Texas

Ranches, farmland shriveling

DALLAS (AP) - Farmers and ranchers say lingering drought conditions are drying up their resources, prompting some to think of selling out.

"I'll tell you one thing, I think this is the worst of the worst,' said Alfonso Perez, who runs more than 200 head of cattle in south Texas' Zapata County.

Perez, executive director for the Starr County office of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, says it costs him $200 a day to keep his cattle alive.

Perez says he may have to sell out if he doesn't see substantial rainfall by September.

Portions of Zapata County had a scant three inches of rain since last September, Perez said, indicative of spreading drought that is threatening to match the hardest-hit Midwestern states.

"It seems like it's widening out and getting progressively worse," he said.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, some ranchers have stopped using propane burners to remove thorns from prickly pear cactus so cattle could graze on the moist plants. The cactus is shriveling.

Agriculture officials say the drought is becoming critical just when Texas enters the hottest, driest part of summer.

deepening in Texas," said Kraig Gallimore, of the Texas Department of Agriculture's farmer assistance program.

"I think one good indicator of that is that 120 Texas counties have requested having and grazing on set-aside acres, and 40-plus counties have been made eligible for the federal emergency feed program," Gallimore said. "But the point here is that they're really hungry for that and really in need of that help.' Gallimore receives assistance calls from throughout the state.

The lack of rain is hurting farmers and ranchers over a wide area of the state, with Panhandle farmers sharing many of the same problems as those along the Mexico border and in East Texas.

In Crosby County, near Lubbock, George McNeil said the dry conditions threaten to end his family's 106-year-old ranch.

"It's getting bad enough that we're fixing to do something that we've never done in the history of the ranch. If things don't get better by the first of July, we're going to have to let all four of our hands go.

McNeil, whose operation has been plagued by early frosts and other problems for several years, said he will begin selling off his 500 head of cattle in increments of 100 if it doesn't rain

Gallimore said pockets of extreme drought in south Texas compare to the worst parts of the current Midwestern dry spell.

Local rockers taking on drug fight

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Members of the local rock band Val Verde — Big Spring natives Kenneth Owens, Kelly Thomas and Alan White - are taking the fight against drugs into their own hands The band will fire its latest salvo in the anti-drug battle in concert Saturday in the Comanche Trail Ampitheatre.

"Our purpose is to educate the public on the severity of the current drug abuse problem, and the various places to get help," Owens said. "We will provide musical entertainment throughout the day, including a presentation by the Palmer Drug Abuse Program aimed at parents and younger kids, elementary Plan Saturday program through junior high, on the theme

'Be Smart — Don't Start.' Val Verde will take the stage from 8 to 9 p.m. in the final segment of an afternoon-and-evening drug rally Owens expects will draw a crowd of 300.

Both Val Verde and No Bad Habit, a Lubbock band, will present original music, Owens said. The show opens at 2 p.m. with No Bad Habit.

After a heat break, necessitated by recent weather, classical guitarist Johnny Saldivar will take the stage from 6 to 6:45, and at 7 p.m. a speaker from a Midland drug abuse pro-

Val Verde arranged for the rally, a first-time event, in an effort to help youngsters and their parents become more aware of the extent of the drug problem and of options against it

"He'll be bringing handouts, a questionnaire for the youngsters and parents — that's standard procedure for P.D.A.P.," Owens said. The presentation is sponsored by the Midland chapter of the Palmer Drug Abuse

"There will be no admission fees for the day's events," he said. "However, we are raising funds for the Rainbow Project, a local organization devoted to helping neglected children. A strict accounting of the entire project plus a list of sponsors will be provided for the public on the

Former chairman of board 'pressured'

FORT WORTH (AP) - The former chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board says he felt "highly unusual" and heavyhanded pressure in late 1986 from then-House Majority Leader Jim Wright over the chairman's handling of several Texas thrift institutions, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported

Edwin J. Gray told the newspaper in an interview from Miami, where he is president of Chase Federal bank, that he took extraordinary steps to appease Wright, who had intervened on behalf of Texas businessmen Craig Hall, Thomas Gaubert and Don Dixon.

The former chairman said he was concerned that Wright would use his considerable influence to block emergency legislation intended to recapitalize the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Gray, appointed to the bank board by President Reagan in May 1983, disagreed with Wright's recent assertions that the Fort Worth Democrat, now House speaker, approached the bank board as a "go-between" for private Texas citizens primarily at Gray's request.

"This was clearly not a go-between messenger function that he was carrying out," Gray said. "Nor was it an informationgathering function.

"There was no doubt in my mind, at the time these telephone conversations took place, that what he said was intended to bring about actions on my part as a regulator," he said.

The House Ethics Committee announced June 10 that it will conduct a preliminary inquiry into allegations that Wright violated House rules on ethics and conflict of interest.

Six allegations will be investigated, the committee said. One involves possible undue influence in dealing with officials of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board on behalf of Texas thrift officials, including Democratic campaign contributors.

No violation of a specific House rule has been alleged in that area. Wright said June 10 in a statement that he was approached during 1986 by three Texas residents, Hall, Gaubert and Dixon, seeking assistance with the Federal Home Loan Bank

An aide to Wright said Thursday that Wright would not comment on the matter beyond what he said in the statement and accompanying

"The extent of my involvement was to suggest an examination of the matter in a fair and prompt manner," Wright said in his June 10 statement. "Thereafter, the chairman (Gray) invited me to call to his attention any other matters which warranted his concern. I did so in two subsequent cases.

"In every instance, I was clearly acting as go-between for these private Texas citizens," Wright added

"No allegations have been made that I received any benefit in return," Wright said. 'Clearly, no rule of the House was violated." Gray said he did not appreciate the continued pressure from Wright.

Hispanic man's inability to understand English led to his death when a robber apparently pointed a gun at him and demanded he leave his vehicle, police say.

Officers said Mejia, father of Garcia said the suspects then fled, apparently thinking they would be spotted in the busy parking lot.

The money still was in his pocket when he was found mortally wounded.

"If they had known he had that kind of money on him, they probably would have taken a chance at getting it," Garcia

Garcia said investigators are checking whether the pair may be involved in four aggravated robberies occurring the past six months within a 10-block radius from where Mejia was shot. In two of the robberies, illegal aliens were killed, Garcia said.

Board revokes Alaniz parole

Parole has been revoked for an Odessa man charged with murder in an April 2 slaying here, according to officials.

Howard County Parole Officer David Harman said today he had received word from the Texas State Board of Pardons and Paroles that the board has revoked parole for Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30, Alaniz is charged with murder in the April 2 slaying of Manuel Vega Garcia, 53, Odessa.

Garcia was on parole at the time of his death, according to testimony in a May 20 parole revocation hearing for Alaniz.

"He was charged with traveling to Big Spring without permission, with associating with Garcia, the victim, and with murder," Harman said early today. "The board said he had violated all three conditions (of his parole)."

