Crossroads weather

Forecast for the Big Spring area: Isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms through Friday and slightly warmer daytime temperatures. Lows tonight near 70; highs Friday upper 80s to mid 90s. Wednesday's high was 89 and the low was 62. A trace — .03 inches — of rain was received.

Nation's drought: A decade-long story

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The drought that is parching America — drying land from California to the Dakotas, Texas to the Carolinas — is another chapter in an already parched decade.

So far in the 1980s, only 1982 was free from serious drought somewhere in the country.

Even if this were a summer of normal rainfall — and it may yet turn out to be in some of the drought states — it would do little to make up for the cumulative shortage of moisture in the soil.

"The Tennessee Valley is down about 40 inches of rain over four years," said A. James Wagner of the federal Climate Analysis Center. "That works out to one year of normal rainfall missing; they have had only 75 percent of normal rain in the last four years," he said.

"The Tennessee Valley has the worst longstanding drought, along with parts of North Dakota and Montana, where it's been dry for several years," Wagner said.

This year's drought "doesn't really fit exactly into a pattern like we've seen before. The dust bowl was worse in the Plains," referring to the terrible drought of the 1930s, "while the driest areas are east of the Plains this year," Wagner said.

"We still don't think it's as bad as the dust bowl, which was a cumulative thing," he said. Yet, he added, the dryness in the Tennessee Valley may be closing in.

This year's dryness in the Southeast, on the other hand, "is nowhere near as bad as two years ago, when we had the record for the worst drought in 100 years," he said.

Dryness records were set in 1980 in states from Texas to Virginia. In 1984, Montana and the Dakotas received less than half their normal wetness. In 1986 and 1987, the Southeast was hit hard. And hot weather has accompanied the parching.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has reported that 1986 and 1987 were the warmest, on average, in more than three decades and among the warmest on record.

That has raised alarm among environmentalists worrying about the greenhouse effect — the trapping of heat from the sun by carbon dioxide and other gases that they fear ultimately will raise the world's temperature.

Much of the Southeast is 12 percent below normal in rainfall in this decade — the equivalent of a year without rain. Some parts of Georgia are 70 inches or more below normal.

Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng said this week that a wet July could save the situation but without that, the drought "could well be a catastrophe." Wheat

Description leads officials to rape suspect

'One tremendous lady'

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A woman who was raped, stabbed 15 times, choked and left for dead struggled through desolate countryside nearly 24 hours before she was rescued, and then helped catch the suspect, authorities said.

"She is one tremendous lady," Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Chuck O'Reilly said Wednesday after the suspect appeared in court. "This gal has ... courage."

The 29-year-old Helena woman disappeared from her home about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. She had been talking on the telephone with a friend, who heard the woman cry "Oh no! Oh no!" authorities said.

The friend reported hearing sounds of a scuffle, and when police arrived at the home, she was missing.

She turned up a day later on a country road northeast of Helena, where a motorist picked her up and took her to a hospital, authorities said.

Despite her condition, she insisted on giving officers a detailed description of her assailant, O'Reilly said.

"Her description was remarkable," he said. "She was trying so hard to help us in the midst of all that pain, sedation and terror."

The description played a key role in the arrest. Authorities said they were able to identify the suspect with help from a fellow employee who heard the description on the radio.

Shawn D. Clawson, 24, of Helena, was arrested Tuesday night on a rural road 10 miles east of Helena, authorities said. He was charged Wednesday with attempted murder, aggravated kidnapping, rape and aggravated assault, and was being held in lieu of $250,000 bail.

Clawson was paroled in March from the Montana State Prison, where he served part of a 10-year sentence for burglary, sexual assault and intimidation charges filed in Anaconda, O'Reilly said.

On Saturday, authorities said, Clawson broke into the woman's home through a bedroom window. He held her for several hours in an abandoned bus three blocks away, then took her to a remote area northeast of Helena, where he raped her, stabbed her 15 times, beat her about the head with a rock and left her for dead in the hilly, rugged area, police said.

She made her way through the arid countryside dotted with trees and sagebrush for about 24 hours before she reached the road where she was found, authorities said. O'Reilly said he did not know how far she traveled.

The woman underwent surgery at a Helena hospital Sunday and was in stable condition Wednesday, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Greg Painter, who hired Clawson to work at a Helena auto-parts store in April, said Clawson seemed calm Saturday morning at work, but that he left suddenly Tuesday.

An employee who heard a description of the assailant on the radio told Painter about the resemblance to Clawson, and Painter said he called the sheriff's office.

Clawson was arrested minutes later as he was driving to Canyon Ferry Lake.

Ring work

Speakers, films and animal evaluations were part of the Far West Show Cattle Conference, concluding today at the Howard County Fairgrounds. The conference was designed to show 4-H and FFA junior beef cattle exhibitors the best way to prepare their entries for the show ring. A live animal evaluation was conducted Wednesday afternoon, as judges showed the participant what they look for in a top animal. Tara Mallett from Pecos pats the nose of her calf while the judges talk.

City's pool rate stirs questions

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Although a Big Spring woman believes the $2 price charged to swim at the Comanche Trail Park Swimming Pool is excessive, it will be next month before she can express her concern.

Laura Brasel — using Big Spring Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles Jr. to interpret sign language — told the City Council Tuesday the fee was too high.

Acting City Manager Hal Boyd suggested she speak to the Parks and Recreation Board during tonight's monthly meeting and Settles said today Brasel planned on addressing the board tonight.

Agenda rules will forbid that, however.

Board chairman Jane Thomas said today anyone wishing to speak to the board must be placed on the agenda 10 days before a meeting.

Apparently Brasel is not the only person who thinks $2 is too much to pay for swimming one day at the pool.

Councilwoman Gail Earls commented at the Tuesday meeting she had received several similar complaints this week about the cost of swimming at the pool.

Thomas said the board followed the recommendation of Big Spring Parks and Recreation Director David McGhghy in setting the $2 admission fee for all persons to swim.

McGhghy informed board members he suggested the $2 fee because that was the admission price at the Sweetwater municipal pool, where he was formerly employed, Thomas said.

Sweetwater Director of City Services Paul McCarthy said today, however, persons over seven years of age are charged $1 for daily swimming privileges.

McGhghy is out of town and unavailable for comment, officials said.

Tom Decell, public works director, said city employees — and their immediate dependents — are allowed to swim free at Comanche Trail Park Swimming Pool and Moss Creek Lake.

He said they also have free access to the city tennis court and

Survey: Local rate is highest

Big Spring Comanche Trail Park Swimming Pool charges a higher admission price than seven other Texas cities of comparable size, an informal survey reveals.

Officials of the cities Brownwood, Del Rio, Corsicana, Sweetwater, Kingsville, Pampa and Rosenberg said employees and their families must also pay full price to swim.

Big Spring city employees and their immediate dependents are allowed to swim free at the Trail pool as part of an employee benefit plan, public works director Tom Decell said.

The admission price to swim at Comanche Trail Park Swimming Pool — open everyday except Monday — is $2 for all persons, Decell said.

A breakdown of swimming pool admission prices of the six similarly-sized cities follows:

- Brownwood has an Olympic-sized pool that is open seven days a week. Admission price for children 12 and under is $1 and $1.25 for persons 13 and older, financial director Gary Butts said.

- Brownwood has two smaller pools in which patrons may swim free, Butts said.

- Asked if city employees are allowed to swim free, Butts said: "We don't do that and we wouldn't do that."

- Sweetwater Director of City Services Paul McCarthy said persons aged seven and older are charged $1 to swim at the city's Olympic-sized pool. Children under seven are admitted free.

- Although the issue of city employees swimming free "has been brought up," he said, "I haven't gone to the city manager with it." Sweetwater city employees pay full admission price, McCarthy said.

Doctor: Bypass legal system on claims

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

A retired Abilene radiologist outlined a plan Wednesday designed to bypass the legal system in settling medical malpractice claims.

While presenting the plan in a speech to the Downtown Lions Club, Dr. Ralph Clayton — the featured speaker at the noon luncheon in the Cactus Room at Howard County Junior College — repeatedly criticized the operations of the U.S. legal system.

Clayton questioned the ability of judges and jurors to rule on medical malpractice cases, and the motives of lawyers involved in such cases.

"Because of the medical/incompetency of today's courts, the courts are unable to rule correctly on any medical practice

"Because of the medical incompetency of today's courts, the courts are unable to rule correctly on any medical practice dispute." — Dr. Ralph Clayton dispute," Clayton said. To underscore his point, Clayton quoted Glanville Williams, an English scholar, saying: "It is an understatement to describe a jury as a group of 12 men of average ignorance."

"And now they've added women and Hispanics and blacks and the unemployed (to juries)," Clayton added. "But it isn't them that makes the judgment, it's the judge. Today, the judge has the power to set aside or modify any jury verdict."

Royce Clay was one person in attendance who didn't appreciate Clayton's comment on jury selection.

"I thought (the speech) was racist and disrespectful to unemployed people," said Clay, a Lions Club member and a minister at the 14th and Main Church of Christ. "I thought it was a ridiculous presentation."

When told of Clay's comments, Clayton said, "You get all kinds of comments from people who don't know what they're talking about. Let me ask this, have you ever run into anybody who was excused from a jury for not being intelligent enough? They'll excuse them for being too intelligent, they do it all the time."

City Attorney Jean Shotts, a Lions club member, was the only lawyer present at the meeting. "For propriety's sake it was best that I sit there and just listen to what he was saying," Shotts said. "Several people came by and more or less told me they were sorry I had to sit through it."

When asked what he thought was the general impression of the Lions toward the speech, Shotts said, "Frankly, a lot of the members were appalled."

The plan Clayton outlined, which he touts as "a definite solution to the medical liability crisis in America," calls for a voluntary contract between doctor and patient specifying that any irreconcilable disagreement between the two parties be submitted to an arbitration panel of doctors, rather than to the courts.

Clayton said that if such a contract were regularly used by patients and doctors it would lower the cost of medical liability insurance resulting in lower medical care costs for patients.

The present practice of submitting medical disputes to the courts not only results in higher medical costs for patients, but it also creates a conflict of interest, Clayton said.

"The legal profession collects 60 to 70 percent of the losses paid by insurance companies, yet lawyers developed and operate the legal system to benefit primarily the legal system."

French woman says mystery boy may be her grandson

PARIS (AP) — A 64-year-old French woman said today that published photographs of a deaf boy whom American and Mexican authorities have been trying to identify have convinced her the child is her grandson.

Camille Muller contacted the U.S. Embassy in Paris on Tuesday after seeing pictures of the child in a French television news report and recognizing him.

"I pray it is him," she said. "For me, it would be marvelous."

The boy, known to authorities as Sabat, was found wandering near Juarez, Mexico, in November. The freckled, brown-haired boy suffers from severely impaired hearing and was unable to identify himself or say where he was from.

Mexican authorities decided the child could be American and he was transferred to El Paso, Texas.

He communicates mostly by drawing pictures and gesturing and his pictures seem to indicate he survived the crash of a four-seat, single-engine plane that killed his parents and sister.

Mrs. Muller saw copies of two drawings and seven photographs of the child published today in the French magazine VSD.

"There is a great resemblance between the photos and Philippe," said Mrs. Muller, in a telephone interview from her home in the village of Le Bourg a Thibouville in Normandy. "I have more and more confidence that he is my grandson."

In addition, she said, "the drawings are all signed with a 'P,' both those in the magazine and others described by VSD reporters who saw them."

One of the drawings reproduced in the magazine, show a stickfigure woman standing beside a small girl, a smaller boy and the plane. Mrs. Muller said Philippe had a sister and a baby brother, born March 1986.

Mrs. Muller's son moved to the United States after marrying an American woman of Mexican descent, who had family in both Mexico City and California.

Her daughter-in-law taught biology at a school in El Paso, although Mrs. Muller did not know where.

However, she said her daughter-in-law's mother in Mexico City had been very ill and possibly had died. She speculated that the family could have been on their way to Mexico City at the time of the plane crash.

