By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
Prison officials have been questioning the wife of an inmate who escaped Tuesday from the Howard McLeod Correctional Center in Farris, corrections officials said.
And an inmate who escaped from another minimum-security prison Tuesday was still at large early today.
McLeod Warden Earl Allen said authorities believe Kenneth R. Marshall, 23, may have ridden away from McLeod prison with his wife when she picked up another inmate who was released Tuesday.
"We have units out searching the area," Allen said. "We're also questioning his wife."
Department of Corrections spokesman Jerry Massie said Marshall was discovered missing at the noon count Tuesday.

Marshall is described as a white man, 5-foot-10, 160 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes. He was serving time on a first-degree murder conviction out of Nowata County.

"We don't have any information to indicate he's armed. But we're concerned because of the type of sentence and the length," Massie said.

Meanwhile, authorities were also searching for Jimmy Lane, who was serving 10 years for a Lincoln County confidence game conviction.

Lane was reported missing Tuesday from the John Lilley Correctional Center at Boley during a 7:30 a.m. head count, Massie said.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Bob Wood, an Oklahoma City telephone official, walks past a destroyed mobile home where a woman died Monday night. Violent weather shook parts of Oklahoma Monday evening and night, dumping over 2 inches of rain in some areas and covering the ground with hail ranging up to softball size. The weather service said it could not confirm any tornadoes but was sending out investigators after daylight to see whether the damage possibly was caused by twisters. Joe Kendall, a National Weather Service meteorologist, said winds as high as 70 mph were recorded in the Oklahoma City area.

Educators hail ruling in harassment lawsuit

DALLAS (AP) — Texas educators are hailing a judge's ruling that a mother acted maliciously by repeatedly suing her son's third-grade teacher as a step toward more legal protection for teachers.
"We've been having a lot of trouble with teachers getting harassed by parents or students," said John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers. "This certainly helps in that ... there should be some feeling that to impugn someone's lifelong reputation ought not to be taken lightly."
"It tells the teachers that if they act in good faith in disciplining their students, they will be protected by a court of law," agreed Dennis J. Eichelbaum, an attorney for the Dallas Independent School District.
State District Judge John Marshall ruled Monday that Betty Phillips, a Dallas mother, "acted with malice" in her yearlong pursuit of charges that teacher Sandra Adkisson choked Ms. Phillips' son. Ms. Phillips was ordered to pay Ms. Adkisson's legal expenses, which amount to about $1,300.

Ms. Phillips had filed complaints against Ms. Adkisson with city, county, state and federal agencies. Each agency or court cleared Ms. Adkisson, who filed for malicious prosecution with DISD backing.
But Ms. Phillips attorney, Allan Fishburn, said the ruling deprives parents the right to seek justice when their children are mistreated at school.
"It keeps you quiet. It shuts your mouth," Fishburn said.
Ms. Phillips said she plans to appeal the ruling and file a civil lawsuit against the DISD.
"I just feel sorry for the children — they have no one, absolutely no one, to help them," Ms. Phillips said. "They are made to be in fear when they're at school."

Buses crash on bridge

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — Two buses loaded with teen-agers returning from a visit to the nation's capital collided on a bridge that crosses San Francisco Bay, injuring at least 20 people and closing the span for more than 20 hours.

The accident Tuesday night began when a car with a flat tire stopped in the fast lane of the 9 1/2-mile-long San Mateo Bridge, said California Highway Patrol investigator Nick Chouprov.

The buses carried 72 youngsters from Modesto junior high schools. The first stopped and was struck from behind by the second, according to Chouprov.

The youngsters suffered only minor injuries, according to Thomas McGarry, a spokesman for Eden Hospital in Castro Valley.

Swaggart barred a year

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Assemblies of God officials who barred TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart from preaching for a year say their church has survived a constitutional dispute touched off by the scandal that led to his downfall.

"I believe that the church is strong and I believe that the church is purified and strengthened by this," said Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, the Assemblies' general superintendent.

The Executive Presbytery, which serves as the church's board of directors and is headed by Carlson, announced Tuesday that the fiery Swaggart must stop preaching for at least one year and undergo two years of rehabilitation to remain a minister in the nation's largest Pentecostal church.

Swaggart confessed to unspecified sins during a tearful appearance at his Baton Rouge, La., church on Feb. 21 and stepped down from his pulpit.

Mecham sells company

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham was forced to sell his auto dealership because of lagging sales blamed on the bad publicity that has dogged him since he took office in January 1987, the governor's son said.

The financial condition of Mecham Pontiac has been a central issue in the second of three impeachment charges against Mecham, that he misused $80,000 from the governor's protocol fund by loaning it to the dealership.

The prosecution planned to bring up one or two more witnesses today before concluding testimony on the charge.

Afterward, the Senate was expected to consider whether to vote on the first two impeachment articles, even though no testimony has been heard during the month-long trial on the third charge — that Mecham concealed a $350,000 campaign loan.

Activist killed
Some still wary of explanation

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A broken romance, not political assassination, was the motive behind the shotgun killing of an Indian judicial candidate by a Lumbee Indian who later committed suicide, a sheriff says.

Another Indian, Sandy Gordon Chavis, 24, was charged with first-degree murder Tuesday as an accomplice in the slaying of Julian Pierce, a popular, 42-year-old legal services lawyer who was running for Superior Court judge in racially troubled Robeson County.

County Sheriff Hubert Stone, who had initially called Pierce's killing an assassination, said a friend of Chavis, John Anderson Goins, 24, had been having problems with his girlfriend, whose mother was Pierce's fiancée.

"Two warrants were issued last week by the girlfriend's mother, charging Goins with trespassing. Goins felt Pierce had something to do with it. He got mad and he killed him," Stone said.

Goins' body, with a bullet wound to the head, was found in a closet at his father's home Tuesday by police who had a murder warrant for his arrest. Stone called the death a suicide.

"I can assure the world that there was no political involvement in the case," Stone said at a news conference. "I think the people of Robeson County will understand that it's just another murder."

On the eve of Pierce's funeral today, however, some county activists said they doubted Stone's conclusion.

"In light of our history here, any hasty conclusions to a murder in Robeson County will always be highly suspect in the community," said the Rev. Mac Legerton, director of the Center for Community Action in Lumberton.

"You got a few who believe it's the real thing, but I don't," said the Rev. S.D. Lewis, assistant pastor at Hilly Branch Baptist Church, a predominantly black church in Lumberton. "They're trying to pull a cover-up on us."

Before Tuesday's arrest, commissioners in the county of 100,000 people in southeastern North Carolina had urged the appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate Pierce's killing.

Anger at what the Indians called corrupt local government and entrenched racism in Robeson County boiled over Feb. 1, when two Lumbees took hostages at The Robesonian newspaper in Lumberton.

Cubans killed in blaze

MONTREAL (AP) — Three Cubans were killed in a fire that heavily damaged their consulate and was raging out of control by the time consular officials allowed firefighters to battle it, authorities said.

The fire Tuesday night was believed to have started on the top floor of the four-story mansion, where the bodies of the one woman and two men killed were found in separate rooms. "It looked like they died trying to put out the fire," said the district fire chief, Guy Lafortune.

The names and occupations of the dead were not released and Consul-General Lourdes Urrutia, who took up her post only last week, refused to speak to reporters.

The blaze took 100 firefighters more than three hours to bring under control. Its cause was under investigation.

Army kills woman

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel today closed a key Arab information service, deployed 4,000 police in Israel's Arab sectors and reportedly shot and killed an Arab woman in the occupied West Bank as she ate breakfast with her family.

