Crossroads weather

The forecast for the Big Spring area: Mostly sunny days and fair nights with the highs today in the middle 80s with a chance of blowing dust. The lows tonight will be in the low 50s. The highs Friday will be in the middle to upper 80s, gusty winds with occasional blowing dust.

Moss Creek Lake caretaker Ron Robey looks over the damage done by high winds Tuesday night. Damage to several other shelters, outhouses and trees was also evident.

Winds slap at Moss Creek

The storm that swept through Howard County Tuesday evening brought much-needed rainfall and smiles to the faces of many area farmers and ranchers.

Accompanying the storm, however, were severe winds — and a possible tornado — causing damage at the Moss Creek Lake Recreational Area and slowing renovations there, according to caretaker Ron Robey.

"What was so bad; we had just made a ton of improvements," Robey said Wednesday. City employees at the lake had recently expanded the parking area at the swimming area, cleared ground for a recreational vehicle hook-up site and added almost a mile of new roads, he added.

"Now, all of that is at a standstill," he said. "We're going to have to wait to repair the damage (from the storm)."

Robey is convinced the storm was a tornado, and the damage pattern left appears consistent with that of a funnel. Instead of widespread damage indicative of high winds, the wreckage at Moss Creek Lake is sporadic, as if the storm picked its spots.

For example:

- The rear windshields of two pickups parked outside the lake office were shattered by the storm, but a dock sitting on trash barrels for repairs sat undamaged, 20 feet away.

- All the damage occurred on the north shore of the lake. The south shore — less than a mile away — was unscathed.

- Outhouses bolted onto two in-

Undervalued property affects school monies

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

AUSTIN — Many Texas school districts, including some districts involved in a lawsuit over the public school finance system, undervalue property on their tax rolls, a newspaper reported.

According to the Texas Research League, only 252 of the state's 1,061 districts valued property at 100 percent or more of its true market value in 1986, the Austin American-Statesman reported Wednesday.

The districts with property on their tax rolls below market value are in every region of the state.

Howard County school districts are among those with property both undervalued and overvalued, compared to Texas arithmetic averages, a Texas Research League spokesman said today.

Gov. Bill Clements recently said many poor and rural districts undervalue property on the rolls, and he said land in some South Texas districts is "grossly undervalued." The low value placed on the land means it produces less local property tax revenue for the schools than it should, he said.

"If you go down there and check the tax rolls, you'll find that they're carrying irrigated land and citrus and gardens and developed property on the tax rolls at $400, $50, $500 an acre, when the market value is $4,000 and $5,000 an acre," Clements said.

For example, property is listed at 70 percent of its true value in the Santa Maria school district, in Cameron County in South Texas. The district's officials say the discrepancy is due to a constitutional tax break given to agricultural land.

A 1978 constitutional amendment requires agricultural property to be taxed at its production value, instead of its higher, true market value. About 95 percent of the proerty in the Santa Maria district receives this agriculture tax break.

In Howard County, League figures show, the Big Spring school district has overall property valuations at 96.5 percent of actual value; 89 percent for single-family dwellings and 114 percent valuation on mineral properties, according to Allan Barnes of the research league.

Dam is snaking forward

By JOE PICKLE
Special to the Herald

STACY DAM SITE — Construction on Stacey Dam is now 27 percent complete for the Colorado River Municipal Water District project.

About 2,500 cubic yards of reinforced concrete have been poured to form the foundation wall for the service spillway. Steady progress is being made in pouring the outlet works (some 2,500 cubic yards to date), and backfill around the control tower and central section of the conduit is to begin soon.

Excavation continues in the spillway chute and stilling basin. Rolled-compacted concrete has been placed at the juncture of the north end of the dam and levy, to protect against erosion if the levy washes out.

The dam's south abutment has been cleared, and work continues on raising the emergency spillway training dike. About 3,000 acres within the basin has been cleared of brush, but this operation is at a standstill pending archaeological clearance.

In addition to 14,890 acres acquired by the district, tentative agreements have been reached for the purchase of slightly more than 1,000 acres. This approximates 75 percent of land needed.

Negotiations continue on archaeological activities, but the district is hopeful of movement in this matter within a week or two.

Two field parties are searching for Concho water snakes. Although weather is yet too cool for best results, 22 specimens have been found in Ballinger Lake (19 of them tagged last year), five in Lake Spence (four new) and a half-dozen at monitoring sites.

Surfacing on the 3,700-foot landing strip south of the dam area should begin sometime this month.

Plans for the sub-structure of the San Angelo District-Midland intake are well along and a bid opening in late July is likely.

A public hearing, as a prelude to advertising for bids, is to be held within 30 days for relocation of highways.

By George, President backs Bush

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — George Bush at last has President Reagan's blessing for his race for the White House, but the president's terse statement of support, mispronouncing the name of his vice president, sent Bush aides scurrying to express enthusiasm for the endorsement.

Reagan delivered the long-awaited endorsement of his 1980 and 1984 running mate at a Republican fund-raising dinner Wednesday night, telling his audience he would "campaign as hard as I can" for Bush.

The president, bestowing his approval on Bush's campaign more than two weeks after the vice president mathematically clinched the GOP nomination in the Pennsylvania primary, came in a brief three sentences at the conclusion of a 15-minute speech.

While Reagan's backing was never in doubt, the president had stuck to a promise to remain neutral as long as there were other challengers. Bush's re-

Reece Sloan, left, 31, of Wichita, Kan., and Cindy McClellan, 38, of Winfield, Kan., had been dating each other since last January before discovering they are brother and sister — both were adopted as infants.

Surprise! Friends are siblings

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Reece Sloan and Cindy McClellan had a lot in common, but they'd been dating for about five months before they discovered the most important thing — their father.

Last January, when Sloan, 31, was looking through an inch-thick book of single women published by The Date Connection of Wichita, he stopped on the page featuring Ms. McClellan, 38.

"I liked what I saw," Sloan said. "She had a lot of the same interests, like traveling, dancing and going to movies."

Sloan called Ms. McClellan, and they discovered they were both adopted.

They began dating regularly, and did so until last week, when a private investigator hired by Ms. McClellan to find her parents called.

"About two weeks ago he (the detective) called me and said my biological father's name is Cecil Deardorf," Ms. McClellan said.

Sloan's biological father was also named Cecil Deardorf. He said he had mentioned his father's name to Ms. McClellan before the private investigator called.

"It didn't strike me until a few days after the detective called that I had heard that name before," Ms. McClellan said. "But I still couldn't put my finger on it."

When she realized Sloan was her half-brother, Ms. McClellan said she was first stunned, then saddened.

"I have to be very honest," she said. "I didn't want to believe it at all. I just cried and cried and thought this just can't be true. I mean, I had fallen in love with this man.

"But then I knew I had to tell him." She said shifting from a romantic relationship to a platonic one has not been easy.

"I still love him," she said. "And, he loves me. But, we have to keep telling ourselves that we're brother and sister. And that takes a lot of, well, strength."

Sloan said he too has found the transition difficult. But, he says, they've managed.

"I'm slowly getting over the shock," he said. "Everyday I'm working through it. Anyway, I'd rather have a sister than a girlfriend. It's a different feeling knowing that she's already a part of me."

White: No amendment needed for school finance

MARK WHITE

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Mark White disagrees with his successor, Gov. Bill Clements, that a constitutional amendment is needed to keep the responsibility for public school finances in the Legislature rather than the courts.

"The Legislature doesn't need a constitutional amendment to do its job. What the courts essentially have said is that there is a problem constitutionally with the devices that are employed now to allocate (public school) funds in Texas," White said after a speech to the Texas Tax Policy Conference Wednesday.

White also said that just putting more money into the finance system will not be enough to address State District Judge Harley Clark's ruling that it is unconstitutional.

"I frankly don't believe that dollars per student really equate to quality education. If that's the only standard you have, then you've looked at the wrong bottom line," White said.

"Where are you spending your dollars on the students? How well are those dollars being spent? Until that's answered, you don't have an equation that will lead to quality education," he said.

Clark, of Austin, ruled last year that the school finance system is unconstitutional because it does not ensure that each district has the same ability to obtain money to educate students. The state has appealed the ruling.

"The state has a responsibility 'to make certain that there are sufficient funds out there in every school district in the state that will provide a quality education for the students that live there,'" said White, a Democrat who has worked as a partner in a Houston law firm since losing to Clements in 1986.

It's also a function of new ideas and the application of those ideas. In order to bring the teachers to the student, we can employ satellite communication many different ways. Technology can help solve this problem, and the technology is available."

White, governor when sweeping education reforms were approved in a 1984 special legislative session, also said that once a plan is developed to resolve the current school finance question, it would be appropriate for Clements to call a special session.

"I don't know that it would easily be solved in a regular session, because you have so many other diverting influences and diversions," he said.

The tax conference was sponsored by Price Waterhouse, with the Texas Association of Taxpayers, Texas Chamber of Commerce and American Legislative Exchange Council.

Moss Lake

ches of concrete were tipped over like toys, while empty trash barrels remained upright nearby.

• A fishing dock bolted to two piers lay grounded about 50 yards from the piers, opposite of the direction the wind was blowing that evening.

The most visible damage was sustained by three of the area's picnic shelters. The roofs of two were ripped away, while the one nearest the lake's general store was destroyed — as if a giant foot had descended from the sky and stepped on its roof.

The shelter's heavy picnic table lay flipped over on its top, while its thick wooden supports were on their sides, snapped like matchsticks.

J.B. Glasscock of Odessa was fishing about 20 yards away from the destroyed shelter when the storm hit. He said he realized the storm's severity when it approached about 7 p.m., and scurried into his pickup camper.

That's where he sat for the next hour, while the storm did its damage.

"When the wind and the hail hit, I got into the camper," Glasscock said. "I knew it was tearing things up outside, because I could hear the metal bending.

