Robbery suspect may be 'Dapper'

DALLAS (AP) — A man who shot and critically wounded himself while fleeing a savings and loan robbery may be the infamous Dapper Bandit who has eluded authorities for a decade, police said.

The man, identified as Mark Ervin Reeves, 34, of Dallas, was in critical condition at Humana Hospital Medical City Dallas late Wednesday after more than five hours of surgery, nursing supervisor Carole Mor-

Reeves allegedly robbed a savings and loan branch using a similar method of operation as the Dapper Bandit, a well-dressed, well-groomed robber who had has held up 24 Texas banks and thrifts over 10 years.

Police closed in on the suspect at the intersection of an interstate access road. The man shot himself in the neck as police shouted at him to drop the gun, witnesses said

'The officer with the shotgun told the guy (inside the car) with the pistol — he told him to drop the gun. But the guy just sat there," said Curtis Moore, 38, who witnessed the incident.

"Meanwhile, I'm getting down. All the sudden, I saw (the suspect's) arm go up but without the pistol. Then I heard this loud pow. Meanwhile, the officer is still saying, 'Drop the gun,' and the guy is shaking in-

About 10 people were at the Bright Banc branch on Forest Lane during the robbery, but no one was injured, said police investigator Charlie Royal

When dispatchers called the thrift to verify a robbery was in progress, a teller told them she believed the robber was the Dapper Bandit.

'I know it's him. I recognized him, and I pushed the button," police said the teller told the dispatcher. A stolen rental car believed used in the robbery was found near the bank, Royal said

Police say Reeves likely changed to the Chevrolet El Camino he was driving when they cornered him during a traffic jam on a highway access road. Capt. John Holt said a grenade, two pistols and pair of overalls were found in the car.

An undetermined amount of money was recovered from a vinyl briefcase in the car, and a handheld police monitor, wig and false moustache were also found, Royal said.

The Dapper Bandit is a well-dressed robber who usually sports a wig, mustache and sunglasses to foil bank security cameras. He often leaps over the teller

Candidates discuss manager selection

Reverting to a "mayor-ran town" and having candidates visit Big Spring for a few days to see if "they fit the city," were among suggestions by city council candidates concerning the hiring of a new city manager

Facing the question "Exactly what process do you believe should be followed in the hiring of a new city manager?" the nine council candidates offered a variety of

Three at-large positions on the City Council will be decided Saturday when voters visit the polls between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Related stories will appear in Friday's

The candidates's responses, in order of their names on the ballot, and exactly as they were written, are:

Ron Booth — I believe all individuals submitting applications or resumes should be thoroughly investigated and those who are not as they represent themselves, rejected. The next step would be personal contact by the city council, with each individual remaining.

If they are not from our area, perhaps they should spend a few days here to see if they would fit the city or if the city would

My experience, working for the government, has given me a lot of insight on judging individuals who would either love this area or hate it. If they hate it they would not do a good job. I would vote for the applicant who has the best experience and background in administrating policies, funds and has successfully preven himself a fair and impartial manager of people.

Melvin Daratt — Hiring starts with an application and resume. This gives us the information we need to start a rigid background investigation of qualifications. work background, attitude, stability, personality, education, family background and how he his personal life. And last of all a personal interview with the council.

Jimmy Leffler - Do away with the city manager and work on a mayor-ran town. This would be a large savings to all

Jerry W. Roach — I believe that the entire city council should be involved in the process of hiring a new city manager instead of just an appointed few. However, the process of resume screening, personal interviews,

Cinco de Mayo Today marks battle; fiesta set

By SARAH LUMAN

If a Fourth of July celebration with a Mexican flair sounds appealing, check out the Cinco de Mayo (Fifth of May) fiesta Friday and Saturday in Comanche Trail Park - and you might help someone pay for a college education.

The sixth annual local fiesta will include a variety of events and games, according to Raul Marquez, president of the Big Spring chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens. Its profits are dedicated to helping finance students' college educations.

"Last year we gave three students in the high school $1,000 scholarships each,' Marquez said Tuesday. "Our organization believes very strongly in education and in the education process, and this is one of our main objectives.

Although the celebration is a traditional event for area residents, the full story behind it may not be familiar, Marquez noted. Mexico has celebrated the holiday for more than 120 years: it is second in importance only to 16 de Septiembre, Mexico's Independence Day. According to information Marquez provided, the holiday has been celebrated for several years in Texas primarily to commemorate the heroism of General Ignacio Zaragoza, a Texan who led the battle, and because the battle had an effect on the outcome of the War Between the Ignacio Seguin Zaragosa, the general who linked United States history with that of Mexico in the battle, was minister of war and the navy under Mexico's president Benito Juarez in 1861.

Shortly after his election Juarez declared a two-year moratorium on repayment of Mexico's $80-million foreign debt. So doing, he roused the wrath of Napoleon III, who sent an army to conquer Mexico, confident that the United States, engaged in strife between

Two thousand Mexican troops, made up mostly of native Indians armed with knives and machetes, faced the invading forces. As chief of the army, Zaragosa appealed to their pride in their country, and when on May 5, 1862, Napoleon's forces arrived at Puebla, the Mexican army slaughtered them. The French lost as

Despite contentions he was not notified of tax action against him, a Big Spring council candidate had legal representation at one tax hearing that resulted in back taxes not vet paid — and was notified of the other, court records show.

Robert C. Smith, a candidate in Saturday's election, paid city taxes of $343.81 to Tax Assessor Dorothy Moore Monday to assure his right to take office if elected. However, he still owes $936.80 in back taxes plus interest, penalties and attorney fees according to the Howard County tax assessor's Smith said this morning that he could not recall the 1971 lawsuit.

Boulter talks on AIDS, Bentsen, Texas

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Republican Senatorial hopeful Beau Boulter brought his battle against Lloyd Bentsen to Big Spring Wednesday, charging that his opponent has "held Texas' oil industry hostage to the wishes of unionized labor.