Israel, which also sealed off the occupied lands, was trying to head off PLO-ordered riots marking today's 12th anniversary of Palestinian Land Day when Israeli soldiers killed six Arabs protesting land confiscation in 1976.

Eight police swept into the Arab-owned Palestine Press Service in east Jerusalem and ordered it closed for six months under 1948 emergency regulations. The service is the only Arab information agency and has been a critical source for journalists since Israel closed the occupied lands Monday.

Rebel fighter captured

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The military today said the country's top communist rebel fighter was captured in a series of raids described by the president as a turning point in the battle against the insurgency.

Maj. Gen. Ramon Montano told reporters that Romulo Kintanar, commander of the communist New People's Army, was among seven rebel leaders captured in Tuesday's raids. He said authorities did not immediately realize who Kintanar was because he initially gave a false name.

The government-run Philippine News Agency quoted another military official as saying the chairman of the Communist Party of the Philippines, Benito Tiamzon, had escaped by the time raiders arrived at his hideout in suburban Quezon City. The agency said Tiamzon must have been tipped off by radio broadcasts on the arrest of his comrades in two raids at the Manila suburb of San Juan earlier Tuesday.

The traditional Easter dinner should be as fresh, exciting and colorful as the season in which it is celebrated. It's the perfect time to be fanciful with foods and table decorations.

Planning and preparing an Easter dinner can be made easy by using recipes featured in this week's Recipe Exchange.

GLAZED LEG OF LAMB ROSEMARY

1 leg of lamb
2 tsp. vegetable oil
1/2 tsp. each salt and black pepper
1 tsp. crushed rosemary
1/4 tsp. garlic powder

GLAZE

1 tsp. cornstarch
1/4 cup water
1/2 cup pear liquid
1/2 cup apple jelly
1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg

Place leg of lamb on rack in shallow roasting pan; keep a small amount of water in bottom of pan during roasting period. Rub leg with vegetable oil. Combine salt, black pepper, rosemary and garlic powder. Sprinkle over lamb. Bake in a 325 degree F. oven 25 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees F. (medium rare) or desired doneness.

Approximately 10 minutes before removing from oven, glaze the leg of lamb. To prepare glaze, mix together cornstarch and water. Combine with pear liquid, apple jelly, lemon juice and nutmeg. Cook over low heat until mixture thickens and becomes clear. Glaze lamb; return to oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to rest 20 to 30 minutes before carving.

TENNESSEE HAM

1 ham, cured
4 cups water
1 cup of Grandma's Unsulphured Molasses
1 1/2 cups of brown sugar
1 lbs. of cream cloves
Preheat oven to 225 degrees F. Place ham in large roasting pan, rind side down, add water and molasses. Bake, allowing 15 minutes per pound. Cool ham in liquid. Remove rind carefully. Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Mix brown sugar and cream to make a paste, rub evenly over ham. Score ham and place a clove in each square and bake for one hour.

GRANDMA'S SPECIAL HAM GLAZE

1/2 cup apple sauce
1/2 cup Grandma's Unsulphured Molasses

1/4 tsp. ground ginger — 1 clove garlic crushed

In a saucepan, combine apple sauce, molasses, ginger and garlic over medium heat. Brush ham with glaze every 10 minutes during last 1/2 hour of cooking.

LAMB AND RICE STRUDEL

1 pound ground lamb
1 cup chopped onions
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 tsp. each ground cinnamon, cloves and cumin
1 can (4 oz.) chopped green chiles
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup raisins
1/4 cup water
2 cups cooked rice
16 sheets frozen fillo, thawed
Melted butter or margarine
Salt

Cook lamb in large skillet over medium heat until meat is no longer pink. Stir to crumble. Add onions, garlic, seasonings and 1 tsp. salt. Cook until onions are soft but not brown. Add green chiles, celery, raisins and water. Simmer about 10 minutes, or until most of liquid evaporates.

Add rice. Add salt to taste. Cool. Cover fillo leaves with wax paper and a damp tea towel. Working with 2 of the leaves folded in half (like a book), open one half and brush exposed surfaces with butter.

Turn leaves over and repeat process. Spoon 1/4 of lamb mixture onto folded leaves near edge, leaving an inch of dough exposed at each end. Roll up, tucking ends under. Place on baking sheet and brush with butter. Repeat with other 14 fillo leaves and lamb mixture. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until golden brown and crisp. Makes 8 strudels.

GREEN AND GOLD PILAF

1 1/2 cups uncooked rice
3 tbs. butter or margarine
3 cups water
6 cubes or tsp. chicken bouillon granules
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. ground white pepper
3 small or 2 medium carrots, cut in short, thin sticks
8 to 10 oz. frozen French-style green beans, thawed*

Combine rice, butter, water, bouillon and pepper in 3-to 4-quart saucepan. Bring to boil. Stir once or twice. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Remove from heat. Add carrots and beans. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. Add salt, if necessary. Makes 8 servings.
*Or use fresh green beans and cut French style.

BRAISED BROCCOLI WITH WINE AND GARLIC

1 bunch broccoli
4 tbs. butter
6 cloves garlic, chopped
1/2 tsp. basil
1/2 cup dry white wine
Cut the broccoli florets into bite-size pieces. Peel the stalks (if you wish) and cut them into bite-size pieces.
Melt the butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Add the garlic and cook one minute. Do not let it get brown. Add the broccoli and basil, and saute for seven minutes, tossing occasionally.
Add the wine and toss; then cover the skillet and reduce the heat to a simmer. Cook 2-3 minutes, or until the broccoli is tender yet still crunchy. Spoon into a warm serving dish and pour over any remaining sauce. Serve immediately.

Glazed ham, carrots in orange juice, cookies and cake are all part of a delicious easy-to-prepare Easter dinner.

Cook over medium-high heat, adding the orange juice, brown sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Stir until the juices have evaporated. Squeeze lemon juice to taste over the carrots and transfer

Molasses

2 1/2 cups of unsifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup apple sauce
1 1/2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats
1 package (6 oz.) chocolate chips
1 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans

Prepare cardboard base: Cut a circle, 16-inches in diameter, from sturdy cardboard. Cover both sides of cardboard with heavy duty foil. Lightly grease one side.

Place base on cookie sheet for easy handling. Prepare cookie batter. In large bowl, cream butter with sugar. Beat in egg and molasses. Mix together flour, cinnamon, baking soda and salt. Add to molasses mixture alternately with apple sauce.

Stir in oats, chocolate chips, dates and pecans. Spoon 4 cups batter onto prepared base, spreading evenly to 1/2-inch from edge. (Reserve remaining batter for Bonus Cookies below). Bake in a 375 degree F. oven 20 to 25 minutes. Cool completely. Decorate in desired fashion with Ornamental Frosting*.

BONUS COOKIES

Drop remaining batter by heaping tablespoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheet. Spread into 2 1/2-inch circles. Bake in a 375 degree F. oven 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 12 3-inch cookies.

PSEUDO PYSANKY — Producing colorful eggs requires just a few simple steps: Draw the design with a stylus and heated wax; apply the colors, using lighter ones first, coating each with wax before applying additional colors; heat egg slowly over stove burner, using slotted spoon, until wax is soft enough to wipe off.

Colorful Easter eggs have long history

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — The beauty of brightly colored and decorated eggs has enchanted many cultures from the ancient Persians and Greeks to Europe's Ukrainians. But it is the Pennsylvania Germans who are credited with bringing the tradition of the Easter egg to America, according to researchers at a company that manufactures egg dye.