"If it is Philippe, then evidently he is the only one left," she said. "So while I hope it is really my grandson, I also hope it is not him because that would mean that his parents and his two sisters are dead."

Christopher English, chief of special consular services at the embassy, said that on Tuesday Mrs. Muller "called and calmly said she had reason to believe that she was the boy's grandmother."

Army nurse statue OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10,000 American women who took part in America's longest war will be commemorated by an additional statue at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial if the House goes along with the Senate as expected.

The Senate approved the new statue Tuesday on a 96-1 vote, sending the bill to the House. A House subcommittee will hold a hearing on the bill next Tuesday.

The memorial itself was built with $11 million in private donations and quickly became one of the capital's most popular monuments after it opened in 1982. It has attracted an estimated 30 million visitors.

Located on 2.2 acres near the Lincoln Memorial, the Vietnam memorial's walls list the names of the more than 58,000 Americans, including eight uniformed Army nurses, who died or are missing from the war.

But the black granite design was also the subject of controversy, with critics saying a more traditional memorial should have been erected.

In 1984, two years after the memorial opened, a large American flag and a statue of three infantrymen were added to a spot near one end of the memorial's chevron-shaped wall.

About the same time, a push began to add a statue honoring women who served in Vietnam.

The measure approved Tuesday calls for a bronze statue of an Army nurse.

Heat wave Gripping much of country; tornadoes strike Colorado

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
A heat wave baking much of the Northeast and Midwest persisted into its fourth day today, aggravating a severe drought. Five tornadoes, meanwhile, spun through Colorado, hurling vehicles through the air and injuring seven people.
Temperatures today were again expected to zoom into the 90s from southern New England across eastern Virginia, as far south as the Gulf coast and as far west as Montana.

"Have you seen the movie 'Good Morning Vietnam?'" Robin Williams has a line in there that sums it up: 'Hot, damn hot, hot and wet,' said Frank Ackerman, spokesman for the Cape Cod National Seashore in Wellfleet, Mass.
An estimated 196,000 people on Wednesday jammed beaches in the New York City area as the temperature hit 96 degrees, tying a 97-year-old record. It reached 98 degrees in Boston, exceeding by 2 degrees the record set in 1956.
In Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the weather officially became a heat wave, meaning at least three straight days of temperatures at 90 or higher, the National Weather Service said.

The unrelenting heat prompted Rhode Island Public Transit Authority bus drivers to threaten a walkout over broken air conditioners, as highs in Providence on Wednesday reached 97 degrees, one degree below the 1945 record.
"It's more than uncomfortable," said Edward Rodgers, president of the drivers' union. "It's a safety issue. What if a driver passed out? ... It could be a catastrophe."

In Colorado, thunderstorms spawned five tornadoes in an area 55 miles long from north to south, tossing vehicles and storage sheds through the air and tearing off several roofs. Seven people were injured, none seriously.
One twister hit near Denver's Stapleton International Airport, where the air traffic control tower was evacuated for about 25 minutes, Stapleton spokesman Richard Bouleware said.
Much of the property damage involved uprooted trees, lost shingles and broken windows, rather than destruction of homes, officials said.

To the east, the severe heat is being caused by a high-pressure system off the mid-Atlantic coast pumping hot air from the south central part of the country, National Weather Service meteorologist Mike Wyllie said.
"Over hundreds and hundreds of miles, the ground is very, very dry," said Peter Lamb of the Illinois State Water Survey.

ST. PAUL, NEBR. — When the rains don't come, irrigation is needed for thirsty corn fields in central Nebraska. Bettie Spilger drives the tractor while her husband, Gary, unloads and lays the irrigation pipe for a sprinkler system on their farm near St. Paul.

Drought

fields in Montana and the Dakotas already have been damaged, he said, and additional weeks of scorching temperatures and no rain could cause severe damage in the Corn Belt and across the South.

The immediate cause of drought, wherever it occurs, Wagner said, is an abnormally strong ridge of high pressure, "which tends to suppress the mechanisms in the atmosphere which cause precipitation, and tends to steer the storm systems elsewhere."

In general, weather patterns change more slowly in summer than at other times of year, meteorologists note. So, once a high pressure area is moved into an area by the upper-air weather patterns, it may be hard to dislodge.

The Midwest drought is caused by a strong high in the northern United States and southern Canada over the last two months, so storms go west or north of the high, or move south to the Gulf Coast, he said.

That same pattern has directed the storms away from the Southeast and Tennessee Valley, he said.

Texas and the southern plains were dry this spring, but the forecast calls for relief for both for the next 30 days, Wagner said. In the western part of the Rio Grande area, at least, and in the southern plains and Rockies, it looks wet for the summer as a whole, he said.

In the Southeast, he said, "We are not predicting particularly dry weather for the next 30 days, but we did have an indication the area could have a dry summer. So the next couple weeks may have a few showers, but it could dry out later."

That same pattern, he said, is "causing us to predict a relative chance of above normal rainfall for the Great Lakes for the summer."

"A ridge of high pressure is predicted to move somewhat farther south as summer goes on, and the Southeast will dry out and the Upper Midwest or Great Lakes could end up with normal or above normal rain by summer's end.

"But that may not be in time to help the crops that they are hoping to germinate now," he said.

In the Northwest, there was severe drought last fall and it's been wet in the last month, Wagner noted. But, he added, "that's deceptive because they get most the rain in fall and winter, so they are down several inches too."

Forsan pool approach is different

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

What would it be like to live in a community that didn't charge an admission fee to its swimming pool — and even offered a bus to transport youngsters back and forth to the pool?

Ask a Forsan Independent School District resident. That's what the school district does every summer, as a community service, board of trustees president Dr. Rip Patterson confirmed Wednesday.

School superintendent J.F. Poynor outlined the program: the district operates its pool six days a week. Regular hours are 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, with swimming lessons from 5 to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays and family swimming offered 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays.

The bus, which travels from near Berea Baptist Church along Wasson Road to the Garden City Highway before turning back to Forsan on U.S. Highway 87, makes several designated stops along the route as it transports youngsters to the pool.

The bus arrives about 2 p.m., Poynor said, and remains at the pool until 4 p.m. when it reverses its route to take the youngsters home.

Patterson said he viewed the pool and bus as a community service the district offers its taxpayers.

"I have fussed about the pool personally," he said Wednesday, "because I wish we could have a swimming program with our school program, but we can't because it's an outdoor pool, and because it has cost us some money when it (the pool) was in trouble."

"We've had to make some repairs on the pool, but we think we have it fixed now for good," he added. "But I feel like personally, it's a good service for the school community."

Because the school district hires a person to supervise the pool in the summer and provides lifeguards, the district considers the program a normal expense and pays for the operation of the pool and bus out of its maintenance and operation fund, Poynor said.

"It gives the kids something constructive and educational to do," Patterson said, "at least physically educational. It's more constructive than watching TV all day."

No admission fee is charged for the pool or for the bus ride, but the service is limited to residents of the district and guests in the company of residents, Patterson and Poynor said.

"Because our school community is rather small, and because we usually have a faculty member who knows most of the students," Patterson said, no passes are issued or required for Forsan students.

The pool is also open to adults, as are the lessons taught two days a week, Poynor noted.

golf course as part of an employee benefits package.

Officials of seven other comparably-sized Texas cities said their city employees must pay full admission to swim daily.

Admission to swim at the Big Spring municipal pool is at least 25 percent higher — and in some cases considerably more — than to swim at the other Texas city pools, officials of those cities said.

Comanche Trail Park Swimming Pool was closed last summer for repairs, but reopened on Memorial Day, Decell said.

Inmates at Big Spring Federal Prison worked on the renovation project for nine months — finishing just in time for this summer's opening, Decell said.

The city provided the necessary equipment, transportation and lunch for the inmates who worked on the project, Decell said.

City expenditures for the project totaled $50,000 and an additional $25,000 in grant monies was provided by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, the public works director said.

Boyd said the renovation project was necessary because "thousands of gallons" of water were draining from the pool.

"It's my understanding the pool was built sometime in the 1930s," he said.

The admission price for adults jumped 50 cents since the summer of 1986, Big Spring Financial Director Tom Ferguson said today.

Swim

Recreation Director Lamar Shantz said admission price to the city's municipal pool is $1 for children 12 and under. Persons 13 and older are charged $1.50 and children under six are admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

City employees are charged full admission price to swim, Shantz said.

• Kingsville Aquatic Manager John Ashton said persons aged seven years and older are charged $1 to swim at the municipal pool, which is open seven days a week. Children under six with an adult are admitted free.

City employees are charged full admission price, Ashton said.

• Pampa Recreation Department Supervisor Jackie Harper said persons five years and older are charged $1 to swim at the city's Junior Olympic-sized pool. Admission price to swim at a smaller city pool is 50 cents for everyone.

Children under five are admitted free with a "suitable" adult, Harper said.

"One night a month city employees and their families can swim free, but must pay full price at all other times," Harper advised.

Pampa municipal pools are open seven days a week, the recreation department supervisor said.

• Del Rio Recreation Director Lupe DeHoyos said admission price to the city's Olympic-sized pool is $1 for persons 18 and over and 75 cents for children 12 and under.

The pool is closed on Mondays and there are no special provisions for city employees, DeHoyos said.

"They are allowed to swim for the same price the rest of the public pays," he said.

• Rosenberg Recreation Director Lanette Edmonds said all persons who swim at the city's pool are charged 75 cents.

The pool is closed on Mondays and city employees must pay the same admission price as the public.

• Paris Community Development Secretary Dolores Parker said the city has never had a municipal swimming pool.

"I've held this position for over three years and never received one call about a public swimming pool," she said.

Claims

Clayton said.

During a brief question-and-answer session following the speech, Clay challenged Clayton's proposal to have disputes between doctors and patients settled by an arbitration board of physicians, rather than the courts.

"Wouldn't you be putting doctors in the same place as lawyers?" Clay asked. "Wouldn't they be policing themselves?"

"Certainly," Clayton said when pressed. "But who would you rather have decide? If you don't trust your doctor, then I'd advise you to go somewhere else for medical care."

"The arbitration idea is nothing new," Shotts said this morning. "What is new and what frightens me is that his arbitrators have to be doctors."

"Arbitration by independent arbitrators who are agreed upon by both parties is in my opinion a good idea," Shotts said. "But his arbitrators have an interest in protecting each other."

Throughout the speech, Clayton criticized lawyers. "In the adv-sary legal system, winning is the name of the game," Clayton said. "Truth and justice don't mean a thing. Lawyers will hide evidence and create evidence in order to win."

"We are very close to a despotic form of government run by lawyers who are in control of congress and the legislatures," he added.

Clayton said he has been involved in four medical malpractice lawsuits, two filed against him and two against the medical group for which he worked. The two against his group were settled out of court, he said. Of the two filed against him, he won one and settled the other out of court.

The out-of-court settlement involved a patient who claimed Clayton misread an X-ray. Clayton said the amount asked for by the plaintiff's attorneys — $7,500 after a seven-year legal battle — was substantially less than it would take to pay the attorney fees for a new trial. So, at the urging of his insurance company, Clayton said he agreed to settle the case out of court.

Clayton said he wasn't negligent in any of the cases, but was the victim of a legal process in which the elements of extortion are present.

Shotts said that Clayton's plan could likely constitute a form of extortion. "The most important thing concerning a contract between a doctor and a patient is for both parties to be on equal footing," he said.

"If I'm lying on the floor bleeding to death, I'm going to sign anything in order to get treatment. It's hard to say I would have equal footing in that situation. In order to get treatment, I would have to give up the right to redress my grievances in court."

Dukakis, Bush a classic choice

The grueling presidential nominating contest that began in the snow-covered farmland of Iowa and ended under the palm trees of California has done little to define a new national agenda to replace the Reagan era. Even so, Americans will face a classic choice in November between the liberal views of Michael Dukakis and the conservative approach of George Bush.

Both candidates need to do a better job of spelling out their broad visions and specific policies for the voters here to consider.

