Candidates will gather

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Candidates for city council and school board positions have been invited to participate in a 7 p.m. NAACP-sponsored public forum Friday at the Chamber of Commerce meeting room.

National Association of Advancement of Colored People officials said this morning that all Big Spring council and school board candidates have indicated they will participate. Barbara Davis, who is organizing the event, said today that the group has invited the League of United Latin American Citizens to participate in the forum.

She said that the NAACP will have questions for the candidates and will have an open question and answer session for the public.

City Council candidates for three, three-year at-large positions are: Bob Smith, 4048 Vicky St.; Sidney Clark, 2707 Coronado Avenue; Ron Booth, 511 Edward Blvd.; Jerry Roach, 1108 E. Fifth St.; Melvin Daratt, 500 E. 23rd St.; Gail Earls, 4016 Parkway Road; Chuck Condray, 4016 Vicky St.; and Dorothy and James Leffler, 1209 Douglas St.

School board candidates are: District 4, three-year term, Donnie Baker, 2303 Cindy Lane, and Doug Morris, 2502 Cindy Lane; at-large, one-year term, John Webb, 4017 Vicky St., and Al Valdes, 626 Caylor Dr.; and District 2, three-year term, Ford Farris, 900 Highland Dr., unopposed.

Fire Chief Dorton resigns

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Big Spring Fire Chief Carl Dorton is ending a 19-year career with the city.

Dorton submitted his resignation — effective June 1 — during a news conference at city hall this morning.

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles will be appointed as acting fire chief until a successor can be hired to replace Dorton, Acting City Manager Hal Boyd said during this morning's news conference.

Dorton said he is resigning to "pursue other avenues of employment within the Big Spring area."

"I'm exploring other avenues of employment and expect something to materialize within the next month," Dorton said.

Boyd does not expect fire department operations to be adversely affected by Dorton's departure.

"The city is losing an excellent long-term employee, but the department will be left in capable hands," Boyd said.

Out-of-town applicants will be sought to fill the fire chief's position, Boyd said. He estimates it will require at least six months to find a replacement.

"I will get with Personnel Director Emma Bogard and plan a course of action," Boyd said.

Advertisements, announcing that the position is open, will be placed in trade journals, Boyd said.

"There will be no great hurry to fill the position," he said.

Dorton began work for the city in 1968 mowing the lawn at the sewage treatment plant. He was hired as a firefighter Jan. 16, 1973. He was named fire chief in October 1984.

Settles is a 10-year veteran of the department. He entered the department as a firefighter in 1978, was promoted to arson investigator in 1982 and became assistant fire chief in October 1985.

Clements: Let public determine financing

AUSTIN (AP) — State legislators — not judges — are the people to determine how to best finance public education in Texas, Gov. Bill Clements says.

"We do not want our public school system to get into the hands of our state courts. That's just unacceptable," Clements said.

"The only way we can cure that is to go through the legislative process with a constitutional amendment and keep the responsibility for our public school system in the Legislature where it belongs," he said Tuesday.

State District Judge Harley Clark ruled earlier that the system unconstitutionally shortchanges districts with lower property wealth. The state is appealing.

Clements' comments came as legislative leaders, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, were being briefed on a proposal by Comptroller Bob Bullock to help bail the state out of its school financing dilemma.

While Bullock hasn't publicly released details, sources say the plan includes a proposal to use some $600 million in bond proceeds to finance new facilities in school districts with low property wealth.

The proposal also calls for guaranteeing a minimum level of state funding for school districts that tax homeowners and businesses at the state average, an idea sources said still would allow wealthier districts to pump more money into their schools if they choose to do so.

Big Spring pays its final respects

By STEVE REAGAN

To the refrains of "Love Lifted Me," local residents paid final respects to Christie Proctor. Her abduction and subsequent death — despite the tragedy — generated love, sacrifice and caring in the community in the words of one spokesman.

Christie, a former Big Spring resident who was kidnapped a few blocks from her North Dallas home more than two years ago, was the object of a nationwide search until her remains were discovered in a field north of Plano earlier this month.

She was nine years old at the time of her disappearance.

With her mother Laura, brother Adam, family members and about 300 area residents in attendance, Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, praised Christie as "a child who knew how to demonstrate her love," who died "so we could learn to love one another."

The service opened with two children's hymns — "Jesus Loves Me," and "Jesus Loves the Little Children," sung by Tim Thornton, First Baptist musical director.

Rev. Stephen White, pastor of Immaculate Heart of Mary, who addressed the crowd condemned Christie's abduction, while at the same time acknowledging good that came from the act.

"One or two persons did, indeed, exhibit great malice — causing this child to suffer and die," Rev. White said. "A great evil was done."

"At the same time, that deed generated a great deal of love, sacrifice and caring in this community," he added.

The most emotional moment of the service followed, when Christie's long-time friend, Martyne Wolf, broke down while describing Christie as "the dearest and fondest friend I ever had."

another."

Composing herself, Martyne read a psalm in both Hebrew and English in tribute to her friend.

Delivering the eulogy, Patrick told the congregation not to grieve for the Proctor girl, "who is at peace."

"To be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord," he said. "We know Christie is in Glory. The focus now is on death and loss, but Christie would want you to put your eyes upon the Lord, even in such a tragedy as she endured."

Patrick also noted the good that came from the abduction, saying it moved Laura Proctor to form the Texas Association for Stolen Children, an organization that helps in the search for missing children.

He also challenged the audience to use its talents — as Christie had used her gift of love — for a worthwhile purpose.

Patrick concluded the funeral by reading a letter from Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring.

Texas Ranger continues Dunn investigation

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Investigation into the death of Caryle Dunn, 26, wife of a Big Spring police officer, is continuing, although Texas Ranger Joe Sanders of the Midland office of the Texas Department of Public Safety reported no new developments in recent days.

Her husband Dennis Dunn, 38, 2523 Ent St., remains free on $90,000 bond on an involuntary manslaughter charge in connection with her death April 12. He was released on a bond of $120 for a public intoxication charge Monday night.

"The investigation is still going on," Sanders said early today, "and I expect it will continue for a while. I wouldn't want to guess how long it will take, but we're going to investigate it to the best of our ability and then forward our findings to the DA's office."

It is a Big Spring police policy to seek outside investigation whenever one of their officers is involved in a slaying, according to Lt. Juan Palacios.

District Attorney Rick Hamby

this morning said he had no further information on developments in the slayings of Odessa Manuel Garcia, whose body was found April 7 in a Westside sand pit beneath a mattress, lumber and the hull of a washing machine, nor Fred Morales, Jr., found March 29, suffering from gunshot wounds in the 300 block of Trades Street Morales later died of those wounds.

A third suspect in that death has been returned to Howard County Jail. Roberto Flores, 30, of Big Spring, was extradited Friday from St. Paul, Minn. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bond, according to Justice Long, on a charge of murder.

His return to Howard County made progress in the investigation into the death of Fred Morales, Jr., 39, more likely. Police chief Joe Cook said today, "I have a final report on that death on my desk."

"I'm going over it today and we'll forward it to Judge (William) Shankles. We expect to get that to him today, and then forward the report to the DA's office."

"We'll have Judge Shankles' ruling incorporated into our report when we send it to the DA."

A conference between Justice of the Peace Shankles and Big Spring police officers had been delayed last week because officers involved with the Morales death had been dispatched to Minnesota to extradite Flores in connection with the Garcia slaying.

A ruling is expected soon in the death, Cook said. "It'll just be a matter of however long it takes Judge Shankles to make a determination."

Prison plan gains city's first approval

Fire report released

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

A letter of intent describing the city of Big Spring's role in the management and development of an illegal alien prison at the Homestead Inn has been authorized by City Council.

First reading of a resolution authorizing Mayor A. C. Cotton Mize to sign the letter of intent with Mid Tex Detention Center, Inc. was approved by council members at Tuesday's meeting.

There was no public comment on the subject of the conversion of the motel or the proposed location of the prison.

Council members also unanimously approved a Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation to grant a special use permit to developer Ed Davenport to allow him to convert the motel site at I-20 and Andrews Highway into minimum security detention center for federal inmates.

The letter of intent and ordinance granting the permit must be approved by City Council on a second reading before they become effective. That action is expected at a May 10 council meeting.

The letter of intent agreement calls for the city to take title of the Homestead Inn property after Davenport completes renovation of the facility.

The city would then lease the property back to Mid Tex Detention Centers, Inc. for $1 annually for 99 years, the letter states.

However, the agreement is contingent upon the city obtaining a contract with the Federal Bureau of Prisons to house inmates at the prison.

If the inmate contract between the city and Bureau of Prisons or lease agreement between Mid Tex and city is terminated, the city would sell the property back to Mid Tex for $10 and other "good and valuable consideration," according to the letter.

In other business Fire Chief Carl Dorton reported on the findings of an internal investigation into the fire department's actions in battling a May 8 blaze that destroyed 15 mobile homes at the D&C Sales lot at 3910 W. Highway 80.

Dorton ordered the investigation after two D&C Sales employees questioned methods used by firefighters in battling the blaze.

High winds, tall grass beneath the mobile homes, inadequate spacing between the homes, and slow response time by firefighters all contributed to the severity of the fire, Dorton said.

The first fire truck arrived at the scene about 7 to 8 minutes after the fire was reported, Dorton said. He attributed the slow response time to not having a fire station located in that part of town.

Damage caused by the fire, which is believed to be arson, is estimated at $261,000. The fire chief said he

Resident files suit against city

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Herbert Tolison, Gail Route, filed suit Friday against the City of Big Spring and the City of Big Spring Firefighters and Police Officers Civil Service Commission.

Tolison alleges irreparable damage from an incident stemming from a civil service test administered in December from which a list of prospective firefighters was produced. Tolison was allowed to begin taking the test but was removed from the examination room and told that he could not be eligible for a firefighter's job under the department's nepotism rule.

The rule defines a person's immediate family as brother, sister, parent, uncle, aunt, first cousin, parent-in-law, grandparent or other person residing in the home.

Tolison's wife is a first cousin of the chief of the Big Spring Fire Department.

The suit alleges the nepotism rule was unfairly applied because its plain language does not include the relationship in question; that it is overbroad and that it violates the Civil Service Act by restricting eligibility, and that it is unnecessary.

The suit seeks a temporary injunction preventing the department from choosing firefighter candidates from the list compiled after the examination Tolison was not allowed to finish; an order allowing Tolison to be given the examination again; wages and benefits Tolison has lost resulting from the illegal decision to prevent him from taking the test, and a permanent injunction barring the city from applying the nepotism policy in such cases.

Tolison also seeks attorneys' fees and court costs.

Physician Joe Bader and wife Mary Bader filed suit April 19 in 118th District Court against Linda Wong Luther of Austin.

The suit alleges that Luther executed a promissory note Feb. 25, 1981 for $49,500 and has defaulted. An unpaid balance of $54,140.12 plus interest of $14.83 per day after March 1 is sought, along with collection costs and attorneys' fees.

Ackerly Oil Company, doing business as Trio Fuels, filed suit April 20 against Joe Faulkner, doing business as Joe's Country Stop, alleging the Knott route resident defaulted on payment for goods, wares and merchandise valued at $14,066.68.

The suit seeks the unpaid bill plus pre- and post-judgment interest, attorney fees and costs.

The National Union Fire Insurance Company filed suit Friday against Robert Henry Thomas, Sr., of Merkel, seeking to hold null and void and overturn the March 21 decision of the Texas Industrial Accident Board awarding Thomas compensation for injury resulting from an accident June 20, 1986.

Randal Anderson and wife, Debra Anderson, individually and as next friend of Sbariden Marissa Anderson, their daughter, filed suit Friday against Time Insurance Company and Tommy D. Churchwell, doing business as Churchwell Insurance Agency, alleging false and deceptive business practices and seeking to stop Time Insurance Company from denying coverage under policy 2178260.

The suit alleges that Time Insurance Company also harassed the Andersons and threatened to cut off their policy without notice if they did not cancel a previously acquired policy with Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

College board OKs contracts

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Howard College trustees emerged from a 40-minute executive session at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday and voted to offer new contracts to all instructors and professional staff.

The contracts will be finalized sometime this summer, according to Mary Dudley, assistant to the college president.

Included in the list of instructors who will receive contracts is Steve Green, who was hired to become the new head basketball coach. Green, currently the first assistant coach at the University of Houston, will assume his duties at Howard on May 1, Dudley said.

Green will succeed Jerry Kassin, who resigned earlier this month.

Kassin's assistant, Joe Huber, also resigned, Dudley said, adding that he will be accepting a similar position with another college.

Other resignations accepted by trustees Tuesday were:

- Patricia Long, director of the cosmetology department, who will be moving to Houston.

- Greg Henry, director of student activities and assistant baseball coach, who will be returning to college to complete work on his degree.

In other business, the board:

- Heard an update on the request from the Vietnam Memorial Committee to construct a Vietnam veterans' memorial on the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus.

College President Bob Riley distributed copies of the tentative lease agreement between the college and the committee to trustees. He asked them to study the agreement and present any questions they may have at the board's next regular meeting, scheduled for May 17.

If trustees agree to the lease, it will be forwarded to the federal Department of Education for final approval, Riley said.

- Rejected four bids for the demolition of swimming pools at the SWCID campus.

The lowest bid — $18,700 from Earthco of Big Spring — was higher than budgetary constraints allowed, Dudley said.

Since the bids were advertised, it was discovered that dirt for the project — which would have been the highest cost item — will be donated from another source.

The college will now subcontract with Earthco to complete the demolition. The cost will be less than $5,000, Dudley added.

- Heard Riley's monthly report. The college president informed trustees that the athletic banquet will be May 5 at the Student Union Building Cactus Room, and that graduation ceremonies will be May 13 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Police beat

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Two burglaries, a theft and two acts of vandalism were reported to Big Spring police Tuesday.

- Two citizen band radios, microphones, a tool box and tools, a radio scanner and vehicle titles were reported stolen during a burglary at Lone Star Auto Sales, 1101 W. Fourth St. Value of the items were not listed.

- Phillip Stovall, 1511 S. Runnels St., told police someone entered his home and stole stereo equipment, household items, a television sets and tools. Value of the items was not listed.

- Billy Ward, 1804 Morrison St., reported the theft of a depth finder valued at $200.

- Larry Martin, 538 Westover Road, Bld. 1, Apt. 143, told police someone damaged the windshield and trunk of his 1980 Buick.

- Terry Don Schaefer, Coahoma, told police that someone damaged the trunk and windshield of his vehicle.

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Justice of the Peace China Long has ruled that a Big Spring man — whose body was found southeast of town Monday morning — died as a result of a self-inflicted wound.

Russell Williams, 24, 1414 Sycamore St., was found at about 10 a.m. Monday two miles south of Interstate 20 on Moss Lake Road, the victim of a single gunshot wound to the chest.

Long had ordered an autopsy to be performed by local pathologist Robert Rember, who found that Williams was killed by a single shot from a .22-caliber revolver that caused massive hemorrhaging in the heart and lung, Long said today.

She added that she ruled cause of death in the matter to be self-inflicted gunshot wound.

arrests of two other men besides Flores. Ricardo Flores, 32, of Big Spring and Leroy Alaniz of Odessa were arrested and are in Howard County Jail. Each is being held in lieu of $100,000 bond on charges of murder.

The April 1 slaying of radio personality C. Vance Kimble led to the arrests of four persons. Dennis Wayne Noggler, 17; Pamela Newton, 21, and Patrick Newton, 17; and Michael Hodnett, 23, all of Big Spring, are in custody in Howard County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond each on charges of capital murder.

Also in Howard County jail on charges of capital murder are Jeannie Fonseca, 29, charged with three counts of capital murder in the deaths of a Grand Prairie man and two Mexican Americans seven other Howard County residents charged in the deaths.

Fonseca's trial has been set for July 25. Her bonds total $425,000 and include an unrelated aggravated robbery count resulting from an incident at the Desert Sands Motel in October.

Fonseca and two of her brothers, Frankie Hernandez and Joe Hernandez, of 606 11th Place; Pete Salazar Jr., 411 N.W. 10th St.; and Arthur Islas Jr., 1306 Mesa Ave., are being held in lieu of $125,000 bond each on capital murder charges in connection with the death of Noe Perez, 39, of Grand Prairie.

Law enforcement officials believe Perez was slain in a Big Spring motel room in April. His body was exhumed in October from a shallow grave in northeast Martin County after a suspect led authorities to the gravesite.

Fonseca and three others, Antonio (Tony) Aguilar, 1321 Utah St.; and Enrique (Ricky) Sabedra and Orlando Aguirre, both of Knott, are being held on charges of capital murder in connection with the death of two men whose bodies were discovered in the debris of a Luther home destroyed by fire in October. Bonds on Aguilar, Aguirre and Sabedra are $125,000 each.

The dead were later identified as Miguel Villarreal Calixto and Norberto Gurrola Hernandez, both of Mexico.

Autopsy reports indicate both men died of gunshot wounds to the head. Authorities believe the two were shot and robbed, and that the house was intentionally set on fire.

has not determined if Big Spring fire insurance rates will increase as a result of damage caused by the fire.

First reading of the following ordinances and resolutions also were approved by council members:

- Authorizing the mayor to execute a lease with C-Bar Flying Service for fixed base operations at the municipal airport.
- Authorizing the mayor to enter into a lease agreement with Comanche Trail Muzzle Loaders allowing the organization to establish an archery range on city property east of the waste water treatment plant.
- Authorizing the withdrawal of members of the fire department from the Great West Life Long Term Disability Program and transfer of contributions to other funds.

Council members approved final and second reading of the following ordinances and resolutions:

- Revising fees for swimming pool use.
- Re-zoning a home at 900 S. Goliad Street from two-family dwelling to multiple-family dwelling.
- Approving a preliminary/final plat for the north half of block 33 in College Park Estates No. 6.
- Approving a preliminary/final plat for the Electrical Utilities Credit Union Addition.

Accident, car fire reported For the record

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A 38-year-old Big Spring man was reportedly injured in a two-vehicle accident in the 400 block of Westover Road west of South Lancaster Street Tuesday.

Robert Moore, 4211 Dixon St., was injured when the 1987 Nissan he was driving collided with a 1978 Buick driven by Stella Arnold, 59, 424 Westover Road, according to police reports. Moore refused medical treatment, reports said. Moore was cited for following too closely.

- Big Spring firefighters responded to a car fire at 1207 Madison St. Tuesday.

Firefighters were called to extinguish a blaze in the engine and dash area of a 1979 Malibu Classic owned by Josephine Griego.

Non-OPEC group to offer 5 percent export cut

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — If seven independent oil-producing nations and OPEC adopt a proposal to cut their exports by 5 percent, they could reverse the recent decline in oil prices caused by excess supplies, an analyst said.

"If they agreed to it, it would be very positive" for the oil market, said Paul Mlotok, an analyst for the investment firm Salomon Brothers Inc., who was in Vienna to observe talks between the two groups.

The proposal was made Tuesday. If it is adopted, it will be the first such accord with outside oil producers in OPEC's 28-year history.

Kent Hance, a member of the Texas Railroad Commission — which regulates that state's oil industry — said he saw a 50-50 chance that the Vienna meeting would produce an agreement to cut oil output.

Hance was not involved in the group meetings but was holding private talks with individual OPEC and non-OPEC officials to underscore what he called his state's desire to see stable oil prices.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange on Tuesday, contracts for June delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed 20 cents higher at $18.60 per barrel, partly in reaction to reports of the proposal.

Mexico's oil minister, Fernando Hiriart, said he conveyed the offer to representatives of the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries on behalf of Mexico and six other independent oil producers — Egypt, China, Colombia, Malaysia, Oman and Angola.

Speaking through an interpreter, Hiriart told reporters the suggested cutbacks would be for May and June only. He added that the basis for calculating the reductions would be the average oil export level of each country over the past six months.

Hiriart said his government "shares OPEC's objective" of driving prices back up to the cartel's official target of $18 per barrel. Most OPEC oil currently is selling for $14 to $15 a barrel.

Rijwan Lukman of Nigeria, the president of OPEC, called the offer "a good beginning."

The independent producers presented their offer at a meeting with six OPEC members. The two groups were scheduled to meet again this afternoon for a final day of closed-door deliberations.

Venezuela's oil minister, Arturo Hernandez Grisanti, told reporters the six OPEC officials were not authorized to make any decisions on the non-OPEC offer. He said details of the proposal would be passed on to all OPEC countries at a meeting in Vienna on Thursday.

Hiriart declined to say what Mexico or the other independent producers would do if OPEC did not agree to the offer.

"We are ready to implement these measures when we find the adequate proportional response from OPEC," Hiriart said, adding that this meant a "volume cut equivalent to 5 percent of its exports."

He said a 5 percent cut by the non-OPEC group would amount to about 200,000 barrels a day. He added it was unclear exactly what the 5 percent reduction for OPEC would amount to in barrels per day.

OPEC exports about 14 million barrels of its collective oil production of between 17.5 million and 18 million barrels a day. A 5 percent cut would appear to mean an export reduction of 700,000 barrels daily.

OPEC itself is sharply divided about whether to reduce its production, although it has long welcomed collaborative efforts by independent oil producers.

One of the main obstacles to an OPEC agreement on reducing its oil output is Iraq's refusal to cooperate. Iraq is not party to an existing OPEC production-limiting agreement because its demand for a production quota equal to that of Iran was denied. The two nations have been at war since 1980.

Iraq is believed to be pumping at least 2.5 million barrels daily, more than any other OPEC member except Saudi Arabia.

Parents file suit in crash of airliner

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The parents of Terri Ellen Davis, one of the Idaho residents killed in the Nov. 15, 1987, crash of a Continental Airlines jetliner, have filed a lawsuit here.

Keith L. and Clareta Smith of Boise filed the lawsuit in U.S. District Court, naming Continental Air Lines, Texas Air Corp. and McDonnell-Douglas as defendants.

Continental flight 1713 crashed at the Denver Airport on Nov. 15, as it was taking off. Of the passengers aboard, 28 were killed, including 14 from Idaho.

The lawsuit here was the latest in a series filed over the crash. The latest suit did not ask for specific damages, but said the amount would be set at trial.

It was filed by Boise attorneys Robert J. Koontz and Jim C. Harris. Koontz is one of five attorneys named to a special panel to handle the claims filed over the crash.

Walsh seeks to limit access to documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh is trying to limit the access of two Iran-Contra case defendants to the most sensitive government documents gathered during his investigation.

Under a proposal that drew a sharp defense protest Tuesday, lawyers for arms dealers Albert Hakim and retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord would have to obtain court permission before showing "particularly sensitive information" to their clients.

The proposed restrictions would not apply to the other two defendants charged with conspiring to illegally divert U.S. arms sales profits to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Fired National Security Council aide Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and former national security adviser John M. Poindexter were privy to the nation's most closely guarded intelligence and military secrets before they left the White House in November 1986.

They presumably saw or generated much of the material being reviewed by an interagency task force before it is turned over to the defense.

But Hakim, an Iranian-born U.S. citizen, never had access to classified government documents. Secord, his former business partner, no longer has the security clearances issued when he was a top-ranking Pentagon official.

Hakim and Secord brokered the U.S.-Iran arms sales through Swiss companies that also were used to funnel money to the Contras.

All four defendants were scheduled to appear today for a pre-trial hearing in U.S. District Court.

Hakim's attorney, N. Richard Janis, claimed in court papers that the proposed procedures "directly contravene" U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell's order granting all the defendants access to classified documents being compiled by Walsh.

Gesell ordered Walsh to give the defense 300,000 pages of classified documents to enable the lawyers to determine if the material would help their cases.

The interagency task force is reviewing the documents to determine what sensitive secrets they contain.

Between 5 percent and 10 percent of those reviewed thus far contain information that Walsh does not want to allow Hakim and Secord to see without court permission, according to court papers.

