I don't have the big engine, but I know the roads a lot better."

That was about the closest Jackson came to criticizing his Democratic opponents. Instead, he took the vice president to task, vowing to "keep on challenging him on the leadership gap."

Gore, too, delivered a forceful attack on Bush, saying the vice president "wants another chance to cut taxes for the rich." He also questioned Bush's role in the Iran-Contra affair.

"It's not as if he were a neophyte sitting in the White House with no basis of judgment on the arms-for-hostages swap," Gore said of Bush.

In a CBS-New York Times poll, 51 percent said yes when asked if Bush was hiding something the public ought to know about the Iran-Contra affair; 28 percent said no and 21 percent said they didn't know. The margin of error was 3 points, CBS said Wednesday night.

Bush got kinder treatment at the hands of Dole, now a rival in name only. Bush holds an overwhelming lead in delegates, and the Kansas senator has abandoned his once-bitter attacks on the vice president.

Dole, in a Washington speech on Wednesday, accused the Democratic contenders of a "failure of nerve as well as a failure of vision" in dealing with Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

The Kansas senator singled out Dukakis for the sharpest criticism, saying: "He says that this country... has no choice but to tolerate the existence of Soviet client states wherever subversion might install them."

Dukakis spokesman Leslie Dach retorted: "I guess Bob Dole is taking after Michael Dukakis because he's accomplishing what Bob Dole can't — beating George Bush in the polls."

A poll published Wednesday by the Hartford Courant suggested Bush was favored by 64 percent of likely GOP voters in Connecticut, while Dole was the choice of just 20 percent. Dole, campaigning in Connecticut, brushed that off.

Gore promises to explain loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore Jr. said Thursday he would "have no problem" in giving details of more than $1 million in loans taken out by his campaign, but his aides said immediately afterward that no decision had been made on releasing the information.

"There's nothing that is in any violation of any laws or regulations and there's no cause for suggesting that there is," Gore said at a news conference.

The Gore campaign previously has acknowledged only that it had established a $1 million line of credit to be used as necessary for television advertising on Super Tuesday.

On Thursday, the Tennessee newspaper in Nashville reported that Gore's campaign had put up the proceeds of future fund-raisers and federal matching funds as collateral for almost $1.5 million borrowed from banks about two weeks ago.

SEN. ALBERT GORE

"I have no problem with telling you the amount of the loans and which banks they came from, be glad to," Gore told reporters.

Gore said details of the loans would be contained in reports to be filed in the next two or three weeks with the Federal Election Commission "so if you can wait two or three weeks all of that will be available, but as for now I have no problem with giving you the amount of the loans, the banks et cetera."

However, Gore aide Mark Armour said as the candidate was leaving the news conference that no decision had been made on releasing the information.

Gore borrowed $750,000 from Sovran Bank-D.C. National, a Washington-based bank which handles his campaign accounts, the Tennessee reported. The remainder of the loans came from a collection of small banks in Tennessee, the Democrat's home state, the newspaper said.

Each of the banks has strong Democratic Party and Gore ties, the paper said. Officials at each of the banks refused to comment on whether Gore had received a loan.

Gore pledged future federal matching funds against the Sovran loan, a standard presidential campaign procedure, the Tennessee reported, quoting sources familiar with the transaction.

At the Tennessee banks, the candidate pledged the proceeds of future fund-raising events, and in at least some cases, guaranteed 10 percent of the note on his personal signature, the report said.

The next FEC reporting date is April 20. The loans were taken out after Feb. 29 so they did not have to be disclosed March 20.

The due date for the Gore loans is July 15, three days before the Democratic National Convention begins in Atlanta.

The latest Gore FEC disclosure, made public Sunday, covers the period from Feb. 1 to Feb. 29.

It shows that, to date, Gore has spent $6 million on his presidential bid, and had $342,964 in cash on hand as of Feb. 29.

Judge working for trial before fall in Iran-Contra case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal judge handling the Iran-Contra case is moving swiftly toward a trial for Oliver North, John Poindexter and associates, indicating he wants it held before the November election.

"I've canceled every case I have," Judge Gerhard Gesell said Thursday at an arraignment where the four defendants pleaded innocent. "I've canceled my vacation."

Gesell set April 12 for a preliminary hearing on whether Lawrence Walsh, the independent counsel, can use the evidence he gathered against the men during his 14-month investigation. No trial date was set.

Former national security aides North and Poindexter, and two businessmen who worked with them in the Iran-Contra operation, Richard V. Secord and Albert Hakim, are charged in a 23-count indictment with conspiracy to defraud the government and theft.

Other charges against the defendants include destruction of documents, accepting gratuities, obstruction of justice and lying to Congress.

The indictment said the defendants "knowingly did embezzle, steal and convert to their own use" part of the proceeds generated by the sale of weapons to Iran. The men secretly diverted profits from the arms sale to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

All four were released on their own recognizance after entering their innocent pleas.

At issue in the preliminary hearing is whether any of the information collected by Walsh is tainted because North, Poindexter and Hakim testified before the congressional Iran-Contra committees last summer under grants of immunity from prosecution, meaning Walsh cannot use any of that material. His evidence must have been collected independently.

Only Secord, who worked with Hakim on operational details, appeared before Congress without a grant of immunity.

Walsh has said FBI agents assigned to his staff made sure that he wasn't exposed to any news stories involving the hearings or later developments. As he collected his evidence, he filed it under seal. But Gesell said, "The court has an independent obligation to determine ... whether the prosecution up to this stage is or is not tainted." He added: "This ought to get resolved and get resolved quickly."

The defendants, all of whom have protested their innocence and vowed to wage a spirited legal defense, are expected to file numerous motions challenging Walsh's case.

Walsh has hired retired federal judge Herbert Stern to argue such motions. Another issue that could affect the case is the Supreme Court's hearing April 26 on whether the independent counsel law is constitutional.

A panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled, 2-1, in January that the independent counsel provision of the Ethics in Government Act of 1978 is unconstitutional.

The Justice Department tried to shield

"We are going to vigorously contest this case with all our strength and might," — Richard Beckler, Poindexter's attorney.

Walsh from legal attacks on the law by giving him a back-up appointment, but that was not done until after he started his work in December 1986.

"We are going to vigorously contest this case with all our strength and might," said Richard Beckler, Poindexter's attorney.