Long before Christianity, eggs were colored, blessed, exchanged, and eaten as part of the pagan rites of spring. The egg was considered a symbol of the rebirth of the sun after a long winter's sleep.

With the spread of Christianity, the egg took on new significance. As one of the many foods once forbidden during Lent, eggs were a treat to eat on Easter Day. The Polish, Slavic and Ukrainian people created elaborate eggs which were included in baskets, taken to church and blessed, and later savored at Easter breakfast.

These traditions had all but died out in Europe by the 1700s, say the researchers for Hinkle Enterprises. The firm was founded in 1893 by Samuel Hinkle, a pharmacist from Pennsylvania Dutch country, who had developed vibrant egg colors that he distributed at Eastertime to local townspeople.

When a five-and-dime chain became a customer, Hinkle's hobby turned into a business.

It was the German settlers in America, better known as the Pennsylvania Dutch, who revived the glory of the Easter egg, the researchers report.

These deeply religious people cherished their traditions and among their contributions to American folklore and practices are Easter egg decorating, egg rolls and hunts, egg trees, and even the Easter Bunny.

Early coloring was a messy and time-consuming process. Natural dyes were made by boiling onion skins to achieve yellow colors, alder catkins and hickory for brown, madder root for red, and nuts, roots and berries for various hues.

Other methods were to wrap eggs in bright calico, boiling them so the colors were transferred, or pasting pieces of cloth to the eggs. Still more complicated was pysanky, which involved the use of wax and dyes to create the most intricate of Easter eggs.

The technique originated with the Ukrainians, the name stemming from the verb "pysaty," meaning "to write."

By the start of the 20th century, however, Easter egg decorating was becoming a widespread American tradition, thanks to Pennsylvania Dutch influence and the development of new and simple egg dye treatments.

Today, egg decorating has become a highly sophisticated craft, with societies and national exhibits that feature beautiful eggs created by talented designers.

Pysanky eggs continue to be the most popular, and designers have developed a simplified way of making them, which produces a psyanky-type egg in less than 30 minutes, rather than the days required for the authentic technique.

Materials needed for the pseudo-pysanky craft include: hard-boiled eggs at room temperature; paint-on egg dye; cotton swabs and fine-tipped paint brush; beeswax or paraffin; stylus (which can be made by sticking a pin through a pencil eraser); slotted spoon with wooden or plastic handle; and cloth or paper towels.

• To draw initial design on egg, heat stylus tip on stove burner, then stick stylus onto beeswax or paraffin. Apply heated wax to egg. The wax will cool almost immediately and will adhere to egg.

• After wax on part of design you want to remain white is set, apply the first color using cotton swabs or paint brush. Before using second color, apply wax over part of eggs you want to remain first color. Layer darker color over lighter shades. Now, if you were to remove wax, you would have a design in white and two colors, but the number of colors that can be applied is not limited.

• To remove wax, heat egg slowly and carefully over stove burner, using slotted spoon. Test every few seconds to see if wax is soft enough to wipe off with cloth or paper towel.

Children should eat eggs eggs are an excellent source of protein, so important for the proper growth and development of a child's body," says Elizabeth Schwebel, who analyzes children's diets at The New York Institute for Child Development.

With Easter among the highest chocolate-consumption holidays of the year, the nutritionist suggests that parents add real eggs to their children's baskets, rather than offering too many chocolate or candy eggs, which she says could have a harmful effect on behavior.

"In our clinical experience with learning disabled and hyperactive children," she explains "we have found that too much sugar in a child's diet can contribute to such problems as erratic behavior, irritability, restlessness and headaches, and can interfere with a child's ability to learn."

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't just color, roll or hide your Easter eggs — make sure your children eat them, too, advises a nutritionist from a national child care center. "Parents should remember that

Easter egg hunt tips

To make sure your Easter egg hunt is all fun and games, keep these tips in mind from the current Family Circle magazine:

- Use only fresh, clean, unbroken eggs. To hard-cook eggs, place eggs in single layer in saucepan; add cool tap water to cover eggs by one inch. Heat to almost boiling; simmer, without boiling, 10 minutes. Remove eggs with slotted spoon to bowl of cold water for five minutes. Refrigerate immediately; use within one week. Hard-cooked eggs can be removed from refrigerator and left at room temperature for up to two hours.
- To empty eggshells: Pierce pointed end of egg with large, sterilized needle. Then make a bigger hole (1/4-inch) at rounder end. Carefully move needle around inside egg to break yolk. Holding egg over bowl, blow through smaller hole till egg is empty. Rinse out shell thoroughly and let dry.

For a hunt that won't get out of hand:

- Choose a date and location (preferably adjoining yards — remember, someone has to hide all the eggs). Then decide on the amount you wish to spend. You'll need about 100 eggs per 10 children, plus prizes: chocolate bunnies and lollipops, nuts, storybooks — your choice.
- Use a combination of hard-cooked decorated eggs and plastic one filled with jelly beans and assorted candies. Decorate the shells with nontoxic markers, stencils, stickers or kits available at local stores.
- On the day of the hunt, hide the eggs outdoors on the property. Play it safe: Hard-cooked eggs should not be outside for more than two hours.
- Divide the children into groups according to age. The child who finds the most eggs within an allotted time wins prizes for his/her group. Follow with refreshments.
- If it rains: You'd be amazed at how many hiding places there are in a house, even in a family room alone.

Confidential files spring a big leak

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter a while ago about a woman who had had breast reduction surgery and was upset because pictures of her breasts (before and after) were on file at her doctor's office, and she heard that some of the nurses were snickering about them.

It reminded me of my own experience concerning "confidential medical records." When I was 20, I had an abortion. Seven years later when I was pregnant with my first child, my doctor asked if this was my first pregnancy, so I told him about the abortion.

At one of my early prenatal visits, his nurse walked into the examining room, looked me straight in the eye and said, "So you've decided to keep this one?"

Abby, I was speechless! I'm sorry now that I didn't report her right away to my doctor. Needless to say, never again will I disclose that information on my medical history. Anyone in a doctor's office has access to the patient's records.

Please print this, Abby. I hope that bimbo sees it. And I'd also like to tell her now what I should have said seven years ago: "You don't belong in the nursing profession!"

SPEECHLESS IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Since it's still bothering you, tell your doctor now. He ought to know that your right to privacy was violated by nurse so-and-so, and you no longer will disclose your full medical history. I have heard that some physicians record highly confidential information in Latin, Spanish, German or French. Clever? Maybe your doctor should consider it.

DEAR ABBY: To the person who wrote to alert pet owners to outfit their pets with collars and tags bearing the animal's name and the owner's telephone number — good advice, indeed. But please, do not put the cat or dog's name on an I.D. tag. With dogs especially, it will make it so much easier for someone to steal your beloved companion.

If the dog napper calls the dog by name, the dog will be more apt to follow the stranger to know where — cruelty? Experiments? So, a word to the wise: The pet's license number and the owner's address and telephone number are all you need to include. Omit the name. That's between you and your pet!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Grammy Award-winning singer Lou Rawls has won the applause of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors for his efforts in raising $100 million for the United Negro College Fund.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn presented Rawls with a proclamation Monday, praising his fund-raising successes as a "tremendous achievement and sacrifice."

"A mind is a terrible thing to waste," Rawls said, repeating the fund's motto. "A lot of young people are standing on corners, and you know their minds are wasting away."

PARIS (AP) — Premier Jacques Chirac made a low-level pass over the French capital in the inaugural flight of the Airbus A-320, which ended with a sweep up the Champs Elysees and over the Arc de Triomphe.