Boulter, now in his second term as U.S. Representative from the 13th Congressional District, said Bentsen had changed since his election to the Senate in 1970. Texans' concerns have also changed. Boulter said, and he believes Bentsen has lost sight of those concerns.

"I'm not saying Bentsen is 100 percent wrong. I wish I could make it simple. I'd love to say that (junior Senator) Phil Gramm is 100 percent right and Lloyd Bentsen is 100 percent wrong, but I can't," Boulter said in an interview Wednesday afternoon.

"I can say, and I do say, Bentsen is 95 percent wrong and Phil Gramm is 95 percent right on everything," he said.

"I'm not one of those who believe that a single person, president or congressman, can turn an economy around, but we do need to become more competitive. We need a trade bill: we don't need one that bows arbitrarily to the desires of organized unions and thus places in jeopardy the repeal of the wind fall profits tax.

He said the most recent U.S. trade bill had not been perfect, but was pretty good. Allowing that Bentsen had a hand in drafting the trade bill, Boulter cited his opponent's support for its plant closing notice provision as a major reason for its failure.

'Lloyd Bentsen's insistence on keeping the plant closings in the bill caused people like me, who support repeal of the windfall profits tax but don't support the socializing of American business with the plant closing measure. to vote against a trade bill.

"Lloyd Bentsen bows and holds hostage Texas' oil industry to the wishes of organized labor,' Boulter said. "His beholden attitude toward special interest groups is not in the best interests of Texans.

Boulter said he believes the most important issues in Texans' minds today are a cluster of problems surrounding illicit drugs. "When Bentsen was elected, we didn't have the AIDS problem, or the drug problem we have now,' he said. "The things I see Americans most concerned about is drugs — a whole cluster of problems surrounding the drug problem, a moral breakdown, the spread of AIDS, the situation south of the border

"The notion that we're winning many friends in Central America by giving up the Panama Canal is not proving wise," he said. "By giving up the canal, we are saying to the drug dealers, to the dictators and to the Communists that we don't care what happens in Central America

Disasters hit three states

By The Associated Press Here, at a glance, are the three major disasters that occurred Wednesday and today in Los Angeles, Henderson, Nev., and Norco, La.

 In Norco, an explosion in a catalytic cracker ripped through a Shell Oil Co. refinery about 3:30 a.m. today, setting off burglar alarms 20 miles away in New Orleans, triggering a fire visible for miles, killing one person and injuring 19. About 2,800 people were being evacuated. Story on this page.

 In Los Angeles, a fire raged through five floors of a 62-story office tower today, killing a man trapped in an elevator and injuring 33 people as a rescue helicopter plucked 10 people from the roof of the city's tallest building.

The fire broke out late Wednesday on the 12th floor of the First Interstate Bank and was put out 31/2 hours later. The cause was under investigation. Story on page 5-A.

• In Henderson, fire smoldered today at a crater in the ruins of Pacific Engineering and Production Co., a rocket fuel plant destroyed by earthquake-force explosions Wednesday that flattened an industrial park, killing one person and injuring more than 250.

The blasts broke windows 10 miles away in Las Vegas, tweaked seismographs 200 miles away, peeled off roofs, upended cars and rocked a jetliner in flight. Story on page

Explosion rips through Shell refinery

NORCO, La. (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through a Shell Oil Co. refinery today, setting off burglar alarms 20 miles away and forcing 2,800 people to evacuate. Officials said one person was dead and 19 injured.

Residents of the neighborhood near the refinery were among the injured, said Sarah Coletti, a spokeswo nan for Shell.

"It looks like there is something on the ground that is burning. It doesn't seem to burn out," said Jimmy Greco, riding in a medical helicopter 1,000 feet over the scene

The blast occurred at a catalytic cracker, which converts crude oil to gasoline, but no cause was known, Coletti said. The fire continued to burn out of control hours after the 3:30 a.m. explosion.

State police spokesman Mike Taylor said 4,000 gallons of foam was being sent in to fight the blaze

Outside, the area was sealed off by emergency officials. Firefighting equipment, law enforcement vehicles and other emergency equipment clogged the area, standing by in case it was needed.

The force of the blast smashed a discount store that sat beside the refinery's fence, knocking down the back walls and breaking the roof in half. Glass was everywhere.

Two state police hazardous materials specialists were called to the scene, but Coletti said there were no reports of toxic fumes.

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's public school financing system could be made to satisfy a court ruling without a constitutional amendment and without requiring consolidation of local school districts. Comptroller Bullock, who has been previewing his plan for state leaders, published his idea Wednesday in a proposal entitled "Public School Finance: A Realistic Alternative.'

It suggests that the new system be phased in over a five-year period, and Bullock said it would allow the Legislature to address the problems, something Gov. Bill Clements has said is crucial.

The plan "represents a realistic and affordable blueprint for a lasting solution to these problems," the report said.

The state's current public school financing system was ruled unconstitutional last year by State District Judge Harley Clark, who said it failed to provide equality for all the state's students.

Bullock said his reading of the decision, however, indicates that all students must have a "substantially equal opportunity to access the funds needed to provide a solid, quality education.'

"Equal access is the key, not equal dollars," it says. The plan also notes that school facilities are a key part of any program, and it says the state must begin sharing the cost of facilities with local school districts.

Noting that the court found the cost of a quality education to be $3,600 per student annually, the Bullock proposal suggests equalizing funds to that level based on the willingness of local taxpayers to make an effort and the ability of a district to do so, based on the size of its tax base.

"If a school district is willing and able to raise local funds at a tax rate considered by the Legislature to be appropriate, the state will make up any difference between the amount it can raise on its own and the full cost of a quality education, estimated to be $3,600,"

LTV reveals bankruptcy reorganization

DALLAS (AP) — LTV Corp. pro- court. poses emerging from Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings reorganized around its core businesses of steel, defense and energy, but the plan hinges on resolving a dispute with its largest creditor.