"I thought it was just the hail — it was blowing and roaring," he continued. "I guarantee you, by the time it hit the far side (of the lake), you couldn't see nothin'."

Glasscock escaped injury, and his truck was undamaged — further testimony to the storm's capricious nature.

Faced with the observation that he was one very lucky man, Glasscock laughingly replied, "Either that, or I'm too contrary."

Robby said he would be unable to estimate the dollar amount of the storm's toll until city officials complete inspection of the damage.

"Until we see what we want to do and what we can do, it would be hard to make an estimate," Robby said. "That one shelter will probably have to be leveled, that's for sure."

He said, however, that repairs to the facilities should be completed soon.

Bush

maining rival, Pat Robertson, announced earlier Wednesday that he would support Bush.

During his speech, Reagan mentioned Bush only three times, mispronouncing his name on one of those occasions as "George Bosh."

But Bush aides immediately stressed that they were pleased with Reagan's announcement, no matter how brief.

"It's a total endorsement," said Bush's chief of staff Craig Fuller. "I would not look for what wasn't said. I would look for what was said. I'm fully satisfied. I don't think it gets any better."

Bush's press secretary, Stephen Hart, said "it looks like an endorsement to me."

"These guys love each other," he added. Speaking at a $1,500-a-plate banquet attended by more than 3,000 Republicans, Reagan concluded a speech about the accomplishments of his administration with these words:

"I intend to campaign as hard as I can. My candidate is a former member of Congress, ambassador to China, ambassador to the United Nations, Director of the CIA and national chairman of the Republican party. I'm going to work as hard as I can to make Vice President George Bush the next president of the United States."

In endorsing Bush, Reagan said he was breaking "a silence I've maintained for some time with regard to the presidential candidates."

Earlier in the speech, Reagan said: "Eight years ago, George Bush and I said to the American people, 'the time is now.' It still is. The story of America is one of people who have made their dreams come true, by realizing that the time for action is always now."

It was in that reference that Reagan mispronounced the name of his vice president.

Bush was traveling to New Mexico and California today for a seven-day campaign trip to the West.

Reagan's formal endorsement follows several weeks of jockeying among White House and Bush campaign aides over a time and place for the announcement.

At the end of Reagan's speech, Bush and his wife Barbara worked their way through the crowd on the floor to join the president and First Lady Nancy Reagan at the podium. Reagan and Bush held clasped hands aloft as hundreds of balloons were released from the ceiling.

Bush, who spoke before Reagan, praised the president, saying: "You began a great national renewal."

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, whose own presidential bid was stopped in Bush's march to the GOP nomination, displayed his sometimes barbed wit.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he said when he was applauded. "I was going to say I would accept the nomination, but I think it's already been spoken for."

"I can't remember the guy who got it," said Dole.

Bush campaign strategists have said they hope that the president can strengthen support for the vice president, particularly in areas where Reagan remains highly popular, such as the West.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said earlier Wednesday that Reagan would campaign for Bush even before the Republican convention in August.

Dole told reporters that Bush should "build on the Reagan record, build on the Reagan constituency, try to hold it."

But, Dole added that sooner or later, Bush would have to move out from Reagan's shadow. "It's going to be the Bush campaign, the Bush agenda, the Bush vision for the future," he said. "And I think that will develop in time. I think he can do it."

Robertson announced his support for Bush after a private session between the two at the White House, claiming "the race is pretty much over."

Schools

tion records show, he said, that the overall district average is 106.1 percent of actual value; 79 percent for single-family dwellings and 117 percent of actual valuations for mineral properties.

The Forsan district, according to league figures, has 117.7 percent valuations of all properties; 81 percent for single-family dwellings and 123 percent for mineral properties.

An examination of some districts shows that even if real estate were appraised at 100 percent, the amount of money raised for support of local schools would be minimal.

Some of the districts Clements said are generating lower-than-expected levels of local tax revenues are the same districts that are challenging Texas' public school finance system.

Officials of those districts believe the state's finance system does not provide property-poor districts with enough state money to run an adequate education program.

Last year, State District Judge Harley Clark in Austin agreed with the poor districts' argument and declared the state funding system unconstitutional. The state has appealed the ruling.

Poor districts involved in the school finance lawsuit are slightly more likely to undervalue property than their wealthier counterparts, according to State Property Tax Board figures.

Among the 67 poor districts challenging the state's school finance system, 35 carried property on tax rolls at 90 percent to 114 percent of its full value. The central appraisal districts for the remaining 32 districts assessed property at 69 percent to 89 percent of its true value.

Deaths

Marjorie Jordan

Marjorie Currie Jordan, 86, a former resident of Big Spring, died Tuesday, May 10, 1988 in Arlington. Services will be 2 p.m. Friday in St. Mary's Episcopal Church with Rev. Donald Hungerford, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

She was born June 19, 1901 in Big Spring. She married James E. Jordan Aug. 12, 1920 in El Paso. He preceded her in death Feb. 21, 1934. She was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star Chapter #67.

She was a member of a pioneer Big Spring family. Her parents were Thomas Currie and Jessie Olive Eddins Currie. She had worked as a secretary at St. Mary's Episcopal Church for many years, and had lived in Arlington since 1979 at the Home For Aged Masons.

She is survived by three sons, James E. Jordan, Point Blank; E.D. Jordan, Irving; and D.W. Jordan, Rockwall; seven grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be James Jordan Jr., Daniel David Jordan, Helen Mary Jordan, Jerry Worthly, Rich Anderson, and Conny Wade. The family suggests memorials to a favorite charity.

Cisneros assassination plot suspect eccentric, loner

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A man accused of seeking to have Mayor Henry Cisneros assassinated was described as an eccentric tax protester frustrated with failed anti-government political agendas.

Parker E. Abell, 74, of Natalia, 18 miles southwest of San Antonio, was in the Bexar County Jail Wednesday without bond on charges of solicitation to commit capital murder.

Abell, a former Libertarian congressional candidate, was arrested Tuesday after he allegedly offered an undercover officer $5,000 to kill the mayor.

Officials said Abell wanted publicity for his political extremist group called American Patriots.

Friends and neighbors described Abell as odd, but committed to an ideal that government is ruled by the people.

"He's eccentric, but he's a man with a cause," said Lauren Reed, a friend of Abell's. "I think he felt he was at the end of his rope. He tried all the conventional channels to get his point across and when that didn't work I think it was a sort of cry for attention."

Abell had been under surveillance for a month after he talked with two undercover officers posing as hitmen.

"It wasn't a spur-of-the-moment thing. It was thought out," said Bexar County District Attorney Fred Rodriguez.

"He is firm in his convictions" and somehow or another he wanted a hitman with the same resolve, the same philosophy," he said. "He just didn't want anybody. He wanted a patriot to carry out the execution."

Rodriguez met with Cisneros Wednesday to discuss the threat, but the 40-year-old mayor said he was not getting additional protection and joked that he was insulted he was worth only $5,000.

"I'm going about the business of San Antonio and this is not going to dissuade me," Cisneros said. "This is about the 15th time I've had to put up with something like this and there's (another) fellow who is in jail for this thing who sends me a Christmas card every year to remind me he is still thinking about me. "So no, I am not worried about it," Cisneros said.

Rodriguez said that Abell mentioned other possible targets, including State Comptroller Bob Bullock, but decided on Cisneros, perhaps because of the mayor's popularity.

Cisneros is in his fourth term, is past president of the National League of Cities and in 1984 was interviewed as a possible Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Officers arrested Abell at a supermarket pay phone, and in his car, police found a .22-caliber rifle with bullets and "execution warrants" issued by the "Sovereign Court of the People."

The warrants contained blanks to fill in names of public officials to be assassinated.

Internal Revenue Service officials, keeping tabs on Abell because of his failure to file income tax returns, came into contact with the suspect.

Abell contacted an IRS undercover agent and said he wanted a public official assassinated, but because IRS officials did not know the target, they called in state prosecutors to avoid jurisdictional conflicts, Rodriguez said.

Rodriguez said the investigation is continuing and that he would oppose the suspect being released from jail.

Medical malpractice limits held unconstitutional by court

AUSTIN (AP) — A state Supreme Court ruling overturning a cap on medical malpractice damages was the latest in a series of decisions wiping out decades-old reform legislation, says the president of the Texas Medical Association.

Dr. David Vanderpool responded Wednesday to a ruling that the limitation on non-medical damages is unconstitutional. He said the association was "obviously disappointed but not terribly surprised, given the makeup of the court."

Vanderpool, a Dallas physician, said the law thrown out by the court was "the last vestige of reforms that have been systematically dismantled by the court."

The law was enacted in 1977 after doctors claimed that soaring rates for medical malpractice insurance made it too expensive and, in some cases, impossible to obtain.

Justice William Kilgarlin, writing for the 7-2 majority, said the law limiting recovery of non-medical damages is unreasonable and arbitrary.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Raul Gonzalez said for the court to decide that there was no medical malpractice insurance crisis at the time the law was passed "is to act like a 'super Legislature' in violation of the separation of powers doctrine."

Kilgarlin recounted the facts of the case by quoting from an opinion by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in suit filed on behalf of 14-month-old Christopher Lucas against the United States.

The opinion said the child was paralyzed when a penicillin product was injected directly into an artery while he was being treated at William Beaumont Army Medical Center near El Paso.

The district court held that the injection was negligently administered by a hospital nurse and awarded the child's parents $498,628 for medical expenses.

The court also awarded Christopher $2.45 million, including $2.1 million in non-medical damages, then reduced that total by $400,000 paid to the Lucases in settlement of a state suit against the drug manufacturer.

On appeal, the 5th Circuit held that the liability limit applied to federal hospitals and was consistent with the U.S. Constitution. The federal appeals court, however, submitted for review by the Texas Supreme Court whether the limitation on damages violated the state constitution.