Alaniz is in custody in the Howard County jail. Two Big Spring men are also charged with murder in the death: Robert Flores, 30, testified during parole revocation hearings concerning Alaniz and Ricardo Flores, 32. Both Robert and Ricardo Flores are charged with murder.

Garcia's body was found beneath a mattress, discarded lumber and a washing machine shell in a trash pit on the west side of Big Spring April 7. An autopsy performed by Dr. Robert Rember indicated that he died of internal head injuries resulting from a blow to the head, according to Justice of the Peace China Long, who ruled the death a

The decision to revoke Alaniz's parole follows the recommendation of Midland parole office hearing officer Tracey D. Snell, who said after the May 20 hearing that she would recommend revocation, having found evidence that Alaniz had violated conditions of his parole.

Sheriff's reports indicated the matter was settled at

It's about time, after 102 years

After thinking it over for 102 years, the United States is about to join the Bern copyright convention, formally the Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works.

The House unanimously passed enabling legislation to make U.S. law conform with the international document and the Senate is likely to follow suit, thus setting the strategy for U.S. adherence to a treaty adopted in 1886 and since ratified by 76 countries. It's an appropriate move, given the growing importance of commerce in intellectual property, a trade in which Americans enjoyed a $1.5 billion surplus last year.

Signatories to the Bern treaty pledge to give the same copyright protection to artists, writers, composers, filmmakers and computer software producers, among others, from other countries as they do their own. The United States already has bilateral agreements with many countries. But 24 countries, mostly in the Third World, have neither adhered to the Bern treaty nor concluded bilateral accords, and experience has shown that they are more likely to respond to bilateral pressure from signatory governments. U.S. adherence would increase that pressure.

Intellectual property is high on the Reagan administration's agenda in ongoing global trade negotiations in Geneva. U.S. arguments that the international community needs more stringent copyright standards and tougher enforcement mechanisms will carry more weight in that forum once this country adopts international norms aimed at securing those objectives.

Some American publishers and film producers objected at first to changing U.S. law out of the fear that conforming to the Bern Convention's "moral rights" clause protecting the artistic integrity of works — "colorization" of old black-andwhite films is one example — would impinge on their rights as producers and distributors.

Proponents argued persuasively that adherence to the treaty will neither expand nor restrict American artists' rights before U.S. courts to challenge adulteration of their works.

'The 18 holes that shook the world'

By ART BUCHWALD

A small item of news from the Moscow summit was overlooked by the Western press. Armand Hammer announced through Soviet officials that he was going to build a golf course just outside Moscow.

For the first time, the Russians will be able to play the sport that has made capitalism what it is today. So revolutionary is the idea that Soviet experts refer to Hammer's proposed golf course as "The 18 Holes That Shook the World."

I hate to think what will happen to the Communist system once golf makes its inroads Decisions now made at Politburo headquarters will be resolved on the people's putting greens. Highranking members of the party will not be judged by their weaknesses as Soviet administrators, but rather by their handicap at the Country Club.

Brian Nessim, the top Kremlin sports watcher at Columbia University, predicts that golf could change the entire Communist order. "I am surprised that the Soviets would permit it," Nessim told me. "The Russians haven't played golf since the 1917 revolution. "I didn't know they had ever played it." "Oh, yes. The czar even had a driving range in St. Petersburg, and he made the serfs catch the balls with their teeth. Things were very bad and caddies were beaten with 7-irons by the royal family whenever Rasputin hit into the rough. Finally, the caddies couldn't take it any more and decided to go out on strike. The czar was furious and ordered his mounted Cossacks to run them down on the fairways. When word leaked out about what the czar had

"Gorbachev knows what he is doing. He cannot improve the economy of the country if his managers do not play golf. Everyone is aware that all the deals in an advanced industrial society are made on the golf course. In a consumer-oriented economy it is impossible to have top-flight leaders unless they are able to plot five-year plans in a locker room.

"I knew that golf was essential to a high standard of living, but I didn't know it was that important."

"The sport is what made the U.S. No. 1. Never forget it was America that invented the golf cart, the greatest advance in transportation in the 20th century. The game, as the Soviets now realize, is more than just a sport. It's a way of life that gives a human being an opportunity to sell and another a chance to buy. It's obvious that if the Soviets want to catch up with us, they are going to have to construct many golf links around their major cities. This is what the Armand Hammer course is all about:"

"Better late than never," I said. "There are problems. For examclub and what will it all mean? Whereas the Soviet hierarchy now stands atop Lenin's tomb for all the world to see, in the future we will have to watch how they line up to tee off on the first hole. The nearer they stand to the golf pro, the more important they will rate in the Politburo."

"Could you see the day when the American and Soviet presidents meet on a Moscow golf course instead of Red Square?"

'Why not? When people drive down a Soviet fairway together, they can't help but want to make a better world. That's why Lenin said, 'A person who chokes in golf chokes in life.' "I didn't know Lenin said that."

'Well, maybe it was Marx. Soviet experts can never keep them straight.

'Do you believe that they will allow wives of world leaders to play on the Moscow course?" "I doubt it. I don't think you could ever put Nancy Reagan and Raisa Gorbachev in the same sand trap together.

Baker: Reviews are mixed

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON - When Howard Henry Baker Jr. moved into his job as White House chief of staff there was a tendency in the capital to think - perhaps even yearn - that he would become acting president.

Iran-Contra had Ronald Reagan on the ropes, his hands-off style discredited and a hostile Congress eager to open a Watergate-style investigation of the scandal. In addition, the president's extraordinary talent as a communicator was under challenge from a new Soviet leader who appeared capable of stealing scenes from Reagan.

Washington insiders were looking for one of their own to take charge and rescue the administration, if not the country.

And what could be more comforting in those troubled times than to have Baker move into the White House? After all, the former Tennessee senator was widely regarded as qualified to be president, even though temperamentally illsuited to the rigors of winning the

Just as Baker's presidential ambitions never lived up to expectations, his tour as chief of staff also was open to mixed reviews as he prepared to leave at the end of the month.

Baker himself summed it up as he prepared to assume the post: "I am acutely aware of the fact that Ronald Reagan is the president and I am not.

And after the judicial confirmation disasters of Robert H. Bork and Douglas Ginsburg and the protracted negotiations with Panamanian leader Manuel Antonio Noriega, Baker must now appreciate how right he was.

Things continued going wrong and Baker often found himself trying to explain why

It often falls to top White House aides to explain why things went wrong. The president gets to explain the things that went right, like arms control agreements and Moscow summits.

When Baker accepted the White House post in the spring of 1987, he gave up what was looking like another disastrous bid for the presidency, an effort in which the candidate always seemed to be talking about how it was too early for serious campaigning. Too early for him while his rivals were spending every spare moment in Iowa and New Hampshire.