Key to the reorganization are three LTV Steel pension plans, terminated by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. in early 1987. The agency, LTV's largest creditor, took over the plans but then turned them back to LTV, arguing that the company should fund them.

LTV Chairman Raymond Hay, announcing the reorganization plan Wednesday, said he is confident LTV will prevail in the dispute, now before a New York segment in LTV's steel business sibility of the federal agency.

Principal components of the reorganization would be a downsized steel company concentrating on flat-rolled products, two aerospace and defense operating groups and a streamlined energy products division sized for today's market, Hay said.

"It has been our commitment from the beginning to emerge from Chapter 11 as quickly as possible with a strong, reorganized company that will be competitive in each of the industries we serve," he said.

Three issues must be resolved before the reorganization is consummated - the future of the bar' as terminated or within the respon-canal decision had been "terrible, as an example of the incumbent's 'failing approach to problems.' "I cannot believe that a Senator from Texas could vote to give clean needles to drug addicts. Boulter said, "like Bentsen did a week ago.

"That's not how you stop the spread of AIDS," he continued. AIDS, or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, a viral disease believed transmitted through blood and body fluids.

"We don't have a position on AIDS," he said of his campaign, "and we probably should. But I believe first and foremost the causes of the spread of AIDS are not adhering to the standards on which Western civilization was built, to the standards of our Judeo-Christian heritage.

"Not adhering to that is the root cause of the spread of AIDS, and I can't imagine anyone believing otherwise. The disease is caused primarily by homosexuality, secondarily by sexual promiscuity, and tertiarily by intravenous drug use."

He said he would prefer to see the federal government not require employers to retain or hire workers known to be infected with or carriers of AIDS.

"Yes, we do need to have medical research and we do need to educate people on hygiene and we do need to care for AIDS victims, but I also think we ought to have mandatory testing for those most at risk.

He said couples getting married should be required to take a test for AIDS, and said he did not believe results of such tests could be kept entirely confidential.

"We need to protect the right to privacy, certainly, and still notify the people who need to know, Boulter said. He said he would like to see local school boards empowered to fire teachers diagnosed as having AIDS, but would not want to force children with the disease out of school.

"As a parent, and strictly as a parent, personally and individually I shudder at the thought of forcing a child out of school. That's scary," Boulter said

He said he felt employers ought to be notified of workers who tested positive for the disease and expressed sympathy for the destabilizing effect such workers could have on the employer's business.

Boulter moved on to say he felt confident that George Bush, now vice president, will be the Republican nominee for president "The rest of the country, except Texas, is enjoying fairly good times, especially along the coast," Boulter said. "But in Texas and in other states where we depend on commodities like agriculture and chemicals, we're not having good times.

"Up to the crash of 1986, Texas furnished 10 percent of the country's GNP," he said. "We were literally the engine powering the train. Now we aren't even on the train.

He said he thought the approach of Senator Bentsen to such matters as a trade bill and an oil import fee, the repeal of the windfall profits tax and Bentsen's position on the Senate Finance Committee was not in the best interest of Texans. He said he faults Bentsen for talking a lot but not doing much about the troubles of the oil industry. Boulter emphasized his part in arranging a meeting between President Reagan, National Security advisor John Poindexter, Senator Howard Baker, and treasury secretary Herrington to discuss the importance of stability in the oil industry from a national security viewpoint. Since 1984, he said, he has supported and spoken for an oil import fee. Boulter told journalists he would support an oil import fee, "but it will never happen."

Boulter said, "I believe in an oil import fee, but it's never going to happen. I just don't see it. If we thought about this rightly, if Bentsen supported this, we would have

He finished his remarks by saying he felt doubly blessed to have George Bush, who claims Texas as his home, atop the Republican ticket. "I know George Bush will carry the banner of the Republican party for the nation and for Texans. I feel doubly blessed to know he will carry Texas by 600,000 to 900,000 votes, and I think I'll be the next Hooser was notified by letter June 1, 1971, of the case's trial date June 17 — according to court documents. A statement filed June 21 showed that as of June 30, a total of $82.83 was due to the county in unpaid personal property taxes.

District Court Judge R.W. Caton ruled June 17, 1971, that the city was owed $82.83, the school district $110.46, and the county $44.88 in unpaid taxes for a total of $238.17, a lien for that amount being ordered against the property in question.

Abstract of judgment records show that the total, plus interest at six percent per year, plus interest and costs was due, and the judgment recorded in Vol. 5 of the court's records, page 145, July 13,

Howard County filed a petition to intervene in that lawsuit Jan. 24, 1986, alleging that back taxes with penalties and interest and attorney fees due the county in January 1986 totaled $239.44.

The case went to trial before 118th District Court Judge James Gregg April 24, 1986. On April 14, a copy of a letter from attorney Harvey M. Allen was filed advising The State of Texas and Howard Smith that he had been previously Discussion of the tax issue and how it affects the question of conversion of the Homestead Inn into a minimum security prison is timely and appropriate before a final decision is reached.

As things stand right now, taxing entities of Howard County face the prospect of surrendering approximately $13,357 for the real estate involved in the proposition.

On the surface, that may not seem like such a wise move in a time of declining tax revenues and fewer occupied buildings. We need to look deeper than the surface,

There are certain tradeoffs in a situation like this and they are too significant to be ignored.

For example:

• If and when fully occupied, the city will receive an estimated $87,600 annually, based on one dollar per

• City officials contend that the city will not take deed of the property — as required by the federal agency — before a contract for housing prisoners is assured;

 Employment for more than 50 people would make a significant impact — not only on the lives of those employed, but the community as a whole that will benefit when they spend their salaries to feed and raise families;

 Another building can be taken off the list of those abandoned and left to decay — often with little chance of wresting taxes from absentee owners.