North is resigning from the Marine Corps so he is free to challenge the U.S. government and call high-ranking officials to his defense. Secord has said he will "bury" the court in motions.

Dissolving checks are not a joke

CHICAGO (AP) — Checks treated with a chemical that causes them to disintegrate into confetti shortly after being deposited have shown up in at least two states, costing banks nearly $70,000 since the beginning of the year, police said Thursday.

A check clearinghouse said it has warned 142 banks to be on the lookout for the dissolving checks, which may have an unusual odor and feel oily.

The checks have turned up at five or six banks in the Chicago area and at one in Tennessee, said Capt. James Zurawski of the Chicago Police Department's financial crimes division. Authorities also are checking a report of a possible dissolving check in Indiana, Zurawski said.

"The one I've got in front of me looks like a handful of ashes," Zurawski said.

The checks, supposedly drawn on personal accounts at banks in California and Tennessee, have been reported in about 12 incidents in recent weeks, costing banks about $70,000, he said.

In most of the cases, someone would open a new account at a bank with a small amount of money and later make a larger deposit with a dissolving check. Later, the money would be withdrawn from the account before the bank could learn that the second check was bogus. The check's decomposition would leave little or no evidence.

Police believe more than one person is involved in the scam, but had no suspects because of the dissolving evidence, Zurawski said.

On Thursday, Zurawski's office received copies of five checks for a total of $20,000 drawn on a Chicago bank and deposited at a Memphis, Tenn., bank.

"They're in bits and pieces," he said.

The Chicago Clearing House Association, which clears checks for 142 members, sent out a memo March 9 warning of the dissolving checks, said Vice President Tom Tucker.

The association first learned of the checks from Northern Trust Bank, which has been hit by at least three of the disintegrating checks, Tucker said.

A Northern customer deposited $4,000 by check in a savings account on Feb. 16, then withdrew the same amount a week later from one of the bank's branch offices, the memo said.

The $4,000 check that was deposited was returned to Northern on March 2 from a California bank that said the check had an invalid account number. But by then the check had been "reduced to mere confetti, small bits of paper that appeared to be treated with chemicals that caused the paper to break into pieces to a point where it was impossible to identify any information on the check," the memo said.

Chicago police learned of the dissolving checks about two weeks ago, Zurawski said.

"What happened was two checks showed up in one of our downtown banks and they literally dissolved," Zurawski said in a telephone interview.

The perpetrator is "using some kind of chemical" that makes the checks disintegrate about three to four hours after they're deposited, he said.

Owls fly by Richmond 69-47

By The Associated Press
 Top seeds Temple and Oklahoma were joined by Duke and Villanova as winners in NCAA regional semifinals Thursday night.

Temple, 32-1 and ranked No. 1 in the nation, routed Richmond 69-47 in the East Regional at East Rutherford, N.J. No. 5 Duke edged Rhode Island 73-72 in the other game.

No. 4 Oklahoma went over the 100-point mark for the 20th time this season with a 108-96 romp past Louisville at Birmingham, Ala. Villanova also advanced in the Southeast, downing Kentucky 80-74.

Temple plays Duke and Oklahoma faces Villanova on Saturday, with the winners qualifying for the Final Four in Kansas City April 2-4.

On Friday night, it's Vanderbilt vs. Kansas and No. 3 Purdue vs. No. 20 Kansas State in the Midwest at Pontiac, Mich.; and No. 7 North Carolina vs. No. 10 Michigan and No. 2 Arizona vs. No. 17 Iowa in the West at Seattle.

EAST
 Temple 69, Richmond 47
 The Atlantic 10 champion Owls won their 18th consecutive game with a superb matchup zone defense that sparked a 20-8 spurt midway through the second half.

