Rutherford: Planned prison minimum security

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

A proponent of the proposed illegal aliens prison says it will be a minimum security facility and contends that it will result in increased security, not greater danger, for area residents.

Questions have been raised by citizens opposing conversion of the Big Spring Homestead Inn Motel into a prison for illegal aliens.

Industrial Foundation Director and Big Spring City Councilman Johnny Rutherford said this morning that the prison will be a minimum security facility, although earlier City Council discussion centered on a medium security facility.

"Security in the entire area surrounding the motel would be enhanced by the conversion, not decreased," Rutherford said in response to concerns raised by a group of surrounding property owners.

Wesley Yater, who lives one-fourth mile west of the vacant motel, said Tuesday that at least 12 nearby home and business owners are organizing to oppose conversion of the motel into a holding facility for immigration law violators.

The property owners believe placement of the center at the site would devalue their homes and businesses as well as increase the potential for crime in the area, according to Yater.

However, Rutherford said the property owners fears are unfounded.

"They are certainly within their rights to oppose the facility . . . but I think more people would benefit from the center than would be hurt by it," Rutherford said.

Rutherford said the center would be classified as a minimum security facility under Immigration and Naturalization Service guidelines.

A minimum security facility houses first-time non-violent offenders, according to Federal Bureau of Prisons' standards.

A security fence would be constructed around the motel site and the perimeter of the property would be patrolled 24 hours a day, according to Rutherford.

The minimum security proposal differs from an early plan to locate the detention center at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

The airpark center would have been a medium security level facility, according to Rutherford. It would have housed illegal aliens serving one to two-year terms while awaiting deportation.

Prisoners held at the motel site would be detained for a maximum of 180 days before being sent back to Mexico, Rutherford said.

"It's an entirely different proposal," he said.

Conversion of the Homestead Motel site is being sought by Ed Davenport of Mid-Tex Detention Centers, Inc., Brady. Davenport is scheduled to appear before the Planning and Zoning Commission next Monday to request a special use permit allowing the property's conversion.

The motel is owned by Gibraltar Savings Association of Houston and has been vacant since June, company spokeswoman Ruth Lack said this morning.

Davenport's purchase of the property is contingent upon approval of his request for a permit to locate the prison in an area zoned light commercial, Rutherford said.

Meanwhile, Yater has said that the property owners who are opposed to the detention center will meet at the Coors distributorship prior to Monday's 5:15 p.m. Planning and Zoning Commission meeting.

Yater said several of the property owners also are expected to attend the commission meeting to voice opposition.

Planning and Zoning Commission members will consider Davenport's request for a specific use permit and issue a recommendation to deny or grant the permit.

City Council will then make the final decision concerning the request.

Fund open for student

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A fund has been established at First National Savings and Loan in Big Spring to help defray costs for sending a Big Spring High School student to the 99th Annual International Science and Engineering in Knoxville, Tenn.

Shirley Bremley, a BSES member, recently qualified for the fund by winning the First National Savings Award for the 1987-88 term in Oklahoma, according to information released by the fund's sponsor.

The fund, scheduled for May 8-14, annually attracts more than 60 student contestants from the U.S. and several foreign nations, the report said.

Estimated 1987-88 fund will need between $2,500 and $3,700. The Big Spring High School district has indicated it will provide half of that cost, the report said.

For more information, contact the high school.

Wanted! Worthy project seeks volunteers

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Approximately 40 volunteers per house will be needed Saturday to accomplish the repairs planned for 12 houses by the Christmas In April workforce, according to Bob Noyes.

Noyes said 12 houses have been scheduled for major repairs from among a list of 38 homes owned by elderly or disabled residents submitted to Christmas In April.

Interested volunteers should call the Chamber of Commerce.

"We need plumbers and electricians," Noyes said recently. "In addition to carpenters and roofers, tapers and bedders and sheetrock workers, we particularly need people who can do plumbing and electrical work."

"We have 12 houses scheduled for major repairs, and we've had a request to put in a water heater and a call from a woman who's afraid of her electric," Noyes said. "Those will be minor things, but if we can get the skilled people we'll do those houses too."

He explained, "It takes about 40 to 45 people per house. That sounds like a lot, but when you have two people working on the siding, pulling off the trash and patched siding, then two more putting up new siding and two supporting them by cutting, with two more doing the trim work, that's eight."

"Then you put four people on a roof, pulling off old shingles and two more up there putting down decking. You have two handing up materials from the ground, and add two or three or four putting down new felt and shingles, and that's 12."

"With the eight you have working on siding, that's 20 people, just on the outside. If you have two or three people to a room in two or three rooms inside, taping and bedding and painting and doing a little trim work maybe, then you add a plumber and an electrician around, that's 32 people on a house."

"And that's not counting the ones cleaning up, hauling away the trash," Noyes said. "You can have 40 people consumed real quick."

The project will have one day to complete work on houses under repair, he said. All the homes are owned by their residents and all need major repairs.

"We'll be doing roof repairs, putting on some siding, retrimming the windows, and repairing and replacing plumbing as the time and skills of our volunteers allows."

He said all the project houses shared some problems. Most are houses at least 50 years old that have been added onto by the owners, and the additions were not properly built, causing water to channel into the house, rather than being repelled.

"All of them . . . need repairs to the roofs. We have one house where they're catching water in a bucket under the sink and throwing it out in the yard," said Noyes, of Bob's Custom Woodwork. "We have a house where the man doesn't have a water heater."

"One house we've found, the people haven't had water in the house for two years," he said.

Work common to all the houses includes cleanup, roof repair and weatherization, Noyes said. Plumbing and electrical repairs will be made as the volunteers are able.

Fundraising for the Christmas in April project continues, he said. The money is used to purchase materials, all of which come from local suppliers at their cost, Noyes said.

Support for the project is also coming from the city in the form of dumpsters and trucks to help in cleaning the neighborhoods and the work sites, he said.

Investigations continue into local slayings

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Investigations are continuing into the deaths of a Big Spring police officer's wife and a Hispanic man today, according to Howard County officials and Big Spring police — and developments in a third slaying have delayed a ruling in the man's death, according to a police spokesman.

Justice of the Peace William Shankles said he had not made a ruling yet in the death of Fred Morales Jr., 39, who was found in the 300 block of Trades Street March 29.

"I pronounced him dead," Shankles said, "and ordered an autopsy."

Results of the autopsy showed Morales died of gunshot wounds, Shankles said, but he said he had made no ruling on whether the death was homicide or suicide because he had not been presented with pertinent reports on the matter from the Big Spring police.

"They (police) were supposed to bring me some reports on the death, but I have not received the reports."

Police Lieutenant Juan Palacios today said a meeting scheduled for this week between Shankles and police officers had been postponed.

"The man who was supposed to talk to Judge Shankles had to go up north to pick up a suspect . . . There's been too many things happening at once," Palacios said.

"Detective Gilbert Barraza and Sergeant Roger Sweatt had to go up north to pick up (Robert) Flores, Detective Barraza was working on that case and he had to go with Sgt. Sweatt, so that stopped him from talking to Judge Shankles," he said.

The suspect Barraza and Sweatt have gone to Minnesota to extradite is Robert Flores, 30, a Big Spring resident sought in connection with the death of Odessa Manuel Garcia.

Shankles said the Morales death is the subject of an ongoing investigation.

State, federal officials mull over Gregg Street

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

State and federal highway department officials are still mulling over engineering plans for the proposed Gregg Street widening, according to Project Engineer Linda Smith.

No decision on whether to proceed with the project is in sight, Smith said Tuesday.

A field representative for the Federal Highway Administration office in Austin visited Big Spring last week to get a first-hand look at the 18-block widening target area and to review State Highway Department engineering plans for the project.

No decisions have been reached as a result of that visit, Smith said.

Federal highway officials are reviewing state engineers' plans in an attempt to determine if any of the design aspects are not compatible with federal requirements, Smith said.

"The plans will be narrowed to items which state and federal engineers agree and disagree about," she said.

Parking along the roadway in one area in which state and federal engineers could be at odds, Smith said.

"The Federal Highway Administration prefers to have parking spaces parallel to the street," she said.

However, Smith said she was confident that a compromise could be reached allowing some parking spaces along the highway to be current parking.

"Straight-in parking will not be allowed, but parking spaces in some businesses can be converted to angle or parallel," she said.

Smith declined to say specifically what parking changes are being considered, state and federal engineers to accommodate the widening.

"That information is being released to the individual property owners who would be affected by the widening," she said.

Any Gregg Street property owner with questions about new parking in front of their business would be affected by the widening should contact Resident Engineer Mike Chetty at the Big Spring office, Smith said.

"He will be glad to come out and discuss the changes with property owners on an individual basis," she said.

Homicide

No arrests have been made in the Morales case pending Shankles' ruling on whether the death is a homicide or suicide.

Garcia's body was found April 7 in a sand pit beneath a mattress, discarded lumber and a washing machine shell. Ricardo Flores, 32, Big Spring, and Leroy Alaniz, 30, Odessa, were arrested in connection with Garcia's death. They are being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each.

Meanwhile, charges of involuntary manslaughter against Big Spring police officer Dennis Dunn, 39, are being investigated by the Texas Rangers.

Dunn is free on $90,000 bond in connection with the death of his wife, Caryle, April 12. Mrs. Dunn was pronounced dead early Wednesday morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Justice of the Peace Willie Grant.

A spokeswoman from the Midland office of the Texas Department of Public Safety said the investigating officer was scheduled to be in Big Spring today to take statements in the case.

Big Spring Police Captain Lonnie Smith said today that charges of involuntary manslaughter had been filed against Dunn at the time of his arrest because those charges best fit the facts known at the time.

No reports in the Dunn case had been filed by today, according to the Rangers' spokeswoman in Midland.

However, Lt. Palacios and Capt. Smith said the investigating officer, Joe Sanders, was in Big Spring this morning.

"He's been here twice this week that I know of and once to Austin," Smith said. "He carried possible evidence in the case to the DPS crime laboratory in Austin for testing."

Smith said, "A person commits the offense (of involuntary manslaughter) when he recklessly causes the death of an individual; or by accident or mistake when operating an automobile, airplane, helicopter or boat while intoxicated."

Women killed after freeway chase

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman and her mother were shot to death on a freeway after a frantic car chase during which they drove the wrong way up an exit ramp while trying to escape the woman's estranged boyfriend, police said.

Barbara Jean Johnson, 36, and her mother, Jessie Mae Norman, 63, were killed Tuesday by a man who walked up to their disabled car and opened fire, police said.

Cleophus Jones Ethridge, 51, was charged with capital murder late Tuesday after he surrendered to police about two hours after the incident. He is being held without bond.

Homicide Sgt. Ronnie Doyle said the incident stemmed from a domestic dispute Friday evening.

During the chase, Ms. Johnson headed west onto the freeway from an eastbound exit ramp and was involved in a collision with a pickup truck. No one was injured in the accident.

The damage and oncoming traffic finally forced Ms. Johnson to stop in the center lane. Witnesses said the man then jumped out of his auto and ran to the women's car with a high-powered rifle.

Carl Dubone, a motorist eastbound on the Loop, said he came over a rise and saw a man standing in traffic holding a rifle.

"He was stepping away from the (Johnson) white car," Dubone said. "He was aiming at the lady (older girl) who was running. He stepped in front of the car and shot at the lady, but she ducked down behind a car. The traffic was almost at a standstill by then."

Police said the man briefly chased the older girl, then went back to his car and drove away.

Ms. Johnson, a licensed vocational nurse, was shot through the chest as she sat in the driver's seat of her car, which had been westbound in the eastbound lanes of the South Loop near Cullen. Ms. Norman was shot in the jaw while sitting in the back seat behind her daughter.

Ms. Johnson's two daughters, aged 16 and 10, escaped, although they were fired on at least once, police said.

Doyle said Ms. Johnson had been involved in a dispute with her former boyfriend Friday night and had returned to his home Tuesday, to collect items before moving to a new apartment.

Sgt. W.K. Ford said Ms. Johnson and her boyfriend began arguing and police were called.

After officers left the house, Ms. Johnson drove away with her mother and daughters, Doyle said. He said the man apparently was nearby in his car and began pursuit.

Company vows to fix 976 problem

AUSTIN (AP) — An anti-pornography crusader says the Public Utility Commission missed a chance to end dial-a-porn by voting to let telephone companies decide what is inappropriate.

"Southwestern Bell will not act responsibly unless forced to by a commission or citizens' complaints," said Mark Weaver of Austin, executive director of the American Family Association of Texas, formerly known as Citizens Against Pornography.

The commission voted 2-1 Tuesday against a ban on dial-a-porn and other "976" pay call services. Instead, the commission backed Southwestern Bell's self-policing plan.

"You have my word that we are going to fix this problem," said Bill

Free, a Southwestern Bell vice president.

Dial-a-porn is one of many services offered through the Dial 976 program. The recorded messages are provided by companies who, in turn, get their money from the phone companies, which do the billing and collection. Free said his company no longer wants to collect money for dial-a-porn and other controversial services.

Under the proposal, which faces PUC review, phone companies would set up a separate prefix, other than 976, for services such as dial-a-porn. The phone companies also would not provide a billing and collection service, and the calls could be limited to customers who say they want to be able to call them.

Gang rape victim uncooperative

FORT WORTH (AP) — Police were prepared to release on Tuesday six men arrested in a gang rape report because they have been unable to find the victim.

The woman gave police an address they believe is false and has not cooperated in pursuing the case, Fort Worth police said.

Investigators cannot prosecute the men without a victim, police said. The six men will likely be released from Tarrant County Jail, where they have been held since Sunday, if the victim does not press the case, police said.

The woman told police she and two companions were in a car that overheated early Sunday. She went to a nearby house to get a container of water and was dragged inside by two men, police said.

She was dragged into a bedroom, where six men held her down while she was robbed, undressed and assaulted, police said.

An officer patrolling the neighborhood interrupted the assault after he was flagged down by a man and told there was a woman being raped inside the house, police said.

The suspects, found hiding in and around the house, were arrested on investigative charges of aggravated sexual assault and aggravated robbery.

21 enter pleas in phone fraud case

MIDLAND (AP) — Twenty-one current and former Odessa College athletes who were indicted for illegally using long-distance access codes didn't mean to break the law, says the junior college's athletic director.

All the students charged last week are current or former participants in men's and women's basketball and track.

But Athletic Director James Segrest said those involved probably won't be suspended from any teams.

"They weren't belligerently trying to break the law," he said. "I think they are all good kids."

Odessa College president Phil Speegle told the Odessa American last week the school plans no disciplinary action against the students.

The students were indicted on federal felony charges of bilking a communications company out of $30,000 in long-distance phone calls.

Five students charged in the case have made initial appearances before a U.S. magistrate and pleaded innocent, said court officials.

A federal grand jury indicted the students last week on charges of unlawful use of counterfeit access codes belonging to Midland-based ClayDesta Communications.

Students allegedly used pirated access codes to make hundreds of long-distance phone calls from dormitory pay phones.

If convicted, each student faces a maximum 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

ClayDesta President Randy Kidwell alleged the students and others in the Permian Basin illegally obtained the codes and made thousands of calls, some to foreign countries.

He said the codes probably were obtained from careless credit card users or through computer hackers. Usually, such calls are charged against a ClayDesta customer's telephone.

Couple take plunge on ferry

LOS EBANOS (AP) — With the Rio Grande flowing underneath them, a couple took the plunge Tuesday aboard a hand-pulled ferry that serves as an international bridge in this border town.