"This is the most modern plane built so far in the world," Chirac said Monday. "It testifies to the success of European aeronautical cooperation and especially to the quality of French aeronautics."

The Ville de Paris, or City of Paris, made an east-west pass about 1,640 feet above Paris, ending with the sweep up the Champs

Elysees.

The plane joins Air France's fleet, and is intended for flights between Paris, Dusseldorf and Berlin. It seats 153 people.

Low-flying planes over Paris are a rarity. A 1948 law forbids all aircraft to fly lower than 6,564 feet, although military aircraft are allowed to sweep up the Champs Elysee each year during the July 14 Bastille Day parade.

HOUSTON (AP) — Jazz trumpeter Al Hirt was released from the hospital after being treated for an infection of his right arm and his playing hand by his friend, famed heart surgeon Michael DeBakey.

Dole falls victim of his own campaign's blunders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Bob Dole, who for one winter week looked like a good bet for the Republican presidential nomination, has ended his quest for the White House as much the victim of his own campaign's shortcomings as of George Bush's success.

"My friends know that I am a fighter; I don't like to lose," the Senate Republican leader said in bowing to the inevitable Tuesday. "I have been beaten before, and no doubt will be again. But I have never been defeated and never will be."

In an ad-libbed addition to his prepared speech, Dole promised to do "all I can for our nominee, George Bush."

Bush, with an insurmountable delegate lead, called Dole while campaigning in Wisconsin to thank him for a "very generous statement." He added, "It's been a hard-fought campaign and I respect the tenacity of Bob Dole."

Only Pat Robertson remains in the GOP race as a stubborn challenger to Bush. Robertson conceded "it seems obvious" that Bush would be the nominee but said he won't withdraw as a candidate.

Dole formally withdrew surrounded by family and friends in the Senate Caucus Room, scene of Watergate and Iran-Contra hearings. A supportive audience of Senate and House colleagues jammed the room.

Also present were two former senior aides to the campaign, David Keene and Don Devine, who because of the public manner of their firings were reminders of the Dole campaign's internal divisions and ineptitude.

Dole's withdrawal must have been painful for a candidate who, in the glow of his lead-off victory in Iowa, could see the nomination almost within his grasp.

He benefited in that farm state from his rural, humble roots in neighboring Kansas, and the contrast with the patrician Bush. His victory in the nation's first delegate contest left Bush a stunned third-place finisher behind Dole and Robertson.

For the next week, critics called Bush a failed campaigner and Dole appeared on a winner's roll. Even his own pollster told Dole that he would likely win New Hampshire, riding a surge in popularity built on his Iowa success.

But the Dole campaign, thinking it could coast across the finish line, did not answer tough, last-minute Bush television ads that suggested Dole would raise taxes.

"I have been beaten before, and no doubt will be again. But I have never been defeated and never will be." — Bob Dole Fiercely and historically opposed to taxes, New Hampshire voters dealt Dole a loss from which he could not recover. Dole later described his failure to answer the Bush ad as his big mistake.

Dole's campaign was beset by internal divisions and vacillation. Critics said it was a reflection of Dole himself, calling him a consummate legislator but lacking in an executive's ability to delegate authority or organize.

After New Hampshire, Dole's campaign went into a tailspin. It seemed to unravel in embarrassingly full view.

Campaign manager Bill Brock, in a struggle for control, fired Keene and Devine as reporters watched. He ordered the two off the campaign plane in Florida.

Dole's strategy for winning the White House had been based primarily on winning the first two contests, and when he fell short in New Hampshire his candidacy collapsed.

He found himself far behind Bush in the Southern primaries on Super Tuesday three weeks later. Unable to focus his energies on his best opportunities, he lost everywhere. In one night, Bush moved halfway to a delegate majority.

Dole couldn't turn the race around in Illinois and was effectively out of the running.

In a metaphor of his sputtering campaign, a live 30-minute television broadcast in Illinois — planned in 11th-hour desperation — was ruined by an electronic glitch.

Dole was always dogged by a reputation for meanness born of his hatchet-man role as the 1976 vice presidential nominee. He was unable to shake it this time around.

"I'm sort of running against the ghost of Ronald Reagan," Dole once said.

Reagan neutrality may be ending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says Sen. Bob Dole's withdrawal from presidential contention could change President Reagan's proclaimed stance of neutrality in the race for the Republican nomination.

"The president's position all along has been that he wouldn't work for the candidate until there was a clear choice and we had presumed all along that would be at the convention," presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Tuesday after Dole's announcement.

"This does change things somewhat and the situation could change, but I haven't heard any discussion of it," he said.

Dole's withdrawal leaves only Vice President George Bush and former religious broadcaster Pat Robertson in the GOP field.

Even while maintaining his neutrality, Reagan has consistently spoken in glowing terms of Bush, telling television personality David Frost in a Nov. 28 interview, for instance, that Bush "has been the finest vice president in my memory in this country."

On the other hand he has spoken slightly of Robertson. At his Feb. 24 news conference, after Robertson claimed that his Christian Broadcasting Network had known and announced the location of American hostages in Lebanon, Reagan said, "Isn't it strange that no one in our administration was ever apprised of that? If he thought he knew, he kept it to himself."

At the time of Nancy Reagan's hospitalization for breast cancer surgery last year, Robertson made a remark that the president interpreted as criticism of the first lady. Talking to reporters before a scheduled White House meeting of GOP presidential hopefuls, Reagan said of the comment, "I'll see if he brings it up."

The president eventually canceled the meeting altogether, reportedly in anger over the Robertson remark, and it was never rescheduled.

Panama harassment might draw troops

Manuel Antonio Noriega

By GEORGE GEDDA
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is raising the prospect that the U.S. military may be used to protect the estimated 50,000 American citizens in Panama against possible harassment by that country's security forces.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater appeared to open the door to that possibility Tuesday after an incident the previous evening in which Panamanian troops confiscated the tapes of four U.S. television networks and briefly detained several American journalists.

Discussing the harassment against Americans, Fitzwater said, "It has always been a principle that we will protect American citizens as best we can and, while we have said that we don't plan to go in militarily, it's also important to note that there are limits."

But when President Reagan met with senior advisers Tuesday afternoon to discuss the Panama situation, use of military force was not discussed, according to an administration official who asked not to be identified.

The official said other options were discussed for bringing pressure to bear on Panamanian strongman Manuel Antonio Noriega, the de facto head of what the United States considers to be an illegal government.

It was not clear whether Fitzwater's comments represented a genuine re-evaluation of U.S. policy or were part of the continuing war of nerves between the administration and Panama's military-dominated government.

One major deterrent to military intervention is that any such move would generate a hostile reaction throughout Latin America. Most delegates attending a conference of Latin American representatives in Venezuela on Monday and Tuesday called for U.S. restraint.

In recent days, the administration has been weighing the possibility of imposing additional sanctions against Panama.

U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified, said Reagan could invoke the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, which would give him broad discretionary authority to limit private U.S. transactions with Panama. One example would be the suspension of all air service between the two countries.

Over the past month, administration actions have effectively cut off the flow of dollars into Panama, leaving the country near insolvency. Reagan has called on Noriega to step down.

There was a new sense of urgency here Tuesday over signs of an accelerating deterioration of the situation in Panama.

On Monday, thousands of anti-government demonstrators were routed by government forces with the help of shotguns, tear gas and water cannon. Witnesses said several people were injured and dozens arrested. Later, security agents forced their way at gunpoint into the offices of four American networks at a local hotel and confiscated tapes of the demonstration. Eight foreign journalists, including Americans, were detained for several hours before being released.