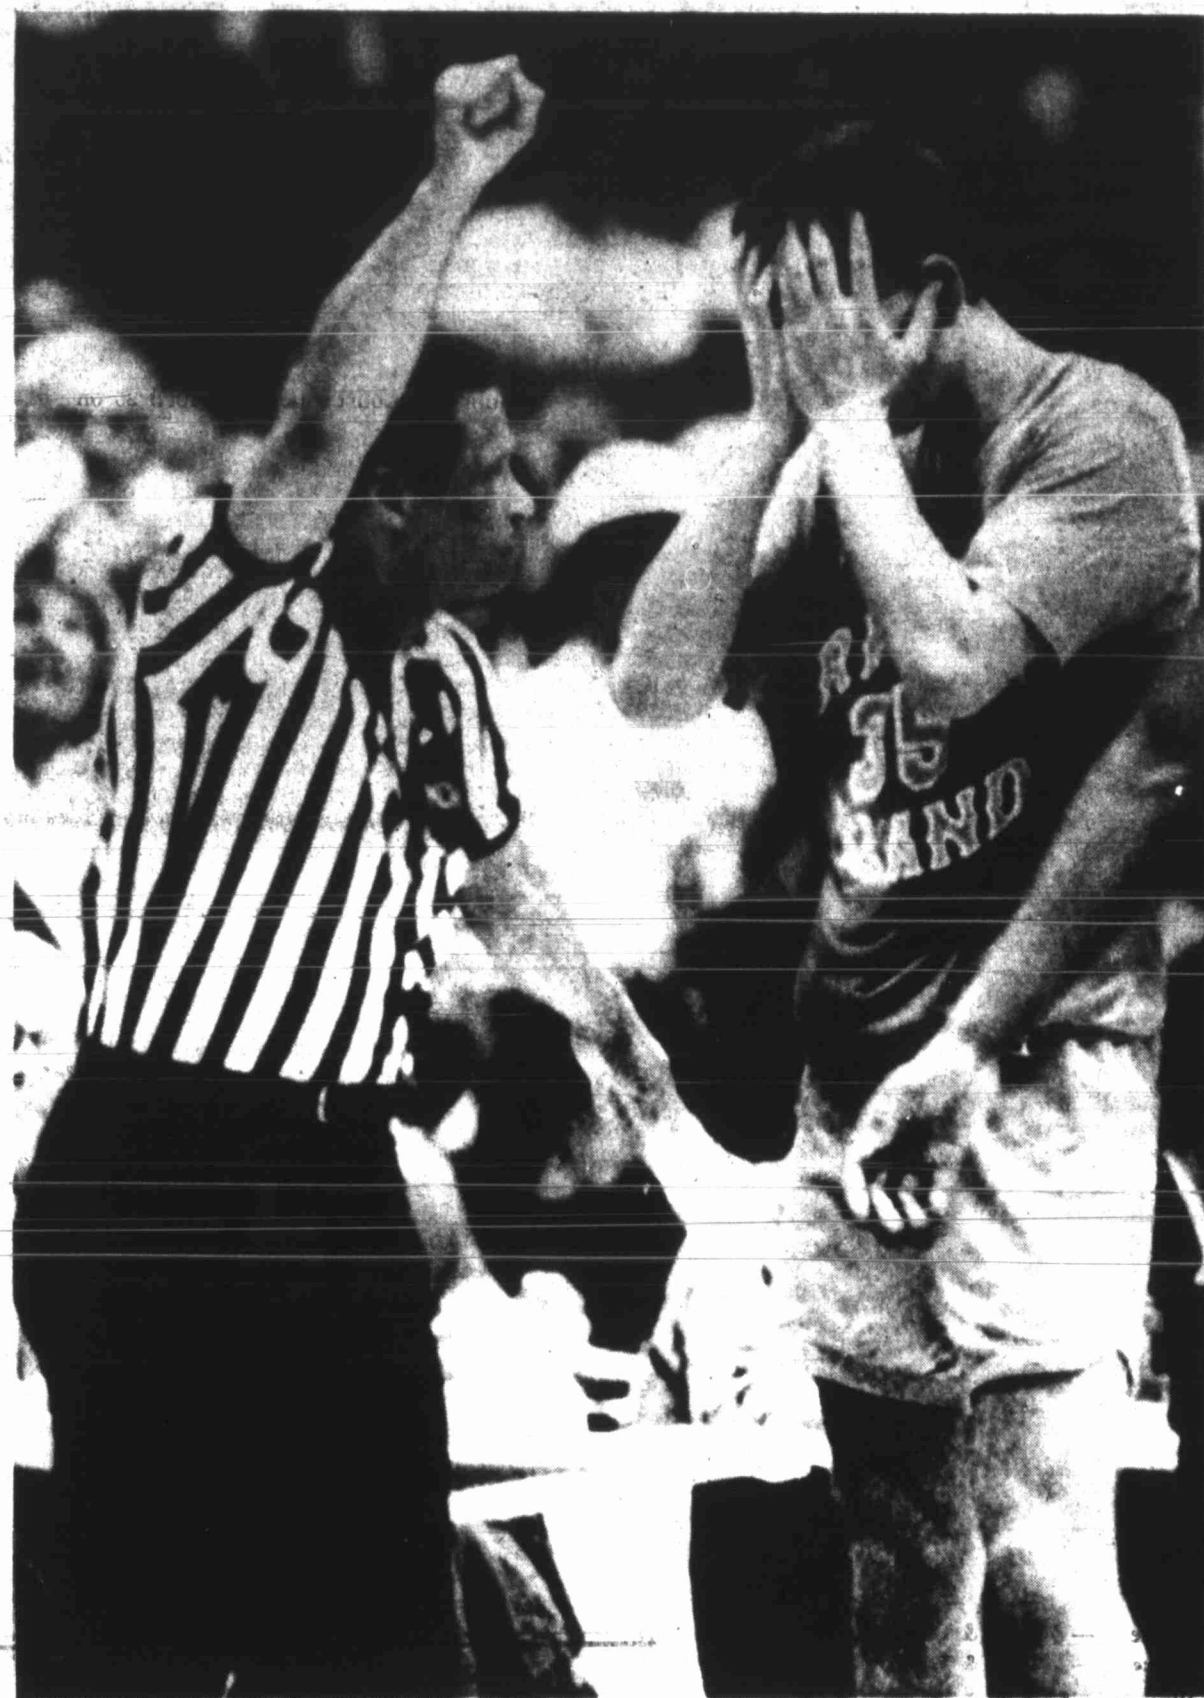

Richmond, champions of the Colonial Athletic Association and upset conquerors of defending champion Indiana and Georgia Tech, stayed close for about 24 minutes.

Then the Owls took over behind Mike Vreeswyk, who had five 3-pointers in his 19 points, and sensational freshman guard Mark Macori, who scored 24.

Ken Atkinson led the Spiders, 26-7, with 15 points.
 Duke 73, Rhode Island 72
 The ACC champion Blue Devils ended Rhode Island's upset run as Kevin Strickland scored 11 of his 12 second-half points during a 22-10 spurt. The Blue Devils, who held a 13-point lead in the first half, had fallen behind 51-46 before their run.

Rhode Island, 28-7, surprised Missouri and Syracuse in the sub-regional. But the Rams couldn't top Danny Ferry, who had 17 points and 12 rebounds for Duke, which is seeking its sixth trip to the Final Four. The Blue Devils lost to Louisville in the 1986 championship game.

"At the start of the second half,

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Mergin Sina of Rhode Island reacts to a foul call in the final minute of Rhode Island's game against Duke in NCAA Tournament play Thursday night. Duke won the game 73-72.

we were playing like we were waiting for something to happen instead of making something happen," Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "But we played winning basketball the last 10 minutes. We made a lot of good decisions."

Carlton Owens, who made a 3-pointer with seven seconds to go, getting Rhode Island within the final margin, scored 19 points. The Blue Devils held Tom Garrick, who had averaged 30 points in five postseason games — two in this tournament and three in the Atlantic-10 tourney — to 14.

"This team isn't Danny Ferry and four clowns," Rams coach Tom Penders said of Duke. "They proved that tonight."

SOUTHEAST
 Oklahoma 108, Louisville 98
 Harvey Grant scored 34 points and Stacey King 24 for the Sooners, who surged to an early 11-point lead in the second half, saw Louisville close to 76-74 midway through the half, then pulled away again.

It was the seventh victory in a row and the 19th in 20 games for the Sooners, 33-3. It ended Louisville's string of eight consecutive victories in the NCAA tourney, dating back to their 1986 title run.

Grant hit his first six shots of the second half, including the team's first four baskets to help build a 64-53 lead. Louisville, 24-11, made a run on two baskets by Mike Abram and another pair by Herbert Crook.