That said, however, it may be just for city officials to examine whether they have an obligation to other taxing bodies impacted by the loss of the $600,000 property from the tax rolls. Currently, the Big Spring School District, Howard County and Howard College all benefit from tax dollars paid for the property in question.

What is fair in such a situation? The city admits that little more than obligatory paperwork will be necessary to qualify for the $1 per inmate funding for administrative services. Perhaps the other taxing bodies should be reimbursed from. such funds for the lost taxes they will suffer.

Despite such questions, the proposal's strengths still appear to outweigh its weaknesses.

Have a question?

As the time draws nearer for the City Council's final vote on the question of converting the motel to a minimum security prison, additional questions about the proposal arise.

Good.

The tirring of the application is ironic — and perhaps constructive; different City Council groups will have had the opportunity to vote on this issue. As a result of the timing and Saturday's election, instead of one group of seven voting twice, a total of 10 people will cast a voice on this.

The more voices the better when it comes to making important decisions.

Your voices can be heard too - by attending the Tuesday council meeting and speaking.

It was somewhat astounding that not a peep was heard April 26 when the council first addressed the ordinance to allow location of the prison at the site. Not a single council member or private citizen spoke out.

No one had any questions? That seems hard to believe. It seems even more unbelievable in view of the flurry of phone calls to our offices this week, which indicated that there are many people who have many questions about the

Among them:

 How do we know if Ed Davenport will buy a majority of his food materials in Big Spring?

• What are his qualifications to run such a facility? • How much money will he make on this venture?

Will he pay taxes?. • Why only $1 per prisoner per day?

The list could be lengthy: Some none of anybody's business and some basic to good decision making. The fact is, however, that 5 p.m. Tuesday in city hall is the time and the place for these and all other questions pertaining to the subject to be asked and discussion conducted.

If any question in your mind remains unanswered you have no right to complain if you do not live up to the responsibility democracy demands of its beneficiaries. Stand and speak or contact your city council representative to see that the issue is addressed.

It's your city and your council.

The number please

Speaking of contacting your City Council representative, that may not be so easy to do if some things don't change It is inappropriate for a city council member — in our estimation — to have an unlisted telephone number. Listening to constituents' needs and concerns is paramount to being an effective council member.

We would expect that any individual serving in such a capacity would have an easily-obtained phone number wouldn't you?

But that's not the case with at least one candidate for our City Council. Perhaps that will change, depending on the course of the election. We would hope so

But that, of course, would cut into the league's revenues, and we can't have that, can we? If the NHL did such an irresponsible thing, what would come next? Why, the National Basketball Association might end its season before Independence Day.

Nah, it'd never happen. Besides, hockey in May serves a useful purpose — it keeps ESPN from showing more wrestling highlights.

While talking to a friend about this curious state of affairs the other day, we came to a startling conclusion. Very few folks in the Lone Star State know what hockey is, much less the rules or finer points of the game.

Investigators say data subverted

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — A decision by Congress earlier this year to take away the independence of Nuclear Regulatory Commission investigators is already backfiring. In January, Rep. Thomas Bevill, D-Ala., sponsored legislation to fold the 40 people in the NRC's Office of Investigation into the rest of the NRC staff, making them answerable to bosses who have a reputatison for being chummy with the nuclear industry. The Office of Investigation investigates violations of criminal law at nuclear power plants.

Now, two NRC investigators say that their new bosses altered answers that the two wrote in response to a Senate subcommittee inquiry into the integrity of the NRC's investigative offices. As a result, the subcommittee got "incorrect and in other cases misleading" responses from the NRC, according to a memo obtained by our associated Stewart

The investigators, William Ward and Roger Fortuna, wrote the memo to the director of the Office of Investigation on March 7, after they saw what higher-up bosses had done to the answers they wrote for the Senate Nuclear Regulatory Subcommittee. Ward refused to comment to us about the memo. Fortuna could not be reached.

But their memo lays out some disturbing charges. It says their answers to the subcommittee were bumped upstairs at the NRC for approval before they went to Congress. The answers passed through several offices on their way to Capitol Hill and it is not known exactly where the changes were

An NRC spokesman claimed that the Office of Investigation worked with the executive director's office before sending the answers to the subcommittee

Ward and Fortuna, in their memo to Office of Investigation director Ben Hayes, said, "We are appalled at what we have ... Revisionist history is alive and well at the NRC.'

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. John Breaux, D-La., had asked if the commission had ever blocked the Office of Investigation from launching an investigation. Ward and Fortuna said "never," but they added that the commission in 1985 voted 4-1 not to support an investigation of two senior managers at the Wolf Creek nuclear plant in Burlington, Kan. The vote was enough to spike the investigation. The Wolf Creek managers had been accused of sexual harassment, blackballing a former employee and illegal search and seizure. The truncated answer sent to Breaux's subcommittee said, "The commission has never denied an (Office of Investigation) request to initiate an investigation under its jurisdiction.' The subcommittee also had asked Ward and Fortuna if criminal wrongdoing by employees of a nuclear plant affects safety. They answered that workers who break laws can't be trusted to safely build or run nuclear plants. "The issue is integrity "they wrote in their draft answers. Therefore, wrongdoing "always has a degree of safety significance.

The answer, as edited by the NRC bosses, said wrongdoing generally has safety significance," but that it depends the person's responsibilities. 'Each case is reviewed on its merits.

The subcommittee also asked how the NRC decides when to close an investigation. Ward and Fortuna noted that 39 cases had been closed for lack of resources. But their edited answer merely said those cases were closed "administratively."

Poor Nancy and Ronald

Poor Nancy Reagan. She's been trying for the past seven years to stop drugs from being distributed in the United States. All the while, government agencies working for her husband have been smuggling narcotics into this country.