Mr. Dukakis's next crucial challenge will be the selection of a running mate, a decision that may well determine whether the Democratic Party is united or divided in the fall. Jesse Jackson, having won the support of 7 million primary and caucus voters and the second-largest bloc of convention delegates, rightly demands to be considered. But unless Mr. Dukakis finds a formula that both keeps Mr. Jackson off the ticket and wins the backing of black voters, he is unlikely to taste victory in November.

Mr. Bush also must find a running mate who will bolster his support in California. His task is made more difficult by George Deukmejian's understandable refusal to join the ticket and thereby turn over the governor's chair to his Democratic lieutenant governor.

In the meantime, the vice president should begin to step out of Ronald Reagan's shadow. His objective ought to be to illuminate the starkness of the choice Americans will confront on Nov. 8.

'What this country needs . . .'

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Americans wanting to sell anything from biscuits and cigars to plumbing and whiskey often have tried to cloak their wares in the presumed respectability of Congress and its most illustrious members.

Daniel Webster, for example. Webster, perhaps the most famous senator and orator of the mid-19th century, had his face and his name used to promote cigars, flour, and a concoction known as Dr. J.C. Ayres Cherry Pectoral, promoted as a cure for coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and other ailments.

According to a new three-case exhibit recently installed in a Senate corridor, the claim that Webster endorsed Dr. Ayres' elixir may have been somewhat exaggerated.

Promoters of the product claimed that Webster praised it in 1853.

The exhibit, organized by the U.S. Senate Commission on Art and Antiquities, includes a shiny metal spatula from 1910 that demonstrates that even 58 years after Webster's death his name still had commercial appeal.

Webster's features are engraved on the widest spot of the antique pancake turner, which is also emblazoned with the words: "Daniel Webster Flour, Better Than the Best" and "One Good Turn Deserves Another."

Webster's face was also used on the flour bag with the words: "Daniel Webster Flour Bakes Everything Better."

In an age when a cigar brought to mind a politician, Webster also was used to promote a brand of cigars.

Their name? "Websters," of course.

The names and faces of Webster's contemporaries, Sens. John C. Calhoun of South Carolina and Henry Clay of Kentucky also were used to peddle cigars.

And for years, Old Crow whiskey identified itself as, "The Whiskey That Henry Clay Took to Washington."

"From the earliest days of advertising, senators have been known to endorse commercial products," notes a news release issued by the Senate commission.

From the beginning of the advertising age in the mid-19th century, "our country's enterprises have understood the power of national legislative symbols to influence the American consumer," the commission said.

The display has a title — "What This Country Needs" — taken from the 1917 declaration of Vice President Thomas Marshall that "What this country needs is a good five cent cigar."

Although Marshall did not recommend any particular brand of nickel cigar, the exhibit makes clear that he would not have been breaking new ground had he done so.

A much later advertisement for Lucky Strike cigarettes reads: "U.S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye Says: 'I enjoy the comfort a light smoke gives my throat.'"

All of this has caused occasional raised eyebrows, and the Arts and Antiquities Commission notes that the use of the Capitol in commercial advertising never has been sanctioned by Congress.

But the practice has never been banned.

In 1956 the Senate Judiciary Committee reported out a bill banning the use of "pictures of the Capitol or other public buildings in . . . advertising when it would be reasonably calculated to convey the false impression that the company has some connection with, or was insured by, the United States Government."

The measure passed the Senate.

But the House failed to act on it.

Spoiled generation needs to cool it

Editor's note: Reagan is on vacation this week. He promised he would write his columns for this week in advance, but he begged off, claiming a "personal emergency" — meaning he probably overslept again.

So, here's a column that's one of his favorites. It appeared in the July 9, 1987 Herald.

And if you see Reagan, wake him, please.

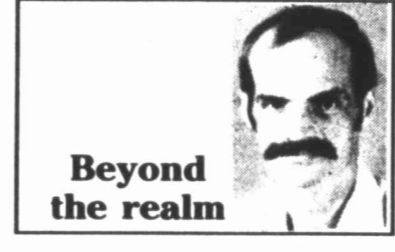

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

I have come to the conclusion that we really are a spoiled generation of West Texans.

I'm sure most of you are familiar with the hardships the settlers of this region faced. If it wasn't the threat of Indians, it was the reality of drought. If the cotton crop wasn't failing, the children were sick and it was 20 miles to the nearest doctor.

In short, our ancestors were a hardy breed. One thing, however, continues to dumbfound me.

How the heck did they ever get by without air conditioning? Let's face facts. What would we do if we didn't have that trusty cooler at the house, helping to keep our sanity in check?

Beyond the realm

How many of us would be willing to live in a place where it gets so hot the streets begin to bubble?

It's my firm belief that if it wasn't for air conditioning, this place would still belong to the lizards. Central cooling, as much as our superior intellect, is what separates us from lower forms of life.

I consider myself a fairly lucky man — in the respect that I work in an air-conditioned office, and can go home to an air-conditioned house. That leaves only a few miserable moments against the elements.

Yes, summertime in West Texas is made more enjoyable by that remarkable machine circulating air in my living room.

Which made one day last week — with apologies to FDR — a day that will live in infamy.

I returned home from work at about 5 p.m. The temperature was about 150 degrees — give or take a few — and even the scorpions were seeking shade.

While driving home, visions of a nice, cool shower were dancing in my head.

Take a shower, lie down in front of the swamp cooler and watch the news; that's the ticket, I told myself.

But when I opened the door, the temperature was close to boiling. Can you imagine my pleasure as I turned the knob and heard the pleasing whirr of my cooling unit?

And can you imagine my horror at the disquieting clink! as it died? I was befuddled.

Not being a wizard at things mechanical, I decided to seek out a person who is: My landlord. Surely he'll fix the darned thing, I thought.

He would have, too — if he'd been home.

A normal man would have been discouraged, but not I. No, I was past discouraged, and rapidly was closing in on full-fledged hysteria.

Maybe you have asked the question: Why didn't he open the window and get a breeze going through the house?

Way ahead of you there, folks. I opened the windows and made a startling discovery — you can't get a breeze going inside if it isn't going outside.

As I sat in my living room-turned sauna, I reviewed my options, and I did what any sane man in my place would do.

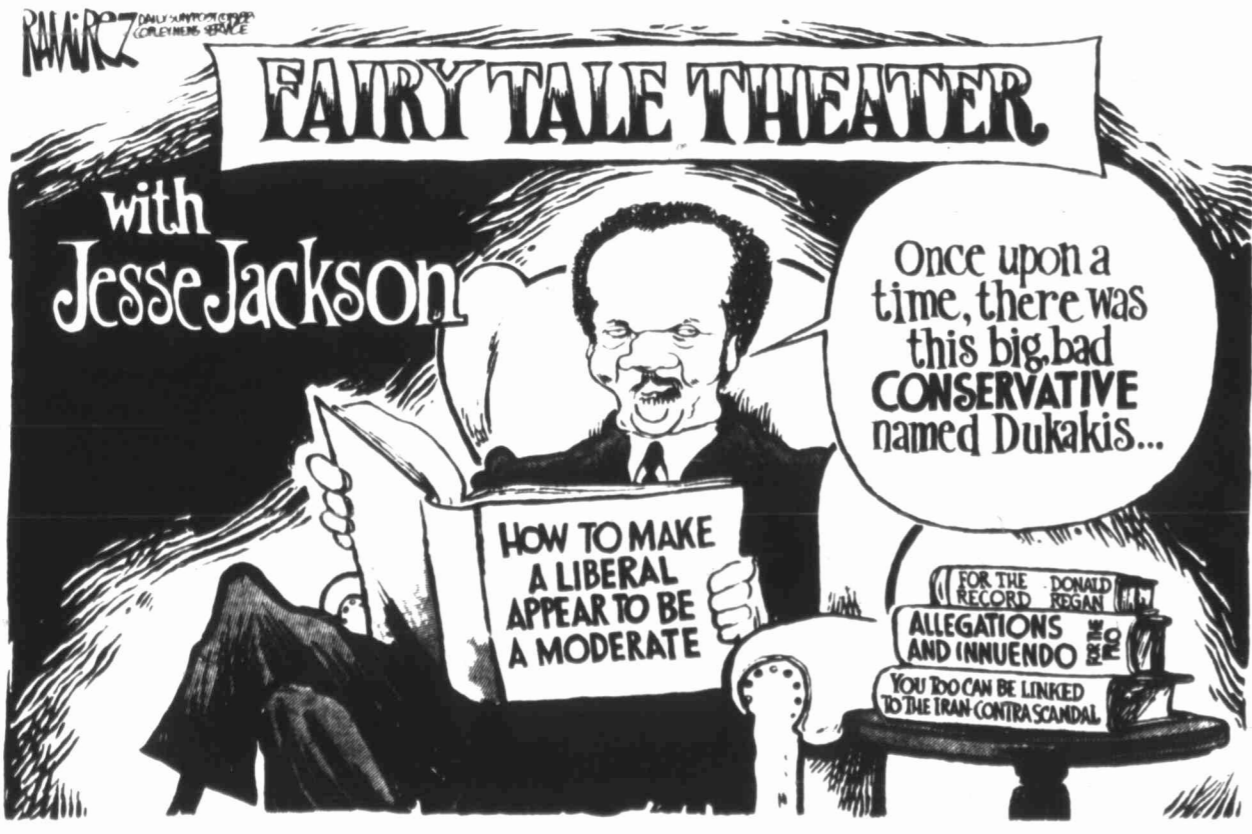

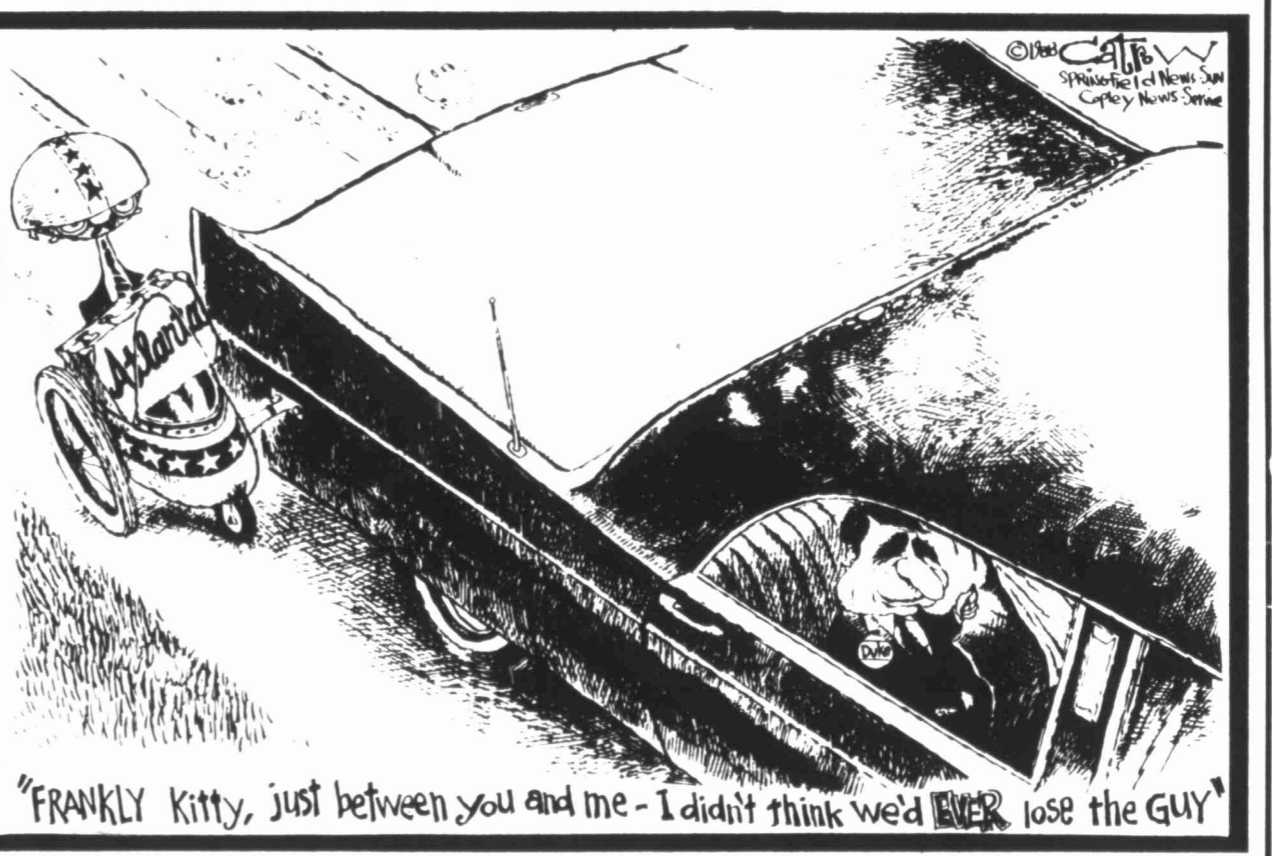

I cried.

