Bonds serve to guarantee appearance

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

When a person is arrested for a particular crime, authorities must have some guarantee that the person will - if released from custody — return for further legal action.

To ensure that return, bonds are required to be posted in most cases. The cost to the person involved may range from nothing to thousands of dollars, depending on several factors.

The purpose of the bond is to ensure that the person will show up for further court proceedings." Justice of the Peace China Long said, adding that there are two major types of bonds — personal and Personal bonds allow for the release of the person without his having to provide sureties or other securities. These are commonly called personal recognizance bonds, Long said.

Bail bonds require the posting of securities to help ensure the person will appear at a later date. Magistrates look at several factors before determining the amount of the bond, she noted

First, the official must set a bond sufficiently high to ensure the person's return. The severity of the crime, the person's ability to pay and the future safety of the victim also must be considered, she said.

In addition, Long solicits personal information from the arrested person. "When he appears before me, I ask

Dunn suspended from force

The Big Spring policeman who was arrested in connection with the Tuesday night shooting death of his wife has been temporarily suspended from the department, according to a police spokesman.

Dennis Dunn, 39, 2523 Ent Dr., was arrested early Wednesday on a preliminary charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of his wife, Police Capt. Lonnie Smith said today that Dunn has been temporarily suspended without pay, pending investigation by the Texas Rangers.

him several questions — Does he live here? Does he have a family here? Where does he work? All that helps me determine how large the bond will be,'

She stressed that the power to require bail cannot be used as a form of punishment, and that she is authorized to deny bail only for one offense - capital murder.

Once bail has been set, the person usually responsible for securing the arrestee's release is the bondsman.

Mary Thomas, a local bail bondsman, explained that by providing bond, she is guarenteeing that the person will show at a later date. If the defendant fails to show, the bondsman is liable to the court for the full amount of the bond.

When Thomas receives a call from the arrested person, she must decide if she will post bond — and usually must make that decision in the few minutes she is on BONDS page 2-A

Firefighting efforts under investigation

An internal investigation of Big Spring Fire Department's response to a recent fire that destroyed 15 mobile homes at D&C Sales lot has been ordered by Fire Chief Carl Dorton.

The investigation was prompted by charges that firefighters were negligent in responding to and battling the blaze, Dorton said.

The allegations were raised by two D&C Sales employees, the fire chief said.

Two people on the scene were disatisfied with the way my people were fighting the fire. They obviously did not understand firefighting proceedures," he

"An investigation has been ordered to satisfy myself, the individuals involved and the general public," Dorton "An attempt is being made to get all the facts to determine if we did something wrong . . . if the department did something wrong, I want to know. he said. D&C Sales Manager

Glenda Wilson refused comment when asked directly if employees for the company had complained about the fire department's response.

'I don't have a statement at this time," she said Wilson also declined comment when asked if she was disatisfied with firefighters' efforts in battling The fire broke out about 4 a.m. last Saturday and spread rapidly through mobile homes parked in the D&C Sales lot at 3910 W. Highway 80. Fifteen homes were destroyed and two others sustained extensive smoke and heat damage. Total damage has been estimated at $150,000. All of the homes were insured, according to Wilson. Preliminary findings have determined that the blaze was set, Fire Departmen Arson Investigator Carl Condray said earlier this week. He has declined to say what evidence led investigators to determine that the fire was arson. An investigator from the State Fire Marshal's of fice is expected to arrive in Big Spring within the next two weeks to assist local authorities in their investigation into the cause of the fire, Condray said. Methods and equipment, used by firefighters to combat the fire, directives issued at the scene, and response time will be examined during the course of the department's internal investigation, Dorton said. Statements also will be taken from firefighters who were at the scene, he said.

'The investigation will examine in great detail the circumstances surrounding the department's response," Dorton said. The fire's effect on local insurance rates and laws governing storage of mobile homes inside the city also will be examined during the probe, Dorton said Dorton does not expect local homeowners' insurance rates to increase because of the fire.

Pact on Soviet withdrawal signed

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union today signed an accord to end Moscow's intervention in Afghanistan and allow the Red Army to start pulling out its 115,000 troops on May 15. Afghanistan and Pakistan also signed the agreement in a solemn 10-minute ceremony in a marble and gold council chamber at U.N. headquarters. Pakistan was representing the Afghan guerrillas, who have vowed to continue their war to oust the Marxist government in

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who signed for the United States, said the agreement would allow the people of Afghanistan to determine their own future and to restore the independence they have earned through "blood and sacrifice." Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze signed for the Soviet Union.

Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar of the United Nations said the U.N.-mediated agreements "represent a major stride in the effort to bring peace to Afghanistan.'

Also signing the accord were Foreign Minister Abdul Wakil of Afghanistan and Acting Foreign Minister Zain Noorani of

"Through their blood and sacrifice, the Afghans have earned the opportunity to resume their independence. Let us help them realize it."

— George P. Shultz

Shultz said the United States will continue to aid the Afghan guerrillas until the Soviets stop arming the Afghan government. But he also said the agreement will "improve the atmosphere" of U.S.-Soviet relations and could help end Soviet intervention in other regional conflicts.

The settlement followed six years of onagain, off-again negotiations between Afghanistan and Pakistan, which neighbors Afghanistan and is home to an estimated 3 million Afghan refugees.

The Moslem insurgents fighting the Marxist Afghan government for 10 years have headquarters in Pakistan. Pakistan also serves as the conduit for foreign military aid to the

The agreement commits Pakistan and Afghanistan to not support "directly or indirectly, rebellious or secessionist activities' against each other, and it provides from the withdrawal of Soviet troops who entered Afghanistan in 1979 to help the government.

Shultz said he was confident the Soviet Union would begin its troop withdrawal on schedule

There is no provision in the accord to end the war, and it says nothing about the composition of future Afghan governments. Shultz and Perez de Cuellar stressed that the accord will let the Afghan people determine "The challenge facing the Afghan people is great, but it can and must be met by them alone," the secretary-general said. "Through their blood and sacrifice, the Afghans have earned the opportunity to resume their independence," Shultz said. "Let us help them realize it." The United Nations estimates 1.5 million Afghans have been killed in the war, which began after an April 1978 communist coup. More than 10,000 Soviets have died in the fighting, Western sources estimate.

Police, sheriff seek crime prevention grants

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Thieves and burglars in Howard County may have unseen electronic eyes and ears looking over their shoulders if grant funds sought by local police and sheriff's departments are approved.

