Papers reach accord

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Morning News and The Dallas Times Herald have settled their lawsuits accusing each other of fraudulent circulation practices.

The suits, filed in 1986, were to have been heard in December of this year in federal court in Chicago.

The Times Herald sued first, charging its larger competitor with padding its paid circulation figures and intimidating newspaper distributors. The Morning News responded with a similar suit a month later.

Details of the settlement announced Friday were not released.

The Times Herald's suit was sparked by the latest circulation figures released through the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an Illinois-based agency that audits newspaper circulation. Advertising rates are based on circulation.

According to those figures, for the six-month period ending Sept. 30, 1986, the Times Herald's daily paid circulation was 246,370 and The Morning News' was 390,987. On Sunday, the Times Herald's reported paid circulation was 338,963, and the Morning News reported 531,417.

Federal judge killed

PELHAM, N.Y. (AP) — A federal judge was shot and killed at his home in this wealthy New York City suburb Saturday by an assailant who then committed suicide, police said.

Richard J. Daronco, was shot several times by an assailant who apparently arrived as the judge was mowing his lawn, said Police Chief Anthony M. Quatroni.

The chief said Daronco ran into his house, and was pursued and killed. The assailant apparently then turned the gun on himself, Quatroni said.

It was not known whether the victim was alone. Daronco and his wife, Joan O'Rourke, were married in 1957 and have five grown children.

Klan march protested

PARKSIDE, Pa. (AP) — A crowd of 1,000, some shouting profanities or holding anti-racism signs, greeted about 40 people dressed in Ku Klux Klan robes Saturday as they marched along a court-sanctioned route flanked by rows of police.

At least six people were arrested, some led away in handcuffs after minor scuffles including one in which an officer was knocked to the ground. Most in the largely white crowd limited their protests to shouting, but some threw bottles and other objects.

Police estimated the crowd at 750 to 1,000 people, but said it may have been larger. The militant Jewish Defense League, which had promised to show up with guns, did not make a show of force, but authorities said the group was represented.

Swaggart

Planning to preach Sunday

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Defrocked TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart plans to return to the pulpit Sunday, three months after he made a tearful confession of sin and was accused of hiring a prostitute to pose for him in a motel room.

The ensuing fight in the Assemblies of God over the length of Swaggart's punishment led to his dismissal from the Pentecostal denomination April 8.

"It has been nearly three months since I stepped down from the ministry, and now we feel that it is in God's timing for us to come back," Swaggart said in the May issue of The Evangelist, the magazine of Jimmy Swaggart World Ministries.

He said his return to his ministry's Family Worship Center sanctuary, which is not scheduled to be televised live, "will be a glorious time as the choir starts to sing the beginning song and the 7,000-strong congregation joins in."

His return comes amid financial problems for his ministry, the resignations of several key administrators and a report that several top-level officials will leave Jimmy Swaggart Bible College, part of the ministry's complex outside Baton Rouge.

Although Swaggart did not specify his sin when he stepped down Feb. 21, Assemblies of God officials have said he was photographed with a woman outside a New Orleans motel.

Marvin Gorman, a defrocked minister who contends in a lawsuit that Swaggart ruined his New Orleans ministry with false rumors of adulterous affairs, reportedly hired private detectives to take the pictures.

A prostitute has said that Swaggart paid her to pose nude for him. The woman, Debra Murphree, is scheduled to be the subject of a photo spread and interview in Penthouse magazine next month.

Swaggart's hiatus is in accordance with a three-month suspension ordered by the Louisiana council of the Assemblies shortly after his confession.

National leaders of the denomination, however, overruled the state council and ordered Swaggart out of the pulpit and off television for at least a year. Swaggart refused and the denomination dismissed him after he submitted his resignation.

Swaggart, who has avoided preaching on television during his exile, recently appeared on a telethon in which he said the ministry needs $6 million, much of it to pay stations that carry his programs.

"We are scraping the bottom," Swaggart said on the telecast.

Ministry officials refuse to say how much was raised. However, Swaggart's appearance led three cable television outlets — the PTL network, the Christian Broadcasting Network and Black Entertainment Television — to cancel his programs. The three networks reach a total of about 70 million homes.

On Friday, the Baton Rouge State-Times reported that a number of top-level administrators plan to leave the Bible college.

Debra Murphree, the prostitute who claims she was paid by Swaggart to pose nude, pleaded guilty to a charge of soliciting two undercover police officers for prostitution last September.

Shiite leader to help

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Shiite Moslem leader pledged in a statement Saturday to "invest all my energies" and exert pressure to free foreign hostages held in Lebanon.

"I feel with the families of the hostages and I am doing all I can to reach a happy ending," Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, spiritual leader of the Iranian-backed Hezbollah, said in the statement.

The Rev. Ray Barnett, head of the Seattle-based Friends in the West, said Fadlallah issued the statement Saturday after the two made contact.

"Despite the limited means I have in this respect, I will invest all my energies in this direction," Fadlallah said in the statement.

"I have sought to close this file with all the means that I have and I am still working on exerting pressure to reach a humanitarian solution to this problem," he said, without specifying who he was exerting pressure on.

An aide to Barnett gave a copy of Fadlallah's statement in Arabic to The Associated Press.

Crew asks for trial

HONG KONG (AP) — The crew of a Chinese jetliner hijacked to Taiwan this month has urged the Nationalist government to send the hijackers back to China for trial or punish them harshly, an official report said Saturday.

Yang Yongling, pilot of the Boeing 737, said the hijackers placed a knife to his neck and pointed a gun at his forehead, according to a report by the official China News Agency. The report appeared in Hong Kong newspapers Saturday.

The pilot was quoted as saying at a news conference in the Chinese city of Xiamen that the two men threatened to kill anyone who moved without permission during the hijacking.

Chinese air force radar operators Chang Ching-kuo and Lung Kuei-yun used a toy gun and fake explosives to commandeer the plane to Taiwan on May 12.

Israeli schools to open

JERUSALEM (AP) — Officials on Saturday prepared to reopen public schools for Palestinians in Jerusalem and the occupied West Bank that were shut down when attendance fell sharply during widespread protests in February.

About 16,000 elementary and high school students in Jerusalem were due back to 31 Palestinian public schools scheduled to reopen Sunday, said municipal spokesman Menachem Raboy.

"All in all, it's an experiment. If they don't come, we can't teach them," Raboy said in a telephone interview.

Jerusalem's private schools, where the majority of Palestinian children learn, remain shut down.

Public schools in the West Bank are due to reopen Monday.

CAN'T Read looks to double literacy push

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The local literacy council — citing a need for more funding — expressed hope of doubling the number of students learning to read in the county at its annual meeting Tuesday.

Thirty-three students, tutors, and interested persons heard the first progress report of the Crossroads Adult Need To Read program at St. Mary's parish hall Tuesday.

The program, begun in 1987, has approximately 40 students, with 28 active as of April. Since March 10, five have completed the first book of the program, according to figures compiled by JoAnn Bermea, VISTA volunteer coordinating the literacy effort.

The goals of the group include doubling that number by next May, said Judith Gray, president of the Literacy Council and the Board of Directors.

Another area of potential growth will be fund-raising to purchase more materials and provide training workshops for tutors, Gray said.

The board treasurer, Jonell Smallwood, said the program has $229.63. Most of the materials used have been provided by the West Texas Library Association and Howard College. But the group is expected to become self-supporting, Gray said.

Two workshops are planned for the fall. A phonics workshop will be scheduled for the second or third weekend in September and a Laubach method training course soon after.

Anyone interested in attending the next training session should call Bermea at 267-6311, Ext. 344.

Members also selected board members:

Rose Von Hassell, JoAnn Bermea, Debbie Sanders, Beau Vizcaino and Reta Faught.

Various committees reported on activities and asked for more help in accomplishing tasks. Anyone interested in serving on a committee or helping with special projects should call Bermea. Committees needing help include: public relations, fund-raising, program and materials, nominating, personnel and telephone committee.

Members discussed the printing and distribution of a new logo, designed by a federal prison camp inmate. Funds for the project are lacking, however.

A flyer has been designed to distribute to children at local schools and Parent-Teacher Association meetings.

SONDRA BELL MCDONALD

ROBERT MCDONALD JR.

ANTRICE A. BURKS

YOLANDA Y. JONES

A married couple who are former residents recently graduated the same day from two different institutions.

Sondra Bell McDonald, daughter of Shirley A. Bell, 2507 Cheyenne Dr., received a Certificate of Dental Hygiene, with honors, from the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, May 14.

She is a 1980 graduate of Big Spring High School. Sondra attended Howard College for two years, earning an associate's degree in arts, before transferring to UTHSC.

Sondra is the wife of Robert L. McDonald Jr., also of Big Spring, and son of local resident Robert L. McDonald Sr. and Mrs. Peg Downing, Des Moines, Iowa.

Robert received a bachelor's of business administration in finance degree from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, May 14.

A 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School, Rob also attended Howard College for two years before transferring to Southwest College.

LEVELLAND — Sandra Alcantar, Big Spring, was among the record 659 persons who received degrees or certificates May 13 during South Plains College's 30th commencement exercises.

Alcantar earned a certificate of proficiency in surgical technology. "This graduation is a milestone in SPC's 30-year history," said Dr. Robert Cloud, SPC vice president for academic affairs. "We are very proud of our 1988 graduates; they are a special group of students who have done exceptionally well during their two years at SPC. We wish them well in their future careers."

Private First Class Yolanda Y. Jones will be returning to Big Spring Saturday after three years of duty with the U.S. Army in Woerzburg, West Germany. Yolanda attended Big Spring High School. She is the daughter of Betty Hankins, 2001 Johnson, and the mother of Jonathan Cobbs.

Antrice A. Burks, also a daughter of Betty Hankins, will leave today for U.S. Navy basic training in Orlando, Fla. Antrice is a graduate of Hallmark Institute of Technology in San Antonio and was an employee of the local 7-Eleven convenience store chain.

She will be entering the Navy as an E2 because of her college credits. Burks will receive AIT training as a yeomen in Mississippi.

Robby Roten, son of Mrs. Bobby

Bowlin, 3607 Tingle, and Robert Roten, Snyder, graduated from Amarillo College May 17 with an associate's degree in applied science.

While attending Amarillo College, he maintained a 4.0 GPA and was chosen physical therapist assistant student of the year.

SNYDER — Jay Doug Ingram, Coahoma, was graduated with honors from Western Texas College in commencement exercises conducted May 13 in the Central Courtyard on the campus.

Ingram received an associate in applied science degree. He was graduated magna cum laude with a grade point average of 3.72 on a 4.0 scale.

Outstanding College Students of America is pleased to announce that Kimberly D. Hagood has been selected as a new member because of outstanding merit and accomplishment as an American college student.

Kimberly is the grandchild of Mrs. B. Affleck, Big Spring, and the daughter of former residents Oakey and Rebecca Hagood, Odessa. Kimberly recently graduated from McMurry College in Abilene with a major in elementary education.

Breath mints for dogs tested

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — If the 100 dogs at Nabisco Brands' testing center are any indication, the cracker company may have a winner on its hands with its new doggie breath fresheners meant to improve Fido's social skills.

The dogs, "on full-time staff" at the Sherburne, N.Y., testing center, have sampled the new version of Milkbone dog biscuits and are begging for more, Nabisco spokesman Mark Gutschke said Thursday.

"They've given it their five-paw rating," he said.

The new product combines dog biscuits with breath mints. The biscuits, which will debut nationwide by the end of the month, are designed to clean teeth like regular Milkbones but also improve a dog's breath.

Treasury secretary may be helping Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush is looking to a powerful ally on Pennsylvania Avenue for help in seeing that his most valuable campaign asset, the current 65-month economic recovery, will last at least until Election Day.

The ally is not President Reagan but a political supporter who occupies the building next door, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III. And some economists contend Baker may be giving the vice president more than just advice.

Treasury officials won't comment on the speculation, but some economists point to recent activity in international markets as evidence that Baker has been leaning hard on major U.S. trading partners to help elect Bush and other Republicans.

These actions include recent intervention in currency markets by other central banks and heavy foreign purchases of U.S. Treasury securities, particularly by Japanese investors — measures that can help stabilize the shaky dollar, minimize inflation and help keep the economy on an even keel.

A leading proponent of such a view is David Hale, chief economist of Kemper Financial Services in Chicago. He cites the spending of huge sums by Japan and other countries to stabilize the dollar, at prices higher than investors are willing to pay, as a form of "political insurance" for Bush.

Foreign allies "don't want to see a big discontinuity in U.S. economic policies. It's not so much that they're against Dukakis and for Bush. They just want stability in the United States in an election year," Hale said in an interview.

"Two years ago, Washington wanted a lower dollar. Now Washington wants a strong dollar, at least until the election. Because Baker is fearful that a dollar decline could lead to another stock market crash," Hale said.

Although a weak dollar can help ease the trade deficit by making U.S. goods more competitive, it can also reignite inflation and drive foreign investors away from Treasury securities and other dollar-based investments, threatening the financing of the government's huge budget deficit.

Foreign-exchange reserves held by the world's central banks last year grew to $790 billion from $559 billion, and Hale estimates that two-thirds of this increase comes from efforts by central banks to support the dollar.

The Bank of Japan reportedly has earmarked another $60 billion to spend this year to help prop up the dollar against the yen, after expanding its foreign-exchange holdings by $40 billion in 1987.

At the same time, foreign investors have become the single largest buyer of Treasury securities. This helps underwrite the U.S. budget deficit, since selling Treasury bonds and bills is the government's primary way of financing its red ink spending.

An economic downturn at this point could spell disaster for Bush's presidential efforts.

And while most economists don't see a recession likely in the months ahead, many forecasters are expressing new fears about an escalation in both inflation and interest rates.

Emperor makes rare appearance

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito, making a rare public appearance, greeted 1,900 of Japan's leading luminaries Thursday at his annual spring garden reception.

Wearing his customary morning suit, the 87-year-old monarch spoke briefly to politicians, scientists and athletes assembled in a lush downtown park.

Some in the audience responded with traditional shouts of "Banzai!" or "Long live the emperor!"

It was Hirohito's first public appearance since his birthday April 29, when he waved at throngs of cheering Japanese from the balcony of the Imperial Palace. The emperor's schedule has been cut back since his intestinal bypass surgery in September.

BALTIMORE — Risen Star, with Eddie Delahoussaye wins the 113th running of the Preakness Stakes at the Pimlico Race Track Saturday.

Risen Star rises to garner victory in Preakness run

BALTIMORE (AP) — Risen Star took the lead on the final turn and went on to win the Preakness Stakes Saturday as Kentucky Derby winner Winning Colors finished third, ending hopes for a Triple Crown winner this year.

The filly was in the hunt but appeared to get roughed up in the backstretch and was carried wide on the turn.

Winning Colors finished behind Brian's Time and failed in her bid to become the first filly to win two Triple Crown races.

Thoroughbred racing's last Triple Crown winner was Affirmed in 1978.

Risen Star, ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye, was third in the Derby.

Louie Roussel III, co-owner and trainer of Risen Star, hedged all bets on Saturday when he would start the colt, despite his good showing in the Derby.

Roussel was especially reluctant because rain had made the Pimlico track muddy. However, the track condition was changed to good after the sixth race.

"This is the best racehorse I've had in 20 years and I don't want him to run on an off-track if I don't have to," Roussel said.

Risen Star ran the race of his life, carrying scale weight of 126 pounds over 1 3/16 miles in 1:56 1-5. Risen Star's winning margin over Brian's Time was 1 1/4 lengths. Brian's Time was another 1/4 lengths over Winning Colors, who was 2 1/2 lengths in front of Private Terms.

Completing the order of finish were Cefis, Regal Classic, Forty Niner, Sorry About That and Finder's Choice.

"Very tough race," said Winning Colors' jockey Gary Stevens. "Forty Niner took too much out of her. She got knocked around a lot in the backstretch. She pulled up terrific."