Actually, I didn't. But I felt like it.

Few things are as miserable in life as being stuck in a hot-box, with sweat rolling down your face like tears as your clothes stick to your body.

But I persevered. I overcame the minor annoyance with a spirit that would have made my ancestors proud.

And to the waitresses at Denny's who baby-sat me until it cooled off outside: Thanks, ladies.

Baptists affirm hell

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — People lacking commitment to Jesus will be consigned to hell, Southern Baptists declared, while moderates marched to the Alamo and tore up a resolution they said meant a denominational dictatorship.

"Some believe that hell is not a reality, and its corollary, that all people will eventually be saved," said a resolution approved Wednesday by the nation's largest Protestant denomination at its annual convention.

"We affirm our belief in the biblical truth that those without a personal commitment to Jesus Christ will be consigned to a literal hell, the place of everlasting separation from God."

Being saved from it "comes only by repentance, regeneration through faith in Jesus Christ," the resolution said. "No one is saved apart from that transforming experience."

The resolution, approved overwhelmingly, represents no change in doctrine by the 14.7 million-member denomination. But it was unusual since the subject of hell is rarely discussed in most mainstream pulpits or by church conventions because so little is concluded about it.

Bush backs drug plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush says he endorses a House Republican plan to confiscate 25 percent of the adjusted gross income and net assets of anyone caught possessing illegal substances.

Bush took center stage Wednesday at a House Republican news conference, as he combined his support for the GOP plan with a blistering partisan attack that was cheered by dozens of his supporters attending the event.

"I'm sick and tired ... in hearing the Democrats do nothing but tear down and criticize" the Reagan administration's attempts to halt drug abuse, Bush said. "I'm talking about Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis the last two months."

The Republican plan also calls for the death penalty for drug kingpins, and it would require that states suspend the driver's license of anyone convicted of using drugs, or face loss of federal highway funding.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats are offering a renovated version of their vetoed trade bill that no longer calls for advance notice to employees of impending plant closings.

"The bottom line is that we're going to have a trade bill without a plant-closings provision," House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said Wednesday.

Wright said the labor-backed plant-closings plan, a major target of President Reagan's May 24 veto, would be dropped from the trade bill and repackaged as separate legislation.

Former aide says story is hoax

NEW YORK (AP) — The state attorney general has begun an investigation of a possible hoax by advisers surrounding Tawana Brawley, citing a former family aide who called the teen-ager's story of racial assault "a pack of lies."

Attorney General Robert Abrams announced Wednesday that he had subpoenaed Perry McKinnon, a former aide to the Rev. Al Sharpton who says Sharpton and Ms. Brawley's other advisers are interested only in advancing their political goals.

"The Tawana Brawley story may be that there is no Tawana Brawley story," McKinnon told reporters.

Miss Brawley, who is black, has said she was kidnapped and raped by six white men in November. She was found behind her apartment complex in Wappingers Falls, an upstate New York town, partly in a plastic bag, her hair shorn, racial epithets scrawled on her body and animal excrement smeared on her.

She and her mother have refused to cooperate in an investigation into her claims, saying they believe the probe won't be fair.

At a news conference, Abrams said McKinnon's charges, if true, amounted to "a damning indictment of the motivation and the credibility of Sharpton and the two Brawley family lawyers, Alton Maddox and C. Vernon Mason.

The three advisers, in an appearance Wednesday on the nationally broadcast television talk show "Donahue," denounced McKinnon and denied that he had played any role in the Brawley case.

As the largely black audience booed and hissed loudly at the mention of McKinnon's name, Maddox labeled him "a baldfaced liar and a desperate man."

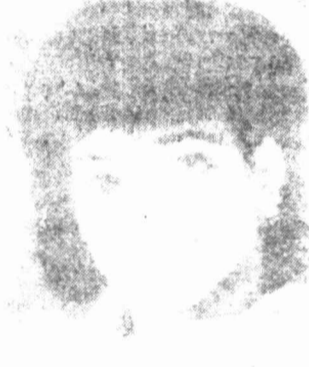

McKinnon, a 39-year-old private investigator who served as an aide to Sharpton from January until May, told the Daily News and WCBS-TV that he left the Brawley team because the teen-ager's story "is all nothing but a pack of lies."

"This whole situation is not about Tawana Brawley. It's about Mason and Maddox and Sharpton taking over the town, so to speak," McKinnon told WCBS. He told the News that Sharpton said, "If we can win this Tawana thing, we'll be the biggest niggers in New York."

The real story, he told WCBS, "is the political agenda of Sharpton, Mason and Maddox."

McKinnon was described by the state attorney general as "a high-level intimate of the Brawley advisers" who was seen in "close conversation" with Brawley family members and Sharpton, Maddox and Mason at demonstrations in Poughkeepsie.

The charges "deserve immediate and careful attention," said Abrams, who was appointed special prosecutor in the case by Gov. Mario Cuomo. He said McKinnon was subpoenaed Wednesday to testify before the Dutchess County grand jury looking into the case.

Leftists kill American

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Leftist guerrillas shot and killed a U.S. agricultural adviser and his Peruvian colleague, then wrote in red ink in the American's notebook, "This is the way the lackeys of Yankee imperialism die."

Constantine Orson Gregory, 25, of Los Angeles, and Gustavo Rojas, 35, of Lima, were killed Monday on an isolated road in the central Andes Mountains, said police Col. Cirilo Pacheco.

Pacheco said Wednesday that three Shining Path guerrillas halted the agronomists' pickup truck, checked their papers and then shot each man twice in the back of the head. The attackers dynamited the agronomists' truck and escaped, and 30 suspects have been arrested in sweeps of the region, he said.

The two men and Gregory's American wife, who is expecting a baby, were living in Aramachay, a hamlet without electricity or piped water 15 miles north of Huancayo, a major city 125 miles east of Lima, said officials of the National Agrarian Research Institute.

Gregory's wife, Dolores, was not in the truck.

The U.S. Embassy said Wednesday that Gregory and Rojas were teaching peasant farmers methods to improve production of sheep and small farm animals.

The Shining Path, an eight-year-old Maoist insurgency, frequently assassinates development workers in Peru's impoverished highlands in an effort to sow economic chaos.

Israeli soldier shot

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli reserve soldier was shot and wounded in the occupied West Bank city of Nablus today, apparently by a Palestinian, Israeli security sources said. The army clamped a curfew on the city.

It was the first time a soldier had been shot since Sgt. Moshe Katz, 28, was killed in the West Bank town of Bethlehem on March 20.

Details of the Nablus shooting were not immediately available and the army said it could not comment officially.

But security sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said troops were searching for suspects and the weapon inside Nablus, the West Bank's largest city, 40 miles north of Jerusalem.

Several Palestinians in Nablus said by telephone that they became aware of trouble only when they heard Israeli troops telling them over loudspeakers to stay indoors.

"A curfew is being imposed until further notice," the troops said in Arabic. The blared order could be heard over the telephone line.

Abu Islam Deedi, a Nablus resident, said soldiers blocked all entrances to the city and several dozen troops patrolled the streets.

Since anti-occupation unrest began Dec. 8 in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, 208 Arabs have been killed. Two Israelis also have died.

Earlier today, dozens of Jewish settlers, some donning prayer shawls, blocked a major West Bank thoroughfare for two hours to demand harsh army action against Palestinian firebombers.

IRA bomb kills six soldiers, injures 10

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb planted in a British army van while six soldiers ran a half-marathon killed them and injured 10 civilians in the worst Irish Republican Army attack in Northern Ireland in seven months.

The bombing Wednesday night in Lisburn, seven miles southwest of Belfast, brought this year's death toll from sectarian violence to 38 — eight this week alone.

Police said the soldiers drove into predominantly Protestant Lisburn's market square in an unmarked military van to run in the longest of three races and "fun runs" that attracted 4,250 competitors.

While they were away, guerrillas wired explosives to the van's chassis. The bomb exploded when the soldiers, returning from the race around 9 p.m., had driven off just a few yards, police said.

The IRA claimed responsibility. The outlawed guerrilla group is fighting to end British rule in Northern Ireland and unite the Protestant-dominated province with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

None of the civilians, including an 80-year-old man and a 2-year-old boy, suffered serious injuries, police said.

The death toll was the highest since an IRA bombing at a war memorial ceremony in Enniskillen last Nov. 11. The IRA said that bomb was meant to kill soldiers but accidentally massacred 11 Protestant civilians.

Wednesday's blast struck the worst blow against the army since a 1982 bombing in the Droppin' Well pub in Ballykelly, near Londonderry, killed 11 soldiers and six civilians. An IRA offshoot, the Irish National Liberation Army, claimed responsibility for that attack.

Lisburn is the main base of the British army in Northern Ireland. The soldiers were driving back to the town's Thieveal army barracks, police said.

The British and Irish governments both deplored the killings, which sharpened fears that Northern Ireland is sliding into a new cycle of violence after several years of relative calm.

Son's ballet gets raves in New York

Local parents rave, too

By ALISHA GOLDMAN
Copy Editor

The local parents of ballet musician Leslie Stuck still recall vividly the night their son was applauded at the World Premiere of his ballet at Lincoln Center Plaza in April.

"You talk about two excited parents," Dr. Paul L. Stuck recently said about the night.

Leslie, son of Paul and Page Stuck, was a featured commissioned composer for New York City Ballet's 40th anniversary April 26 through May 15.

His ballet, "Behind the china dogs," was one of 20 new ballets set to music by American composers for the celebration titled "American Music Festival."

His was performed among the works of Leonard Bernstein, "Duke" Ellington, Irving Berlin, Ray Charles, George Gershwin, Richard Rogers, John Philip Sousa, and John Williams.

Several critics spotlighted Stuck's work in their reviews, and the performances of his ballet was always sold-out, his parents said.

"Behind the china dogs" was performed three times in the three-week extravaganza dedicated to American composers.

It will be showing at the Lincoln Center again Sunday.

"We were so tense," recalls Page, who attended the World Premiere performance and several others.

"They brought out the ballet dancers for applause (after the performance), then William Forsythe (the choreographer), and he got louder applause; then they brought out Leslie and they clapped loudest for him."

She proudly recalled, "All the other ballets got

Presentation Monday

The World of Fantasy Players will present a live production of "Snow White and Her Seven Magical Dwarfs" at the Big Spring High Auditorium Monday at 7 p.m. The show is a benefit for the Howard County Association for Retarded Citizens.

Tickets can be purchased at the door and are $3 for children and $4 for adults.

The story is the traditional tale of "Snow White" and her adventures with the dwarfs and her wicked stepmother. Several delightful new characters are also introduced, including Freddy the Magic Field Mouse, the Talking Cuckoo Clock, the Funny Bunnies and many others.

The production includes songs, music, dances and a series of illusions. For instance, when Snow White is sweeping up the Enchanted Cottage, she is assisted by a magic broom that sweeps without being touched by human hands.

The players are on their 22nd annual national tour and will appear in over 200 cities this year in the United States and Canada.

three curtain calls, but his got six!"

The Stucks lived in Fairbanks, Alaska, while Leslie was growing up. His interest in school was always science, his parents said. In junior high he won a science project and received a trip to Seattle, Wa. as a prize. He also was a Westinghouse science winner at 16 years old.

After studying physics in college, he decided to take violin lessons.

"He's always been interested in music," Page said.