Sam and Connie McSpadden's brief ferry tale wedding found them tying the knot as crewmen pulled ropes to propel the ferry across the narrow river crossing.

Los Ebanos International Ferry is the only hand-pulled ferry used at any U.S. port of entry.

"It's the last one of its kind, I'm only planning on making the same mistake once, which I just made a while ago, and it's weird," Sam said after the ceremony while drinking a beer under an ebony tree near the federal inspection offices.

Sam, 44, and Connie, 41, who live in South Padre Island, said they always visit the historic ferry on frequent trips to Rio Grande City.

"It was kind of mutual," she said, when asked whose idea it was to marry on a ferry with Mexico in the background.

Jury begins third day in mauling case

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Still unable to reach agreement, jurors ended their second day of deliberations Tuesday in the punishment phase of an animal trainer convicted of injury to a child.

Gary Durkovitz, 35, of Houston, was convicted last week of injury to a child after his pet lion "Samson" mauled Roxanne Hernandez, 8, at the Texas Flea Market on Oct. 10, 1987, in Houston.

The jury took about five hours to convict Durkovitz, but deliberated for six hours Monday on punishment before being sequestered for the evening.

The jury returned at 9 a.m. Tuesday and recessed after 5 p.m.

Harris County prosecutors have asked for the maximum punishment of 10 years and a $5,000 fine, but defense attorneys have asked for probation.

Durkovitz, who had taken his 350-pound lion to previous shows at the flea market, was walking his lion out of the building when the attack occurred.

Samson attacked the little girl when she walked in front of him.

Ex-POWs due for recognition

Few things could be more terrifying and debilitating than being a prisoner of war. Thousands of Americans have been held captive, tortured, starved and mistreated in other ways by America's enemies during World Wars I and II and in Korea and Vietnam.

Now these former POWs are getting some long-overdue recognition. A special Congressional Prisoners of War Medal has been authorized for all American servicemen captured by our enemies since April 5, 1917.

Obviously no medal can take back the pain these brave servicemen suffered or restore the years lost from their lives. But as Michael O'Connor, a Vietnam POW for five years, said, "Like any recognition, I think it helps ease some of the pain."

Religious liberty insulted by court

There will be no marriage of record but the defendant must provide a home, pay all the bills and even assume a monumental debt acquired by the would-be bride.

That's the kind of shotgun arrangement forced on Georgetown University by the District of Columbia Superior Court. After eight years of legal resistance, the Catholic university, operated by the Jesuits, has agreed to provide homosexual groups the same privileges given other campus groups.

Such privileges usually include on-campus office accommodations, a share in student fees, permission to hold organizational meetings and rallies, to sponsor guest lecturers and the like.

The only bow the court made to the school's religious heritage is that the university does not have to officially recognize the homosexual organizations. That is insulting legalistic sop to a great university — and the moral and religious tenets it cherishes.

The school evidently will settle for the crumb of justice. It will not appeal the decision to the Supreme Court.

Adding insult to injury, the court ordered Georgetown to pay the attorneys' fees accumulated over eight years by the homosexual students and student groups who initiated the suit. One attorney estimated the bill was "substantially in excess of half-a-million dollars."

So Georgetown is shorn of tradition and treasure and forced to give aid and comfort to the enemy — unofficially, of course. It is a gay victory but a sad day for reason and religious liberty.

The master of the house gets tee'd off

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

The most difficult tickets to obtain in all of sports are those that allow the holder to walk upon the hallowed grounds of Augusta National during the annual Masters golf tournament, which begins Thursday.

There are no sales to the general public. Those who have tickets either inherited them or got on the list for the privilege of buying them years ago.

Jack, a guy from Columbus, Ga., first began buying tickets 23 years ago.

"They were just $15 back then," he said, "but they went up to $70." Jack used to go to the tournament each year with three friends, Bill, Gene and Sid.

"We would leave home at 6 in the morning," he recalled. "There was a little beer store on the way. We'd wait at the door with the pulpwood workers until the guy came to open up. We had some great times and saw some great golf.

"But then my wife got to be a big problem for me and my Masters tickets."

"I heard that," I said.

"She just hated for me to have a good time," Jack went on.

"She didn't like me going to the Masters or playing golf or fishing or running with my buddies. I was on a leash."

"I was a salesman and my territory was the Southeast. On Friday afternoons on my way home, I enjoyed stopping by the Elks Club and having a few beers with my buddies."

"And your wife didn't like that," I asked.

"Of course not. She'd start yelling at me the minute I got home, 'Jack, you stopped by the Elks Club, didn't you? How many beers did you have?'"

"I always said, 'Two.' I usually had 27. She'd say, 'Why do you always say two?' and I'd say, 'What difference does it make what I tell you? You don't believe anything I say anyway.'"

"One day she got so mad at me she went to my closet and took out all my clothes and then she got my golf clubs and went out on the deck and covered them with charcoal lighter and set them on fire."

"But what about the Masters tickets, Jack?"

"Several years ago," he continued, "they cut my allotment down. I used to get four but they cut me to two."

"Well, that ended our group going to the tournament and by this time my wife had gotten herself a job at the courthouse and she started thinking she was pretty high and mighty and she wanted to be seen in all the right places. So she began going to the Masters with me just to be seen, but she never wanted to stay over an hour.

"One thing led to another and we finally got a divorce. I was so sick and tired of everything I wanted it to be over as fast as possible.

"When the lawyers came to me I told them my wife could have everything — the house, included."

"I signed the papers without really looking at them."

"And do you know what she had put in those papers?"

"Don't tell me...?"

"Yep. She had them put in that she got my two Masters tickets and she doesn't even like golf. She did it out of spite."

"That's one of the saddest stories I've ever heard," I said.

More basic questions about Star Wars answered

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Editor's note: This is the second of three columns by William F. Buckley Jr. on the Strategic Defense Initiative.

We proceed with the responses of the Technical Panel on Missile Defense of the George C. Marshall Institute. In the first column, we arrived at the crucial development of the "smart bullet," which permits space-based missiles to detect, and to kill, missiles launched from the ground.

Are space-based missiles dependent on radar?

A warhead can be tracked quite well without radar, by a combination of a lightweight heat detector, which finds the direction to the warhead by picking up its warmth against the cold of space, and a low-powered laser range finder, which measures the distance to it with great accuracy.

Do we still need ground-based anti-missile defenses?

Yes. The key to a truly effective defense against Soviet attack is a combination of the space-based defense and the ground-based defense. The space-based defense breaks up the timing of the Soviet attack, thus making it impossible for a successful attack against ground missiles by means of "laddering down" — successive missiles coming in a few seconds or minutes apart, making way for the killer missile. Then the ground-based defense mops up the remaining warheads.

Isn't it destabilizing to build a defense against Soviet missiles? Won't the Soviets feel threatened?

Only if the Soviets had no defense system of their own. But they have been working on one for 15 years. The options available to the United States are: Either we go ahead full speed with the Strategic Defense Initiative, in which case each side will have a defense against the other side's missiles in the 1990s; or we fail to deploy SDI, in which case the Soviet Union will have a defense against our missiles, but we will have none against theirs.

Might the Soviet Union be tempted to a pre-emptive strike if we went ahead?

Not in the near term. Our submarines are an effective deterrent. But by 1995, the Soviets will have completed deployment of their fifth-generation ICBM arsenal and will have completed their nationwide ABM defense. At that time, they will have clear military superiority, because they will have the ability to disarm the United States by destroying the command and control network for our nuclear forces while sustaining tolerable or no damage to their own military and industrial base.

Some American scientists say a space-based defense against missiles won't work. What makes you confident that these smart-bullet defenses will work in space?

The most recent test, in February 1988, showed that smart bullets can track a "bus" — the vital section of an ICBM that carries all the warheads — even after the missile itself has burned out and fallen away. This capability means that the U.S. defenses can catch Soviet ICBMs with many of their eggs still in the one basket — i.e., with a number of warheads still on board.

The vital success in tracking a bus means an end to the era of the MIRVed missile. If an ICBM can be caught and destroyed right after it is launched and before it has deployed all its warheads, there is little to gain from MIRVing.

Can we guard against a catastrophic failure caused by a computer breakdown or an error in SDI software?

Several steps are necessary. Software and hardware errors can be deliberately inserted into the program and the system then tested and refined until it is "error tolerant."

The software must be redundant: Every important decision is made in several ways by independent lines of computer reasoning. And — the programs are compartmentalized — broken up into boxes. Finally, the communications links that connect the different parts of the system are heavily redundant.

How effective, then, will the smart-bullet defense be?

The first stage of the 1990s defense, with a layer of smart bullets in space and another on the ground, will have an effectiveness of about 50 percent. The fully deployed 1990s defense, with many more smart bullets in space and a mid-course layer, will have an effectiveness of better than 90 percent.

Red Cross fires one

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The American Red Cross has suspended processing of blood at its regional center here and fired the administrator, two months after blood that failed AIDS screening procedures was distributed.

The Nashville chapter, which serves 100 hospitals in 90 counties in central Tennessee, western Kentucky and parts of Illinois and Missouri, also announced Tuesday plans to retrain its technical staff on new equipment.

In the meantime, "blood donations to the Nashville region will be processed by other Red Cross regional facilities," said Dr. S. Gerald Sandler, associate vice president for blood services at national headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Chapter Chairman Max Haught said the board of directors voted Monday to relieve Dr. Kenneth Fawcett of his duties as director of blood services for the Tennessee Valley Region.

Neither Haught nor chapter manager Christopher Parker would discuss the reasons for the dismissal.

Crash reports differ

DETROIT (AP) — Three key parties to the crash of Northwest Flight 255 have prepared sharply differing reports on the causes of the accident that killed 156 people last summer. The Detroit News reported today.

The investigation of the Aug. 16, 1987 crash at Detroit's airport has centered on the position of wing flaps and slats that provide lift for takeoff.

The reports by the maker of the jet, the pilot's union and the airline will be considered by the National Transportation Safety Board at hearings next month, the newspaper said.

Douglas Aircraft Co., maker of the MD-80 jetliner, in its report, blamed shoddy pilot performance, accusing the crew of "acute negligence" and a "casual attitude toward cockpit discipline," the newspaper said.

Tornado cleanup begins

MADISON, Fla. (AP) — Residents began rebuilding their lives and town today after Florida's worst tornado in two decades killed four people and left millions of dollars in damage. A college was ruined but its 2,000 students were spared.

"Thankfully, it happened when it did and not four or five hours later because the death toll would probably have been in the hundreds," said William H. McCoy, president of North Florida Community College.

The tornado struck at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday, tossing families out of bed while windows exploded and their homes collapsed on them. It left 18 people injured and a 12-mile-long, half-mile-wide path of destruction in which 17 homes were destroyed, authorities said.

Gulf Families of missing await news

THOMASVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An ear infection almost kept Capt. Kenneth W. Hill out of the Marines, his father recalled as he and relatives of a fellow helicopter crewman lost during fighting with Iran awaited word on their fate.

But Hill persisted, persuading recruiters in 1981 to help him avoid an honorable discharge for medical reasons. The following year, he was appointed to Marine officers' training school and realized his dream of being a pilot.

"He's just a good Marine," Robert Hill said Tuesday of his 33-year-old son. "I know because he told me so. He was proud. He's over there because that's his job. He said they were well-manned, well-trained, and he was confident they could handle what they were doing."

Iran says it shot down the Marine Cobra attack gunship, part of a squadron flown by Hill and Capt. Stephen C. Leslie, 30, of New Bern, during heavy fighting Monday.

But the Pentagon said Hill and Leslie had been sent out on a "standard patrol sweep," and that there was no evidence to suggest the missing gunship had ever come under fire.

Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci refused to speculate about the aircraft's fate as U.S. Navy ships and planes continued to search for the helicopter over the central gulf.

Meanwhile, four wounded sailors from the U.S. frigate Samuel B. Roberts remained in serious but stable condition and were expected to be transferred to hospitals in the United States today, the Navy said.

The ship was damaged in a Persian Gulf mine blast last week that was cited by U.S. officials as justification for Monday's attack on two Iranian oil platforms.

After Marine officials telephoned the Hills about 9:30 p.m. Monday, the family has had little sleep.

"I laid down sometime last night," Robert Hill said Tuesday, "but I've known every hour of the day. My wife never went to bed. I know she didn't sleep because I heard her in here wiping down the walls last night."

Leslie's younger sister, Kris Leslie, said her family received word around midnight Monday that her brother was listed as missing. She said the family had received no details since.

"We're very numb right now," Ms. Leslie said.

Leslie and his wife, Lisa, live in Jacksonville, N.C., where Leslie and Hill are stationed at New River Air Station. He has been in the Persian Gulf area since the end of January, Ms. Leslie said.

On Tuesday, Robert Hill and his wife, Mary, clung to hope as they waited with family and friends for word of their son.

The Pentagon "said he was on the American side," Hill recalled. "They said they don't think there's a possibility of the Iranians picking him up. They don't believe they were shot down. The water is warm and it's shallow — as compared to the ocean, I guess."

Darrell Leonard, 30, a boyhood friend, said Hill was desperate to get the Marines to reconsider his inner ear problem and allow him to become a helicopter pilot.

"He was a fanatic when it came to flying," Leonard said. "We would talk for hours. He liked the idea of flying low and flying fast."

"This is what he wanted to do," Robert Hill said. "This is his life."

Israelis honor dead

JERUSALEM (AP) — Soldiers blocked Palestinians in the occupied lands from entering Israel today as hundreds of thousands of Israelis gathered in cemeteries to remember the 16,450 troops who died fighting for the nation.

An army spokesman said Israel would be shut to Arab residents of the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip through the weekend in an effort to prevent terror attacks during Memorial and Independence Day commemorations, which started Tuesday evening.

Israeli troops also maintained a curfew for a fourth day on 17 refugee camps and towns in the West Bank and six camps and towns in Gaza to prevent further riots over the assassination of PLO military commander Khalil al-Wazir.

Since Al-Wazir was killed early Saturday, 20 Palestinians have died in clashes with Israeli troops.

Shultz defends policy

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said the United States does not intend to be drawn into the Persian Gulf war but is determined to defend its ships against Iranian attack.

"We are there in a non-confrontational way," he said Tuesday. "We and others have a right to unimpeded access to the international waterways, and we protect that right."

Shultz spoke to reporters on his flight from Washington. He was to rest in Helsinki and prepare for three days of talks in Moscow beginning on Thursday.

Shultz is holding monthly meetings with Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze to prepare for the summit meeting in Moscow May 29-June 2.

He said the two sides had made "some modest progress" toward a treaty to reduce their strategic nuclear weapons arsenals by 30 to 50 percent.

"But it's tough going," Shultz said. President Reagan and General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev are to sign the treaty at their fourth and probably final summit.

Retaliation threatened

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A pro-Iranian group holding two Americans said early today it will retaliate against "America's aggressions" in the Persian Gulf, where U.S. and Iranian forces clashed this week.

"We will not sit back and watch America's aggressions in the gulf," said the Revolutionary Justice Organization, in a handwritten statement delivered shortly after midnight to the independent daily newspaper Al-Nahar.

The statement did not specify what measures the group would take but included a photograph of Joseph James Cicippio.

Medical school

Free world's largest managed in Texas

By CHAD HUNTLEY
The San Antonio Light

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Alcide "Cid" LaNoue runs the largest medical training school in the free world from his office at Fort Sam Houston.