The law allows recovery of all medical costs and expenses, with a $500,000 cap — plus a Consumer Price Index adjustment — on non-medical damages against a physician or other health-care provider.

"In the context of persons catastrophically injured by medical negligence, we believe it is unreasonable and arbitrary to limit their recovery in a speculative experiment to determine whether liability insurance rates will decrease," Kilgarlin said.

A partial limit on civil liability that would have kicked in if the $500,000 cap was thrown out also was held unconstitutional.

Gonzalez, in his dissent, said, "Whatever flaws exist in the legislative findings, the proper forum to correct them is the Texas Legislature and not this court." he said.

Chief Justice Tom Phillips also was listed as dissenting, with the notation that his opinion would be filed later.

The Lucas case is the first, under a 1985 state constitutional amendment, to reach the Texas Supreme Court on a question certified by a federal appeals court.

Triple damages permitted

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday in a Grayson County case that a policyholder can sue an insurance company for alleged unfair claims settlement practices and recover triple damages.

Melvin and Maryanne Vail sued Texas Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. after the Vails' home was destroyed by fire in 1979 and the company refused to pay the claim.

The trial court rendered judgment for the Vails for three times the amount of the $35,000 policy. The 5th Court of Appeals at Dallas reversed the treble damages and permitted the Vails to recover only

The Supreme Court, in a 7-1 ruling, disagreed.

Views of other Texas papers

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around Texas:

Public employees deserve thanks

This week is National Public Service Recognition Week, and in honor of it, the nation is being asked to recognize the many achievements of public employees.

Fair enough. We all tend to criticize "the government" and "bureaucrats" more than we praise them, but the truth is that many fine men and women work for public agencies and they have done much to make this world better.

For example: "Teflon" and the thin plastic wrap which keeps food fresh were discovered at the Naval Research Laboratories. NASA scientists discovered the first "black hole" in the universe, and government scientists also developed sonar and radar.

A Census Bureau employee invented the first modern computer, and an Agriculture Department scientist developed wash-and-wear fabrics. The National Institute of Health began in 1887 with a $300 appropriation, and it has sponsored more than 90 Nobel Prize winners.

The list goes on and on, so let's give credit where credit is due: Thanks, public employees, and keep up the good work.

Tax freedom is later than ever

"Bracket creep," an unlamented feature of the old federal income tax code, has given way to what could be called calendar creep. That is because Tax Freedom Day, an unofficial observance sponsored by the Tax Foundation, fell this year on May 5 — the latest date ever.

According to the foundation, a non-profit Washington research organization, it will have taken the average taxpayer until (May 5) to earn the money to meet his total tax obligation for 1988, assuming all earnings since Jan. 1 went toward federal, state and local government taxes. The purpose of the observance is to demonstrate the government's impact on the economy in a readily comprehensible way. ...

Asbestos deadline is unrealistic

If the federal government can extend the deadline for cities to meet clean-air standards, it also should be able to extend deadlines for school districts to inspect their facilities for asbestos.

Many local school districts despair over meeting an Oct. 12 date by which they are supposed to identify buildings with crumbling asbestos and submit a maintenance or cleanup plan. They face fines of $5,000 a day if they fail.

There simply may not be enough qualified people around to conduct the inspections in time, let alone begin whatever cleanup may be needed. Then, there is the financial wallop to consider: Up to $200,000 just for an inspection and maintenance plan.

One critic says EPA's rules could "drive schools toward unnecessary removal of asbestos-containing materials, increase exposure to building occupants and spark a future wave of asbestos-related disease among abatement workers, whom everyone acknowledges are most at risk."

The critic could be right. Congress should require that the rules be revised.

Clear message on ethics from FBI

One of the saddest commentaries on the state of affairs in the last year of the Reagan administration is that FBI Director William Sessions would be asked, and would respond at length, about the ethical conduct of public officials.

While Sessions' remarks were labeled as "pure speculation" as they specifically concerned the many investigations into Attorney General Edwin Meese's private and public conduct, what the FBI chief said is worth noting.

Sessions clearly grasps the imperative of public officials, particularly "those related to the enforcement of the law, to be generally perceived by the American public as being people who abide by the law."

Call it sleaze, call it greed, call it situation ethics, some behavior simply cannot be tolerated in public officials.

The perception of sleaze erodes the respect that is fundamental in a system of laws. Choosing which laws we will obey, Sessions said, "is contrary to the fabric of American society generally. We are a country of law."

That is something every citizen must remember, from the stockbroker or laborer who snorts cocaine to an Ollie North who employs drug traffickers or an Edwin Meese who peddles influence.

Urban experts badmouth Houston

Few things could be as encouraging as the news that the urban-affairs experts are once again bad-mouthing Houston.

Our town has been an affront to city-planning types for as long as anyone can remember. That Houston has succeeded while violating their principles is deeply offensive.

No city without zoning, with little governmental regulation, and with a free-wheeling, entrepreneurial ethos has any right to become the vibrant fourth-largest city in the country — according to the urban experts. ...

That the urban experts are now back on our case can only mean that things must be picking up — as indeed they are. To hear that a group of 83 urban affairs experts say that of the nation's 50 largest cities they consider Houston as the second-most-overrated and as having the third-most-bleak future is to hear again the refrain of better times.

Mayor Kathy Whitmire, properly defending her city, says its "just a perception that Houston is bad" and that the survey shows the type of people "We need to get our message across to."

Fair enough. It would certainly be better to have urban affairs experts saying good things than bad things. But it is not going to be. Houston and the urban experts don't talk the same language. The best Houston ever got on its best day was a grudging acknowledgment that while it may have succeeded, it shouldn't have.

Reader opposes bill

To the editor:
I was very glad for the article by William Buckley (5/6/88) on the ABC (Act For Better Child Care) Bill. One critic of this bill has written, "Through an estimated third of all U.S. children currently in day care are enrolled in church-related programs, the new federally directed program envisioned by the ABC Bill, like the long-established Soviet child-development system, is to be wholly and purely secular."

If you wish to help to defeat this bill, write your Congressman at: House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515, and ask him to co-sponsor the H.R. 3944. This is the Holloway Child Care Tax Credit Reform Bill, which would provide help for all families, with freedom to choose the kind of care which they prefer for their own pre-school children. In the Senate, this bill is S2187. (Zip Code — 20510). Those who represent us in Washington need to know our feelings about these bills.

We recently had the privilege of attending a musical titled, "To Tell the Truth", presented by children in a Christian school. It was most enjoyable, both to the children and the audience. And I thought, "Where have we gone, that this type of program is so rare?"

It "told the truth" about Satan's temptation of Adam and Eve, about Jonah, and Paul and Silas in prison for preaching the gospel of Christ. It ended with a challenge to take this message to the Orient, Switzerland, a Latin Country, and around the world.

There was a refreshing spirit of freedom about the whole thing — including the freedom to accept or reject the message. But the Civil Rights Restoration Act and the ABC Bill, and doubtless more to come, will change all of this unless we take a stand against them — now!

Hospital appreciative

To the editor:
The article in Friday's Herald by Alisha Goldman concerning the Big Spring State Hospital was a beautiful commentary on a fine institution. Steve Reagan, in his article on Sunday, gave clarity and understanding to the important field of psychiatric nursing.

As superintendent, and on behalf of the 3,700-plus patients we treat each year, I sincerely thank the Big Spring Herald for its efforts at improving community awareness of one of the most devastating health problems facing our nation. Over 850 of the city's finest residents work at the hospital, making life a little better for our fellow man.

Cinco help recognized

To the editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to each and everyone that was involved with the success of the Fiesta "Cinco de Mayo" at the Comanche Trail Park.

To the supporters of the events I say thank you alot starting with Coors, Dominguez brothers, Pizza Hut, McDonald's Restaurant, Bauer School mothers, Alsa Club, Commissioner Louis Brown, Councilwoman Pat Deanda, KWKI and crew, Los Gallitos and the Herald for the pictures and coverage.

To the people that went and celebrated with us, I thank them too because without them our scholarship program would not be a success.

Last, but certainly not least, I want to give my sincere thanks to all the LULAC members that worked long and hard hours without pay or complaint to make sure the fiesta ran smoothly. Again, thanks to all.

Your library and espionage

By ART BUCHWALD

As children we all fantasized about working for the FBI. While it seemed like only a dream it's easier than you think.

The FBI recently asked American librarians to keep their eyes open for spies, and report any suspicious activity of library cardholders to local FBI bureaus. The operation is called the Library Awareness Program and the G-men are not kidding around.

According to reports, the FBI wants information on people who come to the libraries to withdraw scientific tomes, linger over maps and photocopy documents having to do with national defense.

The FBI is dead serious because they figure the public library is the main source of information for spies. But the Bureau ran into a major problem with its program when America's librarians refused to play ball. The overwhelming majority felt it was not their role to act as counter-espionage agents.

The program cannot work without the cooperation of librarians, and so another solution must be found.

There is no law saying library patrons could not volunteer to do the task. Any American can be deputized to act as a stakeout in a book stack.

If you're interested, here are some suggestions. Sit near the door. Pretend you're reading. Out of the corner of your eye notice who comes in and what books he is returning. Also note whether his shoes were made behind the Iron Curtain.

Once he goes into the stacks, get up and follow him down the aisle. If he heads down the one with a sign reading "Laser Manuals," you may be on to Mr. KGB himself. Pretend you are looking for "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates," but keep your eye on him. Remember, this person is not a spy just because he wants to read a book on lasers.

Many espionage organizations are using women to prowl America's libraries. If an attractive lady sits next to you in a library and starts playing footsie under the table with your Nike sneakers, be alert.

If she follows this up by nuzzling your ear, you know she's in the market for more than an old National Geographic.