"Except he says he doesn't like hard rock. He wrote a song when he was eight and they played it at church. We should have known then he was musically inclined."

Leslie became involved as a recording engineer in San Francisco and his musical career took flight when he met Forsythe.

He learned to play an emulator, a sound sampling keyboard instrument. The keyboard can store approximately 800 seconds of sound, each of which can be distributed over a two-octave range and manipulated with versatility, according to a program.

The instrument allows a musician to alter the character of the original sound to produce a collection of diverse sounds with a precision that would be impossible to render in a live performance, according to the ballet program.

"It's creating a new art form," Paul said. "The writer and the choreographer work together."

In the "china dogs" composition, the keyboard enabled a pack of dogs to jam with two string quartets and a bowling ball.

His works also have been performed in the Frankfurt (Germany) Ballet, where he lives, and the Netherlands Dance Theater. He also collaborated with Tgm Willems for the Paris Opera Ballet.

Stuck and Forsythe have become a well-known duo in the ballet world, however. They were commissioned as a team specifically for the anniversary show.

Of the 20 ballets featured, New York City reviewers chose only two to feature, and one was "china dogs," Page said.

Their daughter, Sally-Page Stuck, also attended the World Premiere. She has begun a career in acting and will be playing two parts in an upcoming movie "Dead Fury." She is also a comedian and sings in the Dallas Opera.

The Stucks say they aren't sure how they have such creative children.

"I just let them do whatever they wanted to do," Paul explained.

Getaway

Fourth of July weekend is around the corner and offers a great opportunity to get with friends to celebrate.

In town, Highland South will host its annual morning parade and at 8 p.m. the high school band will perform in the amphitheater with fireworks at about 9:45 p.m., according to the Chamber of Commerce.

Scheduled for the holiday in other cities are:

- If you are still wanting to see rodeo events after our own, check out Pecos' "West of the Pecos" Rodeo.

- For golfers, Uvalde will host its annual golf tourney at Memorial Golf Course.

- Round Top's annual concert festival begins July 1 and features a different series every Friday and Saturday at the air-conditioned Festival Concert Hall. Most of the music is classical. Call 409-249-3129. While you're there, take in the Texana Trail Ride July 4 Celebration.

- Closer to home is Abilene's "Boomtown" featuring three days of festivities in honor of the city's birthday at the Expo Center. Exhibitors, foods, carnival, and continuous entertainment. 915-677-3525.

- San Angelo will host its Triple Crown National Softball Tourney at Rio Concho Sports Complex. 303-224-2502.

- Sweetwater plans a Lakefest with an outdoor festival at Lake Sweetwater. Foods, crafts, flea market, musical entertainment, brisket cookoff, sailboat regatta, a beauty pageant and an evening concert at the amphitheater. 915-235-5488.

- Browse and barter with hundreds of dealers on 100 acres at Canton's First Monday Trade Days. Call 214-567-6556 for information.

- If you want to go farther south, see Galveston's productions of "The Lone Star" musical, presented nightly, except Sunday, in 1,700-seat outdoor amphitheater at Galveston Island State Park. 409-737-1744.

- Port Aransas will have its 53rd Deep-Sea Roundup, the granddaddy fishing tournament, it claims. Five full days of fun, food and fishing.

Girl Scout leader honored at 4-H Roundup

Joan Rock, Big Spring, was honored June 8 in the Salute to Excellence program at the 1988 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University, according to a news release.

She was recognized as one of the top adult volunteer leaders in Far West District 6 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which is the parent organization of 4-H.

The Howard County 4-H Exchange program originated because of participation by Rock and her family. They hosted a Japanese teenager in their home, and the following year Rock's daughter, Tonya, visited Japan in a similar program. She was instrumental in planning a county exchange program with Haywood County, N.C.

Rock recognized the benefits of participating in method demonstration projects and has helped 4-H members improve speaking abilities and self-confidence by encouraging participation to them, the release stated.

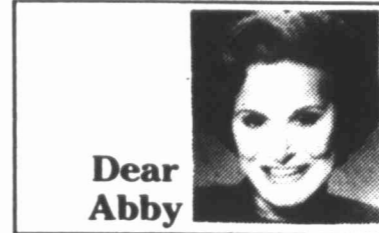

Money management and consumer education projects were initiated in the Howard County 4-H program as a result of Rock's leadership. She emphasizes the importance of money management and has begun a consumer judging project in the county.

Books says: Sex is a 'river of fire'

DEAR ABBY: The phenomenal rise of sexually transmitted diseases over the last two decades, and the advent of AIDS, can largely be attributed to the decline of the family and the sexual liberation movement's abandonment of traditional values.

The observation of historians Will and Ariel Durant in their book "The Lessons of History" (1968) is prophetic:

"No one man, however brilliant or well-informed, can come in one lifetime to such fullness of understanding as to safely judge and dismiss customs or institutions of his society, for these are the wisdom of the generations after centuries of experiment in the laboratory of history. A youth boil-

Dear Abby

Please comment.

CONTEMPORARY SCHOLAR DEAR SCHOLAR: The above mentioned "youth," boiling with hormones, can be a male or female. And in the absence of restraints, let us pray that where self-control is lacking, there will be birth control.

I am reminded of the statement made by the late Lord Brain, the British obstetrician and gynecologist who headed the birth control movement in Great Britain: "When, wherever you live in the world, you can have children only when you wish, that will be a revolution with more far-reaching effects on the pattern of human culture than the discovery of atomic energy."

ing with hormones will wonder why he should not give full freedom to his sexual desires; and if he's unchecked by custom, morals or laws, he may ruin his life before he matures sufficiently to understand that sex is a river of fire that must be banked and cooled by a hundred restraints if it is not to consume in chaos both the individual and the group."

Annual reunion hosted recently

The annual Cauble School Reunion was conducted June 10, with 26 participating in evening fellowship. And 36 present June 11 for a covered dish luncheon.

Former students, trustees, and teachers, including Mrs. Thetus Dunagan, Mrs. Alene Long Hamilton, Mrs. Phillips Cunningham, and Mrs. Ethel Simmons, were recognized. Out-of-state guests were Charles Simmons, Arkansas; and Mrs. Theta Kyle, New Mexico.

Bonnie Tredoway Mitchell, Odessa, and Helen Whately Leathers, Odessa, will serve second terms as chair and co-chair persons for the 1989 year.

Downtown Lions Club donates $2,500

The Big Spring Downtown Lions Club recently contributed $2,500 to the Big Spring Police Department, according to a news release.

The money has been used to purchase equipment, specifically, police batons, for the department and to provide training for police personnel in its use, the release stated.

JOE COOK

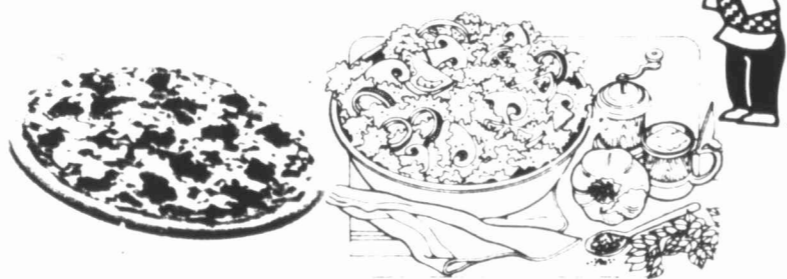

In a recent club program, Police Chief Joe Cook and Officer Hector Cantu explained and demonstrated the use of the police baton. Used primarily as a defensive instrument, the baton provide an extra measure of safety for the officer, according to the release.

Thanks, Margaret Money for 41 years of devoted service.

Bakker

Staying until he gets PTL back

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — Sitting in his tiny store-front office just down the street from the sprawling grounds of Heritage USA, Jim Bakker predicted he would soon regain control of the PTL Ministry.

"God doesn't take you halfway and dump you," said Bakker, who resigned from the television ministry last year in the wake of a sex scandal and is under investigation by a federal grand jury. "I've been building this place for 15 years. I'm staying until I get it back."

Even the ever-optimistic Bakker admitted it will be an uphill climb for him and his wife, Tammy Faye, to get back PTL. They intend to present a reorganization plan for the Christian retreat in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Columbia, S.C., before June 29.

"We are also placing an advertisement in a local newspaper asking all former employees who are interested in being a part of the Jim and Tammy ministry to come to the office and fill out a form," he said Wednesday. "These are not job applications; it's just a survey to see how many are interested."

Bankruptcy Judge Rufus Reynolds has already told PTL officials to sell land, buildings and other assets to raise enough money to settle claims against the ministry that could reach $130 million.

Last month, PTL officials worked out a deal with businessman George Shinn calling for Shinn to buy all or most of PTL's property at Heritage USA and lease parts of the ministry to a new church.

Shinn, who owns Charlotte's new National Basketball Association franchise and a minor league baseball team, has declined to say how much he will offer for the complex. Estimates have ranged from $75 million to $100 million. M.C. "Red" Benton, the court-appointed trustee at PTL, has said there are several other offers and vowed to treat any proposal from Bakker fairly.

"I'm more convinced at this moment that we will be back at Heritage USA than at any time in nearly a year and a half," said Bakker, adding that he hopes to buy some television time to promote his plan.

Bakker returned to South Carolina in early June and opened an office in a shopping mall next door to the headquarters of the "Bring Back Bakkers" club.

JIM TAMMY

FORT MILL, S.C. — Evangelist Jim Bakker poses in front of a sign welcoming him and his wife, Tammy, back to the Fort Mill area. Bakker has set up an office close to PTL's Heritage USA and is attempting to regain control of the ministry he founded.

"I've yet to meet a negative person," Bakker said in an interview Monday in his office decorated with photographs of him and Tammy. "We came here psychologically prepared for battle. But people have been coming up to us in the restaurants and on the street to give us their support."

Since his return, Bakker said, a car dealer gave him a new car and other offers have been made. "They told me they only have one question, 'What can we do to get Jim and Tammy back?'" he said. "Never before have I had such an outward expression of support from local business people."

Not all business owners share that sentiment. "There's still too much of a bad taste in people's mouths," said Sharon Haney, who owns a small leather shop across the street from Heritage USA.

Several blocks away, Marge Wilson, who operates a craft shop, said, "I don't think Jim can make it work. So many people are so disgusted. I'm the first to forgive, but ..."

At Heritage USA, the impact of the Bakkers' departure is apparent. The water slide is closed. Shuttle buses that transport visitors to the various attractions are nearly empty. Main Street, a collection of shops and restaurants, looks like a ghost town.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

GTE Southwest Incorporated, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas, effective July 6, 1988. This proceeding has been previously docketed by the Commission as Docket No. 5610.

The proposed changes in rates will affect approximately 970,500 of the Company's Texas customers who represent all classes of customers subscribing to the Company's local exchange and foreign exchange services within the State of Texas, as well as all entities subscribing to the Company's billing and collection services within the state. The proposed changes in rates are designed to increase the Company's intrastate revenues by $81,407,000, or approximately 11.8 percent annually.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoemaker Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223, (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

A complete set of revised rate schedules has been filed with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and is available for public inspection in each of the Company's Business Offices in the State of Texas. A summary of the Company's rate filing has also been sent to the Mayor's office of each affected Municipality.

Hispanic pollster succumbs to cancer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Willie Velasquez, whose 16-year effort to increase Hispanic voter registration led to the ethnic group becoming a viable political force, died early Wednesday after a bout with cancer, officials said.

Velasquez, 44, president of the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, died at 12:55 a.m. at Santa Rosa Hospital, said spokeswoman Terrie Carter.

Velasquez, who had been diagnosed as having a cancerous left kidney, was admitted to the hospital since Monday and was moved to the intensive care unit Tuesday after his condition worsened, Ms. Carter said.

Velasquez also had received treatment at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston in May and was scheduled to be chemotherapy treatments within a few weeks.

State Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, visited Velasquez at the hospital Tuesday.

"I left him, I thought, in good spirits," Truan said.

"Willie Velasquez's death is a terrible blow to all Americans who cherish good citizenship and the opportunity to participate by registering to vote," Truan said. "Most particularly, his death is a loss to the Hispanic community of the United States."