Then Dave Sieger sank a 3-point basket and King followed with a three-point play to build the lead to 82-74 with 9:18 to play. The Cards never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Pervis Ellison, playing on a losing team in the NCAA tournament for the first time, led the Cardinals with 23 points.

Villanova 80, Kentucky 74
 Villanova, the 1985 national champion and the lone Big East representative remaining from the six who started this tournament, turned aside favored Kentucky with a nearly flawless performance. The Wildcats were flawless at the free throw line, hitting all 17 foul shots.

Doug West and Alan Plinsky keyed a late first-half run, giving Villanova a lead it never lost. Plinsky scored five points and West four in a 14-3 burst in the last 4:30 of the game.

The Lobos also will be shorthanded. Luc Longley, their 7-foot-1 freshman center who scored 12 points and had nine rebounds in an opening-round victory over Pepperdine, has returned to his native Australia. Longley will try out for the Australian Olympic team.

Arkansas State Coach Nelson Catalina is concerned with the recent history of Colorado State.

"It sort of worries you when you realize that New Orleans beat you twice and Houston beat you once and CSU beat both of them," Catalina said Thursday. "Where does that leave us?"

At Fort Collins tonight, after a one-point victory over Stanford in the second round.

"It's been tough for anybody across the country to win on the road this year," Catalina said. "In this tournament, I think there have been only two road wins — ourselves and Boston College."

"CSU is a well-balanced, disciplined team that plays with a lot of emotion and is extremely difficult to beat here."

The Rams, in their first postseason tourney since 1969, are 14-2 at home, including NIT victories over New Orleans and Houston.

Queens sign post player

Howard College Queens coach Don Stevens has signed his second basketball player from Tahoka High School.

Stevens recently announced the signing of 6-0 post player Shannon Lawson from the Class AA school. Last week Stevens signed Tahoka guard Tesha Hood.

Lawson had an excellent year for coach Elaine Shed's Tahoka team. She led the team by averaging 28 points and 20 rebounds per game. "She was well coached in high school by Elaine Shed," said Stevens.

"Shannon has the physical talent to be an impact player in this tough league, Stevens said. "She does a lot of good things now in the lane area, but will only get much better as she adds to her knowledge of the game and the post position."

"Her aggressive nature is evident by her point production, but especially her double number average in rebounding. When she improves her ability to read team and individual defenses, she will develop more post moves and steps that will make her more deceptive."

"This is a very important recruit for our program because quality post people are hard to come by."

Brother duo wins bouts

FORT WORTH (AP) — Danny and Arthur Trevino are out to do something that five other brothers have never done.

The other five brothers from Fort Worth were fighters, but never won a Texas Golden Gloves championship, but Danny and Arthur have taken big steps toward their goal.

Danny Trevino, 18, won a unanimous decision of Kermit Cain in their middleweight fight and Arthur Trevino, 22, stopped Rudy Barrera of Corpus Christi in the second round of their welterweight fight Thursday night.

"There have been seven of us fight, but not one of us has won a State (Golden Gloves) championship. We want to change that in a big way and have two of us win in one year," said Danny Trevino.

Danny and Arthur were among three Fort Worth fighters to win last night. Two others were eliminated.

Super heavyweight Leon McWright beat James Johnson at 1:20 in the first round when the Austin fighter suffered an injured arm.

Losing were flyweight W.D. Munson to Epifano Valle of Odessa and lightweight Darryl Washington to Danny Rios of San Antonio.

Washington, nursing a sore right hand and pulled groin, lost a decision to Danny Rios of San Antonio in their lightweight (132) fight. McWright advanced against Samuel Bennet of East Texas. Munson was outclassed by Valle in their flyweight fight.

Big East, WAC flex muscles in NIT

By The Associated Press
 The Big East and the Western Athletic Conference, two of the powerhouse leagues in college basketball, are showing why in the National Invitation Tournament.

Both conferences have two teams in the quarterfinals, which begin tonight with three games. Connecticut and Boston College are the Big East survivors, while Colorado State and New Mexico are still around from the WAC.

The other teams remaining in the tournament are Ohio State of the Big Ten, Arkansas State of the Southland, Virginia Commonwealth of the Sun Belt, and Middle Tennessee State of the Ohio Valley.

In tonight's games, Virginia Commonwealth, 23-11, is at Connecticut, 17-14; Ohio State, 18-12, visits New Mexico, 22-13, and Arkansas State, 21-13, is at Colorado State, 20-12.

On Saturday night, it will be Boston College, 17-13, at Middle Tennessee State, 23-10.

The winners advance to Tuesday night's semifinals in Madison Square Garden at New York.

VCU Coach Mike Pollio is impressed by, but not in awe of, Connecticut.

"Connecticut plays sound basketball," he said. "We were told Connecticut plays the hardest of the Big East Conference teams. We play the hardest in the Sun Belt, so it should be a good game."

"We have to shoot well, rebound well and play well. It sounds like a clique, but that is all there is to it." The Rams ousted defending champion Southern Mississippi in the second round after eliminating Marshall in their NIT opener. Connecticut has victories over West Virginia and Louisiana Tech.

Boston College was seventh in the Big East and lost in the first round of the conference tournament, also at Madison Square Garden. But the Eagles have beaten Siena and Evansville in the NIT.

At Evansville, they got 32 points from sharpshooting guard Dana Barros.

Middle Tennessee has victories over a pair of tough Southeastern Conference foes, Tennessee and Georgia, both at home.

New Mexico has won 19 of 20 home games this season, including victories over then-No. 1 Arizona and Ohio State.

The Buckeyes, who won the 1986 NIT, since have upset four ranked teams in the Big Ten.

"I know Ohio State is a much better team now," Lobos Coach Gary Colson said. "I don't know if we're better, but if we're not, we're in big trouble."

The Lobos also will be shorthanded. Luc Longley, their 7-foot-1 freshman center who scored 12 points and had nine rebounds in an opening-round victory over Pepperdine, has returned to his native Australia. Longley will try out for the Australian Olympic team.

Arkansas State Coach Nelson Catalina is concerned with the recent history of Colorado State.

Lady Longhorns rout Stanford 79-58

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Lady Longhorns get another chance to shed their Louisiana Tech jinx on Saturday night in the NCAA Women's Midwest Regional finals.