The beauty of helping the FBI in their library watch is that you don't have to do it alone. If you're married you can split shifts with your wife. You could keep watch in the morning and she could spy in the afternoon.

Nobody likes to keep tabs on everyone who comes to a library, but that's where foreign agents are getting their information these days, and since the librarians refuse to be on the lookout for the bad guys, someone has to do it.

One more thing. The way to checkout a person as to whether he is a legit library user is to ask to see his library card. According to the FBI there are thousands of spooks walking around with forged cards manufactured in Budapest. The way to find out if a card is for real is to spit on it, and if the ink runs off, you can start searching him for his poison pill.

Friday the 13th can be lucky as column-writing time nears

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Thank God for editors.
Here I was, sweating another column deadline, with nary a subject in sight. Granted, this situation has arisen before, but yours truly has always been able to handle the situation in a more-or-less (usually less) tranquil manner.

I don't know if he was merely trying to be helpful, or if he took pity at the sight of a trail of tears on my cheeks. For whatever reason, my editor looked my way and said, "You know, the date after your column is Friday the 13th."

Now, I've been accused of several things in my life, but never of looking a gift horse in the mouth. In less time than it takes most people to blink, I thanked him and began typing for all I was worth — and here we are.

Some people might equate my actions as cheating in some form, but I beg to differ. Us newsroom types are constantly bouncing ideas off of each other. This is called sharing information — or, in computerese, networking.

Of course, if this tactic fails, we steal like bandits — but that's another story.

Where were we?
Oh yeah, we were supposedly beginning a column on Friday the 13th. Well, this is hardly a good starting point, but as a friend of mine likes to say, it beats a poke in the eye with a sharp stick.

My editor (or, as I am beginning to call him, Mr. Column Savior) recently passed the following along to me. It is from a newsletter titled "Hints for the city desk," and is full of potential story ideas.

BAD LUCK: There's an unlucky Friday the 13th this week. You can have some fun by assigning a reporter to defy all the traditional taboos — walk under a ladder, break a mirror, let a black cat cross his path, etc. — then do a first-person story describing his experiences ...

Boy, some folks have a wierd definition of the word "fun."

I don't want to give you the perception that I'm superstitious. Not so, dear reader. I am one of the most unsuperstitious people I know.

On the other hand, I don't like to walk around with a target painted on my back, either.

What I'm getting at — in a roundabout fashion — is that it is hardly my idea of "fun" to go around smashing mirrors and darning black cats to cross my path.

I'd rather watch professional wrestling, to be honest. Reading the above story idea, it made me wonder what other "fun" ideas those guys think of to spring on hapless reporters ...

GLOWING IDEA — There's a nuclear power plant in your vicinity. Wouldn't it be neat to assign your reporter to sit inside the reactor core for about three hours? Think of the "illuminating" story you would get. Ha-ha.

Or ...
DINNER TIME — There's a zoo in your city. Think of what fun it would be to have your reporter (preferably the one with the highest salary) sit inside the lion's cage at feeding time. A guaranteed knee-slapper.

Or better still ...
SEASON'S GREETINGS — The Persian Gulf conflict is on everybody's mind these days. For a story on the lighter side of the conflict, how about having one of your reporters parachute into downtown Tehran with "The Ayatollah is a pansy" taped to his back? This will work better if he's wearing a Ronald Reagan mask. Sure to keep you laughing for hours.

No wonder reporters are paranoid. So, no thank you, I have better things to do with my time than go looking for trouble. Enough of it comes looking for me.

Besides, I'm not that desperate for a story. Darn, I did it again. I used all my available space, and never got around to the subject at hand — Friday the 13th. Oh well, it's not the first time that's happened, and it probably won't be the last.

Stay out from under the ladder, people. Especially if you're carrying a broken mirror.

OSHA gives high fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Occupational Safety and Health Administration says serious health problems among workers required to do repetitive physical labor on assembly lines prompted the agency's second-largest fine ever against a single company.

IBP Inc. says OSHA is trying to impose "Alice in Wonderland theories" on industry, but the union representing workers at IBP's Dakota City, Neb., meatpacking plant hailed Wednesday's decision to get tough with the company.

OSHA said it was imposing a $3.1 million fine against IBP for willfully ignoring the hazards of repetitive motion. The agency maintains that IBP could have taken numerous steps to reduce the risk of injury, but did not.

The affected employees work on production lines, doing such work as cutting, trimming, hide removal and lifting meat with hooks, said OSHA spokesman Terry Mikelson. All the work is done while the meat moves at high speed through work stations in a cold, damp environment.

Transplant child dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A feisty, 3-year-old girl who made medical history with a five-organ transplant died after a six-month struggle that doctors say will help advance research into the experimental surgery.

Tabatha Foster of Madisonville, Ky., who spent most of her life in hospitals, died Wednesday afternoon, a month shy of her fourth birthday, in the intensive care unit at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

The 36-pound, pigtailed child was the world's longest survivor of a five-organ transplant. She received a new liver, small intestines, pancreas and parts of a stomach and colon during a 15-hour experimental operation that ended Nov. 1.

Similar procedures had been performed only twice before in the world, and both patients died within a few days.

An infection in Tabatha's bloodstream caused her heart, kidneys and liver to fail, said hospital spokeswoman Sue Cardillo.

"It was system failure, everything. It was like a chain reaction," she said.

Van Gogh sale 'low'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Vincent van Gogh painting sold for $13.75 million, the fourth highest price paid at an auction, but the sale disappointed a standing-room-only crowd after a string of record prices for the artist's paintings.

"Portrait of Adeline Ravoux," which van Gogh finished shortly before his suicide, sold at Christie's auction house Wednesday night to an anonymous buyer who bid by telephone.

Christie's had estimated van Gogh's 1890 portrait of his "inkeeper's" 13-year-old daughter would bring $15 million, and the reaction of the audience was subdued in contrast to the applause that usually greets a record price.

BURBANK, Calif. — It's true. Here's Johnny, and he's not a rerun either. "Tonight Show" host Johnny Carson, right, and Ed McMahon take their assigned places on a set at NBC Studios for the first taping of a new show since the Writers Guild strike sent the show into nonstop reruns March 7.

Heeere's Johnny! Back from writers strike hiatus

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Carson returned with a vengeance to his late-night show, poking fun at revelations of White House astrology in a monologue he wrote himself to end reruns forced by a 2-month-old writers' strike.

"I just could not stay away any longer from all things that are going on in the country. I was compelled to come back," Carson said Wednesday in his first new show since the strike began March 7.

"You know, we finally have a clue now as to what the hell (are) the Looney Tunes things that have been coming out of Washington," he told viewers of "The Tonight Show."

Carson referred to revelations by former White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan that Nancy Reagan regularly consulted an astrologer to determine President Reagan's schedule.

"We apparently have a new cabinet officer in the government I was not aware of — the Secretary of Health, Education and Soothsaying."

"I am not an expert on astrology. I know a little bit about it, but I understand the horoscope with the chart as they call it, is divided into the so-called 12 houses, and I just didn't know the White House was one of them," Carson quipped.

"Apparently the astrologist says that Reagan's sign is the rising house of Aquarius. Nancy's house is, I think, in the house of Adolfo. I could be wrong, it could be Bill Blass, but I think that's close," he joked, referring to the fashion designers.

Carson also quoted an astrologist as saying that "Reagan performs at his best during a full moon."

"Big deal," Carson said. "So does the Wolfman."

Carson pointed out that Reagan said he never made a policy decision based on astrology, then — dropping into an imitation of Reagan's voice — Carson said, "Well, because that little pointer on my Ouija board moved to 'No.'"

The host of the NBC-TV show also found time to poke fun at his marriage and California earthquake predictions involving 16th century seer Nostradamus.

"Things were getting a little testy around the homestead," he said. "I really believe that one more week off and my marriage would be resolved by small arms fire."

Carson mentioned the stir in Los Angeles because of persistent rumors that Nostradamus forecast an earthquake for a city widely believed to be Los Angeles.

"He was a flim-flam man of the 16th century," Carson said. "If Nostradamus were alive today he would be Gerald Rivera." Rivera entertained millions of television viewers with stunts such as the opening of Al Capone's vault.

Carson announced last week he would return to the air, writing his own monologues.

Carson, who is not a member of the striking Writers Guild of America, said at that time there had been good-faith negotiations and that all possibilities of reaching an agreement with the movie and TV industry were exhausted.

'Traitor' Philby dies

LONDON (AP) — Upper-crust Englishman Harold "Kim" Philby, who for nearly three decades spied for the Soviets from the heights of British intelligence, died a decorated KGB officer in Moscow. He was 76.

The Foreign Office said it learned from the Soviet Embassy in London that Philby had died Wednesday. The embassy gave no cause of death. Four months ago, Philby said he was suffering from arrhythmia, a heart irregularity.

The most damaging double agent in modern British history, the suave, handsome Philby sent many Western agents to their deaths.

With three now-deceased colleagues he met at Cambridge University in the 1930s — Donald Maclean, Guy Burgess and Anthony Blunt — Philby turned Britain's most precious secrets over to the Kremlin.

By extension, he betrayed the United States, too, since he was privy to top-secret information exchanged by the two allies.

Pope addresses youths

COCHABAMBA, Bolivia (AP) — Pope John Paul II visited a major South American cocaine-producing region and told 22,000 young people in a soccer stadium to avoid the temptation of easy riches through drug trafficking.

In another development, the pope learned that the president of Paraguay canceled the pontiff's meeting next week with opposition officials in Asuncion.

Bolivia is a major source of the refined cocaine that reaches the United States. U.S. soldiers have fought the coca plantations and cocaine refineries here. Bolivians themselves are becoming addicts in increasing numbers.