In addition to the sprawling facilities at the San Antonio post, the school includes facilities at Camp Bullis in Northwest Bexar County, the Army Medical Equipment and Optical School in Aurora, Colo., and Army School of Aviation Medicine at Fort Rucker, Ala.

A brigadier general, LaNoue is commander of the Academy of Health Sciences, which trains about 37,000 students each year in 154 health disciplines.

The academy is housed in 241 buildings at Fort Sam, has a staff and faculty of 2,086, with personnel costs of $60 million a year and an annual operating budget of $31.5 million. An average of 7,000 students are in training on any given day.

"Fort Benning (Ga.) is home of the infantry, Fort Gordon (Ala.) is home of the signal corps and the academy is home of the medical corps," LaNoue said. "We're an important part of the health-care system, an important part of the city, but we're generally not recognized."

LaNoue looked slightly harried as he graciously squeezed an interview between two appointments, missing lunch in the process.

"This job is all-consuming," he said. "I spend 60 percent of my time away from San Antonio and probably eat more meals on Delta (Air Lines) than at home."

SAN ANTONIO — Brig. Gen. Alcide N. LaNoue, commander of the Academy of Health Sciences at Fort Sam Houston, stands at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in downtown San Antonio. LaNoue runs the largest medical training school in the free world from his office at Fort Sam Houston.

He enjoys skiing, sailing and listening to classical music, but seldom finds the time for those pastimes.

LaNoue said his biggest challenge is not introducing physicians, dentists and nurses to military life, or training medics and technologists — although he does both — but planning for Army medical needs in the future.

"This is not what I thought I would be doing when I got here," he said. "I thought I would be running a school, but that's what my executive officer does."

Instead, LaNoue meets regularly with other members of the Army's directorate of doctrine and training to plan medical integration with other schools and units within the Army.

"For instance, we will not have enough medical aid forward on the modern battlefield like the MASHs of Korea and Vietnam," he said. "So we'll have to have more buddy aid, which will have to be taught in basic training."

"We have to create a lead for a lifesaver course — buddy and self-aid — so in every squad, we will have someone identified to deliver aid."

LaNoue said medical planning means developing programs the Army will need 15 years from now and making sure the supporting technology, methodology and structure will be ready when needed.

Video illustrates El Paso smog coming from Mexico

EL PASO (AP) — City officials claim that much of El Paso's air pollution wafts over from the border city of Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, and they've made a videotape to try to convince the Environmental Protection Agency.

At issue is an August deadline for complying with the Clean Air Act — a deadline that El Paso is virtually assured of not meeting.

"The reason for this video and this study is to document everything that we have been talking about for years," said Jesus Reynoso, supervisor of the air pollution division of the City-County Health District. "We can now graphically show the problems that we have along the border."

The videotape explains that open burning of tires, wood and kerosene is common in Juarez. About half the streets are unpaved, contributing to the pollution, and cars there are older and not as well maintained.

"We have to convince the EPA that we can't control our pollution here," Howard Applegate, research associate for the University of Texas-El Paso's Center for Inter-American and Border Studies, said Monday.

Reynoso said Juarez' lower vehicle emissions standards are enforced by one person in a city of 1.1 million.

In contrast, he said, El Paso has 13 employees to enforce emissions standards in a population of about 500,000.

Before showing the 20-minute video Monday, officials talked of EPA officials' ignorance of El Paso's location and its special problems. For example, they said, an EPA official flew to Dallas a few years ago and asked for a taxi to El Paso, 650 miles away.

The inability to cope with the international pollution problem warrants the establishment of an International Environmental Commission similar to the International Water and Boundary Commission, said Dr. Laurance Nickey, city-county health director.

Which telephone directory covers more of the Big Spring trade territory, has the higher consumer usage, costs 30% less for advertising space, has listings for 13 surrounding towns, and features the exclusive cross reference listings?

NOT THEIR'S.

If you thought Southwestern Bell was the correct answer, let us set the record straight. Associated Publishing Company's Big Spring Phone Book reaches more homes and businesses, covers more local and area listings, and has a higher usage than Southwestern Bell's.

We are starting our fifth year in Big Spring, and we've been listening to our customers. That's why we include the special government listings "blue pages" section and the exclusive cross reference directory.

Now, if our directory lists more towns, and is delivered to more people, is used more, and costs less to advertise in, which one is the best choice for your business' advertisement?

Right.

After New York win, Dukakis starts zeroing in on Bush

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Dukakis, celebrating "a terrific win in a very important state," began focusing on George Bush and the Republicans with a vow to "take our message, the Democratic message, to every part of the country."

Dukakis launched his campaign in the next primary state, Pennsylvania, even before the polls here had closed.

"This fall George Bush is going to be judged by a legacy of ... pink slips for our workers, golden parachutes for high rollers, and greenmail for sharp operators on Wall Street," he said.

"I want to make that American dream come alive again, not only in Trump Towers, not only in fancy apartments all over this country, not only in a few privileged neighborhoods."

He predicted the battle for the Democratic presidential nomination will continue until the last primaries.

"Today was a great day, but our job has just begun," Dukakis told a buoyant crowd Tuesday night in the Manhattan hotel that served as his headquarters.

He returned to New York from Philadelphia to claim the victory that moved him a giant step toward the nomination and likely will narrow the race in the remaining states to just himself and Jesse Jackson.

"Tomorrow we take our message ... to Pennsylvania and Ohio and

NEW YORK — Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis is congratulated by his Oscar-winning cousin, Olympia Dukakis, at the candidate's victory celebration in the Omni Park Central Hotel Tuesday night.

Jackson vows to continue race

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential hopeful Jesse Jackson congratulated rival Michael Dukakis on his New York primary victory, but said his own campaign "continues to grow."

"We continue to win. We have won," Jackson told supporters in New York Tuesday night as Dukakis piled up a convincing victory. With nearly all the votes counted, Dukakis had 51 percent to Jackson's 37 percent.

"Our campaign continues to grow ... We won the multicultural capital of the Western world — New York City — tonight," Jackson told a group of enthusiastic supporters who yelled "Jesse, Jesse."

Jackson held a slim lead in the city's vote.

Extending his "sincere respectful congratulations" to the Massachusetts governor, Jackson praised his rival for "running a race in New York that was credible and decent, with dignity above the fray."

Jackson's campaign said his second-place finish was a repudiation of Mayor Edward I. Koch, who criticized him harshly during the primary campaign. Koch supported Albert Gore Jr., who finished a distant third.

"The people of New York spoke loudly today and very effectively," said Jackson's national campaign manager, Gerald Austin. "They Jews would have to be "crazy" to vote for Jackson. Jackson's campaign manager said Koch was "insane."

"We're disappointed we didn't win, and we congratulate Gov. Dukakis. We also congratulate the people of New York for pushing aside what Mayor Koch tried to do," Austin said.

Austin was optimistic about prospects in next Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary and the Ohio primary, a week later, as well as later big-state contests like California.

"We think we're still in this race," he said.

Bush predicting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush predicts the winner of the New York Democratic primary, Michael Dukakis, will go on to win his party's nomination and face him in the fall general election.

At the same time, Bush rejected as "invalid liberal trash" suggestions that his acceptance of support from former Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo might send the wrong signal to blacks and other minorities in November.

"Are you suggesting you only appear with civil rights leaders?" Bush asked reporters.

are not going to put up with divisiveness. They are to be commended for that."

The New York primary campaign proved to be a ferocious affair that featured an almost daily tongue-lashing from Koch directed at Jackson. Koch had said that Indiana, and after that to Oregon and California and New Jersey and the remaining primary states," he said. "And after that, we will take our message, the Democratic message, to every part of the country."

In Philadelphia he unveiled a retooled campaign speech before a crowd of more than 1,500

Democrats at a state party dinner. He blasted the Republican vice president and linked him to privileged excess and corporate greed — themes he didn't mention as he campaigned near Wall Street a day earlier.

The dimensions of the Massachusetts governor's victory were enough to make it likely Albert Gore Jr. would drop out of the race and leave Dukakis the only white Democrat in the race with Jackson. It was a victory that pushed him far ahead in the delegate race and, while not yet close to a majority of delegates, gave him the look of the likely nominee.

Dukakis didn't claim that title for himself, however. Aides said he would compete vigorously in the Pennsylvania primary next Tuesday and in Ohio and Indiana the week after that. His Pennsylvania chairman, Lanny Johnson, acknowledged Dukakis is at a large advantage in that state as the only candidate with a full slate of delegates on the ballot.

National campaign chairman Paul Brontas said the big New York win also may encourage uncommitted and "super delegates," the party and elected leaders, to move to Dukakis.

Candidates look to Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Democratic presidential contender Michael Dukakis, fresh from a solid win in New York's big primary, was looking to consolidate his strength with a repeat performance here next week. But rival Jesse Jackson warned not to count him out.

A prize of 178 delegates, the fourth-largest of any state race, is at stake in next Tuesday's primary here.

"Tomorrow, we take our message ... to Pennsylvania and Ohio and Indiana," Dukakis said in a victory speech in New York. "And after that, we will take our message — the Democratic message — to every part of the country."

The Jackson camp offered congratulations, but said the New York primary didn't settle things.

"We continue to win. We have won," Jackson told supporters in New York. "Our campaign continues to grow."

"We think we're still in this race," said Jackson's campaign manager, Gerald Austin. Jackson was heading to Pennsylvania tonight.

Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr., who finished a distant third in New York, was considering abandoning his presidential bid.

On the Republican side, Vice President George Bush, who is virtually assured his party's nomination, campaigned Tuesday in the state.

A poll in today's editions of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and Philadelphia Daily News indicated Dukakis led Jesse Jackson among likely Democratic voters primary by a 59-20 margin. The poll of 647 likely Democratic voters, conducted Tuesday through Sunday, had a margin of error of plus or minus five percentage points.

"The most likely scenario is that Dukakis uses Pennsylvania to solidify his front-runnership, hold on the nomination," said Lt. Gov. Mark Singel, a Democrat who is neutral in the race.

Jackson supporters complained that Pennsylvania's delegate-selection system stacks the cards against their candidate.

Jackson's strength is largely in three of the 23 districts, in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

- 2 lbs. ground beef
- 2 cups crushed corn tortilla chips
- 1 1/2 cup milk, chunky salsa dip
- 2 eggs
- 1 tbs. chili powder
- 1 tsp. salt

In large bowl, combine all ingredients until well blended. Shape meat into a loaf. Place in shallow baking dish and bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour; drain. Makes eight servings.

YUCATAN SHRIMP AND RICE

Good for a buffet in a chafing dish — keep the rice separate.

- 1 lb. medium raw shrimp, peeled and deveined
- 3 tbs. oil
- 1/2 cup each: diced carrots, onions and celery
- 2 tbs. all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup mild, chunky picante sauce
- 1/2 cup chicken broth
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 2 tsp. chopped cilantro

Hot cooked rice

In Dutch oven, saute shrimp in two tbs. oil until pink; remove. Heat remaining oil in pan and saute vegetables until beginning to soften. Stir in flour and cook, stirring, one minute. Add picante and chicken broth. Stirring constantly, bring to a boil. Return shrimp to pan. Stir in sour cream and cilantro and heat through, do not boil. Serve over rice. Makes six servings.

RED HOT TEXAS TOAST

Serve with steaks and salad

- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 2 tbs. hot, chunky picante sauce
- 4 tsp. grated Parmesan cheese
- 12 slices French bread

With a fork, mash butter with picante and Parmesan cheese until well blended. Spread mixture to the edges on one side of each slice of bread. Place butter-side up on baking sheet and boil until edges begin to brown. Serve warm. Makes 12 slices.

DEVELOPER OF GAS SAVER AWARDED $22,000

BOSTON — With the oil glut worse than ever and OPEC ringing its hands, the Federal Courts have awarded a fee of $22,747 to National Fuelsaver Corporation of Boston, developers of the Platinum Gasaver.

The Gasaver, which takes only 10 minutes to install, releases microscopic quantities of platinum into the air-fuel mixture entering the engine.

Platinum has the unique ability of making unburnt fuel burn. With platinum in the flame zone, you increase the percentage of fuel burning in the engine from 68% to 90%.

Normally, that 22% of the fuel would only burn if it came in contact with the platinum coated surfaces of a catalytic converter. Unfortunately, this converter process takes place outside of the engine, where the energy produced is lost.

With the Gasaver dispensing platinum into the combustion chambers, 22% more of each gallon burns inside the engine so that 22% fewer gallons are required to drive the same distance.

The process works on both leaded and unleaded gasoline, and meets the emission standards of all states.

In concluding the government's five-year administrative procedure studying the Gasaver, the Federal Court stated: "National Fuelsaver Corp. and various independent parties have used a variety of methodologies to test the value of Gasaver. These independent parties often make stronger claims for the Gasaver than does its developer, National Fuelsaver Corp."

The government had already confirmed in 1984 that the Gasaver raises the octane of gasoline, eliminating the need for premium fuel.

Joel Robinson, the developer, commented: "We've already sold over 100,000 Gasavers. Ironically, we find more people buy the Gasaver for its third benefit of cleaning out carbon to extend engine life than buy it for its fuel savings or octane boosting." For further information, call 1-800-LESS-GAS (1-800-537-7427) or 617-792-1300.

Drugs require informed use

DEAR READERS: Yesterday I published a letter from a reader who requested a rerun of information about the interaction of certain foods with prescription drugs. She was wisely concerned that she might be "eating some foods that would be harmful to her medication."

Dear Abby

Today I will deal with what you should tell your physician before he or she prescribes any medication:

1. If you have ever had any allergic reactions or side effects to certain drugs in the past.
 2. If you are taking any medication on a regular basis, such as contraceptives or insulin, or if you use a non-prescription drug on a regular basis.
 3. If you are being treated for a different condition by another doctor.
 4. If you are pregnant, or a heavy smoker, or a heavy drinker.
 5. If you are on a special diet or are taking vitamins and mineral supplements.
- Some tips to help you use prescription drugs safely and effectively:
1. If a drug is not doing what it is supposed to do for you, check with your physician. You may need a different dosage or a different drug.
 2. If you have an unexpected symptom — rash, nausea, dizziness, headache — report it to your physician immediately.
 3. Don't stop taking your medicine just because you're feeling better. You may prevent the drug from doing its work completely.

4. Check drug labels for specific instructions or warnings such as, "Do not take on an empty stomach" or, "Do not take with milk."
5. Check the label, or ask your pharmacist, for storing instructions. Some drugs should be refrigerated; others must be protected from light.
6. Always keep medicines out of the reach of children.
7. Never let another person use your medicine, and never take medicine prescribed for anyone else. (This includes birth control pills.)
8. Never take medicine at night without turning on the light.
9. Do not transfer medication from the original container to another. The original container is designed to protect the drug. Also the instructions for taking the medication are on the original container.

Readers, for further information about prescription drugs, send for the free booklet published by the Food and Drug Administration in cooperation with the National Council on Patient Information and Education. To obtain this booklet, write to: RX Drugs, Consumer Information Center, Department DA, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. No stamped, self-addressed envelope is necessary, but please allow 30 days for delivery. When this hits print, the center will be deluged.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my husband started expressing his dissatisfaction with my appearance. Why do men expect us to look as good as we did at 20? I would never criticize him for losing his hair, or any of the other changes that occur with the natural aging process.

I am an active wife and mother, and take pride in my appearance. Although I am a little overweight, I feel comfortable with myself. Obviously my husband feels cheated when summer comes around and the beaches are full of young beautiful women with firm bodies.