"We'll be motivated," said Texas Coach Jody Conradt, who has lost to the Lady Techsters in their only three previous playoff meetings.

Texas followed Doreatha Conwell's season-high 26 points to a 79-58 victory over the Stanford Cardinal on Thursday night after Tech defeated Mississippi 80-60 behind Nora Lewis' 19 points. It was Texas' 23rd consecutive victory.

The 7 p.m. finals from the Special Events Center will be nationally televised by ESPN. Top-seeded Texas is 32-2 while second-seeded Louisiana Tech is 29-2.

Texas won the 1986 national title and Louisiana Tech earned the 1982 NCAA Final Four. Tech beat Texas in the 1987 Final Four semifinals in The Special Events Center, the last team to do so.

Questions immediately centered on the Louisiana Tech voodoo over Texas and Conradt said "Well, I didn't get to enjoy this one long. It's true we've never defeated Louisiana Tech in the playoffs. If we do what we know we can do we will beat them. If they played like they played here last year we might not."

Tech holds a 5-2 series edge over the Lady

Longhorns. Lady Techster Coach Leon Barmore said his team is in for a brawl.

"One of the things our kids must realize is that Texas has the motivation for this game," he said. "If we want to win it as badly as they do, we must match their motivation and intensity."

The Lady Techsters, champions of the American South Athletic Conference, have seven NCAA Final Four appearances.

Stanford Coach Tara Vanderveer said the matchup could be a bruising battle of the boards.

"It will be a heckuva battle down on the blocks," she said. "Whoever wins, the Midwest Regional will be represented very well. I think the winner has a strong chance to go all the way."

Conwell, a senior from Los Angeles, had a career-high 16 rebounds in the victory over Stanford of the Pac-10 which ended its winningest season at 27-6. Stanford was led by Sonja Henning who scored 15 points.

Tech built a 15-point lead in the second half but the Lady Rebels cut the deficit to 61-55 before All-America Teresa Weatherspoon took control, making eight straight free throws. The senior from Pineland, Texas scored 17 points. Venus Lacy scored 17 points and Erica Westbrooks added 16 points for the winners.

AUSTIN — Teresa Weatherspoon of Louisiana Tech (11) moves the ball around Sherry Slayton (22) of Mississippi during NCAA Tournament play Thursday night. Louisiana Tech won 80-60.

AL West Oakland gets nod to dethrone Twins

By The Associated Press
Let's figure out the American League West this season by process of elimination.

Minnesota won't win because division champions don't repeat, even if they win the World Series. Kansas City can't do it because the Royals never score.

Seattle has not reached .500 in its 11-year history and Chicago traded away its three best pitchers. California and Texas tied for last place and won't jump to first.

So that leaves the Oakland Athletics as the appointed team to beat. And that means they won't win because the favorite — as Cleveland proved — never does.

But Oakland will win this year. The Athletics, whose 81-81 record was their best since 1960, made the most improvement in a division where mediocrity is almost enough.

Newly acquired Dave Parker will fit between Mark McGwire and Jose Canseco in the batting order, making it game's most powerful middle of the lineup. Bob Welch will emerge a big winner and a stabilizer in the rotation. Matt Young will bolster the bullpen.

"This team should score a lot of runs," Welch said, "and I should have the opportunity to win a lot of games."

Especially if McGwire can come close to duplicating his big rookie season.

"It will be another learning year," McGwire said.

It could be the year the Athletics again learn to win championships.

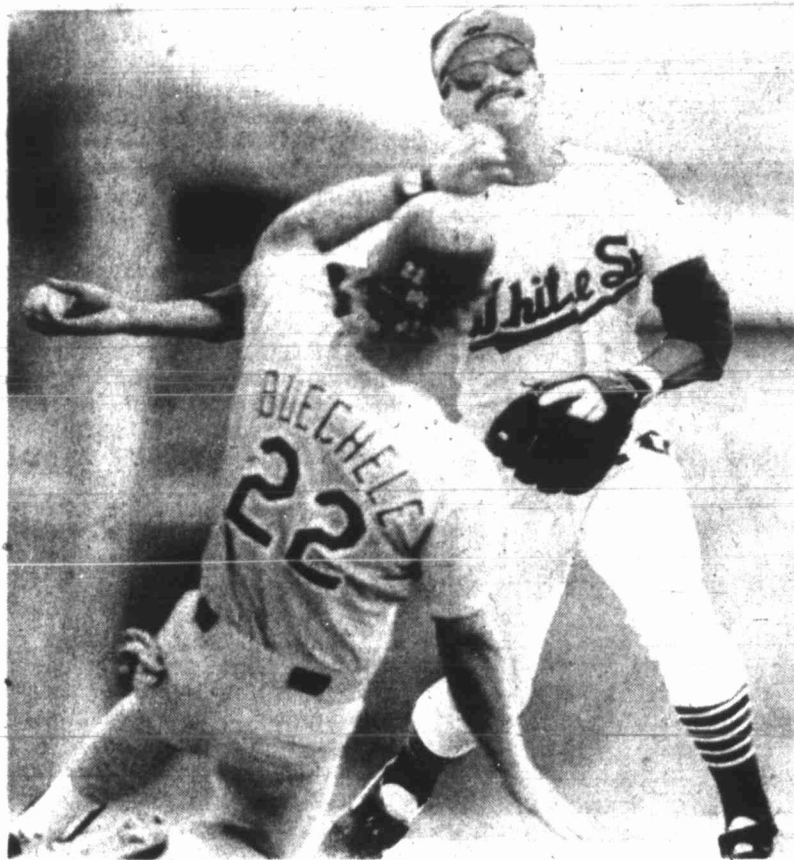

Oakland also might bring some respectability back to the West. The Twins won the World Series, but no one — then or now — takes them too seriously.

The Athletics could be the first solid team to come from the AL West in awhile, compared to the always stacked AL East.

Oakland Athletics

McGwire, Dave Stewart and some surprises led to success last season. Newcomers might push Oakland over the top this time.

The 6-foot-5 McGwire stood tallest in baseball's big year of home runs. He shattered the rookie record with 49 home runs, breaking Frank Robinson and Wally Berger's previous mark by 11, and drove in 118 runs. His homer total was the most in the AL since Harmon Killebrew's 49 in 1969. Canseco (31 HR, 113 RBI) and Parker (26 HR, 97 RBI with Cincinnati) round out this modern version of Murderer's Row.