Walsh said these documents contain secrets that, if released, could compromise U.S. intelligence sources, sensitive U.S. military plans and foreign policy initiatives. Their release might also jeopardize the lives of hostages being held in the Middle East, according to court papers.

Janis said Walsh's attempt to withhold this information from Hakim and Secord violates Gesell's order. "The pronouncements of this court make it clear that the government must now give Mr. Hakim access to the information in its possession or face dismissal of the indictment against Mr. Hakim," Janis' brief said.

At an April 12 hearing, Janis was assured by Gesell that Hakim would get access to the documents. Even though Hakim never had security clearances he "has no less a need than the other defendants" to see the material, Janis told Gesell.

Under the Classified Information Procedures Act, secret documents must be declassified before they can be introduced into evidence.

Walsh can't force government agencies such as the CIA or the National Security Agency to declassify documents he or the defense wants to use at trial.

Committee subpoenas North notes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran-Contra defendant Oliver North still controls nearly 3,000 pages of top-secret notes he made while working at the White House and has never fully shown them to federal investigators, says a senator who wants the papers for an international drug trafficking probe.

Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., said the notes which North made during the years he oversaw a clandestine resupply effort for Nicaragua's Contra rebels remain in the possession of North's lawyer, Brendan Sullivan. Kerry said they have been shared with authorities only after North and Sullivan blacked out large portions deemed by them to be secret or irrelevant.

Kerry said Tuesday that his congressional panel is subpoenaing the notes taken by North, the former National Security Council aide who is under indictment on conspiracy charges growing out of the Iran-Contra scandal.

"I will not accept" any determination of relevance made by Sullivan or North, Kerry said as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 16-1 for the subpoena.

Opinion

U.S. must stay firm in drug war

"We're being left to fight this war alone. We're supplying the dead, the country is being destabilized, and what help are we getting?" The speaker was not a war-weary Londoner at the height of the 1940 Nazi blitz, but Francisco Bernal, head of Colombia's Attorney General's Narcotics Bureau.

Colombia, in fact, is a country at war. It is under siege, not by armies massed on its borders, but from within. The enemy is the Medellin cartel, the powerful confederation of drug barons, and the communist guerrillas.

Together they constitute a state within a state. They are undermining Colombia's fragile democracy and sapping the people's will to continue the war on drugs.

The other day, more than 50 Colombians died in a clash between army units and the communist Popular Liberation Army. Another so-called army has grown rich extorting money from foreign-oil companies operating close to Colombia's border with Venezuela. With the April 19 Movement, or M-19, these groups are sorely testing Colombia's poorly equipped and demoralized security forces.

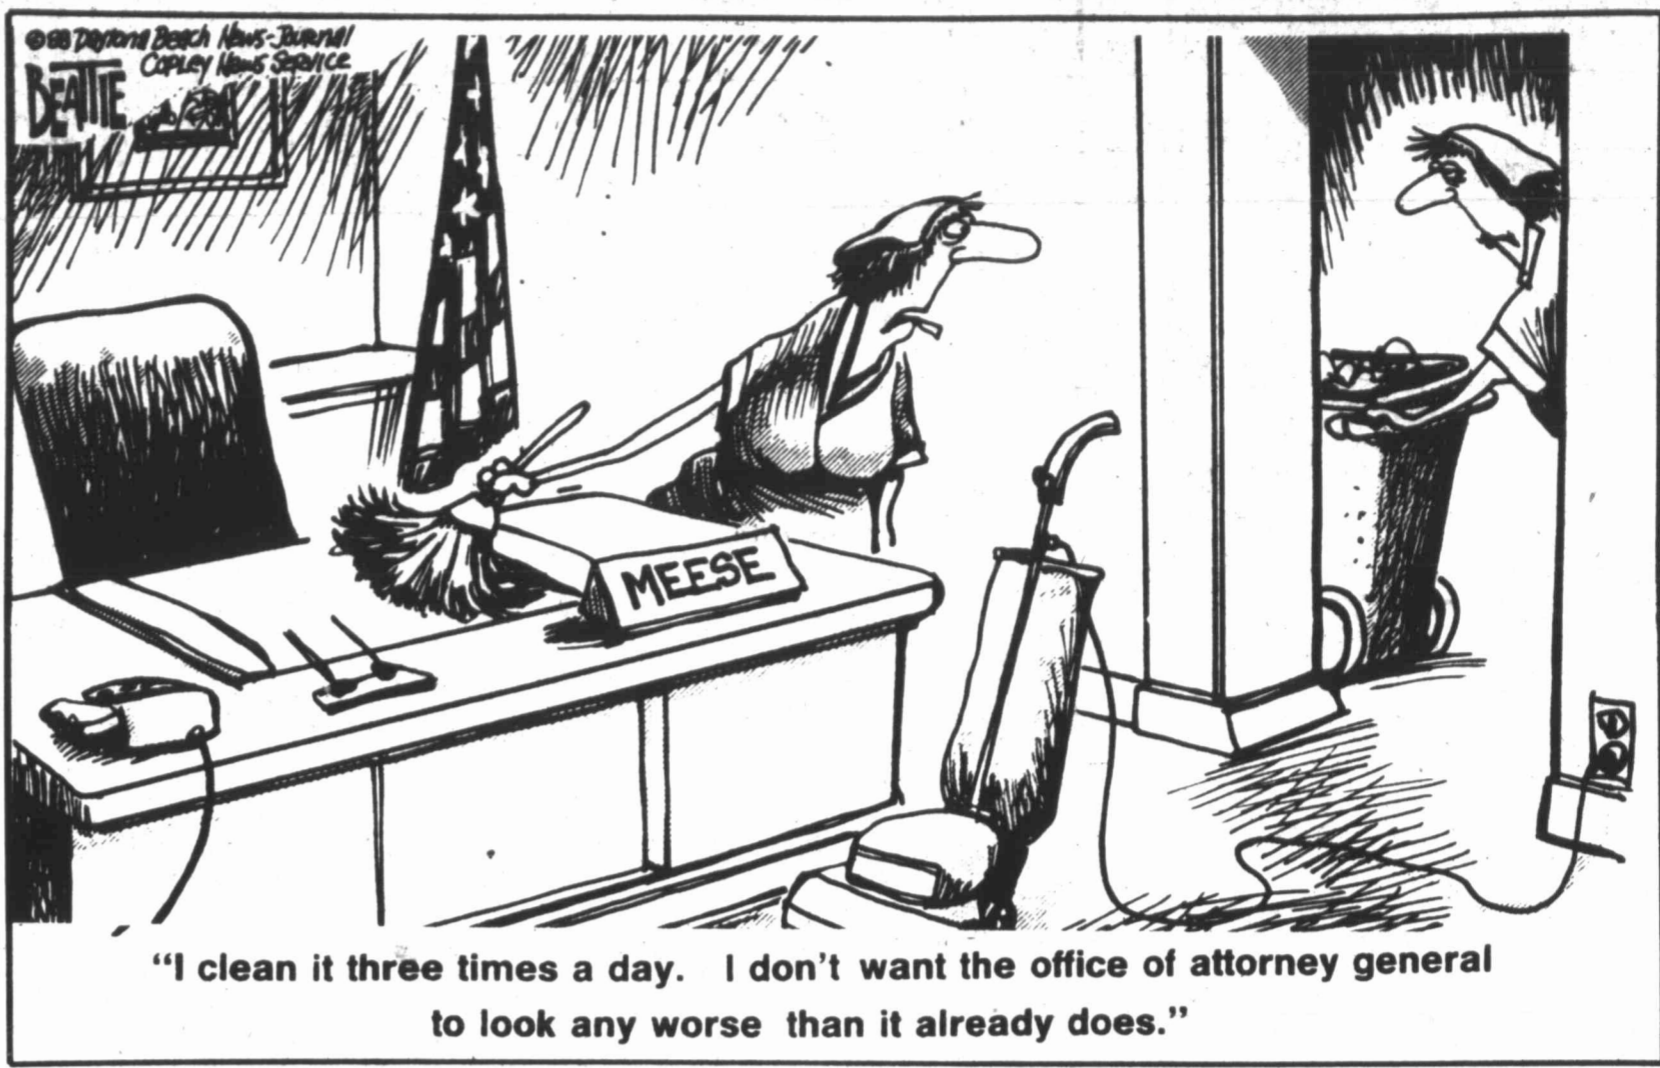

The murderous hit-and-run tactics are carried out by the communists against a backdrop of increasing violence orchestrated by the drug barons.

Colombia's attorney general, Carlos Mauro, was recently ambushed in his car and murdered outside Medellin, the country's second-largest city. His death is the latest in a series of assaults on government officials, jurists, police officers, journalists, and others involved in the anti-drug war.

Wary of the violence, some Colombians say the United States shares responsibility for the crisis because the motive for many of the killings has been the Medellin cartel's fear of being extradited to America to stand trial. The answer, they say, is for Washington to ease its demands for extradition.

Of all the weapons at Colombia's disposal, none is more fearsome to the drug lords than extradition. It would dishonor the memory of Colombia's dead and signal victory to the drug barons and terrorists if that weapon were to be sheathed at the height of the battle.

The remedy for Colombia's troubles, like the source of its ills, can be found within. Until the country's political parties, business organizations and the Roman Catholic Church unite to develop an overall strategy for dealing with the crisis, the Medellin cartel and its communist allies will continue to run amok. As for the United States, the best policy is one of unstinting moral and material support.

An explanation of Meese conflict

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.
Ed Meese's problems trace to blurred definitions. There are those who hold that he is guilty of unethical practices. There are those who hold that his continuation as attorney general is a political liability for the Republican Party.

On the right

The two entirely different propositions become intertwined, and Meese and others end up by saying that his resignation represents public acquiescence in the charge that he is guilty of unethical practices. Consider — the hypothetical figure is easy enough to imagine — Sylvester, who is appointed, let us say, to be a judge on the Court of Appeals. Sylvester, his friends know, was born immaculate on the subject of racial prejudice. In his entire life he has never even criticized Zulus, let alone American blacks. But when he was 21, he took out individual membership in the family country club because Sylvester, who spends most of his time in his office and in the library, is a golfer, and in any case, his children will want a place to spend their time. And lo, after his nomination, investigators discover that there are no blacks who are members of Sylvester's golf club, and a great big stink ensues. There are two species of people in the world. One is innately suspicious of everything and everybody, another is informal in manner. To suppose that the first is more conscientious or more refined than the second in respect of ethical distinctions simply is not the case. On the other hand, to suppose that the latter won't get into vexatious troubles is to guess wrong, as witness the matter of Edwin Meese.

I suggest in this case that he is absolutely ignorant of malfeasance. I do this as a matter of character judgment. But in doing so I do not deny any informality of manner, as I call it.

Perhaps because I myself do not spend time reading financial reports or checking into the activities of my associates and once ran into heavy weather on this account with the Securities and Exchange Commission, I understand such as Mr. Meese to whom it would not occur to say to a potential employer of his wife, "Are you by any chance engaged in soliciting the patronage of the Justice Department in any connection?"

As an author, it would never occur to me to wonder whether a favorable review given to one of my books was motivated by the reviewer's intention to submit an article for publication in my magazine.

But to say all of this is not to confront the question whether a presumption, if not of guilt but of disqualification to serve, does not arise in the public mind. Meese suffers from that blur I speak of.

He feels that his honor requires him to stay in his job, that the alternative — resignation — would have the effect of confirming suspicions lodged against him. The problem of Mr. Reagan is to confront the political hay that can be made out of Meese's continuation in office, at the expense of George Bush.

In a public exchange I had with George McGovern recently, McGovern made much of Meese's vulnerabilities and cited triumphantly that 100 people working in government have been indicted during the Reagan administration. My answer was straightforward — namely, that we should be grateful to the Reagan administration for discovering the guilt of 100 Reagan appointees; that one had no reason to doubt that among the 3 million people who work for the executive branch there must be at least 100 times 100 who are corrupt and undetected; and that if the same diligence had been shown in preceding administrations in going after corrupt personnel, maybe Lyndon Johnson himself would have been indicted as, in the existing situation, House Speaker Jim Wright continues in office with the most underexamined personal vulnerabilities of any senior public official in decades.

The question came up 15 months ago when Adm. John Poindexter was in effect dismissed by the president from his role as national security adviser. It must remain clear in the mind of Meese, who figured in the episode, that the sudden replacement of Admiral Poindexter had the effect on public opinion of suggesting that he was guilty of something or other.

Over a year later, asked his opinion of Admiral Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North, Mr. Reagan volunteered his faith in the innocence of both men.

An alternative, back in November 1986 might have been to hang on to Poindexter as national security adviser in order to defend with the original actor.

U.S. lacks weapons vital to drug war

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — If law-enforcement agencies lose the war on drugs, it could be for want of high-tech devices and help from the U.S. spy network, according to a classified Pentagon task force study.

The task force studied the methods used to detect and neutralize drug traffickers and terrorists — birds of a feather in many ways.

The panel compiled a shopping list of "major needs" for drug enforcement agencies:

- Radar sensors based in space, on the sea and in the air to detect planes, ships and vehicles at long range and then identify them at closer range. Radar, acoustic and other types of sensors are needed to cover "low-use routes."

- Systems to find hidden drugs, money, explosives, firearms and terrorist devices. The systems would pick up on the "vapor physical signatures or anomalies" that distinguish the contraband object from its hiding place.

- New identification techniques that would secretly weed out drug smugglers, terrorists or other unsavory characters from the innocent travelers crossing our borders.

• "Covert stand-off devices ... to monitor audio/visual information." In plain English, these would be sophisticated electronic, chemical or optical bugs attached to ships and planes that would let law-enforcement officials track them.

- Voice and digital-data communications that are safe from unwanted listeners. They have to be multi-channel, long-range and cheap, the task force said.

- Techniques to monitor cellular telephones when they are used by criminals.

The report contained an indirect admonishment of the intelligence community for being too tight with information that could help in the war on drugs: "Critical information held by CIA and NSA (National Security Agency) and others must be sanitized to permit operational deployment for enforcement." In other words, take out the top-secret information and give the police the rest.

Aches, pains were worth it

To the editor:
It's Monday morning and I had problems getting out of bed. My muscles are still so sore, but my spirits have never been higher.
Christmas in April was the best volunteer service I've ever done. All the volunteers at 810 N.W. 4th St. were wonderful. We worked side by side 9 to 10 hours only breaking for a short lunch or a soft drink. A special thank-you to the Howard County Lioness Club for providing the lunch.
I think all the people who worked Christmas in April are a very special type of person. And the city of Big Spring is lucky to have so many caring people to volunteer their time, money and expertise.
God bless each and every one of you.
I'm looking forward to next year. Hope you are too.

Famous quotes: the rest of the story

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Nobody should be surprised or upset that former White House press secretary Larry Speakes, as he reports in his new book Speaking Out, made up quotes for President Reagan.

That's what press secretaries, public relations assistants and other related skills are paid to do.

Some of the great quotes in history probably were the brainchildren of press secretaries.

Take the great patriot Nathan Hale, who is alleged to have said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

What Nathan Hale probably said was, "Hey, you guys aren't really serious about hanging me, are you?" but his press secretary, briefing reporters, came up with "I only regret, etc.," and it went down in history.

Then, there was Admiral Farragut, who was supposed to have said, "Damn the torpedoes! Full speed ahead!"

Admiral Farragut was no dum-

Lewis Grizzard

my. He knew if you go headfirst into a bunch of torpedoes, you could get seriously hurt.

What he probably said was, "If we stay here any longer, one of these damn torpedoes is going to hit us. Let's get the hell out of here as fast as we can."

Some quick thinking aide to the admiral likely came up with the quote that is remembered, however, and probably got a promotion and tickets on the 50 for the Army-Navy game for his initiative.

I've always been suspicious about the George Washington quote, too.

When his father asked him if he cut down the cherry tree, George is supposed to have said, "I cannot tell a lie."

What child ever told the truth when his parents confronted him with some alleged wrongdoing?

"Me? I didn't spill the chocolate syrup on the new couch. Who did it? I don't know. Maybe it was the dog."

George Washington was no dummy, either. What he probably said was, "Me ... cut down a cherry tree. You crazy, Pop? I was down at the creek with Ace and Buster. What hatchet? Oh, you mean THIS hatchet..."

Years later on a slows news day, George's press secretary probably thought up the "I cannot tell a lie" story, sent out a press release and got four minutes on CBS.

Of all our presidents, recent and otherwise, President Reagan probably has been the one who needed somebody to think up some quotes for him the most.

He has been known as a "hands-off" president, meaning he hasn't paid much attention to what's going on. If he hadn't had a somebody making up quotes, he might have been the most silent president since Calvin Coolidge, who, if he did have anything to say, kept it to himself.

President Reagan will be remembered for only two of his own quotes, "There you go again," and "The bombing starts in 20 minutes."

And Reagan may not have even uttered those two remarks. Not to start a rumor, but did Larry Speakes mention in his book the fact he is an accomplished ventriloquist?

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald.

They should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.

They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered.

Meese calls for test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III says everyone who is arrested should be tested for drugs and then should be subject to follow-up tests before trial.

"I would like to see the day where every person arrested is subjected to a urine test" to determine suitability for pre-trial release, Meese told mayors and police chiefs Tuesday at the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

He said once defendants are back on the street, they should be subject to random drug testing to dissuade them from committing crimes while awaiting trial. Meese added he would like to see mandatory drug testing results taken into account in sentencing by judges.

Worker benefits grow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Worker benefits are growing at a higher rate than wages, with escalating health insurance costs accounting for most of the increase, the government says.

Basic wage rates over the past 12 months have risen 2.6 percent for union workers and 3.5 percent for non-union employees, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Tuesday.

But when benefits are included, the overall hourly cost of labor in private industry increases at 3.9 percent for union members and 4 percent for non-union members.

Benefit increases in the 12 months ending April 1 have average 5.8 percent overall in private industry, double the 2.9 percent increase of the previous 12 months, said the Labor Department statisticians.

Man awarded millions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A lawyer awarded $21 million for four years of confinement and torture in Argentine prisons during the military regime says he'll donate half the money to other victims of human abuses there.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti on Monday ordered former Argentine Gen. Carlos Suarez Mason, who supervised the prisons, to pay the money, described by plaintiff lawyers as a record for human rights abuse cases settled in the United States.

On Wednesday, another federal judge is scheduled to decide whether Suarez Mason should be extradited to Argentina on charges of 43 murders and 24 kidnappings allegedly committed by soldiers under his command.

"It's a tremendous victory both for human rights and for the people of Argentina, the victims and the families of the disappeared, to whom a great portion of this award will be donated," David Cole, an attorney for the New York-based Center for Constitutional Rights, said of Monday's ruling.

INS deadline Prompts surge in applications

DALLAS (AP) — Legalization centers in the state were remaining open past regular hours and those in South Texas were ordered to stay open on the weekend to process applications from aliens scurrying to apply for amnesty.

Immigration officials likened the filing frenzy by aliens seeking legal status to the mad rush on April 15 by last-minute tax filers.

"These applicants are just like anyone else when it comes to procrastinating, just like you and I on tax day," said John Roark, an Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesman in Dallas said Tuesday.

Adding to the onrush is a warning from immigration officials that amnesty seekers should not count on a proposed extension of the application deadline.

Although the U.S. House of Representatives has passed a proposal to extend the May 4 cutoff date, the bill faces strong opposition in the Senate. The Department of Justice is expected to recommend that President Reagan veto the measure, the INS said.

"INS is concerned that this misguided legislation (the proposed extension) will create confusion among potential applicants and cause them to delay filing beyond the May 4 cutoff date," immigration officials said in a statement.

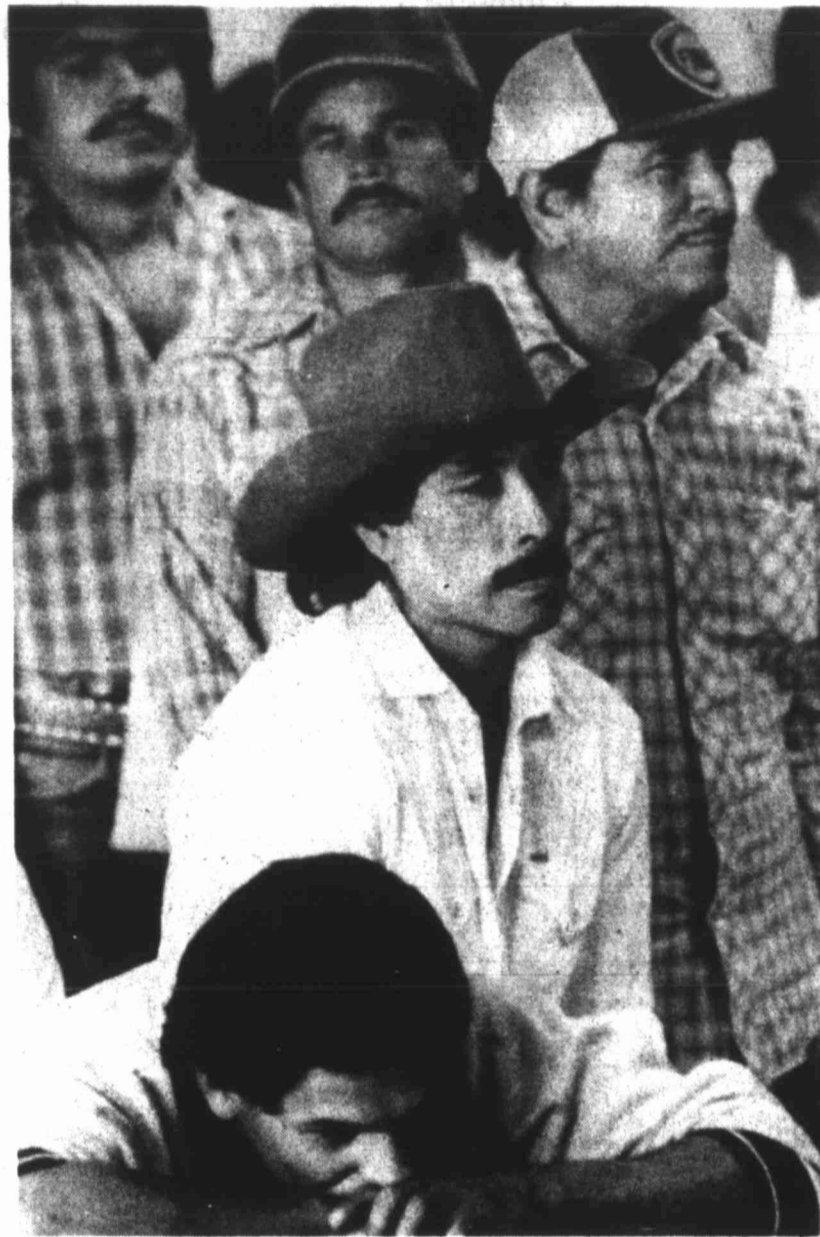

The INS is opposed to the proposal extending the amnesty deadline to Nov. 30 despite a stepped up number of applicants for amnesty as the deadline approaches.

"It would be sending the wrong signal, that would encourage people not now in the country to enter the country," said Roark. "We would see another big surge in November if the deadline is approved."

In Arlington, 739 people applied at a local legalization center Saturday, and the day before 913 applied, Roark said. "That's maybe half the people who were there," Roark said.

INS officials in Houston estimated 1,600 amnesty applications were processed Tuesday and another 1,600 on Monday.

There were no available seats inside the INS office and outside, a line surrounded the building

ARLINGTON — Undocumented aliens wait in line to apply for legal status at the Immigration and Naturalization center in Arlington Tuesday. The Arlington INS center is handling as many as 1,000 applications a day as the deadline nears, according to officials.

throughout the day despite the blazing Texas sun.

Marco Canamar, an amnesty applicant standing in line, said, "There's too much people standing in line. I don't think they have enough time to process all the people."