When she read the sworn Senate testimony about it she stormed into the President's office. "I don't believe it," she said to him. "All the time I kept telling the kids to 'Just say no' the U.S. was working in cahoots with the drug smugglers in Central America.

The President said, "Don't get so upset. I'm sure there is a mistake. If anyone in this administration were involved in the dope business, I would know about it.

'The pilots testified in the Senate that we were," Nancy said. 'Well, just hold it — I'll get to the bottom of this ... Operator, get me Bill Casey at the CIA ... HE'S WHAT? ... Nancy, Bill Casey is dead. "They don't tell you anything. Are you aware that the Contras depended on the drug money to keep the war going? "You should not say that unless you have the facts. Nancy, I happen to know that the money for the Contras came from arms we sold to

'Who told you that, Ronnie?" "George Bush. And if anyone knew what was going on George "I don't like the idea of the United States being mixed up in narcotics smuggling sleazy," Nancy said. "I don't like it either, and if I find out who was behind it I'm going to chew him out. 'Why does the CIA have to exchange guns for cocaine? "Because if we don't stop the Sandinistas now, they'll be smoking grass on the beaches of San Diego. If the CIA was involved in drug smuggling it was an honest mistake," the President said.

"Ronnie, I think you should go o the air and say that no person in your administration knows anything about the arms-for-dope transaction, and you are appalled that anyone in the government would okay it. "That's a good idea. The Pentagon will bear me out. Operator, get me Secretary of Defense Weinberger on the phone ... HE'S WHAT? ... Nancy, Weinberger has resigned." "Why didn't he tell you?" "No one tells me anything," the President complained.

Well, this is a fine kettle of fish. I'm telling everyone to 'Just say no' and the cloak-and-dagger people are loading up their planes with narcotics. I insist that you inform whoever is involved with the Contras that drugs are not the way to fight communism.

That's good thinking, Nancy. Send Mike Deaver in and I'll dictate a memo. 'Mike Deaver is no longer in the White House.

'Caramba, no one told me that. Well, I know what I'll do. I will turn the whole thing over to the FBI and have them round up the usual suspects. Then I will have the Justice Department try them in a court of law and let a jury decide their guilt or innocence. "And then what will you do, Ronnie?" 'Then I'll pardon them. That's what Presidents are for.

Bank fire One dead, 33 injured in skyscraper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A fire raged for 3½ hours in the 62-story First Interstate Bank, killing one person and injuring 33 while a helicopter rescued 10 people from the roof of the city's tallest building, authorities said today.

"Everything that was burnable, burned down," fire Capt. Steve Varney said. "It was just metal and that was red hot ... It looked like Dante's Inferno.

A helicopter rescued a man who was trapped on the 50th floor for hours while the fire raged. The unidentified man and a firefighter who suffered smoke inhalation while searching for him were flown to hospitals.

Fire Chief Donald Manning said one person died in the fire, but no details were available immediately.

The fire broke out before 11 p.m. Wednesday in a building that officials said did not have a functioning sprinkler system. It was put out shortly after 2 a,m. today after burning on five floors of the 859-foottall building, one of the West's tallest skyscrapers, said firefighter Gary Svider.

"The flames are out," he said. "Now we have to do what we call an overhaul, where we go into every nook and cranny and tear it apart to make sure there's no fire in the walls."

Smoke was visible for miles before the blaze was put out. Broken, heat-blasted glass showered onto the streets from the fire that raged about a block from the blaze that devastated the downtown Central Library in 1986. The broken glass severed fire hoses "and we can't send firefighters to replace them because they'll get severed," fire Capt. Mike Bowers said at one point Firefighters landed on the roof by helicopter and worked their way down to lower floors.

Firefighters searched the floors above the burning levels midway up the building for other people but ignored floors below, Manning

"We know there are people below, security people in the basement, but they're not a problem,' he said. One fire official said the blaze frustrated firefighters because they had to use portable oxygen "We're running out of air real quick," said Capt. Steve Varney. "You've got to walk up 15 stories and by the time you get to the 15th story, you run out of air after five minutes. That's no way to fight a juries, mostly smoke inhalation, and were taken to hospitals, said Jim Wells, a fire department spokesman

Tom Scalia, 29, of suburban Rosemead, said he was working on a sprinkler system for Cosco Fire Protection when the blaze broke

"We were installing sprinklers and they are not in service at all," A Police Department helicopter lifted 10 people from the roof, officers said. Fire Inspector Ed Reed, who has been with the department for 28 years, said although no damage estimated were immediately available, the blaze was the worst high-rise fire in the city's history in terms of severity and damage. A cleaning supervisor, Zora Im-amovic, 38, of Glendale, said she and five others made their way from the 58th floor to the roof where they were airlifted to safety. Over her two-way radio, she said she heard a man calling for help.

"One of the men was saying 'Car 33' (a freight elevator) was in flames and he was screaming 'Please help!' " But Manning said it did not appear anyone was trapped in an elevator.

Four helicopters with searchlights, swooped around the rooftop to focate people. About 150 firefighters were called in as flames shoot as far as 20 feet out of the building and grey and white smoke poured out of fire-shattered windows

"Smoke is crawling up the complete side of the building and stretching up into the air," he said.

French free hostages

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (AP) - A French assault team today stormed a cave in this French Pacific territory and freed 22 gendarmes and a prosecutor held hostage by Melanesian separatists. An official said 17 people were killed.

Bernard Pons, minister for overseas territories in the conservative government of Premier Jacques Chirac of France, said the dead included two members of the assault team and 15 kidnappers.

He also said two members of the assault team were seriously injured.

Pons said the hostages were freed after "a particularly violent battle" in the nearly seven-hour assault on a network of caves in Ouvea, an island off the northeast coast of New Caledonia.

Hostages return home

PARIS (AP) - Three freed French hostages returned to France today after three years of captivity in Lebanon, and Premier Jacques Chirac thanked Iran for intervening to free the hostages.