Rookie platoon catcher Terry Steinbach (16 HR, 56 RBI) and aging free agent Don Baylor (16 HR) add pop.

What the Athletics need is a few baserunners. Carney Lansford (.289, 19 HR, 76 RBI) can do it. They are heavily counting on rookie shortstop Walt Weiss (.263 at Class AAA Tacoma), who was picked off as a pinch runner in his major league debut last year, to replace Alfredo Griffin.

They hope former playoff hero Dave Henderson can do the job in center field. Glenn Hubbard, in from Atlanta, is a solid second baseman.

Stewart, who had never won more than nine games in a season, went 20-13 and tied Cy Young winner Roger Clemens for most victories in the majors. Welch (15-9 with Los Angeles) throws harder than AL batters see. Curt Young (13-7) and Steve Ontiveros (10-8) are probably in the rotation and Storm Davis and Rick Honeycutt might battle for a spot.

Starter-turned-reliever Dennis Eckersley (16 saves) and Matt Young, who struggled in the National League after success in Seattle, make a good righty-lefty bullpen.

"Pitching should be a strong point," manager Tony LaRussa said of the team that ranked fifth in the AL in ERA.

Getting Parker, Welch and Young cost Griffin and pitchers Jose Rijo, Jay Howell and Tim Lirtsas. Mike Davis (22 HR) went free agent to LA and Dwayne Murphy was not rehired. Overall, the gains far outweigh the losses.

Minnesota Twins The Twins outscored 806-786 during the season, did not convince anyone that they're real good. But they showed they're a decent team with some real good players — plus a lot of loud, Homer Hankie-waving fans inside the Metrodome.

The Fab Four of Kirby Puckett, Gary Gaetti, Kent Hrbek and Tom Brunansky was great. The Twins' biggest asset, however, was their home park. Minnesota went 56-25 at the Metrodome and then won all six of its postseason games there; on the road, they were the Twinkies at 29-52.

No one knows why Minnesota did so well at home; not even those who claim the Twins steal signs there can prove. Nor is there any reason to think Minnesota will do it again, especially after standing pat during the winter.

Puckett (.332, 28 HR, 99 RBI), Gaetti (31 HR, 109 RBI), Hrbek (34 HR, 90 RBI) and Brunansky (32 HR, 85) are the nucleus. Shortstop Greg Gagne, whose scratch single drove home the tie-breaking run in Game 7 against St. Louis, and second baseman Steve Lombardozzi anchor the infield on the only AL team to commit under 100 errors.

World Series MVP Frank Viola (17-10) is the winningest left-hander in the big leagues in the last four years. Bert Blyleven (15-12) gives Minnesota a Big Two. Les Straker (8-10), who writes pitching secrets on his glove, is the third starter.

How weak is the rotation? Aged Steve Carlton and Joe Niekro, each with ERAs over 5.00, are in contention for spots. Jeff Reardon's 4.48 ERA was his highest ever, but his 31 saves were what Minnesota wanted.

The Twins won 85-77 and haven't won more games since 1970. A lot of people thought they were lucky, but give them credit: they won the World Series.

Kansas City Royals

For all their pitching — Kansas City again led the West — the Royals continue to come up short because they have no offense.

It's somewhat surprising, considering they have some big names. But George Brett & Co. finished last in the AL with 715 runs, and sudden improvement is not likely.

That could change if Bo Jackson OAKLAND page 3-B

Veteran Alcott breaks course record

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — David Ogrin gained a position among the leaders with an early 67 and declared the once-feared TPC at Sawgrass not as intimidating as in past years.

"The novelty has worn off. The field has learned to play it. That's why the scores are lower," Ogrin said Thursday.

And they were remarkably low in the first round of the Players Championship, the $1.25 million event formerly called the Tournament Players Championship.

Mark McCumber had a 65 that included a last-hole eagle. He was only one shot off the course record but only one shot ahead of the field after the opening round.

Greg Norman of Australia and Curt Byrum had 66s, while Tom Kite, Fuzzy Zoeller, John Mahaffey, Ed Fiori and South African David Frost joined Ogrin at 67.

While the novelty may be gone, the course still produced some novel experiences for a field of golf's greatest names.

Take Norman, for example. The man who dominated world golf in 1986 whiffed a little chip.

"The ball was sitting up in the grass and the clubhead went right under it, never touched it," Norman said. He one-putted for bogey on the fifth hole.

Jack Nicklaus also one-putted — from about 40 feet — for a bogey six. He'd been tangled up in trees and trash for a while, hit a wood club for his fourth shot on the 16th, got it into a bunker and then saved a world-class bogey with the huge putt. He finished with a 73.

Jay Haas, the year's leading money winner, didn't finish. He was disqualified. After missing a short putt on the ninth hole, he hurried the putter against his golf bag hard enough to twist and bend it. He continued to use the misshapen club for a couple of holes until an official ruled it no longer conformed to the rules of golf.

But he wasn't alone in his miseries on a warm, sunny day. Seve Ballesteros spewed some unprintable Spanish after a shot found the water on the island-green 17th. He had a 76.

Defending champion Sandy Lyle wasn't so fortunate. The burly Scot required 79 shots.

McCumber, whose home is "about three miles from here," took the lead with a 112-yard sand wedge shot that found the cup for an eagle-3 on the ninth, his final hole of the day.

Norman also made an eagle, dropping a 14-footer on the 16th that gave him, briefly, a share of the lead. He backed off with a three-putt bogey on the next hole.

Byrum, too, was tied for the lead at one point, but he bogeyed the 18th after driving into an old divot.

Linksters conquer Sawgrass course

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Amy Alcott, who went without a victory on the LPGA Tour last year for the first time since she turned pro in 1975, seems to have her sights set on the $350,000 Turquoise Classic title.

Alcott fired an eight-under-par 65 to break the course record by two strokes and take a two-shot lead after Thursday's first round.

The 32-year-old Alcott birdied four straight holes on her second nine en route to breaking the mark of 67 set by defending champion Pat Bradley last year.

Colleen Walker was two shots back after a round of 67 in the morning to tie the record before Alcott broke it in 93-degree heat.