Two grant applications - totaling $160,773 - to establish crime prevention and detection units in both the city and county have been approved by the Permian Basin Planning Commission and have been fowarded to the governor's office for consideration.

The Big Spring Police Department is seeking $83,983 to fund a special theft and burglary unit,

Police Chief Joe Cook said. Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard has made application for $74,320 to cover the costs of preventing and detecting crimes in rural

The city has pledged $49,966 in matching funds. The county has $7,000 to match to state grant

Cook and Standard declined to comment on the exact nature of equipment to be purchased with the grant funds. However, both men did say that the equipment would include "highly sophisticated' electronic surveillence gear, including cameras as well as audio and video

Cook also hopes to purchase a surveillence van if the grant monies are awarded. The grant funds would also be used to hire an additional sheriff's deputy, Standard said

Although Cook is considering hiring an additional officer with the grant funds, a final determination has not been made, he said.

Submission of the grant applications to Austin for consideration represents the "final hurdle" in obtaining the funding, Cook said.

If approved, the grant funds will be awarded for use during the 1988-89 fiscal year that begins Oct.

Tax deadline nearing for late filers

AUSTIN (AP) — Noting that only about 50 percent of the expected tax returns have been filed, Internal Revenue Service officials say they are prepared to handle the rush of lastminute returns. In Big Spring, postal officials say no special plans have been made for staying open late to accommodate the rush.
"It's no problem for us. We're prepared to handle the remaining returns because this has been kind of a trend for the past several years," said Sally Sassen, public affairs officer for the IRS in Austin. "We're getting more and more returns in the last week

Deadline for filing 1987 income tax returns is midnight Friday. According to Gail Teagarden. post office supervisor in Big Spring, the U.S. Postal Service office in El Paso has not directed the local office to remain open past normal hours

"I may hear something (different) on that to-day," Teagarden said. "But right now we are not planning to keep the post office open late. We will ensure that all the mail dropped outside is cancelled with that (April 15) cancellation until midnight.

'We will have someone here to sort out all the IRS mail and cancel it," she said.

The IRS Service Center here processes returns from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana.

About 12 million income tax returns are expected in the five-state region. About 6 million had been received by Wednesday, Sassen said.

"A lot of people wait to file late because they owe money, and most feel there's no reason to give the government money earlier than you have to," she said.

Some people are waiting for their returns to be completed by professionals, while others just naturally wait until the last minute, she

Because this is the first set of returns based on the Tax Reform Act of 1986, Ms. Sassen said, more people might have questions about their returns. The IRS has extended its hours for taxpayer assistance for those with filing problems,

"We want to make sure we have plenty of people around to answer questions," she said. 'In the past, people who have waited this long have been on their own."

"Friday is our 'taxes roundup day," Ms. Sassen said. "We're going to rope in those ol' tax returns.'

Persons unable to file a return by deadline can request an extension form, which allows four additional months to file, she said.

Officers convicted in Abilene

ABILENE (AP) — A federal jury has convicted two former bank officers on 36 counts accusing them of embezzling $1.3 million from Abilene National Bank through a scheme involving the sale of bank

Convicted Wednesday were Don Earney and James Kington after the jury of nine men and three women deliberated more than 14 hours over two days.

Earney, former chairman of the bank, and Kington, a former vice president, were each convicted on several counts of embezzling money from stock purchase loan transactions, falsifying bank records to hide the true reasons for the loans, causing federally required cash transaction reports not to be filed and aiding and abetting criminal activity.

Maximum sentence for the former bankers would be five years in prison and a fine of $250,000 on each count.

U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer of Dallas will sentence the men on May 27 after a presentencing report is submitted.

Mobile homes were parked close together at D&C Sales to discourage vandalism, a factor that hindered firefighters' efforts and contributed to the rapid spread of flames, Dorton said.

"There is no ordinance that I am aware of that governs spacing requirements in a mobile home sales lot, but we are going to make certain," he said. Findings of the probe should be complete by early next week, the fire chief said. A written report will be issued at that time, he said.

The cost to the arrestee is usually 10 percent of the bond — such as $100 for a $1,000 bond — and is not refundable, even if the person is acquitted of the charges. The bond is the charge the person pays to gain his release, Long said.

Thomas noted that in larger cities, the person may have to pay a larger percentage of the bond.

If the defendant doesn't show for the court date, or if he can't be located, the bondsman may file a bondsman off bond warrant, Thomas said.

This procedure is to relieve the bondsman of liability for the arrestee's bond. The person must be re-arrested before this is possible, however, she said.

Talks to end hijacking suspended

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — A Kuwaiti passenger aboard a hijacked jumbo jet pleaded with his government today to give in to the Arab gunmen's demands and said they would kill everyone aboard if Kuwait refused.

Negotiations to free about 36 hostages aboard the Kuwait Airways Boeing 747 were suspended. The hijackers have demanded that Kuwait free 17 pro-Iranian extremists convicted of terrorism. Kuwait has rejected the demand. The plane was commandeered

April 5 on a Bangkok-Kuwait flight with 112 people aboard. It was first diverted to Mashhad, Iran, where 57 people were freed. It went on to Cyprus, where two hostages were killed and 13 released, and flew to Algiers on Tuesday. The hijackers, thought to number about eight, are armed with grenades and guns and have threatened to blow up the plane and kill their hostages.

In a call from the plane to the control tower, the passenger identified himself as Ahmed Zayed.

"My name is Ahmed Zayed," the passenger said over the radio to the control tower. His words were monitored by reporters. "Hello. Hello to my family. I am in good

The call came after the official Algerian news agency, Algerie Presse Service, reported that talks between Algerian negotiators and the hijackers had been suspended. It did not say why the talks were broken off.

The talks had reached an impasse on Wednesday. A ranking Algerian official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that Kuwait's "intransigence" had created the standstill. A Cypriot official said the jet was refueled and allowed to leave Cyprus only after Algeria gave assurances that the remaining passengers would be freed on arrival there

"Our objective all along was the safe release of the hostages. We believed we had succeeded in this when the hijackers released hostages here, with the rest to be freed in Algiers, according to the Algerian assurance," government spokesman Akis Fantis said.

There are believed to be about 32 Arab passengers and four crew members aboard the plane. Three passengers are members of Kuwait's large royal family.