On Wednesday night in the central Bolivian city of Cochabamba, gateway to a large coca leaf-growing zone, the pope first warned against Marxism, telling his young audience:

"Be alert not to be seduced by doctrines that try to justify violence and hate, that reduce members of the human family to simple factors of historical evolution and that place them in a class struggle."

Stores enact sanctions

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Two of West Germany's largest department store chains have stopped buying South African produce for their supermarkets.

The Hertie and Kaufhof chains said on Wednesday the policy was implemented recently and that little South African produce remained in their supermarkets.

For more than 10 years, anti-apartheid, religious and other groups in West Germany have called on the nation's businesses to boycott South African goods.

But Elmar Kratz, a Hertie spokesman, said the decision was based on business considerations. "When we find our customers are not buying a certain line or type (of goods) then we stop purchasing them," he told reporters. He said sales of South African produce dropped drastically in recent years.

English Only 'direct attack on Hispanics'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a constitutional amendment to make English the country's official language fear that Hispanics are "taking over," says a congressman who opposes the idea.

"If it is a symbolic measure with no impact whatsoever on our rights, then it is a frivolous exercise," Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-Texas, told the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil and criminal rights Wednesday.

Rep. Gerald D. Kleczka, D-Wis., an opponent, said: "It is in fact a direct attack on Hispanics. No doubt about it."

Supporters testified Wednesday that the amendment was not intended to stifle freedom, but rather to clarify public policy and give legal protection to English.

Rep. Norman D. Shumway, R-Calif., said he does not want to see the nation drift unwittingly into a bilingual country.

Rotary Club honors contributors

Big Spring Rotary Club recently recognized a few of its members as well as several area residents for their accomplishments and contributions to Polio Plus, the worldwide Rotary program, which has raised more than $100 million to eradicate polio in emerging countries, according to a news release.

President Keith Wiseman noted that Cliff Chapman and Ralph McLaughlin both won athletic awards at the recent district conference in Plainview. Chapman placed second in tennis, while McLaughlin's golf team also placed second.

Dorothy Garrett was presented a bronze statue for her contributions to the foundation.

Charles Beil was presented a plaque for his contributions to the organization. Joan Beil, Rich Anderson, G.C. Broughton and Billye McLaughlin were presented sapphire pins for their contributions to the Rotary foundation.

Barbara Anderson, John Robert and Kevva Anderson all received Paul Harris medals for their contributions.

The Andersons, Barbara Anderson, G.C. Broughton, Ralph McLaughlin, and Hayes Strippling all received Polio Plus certificates in recognition of their contributions.

Wiseman also recognized Bob "Tumbleweed Smith" Lewis, newly elected district governor for 1989-90. Lewis is the fourth member of the Big Spring Rotary Club to serve as district governor.

The district is composed of 57 clubs with some 2800 Rotarians. District 573 stretches from Sweetwater to Pecos and north to include the entire Panhandle of Texas.

Aunt's ashes arrive in mail

DEAR ABBY: In a letter to you, a reader protested the calloused manner in which he learned of the death of a friend in a nursing home. Wait until you hear what happened to me: My cousins in Texas asked me if I would handle the funeral arrangements for their mother (my aunt) who had died while visiting them. She was to be cremated there, and her remains sent to me (in California) to be taken to a nearby cemetery and placed in the crypt she had previously purchased.

Of course, I agreed, assuming the remains would arrive by registered mail and that I would be notified either by my cousins or the crematory as to the date of arrival.

Imagine my horror when I opened my curbside mailbox one morning to find a box with these words stamped on the outside: CREAMATED REMAINS OF MRS.

Dear Abby

(my aunt's name). That was 10 years ago, and I still get furious when I think of it. Talk about unfeeling and calloused! I can't believe it's common practice to send cremated remains through the regular mails. Is it?

M.L.K., MONROVIA, CALIF. DEAR M.L.K.: I inquired of three prominent mortuaries in Los Angeles and was advised by all three that because they want proof of receipt, cremated remains are always sent by registered mail.

return receipt requested. Also, because they choose not to "surprise" the recipients, the contents are clearly marked on the outside of the box, and the recipients are notified in advance that it is on its way.

People are eating them up! To order your copy of Abby's favorite recipes, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada); to Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage and handling are included.

Irving Berlin serenaded on 100th birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — America blessed Irving Berlin on his 100th birthday, as such diverse celebrities as Leonard Bernstein, Walter Cronkite and Garrison Keillor sang the legacies of the composer who "set the world tapping."

The prolific songwriter, a longtime recluse, didn't attend the three-hour celebration Wednesday night before a packed house at Carnegie Hall, although he was believed to be listening via a hookup from his New York mansion.

The pageantry started big and ended bigger, with the Army Chorus and soldiers from Fort Dix, N.J., filling the stage in front of a 30-piece orchestra, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts standing in the aisles and Marilyn Horne's mezzo-soprano voice soaring above them in Berlin's "God Bless America."

Then, most of the evening's performers stood in front of the audience of 4,000, joined hands and arms, and everybody sang a lusty "There's No Business Like Show Business," another Berlin classic.

"When Irving Berlin began writing 83 years ago, American popular music had no voice of its own," said the violinist Isaac Stern. "We were a hodge-podge of nationalities and noises. But he heard nothing but melodies."

"American music was born at his piano. By 30, he was a legend. Out of the fabric of our lives, Irving Berlin has given us a place we call home. It was this love (of America) that gave him the strength to write the music that now lasts forever," Stern said.

Composer Morton Gould, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, recounted the origin of the birthday tribute, which is to be televised May 27 on CBS.

Local residents of the Nursing Home Care Unit at the VA Medical Center were to honor Berlin by singing "God Bless America" at noon today, said Jackie Conway, activities coordinator.

Berlin spent the day "quietly at home" and did not plan to be at Carnegie Hall, said his secretary, Hilda Schneider.

"He's never made a big thing about his birthdays," she said.

"A year ago, I received a call from Irving Berlin. During the conversation, I said, 'Next year is your 100th birthday. May ASCAP present a tribute?' Without skipping a beat, he said, 'What's the hurry?' So we waited." Six months later, Gould said, Berlin approved the celebration and suggested ticket sales benefit the ASCAP Foundation and Carnegie Hall Society.

Gould said that Berlin has written 1,500 songs, 19 Broadway musicals and 18 Hollywood musicals, beginning with the first talking picture, "The Jazz Singer."

The event was a finale to a full day of tributes that began with a midnight serenade outside Berlin's Manhattan house. At midday, 14 cast members of the Broadway show "A Chorus Line," offered an enthusiastic songfest at the Central Park Arsenal.

Their spirited medley ranged from love songs such as "They Say That Falling in Love is Wonderful," to the torch song "What'll I Do," to the humorous "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun."

On Staten Island, 15 handicapped Boy Scouts sang "Happy Birthday" and "God Bless America" during the dedication of a new log cabin named for Berlin. He had donated the residuals from the patriotic tune to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Meanwhile, patients in 100 Veterans Administration hospitals and nursing homes around the nation geared up to sing "God Bless America" simultaneously.

Berlin was part of a pantheon of great musical comedy composers that included George Gershwin,

Rambo, Crocodile topping summer's menus at movies

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rambo, Crocodile Dundee and a dwarf named Willow begin the summer movie season this month with a blast that industry analysts expect to help propel the nation's theaters to a record year.

"It looks like another record," said Art Murphy, financial writer for the entertainment trade paper Daily Variety. "The first four months are already $100 million more than last year's record. If the pace is continued at the same rate, the year will easily exceed 1987's $4-billion."

The 15 weeks of summer, which amount to 40 percent of the year's total, look very promising. First sequels of big hits are always strong, and you've got 'Crocodile Dundee II,' plus 'Rambo III,' which is really a first sequel since the original film was 'First Blood.' Plus you have a George Lucas film which is not in the same 'Star Wars' mold.

'Crocodile Dundee II' and 'Rambo III' open on May 27, while the Lucas epic, 'Willow,' was moved ahead to May 20 in an apparent attempt by MGM-UA to beat the crowd. The company is understandably nervous about the $35 million film — plus $20 million for advertising and promotion — which has no stars, and the hero is a dwarf who protects a baby from an evil queen.

'Rambo III' also seems a perilous investment in view of its reported $63 million cost, including $20 million to Sylvester Stallone. Also, Stallone's last two releases failed to ignite the box office.

Other repeats of past hits will be offered for the summer trade: 'Poltergeist III,' the last film of young Heather O'Rourke; 'Caddyshack II,' with Jackie Mason replacing Rodney Dangerfield; 'Arthur 2 on the Rocks,' again with Dudley Moore and Liza Minnelli, and a ghostly appearance by John Gielgud; 'Short Circuit II'; plus 'Phantasm II,' 'Deathstalker III,' 'Angel III' and 'Barbarian Queen II.'

Once again comedy is the strong suit of summer. The original offerings include:

- "Big Business," Bette Midler and Lily Tomlin as a pair of twins who are switched in the maternity ward and find out 30 years later.
- "Punchline," Sally Field and Tom Hanks as stand-up comic hopefuls who fall in love.
- "Me and Him," Griffin Dunne as an architect who suffers a sexual crisis.
- "Funny Farm," Chevy Chase and Madolyn Smith as a fast-lane pair seeking tranquility in a small town.
- "Hot to Trot," comic Bob Goldthwaite and a talking horse.
- "Big," Tom Hanks as a 13-year-old whose wish to grow up in a hurry is granted.
- "Big Top Pee-wee," Pee-wee Herman as a country clown who falls for a circus star.
- "Coming to America," Eddie Murphy as an African prince in search of a bride.
- "A Fish Called Wanda," John Cleese, Jamie Lee Curtis and Kevin Kline in a comedy about United States-British relations.
- "Married to the Mob," Michelle Pfeiffer and Mattheus Modine in a Mafia comedy.
- "Bull Durham," the lighter side of baseball with Kevin Costner and Susan Sarandon.
- "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," a Steven Spielberg-produced Disney fantasy starring Bob Hoskins and a host of Hollywood cartoon stars.