His comments have hurt, and I find it difficult to respond to his sexual advances when he makes fun of my body. What should I do?
OVER THE HILL
DEAR OVER: I wish all the problems were as easy to solve as this one. You can say, "You hurt me when you make fun of my body, and consequently, it's difficult for me to respond to your sexual advances."

Big Spring State Hospital hosts benefit dance

Big Spring State Hospital will host a benefit country and western dance May 6 at the Eagles Lodge, from 8 a.m. to midnight, with entertainment by Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys.

"The dance we held last year was so successful as a fundraiser to benefit all patient activities that we decided to have another one," said Chairman of the Volunteer Council Jim Weaver. "As we did in 1987, we are asking for donations from those who want to help with the Patient Fund, but who will not be able to attend the dance."

Invitations have been mailed to many friends of the hospital, offering them the option of mailing a donation to Marilyn Newsom, 525 Hillside Dr., Big Spring, Texas 79720, if they don't plan to attend.

"We plan to limit reservations and ticket sales to 250 people," said Kathy Higgins, volunteer coordinator. "If you want to attend the dance, we urge you to reserve your tables early."

Those who want reservations and tickets may call 267-8216 ext. 535, or mail the check for $5 per ticket to the Volunteers' Service Office, P.O. Box 231, Big Spring, Texas 79721-0231.

American Cancer Society schedules auction

Howard County Division of the American Cancer Society met recently, with Paula Talbot, president, greeting members of the board.

Ruth Salisbury, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting. Diane Wood, treasurer, reported that donations for memorials, which totaled $415, were received by Mrs. Merle Stewart.

Public education will be served by the presentation of a smoking program to the students at Goliad

Junior High School; a question and answer session will follow. Public education reached 9,659 individuals in Howard and Glasscock counties so far this year, and 12 patients were served with 75 total services given.

A wine and cheese party, and a benefit auction will be conducted April 28 at the Big Spring Country Club at 6:30 p.m. Tim Haynes and Ricky Hamby will serve as masters of ceremonies.

Hijacking ends

Gunmen removed, hostages freed

By CHARLES CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

ALGIERS, Algeria — Shiite Moslem gunmen slipped out of a Kuwaiti jetliner just minutes before their 31 hostages were freed at dawn today, ending 16 terror-filled days during which two passengers were killed.

The Algerian government, which served as mediator, and the hijackers had said a solution was reached, but its nature was not disclosed.

Kuwait had refused throughout to bow to the gunmen's demand that 17 pro-Iranian extremists imprisoned in Kuwait be released. Many Kuwaitis telephoned the Kuwaiti state radio and television to congratulate their government on its firm stance.

An official source in Kuwait said the hijackers ended the ordeal in return for a promise of safe conduct to an unspecified location. The source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the deal was struck when the gunmen met with Algerian Foreign Minister Taleb Ibrahim on the plane Tuesday.

Several hostages said they had no idea they would be freed until Algerian authorities entered the Kuwait Airways Boeing 747 about 15 minutes earlier.

A 31-year-old businessman, Tadar El-Kebi, said he saw the hijackers going through the plane trying to wipe off their finger prints shortly after 4 a.m.

"This was the first indication I had that our release was imminent," El-Kebi said.

Algerian officials said the hijackers were whisked out of the jumbo jet 20 minutes before the hostages were brought out at 6 a.m. (12 a.m. CDT).

The gunmen, whom the hostages said

"We lived in fear. We were very frayed. We had lost hope that it would turn out this way," said Kuwaiti student Youssef al-Angeri, 24.

numbered eight, were taken in unmarked automobiles to an undisclosed location, the Algerian officials said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Floodlights that had bathed the blue-and-white jumbo jet nightly since it landed were turned off at 9 p.m. Tuesday, allegedly for a technical reason. They never came back on and the area around the jet was dark, making it difficult for reporters to detect any movement.

The only two women among the hostages, second cousins of Kuwait's ruler, were the first to descend the gangway from the plane.

The women, wearing black veils, were escorted to a car and taken to a hospital with their brother, who rode in an ambulance, a doctor said. The brother, the third member of the Kuwaiti royal family on the plane, was suffering from a nervous disorder.

The rest of the hostages boarded a white bus and cars and waved to reporters on the tarmac as they were driven to the airport VIP lounge. The seven crew members and 21 passengers carried hand luggage as they filed into the lounge.

The men were unshaven, looked haggard and dazed and stared vacantly.

"We lived in fear. We were very frayed. We had lost hope that it would turn out this way," said Kuwaiti student Youssef al-Angeri, 24.

Interior Minister Hedi Khediri, who headed the mediation team, announced the release without giving details: "A solution settling all the issues of the hijacking has just been reached."

Asked what would become of the hijackers, he said: "That is a question which regards Algeria."

The shades on the airplane's windows were raised for the first time since its arrival April 13 in Algiers, the third stop on an odyssey that began April 5 when the jet was seized on a Bangkok-Kuwait flight with 112 people aboard.

The bodies of two Kuwaiti hostages, beaten and shot, were thrown off the plane in Larnaca, Cyprus, where the hijackers released 13 hostages in exchange for fuel and the plane sat for five days before flying to Algiers.

In Mashhad, Iran, the first stop, the hijackers released 57 hostages. Freed hostages have said they believe additional gunmen boarded in Mashhad.

Algerian mediators made at least five visits to the jetliner Tuesday and arranged what appeared to be indirect talks between the gunmen and a former Algerian prime minister. A Kuwaiti government delegation was also on hand.

Passengers and crew said the eight hijackers always wore light blue hoods in their presence.

"The worst moment was when they put a gun to a passenger's head," said the plane's purser, Abdel Mon'em Mahmoud, an Egyptian. "Their eyes were sharp and expressionless like a shark."

ALGIERS — The hostages of the Kuwait Airways 747 wave as they step out of the jumbo jet after being freed by the hijackers early Wednesday at Algiers airport — 16 days after the ordeal began.

Victims emerge from plane dazed, trembling after 16 days

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

ALGIERS, Algeria — Most of the 31 hostages who spent 16 days aboard a hijacked Kuwaiti jumbo jet emerged from their ordeal today dazed and trembling, as though uncertain their nightmare was over.

Few of the hostages saw the hijackers' faces because the captors showed themselves only with their faces covered by pillowcases that had holes cut out for the eyes.

"The worst moment was when they put a gun to the head of one of the passengers," said the plane's purser, Abdel Mon'em Mahmoud, an Egyptian. "Their eyes were sharp and expressionless, like those of a shark."

One of the hostages said he once caught a glimpse of the faces of five of the hijackers through a crack in a toilet door.

"They were all very young," said the man, whose name was not used for his safety.

He said that from this brief view and from the hijackers' voices he might be able to recognize some of them, but he added: "All except their leader — I never saw his face and he never spoke to us."

The hostages said no one among them knew that two Kuwaitis were killed during the plane's stopover in Cyprus last week. The hijackers probably used silencers on the guns with which they shot two Kuwaiti security men aboard the plane.

"I had no idea they killed anyone," said Ali Kandari, 24, an astonished expression on his face. "Who was it? Where? When?"

None of the hostages reported being tortured or beaten, but Kandari said he saw one of the hijackers savagely striking an elderly man, who insisted on going to the toilet after they had ordered him to sit down.

The man, a diabetic, was released last Thursday and immediately hospitalized.

Hostages said they were handcuffed at all times. Some even read the Koran, the Moslem holy book, with their hands in cuffs.

They said that on Tuesday night, just hours before their release, the hijackers distributed the traditional fast-breaking Ramadan evening meal, then ordered the captives to go to sleep without allowing them the usual time for prayer.

Many of the hostages said they were in constant fear for their lives.

"From the very beginning I thought of death," Mahmoud said. "I thought I would be the first to be killed because they were very security conscious, and they immediately asked me where I had my gun."

"My mind kept flashing back to my past," he added. "At such moments, you think about things that you never imagined you would remember."

Mahmoud said it was the second hijack of his flying career with Kuwait Airways. He said he was in a Kuwaiti Boeing 727 hijacked in 1984 when two American passengers were killed.

"I'm happy I'm still okay," he said.

The Iraqi captain of the plane, gray-bearded Subhi Youssef, 53, sat quietly in the airport VIP lounge as reporters milled around.

Clearly a man of few words, his eyes glinted when a reporter asked what he would do after returning to Kuwait.

"I will sit and think about it," he said with a slight smile.

Algerian aviation officials said they were impressed by the quiet and effective professionalism with which Youssef handled the plane and its technical radio communications with the control tower throughout the ordeal in Algiers.

Youssef, a pilot for 32 years, 20 of them with Kuwait Airways, was asked how he felt when the hijackers put a gun to his head in the cockpit when the plane was seized April 5 on a flight from Bangkok to Kuwait.

"What can you do?" Youssef shrugged in reply.

How did he feel now that it was all over?

"I am really relieved," he said, his face showing fatigue.

Big Spring athletes make most of spring competition

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

It's been a good spring sports season for Big Spring High School athletes.

With the regular season over, Big Spring landed itself a district championship in boys track, a regional berth in boys golf, and a third place finish in District 2-4A girls golf.

Not to be left out is freshman tennis sensation Rocky Tubb, who breezed to the District 2-4A singles title.

The most impressive win was the Steer thinclads' sprint to their second consecutive district crown. I was really worried about coach Randy Britton's boys repeating when they dropped the stick on the final exchange in the sprint relay.

A loss of 20 points could be the edge the Monahans Lobos needed to regain the district title.

But all season long, the Steer track team has been one that rises to the occasion. It might have its lapses, like it did in the Bluebonnet Relays, where the team was supposed to win — did.

Then there were unexpected points from field event competitors Stanley Johnson and Shawn Shellman. And there were runners like Rye Bavin and Chris Minter who ran the races of their lives, gaining valuable points.

It all added up to Big Spring outscoring Monahans 143-119, bringing another track crown to BSHS.

The Steers golf team proved that the truly good teams make it to the playoffs, even with they don't play well.

Off days go back three straight weeks for coach Don Cook's linksters. After blistering the district courses the first two weeks, and holding a comfortable 17-stroke lead, the Steers saw their margin dwindle each of the next three weeks.

As did senior Jeff Rhodes, who shot a five-under-par 67 in the opening week of district play. Rhodes was in second going into the last district round, but shot an 82 and finished fifth.

Nevertheless the Steers are still going to regional as runner-up and coach Cook is hoping it will be a calm two days in Brownwood.

"The last three rounds it has been real windy and bad weather. We haven't played well all year in the wind. If it hadn't been for the first two rounds, we wouldn't be going to regional," said Cook.

Cook's team will gain valuable playing experience in postseason play. Rhodes and Frank Reyna are the only seniors. Chris Sims, who finished ninth in medalist play, is a junior, Wesley Fields is a junior and Chad Freeman is a sophomore.

Rhodes and Sims made the 2-4A All-District team while Reyna and Fields were named to the Honorable Mention squad.

The Lady Steer golfers missed the playoffs by finishing third behind two strong Andrews teams. Andrews is a very strong golf school. Golf to Andrews' Fillies is like basketball is to Big Spring High School fems.

Coach Dwight Butler did a good job, considering he became coach in the middle of the season, after regular coach Mickey Finley went to Iraan to take over athletic director duties.

Freshman Kim Locke is going to be one of the best golfers ever to come from BSHS. She consistently shoots in the 90's.

Locke and senior Heather Varley were both all-district performers.

Rocky Tubb has to be one of the few freshman in Class 4-A who will be competing in the regional tennis tournament.

Tubb was successful playing summer tennis against players his own age, but everyone was skeptical about what he could do against older, more experienced competition.

Well, ole Rock answered that question by placing high in all tournaments and simply destroying the field at the district competition.

How much did he dominate?

He only lost two games the entire tournament.

So regardless of what happens to Big Spring athletes in postseason competition, this has been one thoroughly successful spring sports season.

Howard College Hawks outfielder Paul Spyhalski slides safely into second base on a steal attempt in the fourth inning of the first game of the Howard-Lubbock Christian University doubleheader. Taking the throw from the catcher is LCU shortstop Sidney Lopez. The Hawks won the game 13-1, but lost the second one 9-8.

Hawks split with Chaps

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

With Randy Deal wielding a hot bat and Al Benavides hurling a steady game, the Howard College Hawks wasted little time in defeating the Lubbock Christian University Chaparrals' junior varsity 13-1 in the first game of a doubleheader.

In the second game, the Chaps evened the series with a 9-8 win.

HOWARD 13, LCU 1

The Hawks ended the game in the fifth inning in less than two hours. Appropriately it was Deal who dealt the Chaps in. His three-run homer gave Howard the 10-run bulge it needed to end the game.

It was the second base-clearing hit of the game for the Howard catcher. In the first inning Deal's double scored three runs.

Benavides went the distance and did a fine job of keeping the LCU hitters off balance with his fastball and curve. The sophomore from Corpus Christi fired a four-hitter, walking two and striking out two. He moved his record to 7-1 for the season.

"Al is developing into one of our most consistent pitchers," said Howard assistant Greg Henry. "His fast ball was really moving. He was jamming the hitters and making them hit it into the ground."

REGION STANDINGS
Howard	12-4
McLennan	9-7
Northwood	8-10
Ranger	8-10
Hill	6-12

THIS WEEKEND
Northwood at Howard; Hill at MCC.

Howard batted around and scored five runs in the initial inning. LCU starter Chuck King had control problems and walked the first three Howard batters in the lineup. Then Deal cleaned the bases when he ripped a double down the left field line, scoring Ernesto Castro, Jose Rubiera and Geraldo Camara.

First baseman Darren Glenn followed suit with another double down the left field line, scoring designated runner Paul Spyhalski, who was running for Deal. Glenn scored the first Howard run on Joey Camarillo's single.

Howard scored two more in the bottom of the third inning. Designated hitter Phil Longo hit an opposite field double to right field. Longo eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Jay Williams.

Jody Allen singled and scored on a base hit by Castro, giving Howard a 7-0 advantage.

LCU scored its lone run in the top of the fourth. Brad Holcomb singled and scored on a triple by Randy Robbins.

In the bottom half of the inning,

Howard came back with three tallies.

Deal walked and Spyhalski ran for Deal. Spyhalski stole second and scored on Longo's base hit. Allen made it 10-1 when he blasted a pitch deep over the center field fence.

In the fifth, Deal almost didn't get his turn at bat. Both Castro and Camara blasted shots over the fence that barely went foul. Both Hawks ended up walking, bringing Deal to the plate.

Deal made sure his shot wasn't foul, as he ended the game with his 18th homer of the season.

Howard scratched for a run in the bottom of the first. Castro was hit by a pitch and scored when winning pitcher Mike Betcher balked, with Castro on third.

Trailing 4-1, Howard scored another run in the third. Mike Bard singled, but was forced out on Spyhalski's fielder's choice. Spyhalski scored on a double by Deal.

Howard took the lead by scoring three runs in the fourth. Kenny Frederick doubled and Castro walked. They both scored on Spyhalski's triple. Spyhalski scored on a wild pitch.

Steers calm Tornadoes, 10-0

By STEVE BELVIN

LAMESA — The Big Spring Steers got back on the winning track by downing the Lamesa Tornadoes 10-0 Tuesday night in District 2-4A baseball.

The Steers have been struggling of late, dropping three of their last four games. But Tuesday night the arm of Aaron Allen and bat of Chris Crownover led the way to Big Spring ending the game in five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Allen fired a one-hitter in the contest. The senior lefty fanned eight Tors and walked one. Crownover hit his fourth and fifth home runs of the season. The Big Spring catcher was one of three Steers that went three-for-three at the plate.

