City Council backs risky cargo route

By MICHAEL DUFFY Staff Writer

The City Council will support a Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce delegation to a July 15 meeting with state highway engineers to provide plans for the first section of a hazardous cargo loop.

The plans — considered by the council Tuesday — would route trucks carrying such material outside the downtown area.

In other business, the council approved authorization to proceed with engineering designs to comply with the state request to relocate water lines in conjunction with the proposal to widen Gregg Street. Approval was also granted to begin the search for an engineer on a separate water line project.

of the chamber's transportation committee, told the council state highway officials "are aware Howard County has been slighted in road improvements and they are trying to improve that," citing the highway department's approval of separate Gregg Street widening projects as proof.

The proposed hazardous cargo loop will connect from Interstate Highway 20, east of Big Spring, to U.S. 87 and eventually west of the city to connect back with I.H. 20, Marshall said.

He told the council the location of the new route would be from U.S. 87, approximately .3 miles south of Big Spring to Farm to Market Road 700, about .8 miles south of I.H. 20 at Midway Road.

The city has been "most fortunate" that there hasn't been a serious accident involving hazardous cargo, Marshall advised.

He said the proposal would cost the city of Big Spring "less than $100,000," although total cost for the project - in state and federal funds - will be between $10 and $11 million.

"I don't think that's a bad investment. We have county representation. We need city representation at the July 15 meeting," he told the council.

Howard County commissioners voted unanimously Monday to support the transporta-

Rattlers attack in city

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

At least one Big Spring child has been bitten by a rattlesnake this week, and other encounters with the deadly reptiles within the city limits have been reported during the last several days, including one at Potton House Tuesday.

Fallon Young, the 31/2-year-old daughter of Rodney and Lea Kay Young, was bitten by a rattlesnake Monday night. She was expected to be released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center's intensive care unit today but will remain hospitalized, according to her grandmother, realtor Kay Moore. The child was bitten on the foot by a snake identified as a prairie rattler, Moore said.

"They are a different variety," she said. "The fang marks are not the usual diamondback pattern, and the snake has a different pattern than the diamondback.

Antivenin serum was administered, she said, and noted that snakebite victims should be aware of the need to kill the snake and positively identify it in order to ensure that proper antivenin treatment can be prescribed. A Hall-Bennett Hospital spokeswoman said today hospital records indicated one snakebite victim was admitted May 31. A Scenic Mountain Medical Center spokesman said one case had been reported through the emergency room in the past 90 days — the child bitten Monday.

'She was playing in the back yard, and we know she was bitten at least twice," Moore said. "It was on Allendale (Road), near the Kentwood area.

The snake was killed by a neighbor, David Higgins, she said, and measured between two and three feet long. It had five rattles.

Polly Mays, a Potton House volunteer, reported finding a rattlesnake 21/2 feet long with five rattles early Tuesday morning. Mays said she was doing yardwork in the area behind the Potton House, a historic home located at 200 N. Gregg St., when the snake struck at her from among some sandstone slabs.

She contacted Dalton Carr, a rattlesnake hunter, who came to the location and killed the snake. Carr said the snake was a female. "People should know there are snakes within the city limits, and to watch out for them," Mays said. County agent Don Richardson said rattlesnakes are moving because the past several days have been warm and dry. "We've had warm, dry weather for several days and the snakes are traveling, going to cooler places or to places where they can drink," he said

Richardson said the rattler Mays described was a small snake. "A large rattlesnake would be one in the neighborhood of six feet long, with 16 to 18 rattles," he explained.

Defense sales prompt FBI investigation

By PETE YOST

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — FBI agents Tuesday searched the files of two top Pentagon officials, a former Navy official and some of the nation's largest defense contractors in a massive investigation of alleged fraud, bribery and bid-rigging in the sale of electronic gear to the military.

Search warrants were served by the FBI and the Naval Investigative Service at the Pentagon and some 30 other locations in 12 states, the Justice Department announced

Federal law enforcement sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that the FBI had installed court-authorized wire taps at several locations in the Pentagon as part of the investigation. The wire taps, according to sources, have been in place for much of the period of the two-year investigation.

Part of the investigation — which included a warrant issued in connection with a Dallas firm is focusing on the activities of at least two top Pentagon officials, according to government and industry sources who spoke only on condition of anonymity. Their names could not be learned immediately.

The investigation has been under way for two years and involves "allegations of fraud and bribery on the part of defense contractors, consultants and U.S. government employees," FBI spokesman Gregory Jones said.

Continental Electronics of Dallas, a maker of radio transmitters, was served a search warrant Tuesday, said Gary Simpson, a spokesman for Continental's parent company, Varian Associates Inc. of Palo Alto, Calif.

"The FBI visited there this morning and served us a search warrant," Simpson said. "They looked through a variety of documents . . . a whole range of fairly routine business documents, memos and letters. I can't say in detail beyond that," he said. Simpson said the agents did not remove anything from the Dallas plant, which manufactures high-power radio transmitters used in both commercial and defense operations.

"From what we know at this point we have no MILITARY page 3-A

Tips on avoiding snakes -

County agent Don Richardson offered these tips for avoiding rattlesnakes: · "Make sure you don't have any open rodent burrows or similar places for the snakes to hide," he said, citing rocky areas, brush and overgrown lots as likely hiding places for the vipers.

• "Then, if you eliminate rodent populations — get rid of rats and mice — you reduce the availability of prey," he said. Eliminating prey reduces snake populations because the reptiles will move in search of

 Make sure outbuildings are closed with tightly-fitted doors, and keep those doors closed.

 Ensure that all building foundations are sealed. For unsealable foundations, he said, a snakeproof cover should be constructed for each opening

"That would consist of 1/4-inch wire mesh," he said, and should be tightly closed around the edges

 To snakeproof play areas or other outdoor locations, he advised, fences of 1/4-inch mesh at least three feet in height with tightly stretched mesh and all stakes or posts inside the fence area should be used. Such fences should be equipped with tightly-fitted gates and the outside surfaces should not come in contact with brush, trash or rocks from which snakes might gain ac-

on a rodent, and the heat from your hand could make him strike by reflex," Richardson said. • Snakes prefer to avoid humans and are likely to seek rocky crevices, stony outcrops

'A snake could be waiting there to pounce brushy or rocky areas, particularly in ravines or draws; rocky crevices and outcrops; overgrown grassland or vacant lots.

 Snakes are drawn to water sources; be particularly watchful in recently-watered shady areas or around sources of water such as streams or small lakes

• Bite victims should be taken to the nearest hospital immediately. It is important to kill and identify the snake so proper treatment can be administered, since rattlesnake antivenin is ineffective or dangerous in cases of copperhead or cottonmouth bites.

• Be particularly careful at night or during the early morning and evening hours, when snakes are more likely to leave dens.

Texas gas going northeast?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A natural gas "summit" has been planned for next month to help Texas producers pump gas to energy-hungry New England, officials from Massachusetts and Texas say

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II, D-Mass., said Tuesday that a $500 million expansion of pipelines from Pennsylvania up through New England would carry natural gas equal to the power that would be produced by five Seabrook nuclear power plants. Ve as a nation have seen too clearly the price we pay when we become captives of foreign energy suppliers," Kennedy said at a Capitol Hill news conference. "We have before us a 'remendous opportunity to address our domestic energy needs while we improve the health of our nation's economy.'

Texas Railroad Commissioner John Sharp said natural gas is the "new golden goose for Texas energy," and producers need new markets.

Sharp and Kennedy said they hoped a July 4-5 Boston "summit" would allow Texas producers and New England consumer interests to develop a strategy to overcome the regulatory hurdles of building new pipeline capacity

"We're bringing together Texas producers and Massachusetts consumers, national and regional regulators, financiers and environmentalists to see if we can't figure out a way to get gas to New England faster," said Kennedy, who started a nonprofit energy company to help low-income families before coming to Congress.

The Boston meeting will help rid the two regions of the "us against them mentality," Sharp said.

The Texas official, citing an American Gas Association study, said an estimated 345 billion cubic feet of potential Northeast gas demand by 1990 could shift to other fossil fuels if new pipeline capacity is not built.

'Those aren't just gas sales we are losing, those are jobs," Sharp said. "In Texas, we can't afford to let that potential for economic development get away without a fight.'

The Boston conference, which Sharp described as a first, will be paid for by energy and natural gas interest in both regions. Southwest Airlines of Texas is providing at cost a chartered jet to fly an estimated 100 Texans to Boston.

One killed in collapse of I-10 construction

EL PASO (AP) - A portion of construction repairwork at an Interstate 10 drainage structure collapsed Tuesday afternoon, killing one man and injuring seven others Jesus Soto, 52, of Fort Hancock, was implanting rebar, or steel reinforcement rods, into fresh concrete at about 12:45 p.m. MDT when the road buckled and fell about 20 feet to the ground.

Soto was taken to Sun Towers Hospital, where he died of massive internal injuries and multiple fractures, spokeswoman Anne Moncure said.

Crews from the Texas Highway Department were dispatched to the collapse, located within the city limits on El Paso's west side near the Resler Interchange, which is under construction.

"Some part of the repair work has fallen in this drainage structure," said Betty Best, highway department spokeswoman.

There was a form failure in the concrete," she said. Workers "were pouring a span of deck, and the form failed. The concrete was fresh and it ran down and dumped the workers and concrete about 20

She said that during the interchange's construction in February, a piece of heavy equipment struck a couple of columns in the drainage structure, at an arroyo that flows under I-10, causing an undetermined amount of damage. "Another contractor was replacing the damaged area in the drainage structure, at some columns and slabs" in the area of the highway construction, said Ms. Best On Tuesday, support scaffolding at the repaired area collapsed, but it was not immediately known whether damage from the February accident contributed to Tuesday's collapse.

Workers immediately began hauling away the debris before the concrete could harden in the 95-degree dry heat, said Craig Marshall, an employee for J.D. Abrams, the project's prime

The collapsed area had been subcontracted to Jon T. Hansen Constructors, he said, adding that his rough estimate of the damage was $20,000. "But it could be twice that much or half that

The men who were injured had been standing atop pan girders where a crane was pouring bucketloads of concrete to create the bridge, Marshall said. Traffic was barely affected, police dispatcher Tim Elkins said.