In 1980. Baker was the Senate Republican leader and Washington insiders considered him a strong contender for the GOP presidential nomination to challenge Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Ronald Reagan, the former governor of California was surely too old and too conservative, and who else was there? George Bush had become practically a resident of Iowa, but who'd ever heard of the former two-term congressman from Texas?

Baker was the favorite of party moderates, the senator who had helped win ratification of the Panama Canal treaties.

It became clear that something was wrong when Maine their state convention and Baker was sure that his ally, Sen. William Cohen of Maine, would deliver a victory for him.

While Baker depended on Cohen, House aide.

Bush worked on individual delegates and pulled off an upset that was the first signal that the Baker bandwagon was never going to get rolling

Now, many of the GOP moderates who thought Baker would make a fine president are touting him as an ideal running mate for George Bush in the 1988 presidential election.

Bush, asked by reporters Tuesday whether he would consider Baker as a possible running mate, responded: "No talk about a vice president. It's too early.

The odds that Bush would turn to Baker are long at best To begin with, conservatives still remember Baker's role in winning approval of the Panama Canal treaties, which they so fervently opposed. And while Bush doesn't need to bow to every conservative demand, he doesn't want to alienate that wing of his party

Geographically, Baker also is wrong. His base is the South, a region where Bush also is strong. But the biggest argument against Baker is the job he has held the past 14 months. One of Bush's most obvious tasks as a presidential candidate is to show what he would do as president where he would take the country after nearly eight years of Ronald Reagan. It is a difficult and often uncomfortable task for Bush. He prizes loyalty to the president and has only reluctantly expressed differences with administration policy.

That task would become that Republicans held a straw poll at much more difficult if his running mate were out on the stump being asked if he agreed or disagreed with this or that policy during his tenure as Reagan's top White

Lamesa officials thankful for aid

To the editor:

On Friday morning, June 3, a gasoline transport truck engine exploded and caught fire while being unloaded at a consignee's warehouse in Lamesa. This occurred immediately adjacent to more than 40,000 gallons of gasoline and diesel and very close to a propane delivery truck and propane dispensing station.

Lamesa and Dawson County emergency personnel quickly recognized a need that exceeded local capabilities. A request for mutual aid assistance was sent to area agencies.

The response was overwhelming and timely. Fire units and personnel from Brownfield, Seminole, Big Spring and Wellman responded along with Law Enforcement officers from Brownfield, Big Spring, Levelland, Andrews, and Snyder Police Departments and Terry, Gaines, Midland, Andrews, Yoakum, Ector and Scurry County Sheriff's Offices and Department of Public Safety Troopers from around the Emergency medical technicians and equipment responded from O'Donnell, Ackerly, Seminole, Big Spring and Gail. Numerous other agencies placed personnel and equipment on standby to respond if needed. Private firms such as the Fina refinery in Big Spring and Bell Safety from Brownfield brought foam and fresh air equipment, and many others called offering assistance.

The combined assistance not only allowed the evacuation and securing of a 30-block area, but more importantly provided the means to extinguish the blaze without a single injury or fuel tank explosion.

Citizens of Lamesa are extremely fortunate to have such good neighbors - neighbors who willingly and ably respond to a need.

On behalf of the citizens, City Council, Fire Department, Police Department, staff and employees of Lamesa, our sincere thanks and deepest appreciation.

FAA prunes proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) - After a storm of protests from private pilots and some members of Congress, the government has scaled back its proposed requirement for small planes to be equipped with altitudetracking equipment.

The Federal Aviation Administration said Thursday it would require small private planes to have altitude-encoding transponders if they fly near 138 airports and in some cases as far as 30 miles from the runway. The devices provide air traffic controllers with altitude information about a specific plane on their radar screen.

Only four months ago, the FAA said it was considering regulations that would ban small planes from all airspace within 40 miles of 254 airports and above 6,000 feet when not flying

The regulation announced Thursday requires the devices on small planes within 30 miles of 27 of the nation's busiest airports after July 1989 and within currently restricted airspace - less than 10 miles in some many cases — surrounding 109 other airports after

Sen. Warner, R-Va., said on CBS-TV's "This Morning," that it was "the most widespread case I or anyone else has ever seen because you've got literally dozens upon dozens of contractors ... and literally hundreds and hundreds of people are now being subpoenaed."

Judge: Time for court

WASHINGTON (AP) - Stressing the prosecution's "good faith" in safeguarding the rights of Oliver L. North and three codefendants, a federal judge says it's time for the Iran-Contra cases to go to trial.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell on Thursday cleared the way for the four separate trials he has ordered by rejecting defendants' claims that prosecutors violated their constitutional rights.

Gesell still must rule on defense motions that unprecedented volumes of classified material will make trials impossible. But his ruling left virtually no doubt that he plans to

Government to take action

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain fell in drought-stricken sections of the nation but provided little relief today from the dry spell parching crops, stranding hundreds of river barges and endangering cattle farmers including a 106-year-old Texas ranch

"If we get rain, there'll be no problem. If we don't get rain, we're going to have to cut short on groceries,' cattle farmer Tim Meister of Reedsburg, Wis., said Thursday at the Milwaukee Stockyards as livestock went on the block amid the worst drought in America's midsection since the Dust Bowl.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Rain continued early today in southern South Dakota and northern Nebraska. The five-day outlook is "pretty dry," Crowther said. The dry weather has shriveled or threatened to damage corn and other crops in many states in the Midwest and the Southeast.

AUSTIN — Members of the Veterans' Peace Convoy meet in small groups at an Austin area campground Thursday. The group, which wants to bring humanitarian aid to Nicaragua, was blocked at the border and plans to go to Washington instead.

Regroup before eastward trek

By PEGGY FIKAC Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN - Veterans' Peace Convoy members, whose effort to bring humanitarian aid to Nicaragua was stalled at the Mexican border by federal officials, regrouped Thursday at a wooded campground before heading to Washington.

Convoy members met privately at the campground, working out details on reaching Washington and prospective action when they get

The convoy of light trucks, buses and other vehicles arrived in Austin from Laredo between midnight and 1:30 a.m., said Bob Livesey of Dorchester, Mass., who said he initiated the convoy effort. About 95 people are expected to travel to Washington, he said.

"There's been a lot of tension," Livesey said, explaining the need for taking the afternoon off. The group planned to leave Austin by noon today, he Convoy officials had not decided whether to travel to Washington as a large group or split into smaller groups, he said. Officials had not made a final decision on action to take at the nation's capital. Mobile vigils around the White House are a possibility, he said. 'We may stack up the aid so everyone can see exactly what we had," he said. The convoy, with 38 vehicles, wanted to take 30 tons of food, medical supplies and clothing to Nicaragua.

'I can safely say a quarter of it (the aid) has been damaged or destroyed," Livesey added. He said one option discussed is dumping "what's been wasted" in a visible area.