"We had heard that Pat Day (aboard Forty Niner) was told to go to the lead. We were getting pack wide and as we came down the backstretch it kept getting wider and wider. Jealousy is a powerful thing and it cost that man a lot more than it cost us," Stevens said.

"You saw who beat who in the end. All week long they were saying it was going to be a match race, but there were eight other horses in the race. It seems that jealousy got the best here," he said.

Risen Star, who earned $403,700 for Roussel and co-owner Ronnie Lamarque, paid $15.60, $7.80 and $4. Brian's Time, owned by Mr. and Mrs. James W. Phillips and ridden

Two boxers on a mission

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Howard County Boxing Academy is quiet this Friday evening — except for the sounds of shuffling feet.

Darkness encloses the building on Sgt. Paredes St., except for one room; the room where the shuffling feet can be heard. In that room is an old boxing ring and a few hardback chairs.

Inside the ring are Baldwin brothers Juan and Martin, working up a sweat as they shadow box furiously.

The scene is incomplete. A third Baldwin brother is usually going through the paces champion-level boxers endure.

But on this Friday afternoon older brother Jamie Jr. is missing. And, although it's difficult to detect by the way Juan and Martin are training — they will never get the chance to train with brother Jamie again.

Jamie's drowning death at Lake Colorado City while fishing with a friend earlier this day brought a sudden end to the life of the 20-year-old. It was a sad ending for the promising 132-pound contender who collected more than 200 ring victories in his life — a man who had his sights set on qualifying for the Western Trials in Houston, the next step to the Olympic Trials in Colorado Springs.

Despite the shocking blow to the two younger Baldwin boxers,

Young athlete drowns in Colorado City

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Twenty-year-old Big Spring resident Jamie Baldwin Jr. died in a drowning incident Friday afternoon.

The local boxer was pronounced dead by Mitchell County Justice of Peace Jo Ann Merket at 12:56 p.m. Friday as a result of drowning.

Baldwin and friend Pete Lara apparently had been fishing in a restricted area at Lake Colorado City. According to official reports, Baldwin slipped and fell into the water at approximately 9:20 a.m. The current of the discharge from the Texas Utilities Power Plant was evidently too strong for Baldwin to overcome.

Baldwin's body was recovered at 12:25 p.m. by Game Warden Ronnie Aston, Park Superintendent Mark Fambro and Mitchell County Deputy Sheriff Tony Pantajo.

It was the second drowning incident in a week at approximately the same spot, according to reports from Colorado City. A 20-year-old Snyder man drowned May 11 when he was fishing and slipped into the lake.

According to superintendent Fambro, there are signs at the area warning people to stay away. "There are signs posted and there is a chain length fence around the area," Fambro said Saturday morning.

they maintain a torrid pace during 30 minutes of shadow boxing.

"I found out about it after fifth period at school," says 16-year-old Martin, a sophomore at Big Spring High School.

Juan, the most polished of the three at 18-years-old, has just returned from Omaha, Neb., — a man who had his sights set on competing in the National Golden Gloves Tournament. The 125-pound flyweight was defeated by Frank Pena of Rocky Mountain, Colo. in the quarterfinals.

"I didn't find out until I got to the house. My wife (Rita) picked me up at the airport, but she didn't know about it," he says. "I still haven't gotten over the shock of his death. It still hasn't set in — it will take a while," says Juan.

But even with the tragic news of their brother's death, it's still workout time for the younger two Baldwins. Both were preparing to compete in the Western Olympic Box-Offs in Lubbock this weekend.

For Juan, the number seven flyweight in the U.S.A., it will be one more step toward his goal of making the Olympics. For Martin, it will be a major challenge.

"I have to lose two-and-half pounds," says the 139-pound Martin.

Is that the reason they are training, in the wake of their brother's death?

"We're doing what he would want us to do. He would want us to do this," Martin says with conviction.

"He loved it (boxing) just like we do. He would be doing it if it was one of us," adds Juan.

Martin finally slows down from

Thompson give Steers first taste of "his" spring ball

Big Spring Steers Head Football Coach David Thompson watches the progress of the offense as quarterback and son, Rance, rolls out to pass.

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

"There isn't a place filled, everything is wide open," said new Big Spring Steers head football coach David Thompson. Thompson, who came from Post, recently completed sending his troops through offseason.

The 23-year coaching veteran seems satisfied with the progress his team had made. Working with a "skeleton" coaching staff, Thompson has been putting his team through rigorous morning workouts (10:30-11:30 a.m.), emphasizing quickness and strength.

At the onset of offseason, Thompson said the Steers worked four days a week on weights and quickness. The past month they have been spending two days on football skills and two days on weights and quickness.

Quite a job for only four coaches. The rest of the new coaching staff won't come to work until the fall. So Thompson and assistants Greg Hogue, Dwight Butler and John Velasquez have been working out 90 athletes. Middle school coaches Mike Ritchey and Bobby Doe have lent a helping hand occasionally.

In the fall, Doe and Ritchey will be elevated to the high school level. New coaches coming in the fall will be Texas Tech grad Tim Tanenhill; Ricky Long, line coach from Post; and Kenny Basinger from Edmond, Okla.

Thompson will inherit a relatively inexperienced football team. Only two starters and 12 lettermen return from last year's 6-4 squad.

"By any means I didn't step into an easy job, Thompson acknowledged. "We don't have very many experienced kids, plus we're trying to put in a new system. But the kids have done a good job, I have no complaints since I got here in February."

The new system Thompson is installing is a multi-step offense

Longhorns Aggies in title game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Rightfielder Scott Bryant hit three singles to lead Texas to an 8-5 win over Baylor in Southwest Conference Tournament action at Fayetteville Saturday.

Texas advanced to the championship round against Texas A&M.

The Longhorns, 53-9 overall and ranked third nationally in the ESPN-Collegiate Baseball poll, utilized 10 walks and four wild pitches by Bears' pitchers to gain the triumph. Baylor finished the year at 25-31.

Catcher Brian Johnson broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning to put the Longhorns ahead for the duration, and two insurance runs scored on wild pitches.

Baylor had overcome a 5-2 deficit with three runs in the seventh and eighth innings on runs-batted-in by Mike Briley, Chad Patterson and Steve Klifas.

Left-hander Steve Cantu, worked 1 2/3 innings of shutout relief to pick up his second victory of the year without a loss.

Jeff Kilgore, who allowed the winning single by Johnson, was tagged with the loss to close the year at 2-6.

Baylor leftfielder Mike Robison blasted three singles to lead the Bears.

Winning Colors falters in bid at Triple Crown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Winning Colors got some rough treatment in the Preakness, just like another filly. Genuine Risk, received eight years ago.

Winning Colors, a front-running winner in the Kentucky Derby, was beaten to the lead by Forty Niner and carried wide into the first turn and down the backstretch.

She finished third, failing in her bid to become the first filly to win two Triple Crown races.

In 1980, Codex carried Genuine Risk wide into the stretch and her backers contended that cost her a shot at racing history. A foul was claimed on behalf of Genuine Risk, but it was disallowed by track stewards. She went on to also finish second in the Belmont.

There was no foul claimed by Gary Stevens, who rode Winning Colors at Pimlico on Saturday, but he said when the filly started into the first turn, Forty Niner "immediately bumped into me and packed me out a little ways."

"Down the backside we were about eight or nine lengths off the inside fence. We were bumping continuously. I was just trying to get my filly settled into a nice stride. Finally, at the 4 1/2 pole, I moved out just to get away from him. And he moved to me again further."

Jockey Pat Day, who rode Forty Niner, said he was just trying to put the Woody Stephens-trained colt where the footing was best.

"It seemed the entire week that best place to be was off the rail," Day said. "I just tried to put my horse in the best place on the track, which was three or four horses off the fence."

"The filly, of course, she was trying to hold her ground, too, and her and I bumped a few times. It probably hurt her more than it did me."

Stevens said D. Wayne Lukas, the filly's trainer, had expected rough going.

"Everybody's known that Woody said he was going to the front and a lot of it was passed off," Stevens said. "Wayne came to me yesterday and said, 'He is going to the front and the plan is to try and pass you wide around the first turn.'"

"So Wayne said he didn't think

Forty Niner could get in front of her, but if he does, he said, "Just ride your race."

Lukas, who took a lot of criticism when his Codex carried Genuine Risk wide into the stretch eight years ago, downplayed the roughness of the race.

"Of the first four finishers, I think we had the roughest trip," Lukas said. "I didn't think there was any bumping that merited a steward's look. It was race riding more than anything else. ... They were carrying her wide the whole way."

Lukas said he thought the condition of the racetrack, which was muddy the first six races Saturday before being declared good, affected the 113th running of the Preakness.

"I think the biggest thing was if we had a good track," Lukas said. "I'm not going to blame the track for her defeat. But I think it might have changed the complexion of the race a little bit. All things equal, I would've wanted everybody to run on a better track. Risen Star may have still won the race. ... I think the track looked a lot better looking at it than it was running over it."

Winning Colors' third-place finish showed Lukas enough for him to say he would run her in the 1 1/2-mile final leg of the Triple Crown at Belmont Park on June 11.

"We probably will, but we've got three weeks to decide," Lukas said.

Spring

Continued from page 1-B with various dives, options, pitches and sweeps. Thompson said the offense will be switched from the Veer to a multi-set attack. This year's team will throw the football, and the linemen will have wider splits in between them.

"We won't have those real close splits like they had last year. We'll spread the defense (opponent's) and give the backs room to run," said Thompson.

Instead of a 5-2 defense, the Steers will employ a 4-3 defense this season. "This is what we've always run. It is very adaptable to contain all offenses.

"The defensive philosophy must be to contain the running-passing game. It must be played with enthusiasm. We'll try to get to the man with the ball — and hit him," quipped the man who has a 92-40-2 coaching record, including four state playoff appearances at Post.

Thompson said he will run a tight ship as far as discipline goes.

"I had to kick two kids off for drinking. They might be back in the fall. You are automatically booted off for drugs. One thing is for sure, we'll know how to act everywhere we go.

"Kids want to be disciplined. They want to be told how to conduct themselves. If not, they'll do whatever they want because there's no guidance."

Thompson declined to say much about any outstanding performers during the spring. But he did single out wide receiver Tony Lewis, running back Chris Cole and linemen Jessie Rios, Joe Downey and Pete Buske.

"It's hard to get a really good view without the pads. Some players look great without pads. Sometimes that 4.5 speed turns to 5.1 in pads."

Another good thing about Thompson's coming is that oldest son Rance is a quarterback, a seasoned quarterback at that. As a sophomore last season, Rance helped led Post to a 6-4 record.

Thompson and wife Juanita also have another son, Ritchie, age 11.

The new Big Spring mentor is hoping he can continue to draw large numbers. Besides the 90 high school players, there are 65 eighth graders and 80 seventh graders. Next year there is expected to be 115 seventh graders out for football.

"The thing is keeping the kids in the program. A school the size of Big Spring should have at least 40 seniors out every year. We'll have 28 this year, that's not bad, but it's not all that great either."

Martin got into a lot of arguments, but if anyone tried to start some mess with us, he would be the first to jump in for us."

Summing up their feelings, Juan says:

Spring City Classic a successful competition

Michelle Stoll flexes her muscles during the teen women's competition at the Spring City Classic Body Building Championships.

Javier Datiz give the judges a front pose during the preliminaries of the Spring City Classic Body Building Championships at the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium Saturday morning.

For the second year in-a-row, the Spring City Classic Body Building Championships was a big success, according to meet coordinator Doug Beams.
"We had a real good turnout for the contest," said Beams, who's also the vice-chairman for the National Physique Committee. "The merchants were a big help and the media gave us excellent coverage," Beams continued. "Rick Wells of Channel 9 was the M.C., and he did a good job."
There were more male entrants than women in the Level I contest. The combined winner in the women's division was Denise Rutkowski. The overall winner for the men was Tony Belvin, who also won the men's lightweight division.
Beams said he was surprised that only five locals competed in the arm wrestling competition, but noted that twice as many arm wrestlers competed than last year. Arm wrestlers were here from all over Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Beams said Saturday night's finals were a joy to see.
"The body building competition was good and the crowd response was great for guest poser Russ Testo," said Beams. "He got a standing ovation, which is the highest honor you can get in any kind of competition."
Our other guest poser Jayne Kathana was flawless in her performance also. The auditorium was in great shape. One promoter from San Antonio wanted to know if he could take it back with him.
"I'm all for making it a annual event."

Clippers get lottery pick

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Clippers president Alan Rothenberg promised his team would move quickly to sign Kansas star Danny Manning after the Clippers drew the No. 1 pick in the NBA draft lottery Saturday.
"We'll sign him — it's not going to be cheap, but we'll sign him, no question about that," said Rothenberg from his home, where a gathering of friends and media joined him to watch the lottery on television.
"It's going to take a lot of money to sign him, but we're happy to part with it," Rothenberg said. "He gives us something to sell, but he gives us the nucleus of a winning team, and that's what we will need to sell."
Rothenberg and the Clippers had better luck drawing draft cards than he did opening fortune cookies.
"My wife, Georgina, and I went through an entire bag of fortune cookies and didn't find anything worthwhile," Rothenberg said.
"We went through 99 cookies, and on the last one, literally, we got one that said, 'Your dearest wish will come true.'"
The crowd at Rothenberg's home erupted as Rothenberg's son, Danny, brought his father a Clippers jersey with Manning's name on it after the announcement that the Indiana Pacers would pick second was made from New York.
"Obviously, it's absolute luck to get this pick, and anybody deserved that luck," said Rothenberg. "But the way things have been going for us the past few years, we deserve that luck."
Clippers' head coach Gene Shue, contacted in Colorado Springs where he was attending the Olympic basketball tryouts, was overwhelmed.
"I'm just shocked," he said. "I wanted to watch the lottery in a very, very quiet place by myself. I didn't want anybody to see my reaction if we didn't get it."
"Danny Manning is a player we can sell," said Shue, whose club has struggled at the box office as well as on the court.
Clippers' General Manager Elgin Baylor, who will meet with Manning Sunday in Colorado Springs, represented the Clippers at the drawing, held at the American Museum of Natural History.
"There are some franchise-type players who play well, but don't necessarily make those around them any better," Baylor said. "Danny Manning will make everybody who plays around him that much better."

Racer escapes injury at Indy time trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Pancho Carter, trying to make the lineup for his 15th Indianapolis 500, escaped serious injury as he suffered through two crashes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where time trials for the May 29 race resumed Saturday.
Meanwhile, starting positions in the 72nd Indy race also continued to elude former champions A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock.
Rookies Rocky Moran and John Andretti and Tony Bettenhausen qualified for the tentative starting lineup, while Carter and Johnny Parsons punctuated the action with crashes.
Carter and Parsons, half-brothers who have the same mother and whose fathers both were Indy-car drivers, walked away from their accidents, but both Carter's primary car and his backup were badly damaged.
The first incident came in the final turn of the fourth lap of a qualifying attempt, when Carter slid hard into the outside wall with both right-side wheels. He bumped along the wall for several hundred feet, then spun across the track and into the inside barrier after his right-rear tire shredded.

Carter later switched to his backup car and was practicing when the Buick-powered March slipped high up in Turn 2 and crashed heavily into the wall with its right side, then skidded to the inside wall. Again, he jumped from the car moments after it stopped moving and walked away.
Carter was checked at the infield hospital and released after both incidents. A team spokesman said they intended to try to repair the first wrecked car in time to qualify Sunday.
Qualifications will end at 7 p.m. EDT Sunday.
Parsons, who didn't come up with a ride until Thursday when rookie Harry Sauce failed to pass the final phase of his rookie test, slid up into the wall with both right-side wheels in turn one. He glanced off the concrete and was able to keep the car under control and drive back to pit road.
Rutherford, a three-time Indy winner, was the only one of the three big names to get into the 2½-mile oval for a qualifying attempt by mid-afternoon on the third of four days of qualifications for the Indy race.