Designated hitter Mike Calvio and center fielder Felix Rodriguez were also perfect at the plate.

The Steers scored their first run in the top of the second inning. Crownover singled, and pinch runner Tony Lewis stole second. Lewis finally scored on Jason Phillips' ground out.

The next inning Big Spring erupted for five runs. Matt Burrow walked and Eric Kinman doubled. Crownover cleaned the bases with his first blast of the game. Next Calvio doubled, and Phillips reached base on a fielder's choice.

Allen singled to start off the inning. Pinch runner Robert Rodriguez, running for Allen, stole second. Crownover then cranked out his second homer of the game, giving the Steers an 8-0 lead.

Shortstop Brent Hartfield doubled and Phillips walked. Calvio hit his second double of the game, scoring Hartfield and Phillips.

"We played pretty good defense," said Steers coach John Velasquez after the win. "They really didn't hit the ball that much, but our defense was good."

"I hope this will give us some momentum. Sometimes it seems we lose our concentration. If we think about what we're doing, relax, well do fine."

"This thing is out of our hands now. We just

Edmonton wins without high powered offense

By The Associated Press
Success for the Edmonton Oilers used to depend almost solely on their explosive offense.

On Tuesday night it was discipline, defense and penalty killing that enabled them to subdue the Calgary Flames 3-1 in the first game of the Smythe Division best-of-seven final.

NHL

Playoffs

"Defensive hockey isn't something we're accustomed to, but we have to play Calgary this way," said Craig MacTavish, who worked tirelessly killing off nine Calgary power plays.

In a reversal of past seasons, it was the Oilers who played strong defense and the Flames who had the better offense.

"Our penalty killing and discipline won it for us," said Wayne Gretzky, who scored on a breakaway about three minutes after linemate Jari Kurri netted the game-winning goal in the 13th minute of the final period.

"We worked on penalty killing all week. We had a few breakdowns, but when we did, Grant (Fuhr) was there ... and we got the big goal when we needed it."

Edmonton limited Calgary to one power-play goal — by Brad McCrimmon in the first period — on three attempts. His goal tied the game at 1-1 after Mark Messier's controversial power-play goal. The big goal — Kurri's 71st career playoff goal — came after Tikkanen intercepted a Calgary pass near center ice and slipped the puck to his linemate.

"We knew what we had to do tonight, but I guess we just didn't do it," Calgary center Joel Otto said. "We held them to less than 20 shots, so we must have done something right. But we didn't get a lot of offense. We didn't work as hard as we should have."

In the only other game played Tuesday night, Detroit edged St. Louis 5-4 in the Smythe Division final.

Both series resume Thursday night.

Tonight, Washington plays host to New Jersey in the Patrick final, with the Capitals ahead 1-0. Montreal is at home to Boston and leads the Adams final 1-0.

Oilers 3, Flames 1
The Alberta rivals continued where they left off two years ago in the Smythe final. In that series, the road team won five times, including the last three games.

The Oilers opened the scoring at 11:49 of the first period when Steve Smith's shot hit Messier's skate and deflected past goaltender Mike Vernon on a power play. The Flames argued that Messier had directed the puck into the net with his foot, but referee Denis Morel allowed the goal.

The Flames tied it just over two minutes later when McCrimmon used Joel Otto as a screen and ripped a slapshot past Fuhr on another power play.

But that was it for scoring with a manpower edge — Calgary was 1-for-9 on the power play, the Oilers 1-for-5.

Red Wings 5, Blues 4
Even though this game was played more conservatively than the Smythe contest, the teams scored five more goals. Shawn Burr scored a pair, including the go-ahead goal at 6:09 of the third period. Gerard Gallant got the winner at 7:46.

"I expect a lot of close games," Gallant said. "It's going to be like tonight."

There were only 41 shots in the game, 22 by Detroit.

"They're very similar to us," Gallant said. "They have two checking centers and two scoring centers. They play physical, but they play a clean type of game."

Mark Hunter, in his first playoff game after suffering a knee injury with four games remaining in the regular season, scored twice for St. Louis.

"We've got to really push on Thursday," Hunter said. "We need to win that game and go back to St. Louis. We were hoping for a split. Now we've got to go for the split."

The Red Wings finished first in the Norris, 17 points better than the second-place Blues, and had a 4-1-3 regular season edge on St. Louis.

Devils-Capitals
The Capitals, who overcame a 3-1 deficit in the opening round — their first postseason comeback ever — now must overcome the absence of their captain, Rod Langway. In beating New Jersey 3-1 in Game 1, Washington lost Langway with a lacerated tendon in his left leg when he was struck by the skate of Pat Verbeek on a third-period check Monday night.

Celts get home spot

By The Associated Press
The Detroit Pistons are keeping a stiff upper lip after losing their season-long battle to earn a homecourt advantage in a potential playoff meeting against the Boston Celtics.

"I can't explain it, but eventually it's going to end," Isiah Thomas said after Boston clinched the top spot in the NBA's Eastern Conference playoffs by beating the Pistons 121-110 Tuesday night. It was the Celtics' 21st consecutive victory over Detroit at Boston Garden.

The winning streak includes four straight in last year's Eastern Conference finals, during which the Pistons easily won their three home games. If the teams meet in a seventh game this year, Boston again would be at home.

"We play harder here and they play harder there," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said.

Robert Parish scored 25 points and Larry Bird 22 for Boston, which improved its record to 56-23. Detroit fell to 52-27 with three regular-season games left.

A 12-2 run put the Celtics ahead 18-10, and they led 31-24 after one quarter.

Lakers 133, Spurs 126

Los Angeles clinched a homecourt advantage throughout the playoffs as James Worthy scored 28 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Byron Scott added 25 each against San Antonio.

Suns 122, Warriors 107

Phoenix kept its slim playoff hopes alive as Armon Gilliam scored 19 points against Golden State.

Bulls 121, Knicks 118

Chicago won its seventh straight road game and Michael Jordan scored 15 of his 47 points in the fourth quarter, helping the Bulls withstand a 43-point New York barrage.

Scottie Pippen keyed a 21-10 spurt with nine points in the last 4:42 of the third quarter, giving Chicago the lead for good at 86-75. The Knicks got as close as one point in the final minutes.

Nuggets 134, SuperSonics 114

Denver won for the 15th time in 16 games, defeating Seattle as Lafayette Lever had 31 points and 12 rebounds.

Mavericks 104, Rockets 96

Dallas held off Houston's fourth-quarter rally and kept pace with Denver as Rolando Blackman scored 27 points.

Trailing 81-70, the Rockets outscored Dallas 12-2 at the start of the final period to close the gap to 83-82 with 7:33 to go. But the Akeem Olajuwon led the Rockets with 33 points.

Philadelphia celebrated the retirement of Julius Erving's number with a victory as Charles Barkley scored 28 points against Milwaukee.

The 76ers, trying to catch New York, Washington and Indiana in the four-team battle for two playoff spots, also got 22 points from Cliff Robinson and 21 by Mike Gminski.

Jazz 129, Blazers 122

Karl Malone had 38 points, his fifth straight game with 36 or more, pacing Utah over Portland.

Thurl Bailey came off the bench for 29 points, and John Stockton had 25 points and 18 assists for the Jazz. Clyde Drexler scored 35 points for Portland, 15 of them in the third period, while Jerome Kersey and Kevin Duckworth had 24 each.

Hawks 119, Nets 109

Atlanta outscored New Jersey 12-2 in overtime and got 32 points from Dominique Wilkins to hand New Jersey its 14th consecutive loss.

The Hawks scored the next eight points of overtime to pull away from a two-point lead.

Kings 120, Clippers 105

Reggie Theus scored 33 points and Sacramento broke a four-game losing streak by beating Los Angeles.

Otis Thorpe added 21 points and 12 rebounds for the Kings, while Eric White scored a career-high 20 points for the Clippers. Michael Cage had 17 points, 19 rebounds and seven steals for Los Angeles.

Rangers whitewash Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Instead of letting the flu get him down, Jose Guzman used the cold weather in Cleveland Stadium to his advantage.

"I threw the fastball inside, because when it's cold, it's hard for hitters to hit the inside fastball," the Texas right-hander said Tuesday night after he threw six shutout innings in the Rangers' 3-0 victory over the Indians.

With temperatures in the upper 30s, Guzman, 2-1, allowed four singles, walked one and struck out three before tiring after six innings.

Rookie Jose Cecena gave up two hits in 2 1-3 innings and Mitch Williams retired the final two hitters for his fifth save, giving the Rangers their second shutout of the year.

The Rangers scored twice in the first on a two-out, bases-loaded single by Larry Parrish after the inning was extended on a sloppy play by Cleveland second baseman Julio Franco. Franco misjudged a high pop-up by Pete Incaviglia that wound up falling into short right for a double.

The double sent Jerry Browne to third, and Pete O'Brien walked to load the bases for Parrish, who grounded a single to center for his only hit of the night.

Cecil Espy doubled, stole third and scored on Browne's single in the second for the Rangers' third run. It marked the first time this season the Indians have trailed by three runs.

They threatened to score off Guzman only once, when Franco walked and Willie Upshaw singled with one out in the sixth. Pat Tabler then hit a one-hopper that Guzman knocked down and threw to first for the second out. Joe Carter grounded out to end the inning.

Braves win second straight

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Sutter is back in the win column after being sidelined with shoulder problems and three operations.

With some help from veteran catcher-infielder Ted Simmons, Sutter pitched the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

It was his first major league victory since May 15, 1986.

Sutter, who won the National League Cy Young Award and also won four National League Fireman of the Year awards (1979, 1981, 1982, 1984) has been sidelined since May 28, 1986.

Simmons, who entered the game with only four at bats with no hits in the season, drove in four runs with a bases-loaded walk in the third inning, and a three-run homerun in the eighth inning off Astros starter and loser Jim Deshaies (1-1).

The Braves took a 2-0 third-inning lead on a RBI single by Albert Hall, scoring Paul Runge and the walk to Simmons.

The Astros cut the lead 2-1 in the fourth inning on the sixth homer of the season by Glenn Davis, who is homed for the league lead with six homeruns and leads the league with 17 RBIs.

After two outs in the sixth inning, the Astros took a 3-2 lead off Braves starter Pete Smith on singles by Bill Doran, Davis a walk to Kevin Bass and a single to right field by Alan Ashby scoring Doran and Davis.

The lead held until the eighth inning when Ron Roenicke reached first base on an error and Dale Murphy singled setting up Simmons' game-winning homerun.

Prime Minister defends Budd

LONDON (AP) — Zola Budd has found a powerful ally in British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Thatcher, in her first public comment on the affair, said Tuesday that international track officials should leave the South African-born Budd alone. The distance runner has been threatened with banishment from international track events because of her continuing ties with South Africa.

Budd became a British subject four years ago and competed for England in the 1984 Olympics.

"A number of us find it rather repugnant that so much effort is now concerned with stopping a young woman competing in international athletics," Thatcher said. As she spoke, 100 of the prime minister's fellow Conservatives urged British track authorities to ignore a mandate to ban Budd for at least a year.

On Sunday, the British Amateur Athletics Board will decide whether to suspend Budd for a minimum of 12 months for links to South Africa.

HC Queens sign shooting guard

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Howard College's Hawk-Queens have signed another basketball player, coach Don Stevens said Tuesday: coming to the Queens' court this fall will be Stephanie Camille Fletcher.

"Stephanie Fletcher is a 5-6 shooting guard that I am pleased to sign for Howard College," Stevens said. "Her stats speak for themselves and she comes highly recommended, personally and academically, in addition to her basketball skills."

"She has the shooting touch to bust the zone defense and take the pressure off our inside post players."

At 18, the Palestine native has some impressive numbers to recommend her: 28 points per game on average, a free-throw shooting percentage of 90 and a field goal mark of 65 percent. She averages 10 assists and five boards per game.

She was named District 17-3A's most valuable player as a senior and was an all-district volleyball player as well.

She ranks 11th in a class of 96 academically and carries a 91.19 grade point average who also played church-league softball.

She is the daughter of Jerry and Sandra Fletcher of Palestine.

Non-Fiction Books

Kids love non-fiction books. Non-fiction books usually give the facts about real people and things. Most libraries usually arrange books according to the Dewey Decimal System. This system uses numbers to classify books. "Decimal" is used because the system uses whole numbers and smaller divisions of these numbers called decimals.

Below is an example of a Dewey Decimal Number and a category.

Non-fiction writer wins Newbery Meet Russell Freedman

By BETTY DEBNAM

From The Mini Page by Betty Debnam © 1988 Universal Press Syndicate

Many experts agree that non-fiction books for kids are much better than they used to be.

Thanks to new inventions in printing, many are well-illustrated, with excellent photographs and colorful drawings.

A non-fiction book won the 1988 Newbery Medal. This medal is presented each year to the author of the most outstanding children's book. The authors of fiction books usually win.

Russell Freedman won the 1988 Newbery Medal.

He won for his lively non-fiction book for older readers: Lincoln, A Photobiography.

The Mini Page talked with him.

On winning the Newbery:

"It is the most exciting thing that's ever happened to me in my career as a writer. It's not the sort of thing you would expect, especially if you are a non-fiction writer."

Russell Freedman graduated from the University of California, Berkeley. He was a reporter and wrote publicity for television shows before becoming a children's writer.

About his research:

"For whatever subject, I do a lot of background research. I try to do as much firsthand research as possible."

For the Lincoln book, Mr. Freedman followed what is called the Lincoln Trail. This trail carefully marks the important places in Lincoln's life.

About writing non-fiction:

"As a writer of non-fiction for kids, I'm able to investigate and write about any subject that excites my curiosity, my enthusiasm and concern."

About other interests:

"I'm a great walker. I do a great deal of traveling. I am planning a trip to China. I'll be looking for book material."

It is fun to read non-fiction to find out facts. For example:

What was Lincoln carrying in his pockets the day that he died?
Read: Lincoln, A Photobiography
Dewey Decimal Number: 973.7.

Published by Clarion Books, 1987.

Russell Freedman has written 35 children's books in his 26 years as a children's writer. He is now working on a book about President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

What is the first thing a calf does when it is born?
Read: Farm Babies
Dewey Decimal Number: 636.07.

Published by Holiday House, 1981.

Russell Freedman also writes books for younger children. He writes books about animal behavior, too.

Russell Freedman as a child. He grew up liking cowboys and Indians. He has written a book about them, Indian Chiefs, and other books about the Old West.

Meet non-fiction award-winner Gail Gibbons

Each year, the Children's Book Guild of Washington, D.C., and The Washington Post present an award to the best author or illustrator of non-fiction books. The award is based on all of the person's work, not just one book. The 1987 winner was Gail Gibbons, author and/or illustrator of 38 books.

Gail Gibbons grew up in Illinois. When she was 4, she put together her first book.

She now lives in Vermont in a big house built by her husband and a friend. She has two children, ages 19 and 17. She has three cats. Her dog, a golden retriever named Milton, has appeared in several of her books.

Her husband is in the maple syrup business.

She told the Mini Page: "The reason I'm doing non-fiction is I enjoy learning about things. To me, putting a book together is like putting a puzzle together."

Read these Gail Gibbons books to find out:

- The names of 10 different types of trucks.

- What is a syndicated column?
- Read: Deadline, From News to Newspaper Dewey Decimal Number: 070
- How did department stores begin?
- Read: Department Store Dewey Decimal Number: 381.1

Gail Gibbons studied graphic design at the University of Illinois. She later worked as a television artist. She now writes and illustrates children's books full time.