"There were a few rubbernecks, but that cleared away pretty quickly," he said, adding that there wasn't much to see because "it's under where the construction area is.

Engineers and other highway department employees were assessing the damage.

EL PASO — Rescue personnel attend one of eight construction workers that were injured when a portion of an overpass on Interstate 10 collapsed Tuesday.

Thieves rob cathedral, take religious articles

SALTILLO, Mexico (AP) -Thieves broke into the sanctuary of the Roman Catholic Cathedral in this northern capital city and stole religious articles valued at about $8,500, a spokesman said Tuesday. The Rev. Humberto Gonzalez, a priest at the 400-year-old Santiago Cathedral, said 14 chalices of silver and brass and a cross worn by the bishop were taken in the Sunday night robbery

He said priests believe at least two people hid inside the church when it closed for the evening at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Gonzalez said he and two other priests arrived at the cathedral for a meeting at 11:30 p.m. Sunday and found the altar in disarray.

The sanctuary had been forced open, communion wafers were scattered across the altar, candle sticks and statues were knocked over.

'They worst part is that they opened the sanctuary where the Eucharist is kept and stole wafers," Gonzalez said. "Their first intention was to steal, but they left signs of contempt" for the church, he said. Gonzalez said the articles are worth about 20 million pesos, or

But, he said, "It's unrealistic to put a monetary value on them.' He said some of the stolen chalices were at least 80 years old

"These things cannot be valued in money. They had artistic and historic value," he said.

He said Saltillo police were notified, but no arrests have been made and had religious adornments.

Gonzalez said the cathedral, normally open daily, will be closed through Wednesday as a sign of mourning over the "outrage committed against the Catholic

Convoy set for showdown

LAREDO (AP) — Some vehicles of the stalled Veterans' Peace Convoy left camp this morning, apparently headed toward an international bridge in an attempt to transport medical supplies to Nicaragua.

About 20 supporters of the group held signs that said, "Embargo South Africa, Not Nicaragua" and Let The Convoy Pass. It was about 5 miles from the campsite to the international bridge, where the 103-member group wants to enter Mexico and travel farther south.

'The real issue here is the way that the Reagan administration has defined humanitarian aid," Gerry Condon, one of the convoy's organizers, said Tuesday.

About 200 convoy members and supporters held a rally Tuesday night at a camp in northern Laredo. Many shouted, "Viva Nicaragua libre!" ("Long live free Nicaragua!") when candles were lit during the rally, which featured leftist folk songs and an appearance by U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston.

"I'm here to do what I can to see to it that the convoy gets across the border and to Nicaragua to deliver the humanitarian aid that they have," Leland told The Associated Leland met earlier Tuesday with Customs officials in Laredo and spoke by phone with U.S. Treasury Secretary James Baker trying to convince him to ease the ban on donating vehicles to Nicaragua, said convoy member Tom Hansen.

AT&T ANNOUNCES UPCOMING PRICE CHANGES FOR SOME TEXAS INTRASTATE SERVICES

AT&T announces the following price changes for some of its Texas intrastate services. These changes, which more closely reflect the actual costs incurred by AT&T in providing these services, will become effective on August 1, 1988.

 SDN (Software Defined Network) Schedule A prices will be reduced 1.5% during the initial 30-second period. Schedule B prices will be reduced 16.4% overall. Schedule C prices will be reduced 4.2% overall.

 WATS 80 service prices for both the initial 80-hour usage period and the additional usage period will increase 5%

The monthly prices for some of AT&T's Analog

Channel Services will increase between $7.05 and $25 per channel termination for Analog services. • The monthly prices for some Dataphone Digital Service (DDS) will decrease up to $9.65. Other DDS monthly prices will increase up to $18.35. Overall, AT&T's DDS monthly prices will increase less than 1%. The combined effect of these price changes is expected to produce approximately $3.4 million in annual revenue, which is approximately 0.3% of AT&T's annual revenue for all Texas intrastate services. If you have questions regarding these price changes, please call your AT&T Account Executive, or our business consultants toll-free at 1-800-222-0400. AT&T's tariffs reflecting these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on July 1, 1988, with an effective date of August 1, 1988.

Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may also contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas in writing, at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N., Austin, Texas 78757, or by calling the Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 for teletypewriter for the deaf.

hazardous cargo loop proposal to R.E. Stotzer Jr., director of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation are Marshall; Bill Crooker, Howard County Commissioner; State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring; and State Senator John Montford, R-Lubbock.

Mize is also scheduled to accompany the delegation.

All hazardous cargo from the Petrofina refinery currently passes through the intersection at FM 700 and U.S. 87. If a major accident occurred at the intersection there would be no alternate route to travel south from Big Spring, according to a chamber report.

In the event of a hazardous cargo spill on U.S. 87, south of I.H. 20 and north of FM 700, chemicals would enter the city's storm sewer system and cause major environmental and health hazards for all of the central business district, the committee's report maintains.

Acting on a request from Tom Decell, public works director, the City Council gave unanimous approval to begin seeking an engineer to design the relocation of water lines to comply with highway department officials' request for the Gregg Street widening project.

Decell estimated it will cost the city $341,013.11 to move water lines from beneath Gregg Street to parallel alleyways.

Mize said he thought the $93,003 estimate for engineering, testing and contingencies was high, but Decell responded:

Beil said today he anticipates bids to be sought for the Railroad Plaza project within 30 to 60 days.

Decell said the street maintenance program will involve reconstruction on 18th Street, Gregg to Goliad; 17th Street, Goliad to Owens; and Baylor Blvd., Farm to Market Road, south to the city limits, extending through the low water crossing of Big Spring Draw.

The project also calls for a sealing project on 11th Place, Abrams West to FM 700. Total cost for the project will be $67,360, Decell said.

The City Council also approved the scheduling of a 4 p.m. June 28 public hearing on the revenue sharing budget for fiscal year 1987-88 in the conference room of the Big Spring police department.

Although meeting for about one hour and 20 minutes in exceutive session, the City Council failed to take any action on the hiring of a new city manager and fire chief.

for an engineer on a project that Decell said will include water lines north of the railroad tracks, south of I.H. 20, west of Owen Street and east of Main Street.

 Decell said the State Department of Commerce has approved a grant to fund the project which he estimated at $270,000.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, however, Mize

"I really feel like the council is in no kind of a hurry. Hal Boyd and the (acting) fire chief (Burr Lea Settles Jr.) are doing an excellent job in the interest of the community. I feel the council is in no big hurry to make a selection or advertise.

In other matters: Using Settles as an interpreter for sign language, Laura Brasel, Big Spring, told the council she believes the $2 admission price for swimming at the Comanche Trail Swimming Pool was too high and asked that she be allowed to discuss a family discount program as an alternative.

Councilwoman Gail Earls commented that she had received several similar complaints this week about the cost of swimming at the pool.

Acting City Manager Hal Boyd suggested she address members of the Park and Recreation Board about her concerns. The board meets Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Blue Room of the Dora Roberts Community Center, 100 Whiskey Drive

The city will be required to pay $35,325 in matching funds, Decell said

Last week they notified Mize a second project - the additional widening of Gregg Street on U.S. 87 to the Missouri Pacific Railroad overpass — just north of 2nd Street - had also been approved.

Big Spring receiving more sales tax refunds

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The city of Big Spring can expect to receive a marked increase in April sales tax revenues compared to the monies received at the same time one year ago, State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday.

The city will receive a net payment of $93,643.15 - a 30.13 percent increase over the $71,959.17 figure it received for April 1987.

Bullock said Forsan will be paid $3,857.24, compared to the $848.58 it received in April 1987.

The new payment represents a 354.55 percent increase over the April 1987 payment, according to figures released by the state comptroller's office.

Coahoma's net payment will be 2.2 percent less than received in April of last year. The comparative figures are $1,467.07 and $1,500.14. So far this year Howard County towns have received $742,946.17 compared to $715,928.52 in 1987 — a 3.77 percent increase

April city allocation checks showed a 2341/2 percent increase over April, 1987, a growth rate too high to attribute to the broadened. sales tax base, according to Bullock.

"Local governments will continue to see a healthy increase inrevenues from their sales taxes as the state's economy mends and consumer confidence grows," he

Since January, the state has sent $465.9 million in local taxes to cities across the state, an increase of 10.3 percent over last year's allocations during the same period, Bullock

A representative of the state comptroller's office said the checks were mailed Friday for April receipts.

No more nice guy for the INS office

At last the gloves have come off. On June 1, the Immigration and Naturalization Service began issuing citations rather than warnings to employers who knowingly hire illegal immigrants. Under terms of the Immigration and Reform Control Act of 1986, employers convicted of hiring such workers can be penalized with stiff fines or jail sentences.

The INS handled well the immigrant amnesty required by the 1986 act. The agency should now turn with equal vigor to enforcing the employer sanctions. The success of the new law turns on how well the agency performs.

Unlike the one-year amnesty program, employer sanctions are a permanent addition to U.S. immigration law. In theory, penalizing employers for hiring illegal immigrants should eliminate the work and wages which tempt millions of people to cross into the United States without permission. Less available work should mean fewer attempts at unauthorized entry, giving the United States improved control of its borders.

The question isn't whether people should be allowed to enter the United States. It's whether they enter according to rules adopted by Congress or whether they crawl through a fence.

An uncontrolled influx of illegal aliens skews the U.S. labor market by artificially holding wages and prices in some parts of the economy below their U.S. value. And because of their fugitive status, illegal aliens often cannot be protected from illegal assaults on their civil rights or on their rights as employees.

Effective enforcement of employer sanctions will be difficult, as experience has revealed during the yearlong INS effort to educate employers. In California, a robust traffic has developed in bogus documents that illegal aliens use to prove they are entitled to work in the United States. Many employers, unwilling to wean themselves from cheap labor, accept documents they know are phony because proving that they knew is difficult.

Already a special INS task force has been established in California simply to combat the production of counterfeit documents. Other employers, particularly those who own small businesses, are not bothering to check, gambling that the small INS staff won't catch up to them.