He said normal relations with Iran, broken July 17, "could be envisaged."

Diplomats Marcel Carton, 62, Marcel Fontaine, 45, and journalist Jean-Paul Kauffmann, 44, arrived at the military airport of Villacoublay in a special government jet after a stop on the French Mediterranean island of

"It's an incredible day," Kauffmann said, looking thin but healthy. "But it's also a day which remains overshadowed because we are just three.

Kauffmann then spoke at length about Michel Seurat, the French researcher captured with him who is believed dead. Kauffmann said earlier that Seurat, said to have been executed by his kidnappers, probably died of cancer.

Climbers reach peak

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) - In a pair of mountaineering firsts, multinational climbing teams scaled Mount Everest simultaneously from two directions today and made a live television broadcast from atop the world's highest mountain.

Signals relayed via satellite from a small video camera attached to the helmet of Japanese climber Susumu Nakamura showed a panoramic view of the deep blue sky and rough, snow-covered terrain at the top of the world.

Gasping from the thin air and with frost on their eyebrows, 10 climbers from Nepal, China and Japan in bright red, blue and yellow mountaineering gear congratulated each other. They erected on the summit a string of brightly colored banners during the live broadcast, monitored in Tokyo.

Nakamura's specially-made camera is so full of sensitive equipment that, if abandoned on the Chinese side of the mountain, it could be viewed as a violation of Western laws governing the transfer of high technology to communist nations, said Hiroshi Yamazaki of Japan's Nihon Television Corp., or NTV, which paid most of the expedition's $12.5 million bill.

NBC News Sunrise, monitored in New York, began its 6 a.m. EDT show with footage of the climbers celebrating at the summit.

Nan Wood Graham, recognizeable despite the changes of nearly six decades, recalled the events leading to her posing as the stern-faced farmer's daughter for the American classic

'He was honest,'' Mrs. Graham, now 88 and blind, said of her brother, explaining why people admire or dislike the work.

"Other painters say, "The por-trait doesn't look like him because I painted what he's thinking.' They hide behind words because of their lack of talent,"

"But Grant put it all down. He learned his trade and put down what he saw.'

Mrs. Graham lives in a convalescent hospital on a quiet street of Menlo Park, about 30 miles south of San Francisco. In an interview Monday, she remembered how "American Gothic" changed her brother's life and her own.

Wood, who had developed a straightforward style in depicting the land and people of his native Iowa, was inspired by a house in the town of Eldon.

Driving by the house one day, Wood was taken with its sole decoration, a second-story window in the form of a simple Gothic arch.

"His main idea was to (show) the kind of people he thought would live in that kind of a house," Mrs. Graham said.

Wood didn't want to disturb the residents, so he asked the Woods' family dentist, Byron McKeeby, 62, and Nan, then 30, to pose.

In what became one of America's best-known paintings, McKeeby, dressed in overalls and holding a pitchfork, and Nan, hair drawn back and wearing an apron over a plain dark dress the white wooden building. But while the painting made Wood's reputation, it also angered many Iowa farmers.

"They said if farmers really looked like that, they better take to bootlegging," Mrs. Graham recalled. She herself became the target of the farm wives' wrath 'They thought that Grant was making fun of them. So they wrote to the newspaper all sorts of insults. The worst one was That woman's face ... would sour

At her brother's suggestion, Nan answered the critics with a letter of her own.

"I said that I posed for it and I was proud that I had. Well, the situation changed immediately. They were very apologetic and said they didn't mean what they said," she said.

"They even began bringing farm products up to us ... and invited Grant to vacations on their farms." The Wood family was living in Cedar Rapids at that time. To make up for the nasty comments. Wood later painted a por-tait of his sister as a present. "That was my reward," Mrs. Graham said. "He thought that secretly, I was hurt.' She was, a little, but Mrs. Graham has no regrets about posing. She delights in the "glory," even though it meant being stopped frequently in the street, as ecently as several years ago. Mrs. Graham said she enjoyed fashion design and "kind of went into the business," selling her creations to a few satisfied customers.

"I'm sorry I didn't take it up more seriously," she said. "But I was too interested in a good time dates and running around."

Six years before posing for "American Gothic," Nan Wood married Edward Graham. He invested in real estate, and the Grahams, who had no children, lived all over the country.

Wood, who continued to portray the people of the Midwest, died of cancer in 1942. "American Gothic" is part of the permanent collection of the Art Institute of Chicago.

HENDERSON, Nev. — Railroad cars at the site of Wednesday's explosion in Nevada bear witness to the impact of the destruction that rocked a space shuttle fuel plant and a candy factory 20 miles southeast of Las Vegas. At least 150 people were injured in the blasts and one person is confirmed dead.

One dead, 250 injured in plant blast

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — Fire still smoldered today at a 400-foot crater in the ruins of a rocket fuel plant destroyed by earthquakeforce explosions that flattened an industrial park, leaving one person dead and injuring more than 250

"This thing could have been much We may have a miracle on our hands Gov. Richard Bryan said late Wednesday after blasts shattered windows 10 miles away in Las Vegas and tweaked seismographs

The detonations destroyed or severely damaged 12 buildings at the site of the Pacific Engineering and Production Co. of Nevada plant and an adjoining marshmallow factory.

The blasts - at least three powerful concussions and a string of lesser explosions — peeled off roofs, upended cars and even rocked a jetliner in flight. More than 250 people were injured, four critically, most from flying glass.

Fire Chief Roy Parrish said investigators couldn't determine if the tattered body found 25 feet inside the plant compound was male or

'The logical conclusion is we won't find any more bodies," Parrish said. "Everybody has been accounted for with the one deceased.

Bryan said he was declaring the blast zone and its environs a state disaster area, and would seek federal disaster relief for this southern Nevada desert community of 54,000.

"All the windows are smashed in and the roofs are peeled back," the governor said. "In one shopping center, all the glass is blown out and the top part of the building caved in. The force had to be enormous.