This morning, the blue-and-white plane was moved to the end of a health. I ask the government to runway at Houari Boumedienne release the 17 Islamic Jihad airport to permit the safe landing prisoners. If not, they will kill us of a plane carrying Zambian Presi-

The president was given a message from Kuwaiti Emir Shiek Jabar Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah, according to Algiers radio, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London. No details were provided.

A newspaper in Abu Dhabi said today that an agreement had been reached for the release of the Kuwaiti hostages.

Al-Ittihad, quoting unidentified diplomatic sources in Larnaca, said "an agreement was signed by hijackers, Kuwaiti, Palestinian and Algerian officials, for releasing passengers and hijackers in Algerias in exchanging for reducing sentences against the 17 persons in Kuwait jails.'

Algerian officials said there were intensive negotiations Wednesday in which they carried messages from the Kuwaiti gvernment delegation in an airport VIP lounge and the hijackers in the plane.

When the talks reached an impasse Wednesday night, they were suspended to let all parties rest, the Algerian official said.

Texas Air and its chairman, Frank Lorenzo, have been locking horns with unions at Eastern over proposed pay cuts and other labor issues. Lorenzo put Houston-based Continental into bankruptey proceedings in 1983 and emerged with a non-union airline.

The Texas Air carriers have a debt of about $5.4 billion, but Lorenzo has established a corporate structure that insulates the parent company from most of the burden. The company sustained record

Mouse suit settlement substantial

AUSTIN (AP) — A man who said his life changed for the worse after he found a decapitated mouse in his beer has reached a settlement with Adolph Coors Co., attorneys said.

Ted Gerardi sued Coors in 1982 after finding the mouse's remains in a beer he was drinking during a get-together at his Richland Hills home.

The Texas Supreme Court on Wednesday set a May 4 date to hear arguments in the case brought by Gerardi against Coors. But C. Tony Wright, a Dallas attorney representing Gerardi, and Michael Jung, a Dallas lawyer representing Coors, said Wednesday the parties have settled and are working to tinalize the agreement. If it is finalized, the Supreme Court appeal would be dismissed, a Dallas appeals court order for a sight of rodents and was no longer Gerardi, a Watauga public safety officer, said he was teased by fellow officers about the mouse. He said the incident interfered with his job because he could no longer stand to be near intoxicated suspects, according to records.

In addition, records indicate, Gerardi became terrified at the new trial would stand and the trial able to go hunting because of that.

The Texas Supreme Court opinion also prompted a stinging dissent from Justice Oscar Mauzy, who accused the court's majority of unnecessarily complicating a well-established area of law.

Questions 'National Trauma Day'

Why is midnight, April 15, the deadline for all income tax returns? Remember the waits for state driver's licenses and vehicle plates when every driver was required to get them by the same date. Then someone proposed renewing licenses in the month of the driver's birthday and plates in the month of the vehicle's original purchase.

Why can't that be done for income tax returns? Congress and the Internal Revenue Service have made April 15 into National Trauma Day. ... The U.S. Postal Service is overloaded, and overtime must be paid to handle the crush of last-minute returns. Then, too, because of the single deadline, the IRS has hired thousands of temporary workers, many of whom are giving faulty answers to taxpayers. ... April 15 is a day dreaded by millions of people in this country. It should not be. It would not be if the IRS and Congress would figure out how to divide the taxpayers by 12 and make it a year-round operation. How, you ask. Well, Congress figured out the tax laws and the agency that prepared the new forms can surely determine how to do it.

Death shouldn't be required class

Death is not a pretty subject. But it is a school subject.

Students in some of our nation's high schools today are groping with a class that is supposed to teach them how to cope with death. Instructors are teaching what feeling students should have, should experience.

Then the students are told how to react to those feelings. Surprisingly, through public demand, the "death" classes are being offered by more and more schools That's OK, as long as the courses are electives. Many people can't cope with death without assistance, and even then coping isn't guaranteed. But to force students to take such a course violates personal freedom.

One teen-ager enrolled in a similar course was forced to witness a cremation just days after her grandfather died. Other students watched an embalming. Some got sick. Education is broadening its horizons. Young people may learn anything from sign language to descriptive meteorology. But forcing courses on students is wrong. That kind of education eventually will run into a dead

Navy auditors should walk plank

Why does the Pentagon's Naval Audit Service, or NAS, spend $4 to save

The question seems valid, especially since the Army and Air Force audit branches do a commendable job, As a result, NAS is drawing fire from a panel of the House Armed Services Committee, which oversees military affairs.

Efficiency apparently has not been the Navy auditors' strong suit. A General Accounting Office report showed NAS in 1985 spent $25 million to save $6 million, while Army and Air Force auditors saved $20 for every $1 their offices spent.

A source of pride for any auditor is saving money. The Navy numbercrunchers should be ashamed - and made to take a refresher course in Accounting 101.

And now — presenting the Jason awards

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Now that the Oscars have been awarded, and the winners have had their parties and the losers have contemplated suicide I bet you're thinking, "Whew! No more awards until next year." Wrong, Buck-o.

Don't get me wrong. I think the Oscars are a great idea, but they don't go far enough. They annually ignore the veritable treasure trove of cinema that sits, quietly gathering dust, at your neighborhood video rental store. This is a crime.

One always hears of a Moonstruck" or a 'Last Emporer.'' but when is the last time a "Surf Nazis Must Die" or a "Bloodsuckers from Beyond Gor" has gotten the the realm recognition it deserves?

Too darn long, I say. Well, you know me, folks. If there is an injustice that needs righting, or a cause that needs championing — or if there just might be a buck or two in it for me — I won't rest until all is right once again.

With that in mind, allow me to present the first annual Jason Awards. Named after the lovable villian from the "Friday the 13th" movies, these awards are designed to recognize those films that critics - or common sense - have dismissed.

The only criterion for the Jason is that the movie must be available on videocassette. So tough luck, "Moonstruck," maybe next

So, without further ado ... the envelopes, please.

Worst "bad" movie (non-series) — "Blood Shack." This charming tale of a black-clad bad guy called The Trooper and the many people he hacks to death for sleeping in his house was so bad I hoped someone would hack the clerk who rented me this pile of garbage.

Runner-up in this category was "The Class of Nuke-em High." Not even pretty women could save this dog.