The 50-year-old Texan's engine stalled while trying to leave the pit, then he called off his attempt before completing his first lap.
"The engine was not up to par," Rutherford said. "Something happened to it after the last run, or something went away, because it wasn't making the rpm (revolutions per minute) it should have."
That left Rutherford with one more allowable attempt in his 1987 Buick-powered Lola. He called off the first of three possible attempts a week earlier, on the opening day of qualifications, after two laps over 207.
Rutherford's crew took the car back to the garage area, where they changed engines in 1 hour and 36 minutes and got Rutherford back out. Changing engines usually takes up to four hours.
But, when he went back on the track for practice, the new engine blew, necessitating another change.
Four-time winner Foyt, 53, is in the same situation as Rutherford, with two strikes on his primary car, both of them coming last week.

Rutherford's fellow Texan still took part of Saturday to help get Moran into the tentative lineup in one of his team's cars. Moran qualified with a four-lap, 10-mile average of 207.181.
Foyt said, "I just wanted to get him (Moran) in where he could be happy. I'm in deep trouble now. I blew an engine this morning and we're struggling. If I can run 208 or 207 now, I'll take it."
Johncock, 51, a two-time winner, practiced early, but was not ready to make a qualifying attempt. He did not get on the track until Tuesday.
Bettenhausen was the first driver onto the track when qualifications opened, completing a four-lap run with an average of 208.342 mph. He also had called off two previous attempts.
"The third time had to be the charm," said Bettenhausen, the namesake of his father, killed at Indy in 1961. "I'd never been in that situation before and I can assure you I did not sleep comfortably last night."

He joined 21 drivers who tentatively qualified for the 33-car starting field during the first two days of time trials.
It was more than an hour later before Moran became the next qualifier on the hot, slippery asphalt oval. He was followed moments later by John Andretti, the nephew of 1969 Indy winner Mario Andretti and cousin of Mario's son, Michael, both already in the tentative lineup. John, too, had to do it on his third attempt.
"I think it was beautiful," Mario said of his nephew's run at 207.894. "I had confidence he'd get it."
The younger Andretti, son of Mario's twin brother Aldo, said, "I'm glad it's over with. This has not been an easy month."

Risen Star

by Angel Cordero, was $6.40 and $3.60, while Eugene V. Klein's filly, was $3.40.
Trainer D. Wayne Lukas had expressed concern before the race about the safety of his roan filly because the track looked like a marsh Saturday morning.
"Hell, I'm more concerned with the safety of the horse than the race," he said, adding that she would start because "we're committed; America committed."
The filly, who led all the way in winning the 1¼-mile Derby by a neck, ran a big race Saturday but just didn't have it in the stretch.
Winning Colors and Forty Niner broke on top, with Forty Niner in the lead when they went past the finish line the first time, with a mile to go.
The filly was second and Sorry About That was third.
These three led the nine-horse field into the clubhouse turn and onto the backstretch. Delahoussaye had Risen Star fourth at this point.
Risen Star moved into third midway down the backstretch and followed Forty Niner and Winning Colors into the final turn. Approaching the quarter pole, Delahoussaye moved Risen Star into the lead. He opened up too much of a lead for the hard-charging Brian's Time to catch him.
Before the race, Forty Niner's trainer, Woody Stephens said, "I think I'm going to leave there running with her. He may be last but he's going to hurt some others, too."
Forty Niner wasn't last, but he did take something out of the filly. Winning Colors was the first filly to start in the Preakness since Kentucky Derby winner Genuine Risk finished second in 1980 to Codex, who was trained by Lukas.

Winning Colors went into the Preakness with three straight wire-to-wire victories.
Risen Star, who earned a start in the Kentucky Derby by winning the Louisiana Derby, boosted his record for the year to five victories in seven starts, with a second and a third.

The colt didn't get his first post-Derby workout until Friday, when he blew out three-eighths of a mile in 34.4 seconds on a muddy track.
After that workout, Roussel, who had reluctantly entered the colt on Thursday, still would not commit himself.

Co-owner Lamarque had wanted to run the colt all along. After Roussel entered him following a discussion with Pimlico president Frank DeFrancis Wednesday night, Lamarque said, "I just can't wait to see his face when the big horse comes across the finish first, and Louie Roussel is recognized as a great trainer, which he is."

SMU AD has a rugged job

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Doug Single sometimes wishes he were Doug Double or Doug Triple or Doug Quadruple. There is a need for two or three Doug Singles these days in the athletic department of Southern Methodist University.

Athletic Director Single is besieged with problems at every turn trying to rebuild the Mustangs' damaged national image.

Freeman file

"Don't ask me if I would do it (come to SMU) all over again," said Single, who breathed new life back into the athletic programs at Northwestern University.

"It's been incredible since I've been at SMU. There's just so much to do and not enough days in the week to do it."

Single has faced adversity at every turn in the road since he was hired last year by SMU President Kenneth A. Pyle to patch the Mustangs' reputation which went south, north, east and west after the NCAA gave them the biggest hammer in history.

Single hired a football coach with a big name, Forrest Gregg, the Green Bay Coach who is an NFL Hall of Famer and graduated from SMU.

However, Single learned a little lesson about people when he had a handshake deal with his first choice, who turned him down at the last second.

Gregg was a popular choice among the SMU alumni but the media are withholding judgment to see if Gregg handles his public relations the way he did at Green Bay. Gregg didn't get as much as D pluses on some media report cards.

Sometimes Single wishes he were still an offensive line coach for Bill Walsh at Stanford.

"Bill was tough to work for," Single quipped, "but not as tough as this."

How tough? Single's track coach Ted McLaughlin took leave this spring for "personal reasons" and didn't reappear until the Southwest Conference meet in Austin last weekend.

It's a mystery Single is working on.

Single also has to hire a sports information director and an assistant SID. Larry White left the school for Alabama and Paul Ridings Jr. is leaving soon to become an assistant athletic director at a college in Utah.

"Interviews are under way," Single said.

Then there's the basketball situation. This was one area of stability. Single got his first Southwest Conference championship when the Mustangs went 28-7 and defeated Notre Dame in the NCAA tournament before being ousted.

Most of the players from that team return and big plans were being made for Dave Bliss' club in 1988.

Single had launched a drive for big crowds and big victories against bigtime teams in Moody Coliseum next winter. CBS was looking into televising a game with the Mustangs in Dallas around the Cotton Bowl week.

Bliss won't be on the R.S.V.P. list.

Although he was being paid more than the school president, Bliss decided New Mexico was a lot safer place to be.

The Mustangs were only averaging 3,500 fans with a championship team. The Lobos sell out every night.

It's easier to recruit at New Mexico.

Also, there is the rumor of NCAA problems for the Mustangs' track and basketball programs. Single said he is aware of a possible NCAA inquiry but no official letter has reached his office.

"Dave was the highest paid coach in the Southwest Conference, by a bunch," said Single. "It was NOT a financial situation. I wish I had the contract Dave had at SMU."

Single said SMU will persevere in track, football and basketball. The right way.

"We're not going to be the best team money can buy anymore," Single said recently at the APSE regional meeting in Austin. "Our goal is to graduate 90 per cent of our student athletes at SMU, not the 30 per cent or so that's been leading the conference, minus Rice."

Single also has to get into the fund-raising business, BIG time.

The Mustangs will need $1.7 million just as the start up costs for football in 1989.

SMU will need $1.5 million just to fix up Ownby Stadium so it will seat some 20,000 to 25,000 when the football team come back to the campus.

"We'll probably have 20,000 media for our first game," Single said.

SMU opens with Rice in 1989.

"We know it will be tough," Single said. "We're in a conference that shoots its prisoners."

"C'MON, PUT EM UP, I GOTTA WIN ONE SOMETIME!"

Undergraduate draft; back door to the NBA

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

When NBA commissioner David Stern came to work last Monday morning, the first thing he did was check his mail. That's because last Saturday midnight was the deadline for undergraduates to declare for next month's draft and there was no telling what interesting names might show up in Stern's mailbox.

A year ago, nine players, including mystery candidate Reinhard Schmuck of Baruch College, made themselves available for the draft.

Only five were selected and only two of those — Derrick McKey and Olden Polynice, both with the Seattle SuperSonics — made it through the entire season.

This year, guard Rod Strickland of DePaul, forward Charles Shackelford of North Carolina State and center Tito Horford of Miami filed early. More were expected, including Memphis State teammates Sylvester Gray and Marvin Alexander, declared ineligible because of involvement with agents.

The undergraduate draft, created out of a series of court cases in the '70s, offers an option for them. It has produced some of the league's top stars including James Worthy, Akeem Olajuwon, Magic Johnson and Isiah Thomas. It does not, however, come equipped with guarantees — for the players or the teams.

Declaring for the draft does not mean a player will be picked. Schmuck was among those passed over. And being picked does not assure success. Undergrads Vincent Askew and Norris Coleman both went in last year's second round and did not flourish. Ricky Brown was a sixth round washout.

McKey, forced into the draft because of his involvement with an agent, was the ninth player selected and made the most of his opportunity. He was selected for the all-rookie team, averaging 8.5 points and four rebounds per game. Polynice carried an asterisk as an underdog because he played a year in Italy before arriving in the NBA. With the Sonics, he averaged 4.1 points and four rebounds per game.

Some NBA people believe undergrads who declare for the draft do themselves no favors. "I'm totally against coming out early," said Marty Blake, a former NBA general manager who runs the league's most widely used scouting service. "It's to a kid's advantage to stay in college for four years. By staying in school, he develops his skills, emotionally, artistically and physically and then everybody benefits."

"Generally, a kid needs the full four (years) and more. It takes seniors a couple of years to develop in most cases. Look at (Patrick) Ewing. It's taken him a few years. Very few draft choices make an immediate impact. Houston picked (Ralph) Sampson and (Rodney) McCray 1-3 one year and finished last. It takes time."

Kansas assistant coach Ed Manning, whose son, Danny, almost certainly will be the No. 1 pick in this draft, understands that factor. That was why he advised against an early exit from college for the All-American last spring.

And yet, there are NBA people who believe Manning could have been playing in this league four years ago, without ever stopping at Kansas. Jack McMahon, director of player personnel and assistant coach for the Golden State Warriors, is one of them.

McMahon, who has spent 35 years in pro basketball, was working for the Philadelphia 76ers when he coaxed Harold Katz, the owner of the team, and Pat Williams, the general manager, out to watch Manning in high school.

"He had a quadruple double — double figures in rebounds, points, assists and blocked shots — in 32 minutes," McMahon said. "I thought he was sensational and that he could have made the transition to the NBA four years ago."

McMahon does not subscribe to the maturity doctrine. In 1975, he signed Darryl Dawkins straight out of high school for the 76ers. Moses Malone took the same route to the NBA. "Some people are meant to be basketball players," McMahon said. "College wouldn't have benefited Dawkins that much. Dawkins was meant to play."

"Through the years, I've seen several kids in high school who I wanted to draft. One that comes to mind in Darrell Griffith. He was a good then in high school in Louisville as he is today. He's just a great talent."

McMahon thinks the early entry is appropriate, but only for some players. "It's different for every player but if a kid is going to be one to seven, a lottery pick, then what is he going to gain by another year in college?" he said.

Blake said he thought the players who declare won't change things measurably in the draft. "I don't see anybody undergraduate-wise who would make an impact," the scout said. "There hasn't been an impact player since Michael Jordan."

Jordan came into the NBA in 1984. He was an undergraduate draft choice, whose name showed up in the commissioner's mailbox one Monday morning in May.

What if Bobby Knight was a horse trainer?

By ED SCHUYLER
AP Sports Writer

First, Bobby Knight cheered on Winning Colors as the filly gave his buddy, D. Wayne Lukas, a first victory in the Kentucky Derby.

Then Knight cheered up Hoosier hysterians by deciding to remain as basketball coach at Indiana University.

Knight was a guest of Lukas at the Derby, and the trainer said the coach "got genuinely excited during the race and bruised his hands beating them on the pipe" railing of the box seat.

Knight then bruised the feelings of Indiana fans by holding discussions with the University of New Mexico about becoming its coach.

Pep rallies were held and full-page newspaper advertisements were bought to beg Knight to stay at Indiana, where he has won three national championships.

Joy reigned amid the sycamores when Knight announced this week that he would continue to honor a contract that runs until June 30, 1997.

There was good news for New Mexico, too. The school now can schedule a game against the Soviet National team.

While Knight supporters wrangle their hands in public, other people felt the chances of his going to New Mexico were a lot less than the chances of the Indy 500 being moved to Ohio.

To some, the real good news about Knight staying is that the university didn't have to fire its president to keep its coach.

The 47-year-old Knight reportedly was upset because IU president Thomas Ehrlich had been so bold as to criticize him publicly for taking his team off the floor against the Soviets and for a thoughtless remark about rape made during a television program about stress.

"There wasn't any question about rights here," Ehrlich said in talking about a university president's right to criticize a coach publicly.

"I never saw this as an issue of academics versus athletics, nor did our coach," Ehrlich said.

It should be noted, as Ehrlich did, that those joining in protest actions against Knight's leaving were a relatively small number.

As for Knight, he said Ehrlich's criticism was not the reason he considered taking the job at New Mexico.

He said he was upset that people could think he "was supposed to be upset with a president who emphasizes academics. I think it's obvious I would be that kind of president's biggest supporter."

Knight said the reason he turned down a fresh challenge is that he no longer has the energy needed to build the Nex Mexico program to where he would want it to be.

It does take time and uncommon energy to build an organization for a man as demanding as Bobby Knight — or for a man as demanding as D. Wayne Lukas, who once was college basketball coach himself.

Lukas once coached at a branch of the University of Wisconsin and, if he had not left the court for the track, feels he might have followed another friend, Johnny Orr, right into the coaching job at Michigan.

Imagine if it had been Knight, and not Lukas, who had been lured to training horses.

Knight's jockey claims foul, but the objection is rejected.

From somewhere, a chair is thrown onto the track.

Welcome home Jimmy

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — Jimmy Johnson may have left this Gulf Coast town and gone on to become University of Miami football coach, but that doesn't change things, friends say.

"He was a lot of fun then, and he's still funny now," says Jim Maxfield, a close pal since junior high school. "Jimmy's basically the same old guy. He's a little more mature and a little more polished because of the circles he runs in."

Now, more than 30 years later, Maxfield and others who know Johnson "roasted" the coach of last season's national collegiate football champions Friday night in Port Arthur.

Nearly 1,000 attended to honor Johnson, a 1961 graduate of Port Arthur Thomas Jefferson High School.

One good story was told by Homer Newman, with whom Johnson played summer league baseball in the early 1950s.

During batting practice before one game, Johnson was shagging balls for pitcher Homer Newman.

The ball struck Johnson, then 9, flush in the chest. He collapsed in a heap, out cold.

"At first, I thought he was dead," Newman, now a physician, told the Port Arthur News. "I know I was real glad when he woke up."

Paul Benton was sales manager of the Townsend Dairy when Johnson's father, C.W. Johnson, was superintendent of the ice cream department. Because his parents' house was right behind the dairy, Jimmy was a frequent visitor.

"He always had a smile on his face. He was always laughing," said Benton. "But the one thing I did see in Jimmy was a lot of ambition. He had a lot of get-up and go. You could tell he wanted to make something of himself."

Now the owner of Energy Country Ford, Aubrey Raiford used to own a car lot near the Johnsons' home. The ever-energetic Jimmy — "a kind of fat, little-bitty fellow," Raiford recalled — would, on occasion, wax automobiles in his spare time at no charge.

"He was always a friendly kid," Raiford recalled. "He'd just come by to visit and almost always wind up helping us out. The salesmen were always teasing him about working for nothing. I told him when he grew up that I'd make him a good deal on a new car."

Taxpayer says let there be light

To the Sports Editor:

I am writing this letter to you and the City of Big Spring in reference to the Cotton Mize Softball Field in the city park.

There has been numerous occasions where a group of guys or a family would like to enjoy a good game of softball but can't cause once it gets dark the lights cannot be turned on unless you've paid $75.00 to rent.