Powdered milk has been lost to spoilage or mishandling, he said, and "dated and fragile" medical supplies also are subject to being spoiled. U.S. Customs Service agents impounded four convoy vehicles Wednesday after the group tried to go into Mexico without export authorization. U.S. Treasury Department officials said the convoy's plan to leave the vehicles in Nicaragua would violate a trade embargo.

The convoy, which left four regions of the United States on May 21, had camped in Laredo since June 7 because of the export difficulties.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, supported the federal government's action, saying the aid could be used against U.S. interests.

Raul Valdez of Austin, a coordinator of the convoy, said the vehicles and supplies are to go to humanitarian and relief agencies. He said some of the vehicles were meant for a Red Cross operation. Livesey said the convoy wanted to fill "basic human needs" with the humanitarian aid, "If that's illegal, then that flies in the face of what the United States stands for," he said.

Big wheel hits liability snag

DALLAS (AP) - Liability insurance problems are plaguing the largest Ferris wheel in the Western Hemisphere, but officials at the State Fair of Texas said Thursday they believe the Texas Star will spin again this fall.

The owner of the 2121/2-foot-high Texas Star said he has so far been unable to obtain the $10 million in insurance required under a contract with the fair.

The Ferris wheel, like the wooden Comet roller coaster that was once a fair mainstay, is a victim of ballooning liability insurance costs. The 40-year-old roller coaster was shut down in

"We are waiting on the owner to get the insurance, as required by the contract,'' said fair spokeswoman Nancy Wiley. "But we don't anticipate that the wheel won't operate. We want it operating; he (the owner) wants it operating. So he will try to do it before the fair opens in October."

Owner BLB Panorama Inc. and its president, Buster Brown, are in the process of looking for insurance rate quotes. "We are sort of in limbo," Brown said. "We have been working diligently about three weeks and have five inquiries in with all the companies who would even entertain the idea.

"We have been through three brokers and 25-30 companies, and most of them are not interested in insuring just this one ride. It has nothing to do with its safety. None so far has said they could get us $10 million in coverage.

When the ride was brought to the state fair from Italy in 1985, Brown agreed to a contract requiring $10 million in liability insurance.

But Ms. Wiley said liability insurance costs rose dramatically in 1986 and ride operators began to feel the crunch. So the Ferris wheel, which is the height of a 20-story building, was permitted to operate with $1 million in insurance for two years.

"We saw some easing up of the situation last year," Ms. Wiley said. "There are signs this is true again this year."

The fair's executive board decided this spring to require Brown to restore insurance coverage on the ride to $10 million, she said. Brown on May 24 received a letter giving him 10 days to secure the additional insurance. "The contract is technically in default," said Ms. Wiley. "It is the original contract signed in 1985 when the ride was put up. More than 100,000 people have ridden the wheel since it was installed, she said. Built by SDC Corp., the fair's largest attraction was disassembled and transported by boat to Houston, then brought to Dallas in 40 truckloads

"It operates at capacity while it is open because it is a popular ride," said Ms. Wiley.

Ms. Wiley said she was unaware of problems with any other state fair rides, but officials were putting together their liability insurance package for the coming season.

"We are looking at insurance questions in terms of the various parties we contract with on the fair," said Ms. Wiley.

Astronaut is charged

HOUSTON (AP) - Former astronaut Walter Cunningham was released on his own recognizance after being charged with misdemeanor assault for allegedly punching a bail bondsman whose wife is romantically involved with Cunningham, authorities said.

Sheriff's deputies picked up Cunningham, who flew aboard Apollo 7 in 1968, at his office Wednesday on the misdemeanor assault charge.

Bondsman Van Vannerson filed a complaint claiming Cunningham pulled up next to him Tuesday, made an obscene gesture and cursed him before speeding away.

Vannerson said he later pulled his Rolls-Royce behind Cunningham's Porsche at a traffic light and said Cunningham jumped out, punched him in the chin through his open window, then sped off.

Two are dead in shootings

GARLAND (AP) — A man walked into a pet shop and shot an employee to death and then killed himself, police in this Dallas suburb say.

Officers said the man entered the Family Friends Pet Store Thursday night and went to a back room where he began talking to one of the clerks.

Another clerk working in the front of the shop heard four shots about 20 minutes later and wento the back room where he found a man and a the female clerk dead from gunshot wounds. The names of the man, 32, and the woman, 20, were were not immediately released, police said. "Right now it looks like an ap-

Daniel, who still kayaks, teaches classes and attends conferences, is being evaluated from a variety of perspectives, including an analysis by a respiratory physiologist of his breathing patterns while walking on artificial legs.

"We noticed a pulse of air that is pushed out as Steve takes a step. This may represent a shock to the lungs each time he takes a step and might be one problem we could try

"Steve is a strong and to eliminate," Lessard said.

Another possible area for study is a way to reduce spinal problems that can come with walking on artificial legs, Lessard said. A lighter leg is another goal.

Daniel wears a full-length pair of legs made by Muilenberg Prosthetics Center in Houston with a new flex-foot. The flex-foot cushions the force as the legs contact the ground, much like a fleshand-blood foot.

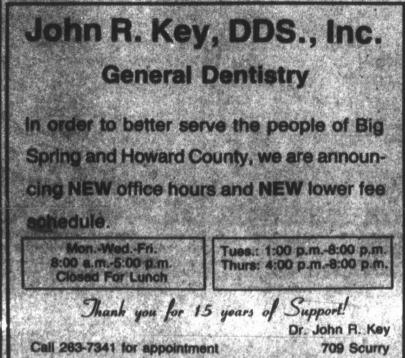

Muilenberg will build Lessard's improvements into new artificial

'Our first need is a second set of artificial legs," Lessard said. "We can't ask Steve to loan us his while we make improvements.'

Lessard hopes to have developed computerized, self-adapting artificial legs in about five years.

Bush, Dukakis sound off against drugs

By ROBERT GREENE Associated Press Writer

Presidential rivals George Bush and Michael Dukakis were talking tough on drugs and crime as Dukakis entered the second day of a Southern swing and Jesse Jackson headed for Texas to address that state's Democratic Bush, meanwhile, continued to struggle with the "gender gap" as an NBC News-Wall Street Journal poll gave the Massachusetts governor a 15-point lead nationwide over the vice president. Dukakis had a 52-28 lead among women voters.

Dukakis, whose only Southern primary victories were in Florida and Texas, found less than smooth sailing on the first day of his Southern tour. In Tennessee to pick up the endorsement of former rival Al Gore Jr., he was put on the spot about allegations that Democratic House Speaker Jim Wright committed ethics violations.

Jackson, concluding a visit to the capital, continued to try to cash in his chips for helping mobilize black voters for Democratic candidates.