Drawing quick, negative conclusions about the efficacy of employer sanctions would be a mistake. None of the problems is unexpected, and most are surmountable, given time to test both the new law and the INS's ability to enforce it. If the agency needs additional resources or loophole-closing changes in the law, Congress should respond quickly and sympathetically to its requests.

Nancy and Raisa learn about the opposition sex

BY LEWIS GRIZZARD

It had to be difficult for both President Reagan and Soviet leader Gorbachev during the summit. Nothing worse can happen to a couple of good buddies than for their wives not to get along.

As news reports noted, Nancy Reagan and Raisa Gorbachev had their own little World War HI during the Moscow visit while their husbands were acting like a couple of long lost fraternity brothers.

Imagine the grief both men caught each evening during the summit. I can hear Nancy Reagan now:

"That woman is driving me crazy."

"What woman, Snookums?"
"You know very well what woman. That communist cow I've been stuck with every day while you and her husband go off and do whatever it is you are doing."

"You're referring to Mrs. Gorbachev?"

"Who do you think I'm referring to, you old goat? Catherine the Great?

"The woman is a cow, she dresses like Tugboat Annie and I'm sick and tired of the way she interrupts me every time I try to make a statement to the press."

"But, sweetheart, I'm certain Mrs. Gorbachev isn't doing any of that on purpose. She's just trying to show you a good time"

"Don't say it, dear. Remember how much trouble Barbara Bush got into for using that word to describe Geraldine Ferraro?''

"...That, that, that witch, she has the manners of a goat. I want to know when we're getting out of this barf-bag of a country."

Mr. Gorbachev, meanwhile, was getting the same sort of thing from his wife:

"That woman is driving me crazy."

"What woman, my little Bowl of Borscht?"

"You know very well what woman. That capitalist scarecrow I've had to entertain while you and her husband are off making world peace all day."

"You are referring to Mrs. Reagan?"

"No, I'm referring to Betsy Ross, Tattoo Head. The woman is a bag of bones and I'm sick and tired of hearing who designed her dress and how much her earrings cost."

"But Sweetheartsky I'm sure

"But, Sweetheartsky, I'm sure that's just Mrs. Reagan's way of trying to make conversation."

"Trying to make conversation? She's trying to make me mad and she's doing a good job of it. That, that, that..."

"We don't have a word for what you're thinking, My Pet." "All I know is that little rich

"All I know is that little rich however-you-say-it is sending me right up the Berlin Wall. I can't wait until she and John Wayne hit the trail back to that decadent country of theirs."

I'm sure the guys must have talked about the problem:
"I don't think our wives like each

o other, Mike."

"They don't, Ron. Raisa hasn't shut up about it all week."

"Neither has Nancy."

"So you need to get back to the hotel now?"

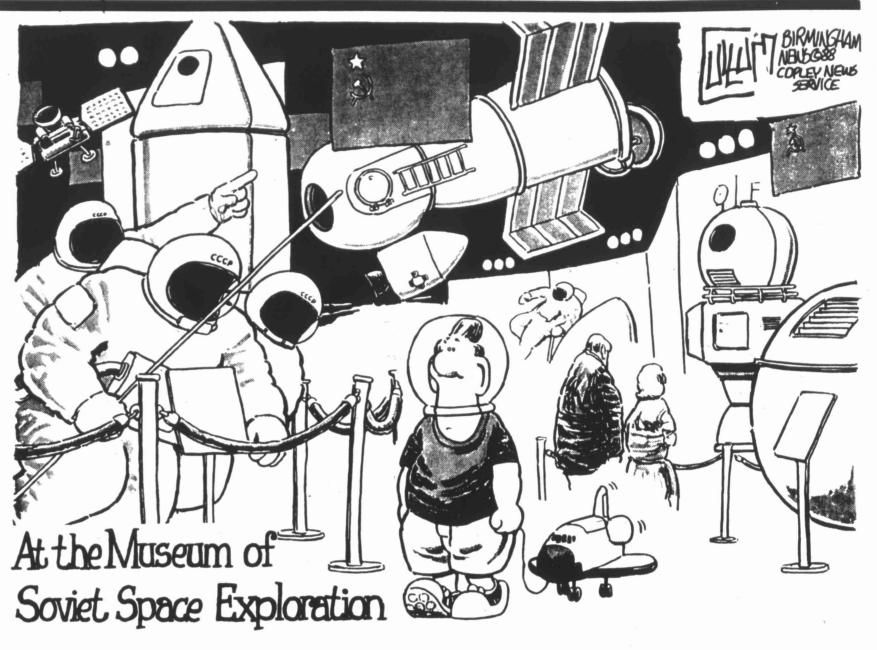

"Why? To get yelled at again?"
"I don't have to be home for another couple of hours, either."
"Good, hand that vodka bottle over here, Ol' Pal."

Cars prime hiding place for serious drug smugglers

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — You won't read it on the window sticker with the other luxury options, but cars are perfect hiding places for illegal drugs. False trunks, secret doors, upholstery filled with marijuana — the spots smugglers find to hide drugs defy the imagination.

To the untrained eye, the car has not been altered. But drug enforcement agents can't afford to dismiss it on first glance. Sometimes they have to tear a car apart before they find what they suspect is there.

A drug intelligence unit in El Paso makes the job a little easier by sharing the secrets of the smugglers. The El Paso Intelligence Center (EPIC) is a federal information-sharing organization. It gathers the latest intelligence in the war on drugs and shares it with enforcement officers from the Drug Enforcement Administration, the U.S. Customs Service and others.

We recently reported on EPIC's confidential list of common hiding places on airliners. The bathrooms are the most popular spots. Drugs are also disguised as common freight on airplanes — frozen in blocks of shrimp or bagged in the aguarity airplanes — frozen in blocks of shrimp or bagged in the aquariums of tropical fish, for example.

Automobiles take more retrefitting but the days

Anderson

Automobiles take more retrofitting, but the drug smugglers have proved themselves equal to the task. Here are some of the the secrets of the highway smugglers shared by EPIC:

New Mexico state police found 38 kilograms of cocaine behind a backseat head rest. The smugglers had built a compartment out of sheet metal and wedged it in the framework of the seat. It was opened by a remote-control latch with the button hidden under the dashboard.
 California police found a secret compartment

• California police found a secret compartment behind the air conditioning ducts of a Chevrolet Camaro. Two switches had to be pushed to open the hiding place — one behind the air-conditioning control panel and the second near the fuse box.

• False trunk compartments have been found installed in Mercury Grand Marquis cars. The tipoff is a level spot where the trunk compartment is normally depressed. One Grand Marquis stopped in Texas had been used to carry drugs into the United States and take guns back to Guatemala, EPIC reported.

U.S. Customs agents at the California-Mexico border followed the nose of a drug-sniffing police dog and found that the gas tank on a Volkswagen van had been shortened to accommodate a secret compartment. Inside were 200 pounds of hashish.

• Some smugglers replace the upholstery stuffing in their cars with drugs. This is one of the easier techniques to spot, since the seats lose their bounce and the dogs can easily sniff out the drugs.

The hollow spot behind the headlights of certain makes of cars is a small, but effective hiding place.
Some of the compartments are protected by highly sophisticated locks triggered by remotecontrol switches. And the switches are as cleverly concealed as the hiding places — in glove compartments, under the hood, behind the parking brake.

 Smugglers in a hurry, or those without a knack for body work, use the natural compartments in cars door panels, steering columns, gas-line covers.
 Drug agents count on dogs to sniff out those hiding places.

If the dogs are foiled by hermetically-sealed bags, the police look for signs of tampering with screws and bolts. Another tell-tale sign is the lingering odor of air freshener or talcum powder, to baffle the dogs, or the bolts. Another tell-tale sign is the lingering odor of air freshener or talcum powder, to baffle the dogs, or the smell of glue from a quick reupholstering job.

The drug enforcement agent who doesn't keep up with the smuggler's technology must resort to the crude tactic of tearing the car apart in a blind search — an embarrassing prospect if the owner is innocent.

MINI-EDITORIAL — The threat of future punishment is a weak deterrent to illegal drug use, but the Reagan administration seems determined to use that tactic in its feeble war on drugs

tactic in its feeble war on drugs.

The Washington Post recently reported that the administration is considering sanctions against convicted drug users. The sanctions include denying them access to a variety of government benefits—including school loans, public housing, drivers' licenses and even federal drug rehabilitation programs, if the person is a repeat offender.

Drug addicts won't forego a high because they fear that somewhere down the line they will be turned down for a student loan. And yet a student loan could be a ticket to reform when an addict summons the courage to change. With the possible exception of a driver's license to a teenager, none of the proposed sanctions carry enough weight to stop drug use. They only make it harder for a person to turn over a new leaf.

Baptists pick president

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fundamentalists tightened their grip on the Southern Baptist Convention by electing another conservative president, who said he hopes to mend the division in the nation's largest Protestant denomination

The Rev. Jerry Vines, who narrowly defeated a moderate Tuesday, said the denomination has turned rightward because of "strong grass-roots feelings on the part of our people.

Vines also told a news conference he hoped "we can move in the direction of healing" the bitter conflict between conservative and moderate Southern Baptists. Meanwhile, a moderate group, the Southern Bap- REV. JERRY VINES tist Alliance, said Vines' election left them "disenfranchised."

"Diversity is rejected and dishonored," said a statement from the group, headed by the Rev. John Thompson of Jackson, Miss. "Fundamentalist, authoritarian, hierarchical and right-wing political ideology" now prevailed, it said.

Vines defeated the Rev. Richard Jackson by 15,804 to 15,112. But similarly close votes in the past have not deterred extension of the fundamentalist platform.