Why then are we paying city taxes?

Why then do we have a softball park that has to be rented? Next thing you know we'll have to pay $75.00 to let our children go down a slide.

While I'm on the subject of paying fees, on the 5th of May which was Cinco de Mayo, the fee for the pavilion was paid, why was there no lights in the restrooms? One of these days a kid is gonna get bitten by a snake and maybe, just maybe, the lights will go on.

U.S. boxers outpoint Soviets

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Light heavyweight Bomani Parker came back from a second-round knockdown to beat Andrei Karavaev and little-known Alfred Cole added a win as U.S. boxers tuned up for the Olympic Trials with a 5-4 victory Saturday over the Soviet Union in an invitational match.

World champion Kenneth Gould and U.S. Amateur titlist Frank Liles also won their bouts, leading the American team to its first victory in its last five matches against the Russians.

"I have only one dream and that's the Olympic gold," Gould said after a 4-1 welterweight decision over Alexander Ostrovsky. "That was the right stuff going toward the Olympics."

U.S. fighters met their Russian counterparts in nine fights ranging from 147 pounds to super heavyweight in the first of only two competitions between the two countries before the Seoul Olympics. The two teams meet again Friday in Jacksonville, Fla.

Parker, in his first fight since shoulder surgery in March, forced Karavaev to take a standing eight-count in the third round to pull out a 5-0 decision in a fight that put the American team ahead and had the crowd at Harrah's Tahoe in a frenzy.

"I was a little worried about the shoulder, but in the last round I didn't have much choice," said Parker, a 20-year-old from Richmond, Calif. "I think I was a little too relaxed, but pulled it together in the final round."

Parker was aided when the referee took away two points from the Russian for holding in the final round.

"Come Olympic time I'll be a lot sharper," said Parker, who must beat the favored Andrew Maynard to make the U.S. Olympic team in the July Olympic Trials.

Gould, who has been mired in a slump since losing a decision to Cuba's Juan Lemus in the finals of the Pan American Games, wasn't happy with his effort despite the win.

"The performance was not up to standard," said Gould, who had lost four of his last five fights. "I was slower than anything."

In the third and final round, however, Gould had just enough speed to capture the round and the narrow decision.

"I was thinking about the world championship," said the Rockford, Ill., fighter. "I just had to block everything out and go for it."

Liles, a favorite to make the Olympic team at 156 pounds, knocked down Evgeni Zaitsev just seconds into their bout and forced him to take a standing eight-count later in the round.

Zaitsev, his face bloodied, rallied to win the third round but still lost a 4-1 decision.

"I'm a serious amateur boxer," said Liles, of Syracuse, N.Y. "Before I had the experience nationally but not internationally. Now, I feel right at home with them."

Cole, the U.S. Army champion, was the surprise of the night, pressuring his way to a 4-1 decision over Renat Trishev at 178 pounds.

"I know my capability, I know I can do better," Cole said.

The most impressive performance on the Russian side came from Sergei Kobozev, who stopped U.S. Marine light heavyweight champion Joseph Pemberton in the second round.

Pemberton was knocked down twice in the first round and was taking a beating when his corner threw in the towel at 40 seconds of the second round.

American heavyweight Charlton Hollis won his fight while sitting on his stool after being hit with a low blow by Evgeni Sudakov midway through the second round.

Lakers turn off Jazz

INGELWOOD, Calif. (AP) — There was no doubt in Magic Johnson's mind that the Los Angeles Lakers would be playing more basketball this season.

"We knew we'd do it," the Los Angeles guard said after the defending NBA champion Lakers beat Utah 109-98 Saturday in Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals.

"We came out and played our game and had to forget about the other night," Johnson said, referring to the Lakers' 108-80 humbling by the Jazz Thursday night in Game 6.

"We hung in there and played smart," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers' 41-year-old center. "We held our poise and that was the key for us. We were motivated to win and we did."

While Johnson seemed confident the Lakers would beat the underdog Jazz, backcourt mate Byron Scott wasn't all that sure.

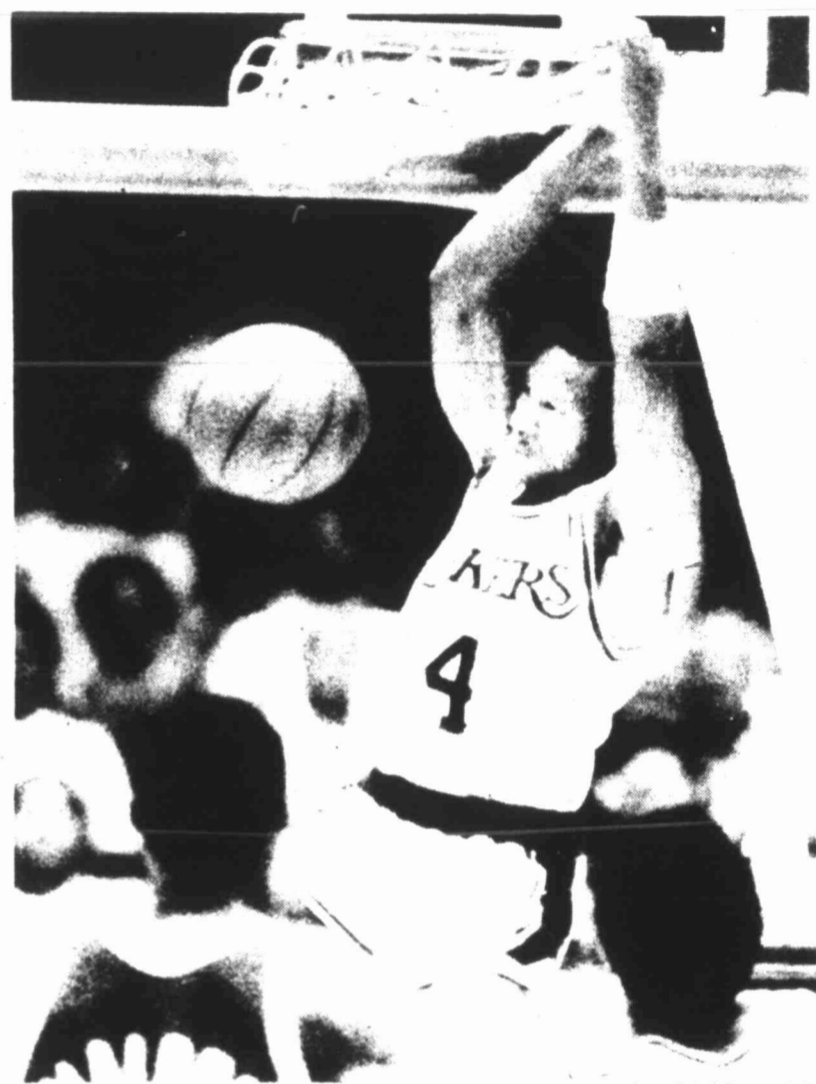

"It was kind of scary to know that you could be eliminated here in your own building," Scott said. "The home court advantage meant nothing; they had just won here."

Johnson paced the Lakers with 23 points, 16 assists and nine rebounds. Scott scored 29 points, and James Worthy added 23.

Each of the Lakers paid tribute to the Jazz, who at the outset didn't figure to extend the second-round playoff series to the limit.

Utah guard John Stockton, who actually outshined Johnson during the series, said the Jazz players weren't completely pleased, despite having put up a stronger-than-expected battle against the Lakers.

"It's been a long time since

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Lakers guard Byron Scott dunks for two points during first quarter action of the deciding game in the NBA Western Conference playoff action with the Utah Jazz at the Forum.

anybody has taken the Lakers to a seventh game (since 1984), but I don't think it's something to be satisfied with," Stockton said.

"Like 'hey, we got close to the Lakers. I just don't think that's enough for this team. We want to take another step."

Rose atop Colonial standings

FORT WORTH (AP) — For the first time in three rounds, Clarence Rose has the lead all to himself at the Colonial National Invitation tournament.

Rose was in a five-way tie for the lead after Thursday's opening round of the $750,000 event. The group at the top was down to three after Friday's second round.

The other two dropped away Saturday, leaving Rose three shots in front with the chance to score his first victory in eight seasons on the PGA Tour.

"We have to chase him," Ben Crenshaw said after Rose used a burst of four birdies in a stretch of six holes to pull away from the pack.

And chasing him may not be easy, Joey Sindelar said.

"I don't think Clarence has reached his potential yet," said Sindelar, in second place going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $135,000 first prize.

"I think you're going to see his name a lot. Nobody knows how good he can be. That gets into the mental side of it. But I think you'll see a lot of him."

"He hasn't won — but he hasn't blown any either. He hasn't been there that much. He hasn't been tested. He might run away with it," Sindelar said.

Rose's playoff loss to Bruce Lietzke last week in Dallas could be an important factor.

"After playing well last week, he's in his comfort zone," Sindelar said. "He'll be a lot more comfortable tomorrow."

Rose, who had a 5-under-par 65 in the third round, agreed.

"Last week helps a lot going into tomorrow," he said after completing three trips around the Colonial Country Club course in 10-under-par 200. "I feel pretty comfortable. I'm there. I'm just waiting for myself to go ahead and take it or somebody to give it to me."

Sindelar's 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole completed a 67 that left him alone in second at 203.

Ben Crenshaw was next at 204 after a 68.

Lanny Wadkins, who shared the lead through the first two rounds, could do no better than match par 70 and fell five shots back at 205. He was tied with Mark Calcavecchia, who had a 68.

Scott Hoch, also a co-leader through the first 36 holes, went to a 71 and was tied at 206 with Mark Lye, John Huston, John Mahaffey and John Inman.

Mark Lye scored nine "3's" and a "2" in a 63, one stroke off the course record. Mahaffey had a bogey-free 66, Inman shot 67 and Huston had a 69.

Lee Trevino had a 68 and was at 208.

Crenshaw, Wadkins, Sindelar and Hoch all had a share of the lead at one point during the round.

Texas netters whitewashed

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — David Wheaton and his top-seeded Stanford teammates breezed past 14th-seeded Texas 5-0 on Saturday in the second round of the NCAA collegiate men's tennis championships.

Later Saturday, No. 2 Louisiana State breezed by No. 17 California-Berkeley 6-0; eighth-ranked Georgia defeated No. 9 UCLA 5-4 in a rematch of last year's championship game; sixth-ranked Michigan squeezed by No. 12 Georgia Tech 5-4 and No. 4 Pepperdine defeated No. 18 Tennessee 5-1.

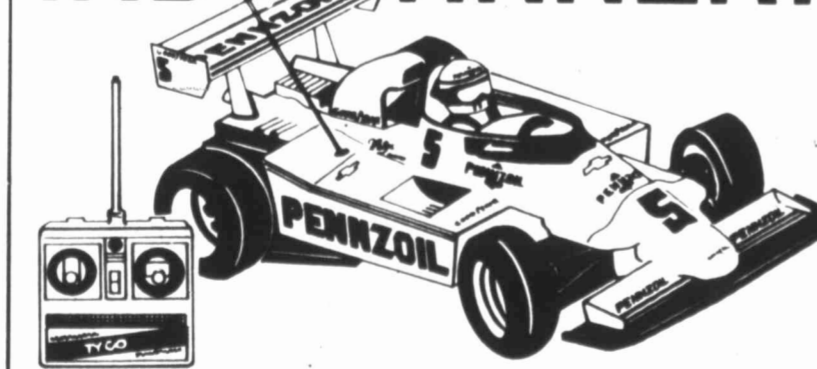

In other early matches Saturday, fifth-seeded California-Irvine defeated No. 11 Arizona State 5-1; No. 7 Kentucky defeated 10th-seed Clemson 5-2, and No. 3 Southern California defeated 15th-seeded Southwestern Louisiana 5-1.

In Stanford's victory, Wheaton, the No. 1 singles player, defeated Texas' Paul Koscielski 6-2, 6-3. Jeff Tarango, Patrick McEnroe, Martin Blackman and Jeff Cathrall also won for Stanford, prompting a cancellation of the No. 6 singles match and the three doubles matches after Stanford clinched the meeting 5-0.

Only Tarango's opponent in No. 2 singles, Hubert Karrasch, came close to winning a set against the 22-1 Stanford team, taking him to 7-6 (7-3) before losing the second set 6-2.

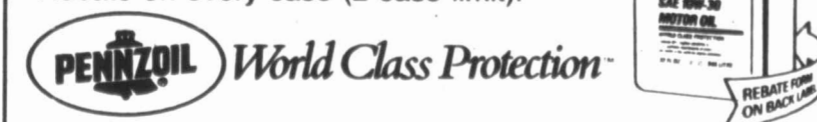

In several of the other matches, the top-seeded No. 1 singles players led the way. LSU's Jeff Brown defeated Wood Hunt of Cal-Berkeley 6-4, 6-4; Pepperdine's Robbie Weiss beat Tennessee's Shelby Cannon 6-1, 6-0; and Cal-Irvine's Mark Kaplan beat ASU's Doug Sachs 6-1, 6-1.

Rangers hurler tosses gem

ARLINGTON (AP) — Paul Kilgus pitched seven perfect innings before Gary Gaetti led off the eighth with a double for Minnesota's only hit as the Texas Rangers beat the Twins 3-0 Saturday night.

American League

Kilgus, 6-3, became the eighth Texas pitcher to take a no-hitter into the eighth inning but Gaetti hit a hard line drive to left-center field on a 1-0 pitch.

Kilgus walked Gene Larkin, the next hitter, but struck out Kent

Hrbek and got Tim Laudner to line into a double play.

The left-hander struck out two, walked two and hit a batter. Kilgus was bidding for the third no-hitter in Rangers history. The last Texas no-hitter was pitched by Bert Blyleven against California, 6-0 on Sept. 22, 1977. Blyleven was the Twins' pitcher Saturday night.

The other no-hitter in Rangers history was pitched by Jim Bibby on July 20, 1973, 6-0 over Oakland.

Kilgus also flirted with a no-hitter on May 11 against Baltimore, going 5 2-3 innings before the Orioles got their first hit.

Texas reached Blyleven, 2-4, for two first-inning runs. The Rangers loaded the bases with one out on singles by Scott Fletcher and Ruben Sierra and a walk to Pete Incaviglia. Pete O'Brien's sacrifice fly scored one run and Larry Parrish followed with a run-scoring single.

Incaviglia hit a 414-foot homer to center in the seventh to make it 3-0. Yankees 3, Athletics 2.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Rhoden, who came off the disabled list on Saturday, pitched five strong innings for his first victory since opening day as the New York Yankees defeated the Oakland Athletics 3-2.

With a 26-14 record, the Yankees are off to their best start since 1978, when they had an identical record after their first 40 games.

Rhoden, activated earlier in the day after being out since April 29 with a lower back injury, allowed five hits and one run to improve to 2-3.

The Yankees scored all their runs in the first inning, taking advantage of wildness by starter Curt Young, 3-2.

Young gave up only four hits, but walked seven. He had walked only eight batters in his six previous starts this season.

New York reliever Cecilio Guante worked his way out of a first and third, one-out jam in the sixth by striking out Dave Henderson and Glenn Hubbard. In four innings, the right-hander allowed only two hits and struck out four.

Hurler fires two-hitter for 1st win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Floyd Youmans pitched a two-hitter for his first victory of the season as the Montreal Expos beat the San Francisco Giants 6-0 Saturday.

Youmans, 1-3, struck out seven and walked one en route to his first victory since Sept. 6, 1987. He retired 18 of the first 19 batters he faced.

National League

Youmans allowed singles to Candy Maldonado in the second and Chris Speier in the seventh. It was the right-hander's fourth career two-hitter.

The Expos scored three runs in the fourth inning off Rick Reuschel, 5-3. Reuschel has been shut out in all three of his losses.

Consecutive doubles by Tim Raines and Hubie Brooks gave the Expos a 1-0 lead in the fourth. Andres Galarraga followed with a single that sent Brooks to third and Galarraga moved to second on the throw home. Jeff Reed followed with a two-run single.