The "basic party leadership while accepting my investment in the party to make it strong has not been as reciprocal as it ought to be," Jackson said Thursday after meeting with 33 Democratic senators. He pressed at the meeting for more unpledged "super delegates" to the July Democratic convention to support

Dukakis, speaking to South Carolina high school students at a conference on drug and alcohol abuse, tried to shed any image of himself as a free-spending liberal in a region that went strongly for Ronald Reagan.

"People aren't interested in labels," he said. "I've balanced nine budgets in a row, while the said in an interview Thursday he self-styled conservatives in the empathized with Carl Rowan, the at him.

"I kind of empathize with what he was going through when somebody was coming at him," Bush said. Rowan has said he fired the shot after the teen-ager lunged

In a speech to an annual meeting of the U.S. Jaycees in Richmond, Va., Bush reiterated his views on strong penalties for those con-victed of drug offenses and said the policy of "zero tolerance" for drugs should be applied to the workplace as well as to cars, planes and boats.

Earlier Thursday, Dukakis said we welcomed having an independent counsel investigate the allegations against Wright and found the issue different from the investigation of Attorney General Edwin

"If you're attorney general of this country and you've stumbled as often as he has and made as many mistakes as he has and provided as weak leadership as he has, you ought to leave office," he said.

Both Bush and Dukakis were sent a message from the nation's black mayors that the candidates must address black Americans' concerns or face losing the support of a large number of people.

"Those folks who want to go into office — Gov. Dukakis and George - and don't take those populations that we represent seriously, then we will not take them seriously," John H. Smith, mayor of Prichard, Ala., said

Smith, a Republican, is head of the National Conference of Black Mayors, which is holding a conference in Philadelphia.

Bush, Dukakis and Jackson were invited to address the 200 mayors has confirmed that he will speak

Smith said he doubts Jackson will be selected as Dukakis' running mate because of the "further continuation of the attitude of the Democratic party in its liberal traditions of looking at black folks simply as appendages, as followers rather than leaders.

Jackson's day at Texas convention ned to meet with black delegates and gay delegates in afternoon sessions. Sixty-four delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Atlanta are up for grabs here, based on delegate sign-ins at the opening session. Texas will send 212 delegates to Atlanta next month for the national convention.

A majority of that delegation was selected at the March 8 primary when Dukakis won 43 delegates, Jackson took 42, U.S. Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee got 25 and U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri got nine.

Texas also has 29 Democratic "superdelegates" selected from among party and elected officials.

Edwards said the Democrats need Jackson.

"We don't need to see another Mondale-Ferraro fiasco where we reach out and grab somebody way out in left field and then fall flat on our face," he said, referring to the 1984 Walter Mondale-Geraldine Ferraro ticket that got buried in the general election.

"Democrats across the board, rich ones, poor ones, white ones, brown ones, green, yellow and black are realizing that if the Democrats are going to win you win with the winning combination. Dukakis-Jackson or Jackson-Dukakis is the winning combination," Edward said.

Saturday will be Dukakis day, with the Massachusetts governor scheduled to speak to the convention after he attends the San Antonio funeral of political activist Willie Velasquez.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I hope you can help me with. I am a female college student and share a two-bedroom apartment near the college with another girl.

When I moved in (September 87), "Nina" asked if I minded if her boyfriend, "Greg," spent the night here. I said it would be OK not realizing that Greg would keep bringing more and more of his clothes over, until everything he owns is in this apartment! He's supposed to be living with an "uncle," but that is just a cover-up for Nina's parents. If they knew Greg was living with Nina, they would cut off her money supply. COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) - - 4 Rudolph Nureyev says he chose to rework "Cinderella" into a Hollywood fable because he was jarred by all other ballet productions he saw of the fairy tale.

The Soviet-born dancer is the artistic director of the Paris Opera Ballet, which is mounting his production of "Cinderella" at the Orange County Performing Arts Center

Nureyev's version of Cinderella is set in the dream factories of 1930s Hollywood, and is filled with props and allusions to King Kong, Fred Astaire, Betty Grable and the Keystone Cops.

"Somehow each time I saw any other production, I found it jarring," Nureyev said recently. "I thought it worked out nicely to have Cinderella dream about becoming an actress. Every other production looked like "Sleeping Beauty."

Pistons take advantage over Lakers

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - The Los Angeles Lakers know that in the fight for the NBA championship there are no guarantees, even if their coach says there

"I'm going to guarantee everyone we're going to repeat," Coach Pat Riley had said a year ago, soon after his Lakers had beaten Boston for the title.

The Detroit Pistons delivered their own sobering message to the Lakers Thursday night: win two straight games or you won't win two straight championships.

The Pistons overcame a 12-0 deficit, got 25 points from Adrian Dantley and key contributions from their bench, capitalized on Laker foul trouble and enjoyed a huge rebounding advantage.

The result was a 104-94 victory that gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, their first final since they moved from Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1957.

The Lakers, in their sixth final in seven years, are going back home. But if they lose either Sunday's sixth game or a possible seventh game Tuesday night at the Forum, they won't fulfill Riley's guarantee or become the first team to win consecutive championships since the 1969

The Pistons gave their last Silverdome crowd — the biggest ever to see an NBA playoff game - plenty to cheer. The 41,732 fans exceeded the previous record of 40,172 at the Seattle Kingdome on April 15,1980 for the fifth game of the Western Conference finals between Milwaukee and Seattle. Detroit will move next season to a new arena in nearby Auburn

Meanwhile, the Lakers were getting into foul trouble, even though the game wasn't as rough as they had expected. Worthy picked up his third foul with 7:09 left in the first quarter, went to the bench and didn't get back into the game until 4:53 remained in the second.

Michael Cooper sat out the final 10:54 of the second quarter and teammate A.C. Green missed the last 7:18 of the period, both with three fouls.

When Worthy left, Los Angeles led 15-4. When he came back, Detroit was on top 48-39 and never trailed again. The Pistons rallied from the 15-2 start to outscore Los Angeles 52-26 and take a 54-41 lead 3:03 before intermission. Behind Dantley's 19 points, Detroit led 59-50 at halftime.

While Los Angeles backup center Mychal Thompson had his first good game of the series with 14 points, the Pistons' substitutes outscored the Lakers' 37-19. The Pistons' bench was led by Vinnie Johnson with 16 points, James Edwards with 10 points and John Salley with 10 rebounds.

Joe Dumars had 19 points and Isiah Thomas 15 for Detroit. The Lakers were led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, with a playoff high of 26 points, Magic Johnson with 15 points and 17 assists and Byron Scott with 15 points.

The Pistons held a 60-38 advantage off the boards. The Lakers had just 16 defensive rebounds, breaking the previous low of 20 for a game in the NBA final.

In the third quarter, the Lakers cut their deficit to two points at 69-67 and 73-71 and in the fourth quarter they trailed just 90-84 with 6:53 remaining.