Viewing was scheduled for Thursday night at Angelus Funeral Home, with a rosary scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Funeral Mass is set for 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Catholic Church with burial to follow at San Fernando Cemetery II.

In 1972, Velasquez helped found the SVREP, a non-profit organization that initially sought to register Hispanic voters and later, with other organizations, sued local governments to convert from at-large voting systems to single-member districts to assure equal Hispanic representation.

Most recently, SVREP had a spinoff organization, Southwest Voter Research Institute, which tracks Hispanic voter trends in primaries and general elections.

Velasquez gained politicians' respect for his bipartisan effort to increase Hispanic voter registration, which has increased from 2.5 million in 1976 to an expected 5 million for the general election November.

Fast-pitch team finishes second in Wichita Falls

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Fina Oilers, local fast-pitch softball team, finished second at the Wichita Falls Invitational Fast-Pitch Tournament last weekend.

Coach and manager Cotton Mize says the Oilers are definitely on course to repeat as Texas state champions.

The Oilers defeated Oklahoma City 1-0, Tausom of Dallas 3-2, Coors of Texarkana 5-4, and Tausom of Dallas, 3-2, before losing to the Tulsa, Okla. Firebirds twice in the finals. Mize said that the Firebirds are one of the top four teams in the nation.

Making all-tournament for the Chippers were third baseman Kenny Fowler, shortstop Abel Gomez and pitcher Johnny Mize. Gomez batted .390 in the tournament and Mize hit a blistering .660.

The Chippers have a very busy summer planned. Coach Mize says his team will travel a total of 100,000 miles by the time the season ends. This weekend the Chippers will play in Waco. Following that will be tournaments in Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Dudley Ball Company is sponsoring a Second Berth to the Triple Crown National Tournament this weekend in the second leg of the Triple Crown Series in Abilene.

For this tournament only, the winner of each division will receive an automatic bid to the national tourney in Steamboat Springs, Colo. Dudley will pay the winner's entry fees into the national tournament.

The Fifth Annual Coahoma United Girls Softball Association Division III Tournament will be this Friday and Saturday at the Coahoma complex.

Ten teams are entered in the tournament: Snyder Golden Girls, Snyder Jammers and Snyder Blue Babes; from Big Spring will be the Pink Panthers, Mustangs and Untouchables; Colorado City teams entered are the Mustangs and Cruisers, while Thrashers and Lions will represent Coahoma.

Action begins Friday at 6 p.m. and Saturday at 8 a.m. The championship game is tentatively set for 8 p.m. Friday.

There will be a men's slow-pitch softball tournament, benefitting the Coahoma United Girls Softball Association, June 24-25 at the Coahoma complex.

Entry fee is $65 per team; deadline is June 22. The first three teams will receive team trophies, while the top two teams will receive individual trophies. There will also be an all-tournament team.

For more information call Ricky Stone at 393-5358 or Cindy Overton at 263-0261.

The Third Annual YMCA Striped Bass Tournament at Lake E.V. Spence produced impressive results of the past weekend.

Each contestant weighed two fish, and Darrel Sorey captured first place with an aggregate of 47.2 pounds. His biggest fish weighed 30 pounds, 10 ounces.

Also at lake Spence Nolan Stanley of Big Spring caught a 16.4 pound yellow catfish, and Gene Adams of Big Spring caught a 13-pound striper.

At Lake Thomas traffic continued to be brisk, but results were fair. Keith Jordan of Snyder caught five black bass, plus a string of 25 crappie. Dewey Lee of Snyder took a 15-pound catfish off his trotline.

Local UGSA Division I softball team, White Knights finished third in a tournament in Coahoma two week ago.

The White Knights defeated the Andrews Sluggers 5-2 in the opener. Amanda Alvarez was winning pitcher. Jessica Denada hit two singles and Kelly Kennedy tripled.

The Coahoma Blue Jays defeated the White Knights 15-9 in the second game as Kennedy was the losing pitcher.

The White Knights downed Andrews Q Tigers 11-10 in their next game. Alvarez got the win and Kennedy got the save. Denada and Morgan Doyle each singled.

The White Knights continued to roll by downing the Blood Disasters 13-7 behind the pitching of Kennedy. Deanda and Michelle Stewart got three hits in the win, while Dominique Garcia and Kennedy got two hits each.

The White Knights lost their second game of the tournament to the Andrews Sluggers by a 5-2 count. Alvarez was the losing pitcher and Deanda and Stewart each singled.

The tournament was won by the Andrews Sluggers. Andrews Q Tigers finished second.

Jerry Williams, president of Big Spring Savings and Loan, is a happy man these days.

That's because son Bobby recently qualified for the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials in the pole vault. At the Athletes in Action All-Corners Track Meet in Waco, Bobby vaulted 18-4, making the qualifying standard by four inches.

Bobby, a graduate of Abilene Christian University, is living in Abilene. The Olympic track trials began July 15 in Indianapolis.

In Tuesday's article I stated that former Howard College outfielder Ernesto Castro made the honorable mention All-American squad last year. I was wrong — Castro was a first team All-American selection last year also.

It's quite a rarity for a player to make the first team both years. The only Howard athlete in recent years to get close to the feat was cowboy Jack Himes in 1975 and 1977. Himes won the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association bull riding national championship in '75. He was national champion in bareback riding in '77.

In Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association nine-hole scramble play last Thursday, Sherrill and Jane Farmer and Bob and Beth Ann Ayers shot a four-under-par 32 to capture first place.

Monday evening in two-lady scramble play, Georgie Newsom and guest Patsy Sharpnack shot an even par 38 to win first place.

U.S. Open on tough course

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Patience. That, says Fuzzy Zoeller, will be the key to winning the U.S. Open at The Country Club.

Patience. It is a personality trait the ebullient, high-spirited Zoeller seemingly would not possess in great quantity.

Yet, Zoeller said, "a guy who is very patient" probably will be the one who hits the narrow fairways, stays out of the woods, plays safely onto the small greens, and copes slyly with putting surfaces glazed to a crockery finish by an uncommonly hot sun.

Zoeller, by the way, was the last man to win a U.S. Open on a course much resembling the one in Brookline, a wealthy, wooded suburb of Boston. He won the 1984 Open at Winged Foot in the wealthy, wooded Westchester County suburbs of New York City, beating Australian Greg Norman in an 18-hole playoff.

"It's very difficult on this course to find holes you can challenge," Zoeller said before teeing off for his final practice round on Wednesday. "There are only two par-5s, so you really don't have holes out there you can jump on."

"You've got to play patient-type golf," he said. "You have to try to make a lot of pars and not make a lot of double bogeys. Double bogeys are the things that eat you alive at U.S. Opens."

The Open, the first at Brookline since 1963 when Julius Boros shot a 9-over-par 293 to win, was to get under way today. The first two rounds will be televised by ESPN, with ABC picking up the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

The Open likely will be won this year with a much lower score than that of Boros 25 years ago. The rough is thin because of 90-degree temperatures and little rain, making the fairways look wider in places. While fast, the greens are not as slick as those at the Masters. The course is par-71, 7,010 yards long.

The first par-5 is the 510-yard No. 9, featuring a steep, rocky cliff on the right side of the fairway. Eagles are possible for players long and accurate off the tee who can drive over the rocks. The second par-5 is the 527-yard No. 14, also reachable in two, although second shots often are made from a downhill lie.

"This is a fine, old, rolling golf course," said Frank Hannigan, senior executive director of the USGA's professional staff. "There's a lot of variety. New England rock outcroppings, little old greens. It's kind of quirky, interesting."

Among the favorites are three foreign players — Seve Ballesteros of Spain, who won last week's Westchester Open in a four-way playoff; Norman, who shot the low round of the Westchester tournament, a final-round 64, to make the playoff, and Masters champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland, the only three-time winner on the PGA Tour this season.

Two-time winners Curtis Strange and Lanny Wadkins may be the top American contenders along with Ben Crenshaw, Chip Beck, Paul Azinger and Zoeller.

"Pick one," Zoeller said. "Seve got hot last week. Norman got hot in the final round. Pick one."

Zoeller's practice round was an example of the side of him most golf fans know.

He stood on the first green goading Mac O'Grady for hitting right-handed and putting lefty.

"Weren't you hitting the ball right-handed on the fairway?" Zoeller asked. "Get this guy some left-handed clubs. He doesn't know which way to play."

Hubert Green crouched over a 10-foot, side-hill putt and rolled it up short twice. Zoeller bent over behind him, tried Green's little-old-man putting stance, then dispensed some largely ignored advice.

Zoeller launched an iron from the tee of the 185-yard, par-3 second hole. It hooked toward the gallery and landed in the trampled-down rough behind a group of spectators. Walking up the short fairway, Zoeller hollered: "Is there a ball over there?"

It had been kicked around and stepped on a couple of times, and one of the course marshals hollered back: "It's right here."

"You can have it," Zoeller shouted. "It's not my ball anyway."

A spectator picked it up and put it in his pocket. Zoeller then dropped two balls in a trap and punched them out. One rolled off the other side of the green.

"Me?" he said. "Hey, I'm as good as anybody else. I've got my name on my bag like everybody else. I put a glove on like most of them do. I got it once. I could get hot. Who knows?"

Krause fires one-hitter at Rebels

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The International Little League Rebels ran into a brick wall Wednesday night in the city tournament at the International league field. That brick wall stood in the form of Coahoma Reds pitcher Jerry Wayne Krause. The big righty was solid throughout the game as he led the Reds to a 3-1 victory.

Krause pitched a splendid game, firing a one-hitter and striking out 13 Rebels. He mixed his arsenal of fast balls and curves well, leaving Rebel batters looking at many third strikes.

Coahoma Reds vs. IL Tigers, 8 p.m.

The Rebels' only hit of the game came at the start of the game. Center fielder Mike Hernandez singled in the leadoff spot. But from then on Krause was untouchable, striking out the side in the first, second and fourth innings.

He got into trouble only once, that coming in the fifth inning when the Rebels scored their only run. Krause walked four batters that inning. He walked only five the whole game.

Rebels pitcher Jesse Hernandez pitched well in a losing cause. The lefty went the distance, allowed five hits, struck out eight and walked three. He only allowed two hits in the last five innings. Hernandez got strong defensive support from shortstop Michael Paul Martinez, third baseman Manuel Marquez and catcher Gary Martin.

The Reds got all the runs they would need in the first inning by scoring two runs on three hits. After Brandon Adcock grounded out, Jamison Ward singled, Kelby Bailey walked and Krause singled, loading up the bases for Jeff Phernetton. The Reds' catcher singled up the middle, scoring Ward and Bailey.

Coahoma scored its final run in the top of the third, thanks to a throwing error by Rebels pitcher Jesse Hernandez. Adcock reached based on a fielder's choice. He scored from third when Bailey hit back to the mound. Jesse Hernandez's throw sailed over the first baseman's head.

Krause suffered control problems in the fifth, walking Martin, Joe Michael Mata and Manuel Cervantes. With one out, Mike Hernandez hit a ball to medium right field. Craig Jackson made a good catch, but Martin scored from third.

Krause got out of the inning by getting Martinez to ground out to the shortstop.

The Coahoma Reds are 2-0 in tournament play. The Rebels are 1-1.

In other action Wednesday night it was the American League Colts 12, National League Ponys 1; American League Pirates 4, National League Tigers 12; Coahoma Oilers 8; National League Yankees 19; International League Panthers 6; Coahoma Lions 16; International League Indians 3; National League Rangers 21; American League Astros 20; National League Cardinals 10; American League Hawks 9.

The International League Panthers, International League Indians, American League Astros and American League Hawks are all out of the double elimination tournament.

Game five will be all-out war

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Game 5 could become Wrestlemania 5.

Elbows and forearms flew in the fourth game of the NBA Championship Series when Detroit lived up to its bad boy image. Angry words flew Wednesday when the Los Angeles Lakers vowed to retaliate for the Pistons' rough play.

"I can take a beating, but I'll also give one out from now on," Lakers guard Magic Johnson said. "They've got their hit men, as they call it. We've got our hit men ... I can be one of them."