BEETLEJUICE — Geena Davis and Alec Baldwin (right) react in horror when they first encounter the demonic Betelgeuse, played by Michael Keaton in the supernatural comedy "Beetlejuice." The movie tells the story of a couple who happily haunt a house after their untimely death until it is suddenly bought, renovated, and invaded by a trio of yuppies. Fellow ghost Keaton is hired to rid the house of humans. Alec Baldwin ("She's Having a Baby") and Geena Davis ("The Fly") are the poltergeists; Jeffery Jones ("Ferris Bueller's Day Off"), Catherine O'Hara ("SCTV"), and Winona Ryder ("Lucas") are the uninvited guests. The movie is showing at the Ritz Theatre on Main Street.

Writers strike leaves cliffhangers hanging

LOS ANGELES (AP) — We take you to our cliffhanger desk for these late bulletins: Sonny Crockett flips out on NBC's "Miami Vice," Valene Ewing Gibson does herself in on CBS' "Knots Landing" and J.R. Ewing declares war on the entire world in "Dallas" on CBS.

It's that time of the year when television gives series viewers something to chew on over the summer.

The biggest cliffhanger of all, however, is whether these shows will be back in the fall to save their heroes and heroines. The strike by the Writers Guild of America has the television and film industry in a quandary. Since the writers walked out March 7, not a word has been written. In some cases, the writers didn't even wrap up this season's action, much less get to next season's cliffhanger resolutions.

Here are the details:
ABC's "Moonlighting" was forced to cancel its big season-ender, which would have featured a sequence in 3-D. The Coca-Cola Co., which owns the new 3-D process and had planned special commercials for the final show, was left holding 40 million 3-D glasses.

NBC's "L.A. Law" couldn't do its two final episodes because of the strike. But in the final show, Leland McKenzie (Richard Dysart) was approached by a young female attorney with designs on him.

"Miami Vice" ended Friday with Sonny Crockett (Don Johnson) suffering amnesia from a blow on the head and believing he is his undercover alter ego, drug dealer Sonny Burnett. He goes on a rampage and not even his partner, Ricardo Tubbs (Philip Michael Thomas), can pull him out of it.

His wife, played by singer Sheena Easton, was killed by a bad guy last week. The season ended with Sonny speeding away from his friends in his boat.

On "Knots Landing," Valene (Joan Van Ark) is forced to commit suicide in a "Fatal Attraction" kind of ending tonight. Her ex-husband's girlfriend, Jill Bennett (Teri Austin), has become crazed by his continuing interest in Valene and schemes to make her kill herself.

The final 20-25 minutes of the show is just Jill and Valene, and it's all filmed in sequence," said Sheryl Feuerstein, a spokeswoman for Lorimar-Telepictures. "For all intents and purposes, Valene Gibson will be dead."

In "Dallas," J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman) declares war on everybody in his effort to re-establish Ewing Oil.

NIGHTCLUBS

• The Heart of Texas Band performs at 9 p.m. on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays at the Brass Nail, south of Big Spring on Highway 97. Cover charge is $2 and the club is open from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.

MOVIES

New movies are beginning at Big Spring theaters this Friday:

• "Critters 2" and "Casual Sex," debut at the College Park Cinema.

"Critters" with Terrence Mann and Scott Grimes is a sequel about ferocious fuzballs known as Krites. In the first, the small town of Grovers Bend, Kan., was invaded by a bunch of man-eating fuzz balls from outer space. A group of alien bounty hunters — in the guise of humans — showed up to wipe out the evil monsters. Many members of the original cast return to do the same.

"Casual" probes today's shifting attitudes toward sexual behavior. Lea Thompson ("Howard the Duck") and Victoria Jackson star in the comedy. The executive producer of the film is "Ghostbuster" director Ivan Reitman. It is based on a musical play.

• At the Ritz are "Beetlejuice" and "Friday the 13th, Part 7 — A New Beginning". In Part VII, the actions moves away from the bloodstained camp and concentrates on vacation homes around Crystal Lake, near the spot where Jason drowned. He meets his match in the form of psychokinetic Tina Shepard (played by Lar Park Johnson).

• At Movies 4 at the Big Spring Mall are two new movies and three shows held over.

"Salsa" is a PG dance movie with strong Latin overtones.

"Illegally Yours" is rated PG and stars Rob Lowe.

Held over are "Colors," "Biloxi Blues" and "Shakedown."

Pro bowlers in Big Spring

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

The Southwest Region Professional Bowlers Association makes a stop for a tournament in Big Spring this weekend at Highland Lanes.

The pro bowlers will begin preliminary play Saturday morning at 9 a.m. The pro-am competition, which features a pro and amateur on a team, will have squad times at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday. The pro-am competition will be concluded Saturday night.

Semi-finals for the professionals will begin at 8 a.m. Sunday. The final will be conducted Sunday afternoon.

For information on how to enter the pro-am competition, call Highland Lanes at 267-2548.

Thursday Notes

Local semi-pro baseball team, the Big Spring Cardinals, will be in an important Texas-New Mexico League encounter against the Andrews Braves Sunday at Roy Anderson Complex.

The doubleheader gets underway at 1:30 p.m. Both the Braves and Cardinals are tied for first place with 8-2 records. Last week the Cards swept a doubleheader from Odessa, 10-1, 9-6.

Frankie Rubio was the winning pitcher the first game and Adam Rodriguez was winning hurler the second game. Manager of the Cardinals is Frankie Rubio Sr. and Raul Rubio is coach.

There will be a raffle Sunday, and a concession stand will be in operation.

The teams are constantly entering for the Triple Crown Softball Tournament in Big Spring May 28-30.

Entry deadline is Friday and fees must be postmarked by May 13. To enter mail to: Triple Crown Softball; 253 Linden St. #201; Fort Collins, Colo. 80524.

The $175 entry fee must be sent in the form of a traveler's check, money order, Mastercard or VISA. No personal checks will be accepted.

Latest word is that 60 teams are already entered, including 10 local teams.

The Spring City Classic and Body Building Championships will be May 21 at the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium. Also being conducted May 21 will be Spring City Pro/Am Armwrestling Championships at 12:30 p.m. at the auditorium.

There will be guest appearances by Reggie Bennett, L.A. champion and pro wrestler, and Russ Testa, billed as the "Physique Artist Extraordinaire" at the body building competition.

Cost of admission to the body building is $3 for pre-judging or $5 for pre-judging and armwrestling. Body building finals cost $5 and $10, and $2 for a balcony seat. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Entry fee for amateurs in the armwrestling competition is $10.

All proceeds go to the Rape Crisis/Victim Services. For more information call Doug or Vicky Beams at 263-2438.

Now the weekly news from the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association...

In couples play last Thursday, Jim and Annie Ward, Nile Cole and Ina Stewart, Carlos Dimidjian and Patti Woodall captured first place in nine-hole scramble play. The team shot a blazing seven-under-par 29 on the front nine of the Comanche Trail Course. Finishing second was the team of Jim and Georgie Newsom and Larry and Mary Malone. The foursome shot a 32.

On Monday in two-lady nine-hole scramble play, Annie Ward and Mary Malone came in first with a one-over-par 38. Three teams tied for second with 40s. Peggy Marshall and Patti Woodall won however, with a playoff on the scorecards.

In other golf action, Annie Ward and Patsy Sharpnack played in the Riverside Classic Golf Tournament in San Angelo Tuesday. The duo shot a 78 and finished second in the second flight.

The Moran Yacht Club is sponsoring the Third Annual Fajita 5K Run in conjunction with the National Fajita Cookoff Championship.

The run will be May 21 at 8:30 a.m. in downtown Moran — located 10 miles north of Baird, on Highway 6. Entry fee is $7 for pre-registration and $10 the day of the race. Call David Cleveland at 762-3614 for more information.

"Reaching New Heights" is the theme that will be discussed by Texas Christian University Head Football Coach Jim Wacker at a May 18 gathering for TCU alumni and friends in Midland.

The event, at No. 5 Ashlin Drive, will include a 7 p.m. reception, followed by dinner at 8 p.m.

Admission is $10 per person and reservations must be made by May 16. Make check payable to: David H. Harrison, P.O. Box 1799, Midland, Tx. 79702.

Coahoma Cowboy Wacey Cathey continues to lead the bull riding competition on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association circuit.

Cathey currently has won $21,602 in prize money. Second is Kermit's Jim Sharp ($17,966) and third is Chuck Simpson of Shepard, Mont. ($16,569).

A special sports fund has been established at the First National Bank in Big Spring by the Chamber of Commerce Athletic Committee to benefit any special athletes in the community.

Area thinclads to state

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

Area track athletes will be going for the gold when they compete in the state track meet in Austin Friday and Saturday. The Crossroads Country area will have 10 athletes competing in the meet.

Back for a second try will be Sands' field event person Jay Fryar, three members of the Coahoma Bulldogettes 1600 meter relay team, and Stanton sprinter Kody Newman.

Fryar, a senior, will be competing in the Class A high jump and long jump. He will high jump Friday at noon and long jump at 4 p.m. Friday. Last year Fryar also competed in both events at the state meet. He jumped a career-best 6-8 to finish second in the high jump.

This year he has a best of 6-6 in the high jump and 21-7 in the long jump. The high jump competition should be heated. Sterling City's Kyle Stewart has jumped 7-0 and Steven Morales has jumped 6-8. The best effort in the long jump is a 23-6 effort by a jumper from Roby.

"Jay has been jumping well in practice lately," said Sands coach Sid McCowan. "His experience at the state meet last year will pay off this year."