Houston INS officials say the amnesty program so far has been a huge success. Officials say about 100,000 people will have applied for amnesty through the Houston office, the state's busiest, by the May 4 deadline, twice the amount initially predicted.

The Arlington center, which expected to receive 60,000 to 80,000 applications, had received 60,878 through Saturday, 10,000 of which were submitted in the last three weeks, officials said.

Iran alleges pressure

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Iran said today the United States pressured Saudi Arabia into breaking diplomatic ties with Tehran.

Saudi Arabia said Tuesday it decided to break relations with Iran because of a riot by Iranians in Mecca, a raid on the Saudi Embassy in Tehran and Iranian attacks on commercial shipping in the Persian Gulf.

In a statement broadcast by state-run television and distributed by the official Saudi Press Agency, the government ordered all Iranian diplomats to leave the kingdom within a week.

A memorandum about the decision was handed to the Iranian charge d'affaires in Riyadh, the news agency reported.

Explosion kills three

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — A bomb exploded today along the Kabul River in the center of the capital, shattering windows in a two-square-block area. At least three people were killed, a witness said.

The vehicle in which the bomb was planted was destroyed, but it appeared to have been a truck or a small bus. Three buses and two taxis also were damaged.

Ambulance crews took away at least two men with serious wounds after the explosion at 12:40 p.m. (4:10 a.m. EDT) in the Pamira district. One Western reporter said he saw three bodies carried from the scene, and that witnesses had told him at least eight other people had been injured.

Kuwait jet flies home

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The Kuwait Airways jumbo jet that was held for 15 days by Shiite Moslem hijackers took off from Algiers airport today, one week after the hijackers released their 31 remaining hostages and went free.

The hijackers killed two Kuwaiti passengers during the ordeal. Kuwait Ambassador Gasen Boursuli said it took five days for the Boeing 747 to be cleaned and declared airworthy by Algerian aviation authorities.

He said the plane was taken directly to Kuwait to resume regular service with the airline, which has resumed its service to Far East destinations.

The airline suspended its flights to the Far East after the jumbo jet was hijacked on a flight from Bangkok, Thailand, to Kuwait with 112 people aboard.

Boursuli said the plane was dirty inside and most of the seats were damaged, but a thorough check turned up no serious mechanical damage.

Algerian authorities refused to allow Western reporters or photographers to view the inside of the plane.

Smoking ban presents few problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first week of the first-ever ban on smoking aboard commercial jetliners, the airlines report few sparks from the traveling public and say smokers seem to have accepted the new curbs.

While many smokers have groused about the rule, they have made no attempt to challenge it and have prompted no major incidents, according to airline officials and flight attendants.

"So far, we've heard that it's working well," said Cindy Yeast, a spokeswoman for the Association of Flight Attendants, which has more than 21,000 members at many of the major carriers.

At Northwest Airlines where the ban went beyond government requirements and includes all domestic flights except those to Hawaii, officials said they anticipated some discord but were pleased to find none.

"We didn't have a single incident where we've even had to chide anybody. ... We anticipated more of a problem than there was," said Northwest spokesman Bob Gibbons.

Spokesmen for a half-dozen other air carriers also said they were aware of no incidents stemming from the smoking ban on flights of two hours or less, which went into effect Saturday.

The regulation carries a penalty of up to $1,000 for anyone violating the ban and up to $2,000 if a smoker tampers with a smoke alarm and lights up in an aircraft lavatory.

Names in the news

DENVER (AP) — Comedians Billy Crystal and Paul Rodriguez joked about being serious as they presented $220,140 to a health clinic for the homeless and announced the third Comic Relief telethon.

"Sometimes it's good to laugh at even the worst thing in the world," Crystal said at a news conference Tuesday at the Stout Street Clinic for the homeless in downtown Denver.

The clinic, whose official opening was today in a former Universal Studios building, is the first recipient of $2 million raised by more than 50 comedians during the 1987 Comic Relief, supported and televised by Home Box Office last November.

Health care for the homeless in 22 other cities also will be given funds.

One goal of the benefit was to increase awareness of the problem, Rodriguez said.

"When you think of the homeless, you think of bums; that's why people have a hard time digging in their pockets," Rodriguez said. "I walked into a center, I saw children with their mothers."

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Actress Victoria Jackson said her role in the R-rated movie "Casual Sex?" is legitimate and not sleazy.

"The film has a woman director, it's Universal (Studios), it's legit. It's not sleazy," Ms. Jackson said.

Ms. Jackson, 29, spoke with reporters Monday on a trip to her old school, Furman University.

Ms. Jackson, who joined the cast of "Saturday Night Live" in 1986, said she writes most of her own material for the TV show.

"I don't do any characters. I just do myself. It's a fun job, but nobody is trying to help me get on the show," she said, referring to the stiff competition for air time and the writers' predilection for developing skits instead of providing material for her quirky, personalized routines.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actresses Glenn Close and Pam Dawber became first-time mothers and singer-turned-politician Sonny Bono celebrated a third offspring in a sudden increase of celebrity births.

In a Los Angeles hospital Monday, Miss Dawber gave birth to an 8-pound, 14-ounce boy with actor-husband Mark Harmon watching the delivery. Sean Thomas Harmon measured 22 inches long, said Miss Dawber's publicist, Carla Schalman. The hospital wasn't identified to assure privacy, she said.

It is the first child for Harmon, 36, and Miss Dawber, 35, who were married 13 months ago.

Close, star of "Fatal Attraction," gave birth Tuesday to a 7-pound, 12-ounce girl in an undisclosed East Coast hospital. The girl has yet to be named.

Producer John Starke, 37, the baby's father, and Miss Close, 41, are not married.

Bono, the newly elected Palm Springs mayor, became the father of a 7-pound, 13-ounce boy on Monday night. The baby was named Chesare Elan.

LONDON (AP) — Placido Domingo, one of the biggest draws in opera, has pulled out of the title role in Wagner's "Lohengrin" this summer at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, the management said.

Domingo was to have sung in five performances from June 20 through July 6, and Covent Garden was depending on him to be the big attraction of its season.

His appearance also was to be a send-off for Sir John Tooley, the retiring general director for whom Domingo has sung in each of his seasons since 1970.

Most bisexuals remain locked in closet

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on the Phil Donahue show recently and was delighted when you said, "There is far more bisexuality around than anyone suspects."

I am a male, 64, and have been married for more than 40 years. I was a pilot in World War II, had a few flings with women, married shortly after the war and fathered several fine children.

When I was 27, my employer sent me and another male employee, whom I admired, to a one-week training program in another city. We shared a motel room with twin beds. This man had also been in the Air Corps and had a lovely wife and one child, as did I at the time. On the third night, we had no homework, so we went to a topless bar, had a few drinks and went back to our motel. Amid a little horseplay and rib-poking, we kind of fell on one of the beds together. That was the beginning of a very long bisexual relationship. He died two years ago and I have grieved ever since.

Not once in all those years was there any indication that there was anything between us either at work or in the presence of our families.

I loved that man and he loved me. Our relationship lasted for 40 years, and neither of us took anything away from our families. It was far more than a sexual attraction — we were best friends, closer than brothers. His children called me "Uncle."

Dear Abby

I know that bisexuality is frowned upon by others. But I have no regrets.

IN THE CLOSET IN CLEVELAND

DEAR IN: Yours is a very large closet. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am surprised that you were surprised by the number of bisexuals who surfaced in your survey. I am a male bisexual. The mental health professionals probably include us in the 10 percent labeled "gays." True, the majority of bisexuals use the gays for same-sex relations.

You are correct to question percentages, Abby. We bisexuals are so closeted we don't even know each other. We are in your heterosexual world — usually "happily" married, helping to rear our children with the same moral, ethical, caring values as you. We may be pillars of the community and part of that lovely family down the street. We cross all ethnic and financial lines. Most of you know one of us and consider us your close heterosexual friend, working buddy or acquaintance. Although this letter has little chance of reaching your readers, in order to protect my job, wife, children, heterosexual and bisexual friends, I must sign myself...

NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: After my survey, I read an illuminating book titled "The Bisexual Spouse." It contains interviews with bisexual couples, married and divorced. It also includes enlightening comments by Dr. Judd Marmor, past president of the American Psychiatric Association, and past president of the American Academy of Psychoanalysis. The book is edited by Ivan Hill, published by Barlina Books Inc., P.O. Box 7425, McLean, Va. 22106, and sells for $16.95. It is especially timely in this age of AIDS.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: I saw this wonderful quote framed and hanging in my dentist's office: "You don't have to floss all your teeth — only those you want to keep." (L. Andary, D.D.S., Roseville, Mich.)

Southern baking recipes from Martha White Kitchens

This week's Recipe Exchange features recipes from the Martha White Southern Baking Book.

The use of Martha White products are recommended to prepare these recipes.

THIMBLE BISCUITS

2 cups sifted self-rising flour
 1/4 cup vegetable shortening
 3/4 cup milk
 2 to 3 tbs. jelly or jam
 Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Lightly grease large baking sheet; set aside. Prepare biscuit dough. Roll out dough on lightly floured board or pastry cloth to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into rounds with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place half of biscuits on prepared baking sheet. Use a thimble, or other small cutter, to cut a hole in center of each remaining biscuit. Place a biscuit with center removed on top of each whole biscuit. Fill each hole with about 1/2 tsp. jelly. Bake 10 to 12 minutes, or until golden brown.

CHEESE AND BACON BISCUITS

2 cups sifted self-rising flour
 1/4 cup vegetable shortening
 1 cup (4 ounces) grated sharp Cheddar cheese
 1/4 cup (4 strips) crumbled crisp-cooked bacon
 3/4 cup milk
 Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Lightly grease baking sheet; set aside. Place flour in bowl. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives until mixture is consistency of coarse crumbs. Stir in cheese and bacon. Add milk; stir with fork just until dough leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto lightly floured surface or pastry cloth. Knead until smooth. Roll out to 1/2-inch thickness. Cut into rounds with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place on prepared baking sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes, or until golden brown.

QUICK CHEESE BREAD

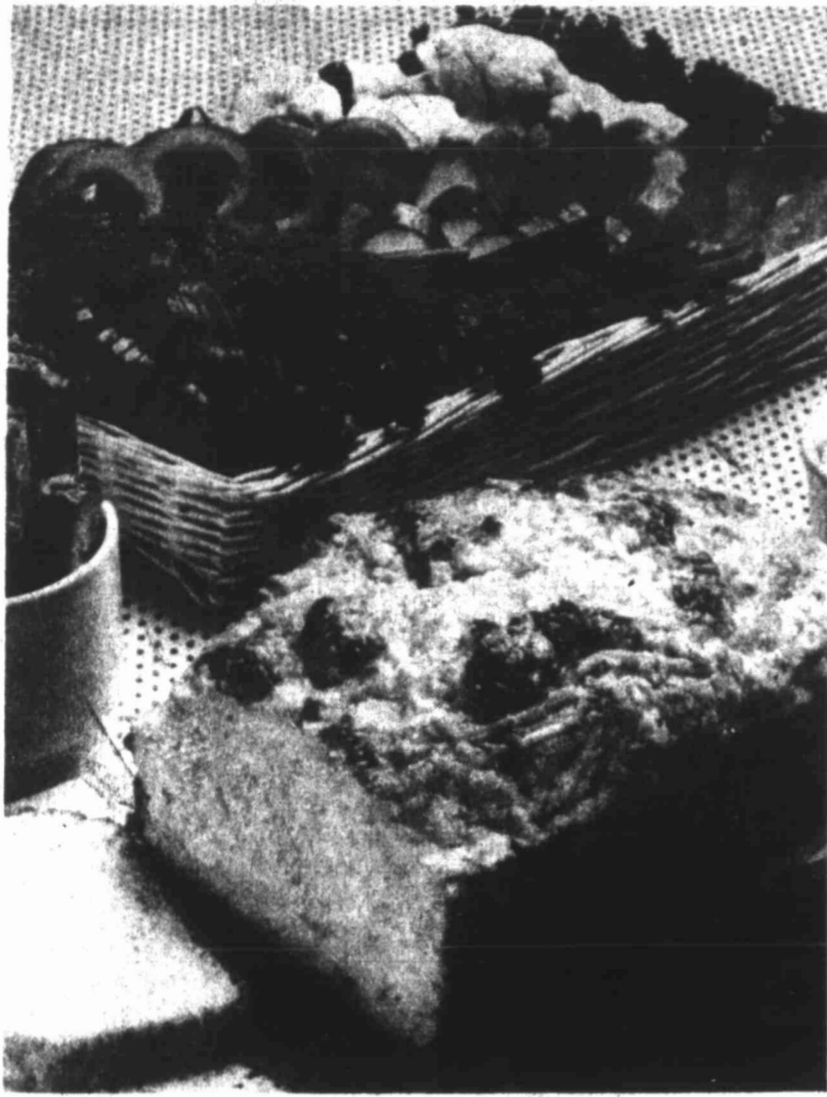

2 packages (5 1/2 oz. each) BixMix (2 3/4 cups)
 3/4 cup milk or water
 2 eggs, lightly beaten
 2 tsp. dry mustard
 1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) grated sharp Cheddar cheese, divided
 2 tbs. butter or margarine
 Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease bottom of 9x5x3-inch loaf pan; set aside. Pour baking mix into bowl. Add milk; mix with wooden spoon until smooth. Add eggs, mustard, and 1 cup cheese; blend well. Pour batter into prepared pan. Sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Dot with butter. Bake 40 to 50 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Gently loosen sides of loaf. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely.

BANANA NUT LOAF

3/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
 2 eggs
 1 cup mashed ripe bananas (2 to 3) tbs. buttermilk
 2 cups sifted self-rising flour
 1/4 tsp. baking soda
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease bottom of 9x5x3-inch loaf pan; set aside. Cream sugar and shortening with electric mixer in mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs, bananas, and buttermilk; blend well. Add flour and baking soda; blend well. Stir in nuts. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 50 to 60 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Gently loosen sides of loaf. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely.

BAKE SHOP DOUGHNUTS

2 packages (1/4 oz. each) active dry yeast
 1/2 cup warm water (105 degrees F. to 115 degrees F.)
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tsp. salt
 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
 1/2 cup hot milk
 2 eggs, lightly beaten
 4 1/2 to 5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 Grease large bowl; set aside. Dissolve yeast in water in measuring cup; set aside. Combine sugar, salt, shortening, and milk in bowl. Cool to lukewarm. Add eggs; blend well. Add 2 cups flour; blend well. Stir in yeast mixture. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cover with cloth. Let rise 10 minutes. Knead dough 8 to 10 minutes, or until smooth and elastic. Place in prepared bowl. Turn once to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, 1 1/2 hours, or until double in bulk. After dough has risen, punch down; let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough in half. Roll out 1/2 to 1/4-inch thickness on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Repeat for remaining dough. Let rise, uncovered, in warm place, Quick Cheese Bread is especially nice as a snack served with raw vegetables. Cut into strips and toast lightly under the broiler or in a toaster oven.

free from draft, 45 minutes or until double in bulk. Preheat oil to 375 degrees F. in deep-fat fryer or large saucepan.

Deep fry doughnuts, a few at a time, 3 to 4 minutes, or until golden brown, turning to brown evenly. Drain on paper towels. Combine confectioner's sugar, milk, and vanilla in bowl. Transfer to wire rack to cool.

HAM AND SWISS CHEESE QUICHE

3/4 cup self-rising corn meal
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
 1 1/2 to 2 tbs. cold water
 1 1/2 cups cubed smoked ham
 4 cups (4 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
 4 eggs
 1 tbs. prepared mustard
 1 tbs. minced green onion
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/8 tsp. white pepper

Combine flour, corn meal, and salt in bowl. Cut in half of the shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives until mixture is consistency of coarse crumbs. Cut in remaining shortening until mixture is consistency of small peas. Gradually sprinkle water over mixture; stir with fork until moist enough to hold together. Shape into ball.

Place on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Flatten with rolling pin. Roll out into circle about 1 inch larger than 9-inch quiche dish or pie pan. Ease into quiche dish. Trim overhang to 1/2 inch. Fold under to make stand-up edge. Flute edge.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Sprinkle ham and cheese evenly over bottom of crust. Combine half-and-half, eggs, mustard, green onion, salt, and pepper in bowl; blend well. Pour into crust. Bake 45 to 50 minutes, or until center is set and top is golden brown. Let stand 10 minutes. Cut into wedges.

PARTY SAUSAGE BALLS

1/2 lb. pork sausage, at room temperature
 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
 1 package (5 1/2 oz.) BixMix (1 1/2 cups)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Combine sausage and cheese in bowl; blend well with hands. Add baking mix; blend well. Roll mixture into marble-sized balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake for 30 minutes, or until sausage is no longer pink. Serve hot or at room temperature.

TEXAS CORNBREAD

1 egg
 1 cup self-rising corn meal
 3/4 cup sifted self-rising flour
 1 tsp. sugar
 1/2 tsp. marjoram
 1/2 tsp. thyme
 1/2 tsp. celery seed
 2 eggs, lightly beaten
 1 1/4 cups milk
 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
 Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Grease a 9-inch square baking pan; preheat in oven. Combine corn meal, flour, sugar, marjoram, thyme, and celery seed in bowl. Add to flour mixture; stir just until blended. Pour into hot pan. Bake 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Cut into 3-inch pieces. Serve hot.

ICED LEMON BUTTER BARS

1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1 cup sugar, divided
 1/2 cup butter, softened
 2 eggs
 2 tbs. all-purpose flour
 1 tsp. grated lemon peel
 2 tbs. lemon juice
 Confectioner's sugar
 Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Combine 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/4 cup sugar and butter in bowl; blend until dough forms a ball. Pat into ungreased 9-inch square baking pan. Bake 15 minutes. Combine eggs, remaining 3/4 cup sugar, 2 tbs. flour, lemon peel, and lemon juice in bowl; blend well. Pour over partially baked crust. Bake 18 to 20 minutes, or until filling is set. Sift confectioner's sugar over top. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cut into bars.

AUNT E.C.'s POUND CAKE

3 1/2 cups sugar
 2 cups butter
 10 large or 12 small eggs
 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 Generously grease a 10-inch tube pan; set aside. Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Cream sugar and butter with electric mixer in mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs, 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Gradually beat in flour; blend well. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 2 hours, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out on wire rack to cool completely.

CARAMEL DUMPLINGS

1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
 1 1/4 cups boiling water
 2 tbs. butter, divided Dash salt
 1 tsp. vanilla, divided
 1 cup sifted self-rising flour
 1/4 cup milk
 Heat 1/4 cup sugar in heavy, oven-proof skillet over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until golden brown and caramelized. Gradually stir in water until no lumps remain. Add 1 tbs. butter, salt, 1 cup sugar, and 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Reduce heat; simmer while making batter.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Combine flour and remaining 1/4 cup sugar in bowl. Melt remaining 1 tbs. butter in saucepan; stir in milk and remaining 1/2 tsp. vanilla until blended. Add to flour mixture; blend well.

Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot syrup. Place skillet in oven. Bake 25 minutes. To serve, remove dumplings with slotted spoon. Turn upside down into dessert dishes. Spoon syrup over each. Top with sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

Which telephone directory covers more of the Big Spring trade territory, has the higher consumer usage, costs 30% less for advertising space, has listings for 13 surrounding towns, and features the exclusive cross reference listings?

NOT THEIR'S.

If you thought Southwestern Bell was the correct answer, let us set the record straight. Associated Publishing Company's Big Spring Phone Book reaches more homes and businesses, covers more local and area listings, and has a higher usage than Southwestern Bell's. We are starting our fifth year in Big Spring, and we've been listening to our customers. That's why we include the special government listings "blue pages" section and the exclusive cross reference directory. Now, if our directory lists more towns, and is delivered to more people, is used more, and costs less to advertise in, which one is the best choice for your business' advertisement? Right.

Bush, Dukakis begin war of words

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — George Bush challenged Michael Dukakis to "fire away" at him on the Iran-Contra affair today and Dukakis did just that after impressive Pennsylvania victories clinched the GOP presidential nomination for Bush and gave Democrat Dukakis another big boost.

Jesse Jackson, a distant second to Dukakis in Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary, said today, "I keep struggling against the odds and I've always struggled against the odds and succeeded. . . . This campaign will remain alive and will go right down to the wire."

In television interviews, the vice president and the Massachusetts governor set a combative tone for the summer campaign.

Dukakis said of Bush's involvement in the Iranian arms-for-hostages dealing: "He sat there and did nothing while we engaged in one of the worst and one of the most misguided adventures in the history of American foreign policy."

Bush said he would ask Dukakis in debate what he would do about hostages in the Middle East. "Do you really care when a man like Buckley is being tortured to death?" he said he would ask, a reference to William Buckley, the CIA official who died after being taken hostage in Lebanon.

"Let him fire away," Bush said of Dukakis in an interview on CBS-TV.

Bush, prodding the Democrats on another sensitive issue, said on NBC-TV he might pick up substantial support from blacks if they decide Jackson wasn't given a fair deal by his party.

GEORGE BUSH

MICHAEL DUKAKIS

"If he's not treated fairly, a lot of people are going to be open-minded and if I campaign properly with the way I feel in my heart about openness and inclusion we might surprise people there," Bush said.

With the nomination in hand for Bush, President Reagan, free at last drop his neutrality, was meeting with his vice president today.

"I am sure the president will offer his congratulations and discuss how he can help in the campaign," said White House House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

Ohio, Indiana and the District of Columbia were the next batlegrounds, each holding primaries next Tuesday.

"He's coming in with a head of steam," Ohio Democratic Party chairman James Ruvolo said of Dukakis. But he also cautioned against "Washington insiders trying to end the race before it's over."

"It certainly looks now as though Governor Dukakis will be the nominee," said John Livengood, the Indiana Democratic Party chairman.

Jackson vowed to "remain positive" and continue running through the final primaries on June 7.

"You can't finish the race until the race is over," he said. "We need to win this race in November, so I will remain positive."

Solid as his lead appeared, Dukakis insisted his race against Jackson was "by no means over."

"I'm going to campaign as hard as I can in the primaries between now and June 7," Dukakis said. "I'm going to campaign in every single primary."

He repeated his assertion that he didn't want to think about a running mate until after the primary season, although he indicated he would consider Jackson or Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia.

Network interviews with voters at polling places found signs of growing strength for the Massachusetts governor. For the first time, more than half his supporters said they backed him strongly. In a reverse of the results in earlier primaries, Dukakis out-pollied Jackson among voters who cited the poor and elderly as their chief concerns as well as among who cited strong leadership and ability to make a change.

"We're almost getting down to the main event," declared Bush, who got 79 percent of the Pennsylvania popularity vote and also won more than enough delegates to lock in the 1,139 he needed for a GOP convention majority.

With 94 percent of the Pennsylvania vote in, the Democratic vote was:

Dukakis, 944,461, or 67 percent.
 Jackson, 395,790, 28 percent.
 On the Republican side, with 94 percent of the vote in, it was:
 Bush, 631,274, 79 percent.
 Dole, 96,346, 12 percent.
 Robertson, 73,692, 9 percent.

Jackson won't surrender: 'We're going all the way'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jesse Jackson vowed to continue his Democratic presidential campaign despite another big loss to rival Michael Dukakis, saying: "We're going to run all the way."

Jackson arrived here Tuesday night as Dukakis won the Pennsylvania primary by a wide margin, and congratulated the Massachusetts governor.

At a rally here and an earlier appearance in Toledo, Jackson turned his attention to Ohio's primary next Tuesday and the big-state races that will end the primary season.

"The contest will be determined on June 7 in California and New Jersey," Jackson said. "We have every reason to be hopeful if we keep winning every urban center. Our coalition is broad, it is strong, it is deep, and we're inspired to run on."

"We're within striking distance. We're going to run all the way. We're going to run hard," he said.