This morning fire still smoldered at the ruined plant, said Clark County Deputy Fire Chief John Pappageorge, but it was not threatening or causing firefighters any problems. The blasts left a crater 400 feet across

"Right now there are no fumes that are emitting from the ruins that we're aware of," Pappageorge said on the CBS "This Morning" program. "The last measurement that was taken, the particles were measured at zero."

He said of the low death toll: "Unbelievable would be the word. As my first thoughts when I arrived out there was there would probably be several hundred. But it's remarkable there was

The explosions also spewed a 5-square-mile plume of toxic smoke into the sky, but winds carried the cloud away from populated areas and it eventually dissipated. By nightfall, evacuated residents were back at home.

The explosions and fire were caused by an equipment malfunction, said Pacific president Fred Gibson Jr. No monetary estimate of the damage was available.

The first explosion at 11:53 a.m. measured about 3.0 on the Richter scale and the second at 11:57 a.m. had a magnitude 3.5, said Bob Finn, spokesman for the California Institute of Technology, 200 miles away in Pasadena. "I find that absolutely amazing. That is extremely powerful," said Finn.

"It flipped cars over, knocked pedestrians to the ground and windows in the whole town shattered," said Susan Russo, 37, of Henderson, who was in her pickup truck when the blasts

Rockets on brink of elimination against fiesty Dallas Mavericks

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets realize they can't beat the Dallas Mavericks with a one-man performance by Akeem Olajuwon.

Olajuwon scored 35 points and grabbed 12 rebounds and had three blocked shots Tuesday night in the third game of their NBA first round NBA playoff

All it netted the Rockets was a 93-92 loss and one game from being eliminated from the playoffs if they lose to the Mavericks again in The Summit tonight.

"Everybody's going to have to start producing right now. We're not ready to roll over," Rockets guard Robert Reid said.

"I've seen us win big games on the road before. Right now it goes to five games, that's the only way

A fifth game, if necessary, would be played in Dallas on Saturday.

While Olajuwon carried the load on Tuesday. Houston's top three outside shooters, Reid, Sleepy Floyd and Purvis Short, shot a combined 9 for 31 shots from the field.

Floyd scored 42 points in Houston's 119-108 victory Saturday in Dallas. He had 10 points on Tuesday. "We didn't want him doing what he did in Dallas," Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley said. "We all helped out as a team. I'm sure he got a little discouraged. Tarpley scored 17 points and grabbed 13 rebounds, leading the Mavericks' big lineup in the closing minutes of the game.

Mark Aguirre, the team's leading scorer in the regular season with a 25.1 average, was on the sidelines in the cruical closing minutes

"This is not the beginning of the Tarpley era and the end of the Aguirre era," MacLeod said. "I just hope it means the beginning of a solid basketball Aguirre played 27 minutes and scored 14 points. "That's just the flexibility that we have to bring in our big lineup to try to counter their offensive rebounds," MacLeod said. "They had some good shots but sometimes they don't go down.

"With Akeem inside, he's so quick and powerful, I don't know how you can stop him.

The Mavericks haven't stopped Olajuwon, who has scored 34, 41 and 35 points in the three games. Olajuwon's 41-point performance also included 26 rebounds and four blocked shots.

Despite their offensive failures, the Rockets still almost pulled off the victory.

Rodney McCray grabbed the ball under Dallas basket and the Rockets called time out with 12 seconds left in the game.

Houston Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon has been the main weapon for the Rockets in their series against the Dallas Mavericks. In the last game Olajuwon scored 35 points.

Olajuwon missed a 14-foot jumper that ended the "It was a good shot, one that Akeem would make nine out of 10 times," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch said. 'When you get a good shot and you miss, you know it just wasn't your deck of cards.

The Mavericks ended a five game losing streak in playoff games on the road and extended their streak to three straight victories over Houston in The

But they still have a 3-12 road playoff record and a first round loss to Seattle in the first round of last year's playoffs to overcome.

Forsan senior hurdler Brandy Bryan clears a hurdle while competing in the 110 meter high hurdles at the Region I-2A meet at Blankenship Field Saturday. Bryan will be competing at the state track meet in

Forsan runner goes from being ineligible to being state bound

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

FORSAN - Brandy Bryan has come a long way from last year's track season.

Last year Bryan, then a junior at Forsan High School, didn't even think about competing in the regional track meet because he didn't get to compete in the district track meet. This year Bryan is going to state in two events Last year Bryan was considered a good hurdler and average long jumper. During the first four meets he had posted a 15.0 time in the 110 meter high hurdles, consistently ran in the 42's in the 300 intermediate hurdles, and was a 19-foot long jumper.

But just before the district meet, bad luck hit when Bryan was ruled ineligible because he failed an english course. Goodbye district track meet.

'It was kind of shocking to me at first,' said Bryan when he learned he had failed. "It made me think about this year. I decided I needed to study harder if I wanted to do anything in athletics. Now I keep my grades in the 80's.

So while Bryan became a flying success in the classroom, he also became a flying success on the track field. This year he was the main cog in Forsan's track program, scoring heavily in every meet in both hurdle races, long jump, high jump and running leg on a relay team.

By the end of the regular season he ranked in the Crossroads Country Track Bests with his marks of 40.50 in the 300 hurdles, 14.83 110 hurdles, 6-4 high jump and 21-1 long jump.

So at the very tough District 6-2A meet Bryan qualified for regional in the 110 hurdles and long jump. The district was very tough in the hurdles, with the likes of McCamey's Roman Zarate, who headed's to state in the 300 hurdles. Stanton's Anthony Inman, Rankin's Doug Braden, Eldorado's Jason Stenloy.

At pre-district meets, Braden and Bryan always battled it out in the 110 hurdles. At Garden City. Bryan outleaned Braden. The Forsan senior ran a 14.83 and Braden was timed in 14.84. At the district meet Braden outleaned Bryan, 15.13 opposed to 15.20. Bryan finished fifth at district in the 300 hurdles.