MIGHTY FUNNY'S Mimi Jokes

WHAT KIND OF GHOST HAUNTS A SCHOOL?

THE SCHOOL SPIRIT.

Q: Why did the bear take a pencil and paper to bed?
Mighty Funny: I don't know.

Q: To draw the drapes.
(Sent in by Barbara Jo Boylston)

Q: Do you know why the skeleton did not go to the party?
Mighty Funny: Because he had no body to go with.
(Sent in by Chris Bergerson)

Ed E. Kitt's Manners

The cat you like to have around.

Sylvia Sloppy eats messy foods when she's reading. Her books are covered with peanut butter smudges and chocolate smears. The library does not like that!

Ed E. Kitt always washes his hands before handling books. He knows that books are to be cared for. Other people like reading books that are clean. Good for you, Ed!

Help the Alpha Mouse find his book of scary stories.

THE DAY THE CIRCUS CAME TO TOWN — Carson and Barnes 5-ring Wild Animal Circus left memories for "kids" of all ages and money to be used by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce. Elephants, tigers, lions, rhinos and giraffes spell "circus." The circus is a world set apart, as the above photos snapped by Herald photographer Roy Lee Barnhill reveal.

Cap Rock Connection

Winners have been named in Cap Rock Electric's Cooperative's 1988 Rural Electric Youth Tour. The two youngsters will spend two weeks in Washington, D.C. in June, 1988, on an expense-paid trip. The Youth Tour is an ongoing project of the Cooperative. It has been sending youth from the Cap Rock service area to the nation's capitol for the past twenty years.

The Youth Tour gives the youngsters a chance to observe the inner workings of the U.S. Government, meet their Congressmen and Representatives, and visit all the historical sites of Washington. The Youth Tour is part of a nation-wide program. The youths from Cap Rock's service area will be joined in Washington by approximately 1,000 others representing electric cooperatives from all over the country.

Traditionally, Cap Rock Electric has sent one area student on the tour. However, response to the 1988 project was so great that the management and directors decided to send two students instead of one.

Winners of the 1988 Youth Tour Contest were Reggie Franklin, 18, a senior student at Stanton High School. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Terry Franklin of Stanton. Rebecca King was the other winner. Rebecca is 18 years of age and a senior student at Rankin High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocky King of Midkiff.

Reggie Franklin will be unable to attend the tour, as he is already committed to a trip to Washington, D.C. this summer as a member of the All-State Baptist Youth Choir. The second-highest score in the boys' division went to Edward Hernandez. Edward is 18 and a senior student at Stanton High School. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hernandez of Stanton. Edward will attend the Youth Tour since Reggie Franklin will be unable to attend.

Named as Alternate was Betsabe Gonzalez, 17, a senior student at Klondike High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Gonzalez of Ackerly.

Judges who chose these winners from the Youth Tour finalists were Ed Todd of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Gayle Hill of KMDI-TV, and Janet Storie of KTPX-TV.

Millhollon trust changes made

Recently appointed trustees are now administering the Nettie Millhollon Educational Trust Estate.

Funds from the trust have made it possible for many Martin County residents and their children to attend colleges and universities.

Appointed directors by Judge James W. Gregg in 118th District Court following a hearing in Stanton were Rodger G. Burch, Sheriff Dan Saunders, Lorena B. Crosthwait, Claude Ray Glaspie, Francis E. Houston, Mary Belle Keaton, Kyle Kendall and W.E. Morrow.

Directors elected Burch, chairman; Morrow, vice-chairman and Crosthwait, secretary-treasurer.

Nettie Millhollon created, under the terms of her lost will and testament dated in July of 1944 the trust.

Appointed as original trustees of the trust were the directors of the First National Bank, Stanton, namely, W.Y. Houston, Charles Ebersol, W.C. Houston, E. Price and Jim Tom, and "their successors in office as directors of the bank."

At the time of the hearing, R.O. Anderson, Paul Crosthwait, Paige Eiland, Gerald Hanson, W.C. Houston Jr., Bruce Key, Gordon Stone, Raymond Walton and John Zant were the duly appointed and serving trustees of the trust.

Judge Gregg ruled the trust is lawful owner and holder of approximately 10.25 percent of the common stock of the bank and the trustee's personal holdings of the common stock are substantial.

"That because of the trust's and the trustees' membership of common stock of the bank, the trust has incurred and may continue to incur a federal tax liability under Section 4943 of the Internal Revenue Code (the I.R.C.), which imposes an excise tax on excess business holdings of a private foundation in a business Enterprise.

"That the excise tax liability which has been incurred and which may be in the future be incurred and the related legal accounting expenses I could not have been known to or anticipated by Nettie Millhollon at the time she executed the will or at any time at or prior to her death, and I combined with the requirement of the will that the trust always be composed by the directors of the bank, substantially impair the purpose of the trust."

After an audit of assets, liabilities, receipts and disbursements were found regular and complete the trustees at the time of the Dec. 22, 1987 hearing petitioned for permission to resign. The request was granted.

Judge Gregg also ordered the trust office address, phone number and box number changed. The trust office is now located at 304 N. St. Peter.

The trustees meet the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. County Attorney James L. McGilvray appeared on behalf of the bank.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe and Dawson of Midland.

SHS golfers overcome nine stroke lead to win crown

The SHS boys golf team overcame high winds and a nine stroke lead by Ozona to capture the 6-AA district golf championship. In the final round of district play at Mc-

Camey on Saturday, the Buff squad had a team total of 333 to Ozona's 343, and a one stroke victory.

In medalist play, Greg Avery took the district title with a final round of 79, for a four round total of 311, and a seven stroke lead over runner-up Copie Davis of Ozona.

Two other Stanton golfers finished in the top ten and qualified for all-district honors. Skip Hopkins finished in the fifth spot with 336 for the season, while Brad Holland took the ninth slot with a 347.

Complete Stanton results from Saturday's play with the season total in brackets were:

Stanton "A" — Greg Avery 79 (311), Skip Hopkins 82 (336), Brad Holland 85 (347), Darren Patrick 87 (369), Chris Carder 102 (370).

For the Stanton "B" team, Robby Wilson had a 92, followed by Kelly Inmans 97, while Scott Young fired a 129. The "B" unit finished 6th in the 10 team field.

The varsity squad will complete in regional play on Big Spring's Comanche Trail Course on April 26th and 27th. The two top teams and medalists will advance to the state tourney.

Cancer Crusade event booked here April 26

The Cancer Crusade in Martin County will be held April 26 during Cancer Control Month. The annual campaign not only raises funds for the Society's research, service and education programs, but also includes a door-to-door residential education drive.

"This year volunteers will be visiting their neighbors with good news for the women of this community," Rosie Young said. "We'll be distributing a folder concerning breast cancer. In it is a lot of valuable information on how women can find breast cancer when it is the size of a freckle — when chances of survival are almost 100 percent."

"The money raised in this year's Crusade will be used to support programs right here in Martin County for prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer and to provide assistance to cancer patients."

The 1988 Cancer Crusade in Martin County is part of a statewide and national effort involving more than 2.5 million American Cancer Society Volunteers. For more information or to volunteer contact Rosie Young 756-2511 or Crusade Chairman Katie Hughes 756-2384.

Specific strategies okayed by committee

The elementary campus committee started its meeting with the discussion of the goal statement it had adopted earlier. The committee discussed the matter and then decided to rework the statement in order to better reflect the mission statement of the district committee.

Then the committee worked on and came up with some specific strategies and objectives in three main areas: improved communication between grade levels and special programs and improved communication between the campus and the parents of our students. The committee also decided to seek some additional input from our other teachers not serving on the committee.

Members of the committee serving the elementary campus are Jan Wallace, Ophelia Ruiz, Steve Herm, Elaine Riddle, Diana Ferguson, Anita Vest, Leatrice Brown, Norman Wright, Jo Yater, and Jim White.

Chamber Chatter

By GERRY YARDLEY
Thank you, thank you, all you lovely Martin Countians!! And thanks to you beautiful Midland and Howard Countians who joined us to watch and enjoy and laugh with and clap for the Carson & Barnes Circus. Didn't that circus put smiles on faces both young and old! And to some of us (lots of us) older circus-goers a lot of exciting and fun memories were recalled.

Your support was most appreciated. The merchants and business people who bought books of advance tickets then gave them away to school children went the "extra mile" and lots of us say thank you.

We hope you noticed after the circus left that not one scrap of paper was left to litter the lot and grounds. Those grounds keepers are appreciated. And who knows in about another five years they'll be coming Martin County's way again. Let's hope so.

You know, maybe a circus — or fair — or reunion occasionally will keep us as lively and energetic as Betty Poe — when we celebrate our 100th birthday. Most of us probably feel we'll never reach that milestone. Betty is an inspiration to us all. If you missed her party last week please go by Stanton Care Center and give her a hug and a big, bright Happy Birthday!

Spring has sprung so now it's busy, busy for most of us. Lots of yard work being done — and our Yard-of-the-Week sign will be appearing before long. Some "downtowners" have already replanted their barrels and they brighten the sidewalks. The bulbs at Perry's, the bluebonnets at Perry's and the beautiful green plant on the corner at the Clip Joint really does catch the eyes. Let's all work on the rest of them soon.

Now — hear this! Very soon — just week after next — May 5 & 6 are Martin County nights at Angels

David Mendez will compete

David Mendez, Stanton High sophomore, qualified for the regional tennis tournament to be held in Big Spring on April 29-30.

Mendez played well in the district tournament to advance to the boys singles finals.

Mendez dropped the finals to Stephen Flores of Reagan County in a split set match, 6-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Mendez was the only qualifier from Coach Keyv Allred's squad; however Val Flores and Randy Nevarez took fourth in boys doubles.

In JV action, the freshman team of Heather Newman and Lori Pardue took fourth in girls doubles.

Stadium in Midland. By the time you read this we should have the tickets — thousands of free tickets — courtesy of the Midland Angels management and team. We will be handing them out and we want everyone from Martin County who enjoys baseball games to go. Go and watch the Angels beat the team from El Paso. Go — and take your Midland friends, too.

Rep. Shaw appointed to Texas water panel

Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis has named State Representative Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, to the Governor's Committee on Water Resource Management. The committee was created as a result of Executive Order by Governor Bill Clements. It is charged with examining the structural relationships and coordination among the Texas Water Development Board, the various river authorities, and other entities involved in water resource management in Texas. The panel will submit a report of its findings and recommendations to the Governor on or before December 1, 1988. Shaw, a Democrat lawmaker from Big Spring, was first elected to the legislature in 1980. He currently serves as chairman for budget and oversight for the House Agriculture and Livestock committee, and is a member of the House Appropriations, and General Investigating committees. In announcing the appointees, Lewis stated, "Few resources are as essential to the advancement of a society as water." He continued, "Our pursuit of increased efficiency and coordination among the efforts to manage this state's water resources must be an ongoing effort." In addition to Shaw, Speaker Lewis also named Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, and lawyer Joe B. Allen of Houston to the committee. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby previously named state Sens. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, and John Montford, D-Lubbock, along with engineer Gerry E. Pate of Houston to the committee. Clements' five appointments to the committee are expected next week.

Newman captures gold medals at Big Lake

For the fourth year, Kody Newman is on her way to the Regional Track Meet. Kody qualified Friday at the District 6-AA track meet in Big Lake. Despite the heat she ran a 12.55 in the prelims in the 100 meters and a 26.75 in the 200 meters. Later in the finals, with an irritated hamstring and a head wind, she ran a 12.79 and a 26.91 to capture the gold medal in both events. The regional meet will be April 29th and 30th in Big Spring. Heather Colburn placed third in the shotput with a toss of 33 feet 7 1/2 inches. She finished sixth in the 800 meter with a personal best of 2:40.4. Kerri Kirby ran the 3200 in the extreme heat in 14:38.0 and came back and ran the 1600 meter in 6:40.2.

Homemakers Club meets

The Stanton Extension Homemakers Club met with Mrs. Rick Montgomery on Thursday, April 15, for their regular monthly meeting. Members present for the meeting and program were: Cherie Montgomery, hostess, Mary K. Bristow, Mildred Reynolds, Dorothy Miller, Vi Wilkinson, Joyce Wells, Theresa Kargl, Minnie Lee Wells, Gerry Yardley, Joan Henley and two guests, Donna Sawyer and Frances Martin. Mary K. led the discussion and business meeting.

The two guests, Donna and Frances, led in a very interesting and fun program which was sponsored by the Texas Extension Department. Family Community Leadership is an educational program primarily for teaching women leadership and public policy decision-making skills which they can, in turn, teach to other groups of citizens in the county. Everyone enjoyed the lessons and learning which were learned through games and group participation. Thanks, Frances and Donna!

Hike in postal rates to cost state millions

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said last week's hike in postal rates will cost the state an additional $8.6 million during the current budget. "When the cost of stamps goes up, housekeeping costs to the state go up just like they do for everyone else," Bullock said. He said that more than $2.7 million in additional postage will be needed to cover state postage costs through the end of the fiscal year in August and about $5.9 million will be needed for additional costs next fiscal year. He said that during fiscal 1987 the state spent about $35 million on postage.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. CARLOS DIMIDJIAN Podiatrist

A COMFORTABLE OLD AGE

If you're a member of the Senior Citizen Set, you know you have lots of company. The growth in the number of older people is amazing, from 3 million aged 65 or older in 1900 to more than 23 million today. Longevity is wonderful when you can move about easily and comfortably. That means taking good care of your feet.

According to the U.S. National Center for Health Statistics, impairment of the lower extremities, including the feet, is one of the major causes of activity limitation. About one-fourth of all nursing home patients can't walk at all, and another one-sixth can only walk when they have help. Don't grit your teeth and decide to "grin and bear" any foot problems you may have. They will only get worse until you get the help you need. You want to continue to live a useful and satisfying life. You want to be as mobile as you can, able to work at home and in community activities.

Your podiatrist can be one of your best friends by treating any foot problems you have and making you feel comfortable again wherever you want your feet to lead you.

Views of papers across the U.S.

Ferraro's response rings hollow

It was, perhaps, a typical mother's response to a son's conviction on drug charges. She blamed herself, the police and prosecutors.

But this "typical mother" just happened to be a former assistant district attorney, member of Congress and vice presidential nominee: Geraldine Ferraro.

At a news conference outside the Vermont District Court in Rutland following her son John Zaccaro Jr.'s conviction for cocaine peddling, Ferraro did fault her son for drug "possession," but at the same time blamed "my candidacy for making my son a target."

She hinted that Vermont police "set up" her son because of her role as the Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1984.

Finally, Ferraro aimed her bitterest remarks at state prosecutor John Quinn for rejecting a plea bargain arrangement.

Ferraro's defensiveness about her son's drug-pushing may be understandable in a loyal parent.

But for someone who has served both as a lawmaker and a law enforcer her attempts to pin the blame on others had a hollow and self-serving ring.

Says Nixon hasn't really changed

Richard Nixon is at least consistent — he still believes that the presidency is an elected monarchy and all the president's vassals should be pardoned for any crimes committed in service to him.

If President Reagan pardons (John M.) Poindexter and (Oliver L.) North, he says to the country: "I am the president. I am above the law, and these men — acting on what they thought were my directives — are above the law also."

It's unfortunate that Nixon learned so little from his forced resignation in 1974.

Almost 14 years after his departure from the Oval Office, Nixon should understand by now the reason behind his fall from grace.