"We have now run 45 races," Jackson told cheering supporters. "We're running neck-and-neck. We're going all the way to California and New Jersey. . . . For those who hold out, I'm a long-distance runner. It's too close now to turn around."

Jackson's national campaign chairman, California Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, was less optimistic. "It is going to be difficult, it is clearly going to be difficult," Brown told NBC on Tuesday night. "I want a winner for the Democrats this time, whether it's Jackson or Dukakis."

Another supporter, Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode, told Jackson to "hang in there."

"Go to Ohio, California, New Jersey. Work with the 'super delegates.' Work with Gore and Gephardt and try to put together enough votes to take the nomination," Goode said.

Jackson said Dukakis has followed his lead in speaking to students about the dangers of drugs.

"People have told me that Dukakis is going into the schools now talking about drugs. Well, that just ratifies my leadership," said Jackson.

"People say you're (Dukakis and Jackson) talking about the same things. What's the difference? Well, it's butter or margarine. I'm the real thing," Jackson said.

Amid reports that many Democratic leaders would like to see Georgia Sen. Sam Nunn on a ticket with Dukakis, Jackson indicated the conservative senator might not be acceptable. He framed his comments on terms of a running mate for himself.

"Whoever I would have on my ticket would have to have a good record in civil rights, women's rights, social justice, and a real pronounced commitment to peace in this world," Jackson said.

Nunn, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, has voted against some civil rights legislation and against the Equal Rights Amendment.

Stanton looking good

Buff boys lead pack

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

The Stanton Buffaloes boys golf team have taken the lead in the first round of the Regional 1-2A Tournament at the Comanche Trail Park with an impressive 328 team total.

Stanton's Greg Avery along with teammate Skip Hopkins led all scores of 73 and 77 respectively. Trailing Stanton is district arch-rival Ozona with a 333, just five strokes behind the Buffaloes.

In 1986 the Stanton Buffaloes won the state championship in Austin. Coach Stuart Beckwith hopes his golf team will bring the trophy back to West Texas.

"We won the championship in '86 and hopefully we can win regional and go back to Austin to bring back the trophy," said Beckwith.

In his first year, he thinks he has one of the top links teams, boys and girls, in the state.

"Our guys are really playing well, Greg and Skip played extremely well, if Brad, Chris and Donny play up to their potential we will be a hard team to beat," said Beckwith of players Brad Holland, Chris Carder, and Donny Patrick.

Second round action got underway this morning, at 8 a.m. tee time at 8:00 A.M.

First-round scores:
1. Stanton — Greg Avery 73; Skip Hopkins 77; Donny Patrick 86; Chris Carder 92; Brad Holland 93 Team Total 328. 2. Ozona — B. Hood 80; J. Haire 83; C. Davis 84; W. Seahorn 86; S. Buff girls in second place

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

The Stanton Lady Buffaloes trail the Memphis Lady Cyclones by eight shots in the first round of the Region 1-2A Tournament golf following Tuesday's action at Comanche Trail Park.

Stanton's Cheryl Stewart led all scores with a 94 to pace the Lady Buffs with a team total 392. "I played pretty well the front nine, but the back nine was the most difficult. As long as we can play consistently, we have a chance to be close to the top," said Stewart.

Stanton Coach Stuart Beckwith was pleased with the outcome of his girls' first-round scores. "Everybody shot well; Kelly Glaspie is not playing her best, but she has carried us up until this tournament.

"Overall I think the girls are playing their hearts out," said Beckwith.

Second round action began this morning boys play. Tee-off time for the girls will be at 11:30 A.M.

Howard College hires men's basketball coach

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Howard College has a new men's basketball coach. At the Howard College Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday, it was announced that Steve Green has been named the new coach.

Green becomes the sixth Howard coach in as many years. The Howard job became vacant when Jerry Kassin rendered his resignation last week. Kassin coached the Hawks to a 12-17 record, including a 7-9 conference mark and a fifth place finish.

Previous Howard coaches in the past six seasons were Harold Wilder, Mike Mitchell, Ed Sparling, Larry Brown and Kassin.

The 34-year-old Green comes to Howard College from the University of Houston, where he served under coach Pat Foster. Green also coached under Foster at Lamar University, where he stayed six years.

Green grew up in Miami, Okla. He attended Oklahoma Christian College where he played guard on the basketball team. Green graduated in 1977.

His first two years, Green coached at Welch High School in his home state. From there he got a job at the University of Arkansas under coach Eddie Sutton, now at the University of Kentucky.

After a season at Arkansas, Green went to Lamar University in Beaumont. There he stayed until Foster got the head coaching job at the University of Houston. Green was at UoH for two seasons.

"This is a great opportunity and I'm anxious to get started," said the 10-year coaching veteran. It's fun and exciting to be in charge of my own team. "I had a lot of great experiences coaching on the major college level. I don't think coaching junior college will be any more challenging. The challenges will be different though, and hopefully the reward will be greater," said Green.

Green said he is familiar with this area because he's done lots of recruiting here. In fact, he's been scouting talent in this area the last eight years, he said. "This conference (Western Junior College Athletic Conference) has a reputation as being one of the best. That's why so many players get recruited from this league."

"I want to play a fullcourt, up-tempo game. We'll press, be very aggressive on the defensive end. We'll apply as much offensive pressure as we can. Most of the players today come from the city and are used to up-tempo play. Junior college ball is primed for that type of play. I wouldn't mind leading the nation in scoring."

Green says he will take a look at Howard's returning players, but added that he is already on the recruiting trail. The new Howard coach hasn't named an assistant coach yet.

Former Howard assistant Joe Huber has taken a coaching job in Delaware.

Hawks set school record

LUBBOCK — The Howard College Hawks set a school record for victories in a season as they swept a doubleheader from Lubbock Christian University in Tuesday afternoon baseball action.

With their 10-3, 4-2 wins, Howard now has a 40-11 record. It's the first time in the school's history that the baseball team has won 40 games.

HOWARD 10, LCU 3
The Hawks jumped out to a 6-0 lead after the first two innings of play and never looked back. Howard also got strong pitching performances from Garth Buresh and Ted Hebert. Bursch started, went three innings, allowed three hits and two runs. Howard assistant coach Greg Henry said that Hebert picked up the win by hurling the last four innings. He allowed three hits and one run.

Chuck King was the losing pitcher for LCU. He went the distance.

In the first inning Howard scored a run when Jose Rubiera scored on a single by designated hitter Darren Glenn.

In the second inning Kenny Frederick walked and was forced out on second on a grounder by Joey Camarillo. Jay Williams

Tubb ousted in quarterfinals

BROWNWOOD — Big Spring freshman tennis player Rocky Tubb was eliminated in the quarterfinals of singles play at the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament.

Tubb qualified by winning the District 2-4A singles championship. Tubb was defeated by Crowley's Sean Cobb 6-3, 6-4. Tubb won his first round match 6-2, 6-0, against Fort Worth Brewer's Mark Lucero.

Sands hires girls hoop coach

ACKERLY — Sands High School has hired Allan Wayne Wootan, former head basketball coach at Pecos, to replace the departing girls' basketball coach Wes Overton.

Overton moves to a post at McCamey. Wootan who has coached for 16 years, teaches all-levels of health physical education classes and has a secondary specialty in art, according to Sands School Superintendent James Blake.

Also taking a teaching post with the Sands district will be Wootan's wife, Judy, in the elementary school. They have three children, Robin, Andrew and Valerie.

Wootan is a graduate of Midland Lee High School and Odessa College and he attended Southwestern State in Oklahoma.

Wootan is a veteran of 16 years in coaching.

Cancer delayed linkster's return

AUSTIN (AP) — When most pro golfers turn 50, they immediately join the PGA Senior Tour.

George Knudson did not. He could not. He was fighting for his life in a battle with cancer.

The treatments were a success and the soft-spoken Canadian, nearing 51, will make his first start on golf's senior circuit this week in the $650,000 Legends of Golf.

"There's still a way to go yet," Knudson said before a practice round for the best-ball tournament that begins Thursday. "But at least I have the treatment behind me. And I can't tell you how much of a relief that is."

Knudson, long regarded by his peers as one of the great ball-strikers in the game, hasn't played competitively since he left the regular tour in 1980 and took a club job in Canada.

And he won't be playing with the seniors on a regular basis for some time.

"Just this one for now," Knudson said. "They don't want me to get too excited just yet, and they don't want me to get fatigued."

"I've committed for three tournaments in September. We'll just have to see how it goes after that," said Knudson, who will have Johnny Pott as his partner in the chase for a $150,000 first prize.

The tournament, with 30 two-man teams, actually is two competitions in one.

Twenty teams are competing in the Legends, with a $500,000 purse to be distributed. The other 10 play in the Legendary Champions section, for players 60 and over, with a $150,000 purse.

It may be too little, too late; but the Big Spring Steers are on a tear on the baseball diamond. Tuesday afternoon, the Steers won their fourth consecutive District 2-4A game, downing the Snyder Tigers 8-6 at Steer Field.

The win leaves coach John Velasquez's team three games behind frontrunners Andrews and Monahans, who sport 10-1 records. Pecos is second with an 8-3 mark. There are three games left and Big Spring has to play Monahans, Andrews and Pecos. Pecos has to play Andrews and Monahans.

"I know it sounds ridiculous but we've still got a chance," said Velasquez. "But everything has to fall just right. The main thing is we've got to win all our games."

For a while it looked like the Tigers might end the Steers' hopes of reaching the state playoffs. But the arm and bat of Aaron Allen didn't let his team falter.

Allen, a senior left-hander, was a force on the mound and at the plate. He picked up the win, going the distance and firing a four-hitter.

His only problem was control, walking eight Tigers. When he had his control he was deadly, mixing up his pitches well.

He said the home plate umpire frustrated him with a small strike zone.

"Usually the strike zone is at the bottom of the letters (on the jersey) to the knees. This guy (umpire) had a very tight strike zone. He wasn't giving me any low pitches, and it's hard for me to throw a low ball with a lot of speed," said Allen.

When he wasn't walking Tigers, Allen made life rough for the hitters. He finished the game with 12 strikeouts.

The big lefty also made life rough for Snyder pitcher Lee Fletcher, as did the rest of the Steers. Big Spring managed 10 hits in the game.

"We've been playing better defense lately and we hit the ball well today," said Velasquez. "We went out there and hit the ball instead of trying to get walks like those guys. I wasn't worried about Aaron getting tired. He's a strong pitcher. But I was worried about him hurting his arm. He threw about 160 pitches today, when he usually throws 95-100."

Allen collected almost half of the Steer hits. He hit four singles in four trips to the plate. He drove in a run in the first and second innings, and two more runs in the sixth inning.

His hit in the sixth scored the winning runs, breaking a 6-6 deadlock. Allen rocketed a base hit to center field that skipped through Snyder centerfielder Tracy Braziel's legs. Allen ended up on third and Felix Rodriguez and Michael Hilario scored.

Rodriguez, who went two-for-three at the plate, started the inning off with a walk. Rodriguez stole second, one of six Steer steals in the game. Hilario then followed with a walk, setting the stage for Allen's game-winning hit.

"They had been pitching me outside all day," said Allen. "That last pitch was the only pitch that wasn't outside. Then I thought they were trying to pitch me inside because I had been hitting the outside pitch. The pitch was high, right down the middle. I was lucky I made it to third because I don't run that well," he laughed.

Snyder led 1-0 after the first inning when Allen walked four batters, forcing in leadoff hitter Randy Morris.

Big Spring started strong by scoring three first inning runs on four hits. Felix Rodriguez singled and Hilario reached on an error by

Got a few million? — Cowboys for sale

BOSTON (AP) — Published reports say the Dallas Cowboys are for sale, but a team official says today it's nothing new and he believes the National Football League franchise would consider reasonable offers.

Tex Schramm, Cowboys president and general manager, told The Associated Press that team majority owner H.R. "Bum" Bright has had an open mind to a possible sale.

"They (owners) will listen. Bright has always said anything he has is for sale except his wife and family," said Schramm from his Dallas home. "He would certainly consider that."

In today's editions, The Boston Globe said it learned from reliable NFL sources that the franchise is for sale.

The brief report by staff reporter Will McDonough said

Bright, who headed a group that bought the team in 1984, has come upon hard times financially in the last two years and is trying to sell his controlling interest in the team, and in Texas Stadium.

Bright did not immediately return calls placed today by The AP.

The Cowboys had their worst year in attendance at Texas Stadium last year, when fans soured on the team after the 24-day players strike, and the team reportedly lost several million dollars, the newspaper said.

"I have nothing to add to that; that is obviously Bright's situation," Schramm said. "This is absolutely nothing new. That statement has been made and speculation has been around for a long time. There is nothing new to that story."

Blue Grass Stakes offers glance at Derby hopefuls

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "This is one of the preps for the Queen's Plate," Pat Collins said, smiling broadly.

"I was joking," he said Wednesday. "I'd like to come back here."

Collins is at Keeneland Race Course with Granacus, his entry for Thursday's Blue Grass Stakes. The Canadian-bred colt is an outsider in the nine-horse field, but another Canadian-bred, Regal Classic, is the early 6-5 favorite for the 1 1/4-mile Grade I stakes.

The second choice is Cougarized, a 4-1 choice trained by D. Wayne Lukas.

Both Collins and Jim Day, the trainer of Regal Classic, are pointing their colts to Canada's premier race, the Queen's Plate at Woodbine in July, but first there are some other races they'd like to try.

One of them is the Kentucky Derby on May 7 at Churchill Downs in Louisville.

"If he runs well here, he'll go to the Derby," Day said of Regal Classic, who will be making only his second start this year after earning $812,500 as a 2-year-old on a record of four wins, three seconds and one third in eight starts.

"If not, we'll regroup and our goal could be the Preakness or the Jersey Derby. If he runs well, we are going to the Derby," Collins said.

Regal Classic has to run well enough to impress his trainer to get to the Derby. However, Granacus probably will have to run well enough to win Thursday in order to earn a trip to Louisville should Churchill Downs have to invoke the rule that limits the Derby to 20 starters based on money earned in grade stakes.

If nine start, the Blue Grass will be worth $293,625, with $190,856 to the winner. Second will be worth $58,725.

Granacus has earned $105,868 with two wins, two seconds and a third in 12 career starts, but his graded-stakes earnings are only $38,351. Most of that came from a third-place finish in the Tropical Park Derby, won by Digress.

As of Wednesday, Stalwars, not entered in the Blue Grass, was 20th among Derby candidates with $110,565 on a graded money-earnings list compiled by Churchill Downs. Regal Classic was fourth with $561,660.

Regal Classic's debut as a 3-year-old came April 13 at Keeneland when he finished second by a neck to Posen in a 1 1/16-mile race on the grass. That performance looks good in light of Posen's victory in the Forerunner, a graded stakes, in his next start.

Day planned to race Regal Classic only twice before the Derby, but he wanted the starts farther apart. His schedule was upset when Regal Classic was knocked out of training for a time by a virus.

Rowell is biggest winner during Coahoma banquet

COAHOMA — What a night senior Matt Rowell had here Tuesday as the Coahoma High School All-Sports banquet unfolded.

Rowell was named most valuable player in boys' track, boys' golf, football and shared the basketball award with teammate James White.

By the time the all-around best honors were announced, Rowell's name was no surprise to the approximately 350 people gathered in Coahoma's Elementary Cafetorium.

Tennis honors for most improved boys went to Keith Burnett and David Molina, with Kristy Carlile and Kim Wellborn taking the most-improved award for girls. Tara Robertson and Cam Tovias earned MVP status.

Dividing the program honors for most valuable player in girls' sports were golfer Sue Sanders and hard-court standouts Shonna Drewery and Nancy Hardison. Drewery took the most valuable player honors in varsity ball; Hardison snagged the girls' track MVP award.

Fighting heart awards in track went to Melinda Leblanc and Roman Padrone; in basketball to Jo Hudson and Anthony Hernandez and in football to Gene Hector. Outstanding defensive player was Anthony Hernandez and outstanding offensive players were Matt Rowell and Donnie Page.

James White and Marray Maddox won the $250 scholarships sponsored by the booster club for boys' athletics, while Hudson and Hardison took home the girls' scholarship awards.

Fan of the year for 1987-88 was Jean Wynn, chosen by a vote of the Coahoma student body.

UIL Panel recommends letting varsity players attend camp

AUSTIN (AP) — A committee charged with analyzing University Interscholastic League rules recommended Tuesday that summer sports camps be opened to varsity athletes in team sports.

Currently, varsity baseball and soccer athletes in high school may attend camps to improve their skills but football, basketball and volleyball players may not.

The proposed camp rules included certain restrictions and were among several recommended by the committee of superintendents and principals.

UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney said school coaches could not work with their own students except they could instruct incoming seventh-, eighth- and ninth-graders at school facilities for no longer than six consecutive days.

A student coming into those grades also could attend separate six-day camps in more than one sport.

The cutoff date for summer instruction would be Aug. 1, and attendance would be voluntary.

The committee proposed a prohibition against contact in football summer camps, as well as the wearing of contact equipment such as shoulder pads.

"Essentially what we're doing, philosophically, is trying to reach some sort of consistency across the board for all five team sports by allowing any student who wants to go to camp," Farney said.

The committee also voted to allow coaches to keep progress charts on athletes, using weight rooms during the summer, but said attendance could not be required as a prerequisite to playing a specific sport.

Farney said, however, "We've got to come back and refine this."

The Committee to Analyze Consistency of Rules Among Programs was created last year by the UIL Legislative Council, which would decide in October whether to put any recommended changes on a 1989 statewide ballot for UIL schools.

Freddie Rodriguez had the other hit in the inning. Freddie, the freshman brother of Felix, was starting his first game of the season after moving up from the junior varsity. He didn't make an error in three tries at the shortstop position.

Snyder took a 4-3 lead in the top of the second. Allen walked two batters and Morris singled, loading the bases for second baseman Van Echols. Echols bounced Allen's offering off the center field fence for a triple, scoring Morris, Braziel and Burt Otto.

Big Spring tied the game at 4-4 in the bottom half of the inning. Felix Rodriguez singled, stole second, and scored on Allen's single.

In the bottom of the third the Steers scored twice. Chris Crownover walked, and pinch runner Ray Darden stole second. Darden scored on Jason Phillips' double that skipped over third base.

Phillips scored when Mike Calvio hit a bloop double to center field.

The scrappy Tigers answered with a run in the fourth. Echols walked, and first baseman David Martinez scored him with a double off the center field fence.

In the fourth Rubiera scored when he walked, and crossed home on an LCU error.

The final three Howard runs came in the sixth inning.

Howard loaded the bases when King issued walks to Geraldo Camara, Deal and Glenn. Camara and designated runner Spyhalski scored on Jody Allen's single. Glenn scored the final run off an LCU error.

Rubiera, Glenn and Williams all had two hits each for Howard.

The Steers went down quietly in the bottom half of the inning. But Allen came through in the bottom of the sixth, propelling Big Spring to its seventh district win in 11 tries.

HOWARD 4, LCU 2
The Hawks scored all their runs in the first inning and got strong pitching from Al Benavides, Allen and Greg Kroeger.

Benavides picked up his 11th win of the season. He hurled the first three innings and gave up one hit and no runs. Allen went two innings, allowed one hit and no runs. Kroeger finished up and gave up one hit and two runs.

Howard started the game bunting. Spyhalski's drag bunt down the first base line was a hit. Rubiera followed with a safe drag bunt down the third base line.

Castro walked, loading the bases for Deal. The Howard catcher singled, scoring Spyhalski with the first run of the game. Glenn continued a big RBI series by smashing a double, scoring Rubiera, Castro and Camarillo, who was running for Deal.

LCU scored two runs in the sixth inning, but it wasn't enough to keep the Hawks from their 40th win.

Canadiens ousted by Bruins

By The Associated Press
The long-suffering Boston Bruins made short work of the Montreal Canadiens in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Ending 45 years of frustration against Montreal, the Bruins knocked the highly regarded Canadiens out of the playoffs with a 4-1 decision Tuesday night in the Adams Division final.

That wrapped up the series in five games and lifted a burden from the Bruins, who had lost 18 straight playoff series against Montreal going back to 1943. The Bruins overall have only beaten the Canadiens three times in 23 Stanley Cup matchups.

"I've spent so much time losing in this building," said Steve Kasper, who scored two goals along with Cam Neely at the Montreal Forum to key the Boston attack. "It's no fun when you have to leave and your friends are waiting outside for you, and you have to make excuses for what happened."

The Bruins will play the winner of the Patrick Division final between the New Jersey Devils and Washington Capitals. The Devils took a 3-2 lead in that series with a 3-1 victory Tuesday night.

The playoffs continue tonight with St. Louis visiting Detroit in the Norris Division final. The winner of that series will play in the Campbell Conference final against Edmonton, which won the Smythe in four straight over Calgary.

Boston took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Kasper and Neely, and with goaltender Rejean Lemelin turning aside 28 shots, the Bruins never faltered. It was the first time that Montreal had made such an early exit in a best-of-seven series since 1963.

Kasper, who was born and raised only a few miles from the Montreal Forum, delivered a crushing blow with a goal that stretched the margin to 3-0 at the midway mark of the second period.

When John Kordic scored just over four minutes later for Montreal, it produced a frenzied attack by the Canadiens. But Lemelin, who yielded only five goals in the last four games of the series, weathered the storm.

Neely, with his fifth playoff goal, gave the Bruins some added breathing room at 4:06 of the third period, when he lifted the puck high over fallen Montreal goaltender Patrick Roy.

"I'm not too worried about history," Neely said. "We didn't even think about such a thing as a jinx in the dressing room. It was just the press that got us tired of hearing about it because they constantly reminded us."

Montreal Ryan Walter gave full marks to the Bruins.

"They played solid hockey in all five games," he said. "There's no doubt that Lemelin was hot, and obviously a hot goaltender is very important in the playoffs. But I was surprised they shut us down the way they did."

Devils 3, Capitals 1

At Landover, Md., Kirk Muller scored two goals and Bob Sauve stopped 28 shots to lead New Jersey's victory over Washington. The Devils can wrap up the Patrick title with a victory at home in Game 6 on Thursday night.

Sauve recorded his second playoff victory in as many starts this year for the Devils. Rookie Sean Burke, the sensation from the Canadian Olympic team, has started New Jersey's nine other playoff games.

For Muller, the goals were his first in 11 playoff games after he set a franchise record for most points during the regular season with 94.

"I felt I had the most confidence I've had since the playoffs started," Muller said. "I had a talk with (coach) Jim (Schoenfeld) last night and he said he felt I was going to break out of this. I just came with a lot more confidence."

Sauve stopped Washington's first 20 shots before Mike Ridley scored with 9:36 remaining in the game.

Muller scored in the first and third periods, while Tom Kurvers had a second-period goal for New Jersey against Clint Malarchuk, whose career playoff record dropped to 0-6.

"He's a great guy to have," Schoenfeld said of Sauve. "He gives us the ability not to use him a lot and then count on him when we do."

Blues-Red Wings
In tonight's game in Detroit, the Red Wings have a chance to wrap up a second straight division title. The Red Wings lead the best-of-7 Norris final 3-1 and have a good record over the Blues at home, where they are 5-0-1 this year including the playoffs.

Only five teams have rallied from a 3-1 deficit to win a Stanley Cup series. But, it happened twice last season and once already this season when Washington eliminated Philadelphia in the Patrick semifinals.

Last season, Detroit rallied from a 3-1 deficit to get past Toronto.

Texas teams ready

DALLAS (AP) — If Robert Reid is right, Thursday night's NBA playoff clash between his Houston Rockets and the Dallas Mavericks has got to be one of the most important games either team will play this season.

"It all comes down to Game 1," the Houston guard said. "If you can win that one, you've got the other team on the run."