Worst "bad" movie (series) — What else? "Friday the 13th" has fallen from a passable horror story to something merely camp. The only suspense left in this series is guessing which of the teenage girls will get killed first.

Boooring.

Worst "good" movie (non-series) — "Kiss of the Spider Woman." Was it just me, or were the rest of you less than thrilled by William Hurt swishing his way through this pretentious pile of nuclear waste?

Hurt won an Oscar for his performance, which only goes to show that Hollywood has a sense of humor, too.

Worst "good" movie (series) — In a close call, "Superman" gets the nod. This series is getting so awful I almost classified it in the "bad" section.

Christopher Reeve must have some humongous gambling debts to keep putting on those tights.

Best self-explanatory movie title — "Amber Pays the Rent." Figure it out for yourself.

Best streaker - Charles Martin Smith in 'Never Cry Wolf." How he managed to avoid even getting scratched by that herd of elk is beyond me.

Best line — There's a ton of them, but the Jason goes to Mel Gibson in "Lethal Weapon." His partner is moaning that God must hate him when Mel, playing a superintense cop, replies, "Hate Him back — it works for me.

Worst line - Again, there are many candidates, but only one Jason. The winner belongs to the nerd in "Sheena" who looks at the Queen of the Jungle and says, "I love you so much, my heart could burst." And they say romance is dead.

Best "good" movie (non-series) — "Never Cry Wolf." Superb acting, great script and cinematography that'll knock your socks off. This one has it all.

Best "good" movie (series) — Tie between the "Star Wars" trilogy and the Indiana Jones epics. Say what you want about George Lucas, but the guy definitely knows how to keep a story line going.

Drugs are the real threat to U.S.

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — As the United States was rushing 3,200 troops to Honduras to face the Sandinistas, it was ignoring the most dangerous threat there to our security: drugs. A scant few U.S. agents in Central America are battling the Medellin cartel, a multibilliondollar criminal consortium, which is tightening its control over the region. The cartel supplies 80 percent of the cocaine that is smuggled into America.

The cartel uses Honduras, with its craggy coastline and sparsely settled hinterland, as a hub for the transshipment of U.S.-bound cocaine. Some of the same Honduran officers who Washington has trained and armed allegedly are paid to protect the cartel's smuggling operations. The Reagan administration has pulled out all stops to disrupt the strident Sandinista regime in Nicaragua, but little has been done to break up the murderous Medellin cartel, whose illicit drugs have taken a terrible toll in wrecked lives and rampant crime across the United States. President Reagan's avowed intent is to halt the subversion and in the ruling circles who have sold destabilization of Central America out to the Medellin cartel. Often, those who can't be bribed are murdered. The cartel's enforcers have reportedly gunned down thousands of rivals and recalcitrants. This has brought some Latin American governments to the brink of chaos. The most notorious recent example, of course, is Panama. The cartel's prize contact there, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, assumed power several years ago and turned Panama into a drug smugglers' haven. Panama's banks, which deal in dollars, are ideal for laundering drug profits.

There are men like Noriega in half a dozen countries — men high cartel has such a tight grip on Colombia, for example, that it openly challenges the authority of the government, routinely murdering judges and officials

Who is responsible for the mushrooming growth of the Medellin cartel and its insidious influence? The ultimate blame lies with the drug users.

That happened to a Michigan officer who uncovered evidence of corruption in his force. The officer can have his job back, and the right of everyone to speak up has been fortified. Every time Jesse Jackson wins in the presidential primaries, people ask, "What does Jesse want?"

It happened again a few weeks ago when a group of distinguished Democratic kingmakers met with Mr. Jackson. The leader of the group said,

"Congratulations on winning all the delegates, Jesse. Now tell us at vou really wan "I want to be President of the kingmaker said. "I'm not joking. If I get the delegates, I get the nomination.' 'But why would you want to be

"Of course, you're somebody, but that doesn't mean you can be resident. 'Why not?''

"Because you have a mustache. No one can win an election with a mustache. Tom Dewey proved "So why have I been chasing something. What would you say if e gave you the Panama Canal?' "I don't want the Canal. I want the White House. I want to do away with poverty and big business and those who would cut farm subsidies," Jackson said. A man in a Stetson said, "Jesse, we're reasonable people. Maybe you don't want anything, but we're prepared to give you something anyway. Would you be interested in Radio City Music Hall's Rockettes all 36 of them?" "No way. I want to sit down in the Oval Office and chat with PLO leader Arafat, Syrian President Assad and Libya's Kadafi." "It's out of the question, Jesse. Surely there is something you've always dreamed of besides being President of the United States.' 'When I was young I wanted an Exercycle," Jackson said.

"Then it's done. We'll get you one you get out of the race.' "I don't want that anymore. I want one of those black limousines with Secret Service men hanging." "Do you really think you can beat George Bush in an election?"

"Why not? I beat Bruce Babbitt.' "Jesse, I have the authority to offer you something you can't refuse. Instead of President, how would

Developer granted $50 million lease renewal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate developer whose family pays for the salary of Attorney General Edwin Meese's wife, Ursula, was granted a $50 million lease renewal on a building the government said risked the health and safety of Justice Department workers.

Thirteen days after obtaining the new lease, the developer and his partners sold the building for $22.6 million more than they had paid for it two years earlier — a 60 percent profit, according to District of Columbia land records.

The developer, Howard S. Bender, was the principal owner of the building in late 1985 when the Bender Foundation, his family's tax-exempt philanthropy, donated $120,000 to the Multiple Sclerosis Society to hire Ursula Meese at $40,000-a-year for three years, the society's lawyer said.

The lease - a renewal at more than three times the previous rent - was signed even though the landlord had not cleaned up an air system environmental inspectors said was a health hazard that could explain above-average sickness there, according to government documents.

And the lease was signed even though the easy public access required by another tejeopardizes (Justice's) ability to provide adequate security ... and increases the opportunity for sabotage and other covert activities," a government document said.

An attorney for the Meeses denies any wrongdoing on their part in the transactions, but acknowledges that the Benders and Meeses know each other. The Benders refuse to discuss the matter. A key government official said Meese played no role in the real estate decision.

But the MS society's records on Mrs. Meese's job have been subpoenaed by independent counsel James McKay as part of his investigation into whether Meese committed federal crimes, according to James Bierbower, attorney for the MS Society.

Federal law makes it a felony for a federal official to take any governmental action that would affect the financial status of his spouse. Further, a presidential order forbids federal officials from conduct that might give the appearance of a conflict of interest, even where one does not exist.