We should copy foreign drug laws

There's an important lesson for Americans traveling abroad in the story of a 23-year-old Virginia free-lance photographer who was sentenced in Spain ... to six years and one day in prison, plus an $18,083 fine, on a drug-trafficking charge.

The photographer, who has been held without bail since he was arrested a year ago, says he is innocent, that he thought the suitcase he was transporting for a Washington, D.C., travel agency on a four-day assignment requiring a flight from Chile to Spain was filled with travel brochures, not cocaine.

Even if he were only an unwitting drug courier, the free-lancer's story underscores a message that the U.S. State Department says American tourists should take to heart: Travel abroad warrants caution.

In many countries, people caught with drugs in their possession, no matter how small the amount, can be assured of one thing: hefty penalties that will make them think two or three times before trying that again — when they finally get out, that is.

That is something this country should be emulating.

The Spokesman-Review, Spokane, Wash.

Avoid false economy from growth

According to U.S. Census Bureau projections, Texas will grow in population by 10 percent over the next seven years, passing New York to move into second place behind California. While that's good news in one sense — more people means more need for goods and services, thus a faster-paced economy — it also means strains on public services and infrastructure.

To keep from being overwhelmed, the state, counties and cities must continue to engage in vigorous capital development projects; doing nothing or cutting back would be the most damaging form of false economy.

Corpus Christi Caller-Times

Questions 'National Trauma Day'

Why is midnight, April 15, the deadline for all income tax returns? Remember the waits for state driver's licenses and vehicle plates when every driver was required to get them by the same date. Then someone proposed renewing licenses in the month of the driver's birthday and plates in the month of the vehicle's original purchase.

Why can't that be done for income tax returns? Congress and the Internal Revenue Service have made April 15 into National Trauma Day. ... The U.S. Postal Service is overloaded, and overtime must be paid to handle the crush of last-minute returns. Then, too, because of the single deadline, the IRS has hired thousands of temporary workers, many of whom are giving faulty answers to taxpayers.

April 15 is a day dreaded by millions of people in this country. It should not be. It would not be if the IRS and Congress would figure out how to divide the taxpayers by 12 and make it a year-round operation. How, you ask. Well, Congress figured out the tax laws and the agency that prepared the new forms can surely determine how to do it.

Death shouldn't be required class

Death is not a pretty subject. But it is a school subject. Students in some of our nation's high schools today are groping with a class that is supposed to teach them how to cope with death. Instructors are teaching what feeling students should have, and what pain they should experience.

Then the students are told how to react to those feelings. Surprisingly, through public demand, the "death" classes are being offered by more and more schools.

That's OK, as long as the courses are electives. Many people can't cope with death without assistance, and even then coping isn't guaranteed. But to force students to take such a course violates personal freedom.

One teen-ager enrolled in a similar course was forced to witness a cremation just days after her grandfather died. Other students watched an embalming. Some got sick.

Education is broadening its horizons. Young people may learn anything from sign language to descriptive meteorology. But forcing courses on students is wrong. That kind of education eventually will run into a dead end.

Feminine success called art

If you really don't want to understand something, all you have to do is put your mind to it.

If so, how do you think they'll react to what we're doing to planet Earth?

Ex-Tulsa Mayor George Norvell spoke in Dallas recently and told a group that his 5-year-old son had come in contact with the four-letter words all little boys run into.

HE AND HIS wife tried to ignore it, hoping it would go away, rather than to make a big thing out of it.

The boy was leaving for the birthday party of the pretty little girl down the street, and his mother warned him:

"I've told Mrs. Jackson to send you right home if you use any of those words."

They had hardly settled in front of the TV when the boy came home. His mother spanked him and sent him to his room.

He cried and cried and finally Mrs. Norvell said:

"Go in there and do something about your son."

George said he went in and asked "What's the matter, podner?"

And between sobs, he replied, "Dad, we're going to have to do something about mother. The damn party isn't until next week!"

Join cancer battle

Letter to editor:

As Martin County's residential chairman for the American Cancer Crusade, I would like to invite you, to participate in a new volunteer program called "Time to Honor." This program offers an opportunity for everyone to join in the battle against cancer.

By volunteering to take the Cancer Society message to your neighbors in the April Residential Crusade, you can fight this disease in the name of someone special to you.

A gift of your time can honor such people as a loved one who has had cancer, someone who is battling the disease now, a friend who quit smoking or your children in the hopes that the cure for cancer will be found for their generation. Acknowledgement cards will be available for you to send to the appropriate person telling them about your special effort.

The residential crusade is April 26. This crusade represents 50 percent of our fundraising effort. Volunteers are the key to our success. Won't you call me at (756-2384) soon to find out how you can get involved in giving "Time to Honor?" The battle against cancer isn't over, but we are winning. Martin County Crusade Chairman, Katie Hughes

Refurbished O'Donnell museum to feature Blocker memorabilia

In the near future, the pressroom of the O'Donnell Index-Press will be ready to print the latest news, just as it did years ago.

The machinery, including typesetting, lithograph and printing equipment, will be one of the many exhibits on display at the O'Donnell Museum, which is undergoing a major expansion and renovation.

In addition, the facility will serve as home for an expanded exhibit featuring O'Donnell's favorite son — the late Dan Blocker, gentle giant Hoss Cartwright from the television western series Bonanza.

Blocker was raised in O'Donnell, joined its Boy Scout troop and graduated from O'Donnell High School.

The museum will devote one room of the facility to a display of such things as Blocker's boxing gloves, U.S. Army pants and a photograph of him that was taken when he was a Boy Scout.

"One lady came by the other day and said she had a couple of french doors out of the house Bobby Dan Blocker grew up in," said museum board member Harold Hohn. The doors will be added to the display along with some shelves the women has salvaged from the grocery store owned by the Blocker family.

Currently the museum is crammed into one downstairs room and a series of upstairs offices in the former First State Bank of O'Donnell building. The newspaper equipment has been sitting abandoned in the old newspaper building for 10 years.

Construction is being done to incorporate a former dry goods store/rooming house/office building into the front portion of the museum, Hohn said.

Owner Oswald Blue donated the back building to the museum about five years ago, Hohn said. Until workers invaded the interior, it had stood vacant for years.

Once complete, the new addition will house the newspaper equipment, as well as some of the exhibits currently on display in the small front room.

The entire lower floor will be designed like a downtown O'Donnell sidewalk, Hohn said, with patrons looking through simulated front windows and doors at the mementos.

"When we started (the museum 15 years ago), we just didn't realize stuff would come in like it has," Hohn said.

Members of the O'Donnell Rotary Club helped form the museum by donating some exhibits. Since, then, Hohn said, area residents have contributed memorabilia and money to keep the facility going.

The new wing will continue the museum's tradition of original flooring, Hohn said. "What we're trying to do is retain our history," Hohn said, adding that "We're trying to retain as much of the antique look of the 1900's as possible.

SOME OF THE THINGS DISCUSS HERE MIGHT SHOCK YOU.

- But not if you follow these tips for working around power lines.
- Keep ladders and trimming tools away from overhead wires.
 - Don't dig if you suspect there are underground wires—call us first!
 - Make sure you're clear of all wires when installing or removing a TV antenna.
- Please remember, think about where your power lines are before you work around the house. They may be above or below ground. Find out the exact location, or you might become just another statistic. And that's the shocking truth.

DON'T LET A POWER LINE BE THE END OF THE LINE.

Center Point Extension Homemakers Club met April 12 at Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center, with Lucille Petty and Lennis Couch, hostesses, serving refreshments to 11 members.

Couch was appointed coordinator for the May 10 meeting of all four Howard County Extension clubs at the Kentwood center, when State Representative Larry Don Shaw will give a slide presentation and discuss legislative affairs.

Ireba Griffith presented the program on "Charitable Contributions — Make Sure Your Gifts Go Where You Want." She passed on information she had learned at leader training, when a Better Business Bureau representative from Midland outlined methods to investigate charities to make sure they are legitimate and that funds actually benefit those the contributor intends.

Third Garcia slaying suspect held

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

A third suspect in the recent slaying of Odessa resident Manuel Garcia in Big Spring has been apprehended and is awaiting extradition to Texas, according to a police spokesman.

Robert Flores, 30, of Big Spring, was arrested Friday and is in custody at an undisclosed site north of Texas, Big Spring Police Lt. Juan Palacios said today.

Palacios declined to reveal where Flores is being held.

The local police department is in communication with officials from the northern state, in an attempt to smooth extradition details, Palacios noted.

Garcia's body was found beneath a mattress, boards and a washing machine shell in a west Big Spring sand pit April 7. An autopsy report indicated that he died from a blow to the head, and had sustained a gunshot wound to the head.

Two suspects who were arrested April 9 in connection with the Garcia slaying are still in police custody.

Ricardo Flores, 32, of Big Spring, and Leroy Alaniz, 30, Odessa, are in police custody in lieu of bonds of $100,000 apiece, Palacios said. Investigations into three other area shooting deaths are continuing, although officials reported no new developments today.

Detectives probing the March 29 shooting death of Fred Morales Jr., 39, are expected to meet today with Justice of the Peace William Shankles to review their investigation, Palacios said, adding that a ruling in the death may be forthcoming soon.

Morales was found on the 300 block of Trades Street early March 29, and was declared dead a few hours later at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, according to published reports.

The weapon believed used in the death — a .410-gauge shotgun — was found buried about 11 miles north of Big Spring a few days later.

A ruling as to whether the death was homicide or suicide is pending, and no arrests have been made, Palacios said.

Three suspects in the shooting death of long-time local radio personality C. Vance Kimble are in Howard County Sheriff's custody, and a fourth is awaiting extradition to Texas from an undisclosed Florida site.

Pamela Newton, Patrick Newton and Michael Hodnett are in custody in lieu of $100,000 bond apiece. They were arrested earlier this month in New Orleans in connection with the March 31 slaying of Kimble, 61.

The fourth suspect, Dennis Noggler, is awaiting extradition at the Florida city where he was apprehended last week, according to Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard.

A Big Spring police officer remains free on $90,000 bail after being charged with involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of his wife April 12.

Benefit Bachelor auction raises $21,500

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

If it's entertainment you want, entertainment you'll get — but you'll have to wait until next year if you didn't attend the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Benefit Bachelor Auction at the Midland Hilton Saturday night.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Midland Inc. hosted its Second Annual Benefit Bachelor Auction, when 33 of the Permian Basin's bachelors were auctioned to raise money for the Midland agency.

As guests sipped champagne and sampled hors d'oeuvres, the musical group Nuvo Baroque entertained with Top 40 and jazz tunes during the preview party.

The bidding began at 7 p.m., with Janet Storie, KTPX-TV, and Skip Baldwin, KMID-TV, as masters of ceremonies. Serving as auctioneer was Dennis Black, who began bids at $50.

Big Spring resident Elaine Connell, who attended the event with Black said, "I think it's a great idea. They ought to auction women."

As the bachelors entered the roomful of screaming women, they modeled and showed themselves off to the estimated 400 to 450 guests, each one hoping to raise more money than the next.

The bidding got off to a good start when the first bachelor auctioned — Robert McCommon, 33, a senior landman for Forest Oil Corp., whose date package included a weekend in Ruidoso, N.M. — went for $400.

Bids for the bachelors ranged from $75 to $1,650. This year's auction raised more money than last year's event. "We're really pleased and very excited about the money we raised," said Linda Macias, executive director for the Midland agency.

The agency exceeded its goal of $20,000, when the bidders spent a total of $21,500 on the bachelors of their choice. "We raised $19,200 last year," Macias said.

Skip Baldwin, a sportscaster for KMID-TV, brought in the most money. Several women bid on the emcee, but Kimberley Young, Midland, was finally successful with a bid of $1,650.

Young, who explained her reasons for bidding so much on Baldwin was, "I saw he had a great date package." and "He's a highly visible person."

Macias said she was especially surprised at the amount of money raised "since it was the day after taxes."

Plans for next year's auction will be underway soon. "I hope next year we can get more Big Spring people to come. We'd like some Big Spring bachelors to participate," Macias said.

Engaged

DATE SET — Delores Flanagan, Goldthwaite, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Vickie Halfmann, San Angelo, to Kevin Ansley, San Angelo, son of Marvin and Jeanette Ansley, Anson. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Victor Halfmann. The couple will wed May 21 at Holy Angels Catholic Church, San Angelo, with Rev. Serran Braun, pastor, officiating.

Rains arrive; storms move through Texas

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Howard County received some much-needed rain during the weekend, with amounts varying from .38 of an inch to almost two inches received in different sections of the county.

Heavy spring thunderstorms moving through Texas generated funnel clouds and tornado watches throughout the weekend, but little damage and few injuries were reported.

Showers and thunderstorms drenched much of northeast Texas. They stretched northeast in a line from Amarillo to Galveston, the National Weather Service reported.

The Agricultural Research Station north of Big Spring received .38 of an inch of rainfall this past weekend, bringing the yearly total to 1.22 inches, a station spokesman said.

Normal year-to-date rainfall for the area is 2.72 inches, he added.

Area residents reported differing amounts at their homes.

Boyce Hale, Sterling City Route, said he received 1.47 inches of rainfall at his home, while B.G. Barber reported 1.4 inches of rain at his residence at 1409 Settles St.

Elsewhere, Red Thomas, 107 E. 13th St., reported an inch of rainfall at his house, while Cindy Hopper, of Knott, said she received .6 of an inch of precipitation at her farm.

An official with the Colorado Municipal Water District said the following amounts were received at reporting stations: Big Spring, .7 of an inch; Moss Lake, 1.7 inches; Martin County, .7 of an inch; Lake Thomas, .9 of an inch; and Lake Spence, 1.2 inches.

Childress had received 2.01 inches by 7 p.m. and New Boston had more than 2½ inches by Sunday night. About 1.56 inches of rain fell Sunday evening at Wichita Falls Municipal Airport, the NWS said.

Fort Worth and Presidio received about 1.10 inches and Amarillo reported 1.33.

South Central Texas also received some isolated thunderstorms and light showers dampened the South Plains and Permian Basin.

Tornado watches were issued Sunday for the portions of the area northeast of the line of thunderstorms.

Investigators prove remains are Christie's

Killer's search begins

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The two-year search for Christie Proctor has ended, at the same time the search for her killer is beginning.

The remains of the former Big Spring resident, who was abducted near her north Dallas home more than two years ago, were discovered in a field north of Plano Thursday, according to published reports.

Christie, who was kidnapped just prior to her 10th birthday, was the daughter of former Big Spring resident Laura Proctor, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brooks.

Collin County Medical Examiner William Rohr positively identified the remains as Christie's early Saturday afternoon by comparing the skull with X-rays taken of her in 1978, the report stated.

Rohr, who could not be reached for comment this morning, made the identification with the assistance of a consulting anthropologist. The cause of death was listed as undetermined homicidal violence.

The identification prompted police in Dallas and Plano to upgrade their investigation surrounding the disappearance of the 9-year-old girl from a kidnapping to a homicide.

A spokesman for the Plano Police Department said today that his department will be working in conjunction with the Dallas Police Department on the case.

"Dallas is still responsible for the kidnapping," he said. "It is probable that (Plano) will handle the homicide."

He added that homicide ruling was made on the basis of Christie's disappearance, and that it was impossible to determine from the remains how or when she died.

Further details as to the cause of death are pending a final autopsy report, which the Plano police had not received as of this morning, he added.

Christie's mother, who hoped for more than two years she would find her missing daughter, said Sunday she is convinced now that her daughter is dead.