The two teams have met six times during the regular season with the Mavericks holding a 4-2 advantage. Dallas even broke a seven-game losing streak at Houston's Summit, where they have now won two consecutive games.

Dallas coach John MacLeod says defense and rebounding kept the Mavericks in the thick of the NBA's Midwest Division race until the final week of the season.

"I don't know how many times our defense and our rebounding bailed us out," MacLeod said. "There were a lot of times when if we didn't get that kind of effort, we would have lost."

"We did an excellent job with our defense for most of the season until the last month or so, but I can see us getting back to that level of play in the playoffs," MacLeod said.

The Mavericks have a distinct advantage in the series because they hold the home-court advantage, meaning if the series is extended to five games, three of them will be at Reunion Arena, where they were 33-8 for the season. One of those losses, however, was a 108-92 loss to Houston back on Jan. 30.

Houston's Reid is quick to point out that this series is special since it matches two Texas teams.

New Mexico coach resigns

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico Athletic Director John Koenig wasted little time initiating the search for a basketball coach to take over a program blessed with unshakable fan support but still starving for national recognition.

Within an hour of Gary Colson's resignation announcement Tuesday, Koenig told reporters he had a list of 23 candidates from around the country for the vacant coaching job.

"I made my first two phone calls this afternoon," Koenig said. "I hope it won't take long."

Koenig said there would be no search committee to find a successor to Colson. Instead, Koenig will do most of the looking.

"Because of the nature of the position, and the timing, I will be searching initially myself," he said.

The "position" that Koenig referred to is easily one of the most visible in New Mexico, where sports fans view basketball with the same degree of mania that Texans and Oklahomans follow football.

For the past 22 years, New Mexico has ranked among the top 10 nationally in attendance and the program generates well over $1 million in annual revenues. Lobo teams have drawn close to six million fans during that span, despite New Mexico not appearing in the NCAA Tournament since 1978.

It is the latter statistic that Colson's critics most frequently mentioned, and which Koenig indicated played a role in the decision to change court-side leadership.

"Building on Gary's accomplishments, I believe that the future of the UNM basketball program is bright," said Koenig.

What Colson accomplished during his eight-year tenure translated into a record of 146-106, five straight bids to the National Invitation Tournament and respectability for a program almost destroyed by a recruiting scandal in 1979.

At a news conference to announce his resignation, Colson broke down several times, eventually cutting short his efforts to read a prepared statement.

"I am proud of my years at UNM — the best years of my coaching career," Colson said. "In 1980, my staff and I were called upon to bring respectability back to UNM basketball. With the support of the fans and the school, we accomplished this."

But Colson, 53, also cited "a basic difference of opinion regarding my ability to lead the UNM basketball program to the next level of success."

Koenig also said there were differences between himself and Colson during discussions this week on Colson's contract, which had two years remaining.

Koenig said Colson will receive a minimum of $177,000 for the two remaining years on his contract.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your public image will be as important as your personal achievements. Concentrate on developing new lines of communication and acquiring a more conservative wardrobe. Passion continues to play a strong role in a relationship. You find ways to help children become happier and more responsible. College tuition funds will be found. A timely investment could provide benefits for the rest of your life. Wise money management is the key to long-term security.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: comic Jay Leno, playwright Robert Anderson, entertainer Ann-Margret, 5th President James Monroe, actor Jack Nicholson.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Delve beneath the surface. Share your plans with a loved one who needs reassurance. Disregard the rumors you hear. The financial picture improves when you handle your own affairs. Stand firm.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Check reservations and routes before traveling. Last-minute changes can be frustrating. Make a special effort to cultivate new business contacts. Changing your diet could give you a new lease on life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An excellent day for improving the value of your property. Better nutrition will help you feel stronger. Stop trying so hard with a new relationship. It takes two to tango.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your charisma serves you well in business. Take advantage of it! If neighbors provide supervision for your children, remember to return the favor. Channel your creativity into an art project. Fame beckons!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Give prior commitments precedence over last-minute whims. Underscore your personality and improve your appearance. Expert financial advice could prove helpful. Seek out professionals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial affairs are in the spotlight today. Move quickly when a rare opportunity arises. It may be hard to please everyone, including yourself. Use a firm but loving approach with offspring.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Double-check all your work. Domestic life benefits from shrewd handling of joint funds. Any kind of adventure suits your fancy. Limit spending on entertainment. Romance thrives on considerate gestures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A legal matter will be resolved in your favor. Children's activities, creative endeavors and romantic attachments enjoy favorable influences. You are confident. Go out of your way to help others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Resist an urge to gamble. A celebration for your friends or family requires your presence. Romance looks exciting. You could lose your heart to a comparative stranger. Do not promise too much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The key to greater success is adaptability. Self-improvement activities make others take notice of you. A promotion is near. Do not slack off at work. Diplomacy helps you mend a relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Child-related activities could bring you extra profits. Take a risk and start your own business. A dazzling new relationship is not what it appears. Keep some mystery in romance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Avoid getting stuck in the middle of a no-win situation. Refuse to give away information without proper remuneration. Overseas travel opens up new avenues of income and romance. Guard your passport.

Rep. Stenholm says 'no chance' he will support Bush

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, said there is no chance, "none whatsoever," that he will support Republican Vice President George Bush for president. He said the likely Democratic candidate for president will be either Jesse Jackson or Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"I think we're down to those two," Stenholm said. "I continue to plead with our party to give us a ticket we can win with but I'm not very excited," he said. If Dukakis or Jackson is nominated, Stenholm stressed he would not cross over to support Bush. The conservative Democrat also revealed he has met Dukakis only one time and has not formed a strong opinion of the governor. "I really do not know Mike Dukakis. His congressional supporters have tried to get us together and we only made it once, and I would like to know a little more about him, visit with him a little more on his energy policy,"

Stenholm said. "I hope that after we get through the primary season, there will be an opportunity to have some input from the energy and agricultural and rural community, to find something there that would give me a little more enthusiasm. And if so, I could become committed. Right now, I'm not really," he said.

Stenholm has been selected as a "super delegate" to the Democratic National convention. He'll probably remain uncommitted to a presidential candidate until the convention because "our party nominating process has taken us so far to the left."

going to be the choices" for the Democratic presidential nomination," said Stenholm. "I think that's as clear as a sign on the side of barn that it's going to be hard for us to get excited." However, Stenholm repeated he would support the Democratic candidate once a final choice is made.

Mrs. John Poe celebrates century mark in Stanton

By PEGGY LUXTON
Cap Rock Electric Cooperatives, Inc.
In this country in 1888, the Civil War had been over but three years. The Sooners had just a few years earlier dashed into Oklahoma, where land taken from the Indians was up for grabs to the settlers. The Pony Express was in its infancy.

During this tumultuous era of U.S. history, Betty Barker was born in Franklin County, Texas, to Alex and Belle Johnson Barker. Her birthdate was April 21, 1888. In 1988, Betty Barker Poe celebrated her 100th birthday in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church in Stanton. As neither her husband nor any of her three children are still living, she was joined in her birthday celebration by her six grandchildren, her 10 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild, as well as many friends. Betty Barker married John N. Poe on November 11, 1908. The couple lived in Franklin County until 1919, when they moved to Fisher County. They resided in Fisher County until 1924, at which time they moved to Stanton.

When John and Betty Poe moved to Stanton, they bought several farms in partnership with a Mr. Pollack. The farms were located north of town, between Stanton and Lenora. The Poes never lived on the farms. Instead, the farm lands were rented out and the Poes resided in Stanton. The Poes had three children. They were Gladys Marie, Gerald

Mac and J. D. John died in 1951. Betty Poe lived in almost the same spot in Stanton most of her life, in a house on Second Street. In 1947, she and John tore down this house and built a new one on the corner of Second and St. Peter Streets. Mrs. Poe has been a resident of the Stanton Care Center for the last three years. She doesn't get out much these days. She's been confined to a wheelchair since falling five years ago and breaking a hip. But one's hundredth birthday is a very special occasion, and Betty Poe held court for her progeny as she celebrated a century of living.

Plans made to complete work on windows at local convent

The Convent Foundation Board of Directors met Thursday night in the Commissioners Courtroom with Miles Tollison, chairman, conducting a fast paced meeting with several decisions made. Bob Deavenport will chair a committee handling memorial contributions. Memorials can be made by contacting the County Judge's Office, or by mailing it to Box 1435,

Stanton, Texas. Acknowledgment cards will be sent. Serving on the committee with Deavenport are Shelby Barley, Steve Walton and Gwen Sawyer. It was announced that a memorial was received in memory of Mary Madelen Daily Denson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Daily, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schaly, who came to Marienfeld from Prussia in 1883. Mary Denson attended Our Lady of Mercy Academy (the Convent) for two or three years around 1913 - 1915. The tax-exempt status of the Foundation was discussed. Director Steve Herm, local CPA, volunteered to prepare and file the appropriate forms with the IRS.

It was announced that the roof on the Convent had now been completed and that an additional $5,000 was needed to retire the indebtedness on this part of the project. The board authorized securing a loan for this amount. Plans were made to complete work on the upstairs windows to complete the weathering-in project. James McGilvray and Deavenport were to work on this. Several fund raisers were discussed with Todd Smith heading up plans for a softball tournament. A benefit roping was discussed for later in the summer, along with discussion on setting a ladies luncheon and fashion show for the spring of 89. The next Board of Directors for the Convent Foundation will be May 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Convent. Directors present at the meeting were Shelby Barley, Kathryn Burch, Morgan Cox, Bob Deavenport, Steve Herm, James McGilvray, Dan Saunders, Gwen Sawyer, Todd Smith, Miles Tollison, Lora Bell Tom, Gary Walton, and Steve Walton.

Stanton athletes are ready for Big Spring regional

A contingent of Stanton High School athletes will be competing in the Region I-AA meet set for this week in Big Spring. Both the boys and girls golf teams were in action Tuesday, with the second day of play set on the Comanche Trail course on Wednesday. The boys' teams is paced by district medalist Greg Avery, with Brad Holland, Skip Hopkins, Doug Carder, and Darren Patrick rounding out the top five.

The girls team of Kelli Glaspie, Kaki Elmore, Tricia Gonzales, Cheryl Stewart, and Kristi Fryar will be playing on the same days. Miss Glaspie was district medalist. The two top teams and medalists will advance to the state finals. SHS sophomore David Mendez, the SHS tennis representative, will have first round play on Friday morning. The tennis tournament runs through Saturday.

In track action, the 3200 meter run will proceed running prelims at 6:30 p.m. on Friday. Field events will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday, with running finals on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. Kodi Newman will lead the Stanton track squads having qualified in both the 100 and 200 meters. For the boys team Robert Jones will compete in the long jump, Kevin Barnes in the 800 meters, and hurdler Anthony Inman in the 300 meter intermediates. The boys track squad participated in a regional qualifiers meet at Kermit on Friday. Jones posted a personal best of 22'3" in the long jump, while Barnes had a 2:03.76 in the 800 meters for a fifth place finish. Inman took second in the hurdles with a 40.11 time. The meet included entries from AA, AAA, AAAA, and AAAAA schools.

Joshua Vidal posted a 11.38. The sprint relay had a 44.54 time for fourth. Regional alternate Eddie Jordan had a 11.27 in the 100 meters, while

Correction

When we goof, we REALLY goof. The Stanton Herald last week published the liabilities and equity of the Stanton National Bank under the assets of the First National Bank's report of condition to the comptroller of the currency Southwestern District. And, of course, the same errors appeared under the heading of the First National Bank. These were bad, bad mistakes and we apologize. The corrected bank reports are published on pages 2 and 5 of today's Stanton Herald.

TDA predator management training schedule

By GREG JONES
County Extension Agent/Ag
Martin County

The Texas Department of Agriculture today announced a scheduled for its predator management training program.

Training sessions to be held in April and May are to include instructions on proper identification of causes of predation, proper use of the livestock protection collar, safe handling techniques, emergency first aid treatment.

Also recordkeeping and reporting requirements, and approved methods of predator control including non-lethal means.

The collars, used to control coyotes, which prey on sheep and goats, contain a restricted-use pesticide, sodium fluoroacetate (compound 1080), which requires special certification and training for use.

M-44 sodium cyanide applicator training will also be included in the 6-hour training sessions.

The schedule and sites selected for training sessions pending final approval of the Texas certification and training program by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are:

Thursday, April 28, Sanderson, Community Bldg. (adjacent to Terrell County Courthouse).

Tuesday, May 3, Uvalde, Texas A&M Agriculture Research & Extension Center, 1619 Garner Field Road

Wednesday, May 4, Rocksprings,

District Courtroom, Edwards County Courthouse.

Thursday, May 5, Brady, McCulloch Electric Cooperative, U.S. Hwy. 190 East (1 mi.)

Thursday, May 12, Fredericksburg, Gillespie County Fairgrounds, State Hwy. 16 South.

Tuesday, May 17, Lubbock, Texas A&M Agriculture Research & Extension Center, U.S. Hwy. 87 North (7-1/2 mi. N.)

Monday, May 23, Goldthwaite, Goldthwaite Civic Center, 1103 Cline Street, (sign on U.S. Hwy. 183)

All sessions will begin at 9 a.m. and will conclude at about 4 p.m. The written test for Livestock Protection Collar applicators will be given at the end of the session.

Persons wanting to attend a training session can reserve space by calling TDA toll free at 1-800-835-5832 and asking for extension 0013. The reservation system will also allow DA to give notification of rescheduling if EPA final approval is delayed.

"In order to obtain a non-commercial applicator license to use the collar, a person must complete the training, score 70 or above on the prescribed test and obtain a license.

A $20 testing fee must be collected before a person may take the test (two opportunities to pass the test are allowed without retraining). The annual license fee is $50 for a non-commercial applicator's license.

For a commercial applicator license, a person must complete the training, pass the test, provide proof of financial responsibility and pay an annual license fee of $150," said Murray Walton, TDA's Predator Management Specialist.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is assisting DA in training sessions. Also, to help livestock producers prepare for the test, the Extension Service has a limited number of copies of the publications Applicator Manual for Compound 1080 in Livestock Protection Collars and Using the M-44 in Coyote Control. To obtain one free copy of these publications along with use restrictions and TDA rules, write to: Extension Wildlife and

Fisheries
Room 111, Nagle Hall
Texas A&M University College Station, Texas 77843

Please specify that you want the Livestock Protection Collar training materials. TDA asks that only those planning to seek certification ask for these materials so that those with an actual need can be supplied these materials in a timely manner.

The Extension Service also has for sale at $5.00 per copy an excellent publication entitled Procedures for Evaluating Predation on Livestock and Wildlife. TDA recommends that all livestock producers concerned with predation problems also acquire a copy of this publication.

County Treasurer Howard attends annual seminar

COLLEGE STATION — H.D. Howard, Martin County Treasurer, joined some 200 other elected officials for the 16th Annual County Treasurers' Seminar at Texas A&M University, April 18-21.

The program is designed to educate county treasurers on a wide range of responsibilities to include investments, cash management, record keeping, reporting and disbursements of county funds.

Participation in this seminar enables county treasurers to achieve and maintain certification as required by state law.

The seminar commenced with a legislative hearing on April 18. Members of the House Committee on County Affairs heard testimony from numerous county officials on issues affecting the office of county treasurer. The interim charges of this House Committee include possible reorganization of the structure of county government and the possible abolition of the county treasurer's office.

Howard stated, "I feel that the chief financial officer for the county should be an elective official. Where the auditor becomes the chief financial officer, he is appointed by the district judge, and is further removed from the voters and answers to the judiciary and not the executive branch (Commissioners Court)".

County treasurers who successfully complete the four-day training receive twenty (20) hours of continuing education credits from Texas A&M University. The annual seminar is one of the educational programs sponsored by the V. G. Young Institute of County Government, a part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Stanton Evening Lions Club elect new officers

The Stanton Evening Lions Club met at Bonnie's Restaurant, April 18, for their regular meeting. After an evening meal, Debbie Weaver, Pam Tollison, and Jo Coggins brought a drug awareness program to the club. The program included students that are in kindergarten through third grade. These students were video taped and the tape was entered into regional competition. Out of one hundred and four entries the tape placed first.

New officers were elected for next year. President of the club will be Kevin Pittman, first vice-president will be Lester Baker, with Johnny Gonzales serving as second vice-president, and Steve Garlington to be third vice-president.

Other officers include Bob Deavenport, secretary - treasurer;

Chuch Elmore, tail twister; and Terry Haggard, Lion Tammer. Keep'em chairman is to be Butch Haggard. He will be assisted by Billy Powell and Selan Canada.

Rounding out the slate of officers were Jarrell Hedrick, song leader and reporter; Bill Young, chaplin and Eddie Crow, assistant chaplin. The board directors include Nestor Hernandez, Ulen North, Steve Edwards and Eddie Crow.

Saturday, April 23, the club met at the courthouse at 8:30 a.m. The members then participated along with thousands of other Texans in the Don't Mess With Texas campaign to pick up trash on Texas Highways.

The Evening Lions worked from 8:30 to 10 and picked up 40 bags of trash. Twelve Lions participated in this project.

Chris Cox wins third place in WTC government competition

SNYDER — Chris Cox from Grady High School won third place in the U.S. Government competition at the Western Texas College Social Sciences contest held Thursday, April 21, in Snyder.

Ten area high school competed in the contests, an annual event at WTC. Grady competed in Division II along with Highland, Hermleigh, Abernathy, Crosbyton and Spur.

Medals were presented to the first, second and third place winners in each of the five contests. The top ranking senior in each contest received a $200 scholarship to WTC.

Cap Rock Connection

By PEGGY LUXTON
 Member Information Advisor

It's irrigation and kite-flying time in West Texas. This is the time of year when most accidents involving electrical lines and poles occur. More people are outdoors this time of year and more people are in close proximity to power lines.

Kite-flying is a form of recreation that is enjoyed by many youngsters during this season. But if a careful study is not made of the area in which the kids are going to fly the kites, what starts out as a fun outing can end in tragedy.

A paper kite and string may look innocent and safe, but if a kite becomes entangled in a power line, the kite and anything touching it may become extremely dangerous.

To fly a kite safely, an adult may be needed to decide on a safe area, well away from any power lines. Weather is also an important consideration. Kites should never be flown during any type of storm. Only kite string should be used with the kite, with no substitutions of any other materials. Wire or metal should never be used on a kite.

During irrigation time, metal irrigation pipes lifted into overhead wires are the cause of many deaths yearly. When moving irrigation pipe, always look up first. A wet field can make the danger even greater.

Raising sailboat masts or TV or Jam radio antennas also may constitute a dangerous activity. Before raising an antenna, make sure there are no power lines nearby. Think about what the antenna might contact should it fall. Look up before raising any antenna. Make sure a sailboat has cleared all power lines on shore before raising the mast.

Transmission and distribution lines are not insulated. They are bare wires from which there is no protection should there be contact. It is imperative that you make certain there is no possibility of contact before you begin any of those activities that abound this time of year.

VAMC offers respite care

The Veterans Administration Medical Center, Big Spring, now offers a Respite Care Program for veterans, according to Conrad Alexander, Medical Center Director.

This program is established to provide a period of rest for families and care givers who have been caring for chronically ill, terminally ill, or disabled veterans at home.

To participate in this program, the veteran must have received treatment at the Big Spring VAMC within the last year, need only basic nursing care, be medically stable, and have been cared for at home for at least 30 consecutive days. To offer this service to the largest number of veterans, respite care visits are limited to 7-14 days at a time. The total number of days per year veterans may utilize this service is 28 days.

Applications will be made to a screening committee which will negotiate with the caregiver to establish appropriate admission and discharge dates. Admission and discharge will be planned to occur Monday through Friday, according to Alexander.

Initially, there will be two beds, reserved for the program. Additional beds will be considered as the program progresses. The caregiver will be responsible for arranging the veteran's transportation to and from the medical center but will not be responsible for any of the veteran's care during the period of respite stay. As it is a period of rest for the caregiver, limited visitation is encouraged during respite stay.

For further information, contact Francis Montague, RN, Nursing Home Care Unit Supervisor, at (915) 263-7361 extension 257, or John Webb, Chief of Social Work Service, at (915) 263-7361 extension 340.

Cotton 'perishable' from workers standpoint

 County Extension Agent/Ag
 Martin County

As far as seasonal agricultural workers and employers of such workers are concerned, cotton is a "perishable commodity."

That ruling was made recently by a U.S. district judge in Lubbock. The judge ruled that "cotton is a fruit and thus within the ambit of the term 'fruits and vegetables of every kind.'

This ruling means that under the provisions of the Immigration and Reform Act of 1986, seasonal agricultural workers (SAW) engaged in producing and harvesting cotton for 90 mandays during the period May 1, 1985 through May 1, 1986, are eligible for the legalization process.

Previous rulings by the U.S. Department of Agriculture had excluded cotton as an eligible crop under the SAW provisions.

Persons who are eligible for legalization under the SAW provisions have only until December 1, 1988, to make application.

Home loan plan revised

Legislation recently signed by President Reagan has made sweeping changes in the Veterans Administration's Home Loan Guaranty Program, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Thomas K. Turnage has announced.

The Veterans' Home Loan Program Improvements and Property Rehabilitation Act revised the calculations for determining the amount of the loan guaranteed by the VA. Previously, the maximum VA-guaranty on a conventional home loan was $27,500. Under the new law, for loans of $45,000 or less, 50 percent of the loan is guaranteed, up to a maximum of $36,000, but not less than $22,500. The changes apply to any loan closed on or after Feb. 1, 1988, unless a guaranty commitment was made on or before Dec. 31, 1987.

In addition, the new law reinstated the one percent funding fee on VA-backed home loans, effective Dec. 21, 1987, through Sept. 30, 1989.

Editorial/opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here's a sampling of editorial opinions from around the state.

Drug war will be strange legacy

One of the most surprising aspects of the Reagan administration is that it has lost the war on drugs. Despite all of the talk and all of the money spent, the results of the administration's assault on narcotics trafficking have been dismal. Cocaine shipments into the United States have soared during Reagan's presidency and the number of drug users in the United States remains near its all-time peak. That will be one of the strangest legacies of his time in the White House. The Daily Astorian, Astoria, Ore.

Speakes' admission not surprising

Former White House press officer Larry Speakes' admission that he attempted to "spruce up the president's image by taking a bit of liberty with my PR man's license" has created an uproar, and no wonder. The statements Speakes attributed to President Reagan — one lifted from the lips of Secretary of State George Shultz and one fabricated by Speakes — were fairly innocuous in and of themselves. But the practice — if it had become routine, and we have only Speakes' word suggesting that it didn't — could have led to all sorts of unintended difficulties. That's especially so in foreign affairs, where the president's spokesman could, by putting the wrong spin on a statement, easily create mistaken, even damaging impressions. The wonder of it all is that the president was ignorant of what was going on, or, if he wasn't, that he acquiesced in the deception. But, either way, it would fit an all too familiar pattern in this White House. Atlanta Constitution.

Spokesmen's veracity imperative

Larry Speakes is a distinguished Mississippi son, and the whole state will grieve with him over his bad fortune in this flap over manufactured (presidential) quotes. ... Spokesmen lived for years under intense pressure in the demanding role of White House spokesman, under constant questioning by the press, before the eyes of the world, and he didn't make a serious blunder. ... In (his) book Speakes said that he was "clearly wrong" to have created the quote(s) but said his intention was to "spruce up the president's image by taking a bit of liberty with the P.R. man's license." Of course, that's precisely that the Washington press corps accuses White House spokesmen of doing. It also is precisely what Speakes, when he was press secretary, denied he was doing. Truthfulness then, now and in the future must be the goal of White House spokesmen. When a spokesman's credibility is damaged, he loses his usefulness. The Greenwood (Miss.) Commonwealth

Afghan treaty step toward peace

The significance of the Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan after more than eight years of war is not lost on, but probably won't be advertised by, Democratic leaders of Congress. Defeat of the Soviet Union is directly linked to the Reagan doctrine's commitment of military support to insurgents who take on communist regimes around the globe. The fighting between opposing Afghan factions likely will continue in order to establish a new Islamic government. An independent, non-aligned government in Kabul must remain the objective of American policy. Although it may not result in peace immediately, the accord signed in Geneva last week was interpreted as a step toward peace. The Joplin (Mo.) Globe

Administration testimony valid?