The seven-story Chester Arthur Building on the rundown fringe of downtown Washington houses the headquarters of the Justice Department's Immigration and Naturalization Service.

In March 1985, Bender, vice president of the Bender Foundation, and other investors acquired the building at an apparently inauspicious moment in its history.

Public records show that Bender and his associates paid $37.5 million — nearly twice the assessed value - for the building

At the time, the building's most valuable asset was the federal lease, which was due to expire within a year and would be put up for bids by other landlords.

In fact, the federal government had already taken steps to move out.

Students protest ban

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — A rally of nearly 1,000 students at the University of Massachusetts to protest a ban on alcohol at outdoor events was the largest demonstration in recent memory, a school spokeswoman

The spokeswoman, Jeanne Hopkins, said the demonstrators Wednesday outnumbered recent protests against the CIA, apartheid and in support of minority students who occupied a campus building for six days.

The alcohol ban was ordered last week by Chancellor Joseph Duffey. Several students at Wednesday's hourlong rally carried beer cans and chanted "Joe's gotta go!"

Half the crowd, some singing "Give beer a chance," marched on the administration building, but protest leaders said Duffey refused to meet with them. Administrators, however, said he was having lunch elsewhere.

Ms. Hopkins said the demonstration was orderly but probably would not change Duffey's mind about the ban.

State won't prosecute

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The state will not prosecute a former railroad worker who fled after causing an Amtrak crash that injured 25 people because there is insufficient evidence he was impaired by drugs, a prosecutor said

But District Attorney William Ryan said he will recommend making it a state crime for transportation workers to leave the scene of an accident because of the case.

Former control-tower operator Tom Connor disappeared for three days after the Jan. 29 crash, delaying tests that turned up traces of marijuana, cocaine and methamphetamine, Ryan said.

'His usage of these controlled substances cannot be related back to the time of the accident, and there is no evidence that Connor was impaired by or under the influence of drags at the time," Ryan said, at a news conference.

Organ effort continues

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — A hospital will continue to harvest organs for transplant from babies born with most of their brains missing, despite a prior announcement that the program had been suspended, officials

Dick Schaefer, a spokesman for Loma Linda University Medical Center, said Wednesday he was mistaken when he announced earlier in the week that the hospital's program of keeping such babies alive had been temporarily halted until new guidelines could be issued.

On Tuesday night, hospital spokeswoman Anita Rockwell issued a statement saying the program to admit anencephalic babies "is to continue without interruption.

The hospital's policy was slightly revised, however, so that such babies will be placed on respirators only if their heart rates slow or they have trouble breathing, Schaefer said from the hospital 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

Adoption

Mother, foster family want baby

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A couple who sought to adopt the baby of an unmarried Navajo woman have agreed to give the girl back but vow to fight alongside the mother to regain custody of the child from tribal authorities.

Despite the wishes of Allyssa Kristian Pitts' 21-year-old mother and the couple that has cared for her since her birth July 20, a judge has ruled that the child must be turned over today to Navajo authorities.

Patricia Keetso, who gave up Allyssa so that she could have a life away from the reservation in Arizona, says she'll fight to get her back and return her to the would-be adoptive parents, Cheryl and Rick

"I love my baby and want her to get something out of life," she said tearfully at the Pitts' home Wednesday.

The Pittses, saying they are "devastated" by the prospect of losing the baby they love and helped bring into the world, still hope to get her back but aren't sure what will happen next.

Keetso said her mother, who was brought to California for the court hearings, was threatened with prison if the baby were not returned.

"They've hassled my whole family," said Keetso, who has eight brothers and sisters.

The Navajo Nation's Tribal Department of Justice, citing the Pittses' adoption petition.

Navajo officials said the adoption was illegal and demanded the baby be sent to the reservation. After two hearings, Judge Leslie Nichols ordered the Pittses to give up the child, ruling that Keetso was under tribal jurisdiction and legally resided on the Arizona reservation she has visited only occasionally in recent years.

Rather than appeal Nichols' ruling, the Pittses decided Wednesday to drop their adoption petition and fight to return custody of Allyssa to Keetso. Eventually, they hope to get Allyssa back.

Keetso and Mrs. Pitts planned to accompany Allyssa back to Arizona and try to persuade Navajo authorities to let them care for the baby, who suffers from severe asthma.

Keetso was pregnant when she met the Pittses through an adoption attorney's advertisement.

The couple, both 33 and parents of an 8-year-old boy, took Keetso into their home. They gave her $200 a month spending money, paid medical costs, coached her through labor and brought Allyssa home. Keetso said the Indian Child Welfare Act was designed to protect children.

"It was never supposed to do this, to take a baby from its mother or interfere with a mother's decision about her child," she said.

"The welfare people don't really care about anyone's feelings. They're treating my baby like an object. They just want to take her to prove a point.'

Indian welfare officials in Arizona declined to comment about the case. Violet A.P. Lui, the attorney handling the case at the Tribal Department of Justice, did not return several phone calls.

The Pittses have been encouraged by Dan and Patricia Carter of Spanish Fork, Utah, who recently won a highly publicized, sevenyear custody fight with Navajo authorities over 10-year Michael Halloway Carter.

"We spoke to them last night and they told us the only way we can win is to go public and tell our story to anyone who'll listen," Mrs. Pitts

"I love my baby. I've waited a long time for her. The bond we have is very strong," she said. "Sometimes she won't go to anybody else. She wakes up at night crying and doesn't want to let

Aquino visits China

HONGJIAN, China (AP) - Philippine President Corazon Aquino today burned incense at her ancestral temple and bowed three times in front of her ancestral tablets on the first day of a three-day visit to China.

Before leaving on her first trip abroad since going to Japan in 1986, Mrs. Aquino put the military on full alert to guard against another coup attempt. The precaution was taken after the escape from prison this month of rebel military officers including former Lt. Col. Gregorio "Gringo" Honasan, who nearly toppled the government in August 1987 in a bloody coup

Mrs. Aquino said in a brief departure statement in Manila that the visit to "the premier Asian power would strengthen trade, political and cultural ties between the two nations. She also will visit Hong Kong on Sunday. "The prudence of this visit, at this time, after a recent incident has been questioned,' Mrs. Aquino said of the Honasan escape. "On the contrary, its cancellation would be the greatest folly.