But aside from the first 41/2 minutes of the game, the Pistons never had an ex-

Cardinals hold off Royals

The National League Cardinals jumped to a big lead, saw it melt away, and then rallied in the bottom of the fifth inning to defeat the International League Royals 17-12 in city Little League tournament play Thursday night at the National League field.

The loss was the Royals' second of the tournament, thus eliminating them for tourney play. The Cardinals are now 2-1 in tournament play.

This set the stage for the Cards to make a rally of their own in the bottom of the inning, scoring six runs on four hits.

Josh Hedges led off the Cards' fifth by reaching base on an error by the first baseman. Ross Roberts, who blasted a solo homer in the third, doubled. Jason Roberts, Ross' younger brother, followed with a walk, loading the bases for Michael

The Cardinals' left fielder delivered the game-winning hit when he singled, scoring Hedges and Ross Roberts. After David Foresyth struck out, third baseman Roger Fierro tripled, scoring Jason Roberts and Beal. Fierro scored run number 16 when the first baseman mishandled Wesley Crow's gounder. Crow scored the Cards' last run when Hedges singled.

The Royals came back with one run in the top of the sixth, but it was too little, too late.

The Cardinals' rally offset a fine comeback by the Royals in the fifth. The International League team got three hits and took advantage of five walks and two Cardinal errors.

Nicholas Arguello, Craig Phillips and Chris Morgan all singled in the inning. Phillips' base hit scored Clifford Woods,

All three runs scored and Phillips ended up on third base.

Phillips didn't get a decision in the game. He went three innings, allowed nine runs on six hits. Jesse Miers pitched the final two innings and was saddled with the loss. Miers also had a good day at the plate, hitting three singles in four at bats.

Foresyth started on the mound for the Cardinals. He went four-and-one-third innings, allowing nine runs on six hits. He was relieved by Hedges who walked three batters and was replaced by Jason Roberts. Roberts finished the game and picked up the win.

Hedges, Fierro and Ross Roberts led the Cardinal hitting, each got two hits each. All three, along with Beal and Foresyth two had RBI's each.

Sooners' program under investigation

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Details of 16 alleged infractions, most involving recruiting, against the University of Oklahoma football program have been included in an NCAA Official Letter of Inquiry, a summary of which was released Thursday by the school.

Most of the alleged infractions occurred between 1983 and 1986, although some dated to 1981, the summary said. The NCAA said school staff members did not act on all occasions in accordance with NCAA standards.

The summary did not include any names

The NCAA's letter of inquiry said that in the summer of 1984, an alumnus of the university allegedly provided a prospective studentathlete with a used automobile and provided him with a job for which he was paid but did not work.

However, the staff member apparently was unaware that the car was provided at no cost or that the recruit was not required to work for the weekly payments he received, the NCAA's letter said.

During 1985, a staff member allegedly offered $1,000 cash in an envelope to a recruit on high school grounds to induce the recruit to sign a letter of intent, the NCAA's letter said.

The letter of inquiry also alleges that the same staff member telephoned a relative of the recruit and advised that he was planning to give the recruit $1,000.

On several weekends in January and February of 1985, a staff member allegedly arranged for rented vehicles to be provided to student-athlete hosts for entertainment of recruits during their official paid visits to the Oklahoma campus.

The rental costs of the vehicles were paid from the staff member's personal checking account after another staff member provided funds for the expense, the NCAA's

Prior to and during the 1984 football season, the NCAA's letter said, a staff member allegedly sold a season football ticket for each of two recruits and gave them the cash receipt, which was more than the tickets originally had been sold

The staff member allegedly did the same thing for one of the same recruits prior to the 1985 football season, and offered to do so for another recruit, the NCAA's letter

In July 1984, the letter said, a staff member allegedly arranged a free one-way airline ticket for a recruit to travel from his home to Oklahoma City in order to accept summer employment.

Then, during the recruit's summer job, the staff member allegedly arranged for the prospective student-athlete to be provided free lodging at a university dorm.

Finally, in November 1984, after the recruit had enrolled at Oklahoma, the staff member allegedly arranged for the athlete to receive a free round-trip airplane ticket to travel from Oklahoma City to his home, the letter said.

The home state of the athlete was not included in the summary.

The letter alleged various other infractions, including giving prospective student-athletes clothing, gifts, $10-$20 and transportation that did not meet NCAA standards.

The letter said that from at least December 1984 to May 1985, a staff member allegedly used funds from a private checking account to supplement salaries of other staff members; to pay for rental vehicles used by student hosts while entertaining recruits; to pay money to a resident of another state who assisted the staff members in recruiting efforts by providing local transportation, and to advance sums on two occasions for other staff members' recruiting

One infraction detailed in the NCAA's letter involved "supporters of the university," or boosters. The boosters allegedly made in-person, off-campus recruiting contacts with several recruits and provided transportation and meals for some of the prospects.

During the 1985-86 academic year, the NCAA's letter said, a staff member allegedly arranged for a recruit to use the university's football office telephone to make free personal long-distance calls, a violation of NCAA rules. The student-athlete has repaid the school for the costs of the calls, the letter said.

In two instances, the letter said, staff members allegedly made statements to recruits or relatives of those recruits leading them to believe the prospective studentathletes would receive "extra benefits" if they enrolled at the university.

Lyle shooting at Grand Slam

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) -Sandy Lyle pursues the impossible and dry to hold approach shots. dream this week at the U.S. Open, where par is becoming a fond but distant memory.

"I don't fancy the odds," the scrambling Scotsman said. "But the Grand Slam is possible."

Lyle, who won the Masters at Augusta, Ga., last April, birdied the 16th and 18th holes Thursday to forge a three-way tie for the lead at 3-under-par 68 after the first round of the Open.

He was tied with Bob Gilder, winless since 1983, and Mike Nicolette, a winner just once in 10 years on the PGA Tour. They were one shot ahead of defending champion Scott Simpson, Seve Ballesteros of Spain, Paul Azinger, Larry Mize and Dick Mast.

Just 11 golfers were under par over the 7,010-yard, par-71 course at The Country Club, which yielded only seven subpar scores during four rounds of play in the 1963 Open. That tournament was won in a playoff by Julius Boros, who shot 9-over 293, including a 1-under 70 on the final day Most of the low scores came from the golfers who teed off in the morning on this hot, muggy day. In the afternoon, the wind began to blow as the National Weather Service issued a severe thunderstorm warning. Sbats were blown into the trees, and greens became too firm Of the 68s and 69s, only Lyle, Mize and Azinger teed off in the afternoon Lyle said he had some trouble with the wind, but his was not a regulation round. He missed the fairway at least 10 times and also missed quite a few greens. The 11th hole — a 453-yard par 4 — was probably typical of his day

He was at even par coming into the 11th. His tee shot, a 1-iron, went into the right rough and under a huge oak tree. Overhanging branches made a direct shot at the green impossible. He selected a 5-iron, aimed toward the left side of the green and tried to slice the ball home. Instead, it stayed left and went over the green, finding more

From about 25-30 yards, he chipped up. The ball rolled down the sloping green and into the hole for a birdie, and he was one under The gallery cheered, and Lyle responded: "You don't get too many of those.'