Was Reagan administration testimony on the INF treaty banning intermediate-range nuclear forces "authoritative" and binding on future administrations? Curiously enough, Reagan officials find themselves arguing vociferously that it was not — that Senate efforts to give their interpretations permanence amount to a legislative assault on executive prerogatives. ... What brought this issue to the fore is a persistent Reagan effort to discard Nixon administration testimony on the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty and to offer a broader interpretation that would permit space-based testing of the Strategic Defense Initiative. Last year Congress turned to its power of the purse to cut off funds for tests that Nixon testimony would bar. But Reagan officials have returned to the fray, even if it means putting the INF treaty and the coming summit at risk. ... We believe an administration that negotiates a treaty should offer testimony that the Senate can rely upon in giving its assent to ratification. The Baltimore Sun

Speakes probably isn't the first

So, a former White House press secretary has been caught in the act. Scandalous! Other press secretaries, past and present, have decried (Larry) Speakes' actions and stated flatly that they would have nothing to do with such behavior. The vehemence of their protest almost makes one wonder if they might have something to hide. Speakes was merely telling the press what the president thought in a way that the president never objected to. He probably was wrong to represent some of those views as verbatim quotes, but it wasn't as if he was misrepresenting the president's opinion on the issues. It's doubtful that Speakes was the first press secretary to fabricate some golden quotations for the president. Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World

Improving writing skills discussed by committee

The High School Campus Improvement Plan Committee met March 24 at lunch. Those present were parents: Mrs. Patricia Wilson, Mrs. Lois Jenkins, Mr. Hector Hernandez; students: Robert Jones, Randy Esparza, Greg Avery, Kathryn Elmore; teachers: Randal Redder, Suzanne Herricks, Pat Pruitt, Marsha Todd.

Bill Young, principal, and Mrs. Jan Wallace, Region XVIII Consultant, moderated the meeting. The group reviewed the work from preceding meetings and set the meeting focus on enhancing student achievement. A discussion was held on effective teaching of study skills. Several suggestions by parents and the teachers present were made concerning activities, and the students gave input on their view of the best activities.

Another area discussed was improving writing skills. The students briefly reviewed the results of their survey of writing in the content area. The teachers discussed various types of assignments that could be incorporated in the curriculum.

All of the ladies for activities and strategies were noted and the committee assigned Mrs. Todd and Young to write them on forms and submit them to the members by mail prior to the next meeting so the material could be reviewed and ready for discussion.

Larned to keynote SHS Athletic Banquet

Jerry Larned, former coach and president of a Midland firm, will be keynote speaker at the Stanton High School Athletic Banquet to be held Monday, May 2, at Cap Rock Electric Co-op Auditorium.

SHS Athletic Director Dole Ruth said top performers in football, basketball, track, tennis and golf will be presented awards at the annual event.

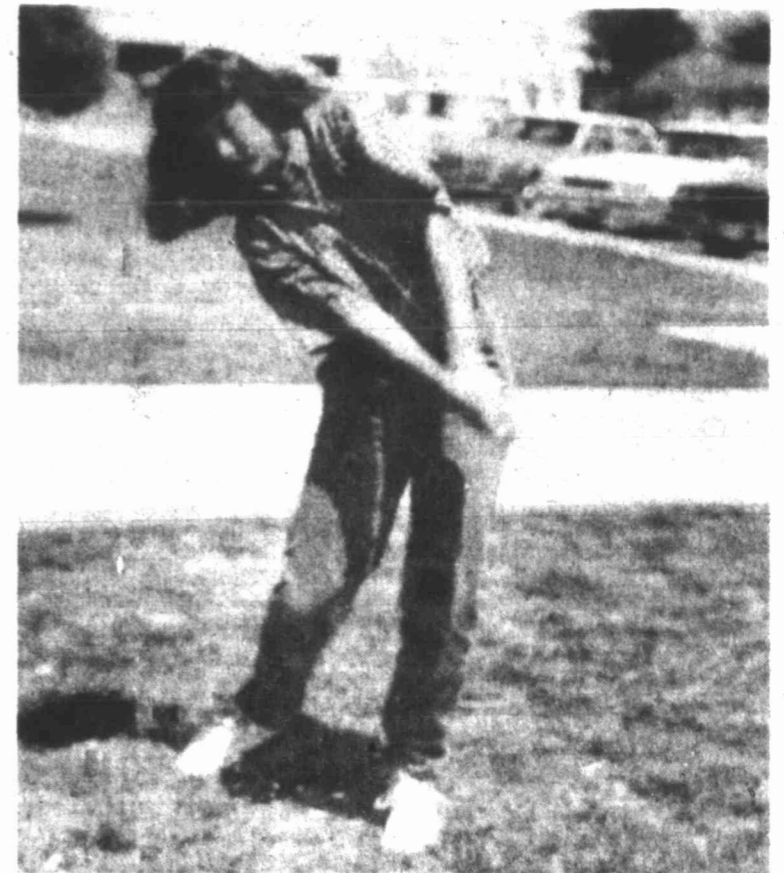

Coaching honors garnered by Larned include West Texas Coach of the Year: 1967, '73, '74 and '76. He was South Plains Coach of the Year in 1974, director of Texas High School Coaches Association in 1973, '73 and '75, member of Texas Panhandle Football Hall of Fame and Distinguished Service Award from Texas High School Coaches Association in 1987. A graduate of Haskell High School, Larned earned a bachelor of science degree from North Texas State University and a master's degree from Sul Ross State University.

He lives in Midland, where he is president and partner of Kent Lubrication Centers, which operates several lube centers in Central and West Texas.

Larned recently served as superintendent of schools in Monahans.

The former football coach for 18 years at both the high school and university level where he compiled a record of 125 wins, 54 losses and eight ties.

Start now to control cotton seedling disease in '88

Greg Jones
County Extension Agent/Ag
Martin County

Many cotton growers were hit hard by seedling disease in the spring of 1987. Now is the time for growers to plan strategies which will help combat this problem in 1988.

This disease is caused by an assortment of soil fungi. They may occur separately or in combinations. The most important fungi in this complex are Rhizoctonia solani, Pythium spp., Fusarium spp. and Thielaviopsis basicola. Symptoms include decay of the seed before germination, decay of the seedling on the way to the soil surface, partial or complete girdling of the emerged seedling at or near the soil surface, and rotting of seedling root tips. Although there are some subtle differences between the symptoms caused by the different fungi, all the general symptoms can be caused by each fungus alone.

Growers can readily recognize losses from fungal damage that causes partial to complete loss of stand. These include immediate costs of replanting, growing season time (heat units), soil moisture and the precision planned to integrate all production procedures.

Losses not readily recognized are those that result from seedling root rot. One of the more drastic delayed effects results from a girdling lesion on the taproot. The taproot dies below the girdle and is seldom replaced. The plant will develop shallow lateral roots that will serve it well until it is stressed by moisture or heat.

Such a plant may suffer or die from lack of water in midsummer heat even though soil moisture is adequate at a lower depth for plants with a normal tap root system.

Several practices reduce losses to seedling disease. The first of these is rotation. Cotton followed by cotton will build up populations of seedling disease fungi in the soil. Fields should be rotated out of cotton as often as possible. Sometimes, problem fields can be identified and rotated out of cotton more often or for a longer time than others.

The second line of defense is seed quality. The characteristics of quality seed include good germination, good vigor, low free fatty acids and originating from a fully matured crop. Quality seed will emerge from the soil more quickly and develop secondary roots faster, therefore being vulnerable to fungal infection for a shorter period of time.

The third step is reducing seedling disease loss in timely planting. Unusually warm weather early in the season and less than adequate equipment to plant quickly later often entice growers to plant earlier than they should.

Even good quality seed shouldn't be planted until the 10-day average soil temperature at the eight-inch depth is 65 degrees Fahrenheit. If a grower consistently runs into seedling disease problems and doesn't have good quality seed, it will be better to delay planting until soil temperatures are closer to 70 degrees.

This delay isn't always practical and in some years doesn't solve the problem. Good early stands can be severely damaged by seedling disease if cold, wet weather develops later in the season. Probably the most underrated seedling disease control practice is the use of seed fungicide treatments. Seed treatments are used, however most of the seed on the South Plains is treated with only a single chemical.

Approximately 60 percent of the South Plains seed is treated with only captan. Pythium is the primary fungus controlled by captan. The chemical has no effect on the other seedling disease fungi. Two or three chemical combinations in which each material is effective on a different seedling disease fungus will provide much better control. There are several combinations of materials being used by the seed treatment industry.

Growers who are confused should keep in mind these general guidelines. Pythium is controlled by captan, Thiram, Nusan, Apron and Nu-flow ND. Rhizoctonia is controlled by Vitavax, Demosa, Nu-flow ND and Nu-zone. Thielaviopsis is controlled by Nu-zone.

Growers are encouraged to try double or triple fungicide seed treatments. Those who are concerned by the increased cost should remember that seedling rates can usually be reduced with good seedling disease control, so this additional cost can be recovered.

Pecos cotton tester

We may pick a paper bag full of cotton at one time

Jaroy Moore wants to build a cotton gin, but he doesn't expect to gin many modules from Reeves County farms.

In fact, the small gin, to be located in a loft at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Station west of Pecos, will only be used to gin samples.

"We may pick a paper bag full of cotton at one time," Moore said. "We'll gin it here instead of carrying it to Lubbock to find out about cotton."

Samples of cotton grown on sample plots are ginned to determine how much lint per acre a particular variety yields, Moore said.

"We pick the cotton and weigh it with the seed and trash," he said. "Then we gin it, weigh the lint and multiply the percentage by the beginning weight and convert it back to get the per-acre yield."

Data on the results are published and made available for anyone interested in that variety of cotton, Moore said.

Cotton is the primary crop grown on the 500-acre farm that is being developed on the new research station site.

Moore and his staff of five are installing irrigation systems on the 125 acres under the cultivation this year.

They will use regular furrow irrigation, and are looking at various types of drip systems and a modified sprinkler.

The modified sprinkler system, called Low Energy Precision Application (LEPA), has drop tubes on 80-inch centers that apply water right at ground level, Moore said.

Although some systems travel across the field, the research center uses one that travels in a small circle.

"This system was developed by the people at the Lubbock center," Moore said.

"We'll experiment with various types of drip systems," he said. "We're looking at 15 different systems."

Drip systems operate at three depths, he said. One lies on the surface, another is buried eight inches deep, and a third is buried 12 inches deep.

"Some are put on every row and some every other row," he said.

Water pressure and the size and spacing of emitters controls the amount of water deposited at each location.

"We used different size emitters because what we wanted to do in this study was to be able to turn on the entire system and put essentially the same amount of water along the entire field," Moore said.

Each plot has 10 rows, Moore said, and the flow rate can be controlled by changing the pressure.

On experiments with irrigation systems, only one variety of cotton is used "so we don't further complicate the procedure," Moore said.

Although they are studying cotton because it is the primary crop in this area, the results would be applicable to other crops, he said.

"Methods of irrigation are continually changing," Moore said. "We learn new ways to do things. The major obstacle with trickle irrigation is that it is too expensive for most field crops."

One acre requires 13,068 feet on line on 40-inch centers he said.

"There are some inexpensive type systems that probably have a short lifetime," he said, but most cost from $1,000 to $1,200 per acre.

Another complication is the problem of plowing up a line buried only eight inches deep. Those buried deeper won't wet the surface to germinate seed, he said.

"We're trying to develop one that can be buried deep but still wet the surface," he said.

County Speed Zone Hearing

The Commissioners Court of Martin County will conduct a hearing to consider establishing a 35 mile per hour speed limit on certain county roads as described below:

Lenora Area:
Beginning at the point where Sections 33, 34, 39, and 40 out of T 2-N, Block 36, T&P RR Survey adjoin; north for a distance of 1,584 feet; east for 2,640 feet; south to State Highway 176 and south from State Highway 176 for 1,584 feet; and west to State Highway 176 and extending west from State Highway 176 for 1,584 feet.

Maxson Sub-Division:
In Section 22, Block 37, T 1-S, T&P RR Survey, the county road extending westerly from the north-south county road lying between Sections 22 and 23, for 4,224 feet and thence northerly for 3,168 feet to the north end of this road. Millhollen Lane, Mulberry Lane, Tumbleweed Lane, and Road to City Landfill Area:

In Section 18, Block 35, T 1-S, T&P RR Survey, the entire length of Mulberry Lane from the IS-20 service road north to the end of the road and Tumbleweed Lane east from Mulberry to Millhollen Lane; Millhollen Lane north from the IS 20 service road to the intersection of Sections 12, 13, 7 and 18 and from this point east on the county road lying between sections 7 and 18 and 8 and 17 to the City Landfill.

Southwest of the intersection of State Highways 137 and 176:
The east-west county road lying between Section 38 and 47, T 2-N, Block 36, T&P RR Survey; east from State Highway 137 for a distance of 3,432 feet.

Tarzan Area:
The north-south county road on the half section line of Section 19, Block 37, T&P RR Survey, from State Highway 176 south for 2,112 feet.

West Side Addition:
In Section 15, Block 36, T 1-S, T&P RR Survey, the east-west road in this addition, and northerly extension from the east-west road to the IS 20 service road, and the southerly extension of this road to Highway 80.

This hearing will be held in the Commissioners Courtroom on Monday, May 9, 1988, at 10:00 a.m. Citizens are urged to appear at this hearing, or to submit comments to the office of the County Judge prior to the hearing.

Southwestern Bell seeks support of Texas' minority-owned firms

What do a custodial service, a construction company and an advertising specialty business have in common?

All are independent businesses owned by minorities and women that provide products and services to Southwestern Bell Telephone in Texas. These firms, and 3,500 others, accounted for more than $18 million in sales to Southwestern Bell in Texas last year.

These Texas businesses joined with scores of other minority vendors from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas in 1987 to provide more than $30 million in products and services to Southwestern Bell offices in the company's five-state region.

And Southwestern Bell is working to expand its contacts with businesses operated by minorities and women. "We are eager to find additional businesses capable of providing the company with quality products and services," said Darlene Gifford, Area Manager Public Relations.

Ms. Gifford said that Southwestern Bell seeks out the businesses through its Minority/Women's Business Enterprise Program (MWBE), launched in 1976.

Beef Referendum

By GREG JONES
County Extension Agent/Ag
Martin County

Following instructions when voting in the upcoming Beef Referendum is important, particularly regarding absentee voting.

Voting in the referendum will take place in county Extension offices during normal business hours on May 10, points out Greg Jones, County Extension Agent for Martin County.

However, producers and beef importers who are unable to vote in person may request an absentee ballot from Dr. Milo Shult, Beef Referendum State Extension Coordinator, System Building 105A, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tx. 77843; telephone: 409-845-7907.

Absentee ballots will be available through April 29 and must be marked and returned to the county Extension office serving the county of voter residence by the close of business on May 3.

When requesting an absentee ballot, an individual must provide his or her name or name of company if voting for a business, mailing address, telephone number and county of residence or the county where the business headquarters is located.

Once the absentee ballot is received, it's important to read the accompanying instructions and to follow them properly, Jones emphasizes. The absentee voter must return the ballot to the county Extension office in the county of residence or locations of business headquarters. The ballot must be in the special envelope that is provided and the voter must put his or her name and address on the outside of that envelope. Failure to follow these procedures will make the vote invalid.

Eligible voters are all producers and importers of cattle who owned or acquired cattle, beef or beef products during the period of October 1, 1986, through May 31, 1988. This includes 4-H, FFA and other youth who owned cattle during the designated period of time.

Ballots will be counted by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The ASCS also will determine eligibility of challenged voters and ballots, and report referendum results.

Rustling moves from range

The trail ended on a dusty road at a log house on a ranchette.

The owner, arrested without incident and brought to the Johnson County Jail, told how officers how simple it was to truck off livestock from subdivided and unattended range, said Jim Tuck, the cattle raisers association inspector who tracked him down.

Meet the suburban rustler. With a pickup, a gooseneck trailer, a portable pen, a bag of feed and a good dog, a cattle thief can drive onto a small ranch — or ranchette — load up four or five head and be out in 10 minutes, said Johnson County Sheriff Eddy Boggs. The nearest livestock auction could be less than an hour away.

The TSCRA says almost $4.5 million worth of livestock and ranch equipment were stolen in 1987, a 320-percent increase since 1979.

There are no accurate statistics on suburban rustling. But Don King, the association's secretary-general manager, said as a result of rising prices for cattle, saddles and horses, "the incidence of these thefts in metropolitan areas is increasing."

In one case, it took five months of methodical investigation, searching through sale barn records, scanning computer files, checking brands, taking depositions and scraping livestock trailer paint from corral gates.

The owner, arrested without incident and brought to the Johnson County Jail, told how officers how simple it was to truck off livestock from subdivided and unattended range, said Jim Tuck, the cattle raisers association inspector who tracked him down.

First-time suburban rustlers often are behind on their house, credit card and pickup payments and steal livestock out of desperation, said Larry Gray of Graham, an association field inspector.

Some thieves may steal livestock to raise money for drug habits, said Tuck, who like Gray is a former Fort Worth police officer.

Drug-related cattle thefts have increased 70 percent to 75 percent during the past two years, said Tuck, one of 32 association field inspectors. Field inspectors carry special Texas Rangers commissions.

While an urban burglar might be lucky to get 20 cents on the dollar from a fence for videocassette recorders or jewelry, the suburban rustler can receive full market value for purloined beef, Tuck said, because it is difficult at an auction to quickly determine whether livestock has been stolen.

Boggs puts the blame for the proliferation of suburban rustlers on a surge of drug abuse in rural and semirural areas.

In Johnson County, which includes Burleson and Cleburne — both within commuting distance to Fort Worth — the population has leapt from 60,000 to 100,000 since 1980, he said. A number of newcomers buy one to 15-acre ranchettes with room for a horse and a few head of cattle.

"There is a certain amount of Western romanticism to it," the sheriff said.

While some weekend ranchers once lived on a farm or ranch, they might now live in town and depend on a neighbor to look after their livestock.

A thief can spot an unattended homestead from the road, Tuck said. Some owners don't realize that their cattle are missing for days or weeks.

then there are those who make the investigator's job more difficult by refusing to have their cattle branded.

"They think it hurts too much," said Jody Henderson, special assistant to King.

There is no law in Texas requiring branding, and designs used are exclusive only within a single county.

MRS. RANDAL KELLY
Formerly Sandra Lynn Clubine

Clubine-Kelly

Sandra Lynn Clubine and Randal Gene Kelly exchanged wedding vows April 16, 1988 in double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. at Como Christian Chapel, with Don Hicks and James Diamond, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Clubine, Cumby, Tx.

Bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Joyce Ellis, Stanton.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, and was escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of white bridal satin and imported Venise lace.

The high neckline, edged in Venise lace, was outlined in good pearls and sequins with a pearl drop medallion on the sheer yoke of French illusion.

The dress featured Bishop sleeves, which taper to points at the wrists. The full skirt was decorated with Venise lace medallions scattered along the hemline and accented with a large bow at the waist in the back.

The semi-cathedral train is edged in hand-cut lace, outlined in sequins and seed pearls. The bride wore a fingertip veil, which falls from a pearl crown.

She carried a bouquet of blue and white silk roses accented with lace and pearls. She also carried the Bible that her mother carried at her wedding.

Matron of honor was Marji

Bridesmaid was Tammy Paul, Campbell.

Best man was Tim Watson, Greenville. Groomsman was Mark Simpson, Greenville.

Ushers and candlelighters were Paul Clubine, bride's brother, Lewisville; and Phillip Hicks, Como.

House party members were Jeana Hicks and Clara Smith, Como; Glenda Burkhardt, bride's aunt, Omaha, Neb.

As the bride and bridegroom left the church, they each presented their new mother-in-law with a rose.

The floral arrangements and decorations for the church and reception were created by Mrs. Ray (Melba) Nash, Sulpher Springs.

The bride is a graduate of Commerce High School, and Paris Junior College of Vocational Nursing.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School, and East Texas State University. He is a commissioned second lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Enterprise, Ala.

Bay KATHRYN BURCH
Each year the National Association for the Education of Young Children sponsors "The Week of the Young Child." With the majority of mothers of young children in the workforce, it's no wonder that the Association chose "quality child care" as its special theme for 1988.

One of the most difficult situations faced by parents is finding quality childcare for their young children.

Most parents know that the early years are critical for intellectual, emotional, physical and social development. Yet many of those same parents will let their choice of child care be dictated by cost or convenience of the location.

If you're serious about finding quality child care, first investigate the skills and qualifications of the caregiver. Does she have background training or degrees in child development? Does she relate well to the children? Is her day care facility registered? How long has she been in business and what do other parents think of the care provided?

Of course, health and safety conditions will be another concern. You will want to visit and inspect the facility. Is it clean and well kept? Are toys and play equipment safe? Is there adequate supervision for the number of children in day care?

You will also want to make some judgments about the type of care offered. Is there a regular routine to the child's day? Are children given nutritious and appealing meals and snacks? Do children get to play both indoors and outdoors, weather permitting? Does the program include some educational activities, such as "story time," music games or art work?

Parents can answer many of these questions by talking with potential caregivers, making observations and checking recommendations. Once a caregiver has been selected, however, your job is far from over.

Monitor the childcare situation through frequent communication with the caregiver. Make visits at different times of the day, and make some of those visits unannounced.

By being informed and concerned, parents can be a force for quality childcare.

FACTS ON CHILD CARE IN AMERICA*

- Only 10 percent of the population represents the traditional American family: father as breadwinner, mother as homemaker.

- 54 percent of the workforce is comprised of families with both spouses working — another 6 percent are single parents.

- By 1990, 12 million children under the age of 6 will need child care services.

- In 10 years, demographers forecast that three-fourths of all children will have wage-earning mothers.

- Half of all American children will spend part of their childhood in a single-parent household.

- Almost one out of three parents have difficulty finding quality child care, according to a Harris poll.

- Expensive child care and low wages bar low-income women from the workforce, despite saving $3 in welfare costs for every $1 spent on child care.

- A 1983 Census Bureau study found one in three non-working high school dropouts would work, if they had affordable child care.

- Two-parent families earning minimum wage spend more than half their income on child care.

- Child care providers' salaries average $9204/year in centers, $4420/year at home — encouraging high turnover rates and little trained help.

- No federal standards exist for child care centers — up to 70% of child care providers are not licensed even by the state.

- Of 6 million U.S. employers, about 3,000 provide child care support in some form to their work force.

- "Statistics were compiled from "Who's Minding The Children?" — Solutions for the New Workforce; Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO.

ELECTED — Wayne Mitchell, superintendent of Stanton I.S.D. is the newly-elected vice-president of National Bit — Spur and Saddle Collector's Association.

Stanton superintendent elected to national post

Wayne Mitchell was recently elected to serve as vice president of the national Bit-Spur and Saddle Collector's Association. His terms runs through June 1990.

This organization began in 1981 under the leadership of Bill Bonser from Loveland, Colo.

The purpose of the organization is to preserve history about makers of western artifacts and the work done in the past up to the present.

Membership is made up of people from almost every state in the United States and Canada. Anyone interested in becoming a member may contact Wayne Mitchell of Stanton, Texas.

Ernest Hoodenpyle from Walters, Okla., will be serving as the new president of the organization. Lee Jacobs from Colorado Springs, Colo., will be serving as secretary.

Mitchell, superintendent of Stanton I.S.D., has several spurs on display in his office along with western paintings of windmills, the old Stanton Courthouse and plaques of past accomplishments.