Johnny Paredes was struck by a pitch from reliever Don Robinson leading off the seventh and went to third on a grounder. Paredes was trapped off third on a missed squeeze attempt by Youmans, and made it back to the bag on a throwing error by catcher Bob Melvin.

Paredes scored on Youmans' single, and Youmans came around on a groundout and a run-scoring single by Tim Wallach.

With one out in the eighth, Galarraga hit his ninth home run to make it 6-0.

Pirates 7, Braves 3
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Andy Van Slyke hit a tiebreaking, three-run homer in the fifth inning Saturday night, carrying the Pittsburgh Pirates over the Atlanta Braves 7-3.

With the score 3-3, Braves starter Kevin Coffman, 2-4, retired the first two hitters in the fifth before Barry Bonds beat out a high-bouncing grounder to third and Jose Lind walked.

Van Slyke, who had only one hit in 23 at-bats, then lifted an 0-1 pitch over the right-field wall for his sixth homer of the season and his first since May 4.

Brian Fisher, 4-0, survived a three-run first inning for the victory, allowing three runs and six hits in five innings. Bob Kipper, Barry Jones and Jeff Robinson finished up.

Cardinals 7, Astros 4
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tony Pena hit a three-run homer with one out in the 11th inning Saturday night, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals over the Houston Astros 7-4.

Pena's fifth homer of the season came against Joaquin Andujar, 0-1. Andujar was facing his former team for the first time since he was traded in 1985.

Willie McGee opened the 11th by reaching on an error by second baseman Jim Pankovits, who is filling in for injured Bill Doran. McGee stole second and pinch hitter Curt Ford was walked intentionally with one out. After a double steal, Pena homered into the left-field stands.

Bob Forsch, 3-4, shut out the Astros for two innings.

The Cardinals stole six bases but were outhit 14-7. The Astros left 12 runners on base to St. Louis' four.

Tom Brunansky hit a two-run homer, his fifth, in the Cardinals' sixth for a 4-4 tie.

Jim Pankovits had a three-run double in the top of the sixth, putting Houston ahead 4-2. Billy Hatcher and Glenn Davis singled and with two outs, Alan Ashby swung and missed at strike three. The ball, however, got by Pena for a wild pitch and Ashby reached first base, loading the bases. Pankovits then doubled.

The Cardinals scored in the first when Coleman singled, stole his 20th base, went to third on a groundout and came home on McGee's sacrifice fly.

Stacey Griffith, and her seven-week-old daughter, Erin, visit the birthing room where Erin was born. The room offers the comforts of home, with the safety of a hospital.

No place like home

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

The birthing experience, no matter how many times you have given birth, is often traumatic.

And the trauma of labor and delivery can be more intense for first-time parents.

To provide comfort with a relaxed atmosphere and a family-oriented setting during birth, Dr. Stanley Musick, Scenic Mountain Medical Center, and Malone and Hogan Clinic have joined forces to offer a new birthing experience in Big Spring.

The birthing room offers the "comforts and convenience of a home delivery, with the safety of being in the hospital," said Musick.

While it is true that there's no place like home, Musick noted that "because of complications that can't always be anticipated," it's safer to deliver at the hospital.

Traditionally, a soon-to-be mother labors in one room; when she is ready to deliver, she's moved to the delivery room, where she is placed on the delivery bed. After delivery she's moved once more, to a recovery room.

An entire typical delivery can be handled in a birthing room: The woman will labor, deliver and recover in the same room, where she and the baby's father can begin bonding with the baby immediately, Musick explained.

According to studies cited by Musick, babies tend to have fewer psychological problems the earlier the parents and baby bond.

Decorated like a personal bedroom, the birthing room features a country-style, home-like setting, complete with colorful bedspreads and curtains, wallpaper, rugs, a rocking chair, plants and pictures. Even the bathroom is colorfully decorated.

"It's homey and comfortable — but I've got oxygen if I need it and a fetal monitor," Musick said. "The quality of medical care is no different."

Musick said birthing rooms are common and in use in larger cities.

Big Spring residents Scott and Stacey Griffith agree the experience is great.

When Stacey gave birth to their daughter, Erin Elizabeth, seven weeks ago, she was in the birthing room. "It's easier and more relaxing because you don't have to be moved," Stacey said.

She compared the experience by recalling the birth of her son, Richard Brett, 2, in a typical hospital setting. Her husband, Scott, was with her during both births, and "It was less traumatic on him," in the birthing room.

Stacey was in labor for 14 hours, but decided to labor at home. She was admitted at 4 a.m. and within two hours her daughter was born, on March 30.

She and Scott held the baby immediately and began the bonding process. "I breast-fed her right after birth, and Scott was allowed to place the baby's footprints on the hospital birth certificate," Stacey said.

A newcomer to the Malone and Hogan Clinic staff in March, Musick said West Texas is "home country" to him. "I have family in Snyder and Abilene."

He came to Big Spring because of "a big need for another OB/GYN in this area."

Musick and Dr. M.A. Porter, who also practices at Malone and Hogan Clinic, are the only OB/GYNs in Big Spring. Porter also uses the birthing room at his patient's request.

Many expectant parents drive long distances when its time for delivery. Musick sees this as an unsafe practice.

"People are driving 20 to 40 minutes to have a baby, referring to deliveries in Stanton and Midland hospitals. "While driving a long distance, a woman may deliver, and it's especially unsafe with a nervous father behind the wheel."

"There is a distinct advantage of delivering in your home town. One thing we offer is that the lady who takes care of you while you're in labor may know you."

"It's those little extra touches that make it nice, and being in your hometown offers this, because they (the staff) care about you."

Another extra touch is the "Special Moments" post-partum room, which is also remodeled and decorated to offer an at-home setting.

After delivery, the new mother will be moved from the birthing room to the "Special Moments" room where, after a four-hour observation period in the nursery, the baby will be brought to the parents for as long as they desire.

There are liberal visitation policies for this area. Relatives, close friends — and the baby's siblings — will be able to visit.

Certain criteria must be met to become eligible for the program, the hospital nursing staff said, including:

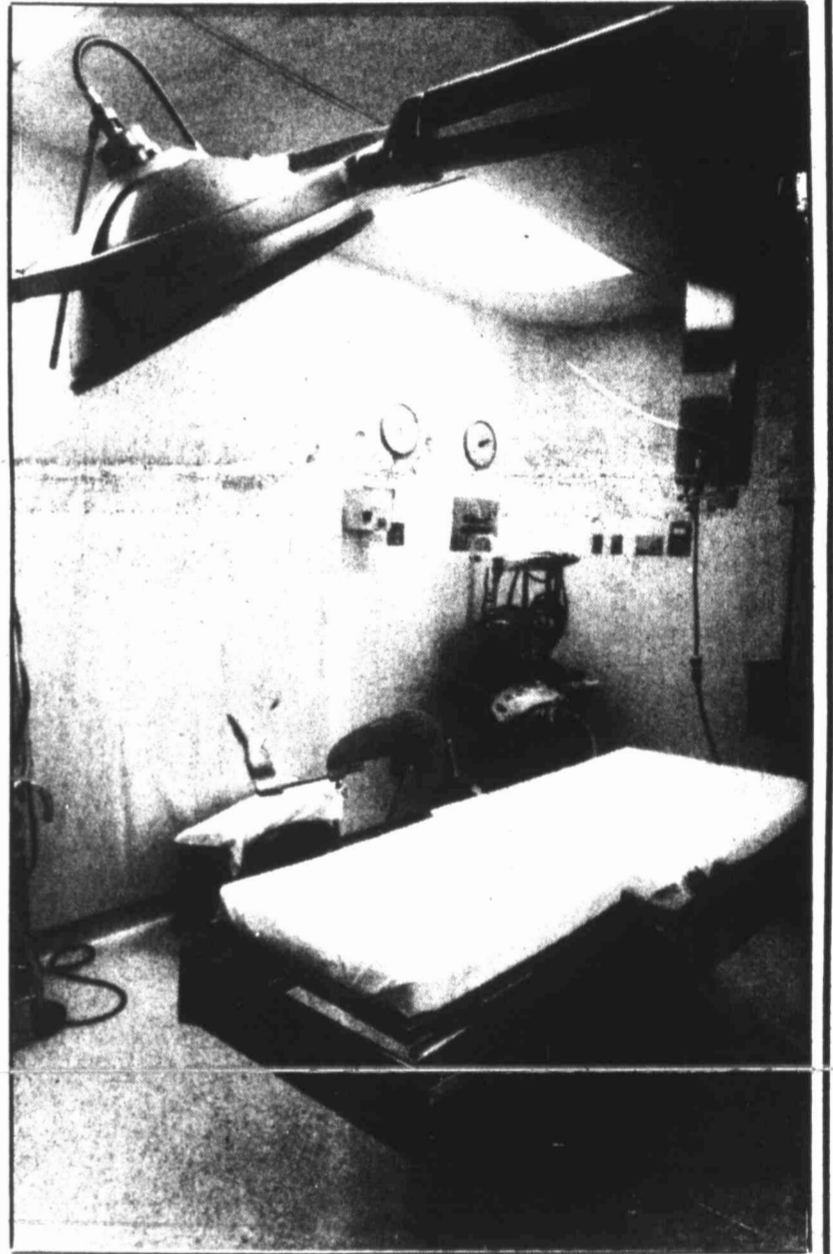

- Uncomplicated, low-risk pregnancies;
- Pre-approval by OB and pediatric physician;
- Pre-registration;
- Pre-approved insurance or pre-pay;
- Short stay — 36-48 hours
- Lamaze class attendance.

Special Moments extras include a candlelight dinner for parents the evening after birth, free baby care products, and a free car seat.

"We encourage prepared childbirth classes. It's tremendous help for the fathers," Musick said. "Fathers feel ill at ease if they're not prepared."

Many individuals have supported and helped begin the new program, including nurses and Musick's wife, Suzi, who helped plan the decorations.

"We've had a lot of support from our new administrator, David Wiley," Musick said.

The delivery room at Scenic Mountain Medical Center is a typical setting at most hospitals.

Old Caddies don't die

They just get re-upholstered

Dale "Dooley" Cameron relaxes on a custom-made couches he fashioned from the trunk section of an old Cadillac.

By BILL H. HOBBS
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

LEVELLAND — In 1980, songwriter Bruce Springsteen mused in his song titled "Cadillac Ranch," about the passed glory days of the American automobile and immortalized yesteryear's tailfanned and chromed Cadillac.

Similarly, Levelland resident Dale Cameron seeks to hold on to classic autos, but in a different way. He makes them into couches.

"Pink Cadillacs are pretty popular right now," Cameron said. "We like the big lights, the chrome and the fins."

Cameron, who prefers the nickname "Dooley," builds the couches from the trunk sections of old sedans, especially Chryslers and Cadillacs.

The 44-year-old couch crafter built his first car couch in 1973 from a 1955 Chevy — the same model as his first car.

Several of the classics-turned-couches have been sold at prices in the $6,000 to $8,000 range, he said.

One was bought by a Dallas resident, and others have gone to New York, Chicago, California, Switzerland, Sweden, Germany, Finland and Australia.

Legendary '50s rocker Fats Domino recently expressed an interest in a pink Caddie couch, Cameron said, and a '57 Chevy couch was bought by a classic car museum in Chicago.

A letter to Cameron from a couple in Geneva, Switzerland, details their efforts to get one of the Cadillac couches shipped from Levelland, only to have it arrive and not fit through the front entrance to their apartment building.

The couple rented a construction crane to hoist the crate to the rooftop, then brought it in through the terrace door, according to their letter.

It may be fitting that Cadillacs turn into couches not far from the Hockley County courthouse. In 1921, soon after Levelland was chosen as the county seat, the first county commissioners met at the site where the courthouse would later be built.

According to a historic sign on the courthouse lawn, they met in a Cadillac.

Cameron and Sons Upholstery, a modern, yellow corrugated metal building not far from the courthouse in downtown Levelland, houses Cameron's auto body and upholstery shop.

A 1936 gasoline pump graces one corner — with a price of 19 cents a gallon. Nearby, a 1953 Coke machine stands, full of 6½ ounce bottles of Coke in those thick, curved glass bottles, still 25 cents a pop. Cameron converted a Coke cooler into a couch once, and now wonders if that qualifies as pop art. The cooler was one of the old fashioned door-on-the-top kind of soda coolers that are still found in some old general stores.

Signs cover the walls at Cameron's, touting Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Studebaker, De Soto, Oldsmobile, Dodge and Kaiser-Frazer.

Cameron explains that Kaiser-Frazer produced a series of fine automobiles from World War II until the mid-1950s, a heyday for the American car industry.

A decades-old Mobil service station sign in the shape of a winged red horse stands in a corner. Most of the rest hang on the walls.

Weed control for Howard County lawns

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Q. Can you recommend weed control practices for my lawn?

A. Weed control in turf is a constant problem. It seems that if one weed is eliminated, another tries to take its place. The winds that are so prevalent in our area blow weed seeds from one area to another and often, a weed free lawn will suddenly become infested with unwanted grasses or broadleaf weeds.

Ask the agent

The first defense against weeds in the lawn is a healthy, thick, dense cover of grass. If there are any bare spots or areas in the lawn that are thinning out for one reason or another, weedy plants have a chance to become established. Surprisingly, mowing is of critical importance in having a dense turf. If the grass is allowed to become too tall between mowings, the cover is removed. Bermuda grass produces its leaves at the end of the stems, so if over 50 percent of the height of the grass is cut at one time, and all that remains are stems — sunlight can filter down to the soil surface and weeds will grow. A dense turf is produced by frequent mowings and removing less than 30 percent of the leaves at any one time.

Chemical Weed Control

If weeds do become established and there are too many to hand dig out, then the use of chemicals is necessary. There are two types of chemicals that can be used to either keep weeds from becoming established (pre-emerge) or chemicals to kill them once they are growing (post-emerge). Since the control of many of the weeds differ, the weeds that are common in West Texas will be discussed individually.

• Rescue Grass — is a winter grassy weed that becomes a problem in late winter or early spring and is often called winter rye or winter grass. Although it is growing rapidly in March and April, the best time to control it is in August before the seed germinates.

The first northers that come down with the approach of winter generally lower the temperatures with a cold rain from the thunderstorms. The rescue grass actually germinates at that time but doesn't become noticeable until springtime when it begins to grow rapidly and produce seed heads. Control is best when a pre-emerge herbicide is used before the first of September.

If the rescue grass is already established, glyphosate can be sprayed in dormant bermuda grass in late January or early February before there is any growth or even green up of the Bermuda. Once the rescue grass starts growing in early March, it is almost impossible to kill. It will eventually die on its own when temperatures warm up in May and June.

• Nutgrass — is actually not a grass at all but a sedge and there are two types of nutgrass in West Texas with which to be concerned, yellow and purple. Since the nutgrass has an underground food reserve in the nutlet, this weed is difficult to control.

Repeated applications of MSMA will reduce the stand, but it seems to really never eliminate it. There is a new product on the market called Image that has shown to do an outstanding job of eliminating nutgrass without harming the turf. There are some restrictions, so read the label and follow directions carefully.

• Sandburs — or grassburs are a problem in the sandier soils. Sandburs are an annual grass that germinates every year from seed in May when temperatures are warm. The best control is to use a pre-emerge herbicide (on established lawns only) in March or early April. This treatment will also control broadleaf weeds from seed. In Bermuda grass lawns, repeated applications of MSMA will eventually kill established grassbur plants as well as other grassy and broadleaf weeds.

• Broadleaf Winter Weeds — include dandelion, sow thistle, members of the mustard family such as London rocket, as well as others. These can be controlled with a pre-emerge herbicide applied the last part of August or early September, just like controlling rescue grass.

• Summer Broadleaf Weeds — such as pigweed, kochia and spurge can be controlled with a pre-emerge herbicide applied in the very early spring. Kochia will germinate in late February, so application must be made by early February. The summer annual broadleaf weeds are easily controlled with any of the 2-4-D type hormone sprays. (CAUTION is needed when using hormone type sprays to avoid damage to susceptible plants).