Channel 7

8 p.m.

"It will be war and hand-to-hand combat," Los Angeles guard Byron Scott said of tonight's fifth game in the Silverdome.

Mychal Thompson, a backup forward and center for Los Angeles and a professional wrestling fan, saw an analogy between what goes on between the ropes and on the basketball court.

"These two teams resemble Hulk Hogan versus Andre The Giant," he said. "I'd say we're Hulk Hogan because we're sleeker. We're the good guys, have better builds, and they're Andre The Giant because they're bigger."

PONTIAC, Mich. — Detroit Pistons Dennis Rodman flies through the air after colliding with Los Angeles Lakers Magic Johnson during fourth game action.

Andre plays the villain's role and the Pistons stepped back into it in Tuesday night's 111-86 victory after three incident-free games. The style worked as Detroit evened the best-of-seven series at two victories each. The Lakers, whose regular-season mood is more peaceful than Detroit's, were particularly upset with Pistons forward Ricky Mahorn.

Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said Mahorn delivered a forearm smash to the back of Lakers forward A.C. Green's head in the opening three minutes of the game.

Johnson said Mahorn "deliberately just smacked me in the face."

Mahorn didn't think the game was particularly physical.

"A physical game for the Pistons is when everyone's bleeding from the mouth," he said.

The Lakers headed out their own punishment as Johnson fouled Detroit guard Isiah Thomas hard and Thomas arose with an angry stare.

"We knew coming in what was on the table," Riley said. "But we wanted to see what was going to happen and by then it was too late."

The loser of tonight's battle will have a tough time winning the war, particularly if it's the Pistons. They'll be playing their last game in the Silverdome — their new home in nearby Auburn Hills is nearly complete — and will have to play the sixth game Sunday, and possibly a seventh next Tuesday night, in Inglewood, Calif.

The Lakers were 36-5 there during the season.

Strawberry keeps making life miserable for Cards

By The Associated Press
Darryl Strawberry gave his biggest fan two birthday presents, and then again made his presence felt against the St. Louis Cardinals.
Strawberry continued his assault versus the Cardinals with two home runs Wednesday night as the New York Mets won 6-4 and sent St. Louis to its sixth straight loss.
Among the 42,068 at Shea Stadium was Darryl Strawberry Jr., celebrating his third birthday.
"All we ever talk about is home runs," Strawberry said. "It was special with him here to be able to do something to help the club."

National League

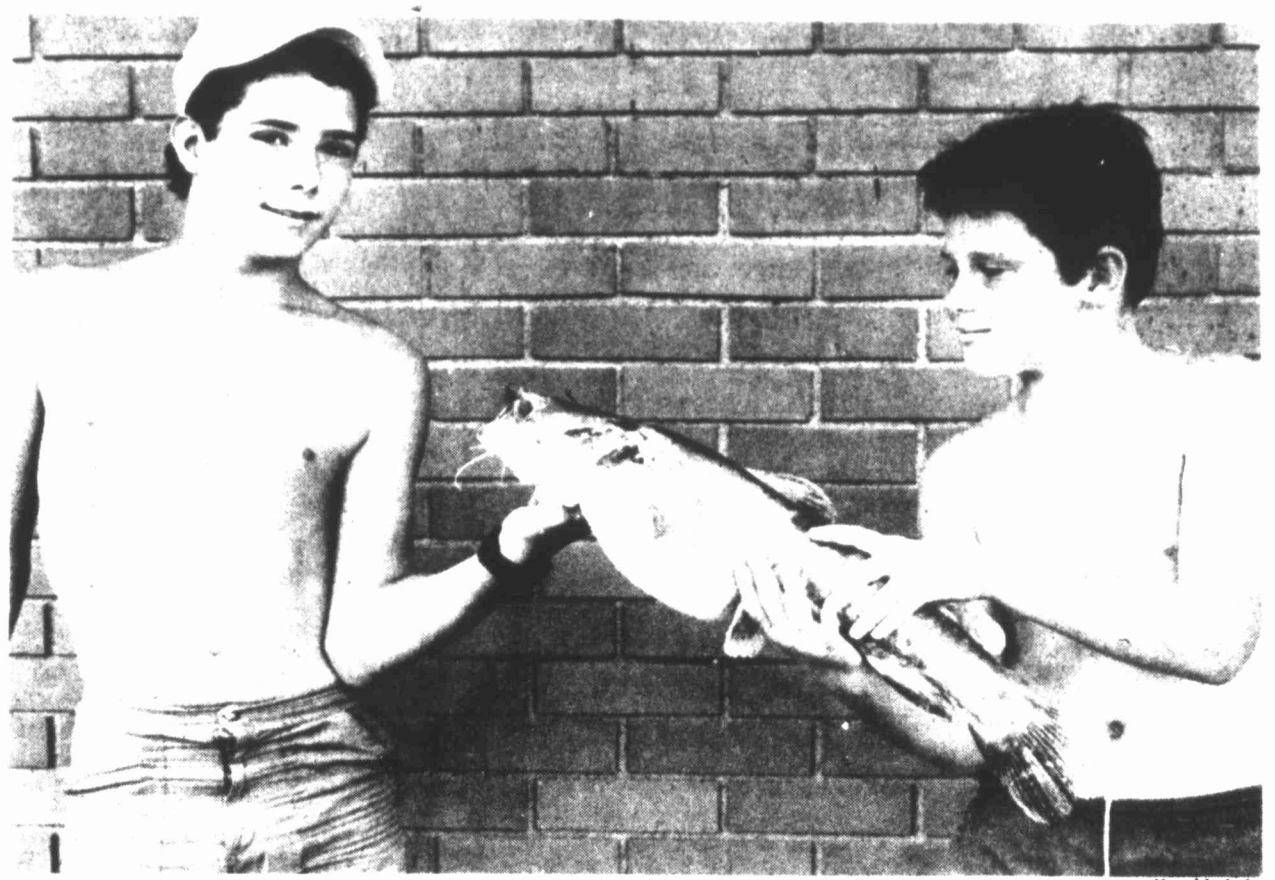

Strawberry is 13-for-38 with four homers and nine RBI against St. Louis this season. New York is 9-3 versus the Cardinals, including 6-0 at home.
The National League East-leading Mets, who had a five-game losing streak when St. Louis came to town, completed a three-game sweep. They held the Cardinals to just five runs and knocked them back to fourth place, 9½ games behind.
Strawberry hit a two-run homer in the first inning and a solo drive in the fourth for his 15th home run. Both came off left-hander Cris Carpenter, 2-2.
Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog likes to pitch left-handers against the Mets, although Strawberry has spoiled the strategy. Strawberry, a left-handed hitter, leads the league with 10 home runs off lefties.
So does Lenny Dykstra, who got three hits and is 16-for-31 against the Cardinals.
Dykstra, whose bat was confiscated by Herzog on Tuesday night, led off the first inning with a single and Wally Backman hit a ground-rule double.
Lee Mazzilli had an RBI grounder and Strawberry followed with a line-drive home run to right. Dykstra had a run-scoring single in the fifth.
Dodgers 7, Braves 5
Orel Hershiser pitched four hit ball for seven innings and helped himself with a two-run single as Los Angeles sent Atlanta to its fifth straight loss.
Kirk Gibson hit his 12th homer and started a tiebreaking, two-run sixth with a single.
Hershiser, 9-3, retired the first 11 batters before

Gerald Perry singled and Dale Murphy followed with his ninth home run. Alejandro Pena went two innings for his fourth save.
Tom Glavine, 3-7, took the loss for the host Braves.
Giants 4, Padres 2
Rick Reuschel became the NL's second 10-game winner as San Francisco ended San Diego's six-game winning streak.
Reuschel, 10-3, won his fifth consecutive decision and ended the Giants' four-game losing streak. He gave up two runs on seven hits in 6 1-3 innings and Don Robinson got his fifth save.
Brett Butler hit his second homer of the season and started a three-run fourth with a single against Andy Hawkins, 5-6.

Phillies 6, Expos 2
David Palmer held Montreal to three hits over eight innings and Philadelphia took advantage of three errors in the first inning.
Palmer, 2-6, left the game after his first walk to lead off the ninth. He has not pitched a complete game since June 29, 1986, with Atlanta.
Greg Harris and Steve Bedrosian finished with hitless relief. Bedrosian got the last out for his ninth save.
Floyd Youmans, 2-6, allowed four hits in seven innings. But errors by first baseman Graig Nettles, shortstop Luis Rivera and right fielder Hubie Brooks led to two runs in the first inning.
Tim Raines homered for the visiting Expos.

Reds 5, Astros 3
Eric Davis hit a two-run homer and Cincinnati beat Houston for its season-high fourth straight victory.
Tom Browning, 5-3, outpitched Jim Deshaies, 4-4, in a matchup of college teammates. They played together for three years at LeMoyne College in Syracuse, N.Y. John Franco got his seventh save.
Davis' ninth home run put the host Reds ahead 4-3 in the fifth. Bill Doran and Jim Pankovits had homered for the visiting Astros.

Cubs 7, Pirates 4
Both Shawn Dunston, who drove in five runs, and Vance Law hit two-run singles in the eighth inning that rallied Chicago over Pittsburgh.
Dunston hit his sixth homer in the third, an RBI single in the fifth and a sacrifice fly in the seventh.
Pat Perry, 3-2, got his first victory since being traded from Cincinnati to the Cubs. Jim Gott, 3-2, was the loser.

They're hooked

Before Tuesday, the biggest fish Cash Swafford, 14, left, ever caught weighed two pounds. He can't say that any longer. He and Chris Conyers, 13, right, were fishing at Lake Colorado City Tuesday when Swafford walked away from his pole momentarily. Upon returning, it was gone — but not for long. Within minutes, the rod was back along the shore, returned by the seven-pound catfish that had gotten hooked. Cash is the son of Raymond and Janie Swafford; Chris is the son of Edward and Sharon Conyers.

Vander Meer had his day

CINCINNATI (AP) — Six major league pitchers this season have taken that long walk to the mound for the ninth inning carrying the weight of a no-hitter on their shoulders.
Johnny Vander Meer knows that feel.
The former Cincinnati Reds' left-hander made the same walk twice in five days in 1938. Both times he ended up jumping for joy three outs later.
Unlike Vander Meer, who was honored Wednesday for his consecutive no-hitters, the six major leaguers this season have all come up at least a hit shy of fame. They've had Vander Meer's empathy.
"I sure know what they went through," Vander Meer said in an interview Wednesday at Riverfront Stadium. "You get there (and give up a hit) and you wish somebody might have been playing in a different spot, or you wish you would have thrown a curve ball."

Vander Meer, 73, has no such regrets from his games on June 15, 1938, at Crosley Field, when he didn't allow a hit in a 3-0 victory over Boston, or from his next start, four days later, when he no-hit Brooklyn at Ebbets Field in a 6-0 win. No other pitcher has thrown consecutive no-hitters.
The Reds honored the 50th anniversary of his second no-hitter Wednesday before their game against Houston. They showed tape of his games on the scoreboard, then had him throw out the ceremonial first pitch.
Vander Meer stood a couple of feet in front of the rubber and threw a hard, high fastball to catcher Terry McGriff. The crowd, which gave him a standing ovation when he came on the field, roared in approval.
"The fans (in Cincinnati) were always great to me," Vander Meer said over the public address system. "I had a lot of bad days, but they were still great to me."

Vander Meer is retired and lives in Tampa, Fla., with his wife, Lois, who accompanied him to the game Wednesday. Vander Meer recounted his feat for reporters and signed autographs for fans. He enjoyed the attention.
"I'll give you a tip on that — when you can't sign 'em anymore, you're dead. I enjoy being alive," he said.
Two players who watched him Wednesday appreciated his accomplishment. Reds left-hander Tom Browning lost a no-hitter when Tony Gwynn singled with one out in the ninth in San Diego on June 6. Cincinnati's Ron Robinson came within one out of a perfect game May 2 against Montreal at Riverfront Stadium.