Mitchell has lived and served in the Stanton community for the past 15 years. He is a member of the Noon Lions Club and The First Baptist Church where he serves as a deacon and works in an Adult Sunday School Department. He is a supporter of the local museum.

His other interests are farming, and ranching and going to spur shows throughout the United States.

He is married to the former Natha McMinn from Vincent, Tex. They have two daughters, Valerie Smith of Stanton and Natalie Trampe of Sheridan, Wyo. Their one granddaughter is Savannah Cheyenne Smith.

Big bad bill with good name?

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm voted to sustain the veto of the "Civil Rights Bill" calling the legislation a bad bill with a good name.

Despite his vote against the measure the first time, and his subsequent vote to sustain President Reagan's veto, the controversial bill became law. Both the Senate and the House of Representatives voted to override the veto.

"I'm not against civil rights," Rep. Stenholm (Dem., Stamford) said, "but I am against bad bills and this is one of them. I support the basic rights which are so precious and fundamental to our democracy, but while championing some valid rights, some folks are opening the door and ushering in unnecessary and burdensome federal intervention and interference."

Fryar selected to Texas Girls All-State team

Kristi Fryar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Fryar, has recently been selected to the Texas Girls Coaches' Association All-State Basketball team. Fryar receives this honor along with other class 2A girls across the state, seven of which are from Region I.

Kristi, a senior at Stanton High School, has lettered four years in basketball. She was a member of the District 8-AA All-District team as a sophomore and of the District 6-AA Honor team as a junior. Other honors awarded during her senior year include: District 6-AA MVP, All-Crossroads, All-Region, and All-South Plains.

Fryar averaged 18.7 points per game and pulled down an average of 9.8 rebounds to lead the Stanton Lady Buffs to the Area game against Wall and to a 26-5 record.

Kristi, the first Stanton High School girl to be chosen to the TGCA All-State team, will attend Schreiner College in Kerrville on a full basketball scholarship. She intends to major in Secondary Education.

Noon Lions view film on drugs

The Noon Lions Club had three Stanton teachers as their guests on April 18. They were Jo Coggin, Debbie Weaver, and Rachel Etheridge. After some discussion they showed a video film they had made.

Several other teachers helped with the program and the making of costumes. The film was entitled "Sometimes Things Are Not What They Seem." It won first place in Region 18 in "Best Media Affair," over 104 entries.

The film will now compete with other regions in a statewide contest. It included K-3rd pupils. The Lions Club helped in the cost of the production.

Jimmy Wheeler made the announcement of the highway clean-up, which will begin 9:00 Saturday morning.

On Saturday Grady track

qualifiers were at Wall for a qualifiers meet.

Distance runner Martin Quillimaco will be competing in both the 1600 and 3200 meter races. Scott Glaze will be high jumping.

Three Grady girls qualified in the field events; Naomi Morales in the shot, Tammie Shraeder in the long jump, and Sherrie McMorries in the high jump.

Jogay Tunnell will compete in the 400 meters.

Grady's 1600 meter relay team of Tunnell, Shraeder, McMorries, and Laurie Romine will be contending for a trip to the State Meet.

Termites ready to swarm

Spring is the time when many homeowners discover they have termites because winged forms appear and swarm.

Winged termites outdoors are a natural occurrence, so usually there is no problem. But if they are found indoors, usually in a window sill, chances are good that an infestation has established in your home.

Uncontrolled, termites can cause extensive damage to wooden parts of the home.

Quite often termites and certain ants swarm at the same time, and it's important to be able to tell the difference between these two insects.

Carpenter ants swarm in the springtime and can cause some structural damage to wood. However, termites are much more destructive and require different control measures.

Termites have a broad waist while ants have a narrow, constricted waist; termite wings are the same size and shape but winged ants have a front and back pair of wings of different lengths and shape; termites have straight antennae (feelers on their heads) while ants have elbowed antennae.

Termites may be attracted to your house by dead tree limbs, stumps, old lumber and other sources of termite food, so it is advised to remove such materials. If soil is above the point where wood or brick meets the foundation, termites have easy access to your home. Anywhere that wood meets dirt (siding, wooden steps) is a potential spot for termite entry into the home.

Termites also have the ability to build mud tunnels over nonwooden structures to reach a food source. These tunnels (about 1/4-inch wide) may extend several feet up concrete surfaces. On a slab home, these may be seen on foundation concrete between soil and brick. On homes built above the ground, these tunnels can be found on piers or pipes that go from soil to structure.

The bath trap in homes built on a slab is another source of termite entry. Plumbing in this situation has contact with soil under the slab, and termite tunnels may be found in this area.

Although a thorough inspection is best done by a professional, a homeowner can make a quick check for termite infestations. If termites or damage is found, contact a local pest control company. This is one insect pest that should not be handled by a "do-it-yourselfer." Commercial pest control companies have the necessary equipment and experience to effectively rid a home of termites.

"Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin."

Proposed rules for '89 payment limitation

The omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 changed the payment limitation rules for 1989 and later years. These rules are separated into the following parts:

1. Part 1497, Payment Limitation
2. Part 1496, Foreign Persons Ineligible for Program Benefits.

A copy of the proposed payment limitation rules are available for inspection in the Martin County ASCS Office.

ASCS is requesting public comments and written comments must be received no later than May 6, 1988, in order to be assured of consideration.

Written comments on this proposed rule must be submitted to Director, Cotton Grain, and Rice Price Support Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), USDA, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, DC 20013.

Payne elected president of Stanton Study Club

The Stanton Study Club met Tuesday afternoon at the Martin County Library in observance of National Library Week with Mrs. J. O. Stuard of Snyder and Mrs. Grover Springer of Lenora as hostesses.

Mrs. Josephine Jones, president, was in charge of the meeting during which members voted to have a Book Sale to benefit the library. Anyone wishing to donate books may give them to any member of Study Club. Members present gave money toward the purchase of a new encyclopedia set.

The librarian, Mrs. Donnie Hull, gave a report of the library activities for the past year. She stated that the summer reading program would be carried on with the theme "Trail Blazers and Star Gazers." Members expressed thanks to her for the fine report and work in the library.

In her federation counselor's report, Mrs. Stanley Reid stated that the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Convention will be held in Beaumont, May 4-6.

Mrs. Irene Long, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers who were elected: Mrs. Ruby Payne, president, Mrs. Ramsey Abbott, vice-president, Mrs. Doris Hull, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Glenn L. Immediately following the closing time for receipt of bids, proposals will be publicly opened and read aloud. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

The Project consists of seal coating approximately 34,500 square yards of pavement in the City of Stanton.
A bid proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to five percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check, issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Stanton, Texas, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is hereby expressly understood and agreed that the City of Stanton, Texas, is given the right to retain such as liquidated damages if such bidder withdraws its bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official rejection of such bid, or, if successful in securing the award thereof, such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance bond and payment bond. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and acceptable to the City of Stanton, Texas.

The successful Bidder will be required to furnish a Performance Bond and a Payment Bond in the amount of the contract, if the contract is in excess of $25,000. The bonds shall be written by a responsible Surety Company authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and satisfactory to the Owner, as required by Articles 2386a and 5160, V.A.T.C.S., and all related amendments.
All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the prices in the bids, the Owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or "unbalanced") unit prices will authorize the Owner to reject the bid.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions under which the work is to be done.
The Contractor must abide by the Wage and Hour Laws of the State of Texas and must pay not less than the rates legally prescribed or as set forth in the SPECIAL PROVISIONS, whichever is higher.

Information for bidders, proposal forms, specifications and plans are on file in the office of the City Manager, Stanton, Texas, and at the office of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 5214 Thomason Drive, Midland, Texas 79705.

Copies of the Plans and Specifications may be secured from Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 5214 Thomason Drive, Midland, Texas 79705, upon a deposit of TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00) as a guarantee of the safe return of the plans and specifications. The entire deposit will be refunded, provided all documents are returned within ten days after the date for receiving bids. However, it is requested that all documents be returned prior to the bid date, for immediate refund of deposit, if they are no longer required. No refund of deposit will be made on documents returned later than thirty days after the date for receiving bids.

MEDICARE AND FOOT CARE

If you have medicare health insurance, this can help pay for any problems you may have with your feet. And the treatment doesn't have to be in a doctor's office. It can be in your home, at the hospital, or in a nursing home or extended care facility.

If you're having problems with your feet that need a doctor's care, there's no reason for you to wait for treatment. You'll only be waiting for the problem to get worse. And if you have Medicare, most of the cost will probably be covered.

Obituary

Nora Donelson

JOSHUA — Graveside services for Nora Needham Donelson, 80, of Joshua were held April 21 at 4 p.m. at Caddo Cemetery. The Rev. Glenn Bowman officiated.

Mrs. Donelson died April 19 at her home.

She was born Sept. 26, 1907 in Johnson County, the daughter of Jess Wood and Annie Catherine Kelly Needham. She married Jess L. Donelson in Cleburne, Nov. 25, 1941. He preceded her in death in 1986.

She was a retired school teacher and had been a member of the Joshua Eastern Star Chapter, having held almost all offices. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Joshua.

Survivors include one sister, Jennie Needham Moseley of Joshua; and several nieces and nephews. She is a sister-in-law of Aaron Donelson of Stanton.

Crosier-Pearson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

'Bill' Booth

Euel C. "Bill" Booth, 83, died Monday, April 18, at an Abilene hospital.

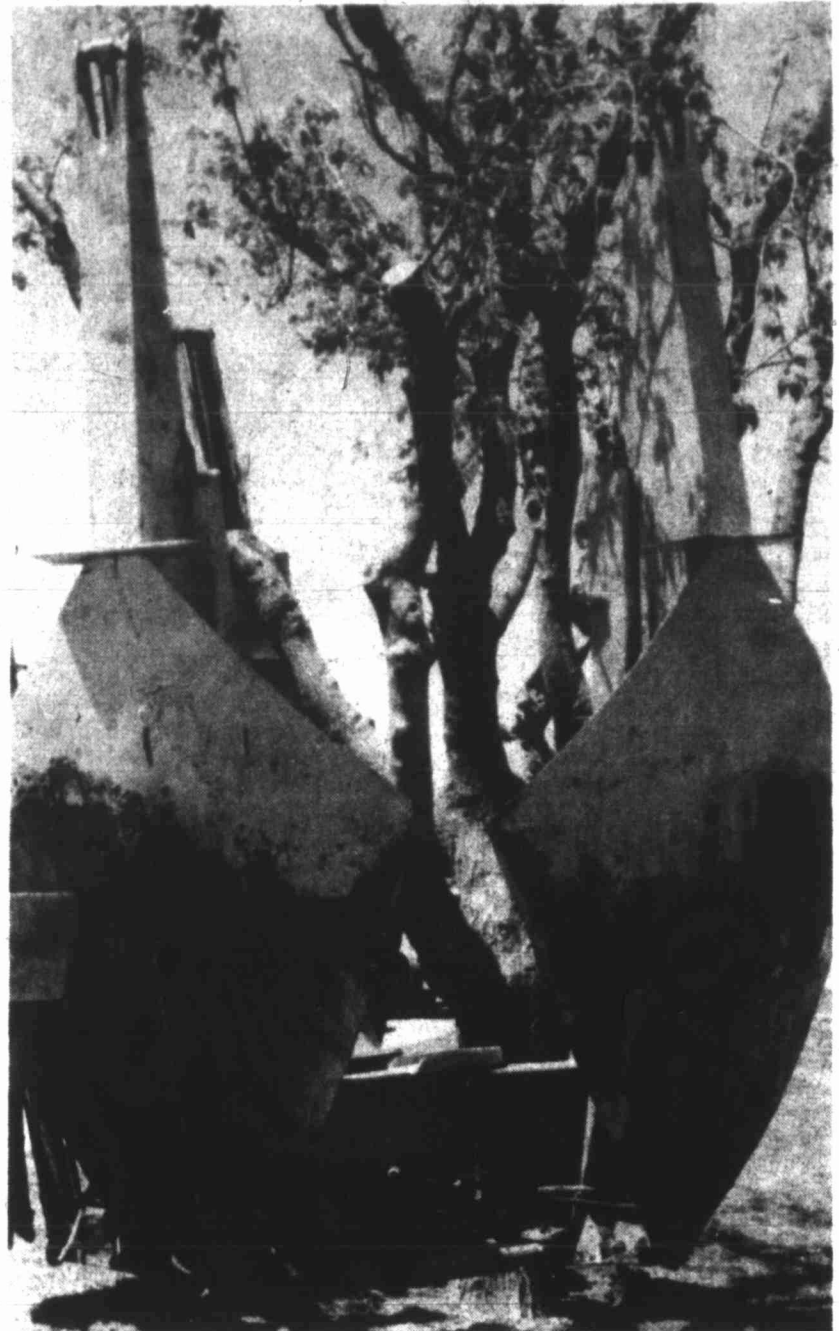

Services were at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 20, at the Parker Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Robert Sutton officiating. Burial will be in the Potosi Cemetery.

Born in Iberis, he moved to Baird in 1952.

He worked for the Abilene office of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation for many years and was a farmer.

He was a Baptist and the widower of Bonnie Allen Booth.

Survivors include five daughters, Barbara Ellison of Abilene, Sandra Beasley of Stanton, Netia Hunter of Midland and Melba Reynolds and Doris Walker, both of Baird; a son, Don Booth of Grand Prairie; 13 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; a great-great-grandchild; a niece; and a nephew.

Seven injuries in four weekend mishaps

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Seven people were injured in four traffic accidents over the weekend in Big Spring, according to police reports.

Two-year-old Roberto Perez Jr., 1601 Harding, was injured in a traffic accident on the 500 block of North Gregg Street at 9:21 p.m. Saturday.

The child was a passenger in a 1976 Cutlass Supreme driven by his father, Roberto Perez, 25. He was not treated for injuries, according to police reports.

The accident occurred when the Perez vehicle was struck by a 1971 Chevrolet Impala driven by Danny Lemon, 20, 104 N.W. Fourth St.

Lemon was cited for not having a driver's license and failure to maintain financial responsibility.

Michael Leon Chesnut, 23, 1908 Nolan St., was treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center for injuries he received in an accident at South Gregg and West 22nd streets Saturday at 11:56 p.m.

Chesnut was a passenger in a 1984 Chevrolet driven by Gary Brooks Pritchett, 28, Big Spring.

A 1977 Chevrolet, driven by David Cruz, 21, Ackerly, collided with the Pritchett vehicle, according to police reports.

Cruz was cited for failure to maintain single lane and driving while intoxicated.

Three people also were injured in a three-vehicle accident at South

Gregg and West 17th streets at 6:44 p.m. Sunday, police reports said.

Norma Claveran, 18, 1500 Robin St.; Ellen Percell, 24, 4403 Connally St.; and Angie Franco, 17, Big Spring were all reportedly injured in the accident, but did not seek medical treatment, police reports said.

The accident occurred when a 1988 Chevrolet, driven by Charles Quinton Purcell, 26, 4403 Connally St. collided with a 1982 Ford EXP driven by Claveran.

A third vehicle, a 1979 Pontiac Firebird driven by Brannon Scott Henderson, 18, 538 Westover Road, Apt. 162, was also involved in the accident, according to police reports.

Waylon McGee, 14, and Neomia Rice, 37, both of 1204 Benton St., were reportedly injured in a traffic accident at South Goliad Street and East 11th Place at 11:02 a.m. Sunday.

McGee was a passenger in a 1977 Ford LTD driven by Rice, according to police reports. McGee and Rice refused treatment, reports said.

The Rice vehicle collided with a 1980 Buick Regal driven by Timmie Hill McCormick, 78, 1518 E. 17th St.

Rice was cited for failure to maintain financial responsibility, disregarding a red light and not having a driver's license.

Pampa man critical from auto mishap

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A Pampa man is in critical condition in a Lubbock Hospital after he was injured in a one-vehicle rollover late Friday in Big Spring.

Tim Lee Frost, 25, suffered head injuries when the vehicle he was a passenger in — a Chevrolet Camaro driven Julia Wofford, 4047 Vicky St. — overturned at the corner of Randolph Drive and Wasson Road, police reports stated.

Witnesses reported that the vehicle ran a stop sign traveling at a high rate of speed when it hit the west curb on the 3000 block of Wasson Road, the report noted.

The vehicle then became airborne, traveled over a four-foot ditch and came to rest on its roof against a fence, the report added.

Wofford was wearing seat belts, but Frost wasn't, the report stated, adding that she was cited for failure to control speed.

Both were transferred to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Rural/Metro ambulance. Wofford was admitted for observation and later released, while Frost was transported by helicopter to Lubbock Methodist Hospital, a Death believed to be a suicide

The body of a man, the apparent victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, was discovered northeast of Big Spring at 10 a.m. today, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard. He was estimated to be in his 20s.

The man's body was found lying near his car south of the intersection of Midway Road and Moss Creek Lake Road, Standard said.

"The shooting was either accidental or self-inflicted," Standard said.

A handgun was found near the body, the sheriff said.

The white male has been identified, but relatives had not been notified at press time, Justice of the Peace China Long said.

"It appears to be a death caused by a self-inflicted gunshot wound. I have ordered an autopsy to verify our investigation," Long said. The victim was reported to have suffered a gunshot wound to the chest.

Pathologist Dr. Robert Rember will perform the autopsy, Long said.

Volunteers respond as dump trucks are filling

By RAY McALPIN

Special for the Herald

The dump truck is filling with discarded planks, ceiling fixtures and tattered linoleum. A 50-year-old house at 4204 Walnut St. is being transformed.

The truck divides the frantic pace of volunteers, some hammering and sawing on one side, while others taking a break sit on the other side.

Ellen Miller is among several Christmas in April workers who have earned a rest and are enjoying each other's company.

Miller cooked food for the volunteers and is quick to offer her cobbler, beans or ice tea. Some local restaurants donated hamburgers, fish, pizza and doughnuts.

Anyone who believes work can't be fun hasn't seen two of the youngest volunteers.

Speeding around adults twice their size, 12-year-old Terry Carter and 10-year-old Shane Sims are turning repairing into a game — and a learning experience.

"I don't have a long tape measure," Craig Olson tells the diligent boys, whose abundant energy gives the impression they are on the move even when standing still.

"Well, how long is that?" Carter says, pivoting to look at the activities that surround him.

"Twenty-five feet long," Olson replies.

"That's long enough," Carter says, emphasizing the "long."

He takes the measure and speeds toward the house.

Carter didn't know Shane Sims before the project began at 7:30 a.m. Saturday. They developed a friendship quickly.

"I just met him," Sims says, and "I like him."

Carter, with his hands on his hips, speaks of their teamwork proudly. "Yeah, we been measuring the roof, cuttin' and fixin'."

At 74 years of age, it's not easy standing for hours fixing broken windows panes in 80 degree heat. But Roger Miller is more concerned with his work.

"Look at this," he says, pointing a finger at the fresh putty on a window's panes. The dry wood is splitting and the glass threatens to fall out.

Most of the volunteers working on the house are not plumbers or electricians or carpenters. But their willingness to help compensates for their lack of experience.

By 1:30 p.m., workers have covered almost half of the roof with new asphalt singles. Odd-shaped pieces of sheet metal patch holes in the roof, reflecting blinding rays from the sun.

A sudden breeze is welcome, even with the dust it carries into the workers' faces.

"This house has been in a miserable state of affairs for many, many years," Olson says, standing on the walk leading to the home's front door. He is the project's coordinator, the "ramrod," he says.

He stands behind the tabled power saw, on the walk to the home's front door. He examines the activity. The house should be complete by night fall.

Police beat

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Big Spring police received reports of four thefts, a burglary, and telephone harassment.

• An employee at the Texas Farm Bureau, 1318 E. Fourth St., reported that an unknown person phoned and proposed obscene acts on the afternoon of April 15.

• A checkbook containing $1,100 in cash and 50 checks were reported stolen from Bob McNeal, Colorado, after he inadvertently left the checkbook in a shopping cart at Wal-Mart.

• An unknown amount of cash was reported stolen from 11th Place Automatic Laundry, 208 E. 11th Place.

In addition, the following arrests were made:

• Roberto Romero Flores, 32, wanted in connection with the April

7 slaying of Manuel Garcia in Big Spring, was arrested by police in Ramsey, Minn. He was transferred to Big Spring Friday, and is in custody in lieu of $100,000 bond.

• Tommy Rodriguez, 815 Creighton St., was arrested on a charge of false imprisonment and was transferred to the sheriff's department. He was released on $1,500 bond.

• Wayne Marshall, 503 Washington Blvd., was arrested at his home on traffic warrants and a charge of failure to appear.

• Samuel Aguilar, 30, 1201 Lamar St., was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on $1,000 bond.

• Complete information on three incidents was not available;

Juarez dies when pickup truck rolls

A 55-year-old Big Spring man was killed when the pickup truck in which he was riding overturned on I-20 east of Big Spring early Sunday.

Guadalupe "Pete" Juarez, 602 Abrams St., was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Willie Grant about 4 a.m. Sunday, according to Department of Public Safety reports.

Juarez was a passenger in a 1984 Ford Pickup driven by Tomas Gutierrez, 48, Big Spring. Gutierrez remained hospitalized in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center this morning, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The accident occurred about 2:40 a.m. Sunday just east of the Salem Road exit off I-20, according to reports.

The Gutierrez vehicle was traveling eastbound on I-20 at a high rate of speed when it ran off the roadway, struck the center median and overturned coming to rest on its top, reports said.

Neither Gutierrez nor Juarez was wearing seatbelts at the time of the accident, according to reports.

Proctor death to be observed

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Mayor A.C. Cotton Mize is requesting the city to observe a moment of silent prayer Tuesday at noon in memory of Christie Proctor.

Christie, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brooks and daughter of former Big Spring resident Laura Proctor, was thought to be missing for two years after her disappearance near her North Dallas home. Her remains were found in a field north of Plano April 14.

The funeral is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday at First Baptist Church.

"We want (the family) to know our thoughts and concerns are with them," Mize said. "It's been a traumatic and trying experience for the family and the city."

Computer work OK'd for check program

By SARAH LUMAN

Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners today approved a request by the hot check department to hire an outside programmer to enable the department to use equipment the county purchased a year and a half ago.

Acting county attorney Harvey Hooser told the commissioners the hot check department has suffered from duplication of efforts and has not been able to properly use its computers to track offenders' partial payments since the computer operations began in late summer.

"We've had those things over there since July or August," Hooser told the commissioners, "We have three computers basically sitting idle, and we have about nine million ledger cards."

"We do those cards by hand and then write a report once a month on the partial payments, and the computers could eliminate a lot of our time and trouble and whatnot if we had them programmed properly."

"We have been asking for this for nearly two years, and what we want now is permission to go ahead and hire someone to program the computer for us so we can use the system and eliminate the cards," Hooser said.

Commissioners verified by discussion that county tax funds would not be used. Hooser affirmed that his department would pay for the programming.

Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown asked Hooser, "What does this mean? I thought we were not responsible for the hot check department. You have made purchases without consulting us, but now that you need help you are consulting us?"

Commissioner William B. Crocker Jr. said his understanding of the program was that the county agreed to provide services of its computer and its programmer to the department two years ago to record and receipt offenders' payments by computer.

"What I understand they want now is our permission to hire someone they will pay to program the computer so they can use it," he said. "Is that correct?"

Hooser replied that all his office wanted was to get something done, and he understood that permission or clearance was needed to get the department's programmer in position at the computer to do the work.

County Judge Milton Kirby then said the matter would need to be checked with County Treasurer Dorothy Moore to ensure that the computer programmer could work at the computer without interfering with county programming.

Summoned to the meeting, Moore said there should be no problem with the proposal and she gave permission. The commissioners then approved the proposal unanimously.