• Perennial Broadleaf Weeds — such as dandelion and matt chaff flower are often difficult to control. These tough weeds usually take repeated applications of 2-4-D hormone type herbicide for adequate control (CAUTION should be used when hormone type herbicides are used near susceptible plants. Read and follow label directions).

Ideas for grandparents

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Even if you live miles away, you can be a source of comfort and stability to your grandchildren. Here are some ways to spice up your relationship with grandchildren who live at a distance:

Focus on family

Send postcards and letters. Young children love colorful picture post cards. When you write letters, include pictures of yourself, your pets, scenes of a trip or pictures of the child from a previous visit. And some trivia questions and riddles for older children.

Send audio cassettes. The children can play them over and over again and a taped "letter" is easier for a young child to understand than a written one. Children can reply with their own tape. They can talk about their friends or animals, read stories they have written at school, sing or play the piece they are practicing on a musical instrument.

Use phone calls. If you need to watch your budget, reserve calls for special occasions. Sometimes events that are occasional, rather than regular, take on special significance.

Invite one grandchild to visit at a time. It prevents sibling rivalry and will help assure a relaxed time for both of you. Make plans with the child, by letter or phone, for something special to do, such as a trip to a museum, an amusement park or a fishing spot.

Teach your grandchild a skill, such as how to embroider, use tools, make a favorite recipe or plant a garden. If possible, arrange time for play with other children during the visit too.

Take a trip together. It doesn't have to be an elaborate or overly expensive excursion. Go to a lake, a state park, historic places or stay in a motel with a swimming pool. Choose your trip destination based on the child's age and changing interests.

To be important to your grandchild, you don't need everyday contact. You can maintain emotional contact from a distance. And when you're together, watch your grandchild thrive on your undivided attention and unconditional love.

Names in the news

MIKHAIL BARYSHNIKOV

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Mikhail Baryshnikov, whose stage appearances have been sparing in recent years, will launch a five-week national tour with dancers from the American Ballet Theater with a July 1 performance here.

Baryshnikov is expected to dance the title role in George Balanchine's "Apollo," the male lead in Balanchine's jazzy "Who Cares?" and in Jerome Robbins' "Other Dances" at the Six Flags over Texas amusement park.

The 40-year-old dancer was forced to cancel a two-day Dallas engagement last August because of an ankle injury.

Baryshnikov was a member of the Soviet Union's Kirov Ballet when he defected in 1974 while on tour in Toronto. He joined the American Ballet Theater, then danced briefly with the New York City Ballet before becoming artistic director of the ABT.

He also had starring roles in the movies "The Turning Point," "White Nights" and "Dancers."

ATLANTA (AP) — Actress Victoria Principal, who has been active for several years in the Arthritis Foundation, will serve as the group's main celebrity advocate in dealings with government agencies.

Ms. Principal, a former star of the television series "Dallas," was named the Arthritis Foundation's ambassador to government. She has been national campaign chairwoman for the foundation since 1983 and has written three books on beauty, diet and exercise.

A foundation announcement

VICTORIA PRINCIPAL

credited her efforts with persuading several states to keep drugs used for arthritis on the list of medicines paid for by the Medicaid program.

She has been an Arthritis Foundation trustee since 1984.

The Atlanta-based foundation says 37 million Americans are affected by arthritis.

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — The transcontinental custody dispute over the 5-year-old son of actor Peter O'Toole awaits a decision by an English court, says the attorney for the child's mother.

"We're waiting to see whether England has jurisdiction over the child," said Raoul Felder, attorney for Karen Somerville O'Toole, O'Toole's former girlfriend. The decision was expected Monday.

Monmouth County Superior Court Judge Alexander D. Lehrer ordered O'Toole to return the child, Lorcan, to his mother by Tuesday, but O'Toole refused.

O'Toole, 55, is in London with the boy and is being fined $1,000 a day by the New Jersey court for failure to comply with the order, his attorney, Jeffrey P. Weinstein, said Thursday.

If the English court rules that the child is not within its jurisdiction, Felder said he will seek an arrest warrant for O'Toole. That would prevent the actor from entering the United States without facing arrest, Felder said.

The case is being heard in Monmouth County because O'Toole bought a home near here for Lorcan and Ms. O'Toole, 39.

Sally and Jim Beam enjoy the cool of the evening at the pool/courtyard area of their home at Coronado Hills Apartments.

Residents made many friends at Coronado Hills Apartments

"You can't imagine how quiet it is," says Jim Beam of his home at Coronado Hills Apartments.

Jim and Sally were sitting in their beautifully decorated living room, recalling the 19 years they had lived at Coronado Hills.

"We've had such good neighbors," says Sally. The Beams still visit former neighbors Roger and Kenita Kionka who now live in Fort Worth.

"They lived next door to us. Denita planted a magnolia tree in their patio here, and they still ask about their tree." Jim usually sets out tomato plants on the Beams' patio, and he expects a good crop. "I added Jalapenos this year," he says.

Sally appreciates the extra storage space and large closets of their apartment. And the location is handy to Marcy Elementary School, where she teaches.

Jim, who retired as principal at College Heights Elementary school in 1980, says he enjoys the upstairs bedroom, overlooking the courtyard. "You get a lot of cool breeze when you open the windows & you don't even need air conditioning at night."

They spend many spring evenings sitting around the pool visiting with other residents. Or sitting in the lawn swing admiring the floribunda roses.

They share their two-bedroom apartment with a 14-year-old grey-striped cat named Chessie.

Residents at Coronado Hills, 801 Marcy, have access to a beautifully landscaped courtyard, swimming pool and party room. Apartment kitchens are furnished with frost-free refrigerator/freezers, disposal, dishwasher and range with eye-level oven. Gas and water are paid.

Two-bedroom studio apartments have one and one-half baths with a total of 1300 square feet of living space. They feature attached two-car covered parking and a large patio and outside storage. Connections for washer and dryer are available.

One-bedroom apartments, with 700 square feet of living space, have large walk-in closets, outside storage and large patios. Tenants have front-door parking.

A small number of three-bedroom apartments are available, and there is usually a waiting list.

Choice, fully-furnished condominiums are priced to include all utilities, telephone service, maid service, swimming pool and laundry rooms on the premises. One- and two-bedroom units may be rented by the day, week or month.

Don and Sharon Minyard became managers of Coronado Hills in August of last year, taking over from Alpha Morrison who retired after 21 years as manager.

"We will continue the same atmosphere and service that our tenants had come to expect," says Sharon, "plus we plan to make improvements."

"We were impressed with the quality of the construction, the size of the rooms and the excellent maintenance. Coronado Hills has been synonymous with quality living in Big Spring for many years."

Each unit is completely renovated between tenants, she said.

"Maintaining security is currently one of our major concerns," she said, and they are currently adding special locks and peep holes in the doors of each unit.

Coronado Hills is owned by Charles and Joan Bell, longtime Big Spring residents and civic leaders. For more information about Coronado Hills, phone the Minyards at 267-6500.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

Many of Marty Ray Badgett's family members were on hand yesterday to see him graduate from the University of Texas at Austin with a degree in zoology.

Tidbits

The gathering of the clan was headed by his parents, Billy Ray and Doris Badgett and his brother, Todd, a Texas Tech student. Marty's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hester Badgett, Stanton, and Marzell Ernest, Sand Springs, were also on hand.

Others attending included his aunts and uncles, Jim and Kay Howard, Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Badgett, Waco; and Mr. and Mrs. Louie Badgett, Midland; and cousins Cassie and Mark Johnson, Dallas.

Others making the trip from Big Spring were Douglas and Leitha Ernest, Greg Ernest, Scott Ernest, Tracy Butler and Frances Aberegg.

H.V. and Nona Crocker are still getting congratulatory letters and certificates for their 65th wedding anniversary. The latest one is from the Senate of the State of Texas, signed by Sen. John T. Montford.

Kirsten Wilkins, daughter of Don and Ann Wilkins, and Tami Wise, daughter of Dan and Mardelle Wise, are making plans for a trip to Hulst, Holland, in July.

They'll be the houseguests of the Blienberg family, whom Kirsten met when she went to Holland as a Rotary International Youth Exchange student three years ago. The Blienberg twins, Kikki and Giggi, spent a month in Big Spring last year.

Tami will stay in Hulst for a month, but Kirsten expects to spend two weeks with the Blienbergs and two weeks with Natalie Van Wees, another Hollander, who visited here a couple of years ago.

Kirsten, who just finished her freshman year at the University of Texas in Austin, and Tami, a 1988 Big Spring High School graduate, have corresponded regularly with the twins and Natalie.

"They have all become very good friends," says Dan Wilkins.

Lucy Garcia, Chicago, spent her vacation in Big Spring visiting her father, Gregorio Morena, 92, and her sisters, Juanita Marquez, Lita Ortega, Mrs. Juan Haro and Anita Bustamante.

Attending the Cinco de Mayo celebration at Comanche Trail Park was a highlight of Lucy's visit.

Betty Wrinkle is just back from a three week visit to Carrollton to get acquainted with her new grandchild — and first granddaughter — Jennifer Jill Dahlin.

Jennifer Jill is the first-born of Roger and Susan Dahlin.

Letha Holcombe Peck and Kay and Jim Howard, Denver, Colo., arrived Thursday for a visit with Pat Simmons and other family members.

On the agenda is a short trip to the Davis Mountains and Big Bend for sister Letha and Pat, plus a big family barbecue next weekend at the Sand Springs Community Center for about 30 relatives.

Others expected at the barbecue include N.R. and Janie Holcombe; the Harold Abereggs, the Jimmy Ernests; the Dennis Simmons family; Jay and Trisha Holcombe with baby Laci, Midland; Marzell Ernest, Sand Springs; Marilyn and Mary Ernest, Temple and John R. and Elaine McDaniel, Baton Rouge.

A series of seven inspirational essays by Betty Johansen, entitled "Pictures Nathan Painted," are printed in the May-June issue of "These Days," a quarterly publication printed in Atlanta, Ga.

The essays were inspired by her experiences several years ago when nephew, Nathan Johansen, now 9, son of Carl and Teri Johansen, was an infant. Carl and Teri's daughter, Jill, is also mentioned in one essay.

Incidentally, Betty and Carl's mother, the late Elizabeth Johansen, also contributed to "These Days." Some of her writings were published posthumously, and prompted many readers to write to the family, says Teri.

For Roberta Shive it was deja vu. Roberta, who retired after a long fashion career at Swartz and J.W. Charde, and husband Ed, were guests recently at a $250-a-plate benefit for the Don Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo.

Members of the New York City Ballet troupe, plus a bevy of high fashion models, were flown in from Manhattan, along with the latest designs by Oleg Cassini, Mary McFadden, Bill Blass and Nancy Reagan's favorite, Adolpho. Bill Blass made a personal appearance.

"It was thrilling," says Roberta.

The Shives' daughter, Charlotte Rhodes, is fund-raiser for the center and coordinated the extravaganza.

Crime prevention for women

The Howard College Department of Community Education, in conjunction with the Texas Law Enforcement Advanced Education Foundation, is offering "Individual Threat Awareness and Avoidance for Women."

The class will be conducted June 4, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Howard College in room A-10.

Participants will receive a continuing education unit for attendance, said Tommy Tune, director of Continuing Education.

Proper Education of the public is the key to crime prevention, according to Fred Lewis, vice president/secretary for the foundation. The higher education foundation has concentrated its efforts on the education of women because women are too often the favorite victim of violent criminals, Lewis said.

In a moment of great stress, such as a criminal encounter, people react as they have been trained. The vast majority of people have little effective training in this area and will often freeze or panic at the critical moment, Lewis noted.

According to the foundation, competence to handle a violent situation can, in itself, defuse the situation. If you demonstrate that you are prepared and confident to handle a criminal encounter, the criminal is likely to abandon the attempt altogether.

This is a proven course that will instill decisive action at the critical moment of a life-threatening situation, Lewis said.

The threat awareness course evolved from a special program developed by a member of the foundation staff and taught to American Embassy personnel working in high threat areas of Central America. The present course allows you to substantially reduce your vulnerability to crime regardless of where you live.

The awareness and avoidance course is approved under the guidelines of the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education and is the only course of its kind to have been certified by this state agency, Lewis said.

Registration in advance is required. Enrollment is limited.

Come by the Howard College Department of Community Education to register, or call 267-6311 extension 315 for more information.

Princess Di, queen she shall never be

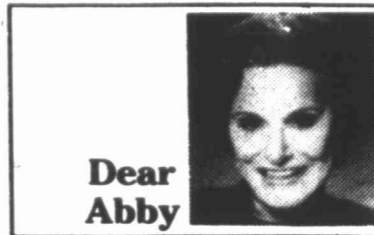

DEAR ABBY: I have two questions I've always wanted to know the answers to, but nobody seems to know, so I'm asking you:

(1) What is the last name of Prince Charles and Princess Diana? (2) Will Princess Diana ever become queen of England?

I hope my letter makes your column, as I'm sure there are many others who are dying to know.

JUST ME IN ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.

DEAR JUST: Prince Charles does not have a last name, but he is from "The House of Windsor." (No prince of royal blood who is in line for the throne has a last name. Charles signed his wedding registry as "Charles" — nothing more.)

Dear Abby

If and when Charles becomes king, Princess Diana will be given the courtesy title of "queen consort." She will never be the "queen regnant" (the ruling queen) as her mother-in-law, Elizabeth II, who became queen at the age of 25 on the death of her father, George VI, in 1952. This may be more than you wanted to know, but at least your questions have been answered.

DEAR ABBY: I found a folded piece of paper in my husband's wallet. It had an address, phone number and name of a girl he works with.

When I asked him about it, he said he didn't remember writing it, and doesn't know how it got in his wallet.

What do you recommend, before I load my shotgun?

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Forget the shotgun and consider the evidence — circumstantial as it may be.

Now I'll tell you what NOT to do. Don't yell and scream and tear up the scenery. Wait for a quiet time when you can have a calm discussion. It may be nothing serious. If it were, he'd have her telephone number memorized. If you feel your marriage is seriously threatened, you should both see a counselor. If he won't go with you — go alone.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (postage and handling included).

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

SUNDAY,
MAY 22, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Job opportunities appear in the fall. Stay put, however, if a new situation will not fit in with your long-term financial plans. Avoid putting your foot in your mouth when traveling abroad. Be appreciative, not critical. Your excitement about the future grows. Children produce results you never imagined possible. Show them how much you love them. Set up a program to take care of debts. Wear a brighter, happier face at work.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Victoria Wyndham, lefty Tommy John, corporate raider T. Boone Pickens, artist Mary Cassatt, pianist Peter Nero, director Richard Benjamin, singer Charles Aznavour, actor Sir Laurence Olivier, actress Susan Strasberg, actor Paul Winfield, movie critic Judith Crist, composer Richard Wagner, actor Michael Sarrazin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may be overwhelmed by an offer until you find out how many strings are attached. Travel is fine, but allow extra time for delays. The stage is set for an emotional drama.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You could get more done this morning than you think possible. Catch up with an old friend. Personal relationships thrive on shared experiences. Anecdotes reveal a special side of you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pressure to conform will be strong at a family get-together. You owe it to yourself to speak your piece. Romantic overtures will strike the right chord. Follow your instincts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Deeper feelings rise to the top. Deal with them openly and honestly. Parents will be helpful, not judgmental. Cuddle up with a good historical novel this afternoon. A pet brings great joy.