This will make the third consecutive year the Coahoma Bulldogettes have sent a Class AAA 1600 meter relay team to state. Last year the team ran a 4:05 in the rain, and finished fifth. This year the foursome of Nancy Hardison, Jo Hudson, Tiffany Ward and Shona Drewery have clocked a 4:03.62. Seniors Hardison, Drewery and Hudson all competed in the meet last year. Ward is a freshman.

"Last year we got bumped off the track and finished fifth," said

Coahoma coach Truman Meissner. "I definitely think we've got a chance. We've been working hard, we haven't slacked off — in fact, we've picked it up."

"Anything can happen at state. Last year at regional Post ran a 3:56. At state they ran a 4:02. The girls want a medal. They're not satisfied with just going down there," said Meissner.

The Coahoma relay team will compete Friday night at 10. Stanton senior sprinter Kody Newman will also be making her second trip to the state track meet. Two years ago as a sophomore, Newman finished fifth in the 100 at state.

This year Newman has run a best of 12.38, although she ran a 12.63 at the regional meet in Big Spring. Newman's best time ranks her about third in the competition.

She is scheduled to run at 10:35

a.m. Saturday.

The Garden City Bearcats will have a double performer in the Class A competition.

Sophomore Guillermo Morales will be competing in the 3200 and 1600 meter runs. Morales faces a grueling task since he will run the 3200 at 9 a.m. Saturday and the 1600 three hours later at noon.

"In the past they've run them on two different days," said Garden City coach Sam Scott. "This is the first time they've done it like this. Guillermo's recovery rate is great. That's not going to hurt him any. There's no telling how he will react, a sophomore competing in the state meet. It's a little different environment than what he's used to. But then again, it may not affect him at all," said Scott.

Scott said Morales' 3200 time of 10:20.89 ranks him sixth at the Celts win opener against Hawks

BOSTON (AP) — The two superstars took turns having super quarters. Larry Bird's came early. Dominique Wilkins' came too late.

Bird hit his first 10 shots and scored a Boston playoff record 24 points in the first period. Wilkins had 15 points in the fourth period when Atlanta sliced a 17-point deficit to seven.

But with Bird's teammates scoring Boston's last 13 points, the Celtics held off the Hawks 110-101 in Wednesday night's opener of their NBA Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven matchup is scheduled for Friday night at Boston Garden, where Atlanta has lost 13 consecutive games.

Bird, who led all scorers with 38 points, was rolling as soon as the game began and the Hawks were sluggish. He broke Dave Cowens' 14-year-old team record of 20 points in one playoff quarter and outscored the Hawks in the first period, which ended with the score 38-23.

But that wasn't nearly enough to finish off the Hawks. Although they never led, they fought back and trailed by only 54-48 at halftime. Then, after Boston started the second half with a 14-4 run and opened its biggest lead of the game, 80-61 with 1:02 left in the third quarter, the Hawks rallied again.

A 3-point shot by Bird had made the score 95-78 with 7:59 to play in the game. Wilkins' nine points then led a 21-11 Atlanta run that made the score 106-99 with 53 seconds to go.

Although the Hawks couldn't close the gap further, they were pleased with the way they finished after the way they started.

"We didn't give up," said Wilkins, who led the Hawks with 25 points despite giving them little help through the first three quarters. "That's a good sign."

Wilkins made only three of 11 shots in the first half and had just 10 points in the first three quarters. Rivers had 16 and Kevin Willis 13 for the Hawks.

BOSTON — Boston Celtics center Robert Parish (right) keeps the ball out of the reach of Antoine Carr of the Atlanta Hawks in the second period of NBA playoff action at Boston Garden. Boston beat Atlanta to take a 1-0 lead in the series.

McHale had 25 points and center Robert Parish added 22 points and 14 rebounds as the Celtics worked to get the ball inside after Bird hurt the Hawks from outside in the first half. Bird's last points came with 5:40 left on a 12-foot turnaround shot which gave the Celtics a 97-83 lead. Of their final 13 points, McHale had five; Parish four and Dennis Johnson and Danny Ainge two each.

Injuries can't stop shot putter

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

LENORAH — Naomi Morales has traveled a rocky road to reach the state track meet in Austin. Besides battling tough shot put competition, the Grady High School junior has also had to battle two injuries.

Ironically, the injuries occurred at the first and last of the season. The most recent injury couldn't have come at a worse time — a week before the state track meet. But injury and all, Morales will be competing in the Class A shot put Friday morning at the state track meet in Austin.

Morales, the top shot putter in the Crossroads Country area, began this track season the way she left off her sophomore year — strong. As a soph, Morales won district with a throw of 31-7. She also threw the same distance at regional, to finish fifth.

This year Morales burst out of the shot put ring by throwing a career-best 34-7 in the first meet of the season. But in the process, the Grady strongwoman sprained her wrist on her throwing hand. "The shot rolled off my fingers the wrong way and it bent them back too far," she said, describing the injury.

For most of the season, the wrist hampered Morales' performance in the shot and discus, although her 34-7 effort and 98-7 throw in the discus were both school records. But in the shot, the event she says she prefers, her decline was most noticeable.

"The first four meets of the

season my wrist was really hurting. It really affected my throwing. I was only throwing in the 31s and 32s," said Morales.

But the wrist slowly healed, and it began to show in Morales' performances. "I began to throw in the 34s again," she said.

Morales tossed the eight-pound ball 34-5 at the district meet, outdistancing the second place finisher by some four feet. "I really didn't have much competition at district. With nobody pushing me, it's hard to get fired up. I like it when there's lots of competition."

Lots of competition is just what Naomi got at the Region I-A meet in Levelland. And like a true competitor, Naomi rose to the occasion. She tossed the shot 35-11 to finish second behind Tracy Hoover of Booker, thus earning a trip to the state meet.

Then, the second injury struck. One week later — at a state qualifier's meet in Abilene — the Grady shot putter pulled a groin muscle while competing. So this week she's only been doing a little jogging, and technique, trying not to strain the leg.

Naomi is disappointed, to say the least.

"I've guess I've got bad luck or something. Coach Bedwell (Grady track coach Ted Bedwell) has been real good to me. I think he's been trying to scare me so that I'll throw better," she laughed. "But he really gives me confidence. He's trying to make me forget about the leg."

Bedwell revealed his own secret for this week's practices.

"There's no doubt the leg is still bothering her," said Bedwell. "But when she's thrown in practice this week I didn't let her know she wasn't throwing her best. I told her she was throwing about what she normally does."

"Naomi is a very strong individual. She has great upper body strength. I'm just hoping she can get her leg worked out. She's got the potential to get off that one good throw, that could go 37 feet."

Bedwell has quite a record when he gets one of his athletes to the state track meet. In the past five years, he's taken five girls to state — who've returned with two first places and three second places.

He's hoping Morales can keep the trend going Friday morning.

Oilers in finals

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — In the last month of the NHL season, the Edmonton Oilers decided it was time to forget about points and start thinking about the playoffs.

That singleminded purpose made them what they are today, the Campbell Conference champions following an 8-4 victory over the Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday night.

The Oilers, who claim they are playing their best hockey ever, defeated Winnipeg in five games before winning four straight from Calgary, which compiled the best record in the league while finishing ahead of Edmonton in the Smythe Division.

The Oilers, meanwhile, finished with the third-best record in hockey during the regular season.

Coupled with a five-game victory in the Detroit series, the Oilers improved their playoff record to a sparkling 12-2.

The Oilers got some nifty first-period play from Craig Simpson and a crushing second period when they scored four times to put the Red Wings away.

On both plays, Simpson scored on deflections with Messier at the other end. That offset a sensational short-handed breakthrough by Detroit's Brent Ashton as the teams went into the locker room only a goal apart after one period.

Pitcher's duel never materializes

By The Associated Press
 It was billed as a battle of unbeaten pitchers, and next time around, it could well be again.
 Neither Mike Scott of the Houston Astros nor Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets was around when the Mets won 9-8 in the 10th inning Wednesday night after rallying three times to tie the score.
 The last time the Mets tied, 8-8 with three runs in the ninth inning, Tim Teufel hit what appeared to be a game-winning grand slam that was ruled a three-run double by third-base umpire Gary Darling.

low-scoring matchup between Scott and Gooden, two Cy Young winners. Scott was 4-0, Gooden 6-0, and although neither was particularly sharp, neither was around for the decision.
 Scott went six innings, giving up five runs on seven hits, and Gooden yielded seven runs on seven hits in six innings.
 The Mets rallied to tie the score 2-2, 5-5 and then 8-8.
 Dave Smith was the loser, working in both the ninth and 10th.
 Trailing 8-5, the Mets appeared to have the game won in the ninth when Teufel hit a long drive to left-center with the bases loaded. Darling said the ball did not go out of the park, although Davey Johnson argued it had bounced off the cement facing of the lower deck, well above the orange line denoting home run territory. TV replays tended to support Johnson.
 Darryl Strawberry homered for the Mets, his 10th, and Glenn Davis hit his eighth for Houston.
Giants 5, Cardinals 4
 Kevin Mitchell hit a 16th-inning homer to end the longest game by innings in the majors this year. Mitchell's homer off Bob Forsch was only the Giants' third hit over the last 10 innings and marked an end to a four-hour 48-minute game.

Atlee Hamaker pitched three scoreless innings for the victory as the Cardinals stranded 19 baserunners.
 "We battled ... that's why we're a good ballclub," Giants Manager Roger Craig said. "This club — they're too dumb to know how to quit."
 Vince Coleman's RBI triple with two out in the eighth inning tied the score 4-4.
Phillies 4, Reds 3
 Mike Young singled with the bases loaded, driving in the winning run for Philadelphia with one out in the 11th. The Phillies tied the score 3-3 in the seventh on Chris James' fourth homer of the season, and Phil Bradley also homered for Philadelphia. It was his first in the league since being traded from Seattle.
 Kent Tervelev pitched two scoreless innings for his first victory against three losses, while John Franco went 0-3 with the loss.
 Von Hayes opened the 11th inning with a single and moved to second as James beat out a slow bouncer to third. Bill Almon then sacrificed, and Steve Jeltz was walked intentionally before Young's winning hit.
Pirates 2, Dodgers 1
 Randy Milligan doubled with two out in the 11th, giving the Pirates their victory over the Dodgers.