On 16, a 185-yard par-3, he hit a 7-iron inside 20 feet and putted for birdie to go two under. On 18, a 438-yard par 4, he hit a 1-iron 270 yards, hit an 8-iron within 15 feet and sank the birdie putt. If he should win here, he would need victories in the British Open at Royal Lytham St. Ann's and the PGA National at Edmond, Okla., to complete the unprecedented Grand There were three golfers at 70:

Curtis Strange, who had an eagle-3 on the par-5 14th hole; Lanny Wadkins and Craig Stadler. Nine more golfers were at 71, including U.S. amateur champion Bill Mayfair of Scottsdale, Ariz.

Gilder made the turn at 1-under 34, then birdied the 450-yard, par-4 12th hole and the 527-yard, par-5 14th to go three under. He lost a stroke with a bogey on the par-3 16th, but got it back with a birdie at the 381-yard No. 17 by sinking a 12-foot putt.

Although he has six victories in his 13 years on the tour, Gilder has only one top 10 finish this season, a fifth in the Kemper Open. His last victory was in the 1983 Phoenix Open. Since, he has suffered from golf burnout, he said

"I got a little burned out politically," he said, refusing to elaborate. "I started to say some things and could not get anyone to agree with me. It bothered me. I still felt I could play with the best. but I had to change my attitude

Nicolette, whose only tour victory came in the 1983 Bay Hill Classic, was one under at the turn.

Astros' Davis hits one when it counts

CINCINNATI (AP) — Timing rather than muscle decided a home run battle of the Davises.

Cincinnati's Eric Davis got the better distance with his two homers, but Houston's Glenn Davis came out ahead because of the timing of his homers Thursday night as he led the Astros to a 7-4 victory over the Reds.

Glenn Davis struck first, snapping an 0-for-7 slump with a pair of two-run homers in his first two atbats to give Mike Scott a lead that let him pitch relaxed. The hole was too deep for the Reds to climb out.

Eric Davis hit a two-run homer for the only runs off Scott, 8-2, then added an impressive solo homer to center field to open the ninth off Juan Agosto after Scott left the game with a pulled hamstring.

It wasn't enough. Dave Smith gave up a two-out single to Jeff Treadway and a walk to Terry McGriff to load the bases with two out, but got Barry Larkin to hit into a force out to get his 12th save.

'When you get ahead like that, you can pretty much challenge guys and a home run won't hurt you," said Scott, who allowed five hits before pulling a hamstring while throwing a pitch in the

In the only other National League game, it was Atlanta 9, Los Angeles 2.

The early homers continued an Houston's Billy Hatcher said. unusual streak for Glenn Davis, who has just four hits in his last 34 at-bats — all homers.

"I can't explain it," he said. "It's just one of the things you go through during the course of the year. It probably won't be the last time I go through it.

"There have been some good things in it. If you want to look at the bad things, you can dwell on that. But there are some good things in it - I've still been able to drive in some runs and contribute.

He now has 52 RBI, matching Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla for the league lead. His 15 homers leave him one shy of league-leaders Will Clark of San Francisco and Andres Galarraga of Montreal.

Although Glenn Davis' homers set the tone early, Eric Davis' homers were more amazing.

His two-run homer in the sixth was a high, arching drive to left field. His solo homer leading off the ninth, his 11th of the season and his third in two games, easily cleared the wall in center.

'He's sure swinging good," Astros manager Hal Lanier said. "He's starting to hit. When he hits them, they're usually not cheap." Eric Davis, who declined com-

Veteran's new pitch working wonders

By The Associated Press They say you can't teach an old dog new tricks. But how about teaching a veteran left-hander a new pitch?

Chicago's Jerry Reuss, who will turn 39 next week, pitched seven innings Thursday night, allowing one run and six hits as the White Sox defeated the Milwaukee

"I've got a fourth pitch, a changeup and I'm working that in," said Reuss, 6-2, who walked one and struck out three. "I'm learning how to use it, when to use it."

American

League

Reuss has won four straight decisions and now has 204 lifetime victories. He went to the White Sox spring training camp as a free agent.

"I went through a lot last year, getting released by three clubs, then waiting until February to see where I'd be this year,' Reuss said. "I'm just glad to be here." Bobby Thigpen replaced Reuss to start the eighth and earned his 13th save. "He (Reuss) has pitched well all year.

He kept us in the ballgame. I had to take him out after seven because he was starting to throw too hard. He was up to 87 miles per hour," White Sox manager Jim Fregosi said.

Reuss was helped by four Milwaukee errors, three by second baseman Juan Castillo, whose misplay of Ivan Calderon's double play grounder sparked a two-run Chicago rally in the sixth. Castillo was removed after the inning at his own request.

'It happens to everybody," Milwaukee manager Tom Trebelhorn said. "People are booing when you don't make plays you know you are capable of making. It's human nature to feel upset. He was shook up. Who wouldn't be?"

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Kansas City 9, Oakland 5; California 3, Texas 0; Baltimore 8, Boston 4; and Toronto 13, Detroit 5.

Harold Baines led off the Chicago sixth with a single and moved to second when Castillo bobbled Calderon's hard bouncer. Greg Walker then doubled past first to score Baines. Calderon scored on Dan Pasqua's groundout to first.

The White Sox added an insurance run in the ninth when Ozzie Guillen singled, stole second and scored on Fred Manrique's single.

Chris Bosio, 6-7, lost his fourth straight decision and failed for the sixth time to win his seventh game. Royals 9, Athletics 5

Mark Gubicza allowed six hits in eight innings for his fourth consecutive victory and Pat Tabler drove in four runs as Kansas City won for the 13th time in its last 14 games and pulled to within 41/2 games of first-place Oakland in the AL West.

The Royals, 13 games behind Oakland on June 1, have won six consecutive games and all six meetings with the Athletics, the AL West leaders, who have lost four straight and nine of their last 11 games. The victory moved Kansas City past Minnesota into second place.

Kansas City finished with 17 hits, the most this season off Oakland, to support Gubicza. Reserve infielder Brad Wellman had the first four-hit game of his career and Tabler had three singles.

Gubicza, 9-5, struck out five, walked three and allowed only one earned run.

Dan Quinsenberry pitched the ninth, allowing a run on a single, a walk and Luis Polonia's fielder's choice grounder. Angels 3, Rangers 0

Kirk McCaskill pitched a three-hitter for his first victory since May 8 and first shutout since April 15, 1987, as California blanked Texas

McCaskill, 3-5, walked three and struck out 10. The Rangers' only hits were singles by Ruben Sierra in the first inning, Steve Buechele in the fifth and Pete Incaviglia in the ninth.