MONDAY, MAY 23, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Career advancement, financial stability and family togetherness are top priorities. You will find yourself taking greater participation in party politics. You are determined to make a contribution to your community. Recognize the value of free publicity and discuss your plans with media types.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Rosemary Clooney, actress Joan Collins, comedian "Scatman" Crothers, Interior Secretary Donald P. Hodel, band-leader Artie Shaw, comic Frank McHugh, singer Helen O'Connell, tennis John Newcombe.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Variety is the spice of life. New interests will help you in business. Bounce ideas off your co-workers. Teamwork means a better cash return for all. A close relationship matures; your happiness grows.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are still searching for the right niche in business. Take a tough stance on expenses until things turn around. You will benefit from getting more involved with the media. Aim high!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you have a dream, work to make it come true. Concentration is the key to lasting success. You can reach new artistic heights if you let yourself go this week.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your keen analysis will not escape your boss's notice. Guard against jealousy at work. Mixing business with pleasure is not a good idea now. Look for friendship and romance outside of the office.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your candor sometimes puts you on the spot, but still brings the best results. Continue to say what you think. Put investment decisions in someone else's hands. Rely on LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some things brought up in anger will be hard for you to understand or forgive. Refuse to get down in the gutter with those who sling mud. Move toward a new relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Work harder to repair a relationship before it is too late. Learn from past mistakes, but do not dwell on them. Time with family members is meaningful. A sermon will inspire you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Listen to your inner voice; your instincts are right on target! Deal with emotional undercurrents. Take the initiative in discussing a sensitive matter. Clear away household chores while you have the time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep records of expenses and you will learn how to change spending habits. A long-desired personal relationship is within your grasp. You may have to make the first move. Send flowers!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Opening up new lines of communication brings you more than you bargained for. A social gathering will be fun as long as you do not rattle any family skeletons. Keep things nice and easy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A change of scene is inspiring. It will also introduce you to new people. Your family knows what is best for you right now. You are in control but may not know.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An early morning message could cause an abrupt change of plans. Make the best of it. Family ties and domestic responsibilities continue to complicate your schedule. Spend time getting better organized.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Close your ears to gossip. A brother or sister offers to baby-sit so you can spend time alone with mate. Resolve to return the favor in the near future. A family relationship heals.

experts only.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Try to temper your impulsive nature with common sense. You will accomplish more once you get better organized. Someone who is intrigued by you may be more of a taker than a giver.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Important doors begin to open to you. Past performance is rewarded by a raise or promotion. Do not stay at home today or you could miss out on an important experience. Romance is delightful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You could get off to a bad start if you assume too much. Tie up some loose ends. New family responsibilities can bring wonderful rewards. Take a chance on romance; you win!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Exercising early in the day will boost your morale. You and partner can launch an inspired money-making venture. Domestic tranquility is easier to achieve than in the past. Make peace with relatives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Tact will help you iron out any personnel problems. Avoid making accusations. A financial agreement can be reached this afternoon. Any troubles with your mate deserve prompt attention. Be a good listener.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take advantage of an opportunity to forge ahead with your career ambitions. Just try not to step on mate's or partner's toes! Real estate negotiations can be highly lucrative today. Make an offer.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Although the financial picture shows improvement, restraint is still required. Your willingness to lend a helping hand will be richly rewarded. A love relationship begins to blossom. Do not try to rush things.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. CARLOS DIMIDJIAN Podiatrist

WHEN FEET HURT, YOU HURT ALL OVER

How often have you heard someone say, "When your feet hurt, you hurt all over"? Believe me, until you've had aching feet yourself, you might think this is an exaggeration. It's not.

No one likes the feeling of aching feet, but it does serve an important purpose. It's sending you a message that something is wrong and you should see a podiatrist.

Some foot problems are obvious — corns, calluses, and bunions. You can see as well as feel the problem. But what about foot fatigue, cramps, heel pain and other aches? Only a podiatrist's examination can determine exactly what's causing them. Maybe the problem is poor posture, and exercises can be prescribed to correct it. But maybe the problem is more complex and will get worse until it's properly taken care of.

Your whole body depends on your feet for locomotion. You want to be able to work and enjoy your leisure time without aching, painful feet. When that happens, you should seek a podiatrist's help.

Consumer prices

Clothing, groceries, gasoline rising fast

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in April as clothing costs gained for the second straight month and grocery prices climbed at their fastest pace in 20 months, the government said Friday.

Energy prices were up sharply as well, reflecting the steepest rise in gasoline prices since August.

The overall gain, only marginally better than March's 0.5 percent gain, meant that for the first four months of 1988 retail prices were up at an annual rate of 4.5 percent.

While this was little changed from the 4.4 percent for all of 1987, economists were concerned because much of the inflationary pressure has shown up in the last two months.

Analysts noted that the March rise had been the most severe since January 1987. Last month's 0.4 percent overall gain was equivalent to an annual inflation rate of 5.3 percent.

"The general message in this report is that prices have been rising in the past two months at a faster pace and they will continue to do so," said Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Merrill Lynch. "The fears that people have had about higher inflation are justified."

Steinberg said that the underlying inflation rate is now somewhere around 5 percent, about 1 percentage point higher than it has been for the last year.

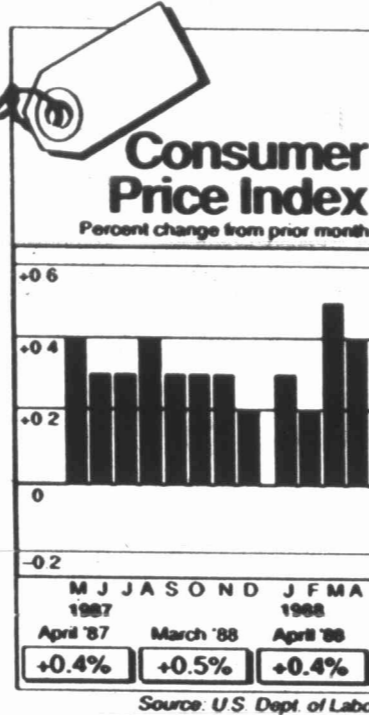

The stock market, which had fallen sharply on Tuesday and Wednesday because of worries about inflation and interest rates, took today's report in stride, with the Dow Jones industrial average edging up slightly in early trading.

Analysts said the overall gain did not prompt a new sell-off because the report was in line with expectations. But they cautioned that financial markets remain edgy about the building inflationary pressures.

More than one-fourth of the April gain in consumer prices came from a steep 2.0 percent jump in clothing costs, tying March for the greatest one-month gain since price records were first kept in 1947.

As was the case with March, analysts said the more expensive clothing was chiefly the result of higher priced women's clothing lines.

Grocery store prices rose 0.8 percent in April, the biggest advance since August 1986. Leading the way were sharply higher prices for beef (up 2.3 percent), fish (up 2.9 percent), and fruits and vegetables

(up 1.4 percent). Gasoline prices climbed 1.1 percent last month after a 0.4 percent March rise. Last month's jump was the steepest since a 3.3 percent rise in August. After that, gasoline prices had fallen for six straight months.

The gasoline price increases over the last two months largely reflected concern that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would agree with non-member nations to limit production.

But those talks ended in failure and world oil prices have since fallen substantially, leading analysts to believe that retail prices will soon turn downward.

The department gave these other specifics on April retail price activity:

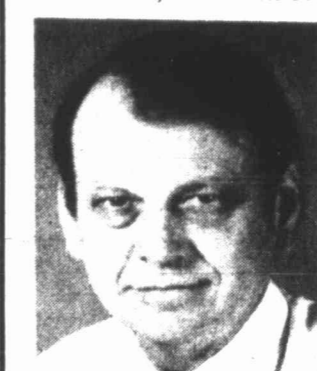

- The record gain in clothing costs reflected an average 3.5 percent gain in the prices of women's apparel, a 2.7 percent rise in the prices for children's goods and a 2.1 percent jump in men's clothing costs.
- New car prices were unchanged while automobile financing costs fell by 1.1 percent.
- Public transportation expenses, reflecting a jump in airline fares, rose 0.8 percent.
- Home heating oil prices rose 0.9 percent, while natural gas and electricity costs rose 0.4 percent.
- The April increase left the overall index at 117.1, meaning that a hypothetical selection of goods costing $100 during a 1982-84 base period would have cost $117.10 last month. Unlike the other figures in Big Spring native Linda Roger has taken command of the local office of NTS Communications, Inc.

"I'm a hometown girl, working for a good company," she said. Husband Jim is a 25-year veteran employee with Fina; the couple has two sons, Lance and Lyle.

LINDA ROGER

Roger will be in charge of sales, marketing, office operations and public relations and advertising for the long-distance service.

"We are the largest West Texas LDS (long-distance service) company and our service is the best," she said. "The reason behind setting up this office is so that we could be here, grow here and do you a good job."

She said she hopes the office will grow from its current size — two service persons and a secretary work with her — to rival the NTS base in Levelland, where the company employs 12 to 15 persons.

Ronnal Bruton of the Stanton office reports that emergency farm loan applications are being accepted by Farmers' Home Administration. Howard and Martin producers are eligible, he said, for up to 80 percent of their losses resulting from the hail, rain, flooding, high winds and lightning recently plaguing the area.

The FmHA office, 103 E. Broadway in Stanton, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Chamber presents annual awards

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Area small business people were recognized during the Greater Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's quarterly luncheon, held Friday at the East Room of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Johnnie Lou Avery was presented the local small businessman of the year award by Walter Fronston. Other area small business people recognized during the luncheon were: Darlene Gifford, minority business advocate of the year; and Shirley Shroyer, women's business advocate of the year.

Maxwell Green was named the financial consultant of the year, and John Freeman was honored as the Lubbock District small businessman of the year.

Contributors to cultural affairs in Big Spring were also recognized, with Katie Grimes being named the Cultural Affairs person of the year, and Dorothy Garrett being presented a plaque in recognition of her various contributions to the fine arts locally.

Cultural Affairs Committee chairwoman Cloetta Shotts made the presentations.

In addition, the Big Spring VA Medical Center presented public service awards to the following: Carolyn Baker, Russel Smith and employee of the month Jimmy Leal.

City employees recognized for their public service were City Solid Waste Supervisor Benito Rubio and Police Sgt. Drew Bavin.

Ben Gwin, Energas manager, left, and Richard White, publisher of the Herald, are the newest Chamber of Commerce board members. A third board member is to be named later.

organizer Ray McCutcheon.

Saying that the tournament will be a "big boost for Big Spring's economy," McCutcheon issued a plea for volunteers for information booths during the three-day event.

• June 11 is the date for the fifth annual Heart of the City Festival, downtown coordinator Teri Quinones announced.

Booth space for the festival is filling rapidly, and organizations seeking spaces at the festival should contact Quinones soon, she said.

A new addition to this year's event will be the Kelly Draper Puppeteers from San Marcos, sponsored by Scenic Mountain Medical Center and Malone and Hogan Clinic.

Local businesses also are being urged to make donations for the Chamber of Commerce auction, to be held during the festival, chamber business committee chairman Greg Brooks said.

• The 55th edition of the Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion will be held June 22-25, reunion board member Jimmy Taylor said. It is the oldest continuous outdoor rodeo between Fort Worth and El Paso, Taylor said.

Tickets for the event are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children, he noted.

• Debbie Reid announced the events for the Starlight Specials, scheduled for this summer at the Comanche Trail Amphitheater.

Talks seek 'tangible progress'

Farm aid questioned

PARIS (AP) — Trade ministers from leading industrialized countries have set the stage for what some say will be a crucial year-end showdown over a call by the United States to end public subsidies to the world's farmers.

Wrapping up two days of talks on world economic issues, the ministers agreed Thursday to work for "tangible progress" in liberalizing global trade in agriculture and other fields.

Such liberalization is generally considered a key step for ensuring the long-term health of the world economy. The aim is to suppress tendencies in some nations, including the United States, to shield domestic industries from foreign competition.

The Paris meeting brought together trade and finance ministers from the 24 members of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

The ministers said they would try by December to agree on a "framework approach" to the negotiations, which were launched in September 1986 under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The 96-nation GATT, which sets and monitors world trade rules, scheduled a December ministerial meeting in Montreal to review progress in the talks.

James A. Baker III, the U.S. treasury secretary, said the December meeting must produce agreement on the long-term goal of the farm trade talks, as well as a "road map" and timetable for reaching that goal.

All major industrial countries agree that government subsidies to farmers have grown too large, but they don't agree on how to correct

Howard business division sees boom

By SARAH LUMAN
Business Writer

Howard College's business division is booming, according to Doris Huibregtse, who oversees its programs.

A 17 percent increase in vocational enrollment, without counting the increase at Howard's San Angelo campus, expands to a 48 percent rise when San Angelo business students are included, she explained.

Satellite campuses for the business division are located in Lamesa, San Angelo and at the local Federal Prison Camp, and classes are also offered at the Del Rio campus of Howard College, as well as on Goodfellow Air Force Base and at the prison in Eden, Huibregtse said.

Named business division chairman in 1984, she has seen changes in the field.

"Five years ago, we had two classes a year with around 30 students (in microcomputer courses), compared to six sections with 14 students now. There has been a shift to microcomputer classes," she said, "from about 30 students to over 200."

One reason is the proliferation of microcomputers in businesses, she said. "Lots of students need the introduction to be able to use the software on their jobs."

Probably the most dramatic decline, she said, is in computer science classes. "We don't need computer programmers as much any more."

"We have had an increase in accounting — and we're going to have an increase, with the new tax law."

She is pleased with the midmanagement internship program, which has reached an all-time high of 34 students since its inception and had 20 enrolled in its least-popular semester.

"It runs between 30 and 60 students per year," she said. Secretarial science has gained in popularity and word processing classes are in demand, she said.

"We may be adding a course or changing our advanced typing course to documents processing," she said — a change that would familiarize secretarial science students with computers and their uses in business offices.

"I also hope by next fall to introduce an alphabetical shorthand system," she said. Such a course, commonly referred to as speedwriting, could draw from potential students who would be uncomfortable with the symbols used in conventional shorthand courses, she said.

"Our childcare and development courses are increasing because the state requires cer-tification for daycare center directors," she added.

Her pride is reflected in the numerous awards her division has gathered. Huibregtse, who teaches shorthand as well as keeping a close rein on the 11 programs offered through the business division — they include such various majors as law enforcement, secretarial science, child care, general business, three types of mid-management and accounting, among others — also served as president of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association in 1986-87.

She is the only officer to have served in every elective position in the association, and completed six consecutive terms as a member of the TCJTA executive committee in March.

Huibregtse also has been honored with a resolution from the TCJTA recognizing her accomplishments within the organization, which she joined in 1985.

Cable TV may face blackouts

By DEBORAH MESCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's cable television subscribers will face "massive blackouts" in service under a new federal policy allowing local stations to buy exclusive rights to syndicated programs, cable industry officials say.

Under the policy approved 3-0 by the Federal Communications Commission on Wednesday, cable TV systems that broadcast the same programs in a local station's viewing area will have to black out the shows or substitute other programs.

Some in the cable industry are predicting dark screens and the demise of some TV superstations as a result.

Ted Turner, chairman of Turner Broadcasting Inc., which owns nationally distributed WTBS, said the new rules "do not give the cable industry a realistic chance to avoid massive blackouts."

FCC Chairman Dennis R. Patrick said the new rules will result in less duplication of programs and will provide an incentive to produce new programs.

"Blackouts will only occur if cable operators seek to cause turmoil for short-term political advantage, which I cannot believe they will do," he said.

The National Cable Television Association said it will challenge the rules in court.

"The FCC pulled the plug on the favorite TV programs of millions of people," NCTA President James P. Mooney said. "People whose favorite programs disappear will be angered and bewildered" and the cost of syndicated programming will rise, he added.

The rules will likely reduce how often TV viewers can see syndicated reruns of shows like "M-A-

S.H., "Taxi" and "My Three Sons."
A cable subscriber now can see one of these shows several times a day if it is aired by a local broadcaster and by out-of-town superstations whose signals are carried by the local cable operator.