Shortly before Fitzwater spoke, ousted Panamanian President Eric Arturo Delvalle, whose authority the United States continues to recognize, appealed for the creation of a U.S.-led international force to oust Noriega.

Delvalle, who has spent the past month in hiding, made his appeal through Panama's ambassador, Juan B. Sosa, who has been acting as Delvalle's representative in Washington and has refused to relinquish the embassy to a replacement.

While criticizing the violence used against Panamanian demonstrators, the focus of the remarks by both Fitzwater and State Department spokesman Charles Redman was on the harassment of the American journalists.

Two cases set for jury consideration

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Docket call Tuesday resulted in the scheduling of two cases for consideration by juries next week: the Gwendolyn Fair vs. Carroll Moore, MD, suit and the estate of Elzie Jeannette Barnett. No criminal trials have been scheduled.

The trials of eight defendants in two capital murder cases have been delayed.

March 22, Eliza Gomez and Pete Gomez filed a personal injury auto suit against John Ramirez and Rios Luis, alleging that on Mar. 23, 1986, the Gomez automobile was struck by Luis' car, driven by Ramirez, resulting in serious and permanent injuries to both Eliza and Pete Gomez.

The suit seeks damages to the Gomez car, $1,950.00.

On March 23, James and Betty Atwood of San Angelo filed suit against Gary Wayne Carey, Gail Route, alleging that on March 10, 1987, Carey failed to yield at an intersection on Gregg Street, striking the Atwoods' 1980 Mazda.

The accident resulted in injuries to James Atwood's shoulder and spine and to Betty Atwood's head, neck, left knee and chest, according to the suit. The Atwoods seek medical expenses and pre- and post-judgment interest plus costs.

Transportation Insurance Company filed suit March 22 against Stanley (Kirk) Battreall of the Sandra Gale Apartments to set aside a Texas Industrial Accident Board ruling made Feb. 17 on Battreall's claim stemming from an accident Aug. 13, 1987.

The company's suit alleges that Battreall was not seriously or permanently injured in the accident, which occurred while he was employed by Century Contractors, and that any disabilities he suffers resulted from injuries or illnesses incurred either prior to or following that accident for which the insurance company is not liable. The suit also seeks costs.

Charles B. Smith of Big Spring filed suit against General Motors Corporation March 23 seeking damages for personal injuries.

Smith was injured May 21, 1986, while performing routine maintenance on his Champion Motor Home when the transmission disengaged from park, causing the vehicle to roll over Smith and injuring his legs and body generally. The suit seeks medical expenses plus interest after the judgment and court costs.

The State National Bank of Big Spring filed suit March 24 against A.L. Leonard, doing business as Leonard Enterprises of Midland, on default of a promissory note, renewal No. 2917, for oil and gas investments: Buchanan, Farmer, Brock, Gresham, Bell, Heinz and Presley Leases.

The suit seeks the unpaid balance of the note, $69,347.02, plus $4,328.01 interest, plus interest at 18 percent per year from March 21 until the balance is paid, plus attorneys' fees of $10,000 and court costs.

The State National Bank also filed suit March 24 against Van Lewis, P O Box 3204, Big Spring, on defaulted notes.

A balance to lift stay motion was filed and collateral on the notes repossessed and sold, according to court documents, leaving a balance of $11,088.38.

The suit seeks that balance plus interest at 18 percent from the date of sale to the date of judgment, plus interest at the rate in each note from date of default to date of sale, plus $4,000 attorney fees and court costs, plus post-judgment interest of 18 percent on the total amount.

Leonard says he saved Curry

FORT WORTH (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard told Donald Curry's attorney that he did the Fort Worth fight a favor by coming out of retirement to fight Marvin Hagler in April 1987.

"I saved him... from Marvin Hagler," Leonard said in a deposition last October, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Curry, his trainer and his former manager are suing Leonard and Leonard's attorney for $1 million for advising Curry in March 1986 to remain in the welterweight (147-pound) division.

That advice, the suit says, assured that Curry, the undisputed welterweight champion at the time, wouldn't be in the way of the Hagler-Leonard "SuperFight" that later was arranged.

Leonard scored an upset 12-round decision against Hagler, the former undisputed middleweight (160-pound) champion.

Lower league teams in finals

NEW YORK (AP) — Connecticut, last in the Big East, and Ohio State, sixth in the Big Ten, are taking a back seat to no one in the 51st National Invitation Tournament.

"There's nothing magic about the number 64," Connecticut Coach Jim Calhoun said Tuesday night, referring to the number of teams invited to the NCAA tournament. "Why does parity stop at 64 and not 96? We can play with a lot of teams in the NCAA."

NIT

The Huskies, 19-14, rallied in the second half to beat Big East rival Boston College 73-67 and advance to tonight's final against Ohio State, 20-12, which defeated Colorado State 64-62 in the other semifinal.

"The Big East prepares you for tournaments like this," Calhoun said. "In the Big East, you play against great basketball teams every night, and it brings you up a notch."

Connecticut trailed 41-33 at halftime as Dana Barros scored 22 points on five 3-point goals in the first 20 minutes. The Huskies then started the second half with a 33-12 spurt for a 66-53 lead.

Boston College, 18-14, scored 10 consecutive points to get back into the game, but the Eagles couldn't recover from having Barros held to two shots and two points after halftime.

Lyman DePriest, a 6-foot-5 freshman, scored only four points in the game, but Calhoun gave him credit for stopping the 5-11 Barros, the Big East's leading scorer.

Cliff Robinson scored 29 points for Connecticut, six of them during the 33-12 spurt in the first 14 minutes of the second half, during which the Huskies were 14 for 19 from the field. After Boston College cut the 13-point deficit to three, Robinson scored the next six points for Connecticut as it rebuilt the advantage to 72-65 with 58 seconds left.

Tate George scored eight of his 12 points and Phil Gamble six of his 15, including a three-point play and a 3-point goal, during Connecticut's comeback.

Ohio State also trailed Colorado State at halftime, but only by 28-25 despite 15 points by the Rams' Pat Durham.

The Buckeyes used a pressure defense to hold Durham to five points in the second half, and they weathered a brilliant shooting exhibition by guard Trent Shippen.

"The offense just came off the pressure defense," Ohio State Coach Gary Williams said. "The big thing is not steals and layups, but tempo. I was going to live and die by the press right to the end."

Shippen scored 23 of his 28 points in the second half, when he was 9 for 12 from the field and 5 for 6 from 3-point range. He hit his first six 3-pointers, an NIT record, before missing in the final minute.

"It's a neat feeling to do as well as I did, but it's not a good feeling to lose," said Shippen, averaging fewer than 10 points per game. "Their full-court pressure took us out of our offense."

Jay Burson scored 16 of his 18 points in the second half for Ohio State after taking only two shots in the first 20 minutes and 12 in the game.

"I was frustrated, but I didn't want to force anything in the second half," Burson said. "In the second half, the press really helped us."

Burson, a 6-foot guard, got inside help from 6-7 junior Tony White, who scored 17 points for the Buckeyes.

Colorado State, 21-13, had only one player taller than 6-6 for much of the second half as 6-8 center Eric Frieauf sat on the bench with foul trouble.

Rams Coach Boyd Grant said a 33-20 rebounding deficit cost Colorado State the game.

"We got devastated inside," said Grant, who coached Fresno State to the 1983 NIT title. "We don't have fresh people to put in there."

Colorado State was making its first postseason appearance since losing to Drake in the 1969 NCAA West Regional final, but Boyd said the Rams weren't satisfied just making it to New York.