A request for replacement of vehicles assigned to night duty at the sheriff's office was on the agenda. The commissioners decided to consult with Sheriff A.N. Standard before altering the budget to purchase new vehicles, since the budget allows only for $10,000 in total funding for sheriff's department vehicles. Those monies were earmarked for vehicle repairs, according to County Auditor Jackie Olson.

Commissioners approved supplying electricity to operate three central lights and two floodlights for the Tubb Pocket Park adjacent to the County Courthouse Annex.

The Downtown Steering Committee's request for the electricity mandated that the committee will furnish all installation necessary and would pay all expenses except for the electricity used in lighting the park.

Purchasing requests for county fire departments were approved. Auxiliary pumps for two trucks used by the Luther and Forsan fire departments will be purchased. A

Coahoma department was also approved, and commissioner Paul Allen said he believed that completed equipment purchases for all county departments.

Commissioner David Barr questioned whether the Knott fire department's trucks are all equipped with auxiliary pumps and Allen said he believed they were but would check on the matter.

The commissioners also voted to renew a $7,758 annual contract with Midland College for operation of the county's breath analysis equipment.

Judge Kirby said the contract will improve the county's ability to make driving-while-intoxicated arrests. The contract calls for certification and renewal training of law enforcement personnel, expert witness availability, and technical support of an Intoxilyzer apparatus through Sept. 30, 1989 including operation, supervision and maintenance.

An amendment to the agenda called for discussion of the contract.

An item discussed without being added to the agenda was the purchase of new software and/or hardware for the county's records division. The request was tabled pending information on bids.

Farmers to receive refund

Forget here and now, this is a matter of here and then. If you were a farmer in the 1970s, you're entitled to a refund for some of your fuel expenses. But you have to act before June 30, reports Don Richardson, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The refund is a result of a settlement reached by the Dept. of Energy with oil companies.

Consequently, farmers can get back about $80 or more for every 100,000 gallons of fuel used between Aug. 19, 1973 and Jan. 27, 1981, says Richardson. That equates to a little over $14 for every 100 acres of cropland in production during the seven-and-a-half year period, according to economists with the extension service.

Richardson notes that this refund should not be confused with the income tax credit for federal excise taxes on fuel.

The Dept. of Energy will base refunds on actual gallons purchased, estimated gallons used or a USDA estimate of 23.8 gallons per acre of cropland per year. An explanation of filing procedures for the refund and a simple two-page filing form can be obtained from Richardson at the Howard County Extension Office.

Military

Marine Pfc. Louis E. Perry, son of Buddy R. and Hannelore W. Perry, Snyder, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, Perry was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

A 1987 graduate of Winters High School, Winters, he joined the Marine Corps in October 1987.

Linksters geared for region

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers golf team is going to regional and coach Don Cook makes no bones about it — he isn't satisfied with just making the trip to Brownwood.

"There no doubt about it. We're going to Brownwood to qualify to go to state in Austin. We've got the team that can do it," said Cook.

Standing in the way is district foe and defending state champion Andrews. Andrews outdistanced the Steers by 34 strokes to win the District 2-4 title. Cook also said Borger is considered one of the favorites.

The Steers will be trying to rebound from a rough three weeks, which saw Andrews outshoot them by over 40 strokes in the last three district rounds.

But the team of Jeff Rhodes, Chris Sims, Wesley Fields, Chad Freeman, Michael Porch and Paul Barringer; held on to win second place by two strokes over Monahans.

The thing that has affected the Steers most in the past three weeks is weather conditions. Big Spring hasn't played well in windy conditions Cook said.

"If the wind doesn't blow, we'll play well. If there is good weather, there's no question we'll play well," said Cook. "We haven't played well in the wind; I don't know if its psychological or not.

"Out kids are not the strongest in the world. We hit good iron shots, but don't drive the ball as far. Like Chad Freeman, the wind really affects him because he's so small (5-9, 140 pounds). We may have to put rocks in his pockets on a windy day," joked Cook.

Freeman, the lone sophomore on the team, will be in a shoot-off with seniors Barringer and Porch, to see who claims the fourth and fifth positions on the team for region play. The first three spots are locked up with senior Rhodes, the fifth place medalist in district play; junior Fields, and junior Sims, the ninth place finisher in district play.

Cook said the team will shoot a practice round Tuesday in Brownwood, to decide who will man the fourth and fifth spots on the region team.

"I think the key will be how our fourth and fifth men come through," said Cook. "The top three (Rhodes, Sims, Fields) have played in a lot of tournaments — and all are consistent. The first three must shoot in the low 70's. The fourth and fifth man must shoot in the 70's. It will probably take two rounds of 300 to win." But it's really the roll of the dice, you don't know who's going to play well on a particular day."

Big Spring Steer golfer Wesley Fields watches his putt during tournament play earlier this season. Fields and the Steers will be competing in the Region 1-4A golf tournament in Brownwood Wednesday and Thursday.

Sims, a three-year letterman, has been the hottest Steer of late. He shot a 78 and 79 in his last two tournaments. Rhodes, earning his fourth varsity letter, started off fast with a five-under-par 67 in the first district round, by dipped to a 82 and 83 in the last two rounds. Fields shot a two-under-par 70 at the Western Texas College golf course in Snyder earlier this week. The Steers shot 315 overall. He feels confident of the team's chances.

"We've never been to regional and it will be a good experience. If we play well, we have a very good chance, and I think we'll play well. Personally, I'd like to shoot 75's. As a team, I think we'll have to shoot in the low 300's," said Fields. "There was no doubt in our minds that we would make regional. After last year we knew we could make it. This year it was a tough, even district."

Regional play will begin Wednesday morning with first round action. Second round play will follow Thursday morning.

Food pantry suspended

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A proposed food pantry program for Howard County's needy has been suspended, according to Irene Rodriguez of the county welfare office. "The organizing committee made a tour of the proposed building (a section of the Palmer House Hotel, 207 E. Second St.) and decided that it was not in an appropriate location," she said early today. "So, we have suspended the program until we can find an appropriate building."

Howard edges Northwood in series opener

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

The Howard College Hawks hosted the Knights from Northwood College in a Region V baseball tilt Friday afternoon at Jack Barber Field.

With the game full of power hitting and the help of a gusty West Texas wind, seven pitches went down as home runs as both teams knocked the cover off the ball, as 27 total runs scored.

Knights Rod Harris blasted the first pitch off starter Garth Buresh over the left field wall to start the fireworks and gave the visitors the early 1-0 lead.

With James Foster grounding out to third base for the first out, Mike Coulter doubled to the centerfield wall putting Coulter in scoring position.

Kevin Heritage singled leaving two Knights on base with Rich Ostapowicz coming to the plate.

He hit a blooper just over the second baseman's head and with the aid of the swerving wind, scored Coulter and Fonta Castleberry, pinchrunner for Heritage.

The Hawks sent Ernesto Castro to leadoff the first. He and teammate Jose Rubiera did not disappoint the crowd, as the pair singled to put runners in scoring position.

Geraldo Camara tripled, scoring both Castro and Rubiera cutting the Knights' lead to one.

Almost to repeat the first inning Billy Coleman opened the second with a solo homer to the delight of Northwood supporters.

With the next three batters retired, the visiting Knights led 4-2.

Howard College answered with a single by Allen, who also stole second base and scored on a double by Rubiera cutting away the Northwood lead.

In the third inning, Logan went to third on an error by the third baseman, who snagged the grounder but a wild throw to first base advanced the runner.

Heritage again doubled scoring Logan. Coach Griffin pulled lefthander Buresh and replaced him with righthander Greg Kroeger; he retired the side to stop any scoring threat.

The Hawks, behind 5-3 could muster no added scoring in the third inning.

To begin the fourth inning only one single was recorded by Coulter; the trio following went down in order.

With the score 5-3 in favor of the visiting team, Howard College put on a tremendous show of force scoring six runs in the inning started by sophomore Joey Camarillo.

Camarillo singled; he was driven home by a double hit by Castro. Rubiera doubled with Castro at third. Camara singled scoring Castro.

Deal singled up the middle to break the tie, and give Howard a 6-5 lead. Darren Glenn hit a three-run blast over the miniature Green Monster at 400 feet, giving the Hawks a 9-5 lead.

In the fifth with bases loaded freshman Greg Kroeger pitched his way out of any Knight threat by fanning one. Two popped out.

Three up and three down the visitors went; the Hawks also sent three but Glenn singled only to be left on base after Phil Longo couldn't drive him in.

Randy Deal homered and Darren Glenn scored to put the score at 13-9.

Castro grounded out and Rubiera also grounded out to give the Howard two outs and Geraldo Camara came up to the plate and on the first pitch he boomed one over the left field wall ending the thriller at 14-13.

Howard V. Crocker has been passing around the handsome greeting he and Lona received from the White House on the occasion of their 65th wedding anniversary April 21.

The card is signed by President Reagan and Nancy, and bears the seal of the United States.

"I was surprised to receive the card," Howard said. "I don't know how they knew it was our anniversary. I'm not even a Republican!"

Did you see the greetings from Big Spring on ABC's "Good Morning, America" show Thursday? Ron Brasel, chief at Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, set the scene and SWCID students signed the show's popular salute.

Dr. Raj and Dr. Nirmala Reddy are giving their son Praveen a tour of Europe as a graduation present when he receives his MD from the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio next month.

Praveen is now doing special studies at the London Hospital in England. The Reddys will join him in England for a tour of the continent, and return in time for graduation ceremonies.

Buddy Andrews is doing well at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock following quadruple bypass heart surgery, according to friends Marvin Watson and Pat Griggs who visited him this week.

Mattie Andrews had made an appointment for Buddy to see a doctor when he complained of feeling tired. He reluctantly consented and was surprised when the doctors told him surgery was needed immediately.

Former resident Ron Hise, now living in Charleston, S.C., was a passenger aboard that Piedmont Airlines commuter plane involved in a near-disaster last week. An engine blew up and knocked a six-foot gash on one side of the plane and a two-foot gash in the other side. The pilot made an emergency landing at Charlotte, W. Va.; Ron, a bit shaken, rented a car and continued on to his business appointment in Columbus, Ohio.

Ron's parents, Lynn and Mary Nell Hise, didn't hear about the episode until several days later; they were vacationing. They had visited Ron and Barbara and their only grandchild, 13-month-old Rachel, in Charleston, then went on to Washington, D. C. Enroute home, they stopped in Dallas to see Cary and Kathy Hise, who filled them in on the details.

Ron had high praise for the plane's pilot. Explosion and sudden loss of altitude notwithstanding, Ron said he just spilled a few drops of the apple juice the stewardess had just handed him.

Bob Coltrane is coaching Miss Deaf Texas for the Miss Deaf America pageant in Charleston, S.C. during the National Association for the Deaf convention July 5-9.

Miss Deaf Texas is Pamela Anderson, Austin. She is a graduate of Howard Payne University and is employed by the Texas School for the Deaf in Austin.

Big Spring residents will have their first chance to view the renovation of the Municipal Auditorium Saturday night at the performance of the U. S. Army Field Band & Soldiers Chorus.

The community owes a great debt to Dorothy Garrett for her generosity in providing a grant to make the restoration possible.

The Runnels Jr. High Band received a superior rating in a UIL Concert/Sight-reading Contest Saturday.

The band received a Division I (Superior) rating in sight-reading and a Division II (Excellent) in concert. It was the first superior rating in sight reading that the Runnels' Band has made at UIL since 1979. The judges comments about the sight reading included: "good balance sounds; good observation of the key signature; good bass line; good individual sounds; and students are very attentive."

The band performed "Pride and Glory March" by Harris, "Atlantis" by McGinty, and "Modal Song and Dance" by Del Borgo for the concert portion of the contest. Only one Division I was given out of nine bands. The Runnels' Band was one of five bands to receive a Division II.

The Runnels' Band will go to their next contest in Snyder May 14.

Les debutantes

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

On the arms of their fathers or sponsors, four young women will be presented to the black tie guests at the Big Spring Country Club Saturday evening at "Night of the Stars," the first annual benefit ball for Big Spring's symphony organizations.

The gala event, marking the introduction of the Symphony Debutante program, is sponsored by the Big Spring Symphony Association and the Big Spring Symphony Guild.

John Wilson, president of the Association, will act as master of ceremonies for the 8 p.m. formal presentation.

The ball will begin when the debutantes, who perform community service in support of the symphony organizations, and their fathers or sponsors lead the first dance.

The 1988 Symphony Debs are:

- Tami Burnsed, daughter of Joy Burnsed and the late J. R. Burnsed. She will be escorted by Thane Russey and presented by her sponsor, Roe Fulgham.

- Carey Duffy, daughter of Ralph and Virginia Jordan. Her escort is Dwayne Anderson, and she will be presented by her father.

- Heather Varley, daughter of Bob and Rejania Anderson. Escorted by Ben Casey, she will be presented by her father.

- Stephanie Marx, daughter of Franz Ferdinand Marx and Karen Marx of Dortmund, West Germany. Escorted by Ippo Tuiremo, she will be presented by her sponsor, James A. Welch.

The Symphony Debs are all seniors at Big Spring High School.

Tami, an officer of the student council, is a member of National Honor Society, Who's Who and Key Club. She is active in speech and theater and is a member of the golf team. The Evening Lions queen plans to attend Howard College and the University of Texas at Austin.

Carey is a member of the student council and National Honor Society. She is Downtown Lions queen, teaches aerobics at the Dance Gallery and works part-time at The Cottage. She plans to major in fashion design at North Texas State University.

Heather serves on the student council, is a member of Who's Who and achieved all-district status in golf. She will attend Howard College and Texas Tech, where she expects to major in architectural engineering.

Stephanie, a Rotary Exchange Student from Dortmund, West Germany, will return to Germany in June to begin her career as a travel agent. She has served on the student council and addressed area civic groups on life in West Germany.

"Night of the Stars" co-chairpersons are Pam Welch and Lisa Nicols.

There are 15 young women participating in the Big Spring Symphony Guild debutante program. They are involved in all of the Guild's activities, including the annual tour of homes, receptions after the concerts, concert ticket sales, concessions at concerts, and fund-raising activities.

Others in the program are Shanna Brasel, daughter of Bobby and Glenda Brasel; Leigh Corson, daughter of Ed and Sue Corson; Peze Edwards, daughter of Connie and Karen Edwards; Kristy Geanopoulos, daughter of Tony and Martie Geanopoulos; and Amber Logback, daughter of Sandra and Ron Logback.

Also Tara McCann, daughter of Tony and Ann McCann; Stacey Parks, daughter of Jim and Pat Parks; Shauna Richardson, daughter of Don and Sharon Richardson; Tonya Rock, daughter of Wayne and Joan Rock; Tera Sims, daughter of Terry and Jan Sims; and Tami Wise, daughter of Dan and Mardelle Wise.

Membership in the debs program is open to all sophomore, junior and senior girls in area high schools; both the girls and their mothers must be members of the Guild. To be eligible for presentation at the annual symphony ball, they must be seniors and have been active in the Symphony Guild for two years.

The program, Welch explains, was created in 1987 to promote appreciation of classical music among youth; to broaden the base of membership in symphony organizations; and to establish an annual fund-raising event.

Membership in the Guild is open to anyone in the community interested in the arts, particularly music, Welch said.

Auction to benefit American Cancer Society

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

Final preparations are being made for the "Spring Extravaganza and Auction" to benefit the Howard/Glasscock Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The event, set for April 28, at the Big Spring Country Club will begin with a wine and cheese party, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., followed by the auction, which is expected to raise $10,000, said Kay McDaniel, chairman.

"We hope to raise our goal with the help and support of our community. We want all of those who attend to know that, along with an enjoyable event, they will help to wipe out cancer in our lifetime and assist cancer patients," she said.

The American Society works to provide cancer patients with hospital equipment, and cancer information to those who request it.

"We provide the use of beds and any other cancer-related equipment for free. Anyone who needs equipment can call any board member," said Paula Talbot, president of the local unit. "We can track it down and help," she added. The purpose of the American Cancer Society is to help individuals and their families who are afflicted with the disease, Talbot said.

In addition, the ACS provides the public, as well as health professionals, with information they need to reduce cancer and its risk. A large percentage of funds raised in Texas are invested in research grants to many major hospitals and research centers in the state, McDaniel said.

Margaret Lloyd and Ramona Harris conduct service programs by visiting area schools — presenting cancer-related information to students, including a no smoking program and the dangers of chewing tobacco.

"Almost half of those who are diagnosed with cancer this year will survive. Therefore, we need more and more services to aid those patients, as well as education to prevent future cases," McDaniel said. "This is one way (the auction) we can make a donation and enjoy it."

More than $8,200 was raised last year, and the local ACS provided educational programs to 15,000 adults and youth at a cost of $41,468, McDaniel said.

Items to be auctioned are:

- Six homemade desserts, delivered over a period of one year, made by Laura McEwen.

- Wild game dinner for eight, prepared in the home of Glynda and Drew Mouton.

- Hot tub and backyard barbecue at the home of Dickie and Cinda Stanley.

- Saturday luncheon for eight, prepared by Kay McDaniel and Paula Talbot at the Talbot home.

- Personal tour of the Stacy Dam site with a champagne picnic lunch, provided by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

- Twelve-week hypno-therapy for weight loss by Dr. Wayne Bonner.

- Chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce, dinner for two and flowers for the evening on prom night.

- Claudie Patterson will decorate your Christmas tree this year.

- Breakfast on top of Scenic Mountain, prepared by Patty Horton and Francis Wheat.

BENEFIT page 2-C

Frances Wheat, left, and Katie Grimes, serve breakfast to P.W. Malone and W.T. "Windy" Miers at the top of Scenic Mountain State Park. A complete breakfast to be served on the mountain will be auctioned at the American Cancer Society benefit April 28 at the Big Spring Country Club.

Living art

Architect shapes more than ordinary buildings

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH
The phone rang one evening. It was Dr. Jack Woodall who lives across the canyon from us. He said, "Tumbleweed, Harwell Harris is in town and would like to come over and take a look at your house."
I was surprised and thrilled, but told Jack not to the visitor bring over tonight because my wife was attending a class and wouldn't be back until late.
If Harwell Harris had been here without her getting to meet him, I never would have gotten out of trouble.
"We were thinking of coming over in the morning," said Jack. And that was fine with me.
Harwell Hamilton Harris is one of the most influential architects living today. His 24-foot by 12-foot residence with glass walls built in 1935 revolutionized American architecture.

Frank Lloyd Wright called Harris "the only other great architect in America besides me." Frank Lloyd Wright himself was influenced by Harris.
The structure that caused so much attention in 1935 was called Fellowship Park House.
It was little more than a platform jutting out over a Los Angeles hillside, hovering dramatically above the drop off of land.
The roof provided wide overhangs and the walls were made of discarded sliding glass doors Harris bought for a dollar each.
The house won the 1936 House Beautiful Magazine Small

Tumbleweed Smith
House Competition, the Pittsburg Glass Institute Competition for a house under $12,000 and an Honor Award from the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.
Harris was born in Redlands, California in 1903. During his high school years he became involved with art, concentrating on sculpture.
But after seeing a house designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, he decided to become an architect.

He designed four houses for clients in 1933, his first year of practice. Not bad, considering the country was in a depression.
One of his early ideas was to put the front door as close to the center of the house as possible, utilizing a long walkway to the entrance door, often with a garden or a lily pond beside it.
Other features of Harris houses include indirect lighting and bedrooms leading off to gardens. Some of the furniture, such as couches and chests of drawers, is built-in.
Harwell Harris came to my house and stood inside the Japanese garden, clasped his hands together and said,

"Thank you for taking such good care of my house."
The house was built in 1959, one of three structures in Big Spring designed by Harris. The other two are Jack Woodall's house and St. Mary's Episcopal Church.
My family moved into the house in 1971. I don't see how we could be happier in any other place.
It has the characteristics of a Harris house: the long entranceway, the wide overhangs, plenty of floor to ceiling glass, recessed lighting, built-in furniture, patios off the bedrooms and a deck suspended over a canyon.
We consider living in the house a wonderful experience. It's like living in a piece of art.

Nalley-Pickle's Robert Moore earns awards

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Robert Moore, an employee with Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home, was a triple-award winner at recent graduation exercises from Dallas' Institute of Funeral Service.
During the February graduation at the Gaston Avenue Baptist Church in Dallas, Moore was awarded the Scholastic Achievement, Perfect Attendance and Bill Pierce awards.
The scholastic award was presented to Moore on the basis of his overall grade average of 97.3 and fourth-quarter grade point average of 4.0.
The attendance award was given for his 100 percent attendance during all four quarters of the school, and the Bill Pierce Award named Moore as the most outstanding student at the Institute.
Moore and his wife, Vernice, reside at 4211 Dixon St. They have one son, Brad, who attends Marcy Elementary School.

Donations sought to continue July 4 fireworks display

BY THE BIG SPRING AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Sarge Strickland and Carl Bradley are in charge of efforts to raise $5,000 for a July 4th fireworks show. A general call for donations from the residents of Big Spring is being made to pay for the fireworks, ordinarily part of the Summerfest program on the July 4 holiday.
Since Summerfest will not happen on July 4 this year, an effort is being made to have fireworks anyway. To make donations contact Strickland at 263-0231 or call the chamber office.
The chamber and Howard College are combining efforts to help local agencies and programs seeking funds. A Big Spring Fund Search Center is being studied and will likely be established at the Howard College Library to allow any group or individual access to the necessary information and application process to obtain funding assistance from private and corporate foundations nationwide.

A series of workshops is planned for the summer to acquaint interested organizations with the center. Jon Guthrie, of the Guthrie Institute in Austin, will conduct the workshops. These workshops will be scheduled for sometime in the summer months.
The annual Community Planning Retreat has been scheduled for Thursday, May 12, in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, from 7-9 p.m. This is the annual planning session where representatives from the many different entities of the community — city, county, schools, and industries — gather to plan for the future, review needs and assess situations to find possible solutions to some community problems.

The chamber's membership directory is being prepared again. This directory lists all members of the chamber, alphabetically and categorically. These directories are distributed to all newcomers through the chamber office, placed in the rooms of local motels, used as recruitment tools by the various hospitals, schools, industries, etc., and overall create a broad awareness of the chamber members in Big Spring. All members are listed free in the directory. The Blue Blazers are in charge of adver-

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Ailing TV, stereo, VCR, etc.? Walt repairs all electronics

"I felt there was a need in Big Spring for a shop like this," says Walt Lane, owner of Walt's Electronics Repair at 308 Benton.
Walt opened his shop about two months ago to offer repair services on TV's, radios, stereos, VCR's, and small appliances such as toasters, microwaves, mixers and blenders.
"I don't believe any other shop in town offers repairs on all these items. Here's a one-stop location you can depend on for all your electronic repairs. And we try to charge a fair price."
Walt had been thinking about opening his own business for a number of years. He has done electronic repairs as a hobby for the past 10 years.
"I enjoy the challenge of repairing things," he says.
He believes that many people put aside or discard items that could be repaired because they either don't know where to take the items, or they believe it would cost too much to repair them.
"Bring them in and let me take a look. Oftentimes, repairs can be made to TV's or other electronics for much less than you would expect. If the repairs will be more than the item is worth, I'll tell you. When electronic goods are too old, sometimes you are better off buying new ones because of the advances in quality and performance."

They have applied for certification as a GE Service Center, Walt says.
The shop is handily located in the downtown area, and there's plenty of parking right outside the door. Business hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 to noon Saturday.
"We ask that customers bring in their electronics," he says. "Modern appliances usually require monitoring equipment and tools that are impractical to take to the home or business."
Walt and Sandy Lane moved to Big Spring about eight years ago. He was employed during that time with Western Container as a plant engineer. Sandy greets customers and answers the phone in the shop.

Walt Lane opened his own shop two months ago to repair all electronics, including small appliances. It's a one-stop repair shop for everything from TV to toaster.