Iraq, Iran fire missiles

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iraq said it fired two long-range missiles today at two Iranian cities in retaliation for an Iranian missile that crashed into Baghdad. Both sides said many civilians were killed or wounded.

The official Iraqi News Agency said an Iranian missile slammed into a residential area of Baghdad on Wednesday night. "Many civilians were killed and wounded, including women and children, in addition to many houses, cars and shops being damaged," the agency quoted a military spokesman as

It said Iraq responded by firing one longrange missile at Isfahan and another at the holy city of Qom today. Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said an unspecified number of civilians were killed and wounded when two mosques and several houses and shops were damaged in the two cities.

Meeting in jeopardy

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — A Sandinista negotiator charged that Contra rebels are not serious about ending the 7-year-old civil war, and a meeting set for Friday to work out a definitive cease-fire appeared to be in jeopardy.

"We have serious doubts they want to enter into a definitive cease-fire," Deputy Foreign Minister Victor Hugo Tinoco told reporters Wednesday night.

"There's a problem of confidence," he said, adding that the Nicaraguan government did not want to see the talks unravel. "If they (Contras) don't come on the 15th (Friday), we'll have to see the alternatives.

Contra leaders have demanded that military talks on a provisional truce be held today in Sapoa, a southern Nicaraguan town where the cease-fire pact was signed March

Robertson Divine intervention part of life

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) -Pat Robertson has built a name, fortune and accelerating political career on a televison network dedicated to preparing the world for the second coming of Jesus Christ. Yet the Republican presidential aspirant now bristles at the label television evangelist. 'It's become, in my estimation, a bigoted slur," Robertson said after his second-place finish in the Iowa caucuses. Religious broadcaster is the term he prefers.

During his 30 years in that field, whatever the label, Robertson brought charismatic faith and conservative politics to his stands on social and political issues, including who is fit to govern.

"Individual Christians are the only ones, really, and Jewish people, those who trust the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, are the only ones that are qualified to have the reign, because, hopefully, they will be governed by God and submitted to him," Robertson said in a 1985 broadcast of his program, "The 700 Club."

Three years later, his political advisers paint Robertson as a Yale Law School-educated businessman, emphasizing the abilities it took to build his Christian Broadcasting Network from almost nothing to the nation's third-largest private cable operation.

Hardly mentioned these days are the special religious gifts he has talked of in the past.

Religious revival is a major part of Robertson's belief. The secret to revival is powerful prayer, including, some believers say, speaking in tongues, a state in which a person filled with the Holy Spirit talks in a language unknown to him and to his listeners.

Robertson's first such experience with that gift came when his son Timothy was ill. Robertson has written that the boy had a fever of 105, was unconscious and experiencing muscle spasms.

"I laid my hands on him and cried out again. ... I was suddenly aware of how much God loved him. ... I just consciously lifted Tim up to the Lord. ... Suddenly I was aware of the love of God enfolding him and the power of God going through him. He opened his eyes, murmured, 'Daddy, I gotta go to the bathroom.

In his joy at his son's recovery and in his efforts to praise God, Robertson said he began speaking

Bentsen expects 'hard-fought' race

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas will face a two-term Republican congressman in November, while a former Democratic congressman from California began a political comeback by winning election to a state Assembly seat.

In other elections Tuesday, singer-turnedrestaurateur Sonny Bono picked up where Clint Eastwood left off, becoming mayor of Palm Springs, Calif., the same day voters in Carmel, Calif., were choosing a replacement for Eastwood as their

And in Vicksburg, Miss., the scene of a famous Civil War battle, a black county supervisor won a runoff over a white businessman to become the city's first elected black mayor. Robert Major Walker, former state director of the state National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he expects to take office in about two weeks.

Rep. Beau Boulter of Amarillo won the GOP nomination for Senate in a primary runoff in Texas on Tuesday, defeating Houston businessman Wes Gilbreath by 111,683 votes, or 60.1 percent, to 74,029, or 39.9 percent. He will face Bentsen, a Democratic powerhouse who has held office since 1971, in

In Washington, Bentsen issued a statement congratulating Boulter. "The real race starts now that each party has chosen its nominee," he said. "I expect a hard-fought campaign."

In San Francisco, former U.S. Rep. John Burton, who left Congress because of a cocaine addiction in 1982, defeated a homosexual activist lawyer in a special election for the remainin term in the state Assembly seat vacated when Art Agnos became mayor. It's the same state Assembly seat Burton held from 1965 to 1975.

Burton, 55, is also on the June Democratic primary ballot for a full Assembly term. Once again, his opponent will be the woman he defeated Tuesday, Roberta Achtenberg, 37. He received 20,550 votes, or 52.2 percent, to 14,341 votes, or 36.5 percent, for Ms. Achtenberg.

Bono, the former husband and singing partner of Academy Award-winning actress Cher, was elected mayor of Palm Springs, a desert resort 110 miles east of Los Angeles where he owns a restaurant.

He swamped his closest competitor by almost a 2-1 margin in the seven-candidate race, with 4,842 votes to 2,498 for accountant Lloyd Maryanov.

Farther north, Eastwood had decided not to seek a second two-year term as mayor of Carmel.

Man says wife should stay at home

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I saw you on the Phil Donahue show and ended up in a big fight. You read from a book you had written in 1962. In it you said that wives should manage to live on what their husbands earn, because a career woman is a potentially good candidate for divorce. You also said that when a woman becomes financially independent, she neglects her husband and children, and her marriage falls apart — or words to that effect.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

DEAR ONE: Judging from my mail after the Donahue show, a surprising number of men — and women, too - agree with you. I maintain, however, that the days when men controlled women by keeping them poor, pregnant and live on what her husband can provide, fine. But today, because more women can support themselves, they have a choice. I stand my ground, and rest my

As far as I know, my brother supported all four children until they

Tina has asked her stepfather to escorft her down the aisle, which has hurt my brother deeply. For this reason he has refused to attend her wedding and has asked me and the rest of our brothers and sisters not to attend Tina's wedding out of loyalty to him.

Abby, Tina is still my niece and I'd like to attend her wedding, but if I go, my brother will probably disown me.

What should I do? UPSET AUNT

DEAR UPSET: Do whatever you want to do. If your brother doesn't want to attend Tina's wedding, that's his business. But he has no right to ask anyone else not to attend out of "loyalty" to him - or for any other reason.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please use the power of your column to put an end to advertising that ridicules the deaf and hard of hearing?