Vines, 50, is co-pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jacksonville, Fla., while Jackson, 49. is pastor of the North Phoenix Baptist Church in Phoenix, Ariz. Each church has about 18,000 members.

that should end it.' Nash then walked out of the classroom, to the loud applause of some residents in the south-central Washington city, leaving the visitors to talk with facul-

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small. . even before

Appointments may be made by calling 263-8351.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Big Spring on Monday, June 27th

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

 35-40 years of age — One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over -An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

The main group desiring permanent-wear contact lenses are myopic (nearsighted) people who want to put something in, and wear it all day and all night. It works most of the time, but there are enough devastating consequences of these permanent-wear contact lenses so that I personally refuse to authorize them for my patients. If a patient asks for extended-wear contacts, I say no. And if I get an argument, I simply ask, "Would you wear your shorts or panties for 30 to 50 days?" The answer is, "No, never!"

I then explain that contact lenses collect moisture, mucus, sugar and other proteins from the tear fluid that will grow bacteria. The eye is a warm, moist place where all types of severe parasitic diseases

As a physician, I feel responsible for my patients' care, and I think the legal system would probably feel that I bear some responsibility were I to prescribe permanentwear lenses that damaged my patients' eyes. "Constructive engagement's a failure," he said, referring to the administration's view that South Africa's apartheid system can be best opposed by

Texas Demos blast Bush on education

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Democrats, charging thatGeorge Bush's promise not to raise federal taxes would mean a local property tax hike, predicted that voters will reject the Republican presidential candidate this fall.

"The Republicans are going to discover the taxpaying public has seen through their charade," said Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party

"George Bush's secret plan to fund his so-called 'education presidency' is out of the bag and it's a tax plan. Hard-hit local property taxpayers should ask Mr. Bush how he expects us to believe his anti-tax rhetoric when he's talking high, least taxes," Martin

"Maybe George Bush's pals in the wealthiest districts can afford more local school taxes, but working Americans deserve something much better than local tax increases as an education plan," he said. Joining Martin at a news conference Monday were state Reps. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, and Bob Aikin,

"Just when we are struggling to provide fair funding for every school district in the state, the last thing we need is for the federal government to require us to further overburden homeowners," Colbert said

Aikin said the GOP's record on education has been poor, adding that he thinks Republicans have been working to make education a partisan issue.

"Education has never been more important to the future of our state. We need to work together to find solutions that benefit all Texans, not just a select few' who live in wealthy areas, Aikin said.

Dick Vitale, you can rest easy, now that Larry Brown has accepted the job of head basketball coach for the San Antonio Spurs.

Throw away your toothbrush, Dick. Forget about buying

During the last college basketball season, Vitale, the television commentator who talks his own brand of East Coast jive, said that he would clean the floor of Allen Field House with a toothbrush if Larry Brown was still coaching the Jayhawks when next season begins.

Vitale knew what he was talking about.

"I'm brokenhearted," Vitale said. "I was looking forward to scrubbing the floor. I had my toothbrush ready. But I said all along Larry's a soap opera. He's bigger than Luke and Laura on General Hospital." On Monday, Brown said he is leaving the University of Kansas, where he coached the Jayhawks to the national basketball championship April 4, for the Lone Star State. I guess it's hard to turn down $3.5 million over five years, making Brown the highest paid coach in NBA history. Think what Brown's lucrative pact will do for other coaches around the league. It has to have all NBA mentors looking at

"I'm going to toast Larry Brown. He just set a new standard for the rest of us," said Los Angeles Lakers Coach Think about it — if the Spurs are willing to pay Brown $700,000 a year, then certainly the Lakers will pay some extra cash to a coach pressing toward his second consecutive world title.

Detroit Pistons Coach Chuck Daly applauded the announcement. 'God bless him (Brown) with his salary," said Daly.

Daly, a free agent himself, and faces negotations for a new contract with the Pistons once the season is over. Want to make a bet against him getting a raise?

Tami Wise recently experienced some superb basketball competion at an Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic Tournament in Amarillo. Wise, a 6-0 senior post player for the Big Spring Lady Steers, played on the South Plains Hoopers team.

The team finished third, winning three of five games.

The Hoopers lost Both games by four points to the West Texas Dusters, the team former Big Spring guard Paige Clawson played on.

The Dusters were defeated 44-43 by a team from Amarillo in the championship game.

But Wise represented Big Spring well, averaging 12 points, eight rebounds and four blocked shots per game.

Father Dan said it was a great learning experience for his talented daughter. "Tami found out she can get out there and play with the best," said Dan. "Most of the players out there were either first year college players and players getting ready to go to college. The quality of play at the tournament was unbelieveable," said the proud father.

The Hoopers will compote this weekend in a 16-team tournament in Lubbock.

I wasn't surprised to see former Howard College Hawks outfielder Ernesto Casrto get named to the Junior College All-American team. But I was surprised to see that catcher Randy Deal wasn't named to the team.

Both players had banner seasons, leading Howard to the State Junior College Tournament both of their two years here. The Hawks compilied an 82-27 record, including one Region V championship.

Here are the two players' two-year totals: Deal, .390 batting average, 40 homers, and 158 RBI's. Castro, .423 batting average; 28 homers; and 114 RBI's.

Castro hasn't committed himself to anyone yet. It is not known if he'll sign with a pro team or go back to school. Deal, a Denver native, has inked with Texas Tech.

Other Hawk players are in demand:

Howard pitchers Garth Buresh and Al Benavides signed scholarship agreements with the University of Houston. Outfielder Jody Allen signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates. In the free agency draft a couple of weeks ago, Howard third baseman Geraldo Camara, and outfielders Jose Rubiera and Paul Spyhalski, were drafted by the pros. Spyhalski was drafted by the Rangers and Rubiera and Camara were drafted by the Astros.

No wonder Howard were ranked among the top 15 in the nation this season.

Brown's contract will Pistons outrun Lakers

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Pistons' drive toward the NBA title stalled until they started driving to the basket. Now it's in high gear.

The championship series became more aggressive and physical Tuesday night when the Pistons evened it at two games each with a 111-86 rout of the Los Angeles Lakers.

In the first quarter, the Pistons charged down the lane and got seven of their first eight baskets on layups. In the fourth quarter, Detroit's Isiah Thomas, playing despite a back injury, charged down the lane and got hammered by his longtime friend, Magic Johnson.

"We're playing for the world championship," Johnson said. "Both of us understand what it's all about. If I go in for a layup, I know he's coming after me. If he goes in for a layup, he knows I'm coming after him.

The Pistons went right into the teeth of the Los Angeles defense, a tactic that often resulted in easy baskets or foul shots. They had 46 free throws Tuesday night compared to only 12 in a 99-86 third game loss Sunday

They outscored the Lakers 36-28 from the free throw line. The disparity was 28-13 through three quarters.

Detroit's Adrian Dantley, who led all scorers with 27 points, made 13 of 15 free throws. On Sunday, he had only 14 points and only two foul Game 6 being down 3-2," Los Angeles forward Kurt Rambis said. "So it's going to be the toughest and the roughest and the most physical game of the series."

"It's important for us to win our next home game," Detroit center Bill Laimbeer said. "We don't want to have to go to L.A. having to win two games. At least they'll be going to L.A.

champion Lakers could have won the title Thursday night. Now, there will be a sixth game Sunday and, possibly, a seventh Tuesday night, both in Inglewood, Calif.

Detroit's decision to return to an inside offensive game caused foul problems for the Lakers

"We were penetrating, Adrian was going in there and we were dishing the ball off for easy baskets and we got easy fouls," Laimbeer with 23 points, picked up his fourth foul with Detroi' ahead 68-61 with 7:03 left in the third quarter. He didn't return ut il the start of the fourth quarter and by that time Detroit had an 83-65 advantage.

Leaving John on in "wasn't going to make an difference in the game," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said. "He had four (fouls) and to put him back in in a situation where we have to play pressure defense and give him his fifth" wouldn't have been wise.

'When he's out of the game

they're obviously not as dangerous because he may be the greatest player in the world," Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said

Johnson got his fifth foul with 7:03 left in the fourth period. Thomas was his victim. Pistons' forward Dennis Rodman grabbed Thomas in case Thomas wanted to go after Johnson and Laimbeer advanced toward the Laker guard.

Johnson said he didn't commit the foul out of frustration because of Detroit's 89-72 lead at the time. LAKERS page 2-B

Graf spends birthday preparing for Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Steffi Graf got flowers, gold earrings and a birthday cake with candles forming the number 1. But there's one thing she wants most-a Wimbledon championship.

No one, least of all eight-time champion Martina Navratilova, is going to give Graf that. She knows she'll have to earn

"This is the most famous tournament in the world," said the top-seeded West German, who lost to Navratilova in last year's final. "This is the one everyone wants to win.'

Graf, who is skipping this week's warm-up grass tournament in Eastbourne to practice privately in London, turned 19 on Tuesday. But she didn't spend the day celebrating.

"I practiced this morning and I'm going to practice again this afternoon," she said. "Then I'm going home for the night. I will have my party after Wimbledon.'

Graf will play American Hu Na in the opening round, while second-seeded Navratilova will meet Sabrina Goles of Yugoslavia.

Navratilova, seeking her seventh straight singles title, seemed pleased with her first-round pairing. "I guess I'd rather play her than (John) McEnroe," Navratilova said of Goles. McEnroe, who is returning to Wimbledon for the first time in three years, fared very well in Tuesday's draw. The three-time champion and No. 8 seed opens against 19-year-old Horst Skoff of Austria and is not seeded to face a true grass-court player until the fourth round when his opponent would be hardserving Kevin Curren, who beat McEnroe in the 1985 quarterfinals.

British bookies were so impressed by McEnroe's draw that they shortened his odds from 7-1 to 5-1, making him the third choice behind co-favorites Ivan Lendl and Boris Becker

Lendl, the top seed and No. 1 player in the world, meets Britain's David Felgate in the opening round. Becker, the sixth seed and two-time champion, faces John Frawley of Australia. Felgate, ranked 360th in the world, said he won't be intimidated by Lendl, who has lost the last two Wimbledon finals

"I am best man at a friend's wedding on Saturday and have to make a speech, he said. "The prospect of having to do that frightens me more at the moment than playing the world's number one player.

Wilander won the first two Grand Slam events of the year, the Australian Open on a hardcourt and the French Open on clay.