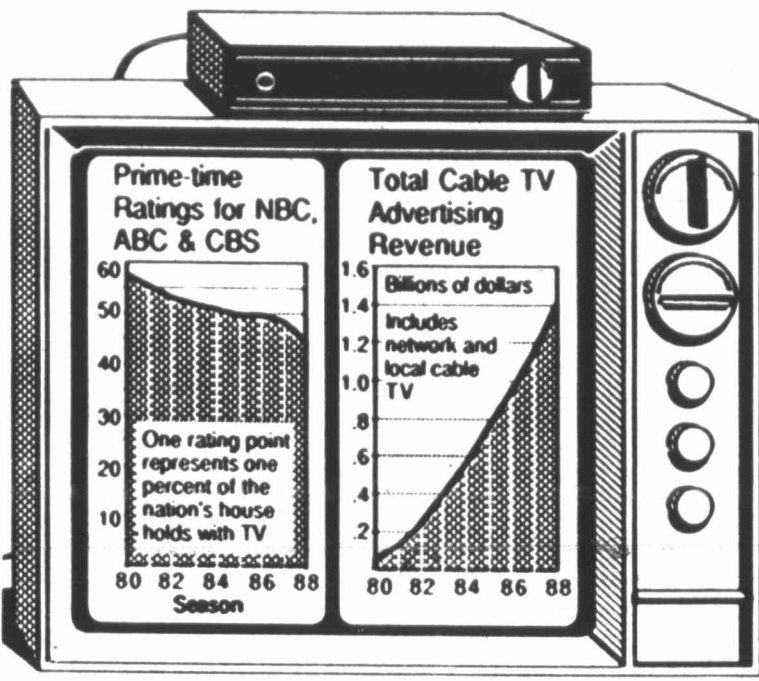

"The rule of reruns is what prevails today," Patrick said. He said that by giving broadcasters a measure of programming protection, the rules will increase the value of their programs to advertisers. More ad revenue, in turn, will foster production of new programs, he said.

In addition, cable systems will be forced to come up with more programming, he said.

He also said cable systems should not have to resort to blackouts to comply with the rules because of a one-year transition period, a variety of exceptions that will be allowed and the amount of substitute programming that is available, Patrick said.

But the cable industry expects that at least some screens will go dark and that some of the smaller TV superstations may return to being just local stations.

That view was expressed by Jeff Treeman, senior vice president of United Video, the Tulsa, Okla.-based cable carrier that distributes superstation signals including WGN. He said cable systems in some large markets — where independents can afford to buy exclusive rights to programing — may have to black out or substitute shows for as much as 40 percent of a superstation's programming.

"That's enough for the cable operator to drop the signal," he said.

Similar rules were dropped by the FCC in 1980. Since then, cable systems have been able to carry the signals of out-of-town stations such as WTBS in Atlanta, WWOR in the New York area and WGN in Chicago, which have become known as superstations, even when those stations transmit programs whose rights were bought by a local TV station.

Superstations also have become popular for the local sporting events they carry.

Under the new exclusivity rules, TV stations will be able to negotiate for exclusive rights to a syndicated program and will be able to force a cable system to honor that contract by blacking out that show when it is aired by a superstation on the system. The rules also allow broadcasters to negotiate rights with cable systems.

Superstations also will be able to buy exclusive rights for syndicated shows on a nationwide basis.

The rules won't apply to cable systems with fewer than 1,000 subscribers. About half of all cable systems fall into this category, though they serve only about 5 percent of the nation's 45 million cable subscribers, the FCC said.

Belt buckle on oil patch is last of Big Spring series

By The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce

Belt Buckle No. 7, The Oil Patch, has arrived at the chamber office. This is the last in the series of numbered, limited edition buckles. Brass buckles are selling for $20. Stop by the chamber office or call the chamber to reserve one now.

Congratulations to Johnnie Lou Avery for receiving the Small Business Person of the Year Award, presented by the Business Committee of the chamber at the chamber's community luncheon on Friday in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Also, congratulations to Katie Grimes, recipient of the Cultural Affairs Woman of the Year Award, presented by the Cultural Affairs Council of the chamber at the same luncheon.

The weekend of May 6 was delightful at the Highland Mall — more than 150 pieces of art were displayed in the mall by young people in our community. Watercolors and pottery from Goliad Middle School and Rannels Junior High were on display.

Several young musicians performed piano solos in Furr's Cafeteria. This was the first such event, Youth Exposition of the Arts, hosted by the chamber's Cultural Affairs Council, but plans are to make this an annual event in the spring.

Plans are underway for the Annual Heart of the City Festival, June 11, around the Courthouse square. The chamber's Business Committee is making plans for the Christmas in June Auction, scheduled for that same day.

the problem.
Geoffrey Howe, the British foreign secretary, told Thursday's meeting that all industrialized countries are guilty of excessive aid to farmers.

"We are all milking our taxpayers to force-feed our cows, paying huge subsidies to make two blades of wheat grow where one is more than enough," Howe said.

New Zealand's finance minister, Roger Douglas, said government aid to farming in Britain, France, West Germany and Italy alone was costing those countries 3 million jobs — equivalent to the entire population of New Zealand.

A main sticking point in the GATT farm negotiations is European resistance to a U.S. proposal for phasing out all trade-distorting farm subsidies by the end of the century.

Willy De Clercq, the European Economic Community's top trade official, said the EEC, or Common Market, would never agree to the elimination of such subsidies, although it favors unspecified reductions.

The EEC believes some government aid is needed to protect farmers' incomes and to keep enough people living in rural areas.

Clayton Yeutter, the U.S. special trade representative, acknowledged differences in the U.S. and European approaches but said officials from both sides of the Atlantic were "basically on the same wave length."

Yeutter added that he hoped De Clercq agreed with the U.S. view that the December meeting in Montreal should produce tangible results on farm policy reform.

"If not, it's going to be a long, rough road in Montreal," Yeutter told reporters.

Foreign Minister Bill Hayden of Australia said the December meeting would be decisive to the prospects for success in the GATT talks, which are expected to last at least until 1990.

"If there are no constructive results (in Montreal) there could be a great loss of confidence" among the participating governments, he said.

Officials from other countries sought to play down the differences.

The Paris meeting "found some middle ground that all sides can live with," said Michael Wilson, Canada's finance minister. "We're setting ourselves clear objectives for the next few months."

Texas brief

DALLAS (AP) — Lear Petroleum Corp. and BP America Inc. have agreed to settle a class-action suit brought by Lear's preferred-stock holders who opposed the redemption terms of BP's tender offer for the Dallas-based energy company.
Under terms of the settlement offer, if BP America's proposed $260 million acquisition of Lear is completed by June 3, BP America will pay each holder of Lear preferred stock $2.50 at the time Lear redeems the preferred stock for $6 per share.
The settlement is subject to approval of the Delaware Chancery Court and a two-thirds vote by preferred holders to permit Lear to redeem the preferred stock at $6 per share.

The proposal came Tuesday after Lear requested that the New York Stock Exchange delay the opening of trading in its $2.875 preferred stock pending an announcement on the settlement of a lawsuit the stockholders filed in Delaware.
Before the announcement of the settlement offer, a group led by J.B. Rubin & Co. of Rowayton, Conn., said in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission that it intends to oppose the redemption of Lear's preferred stock in connection with the proposed merger.

The group, which holds 227,900 Lear preferred shares, or about 10.39 percent of Lear's outstanding preferred stock, said it may solicit proxies in opposition to the redemption of the preferred stock.
Chuck Webster, a spokesman for BP America in Cleveland, said the company will not further increase the consideration to be paid to preferred-stock holders.
The proposed acquisition would give BP, the world's third-largest oil company, its own natural gas transmission system in the United States. BP America is the U.S. affiliate of British Petroleum Co. PLC.

"Mark Twain: The Trouble Begins," will be presented by the Midland Community Theater June 4, Reid said.

Other Starlight Special events will include three productions by the Spring City Theater, a fiesta night, and a production by the Pickwick Players of Midland.

A band concert at the amphitheater and a fireworks display is scheduled for July 4, said Carl Bradley, who is raising money for the event.

About $5,000 is needed to cover the cost of fireworks and insurance, Bradley added.

- About 100 visitors are expected in Big Spring for the Grand Ole Auto Tour, sponsored by the Big Spring Antique Auto Club. The event is scheduled for June 23, club member Winnie Turney said.
- The Junior Olympics State Boxing Tournament is scheduled for June 11 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, organizer Joe Martinez said.
- About 150 boxers in two age groups are expected for the tournament. The winners in the older age group — ages 14 and 15 — will advance to national championships to be held in Marquette, Mich., Martinez said.

the report, the overall index is not adjusted for seasonal fluctuations.
Fears of inflation have stirred up financial markets in recent days and economists.

Stocks barely broke a two-day losing streak Thursday after worries about inflation and rising interest rates pushed the Dow Jones industrial average down sharply Tuesday and Wednesday.
Investors have viewed with some alarm a string of seemingly good economic reports in recent weeks. Unemployment in April fell to a 14-year-low of 5.4 percent while the factory operating rate climbed to an eight-year-high of 82.7 percent.

While evidence of better-than-expected economic activity, the reports also raised fears in financial markets that the economy is growing too strongly and soon tight labor markets and high factory operating rates will translate into higher wages and rising prices.

The Reagan administration maintained that the concerns about inflation have been overblown. Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III told reporters Thursday that the administration saw no reason to change its forecast that consumer prices will rise by 4.3 percent this year. In 1987, consumer prices climbed 4.4 percent.

Private economists are in general agreement with the administration's forecast, contending that the inflation worries exhibited by the market would subside once the impact of a spike in oil prices abates.

"The markets discovered inflation and now they are overdoing it," said Donald Ratajczak, director of the economic forecasting project at Georgia State University. "Inflation is going to rise, but I don't see it going above 5 percent even next year."

Michael Evans, head of a Washington forecasting firm, said he was not looking for inflation to get above 4.5 percent this year because of the actions already taken by the Federal Reserve.

"The Fed has tightened up on credit conditions and pushed interest rates higher in an effort to dampen economic demand."

"The Fed has tightened up on credit conditions and pushed interest rates higher in an effort to dampen economic demand."

Oil prices mixed in dull trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil futures prices have edged higher in trading dominated by technical factors.
On the New York Mercantile Exchange, the June contract for West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed at $17.45 per barrel Thursday, up 2 cents from Wednesday.

heating oil rose 0.56 cent to 47.63 cents per gallon.
June crude prices were down for most of the day, pressured partly by market awareness of abundant inventories, said Chris McCormack, an analyst at the Drexel Burham Lambert Inc. securities firm.

By the close, however, crude had joined the unleaded gas and heating oil in moving into the black, mainly because of technical reasons, he said.

Texas State Railroad — a nice ride with nice people

Tumbleweed Smith

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH
You meet the nicest people on the Texas State Railroad. I ran into Mattie Dillinger from Center while taking the excursion train that operates between Palestine and Rusk.

Mattie recalled her first train ride in 1916. "My mother carried my brother and sister and me to Houston to see her brother. We drove a jitney from Center to Tenaha and spent the night in the old Berry hotel up there and got up at three o'clock the next morning and caught the train to Houston.

"It was much different in those days. The seats were red velvet. Mama had bought each one of us a little folding aluminum cup so we could have our own cups to drink water out of. We made lots of trips to the back to get water so we could use our folding cups. I remember the butch would come around and he would have bananas and grapes. Mama bought us all of those things. That was a big thrill."

Mattie has ridden the Texas State Railroad twice before this time. "I'm in a dance club called Flappers and Jellybeans. We were here when Governor Dolph Briscoe dedicated the railroad. When he got up to speak, he had lipstick all over him because we had all kissed him."

The train hisses, rattles, rocks and rolls down the 26 miles of track between Rusk and Palestine. Both cities have terminals. The steam whistle and train bell echo through the woods. The clackety-clack of the train on the rails is hypnotic and it carries you back to a time of bowler hats and hoop skirts and parasols and bicycles with big front wheels. When the east bound train meets the west bound train it is a significant moment. Smiling people lean out and wave at one another. It is also a time for the train engineers to demonstrate their whistle blowing abilities. The whistles can be heard up to five miles.

The train tracks intersect many small roads. At many of the crossings, people are out of their cars, taking pictures, smiling and waving and listening to the train sounds.

About the biggest thrill I've ever had was riding in the engine of one of the steam locomotives. The fireman, Paul King, even let me ring the bell once or twice. He and engineer Roger Graham expertly handled the levers, ropes and other equipment that got the train from one place to another.

The engineer pats his foot to the rhythm of the train. He regulates his speed by the sound he hears. There's no speedometer and he knows what the train sounds like when it's going the average speed of about twenty miles an hour. In its better days the engine could run a hundred miles an hour.

The train ride is an hour and a half one way. During that time the train uses 2500 gallons of water and 300 gallons of fuel. The fuel heats the water and the water makes the steam, which gives the train the power to go down the track.

The engineer sits on the right side of the engine, the fireman sits on the left. Both are young men who were trained to operate steam locomotives by seasoned steam operators. They do not belong to a union, since they're employed by the state parks and wildlife department, which operates the railroad.

Roger, a former air traffic controller, says each engineer has his own way of blowing the whistle. He likes two longs, a short and a long. "That's pretty standard. But I put a couple of shorts on the end of it. My mother lives at Maydell, which is about halfway between Rusk and Palestine, and she knows me by that whistle." He's been on the train 13 years.

The train passes through some of the most beautiful scenery East Texas has to offer. It travels over 30 bridges. Trains leave each station twice a day Thursdays through Mondays.

The Texas State Railroad was built originally in the 1890's by prisoners and was used to haul prison products.

Railroad park opens season Memorial Day

RUSK — The Texas State Railroad Historical Park will begin its summer season Memorial Day weekend.

In addition to heralding the beginning of the railroad's five-day-a-week summer schedule, the staff will host the second "Moonlight Run" of the season May 28.

Trains will depart from Rusk and Palestine every day except Tuesdays and Wednesdays through Aug. 21.

The "Moonlight Run" will feature an old-fashioned barber-shop quartet during the dinner hour at Palestine. A quartet, The Dogwood Expressmen, will sing during the Palestine stop.

The May 28 evening run will depart from Rusk at 6 p.m. and return at 10 p.m. The dinner hour, from 7:30-8:30 p.m., will be staged at the Palestine Depot.

Reservations are encouraged and information may be obtained by calling 1-800-442-8951 (in Texas), or 214-683-2561. The reservation office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days per week.

The season's third evening run, scheduled Sept. 24, also will depart from the Rusk Depot.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Reinert Welding & Steel Construction recommends regular inspection of overhead doors at homes or commercial businesses. According to Ralph Reinert, pictured, attending to repairs as needed will add to the life of the doors. Spring is a logical time to do this when homeowners are usually undertaking home improvement projects. For free inspection and estimates, call Reinert at 267-1550.

City Finance makes small loans

"For those sudden, unexpected cash shortages, we fill a real community need," says Debbie Walling, manager of City Finance. "Many people need to borrow only a small amount. Smaller loans than banks can handle profitably."

Money to pay bills, take a vacation, pay for car repairs or buy new school clothes are among the reasons people turn to City Finance, she says.

The busiest month for borrowing, of course, is December, when many customers need extra money for Christmas gifts.

"Almost everybody needs a little extra cash once in awhile," says Debbie.

City Finance makes loans of $10 to $320. All that is required is for the customer to fill an application, have a permanent job, and pass credit approval.

"We are state regulated," assured Debbie, adding that the State of Texas sets the interest rate and payment schedule, and specifies that the borrower must have the means to pay back the loan. State auditors check the firm's books annually.

Another important use of a small loan is to establish credit. For example, a customer will bring in a son or daughter and co-sign the loan. The youth then makes regular payments and establishes a credit rating.

"Our customers come from all walks of life," says Debbie "and many of them have been coming to us for years."

Debbie stresses the confidentiality of the operation. Often a husband will come to borrow money for a gift for his wife. The wife usually sees charge card or department store statements, and this way the husband can keep the cost of his gift a secret. Sometimes both a husband and wife will have loans at City Finance, but the staff remains quietly discreet.

Business hours are 8:30 to 5:30 Monday through Friday (including lunch hour) and 8:30 to 12 noon Saturday.

City Finance is located at 206½ Main. Debbie has been with the firm nine years. Also on the staff is Pat Cypert who has worked fulltime for four years.