In recent years, I have seen advertising that depicts an older person straining to hear the name of a product, so it is repeated several times - LOUDLY. I understand, of course, that an excuse is needed to repeat the name of the product in order to make a lasting impression on the buying public, but, Abby, where is the sensitivity to the problem of hearing? No one would think of laughing at a blind person who cannot clearly see the product. And who would be amused at an arthritic who cannot hold the product? So, why do we see advertising that ridicules the deaf and hard of hearing?

Please urge your readers to let advertisers know that a disability should not be abused in this

A few hundred ladies are expected to do exactly that Saturday night when Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Midland hosts its Second Annual Benefit Bachelor Auction at the Midland Hilton.

Reagan talked to the children at ABC, got an OK, I mentioned it to the president when I was on Air Force One, and he loved the idea. Then I got in touch with the former presidents.

Lyles said he wanted children because they ask questions adults would never think to ask. One child asked Reagan what he was thinking about when he was sworn in as president. Another asked him how he met the first lady and did they kiss on their first date.

Carter told of being the first person in his family to go to college. adding that he went to the Naval Academy because it was free.

"Carter told them his house had no running water and there was no electricity in the town," Lyles said. 'He said their only source of enter tainment was the radio. Every night they took the battery out of the car and rigged it up to run the radio. Carter was asked who he would like to play him in a movie, and he said Robert Redford. Ford told them of being the only president who was adopted as a child."

Lyles said he thought the children would be intimidated at going to the White House to meet Reagan. "But they went right in and I think the president put them right at ease," he said. "I don't know who had more fun, the kids or the president.'

Kentucky program under investigation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Kentucky is investigating a published report that a package sent by an assistant coach to the father of a Los Angeles high school basketball star accidentally opened, revealing $1,000 in cash.

The Daily News of Los Angeles, in a copyright story in today's editions, said it learned of the package and it contents from employees of a delivery service.

The player, Chris Mills of Fairfax High School, signed a letter of intent Nov. 11 to accept a basketball scholarship to Kentucky, which was reprimanded last month by the NCAA for minor violations after a lengthy investigation of charges that substantial payments were made to players.

Mills, his father and university officials denied knowledge of the money, the newspaper reported.

But university President David P. Roselle issued the following statement Wednesday night:

"There is going to be a morning story in the L.A. Daily News about possible new violations of NCAA rules in our basketball program. We first heard about the matter on last Friday evening as a result of a telephone inquiry by a reporter from the newspaper.

"He gave us only enough information to indicate the possibility of a serious rule infraction. We immediately began an investigation and in very short order informed the NCAA enforcement staff.

"Within a day, we confirmed enough of the information given to us by the reporter to be seriously concerned. At that point, we requested the NCAA staff to join us in a further investigation ... It is our intention to find out what happened. to report everything we find to the NCAA, to take full responsibility for whatever is proved to have occurred."

A shipment record obtained by the newspaper showed the package was sent March 30 via Emery Worldwide air freight, from Kentucky assistant basketball coach Dwane Casey to Mills' father,

BOSTON (AP) - Not long ago, Bill Rodgers always was among the favorites to win any marathon he entered. Now, he isn't even considered the top entrant in the Masters Division of Monday's Boston Marathon

Certainly, Rodgers, four-time winner of the Boston Marathon, will be a strong contender to finish first among the over-40 field. But he will have to beat a strong contingent that includes Mick Hurd of Britain, Ryszard Marczak of Poland, Kjell-Erik Stahl of Sweden and Murray Hunt of New Zealand.

"It's not going to be easy," said Rodgers, who turned 40 last Dec. 23 and has run in one marathon since then, finishing 21st overall and second in the Masters Division in the Los Angeles Marathon.

"But to some degree, being older is easier," he said. "I don't have to win. You have your goals and aspirations, but being older, you cut back your training.

This being an Olympic year, Rodgers normally would be running in the U.S. Olympic Trials April 24 at Jersey City, N.J. But he realizes he no longer can keep up with the younger, faster marathoners, and so he chose to skip the Trials and compete in the marathon that has become synonmous with his mickname, "Boston

He said he had planned to run the Trials, but in December, two days before his 40th birthday, he injured an Achilles' tendon

NBA Notes

By The Associated Press The NBA lottery could have five teams this season instead of the úsual seven because of an unusual set of circumstances

Two years ago, Sacramento traded its first-round pick to the Los Angeles Clippers in a deal in which the Kings acquired Derek Smith. Because the Clippers and Kings both will miss the playoffs, the Clippers will have their logo in two lottery envelopes

The same could be true of Phoenix, which has its own firstround pick plus Cleveland's No. 1 choice, which the Suns acquired in the Larry Nance deal. If the Cavaliers and Suns both miss the playoffs, Phoenix would join the Clippers with a 28.6 percent chance (2-7) to win the right to draft Danny Manning No. 1 on June 28.

Barkley's bomb lifts 76ers by Washington

By The Associated Press It was a bright night for some of the NBA's shining lights.

Charles Barkley, Patrick Ewing, Adrian Dantley and Larry Bird played major roles in their teams' victories Wednesday night. Barkley did so dramatically, Ewing economically, Dantley in spurts and Bird with another virtuoso overall performance.

NBA

Barkley banked in a 29-foot 3-pointer at the buzzer, giving Philadelphia a 98-97 overtime victory against Washington. Ewing scored 41 points in just 26 minutes, making 18 of 24 shots from the field, as New York beat Indiana 127-107. Dantley, who had only two points in the first half, scored 14 of his 28 points down the stretch to lead Detroit past Cleveland 115-98.

And Bird was his normal versatile self with 26 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists as Boston increased its season-high winning streak to eight games with a 123-104 win over Milwaukee. Bird also made all eight of his free throws to extend his string to 48 straight. 76ers 98: Bullets 97

Barkley's overtime heroics made up for a first half, when Barkley scored just three points as Washington went on top 47-30. But the power forward was overpowering in the second half and extra period with 35 points.

Mike Gminski's tip-in with 28 seconds left tied the game at 87, forcing overtime. Moses Malone's three-point play gave Washington a 97-95 lead and set the stage for Barkley's bomb.