 Fernando Valenzuela worked seven scoreless innings, driving in Los Angeles' only run with a fifth-inning single, until the Pirates tied the score in the eighth. Valenzuela walked Darnell Coles leading off the eighth, and John Cangelosi came in to run.
Cubs 1, Padres 0
 Vance Law laid down a squeeze with two strikes and one out in the bottom of the 10th, scoring Mark Grace with the only run of the game. Ryne Sandberg led off the 10th with a triple off Lance McCullers, and Grace and Andre Dawson were walked intentionally. Sandberg was forced at the plate before Law bunted on a 2-2 pitch.
 Greg Maddux allowed only three hits, walked none and struck out eight for the Cubs.
Braves 3, Expos 2
 Gary Roenicke drove in two runs with a double in Atlanta's six-run third inning, and Bruce Sutter pitched the ninth for his third save. Gerald Perry drove in Atlanta's other run in its only scoring inning with a single.
 The Braves took two out of three from the Expos, winning their first series of the season.

National League

Mets Manager Davey Johnson argued uselessly, and New York had to wait an inning for the victory, giving it two of three in the series at Houston.
 Kevin McReynolds, who came in as a pinch-hitter in the ninth for the Mets, drove in the winning run with a single, scoring Howard Johnson from second base.
 There were 17 runs scored in a game that was expected to be a score runs. A lot of them.

 Clark and Willie Randolph honored Dotson pitched a fourth-hitter and the American League East-leading Yankees routed the Chicago White Sox 12-2 Wednesday night.
Tigers 8, Athletics 4
 Mike Heath hit a tiebreaking, two-run single in the ninth inning off Dennis Eckersley and Detroit beat Oakland for the second straight game.
 Heath broke a 4-4 tie and Chet Lemon hit a two-run double later in the ninth against Eric Plunk.

has been shut out five times.
 Pete Incaviglia and Lrry Parrish each homered in a four-run first inning against Mark Williamson, 1-1. Jerry Browne had three of Texas' 13 hits, the fifth consecutive game the Rangers have gotten at least 10 hits.
Indians 4, Angels 3
 Rookie Brian Harvey barked with the bases loaded in the 13th inning, enabling Cleveland to win at California.
 The Indians loaded the bases with one out on an infield single by Julio Franco, Harvey's throwing error on Willie Upshaw's sacrifice bunt and an intentional walk to Joe Carter. With Mel Hall at the plate, a balk was called on Harvey, 1-1.
 Doug Jones, 1-1, shut out the Angels for four innings on two hits.
Blue Jays 9, Mariners 3
 Dave Stieb won his third straight start and Rance Mulliniks and Kelly Gruber homered as Toronto trounced Seattle.
 Stieb, 4-3, gave up six hits, including Ken Phelps' three-run homer, in eight innings.

 Mulliniks hit a two-run homer, drove in three runs and scored three times. Gruber hit a solo homer and RBI single as the host Blue Jays took a 9-0 lead.
 Fred McGriff, Ernie Whitt and Gruber hit run-scoring singles in the first inning against Mike Moore, 2-4.
Twins 2, Brewers 1
 Gene Larkin's RBI double in the eighth inning led Minnesota over Milwaukee at the Metrodome.
 An error by right fielder Glenn Braggs put Randy Bush on first base with one out in the Twins' eighth. Larkin followed with a double to left-center.
 Keith Atherton, 1-1, got the victory and Jeff Reardon earned his sixth save. Chris Bosio, 5-3, took the loss.
 The Twins scored in the sixth on two-out singles by Gary Gaetti and Bush and an error by Bosio. The Brewers tied it in the seventh against Bert Blyleven on singles by Rob Deer, B.J. Surhoff and Ernest Riles.

 good basketball, not 30 or 35," Bird said. "We did a good job at the beginning, but in the fourth quarter we just tried to hold onto the lead."
 McHale didn't think Boston's home winning streak against the Hawks was in jeopardy.
 "The game got close in some stretches and in the third quarter we got a run on them," he said. "I don't think it was ever in doubt after that."
 Now the Hawks must win the second game in order to gain the homecourt advantage going into Games 3 and 4 in Atlanta on Sunday and Monday nights.
 Unless the Garden blows up or there is a big hockey fight and we wind up playing at Northeastern (University), somehow and at some point we're going to have to win in this building if we want to advance," Rivers said.

 In the other Eastern series, Chicago is at Detroit tonight, with the Pistons ahead 1-0. Also tonight, Dallas, trailing 1-0, is at Denver in the West.
 On Friday night, the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers are at Utah, with the series tied 1-1.
Bulls-Pistons
 While 29 points is a good night's work for almost any NBA player, it wasn't enough for Michael Jordan. He averaged 45 per game in the opening round.
 For the Bulls to win against anybody, Jordan must be dominant. But none of the Bulls could do much in the first game at the Silverdome, a 93-82 defeat.

series would resemble the Midwest Division race between the teams during the season — right down to the wire.
 "This is going to be a very good series," MacLeod said.
Lakers-Jazz
 Utah surprised the Lakers at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., to tie the series 1-1. Can the Jazz pull off any more shockers now that they have the home advantage?
 "I'm not guaranteeing anything, but I do guarantee the Salt Palace will be rocking," Karl Malone said. "If we play like this game next time, we've got a good chance. I said after the first game this series was going to be a war. This is the road to the NBA championship."

PUBLIC NOTICE

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS OIL AND GAS DIVISION

DISTRICT 8 DATE OF ISSUANCE: April 28, 1988 CASE NO. 104,381

CORRECTED NOTICE OF APPLICATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Applicant, Lakewood & Fulton, 500 W. Texas, Suite 935, Midland, TX 79701, has made application for spacing exception permit under the provisions of 16 Texas Administrative Code 3.37 (Railroad Commission Statute Rule 37). Applicant seeks exception to the lease line distance requirement to drill Well No. 1, Moose Lease, 480 Acres, Section 35, Block 24, H & TC RR Co. Survey, A-755, Wildcat and C Gunn (Canyon Reef) Fields, Howard County, being 15.5 miles in a north direction from Coahoma, Texas. The location of this well is as follows: 2261' from south line and 338' from west line of section. 2261' from south line and 338' from west line of survey. Field Rules for the Wildcat Field are 467/1200, 40 Acres. Field Rules for the C Gunn (Canyon Reef) Field are 467/1200, 80 Acres. This well is to be completed at an approximate depth of 8,000 feet. PURSUANT to the terms of Railroad Commission Statute Rule 37(h)(2)(A), this permit may be granted administratively if no protest to the application is received. An offset mineral interest owner and lessee is entitled to request a hearing on this application. They must be prepared to appear at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative and protest this application through cross-examination or presentation of a direct case subject to all applicable rules of evidence. If a hearing is called, the burden of proof of the need for an exception is placed on the applicant. A protest should be prepared, however, to establish your standing to protest as an affected person, if challenged. If you have questions regarding why the applicant is seeking this exception, contact the Applicant's representative, Mickey Dobson, Agent for Lakewood & Fulton, at (915) 682-4372. If you have any questions regarding standing or other matters, please contact the Commission at (512) 463-6718. Rule 37 Case Number 104,381.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will be thinking about risking a small amount in order to achieve greatness. Take the chance! Luck will help you past any rough spots. Children provide a special brand of inspiration no one else can give. Look forward to new blessings. You put down roots, possibly building or buying the home of your dreams. Past experiences help you make a success of current relationships.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Bea Arthur, outfielder Juan Beniquez, musician Stevie Wonder, theater critic Clive Barnes, writer Daphne du Maurier, boxer Joe Louis, musician Sir Arthur Sullivan.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A lighthearted mood prevails — helping you do business. Cash in an IOU to land a job or big-money deal. Emotional support comes from an unexpected quarter. Blind dates enjoy favorable influences.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tend to routine office chores first thing. New responsibilities could be dropped into your lap just when you want to start the weekend early. Do not neglect work for pleasure. Romance will wait.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Try to get closer to the action, and opportunities for advancement will increase. A highly emotional person may not be the best candidate for a long-term relationship. Back off a bit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The emphasis today is on style and flair. It is time for a young person to decide what image she wants to project. Others offer their opinions. Do not let peer pressure influence you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If you really like someone, now is the time to let him (or her) know it. Marriage is not a frivolous matter; treat a proposal seriously. This evening could be a harbinger of things to come.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take a realistic approach to work problems. Do not let foolish pride stand in your way if you need help. An older person takes a real shine to you. Show your gratitude for favors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Co-workers could underestimate your capabilities. Take stock of your talents and insist on developing your own ideas. A new relationship makes you think you are ready for a permanent alliance!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): An excellent day for study and self-improvement projects. An unexpected turn of events enables you to take advantage of a unique business opportunity. Cut back on buying non-essentials. Eat sensibly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your initiative and ability will carry you far today. Downplay your ambitious nature or you could make enemies. Joint efforts begin to pay off. Break out of your shell; socialize with new friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): For terrific success, think before you act. Submit original ideas to superiors to show them how eager you are. The future of a relationship is uncertain. Why not play a waiting game?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The boss needs you to make an extra effort. Give generously of your time. Study the best ways to advance your career. Attending night school or a weekend seminar could help.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Early hours favor contract negotiations. Many hands not only lighten the workload, but also boost morale. Smooth over domestic differences with intelligent compromises. Romance heats up. You are walking on air!