A's continue to struggle

By The Associated Press
The Oakland Athletics are discovering that the limb is mightier than the bat.
The A's, who led the AL West by 11½ games on June 4, have dropped eight of their last 10 games. Five of those losses have been against the Kansas City Royals, three of them shutouts.
"Our pitching staff has caught fire and the team is playing awfully well right now," said Kansas City's Charlie Leibrandt, who stopped the A's on two hits as the Royals won 2-0 Wednesday night.

Steve Balboni homered for the Mariners' only hit as Milwaukee won.
Higuera, 6-4, went eight innings and joined the many pitchers who have flirted with no-hitters this season. He walked one and struck out three.
The Brewers used three relievers in the ninth, with Dan Plesac getting two outs for his 15th save. He struck out Balboni with the bases loaded to end the game.
Balboni led off with his third home run on a 1-0 pitch. He had been Seattle's only previous baserunner, walking to open the fifth.

to reach third in pitching his second shutout and third complete game. Mike Boddicker, 3-9, allowed only two hits in seven innings, walked five and struck out three as his winning streak was snapped at three.
It marked the sixth time Baltimore has won the first game of a three-game series and then lost the next two. The Orioles' road record dropped to 6-28.
Luis Salazar started the Detroit second with a walk, went to third on a single down the right-field line by Matt Nokes and scored one out later on Bergman's sacrifice fly to left.

American League

Kansas City has won 12 of its last 13 games and pulled within 5½ games of Oakland. The team earned run average over that stretch is 1.32.
Leibrandt, 3-9, snapped a three-game losing streak in pitching his second career two-hitter. The left-hander walked one and struck out four.
Bob Welch, 8-4, lost his third straight decision after winning seven in a row.
Blue Jays 15, Indians 3
Fred McGriff and Cecil Fielder hit two home runs each and Dave Stieb won his eighth straight game to lead Toronto.
Tony Fernandez drove in four runs with three hits for the Blue Jays, who had 17 hits against three Cleveland pitchers.
Stieb, 9-3, has not lost in 10 starts since April 26. He allowed three hits in seven innings and struck out five. Mark Eichhorn allowed three hits in the final two innings.
Greg Swindell, 10-4, lost his third straight decision and was knocked out after 2 1-3 innings, his shortest outing this year. He allowed six hits and five runs.
Brewers 5, Mariners 1
Teddy Higuera held Seattle hitless for seven innings before

The Brewers used three relievers in the ninth, with Dan Plesac getting two outs for his 15th save. He struck out Balboni with the bases loaded to end the game.
Balboni led off with his third home run on a 1-0 pitch. He had been Seattle's only previous baserunner, walking to open the fifth.
The Brewers went ahead 1-0 in the first against Mark Langston, 5-7, as Paul Molitor singled, stole his 15th straight base for a team record and scored on Robin Yount's single.
Red Sox 8, Yankees 3
Ellis Burks had four hits, including his third career grand slam, and Spike Owen added a solo shot as Boston defeated New York.
After a 45-minute pregame power outage caused by an underground fire outside Fenway Park, the Red Sox jumped on rookie Al Leiter, 4-3, for five runs in the second inning.
With one out, Jim Rice walked and scored on singles by Rick Cerone and Kevin Romine. A single by Owen loaded the bases. Burks, who had two bases-loaded shots among his 20 homers as a rookie last season, hit a 2-2 pitch over the wall in left center for his fifth homer.
Bruce Hurst, 8-3, tired in the 95-degree heat and needed help from Dennis Lamp with two out in the sixth after allowing eight hits, including Dave Winfield's 14th homer. Lee Smith pitched the last two innings.
Tigers 1, Orioles 0
Jeff Robinson pitched a five-hitter to win his seventh consecutive game and Dave Bergman hit a sacrifice fly to lead Detroit.
Robinson, 8-2, struck out four, walked one and allowed no runner

Twins 5, White Sox 1
Allan Anderson allowed only an unearned run in 6 2-3 innings and Greg Gagne had three hits, including his seventh homer, as Minnesota defeated Chicago.
Anderson, 4-3, scattered nine hits, walked one and struck out four for his third straight victory. Keith Atherton retired the last seven batters to earn his second save. Jack McDowell, 2-6, lost his fourth straight decision and is winless since May 4.
The Twins opened the game with four straight singles off McDowell, but scored just one run. Kirby Puckett, the third batter in the inning, drove in Dan Gladden with a single to left for his 50th RBI of the season.
Gagne's homer in the bottom of the fifth made it 2-0.
Rangers 6, Angels 3
Jeff Russell scattered eight hits to win his sixth straight decision and Larry Parrish's RBI single snapped a 10th-inning tie as Texas won at California.
Parrish's single came after DeWayne Buice, 2-4, walked Scott Fletcher and Ruben Sierra. Pete O'Brien followed with an RBI single. Cecil Espy capped the rally with a run-scoring single.
Russell, who started the season as a middle reliever, improved to 6-0, the best start of his career. He struck out eight and walked one for his second straight complete game.

Angels drop close one

By The Associated Press
Ramon Martinez allowed only two hits in pitching the San Antonio Missions to a 2-1 Texas League baseball victory over the Midland Angels.
In other Texas League action Wednesday night, Shreveport defeated Tulsa, 7-4, Jackson edged Arkansas, 5-4, and Wichita bested El Paso, 10-7.
Martinez, 8-4, struck out 11. Midland's Steve McGuire, 2-8, the losing pitcher, deserved a better fate as he gave up only four hits.
Midland grabbed a 1-0 lead when Jeff Manto slugged his league-leading 17th homer in the fifth inning.
An error in the sixth inning produced San Antonio's first run and the game-winner came on a seventh inning groundout by Adam Brown.
Romy Cucjen had a two-run single to lead the Shreveport Captains to a 7-4 come-from-behind victory over the Tulsa Drillers.
The Drillers held a 4-2 lead when Cucjen's solo homer in the seventh inning pulled Shreveport to within a run.
In the eighth inning, Shreveport tied the game when they scored on a bad throw by the catcher on a bunt. The took the lead on a squeeze bunt by Mike Benjamin that scored Jeff Carter. The final runs came on a two-run single by Cucjen.

War

ing the regular season and are 10-2 at home during the playoffs despite losing the series opener.
"We're the underdogs. They have the advantage because they're going home," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said. "If we don't win (tonight), we're going to be looking at an early vacation."
"Game 5 is the series," Lakers guard Michael Cooper said. "We can't go to L.A. having to win two games."
The upper hand has shifted from game to game. Detroit, wanting to prove it belonged in the series, won the opener. Los Angeles, trying to catch up, won Game 2 and, trying to regain the homecourt advantage, took Game 3.
Facing the possibility of losing in five games, the Pistons played aggressively in Game 4, took the ball hard to the basket and handed the Lakers the biggest defeat in finals history since Los Angeles beat Boston 136-111 in 1985.

The Lakers had just eight field goals and 35 points in the second half. The Pistons' repeated drives to the basket helped them draw fouls and outscore Los Angeles 36-28 from the foul line.
Detroit forward John Salley thinks the Lakers' poor performance will fire up the defending NBA champions just as it would the Pistons.
"We play mad when we're embarrassed," he said. "When you lose, you always play mad."
Thomas, who suffered a bruised back in the third game, missed his third straight practice Wednesday. He did play a team-high 36 minutes Tuesday night, scored 10 points and led the Pistons with 12 assists and nine rebounds.
"Isiah's our leader," Detroit center Bill Laimbeer said. "We have a tradition where people play even if they're hurt... We pride ourselves on that."

From Soul in the Hole to the NBA

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — When he was growing up on the mean streets of Brooklyn, Vinnie Johnson had a dream.

Johnson, a key reserve on the Detroit Pistons' Eastern Conference championship team, sometimes returns to those streets and asks about guys he knew at Franklin D. Roosevelt High School, guys who did not escape.

"I'd say, 'Where's so-and-so?'" Johnson said. "They'd say, 'Oh man, he got shot. He's dead,' or 'He's on drugs,' or 'He's in jail.' You heard all kinds of stories. But some guys made it. My dream was to play one year in the NBA. I got that dream. But I know others didn't."

Rather than one year, Johnson has played nine seasons in the NBA. He has that reputation for occasionally getting a hot shooting hand, the epitome of the player who gives a team instant offense off the bench.

Danny Ainge of the Boston Celtics dubbed Johnson the Microwave because he gets hot in a hurry.

But after shooting 44.3 percent from the field during the regular season and 40.7 percent in the Pistons' first 15 playoff games, including nine scoreless minutes in Game 5 against Boston, Johnson's image was becoming somewhat tarnished.

"If I miss four or five in a row, then I lose a lot of confidence," Johnson said. "I'll stop shooting and try and do other things. I'll try and do something like make a move and a great pass and get the team going. That helps get my confidence back."

In his last two games, however, Johnson has regained his confidence by living up to his nickname.

He was 10-for-15 with a team-high 24 points in the series-clinching win against Boston and was 7-for-11 for 16 points in Detroit's 105-93 victory in Game 1 of the NBA Championship Series against the Los Angeles Lakers on Tuesday night.

"Was he something or what?" teammate John Salley asked. "When he hits that first shot or so, just give him the ball and get out of the way. It's like he's unstoppable."

"I was inconsistent in the regular season," Johnson said. "It was a bad year for me. I didn't play as many minutes this year because we have so many weapons. But whenever we had a big game, I was there. I played well. At least that's how I felt."

Johnson said his Brooklyn background helped his development because basketball is so competitive there.

"There are guys there that could play pro, but never went to college," he said. "I could go back there after winning it and they would say congratulations, but then you have to walk out on the court. You still have to prove yourself out there. It gives me a strong mental attitude. I never take anything for granted."

Johnson said one of the playgrounds he went to was called Soul in the Hole.

"The competition was great there," he said. "There were a lot of guys who could play pro, but just got themselves in trouble. I had a stronger desire than them. I always had a dream to play in the NBA, and I was not going to be misled."

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Great deeds can be accomplished if you pay attention to detail and encourage teamwork. The financial picture looks rosy. You have lots of projects in mind, all with great potential. A romantic relationship will flourish only if you and partner work toward common goals. Share responsibilities equally. You will have to spend money in order to make money this year. Business travel proves well worth the expense.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: composer Igor Stravinsky, comic Joe Piscopo, infielder Dave Concepcion, author John Hersey, superstar Barry Manilow, singer Dean Martin, actress Phyllis Diller.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Trust your initial reaction. It is better to fly by the seat of your pants than to bow to committee decisions. There will be risk, but it is worth taking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The work week should end on a happy note. A financial windfall is possible. Share something special with someone you love. Two hearts beat as one now. Be grateful!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not hesitate to make a positive statement even if those around you take the opposite tack. Have confidence in your ideas. Immediate action is needed to head off money market troubles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Someone new enters your life, attracted by your no-nonsense, down-to-earth ways. Go all out for what you want for a change. Events affect a financial matter in a positive way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You worry too much about your health. If the problem is real, see a doctor. If not, eat better-balanced meals and get more fresh air. You will quickly feel on top of the world again.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Contacting influential people will be difficult today. Concentrate on work you can complete by yourself. Travel suddenly comes up in connection with an educational employment opportunity. Move quickly. Meet challenges head-on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Push harder to stay on schedule. The competition appears strong. Keep your plans under wraps. Romance can be more glamorous and exciting. Someone you meet today fascinates you. Take things nice and easy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Continued caution is required where your finances are concerned. A creative idea will help a business relationship. Get your accounts shipshape. People or events at a distance occupy your thoughts late today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Behind-the-scenes activities will affect your career and financial security. A change of attitude helps you settle a family squabble. Read between the lines when handling a parent-child matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Weigh your options with care before making a financial decision. Let others join forces with you and profits will soar. An older person lends valuable support. Share an emotional experience with mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Conduct business in person. Careful handling of money is vital. Tension fades. New responsibilities give you incentive to work hard. Be generous with your loved ones. Listen to their ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your achievements could depend on someone else's success or failure today. Adopt an easygoing attitude. Maintaining self-control is a top priority. Ask a friend for advice if feeling confused.