The Sixers are 10th in the Eastern Conference but only one game out of the eighth and final playoff spot. Knicks 127, Pacers 107

Ewing's six consecutive points early in the second quarter gave him 20 in a 12-minute span and gave New York a 44-25 lead. Ewing has 36 or more points in four of his last six games.

The Knicks moved past the Pacers into seventh place in the East and have won six of their last seven games. Indiana, which was led by Ron Anderson's 25 points. fell into eighth place, a half-game ahead of Washington.

Pistons 115, Cavaliers 98 Dantley keyed the Pistons' second half as they broke open a tight game and snapped Cleveland's four-game winning streak. The win gave Detroit a three-game lead over idle Atlanta in the Central Division and a 50-26 record, the Pistons' second consecutive 50-win Isiah Thomas had 21 points for

Detroit. Larry Nance led Cleveland

Dantley, who hit 14 of 15 free throws, said he felt sluggish in the first half. Celtics 123, Bucks 104

Bird had 11 points in the third quarter, when Boston made 15 of 19 shots. Milwaukee sank just seven of 22 in the period for 31.8 percent and was outscored 39-23, deciding the game right there.

Robert Parish and Kevin McHale added 21 points each as the Celtics never trailed. The Bucks, losers of seven of nine, were led by Terry Cummings with 21 points.

Boston moved within two games of the Lakers for the best overall

Nuggets 120, Lakers 106 Alex English scored 29 points. Fat Lever added 28 and Michael Adams 22 as Denver won for the 12th time in 13 games. It was Denver's 50th win of the season, only the second time since the Nuggets joined the NBA in 1976 that they have reached that figure. The Nuggets also won their season series with the Lakers 3-2 and beat Boston 2-0, making them the first team since 1978-1979 to win a season series from both Lakers and Celtics. The Nuggets did it then,

The loss was the fourth straight on the road for the Lakers — the last time that happened came in the first four games of the 1984-1985

SuperSonics 113, Clippers 92 At Seattle, Xavier McDaniel scored 23 points and Kevin Williams had six of his 18 during a 21-7 Seattle spurt in the second quarter. Williams was starting in place of Dale Ellis, who has missed six straight games with a sore right

Suns 123, Spurs 116

Phoenix staged a Johnson and Johnson show as Eddie Johnson scored 37 points and started a decisive 12-0 run in the final three minutes, while rookie guard Kevin Johnson had a triple-double for Phoenix with 11 points, 11 assists and a game-high 13 rebounds.

The victory moved Phoenix within three games of the Spurs for the eighth and final Western Conference playoff berth. Each team has six games left.

Walter Berry paced San Antonio with 31 points. Alvin Robertson had 27 for the Spurs, who lost for the third time in their last four games.

Warriors 112, Mavericks 110 Rookie Tellis Frank hit a pair of free throws with two seconds left to win it for Golden State. With the score tied at 110 and six seconds remaining, Golden State's Dave Feitl missed a pair of free throws. Dallas grabbed the rebound and called a timeout with five seconds

Actually, the Capitals and Flyers still are in the first round of the chase for the Stanley Cup. Philadelphia holds the edge 3-2 and can eliminate its Patrick Division rival tonight in Philadelphia.

But the Capitals won a playoff game for the first time in eight games while facing elimination when they took Game 5 at home 5-2 Tuesday night. 'We've just won one hockey

Houston's Jim Deshaies. Deshaies, who had shoulder surgery last October, pitched a two-hitter to beat Atlanta 4-0 Wednesday and send the Braves to their eighth straight loss.

The victory improved Deshaies' record against the National League West to 17-3 lifetime, including 6-1 against the Braves. He's 7-8 against the

It was Deshaies' first start since undergoing arthroscopic surgery for a slight tear in his left rotator cuff on Oct. 9.

"It sure is nice to be able to snap the slider, and the velocity on my fastball was pretty good, too," Deshaies said. The eight consecutive losses represents an all-time worst for Atlanta, which dropped its first seven in 1980. The Braves are only one loss shy of the NL mark of nine shared by four teams.

Deshaies' last start was April 7 in the Florida State League with the Astros' extended spring training squad. He threw six innings against Osceola, giving up nine runs and nine hits.

Deshaies struck out five and walked two. He also was called for two balks, the second resulting in the ejection of Houston manager Hal Lanier by first base umpire Bob Davidson

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Give serious consideration to a business deal you are offered now. A thorough approach pays off handsomely. If you have fallen behind in your work, this is a great day to catch up! TAURUS (April 20 May 20):

Shrewd financial manipulations will put you back on top again. Perform more services for yourself, but do not reject offers of help. Conduct business by phone if it will keep travel costs down,

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A special relationship has given you more interest in settling down. Stick with a diet or other rules set down by your doctor. Reduce the tension in your life. Refuse to CANCER (June 21-July 22): People are not always what they seem. Do not allow someone to use your money or good name. Check your home's security if you have travel plans. Cash in on an expert's business advice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Paying attention to details today will earn you a bonus later on. Diversify your investments. Romance may be getting too intense for your taste. Cool things off by getting away for a while.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): As long as you have freedom to make your own decisions, all is well. Your social life is on the upswing. Welcome opportunities to meet people from different walks of life. You gain new perspectives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You feel more energetic today. Tackle difficult tasks. Teamwork will help boost profits. Inspiration will peak this afternoon or evening; everything you touch will flourish! People flock around you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21); Helpful forces are gathering in the background. A financial situation will soon be back on the right track. Projects requiring team effort should be promoted and given top priority. Lend a helping hand.

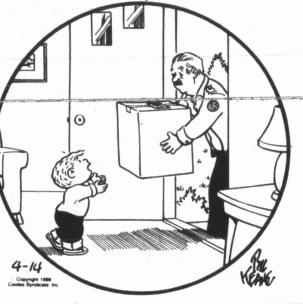

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stick to a schedule and you will accomplish more. Do not be foolish with money. Keep cash transactions out of close relationships. A frank talk with mate puts an end to anxiety.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19); Your co-workers prove very helpful now. A new project can belaunched without a hitch. Postpone signing agreements, however. You need to get several estimates before authorizing home repairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Deal with people away from the public eye. Influential people may. try to pressure you. Resist them and follow your instincts. Tact helps you strengthen the bonds of friendship. Avoid being critical.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Tackle odd jobs early in the day. Go over all correspondence relating to a tax or insurance matter. Now is the time to make long-range plans. Concentrate on strengthen ing a weak relationship.