"We wanted to win it," Boyd said. "But I felt we played undisciplined at times."

Colorado State hit its first three shots of the second half, including a jumper and a 3-pointer by Shippen, and grabbed its largest lead, 35-27, with 18:33 left.

Another 3-pointer by Shippen put the Rams in front 40-33 two minutes later before Ohio State scored eight straight for a one-point edge. Burson completed the run with a steal and layup.

Shippen gave the Rams 50-46 and 53-48 leads with 3-pointers and a 55-52 edge with an outside jumper.

But Ohio State responded with a 7-1 spurt, including Burson's 3-pointer with 4:07 left that put Ohio State ahead to stay, 59-56.

Trailing 62-60, Colorado State had a chance to tie the score, but Durham was called for charging with 57 seconds left. Burson followed with two free throws with 19 seconds left.

Shippen then missed his only 3-pointer of the game,

AUSTIN (AP) — Kansas State University basketball coach Lon Kruger has been offered the University of Texas coaching job and will make a decision soon, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Sources close to Kruger indicated Tuesday he would take the job if it was offered.

Kansas State sources reported that Kruger, 35, was offered the job Tuesday night after a formal interview in Austin with Texas athletic director DeLoss Dodds, a fellow Kansas State alumnus.

Dodds told the Austin American-Statesman Tuesday night that an offer hadn't been extended.

"We're not that far. It's him looking at us, and us looking at him."

Rodeo

nyon for West Texas State's rodeo, after competing in the fall at Eastern New Mexico in Portales, Sul Ross in Alpine, Vernon Junior College's rodeo in Vernon and Texas Tech's collegiate rodeo in Lubbock.

The Howard College rodeo team has an advantage over many NIRA schools in that at HC, rodeo comes under the athletic department rather than being a club or a separate organization, Johnston said.

"We've got an action-packed, exciting and well-organized rodeo planned," coach Johnston promised Wednesday. "We've had a lot of community support for this rodeo and we're planning a fast-moving show."

Admission, he said, is "$3 per head, with children under six free."

"This is the annual rodeo at Howard College. Every year I try to find out how long they've been having an annual rodeo, and I still don't know. But this is it, the big event for us."

Wrangler and Resistol, the Circle Y Saddle Co. and the U.S. Tobacco company serve as national sponsors for the NIRA circuit, he said, and through those organizations NIRA sponsors more than $175,000 in rodeo scholarships nationally and regionally. Eighteen of Howard's 30 rodeo contestants are on some type of scholarship. Johnston said, but all Howard's scholarships are locally funded.

The NIRA also puts a strong emphasis on academics among its competitors, Johnston said. To remain eligible, the NIRA requires rodeo contestants to maintain at least a cumulative "C" average in college.

Six men and three women make up an NIRA team, but other members of the rodeo squad can travel to and compete in rodeos as individuals.

ranked second in the region in calf roping, seventh in bareback riding and second in the all-around cowboy competition, and Kim Rankin, back from the basketball court to lead the women's team with help from freshman Robin Richardson, last year's high school national champion in breakaway roping.

Tommy Yeater, a San Antonio freshman, is third in the region in bullriding; Joey Hubbard, a freshman from Charlotte, is fifth in bullriding regionwide.

Easter Symbols

By BETTY DEBNAM

from The Mini Page by Betty Debnam © 1988 Universal Press Syndicate

The Egg

For thousands of years, the egg has been a symbol of new life. At one time, it was the custom in Europe to do without eggs during the 40-day period before Easter called Lent. Eggs became a special treat on Easter day. They were sometimes given as gifts. Decorated eggs at Easter have been popular for a long time. The Dutch brought this custom to this country. They colored eggs as symbols of better times to come.

Easter Clothes

Many folks wear something new on Easter morning. The custom probably started when people used to get new robes to be baptized in just before Easter.

The Rabbit

Rabbits usually have lots of babies. For that reason this animal has been a symbol of new life for centuries.

Easter Colors

White is for purity and happiness. Yellow is for the sun that brings new life. Purple is for the sadness over the death of Christ. It is a royal color, too, and stands for Christ the King. Green is for the beauty of spring and growth. It is also a symbol of life after death.

The Lamb

To some Christians, the lamb represents Jesus. As the "Good Shepherd," he is often pictured holding one. Some people used to think it was good luck to see a lamb on Easter.

Easter Flowers

The lily is a special Easter flower. The bulb is said to stand for Christ's tomb. The blossom stands for his life after death. Tulips and daffodils are Easter flowers, too.

Rolls and Hunts

The Dutch started the custom of egg rolling. An Easter Egg Roll is held on the White House lawn the Monday morning after Easter.

Baby Chicks

Baby chicks also remind us of the new life of spring and the Easter season.

The Easter Cross

To Christians, the cross is the symbol of the true meaning of Easter, the resurrection of Christ and his triumph over death. The early American Puritans were deeply religious and serious. They did not believe in a lot of ceremony at Christmas or Easter. It was not until after the Civil War that Americans began celebrating Easter as we know it.

The members are Eric Bazilian (guitar), Rob Hyman (keyboards), Andy King (bass), John Lilley (guitar) and David Uosikkinen (drums). Some members also play folk instruments such as the mandolin. The group was named after a type of folk instrument. Rob and Eric met at the University of Pennsylvania. They formed the Hooters about seven years ago after being in another group together. They write most of the group's songs.

In 1984, the Hooters played in Cyndi Lauper's band. Rob helped write her hit song "Time After Time."

In 1985, they won a music award as "Best New Group."

The group still lives in Philadelphia. Eric likes taking movies and lifting weights. Rob likes to swim. David lifts weights, John likes to run, and Andy likes racquetball and lacrosse.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: An expanded social life offers you the key to both greater contentment and enormous business success. Mate gives you the kind of support you have always wanted. Large-scale financial ventures are favored in October and November. Always deal from the top of the deck and you will be a big winner. Although self-improvement activities are highly recommended, check with a doctor before plunging into strenuous exercise.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actors Richard Chamberlain and William Daniels, Sen. Patrick Leahy, labor leader Cesar Chavez, composer Franz Joseph Haydn, poet Andrew Marvell, actress Rhea Perlman, singer Shirley Jones.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Going back to school could be the turning point for you. It is great to aim high so long as you do not get overconfident. A phone call could salvage a relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A deal or loan comes through in the nick of time. Thank your lucky stars! Special assignments bring extra cash. Seek family's cooperation in doing household chores. Ask everyone to pitch in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Try to avoid getting embroiled in office politics. Once you get better organized, you will be more productive. Let others know how you feel about important issues. You deserve to be heard.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your negotiating skills will be put to good use today. Let others know your goals. They could offer some constructive advice. Keep detailed financial records. Romance flourishes. Accept a new offer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Requests for loans and raises receive careful consideration. Travel for business and pleasure. Use spare time to improve your skills. New methods will produce excellent results. Be open-minded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Move ahead confidently with your financial plans. New accounting methods produce a windfall. Cultivate overseas contacts. Put money into investments with a proven track record. Love works a miracle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You will regain your power once you get better organized. Consider starting a business with a college friend. Latent talents are discovered under unique circumstances. A close relationship is strengthened.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A smooth talker could try to take over at work. Your vulnerability is showing. Be bold in romance. Make amends to a loved one you may have slighted recently. Be affectionate.

Crabgrass and dandelions can ruin grass in spring

By RICHARD MINZENMAYER
Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)
Martin, Midland, & Howard Counties

Crabgrass and dandelions are two common weeds appearing in early spring that can ruin your lawn. But with a little know-how and proper care, you can stop these common weeds and enjoy a beautiful lawn all summer long.