"I felt like I drank a whole lake out there," Alcott said. "But I played well. I thought I'd just keep firing at the pin and see what happens. It's fun. This is what makes it fun."

Mary Beth Zimmerman, the 1986 champion here, had a 69, as did Debbie McHaffie, to be four shots off the pace.

Ten players were tied at 70. Bradley, who has missed the cut in three of the four tournaments in which she has played this year, carded a 76 on the par-73, 6,404-yard Moon Valley Golf Course.

Mary Bea Porter, who was granted an unprecedented exemption in recognition of having saved the life of a drowning child beside this course during her unsuccessful qualifying round last Wednesday, carded an 83.

Steers hosting district golf play

The Big Spring Steers will be hosting this week's round of District 2-4A golf play Saturday at Comanche Trail Golf Course, with tee off times starting at 9 a.m.

After one round of district play Big Spring is currently leading the district with a 309 score. Andrews follows with a 309 and Snyder is next at 311.

Big Spring's Jeff Rhodes is leading medalist play with a 67, five strokes ahead of Sweetwater's Ray Torres Snyder's Joey McQueen. The Lady Steer golfers will be in Pecos.

Big Spring in baseball action

The Big Spring Steers will be in District 2-4A baseball play today when they host Lamesa Tornadoes at 4 p.m. at Steer Field.

The Steers are 8-8 in league play and 1-0 in district play. Lamesa is 0-1 in district play. Big Spring is coming off a 14-6 win over Fort Stockton. Lamesa dropped a 8-2 decision to Monahans.

Hawks in crucial Region V tilt

The Howard College Hawks will be in an important Region V series against McLennan Community College Saturday and Sunday at Jack Barber Field.

The Hawks and MCC are currently tied for first place in the region with 7-2 records.

A single game will be played Saturday at 2 p.m. On Sunday, a doubleheader will be played starting at 1 p.m.

Howard is 26-6 for the season.

Record setting QB retires

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Dan Fouts, who directed San Diego's record-setting offense of the late 1970s and early 1980s, retired, saying his body could not take the battering of another football season.

Fouts, holder of seven NFL passing marks and 42 club records, said his decision to retire was a mutual one by him and club officials.

After replacing his boyhood idol, Johnny Unitas, Fouts became the second most prolific passer in NFL history. He leaves with 43,040 passing yards, trailing only Fran Tarkenton, who has 47,003. He also heads the all-time list for 300-yard passing games with 51.

Graf, Evert advance to finals

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Top seed Steffi Graf won a battle of 18-year-olds while No. 2 Chris Evert beat a player half her age to advance to the women's finals of the $2.1 million International Players Championships.

Graf, the defending champion, swept past unseeded Stephanie Rehe of Highland, Calif., 6-3, 6-1 while Evert beat 16-year-old Mary Joe Fernandez of Miami 6-2, 6-1 in the other semifinal.

The two will meet in Saturday's finals.

Evans wins second swim title

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Janet Evans of Placentia, Calif., captured her second title by winning as the 400-meter individual medley at the U.S. Swimming Indoor National Championships.

Evans was timed in 4 minutes, 39.86 seconds, easily beating former U.S. national champion Michelle Grigione, who finished in 4:44.84.

the half to create a 43-32 lead. Villanova, 24-12, built its lead to 49-36 early in the second half and withstood a pair of surges that twice saw Kentucky, 27-6, get within four points.

"We have referred to coming back to the same arena, and there's a feeling of confidence in that," said Plinsky of the similar route taken by the 1985 and '88 squads. "But I don't think that's a relevant issue anymore. This team has established its own identity."

Rex Chapman had 30 points, including five 3-point baskets, for Kentucky, the SEC champion. West led Villanova with 20 points.

"It seemed like, in the second half, any time we'd make a run, someone on their ball club would answer it," Kentucky coach Eddie Sutton said. "We just never could get over the hump. We had to play catchup all evening, and then we had to foul to get the ball, and that was no good, because they hit all of their free throws."

Porno program to air

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — A special program produced by Fort Lauderdale-based Coral Ridge Ministries and Dr. D. James Kennedy will air Saturday at 8 p.m. on KOSA-TV Channel 7.

DR. KENNEDY

The purpose of the program is to present a case for American to take action to see that pornography and obscenity laws are enforced in their communities.

"Pornography: An American Tragedy," includes interviews with a number of experts, including Dr. James Dobson and Father Bruce Ritter, members of the Attorney General's Commission on pornography, Brad Curl, director of Morality in Media, and Dr. Jerry Cook, from the National Coalition Against Pornography.

because they have never been exposed to the violent, aberrant materials distributed today. These materials are not protected by the First Amendment, particularly since Miller vs. California in 1973.

• Today's children and teenagers are being exposed to pornography, many times in video form, that is far more harmful than the "soft core" Playboy variety. This has led, for example, to a marked increase in children abusing other children. It is estimated that 70 percent of pornography produced today reaches children.

Among the messages stressed by the special program are:

• Across the nation, criminal obscenity laws are not being enforced. The Post Office Department alone estimates that 100,000 violations occur daily, without penalty.

• Most Americans don't understand how "hard core" the majority of pornography has become,

THE LOVE OF GOD ENCHANTS US WITH THE COLORS OF SPRING

With the snows of the winter beginning to melt
 At the last of the storm and the gale,
 Then the season's awakening soon will be felt,
 As the gentler breezes prevail.
 Now the branches of trees will no longer be bare,
 but imbued with a delicate green;
 And the perfume of flowers will sweeten the air,
 While the birds will enliven the scene.
 As religion reminds us, the love of the Lord
 Brings this pleasure we all can derive,
 For the calendar offers its greatest reward
 In the spring, when the earth comes alive.

—Gloria Nowak

 that every flower
 Enjoys the air it breathes.

St. Vincent de Paul Society serves needy

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

It's a long way to France, but some local residents are keeping the traditions of a young Frenchman dedicated to helping the needy.

Members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church have been doing their best to meet the needs of economic victims this winter.

"Due to economic conditions of our area, we surely have kept some lights lighted and heat supplied to a great number of homes," said Rev. Stephen White, pastor.

The organization, similar to The Salvation Army, "helps those who cannot help themselves," regardless of race or religion, June Wiggins, coordinator said.