But he has never made it past the quarterfinals at Wimbledon, which requires an aggressive serve-and-volley Like Wilander, Graf is halfway to the Grand Slam. But that is not foremost on her mind right now. Wimbledon is.

"I'm more confident than I was last year," Graf said. "Last year, I was surprised to get to the finals. This year, I know I can do it. That makes a big Navratilova and fourth-seeded Chris Evert may have a chance to avenge their upset defeats at the French Open.

Knepper blast women's group

HOUSTON (AP) — Astros pitcher Bob Knepper, who came under fire earlier this year when he said women should not umpire men's games, called the National Organization of Women "a bunch of lesbians" in an article in the upcoming issue of Sports Illustrated.

According to an article in the June 20 issue, Knepper shrugged off e Houston NOW chapter's decision to vote him ' Year" after he said women shouldn't be umpires.

'NOW is such a blowhard organization,' Knepper said. "They are a bunch of lesbians. Their focus has nothing to do with women's rights. It has everything to do with women wanting to be men.'

"This is business. This isn't anything personal," Thomas said. "He made the statement before it (the series) started if I were coming through the lane he'd slam me and I came through the lane and he slammed me.

By that time, however, the outcome was clear. The Lakers' last kead was 24-23 with 2:14 left in the first quarter. They trailed 58-51 at halftime and Detroit closed the third quarter with a 17-5 run to take an 18-point lead into the final period The Lakers had just 14 points in the third quarter and 35 in the second half, their low for this year's playoffs. After making 21 of 40 shots in the first half, they hit only eight of 32 in the second half and sank only five in the final 22:40. "Their defense was a lot more rugged and aggressive," Riley said

"Everybody was bumping them Detroit center James Edwards "They don't like that and it kind of threw them off their game.

Detroit's offensive aggressiveness, missing in the last two games after an opening victory, had paid off. The 25-point victory margin was the largest in a championship series game since 1985 when the Lakers beat Boston 136-111 in the third game.

Thomas was a big reason for the Pistons' dominance with assists on five of their first six baskets. He decided Tuesday afternoon he'd be able to play despite an injury sustained late in Sunday's game when he fell on his back.

"My presence on the court was all we needed," Thomas said. The Lakers "had to be conscious of

Funnyman Hebner having fun

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Richie Hebner says the only way to stay happy in baseball is to have fun.

"I don't remember a lot of the things I did when I was playing," said Hebner, the Myrtle Beach Blue Jays manager who was considered a great practical joker during his 171/2 seasons in the majors. "I just had some laughs.

"There were guys I played with who, looking back, didn't really have fun. Gee, if I played like that, there's no way I could have lasted 171/2

Hebner still has fun, especially now that his Blue Jays are in a showdown battle for first place with the Augusta Pirates.

Hebner, who played first and third base and the outfield, retired after being released by the Chicago Cubs before the 1986 season. That gave him time to spend with his family in Walpole,

This spring the Toronto organization surprised Hebner with an offer to manage the Class A team. With the exception of a couple of visits, Hebner has been separated from his wife, Pat, and two daughters, Elizabeth, 5, and Katherine,

3, since the season began. Being away from his family has been tough.

Nellie King, a former Pirates broadcaster, said Hebner was a wildman on the field - especially when a fight broke out. 'Sometimes there would be a pile of people in a fight and you'd see Richie just dive in - like he was diving into a swimming pool," said King, now sports information director at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. "He loved to

Although his days as a prankster are over, Hebner tries to show his Blue Jays that the game can still be fun.

"That's the way I manage," Hebner said. "I try to tell these kids that if they have a bad night, it's not like football, where you have a week to think, 'Gee, I had a bad last Sunday.' If you let things get to you it'll drive you crazy.

Hebner's teammates didn't mind his craziness because he came up with the big play. He played in a record eight National League playoffs, and was on only three teams that finished the regular season with losing records. He had a lifetime batting average of .274 with 193 career homers and 890 RBI. His best year for average was his first in the majors, when he hit .301 for the Pirates in 1969. He hit 25 homers for the Pirates in 1973.

After his career in the majors, Hebner showed that his knack for being associated with winners was more than just luck. He coached an American Legion team near his hometown to the Legion World Series last year.

This season, Hebner has been there to make the proper adjustment when Myrtle Beach needed it.

But there is a chance he won't be there at championship time.

He could be somewhere more important. "My wife is due with her next baby Sept. 10," he said. "If we make it that far, we could be in the championship series. "If so, I'd hate to bail out on the guys. But if it ever comes to choosing between being home and baseball, there's no question what I'd rather do. That's one reason why I'm going to have to sit down at the end of the season and think about this.

Martin County cotton ends up as Levis

By MISSY BARNES

Herald Staff I watched the making of material for thousands of Levis daily. I recently toured the American Cotton Growers Denim Plant in Littlefield. Texas.

Much of the cotton raised in Martin County and ginned at Farmers Co-Op Association is used in the production of denim. I was amazed at the size of the plant and efficiency of the workers. The facilities were extremely clean.

The plant is in operation 24 hours a day and employees an average of 500 workers. It is Littlefield's largest employer.

Johnny Montgomery, assistant acres under roof manager at Stanton's Farmers Co-Op said they ginned 21,000 bales of cotton this year.

American Cotton Growers, a cotton pool-marketing, and denim manufacturing farmer-owned cooperative, was organized in April, 1973, to improve the cooperative cotton ginning, processing, storage, handling and marketing systems for West Texas cotton producers.

Construction of the denim manufacturing plant in Littlefield, in 1975, was a major step in the development of a more efficient-off farm system.

Designed to increase the members annual income, this denim plant is one of the largest and most modern of its kind in the world, a showplace for the U.S. cotton industry covering almost 10 techniques and technology along methods to produce over 28 million

American Cotton Growers sold this denim mill in 1987 to Plains Cotton Cooperative Association, a cotton marketing cooperative established in 1953 and currently serving over 20,000 cotton producers in Texas and Oklahoma.

This transaction pumped more than $100 million into the West Texas economy at a time when capital for many farming operations was badly needed.

Plains Cotton Cooperative Association purchase of this mill will ensure continued operation and cooperative ownership of this region's valuable asset.

This plant utilizes the latest Lubbock, PCCA continues to search for innovative ideas to betwith traditional manufacturing ter serve its members by increas- fibers, form them into a web, and ing profitability and returning linear yards of 141/2-ounce indigo greater dividends.

Two cotton trucks haul 90,000 bales of West Texas cotton annually. This cotton will be processed into approximately 28 million yards of 60 inch denim. Until it is scheduled to be processed, cotton is stored in a 1,500 bale capacity warehouse.

The initial stage of denim production is Opening and Blending. "Opening" begins with baled cotton fiber being separated into small tufts. A blend of cotton fibers from 28 bales is made on each of three opening lines.

Cotton is delivered by air suction from the Opening and Blending lines, through additional cleaning to being gathered into a rope form and blending machines, to the suitable for dyeing. With corporate headquarters in Cards. The major functions of carding are to remove foreign matter largest single machine in the plant. and short fibers, straighten the convert the web into a rope-like form known as sliver.

The Drawing process produces a single uniform sliver from six card slivers. The additional blending, paralleling of fibers and cleaning in this process produces a sliver for Opening End Spinning. Cotton fibers are formed into yarn by centrifugal action in Open-End Spinning. Individual fibers are laid down in the groove of a fast spinning rotor and twisted into yarn. After the cotton fibers are spun into yarn, the yarn is wound into a large package known as cheese. Individual strands of yarn are removed from yarn packages prior

The indigo dye range is the The yarn goes thrugh sulfur dye, wash boxes, indigo dye vats, through additional wash boxes, over dying cans, and is then coiled into tubs which are transferred to the Long Chain Beaming process.

The denim goes through starch solution and winds the yarn onto a loom beam. Which this part of the factor has a terrible odor.

The finishing range brushes and singes the cloth. The cloth is then pulled to the proper width, dried and rolled for then next process.

To make sure the denim does not shrink after laundering they take it thorugh a machine slightly wet with water and with approximately 14 percent shrinkage in the yarn takes place.

As I was at the end of the tour I saw where they inspect every yard of denim that goes through the plant

Mama was a Westinghouse Sheep are dumb, helpless and looking for place to die

By PEGGY LUXTON Cap Rock Electric Cooperative

Jeff and Michaeleen (Mike) Glendening of Tarzan raise showquality medium-wool, black-faced sheep. Jeff is the businessman in the family, and Mike mothers all the poor little lambs that inevitably end up, for one reason or another, away from their mamas. Caring for orphan lambs was once a time-consuming, backbreaking chore. With as many as 365 ewes on the farm, that meant at least 30 lambs had to be fed by hand. Mike recalls feeding as many as five lambs at one time in this way, holding two bottles in each hand and a fifth bottle between her knees

When a lamb stays with its mother, she will call the lamb to nurse, but after it has had four or five gulps of milk, she will move away. A lamb will nurse many times during the day, taking just a few gulps at a time. But when rigged up to an electric refrigerator in the Glendening lamb pen.

"pig out." They take a full bottle at a time, three times a day.

The big feedings the lambs get on the bottles tend to make them develop pot bellies and a "Dogie look," which means they are not well proportioned and are not filled out in the proper way. This destroys their value as show animals.

The secret to keeping orphan lambs in top form is to feed them cold milk rather than warm milk. If the milk is cold, the lambs will drink just a small amount at one time, returning many times during Jeff first utilized the cold milk idea by using an old metal Pepsi ice chest, fitting nipples into jugs of milk inside. But since the chest was kept cold with jugs of ice that had to be replaced periodically during the day, Jeff knew there had to be a better way.

The better way was shown to Mike Marck Schafer of Garden Cilambs are bottle-fed, they tend to ty, who had utilized nipples attached to tubes, but the tubes ran into the crisper box of an electric refrigerator placed in the lamb pen. Jeff studied Marck's creation and went back home and made his

The first refrigerator Jeff rigged up as a substitute mother had eight nipples attached. The whole conglomeration had to be taken apart for cleaning every other day, and keeping it clean was a timeconsuming job. Jeff and Mike discovered that one nipple would feed 10 lambs, so the second refrigerator was equipped with only four nipples. Two sets of holes are drilled into the side of the refrigerator, one set in the exterior wall and one set in the interior wall. The nipples fit into valves on the outside, and the interior holes hold the plastic tubing that runs into the milk in the crisper box.