Crabgrass is an annual, bunch-type grassy weed. It sprouts in early spring and is killed by the first frost of fall. Crabgrass is a very vigorous plant. And if crabgrass was in your lawn last year, you can be sure it will be back this year. Thousands of seeds are left behind each fall when crabgrass dies.

Fortunately, crabgrass is an annual plant — dying completely each fall. And that makes early spring the best time for control with a pre-emergence herbicide.

A pre-emergence herbicide kills crabgrass seeds before they have a chance to sprout. Apply a pre-emergence herbicide about 2 weeks before the crabgrass first appears. This prevents crabgrass from even sprouting — eliminating the chance that it will overtake your lawn later in the season.

After crabgrass has begun to grow — post-emergence herbicides must be used to control crabgrass. A well-stocked nursery, garden center or hardware store should carry pre- and post-emergence herbicides for crabgrass control.

Dandelions pose a different problem to the homeowner. Dandelions are broadleaf perennials and do not die from year to year. They only seem to die because they become dormant. Most live through the harshest of winters, popping back up with the first warm spell of spring.

Because dandelions develop deep tap roots — it is virtually impossible to get rid of them by pulling or digging. Even if you cut a root below the ground leaves, you still probably won't eliminate the weed.

A spring application of herbicide is one of the best ways to fight dandelions. They are easy to spot and spray right on target.

According to Richard Minzenmayer, Extension Agent-Entomology, the best sprayer for treatment of lawns is the compressed air sprayer. Look for one with an adjustable nozzle, spray extension, and positive on-off valve. These features will help you control the spray and put it right on target.

Herbicide should be applied according to the manufacturer's directions. Always read and follow carefully all label instructions. To spray lawn weeds, set the nozzle on your compression sprayer to deliver a coarse spray and apply at low pressure to avoid drift.

After application, thoroughly rinse your sprayer with water at least two or three times. Fill with water again, pressurize sprayer, and spray, so nozzle and hose are rinsed.

Because of the nature of herbicides, Mr. Minzenmayer recommends that you keep one sprayer for herbicides and another for insecticides and fungicides. Most vegetable and ornamental plants are broad-leaves and may be killed as readily as weeds. Weed killer is difficult to always clean and completely from your sprayer, so it is best to keep one sprayer for weeds and another for insects and fungus control.

WHAT IS HOSPICE?

By INGRID UPTON

The definition of the word HOSPICE is a shelter for pilgrims or strangers, and that is exactly what we are trying to provide for the residence of Martin County, a shelter during one of life's most difficult transition periods, one that most of us do not ever discuss or try to deal with until it effects us personally and that journey or transition is DEATH.

How many people, if given the opportunity, would rather be at home when death comes, in your own private familiar surroundings, your own bed with your loved ones near? Favorite foods cooked by family and friends. Children, parents, friends, neighbors, pets anyone you chose to be with you. Opposed to the cold, sterile hospital where no one is comfortable, especially the patient.

HOSPICE is a non-profit organization made up of people from Martin County. People from all walks of life and professions giving of their time to give necessary care, support and love.

Why do we need such an organization in Martin County? Now, if a patient wants to remain at home and receive the care he needs, he has to stay in Midland County because HOSPICE can not cross County Lines. We are a close knit community and when ever one of us is ill everyone wants to help, this is an answer to "How can I help my neighbor?"

HOSPICE trains "Caregivers" to be with you at anytime you request them, to support and help you and your family, to sit with you so your family can rest or when they have to be busy doing other business. Caregivers act in away as limited nurses in assisting you with many of your needs. Caregivers give love and support and that is something we can all give.

HOSPICE is a non-profit organization, it is not sponsored by any group such as the National Cancer Society or United Way. It is ran on contributions and donations. It is governed by the State of Texas as a HOME HEALTH CARE AGENCY and is recognized as an alternative to hospital care. HOSPICE can only serve the terminally ill patient after a Doctor refers us.

Our staff is carefully chosen and are governed by a board of directors, and are accountable to the State and National HOSPICE Organization and the Doctor in charge of the case.

There is a Social Worker to evaluate the needs of the patient and his family and to determine the extent of care needed. A dietitian to assist in types of foods ordered by the Doctor.

Basically HOSPICE is a hospital that comes to your home. We are there with help at anytime, seven days a week twenty-four hours a day, with Registered Nurses to administer medicine and carry out the Doctor's orders. We are there for the family afterwards to assist and support in the grief process which leads to healing.

HOSPICE is a group of dedicated, loving, caring people that will serve the needs of the terminally ill in Martin County at no cost to the patient.

All donations and contributions whether money, equipment or supplies will remain in Martin County and be used by our residences.

Death under investigation

Big Spring police are investigating whether the Monday morning death of a local man was suicide or homicide.

Frederico Morales, 39, of Big Spring, was declared dead at 1:20 a.m. today, according to Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles, who added that no cause of death has been determined, pending further investigation into the matter.

Police received a report at 11:50 p.m. Sunday that Morales had been found lying on the 300 block of Trades Street, the victim of a single gunshot wound to the chest, according to Police Lt. Juan Palacios, who is investigating the death.

Palacios added that Morales was transported by private vehicle to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where he was declared dead early this morning.

Police are investigating today whether the death was a suicide or homicide, Palacios said, adding that no additional information on the matter could be released at this time.

MARTIN COUNTY HOSPITAL TIES TO TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY REGIONAL ACADEMIC HEALTH CENTER

Last month marked a milestone in Martin County Hospital's further endeavor to both strengthen its obstetrical department and at the same time form a closer medical partnership between rural and metropolitan medicine. This new addition which is primarily to be used in conjunction with our OB department has been formed through a telefacsimile machine.

Telefacsimile is not a new word, or machine, but is being utilized in new areas of healthcare. This project is in conjunction with Texas Tech University Regional Academic Health Center, the TTURAHC Library, West Texas Rural Health Educational Center, and Odessa's Medical Center Hospital. Associate Director, Ursula Scott readies machine for transmission.

Dr. Carol Berquist, M.D., Interim Associate Chairman of Obstetrics-Gynecology, Texas Tech Regional Academic Center; Dr. Sue K. Fisher, D.O.; Obstetrics/Family Practice; Dr. Thomas C. Miller, D.O.; Obstetrics/Family Practice/Surgeon; Dr. John M. Worrell, M.D.; PHD/Family Practice

— All participated last month in our Telefacsimile demonstration.

Stanton's Martin County Hospital has been able to participate in this program through a seed grant by the Meadow's Foundation, and through supplemental funding by the West Texas Rural Health Educational Center.

This special grant will allow each hospital one year contract for the use of the equipment, the consulting with the Texas Tech University physicians, and the library contact at no charge.

Ms. Karen Reed, Coordinator for West Texas Rural Health Education Center and Mr. Scott Mahon, Administrator of the office of Rural Health await first transmission on the Telefacsimile machine from Martin County Hospital to a Texas Tech University Regional Academic Health Center Physician. Mahon stated that the consulting support in obstetrics was the first link, but there is great hope to expand this same service to other specialty areas such as cardiology.

The second aspect of the equipment allows direct library contact to all the information available through the Texas Tech Medical School Association. The library can provide material such as videos, books, articles, and other information for in-service for the professional hospital staff, support continuing education, and new diagnosis and treatment for out-of-the-ordinary cases.

Dr. Sue Fisher and Dr. Carol Berquist compare fetal monitor strip to transmitted medical consult.