A Benefit Game Night and Card Party will be conducted April 8 at 7 p.m. in the church parish hall. The event is open to the public for a $5 per person donation, and includes refreshments such as ham sandwiches, chips, cake, and coffee.

Church member Mary Lou Traczyk added that church members will bake the cakes in an effort to save money. "We want more money to go to the needy," she said.

Local merchants have donated over 200 prizes to be given away during the night. "Big Spring merchants were very generous — they were very receptive," said Traczyk.

Door prizes include champagne, a floor lamp, bottles of water, ice, sweaters, bowling coupons, colognes, hair care products, permanents, and several merchants have donated dinners.

MARY LOU TRACYZK

REV. STEPHEN WHITE

JUNE WIGGINS

"Some merchants gave checks that will go directly to the fund for the poor," said Traczyk.

St. Vincent de Paul Society was founded 150 years ago in Paris, France by a young college student, Frederic Ozenam, and his friends.

After Ozenam's Catholic faith was challenged, he began visiting hospital patients, and shut-ins. He fed the hungry and supplied them with magazines.

Ozenam's organization was named after St. Vincent de Paul, a priest who dedicated his life to two ministries. The first was caring for youth by taking them off the streets of Paris and feeding and clothing them. His second ministry was establishing seminaries for the education of future priests, said White.

In 1982, Wiggins, charter president of the Big Spring chapter, was asked by former pastor Rev. Gully to serve as chairperson and then president of the society at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, a position she held until 1986.

"Father Gully was very supportive of the society and began a collection. He also gave donations along the way," Wiggins said.

Funds are raised by parishioners, who donate money, clothing and food. If there is a specific need, that need is announced during Mass, and is placed in the bulletin, said Wiggins.

"Most of the time we receive what we request," she added. Past fundraisers included fashion shows, barbecues, and food drives.

"One parishioner collected food at his work place," said Wiggins. "The core group workers are very dedicated and work hard with true love for those in need," said Wiggins.

Every Saturday night a bingo game is conducted at the church, with some of the proceeds benefiting the society. The remaining money raised goes to other areas of the church.

If there is a case that the society can't help, other sources are located for the needy person. Wiggins remembered when she previously served as president. "We tried to befriend some of the elderly without family or friends. Many times just to be there was their biggest requirement, to know somebody cared about them and loved them. We also were blessed by our love being returned."

"We're really happy with the effort by parishioners for their private donations, church collections, and fundraising functions," White said. "We're very proud to have always in place a considerable sum of money to assist those in need."

The game nights began as a fundraising effort by church member Traczyk who said, "We had excellent results with this back home in Akron, Ohio. It's an informal fun night for the whole family."

If you would like to donate money, food or clothing to the society, please contact the church at 267-4124. Checks should be made payable to the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Religion roundup

NEW YORK (AP) — Termed the first such direct shipment from this country to the Soviet Union, two tons of kosher food and other Passover supplies were sent by Manhattan's Park East Synagogue to the Choral Synagogue in Moscow.

Rabbi Arthur Schneier, leader of the Manhattan synagogue and president of the Appeal of Conscience Foundation, worked out plans for the shipment with Soviet officials in January. Passover week is April 2-9.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Nebraska pastor told students at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary that preachers need to do more story-telling in their sermons. "Stories are life changers," said the Rev. Calvin Miller of Omaha. "They produce and their product is real."

Church to host seminar

What do the Jewish Passover and Jesus' Last Supper have in common?

Holly Rabin, staff representative with Jews for Jesus, will answer that question as she presents "Christ in the Passover," at College Heights Christian Church, 400 East 21st St., Saturday at 10 p.m.

The purpose of the presentation is to enhance the Christian understanding of the New Testament by presenting the Jewish background for the Communion celebration. Ancient and modern Jewish customs are discussed and described with an emphasis on the aspect of redemption that Christ accomplished at Calvary, according to a news release.

Members of Jews for Jesus have presented this demonstration in over one thousand churches. It was originally written in 1956 by Moishe Rosen, the founder and executive director.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: An older colleague will help you past the rough spots at work. You learn a lesson about love that could save a valuable relationship. You have lots of personal plans to make. If single, expect a wild and woolly summer romance! You are more motivated than at any other time in your career. Money will be easier to come by. Your words are more powerful than you imagine. Choose them with care. A family relationship reaches a turning point.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: poets Robert Frost and A.E. Housman, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, Gen. William Westmoreland, sensational Diana Ross, author Erica Jong, actors Alan Arkin, James Caan and Leonard Nimoy, singer Teddy Pendergrass, playwright Tennessee Williams.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your home may be in total disarray. Call on family members to help you get organized and reward them with a special dinner. A relationship is sorely tested; its survival depends on you!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): People will resent your telling them how to do every little thing, even if your suggestions are on target. Pull back and let everyone do his best. Regular exercise keeps you feeling fit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may be happier about your partner's spending plans than your own. Team up with friends and neighbors for group fun. Travel could prove disappointing now. Better stay close to home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An excellent financial opportunity will cross your path if traveling this weekend. Do not spend the money until you have it in hand. There is a risk in loving. Take a chance!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A move across country could open doors to a once-in-a-lifetime job. Take advantage of an opportunity to tone up your body. A blind date will be more exciting than you think.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A relationship cannot continue on its present course. Seek a compromise. A shy partner reveals his true feelings. Follow up a hot real estate tip and you could make some real money!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A research project begins to pay off. Voice your innovative ideas and you are a sure-fire winner. Stop dwelling on past mistakes. A friend tries to talk you into something. Think twice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Continue working on projects already under way. Family draws close together. Keep in touch with loved ones who live at a distance. A child does you proud! Show your feelings. Be affectionate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An older person provides valuable financial tips. Plan a special treat for romantic partner. New surroundings give you fresh insights into an old problem. Follow your instincts. Play a waiting game.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ask the advice of those who know and love you best. Inner satisfaction means far more to you than extra income. Give a loved one the benefit of the doubt. Offer your support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Set priorities and refuse to let others steer you off course. Someone who used to mean a lot to you wants to see you again. Romance could be sweeter the second time around.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hidden factors could be hindering some of your efforts. Learn to play the waiting game. Mate or partner offers constructive suggestions regarding extra income. A good evening to get out and socialize.