The milk mixture is the same mixture used when lambs are bottle-fed. Most of the lambs need only one introduction to the refrigerator. They butt up against the refrigerator exactly the same mother when hursing.

But some lambs are a little slow to learn. Mike has to feed some lambs with the bottle until they can understand the milk comes from the refrigerator at all times. She says that when she enters the lamb pen, those few rush her and attack her to get to the bottles. In the same pen, the lambs that nurse from the refrigerator show no interest in the bottles Mike says, "Everything you hear about sheep is true. They are dumb and helpless and yes, they are just looking for a place to die. You have to help them along to ensure they even survive. The Glendenings raise about 30 lambs each year on the refrigerator. The real advantage of the refrigerator is evident when the lambs are weaned and put up for sale. Mike says you can't tell which lambs were raised by their mother and which have been weaned from the refrigerator. The show quality is evident in both. Since the value of the refrigerator-raised lambs is several thousand dollars per year, the refrigerator feeding system saves not only time, but money.

The Glendening children have been showing home-grown lambs at stock shows since 1982. Jeff and Mike's children are: Debbie Smith, 25, who lives in Stanton; Marty, 22, who is in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Mare Island near Vallejo, Calif.: Tracy. 17, a senior at Klondike High School; Jill, 16, a sophomore at Klondike High School; and Beth, 15, a freshman at Klondike High School. Moscow summit helped ease fears

Experts, observers, officials and others in the instant-wisdom business are generally clustering under a consensus that the recently concluded summit meetings in Moscow didn't produce much of weight or

Big summit results not necessary

It was something many Americans never expected to see: President Reagan, standing in the Kremlin, saying he no longer considered the Soviet Union to be the "evil empire."

That description of the Soviet Union, made by Reagan five years ago, has characterized U.S.-Soviet negotiations since that time.

Reagan and Gorbachev did not emerge from their four days of meetings with major breakthroughs on major issues, such as arms

But some events were impressive nonetheless, such as the Soviets' willingness to consider discussion of human rights.

Reagan shows ignorance, ineptitude

President Reagan displayed both his ignorance about American Indians and his ineptitude during a talk with students in the Soviet Union. Sadly, he is not alone with those traits among his immigrant compatriots in the United States.

Reagan said that allowing Indians to maintain their culture on reservations might have been a mistake.

"Maybe we should not have humored them in that, wanting to stay in that kind of primitive lifestyle. Maybe we should have said: 'No, come join us. Be citizens along with the rest of us," the president said.

The remark understandably irritated Indian leaders. Indians, of course, officially have been citizens since 1924 by an act of Congress Statesman-Journal, Salem, Ore.

We should provide aid to Afghans

Soviet troops are finally on their way out of Afghanistan, and if all of them leave — a big if — that tortured country will eventually face the task of peaceful reconstruction.

As you may have noticed, present accommodations are not exactly topnotch. And in crash landings, seats often break loose, clogging the aisles and resulting in increased deaths and injuries.

One reasonable way to do that is a proposed Federal Aviation Agency

The FAA's plan is to require replacement of all seats over the next seven years, costing $33 million in all, or $7,200 per plane. That's less than the price of a compact car — and well worth it. Kennebec Journal, Augusta, Maine

International drug task force needed

The drug war has two main fronts, both extremely evil. At one end, drug consumption is corroding values of American society.

At the other end, drug trafficking is undermining democratic institutions in supplier nations. Colombia is losing its war to a deadly combination of drug trafficking and a violent leftist insurgency. Government officials, judges, journalists and law enforcement officers often have had to choose between death and surrender.

In choosing surrender, they have increased traffickers' power The Reagan administration should call upon all nations of the hemisphere to join the United States in a task force against drugs. This group should assess the mutual threat calmly, without recriminations as to whether U.S. consumers or Latin American drug suppliers are most to blame for the crisis. Then it should devise a common strategy - diplomatic, military and judicial - for fighting the drug menace in unison.

etters to the editor.

I want to invite you to stop by my hospitality suite at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Houston on friday night after the Democratic State Convention adjourns

Since Bill Hobby has stated that he will not seek re-election, many of my friends and supporters have urged me to seek the Democratic Party nomination for Lt. Governor in 1990. Active Democrats such as you, of course, are the key for any candidate that seeks the Democratic Party nomination.

I value your advice and opinion as I think about my political plans.

At the age of 25, I ran for Congress against then-Democrat Phil Gramm and lost by only 185 votes. I ran because I did not think Gramm represented the ideals of our Party. In 1986 I worked hard to keep Bill Clements from becoming

Our highest priority this year must be the election of Democrats to national, state and local posts. Because I am running unopposed this year for re-election to the 1988-1992 term of the Texas Senate, I am spending my time campaigning for Democrats.

1990 seems like a long time away, but successful grassroots campaigns take a lot of time and effort. It is not too early to behin planning to keep the Lt. Governorship in Democtatic hands through the

I hope to visit with you in Houston. Sincerely.

Chet Edwards State Senator

Dear Walt

I am always encouraged when interested Texans such as yourself participate in the Democtaric process. Although the convention system in Texas is somewhat complicated, you have taken the time and made the effort to get involved, and for that you are to be congratulated.

You are among a small group of people who have been selected by friends and peers to attend the Texas Democratic Convention in Houston on June 17th - 18th. This convention promises to be exciting, and will definitely have an impact on politics in Texas and on the presidential nomination.

I encourage you to make every possible attempt to be in Houston in June. No matter who receives the majority of delegates from Texas, it is important that all of us are united for the fall campaign.

Also, I will be having a hospitality suite at the Four Seasons Downtown, across from the Brown Convention Center on Friday evening, June 17th. If possible, please stop by to visit

I look forward to seeing you at the state convention. Sincerely, Lloyd Bentsen

Chief: Ethical investigation

By ROBERT WERNSMAN Managing Editor

The month that's passed since May 13 has been a hectic one for Colorado City Police Chief Bobby Sparks.

He says he's been attacked by non-credible individuals and organizations, misquoted by the media, and harassed by people in the community he is charged to protect. He also says he's seen at least one "out and out lie" in the media that have attempted to report actions before, during and since the shooting of a Colorado City man.

Despite this, the chief contends that his department conducted "a good, solid, ethical investigation" before identifying Sammy Gomez as the prime suspect in a sexual assault and "has received 95 percent support from the hundreds of responses, comments, cards and letters" concerning the shooting. During a Friday interview Sparks said that he will "meet with any credible group of people I believe are genuinely interested," but says he has yet to be contacted by the Colorado City League of United Latin American Citizens' organization about attending a meeting of the

He also denies allegations by the Gomez family that he refused to talk with them or ordered them to leave his office. "I have listened to (Minnie Gomez, Sammy's mother) talk for numerous hours and talked with Marcario (Sammy's father) on problems" with their son.

The trouble, as Sparks sees it, is that "She didn't want to listen . . . I've never been able to talk with Minnie.

Despite that, he said, "Mr. Gomez did seem to understand there had been problems in the past," and that his son had exhibited violence — "not only to the police officers but the

"I told (Marcario) that if (Sammy) kept reacting the way he did, something bad was going to happen to him.

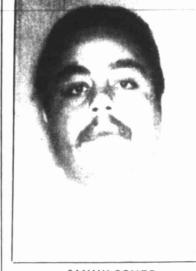

That's what happened, Sparks says, between 2:45 and 3 p.m. Friday, May 13 when Sammy was confronted by two officers in the home of his aunt.

During the officers' efforts to arrest Sammy, Sparks said Friday, Gomez came at them with a knife. "Statements will show Sammy Gomez pulled a knife, was asked repeatedly to drop it, then attacked officer (Billy Ray) Williamson, and gave the officer no alternative but to use deadly force to protect himself.

It is, to some degree, the amount of deadly force used by Officer Williamson that has some Colorado City residents upset and calling for a federal CHIEF page 2

Family: It was harassment By ALISHA GOLDMAN The family of Sammy Gomez, a rape suspect shot and killed

COLORADO CITY

Friday, May 13 by a Colorado City police officer, says his death was the tragic ending to a series of harassment incidents by authorities.

'The people here are prejudiced," Marcario Gomez said in a recent interview.

A Mitchell County grand jury made no indictment after deliberating for several hours May 20 over the shooting of Sammy by Billy Ray Williamson, a part-time Colorado City officer.

Gomez was the suspect in the rape of a 19-year-old Colorado City woman, who says she was assaulted early the morning of May 13 in a car parked in the 1200 block of Oak Street during a five-hour ordeal. The Gomez family lives in that block, as did the assault victim.

Gomez, 27, was shot May 13 after he pulled a knife on two of the four officers sent to arrest him at a house on West Front Street, Police Chief Billy Sparks

But Gomez's aunt, Jessie Gomez, the only civilian witness to the icident, said she did not see any knife in Sammy's possession.

The local League of United Latin American Citizens vestigation through Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and officials in Washington, President Oscar Ortiz has reported.

FBI officials have already taken statements concerning the matter, the Gomezes said, and are to send a report within a month to the federal justice department.

Colorado City Mayor Jim Baum said the city would welcome any further investigation.

"We will cooperate and help with (the investigation). If there are citizens who need their confidence restored in our police department, we are going to do it to bolster their confidence."

It was little consolation for the grieving Gomez family, who recall a day eight years ago when the same officer who shot their son followed him to his house and pulled a gun on him. "Billy Ray Williamson had said that one day he would kill him," Marcario says. "He would say, 'I am going to kill you, you damn Mexican.

Rape victim: Crawled into her bedroom closet and wept

Friday, May 13 is a day one forget. It's unlikely that will happen any time soon.

She is the rape victim whose five-hour ordeal nearly one month ago resulted in the Colorado City police shooting death of Sammy Gomez at a relative's

She identified him from among four photographs Colorado City police authorities provided that morning and says she has no In fact, she did not know who know who I am," she says, she at-doubt that her assailant was Sam-

The young woman no longer lives in Colorado City, where federal officials have been called to investigate charges of discrimination and harassment, in the Gomez case and other alleged incidents involving the Colorado City police department.