"There is no chance anymore. There isn't any hope of getting my daughter back alive," Laura said Sunday after a meeting with the Collin County medical examiner's office to confirm the identification of her daughter.

Mrs. Proctor reviewed X-rays of her daughter and remains found in a field as well as a tennis shoe and other pieces of clothing found at the site.

"This is the toughest part, realizing I don't have a child to search for anymore. At least not my child," she said.

"The whole case is very bizarre. I don't think she's been in the field for the last two years. We searched that very area the week after she disappeared," Mrs. Proctor said.

Early holiday

Home will see improvements

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

A drive past the house at 100 N. Brown St. makes it easy to believe no one could live there.

Several nearby houses have been abandoned; a sign offering sales and repairs for lawn mowers hangs along a fence just south of this house, scheduled for renovation and repairs Saturday by Christmas in April volunteers.

But the house is not abandoned, a second glance reveals. A sturdy-looking rose climbs the portucullis — and behind the curtains in the southwest windows are a flourishing potted tree and an abundant ivy.

Her rambling house is home for Mrs. Mary Rawls. She has lived here for about 15 years, since a refurbished home — the remodeling was not yet complete — she and her husband had on the Andrews Highway burned. Another house on the Andrews Highway and one across the street from this one were also lost to fire. She shares her home with her disabled son, Ricky. The house and lot were deeded to him, she said, because his inability to keep a job prevented him from earning a living and paying rent. He supplements their income — her Social Security widow's benefits — with his lawnmower business.

A cold woodstove backs up the gas heater in the living room. The promised repairs from Christmas in April's volunteers should help lower her heating bills, Mrs. Rawls believes.

"I'm so proud to have them fix my house, because I knew I never would be able to do anything more to it," she said. She suffers from phlebitis and from asthma.

A scattering of onion plants and a caged tomato, several hills of canteloupe and her roses constitute a garden, waiting for rain. She has made this place a home, added beauty and life as she could.

A goldfish pond lies beside the concrete steps into the yard. Its amber water teems with flashes of carrot-colored fish, and larger, darker forms can be seen among the tiny carp. It is her pride and joy; friends have promised lily pads, she said with obvious pleasure, to brighten the pond.

"Until my husband died, we always made our own way," she said. "He drove a truck for Steere Tank Lines for 21 years and made good money."

"We had everything paid for when he died — oh, maybe we owed a part of a doctor bill — but we never bought anything on credit."

In her face, in her voice, is her determination to go on making her way. "I tell everybody, keep going for as long as you can."

She refuses to let her losses make her despair, though she still grieves nightly.

Mrs. Rawls' husband died in October 1980. In October 1987, her oldest son Wesley died. Both suffered from cancer. She lost her daughter Barbara, and her oldest grandson in 1986.

Officials investigating suspicious house fire

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Fire department officials are investigating the possibility of arson in a Northside fire that partially destroyed an unoccupied house Saturday afternoon.

Firefighters responded to a 2:40 p.m. call to find the house at 811 Ohio St. on fire, according to fire department records.

Five fire department units responded to the fire, which took about two hours to bring under control. About 750 gallons of water were used and no injuries were reported, the record stated.

The house is owned by Andrew and Helen Davis, the report added.

Burr Lea Settles Jr., arson investigator for the Big Spring fire department, said today he is investigating whether the blaze was intentionally set.

"The fire was incendiary in nature, which means it was set," Settles said. "It is unknown if it was an adult or kids that set it, though," he added, saying the investigation was not complete as of this morning.

Damage estimate to the house is unknown, but Settles noted that the house is structurally sound.

Lady honored at party

Nelia Tompkins was honored at her 90th birthday party Saturday at a reception in the Patio Room at Days Inn International, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Her children, Patsy and Don Henry, Doris and Larry Ortiz, and Marie and Charles Tompkins, hosted the surprise event.

Over 100 guests, including her nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, came from throughout Texas as well as from California and New Mexico to help celebrate the occasion.

Nelia was born April 19, 1898. She married Homer Tompkins in 1916 in Roby. He died in 1950.

Her birthday cake was decorated in peach and light lime green. Floral arrangements, punch, linens, and other items also were decorated in peach and light lime green.

Nelia has been a Big Spring resident for 56 years.

She and her husband owned and operated Homer's Grocery Store, which was located at Second and Runnels streets.

She was employed by two local pharmacies, Cunningham Phillips for seven years, and by Edward Heights for eight years.

"10-9-8-7-6-5, we have main engine start, 4-3-2-1 — and we have lift off."

With those words from the mission commentator, the space shuttle Challenger cleared the launch tower Jan. 28, 1986 before exploding. Its seven crew members perished.

The disaster likely changed the minds of many who had dreams of a career as an astronaut. But that's not the case for Heath Stewart.

The local youth has always been interested in the space program and the Challenger disaster didn't affect his enthusiasm.

The 19-year-old son of Jim and Pam Stewart, 2717 Ann Dr., recently attended the Space Academy Level II at the Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville, Ala.

"I'm not scared to go up in space. I think it will be safer when I go up.

We'll take more precautions," Heath said.

A freshman at Texas Tech University, he attended the 10-day course after acceptance by the academy. "You have to have a pretty good grade average and must be a junior or senior in high school, or a college freshman to attend," he said.

The course opened March 11 with lectures, followed by a series of simulated missions titled Alpha, Bravo, Charlie and Delta.

He served as an Alpha mission control propulsion officer, a position that maintains contact with the shuttle.

During his Charlie mission — on the shuttle flight Atlantis — he served as mission specialist 1, and conducted extra vehicular activities, such as walking and working in space.

Stewart qualified for mission specialist 3 on the 24-hour simulated Atlantis mission.

The simulations were designed to make the participant feel like he was actually in space. "It really felt like we were in space during the EVAs. Loud tapes were played that sounded like shuttle boosters," he said.

Through the use of video tapes, "it looked like we were looking down on Earth," while in the shuttle.

On Stewart's first EVA on the Charlie mission, he was strapped in a harness to create a feeling of weightlessness. Under that condition, Stewart and another participant — having been briefed on how to repair a satellite — successfully took on the challenge.

His second EVA involved building structures in a payload bay, — a storage area similar to structures planned for space stations, he said.

Work on the space station is scheduled to begin around 1990-1992 and should be completed between 1994 and 1998, Stewart said.

He also sat in a 5-DF chair (five degrees of freedom), featuring a cushion of air that depicts the feeling of floating in space, while repairing a Hubble telescope and refueling it.

Another EVA provided opportunities to repair a satellite by replacing discs and power modules, and build structures on a remote manipulate system — the arm of the shuttle.

After completion of his tasks, he placed U.S. and Canadian flags atop the structure that stabilizes the space station, representing the countries of the scientists who created the remote system.

Stewart participated in the underwater astronaut trainer program while dressed in an extra vehicular mobility unit, a space suit complete with oxygen pack, bubble helmet, gloves and boots.

He and certified divers went 25 feet below, maintaining radio contact through a "Snoopy Cap," a transmitter with a microphone and a headset.

"We were under water for 20 minutes and repaired freon hoses in the telescope and repaired thermal modules, which regulate the heat," he said.

Stewart received a diploma — and earned his wings from the academy — and is eligible to counsel at the academy. "I may go back this summer," he said.

"It was great," he said of his experience.

Although his parents were negative about his choice of a career, and the idea of needing 15 to 20 years of preparation before becoming an astronaut, he remains dedicated to the profession.

"I never really knew what I wanted to do until I was a junior in high school — now I know I want to be an astronaut."

Heath Stewart, a student at Texas Tech University, recently attended the Space Academy Level II in Huntsville, Ala. Stewart has always been interested in the space program and said the Challenger disaster doesn't affect his enthusiasm to be an astronaut. Photo at bottom is a lunar module, and serves as living quarters for the astronauts while in space. The bottom portion is the launch pad. The top blasts off and redocks with the command module.

Heath sits in a multi-axis trainer, which was used in the Apollo program. The apparatus is used in simulation training and stabilizes the spacecraft.

RRC: Gas figures 'encouraging'

MIDLAND — Railroad Commission Chairman James E. Nugent called "encouraging" preliminary figures for January which show Texas gas wells produced some four percent more than they did in January 1987.

Nugent was in Midland for an energy panel discussion sponsored by the Permian Basin Petroleum Association as part of their Second Annual Energy Appreciation Week. Other panel members included Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Linward Shivers of the Office of General Counsel of the University of Texas System.

Fred Morrow, of Fiberflex Products, Ltd., will be presenting a seminar session during the 35th Annual Southwestern Petroleum Short Course at Texas Tech University Tuesday through Thursday.

Sonic is participating in the fundraiser by contributing 15 cents to the March of Dimes for every Dr Pepper soft drink sold and by allowing customers to contribute to the campaign individually at the restaurants.

The Big Spring Sonic is also encouraging employees to join in WalkAmerica, a project in which participants raise funds by collecting pledges for each kilometer completed. This program is the March of Dimes' largest fundraiser nationally, Parker said.

Big Spring's John E. Freeman, President of Freecom, Inc., has been named the Lubbock District's Small Business Person of the Year by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Other advocates of small business to be honored during the National Small Business Week activities May 8-14 include Mrs. Shirley Shroyer, co-owner of Shroyer Motors, named Women in Business advocate; Darlene Gifford, area manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone, named minority advocate, and Maxwell Green of Green and Fillingim Professional Corporation, named financial services advocate, Wall said.

Projects seek volunteers, funds

The chamber's athletic committee has a special fundraising project to enable Juan Baldwin, State Champion Golden Glove Boxer, and his coaches to participate in the National Golden Gloves Meet in Omaha May 16. Juan has an excellent chance to compete for the U.S. in the Summer Olympics, but he needs to complete the National Golden Gloves and Olympic Trial levels first. To help, contact Liz at the chamber, 263-7641.

Laticee Prather, a SWCID student, has been chosen to perform with the international group, "Up With People." She needs help raising funds to take advantage of this opportunity. Check with Don's IGA for information on how you can help.

The regular monthly meeting of the chamber's board of directors is Wednesday at noon at the chamber.

Sales tax checks sent by Bullock

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday sent checks totaling $57.5 million to 908 cities that collect local option sales taxes at either one or one-half percent rates.

This month's allocation brings the year-to-date increase over 1987 to 6.5 percent.

"The state's economy is in the upswing and growing. Texans are becoming more confident about spending their money," Bullock said.

He also sent checks totaling $5 million to 81 counties that collect a half-percent county sales tax. Businesses in these counties and 55 cities that adopted the additional half-percent tax began collecting it on January 1 this year.

Only a part of the allocation increase can be attributed to the additional tax and the widened tax base, according to Bullock.

"There's more money being spent in the state. Cities and counties are finally beginning to reap the benefits of Texas' recovering economy," Bullock said.

The largest city allocation this month, $9.6 million, went to Houston.

El Paso County received $772,626, the largest county allocation.

April's checks represent taxes collected by monthly filers in February and reported to the Comptroller's Office by March 21, Bullock said.

Howard County received a net payment this period of $85,530.90, compared to last year's payment of $84,242.62, up 1.53 percent. The 1988 payments to date are $453,993.78.

School's mascot makes for interesting history quest

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

"What is the school mascot here?"

"The Yegua."

Texas High Schools have some colorful mascots, like the Groesbeck Goats or the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes. Perhaps the most unique is the Somerville Yeguas (pronounced Ya-wahs).

"There's some difference of opinion in the community as to where that came from. Really, it's named for a creek that runs through this area," says Wayne Calhoun, principal of Somerville High School.

Now you need a picture of your mascot, right? Or a personification. To show at pep rallies and print on decals. Well, maybe it's hard to get fired up over a picture

Tumbleweed Smith

None of the folks I've talked with around town know how it got to be an Indian. And some of them were born here."

One would think we could find a connection between Yegua Creek and the Indians by finding out how the creek got its name.

"Yegua is a Spanish word that means mare — a female horse," says Wayne. "The story goes that Santa Anna came through here, camped on Yegua Creek and watered his horses."

Now Wayne is an educated man. He's just about to get his PH.D. He knows how to do research. And he has looked into the question of how the name Yeguas got attached to athletic teams at Somerville High School. He told me when he first got to town he would ask people at sporting events in Somerville how the name came to be used. Nobody would tell him.

"The older folks who grew up here tell me that when they were little kids, it was already the Yeguas," says Wayne, "so no one really knows how that was chosen."

The name, with its unusual spelling, sometimes presents problems.

"The most common thing is people can't pronounce it. When they see it written, we are everything from the Yayogahs to the Yay-haws and everything in between. Pronunciation is the biggest problem. The first question people ask is, 'How do you say it?' The second one they ask is, 'What is one?' We get that often."

Wayne says when he's ordering school letters or caps or sweat-shirts, the people he's buying from always do a double take on the name. "On all the athletic gear or travel bags, they always call us back for confirmation on the spelling."

There is one clue as to how the name came to be used.

"Lots of older folks, even some who have retired from the school district after spending their entire careers here, say maybe when the name was picked, people in Somerville assumed Yegua was an Indian tribe. Perhaps that's the true story behind it. But we may never know for sure."

Tex-Pure Drinking Water Systems is a full-service water store providing reverse osmosis water to individuals, homes and businesses. They install reverse osmosis systems and provide route delivery. The staff includes (left to right) Joe Chavez, Ellouise Swinney, Ella Carroll. Keith Tucker is not shown.

See Tex-Pure for water

Tex-Pure Drinking Water System's major product is water — reverse osmosis water — for drinking and food preparation. And of course, ice made from the water they produce.

What makes this store different from other stores is their dedication to getting the water to the customer.

You can pick it up yourself, of course. They will fill your containers, or you can buy bottles there.

The firm's own truck will bring water right to the front door of your home or business. And they sell or lease a variety of dispensers — table top or floor models.

For those who take their water drinking seriously, Tex-Pure leases or sells, and installs reverse osmosis systems for the home. These are installed under the kitchen sink, continuously producing clear, good-tasting water, and can be hooked up to ice makers. Under the leasing arrangements, Tex-Pure handles all maintenance.

Ellouise Swinney reminds customers that when water goes through reverse osmosis, the chlorine is removed. Therefore, water bottles and dispensers and other containers should be sterilized periodically.

She suggests using one capful of bleach and a few drops of liquid detergent with a small amount of water. Swish around; then rinse well with city water. This action disinfects the bottle and prevents the growth of algae. Your bottles will be fresh and sanitary for the next refill.

services recently: on-site dispenser cleaning and 24-hour emergency ice delivery for commercial operations. Tex-Pure notifies customers every three months that it's time to clean their dispensers; a Tex-Pure staff member will clean dispensers, if desired, for a small charge.

Oasis water dispensers are available for purchase or lease in a variety of styles with tap, hot or cold spigots. The tap (room temperature) spigot is convenient for food preparation. Plastic table top dispensers are available, as well as a handy battery-operated pump dispenser for five-gallon bottles.

Tex-Pure Water Systems is home owned and operated by Ellouise and Don Swinney. Ella Carroll is office manager; Joe Chavez is service manager; and Keith Tucker is route man.

Tex-Pure submits a sample of its water product each month to the Howard County Health Department for testing at an independent laboratory in Midland. Bottled water for route deliveries is sealed in sterilized containers.

The Swinneys installed reverse osmosis systems prior to opening the full service water store at 1719 Gregg in 1985. They have operations in Lamesa and Snyder, and are presently hiring route drivers in both towns.