The victory was only the Angels' seventh in 18 games since May 28. Five of the wins have been shutouts.

The Angels gave McCaskill a quick 1-0 lead when Brian Downing started the bottom of the first by drawing a walk off lefthander Paul Kilgus, 6-5. Downing stole second and scored on Wally Joyner's oneout single.

California made it 2-0 in the fourth when Devon White reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Bob Boone's single Walks to White, Boone and Downing by reliever Jose Cecena loaded the bases in the eighth before Dale Mohorcic hit Dick Schofield with a pitch to force home the final run.

Orioles 8, Red Sox 4 Cal Ripken's two-run double and Jim Traber's run-scoring hit highlighted a three-run fifth inning as Baltimore defeated Boston.

Traber had three hits and three RBI. The Red Sox walked 10 batters, Joe Orsulak led off the fifth with a single against reliever John Trautwein. 0-1. Billy Ripken was hit by a pitch and Cal Ripken hit a 3-2 pitch for a double to left. One out later, Traber singled to right to give the Orioles a 5-2 lead. Blue Jays 13, Tigers 5

Mike Flanagan allowed five hits in eight innings and Ernie Whitt went 4-for-5 with four RBI to lead a 15-hit attack as Toronto won at Detroit.

Flanagan, 6-4, walked six and struck out a season-high seven, but was relieved by Mark Ross after walking the first two batters in the ninth. Ross gave up Ray Knight's two-run double and Mike Heath's run-scoring double. Luis Salazar drove in a run with a bases-loaded forceout and pinch-hitter Dave Bergman hit a sacrifice fly.

FAITH AND GOOD MANNERS CAN SAVE AN AILING MARRIAGE

A common sight in any newspaper is a picture of a beautiful bride or a starry-eyed engaged couple Yet in view of the mounting divorce statistics. we wonder how many of these marriages will last even a year, let alone a lifetime. The romantic euphoria can quickly melt in the heat of arguments about money, working wives, children and all the little everyday faults that went unnoticed during the courtship. If the couple would resume the good manners and good nature that united them in the first place, work out some areas of compromise and ignore minor irritations. they might have a chance. Above all, they should attend their House of Worship and be reminded of what love means. It is quite likely that their mornal problems could be solved at the very altar where they exchanged their vows. It is certainly worth a try.

Presbyterians remain strong

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Despite declining membership and financial shortfalls, the nation's largest Presbyterian denomination is healthy and ready to become a maor force, says the man in charge of the church's $98 million mission budget. S. David Stoner, executive direcor of the General Assembly Counil of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A.), said finances have been worrisome for some time in the million-member church.

The denomination Wednesday concluded its nine-day, annual meeting after approving a $108.7 million budget that includes a $5.1 million deficit. Stoner said the church's 11,600 congregations would be challenged to make up the hortfall

Budget concerns surfaced frequently during the 200th annual neeting. Stoner said much of the problem stems from continuing eforts to merge two Presbyterian groups

Executive critcizes Swaggart

ARLINGTON - (AP)The chief executive of the World Council of Churches recently offered some sharp criticisms of TV preacher Jimmy Swaggart — but not over the sexual exploits that got him defrocked.

The Rev. Emilio Castro, an Uruguayan Methodist minister and the council's general secretary, speaking at an ecumenical gathering here in May, had this to say about Swaggart's preaching abroad:

"If someone was thinking of giving $10 to Jimmy Swaggart and asked my opinion, I would say for my country, his ministry is a disaster.'

Youth serving as missionary

Scott Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Evans, Big Spring, is serving as a Baptist Student Union summer missionary in Round Rock.

He is one of 126 Texas college students from across the state who are sharing the good news of Jesus Christ in 22 states and five foreign countries, said Jack Greever. director of the Division of Student Work with 2.4-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Supported by their fellow BSU members who raised $130,000 to undergird the vast missions effort, the student volunteers are serving with career missionaries and other Baptist leaders.

Twenty-seven individuals are helping advance the cause of Christ in Australia, where they will be joined July 20-Aug. 2 by 660 other Texas Baptist volunteers serving in the Texas-Australia Baptist Partnership Crusade.

"These enthusiastic young Christians are shining examples of what bable that your daughter is about to make a very foolish decision. You have heard the old saying that "love is blind" — and there is a great deal of truth in it.

What can you do? Realistically you have to face the fact you cannot force her to do what's right; your daughter is old enough to make her own decisions. At the same time, there certainly are some things you ought to be doing. For example, you need quietly to encourage her to think beyond the immediate future. Can she honestly see this man as the responsible and loving father she would want for her children?

Why does she think she will be able to change him — when three other women have probably hoped the same thing and not succeeded? If he bailed out of three other marriages, what's to keep him from throwing her overboard when she tries to get him to change? Even if she reacts against what you're saying, perhaps you will plant seeds that will bear fruit in her thinking later on.

Don't let anger or frustration control your relationship with your daughter but let her know you always will love her and don't want to see her get hurt. "A gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger." (Proverbs 15:1) Above all, pray for her and encourage her to seek God's will for her life and to give her life to Jesus Christ.

the research and development of its Formula One engine

Team McLaren, using the latest in computer analysis and engineering equipment, has come up with a thoroughbred chassis that makes everything else on the international Grand Prix circuit seem like a plow horse by comparison. Put together the McLaren-Honda and you have a virtually unbeatable car-engine combination — at least for this season.

In five races this year, no one has come close to breaking McLaren's dominance. And nobody is likely to change that in Sunday's Detroit

Grand Prix. Alain Prost, 33, a two-time Formula One champion, has won three Teammate Ayrton Senna, 28, has started from the pole position in all five races and the dazzling Brazilian has won the two events his French teammate failed to win.

Austrian Gerhard Berger of Ferrari has managed two second-place finishes and is third in the standings with 18 points.

Ron Dennis, McLaren's team manager, said Thursday it was a calculated risk that put his team in its current exalted position.

'We decided to build a new car for this year," Dennis explained. 'It was a difficult decision and there wasn't much time to make it. We knew whatever we build this year, we'll have to scrap next year because of the new regulations.

'The success we have had has obviously justified the effort and the investment for just one year.' A key to the success has been the engine program, overseen by 34 engine specialists at every race. McLaren lost the very successful

TAG engine which had been powering the cars successfuly until 1987. They replaced the TAG last season with the Honda engine that carried Brazilian Nelson Piquet and Williams to the championship. But the Honda is turbocharged, and turbocharged engines have been legislated out of existence in Formula One for 1989. "We're already working on a prototype car," Dennis said. "Our intention is that it will have several thousand miles of testing in Japan