The assault victim is a Caucasian, as is the police officer who fatally shot Sammy Gomez - a 27-year-old Hispanic — less than ten hours after her ordeal ended.

Besides being convinced that her attacker was Sammy Gomez, she's sure about some other things as well.

She's sure he "was out of his head, stoned or something. He Williamson did not shoot Mr. Gomez until he himself was in great danger — a reaction to aggression that took only seconds to occur," Sparks said. He said that Williamson shot

Gomez, fired a second time within seconds, and again "until the man quit coming at him."

Part-time officer Williamson has never shot anyone before, his chief said.

The officer's boss confirmed that three shots were fired at Gomez, who suffered chest wounds and a shot to the back of the head that were fatal. He would not specify whether Gomez was hit by all three shots, pending the official

It is the question of that report's existence that led to Sparks declaring "it's an out and out lie. It does not exist," he said on Thursday, in response to an Associated Press account that the autopsy had been sealed from the public. Autopsies are generally part of the public record, the chief says.

Although no identification has been made between the knife Gomez is alleged to have used in his confrontation with the officers and one said to have been used in the sexual assault, Sparks said there is no question Gomez had a knife when the shooting took place.

"Statements reflect that several officers did see the knife was in his hand beneath his body at the scene," Spark says. He refused to describe exactly what he saw at the scene because he had testified about the particulars to the grand jury.

In a prepared statement from which he read but declined to give to the Herald on advice from the city attorney and city manager, he said - Sparks criticizes the media's role in covering the chain of events.

'Many lies have been related through news media reports, just to make the Colorado City police force look bad and we fully expected this. The news media in many areas have only released what someone has told them and have not investigated anything and some of them do not seem to be concerned with the truth," he said.

He acknowledges, however, that he refused to return telephone calls to the Big Spring Herald, as did City Attorney Tom Rees. A week ago, Sparks Sparks was not in the house at the time of the shooting, explaining that he and Sgt. Tim Atkins were at the rear of the home's yard when the confrontation occurred. Williamson was accompanied by Lt. Detective Pat Taylor into the home, Sparks says.

Sparks said Saturday he has not been invited to meet with a Concerned Citizens Committee of Colorado City, which includes the mayor, a local minister, city manager, a councilman and a police training officer with the West Texas Council of Governments

He says it is untrue that Williamson remained on duty at any time between the shooting and the decision by the grand jury not to return an indictment against the officer and city fire marshal

He did not work, but was not suspended. "The law demands a certain amount of problem before you suspend," the chief

He also denies charges of harassment by members of his department. Several incidents have been reported, but none were confirmed by the Herald at press time.

The chief says, "The only harassment I'm aware of is by members of the Gomez family toward Officer Williamson, his family, other officers, their families and myself."

He refuses to elaborate on harassment by the familly, suggesting that charges may be filed "as we gather information."

In his prepared statement, Sparks says that "No one ever likes for this to happen — a tragedy is created on both sides both the officers involved and the families, creating permanent scars that may never be completely overcome.

He contends that the credibility of his department has been upheld by the investigations, and will continue to be upheld through any future investigations.

'There has been much discussion about a Justice Department and U.S. Attorney General's investigation. We would welcome these also," he says.

Gomez family

Marcario came out of the house and asked Williamson what was happening. "He said that (Sammy) had a taillight out. So I asked him, 'Why didn't you give him a ticket then, instead of hitting him on the head?' "

"So he got mad and took out a gun and cocked it and put it to Sammy's head . . . I said, 'If you kill him that's the last thing you're going to do.'

At that point a second officer drove by and, witnessing the scene, told Officer Williamson to put his gun away. Then he said he would have to arrest Sammy for aggravating an officer, Marcario said.

When the Gomezes told their story to a grand jury, the charge was changed to resisting arrest. "But he wasn't being arrested. You don't get arrested for having a taillight out," Minnie said. The couple took the case to court again and the charges were dropped in a county court, they say Marcario and his wife, Minnie, claim to have complained to the police chief and other officials about the threats. "I went to Pat Barber, county attorney (at the time), and told them about it," he said. He also contacted Pete McKinney, former county attorney, and Bill

Carter, county judge. Minnie recalls attempting to iscuss the problem wit Chief Sparks. "When I went to just talk, he would never let me talk. He would always tell me 'Get the hell out of here.' He already had it in his mind that Sammy was a troublemaker and they would never help me because of that. What else can a person do?" At the time of the arrest for attempted murder, Sammy was beaten in jail, the family claims, and the Gomez family sued the county and the county sheriff's department in 1983, they say. "They found out they didn't have insurance so they had to spend money on each . . . officer," Marcario says. He claims the insurance situation inflamed the animosity between the family and officials.

"After we filed the suit, they began to harass him to attempt to get rid of the suit," he says. Another incident gave the officials their opportunity, the family claims.

On Feb. 2, 1983, Sammy and Randy McFall, agreed to a fistfight to resolve an argument. A witness said there were numerous onlookers, according to Marcario.

During the fight, the family believes one of the onlookers stabbed Randy in the side. In testimony, the family says Randy testified that he didn't think he was stabbed by Sammy because neither one was fighting with weapons

Later, he realized he had been stabbed.

Sammy was convicted of attempted murder October 1983 and sentenced to 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections in October 1984.

The Gomez family went to court, citing 16 counts of unfairness. They appealed to two courts in Eastland and two higher courts in Austin. After two years and five months, and $15,000 in legal fees, the judgment was overturned by Judge Campbell on Dec. 18, 1985. The conviction was reversed on the basis of an unfair trial, they say. The court granted Sammy a

"That's what made (city officials) mad, too," Marcario says. The family believes officials hoped that the fact Sammy was in prison would be in their favor when the alleged beating suit came to trial.

Sammy was out on bond for a vear in 1986-87 while awaiting a new trial. During that time, "The sheriff sicced the city police on him because of the suit I had against them . . . The police never caught him with guns or knives or anything," Marcario says.

He was arrested a block from his home in May 1987 for driving while intoxicated and had his license suspended when he pleaded guilty. The family says the plea was a move to avoid another beating in jail. He was never given a breath test, they

He did not drive during the year's suspension, his parents

On the morning of his death, May 13, the Gomez family noticed police officers questioning neighbors. Sammy and their second son, Robert, were both at home. Police officers did not approach their home, however, and Minnie and Sammy left the house without being stopped or knowing the reason for the officers' presence, she says.

She later asked Police Officer Vince Arias, whom she had seen, why they had not asked to speak to Sammy at that time. He told her it was because the rape victim had not made a positive identification at that

The police chief says officers went to the Gomez home twice that day but no one answered the door. Minnie says no one was at home after 1:30 p.m.

Sammy got out of the car a few blocks from his aunt's house and he walked towards that home, although Minnie says she was not sure he was going there. She proceeded to go to work as a housekeeper, some two miles Sometime after 2 p.m. Arias and Sparks visited a restaurant where they apparently thought she worked and questioned the employees as to her whereabouts. They told the officers where she worked Arriving there, Arias told her they were looking for Sammy and suggested she tell him to surrender if she knew where he was. Meanwhile, Sparks arrived and Minnie says she saw him running. Arias ran to join him and Minnie followed them to an adjoining garage area. The officers seemed to be searching and Sparks insisted that she had hidden Sammy at the residence, she says. When she denied it, Sparks seemed to get angry, she said, and told her, "If you know where he is, and if you don't tell me where he is, if we(catch him tonight, we'll kill him," she says

Sparks denies this, and says that he warned Minnie that an arrest warrant was issued for Sammy and she could go to jail if she hid him.

'I pleaded with them to let me go find him — I didn't want them to kill him," she says.

A few minutes after they left, she received a call that her son had been shot by the police. "They knew where he was already," Marcario says. "They wanted to be sure where (his mother and I) were. Then (Sparks) called in Williamson and had him go in because he knew of the conflict between Williamson and Sammy.' The couple said Sammy's aunt Jessie was not told — when she answered the door — why officers were there. When asked if Sammy was there, she replied yes. They pushed their way into the home, drawing their guns, the family says. She was in front of the officers as Sammy rose from where he was sleeping and walked into a narrow hallway with his hands in the air.

At the time, Minnie said, Sammy warned her in Spanish, "You'd better get out of the way they're going to kill me." As she fled, with her back to the officers, she heard two shots.

Sammy fell face forward to the floor with two shots in his chest, his parents say.

He was shot a third time through the back of the head, they say. He was shot in the chest and was shot in the base of the back of the head, according to Police Chief Sparks. The Gomezes also question why the rape victim, a neighbor, was not able to immediately identify Sammy as her assailant, but hours later identified him from photographs at the police station.

(The police) always wanted an opportunity to kill him and they could have paid the girl money to say it was Sammy, Marcario says. "They didn't have to bring a picture — she saw Sammy and Robert coming and going every day. If she knew already who it was, why didn't they come and get him then or the next morning when he was at home?

Marcario claims the police didn't seek Sammy at his home because they wanted it to appear Sammy was fleeing Minnie says she confronted Officer Arias on this point.

"I asked Vince, 'You saw that I was coming and going out of my house (Friday morning) and Sammy was with me.' '

"They went to every house (on the block) except this one," Marcario says.

The situation is "sad because America shouldn't be like this,' Marcario says. "I wish people would help us because they are giving too much power to the police

"When you are hit with a .38 twice in the chest do you think you are going to struggle? . . . They didn't even give him a chance to breathe," said Minnie's cousin Gloria Lujan.

Minnie took issue with the rape victim publicly telling her story. "They never gave Sammy a chance — didn't give him a day in court. They were court, jury, everything.

Johnny Palmer, local production foreman, has been promoted to plant manager in Big Spring, said Steve Fraser, vice president of operations. Fraser's title is new as well promoted from plant manager to the position with the acquisition of the company's second Amarillo plant. Palmer came to Big Spring in 1982 after serving as plant manager in Amarillo.