Zarate and Inman went one-two at district. Zarate went on to win regional in a record-setting 38.24, Inman finished fourth in 38.88

"I was really trying to make it (qualify for regional) in the 110's," said Bryan. "There were too many good 300 hurdlers in our district that I couldn't beat: I was just trying to get as many points as I could in it."

Bryan jumped 20-9 to finish second in the district long jump behind Stanton's Robert Jones. He didn't make that jump until the next-to-last attempt. Until then he had jumped 19-5.

"The thing that good about Brandy is that he gets better as he goes along," said Forsan track coach

Jan East. "For instance, he'll run three flights of hurdles in practice, and his third flight will be the best. At regional his best long jump was his last."

Last week at the Region I-2A Track Meet, Bryan soared 21-8 on his final attempt to move from fifth to second in the long jump. It was good enough to get him to state.

"The more I warm up, the more I get into the flow," said Bryan. "It's like at district, I didn't warm up good, didn't do any strides for the long jump. That's why I only jumped 19 feet until my next-to-last jump.

At the regional prelims in the 110 hurdles, Bryan leaped into the spotlight by running a career-best 14.40. He credited his drop in time to using a different block setting. Bryan experimented with the new block setting the week before at a regional's qualifier

"I got out over the first hurdle and hit my stride and kept it all the way through. My stride is my strength," said the 6-3, 175-pounder. In the regional finals Bryan was beaten by New

Deal's Shane Boyd, who ran a 14.63. Bryan ran a 14.82, nosing out old rival Braden of Rankin, who was clocked in 15.04. Brandy's only regret is that is parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bryan didn't get to see him qualify for the state meet. Two month ago his parents moved to Clearwater, Fla., and Brandy has been staying with family friend Sharon Subia until he graduates.

"My mom (Linda) had called me about three times that week before regional. She called again right after I had gotten home for the regional meet. She's real excited I'm going to state. She's flying down to watch me compete.

At Austin, Coach East is hoping Brandy can showcase his talents enough to interest some college

"Brandy's a good athlete. He's got more raw track talent that anyone I've ever coached. The thing about it is his talent hasn't been tapped. With the right coaching, someday he could run in the 13's. There hasn't been much interest shown in him, but he could run track for somebody. I'm going to call some coaches about him."

How will going to the state track meet for the first time affect Bryan?

"There's not telling how it will affect him," said East. "It's got to have some affect on you though when you get to Memorial Stadium and there's 40 or 50 thousand people there.

"I've never been there (state track meet) but a couple of my friends (Brant Nichols and Bruce Strickland) have told me about it. It seems it could be a scary experience," said Bryan. "I'll just go down and try not to let the crowd stun me. Hopefully I'll keep improving like I've been doing.

Afterall, the Forsan track star is building quite a reputation for saving his best for last.

Devils win in O.T.

Jersey Devils are newcomers to the playoffs. Sean Burke and Doug Brown are newcomers to the Devils. With their help, winning is becoming old hat.

Cool amid the overtime pressure, rookie goalie Burke repeatedly repelled the Boston Bruins until rookie right wing Brown scored to give the Devils a 3-2 victory Wednesday night in the NHL's Wales Conference final.

NHL

Playoffs

Brown's 45-foot slapshot from above the left circle 17:46 into overtime evened the series at 1-1. It's the third consecutive series in which the Devils lost the opener and won the second game, both on the road.

Having made the playoffs for the first time since they moved from 1982-83 season, the Devils have come much farther than expected. The Bruins are convinced it will take hard work to keep them from going still farther.

It continues with Games 3 and 4 in New Jersey on Friday and Sunday nights. Then the teams come back to Boston, where the Bruins had won all six playoff games before Wednesday night, for the fifth game next Tuesday night.

Barely 10 minutes before he scored on his only shot of the game, he almost gave the Bruins a goal. His lateral pass from behind his blue line was intercepted by Cam Neely, who led Boston with 42 goals during the regular season.

Neely skated in alone on Burke. Just five feet in front of the net, the Bruin fired, but Burke went down and stopped the puck with his pad at 7:33 of overtime.

Neely tried to shoot the puck between the 6-foot-3 Burke's legs but

There was nothing to shoot at. I should have waited for him to make his move but it was the other way around.'

He gave his team exactly what it wanted after Claude Loiselle won a faceoff with Craig Janney. The puck went to Devils' defenseman Randy Velischek deep in Boston's end. He passed it to defenseman Joe Cirella at the right point and Cirella got it to Brown, who was Then, with 4:09 left in the third period, referee Kerry Fraser called Doug Sulliman for hooking. It was the first penalty of the period. With 3:24 left, Bob Joyce, who played with Burke on the Canadian Olympic team, scored when a rebound of his shot went in off Broten. The first four goals all were on power plays.

Burke, who was 10-1 after joining the Devils following the Olympics, "it was a mistake," he said. "He stopped 39 of Boston's 41 shots.

WTSU, coach reach settlement

The February press release said assistant football coach Butch Boegler told university officials that Kelly had altered a spring football drill to make it tougher. Player Curtis Johnson collapsed during the drill and later died.

"WTSU deeply regrets any misconceptions resulting from the release that might imply that Coach Bill Kelly's conduct at the time of that unfortunate incident contributed in any way to the death

CANYON (AP) - Attorneys for Kelly or his abilities and character statement read. "It is the position of West Texas State University that Coach Bill Kelly was not responsible for the death of Curtis Johnson, nor did the university intend to cause anyone to form such a conclusion."

Kelly had been making $48,000 a year on a contract that was scheduled to expire in January

"I'm pleased to have it (the settlement) resolved in my favor, getting the press release and clearing name of wrongdoing! said Kelly. "We were pleased with the