The installation of the Telefacsimile Machine develops an open line of communication 24 hours a day with the Texas Tech University System which will now provide further medical support for obstetrical and gynecology physicians at those unopportune times when they feel that a specialist consult necessary. There are four physicians delivering babies at Martin County Hospital. Dr. Sue K. Fisher, D.O., and Dr. Thomas C. Miller, D.O. are both actively in the obstetrical business in our community. There are two Big Spring, Texas physicians who have privileges to deliver babies at Martin County Hospital and they are Dr. John Farquhar, M.D. and Dr. H. Jean Louis, M.D. An example of the value of the service would be the sending of a fetal monitor strip from an OB patient at Martin County Hospital over the machine to one of the Texas Tech University Regional Academic Health Center Physicians, who in turn would read the monitor strip and transmit back a written consult.

THE REAL BENEFIT; The Telefacsimile Machine and the services offered to Martin County Hospital through the Texas Tech University Regional Academic Health Center and the West Texas Rural Health Educational Center is just another tool to help our physicians assure the patient's safe delivery and a healthy baby. McMurtry's Pulitzer can't replace catfish on marquee

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Larry McMurtry spends a good portion of his life in front of a small portable typewriter projecting his emotions, intellect and imagination onto sheets of paper. He has written 13 novels. Four of them have been made into movies.

He produces a book every year, usually working on it three or four months. He is now working on a book which will feature some of the exploits of Billy the Kid.

McMurtry has degrees from North Texas and Rice. He started writing in the late 50's and was first published in the early 60's.

At the time there was a strong appetite for fiction and publishers were anxious to develop new talent. He wrote a book called "Horseman Pass By" in 1961 and it was made into the movie "Hud."

The action takes place during the depression and is about Texas ranchers whose cattle suffer from hoof and mouth disease and have to be destroyed. Wonderful topic, right?

It just so happened that a movie studio had an actor it wanted to showcase in an unusual role. The actor was Paul Newman. The movie was a big hit.

McMurtry wrote "The Last Picture Show" in the 70's. It was cheap to make because it featured a bunch of unknowns: Cybil Shepherd, Jeff Bridges, Cloris Leachman, Eileen Brennan and Randy Quaid.

It, too, was a huge success. His book "Texasville" is a sequel to "The Last Picture Show." If "Texasville" is made into a movie the director will probably not use the same actors because they have all become famous and will cost more than they did in the 70's.

He wrote "Terms of Endearment" in seven months. The movie took seven years to make.

Director James Brooks had to put a million and a half dollars of his money into getting it on the screen. The movie is about middle-aged courtship. In its original form, McMurtry had the female lead (Shirley Maclaine) falling in love with an 80-year-old general. Brooks finally changed the general into a retired astronaut and got Jack Nicholson to play the part. The movie won an Oscar for best picture.

McMurtry admits to being lucky and coming along at the right time. He tells young writers that now is a good time to start writing as there is a real market for fiction and plenty of first books are being published.

He claims it is the easiest time to break into book publishing since he started writing.

McMurtry maintains residences in both Washington, D.C. and Archer City and spends time in both places each month.

He says while growing up in Archer City he suffered from "book deprivation." He now owns two book stores which have a total of 50,000 volumes. His private library has 10,000 books. He wanted to make sure he was never in Archer City again with nothing to read.

His most famous work is "Lonesome Dove." It was originally a 100-page movie script called "Streets of Laredo" written especially for John Wayne, Henry Fonda and Jimmy Stewart. Stewart and Fonda were all for it, but John Wayne couldn't stand the thought of playing the part of an old man.

McMurtry bought the screenplay back from the producers who purchased it from him. Then he went into his dark period. He didn't really care too much for writing, especially his own, for ten years.

"Lonesome Dove" is to be made into a mini-series on television next fall. The 900-page novel won a Pulitzer prize.

McMurtry learned of the prize in Uvalde, where he was lecturing at the junior college. When he checked in at the motel in Uvalde, the marquee welcomed him as the author of "Terms of Endearment."

He liked that. The next morning he received the phone call notifying him he had won the honor. The second call was from the local newspaper publisher who wanted a picture of the Pulitzer prize winner. Arrangements were made to meet the publisher in the lobby of the motel. On his way there, McMurtry noticed the marquee had been changed to "Lunch special: Catfish $3.99."

Chamber panel to hear KMID

By THE BIG SPRING AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At noon Thursday, the chamber's business committee will hear a presentation from KMID-TV, Midland, called, "Buy West Texas First," designed to promote shopping at home first, then in the Permian Basin.

The chamber's beautification committee, chaired by Dianne Moses and Kay Bancroft, needs information on any and all beautification programs in Big Spring during 1987 for use in an application for the Governor's Community Achievement Award.

Big Spring competes in the category of cities with populations between 10,000-25,000, and placed second last year. The first prize in this category is $50,000 in grants for city and street beautification.

We are going for the big prize again. Please contact the chamber or Dianne or Kay to submit ideas and reports for this application.

The business committee also is planning the Christmas in June Auction for the Heart of the City Festival June 11. To participate or contribute, contact the chamber office or Greg Brooks. Proceeds will be used for Christmas decorations and for the chamber's portion of the funding for the Downtown Steering Committee.

The spring quarterly Calendar of Events, published by the chamber, is being compiled now. To submit information for the calendar, contact the chamber with details: date, time, place, name of the event, contact person and phone number. This calendar will cover the months of April, May and June.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Lisa Hilger shows a sample of the fine boxed stationery at Hester's — just one of the gift ideas for Mother's Day and graduation awaiting the shopper. Your gift will be personalized and gift wrapped free of charge.

Hester's personalizes gifts for Mother's Day, graduation

Two major gift occasions are coming up — Mother's Day and graduation — so it's not too soon to check out the gift ideas at Hester's Supply, 209 Runnels. Personalization — on the premises — makes your gift more special.

Why not surprise Mom with your photo, framed from the selection at Hester's. Pick from wood, antique-look lucite, beveled glass, brass. There are single, double, triple and collage frames.

The mother in business or busy with volunteer work could use a new leather portfolio, just arrived in mauve, taupe, gray and navy. Add a feminine version of the famous Cross pen, available in grey, classic black or 10-kt. gold (without the pocket clip).

Hester's has a wide selection of Bibles — some in fine leather, some elaborately indexed, others in large print.

"And we now have beautiful tinted stationery in blue, lilac, aqua or grey with lines to write on. We've had many requests for this style," says Janet Hull.

Stationery is a popular gift for graduates, too — and might improve the college-bound's communica-with the folks back home.

Photo albums and scrapbooks are appreciated by the graduate. You'll find designs at Hester's that use paper pages, pocket or magnetic pages interchangeably.

There's a dictionary with matching thesaurus that would thrill any graduate. A handsome address book, a pocket dictionary or a brief case would be useful gifts.

Other helpful gift suggestions are Webster's Beginning Book of Facts, Webster's Medical Dictionary and The Secretaries Handbook.

Personalization can make any gift more special. Hester's monograms Bibles, photo albums, scrapbooks, stationery, brief cases — all without charge.

And remember: every gift you buy at Hester's is gift wrapped free. The store also sells packing materials for mailing gifts to those special people you want to honor.

Bring your gift list in soon, and let the staff help you choose the right gift.

Get your advertising in gear
An ad in this weekly directory will keep your company's name and services before your customers all year long. In addition to your ad, each advertiser on this page receives a feature article and photo (and additional coverage depending on the size of the ad) during the six-month contract period. It's a great way to let folks know who you are.