Charles Palmer, current Amarillo plant manager, has been promoted to vice president of Amarillo operations.

Steve Fraser will be responsible for production in all the plants.

Fraser said he expects the new addition to increase the company's output. "We'll increase the production in Amarillo about 125 percent and bring our manpower in Amarillo to 180 people.

The Amarillo acquisition is the third purchase this year for Fraser Industries, he said.

"We added a plant in El Paso the first of January," Fraser said,

"We're not growing right here locally, but there is a lot going on at a lot of different places," the new vice president said.

Besides the company's operations in Amarillo, El Paso, Big Spring and Plain Dealing, the company owns a sawmill and pallet factory in Foreman, Ark., and a plant in Brenham, Texas.

The company employs a total of 250 to 275 people at any time.

The company began in 1967 in the family's backyard in Coahoma as a second job for his father, Fraser said. Troy Fraser bought the company in 1975 from his father; and Steve was added as a partner in 1978. Joe Elmore, a third partner, joined in 1982. He is vice president in charge of the Arkansas and Louisiana plants.

Clark speaks at recent meeting

"Promote the numerous assets of Big Spring and surrounding area, and try to accommodate the needs and desires of potential industrial prospects," said Sidney T. Clark, as he spoke to members of the Desk & Derrick Club recently at Alberto's Cafe. The new city councilman and longtime civic leader, said that government bodies such as the city, county and Howard College, along with the Chamber of Commerce and the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, are cooperating in making contacts and working with prospects, according to a news release.

The 10th Street to FM 700 project was proposed because of the accident rate of that portion of the state highway, thus qualifying for $700,000 in federal highway safety funds. An additional $50,000 will be awarded for traffic lights, according to the district engineer.

In other business, council members are scheduled to meet in executive session to discuss the search for a new city manager and a fire chief. Former Big Spring City Manager Mack Wofford submitted his resignation in late March, which became effective May 21. Hal Boyd has been serving as acting city manager since that time.

St., filed a petition in 118th District Court April 25 asking the court to intervene to prevent enforcement of zoning ordinances against their garage. The lawsuit was filed in response to a Zoning "Without the backbone of our Little League - the parents - we cannot survive and if we do, it won't be for long," said Ed Lawson, president of the Big Spring International Little League.

Lawson was referring to the folding of the Texas Little League, which was dissolved due to factors including insufficient funds, lack of cooperation between management, and little or no community support.

"Garage sales, donations, and the womens' auxiliary are just a few directions in which one can raise money for the League," said Lawson. According to Lawson, the Little League prohibits support from cigarette vendors and businesses that sell alcoholic

Lawson has been involved with the Little League program for 10 years and spends much of his time and effort on the ball park for long hours. "I can honestly say I've enjoyed the whole 10 years I've participated in baseball, because of its challenges. One year, one has to cope with a losing season and there's aways another year," said

Phil Bustamante knows about going through hard times as a league president.

"The league thrives on the help of the community, without that important element it (the league), has to look elsewhere and usually cannot find any cooperation because everyone expects the league president and his administration to come up with funds to run the league," said Bustamante, former president of the defunct Texas League.

Bustamante said most of the Texas League participants have a disadvantage, because they have to travel North across I-20 towards the Andrews Highway to get to their playing field located at Roy Anderson Complex.

'Some parents have a hard time to get to and from the playing field because of bad transportation or because they have a job that requires them to work late, which also causes them not to be able to participate as well," said Lawson.

Before the Texas League moved to the Roy Anderson, the teams practiced behind the Bauer Magnet School on the south service road.

Bustamante, Texas League President in '67, expressed his pleasure and continued support for a restart of the league. "I received a lot of support while I was president two years ago, from Louis Brown, Howard County commissioner and from ALSA. They painted the bleachers, and cut and maintained the field." said Bustamante.

He also added, "that if the right people were in the right places in management, the Texas League

The decline of the population resulted in player numbers not being good, and was one of the factors that distorted the Texas league as well, said American Little League President Larry Simmons. In response to questions raised by citizens that other Big Spring leagues were trying to oust the Texas League to keep the city to three leagues and improve their teams with the folded league's players, Simmons said: 'Our goal is to show the kids a mittee meets whenever there appears to be a problem. "The baseball delegation meets when a solution cannot be reached from the player to the parent and up through the proper channels. We try to attack the problem before it tends to get away from us," said Simmons. "We have a board of directors that also meets regularly to discuss ways and means of expanding our financial resources, to generate more support from the community.

Phil Bustamante plans to remain a part of the Little League scene and is active this year in the Teenage League. 'I like challenges, and I'm only doing it for the kids. They can really make life very enjoyable, watching them struggle and then become a good ballplayer and a better person all in one. They are our future," said Bustamante.

Gary Roberts, president of the Coahoma League, along with David Elmore and staff, head its own league and follow the basic rules and regulations that govern the Big Spring leagues as well.

'We are basically governed and sanctioned by the same rules and regulations of the Big Spring leagues and we play once with each team in the three leagues," said

Cruise trip

He'll choose sea legs anytime

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

To celebrate 25 years of marriage, we took a cruise to the Bahamas. We went on the Star Ship Royale, operated by Premier Cruise Lines, the official cruise line of Walt Disney

We flew to Orlando, rented a car and drove to Port Canaveral. We boarded the ship on a Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. It left promptly at 6.

Several of the 1,100 passengers had expected to be part of a send-off like we see on Love Boat, but only two people were on the docks to see us off and they were employees of the cruise line. Nobody threw confetti or streamers

A cruise ship is like a large hotel. Ours had a main dining room, a deck dining area, a swimming pool, workout room, jacuzzi, three night clubs, a theater, a casino and an observatory. It's about six stories high and has elevators and stairways

and maps to tell you

For the first couple of days, nobody knows how to get from one place to another. Some people wander around lost the entire trip. One landmark people got familiar with where you are.

was the Promenade Deck, which allows people to walk all the way around the ship. Six times around is a mile.

The first thing that takes place is the assignment of seating on the dining room. This is the responsibility of the maitre d', or head waiter. He tries to match personalities and does an amazing job. These are the people you spend much time with, because on a cruise, you eat

Every meal in the main dining room has at least six courses. Your table is served by a waiter, a busboy and a wine steward. You eat anything you can eat with a clear conscience. The price of the food is included in the ticket, so all meals, snacks, coffee and juices are there for the taking. You do have to pay for alcoholic beverages

The cruise line has suggested amounts for tips. The largest ones go to the cabin steward and waiter (ten dollars each per person). The busboy gets $5 and the maitre d' gets $3. Not bad for a 5-day, 4-night cruise.

In addition to the meals in the dining room, full meals are served on the deck dining area. Ice cream is served every afternoon. Pizza is ready at 11 p.m. and a full midnight buffet is featured every evening, complete with ice and butter sculptures

We arrived in Nassau at 1 p.m. on Tuesday. Passengers visited tourist attractions, shopped in the straw market and stores and returned to the ship for dinner. Afterwards, some people returned to Nassau for some night life at the fancy resort built by Donald

The ship left Nassau at 6 a.m. Wednesday and within an hour we were at an island called Salt Cay. We spent the day on the island and in the perfect waters surrounding it. With fin, mask and snorkel, we explored life under the

The ship went to deeper water and dropped anchor for the night. This gave crew members the chance to fish for flounder. Passengers were treated to entertainment by the ship's 10-piece band, a Broadway singing group and a fabulous comedian, Beni Mason.

A cruise ship is no place to rest. There is something going on every minute. You have to make choices as to how you wish to spend your time. Bingo is played every day and there are demonstrations of ice carving, decorating with vegetables and other things you do only on vacations. A masquerade party was held the last night of the cruise.

After we got back to Orlando it was announced on the radio that our ship had been voted "Best in the Water" for food, service, entertainment and activities. We brought out the best in the people of the Star Ship Royale.

What I miss most about our experience aboard ship is going back to our room at night and finding the bed neatly turned down and a piece of chocolate on each pillow.

Life is tough on land

Additives improve quality

By NAOMI HUNT Extension agent

Additives improve the shelf-life, taste and nutrient value of the dairy products offered to consumers.

The most common additives used in dairy foods are preservatives, such as sorbic acid and sodium benzoate; stabilizers such as carrageenan; emulsifiers like monoand diglycerides, vitamins A and D and food colors.

Vitamin D is added to almost all fluid milk and the Food and Drug Administration requires that vitamin A is added to low-fat and skim milks. These vitamins are identical in chemical composition to vitamins found naturally in whole milk. Like all additives these are approved and regulated by the FDA. Nutrition: Haggard, Spring

Nonfat yogurt on the market

Look for a new yogurt product in the dairy case. It's plain, nonfat yogurt. Eight ounces contain 0 grams of fat, 45 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance for calcium and 110 calories. While low-fat yogurt has been marketed for years, a completely nonfat yogurt is new to the market.

Nutrition: Haggard, Spring 1988. Storing ice cream

If you take advantage of summer ice cream sales by stocking up, remember to store the containers properly. Over-wrap ice cream containers with freezer paper to prevent ice cream from drying out. Also remember that ice cream is best if it's eaten with two months of purchase. The best temperature for freezer storage is zero degrees

F. or below If you don't have a freezer thermometer. The ice cream is a good indicator of freezer temperature. Ice cream will be "brick" hard if the temperature is zero or below. If the ice cream is soft, the freezer is too warm. Consumers can keep milk and other dairy food safe by taking the following steps: When shopping, examine containers for leaks or other damages. Check "sell-by" dates. Products generally used for a few days after the sell-by date if they have been properly stored. Pick up mild and other perishable dairy foods just before checking out of the store, especially in hot weather. Take products home immediately after purchase and refrigerate them as soon as possible. Refrigerate milk, cream, cottage cheese and similar products in their original containers.

After opening, close containers tightly. Refrigerate cheese in its original wrap until opened. After opening, rewrap the cheese tightly in moisture-vapor wrap or place in airtight containers. Store dry milk and canned milk in a cool dry place. Once reconstituted, milk should be refrigerated. Once canned milk is opened, pour into a clean container and keep refrigerated.
